THOUSANDS OF MADDENED NEGROES
STORM BIG PHILADELPHIA PLAYHOUSE

Panic in the Heart of the Quaker City Over Drama of the South, Written by a Minister—Police Reserves Have Fierce Battle With Rioters.

Philadelphia, Oct. 23.—Rioting by thousands of negroes was caused last night by a production of the Rev. Thomas Dixon's play, "The Clansman." Before its was ended panic reigned inside the Walnut Street Theater, where the play was on. Car service to the central part of the city was stopped, windows were broken, and scores of blacks were badly beaten up. Several went to hospitals, and a number were arrested.

A committee of ministers called upon Mayor Weaver yesterday to protest against the play and thousands of postal cards were sent to the 60,000 negroes in the negro section, calling upon them to march upon the theater and stop the play by force. Recent lynchings in the south were attributed to it.

By 8 o'clock 3,000 negroes filled the streets, and two squads of reserve police from the city hall had all they could do to protect the theatergoers. It was not long after the curtain went up that a fight began in the gallery, and down into the street came a negro, his head and face streaming with blood.

"Rush the theater," the crowd cried, but just then 100 more police charged on the blacks.

While the trouble was at its height, Director of Public Safety McKenty and Mayor Weaver's chum, Frederick J. Shoyer, pushed through and gained the theater steps. They and three negro ministers, who joined them, managed to quiet the crowd.

After a council meeting had been arranged for today, and announced to the crowd, it began to melt away. It is probable that the press agent will be arrested for inciting a riot. Considerable property was damaged caused by stones, and hardly a handful remained inside to see the play.

RED HAT FOR FARLEY

Another Cardinalate Slated for United States, It Is Said.

New York, Oct. 23.—The Tribune says today that private advices received in this city tend to confirm the report current in ecclesiastical circles for some weeks past that the matter of another cardinalate for the United States has been definitely settled, and that Archbishop Farley will be raised to that dignity at the coming December consistory, along with Mr. Bourne, the Archbishop of Westminster, a German prelate and possibly a Spanish prelate.

St. George Banwell, now serving a sentence of four years, in Kingston Penitentiary for the theft of over $40,000 from the Crown Bank, has been signed by Banwell and Mrs. Banwell, and will be presented to prominent people, some of whom employed Banwell, for their signatures. It will, when completed, be sent to E. R. Grey, Governor-General of Canada.

THE U. P. STORM-SWEEP

No Let-Up to Three Days' Blizzard in Wyoming State.

Denver, Colo., Oct. 23.—Cheyenne, Wyoming, this morning reported that a storm which has continued there for three days without interruption, is raging with increasing fury, accompanied by a heavy fall of snow. The Union Pacific Railway is trying to keep its line open with snowplows, and passenger trains are arriving several hours late. Freight traffic has been abandoned. Telegraph wires are down east of North Platt, Neb., and west to Rawlins, Wyo.

British House Reopens.

London, Oct. 23.—The reassembling of Parliament today drew large crowds to Westminster, despite the fact that the opening of the sessions was devoid of sumptuous ceremony or the appearance of royalty, as this was merely a resumption of the business of the last session.

The formal opening of the House of Commons occurred this afternoon, and before the House of Lords, thus giving the throngs of spectators an opportunity to witness the assembling of both bodies. Ambassador Reid occupied a seat in the diplomatic gallery of the House of Commons, with the French, Russian, Spanish and other ambassadors and ministers. The public galleries were overflowing with visitors. Mr. Balfour, the ex-premier, who it was thought would not be present, unexpectedly appeared and received a hearty greeting from the Opposition ranks.

Joseph Chamberlain was absent. He is still nursing his attack of gout, and chafing under his inability to participate in public affairs.

Premier Campbell-Bannerman was warmly welcomed.

MARITAL MIXUP
AIRED IN COURT

George Bwersdorf Tells His Experience With a Divorced Wife.

Rather a complicated matrimonial mixup was aired at the police court this morning, when George Bwersdorf, who was arrested yesterday by Detectives Nickle and Rider, appeared in the dock on a charge of nonsupport, to which he pleaded not guilty.

It is said that in McKeesport, Pa., Bwersdorf left his legal wife to live with a woman who had quite a wide experience in the matrimonial line, having been married twice. Her first husband died, and she was divorced from her second husband. She then went to live with a man, to whom, it is alleged, she was not married, and finally met Bwersdorf.

The woman with whom Bwersdorf has been living has a family of small children.

The case was adjourned until the afternoon at 4 o'clock, when the decision of the court will be given.

MARLBOROUGH PART?

London Rumor That the Duke and Duchess Have Separated.

London, Oct. 23.—Married with all the pomp New York's society could present, starting in life with a dowry of $3,000,000, Consuelo Vanderbilt, the Duchess of Marlborough, is ready to separate from her husband. Disagreements that cover a period of eighteen months have reached a culmination, and the cause of the disagreements is said to be a young woman guest of the duchess, who received the attentions of Marlborough.

William Vanderbilt, whose marriage to Mrs. Vanderbilt a few years ago dissolved the hopes of Marlborough of ever controlling the Vanderbilt millions, figures in the gossip of the cause of separation. The duke had dreams of entering politics, perhaps becoming viceroy of India, and buying back the estates the family had lost in other years. W. K. Vanderbilt's marriage dispelled these thoughts.

Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, likes country life. When her father refused to countenance the extravagance of the duke, and the latter wanted to dispose of the country seat, Blenheim, the duchess refused to sanction it. She remained there with the two children, the Marquis of Blandford and Lord Ivor Spencer Churchill, while the duke spent weeks and months elsewhere. The children are perhaps the only cause of preventing a separation long ago.

AISLES MUST NOT BE OBSTRUCTED

Manager of Vaudeville Theater in Court—Let Go With a Warning.

Mr. George F. Driscoll, manager of Bennett's Vaudeville Theater, appeared at the police court this morning to answer to a charge of violating a city bylaw, by allowing seats to be placed in the theater aisles. After hearing the evidence, the magistrate found the charge proven, but allowed defendant to go without paying a fine upon his promising not to repeat the offense.

Sgt. McGuire, who was the only witness called, told of visiting Bennett's Vaudeville Theater on the evening of Thanksgiving Day about 9:30 p.m., and finding eight chairs in the aisle on the west side, set close to the regular seats, leaving a small space, about 18 inches, between the chairs and the wall. He then examined the aisle on the east side, and found there about the same number of chairs placed in the same position. The chairs reached back on the west side so far that one chair was opposite the exit. On the steps in the south exit on the west side a lady and a gentleman were sitting, and on the steps of the north exit on the same side two men were sitting. The east side of the aisle was also obstructed. In the rear of the partition, in the passage-way, seventeen persons were standing. This passage, the witness said, was about six feet wide, and he thought that it was not much obstructed by the presence of the seventeen men.

In the gallery, the sergeant found three chairs placed in each of the east and west aisles, reducing the space to eighteen inches. He also found one man sitting on the steps in the gallery, but he was moved. The witness met Mr. Driscoll, who told him that they had turned 300 persons away, and that he was not satisfied with the seats being in the aisles he would have them moved. The sergeant told Mr. Driscoll that the performance was nearly over and that he did not care whether he moved the chairs or not, but that a breach of the bylaw had been committed.

In answer to Mr. Cowan, counsel for Mr. Driscoll, Sgt. McGuire said that he had not measured the exact space left between the chairs and the wall, but that he judged it to be eighteen inches, and in some places about one foot, according to the amount of space taken up by the persons who occupied the chairs. The chairs, he said, were all common, little wooden chairs. The magistrate pointed out that Mr. Driscoll had acted in a fair and proper manner in offering to have the obstructions removed, even at the inconvenience of his patrons; but the bylaw, which was intended to prevent the placing of obstructions such as chairs, etc., in the aisles, had been passed for the safety of the public, and the city had been prompted to the passing by the measure by the Iroquois Theater disaster in Chicago.

Mr. Cowan submitted that the theater had been built with twice as many exits as the law required, and that the aisles had also been left wider than the rule prescribed, so that extra seats could be put in.

The Law in the Case.

The magistrate then read section 4, bylaw No. 2419, which relates to churches, theaters, halls, and other buildings used for places of worship, public meetings, or places of amusement, as follows:

"The aisles, stairways or passages in every theater, church or other public building, shall be kept free from camp stools, chairs, sofas, hinged seats or other obstructions whatever, and during each and every performance, service or meeting, the doors of all exits therefrom shall be and remain unlocked and without any catch or latch of any kind, and no person shall be allowed to stand in or occupy any aisle, passage-way or stairway, during any performance, service, exhibition, lecture, concert or public assemblage of any kind; nor shall there be any chairs, camp stools, sofas, settees, or obstructions of any kind in such aisles or corridors on such occasions."

TWO MONTHS FOR SYDES

Thorndale Hotel Porter Sentenced for Stealing Liquor.

John Sydes, the Thorndale man who recently pleaded guilty to the charge of stealing a quantity of liquor from a hotel at that place, was this morning sentenced to two months at hard labor by Judge Elliott. The judge stated that owing to extenuating circumstances he had decided to impose a very light sentence. Sydes saved the county much expense by pleading guilty to the charge. It was also his first offense.

Henry George, the Indian who is alleged to have stolen a bicycle, will be brought up for trial tomorrow at 11 a.m. before Judge Elliott.

It has just been announced by the education department that Miss Pearl Jackson is the winner of the gold medal annually donated by Hon. Adam Beck for the student of the London Collegiate Institute who has taken the highest marks on Part II. Senior Teachers' Examination.

John G. Althouse is the winner of the Alan Gibbons' memorial medal for the student of the Collegiate Institute who has stood highest at the Junior matriculation examination.

NOT MOHAN'S REMAINS

Skeleton Found in Woods Not That of Londoner's Brother.

Mr. Phillip Mohan, of 518 Pleadably street, has received a letter from Mayor Steeves, of Moncton, N. B., which satisfies him that the remains found recently in the woods near that place are those of his brother, John Walter Mohan, who has been missing for several years.

John W. Mohan left home more than a decade ago, and when last heard from he was working at Moncton. His brother in this city had not heard from him for a considerable period, and on reading in the papers the report of the finding of a skeleton in the woods, he thought possibly it might be that of his brother. However, the letter from the mayor of Moncton has convinced him that such is not the case.

POPULATION IS GROWING

Largest Number on Record Now in the Children's Aid Shelter.

Inspector Sanders stated today that the Children's Aid Society has now 29 boys and girls in the South London Shelter.

This is the largest number ever in the care of the society at one time, and consequently it means a heavy drain on the funds for children's aid. The 29 little ones, twelve are girls. In the Catholic Orphanage on Richmond street north there are also four children, who were placed there through the efforts of the society. Three of these come from one house in the city, but they are not a charge on the Aid Society, the police magistrate having ordered the father to pay a fixed sum every week for their board.

The Children's Aid is almost daily in receipt of applications for children from all parts of the western peninsula, but before any of them are granted a very careful investigation is conducted to ascertain if the proposed foster homes are suitable places for the little ones.

ROYAL AUTO HITS MAN

His Majesty Runs Down Pedestrian on Road to Newmarket.

London, Oct. 23.—King Edward was evidently aware that the proceedings in Parliament would be devoid of any important features, as he left Buckingham Palace in an automobile at noon, to spend the rest of the week at the Newmarket races. The car knocked down a man as the King was leaving town, but no serious consequences resulted from the accident.

LEWIS RELEASED
ON $10,000 BAIL

The Crown Accepts Personal Surety and One of Brother.

O'MEARA TO DEMAND REDRESS

He Is the Right Man—May Be a Suit.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 23.—Tom Lewis was given his freedom this morning, when his own bail for $5,000, and that of his brother, John Lewis, of London, for $5,000, was accepted by the court.

Yesterday afternoon Lewis was arraigned before Magistrate Denison on a charge of perjury, pleaded not guilty, and elected to be tried by jury.

Magistrate Kingsford refused to allow bail, but later the crown, after a vigorous protest by Mr. Robinette, agreed to accept bail in $10,000.

It has been learned that it was Mr. Eric Armour, who has been assisting the crown prosecutor, Mr. DuVernet, who laid the information against Mr. John O'Meara, of London, charging that gentleman with having been mixed up in an impersonation case at Brantford, Ont., in the Held-Henry election of 1906.

Mr. Armour's connection with the making of the charge may result in a suit for damages being entered against him, as it is understood Mr. O'Meara has placed the matter in the hands of Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., with instructions to demand redress at once.

Mr. O'Meara proved conclusively that he was not the man wanted, and he showed that crown prosecutors were both hasty and unreasonable. The eagerness with which the crown prosecutor and his assistant entered into the arrest of O'Meara and the utter collapse of this case has made Mr. DuVernet and his assistant appear ridiculous here.

It is said that some "wise ones" in London who have been looking after the election witnesses are responsible for the giving of the "tip" to Mr. Armour which resulted in O'Meara's arrest. The crown prosecutor was compelled to apologize to Mr. O'Meara, and pay his expenses to and from London.

Mr. DuVernet, when the court opened this morning, announced that he had received information from London that no mistake had been made in the case of John O'Meara, but that the right man had been arrested.

"The people in London who will give us the information are much incensed that they are accused of making a mistake," said Mr. DuVernet. "They are positive he is the right man."

If what you say is true, O'Meara committed perjury," said the magistrate.

"When he made his positive statements yesterday, I believed him," Mr. DuVernet said, "but we are going along with the case."

Mr. DuVernet also referred to alleged contradictions in O'Meara's evidence, which he intimated were convincing.

FELL FORTY FEET

Contractor, However, Sustained Nothing More Than Shaking Up.

Mr. Richard Sanders, a contractor, who lives on the Hamilton road, east of the city limits, sustained a very severe fall the other day.

Mr. Sanders was shingling a house at London Junction, and was carrying a bundle of material to the ridge of the building, when he missed his footing and fell to the ground, a distance of about 40 feet. He dropped into the adjoining yard, and in doing so missed the line fence and a quantity of building material. The bundle of shingles which Mr. Sanders was carrying also fell, but fortunately did not strike him. He was removed to his home, where it was found that he had received a severe shaking up, but had not sustained any broken bones. He will be around again in a week.

SHIFTING THE TRACKS

Line of Street Railway Near Coves Is Being Moved.

A gang of Grand Trunk laborers this morning started the task of shifting the Springfield line of the street railway company, west of Railway street.

The land all along used by the street railway at that point is needed by the Grand Trunk in the elevation of its tracks, and in its place the company is given a strip immediately to the south, which will serve the purpose just as well. At the point where the land was secured by the Grand Trunk the road is to be over twenty feet above the old track level, which means that the work could not be proceeded with unless the adjoining strip was secured.

As far as the shifting of the street railway tracks is concerned, it will occupy only a very short time, and will in no way interfere with street railway traffic, but the filling in of the huge embankment will take some weeks, even with the large gang of men that are employed on it.

Crown Witness Declares
Conservatives Offered $15

To Keep Him Away From the Polls—More Ten-Dollar Stories at Toronto Inquiry—This Morning's Evidence.

[From Our Own Reporter.]

Toronto, Oct. 23.—John Trawley was the first witness examined in the London election investigation this morning. Trawley swore he got $9.50 in the Hyman-Gray election, and $5 in the Beck-Rumball election. Collins made the arrangements for the former, and William Serviss for the latter. Witness said he had intended voting for Hyman anyway.

At this point, Mr. DuVernet asked that Serviss, who he said had been subpoenaed and had not put in an appearance, should be called three times and that a warrant should be issued for him.

"Is he out of the country?" asked the magistrate.

"No," said Mr. Armour, "we understand he came part of the way to Toronto this morning."

John Orr said he got $10 for staying away from the polls. A man named Lewis had called upon him and made the arrangements, Charles Forbes, of Ottawa, formerly of London, paid the money, he said. Lewis was alone when the arrangements were made. Lewis promised to leave the money with Forbes.

"Was it Tom Lewis who saw you?" "I don't know."

James Head swore he got $10. Jerry Collins paid over the money at the Hotel Normandy. Witness got $5 in the general election, and $5 in the Beck-Rumball election.

"Would you have voted for Hyman if you had got no money in the last election?" asked Mr. Robinette.

"Yes."

Walter Osborne, of West London, got $5 from Jerry Collins some time ago. Witness works in Hyman's tannery and did not consider that his vote was bought.

James Dewar said he was seen by Oscar Wootton about his vote previous to the bye-election. Wootton took him to see Alex Milne at the committee rooms, saying that there was money for him there. Witness did not see Milne at the rooms but a man he did not know. It was not Tom Lewis.

Witness got $10 from a man whom he did not know as the room was dark.

"What relation are you to Tom Lewis?" asked Mr. DuVernet.

"A brother-in-law," the witness replied.

Alex. Thompson, a witness who was kept over from yesterday, because his evidence did not please Mr. DuVernet, was again placed on the stand.

Thompson swore he did not know who it was made the arrangements with him or who it was paid him.

You were talking to Tom Lewis this morning," Mr. DuVernet said.

"I was not," the witness replied. "I did not speak to him."

Andrew Robinson swore he got no money for his vote. He got $35 for his expenses and money for a man named Head.

"Who gave you the money?" "I don't know."

"How did you get it?" "It was put in my coat pocket."

"Where was your coat when the money was put in?"

"On my body."

"You knew what the money was for?"

"Yes."

"You expected it?"

"Yes, I made a report of my expenses."

"Who did you report to?"

"I don't know."

"You know James Malloch?"

"No."

"You reported to him?"

"No."

Former London Lady Survives Life-Long Friend But a Few Hours.

A dispatch from Detroit says:

Mrs. Jennette Falkner, of London, Ont., is dead at the home of one of her sons in Fairview, a suburb of Detroit. Mrs. Falkner, who was 70 years of age, had lived the greater part of her life in London. Next door to her lived Mrs. Kinzel, 69 years of age. The women had been close friends for many years, and each had said she would not survive the death of the other. Upon one of Mrs. Falkner's sons telephoning to relatives in London, the news of the death of his mother he told Mrs. Kinzel had died very suddenly only six hours before. The funeral of the two will be held in London on the same day, and they will be buried on adjoining lots in the same cemetery.

Mrs. Falkner was for a long period a resident of the east end of the city, living for many years on Queen's avenue, near Ontario street, and later on Elizabeth street and Adelaide street. A few years since she moved to Detroit to live with her son, Mr. Wm. Falkner, who is employed in a photographic

Harmful Stomach Dosing

NO NEED OF IT WHEN HYOMEI IS USED TO CURE CATARRH.

Physicians and scientists agree that the less medicine one swallows, the better. It is in keeping with this idea that Hyomei is recommended by leading physicians throughout this and other catarrhal sections.

When this treatment is used in catarrhal troubles, there is no stomach dosing, for the medicine is taken in with the air you breathe, and goes right to the spot where the catarrhal germs are present, healing the inflamed and irritated mucous membrane, killing the disease germs and entering the blood with the oxygen, driving all catarrhal germs from the system.

Do not try to cure catarrh of the head by putting medicine into your stomach—this is neither a scientific nor common-sense treatment. Breathe the healing balsams of Hyomei and in a few days you will notice relief, and its continued use will result in a complete and lasting cure.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1. extra bottles, if needed, 50 cents. We do not want anyone's money unless Hyomei gives relief and cure, and we absolutely agree that money will be refunded unless the remedy gives satisfaction.

All druggists should be able to supply you with Hyomei or we will send it by mail on receipt of price, and every package is sold with the distinct understanding that it costs nothing unless it cures. Write us today for a symptom blank, which we will send you free, together with treatise on catarrh and how to cure it. When you fill in and return to us the symptom blank, our consulting physician will give you the best care and attention, and write you a letter of advice without charge. The R. T. LONDON STAGE IN SEASON'S HEYDAY

Theaters Thronged Nightly by Society.

Revival of Old Custom Expected To Be Feature of This Winter's Feasts.

London, Oct. 22.—An air of expectation is hanging over London society. "What will the parliamentary session bring in its train and how?" asks Mayfair, whose interest in such matters as the education bill extends little beyond its own nurseries. "Will it affect the winter season as a whole?"

Society has been returning to town in crowds this week. The prime minister, who is looking sad and careworn, is only natural after his recent bereavement, and the home secretary have got back to Downing street. Most of the Liberal bigwigs also are back. All is in readiness for the reassembling of Parliament on Tuesday.

On the same day, by the way, King Edward and all the sporting world will go down to Newmarket for the races. The Liberal hostesses already are preparing and consulting with each other as to dates for their various entertainments. The return of society to town has been manifested by the throwing back of the stalls to the diminution of the pit area just in the height of the season.

In the absence of Beerbohm Tree, Ellen Terry is proving a tremendous draw at His Majesty's Theatre. As "A Winter's Tale" must be withdrawn at the end of next week to allow of "Colonel Newcome," Michael Morton's dramatized version of Thackeray's novel, the rush for boxes and stalls is enormous, for it is generally conceded that not in many years has Ellen been seen in a role in which she appears to so great an advantage as Hermione. It is much to her liking and affords more scope for the display of her histrionic gifts than the light comedy parts in which she has been seen of late.

As Irving was chief, so is his old Lyceum leading woman, notwithstanding her full half century on the stage, "Ellen Terry," as an old actor remarked the other night, "remains queen of the English stage, God bless her!"

Across the way, at the Haymarket Theatre there seems no waning of the popularity of "The Man From Blanken," with Charles Hawtrey in the title part. Frederick Harrison has not even begun to think of a successor. George Alexander, who has returned to his place at the St. James, is scoring a bigger success than can be remembered at that house with Piner's play, "His House in Order."

Charles Frohman, too, is to be congratulated on three wonderful successes at the Duke of York's. He still has Cyril Maude, supported by one of the strongest casts ever seen on the stage here, delighting all London with his quaint impersonation of Tiddlers, "Raffles" at the Comedy, looking like seeing the new year in easily, as the booking continues heavy.

Just as huge a success is Frohman's production of the musical comedy, "Beauty of the Bath," at the Aldwych. A revival of "Risque" at the Gaiety in the shape of a new "Aldwych" has proved greatly to the taste of the London public. Lewis Walter has not achieved such a triumph for a long time as he has with his production of "Robin Hood" at the Lyric. It is a merry, slapdash sort of play and the name part is just the sort of swashbuckler sort of character in which Walter revels.

"The Bondman" at the old Drury is unanimously voted the best autumn drama, with the most brilliant acting that can be recalled, at the "National" playhouse.

As for the autumn opera season at Covent Garden, whatever doubts there may have been of the success of such a venture long since have been laid at rest. Melba continues a great draw. When she appeared last night in "La Boheme" she was greeted by a throng of magnificently dressed women, glittering in diamonds, almost as brilliant as a night in June, which of course is the height of the London season.

Taken altogether it is many years since London has been provided with so much good dramatic and musical fare, or at any rate so good a selection of theater and opera goes—a remarkable contrast to last season, which opened with so many failures. Managers now are more inclined to take counsel with "literary advisers" in the production of new plays than to rely entirely on their own judgment. Perhaps therein lies the secret of the present season opening so successfully.

One feature of the opening of the present social season is a revival of the pretty fashion of elaborate decoration of menu cards, which, appropriate, of course, to the occasion for which the banquet, dinner, or ball is given. The present winter, the manager of a west end restaurant said, probably will see some remarkable achievements in way of picture menu cards, but it is hardly likely that any such thing will be treasured or valuable menu cards were the favors of a famous dinner to come under the hammer today there is no saying how much money collectors would bid for them.

It was the occasion on which a number of celebrated artists came to the west end restaurant. The menu cards were passed among them, and each put on his brother artists' cards with his signature, a thumbnail sketch in oil, water, crayon, pastel, pencil or ink. Some of these miniatures were brilliant caricatures of well-known artists, some were of still life, some were of studio life, grave and gay. These cards to be treasured by their possessors, not only because they are unique, but because of the great names with which they are associated and the wonderful work they show.

SOMETIMES TOOK $10,000 A DAY

Tells Judge They Handled Millions and Went Money-Mad—Took $500,000 in All.

Pittsburg, Oct. 22.—"Like everyone else in the financial world in Pittsburg, your honor, we were simply money mad; we handled millions every day; we dealt in millions in everything. We were constantly talking money, and constantly hearing of opportunities whereby we, bank clerks making $60 a month, might become millionaires too. We saw many opportunities vanish because we did not have the money to take advantage of them, and then we began to steal from the bank."

That was the explanation made by C. B. Wray in the criminal court to Judge James S. Young, when he and C. S. Hixton were called for sentence after having pleaded guilty to charges of stealing between $125,000 and $500,000 from the Union Trust Company, one of the biggest financial institutions of the city, and of which H. C. Frick and United States Senator P. C. Knox are directors.

After he had heard the story Judge Young sentenced Wray and Hixton, who had been teller and individual bookkeeper of the bank respectively, to ten years each in the Western Penitentiary.

How the Stealing Was Done.

Wray, acting as spokesman, told the story of how they obtained the money. He was the teller and he would make out a false deposit slip in the name of a depositor whose account had lapsed there still remained a few cents to his credit. He would then pass the deposit slip to Hixton, who as individual bookkeeper would enter it. Then Wray would draw a forged check for near the amount of the deposit and take the money. Hixton, when the check reached him, would destroy it.

"But would not this discrepancy have been discovered by an examination of the counter book?" asked Judge Young, of Treasurer Gleffer.

"We never considered it necessary to examine the counter book," admitted Gleffer.

Judge Young gasped and then said: "Well, I guess you will consider it necessary in the future," and even the two prisoners smiled at the discomfiture of the treasurer.

"When we saw so many opportunities slipping away from us," said Wray, when he started to tell the story, "we started to work a system, expecting that we would be able to put the money back again without its being missed. First we took $500 and lost it. It was so easy to get the money that we continued to play. The money was simply turned up. We don't know just how much we took, but it was about $250,000, and probably more. Of that sum the bucket-shops got nine-tenths."

That $10,000 a Day.

"We got half an hour for lunch, but instead of eating we visited the bucket-shops. There we received 'tips' from the proprietors and gave our orders. It was like pouring money in a rat hole. We took as high as $10,000 in a day. On one transaction alone, and with one broker, we lost $40,000. I remember only one time that we won; that was $25."

"Did the owners of these bucket-shops know you?" asked Judge Young.

"They knew us, knew where we were employed, and knew that our salaries amounted to only $60 a month," replied Wray.

"These people should be brought into court," said the Judge to District Attorney Stewart.

Wray declared that while he lived a high life for a time, still he had never been extravagant. He supported his aged mother in good style, he said, and she supposed that he was one of the rising young millionaires because he was connected with a bank whose directors are all millionaires. He said that in addition to the money that he spent with the bucket-shops, that part of his share was lost in playing poker at the Randall Club, a prominent political organization of the city.

"It was the same thing there as it was at the bucket-shops," declared Wray. "It seemed as though I could not win anywhere."

Throughout the entire proceeding Wray has assumed an air of bravado. Hixton was repentant, and before sentence was passed he broke down completely. His wife and infant child in addition to the money that he had received half of the money, and made the positive declaration that the bucket-shops had received every cent of it. He lived with his wife and child at Carnegie, a suburb of the city, in a style befitting the salary that he made. From the time that he started to steal the money with Wray until the time of his arrest his wife never knew of his speculations. When he was asked by Judge Young what he had to say, Hixton pleaded for mercy.

Wray refused to ask for mercy, contenting himself with saying: "We were playing for a high game, the same as the millionaires. We were never able to win as they do, and I suppose we will have to suffer the consequences."

When Judge Young passed sentence the wife of Hixton swooned.

According to detectives who worked on the case, the losses of the Union Trust Company will amount to $500,000 by the peculations of the two employees. At no time has the company given the exact amount. In a statement that they issued after the robbery, they said it amounted to about $125,000. On the witness stand this afternoon Treasurer Gleffer admitted that it was beyond that figure. Wray said that it amounted to about $250,000, but the detectives assert that they have proof that the real amount was nearer $500,000. It was on account of the enormous

ABUSING LONDON.

It has become a form of recreation with many journals, big and little, in this country to take a fling at London. The Montreal Gazette calls it the Old Sarum of Canada. The Toronto Globe quotes from an editorial in the London Free Press, which advised electors to take money if it were offered them, and suggests that our local contemporary reflects the moral sentiment of this community. Other newspapers propose that the constituency be disfranchised for a term of years. The pert paragraphs and funny men of the press whet their wits on London. Altogether London is being exhibited to the Canadian public as a horrible example, but this is not a role which she deserves, or means to accept. London challenges comparison with any city in the Dominion in respect of the character of her citizens and her moral tone. It is probably true that in more than one election here men have been offered and have taken money for their votes, but this form of corruption has touched only the fringe of the electorate, and there is no greater amount of venality relatively among the people of London than in other communities in this country. There is room for improvement in the conduct of elections here, but a great injustice is being done the city by the monstrous exaggeration of the events of the last political contest. The people of London may be depended upon to "clean their own doorsteps." The pious wrath which so many journals are pouring out upon London may perhaps be more profitably directed to abuses nearer home.

HUDSON BAY NAVIGATION.

There are probably very few Canadians who would not rejoice to find that the Hudson Bay route from Central Canada was certain to be a commercial success. But the experience of the steamship Adventure, chartered to carry mounted police and supplies to Fort Churchill and other stations in the great inland water, is far from reassuring on this point. The vessel left Sydney, N. S., on Aug. 3 last, with 1,000 tons of coal and a general cargo, having on board as passengers Major Moody and a staff of Northwest mounted police. The steamer had scarcely well entered the straits, however, when she was met by heavy field ice, which detained her three days. Before she got to Cape Fullerton, on the mainland west of Southampton Island, heavy pack ice had to be passed through. This ice, of course, was the product of last winter, but next winter's followed on its heels, for the Adventure had no sooner reached Churchill and begun to discharge her cargo than great gales set in, which rendered it very difficult to unload, especially as the tides fall from 30 to 40 feet, and before Oct. 1, when the captain deemed it prudent to weigh anchor for home, with a considerable portion of the cargo undelivered, winter weather had begun in dead earnest. There were fierce snowstorms, every night there was hard frost, and in Hudson Straits the vessel had to pass through 50 miles of Arctic ice running rapidly south and very heavy. From Cape Chidley, at the entrance to the straits, to Belle Isle, the Adventure was in a violent snowstorm, with the wind blowing thunder guns. All these experiences took place in August and September and the first quarter of October. As these months have hitherto been supposed to be the season of open navigation through these waters, the experience of the Adventure will cause many to doubt the feasibility of this short cut from the Canadian west to Europe. It will, of course, be possible to specially construct steamships for the new route, so built that they can plow through the ice floes and weather violent storms. There will remain, however, in these far north waters, with floating ice, never entirely melted, and blinding snowstorms a common occurrence even in early fall, many elements of danger that may well cause doubt as to whether the new route can be made to pay in so short an open or semi-open season. But if scientific resourcefulness and enterprise can overcome these undoubted handicaps the result will be worth the effort, for it would be a great gain to cut off 1,000 miles or more of land carriage, while not materially lengthening the sea voyage, between Canada and Europe.

JAPANESE WAR FINANCE.

The Japanese Government is quickly earning the reputation of issuing the most complete reports regarding its national affairs, and especially in all that relates to statistics and finance. The latest of these reports deals with the finance of the war between Japan and Russia, and with all the arrangements connected with it. The Minister of Finance explains that the main principle in war finance is that while the supply of war funds shall be so ample as to leave no pecuniary obstacle to the attainment of the object for which the war is being waged, the financial basis shall, at the same time, be strengthened, the financial credit maintained, and the harmony of the general economic world preserved. The Imperial Government, therefore, in making its programme of war finance, never lost sight of this principle, and took care that it should not be violated in any of its measures from the increase of taxes and the raising of loans for the defrayment of war expenses.

The total of the extraordinary expenses connected with the war was 1,982,200,000 yen ($1,015,471,310). The sources of revenue for meeting these enormous expenses were public loans, exchequer bonds and temporary loans, amounting to 1,555,370,000 yen ($797,064,545), surpluses from the general annual accounts and proceeds of sales of articles no longer of use in the army and navy, and receipts from posts and telegraphs in Manchuria and Korea, 144,450,000 yen ($74,002,920); receipts from increased taxation, 212,870,000 yen ($109,952,075); transfers from special accounts funds, 67,000,000 yen ($34,323,770); voluntary contributions to the war fund, 1,500,000 yen ($768,440); miscellaneous receipts, 500,000 yen ($256,145), making in all, 1,982,200,000 yen ($1,015,471,310).

Details are given of each of these items with great exactitude. Readers will peruse with interest the account given of the sterling loans and of the fluctuations in prices in the London market, which are clearly shown by carefully-prepared diagrams. An interesting sketch is given of some important items of general economy, especially foreign trade, the money market, bank deposits and postal savings bank loans, rate of interest, prices and wages, so that the report not only contains useful information regarding the war finance, but also shows the relations of that to many subjects connected with national economy, and therefore it is sure to be studied not only by financiers, but also by those who are interested in general social problems, which depend so much on financial conditions.

The Bank of England is still the last court of resort in the monetary world. The Old Lady of Threadneedle street has just put a crimp in Wall street by raising her rate of discount.

It is the fault of the older provinces of Canada if they need more money from the federal government. Why should the federal government help them out?

George Bernard Shaw, who would sacrifice everything to an epigram, complains that the ten commandments are dangerous and undesirable. No doubt they make many people uncomfortable.

One of the witnesses in the London election inquiry confessed to having received money to vote Conservative. The local end of the prosecution showed inexcusable carelessness in sending him to Toronto. Such a mistake should not happen again.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston denies any knowledge of J. G. Pritchett, of this city, and contradicts the latter's story in an important detail. It is surprising that some Liberal newspapers should have presented Pritchett's evidence to the public as something entirely new. It would have been fairer to point out that most of it had been the subject of judicial investigation, and had been pronounced incredible.

HIS NEW JOB.

[Philadelphia Press.] "Has Lazenbee got a new job?" "No, he's still in our store." "Why, he told me there was nothing for him to do there." "Well, I guess that's why he stays."

ANT POISON AS A MEDICINE.

The possible usefulness of ant poison as a medicine seems to be in dispute among scientific investigators. The most characteristic ingredient of ant poison is formic acid—a chemical compound which, as everybody knows, can be obtained by the simple process of subjecting ants to pressure. This acid, it is said, is a powerful stimulant, and may be utilized to advantage in cases of extreme weakness or collapse.

Formic acid can be made easily enough in the laboratory. As yet, however, nothing very definite is known about the composition of ant poison, the analysis of which is a difficult problem in organic chemistry. Undoubtedly it is powerful stuff, judging from the effects produced by the bites of these formidable insects. In temperate latitudes of course the big fighting ants are practically unknown but in the tropics they are seriously to be reckoned with.

It is said, by the way, that Greek surgeons in the Levant make a curious use of a certain species of fighting ant in their business. When a cut is to be sewn up, instead of using stitches, they apply this insect, whose jaws, being brought into contact with the lips of the wound, grasp them with an angry grip, drawing and holding them together. Then, with a snip of the scissors, the physician cuts off the head of the ant, leaving the mandibles fixed, and securely closing the edges of the cut until the latter is healed.

THE CAT IS OUT.

[Brockville Recorder.] In a fit of anger the Mail and Empire has leaked the real reason for the Ontario Government pursuing Mr. Hyman just now. It says: "The opinion is entertained that it was Mr. Hyman who induced the lawyer on the insurance commission to investigate the private business of members of Parliament, and to give it a coloring that was unwarranted. Mr. Hyman supposed that this was good politics. He evidently thought that an attack upon the private character of an opponent was a clever idea. But the discussion of private business in political purposes is a bad thing, because no one knows where it will end. Mr. Hyman was ill-advised when he agreed to introduce this sort of warfare into politics. Certainly if he were subjected to the same kind of attack he would cry out against it very justly."

GRAVESTONE OF POACHER.

[London Graphic.]

The last man hanged in England for poaching was sufficiently respected to be honored with a tombstone above the ordinary. This stone, which is in perfect preservation, is to be seen in the churchyard of North Baddeley, five miles from Romey. The inscription explains the situation: "In memory of Charles Smith, who suffered at Winchester on the 23rd of March, 1822, for resisting, by fire-arms, his apprehension by the gamekeepers of Lord Viscount Palmerston, when found in High Copple, looking after what is called game. Aged 30 years."

"If thou seest the oppression of the poor, and violent perverting of judgment and justice in a province, marvel not at the matter, for he that is higher than the highest regardeth, and there be higher than they." Eccl., v., 8.

EASTERN LEAGUE MEETING.

Powers and Taylor May Make Keen Fight for the Presidency.

New York, Oct. 23.—When the Eastern League of Professional Baseball Clubs meets in annual session today at the Hotel Victoria, the delegates will be confronted with a matter that promises to develop into a vigorous debate before a settlement is reached. Since Patrick Powers was deposed as president a year ago after a struggle, the affairs of the league have been in the hands of Harry L. Taylor, of Buffalo, who was elected as the successor to Mr. Powers. Notwithstanding the fact that the league met with prosperity during the late championship season, the feeling that existed among the club owners has been the last election seems to have cropped out again, and another heated contest for the presidency is predicted. Only two candidates are in the field, Mr. Taylor and Mr. Powers, now the principal owner of the Providence Club. Both men have a strong following among the delegates eligible to the vote, and the players.

THE WILSON WILL.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—Another phase in the celebrated Sir Adam Wilson will case was reached this afternoon when Mrs. E. M. Lilly Wilson issued a writ against Lady Emma Wilson and the Toronto General Trusts as executors of the last will of George H. Wilson, deceased. G. H. Wilson is described as heir-at-law and next of kin of a devisee under the last will of the late Sir Adam Wilson and the suit is brought by his widow to have the will construed, and to have the real and personal estate administered. The Toronto General Trusts Company is sued as executors, and Lady Emma Wilson is sued in her personal capacity as widow and as entitled to a share in the estate.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Washington, Kas., Oct. 23.—Fire, which last night destroyed the home of J. M. Elliott, a farmer, burned to death Elliott, his wife and a daughter. In the smoking ruins, the bodies of the victims were found this morning. A severe storm prevailed last night, accompanied by sharp lightning, and it is supposed that lightning struck the house.

METHODIST MISSIONS.

Belleveille, Oct. 22.—The 25th annual meeting of the board of managers of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will convene in Bridge Street Church, this city, tomorrow morning, and promises to be of interest. About 75 delegates are expected from all over Canada. The president is Mrs. W. E. Ross of Hamilton. The session will last four days.

BURNS AND CROPS GONE.

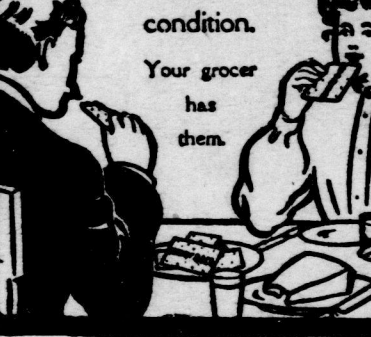

Woodstock, Oct. 22.—Fire completely destroyed the extensive farm buildings on the farm of James Montgomery, in East Zorra, yesterday afternoon, incurring a loss of at least $6,000, on which there is about $4,000 insurance. The barns were among the finest in the county and included in addition to the buildings, the entire season's crop and a large number of implements. No cause is assigned for the fire. The farm was without a tenant and as far as can be learned no one had been around the premises for several days.

BRIGHT PLAYLET ON BENNETT BILL

Also a Thrilling Act by Cardona and His Four Trained Lions.

The third week in Bennett's new Vaudeville Theater opened last night with an audience that almost completely filled the house, and a bill that is deserving of liberal patronage every afternoon and evening.

The top liner on the programme is a sketch entitled "Her Last Rehearsal" presented by Lewis McCord and company. The sketch is one of the brightest yet seen on a London vaudeville stage. It tells of a stage-struck girl rehearsing for a Shakespearean production, "Romeo and Juliet," and it is so humorous that the would-be actress was entirely devoid of dramatic ability. Of course, the star work of the company is Mr. McCord, who is remarkably clever in his role, while the acting of Miss Della Bryant, as the stage-struck girl, was exceptionally good. Her representation of the young woman who would be an actress in spite of the fact that she would be out of her place as such was one of the very best pieces of work. The part of Romeo was well taken by Mr. Rendall.

A turn with a thrill to it was given by Senor Cardona and his cage of four lions. Cardona is without fear and he succeeds in making the kings of the jungle do various tricks. He even dines with the lions, serving them with a quantity of raw meat. The act throughout is one of the most daring nature.

As a laugh provoker, the Fitzgibbon-McCoy trio is one of the best. They present "The Mischievous Brother," and throughout the turn the brother is incessantly doing what he should not. The audience simply could not restrain themselves, making it difficult at times for the performers to be heard.

Miss Ray Cox is on the bill this week. This is not Miss Cox's first visit to London. She was here a season ago, and patrons of the theater are glad to see her booked again. She gives a number of imitations that are decidedly clever.

Money and Holbein's dancing and singing are good. In fact, some of the dancing feats accomplished by Mooney are new to London theatergoers.

Camping Out in the Pine WoodsFamous Specialist Treating Consumption in the Open Air.

In the pine forests of Maine, a famous specialist in consumption and kidney troubles has a camp in the deep pine woods. With the oil of the white pine trees he is effecting cures that are attended with the utmost success, and are so certain that a relapse is almost unknown. Patients so ill that they had to be carried into the pine woods on a litter have come out in a few months completely cured.

A well-known local physician who is familiar with this treatment says it is just as efficient in the home of the patient as it is in the pine woods.

It has a peculiar healing power over affections of the throat, lungs and bronchial tubes, will break up a cold in 24 hours, and will cure any cough that is curable. The treatment is very simple, consisting of the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine mixed with Whisky and Glycerine in the following proportions: Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)..... 1/2 ounce Glycerine 2 ounces Good Whisky 8 ounces

The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost. Inquiry at the prescription department of one of the leading druggists should be made for the name of the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) which is put out in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper showing the name—"Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)"—plainly printed thereon. The name is also on the vial. The Pure Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) which is put out under various names, such as Concentrated Oil of Pine, Pine Balsam, etc. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired result.

THE "BLUE MOON"

This Musical Sensation Appears at the Grand Tomorrow Night.

The latest and best offering of the Shuberts will appear at the Grand tomorrow night in the new opera comique, "The Blue Moon." "The Blue Moon" was produced in London last season. The Shubert Theatrical Company, with characteristic foresight, at once saw that it was the musical sensation of the decade, and promptly obtained the exclusive American rights. "The Blue Moon" comes directly from its remarkable run of four weeks in Cincinnati, where it was the chief attraction during the great fall exposition.

James T. Powers, in the role of Private Charley Taylor of the English Army, is a type entirely new to the American stage, in the exposition of which Mr. Powers does amusing work. Ethel Jackson takes the role of Chandra XII, known to the people of Burma as "The Blue Moon." The character is that of a singing girl, who is stolen from the English by an army deserter, and afterwards pledged by him to marry Prince Badashur, a role taken by Arthur Donaldson, another prime stage favorite.

When a woman is a real artist she has a good complexion. Self effacement is the first law of popularity.

PREVENT DISORDER.—At the first symptoms of internal disorder, Farnell's Vegetable Pills should be resorted to immediately. Two or three of these salutary pellets, taken before going to bed, followed by doses of one or two pills for two or three nights in succession, will serve as a preventive of attacks of dyspepsia and all the discomforts which follow in the train of that fell disorder. The means are simple when the way is known.

A MISSION FULFILLED

She walked toward the stone wall, for a moment looking over it in silence; then passed through the entrance and stood upon the narrow path which topped the precipice outside. Was the road for Keith? It was too dark to see hand before her face.

But even as her first step was passed through the gate, and almost before she could reach the pathway, there came a sudden rush. In the darkest of the wall a figure had been crouching, which now, with a bound, leapt upon her. Two strong arms closed round her throat, and a burning breath of an assailant was in her face. She had no time to struggle—only to cry out, half choked, a single word "Nino!"

Most before the name had left her the cruel hands dropped off her throat, and the man started from her. The suddenness of one shot, a word of horror on his lips, he might as well have finished his life work.

For an instant Margherita swayed, and uncertain, upon the unproven path; then, even as he began to leave himself, and was leaping forward to catch her in his arms, she turned backwards over the precipice, and

"Tell me," she repeated; "it will not hurt me. Ah, I remember: I fell, did I not?"

He bowed his head. "Do not think of it now," he said. "Ah, but I want to," she replied, earnestly. "Listen to me, Keith, my husband. It was only I—it was all my own fault—no one else was to blame—"

He groaned aloud, and hid his face in his hands, while she repeated, more eagerly: "No one else—ah, no one else, dear Keith, indeed!"

He raised his haggard face abruptly. "Don't!" he said. "Why should you wish to spare a murderer? Besides, it is useless. I know it all."

Her eyes filled with a more painful earnestness. "He did not mean to hurt me, Ah, Dio, it is true! He would have injured you, but not me. But now he will not; he will be sorry. Tell him I forgive him, Keith. Do not punish him—not for this!"

He looked at her for a moment pitifully, half doubtfully; then he once more bowed his head. "As you will," he said. "He is a murderer—God will judge him! At present he is free."

Relief seemed to enter through the patient windows of her soul, and a faint smile swept over the pallid features. "I have something else I want to say to you, Keith mio," she went on softly. "I want to thank you for all your love to me. You have been good, very good to me, sposo mio!"

"I?" he asked, a bitter remorse overwhelming him before so great generosity. "Nay, I have never been half good enough to you, Margherita!"

"We have always loved each other," she went on, laying her hot hand on his, as it rested on the coverlet. "I have never really doubted you, my Keith, if others did. You have made my happiness. Remember that when I am gone; and forgive me, Keith mio, for my mistakes. I did my best."

He made no reply. How could he? His eyes were blinded, his voice choked. "Now," she went on, wistfully, "it is all over. God's will be done. Give me your hand, dear. You will bring up our little one to be a good and noble man—you will never touch those cards again."

"Never—I swear it!" he whispered, hoarsely. "No, you will be good—and some day happy, my Keith. And you will marry again—it will be better so—some pure young girl of your own rank, not a peasant like me, mio caro. But you will never forget the mother of your son, your Margherita, and you will not let him forget me."

"Hush!" he exclaimed, his face convulsed, "do not talk of such things. Do you think I could bear to let my child ter you? I shall never marry again. Oh, Margherita, my Margherita!"

"Bring the little one," she whispered, after a few moments. And for the last time the dying mother fed her eyes upon the rich beauty of its olive face, the perfect contour of its rounded limbs. Her lips trembled as she pressed them to the baby cheek; but the emotion soon passed, and she was calm again, for the Great Unseen began to press too closely before her fading eyes not to blind them already somewhat to things visible. And when the child had been taken away a great quiet fell over the room; and presently the dark eyes closed in peaceful sleep. Sleep or unconsciousness? He knew not.

LOCAL OPTION.

To the Editor of The Advertiser: As considerable misunderstanding exists as to what local option really is, I have been asked to briefly state its operation and meaning.

Local option is a legislative mode of dealing with the liquor traffic, which permits citizens to decide by vote whether the sale or furnishing of liquors shall be allowed in a given locality during a period of three years.

It is not a new law. It has been on the statute books for over ten years, and is now in force in over one hundred municipalities in Ontario.

It is not a party measure. Both political parties have endorsed its principle, and made amendments to it from time to time.

The council of any municipality may submit a bylaw without a petition, but on the presentation of a petition on or before the first day of November, signed by one-fourth of the voters entitled to vote at a municipal election, the council must submit the bylaw to the electors on the day of the municipal elections.

If the bylaw is carried by a majority of three-fifths of the votes polled, it receives its third reading by the council, and comes into effect on the first day of May following.

In order to repeal the act, the same procedure must be observed, that is, 25 per cent of the voters must petition for it, and the repeal must be carried by 60 per cent of the votes polled.

Local option is a part of the license act, and has therefore the same machinery for its enforcement as the act itself. Every constable in the municipality, as well as the license inspector, is charged with its enforcement.

Any citizen who has knowledge of the law being broken may inform the inspector or any constable that he has reason to believe that the law is being violated in such and such a place, and the officer so informed must (without giving the name of his informant) investigate under a penalty of fine or dismissal.

The penalties for violation of the act are so severe that it has been found more easy to enforce than the license act. The general testimony from places where it is now in operation is that it is better observed than any other law on the statute books.

While some disturbance of conditions may occur at first, it has been found that where there is a demand for legitimate hotel accommodation, that demand has been met either by those in the business or by others. Respectfully yours, D. A. McDERMID.

SNAP-SHOTS AT VARIOUS SPORTS

It certainly seems that football in London does not receive the support it should. The Forest City boys are in dire need of the services of a coach to teach them the finer points of the game, and, although strenuous efforts have been made to procure sufficient funds to engage a man, up to date they have proven futile. It is small wonder that at times the local players become discouraged. The Forest City football players do not receive one cent by way of recompense for their hard work on the gridiron nor do they ask for any pay, but at least they should be provided with a coach. Considering the handicap they are laboring under, the boys have done very well this season. Take the case of the Hamilton Tigers II. by way of comparison. The intermediate Hamilton bunch have the advantage of three nights' practice every week with the Senior Tigers. The local boys have to lineup against school boys in their practice games. The Hamilton Seniors teach the cub Tigers the scientific points of the game, while the London boys have to pick up their points where they can. Of course, the game is rough, and a player is very liable to injury; and for that reason many are prejudiced against it. However, as long as the game is played here, the team should receive wholesome support from the sport-loving people of the Forest City. Local football players are earnestly requested to turn out each evening at Morkin's rink, at Richmond and Pall Mall streets, and assist the Forest City Rugby boys to get into shape for next Saturday's game with the Tigers II. in this city. The writer witnessed the Hamilton-London game at Hamilton last Saturday, and can say that with proper coaching, earnest, consistent practice, and with the team in good physical shape, the locals have a chance to at least hold the Tigers II. even. In the sixteen years that the O. R. F. U. has been in existence London has won football championships but four times. The year 1894 witnessed the capture of an intermediate leadership; '98 and '99 were productive of junior championships, and in 1900 the Forest City landed on top of the intermediate heap.

Joe Gans, the dusky lightweight pugilistic champion, is now appearing on the stage, doing three-round, love-tap stunts for the edification of American audiences. Gans ought to be good at that sort of thing. When he laid down to McGovern in Chicago a few years ago, the crowd thought it was the real thing.

As a sort of an advertising proposition for his theatrical enterprises Gans offers to fight Nelson for sweet charity. Quit your joshing, Joseph.

The Chicago soccer team turned the tables on the Galt, Ontario, team Sunday and won by 2 goals to 1. Excuses are now the order of the day. The Canadian boys can be said to be poor Sabbath day kickers.

Maurice and Al Herford, the foxy Hebrew fight promoters, have offered a purse of $15,000 to Young Corbett and McGovern for a 15-round contest. Surely it must be stage money that the pair are offering. The same people could not see their way clear to offer Joe Gans and Jimmy Britt a purse of that size two years ago.

The champion Lotos were bumped for three games last night by the Victorians in the City Tenpin League. How the mighty hath fallen.

The Soccer games on the Heights still continue. The Normals lead the Soccer League by one point.

The Caps, and the most of the other eastern players for that matter, are old and experienced. They can't improve on their game and must go back. On the other hand, the western teams for the most part consist of young players, who are just developing. They are not developing or encouraging the younger players in the east like the C. L. A. is doing in every corner of this Province, and inevitably the result will be seen some day in the very near future.—Toronto News.

This will help some to cheer the Tecumsehs after their loss of the cup series.

Tecumsehs will be reorganized next season and many important changes will be made both in the team and management. It is altogether probable that an eastern man will be brought to Toronto to coach the team and teach them eastern methods.

John A. Drake has decided the once famous race horse Ort Wells, son of King Eric and Tea's Over, will not again stand the preparation necessary for racing next summer, and the following day he was turned over to Kit Chinn, who will take the stallion to Kentucky and use him in the breeding ranks. Ort Wells, at certain stages of his career, was one of the best race nags ever seen in the United States, and but for an ailment of the legs, which kept him from taking regular, systematic work, from the time he was a 2-year-old past, he would have been a great stake winner. Although he was returned as the winner of a number of classic races in the east, and during his career met the best of his age in training, it is not so much the races Ort Wells won as the discouraging circumstances under which he won them that caused horsemen to put him down as one of the top-notch class.

The Dundas Rugby Club is traveling in hard luck this season, in some respects, though it has been getting its share of victories. The loss of Craig made a gap in the wing line. Stock was injured in the last Tiger game, and now Walker, the crack half-back, is out of the game for the season, as a result of injuries received in the London match. Walker has been with the team since its organization, and is one of the best half-backs in the series, and his removal will be a decided loss to the team.

London was distinctly outclassed by the Tigers on Saturday, particularly on the back division, though the visitors were able to put up a game enough contest. From the spectators' standpoint, the game was just as interesting as many senior games, and the crowd enjoyed the victory of the intermediates. It should do much to increase the interest in the cubs, and to put heart into them. They will have to lay low for Dundas, when the teams meet here.—Hamilton Spectator's report of Saturday's game.

The Tecumsehs got $700 and a banquet at Ottawa on Saturday, but they failed to get the Minto tinware. One of the Toronto contingent actually condescended to say the best team won the cup. Next? SOUTHPAW.

Normal and Y. M. C. A. Teams Score Two Goals Each—League Standing.

The Normal and the Y. M. C. A. Soccer teams played a tie game last evening, the score at the windup being 2-2.

The Normal lineup was as follows: Byers, goal; Jarrat and Linker, half-backs; Belfry, Walkom and Callahan, half-backs; J. F. Baugh, Pickering, Lutes, Campbell and P. Baugh, forwards. The standing of the league is as follows:

Won	Lost	Dr.	To	Pts.
Normals	2	0	2	4
Y. M. C. A.	2	0	1	4
Medicals	2	0	0	4

BASEBALL.

EASTERN MAGNATES MEET.

New York, Oct. 22.—The board of directors of the Eastern League of Professional Baseball Clubs met in executive session at the Hotel Victoria today. President Harry L. Taylor, of the league, said the board meeting would be of very little importance. The annual meetings of the league will be held tomorrow at the Victoria.

MARLBOROS MAY JOIN THE FEDERAL

Report That They Are to Desert O. H. A.—Turned Down by Eastern League.

Toronto, Oct. 22.—James Bell, manager of the Arena Rink of Winnipeg, is in town today. He announces that he has arranged two series of three games each for his rink with Ottawa and Wanderers (Montreal), meeting Winnipeg and Kenora Thistles. The first series will probably be played the last week in December and the second some time in January.

The Montreal Wanderers, holders of the Stanley Cup, have agreed to meet the Kenora Thistles in Montreal for the trophy before the end of the season, probably between Jan. 10 and Feb. 20.

It is said that the Marlboros, of Toronto, applied for admission to the E. C. A. H. L. with Ottawa, Wanderers and other clubs, but the application was turned down, ostensibly because of the small rink in Toronto.

The Marlboros are now seeking admission to the Federal League. It is reported, which Smith's Falls and Brockville have deserted, having lost their costly teams.

TECUMSEHS WILL BE REORGANIZED

Runners Up for Minto Cup Have Played Last Game as a One-Man Club.

Toronto News: Tecumsehs have played their last game as a one-man club. Next year they will play under an entirely new management and under entirely new conditions.

It is the present intention to reorganize and a new club will be incorporated, probably under the name of the Tecumseh Athletic Association. Mr. Solomon will be asked to take the presidency, and no wiser selection could be made. He is one of the best, most popular, most broad-minded, liberal sports in the Dominion, and for years has financed the club. He is idolized by the players, and under his direct supervision Tecumsehs should prosper as they never have prospered before. Mr. Solomon has mapped out extensive improvements at the Island next year, and will turn one of the present buildings into a clubhouse, which will be elaborately fitted up with shower baths, athletic paraphernalia, reading-rooms, etc.

This will be the summer home of the club, and if enough members can be secured the chances are that winter quarters will be secured in the city.

The oval at the Island will be enlarged by the removal of the bicycle track and a large pavilion will be erected where the hotel now stands. Stands will be erected, arena fashion, around the entire field and a large covered stand will be constructed on top of the present grandstand, adding largely to the seating capacity of the grounds.

Other improvements are also contemplated, and when they are completed it is expected that the Island will boast one of the finest athletic grounds in the Dominion.

When the club is started one of the first questions to be settled will be that of the manager for next year.

It seems to be the belief of many that the playing manager idea is wrong, and next year the services of a bench manager will be secured. Just who will be asked to take hold of the club has not yet been decided, but Mr. Querre is favored. His regime has been a very successful one, and he has landed the club nearer to the Minto cup than any Toronto team has ever been before. He is very popular with the players, and is in every way qualified for the position.

If he is retained by the club his efforts will be supplemented by some capable eastern coach.

LORD DERBY HEADS ENGLISH WINNERS

Many Victories Have Won Over $100,000 for Peer—Pretty Polly After Title.

Lord Derby heads the list of winning owners on the British turf, his winnings now being in excess of $100,000. Major Eustace Loder comes second, with approximately $75,000. Others who have won $50,000 and upward are Col. Hall Walker, the Duke of Westminster, Lord Rosebery and Mr. L. Neuman. Keystone II. and Bridge of Conny have been Lord Derby's best winners. Spear-mint and Hammerkap have added the greatest amounts to Col. Loder's score. Gilpin heads the list of winning trainers, with nearly $150,000, and Ladas the list of winning sires, with approximately $100,000 won by his progeny. There has been a lively discussion in the sporting papers as to the relative merits of Signorina, Scepter and Pretty Polly. Each of these great mares was supreme in her time, and each has her advocates for the title of Queen of the Turf. On the record the admirers of Pretty Polly would seem to have the best of the argument. Signorina started 23 times and won 11; Scepter started 24 times and won 13; Pretty Polly started 23 times and won 22, and she may add to the score before she is permanently retired.

LACROSSE.

GOOD FINANCIAL YEAR.

Cornwall, Oct. 22.—The lacrosse season of 1906 is over, and it has been a great season in many respects, and financially the best in the history of the Cornwall Lacrosse Club. After paying off all the players the club have a surplus of between $2,500 and $3,000, which it is understood will be invested in grounds and a modern grandstand and clubhouse. The executive have already secured options on several suitable properties, and are expected to take action at once, so that the grounds may be put in shape this fall.

PAVEMENT IS AT LAST FINISHED

All of King Street Roadway Now Being Used—York St. Pavement Still Delayed.

The Kentucky rock asphalt pavement on King street, between Wellington and Maitland streets, is practically completed. Engineer Graydon made an inspection of the roadway yesterday, and he came to the conclusion that the property owners have got more than what was called for in the specifications for the work. Mr. Graydon says that in some places the broken stone sank three or four inches, and that in consequence the contractors were compelled to put in that much more material. The engineer, however, is not prepared to pass his verdict on the pavement. He prefers to wait for a time before doing so. He says that he expects it will sink in some places, but this will not lessen its value in the least, as the spots can easily be filled in with crushed stone and made as good as new. Mr. Graydon has been more or less worried over the pavement, owing to the delay in completing it. His pavement troubles, however, are not at an end for this season. He has the York street pavement still on his hands. Although the work between Talbot street and the York street was started in the middle of the month, it is still far from completion, the delay being occasioned by the failure of the contractors to get brick from Ohio. Brick has already been laid on the north side of the street as far west as Thames street, but on the south side not a brick has been put in place. Mr. Graydon has received a letter from the brick manufacturing company in Ohio, stating that a consignment of 2,000 bricks had been shipped a day or two ago, and that it would reach London at an early date. Once the material is here, the contractors will lose no time in getting it laid.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUERS

Give Reception to Model and Normal School Students.

The Epworth League of Dundas Centre Methodist Church gave a reception last evening to the students attending the Model and Normal Schools of the city, which was most thoroughly enjoyed by the large number who attended.

The school room of the church was prettily decorated and a number of original posters were hung around the room, containing caricatures and references suitable to the occasion.

A fine programme of a literary and musical character was presented, which was followed by refreshments.

Dr. Merchant, of the Normal School, in a brief address, thanked the members of the league for their courtesies in entertaining the students, and congratulated them on the splendid work in which they were engaged. He said he liked the idea of a reception of this nature, as it brought the students, who were strangers in the city, in touch with the churches.

SPECIAL PRAISE SERVICE

Beautiful Music Ably Rendered at Chalmers Church.

A special praise service was held in Chalmers Presbyterian Church on Sunday evening under the direction of Mr. Alec B. Stein, organist of the church. The service consisted of solos, duets, quartets and anthems, rendered in a very capable manner and enjoyed by a large congregation.

The choir was assisted by Mr. Harry Webb, of this city, who sang the solo, "O Eyes That Are Weary," with rare feeling. His solo was one of the most enjoyable features of the service.

Other pieces that were well rendered were the duet "Love Divine" from Stainer's "Daughter of Jarius," sung by Miss Ruthford and Mr. F. Christie, and the male quartet, "Along the River of Time," sung by Messrs. Christie, McGilp, Cruickshank and McPhail.

The chorus work of the choir was of a high order, and Mr. Stein is to be congratulated on having such a competent body of young and enthusiastic singers to assist him in Chalmers Church.

LADY'S NARROW ESCAPE

Thrown From Her Buggy to Pavement—Bad Driving.

Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock rather an unusual accident occurred on Richmond street just north of the Dundas street crossing. A lady was driving north on Richmond street in a high-seated buggy when she carelessly allowed the horse to get over too close to the sidewalk and one of the wheels caught on a hydrant. The horse was going at a lively clip, and the sudden stopping of the rig hurled the lady over the dashboard on to the pavement. Fortunately she escaped serious injury. The horse, which got free from the rig, ran a short distance up the street and then came to a standstill.

SYNDICATE'S BIG DEAL

Londoners Get 81,000 Acres of Land in Manitoba.

Mr. J. W. G. Winnett, of this city, has returned from Winnipeg, where he spent two weeks on business in connection with the recent purchase by a London syndicate of a large tract of land in Manitoba. The tract includes four townships in the southeastern section of the province, the total acreage of the same being over 81,000. The land is forty miles south of Winnipeg, and it is said to be very suitable for wheat. None of it, Mr. Winnett says, can be purchased for less than $10 an acre. Twenty-five thousand acres have already been disposed of. The names of the members of the syndicate are being kept a close secret, but Mr. Winnett says that the investment will pay magnificently, as the land will be rapidly sold once the Canadian Northern builds its two projected lines through that section.

CROWN WITNESS

"Didn't you say in your statement in London that it was Mulloy?"
"No."
"Collins told witness he would get $10 if he voted right, and Collins held the money. After the election witness went to Lewis' hotel and got $9.50 from Collins."

Would Support Gray.

Charles Paul got $10. A stranger met him before the election and asked him to vote for Hyman. Witness told the man he was a Conservative and would not vote for Hyman.

Paul did not vote at all, as he was not prepared to support Mr. Hyman's attitude on the school question, and two months after the election he was told that $10 had been set aside for him, and he went to the Guthrie House and got the money.

"What was Gray's stand in the election?" asked the magistrate.
Mr. Robbette laughed.
"Is it possible you did not hear of the autonomy issue? Mr. Gray was very strong in that."

The witness, in further explanation, stated that he, although a Conservative, had refused to vote for Gray, because the witness had been asked by relatives in Manitoba to not support the Conservative stand on the question.

Ex-Alderman William Heaman, of London, who was chairman of a sub-division in ward 3, was next examined. He stated that he got $20 from George Reid for legitimate expenses.

"Did you get any money from anyone else?"
"No."

"Did you arrange to pay Walter Griffith?"
"No; that's not true."

"Did Mulloy?"
"Not that I know of."

"Did you give Mulloy any money?"
"No."

"Do you know James Cooper?"
"Yes."

"Did you pay him any money?"
"No."

"What position did he hold?"
"The same as any other voter."

"He acted as deputy?"
"Not in my subdivision."

"He is out of the country now?"
"I don't know."

"He writes me your division was one of the crookedest in this city?"
"It's not so."

"You know Walter Vincent?"
"Yes."

"Did you see him?"
"No."

"Did you see Mr. Alf. Talbot?"
"No."

"You know Ed. Croden?"
"Yes."

"Did you give money to any other men?"
"No."

"Directly or indirectly did you pay any money for votes?"
"No, I did not."

"What money did you pay out?"
"I paid $2 to Jas. Hussey, who was inside scrutineer."

"Did you take receipts?"
"No."

"What else?"
"I paid the inside constable and others."

"How much in all?"
"About $20."

"You made no return of how you disbursed the money?"
"No."

"Did you see Reid again about money?"
"Twenty dollars was all you got from him."

"Yes."
"Messrs. Southcott, Tucker, Murray and others."

"Who is Walter Griffith?"
"I don't know him."

"Collins tells me that Mulloy came to him directly from you and that you had spoken to Mulloy about Griffith?"
"It's not so."

This concluded this witness' examination.

Bertie D. Grant, of Goderich, said he knew John O'Gorman, but he had no connection with him in the election in London.

O'Gorman at the time.
"Do you know J. G. Pritchett?"
"I don't know him."

"He is the man who went up to instruct the deputies?"
"I don't know him."

"Did you meet any strangers in the election up there?"
"I can't say."

"You never brought any men to Pritchett to be instructed?"
"No."

"You know Vance?"
"I do."

"Was he up there?"
"I don't think I knew him at the time."

"Did you ever nominate any deputies?"
"Never in my life."

"That work did you do?"
"Very little."

"You did not meet O'Gorman?"
"Witness said he did not meet Mr. Reid in West Huron."

"Who were the candidates in this election?"
"Holmes and McLean."

"Did you take any men to a hotel to meet another man?"
"No."

"Did you not say that if they did not treat you right you would squeal, too?"
"I did not."

"You left Goderich since your name was connected with this case?"
"I may have."

"Did you see Lewis Mather at Clinton?"
"No."

"Talk with anyone from London about this case?"
"No."

"When did you last see Tom Lewis?"
"In the court room today."

"Did you see Sifton at Clinton?"
"No."

"Or Tom Lewis?"
"No."

"You have seen Pritchett?"
"Not that I am aware of."

"Were you called at any election investigation?"
"No."

"You know Capt. Sullivan?"
"I have seen him."

"You swear you brought no men to Pritchett as possible deputies?"

"Yes, I swear it."
"Did you write anybody in connection with a deputyship?"
"No."
"You never got any money?"
"No."

"Did you tell anybody you would squeal if you were not treated right?"
"No."

"If men swear you took them to Pritchett to be trained as deputies they will be swearing what is not true?"
"It will be false."

"You met Smith up there?"
"Yes."

"Pritchett swears you brought deputies to him?"
"That's false."

"I intend to follow this up, and will give you every chance, I am told you say, to tell me the truth."

"You know a man named Farr?"
"Yes."

"Were you told he was not a safe man?"
"No."

"Did you talk with a man named Horton about the deputies, and that you told Pritchett to let Farr go?"
"I did not."

The court then adjourned.

In Baking Power—it is Strong's. There are a number of good reasons why it is best, but the three principal reasons are:
First—Only the purest and finest materials are used. Second—It is all Baking Powder—no adulterants added to make weight. Third—It is always fresh and full of strength. Hence, very good reason is that it costs one half the price of other good powders. Have you tried Strong's Baking Powder?

THE MOLSONS BANK

Fifty-First Annual General Meeting Was Held on Monday.

The 51st annual general meeting of the Molsons Bank was held in the board room of that institution at 3 o'clock on Monday afternoon.

The president, Mr. William Molson Macpherson, occupied the chair, and others present were Messrs. S. H. Ewing, vice-president; J. P. Cleghorn, Lieut.-Col. Fred C. Henshaw, H. Markland Molson, W. M. Ramsay, Alex. D. George, George Durnford, C. E. Sprague, S. Piddington, A. G. Wilson, Dr. J. E. Sheppard, J. W. Molson and R. W. Sheppard.

The president, having called the meeting to order, requested Mr. A. D. Durnford to act as secretary, and that gentleman read the advertisement convening the meeting.

Report of Directors.
The general manager, Mr. James Elliot, then read the annual report of the directors, as follows:

"The directors beg to submit the following report for the year ending September 29, 1906.

"The business of the bank has been prosperous and shows a steady growth. The profits for the year, after providing for bad and doubtful debts, amount to $424,668.34, which, together with $31,417.93 brought over from last year, have been appropriated to payment of four quarterly dividends of 2 1/2 per cent each; to business taxes, $13,709.49; to officers' pension fund, $10,000; and to expenditure on bank premises at branches, $115,389.55, leaving at credit of profit and loss $26,867.23.

Since our last meeting eight branches have been opened in Ontario and Quebec at points which seemed to offer business advantages, or to protect our existing interests, and at Edmonton, Alberta. It was thought advisable to establish one in view of the prospect of great increase of population and wealth in that district.

All the branches have been, as usual, carefully inspected.

The officers of the bank have faithfully discharged their duties, and the directors, Mr. William Molson Macpherson was elected president, and Mr. S. H. Ewing, vice-president, for the ensuing year.

The scrutineers thereupon reported the re-election of the retiring board of directors, viz., Messrs. J. P. Cleghorn, S. H. Ewing, Lieut.-Col. Fred Henshaw, H. Markland Molson, William Molson Macpherson, William C. McIntyre and W. M. Ramsay.

The president then thanked the shareholders for their attendance, and for the work they had done for the advantage of the bank generally.

A subsequent meeting of the directors, Mr. William Molson Macpherson was elected president, and Mr. S. H. Ewing, vice-president, for the ensuing year.

A PRESENTATION.

A very pleasant incident occurred on Sunday afternoon in St. Matthew's Sunday school, when the superintendent, Mr. Moulton, was presented with a watch guard and chain, suitably engraved, and an address by the teachers and officers of the Sunday school. Mr. Depotte read the address and Miss L. Mullett made the presentation. Mr. Moulton replied in a few words thanking the teachers for their kindness. Advertiser Correspondence

MRS. GEORGE'S CASE.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:
There appeared a short time ago in your daily paper an account of the deportation of Mrs. George and family from the city to England, and stated that the Government had deported this family. Now, I beg space in your valuable paper to correct matters, as I am in a position to do so, being the Salvation Army agent for Western Ontario.

The Salvation Army Immigration department in Toronto holds this woman's medical certificate, which was satisfactory. She was also passed at the port of landing, and by appearance this woman looked in good health, but shortly after coming to London she was taken ill and sent to the hospital, and there the doctors pronounced her affected with tuberculosis, also that her children were affected. This was reported to Immigration. She was then taken to have her deported, and papers arrived from Ottawa which were filed out and sent in. Meanwhile the Salvation Army officials at Toronto notified me (their agent) to make all arrangements for her going back to England. I accordingly arranged matters. Mrs. George and family sailed from Montreal on Oct. 6, and the Salvation Army paid her passage and that of her children.

The report also said she was cared for by the city all the time she was here. Now, we appreciate all the city did for her in the hospital, but wish to know she was staying with Mrs. Forster of Elizabeth Street, a considerable time, and also at the Salvation Army Home in the city a few days. I would like to say the Salvation Army is prepared to meet cases of emergency and deport them if necessary, if they have come through our agency. Thanking you for your kindness, Yours,

JOHN MCGILLIVRAY,
Staff-Captain, 552 Adelaide Street

AN UNUSUAL OCCASION

East End Church Celebrates Anniversary and Its Freedom From Debt.

The congregation and invited guests of the Christian Church, East London, were down to a delightful banquet last evening. In addition to the anniversary, the church celebrated the clearance of its long-standing debt.

The cosy Sunday school parlors, which were filled to overflowing with the company, were tastefully decorated. No admission fee was charged. Short addresses were given by the following pastors: C. C. Sinclair, of St. Thomas, who formerly ministered in the East London church; Amos Towell, Guelph, secretary of the Ontario mission board; D. S. Hamilton, of the First Congregational Church, James Rollins, of the King Street Presbyterian Church, and Elder Wickert, who formerly ministered to the Bible Christians in this same church; and E. R. Wilson, secretary of the Y. M. C. A. Several other ministers sent their regrets at not being able to be present.

—The W. C. T. U. eleventh annual convocation, "The Bridal Wedding and Miss Carmichael, of the Conservatory of Elocution, gave an excellent reading. A very pleasant feature of the evening's programme was the reading of letters of congratulation from former pastors: T. L. Fowler, of Medina, Ohio, and George Fowler, of Southport, England.

A number of members from neighboring churches were present—Baptist, Congregational, Anglican, Presbyterian and Methodist—and a happy fellowship was enjoyed by the pastor, E. R. Black, and wife, evidently having a rare time for denominational lines. The occasion was a delightful one, and will leave very pleasant memories with those who were present.

WOULD ATTACH $100,000

Certificate Holders of Defunct Life Company Sue for Big Sum.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 22.—Legal formalities necessary to attach in the sum of $100,000 the property of the Hartford Life Insurance Company, having an office here, and the Security Trust Company, both incorporated under the laws of this state, were carried out by the sheriff today in the suit brought against these two companies by certain men representing a so-called safety fund of the company which amounts to more than $1,000,000. The defendants are ordered to make an accounting and to pay over to the receiver all sums received from certificate holders in connection with the "safety fund."

The suit is returnable in the superior court at Newhaven on Nov. 6.

The company, which ceased business in 1899, was organized to issue a holding plan in 1867, but since the former date has continued to collect premiums on outstanding certificates, as if it were continuing business, it being alleged that in 1899 the outstanding risks amounted to $90,000,000.

Prior to 1899 the company invented a plan of assessment life insurance which was designated as "The safety fund plan," by which $3 was collected on each $1,000 of insurance and put into a fund, the surplus of which was to be distributed among the certificate holders. This "safety fund" was to be deposited with the Security Trust Company.

The plaintiffs in the suit just brought claim that the stockholders having authorized the collection of assessments, the company has ceased to write any more insurance, have thus far failed to make distribution of the safety fund and that the intent is to keep that fund for their own advantage through a final wiping out of certificates due to lapses following increased and exorbitant assessments.

POSTURE CAUSE OF HER EXPOSURE

Girl's Way of Sitting on a Chair Proves That She Is Not of Noble Blood.

Paris, Oct. 22.—In her prison Mme. Bouillet, young and pretty, bitterly regrets that one day recently she seated herself on the edge of a chair. "I would to heaven," cries madame, "that I had planted myself solidly on that execrable chair; filled it even if my attitude left my feet to dangle in mid-air."

For the fact that she deposited her fine figure on the chair as if it was a side saddle discovered that the Bouillet woman is not the Marquis de la Ferroniere, under which high sounding title she has been masquerading; discovered, too, that she is an adroit swindler whose male confederate, Mauruit, escaped justice only by dying at the most opportune moment.

And, more instructive and amusing, the position of the pseudo-marquise on the chair has provoked infinite discussion.

Learned judges during Mme. Bouillet's trial heard her testimony as to how a marchioness should be seated on a chair. Society is discussing the question with so much animation that a noble woman cannot be seated without assuming a self-conscious expression which says plainly:

"Behold, this is the correct pose." The chair fatal to the false Marquise de la Ferroniere, a title as old as Francis I, was in the shop of a dealer in those delicate creations which are named generally limousines. Madame allowed herself to be tempted by the delicious things she saw in the window, entered, apparently fell deeper into temptation and finally ordered her innumerable purchases to be sent to her address, which she gave.

Scarcely had she departed when a shop girl said to the proprietress: "I strongly suspect the rank of that lady. Think, did you ever see a real marchioness sit on the edge of the chair as she did?"

The shopkeeper, who has many aristocratic customers, grew suspicious too. But cautious, she consulted a friend who used to be femme de chambre to an eccentric princess of Holstein, who has since died at Cairo.

"You grievously wrong the marquise," said this authority on noble manners. "Her attitude on a chair proves not only her rank, but that she is accustomed to move in court circles, she sits, in the Russian court, for etiquette is lax at the winter palace, and even at Peterhof. In all other courts, if a sovereign or a royal highness, or even a serene highness, invites a lady to be seated, she places herself on a chair's edge, almost on one hip. Thus she always faces the king or queen, and with her hands folded on her lap, waits to be spoken to, her attitude proving that she recognizes that she is only a part of the room's furniture."

But the so-called Marquise de la Ferroniere did not pay promptly for the limousines and laces she had ordered. The shopkeeper made further inquiries, in which the police assisted. At last they learned that the "marquise" formerly kept a perfume shop, and that about two years ago her admirer, Mauruit, easily persuaded her that it was far easier to live by one's wit than by selling essences and pomades.

Thereafter Mme. Bouillet lived in an atmosphere not of white roses and violet, but of swindling intrigue. Mauruit led a confident but rich tradespeople, know that the "marquise" was about to enter into possession of an estate worth $50,000,000. To others he appeared as a Corsican count and whispered that he was about to marry the "marquise"; that she would set aside the interest of $1,000,000 to maintain the splendid establishment they would set up; that she was about to buy a chateau and a stud farm.

The credulous merchants crowded each other to supply the noble lady with jewels, gowns, wines, costly house furnishings. Some even paid Mauruit commissions for bringing her valuable custom to them, and he accumulated $15,000.

Unluckily for the Bouillet woman he was, more unluckily, she sat on the edge of a chair. Suspecting she was suspected, she fled to Caen, but was arrested.

After being enlightened on the aristocratic and court ladies the judges sentenced her to two years' imprisonment and forbade her to live here for three years after her release. So now she regrets that she seated herself in sight of that observant shopgirl.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

Claus Spreckels will risk no more earthquakes in San Francisco. He has purchased the white marble mansion of Isaac Stern at 855 Fifth Avenue, New York, and will become a permanent resident. The Pacific sugar king will be right in the millionaire colony, his new property adjoining the residence of George J. Gould and the late Charles T. Yerkes. Opposite, on Sixty-eighth street, is the Whitney mansion. Mr. Spreckels' mansion on Nob Hill, one of the finest in San Francisco, was badly damaged in the recent earthquake and fire.

The highest price ever paid for any great construction, to be called the Palais Philharmonique, is to replace the old circus in the Champs Elysees, Paris. The site has been ceded for 50 years to M. Armand by the city of Paris. The Palais Philharmonique will be built within 18 months from now and will have a large concert hall, with seating accommodations for 2,000 persons.

HOKEY.

THE CORNWALL OUTLOOK.

Cornwall, Oct. 22.—It is a trifle early to talk hockey, but the grand old winter time is not far distant, and as Cornwall does not meddle with football the local admirers of athletics are already discussing Cornwall's chances of chasing the puck next winter. Really Cornwall was never better supplied with first-class material. All last year's team are here and to the fore besides several others who are first-raters. Jack Hunter, who a couple of years ago was acknowledged to be the best goalkeeper in Canada, has returned to Cornwall from Winnipeg. "Reddy" McMillan, whose ability is well known, is here, and intends to remain. Cornwall, These two, with "Bud" McCourt, "Newy" Lalonde, Bob Malette, Donald Smith, Garnet McDonald, Clarence McDonald and A. Degray would furnish a strong fast seven. There are also Lee McCourt, George Airey, B. Cairns, and a couple of dozen fast young players. In fact, Cornwall has players enough for two teams, and it is quite possible that they may have one in the Federal or Eastern and one in the O. H.

THE TURF.

OUTSIDER WON.

New York, Oct. 22.—On a heavy track, Belmont, an outsider in the betting, won the Pierrepont handicap, one mile and a furlong, the feature of the opening at Jamaica today. Out of twenty carded to go in this race, only eight went to the post, including Coy Maud, a 3 to 1 favorite. Good Luck and Disabille were well supported.

Belmore and Coy Maud raced to the front in the first furlong, and soon had a lead of four lengths. At the far turn Coy Maud dropped back. Belmore continued to show the way, but Disabille closed up with a determined rush in the
