Great Japanese Victory.

Togo's Fleet Meet the Russians With Disastrous Results to the Latter.

Nineteen Russian Warships Sunk, Disabled or Captured. Rojestvensky Wounded and Thought to Have Been Picked up.

(Special to the Advocate.)

St. John, N. B., May 30, 1905.

Admiral Rojestvensky's Flagship was Sunk in Battle, and the Admiral Reported Drowned. Togo is Still Pursuing the Russians, but full Account of the Fight has not Been Received. The Russian Defeat was Complete, the Japs did not Lose a Ship or Have one Damaged to any Extent.

According to a St. Petersburg Report While Rojestvensky's Vessel was Sunk and the Admiral was Wounded he Escaped in a Torpedo Boat.

Latest advices confirm the magnitude of the disaster suffered by the Russian fleet, and point to the fact that Russia's hopes so far as this war is concerned, now lie in whatever may be accomplished by the beaten army in Manchuria.

An official report received from Tokio by the Japanese legation at Washington Monday evening, says that the Russian losses definitely known include two battleships, a coast defense ship, five cruisers, two special ships and three destroyers—sunk, and two battleships, two coast defense ships, one destroyer and one special service ship captured, while over 3,000 prisoners have been taken, including Rear Admiral Nebogatoff. The Japanese, it would seem, are still pursuing the Russians, it may be some time before the final result is known.

There is nothing to clearly indicate the extent of the Japanese losses and it is suggested from one source that the Tokio Government is waiting to hear from Admiral Rojestvensky by way of Vladivostok before announcing to what extent its fleet has suffered.

The news of the disaster has caused deep depression in official Russia, though it is not yet known generally among the Russian people.

Rojestvensky's defeat has given rise to renewed talk of peace. It is pointed out by the Associated Press's St. Petersburg correspondent that Russia in this crisis will turn to France through its foreign minister, M. Delcassé while from Washington comes information that President Roosevelt, in accordance with his promise, announced a long time ago, is taking steps to do all in his power to bring about peace negotiations.

Nothing has been heard from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky, in Tokio there is some belief that he has perished, while another source says he was rescued by a torpedo boat, but that he is wounded.

Togo's Blows Quick.

London, May 30.—According to the correspondent of the Daily Mail at Seoul, Corea, early Saturday morning, Vice Admiral Togo with practically all the powerful fighting ships of the Japanese navy, was at Masampo, Corea, when wireless signals from his scouts between Tzu and Quelart islands announced the approach of the Russian fleet in full force.

A few hours later the scouts reported that the Russians were not ascending the western channel, as he had anticipated, but that they were coming by the eastern channel, which caused some surprise. Admiral Togo immediately started at full speed around the north of Tan island and when he doubled the island he saw the Russians coming in two columns. He then brought a terrific fire to bear on the flank of the port column and as the Russians fell into disorder, he forced them steadily eastward toward the Japanese coast where they were attacked by every vessel that flew the Japanese flag.

Repeated torpedo attacks were delivered, some of them with the greatest success.

The vessels which escaped, the correspondent says, will probably be able to reach Vladivostok, and he adds that other operations of the utmost importance are proceeding.

London, May 29.—The Tokio correspondent of the Daily Mail says that the Russian Fleet has been dispersed, that several Russian ships have been disabled, and that the remainder are in flight with the Japanese pursuing.

Jap Losses Severe.

Tsintau, May 29.—There is a running naval engagement between the Russian and Japanese fleets in the straits of Korea, near the Islands of Oki.—It is reported the whole Russian Fleet is not participating, all the slower vessels having steamed around Japan. The Japanese losses so far are stated to be one cruiser and ten torpedo boats.

Six Russian Ships Sunk.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—The American Consul at Nagasaki cables state department that the Japanese have sunk one Russian battleship, four other warships and a repair ship in the Straits of Korea.

Rojestvensky Defeated

London, May 29.—The correspondent of the Morning Post at Shanghai says that a telegram has been received there from Peking announcing the Rojestvensky's fleet has been defeated off the Tzu Islands and is fleeing northward, and that four Russian ships including the battleship Borodino, have been sunk.

Two Battleships Sunk

Washington, May 28.—From information received in Washington today it is believed that two of the Russian ships, reported to have sunk in the Korean Straits by the Japanese, are the Orel and her sister ship, the Borodino. They are battleships of 13,000 tons. There other vessels reported sunk are believed to have been cruisers, the remaining one being a repair ship.

Washington, May 28.—The belief in naval circles in Washington is that the Japanese resorted to a free use of their torpedo boats in their attacks on the vessels of Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet. The Japanese have a large number of torpedo boats in their fleet and they demonstrated their effectiveness in the operations around Port Arthur.

Naval officials here tonight express the opinion that it was unlikely that such serious losses as those reported could have been inflicted by ordinary fire.

Washington, May 28.—The following is the text of the Nagasaki despatch to the state department:

"Nagasaki, May 28.—Japanese sunk the Russian battleship Borodino and four more warships and a repair ship."

The other despatch read as follows: "Tokio, May 28.—Japanese fleet engaged the Baltic squadron Monday after in the Straits of Tsushima, which was held, cannonading heard from shore."

Chfoo, May 28, noon.—Private telegrams from Corea to the Japanese consul here state that a battle was progressing Monday afternoon at or near the Korean Straits between the main portion of the Russian squadron and the Japanese fleet under command of Admiral Togo.

London, May 29.—A despatch to the London Evening News says eight captains of Russian warships were drowned during the naval battle of Saturday in the Straits of Corea.

Washington, May 29.—An official telegram from Tokio states that Admiral Togo reports to his government that the total losses sustained by the Russian fleet Saturday and Sunday were: Two battleships, one coast defense ship and three destroyers, all sunk. In addition there were captured two battleships, two coast defense armor clads, one special service ship, one destroyer, and over two thousand prisoners. Admiral Togo adds that the Japanese squadron was undamaged.

Tokio, May 28, 3 p. m.—Rear Admiral Nebogatoff, former commander of the division of the Pacific fleet and recently commander of the information squadron, composed of scouts and merchantmen, with 3,000 other Russians, is among the prisoners captured by the Japanese. Vice Admiral Rojestvensky appears to have escaped. The battle began Saturday morning and the Japanese are still in pursuit of the Russians.

New York, May 29.—Advices received from London and other leading continental financial centres by local bankers were all of the opinion that Japan's decisive victory would hasten peace.

Washington, May 29.—According to advices received by the navy department from Tokio the Japanese, in addition to the ships already named, captured the Russian battleship Sissoi Veliky and the Russian flag ship was seriously damaged.

Tokio, May 29, 2:50 p. m.—In the Straits of Corea, the Russian battleships Borodino and Alexander III., the armored cruisers Admiral Koshino, Dmitri, Donkoi and Donkoi and Vladimir Monomach, the coast defense ironclad Admiral Oushakov, the protected cruisers Svetlana, Jemichug the repair ship Kametchatka and the cruiser Irisein were sunk. The battleships Orel and Nicolai and the coast defense ironclad Admiral Senavin and General Admiral Apraxine were captured.

TOMMY'S DREAM.

Tommy had a curious dream one night. He had been kept in from play to help his father. But instead of being proud to think that his father wanted his help, he was cross about losing his play—so cross that his father quietly remarked that he would not ask him to stay in again.

When he lay down to sleep that night he dreamed that two angels were sent down to earth to make a record of all the nice, loving things the boys and girls were doing. One angel was to take note of all the big things that were done and the other was to write down all the little unnoticed deeds of life. They parted as they reached the earth and, when they met again on their way back to heaven they compared notes. One had scarcely filled two pages of his book.

There are not many conspicuous things done, after all, he said in explanation.

I have scarcely found time to write all that I have seen, and he showed a little book filled from cover to cover with record of loving little deeds.

Tommy's heart stood still, and he thought, my name must be there, for it was a nice thing to stay in and help father.

Then he heard the angel explain why there were some boys and girls he did not take any notice of at all. They did nice things, he said, but they were so cross about it and so unwilling that I could not write them down. For you know, I was told only to record the loving deeds of life.

Then Tommy woke up and, as he lay still and thought about it, he knew that he could not possibly have been in the angel's book that day.

IT WAS AN ATTRACTION WELL WORTH SEEING.

Sell & Downs big combined circus proved a drawing card for Chubbuck. They brought the biggest crowd to this city that has ever been here in years. They saw a brilliant spectacle in the street parade, and a most performance that was surpassing in its merits and which possessed many uniquely excellent features.

The Sell & Downs Shows run on business principles, and does not disappoint the people. Within a few minutes after 10.30 the parade made its appearance, and there was a rush for points of vantage to get a good view of the riders, the bands, the clowns and the animals. The parade was all that could have been expected and drew forth many exclamations of interest, amusement and admiration.

Several good bands made the air melodious. Claiming special attention were a dozen lady riders, very handsomely costumed in white satin and bloomers, and riding astride. Carrie Nation with her hatchet brought forth peals of merriment and shouts of "You, Carrie!" from the crowd. The great bovalopus, the big, savage white horned animal from the Philippines, the first ever seen in this country, was viewed in wonder. On his back was his keeper, a big Filipino. The lions, leopards, camels and Queen, the big elephant, all came in for their share of interest. The wagons were all in good condition and the parade was an index to the shows propriety.—Constitution, Chubbuck, (Mo.).

DEVICES OF SMUGGLERS.

Disguised Priest With Tobacco Under his Cassock.

London, May 8.—The Daily Express publishes the following. A great effort is being made by the French customs officials to break up the organization of smugglers that has lately been carrying on a lucrative and ever growing trade in contraband between Belgium and France.

During the last fortnight French customs officials have had several important successes. The first was the capture of a French boat in the Straits of Dover. The vessel carried £1,000 worth of tobacco. This contraband cargo was confiscated, the vessel seized and the owner fined £1,260. On the same night a smuggler's haunt quantities of tobacco was seized.

One of the latest devices was that employed by a nun who disguised herself as a priest. He was in the habit of journeying from a Belgium frontier town into France every day with a large quantity of tobacco concealed under his cassock.

He returned to Belgium not a portly priest, but a very lean, emaciated individual.

The capture of the fictitious priest led the authorities to suspect a number of nuns who daily crossed the frontier into France. A careful search has been organized, and in four cases the supposed nun was found to be a smuggler with many pounds of tobacco and cigars beneath her heavy black skirt.

Perhaps the most gruesome discovery was made when a coffin, supposed to contain the body of a Frenchman who died in Belgium, and was brought back to be buried in his native country, was searched it was found to contain cigars.

Old Soldier Couldn't Sleep

Heart pains and headaches almost drove him wild—Cramps in stomach and limbs.

The strong point in favor of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the fact that it makes thorough and lasting cures, and by building up the system, removing the cause of the disease.

Mr. JAMES WESLEY WEAVER, a veteran of the Fenian raid, Fort Dalhousie, Ont., writes: "For years I was afflicted with nervousness and drowsed insomnia, so that I never knew for three years what a full hour's sleep was, never more than dozing for a few minutes at a time. Heart pains and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in stomach and limbs."

"Though I tried several doctors, it was money uselessly spent. Finally Dr. Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me. It is simply wonderful what benefit I have obtained from this treatment."

You can be certain that every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of benefit to you, forming new rich blood and new nerve force. 50 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edmanston, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WHERE LIFE IS ESTEEMED

The System That Makes English Railroads The Safest In The World.

They manage their railway better in England. With one-tenth our mileage, but with many times our density of passenger travel, Englishmen have a record of fifteen months without losing a life in a train accident. The reason is because they do things in the automatic, arbitrary English manner which totally disregards the inalienable rights of a citizen to be massacred by the railroads. Parliaments compel the adoption of the block system. A supervision is maintained which has not paralleled in the United States. Here in America, the railway inspectors for two hundred thousand miles of railroad are just fifteen in number. Here no official exists who has a duty or even is authorized to say to a railway officer, "You are operating your railway unsafely. Stop."

In Great Britain the Board of Trade takes the place of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The chief inspector of the Board—Col. Yorke is his name just now—is a gentleman of military habits, and what he says goes, and goes instantly. Behind him is the whole power of the British army. Not long ago an inspector, impressed by certain dangerous conditions in a branch of the London Subway, telephoned Col. Yorke. The colonel is not given to expostulating or corresponding. He sent peremptory orders to stop the running of all trains on the spot, and not a wheel was driven till the defect was corrected.

Gentlemen,—In January last Francis Leclair, one of the men employed by me, working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was, when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised and his body turned black from his ribs to his feet. We used MINARD'S LINIMENT on him freely to deaden the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

A stranger came into an August bank one day and presented a check for which he wanted the equivalent in cash.

"Have to be indentured," said the teller.

The stranger took a bunch of letters from his pocket, all addressed to the same name as that on the check. The teller shook his head. The man thought a minute, and pulled out his watch, which bore the name on its inside cover. The teller merely glancing at it and said That won't do.

The man dug into his pockets and found one of these "If I should die tonight—notify my wife and call the teller's attention to the description, which fitted to a T.

BUILDING CANADA WITH AMERICANS

Tens of Thousands of American Farmers Carried Over the Line by Active Canadian Agents Scattered Through our Northern Rural Centres.

BY BROUGHTON BRANDENBURG.

Not content with having precipitated upon us a grievous trouble in the enormous immigration from Europe and Asia to our Eastern and Western shores, with hordes of Japanese threatening to come, the gods of Progress and Change now have breached our walls to the northward, and the first rush of what is destined to be a mighty hegebra is figuring from the United States into western Canada. It is wholly an artificially directed movement, the work of the Canadian Government, the Canadian railroads, and the Canadian land speculators. Sound economic principles, however, underlie the superficial causes that have set the tens of thousands on the move. It is now too late to deflect the current, and all that is left for the good Americans who have been asleep is to waken to inquiry into the mixed good and evil that shall result; then, if possible, harvest the one and nolly the other.

Twelve years ago Eric Swenson, a Swede farmer, with a family of four sons, having lost his farm in the hard times of 1893, left Fertile, Minnesota, and trekked across the border into Manitoba to see what he could find. Near Altamont, on the line of the Canadian Pacific, he found a section of what appeared to him to be a very fine wheat land and making inquiry, he was told that he could "homestead" a quarter of a section of it for himself, and a quarter for each of his sons, by going to the land agent's office in Winnipeg. This he did, and he and his family entered into the possession of seven hundred acres of land at a total cost of $52.20. The next fall he harvested the finest crop of wheat he had ever seen grown in Dakota, and his market was just as accessible. His wife went back to Fertile to visit a sister that winter, and when she came home to Altamont eight other families came with her. This little story presents the simple workings of the aforementioned economic principles.

Intelligence of good farmland does not fly like the tidings of a gold strike, however, and these principles if let alone would have been a long time in peopling the great Canadian Northwest. In the past two or three years the interested parties—the Canadian Government, the speculators, and the railroads—have been planning a great campaign of concerted action, which despite the fact that so little has been heard of it is now in full blast. Where a few years ago we lost good citizens by the hundred thousand, and I do not hesitate to say, from examinations I have made of numbers of parties either en route or about to depart, that they are the very best stock from our settled rural communities. It is a leak at the top and not at the bottom.

Of course, it is unfortunate that the tens of thousands of desirable citizens who have left the country to better their condition could not have found betterment by going West in the United States to equally good lands which thanks to the exquisite operations of our political system, are not now open to homesteading, as they have been grabbed in recent years by corporations and speculators. Having been robbed under the nose of a complacent government of what was rightfully theirs, they cannot be blamed if the pastures look better under the British flag. However, the indications are that they are carrying their Americanism with them, and in the environment of the free sweep of the Northwestern prairies they are not likely to lose it. Some day, not too far ahead to be interesting now there will be a crisis in Canada in which the will of the hundreds of thousands of American citizens there will be the most potent factor. I am convinced, from a reading of the signs already plainly displayed, that they will not cast their lot with those who wish annexation to the United States.

The greatest evil is the loss of blood our body politic is sustaining and must sustain. Some of the points of gold are the increased use and market for American agricultural machinery, American-made clothes, books, footstuffs, etc. The greater their prosperity the greater their purchasing power which is gratifying to contemplate when it is remembered that the market is secured in advance, and the Americans in the west of Canada are likely so to dominate the trade preferences of the mixed European immigrant—that they, too, will conform to the American standard and style of living.

After giving complete figures of the remarkable growth of the hegebra in the past five years, I desire to point out some of the means of incitation which are open to comment, if not adverse criticism. At least they would not be allowed to go on long without governmental inquiry in any other civilized nation.

The following figures are official from the Bureau at Ottawa and show the immigration into Manitoba, Assiniboia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia by years:

British American Continental Total
1900-1 11,810 17,967 19,352 49,129
1901-2 17,250 26,388 23,732 67,370
1902-3 41,792 38,473 37,099 117,364
1903-4 50,374 45,171 34,785 130,330
1904-5 (Estimate) 180,000

The facts that warrant an estimate of fifty thousand jump up before June 30 of this year come in reports from the agencies working in the United States. A few days ago the agent of one of the stations established by the Canadian Government showed me his books to prove that in six weeks work he had opened negotiations for removal with three thousand families in but three States. Homesteaded lands in 1896 were 297,760 acres, and in eight years to 5,299,120 acres.

Not only is the system pursued effective in the extreme, but it is very interesting as well. The Government of Canada inserts and keeps standing a prominent display advertisement in all the American agricultural publications. The farmer who answers this letter receives a half dozen different booklets, folders, maps, etc., explaining the Dominion opportunities. To meet the demand for these publications more than a million copies of each pamphlet have been printed.

While recently visiting one of the Government agents I found a keen-faced, squint-eyed old Hoosier who was in Toledo on his way to Winnipeg. He put the proposition plainly, saying: "I'm fifty-five, come next September, an' I been farmin', hired hand, shares, rentin' an owner, all my life. I got enough to live on, but I got three boys big's I am, 'n I jes half-ta do somethin' with them. Last fall I plumb wore myself out tryin' to keep 'em— he's the oldest— from goin' to Fort Wayne to git a deceptive dye. It is not the retailer of the common dyes that should be paid by the manufacturers, it is the unfortunate women, who, after using such dye stuffs, find their dresses, skirts, jackets, capes, blouses, ribbons and other materials ruined forever.

Diamond Dyes give the ladies a choice of 48 colors, thirty-two for wool and silk and sixteen for cotton and all mixed goods each dye guaranteed to do its special work.
Makers of the adulterated dyes deceive people when they tell them that any one of their dyes will color any kind of fabric. Such a statement is stupidly false.
It is asserted by the ablest color chemists that the Diamond Dyes are the only correct and reliable colors for home use, and these experts hold that the theory of special colors for wool, silk, cotton and mixed goods, is the true and correct one.
Seeing that imitation and crude dyes are sold by some dealers, ladies who ask for the Diamond Dyes should see that the name "DIAMOND" appears on each package. Remember, "It's easy to dye with Diamond Dyes."

It is the manufacturer of the common and crude dyes who is obliged to offer a few paltry cents per dozen to storekeepers to get them to introduce and push their job. Now, the other town's restless I kain't buy them each farms. Ner they don't want to work ten years to git sixty acres with a mortgage on it. I'd go West if I could, but I been on two home-seeker trips out there 'n let me tell ye when you see somethin' worth havin' out there, you got-ta go to some company's agent to ast the price, 'n if its free land it drys an undertaker's eye. I found I hadn't no show to give my boys a start in my own country, so I'm off for Alberta where I kin get one hundred and acres the finest land you ever seen fer myself 'n one hundred and sixty acres more jest like it for each 'a them boys. I hate to do it, but good-by to Iri- any." The agents tell me that thousands of men have the same story to tell. The immigration is divided into two classes, the fathers with sons, and the renters who have saved enough money to strike out into a new country.

The literature sent out by the Canadian Government teems with testimonials of men who have gone into the new country and succeeded. One agent, who, like nearly all of them, was selected because he had lived in the west of Canada and knew all about the country, said he knew of a man who had gone there and failed. I asked him if he did not think that the men who were good enough for Canada to bid for under great soliciting expense must be too good for the United States to lose. He laughed, and answered that a finer lot of men had never come out of any land, but he did not see how the United States could help them.

BEYOND ALL DESCRIPTION.
Was the experience Mrs. E. A. Carter of Danville had with rheumatism which resisted everything till Nervine was tried, and it cured. "The only relief I ever got was from rubbing on Nervine," writes Mrs. Carter. It penetrated to the very core of the pain and eased my suffering after a few applications. I have used many rheumatic remedies but none had the soothing pain subduing power of Nervine which I recommend high v." Try Nervine yourself! Good for internal use and excellent to rub on. Price 25c.

With the centre of population barely over the Ohio line and almost stationary for ten years, nearly a thousand miles from the geographical centre of the country, it is possible that we are already so crowded that immigration is necessary. The idea is ridiculous. The truth is that the westward tide has bumped into the unyielding front of ranch, timber land, and mining tracts grabs, and so turns north into Canada—orelong in numbers of a hundred thousand per year—birthright plundered expatriates.—Collier's Weekly.

Beware of Imitations of the Celebrated DIAMOND DYES.

The Manufacturers of Crude and Weak Dyes Offer Premiums to Druggists and Dealers to Sell Them to Unsuspecting Women.

Diamond Dyes have a most enviable past and present history for success in home dyeing. Their fast, rich and lustrous colors have made them the most noted home dyes in the world.

The imitation and crude dyes made and sold for the immense profits they bring the makers of such trash, only result in dire destruction to useful and expensive goods requiring re-coloring. These adulterated dyes may be tolerated by some sections of our Indian population, but wise, prudent and cultured women select Diamond Dyes when they need pure, full and brilliant colors for home dyeing.

The proprietors of Diamond Dyes are not obliged to offer premiums to druggists and dealers who sell their dyes. Our progressive retailers, whose chief aim is to sell their customers the best dyes, do not ask for special inducements to sell Diamond Dyes; they are satisfied with the profit they make on their vast and daily increasing sales of Diamond Dyes.

It is the manufacturer of the common and crude dyes who is obliged to offer a few paltry cents per dozen to storekeepers to get them to introduce and push their

THE GREATEST POSSIBLE PEACE LEAGUE.

Brassey's Naval Annual, the world's leading authority on naval matters, in its latest issue pays particular attention to the great growth of the United States navy, and makes this significant observation:

"At the end of 1908 the United States will become the second naval power of the world, and the British and United States navies combined would be able to put into line seventy five first-class battleships, as compared with sixty-nine possessed by the other five naval powers." "This," says the New York Tribune, whose proprietor is the newly chosen American ambassador to England, "is a most impressive consideration. Its bearing upon the greatness and self-sufficiency of Anglo-Saxon world is obvious and most gratifying, and we may hope that its significance to the peace and welfare of the entire world may be no less apparent and effective." The Tribune is a representative administration newspaper, and the fact that Mr. Whitelaw Reid, its owner, has just succeeded Mr. Choate in London, lends additional interest to its comment.

Men of middle age can easily remember the day when the few miserable wooden ships which constituted the United States navy were the subject of considerable mirth to the world over. The people of the United States then seemed to think they had no need for a strong navy. Why in the world they now need a fleet second only to that of Great Britain is not plain to outsiders; but they will soon have it. Indeed they will have it before the Texas, the first modern battleship they built goes out of commission. Already the American fleet is much superior to those of Italy, Russia and Japan. It crowds those of France and Germany, and a few years hence will outrank either. The Tribune makes this summary of Brassey's figures:

"In all class of vessels Great Britain easily leads the world. In first-class battleships now in commission Germany stands second by a small margin over the United States, which is an easy third. But in such vessels built and building the States considerably surpasses Germany. At the end of 1906 it shall have nineteen to Germany's twenty; at the end of 1907, twenty-two to her twenty-two, and at the end of 1908, twenty-five to her twenty-four. That majority of only one ship does not appear great, but its actual magnitude appears when we note the aggregate tonnage of each fleet, for our twenty-five ships will have a tonnage of 333,847, while Germany's twenty-four will have only 256,557 tons. In the highly important class of first-class cruisers American superiority is more emphatically marked. Built and building Germany has only seven such ships, of 67,094 tons, while we have fifteen of 186,595 tons. In this class France has a slight numerical superiority over us, but is inferior in tonnage, her sixteen ships measuring only 178,139 tons. In battleships and cruisers of all classes, built and building, our title to second place among the navies of the world seems secure, with seventy-five vessels to Germany's sixty-nine, the ninety-three of France consisting so largely of the smaller sizes as to fall much below ours in actual strength."

Sentiment aside, the influence of common interests and economy will have a strong tendency to cause a formal or virtual alliance between the British and American, whose combined fleets would constitute a naval police force which no nation could afford to defy. Such an alliance would exert the greatest possible influence for peace. These navies are heavy burdens to carry, but the wars they prevent would be much more costly.—Ex.

Hon. Fletcher B. Wade, chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway Commission, is dead. He died at Ottawa on Tuesday, May 23rd. It is said that Mr. D. Pottinger is likely to be appointed to the vacant chairmanship.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA.

Late despatches indicate that in a conflict between the Russian and Japanese fleets on Saturday night in the straits of Korea, the Japanese achieved a signal victory. The reports come chiefly, almost wholly, from Japanese sources, but there is little doubt that there are substantially correct. The Japanese admiral fell upon the Russians at a time and place most favorable for the success of the strategy which he employed. And, apparently, the Russians, without being able to give battle with him, had two battleships, four armored cruisers, one coast defence ironclad and two other vessels sunk, while two battleships and two other vessels were captured by the Japanese, a loss in all of fifteen vessels. This practically means the complete shattering of the navy upon which Russia has been building high hopes of ultimate victory, and it advances the war considerably to its close. The Japanese loss appears to have been insignificant in comparison.—Globe.

CANADIAN LITERATURE.

It may surprise those not thoroughly acquainted with the circumstances, to know the CANADIAN MAGAZINE from month to month is written entirely by Canadians. There is no other publication in this country which is so representative of all that is best in native literature—articles, stories, poems and sketches. The June number, just to hand, is a splendid example of what a magazine should be, in both appearance and contents. The opening article is an illustrated sketch of Winnipeg, written in a manner that is quite out of the ordinary. "Public House Trusts," by Russell E. Macnaghten, is opportune, both because this movement was inaugurated in England mainly through the support given to it by our present Governor-General, and because the control of the liquor traffic is a problem much discussed at the present moment. "The Story of the Simpson Tunnel" is a whiff of information from the outside world. The stories are by Cy Warner, Eric Bohn, Rev. W. C. Gaynor, Theodore Roberts and A. C. Smith. A charming character sketch by Professor Macnechan of Halifax is entitled "The Nova Scotia-ness of Nova Scotia." The book department is devoted mainly to a discussion of Canadian books and a chat about Canadian authors.

THE BLACK CALF BORN

OLD LEGEND AFFECTING FERRERS FAMILY IS FULFILLED.

Noted White Cattle of Chartley—It 1373 Disaster Followed the Appearance of Black Offspring and Will Now Be Repeated—The Estate Is for Sale and Will Probably Pass from the Ferrers Family Forever.

The name of Ferrers is among the very oldest in English records, and this, if for no other reason, gives exceptional interest to the approaching sale of the Staffordshire estate of Chartley, which has now for centuries descended with the blood of the Ferrers family. At the close of the twelfth century, William helped himself bountifully to the acres of Staffordshire, as of the other counties, but divided the considerable residue among five of his prime lords of whom Henry de Ferrers was the most powerful. The Ferrers family, who were lords of the manor of Chartley, and of the lands of the Ferrers, then ennobled as Earls of Derby. Chartley Castle was already built, and its new lords began to make history. They did this seriously to their cost by supporting Simon de Montfort in his rebellion, which led to the imposition by Henry III. of the stupendous fine of £50,000 on the then head of the family. The fine was a gift to the King's son Edmund, and in spite of supplication for mercy and the patriotic donation from the Earl to the King of "a gold vase set with precious stones," payment was enforced. The most Prince Edmund did was to release the Earl from "the higher tower of Wallingford," where he was imprisoned, and set him on a black palfrey to carry him back to the poor brace of manors which alone remained to him after the liquidation of his enormous penalty.

By and by male heirs failed the family, and a Devereux possessed Chartley through his wife. The Devereux were made Earls of Essex which brings us to that fascinating medieval Robert, who so fatally abused his power with Queen Elizabeth. In his time Mary Queen of Scots suffered at Chartley one of her many spells of imprisonment in English houses, and as reports tell us, "made a bed" there; that is to say, embroidered a bed-cover. She was not confined in the castle, which was then as now a mere ruin on a mound, but in the mansion house near to it; and a depressing sojourn it must have been for her, if one may assume that the present thickets of sombre yews, firs, and hollies about the building are the inheritance from the sixteenth century. Save for its memories, the house is not interesting. Just a solid, sober, mellowed old English home such as our fox-hunting ancestors were content to sleep and drink in after their outside pleasuring. But behind it stretch the hundreds of acres of rolling moor which still stands for the "mighty large park" of Lord Land's day—the burrow of many a rabbit and the haunt of the decayed remnant of that herd of white cattle which have for centuries made Chartley famous as the "white park" of the north. Little need be said about the later fortunes and misfortunes of the family. By marriage Chartley passed to the Shirleys, who were oppressed by Cromwell and later rewarded by Charles II. with the revival of the Ferrers barony. The Earl Ferrers of Queen Anne's time had fifteen sons and twelve daughters, which tended to impoverishment. His grandson, the notorious Laurence Earl Ferrers, of the Newgate Calendar, left a sad blot on the name in that murder of his steward (at Stratton, in Leicestershire) which brought him to Tyburn in 1760, attired in white satin and silver, and riding in a landau drawn by six horses. Horace Walpole's description of the execution and of the "best things" in his "Letters" are it is worth remembering that here for the first time in England a guillotined platform was used, devised by the family that the kitchen might not swing off from a cart like a plebeian culprit. The drop of eighteen inches given by this device was not enough, however, and four minutes elapsed before the death.

Of the wild cattle of Chartley scarcely more than a dozen survive, and these, to be seen, must be approached (especially for photographic purposes) immediately and carefully under guidance of the baronet's gamekeeper, who seems to have played havoc with them, and it is to combat the effects of their sterility that the mild step has been taken of introducing a black bull into the pure white herd. Later, of course, the color will be fixed back to the original white, but that will be a work of time. Meanwhile one of the most medieval lords of Chartley would say if they could see the black calves now encouraged on the estate, for such a birth in the herd was considered an omen of the darkest and, importing immediate death or disaster in the family. The legend began to be respected in 1322, after the battle of Burton Bridge between Edward I. and his revolted barons with Ferrers among them. A black calf being born that year at Chartley and the second downfall of the house ensuing this was imputed to the black quadruped (which was instantly killed) rather than to the Earl's impolitic patriotism. The few superstitious souls who remain in Chartley's thinly-peopled neighborhood may be trusted to make the most of the present Earl's Ferrers' contempt for the legend. Black calves have been deliberately bred from the white cattle and the Chartley estates are to pass, probably forever, from the Ferrers family at public auction.

Broke the Record for Ocean Voyage. Owner and Capt. Barr Elated.

The Lizard, Eng., May 29.—The Atlantic finished at 9 18 p. m. The Atlantic passed the line south of the Lizard lighthouse at 9 15 p. m., when a gun was fired from the German cruiser Pfeil, the stakeboat, which arrived early in the evening, rockets being sent up from Lloyd's signal station and fog horns blown at the lighthouse.

The Atlantic reached Bishop Rock lighthouse (northwest of the main group of the Scilly Islands) May 29, having accomplished the passage to that point in eleven days, sixteen hours and twenty-two minutes, with an average of ten and a half knots per hour.

St. John, N. B. May 30.—German yacht Hamburg, the second of contestants to arrive reached Sicily islands to-day.

Swore Like Seward. Secretary Seward was an Episcopalian, and this story is told: On one of the occasions when President Lincoln's patience was tried by a self-appointed adviser, who got warm and used strong language, Mr. Lincoln interrupted him by saying, "You are an Episcopalian, aren't you?" And when asked why he thought so he said, "You swear just like Seward, and he is."

Almost Eavesdropping. Among the public men in England is a well known speaker whose remarks are inaudible twenty feet away, and of him a wit said, "No one admires Mr. X. more than I do, but I always feel that I am taking a liberty in over-hearing what he says."

An Adirondack Thief. At a certain Adirondack cottage last season something disturbed things frequently. A jar of butter, set under the house to keep cool, was broken into; a tub of beef in process of corning was robbed; a jar of suet on the back piazza was tipped over, broken and some of the fat eaten, and many other depredations of like character were committed. Several times the robber had been seen in the evening by ladies of the family, and to them he looked so big that the male contingent determined to watch for the thief and stop his thieving. Opportunity came one moonlight night.

Seen through a window and stretched over a pall in the shadow, the animal looked big as a half bushel. But he could not be shot just there, and so the broken jar of suet was placed in the moonlight in range of an open window, and, gun in hand, the avenger waited. He did not have to wait long. Quietly and with great dignity, as though entirely within his rights, Mr. Coon came out of the woods again—right along the path to the house—and stopped to regale himself with the suet, so easily found in its new place. Accounts were squared when the shot-gun spoke.—Forest and Stream.

IMPROVEMENTS INAUGURATED.

Miller Tanning Extract Company to Start Mortimore Mill.

MILLERTON IMPROVEMENT

Changes and Additions will Cost
$25,000 and are Being Carried Out.

Some two months ago Mr. John W. Miller of the Miller Tanning Extract Co. here was called to England to consult with the head office in reference to certain additions and improvements which he (Mr. Miller) had recommended, and which from his scientific research he knew would add much to the output of the Millerton factory.

While in the Old Country Mr. Miller easily convinced the management that it would be wise to make the changes necessary and work was at once commenced. It was also decided to put the Mortimore mill which had been idle for nine years, in repair and start up this summer with a full crew, working night and day.

In conversation with Mr. Miller the Advocate learns that a new process of grinding the hen lock bark will be installed so that the bark will be reduced to very fine particles and thus more easily leached and all the substance obtained from these particles. By the old process it was found that at least from twenty to thirty percent of the extract remained in the ground bark when it was discarded, and it is to save this that the new process and plant is being installed.

Three new triple effect vacuum pans of the shallow variety have been ordered and will be installed at an early date and in other respects the factory will be improved.

Mr. Miller has always taken a great interest in the scientific end of the business and to his study and research is due the many improvements made in tanning extract during the past twelve years; improvements which have earned a most enviable name for the product of the Miller Tanning Extract Co. in the markets of the world.

WANT MORE PAY.

Our Representatives are Asking for Another Raise.

Ottawa, May 28.—Many members are making a push for an increase of sessional indemnity to $2,000; some want it raised to $2,500. A round robin for the lesser sum has been largely signed.

HARCOURT

Social and Personal

Harcourt, May 27.—Preparations are being made by the Millerton Tanning Extract Company, who have a factory in Mortimore, near here, that has been idle for several years, to resume operations on a large scale as soon as the machinery can be put into proper shape. The works will employ over thirty men, and call for about twelve thousand cords of hemlock bark every year. It is proposed to run the factory here at least three years. There are no available houses to rent in Harcourt and very few in Mortimore.

Miss Jessie P. daughter of Andrew Dunn, left today for Sheffield, Sunbury Co. where for several weeks she will visit her sister, Mrs. Woodville Barker. On her way she will attend the Mount Allison closing exercises at Sackville.

Miss Mabel Wathen, teacher at Lake Stream, Kent Co., is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Wathen, J. P.

Rev. R. Hensley Stavert, who received a call from the Presbyterian churches of Harcourt, Mill Branch and Trout Brook recently, has accepted, and will settle here about June 1st.

Rev. George Freeborn, rector here has accepted the rectory of Watford, Kings Co., where he will take up his duties on July 1st. No successor is spoken of here yet.

The Imperial Coal Company at Beersville are mining coal regularly now, having over twenty men employed.

The Canadian Coal Company, that up to about a year ago operated near Beersville, will hold a meeting next month, to decide whether or not to reopen their mines.—Sun.

LUMBER MILLS BURNED.

I. C. R. Train Delayed by big Fire at Amqui, P. Q.

Moncton, May 26.—The Maritime Express from Montreal was delayed four or five hours at Amqui, Quebec Province, by a big conflagration in Price Bros. mills Friday morning.

In addition to the mills and a quantity of lumber, two or three I. C. R. cars were burned.

Last night's maritime from Halifax was delayed two hours in Truro by a broken wheel on the dining car.

THE OCEAN LIMITED.

In view of the splendid success which attended the initiation last year via the Intercolonial Railway of a fast train service between Halifax, St. John, Prince Edward Island and other eastern points, Montreal and the west, it has been decided that the Ocean Limited will again be placed on the summer time table for the tourist season of 1905, and on June 4 this fine train will make its initial trip for this year.

It may be safely said that no train on the continent of America is a greater favorite with tourists and other travellers than the Ocean Limited has proved to be, and as an appreciation of this general new and magnificently appointed sleeping and dining cars have, during the past months, been constructed for this service. All modern improvements known to expert car builders are included in these coaches, and the well known civility and attention on the part of the train men, which is always a noticeable feature on the Intercolonial trains, will be in evidence.

It is proposed that the train will leave Halifax daily except Sunday, at 8:10 and St. John at 11 o'clock, arriving at Montreal at 7:15, where, for the benefit of travellers from the Maritime Provinces who are going west, connection is made in Bonaventure depot (the same station at which the Ocean Limited arrives, thus avoiding transfers) with the Grand Trunk International Limited, arriving at Toronto 4:30 p. m., which means only one night on the road and the most comfortable train service to be found anywhere.

En route most beautiful scenery delights the eye of passengers, such as the lovely Wentworth and Matapedia valleys, the magnificent rivers of the North shore of New Brunswick, and the blue waters of the Baie de Chaleur, the charms of which will linger in the traveller's mind.

NEW ASSESSMENT.

Assessors Completing Their Work
—Rate Remains as Last Year.

The assessors are at work completing their labors and the roll book will soon be handed to the Town Clerk for tax collection.

We find that there has been quite an addition to the taxpayers this year there being over one hundred names added. The valuation has also gone up a little so that although over eleven hundred dollars more are needed this year for all purposes yet the rate will remain about the same as last year while it will be less than two years ago.

The total amount assessed this year is $16,114.41.

THE HOLIDAY.

A Pleasant Day Very Pleasantly
Spent by Many.

Victoria Day was the first real summer day of the season and crowds of young and old people who had planned to go fishing or for a pleasant outing had a most enjoyable day.

The Rustler carried a number of enthusiasts to Redbank where the day was spent fishing.

A large crowd of young people drove up to the Or Bow and spent a very pleasant day as did another party of young people who drove to Indian town. Very few fish were caught but all voted the day a most enjoyable one.

The town was very quiet. The band might have enlivened the evening, but it did not appear.

ONLY ONE CURE FOR CATARRH

And it's neither a dopy mixture, a troublesome atomizer or an irritating snuff—it is fragrant healing Catarrhine which is recommended by at least twenty thousand physicians and the United States and Canada. The balsamic vapor of Catarrhine goes at once to the source of the disease, kills the germ, heals sore spots; it prevents dropping in the throat, keeps the nostrils clear and cures foul breath. Cure is complete and permanent when Catarrhine is used. It is as certain as death to cure, can't fail. Every complete dollar outfit guaranteed trial size 25c.

MUCH LUMBER WILL HANG.

Some Drives Abandoned and Others will not Reach Boom.

ABOUT 15,000,000 FEET

Logs Belong to Ritchie, Hutchison and Sinclair and are on Northwest and Branches.

The lumbermen are still working hard to bring out their logs on the Northwest and branches, but the water is exceptionally low and little progress is being made.

In conversation with Mr. Allan Ritchie yesterday the Advocate learned that it was possible that all the lumber except perhaps three or four million feet would be driven to the boom safely. Some of the drives which had been abandoned would be again worked if there comes sufficient rain to raise the streams. The drives on the Seville and Mellen Stream in which Messrs Ritchie, Hutchison and Sinclair are interested will remain this year.

The Little South West drive Mr. Ritchie thinks will come along all right. Hutchison and his company's men were working together on that drive, which is a heavy one and progress is being made. Mr. Hutchison went up river Monday to personally look after this work.

Burchill's main drive is coming along but some of it has been left on the banks. Reports from the Southwest Miramichi are to the effect that all drives on that branch will reach the boom safely.

Mr. Welch's drive of 4,000,000 has already got as far as Boiestown, while Mr. T. Lynch's drive of 10,000,000 has reached the islands above five miles below Boiestown.

There was no worry about the lumber on the Southwest as it was felt that it would all come out all right. The drives were making good headway but they had to keep on the hustle all the time as the water has fallen between 18 inches and 2 feet since last Saturday.

Although everything looked bright on the Southwest Miramichi it was not so on the Northwest Miramichi. There a good deal of the lumber is going to hang. It had been reported that between 12,000,000 and 13,000,000 feet would hang on the Northwest and from the way in which the water was falling off it is thought that this report would be about right. The lumber that is tied up includes some for Ritchie, Hutchison and Sinclair.—Gleaner.

"There will be 50,000,000 feet of lumber on the Upper St. John, waters which will not be brought out this spring," said a prominent lumberman on Saturday evening. Continuing the gentleman said that a lot more of the 105,750,000 which is estimated was to come out this year would have to wait over for another season unless there is a wonderful raise of water at an early day. On the Upper St. John there was very little snow during the past winter and that coupled with the small amount of rain this spring is put down as responsible.

The Sells & Downs Show Makes a Fine Parade.

Crowds View It and Are Well Pleased
—The Whole Cavalcade Impressive and Meritorious—A Long List of Fine Performers.

The parade of the big Sells & Downs Show this morning was witnessed by the usual throng of curious and happy hearted people, a large number of whom came from the surrounding country. The big pug-nosed proved an interesting and attractive sight. The gilded cages, open dens of wild animals, dancing, prancing steeds, gallop caparisoned, handsomely attired acrobats and performer generally, mounted on splendid animals, chariots, bus, elephant, camels and everything that was advertised, made a bright and beautiful display, a cavalcade of unquestioned merit. The horses attracted the particular attention of those who love well groomed and fine animals of the kind that Sells & Downs own.

The afternoon show was in every way a highly entertaining one. There was not a poor feature introduced. The wonderful Elliott Family of acrobats won distinctive praise for their high class work. The family is composed of a grandfather, sons, daughter and grandchildren, the youngest not over four years. The Martell family came in for special recognition and the tricks they do on the bicycle are simply wonderful. The Earl Sisters in graceful and difficult acts on the trapeze, Miss Kitty Kruger in thrilling bareback act; the tumbling and leaping were all up-to-date and marvellously perfect. The clowns, and there were many created any amount of clean fun. The Sells & Downs Shows are well worth seeing. NEWCASTLE, THURSDAY JUNE 8th.

CHARLES CLARK MUNN

Copyright, 1905, by LEE & SHEPARD

"I do not see why you cannot see your brother and visit with him just as well at our house," put in Mrs. Nason. "He is always welcome there."

Alice turned to her brother, remarking, "It is nice of you to insist, and I am more than grateful, but it must be as he says." Then she added prettily, "He is my papa and mamma now, and the cook and captain and mate of the Nancy brig as well."

"I will stir up a mutiny on the Nancy brig if he does not consent," laughed Blanch. "So there is an end to that, and you must be ready at 10 tomorrow."

CHAPTER XXXIX

BLANCH had kept her threat and literally taken possession of her new friend and installed her in the guest room of the Nason residence. To be taken in hand, as it were, by a cultured and wealthy young lady, and to have a livered and obsequious coachman on duty to convey them anywhere and everywhere was a new experience. It was not long ere Alice began to feel herself quite at home in the Nason family, and to notice that Mrs. Nason treated her in a motherly way.

"I see that you are fond of your little charges," she said, after Alice had described her school and some of the peculiarities of her pupils who were outgrown roundabouts or calico pinafores, "and I suppose they grow fond of you as well."

"I try to make them," replied Alice, "and I find that is the easiest way to govern them. I seldom have to punish any one. In a way, children are like grown people, and a little tact and a few words said in the right way are more potent than fear of punishment."

"And do you not find life in so small a place rather monotonous?" asked Mrs. Nason.

"Oh, yes," replied Alice, "it is not much like city life. It is delightful to have theaters and the excitement of social duties, as I imagine you have all the time, and yet I am not sure I should like it. I fancy once in awhile I should sigh for a shady spot in the woods in summer where I could read a book or hear the birds sing. It is only in winter that I should like to live in the city."

Alice's stay in Boston passed rapidly until only two days were left, when Blanch said to her, "I have invited a few of my friends here to meet you to-night, and I want you to sing for me."

"Oh, please do not ask that," replied Alice hastily. "I do not sing well enough."

"But you sing in church, and that is much harder," said Alice.

"That is nothing," answered Alice, smiling. "Not one in ten of those country people know one note from another. Here all your friends hear the finest operatic singers, and I would cut a sorry figure in contrast."

"But you will sing just once to please me, won't you?" pleaded Blanch.

"I will not promise. I will see how many are here and how my courage holds out."

When that evening came Blanch waited until Alice had become somewhat acquainted with the little gathering and the reserve had worn away, when she went to her and, putting one arm around her waist, whispered, "Come, now, dear, just one little song; only one to please me." At first Alice thought to refuse, but her pride came to the rescue, and the feeling that she would show her friend that she was not a timid country girl gave her the needed courage, and she arose and stepped across the room to the grand piano that stood in one corner. Her cheeks were flushed, and a defiant curl

If Your Liver is Wrong You are Wrong all Over

A torpid, inactive liver goes hand in hand with constipation. Such a chronic condition requires a systematic effort to overcome it and establish good health and perfect body in general. Smith's Pile and Butternut Pills, containing the two needed elements to increase liver activity and muscular action go accurately to the sluggish liver and bowels, restoring them completely.

Suppose your bowels failed to move for a week or ten days. Don't you know you would be quickly prostrated? It is just the same, differing in degree, when your bowels do not move at least once a day. You know you soon become languid and tired, your head aches and you feel nervous and sick all over. You should have a healthy passage daily. Don't let your conditions develop. Smith's Pile and Butternut Pills will drive bowel poison out of your system and establish regularity. They are purely vegetable, and cure in one week. We will send you a generous sample of these pills absolutely free, and postpaid, that will convince you beyond doubt of their curative properties. Address: W. B. was on her lips, and then without a moment's hesitation she seated herself and sang "The Last Rose of Summer." She had sung it many, many times before, and every trill and exquisite quiver of its pathos was as familiar to her as the music of the brook where she had played in childhood. She sang as she never had before, and to an audience that listened entranced. When the last sweet note had passed her red lips, she arose quickly and returned to her seat. Two little tears stole out of Mrs. Nason's eyes, to be quickly brushed away with a priceless bit of lace. Sweet Alice, the motherless little country girl, had from that moment entered the heart of Mrs. Nason. When the applause had subsided, it was Frank that next pleaded.

"Won't you sing one for me now, Miss Page?" he asked. "I bought the song I wanted today." And, going to the piano, he unrolled and spread upon the music rack—"Ben Bolt!"

"But I only consented to sing once for Blanch," Alice replied, "and there are others here who I am sure can do much better."

"Come, please," he said coaxingly, "just this one for me." And once more Alice touched the keys.

Back to a simply furnished parlor in Sandgate, with its lamp on the piano and open fire burning brightly as it had one year ago, went two of that company in thought, and maybe others there, whose youth had been among country scenes, were carried back to them by the singer's voice and saw a byway schoolhouse "and a shaded nook by a running brook" in fancy, or perhaps a little white stone in some grassy corner where, "obscure and alone," lay a boyhood's sweet heart! All the pathos of our lost youth thrilled in the voice of Alice Page as she sang that old, old song. Not one in that little audience but was enthralled by the winsome witchery of her voice and for the moment was young again in thought and feeling. When the guests had departed Mrs. Nason turned to Alice and, taking her face in her hands, exclaimed, "I want to kiss the lips that have brought tears to my eyes tonight."

The last evening of her visit she decided to spend with her brother, and when she came to bid adieu to her hostess that much dreaded haughty mother had resolved herself into a charming lady.

"It is odd, Bertie," she said to her brother that evening when they were alone together, "how different people seem when one comes to know them. From one or two things which you have said and an admission that Frank made a year ago I felt I should be sure to hate his mother, and now I think she is perfectly lovely."

"So she is to those she likes," answered Albert. "You carried her heart by strong last evening as well as the rest of the company. I never heard you sing so well."

"I am glad I didn't break down, anyway," she replied, "for when I touched the piano my heart seemed in my mouth."

For an hour they discussed the Nasons, while Albert noticed his sister avoided any mention of Frank, and then he said: "Well, sis, which of the places we have looked at do you think I best engage, and when will you be ready to move?"

Alice pursed her lips and looked at the shipwreck scene near her as if it contained a revelation.

"I am not so sure," she answered finally, "that we should make such a change at present. If I were certain your beautiful wait of the sea would adhere to her still resolution, it would be different. If you secure this legacy for her that you told me about and she donates it to those old people, as she intends to, the next thing will be an invitation to my dear brother's wedding. That is one reason why I hesitate to make this change. Another is

"I want to kiss the lips that have brought tears to my eyes."

When supper was over he asked her all manner of questions about her school, when she meant to open it again, how the old miller was, what had become of the boat, how the mill pond looked in winter, and had she been there since the day she gathered lilies. "Always back to that spot," she thought.

When he asked her to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" she exclaimed with a pretty pout: "I do not want to sing that. It reminds me how scared I was when I sang it last."

"But you brought tears into most of our eyes that night."

"Do you want to weep again?" she asked archly, looking up at him and smiling. "If you say you do, I will sing it."

CHAPTER XL

WHEN on the morning of her departure from Boston Alice stood beside the train exchanging the usual goodby words with her brother, she was surprised at being joined by Blanch and Frank. The former brought her a basket of lunch, sent with her mother's compliments, and the latter an elaborate bouquet of flowers.

"I want to kiss you goodbye," said Blanch, and when the two had embraced, Alice kissed her brother and took her seat. No one apparently noticed that Frank was not on the platform when the train started, and when it was well under way Alice was astonished to see him enter the car.

"You will not object to my company home, will you?" he asked. "I thought you might be lonesome, and as I have not had a chance to talk to you since you came to Boston I decided to go up with you. I can come back on the night train, or if you prefer to ride alone I can get off at the next station."

"Oh, no; I am very glad of your company," she replied, "and it is a good deal to you to think of it. It is a long ride, and I have had such a nice time I should have been disappointed. You did not know," she added archly, "that one reason I came to Boston was to look at that Bert who wants us to come here and keep house for him—Aunt Susan and me."

"And are you going to do it? I hope so, for that would give me a chance to take you to the theaters."

"No, the plan is off for the present," she answered. "Not but that I would like to think it is not best for Aunt Susan."

For an hour they trundled along through the snow clad country, chatting commonplace, and then Alice said, "Did you meet the island girl last summer that told me Bert had fallen in love with her?"

"Only once. Bert invited me and the old lady on board the Gypsy and introduced them. They remained only long enough to look the yacht over. I left that day."

"What did you think of this girl?" asked Alice hastily. "Tell me what she looks like."

"She has a beautiful figure and eyes like yours, which you know are what I admire, only they are not so full of mischief. They have a faraway look that makes you think her thoughts are a thousand miles away."

"How was she dressed?"

"Oh, I haven't the least idea," was the answer. "She might have worn calico for all I could tell. The only thing I can remember is that her dress was tight fitting and very plain."

Alice smiled.

"Those faraway eyes must have entranced you," she said. "Your description is so lucid," she replied sarcastically. "How long did Bert stay there after you came away?"

"Only a few days. I never asked him. I told him to keep and you the Gypsy as long as he wanted, and then I cut out for Blanch and Sandgate."

"I am sorry if I did," replied Frank. "I did not mean to. Mother fell in love with you the night you sang, and I knew she would. That is why I almost begged you to sing."

"When the hills of Sandgate were visible he said, 'I have an hour before the returning train and just time enough to see you safely home.'"

Alice looked at him with surprise. "And that is your idea of my hospitality," she exclaimed, "to let you go away like that? The morning train is the earliest one you can escape on, and if I am not good enough company for you this evening, you can go and call on Abby Miles."

What a surprised and glad old lady Aunt Susan was when the two stepped off the train.

"Don't mind me, Aunt Susan," Frank said with easy familiarity. "I am not a visitor, I am a big brother escorting a lone sister home."

How kindly that wrinkled face beamed on him behind her spectacles while he insisted that she stand by and let him unharness and see to the horse as she directed. And how willingly he carried baskets of wood in and started the parlor fire.

"I did not know you could make yourself so useful," Alice observed.

When supper was over he asked her all manner of questions about her school, when she meant to open it again, how the old miller was, what had become of the boat, how the mill pond looked in winter, and had she been there since the day she gathered lilies. "Always back to that spot," she thought.

When he asked her to sing "The Last Rose of Summer" she exclaimed with a pretty pout: "I do not want to sing that. It reminds me how scared I was when I sang it last."

"But you brought tears into most of our eyes that night."

"Do you want to weep again?" she asked archly, looking up at him and smiling. "If you say you do, I will sing it."

TRAINING FOR MOTHERS.

Dr. Paul de Vuyt, on Teaching of Children in the Home.

Dr. Paul de Vuyt, Inspector of Agricultural Education in Belgium, called on Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, at Toronto recently. Dr. Vuyt is on his way home from St. Louis, where he was one of the judges at the Exhibition, and his visit in Toronto was for the purpose of endeavoring to persuade the Ontario Government to send a representative to the First International Congress on Child Study, Home Education and Protection of Children, to be held at the Universal Exposition of Liège, Belgium, in September, 1905. All persons interested in the education of children are invited to be present at the Congress, the secretary of which is M. Pieu of Brussels.

Dr. Vuyt states that the agricultural colleges in Canada and the United States are in advance of the European colleges, but we have a great deal to learn yet on this continent in regard to the primary and secondary education of boys and girls along agricultural lines—that is to say, preparatory agricultural education in the public and high schools.

There is one feature of educational work that is regarded of the greatest importance in Belgium, for which he could find no counterpart at all on this side of the Atlantic—the training of girls, with a view to preparing them for the responsibilities of motherhood. Dr. Vuyt strongly argues that the education of children should not all be left to the school, they must receive a good deal of instruction in the home if they are to be properly fitted for the battle of life. He does not find included in the American educational scheme any provision for helping the mother of a family to give her children the necessary home training. "There are a great many more mothers than there are teachers," remarked Dr. Vuyt, "and a great deal in the way of teaching can be and should be done in the home. In Belgium we give instruction to the girls in the public and high schools that will be of assistance to them as the mothers of the future. We point out to them how they may direct the child's studies at home. We consider this of very great importance. We have been carrying it on for a good many years, and the results have been very satisfactory."

Dr. Vuyt also had an interview with Deputy Minister of Education Miller.

LIVING TOO HASTILY CANADIAN WOMEN BREAK DOWN

Irregularities and Female Derangements—Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Living too hastily and the nervous haste of every woman to accomplish just so much each day, it is said that there is not one woman in twenty-five but what suffers with some derangement of the female organism, and this is the secret of so many unhappy homes. No woman can be amiable, light-hearted and happy, a joy to her husband and children, and perform the duties incumbent upon her, when she is suffering with backache, headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, bearing-down pains, displacement of the womb, spinal weakness or ovarian troubles. Irritability and snappy retorts take the place of pleasantness, and all sunshine is driven out of the home, and lives are wrecked by woman's great enemy—womb trouble.

Read this letter: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

I suffered for four years with what the doctors called inflammation of the fallopian tubes, which is a most distressing female disease, undermining the constitution and sapping the life force. If you had seen me a year ago when I had begun taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and had noticed the sunken eyes, sallow complexion and general emaciated condition, and compared that person with me as I am to-day, robust, hearty and well, you would not wonder that I feel thankful to you and your wonderful medicine which restored me to new life and health in five months. My friends all marvel at the change it has made in me, but none can appreciate it better than I can myself. Miss Irene Haggood, 1025 Sandwith St., Windsor, Ont.

At the first indication of ill health, such as painful or irregular menstruation, secure at once a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begin its use.

TROUT Mezzowork.

The undersigned have received from Mr. Nash of Maine the agency for New Brunswick for his famous trout mezzowork. A trout mezzowork is one half the fish so mounted upon a convex elliptical panel as to stand the fish out in bold relief, giving the effect of an oil painting or whole mounted fish, with the real thing to show for your prowess. The process of preserving fish in this artistic way was discovered by Mr. Nash in 1900, and patented by him.

Red Rose Tea

Because of Its Flavor.

Why do you buy certain varieties of fruit and vegetables? Is it not because you like the flavor of some better than others?

Flavor is the special quality which stamps one brand of food product as superior to another, and is the quality that always commands the highest price.

The delicate, fragrant flavor of Red Rose Tea is the result of scientific study and methods on the tea plantations, and in the tea testing and blending rooms.

It has what might be called a fruity taste—a rich, ripe flavor that is very pleasing to the palate—a taste you won't forget.

The Blue Label is recommended.

Two Royal
weddings

London, May 20.—The royal family is now busily preparing for the wedding of Princess Margaret of Connaught and Prince Oscar of Sweden and Norway, on July 6. The popularity of the couple will serve to make the wedding one of the most notable in a decade.

The Princess is now engaged daily in learning the language of her fiancé under the direction of Mr. Oesterberg, master of the New Elementary School, Stockholm, who arrived from Sweden about a month ago to take up his tutorial duties at Clarence House. She takes her lessons from 9 till 11 every morning, displaying great interest in her studies, and her progress in the language is accelerated by her knowledge of German.

After the wedding the royal pair will take up their residence for a few weeks at Sofiero (Sofia's Rest), a castle named after the Queen of Sweden and situated near Helsingfors, in Southern Sweden. Subsequently their permanent residence will be in Christiania.

This arrangement owes its importance to the fact that it is the first instance of a royal prince having a permanent residence in Norway, and it is hoped that the presence of the heir to the dual throne in their midst may bring the Norwegians to a closer allegiance than they are at present inclined to pay to their sister kingdom.

Berlin May 20.—The entertainment in celebration of the wedding of Crown Prince Frederick William and the Duchess Cecelia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, will last four days, beginning on Saturday, June 3. The bride and her family arrive here from Schwerin, and take up their residence in the Bellevue Palace.

The Duchess will be received at the Brandenburg gate by the chief burgomaster and the city fathers, by the one hundred young women of known families, who have been drawn by lot from several hundred candidates, and who will present flowers to their future empress. The girls will be dressed alike in Gretchen costumes with their hair in braids down the back.

Beside the Crown Prince and his bride will ride of right the butchers, postman and deputations from other trades and occupations, according to immemorial custom. Those chosen to form the cavalcade are now in training at the garrison riding schools.

Practical Suggestions For The Improvement of The Farm.

THE DISEASES OF POULTRY.

Some Common Troubles. Prevention and Treatment.

The Poultry Division, Ottawa, points out that the treatment of poultry diseases should seldom concern the farmer. If the healthiest and most vigorous fowls are kept breeding, if the chickens are reared under satisfactory conditions, fed on wholesome food and not overcrowded, there will rarely be disease amongst them. When disease does appear, it will usually be found more satisfactory to kill and bury the sick birds than to undertake to treat them. Some of the commonest poultry diseases are catarrh, roup, gapes and leg weakness.

CATARRH—Catarrh in poultry closely resembles the common "cold" in the head of man. It is accompanied by sneezing, difficult breathing and watery discharge from the nostrils, and is apt to develop into roup. Among the causes are lack of ventilation, draughts, dampness, exposure and improper care and feeding. The prevention and treatment are much the same as for roup.

ROUP.—The following are some of the symptoms of various stages of this infectious: puffed or swollen eyelids, watery discharge from the eyes and nose; eyes swollen and closed by offensive cheesy matter; thick gelatinous discharge from the eyes and nose; frothy mucus in the mouth and throat, throat covered with cheesy matter.

In the early stages of the disease the inflammation can be reduced by bathing the eyes and face of the fowl with a mixture composed of equal parts of sweet oil and whiskey. The fowl should be removed from the flock and fed on soft food. If the disease has reached the offensive stage the fowl should be killed, and the house disinfected with sulphur fumes or a three per cent solution of creolin to prevent the spread of the disease. If it is desired to save a valuable bird, it is a good idea to loosen the discharge in the nostrils and eyes, and immerse the head for 20 or 30 seconds in a one to two per cent solution of permanganate of potash. The treatment should be given twice daily until all symptoms have disappeared. Roup is most prevalent in draughty, overcrowded and dirty poultry houses. The inside of the house should be well cleaned, and the ventilation and lighting so arranged that the house will be perfectly dry and free from draughts.

GAPES.—This disease usually affects only young birds, and as its name indicates is characterised by the chick gaping—opening its mouth at frequent intervals to get breath. As the disease proceeds the breathing becomes very labored. Gapes result from the presence of worms in the windpipe. The windpipe becomes inflamed, and this, together with the worms, is apt to cause suffocation of the chicken. When the inflammation extends to the lungs, death usually ensues.

The worms may be removed by the fumes of sulphur or coal tar, or by dropping one or two drops of spirits of turpentine or salicylate of soda into the windpipe. A fumigator can be made from an old barrel. The ends of the barrel should be removed, and the chickens to be treated placed on a grating inside the barrel. The top of the barrel may be covered with an old sack, and a plate of burning sulphur placed on the ground inside the barrel.

Instead of using sulphur, the inside of the barrel may be painted with a mixture of coal tar and coal oil, of the same consistency as paint. The chickens should be watched while under treatment, and removed as soon as they show signs of being overcome by the fumes. Three treatments usually suffice; they are given night and morning. The worms are killed, lose their hold upon the internal surface of the windpipe, and the chickens cough them up.

Chicken contract the disease when allowed to run on ground which has been infested with the gape worm; the worms are conveyed from one bird to another through the medium of food and drink. When the worms have been destroyed by fumigation, it is advisable to remove the chickens to dry, uncontaminated ground, or if this is impossible, to plough or dig up the earth about the pens and to scatter air-slaked lime around. The disease is rarely present among chickens on well-drained soil, and away from the dampness about the farm buildings.

LEG-WEAKNESS.—Leg weakness is found among chicks that are housed in badly constructed brooders, overfed with unsuitable food, or not allowed sufficient exercise on an earth floor. Chicks that are affected should be placed on ground that is covered with chaff, and animal food and small grains made the principal part of their ration.

In conclusion it may be said that at least one-half the cases of diseases in poultry are due directly or indirectly to lice and other parasites. Chickens that have had their vitality sapped by vermin fall an easy prey to diseases like catarrh and roup. There is not likely to be much profit from a flock of poultry unless it is housed in clean and comfortable quarters and kept free from lice and mites.

Back was so bad with kidney disease—Cured by three boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

MR. SOLOMON POIRIER, Caplin River, Bonaventure Co., Que., writes: "For two years I suffered a great deal from pains in the back and kidney disease. I tried many remedies, but with little benefit. Last fall I was so bad with backache and kidney pains that I could not lace my own boots. I read about Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, I sent for five boxes, and had only used three of these boxes when I was completely cured. My wife has also used these pills for constipation, and has found them perfectly satisfactory. I am glad of this opportunity of making known to the public the great benefits I have obtained from Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cts. a box, at all dealers, or Edman, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box."
