MRS. STERNAMAN AGAIN. Buffalo, June 6.—The jury in the case of Olive Sternaman against the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company have disagreed. Mrs. Sternaman was tried twice in Canada on the charge of murdering her husband. She was convicted on the first trial and sentenced to be hanged, but was granted a new trial on the night before the date set for the execution. Her second trial resulted in acquittal. Her suit against the insurance company to recover $1,000 on a policy on her husband's life, has been in the courts for several months. It was once carried to the court of It was tried again before Justice Lambert this week, the jury being unable to agree. The company claimed that Sternaman deceived the agent who gave him insurance.

PREMIER SALISBURY'S PRAISE

Extraordinary Difficulties Were Met With Marvelous Courage-Boers Own to Complete Defeat.

Not long ago many people in Europe thought that the time of the downfall of the British Empire had arrived. But the colonial troops came brilliantly to Great Britain's assistance, and the more Great Britain's difficulties increased, the more colonial loyalty had manifested itself in aiding the empire to defy the hostility and bitterness of all its opponents. Great Britain had the assistance of a force which a few years ago

WAS NOT DREAMED OF, and that was the subject of exultation in England. It was shown that when the country was denuded of troops her naval supremacy was sufficient to protect her, and Great Britain was never safer than during that period of the

NINE CONDUCTORS

Spotted by Pinkertons and

CAR FARE-BOXES WERE RIFLED

Most Sensational Case That Has Developed in Toronto for

Some Time.

Toronto, June 6 .- Pinkerton detectives have been in Toronto for nearly three months, and the result of their work came to light last evening in the arrest of nine street car conductors, charged with theft from the Toronto Railway Company, and two other men accused of receiving. The arrests were. made simultaneously around 6 p.m., so that warning could not reach any of them. SIMPLE DEVICE TO TAP BOXES. The street railway company has for some time been aware that employed have been sharing the contents of the fare boxes by means of an ingenious contrivance made of spring metal, which, inserted in the slot of the farebox, opens the springs of the box and allows the contents to drop out. At the home of Conductor James Widdington, one of the conductors arrested by Detective Verney, a large piece of spring metal was found, from which it is believed the machines were made. The device is simply made. A strip of metal about eight inches long and the right width to go through the slot of a fare-box, being all that is used. One end, to the depth of two or three inches, is doubled over a lead pencil, thus forming a spring. Pressed together, the ends go into the slot and the shorter end is secured by springs of the box. With the box held upside down, the contents pass down the longer end out of the slot into the rounded portion formed over the pencil and into the conductor's hand. When not in use the ends of the spring are kept together by a clasp, which makes it fit nicely a hatband, and that was where most of them were found on the conductors arrested last night. SEEN TO THROW MACHINE AWAY Detective Davis made the first arrest near the corner of Front and Church streets. He saw Conductor Harvey W. Rumman throw something away. The detective at once jumped on to the car, pulled the conductor off, went back and picked up one of the springs described of which the conductor had relieved himself. The capture of the others soon followed. Two men were arrested who are not in the employ of the road, but they are accused of having received the proceeds of the thefts and of having turned the stolen tickets into money. The regular selling price of these tickets s said to have been at the rate of 40 for $1. THE ARRESTED ONES. The men gave their names and addresses as follows: John Kane, Ocean House, 1,641 Queen

SCHEME FOR FAST OCEAN SERVICE

Arrangements Said to Have Been Completed.

GOVERNMENT SUBSIDIES SURE

New Combination Approved by the Colonial Office The Cunarders Are In It.

Liverpool, June 6.-The report is fully confirmed that the Cunard Steamship Company has commenced the formation of a British shipping combination. The Beaver Line, of which Sir Alfred L. Jones is the head, will join forces with the Cunard Line.

Sir Alfred is the most energetic organizer of British shipping. He is the head of the Elder-Dempster Line, and the initiator of the present line of steamers to the British West Indies. The Allan Line will support the new combination, which meets with the warm approval of the colonial office. The objects of the scheme are twofold, firstly to meet the Morgan combination on American ground, and secondly, to arrange a new and fast service to Canada, which will be largely subsidized by both the British and Canadian Governments, but nothing will be done regarding the subsidy question until the meeting of the colonial premiers on the occasion of the FIGHT FOR FREIGHT. The leaders of the new scheme say they recognize that the fight for freight will be severe. The British combination will not be hampered so much by Mr. Morgan's control of the American railways as by the fact that the principal freight steamers are in the hands of its opponents. It is de-nied that Mr. Morgan offered the Cunards £11,000,000 for the company. The offers did not approach that figure. A Hamburg correspondent telegraphs that shipping men there believe that the Cunard Company will come to a working arrangement with the Union and Castle Lines in order to secure a monopoly of the African trade, and that the result will be the establish-ment of new lines from the United States to Africa. MR. TARTE FAVORS IT. Montreal, June 4.-Mr. Tarte is strongly of the opinion that Canada should act on the matter of a fast Atlantic line, and in an interview on the subject the minister of public works

"I feel very strongly that we should have such a line, not only a fast line for passengers, but a fleet of freight carriers as well. any definite plan in view. It is for the business men of this country to wake up and do something. 'My idea would be to have Quebec the summer terminus of a fast line, with Halifax the winter terminus for passengers, and St. John, N. B., for freight. The reason for this is obvious. The C. P. R. must be depended up almost exclusively to supply the trade for the winter port, and their own line runs only to St. John, so that the Canadian line should furnish it

It is said that the plans are sufficiently far advanced to enable the company to be floated in a couple of weeks. Lord Strathcona, the Canadian high commissioner, was interviewed today and denied the allegation that he is actively associated with any such project, though he would not say that the negotiations were not on foot with Furness. Canada and Imperial Defense.

As expected, there was a distinct cleavage of opinion over the defense question at the conference of the Canadian Boards of Trade yesterday. The Montreal Board of Trade presented a resolution, declaring it to be the duty of the Dominion to share in the general defense of the Empire, and urging that an annual sum be set apart for this purpose, to be expended as the Dominion Government might direct. The French-Canadian Chambers of Commerce hold that Canada should not further burden her budget under the present circumstances, in view of the expense and sacrifices she had been put to in the building of the Intercolonial and Canadian Pacific Railways, the Esquimalt fortifications, the development of her inland navigation, her preferential trade policy and her contributions in men and gold to the recent war, notwithstanding which the Imperial Government had imposed a duty on cereals and foodstuffs without excepting the colonies. The Peterboro Board of Trade introduced a resolution almost identical with that of the French commercial bodies, reciting that although Canada would make common cause with the mother country in time of need, it was not now necessary to pledge herself to military and naval expenditures which might cripple her course of development. It sums in the construction of trans-continental railways, which were available for military purposes.

Resolutions were also moved, declaring that Canada's duty should be to territory. It is on this line that a without corroborative evidence, compromise should be reached. The swear away a decent Liberal's reputa-Dominion Government has assented to this policy by introducing a measure for the increase of the militia force to 100,000 men and the promotion of rifle practice. As the Dominion grows and develops she will be able to assume new obligations, such as the protection of her coasts and the maintenance of naval bases. Before a great many years it is to be hoped Canada will have a proud ocean marine, and it be incumbent upon her to enter upon naval expenditures. At present, she can best serve the interests of the Empire by strengthening her own position, by filling up her vacant lands, adding to her wealth and population, improving her transportation system, and putting all her energies into her at 'fair.' The revenues of the country which the colonies will contribute, it must come in the natural evolution of events, step by step. Any attempt to fear in many minds that colonial autonomy is in peril.

The Street Car Service.

The City Council should think twice before abandoning the Rectory street It would be a special injustice to the residents of the southeastern part of the city as they would be unable to reach the eastern or northeastern sections by street car except by making a long detour west as far as Richmond street. This inconvenience would not be remedied by the Street Railway Company's alternative proposal of a line on South street, though such a line would be a pecuniary benefit to a few large owners of vacant land in that neighborhood. The city is now entitled to two additional miles of Btreet railway track, and the company has no legal right to ask the tearing up of Rectory street, or any change of Toutes, as a condition of granting the extra mileage.

Rectory street is the only crosstown line east of Richmond street, where the bulk of the population lies. The present service from the northeastern to the eastern and southeastern portions of the city is roundabout and inconvenient enough at present without making it worse. The City Council should not only refuse to abandon the Rectory street service, but should demand its improvement.

The Tools of Monopoly.

Mr. J. R. Shuttleworth's letter in last night's Advertiser calls attention nnew to the Council's attempt to confirm the London Electric Company in a monopoly of the distribution of electrical power in the city. Mr. Shuttleworth is one of a number of manufacturers who have made contracts with the Sifton Company, but find themselves deprived of the opportunity of getting cheap power because that firm is prohibited from stringing wires across the street. The Council is taking the most direct course to discourage manufacturing enterprise In the city. Cheap motive power is one of the greatest inducements a city can hold out to manufacturers. No one can blame the London Electric Company for seeking to promote its own ends-it is only doing what any other business concern would do under the circumstances. The culpability rests with the aldermen who have become the tools of monopoly, and have dealt a blow at the manufacturing interests of the city.

Mark Twain Takes Dinner With His Early Beloved

Hannibal, Mo., June 6 .- Mark Twain took dinner one day last week with his first sweetheart. They made "goo-goo eyes" at each other in 1850. Mrs. Laura Fraser is the woman. Mark's first sweetheart, who is supposed to be the original of Becky Thatcher in "Tom Sawyer," is now a matronly lady, whose memory is clear concerning those early times. "We lived right across the street from the Clemens family," said she, "and I saw Sam, as he was known to us then, nearly every day. Yes, as children we were attached to one another. I remember the last time I saw him. It was just before we parted for the last time; we were skating on Bear Creek, and I can distinctly recall that I had trouble in getting on one of my skates and Sam performed the service beautifully for When I was married he sent me a wedding card addressed "To My First Sweetheart, Whom I Knew 29 Years."

Last week Mark Twain met Mrs. Fraser at dinner at the home of Mrs. John H. Garth, and the talk reverted to the incidents and friends of their youth. In the afternoon Mark visited Mrs. Fraser at the Home for the Friendless, of which she is the matron.

REAL CAUSE OF THEIR GROWTH

Prevention of Trusts-Value of Oriental Trade.

Chicago, June 6 .- One of the largest and most enthusiastic gatherings ever assembled in the large banquet hall of the Auditorium was present Wednesday night at a dinner of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. James J. Hill, president of the Great Northern Home at Ottawa were registered, and Railway Company, was the orator of everyone so registered voted, although the occasion, and he closely held the attention of the 400 guests. His subject was "Commercial Expansion," the banquet being in the nature of a celebration of the prosperity pointed to by the organization, as a result of expansion policy. Mr. Hill said in part:

"The development of commerce is the effort by a country to find a market for its own productions, or to sup ply itself with material for its necessities, or to further increase its means of commercial expansion. The commercial expansion of a nation is the best index of its growth.

VALUE OF ORIENTAL TRADE. "While railways have to answer for many mistakes of judgment or of intent, on the whole the result has been to create the most effective, useful, and by far the cheapest system of land transportation in the world.

"The value of the Oriental trade runs back to the very dawn of history. Early in the nineteenth century Great Britain took possession of the trade and has retained it to the present time, for the reason that she furnished the lowest rates of transportation to and from those countries. We are now preparing to challenge her for such share of this business as can be furnished by the manufactures of "We have enjoyed all the benefits of a protective tariff for many years, and whatever good it can do in the way of building up infant industries has already been accomplished. The growth of our enormous iron and steel

"In a country as large as ours, carrying on enormous undertakings, large amounts of capital are necessary, and this capital can be more readily furnished by corporative ownership than in any other way. The only serious objections to so-called trusts has been the method of creating them-not for the purpose of manufacturing any particular commodity in the first place but for the purpose of selling sheaves of printed securities, which represent nothing more than good will and prospective profit to the promoters.

A REMEDY FOR TRUSTS. "If it is the desire of the general government, through congress, to prevent the growth of such corporations, it has always seemed to me that a simple remedy was within their reach. Under the ronstitutional provision allowing congress to regulate commerce between the states, all companies desiring to transact business outside of the state in which they are incorporated, should be held to a uniform provision of federal law. They should satisfy a com mission that their capital stock was actually paid up in cash or in property, at a fair valuation, just as the capital of a national bank is certified to be paid up. With that simple law the temptation to make companies for the purpose of selling prospective profits would be at an end, and at the same time no legimate business would

"The survival of the fittest is the universal law of nature in every branch, and in its working it is eternal. Let us, therefore, leave well enough alone. That which is good, let us keep, and that which can be made better, let us approach with intelligence and work together for the accomplishment of results that will benefit, not only one, but all the various states of the country, and in that way secure the prosperity of the individual and separate interests as well.'

WERE WEDDED AT TORONTO

Marriage of Miss Ina Winnett and Mr. A. C. Caldwell.

A Ceremony in Which Many Londoners Are Interested.

The following account of a wedding in which many Londoners are interested appears in the Toronto Mail and Empire of yesterday:

"A pretty house wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Mr. Henry Winnett, 198 Beverley street, when his third daughter, Ina Gordon, was married to Mr. A. Clyde Caldwell, of Ottawa, eldest son of W . Caldwell, M.P.P., of Lanark. The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her away. Her two sisters, Miss Martha Winnett and Miss Ella Winnett, were bridesmaids. The bridal gown was of handsome ivory satin Duchesse, with corsage handsomely embroidered with seed pearls and Brussels point lace applique, the veil also eing bordered with seed pearls, and fastened with a diamond crescent, the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and orchids. The bridesmaids wore white silk organdie mounted on taffeta, and carried blue forget-me-nots and wreaths of the same flowers in their hair. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. James B. Caldwell, and Mr. Grand E. Hardie, lieutenant in the 23rd Bombay Rifles, India, was usher. Music was supplied by D'Alesandro's orchestra before and after the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Dr. Milligan, assisted by Rev. Robert Clements, of Courtlandt, N. Y., brother-in-law of the bride. The ceremony was witnessed by about 50 relatives of the bride

Among those in attendance from London were Mrs. J. H. Moran and daughter Lillie and Miss Edith Cox.

A few days ago a stranger wanted Thorn to buy the exclusive right to a wagon brake, but the farmer refused. Later another stranger offered Thorn a big sum for the patent right, saying he understood he owned it. Thorn came to this city, hunted up stranger No. 1 and bought the right to the patent for $4,400. The men have disappeared with the money.

A MAGIC PILL.-Dyspepsia is a foe with which men are constantly grappling but cannot exterminate. Subdued, and to all appearances vanquished in one, it makes its appearance in another direction. In many the digestive apparatus is as delicate as the mechanism of a watch or scientific instrument, in which even a breath of air will make a variation. With such persons disorders of the stomach ensue from the most trivial causes and cause much suffering. To these Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are recommended as mild and sure. but cannot exterminate. MEANS TO INSURE BETTER BUSINESS

And Canadian Commercial Agents in the World's Big Cities-The Matter of Imperial Defense.

A CANADIAN COMMERCIAL AGENT.

Toronto, June 5 .- The conference of Canadian Boards of Trade resumed work this morning, the first resolution being that of T. V. Roy, Montreal Chambre de Commerce, in favor of the appointment of a Canadian commercial agent in the chief cities of the old and new worlds. Mr. Roy said Canada had only thirteen agents abroad, seven of them being emigration agents. Canada should have power to inaugurate a system corresponding to the consuls of other nations. S. T. Duclos, of Hyacinthe, seconded, and J. X. Perrault, Gaspe, told of the great value of the United States of their 300 consular agents abroad, most of whom served without salary. Robert Munro, Montreal, objected to commercial agents serving without salary. Mr. Saunders, Goderich, also urged that good salaries be paid to competent men.

The resolution was adopted unanimously. FOR A FAST STEAMSHIP LINE. G. S. Campbell, Halifax, moved a resolution that, as the commercial su-premacy of Great Britain might be unfavorably affected by the American Steamship Trust, it was the duty of Canada to assist in retaining for Great Britain this maritime supremacy, that in the C. P. R. Canada possesses one trans-continental line, while another now under construction will also connect the Atlantic and Pacific, and that in the trade contest between Great Britain and foreign countries efficient steamship services on the Atlantic and Pacific is of urgent importance. establishment of a fast Atlantic line from Canada to Great Britain would increase trade and bind the different parts of the empire more closely together. The resolution further prorided that the enterprise should be under control of the Dominion Government, and that speed should be the first consideration in selecting ports of call and terminal ports.

J. D. DeWolf, Montreal, seconded the resolution, and at his suggestion an addition was made calling for a government subsidy of adequate dimensions. The Montreal delegates urged that the resolution have precedence, and agreed to support the Halifax one afterwards.

Accordingly the Halifax resolution was withdrawn for the time, and one passed, on motion of Jas. Thorn, urging that at the coming imperial conshould impress on the gathering the importance of the mother country and the colonies securing by subsidy or otherwise, fast lines of steamships beween the United Kingdom and her possessions, and between the colonies themselves.

THE QUESTION OF DEFENSE. The conference began to debate the lifficult question of Canada's contribution to the defense of the empire at this afternoon's session. The leading French-Canadian commercial bodies had given notice of resolutions in almost identical terms, the Montreal Chambre de Commerce leading off, which recited "the expense and sacrifices that Canada has been put to in the building of the Intercolonial and Canadian Pacific Railways, the Esquimalt fortifications, the development of her inland navigation, her preferential trade policy, her contributions in men and gold to the recent war, and that, notwithstanding all this the Imperial Government has seen fit to impose a duty on cereals and foodstuffs without even excepting those of the British colonies." The resolutions therefore declare "that Canada has done her part, and that she cannot, under the present circumstances, further burden her budget."

The resolution of the Montreal Board of Trade, "That in the opinion of the conference it was the duty of the Dominion, as an important division of the empire, to share in the cost of the general defense of the empire, and, therefore, that an annual appropriation should be provided in the Dominion budget for this purpose,

Students who take Ferrozone regularly, find i not only clears the brain, and make it more receptive, but makes the strong in body as well as mind. A medical student of Toronto Un versity, who has proved the good qual ties of Ferrozone, says: "On my stud table there is always a place for Ferre zone. I find by keeping my digestic in perfect order, and mantaining splendid appetite, it enables me to a complish a great deal of hard wor. I consider Ferrozone at the same tin food for the brain, the blood and the nerves, and can highly recommend Very few are so strong and healthy that a course of Ferrozone would not benefit. It is good for the young and old alike, and is prepared in conven-to be expended as the Dominion Government may direct," had precedence over the Chambre de Commerce one, and A. McFee in moving it made strong plea for a contribution to im-perial defense.

DIVERGENT VIEWS. The first opposition came from D. W. Dumble, of the Peterboro Board of Trade, who, on its behalf, moved an amendment, "That Canada, having expended in the construction of trans-continental railways vast sums of money, these railways being available for military purposes of the empire, and having in the past done her part in self-defense, and having in South Africa manifested her loyalty by the contribution of men and money, it may be assumed that she can be relied up on by the mother country not only to maintain an efficient military force at home for self-defense, but that she wil make common cause with the mother country in time of need, and it is not now necessary, in view of her undoubted condition, to pledge herself to ex-penditures for military and naval purposes which might cripple her in her course of development.

The discussion on the issue thus clearly set out was vigorously continued. S. Evans, of Winnipeg, moved in amendment to the amendment that the policy of Canada should be to provide for the defense of its own interests. and that as an additional step towards that end immediate consideration should be given to a plan of naval and

Toronto, said if given an opportunity he would move a reso-lution that would meet the approval of those even who were not prepared to go beyond our own shores, solved, that in the opinion of this con-ference the time has arrived when Canada must assume the responsibility of the defense of her territory, and her great commercial interests, and thereby contribute to the defense of the empire.'

The subject was still under debate when the conference adjourned till to-

THE MONTREAL RESOLUTION. Following is the text of the resoluion of the Montreal board which was adopted at the first session of the con-

"Whereas, the Imperial Government has changed its fiscal policy by imposing a duty upon certain imports. "Whereas, in the resolution adopted by the London Congress of Chambers of Commercine of the Empire, held in June, 1900, it was stated that an advantageous commercial bond is one of the strongest links in the national unity, and that the maintenance and strengthening of trade is the key-stone of a nation's successful development;

"Whereas, it is the opinion of this Conference of Boards of Trade of the Dominion that it is imperative in the interests of the empire that some practical steps should be taken towards consummating such an arrangement; 'Whereas, the British colonies are admittedly rich in natural resources, possessing as they do vast areas of arable and mineral lands as yet undeveloped, and these colonies are even now producing, in rapidly increasing quantities, grain, flour, cheese, butter, live stock, as well as the yield of the fisheries, forests and mines, all of which are continually required by the British consumer: "Resolved, that this conference is of opinion that Great Britain can serve best the interests of the empire by giving the products of her colonies a preference in her markets as against the products of foreign countries, it being believed that such preference would stimulate trade and develop colonial enterpriss, and, moreover, serve to make the colonies attractive only to the large number of British subjects emigrating annually from the British Isles, but also to the surplus population of other countries, and at the same time benefit Great Britain by largely freeing her from dependent upon foreign countries for her food supplies. "Resolved, that the prime minister of Canada be requested to urge at the imperial conference the securing of a royal commission, composed of representatives of Great Britain and the colonies, to investigate conditions and to suggest such preferential treatment of imports from the various parts of the empire as shall be most calculated to insure the fullest benefits.'

Drink Grano Cereal Coffee

HE fact that so many lawyers, writers, preachers and thinkers are devoted to coffee has caused it to be called "the intellectual beverage." Coffee of high grade is unquestionably a great stimulant to brain-workers, and Chase & Sanborn's Coffee is especially valuable. If you would be a brilliant thinker, drink it. A pound of such coffee is worth two pounds of ordinary coffee! Why not give it a trial the next time you buy coffee?

CANCER GERMS KILLED

A New Constitutional Treatmen That Destroys the Germs of Cancer Without Doing Injury to the Patient.

German and French scientists have demonstrated that Cancer is due to a special germ or microbe in the blood. This being so, the folly of operations at once becomes apparent, as by this means, only the outward manifestations of the disease is removed, and its true cause and origin is not reached. That is why cancers generally return after operations. The germ is left in the system to do its deadly work. Our new constitutional treatment attacks and destroys the Cancer germ and removes the cancer poisons, which it has elaborated, completely from the system. That is how it is the cures our remedy makes are always permanent. We have cases on records that have been cured six, eight and ten years, and there has never been any indication of the disease returning. Write at once, inclosing two stamps and get full particulars of this pleasant and effectual home treatment. A. STOTT & JURY, BOWMANVILLE, War Office Cables Congratulations to General Kitchener and the Army.

WILL WIN BOERS' LOYALTY. London, June 6.-In a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Pretoria, Bennett Burleigh, the correspondent, expresses the opinion that if the British authorities display tact and forbearance, the reconciliation of the Boers will not prove difficult.

"Lord Kitchener's admirable conduct of the negotiations," says Mr. Burleigh, "has done much to create and encourage a spirit of mutual trust and friendliness. I have talked with many Boer leaders, including Gens. Botha and Dewet. They assured me that they had submitted in good faith, and that with tolerant administration. Great Britain could hereafter depend upon the loyalty and fidelity of the Boers."

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE ARMY.

The war office has cabled congratuconfine the flames to the main build- lations to Lord Kitchener on the energy, skill and patience with which he conducted the long campaign in South Africa, and has asked him to communicate to the troops the government's profound sense of their spirit of endurance, bravery and discipline, and also of their humanity, shown throughout the trying period.

Lord Kitchener replied, on behalf of the army in South Africa, tendering its sincere thanks for the congratulations of the government, which, he was sure, the troops would receive with great satisfaction.

"What a wonderful year this has been to us all!" Mrs. Remington exclaimed, when he had concluded his narrative. "So eventful—so full of incident and surprise!"

"Hum! so Hal Wellington turns out to be your father, youngster?" Mr. Trowbridge remarked, looking strangely moved for him, for it was rare that he presented anything but the most stoical countenance, even under the most trying circumstances. "Well, we two shavers used to have fine times together. He was always up and coming," the old man went on, musingly; "always knew the best places for chestnuts and shagbarks. Nobody knew where there were so many Nobody knew where there were so many birds' nests and squirrel holes, and everybody was sure to have good luck fishing, if Hal Wellington went along to balt the hooks. More than all that, he saved my life once."

"Is it possible?" Max cried, deeply in-

"Yes; we were out skating-it was the first of the season, and the ice wasn't first of the season, and the ice wasn't very strong. We ventured out too far, and it suddenly gave way beneath us, plunging us both into the water. I was terribly frightened and lost my head enterthing the strong strong the strong st terribly frightened and lost my head entirely; but Hal was as calm as a clock. He untied the tippet that was around his neck, threw one end to me, as I clung frantically to the ice, and took the other firmly between his teeth, while he called out, cheerily, 'Hold on, Joe, for a little, and I'll pull you out.' Then he found a place where the ice was thickest, cautiously threw out one leg over the edge, place where the ice was thickest, cauti-ously threw out one leg over the edge, and finding that it would hold, crawled back to a safe spot, then carefully pulled me after him and helped me ashore. Bless my crown! it's nearly fifty years since then. How strangely things do turn about in this world!"

The next morning they all drove to the hotel to call upon Mr. Wellington. They found him sitting up and looking much brighter than when Max had seen him the previous day, in spite of the exciting interview through which he had passed.

They spent nearly two hours with him, and Mr. Wellington was evidently much pleased with Agnes as a daughter-in-law elect, for his eyes often dwelt, with a look of undisguised admiration and satisfaction, upon her sweet face.

Max and Mrs. Remington had had a private discussion before starting out, and had decided that Mr. Wellington ought to come and make his home with them, if he could be persuaded to do so; they had ample room in their new residence, and they felt that the lonely indence, and they felt that the lonely in-valid needed the comforts of a pleasant home. He had his own valet to wait up-on him, and thus would be comparative-ly very little care to anyone else.

When this plan was proposed to Agnes nd Mr. Trowbridge, both assented to it most cordially.

Max adroitly broached the subject to his father during their call, and he appeared to be much pleased with the thoughtfulness that had suggested it. "Yes, I will come," he said, after considering the matter for a while, "after you young people get back from your wedding fourney; perhaps it will be best for me to remain her till then."

But Agnes vetoed this at once. But Agnes vetoed this at once.

"Please, Mr. Weilirgton, come right away." she urged, with her most engaging smile. "These rooms are so gloomy, hemmed in by those high stone wails;
you need the air and sunlight, of which you can have abundance if you will only come home with us. I should go away so much happier to know you were there, and I will coax Max to shorten our trip and get back to look after you as soon as possible."

"No, indeed, you will do no such thing.
I could never consent to that latter pro-

I could never consent to that latter pro-position, my dear." Mr. Wellington re-turned, with an appreciative smile. "I will accept your invitation, since you put it so kindly, but only on the condition that you will not change your plans in the least on my account."

And thus it was decided that he should henceforth form a part of their house-Mr. Trowbridge and his old-time friend—for such Mr. Wellington proved to be—experienced a great deal of pleased to forget the long stretch of time since their early experiences of bird-nest hunting and fishing, as they talked over those bygone days and boyish reminiscences.

Mrs. Remington and Mr. Wellington, too, seemed to be mutually charmed with each other.

The invalid, notwithstanding his weak-rness, showed that he was a polished gen-tleman, and, as they touched upon art, literature and other subjects congenial to both, they were not only entertained themselves, but their conversation was also interesting and instructive to their

When they finally arose to go, Mr. Wellington promised Max that if he would come for him some time the next day, he would go home with him.

Accordingly, about 11 the following morning, Max went to keep the appoint; ment, and was very much gratified to find his father still improving, while he seemed really quite joyful over the prospect of a change of life and home.

"I have a little shopping to do my son. have a little shopping to do, my son.

before you drive me home; will you go with me and give me the benefit of your advice?" he asked, as they were about to enter the carriage.

Max signified his willingness to comply with his request, and then Mr. Welling-ton enlightened him regarding the charof the purchases he wished to gift from her husband's father; shall it be?" he inquired. Max laughed as he answered that that would be a rather difficult matter to decide, since, immediately after Mrs. Remington had issued cards for the mar-riage of her daughter, gifts of every de-scription had begun to pour in upon after Mrs. them at an astonishing rate.

"Never mind; I imagine that we can find something that will be suitable," his father returned.

But, as Max warned him, is was no easy matter to make a selection. He named article after article in the form of plate, household furniture and ornaments but found that he had been forestailed in almost every instance. Then he turn-ed his attention to jewels, and Max told him that Agnes had comparatively few personal ornaments, although among the recents gifts there had been some jewel-

Mr. Wellington finally decided upon pearls, and selected an elegant and com-plete set, comprising necklace, bracelets, brooch and earrings, besides a half-dozen unique little hair ornaments in the form of lilies, and suitable for arranging the veil of a bride. The set was exquisite, and Max wondered what his modest Agnes would say when she received it.

This proved to be the extent of Mr.
Wellington's "shopping," and then they drove directly home, where they found a tempting lunch awaiting them, and as the stranger took the seat assigned him, he remarked while his refined face was all aglow with exceeding happiness that he had not experienced such a feeling of reace and content for more than twenty

The wedding day of Max and Agnes dawned bright and perfect as it is possible for a day in June to be.

Grace Church, where the ceremony was to be performed, had been literally transformed into a temple of roses, for they were everywhere. The gas brackets, all around the walls, were covered with them; they dropped in masses from the magnificent chandelier overhead; the altar was covered, the chancel railing was wreathed with them; such a wealth as there was of them is rarely seen, and of all colors, though white predominated, while they were such a fitting decoration for the time of year and the occasion, and the air was literally heavy with their perfume. The wedding day of Max and Agnes

The Buffalo papers are knocking Jim Parr, the sturdy English wrestler, who has been distinguishing himself in these parts recently. Of course, Parr is a Britisher, and that in itself is a crime in Buffalo. The newspapers in question hint that Parr is digging for the Long Green, regardless of his reputation as an honest wrestler, and the ground upon which they base their accusation is the fact that Parr was thrown recently by Denny Gallagher, whose days as a wrestler have long since passed. As a matter of fact, Gallagher threw Parr fairly. He probably could not repeat the performance, but it is certain that Parr did not lie down in the Bradford match. He is built of other material.

Teams picked from the ranks of the city photographers played ball at Springbank on Wednesday. The Advertiser hasn't had the privilege of seeing the score card, but has, nevertheless, been assured that the game was a great battle. The opposing twirlers had no difficulty in locating the "plate." The batsmen of both sides, however, applied a "hypo solution" to the pitchers' curves, an expedient which caused one of the latter to exclaim: "That 'fixes' me!" The game soon became fast and furious.

"Slide," yelled the coacher. The runner did so, but the event proved he had not exposed his "lens" quickly enough. He was nipped at the second leg of the tripod. Nothing sensational "developed" the next two innings. Suddenly the pitcher who chanced to be doing the work just then, became tired of the monotony, rolled up his sleeve, "exposing" a "well-developed" arm, and made a "shot" at the "plate." Like a "flash" the opposing batsman landed on the ball. There was a terrific crash and the fans "focused" frightened glances of the flying sphere. The outfielder wasn't prepared and the ball rolled out of sight in the grass.

"Can't you 'finder,' " yelled the irate captain as the runner was rapidly circling the legs of the tripod. The agitated outfielder replied in the the captain's instructions until the runner had reached home; which is "a proof" that he was a stupid fellow. Thus was the great game won and lost, and here, for the first time, is "printed" the true record of it.

Within a single inclosure cranks reveled in baseball, a race track, a shoot the chutes, painted green; one merry-go-round with steam power orchestra; the hot sausage and tripe grills; a knock-the-bables-down, some high-diving elk, four bars, one rathskeller and song and dance team. THE CANADIAN DERBY. Buffalo, June 5.-When the bugle calls the horses to the post for the Canadian Derby at Fort Eric next Tuesday afternoon a field of crack-ajacks will parade past the judges' stand and the race will be worth going a long way to see. The field that will go to the post for the Fort Erie classic will likely be the largest in the history of the race and it will exceed all former Derbies in the matter of class.

It will be another meeting between Eastern and Western colts and selecting a winner may be no easy matter. In Caithness, Jack De Mund and Flintlock the East will be well represented and with Alladin, Blenneworth, McChesney, Merriment, Lucien Allpeby, Red Robe, St. Hera, Silk Cord, Dublous, Atonement and Lord Quex to choose from, besides others who, although not now looked upon as probable starters, are likely to go to the post, the field which will represent the West will be a representative one. The fact that both New York and Chicago, as well as Cincinnati, are but tweive hours distant from Buffalo and that a journey of that duration is not likely to injure the chances of a horse has induced many owners, who would not otherwise contemplate shipping their Derby candidates here, to bring them to Fort Erie to run in the Canadian

McCOY'S SWEEPING CHALLENGE. New York, June 4.—Kid McCoy has once more raised his voice throughout the land. His arm is evidently feeling better, for Monday night from his wayside inn, near Saratoga, he issued a proclamation. It is to the effect that he will fight any or all men, size, weight, color or price absolutely no object. He wants to fight, and is evidently looking for work, as he adds that time and place and other conditions make no difference. This blanket challenge has only one little hold-out. McCoy bars Jeffries. Sporting men here consider McCoy's challenge more as a joke than a serious affair, in view of his recent performance.
