J. L. STEWART, EDITOR. WEDNESDAY EVENING, NOV. 18.

A Winter Problem.

Panperism comes with the falling of the snow. The hearts of men are quickened to become warmer as the atmosphere grows colder.

It is the same everywhere the regular provision for the poor is found to be inadequate when the winter comes.

This winter visitor grows larger and clamorous louder every year, and the charitable measures that suffice one season are found to be insufficient the next.

People who find it comparatively easy to live on others' cost one winter don't pretend to make any provision for their summer, spending all their earnings, no matter how much that may be, and settling down at Christmas for the purpose of permitting the benevolent to provide for their wants until spring.

Nothing is more demoralizing to humanity than the divinely ordered alms-giving that is so generally practiced and so unthinkingly applauded.

Thoughtful people see this and lament it, but what can be done to remedy the evil? Men cannot be forced to provide themselves with fuel, clothing and food for winter with the surplus of their summer earnings.

Instead of wasting that surplus in drink or other luxuries, and they and their families cannot be left to starve when cold comes and work fails.

Some philanthropists deprecate interference with the humanity and allow himself the luxury of bestowing alms on the sufferer.

Whatever may be said and sung about "man's inhumanity to man" the fact remains that the Spartan theories of the Spencer school find no resting place among the masses of men.

It is only temporary in its nature, and ultimately leads to an aggravation of the evil it is intended to remove.

This was strikingly shown here in New York last winter. The soup houses, lodging houses, and other agencies of charity which are now receiving their stock of Buffalo Robes!

Several Accidents.

Mr. Joseph Rowan, in his shipyard, at Marble Cove, yesterday afternoon, was assisting some men to remove a piece of Scotch oak from a pile of knees, when the pile fell over, and one of the knees struck him on the head, cutting open his forehead.

Another knee struck his shoulder and dislocated the collar bone, and lacerated the collar.

A physician taken his wounds. This is the second time Mr. Rowan has been seriously injured while at work.

Not to be Fooled.

A miscreant representing himself at our Post Office the other night to a Scotch countryman as Postmaster, hired the greenie to assist in loading the mails from the Halifax night express, which arrives about 5 o'clock in the morning.

The man, named Rev. G. M. Armstrong, was informed by the parties in charge of the mail that his services were not required, as he had no order.

Scotland was not to be fooled in that way, so he ascertained the name of the Postmaster, and sent him a lawyer's letter, requesting forthwith pay for his trouble, and payment was promptly made.

Academy of Music Theatre.

The performance last evening was all that could be desired. Mr. Warner as David Garrick in the first piece, and Mrs. Holmes as Ada Ingot, were fine characters.

Mr. Rose and Mr. Clarke also took their parts with ease, and Mrs. LeBrun, as a representative of the great Smith, played with the dignity that might be expected from a lady of her talents when appearing as a representative of the illustrious family.

A very noticeable feature of the evening was the excellent music provided by the orchestra under the leadership of F. Heindol. One piece, in which bells were very effectively introduced, was loudly applauded. So good, in fact, was the music that few gentlemen found it necessary to go out "to see a man."

This evening Tom Taylor's great comedy "New Men and Old Acres." This is a brilliant and successful production, presented in London with great success.

Card from Mr. Livingston.

In your paper of the 15th inst. appears a communication over the signature of "Quercus" and dated from this place. I have been credibly informed that certain parties in the community have thought proper to assert, but not in my presence, that I was the writer of that article.

As these men dare not make their assertion in my face, professing to sneer at among private families and with pot-house gatherings to pursue their nefarious designs, I wish to give them notice through your paper that if further reports reach my ears I will be unhesitatingly obliged to say a few words in their behalf.

It is proposed as a remedy for the evils that are so apparent to all, to provide work for the poor when regular employment fails. This suffering might be prevented and the temporary poor sunk into permanent pauperism; but the practical difficulties in the way of carrying out the idea in anything like a systematic manner are insurmountable.

How can an artificial demand for labor be created when the labor market is glutted? Every benevolent man can do something towards working out this idea, by providing work for job-bolled neighbors who may be applicants for

The Circuit Court.

Dennis Canning vs. The Town of Portland came up yesterday.

C. W. Weldon, appeared for the plaintiff, and Dr. Barker for the Town Council. This is an action brought to recover damages for injury done the plaintiff's property in Sherbrooke street, by an overflow of water in 1873 from a newly-placed sewer.

He claims that the water caused an offensive smell, and that his tenants have left on that account. On behalf of the Town it is claimed that there was the same flow of water before the sewer was built.

John Godard, Dennis Canning, Charles Logan, Patrick Flynn, John Isaacs and James Welch were examined for the plaintiff, to prove the overflow of water and the damage to the property.

At the conclusion of the plaintiff's case Dr. Barker moved for a non-suit. He claimed that there was no evidence that the sewer had been opened before the damage was done; that, admitting the sewer had been built, there was no evidence that the noxious overflow was any greater than before; and that the plaintiff had not proven, nor did he pretend to say, that his premises were less sweetly scented than before.

His Honor decided against granting a non-suit, as he considered there were points for the jury.

No witnesses were called for the defence, and this morning, C. W. Weldon, Esq., addressed the jury for the plaintiff. He claimed that the Council had opened the sewer, and not having given it a proper outlet, the property of Canning had been overflowed and damaged.

Even though the sewer was laid in the same channel in which the water formerly ran, still it ran through a sewer built by the Council. Dr. Barker also addressed the jury at length. From the evidence of the plaintiff's own witnesses it appeared that the Corporation had opened the sewer in the same channel where the water charges flow, and in conclusion he asked, if the verdict was against the Town, for damages of one cent only. As damage to the house had not been alleged in the declaration, though they had attempted to prove it, he claimed that the plaintiff was not entitled to any. His Honor then charged the jury to judge whether the sewer was opened by the Corporation or not. They were also to decide from the evidence whether or not the water ran down the sewer, and flowed on the plaintiff's property.

If the Council built a sewer, and allowed it to empty into soft earth, through which the sewage penetrated to the plaintiff's property, they were responsible for damages. This had been held by the Courts in Rely vs. The Corporation of St. John some years ago. The amount of damages was left with the jury to decide. It was not a case where damages could be stated in pounds, shillings and pence. The amount and inconvenience could not be estimated, as in many cases. The charge of His Honor was directly for the plaintiff. The jury retired a little after ten o'clock.

The Green ex Information of the Atty. General vs. Sullivan is the next case. It is an action for the possession of a piece of land near the Lunatic Asylum, and has been tried before without any decision being arrived at.

Fellow's Syrup of Hypophosphites saved the life of my wife, after her case appeared hopeless from Tubercular Consumption.

Sanitary Suggestions.

While the public mind is somewhat exercised over sanitary matters, caused, doubtless, by the prevalence of typhoid fever in Fredericton and this city, and small-pox in Montreal, we would direct the attention of our Board of Health and citizens generally to the condition of that section of this city lying between Brunsell street and Courtenay Bay, and Clarence street and Hay Market Square.

If it is possible to point out a more filthy locality we would like to know it. This district is flooded at all times with the refuse from the higher ground on the south and west, and the vacant lots and back yards reek with filthy water, and miasmatic breeding fungus and stench. In passing from Union street through Patrick and Erin streets to the Marsh Bridge one is surprised at the criminal carelessness manifested by the authorities who permit this evil to exist, and at the utter disregard of the laws of health manifested by the many families who continue to reside in this region.

Should we be visited with an epidemic of any sort the locality referred to would furnish foul air and filth enough and victims enough to keep it running an entire season, in spite of any efforts that might be made to stay it. Why not have the place properly drained and filled up?

Frayal Boys at Canning's Mill.

Yesterday afternoon policeman Hamilton arrested James Peters, a colored boy, at Canning's mill, Lancaster. He was accused of placing a piece of iron in the machinery with a design to injure it so as to cause the mill to shut down for a while. It appears that attempts to smash up the machinery have been made several times by the boys, in order to secure a holiday while repairs are being made. Peters placed the obstruction in a part that makes about 2000 revolutions per minute, while the men were at dinner and the mill was not running. When steam was let on there was not sufficient force to carry the obstruction in, but wheels were thrown out of gear. Had he made the attempt while the machinery was running the wheels would have been destroyed, and 200 hands kept idle until repairs could have been made. Messrs. Canning have no doubt but that the boy was put up to the act by some of the men, and did it without thinking of the serious consequences that might result. The punishment for such an offence is a term in the penitentiary, and had it been a man or older boy the law would certainly have been enforced. As it was the complaints would not press the charge, and the lad was let off.

Charged with Stealing.

John Walker, a young man, was arrested yesterday afternoon by sergt. RIDOR, and charged with stealing $26 from Nicholas Foran on Brussels street—$24 being found on his person. Foran is an employe of the Water Commissioners, and says he was paid off on Saturday. He and Walker, on Saturday and Sunday, were drinking together. On Monday afternoon they were also together, and in the evening went into Hawkes' on King Square. Here they had one or two drinks, and then both started for home. When near the Brussels Street Church Walker put his hand in Foran's pocket and abstracted the money. Foran was mystified, and scratched his head when the $24 was mentioned. It was explained to him by the Magistrate, and he promised to be at the court. The depositions being read over to Walker he pleaded not guilty, and was sent up to the Circuit Court for trial. His defence is that the money found on his person was his own, that he earned it working with Mr. McDermott. His landlady is prepared to identify the handkerchief as the one she frequently washed for him, and he will call several other witnesses to his good character.

Off the Track.

The Halifax night express train met with an accident this morning about one o'clock. When a few miles this side of Sackville a wheel of the hind truck of the tender became loose, and threw the truck off the track. None of the other cars was thrown off. The train was delayed about eight hours making repairs, and will arrive here at 3:30 this afternoon.

Nova Scotia News.

They are having a temperance revival in Halifax, and eleven aldermen are joining the Sons.

The Colchester election trial ended on Saturday, when Judge James gave this decision declaring the election void, for bribery by agents, but exonerating Mr. McKay from personal misconduct. Each party will have to pay his own costs.

At Digby, a few days ago, a young man, about 15 years of age, while amusing himself with gunpowder in a bottle, accidentally ignited it, burning his face most severely. He has completely lost the use of both eyes, and will be blind and disabled for life.

According to the Reporter the Halifax postal department is to be reformed in the following way for the benefit of Mr. Blacketer, the Recorder: Mr. Woodgate, Post Office Inspector, will be sent on six months' leave of absence, leaving here in his stead a young man named Tidd, about 15 years of age, while amusing himself with gunpowder in a bottle, accidentally ignited it, burning his face most severely. He has completely lost the use of both eyes, and will be blind and disabled for life.

The Cornwall county magistrates, sitting in Halifax, gave a decision the other day, the severity of which has excited considerable astonishment. A boy was brought before them charged with stealing apples. The lad was under training for the naval service on board the Gaucages. During a brief leave on shore he had strayed into a lane, where he stole a few apples. The commander of the Gaucages, on hearing of the offence, punished him with suitable severity; but the police were called in, and the boy was brought before the civil authorities at Penryn, who found him guilty of stealing apples valued at three pence, and sentenced him to one month's imprisonment in Bolim jail, with hard labor. The lad was handcuffed, escorted by a policeman from Penryn to Falmouth, a mile and a half, and through Falmouth town. The Lords of the Admiralty and Home Secretary will be memorialized on the subject.

Prof. Baird admits that the supply of fish along the New England coast is sensibly diminishing. Small fish, though produced in enormous quantities, have so many enemies that great havoc is caused among them, entirely apart from that effected by man. The dog fish kills them in myriads, while the bluefish secures created only to destroy them. But besides all their natural enemies, the fish have had, in addition, for over thirty years past with the fixed engines and the trawls which destroy them as they travel to their spawning grounds, and the Professor thinks that the only way to prevent the extinction of edible fish is to establish certain times for their capture, and to remove the fixed engines and trawls which give the fish no chance for their lives, and take in numbers unfitted for human food.
