The question of Niagara power, is not the least of the latest questions serious one for the Province, and the municipalities. Since it became a public issue, much has been heard of gas power as a rival of energy produced by steam or electricity. The gas producer plant now in use at the Mc-Clary Works would appear to be a competitor worthy the most careful investigation. If it can do what is claimed for it, it has a distinct bearing upon the Niagara power project which is now before the people of Lendon for their decision. Representative men from St. Thomas have examined the plant, and have been ap- Hon. A. G Mackay referred to the reparently much impressed. SCHOOL MAKING PUGS

Football Polite Term for Prize Fighting, Says Kankakee Lawyer.

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 1.-A bill to restrain the authorities from permitting prize fighting in Kankakee public schools was filed in the circuit court today by Stephen R. Moore, dean of Attorney Moore filed his bill after he had watched the high school football play one or two matches. He failed to see any difference between the gridiron game, as the boys played it, and prize fighting, except that possibly it was rougher and more dangerous to life and limb. To Attorney Moore's vision the high school gridiron is simply an enlarged prize ring in which two sets of youths pommel one another till one side is so mauled and disabled that the other s declared winner. And since prize fighting is illegal Mr. Moore fails to ee why the subterfuge under which it is carried on should be permitted.

The bill for an injunction is directed against L. W. Smith, principal of the high school, and F. N. Tracy, superintendent of city schools. It is pecifically designated "a bill for an processor and the control of njunction to restrain prize fighting in the public schools." Attorney Moore carefully ignores the polite term "football." What he objects to is the encouragement given by the school authorities to prize fighting. He points out in his bill that the purpose of the board of education is to provide a common school education for persons between the ages of 5 and 21 years, and that no authority has been conferred upon the board or on any teacher or principal to train the pupils as prize fighters. The bill declares that "L. W. Smith. employed by the board of education in the capacity of principal of the out of the school that travels from place to place in the state if Illinois and engages in contests of prize

The Agauni Cobalt Mines, Limited, has been duly incorporated under Ontario law, and has acquired and paid for 360 acres of valuable lands in the Cobalt and Larder Lake Districts. No work has been done on the Larder Lake properties as yet, it being deemed advisable to hold these properties until further developments have been made in that district, and until better transportation has

On the other hand, work on the Cobalt property, which lies in the township of Bucke, immediately north of the Nipissing, Coniagas, Tretheway, Temiscaming and Hudson Bay and other prominent shipping mines, has been pushed with much vigor during this summer. This property was acquired as a "prospect" and as a Staked Mining Claim only. It has now been

'passed," and the Patent applied for. The work done on the property this summer consisted principally of the sinking of two shafts on the main vein, a shaft on a vein showing Hematite Iron on the surface, and in stripping, trenching and crosscutting the surface of the ground in the endeavor to find other veins.

Up to date four* veins have been located, assays and samples received showing gold and silver on the surface, while at a depth considerable quantities of copper have been uncovered, and the latest assay from the Main Shaft (35 feet deep), has shown

1,582 Cunces of Silver to the Ton

This is a very remarkable showing and amply justifies the expectations of the Company, The Board of Directors (officered as above), consists of some of the most prominent and successful businessmen of the city of London, who refused to permit these Agauni Cobalt shares to be offered to the public until they had demonstrated at their own cost that the shares were worth offering to their fellow citizens. At a recent meeting of the members of the Board it was unanimously agreed to that they could now conscientiously offer these shares, although certain members of the Board offered to furnish funds for the further prosecution of development, and in fact sufficient money was subscribed at that meeting to guarantee a contract for an addition of 50 feet to the Main shaft, which will give a total of depth of 85 feet. That contract has been let, and the Peninsular Securities Company has acquired the sole right to of fer a block of development shares to the public at 10 cents per share. These shares will carry no further liability beyond this 10 cents per share, being absolutely non-assessable, and every dollar of money received by the company from the sale of these shares will be faithfully put aside to further develop the Company's properties. You are now invited to subscribe for these shares at the above-mentioned price of 10 cents per share. This price will shortly be advanced to a figure more reasonably near the actual value of the shares, this issue being made at this time in this way for the purpose of enabling the fellow-citizens of the Directors to take advantage of what appears to be the second best Cobalt property that has been offered to Londoners by Londoners, the first being the famous Temiscaming and Hudson Bay, which was offered here by ex-Mayor George Taylor, but not taken up, unfortunately for those who refused to invest, as those one-dollar shares are now

The weather forecast for November y Rev. Irl R. Hicks, summed up in a few words, promises rather a pleasant autumn season. Upon the whole we are promised an average month for all exposed and outdoor interests. Much fair and open weather will alternate with brief storm periods. The rainfall will be light, but November will go out with rain, and possibly lightning and thunder in many places southward, with rising barometer and rapid change to much colder heading down from the north west with the incoming December.

Sheep for Oregon. Rodney Mercury: A. D. McGugan has sold his entire flock of Lincoln sheep to John B. Stumpf, the millionaire sheepman of Oregon. This is probably the largest sale of pure-PARNELL, The Bread Man bred sheep ever made in Western Ontario. The flock numbers 151 head, and the price paid was $3,450. Many expressions of regret are heard among stockmen that such a fine flock of the popular Lincoln should go out of the country. Such sales as these should tempt our young farmers to start a flock of some of the breeds of sheep that are now so much in able to their owners.

Seeks to Quash Bylaw. Messrs. Meredith, Fisher & Macdonald, barristers, of London, have written the city of Stratford on behalf of Miss Walker, of that city, residing on Nelson street, proposing if nothing is done within ten days from the date of the letter, Oct. 26, to institute proceedings to quash the bylaw closing the crossing over the Goderich track of the G. T. R. This closing was done by bylaw of the city council in view of the new shops building now undergoing erection, which being built right up to the street line and also close up to the track, would, it was believed, render the crossing a very dangerous one.

Abuse of the Flag. Hamilton Municipal Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, met Friday morning, Mrs. P. D. Crerar, the regent, presiding. A letter was read from Mr. Acton, editor of the Canadian Home Journal, in which he spoke of the abuse of the flag, in Canada. He complained that it was being put to such common use, such as advertising, that people of Canada would not respect it. He asked that the ladies take the matter in hand and see what could be done. result is displeasing. Some of the best covers sent in have this fault.

In one neatly-drawn cover a border runs across each end and across the middle. Part of the middle space is given to the title, and to me it looks as though the poor title were being shoved off the end of the seat. The surface pattern drawn by May Myers, King street, is splendid, but those rude little flowers of yours, May, have forgotten that it was not their party and have pushed the real hostess, 'Autumn," almost down and out.

I wish Grade III., Victoria, had tried something simpler. I cannot feel that Stanley Rayn and Richard Pulfier have done their best. This class has plenty of imagination, so I shall expect them to stand well in their next lesson.

It is rarely desirable to have two kinds of decoration on the same cover. If Grade III., Rectory, had used the border alone, balancing the lettering with it, the results would have been more satisfactory. These covers are carefully done, however, and this class III., Princess avenue school. deserves considerable credit. When we know two or three things, it is so difficult to keep from doing them all at once. We are so afraid that we may never again have a chance to do just that kind of thing.

The covers made by Grade II., Rectory, are neatly done, but the lettering is far too small, and in pencil. It should have been in black crayon

The outline of the covers in every case should have been in black crayon, or ink. Can you not realize what your cover would look like if border and lettering unenclosed should appear in the paper?

One of the very best covers sent in is in charcoal. It is so good that I have forgiven this oversight. You were told not to use charcoal.

Isabel Thompson, III., Chesley avenue, has rather an odd, pleasing arrangement. Had her printing been 4. Lionel Parker, Colborne street better I would have gone over the pencil edges of her book and allowed 5. Harold Jeffries, Talbot street hers to go among the six best. Try to improve your lettering, Isabel. 6. Marjorie Herald, Rectory street

Fred Robinson, Grade I., King street, had a delightful border, but the lettering was so small, and thin, you could hardly see it. The border claimed the whole attention. Not that it was too bold, but that the title did not assert itself. Had your lettering 4. Tommy Jones, Princess avenue been equal to the border you would have won a prize quite easily, Fred.

5. Lonie Hill, Chesley avenue school. I am afraid one class is color blind. They have used brown instead of 6. Fred Orum, Rectory street school. black crayon. CRITICISMS ON BOOKCOVERS

Some of the covers show a wedgeshaped arrangement similar to the decoration on the fourth cover, illustrating your last lesson, but it is turned up the other way and thus has the effect of tending to split the title in two. We do not feel this so strongly in the drawing made by Alice Darch. Ib., Princess avenue, partly because Let us find out where our mistakes the unit is broad and partly on account of the space occupied by the group of units.

Several classes had good drawings of grasses, cornstalks, cattails, etc., necessary to the bookcover? It would but they were not balanced and prim enough for design. Had they been balanced under the middle of the letso we decided that it was the title's tering and secondary to it or composed party, and that the flowers were asked within the edges of a panel at the left to come in and help decorate the side, your poor, much-abused title cover so as to make it attractive as would not have been thrust into the corner as it was in many cases. If a hole gape upon you, lay a bit of lace under it and darn it deftly, blending the edges of the bit of underlying lace with the main body of the curtain until the join is not wisible to the casual observer.

If the scallop outer edge of the curtain be frayed, run a double thread along the curve to keep it in shape, and so over the frayed places with buttonhole stitches, neatly imitating the origanal scallon.

Be careful not to draw the thread too tightly, as it will shrink away from the curtain in the wash, and the rent be made worse. When you think the task as done, hold up the curtain between you and the light and scrutinize it narrowly for thin spots that will break forth into holes under the operator's hand.

I take it for granted that you have a groom that can be utilized for the ceremony. My mentor thought her spare room none too good. But she protected the carpet with a rubber sheet. The best conceivable place is an attic that has a clean floor. Lay thick white wrapping paper down first.

The damp flour supplies the slight stiffness desirable to keep the curtains smooth. It is well known to everybody that a touch of starch will prevent thin stuffs and linen from soiling so soon as they would if limp.

To starch our curtains stiffly would hinder them from hanging in soft, large folds, and make them brittle. To Wash White Lace in the Old Way.

Our foremothers set apart a special day for the ceremony of lace-washing, and "did up" yards upon yards of the figured cobwebs that were accounted riches as truly as gold and lands. The laces were put to soak overnight in warm water.

In warm water.

Next morning they were washed in tepid suds made of ripe old soap, so bland that there was no risk of drastic alkali eating into the cobwebs. They washed with their own fingers, tenderly, but getting out all the dirt, and passing through never less than three rinsing waters.

They kept a store of big-bodied bottles for the next and most delicate stage of the operation. Tall bottles, as well as big of girth, were in demand. One woman whose laces stood next to her flesh and blood in her matronly affections, went to the pains and expense of denuding two large demijohns of their casings and used them for her lace cleaning

They were kept under lock and key when not in use.

The bottles were wound with strips of The bottles were wound with strips of old linen from neck to bottom. Each strip of lace was pulled into shape while wet, and still damp, and was basted round and round like a winding stair-case upon the linen-swathed bottle.

I say "basted" because the term applies to stitches set for the stripe. plies to stitches set for a temporary purpose. But the work, done with a fine needle and No. 80 cotton, was a fine needle and No. 80 cotton, was a work of art.

Every point and scallop had a stitch of its own, and the selvaged opposite line was laid in place by a thread.

When the last stitch was set the bottle was dipped into pure, soft water, set in the window where the sun lay longest and hottest and left there all day.

Once in every hour the bottle was moistened and turned to let the other moistened and turned to let the other side get the benefit of the sun and air. The lace was thus not quite dry when it was taken off at evening. Each stitch was clipped with a pair of keen scissors. To pull on a thread would endanger a figure or point.

The liberated web was laid lightly, not to strain it out of shape, on the ironing board and pressed with a hot iron over several folds of fiannel and through a cambric pocket handkerchief.

aron over several folds of flannel and through a cambric pocket handkerchief. Finally it was folded in lengths, such as it had when it was bought, and laid away in a box with a close lid. If there be a better way of doing up lace edgings and insertions than that practiced in a time so distant that we think of is as twilight-land, I have never found it.

I still wind my narrower Valenciennes, thread, point, duchess and maline laces on a big-bodied bottle and set it in the southern window on a sunny day, and they last me well and long. To Clean Dry Lace.

Dry-cleansing is a product of the latest years of the nineteenth century—one of the countless labor-made-easy devices we are inventing as time grows scarce and "hired help" dearer.

Prepare the hot salted flour as directed a while ago, regulating the quantity by the number of pieces you have to clean. Half fill a heated pan with the hot mixture, put in your lace and go through the motions of washing, as with suds with suds.
Work carefully to avoid unnecessary friction, but rub every part of the lace between your fingers, as if you were soaping it and then working the soap into the soiled lace.

Having gone over it twice in this manner, shake out the loose flour, cover with a fresh supply so generous that the lace is buried out of sight, and set away for a day.

Knowing what a poor sham the "antique" is, we cling to the notion that dignity, if not value, is attached to yellowed lace. The foremothers we were Put the soiled lace into an earthen-ware bowl. Cover deep with gasoline and wash as in suds. If you can get a pair of rubber gloves, draw them on your hands and fasten at the wrist before falling to work.

Gasoline acts unhappily upon tender skins. Souse the lace up and down in the liquid, paying especial attention to the soiled places. Then set the bowl in a pan of boiling water, throw a thick cloth over both, and leave the lace in the gasoline until the water in the outer vessel is cold. Lift the lace, lay in a clean cloth and squeeze out the gasoclean cloth and squeeze out the gas

There should be a quart and a pint to begin with. Wash the gloves before they are boiled, going over them, inside and out, with a bit of soft fiannel and soap suds. They must boil to a pulp.

Fish them out of the boiling water, wring out all the colored liquid in them back into the water and throw the gloves away. Let the water cool for ten minutes, or until you can bear the hand in it without flinching, and souse the lace up and down in it for five minutes, if it was very rusty. Do not let it lie in the water for a second, but keep it the water for a second, but keep it moving.

Squeeze hard in a soft, dry linen napkin until no more drops ooze through the cloth. Unfold the lace upon a clean towel and begin at once to pull the lace into shape, not skipping a single thread. Iron while it is damp, covering it with tissue paper and pressing through it.

Press lightly on the right side to get the lace in order for a harder pressure on the wrong side, to bring out the pattern and to "firm" the mesh.

the delicate task of coaxing the dampened fibers and figures into shape.

Wide laces should be spread on the very fine cotton. Every point and curve of the edge should have a stitch.

Professional cleaners make an extra charge when this is done—another reason why the economical lace owner should learn to do it at home.
Do not be tempted into using bleaches Do not be tempted into using bleaches in the operation. If the lace be badly soiled, stir a little borax into the water in which it is soaked and washed. It is safe and efficacious. It is safe and efficacious.

If you are rich in laces and prize them aright, you will do well to keep on hand thin, long boards, or pasteboards, to wind the cleaned laces on before put-

Wind them loosely and without wind them loosely and without stretching. Lace shawls should not be folded, but dropped lightly, each in a separate box, to lie there in a careless heap.

Kept in this way, the finest laces will never crease or cut in the folds.

HAVE always enjoyed the Exchange, and have long wished to contribute my quota to it. If you can use the follow-ing practical "littles" for the general good, ing practical "littles" for the general good, I shall be pleased.

1. For cleaning paint: Allow to a bar of ripe laundry soap a quart of water and two tablespoonfuls of kerosene. Shave the soap into strips and boil in the water. When you have a soft mixture, add sablespoonfuls of kerosene.

Shave the soap into strips and boil in the mater. When you have a soft mixture, add the oil. Mix well and apply to the walls with an oid paintbrush. Have at hand a pail of clean water with which to rinse the walls when you have scrubbed them.

If you do this at once and then wipe dry with soft cloths, you will save much work and time.

2. When preparing vegetables for cooking spread a newspaper over your lap or the table to catch the waste. It may be removed easily when the work is done, and it keeps lap and table clean.

Old papers should be kept for this and many another use in the kitchen.

3. In baking bread we find it best to mix the dough in the evening, winter and summer. It does not sour in summer if dry yeast be used, as some suppose, and may be shaped into loaves or baked the first thing in the morning.

Then it is out of the way for the day. I do not take much time for kneading, but, of course, it must be smooth and even. I have excellent results with less trouble than formerly.

Now, a few words on the boarding versus housekeeping question: There is nothing like having your own house and living to yourselves. I have been married and at housekeeping for seventeen years, and am still always interested in new ways of pre-

It does not hurt one to know how to keep house and to learn how to cook. Even rich g,rls will find such knowledge useful.

Mrs. H. E. (Davenport, Iowa).

Our wholesome-souled, right-minded woman has put her finger upon a truth so patent and pertinent that it is odd how few take it to heart and put it into practice in bringing up daughters for the work of life. No matter how rich an American girl may be by prospective inheritance, or in her own present right, she cannot af-ford to enter upon the duties of married

"The cows give three times as much milk as we can possibly use, madam. Wouldn't it be a good plan to buy a churn and make butter?"

"That would be a great deal of trouble," objected the mistress. "Why not milk just what we need, and not bother about the rest?"

We all join in the laugh, but whose is the fault that young women undertake a profession for which they have no more training than you and I, dear housetraining than you and I, dear hous mother, have for railroad building? From the outset our bride is handicapped by her ignorance. Servants play upon it and she is their abject slave. "How do you keep your servants so long when the rest of us are changing constantly?" asked one matron of another.

Both were rich women and each kept

Both were rich women and each kept a full staff of domestics.

"I think the chief reason is that I know how their work should be done," was the quiet reply.

"Each is persuaded in her own mind that if she were to leave me today I could step into her place and discharge her duties better than she can herself. It makes one delightfully independent." I could write a volume on the subject. It is one that lies painfully near my heart, and every day brings new tilustrations of the short-sightedness of mothers who yet hold their girls' happiness dearer than their own.

When wet, it must be turned inside out, leaving the feathers in the warm sucs. Souse and swash them around for a while; run the wet mass through the wringer and rinse in clear, lukewarm water.

Have ready several bags of cheesecloth, each half the size of a pillow tick. Into these toss the moist feathers, a handful at a time; when all are filled, shake and toss and turn them in the open air and sunshine, and leave out of doors to dry shaking and turning every hour until the sunshine has gone.

The Crust Only About Twenty Miles Thick, and Earthquakes, Volcanoes and Mountains the Results of Leaks -Endeavoring to Demolish Prevailing Theories.

In the September number of the Proceedings of the American Philosophical Society, Professor T. J. J. See, U. S. N., has a memoir of the cooling of the earth and the theory of earthquakes held by the Each is about fifteen feet in height ancients. In part the memoir is a further and is as yellow as mud. In this way they explain earthquakes and mountain they tear up the rocky bed of the formations. Now comes Professor See with Nile, lifting stones weighing many tons an elaborate argument more exhaustive that that of Lord Kelvin, tending to show that the effects of secular cooling of the globe are insensible, and totally denying the contraction of the earth.

Professor See's memoirs may be summarized as follows: The earth's temperature has an elliptical distribution within, being about 8,300 degrees Fahrenheit at the center, and falling off toward the surface, where it is zero. As the earth slowly cooled, the crust was the only part which experienced an appreciable fall in tempera-

Hence the crust is thin, with a thickness of not more than twenty miles, which agrees with the depth deduced from the study of the world-shaking earthquakes. The great earthquakes originate at a depth of about twenty miles, and none is known of a depth exceeding forty miles. As the earthquakes all have superficial origin, and no shakes have a deeper The Tailor and Cutter, London, source, it follows that there is no deepseated contraction of the earth. Conse quently all changes in the crust are due to ordinary earthquakes, and to no other

It was dusk when we paused to ook back for a last glimpse of "Villa Caruso." In the magic hour of twilight, its white walls glimmered in ague spectral beauty, with only the huge tower rising clear against the sky, still streaked with sunset color, like an eastern minaret—a minaret that boasts an incomparable muezzin in Signor Caruso whose voice calls together so many devout worshipers of his divine art.

All the efforts made to improve the Bears the condition of slum-dwellers in the con- Signature rested senters of population are in the direction of giving them more light, though the ostensible objects in view are to provide more fresh air and cleaner quarters. Undoubtedly fresh air and cleanliness are of great importance; but most essential of all is light. When through the aid of "fresh air funds" and other charitable means the children of the slums enjoy the advantage of a vacation in the country, it is the opportunity of unlimited light that does them more good than anything else.

While a coat of tan is regarded as accentuating feminine beauty, because it is the very hue of health, the girl who freckles is usually reluctant to expose herself to sunshine. It is a pity, because the freckles, like tan and for the same reason, are properly to be regarded as a sign of physical viger. A young woman who is subject to freckles is likely to find that she feels better in proportion to the number of reckles she has. In the winter time of course she has comparatively few, because of relative nonexposure If she wishes to get rid of them altogether, she can do so by remaining In the dark. It acts as a powerful tonio to the kidneys, forcing them to filter out the acids and poisons, overcoming rheumatism, lame back, sciatica and other afflictions arising from sour, impure blood.

The ingredients can be procured at any good drug store, and being purely vegetable and entirely harmless, can casily be mixed at home. If you have a suffering friend show

BEER* IS GOOD FOR MOST FOLKS (HARDLY ANOTHER BEVERAGE FEEDS SO WELL)

EER really excels milk as a food-drink for most grown people. And many, many people cannot digest milk easily, because it is so lacking in solid food-contents.

Moreover, milk is so liable to contagion that it is seldom pure when we get it in the cities. But Ontariobrewed beer is really pure,-brewed in cleanliness, of sound materials, in a sanitary way, and brought to the user in the same fit-to-drink state.

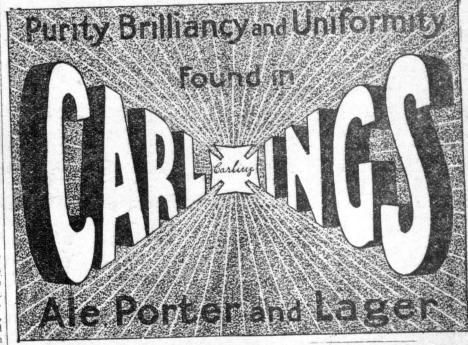

Beer Is No Stimulant

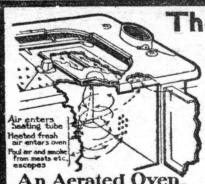

Drink beer with meals and at bedtime, as an item of diet that will help the stomach do its work better, and will feed the body besides. Don't choose beer as a stimulant, though,-it does not contain enough alcohol for that. Use it as a food-drink that induces lazy stomachs to do their work well, and so helps them get more good out of all food.

Beer Makes Better Nerves

Ontario beer is not only deliciously appetising and refreshing, because brewed of pure malt and hops only; but, besides, all the power that hops possess to repair nerve wastes is kept in these brews. That is what makes beer so particularly good for women to drink regularly. Ask your own doctor what he thinks of beer for your household.

* BEER is a term which covers lager, ales, porter and stout; and, in the practise of Ontario brewers, implies beverages made under most hygienic conditions from Ontario barley (the best in the world) malt, hops and pure water.

DOG HATED BABIES.

I owned a black and tan terrier from 1874 to 1881. I received him quite a puppy and he was with me through part of my university and the whole of my seminary terms. In 1880 I married and in 1881 my first child was born. The first time she was brought down into the sitting-room I, like a proud father, took the little one in my arms. The dog came in and expressed his jealousy by a series of growls and an attempt to get at the child by jumping. I gave him a hint with my foot and he walked out of the house.

Skin disease is always due to impure blood. It is the duty of the skin, bowels and kidneys to rid the system of tissue waste. When there is anything wrong with the kidneys or bowels, the skin tries to do extrawork and breaks down under the strain. Sometimes the skin is attacked by germs, which, because of its weakened condition, it is unable to resist. Ointments and lotions, and dusting powders, and medicated soaps are useless in Eczema, because they treat only the outside skin. "Fruit-atives" cure, because they go to the blcod. They act on the liver-regulate the kidneys and bowels-soothe and stimulate the skin-and so purify and enrich the blood that disease germs are thrown off-the itching, bleeding surfaces healed-and the whole system is built up and strength.

"I had dreadful Eczema on my face, arms and head. I was advised to take 'Fruit-a-tives' to purify the blood, and I am very thankful that I took this medicine. When I had taken two boxes, the rash was entired ly gone, the pain in the back left, and my complexion is clearer than it has been for years. Before I used this medicine, I had used many kinds of salves, and took quantities of medicines, but these did me no good. But 'Fruit-a-tives' at once did me goodand they entirely took away the fearful rash." Mrs. F. Mailhiot, 34 Union street, Ottawa. 50c. At druggists.

Plumbago, popularly black lead, scientifically graphite, got its name, says the Ironmonger, from the assumption that it contained lead; and, indeed, certain lead ores and oxides have been at times called plumbago; but Enkel found in 1597 that what we now call graphite yielded no lead and he called it sterile plumbago. Scheele, in 1789, proved that it was an allotronic form of carbon.
