PROSPECTUS

OF THE CONGRESSIONAL GLOSE AND APPENDIX

AROM the experiment we have made it is reall certained that the patronage of the country will support our annual gublication of the proceeding and speeches made in Congress. We therefore propose to prosecute the design and confidently hope to improve and perfect it.

In giving, from week'to week, a succinet sad clear report of the proceedings of both branches of, Congress—a brief and condenced report of the substance of the remarks of each speaker, using the precise words upon the main points nuched—the yeas and nays on all important questies, and concluding the voluma, after the adjournment, with on index for reference, a great deal was done towards giving an accurate parliamentary history of the proceedings of one of the greatest and ablest representatives in the world; an assembly on the deliberations of which the destinies of the free neastitutions of this country depend for their maintenance; and, therefore, in some degree, freedom throughout the world. Our original plan extended no further than this epitome of the debates, with the proceedings; but at the last session we added an Appendix, to contain all the fully reported speeches, as prepared by the speakers timselves for pubtication. This gatended the work from a singlevolume of M2 royal quarto pages, to two volumes, making, together, 1154 royal quarto pages. These we have furnished to subscribers at the price of our dollar for each volume, norm or strucks to be furmashed, through the wait, as they fall from the press in sheets, and chargeable only with newspaper postage, varying from a cent to's cent and a half a in shoots, and chargeable only with newspaper rost age, varying from a cent to a cent and a half a
