MAN FELL DEAD CROSSING STREET

Mr. William Whiting, of 456 Talbot Street, Answered a Very Sudden Call.

NO INQUEST NECESSARY

Mr. Whiting Was Employed at the Car Shops, and Had Been in London Less Than a Year.

While walking across Dundas street, at the corner of Talbot street, on Saturday evening about 7 o'clock, William Whiting, of 456 Talbot street, an employee of the Grand Trunk car shops, suddenly fell to the ground and was picked up dead, heart failure having been the cause. He was carried into Mitchell's drug store nearby, but life was extinct.

Coroner Maclaren was called and, after viewing the remains, decided that an inquest was unnecessary. At the time of his death, Mr. Whiting was going home from work. He was dressed in a black suit of overalls and smock, and wore a corduroy cap.

When he was carried into the drug store and pronounced dead, a search was made of his clothes to find something that would lead to his identity.

Awaiting Identification.

There was nothing, however, that would give the slightest clue as to who he was or where he came from, and the remains were placed in the undertaking parlors of Smith, Son & Clarke, across the street from the drug store, to await identification. Hundreds of people visited the rooms and viewed the body Saturday evening, but no one could identify the man.

Sunday morning hundreds more viewed the body, but it was not until near noon that he was identified as a man named Whiting, who lived on Talbot street. His wife was sent for, but there was no one home at the time and it was not until nearly 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon that she was informed of her husband's death. She then went to the undertaking parlors and made the identification certain.

A Sudden Call.

Eye-witnesses of the man's death state that he was hurrying across the road when he suddenly put his hand to his chest and then started forward as if to run. Before he had taken two steps he fell to the pavement. He was picked up immediately, but there were no signs of life.

Dr. Stevenson was passing at the time and he witnessed the affair. He had the body carried into the drug store and called Coroner Maclaren.

In London a Short Time.

The late William Whiting was 63 years of age, and had resided in the city about nine months, during which time he has been employed at the car shops. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Ann Whiting, and three daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. H. Lowe and Miss Edith Whiting, of this city, and Mrs. Elmer Kice, of Grand Rapids. One son, James, resides in Detroit.

The remains have been taken in charge by Mrs. Whiting, but the funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

RIDES WHIRLPOOL IN A MOTOR BOAT

Captain Larsen Makes Daring Trip at Niagara.

MAKES A FAST TRIP

Craft Buffeted by Waves at Times Almost Turns Turtle.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 29.—With but a few spectators watching the trip, Capt. Klaus Larsen this afternoon successfully navigated the Whirlpool Rapids and the Lower Rapids of the Lower Niagara River, in a 15-foot motor boat. The trip was uneventful, and it required just 39 minutes to make the ten miles, starting from the Canadian Maid of the Mist landing to the Anglers' Retreat dock at Lewiston.

With a "So long, boys!" Larsen cut loose from the Canadian side at 1:42 o'clock, a Union Jack flying from the bow, and the Stars and Stripes from the stern of his craft, which resembled a huge cork, being entirely rebuilt. He headed down the river, going before a gale. Just as the craft poked its nose in a swift current, Larsen threw the helm hard to the port and turned back. He proceeded toward the American shore and when 400 feet away turned again. This time the fearless navigator sent his craft through the rapidly-flowing river toward the Canadian shore, passing under the cantilever bridge just twelve minutes after making the start. Tossed about by the raging torrent, the craft kept to the Canadian side, where he avoided the worst of the rough water.

Occasionally the boat would be buffeted by a wave that it seemed would crush it, and at times it almost turned turtle, but when the water cleared away it would right itself, and Larsen could be seen struggling with the helm. The 700 pounds of sand ballast did its work well.

Passing the giant wave, the craft got into an eddy, and it was almost smooth sailing until after he got out of the whirlpool. Keeping close to the Canadian side Larsen took a course down the Whirlpool until directly opposite the outlet, when he shot across the Maelstrom and into the Lower Rapids. This was three minutes after he passed under the cantilever bridge, and the worst of the trip was over.

At all times Larsen had complete control of his craft.

SMOTHERED TO DEATH IN SHALLOW WATER

Kingston Man Falls Into the River From Wharf.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 29.—At eight o'clock this morning the body of Jno. Jenkins, blacksmith, Raglan Road, was discovered in the water beside Folger's Wharf at the foot of Brock street. The deceased had evidently fallen in some time last night and been drowned. The water was very shallow at the place, but the deceased had fallen in such a position that he had smothered. Coroner Dr. Mundell did not deem an inquest necessary. Deceased leaves a wife and family.

PLAYING WITH MATCHES CAUSES CHILD'S DEATH

A Little Ingersoll Girl Succumbs to Terrible Burns.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ingersoll, Oct. 29.—Burns which she received on Friday afternoon caused the death in the Alexandra Hospital yesterday of May, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Helm Kay, who reside near Brownsville.

While by herself in the upper part of the house, the child climbed within reach of a shelf, from which she obtained matches. In lighting the matches her clothing was ignited, and when her screams attracted the attention of her mother she was enveloped by flames.

In working heroically to save the life of her child, the mother herself was painfully burned on the hands.

SPANISH BUNCO MEN TRY TO GET A LONDON VICTIM

Businessman Offered Sum of $160,000 as a Reward for Securing Release of Russian Banker—An Enticing Letter That Carries a Little Bumblebee.

An apparent attempt to work the famous "Spanish prisoner" swindle was revealed on Saturday, when Mr. Robert Hueston, of Wellington street, received a communication from Madrid, Spain, in which he was offered the sum of $160,000 in consideration of rendering assistance to an absconding Russian banker now held by the Spanish authorities.

The letter bore the correct address and has a Spanish stamp in the corner. It was posted in Madrid on Oct. 16, making the journey to London in twelve days.

Exactly what means were employed to secure his address, Mr. Hueston is unaware, but he does not think this would have been difficult, as the names of all businessmen are to be found in gazettes and directories, easily procurable. It may have been, however, that an agent in this country furnishes names of men with means in the hope that they may be led to advance an amount of money.

This is not the first occasion on which an attempt has been made to work the game in London. Several other citizens have received documents of the same order, but the means adopted in the present instance seem to have been the "smoothest" yet brought to light.

On opening the envelope Mr. Hueston found it to contain a note written on ruled paper, and in the chirographic style of a person of evident refinement, and a clipping:

A Heart-moving Plea.

The letter was as follows:

"Dear Sir,—Although I know you only from good references of your honesty, my sad situation compels me to reveal to you an important affair in which you can procure a modest fortue, saving at the same time that of my darling daughter.

"Before being imprisoned here I was

Fort Worth, Texas, Oct. 29.—Anyone knowing of a comely widow, whose husband was hanged, should notify John B. Randall, a ranch owner, of Mangum, Okla. Today Randall placed an advertisement in the Fort Worth papers for a wife, and he says the applicants must be widows whose husbands have been hanged. Randall offers a good home, a "fine time," and plenty of money. His wife must also be good-looking, and a good cook. Randall says he insists on the hanging provision, because otherwise his wife would always be saying what a fine fellow her first husband was.

TURKS AGAIN IN TRIPOLI CITIES

Reported That They Have Driven Out Italians.

ARE IN GREAT STRENGTH

Late Dispatches of Battle Show That Fighting Was Most Desperate.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Rome, Oct. 29.—A Constantinople dispatch received here today announcing that the City of Tripoli had been reoccupied by the Ottoman troops after hard fighting in which more than 1,000 were killed on both sides caused a great deal of excitement in official circles where it is also emphatically denied. It is admitted, however, that there has been an engagement and although Turks and Arabs fell by the hundreds they were driven back. The Italian losses were about 500 killed. The Turks and Arabs fought with their customary fanatical bravery, charging again and again in the face of maxim and shrapnel fire.

Turks' Clever Move.

Malta, Oct. 29.—The Turkish army, in surprising strength, can now be seen from Tripoli and their trick of keeping a detachment of Arabs ahead to attract attention while the main body of the regular army moved up was exposed today for the first time, says a dispatch from Tripoli. During this afternon about 250 meters from the Italian outposts of the city, the Arabs occupied a country house which was later attacked. The Arabs retreated and the Italians blew up the villa. This movement apparently destroyed the last vestige of the mask by which the Turks concealed their movements.

Several detachments of cavalry that appeared on the Italian flanks at Sidimesri were driven back by the artillery of the Italians. The Turkish guns of the forts sent several shrapnel shells at the Turkish outposts but did little or no damage. A heavy engagement it is believed will be fought with in three days.

Heavy Italian Loss.

London, Oct. 29.—Reports reaching the Turkish embassy here today say the Italians suffered tremendous losses in dead and wounded in the fighting at Benghazi and around Tripoli. The attaches of the embassy do not know whether the dispatch refers to an engagement today, which has been reported on both Rome and Malta, or to the bombardment of Benghazi that occurred a week ago.

The allies of the Turks in the hinterland, the embassy is advised, are being reinforced hourly and the Holy War appears to be on in earnest.

NO TRACE AS YET OF MISSING INDIAN

Peter Seneca, Who It Is Alleged, Stabbed Another Redman, Is Still at Large.

Although the county police are continuing a close observation of all sections in which he is likely to be in hiding, no trace has as yet been secured of Peter Seneca, the young Italian who is accused of stabbing Samuel Delearey on the Muncey Reservation.

Delearey is slowly improving, and it is now thought that he will recover, although his condition was at first extremely critical due to the loss of a large quantity of blood from the wounds in his head.

It is thought that Seneca took immediate advantage of the 24 hours' start given him, through the failure of those who knew of the crime to report the matter to the authorities and it is suspected that he is now miles away from Muncey, and probably on Walpole Island, where he has a large number of friends.

His arrest, however, is considered but a matter of time.

YOUTHS STOLE AUTOMOBILE; NABBED BY HAMILTON POLICE

Russell Grover and Joseph Kerr Are Alleged to Have Gone on a Joy Ride in a Car Owned by Oliver Keene.

Russell Grover and Joseph Kerr, two young men of this city, were arrested in Hamilton on Sunday, charged with stealing an automobile belonging to Mr. O. G. Keene, 761 Richmond street, London. Detective Harry Down went to Hamilton and brought the prisoners back last night. He was accompanied by Mr. Keene, who identified his machine. The young men will come up for examination on Tuesday.

Mr. Keene's car was in his garage on Richmond street north. He had not been using it Saturday evening, but had it all ready to take a trip on Sunday. The family were away, and Grover and Kerr went to the garage and broke open the door, it is alleged. There was not sufficient gasoline in the machine for a long trip, so one of them went down town to get some. At this time P. C. Joseph Middaugh happened along, and started talking to Grover. The men claimed that they owned the car, and were going for a little ride. In the meantime the other man returned with the gasoline, and also with two young women.

P. C. Middaugh had a good look at the men, but did not interfere with them, as he did not know that the machine did not belong to them.

Car Was Stolen.

On Sunday morning Mr. Keene went out to the garage to get his car to go on the trip. When he reached the building he found that the door had been smashed open and the car taken out. He reported the matter at once to the police.

P. C. Middaugh was able to accurately describe the two men he saw with the car, and the officers immediately wired to the border towns, instructing the police to be on the lookout for them. The number and a description of the machine were also sent.

Later the cities along the route between London and the Falls were informed of the occurrence, and about noon on Sunday the Hamilton police captured the two men.

The local police were notified, and Detective Down went to bring them back. Mr. Keene accompanied him, and will motor home.

No information was received as to the condition of the machine, or whether the girls had been apprehended.

A warrant was sworn out charging Grover and Kerr with breaking into the garage and stealing the machine. They were brought to London on Sunday night.

Joy Riders Plentiful.

There have been many complaints of late that autos have been taken from garages by joy riders, but the police have been unable to locate the guilty parties. Grover, the police state, has done this sort of thing before, but has never been caught until the present time.

He has acted as chauffeur, and can handle a machine well. Kerr is employed in a brewery in the city.

MARY MANNERING IN NEW LIFE ROLE

To Spend Her Time Building Model Houses for Poor.

INTENDS TO LEAVE STAGE

Declares That After All Domesticity Is Her Best Art.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Oct. 29.—Miss Mary Mannering, now playing the part of Domini in "The Garden of Allah," and who in private life is Mrs. Frederick Wadsworth, the wife of a Detroit millionaire, has made up her mind to leave the stage and go into model house-building. Miss Mannering explains that if an occasional part is written that "called her" particularly, she will accept a short engagement in New York but that she had found she cannot remain on the stage all the time and live an ideal domestic life.

"After all, domesticity is my best role," declared Miss Mannering appearing very beautiful but very homelike in a pink kimono in her apartments at the Hotel Plaza today.

"I adore home. I am devotedly fond of my little daughter and also of Mr. Wadsworth's children, and it is exceedingly hard for me to be away from my husband so much of the time.

"I must work, for I never can be idle, so my husband has helped me to the solution by acquiescing in my scheme for building model homes for working people upon a part of the land which was one of his wedding gifts to me."

This land is in Grosse Pointe, about seven miles from Detroit. It is what the old French settlers called a "ribbon tract."

HIT BY ATUOMOBILE CHINESE SUCCUMBS

Struck Down on Streets of Toronto Lem How Dies of Injuries.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Fourteen-year-old Lem How, a Chinese boy, who lived with an uncle at 393 Jarvis street, died on Saturday evening from injuries sustained by being struck down by an automobile at Carlton street and Homewood avenue. The remains were removed to the morgue where an inquest will be opened at 8 o'clock Monday evening by Chief Coroner A. J. Johnson. Owing to the numerous fatal automobile accidents of late, the chief coroner decided to personally conduct the inquiry in this case.

The car was driven by Stephen Hugell, who surrendered to the police, against whom a charge of causing fatal injuries was laid. He was admitted to bail in $10,000. Hugell has the reputation of being a most careful driver. Eye-witnesses say that not the slightest blame can be attached to him for the accident.

CHINESE REBELS BADLY WHIPPED

Imperialists Have Scored Great Victory at Hankow.

THOUSANDS ARE SLAIN

Revolutionists Fled in Complete Disorder—Government Confident of Crushing Revolt.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Pekin, Oct. 29.—The Imperialists have been victorious at Hankow. The rebels have fled in utter disorder to Han Yang and Wuchang, leaving more than 3,000 dead. The Imperialists are now advancing on Wu Chang, where it is their intention to execute a land attack while the Yang Tse fleet, under Admiral Sah, bombards the city, as was done at Hankow.

News of the battle is received from Wu Chang the nearest telegraph station from which wires are working from Hankow.

The fighting began early in the morning. Encouraged by their success in retaking the railroad terminal at Hankow, the Imperial leaders decided upon a concerted assault, and within a remarkably short time after the orders were given practically all the Loyalist forces fell on the rebel positions.

Rebel reinforcements in districts near by started for the scene, but were enfiladed by the guns of Admiral Sah's squadron. Up to this time the rebels seemed to have a fair chance of victory. The shots from the warships turned the tide in favor of the Loyalists.

Rebels Fought Hard.

Their reinforcements cut off and attacked from two sides, the rebels fought like demons to hold their entrenched positions but the Imperialists by this time had planted several maxim guns and were mowing the insurgents down by the hundreds.

The rebel leaders, realizing that further resistance only meant increased slaughter, ordered a retreat. They fled toward the only avenues of escape, Han Yang and Wu Chang. Hundreds of the rebels were killed in retreat by a vicious fire from the Loyalist infantry. The number of dead is estimated conservatively at 3,000. Later reports will swell this nnmber it is believed. At least 3,000 were wounded. The Loyalist losses are not given, but they are said to be insignificant in comparison.

News of the Imperialist victory has caused great rejoicing in court and official circles here.

Government Confident.

There is supreme confidence now that the rebellion will be crushed. The Empress Dowager today turned over to the Government 4,000,000 taels of crown funds for immediate use by the military and the war office announces that it has begun offensive campaigns against the rebels in Chang Sha and Sian Fu.

Three thousand men from Yochow are already advancing upon Chang Sha to attack the mutineers now holding Hu Nan, and a battle is expected early tomorrow.

The governor of Hunan has started an expedition towards the Shen Si border to meet the rebel forces reported advancing from Sian Fu. Foreign military attaches express doubt as to the success of the revolution after these reverses. The battle at Hankow demonstrated, they point out, that the Imperial troops are still loyal, and the battle will have the effect of stopping deflections from the ranks. Hankow is a position of great strategic value.

The loan of $30 000,000 to the Government by the Anglo-French-Belgian syndicate is also a cause of elation in official circles, inasmuch as overtures to J. P. Morgan and his English, French and German associates, and the Japanese were rejected.

THIEVES WERE BUSY IN WEST LONDON

Many Chickens Are Missing in the Suburbs.

Chicken thieves are exceedingly busy in West London and reports have reached the police that several roosts in that vicinity were visited Saturday evening, and a number of chickens stolen. Most of the stealing was done in the neighborhood of Forward avenue, and chicken owners on that street are said to have lost several of their prize broilers.

Chicken stealing seems to be pretty general all over the city, and evidence points to an organized gang of thieves who make a specialty of this kind of thieving. The police are keeping a sharp lookout and should the robbers be caught they will be severely dealt with.

DEATH SUMMONS JOS. PULITZER

Proprietor of the New York World Dies on Yacht.

WAS NOTED JOURNALIST

Came to America as Poor Boy and Built Up Immense Fortune.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Oct. 29. — Joseph Pulitzer, proprietor of the New York World, and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, and for many years one of the most powerful journalistic forces in America, died suddenly today aboard his yacht, the Liberty, off Charleston, S. C. Few details of Mr. Pulitzer's final illness have as yet been received in New York.

For the past twenty years, Mr. Pulitzer has suffered an affection of his eyes, which robbed him almost entirely of his sight. He spent all of last winter and part of the spring abroad, returning to New York early in the summer, and from the city, going to Bar Harbor. Mr. Pulitzer's general health which had become very bad, did not improve in Maine. Neither did it mend, when at the end he returned home to this city. It was decided a short time ago that the climate here was not propitious, and the Liberty, bearing her owner, put out to sea.

When Joseph Pulitzer, a tall, lean youth of 17 years, almost penniless and unable to speak a word of English, arrived in Boston in the war time summer of 1864, none who saw him would have dreamed of predicting the remarkable career which was to follow in his rise to wealth and power.

He had been born of German parents near Budapest, Hungary, April 10, 1847. He received an excellent preparatory education, but his native country was torn by political factions and the boy conceived the idea of going to a new land to make his fortune.

He had intended, it seems, to go to Mexico, but when he landed at Boston he had little more than enough money to reach New York.

A Small Beginning.

Alone, ungainly, friendless, though consumed with passion for work which characterized his whole life, he could find no employment and he slept on the benches in the City Hall Park.

There was a recruiting station in the park, and the boy enlisted in the Lincoln Cavalry as a private. He served until the end of the war but saw little fighting.

Again he came to New York, where work was even harder to get than before. He sometimes lingered around Old Frenche's hotel at Frankfort street and Park Row, and 23 years later that tattered youth, grown into a man was to purchase Old French Hotel for $630,000, and eventually build the Pulitzer Building on its site. He eventually went to St. Louis, where he found employment after great trouble. In after life he said that the toughtest task he ever had was the taking care of 16 mules out in St. Louis.

Becomes Reporter.

Dr. Preetorius took an interest in the young man, and in 1868 Mr. Pulitzer was engaged as a reporter on the Post. He had been an indefatigable student both of books and men, spending much

McCOWAN AFTER LEITCH

Chairman of the Railway Board Handled Without Gloves.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 29.—At the convention of East York Conservatives held in Toronto on Saturday, Hon. Dr. Pyne, referring to the bilingual school question, said that English should be the language of every school, public or separate, in the province. The report of the commissioner now investigating bilingual schools would be acted upon without fear or favor.

Mr. Alex. McCowan, the sitting member, who got the nomination, pledged himself to the use of the English language only in the schools. He also pledged himself as in favor of majority rule only in the Ontario railway and municipal board, as against the ground taken by Chairman Leitch. The North Toronto town representatives handled Leitch without gloves, and a resolution was passed at their request, demanding that the Government enact legislation returning to the municipalities their original privileges on highways.

CHATHAM FORGER BETRAYED BY WOMAN

Wrote Former Wife for Help, and She Notified the Police.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Chatham, Oct. 29.—That the arrest of Richard F. Canning, now serving seven years at Kingston for forgery, was due to betrayal by a woman, has just leaked out.

After his flight from Chatham, Canning, assisted by friends on the other side, disappeared completely, and was able to evade the police for months. Eventually becoming short of funds, he wrote to his divorced wife in New York for assistance. The woman informed her present husband, who notified the police, and the arrest followed.

THE POLICE AT SEA IN KNABE CASE

No Solution Yet of Indianapolis Strange Murder Case.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Indianapolis, Oct. 29.—With almost a week elapsed since the mysterious death of Dr. Helene Knabe, found with her throat cut in her apartments, the local detective department working on the case appears as much at sea in finding the slayer or even a motive for the crime as it was on the morning after the tragedy. Hundreds of theories have been advanced and every possible clue is being run down. A hard day's work was spent on the case today, but no important developments were unearthed.

Visited London in 1900 When He Was Apostolic Delegate to Canada.

Mgr. Falconio, who has been created a cardinal recently by his Holiness Pope Pius X., visited London in the summer of 1900, and is well remembered by the Catholics of this city.

He was given a big reception while in London. He was at the time apostolic delegate from Rome to the Catholic Church in Canada.

PREMIER BORDEN'S SUBMISSION PLEASES THE NATIONALISTS

Pelletier and Lavergne Tell Their Constituents That Navy Referendum Is Certain.

Quebec, Oct. 28.—Hon. L. P. Pelletier, the new postmaster-general, who was re-elected by acclamation in Quebec County yesterday afternoon, made some important declarations at the meeting held immediately after the nomination at Indian Lorette.

On the navy question, Mr. Pelletier declared that as a minister of the crown he was not going to take another position than the one he had taken in the last electoral campaign, that is, that he would insist upon having a referendum on the navy question. This referendum would be held, he declared.

"When I was called to Mr. Borden's cabinet," he said, "I was not asked to withdraw a single line of the programme that I have submited to my electors, and my efforts will tend to the complete carrying out of this programme. We shall have the referendum that we ask, and we shall stand by the decision of the majority of the Canadian people on that question. Moreover, we may be offered more than a referendum, and we will be still more glad to accept it."

Repeal Navy Bill.

Mr. Pelletier, then, evidently meant his hope to see Mr. Borden repeal the whole navy bill. According to his calculations, Sir Wilfrid Laurier's navy was to cost $57,000,000 within five years, which he considered too much.

Commenting upon the latter's declaration, Mr. Armand Lavergne went further:

"I know," he said, "that Mr. Pelletier will carry out his promise about the referendum, but I am in a position to say more—I assure you that you shall have this referendum.

What Lavergne Said.

"While Mr. Borden was forming his cabinet I went to Ottawa to see him, and I said to him: 'Here is the Province of Quebec, regenerated, do you want her?' Mr. Borden tendered me a loyal hand, and I can assure you that he is not the fanatic that he was called in Quebec. The English-speaking people from sister provinces have at last understood us. They have understood that if we want this Canadian Confederation to live there must not be any more question of victors and vanquished in this country. We want an idea of complete equality between the great races who live together in Canada.

"We are confident that the present Government will protect sufficiently the rights of the French-Canadian and Catholic minority. They are in good hands."

Mr. Albert Sevigny, M. P. for Dorchester, who is going to second in French the address in answer to the spech from the throne, after having paid an eloquent tribute to Mr. Bourassa, whom he considers the brightest Canadian now existing, thanked heartfully Mr. Borden for having until now given to the French element the greatest possible justice.

Another Nationalist speaker, Mr. Alleyn Taschereau, proclaimed himself a follower of Henri Bourassa, ready to support the Government today or to fight it tomorrow.

"As a reward I will give to you the third part, viz., 160,000 dollars.

"I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you may send a cablegram to a person of my confidence, who will deliver it to me.

"Awaiting your cable to instruct you in all my secret, I am, sir, yours truly,

"First of all answer by cable, not by letter, as follows."

Here appears a form of cablegram to be sent to the "friend," the sending of which would signify the receiver's willingness to enter into the game.

Clipping Looks Funny.

Inclosed with the note is what purports to be the newspaper clipping, in which an account of the arrest of "Sadrowsky" appears. To printers the clipping has the look of having been "faked," it being apparently printed from a proof galley on thin paper. The other side of the paper has been printed, and there are several glaring typographical errors, to which English papers have a particular aversion. The story of the arrest of "Sadrowsky" and the romantic European flavor is presented as follows:

Interview of the Two Ambassadors.

Some months ago, as our readers may remember we referred in these columns to the great scandal caused, in St. Petersburg, and in Russia generally, by a noted banker who absconded, leaving a deficit of over five millions of rubles.

The Russian police sought for him for a long time in vain for it seems he had not left the least trace of his flight and the continued search over Europe and America proved unavailing.

Yesterday, however, a Spanish inspector, accompanied by two officers from Scotland Yard, and acting under instructions of the Spanish ambassador, who had previously interviewed the home secretary, arrested him on his way from the hotel where he was staying, to the steamship office. It seems that it was his evident intention to take passage from New York. From information received by the ambassador, he had been in hiding in Spain, where he lived with a woman and with his daughter. A few days before arriving in London he had quarrelled with another Russian, who was mortally wounded by a revolver shot during the scuffle, and who only lived long enough to denounce his assailant.

In an interview with the Russian ambassador, it seems that the name he had been using in Spain, and which he gave on being arrested was not his real one, Manasseina being simply an alibi, but after comparing the prisoner with photographs in his possession, the Russian ambassador recognized him as Alexander Sadrowsky the criminal banker who eloped with 5 millions of rubles; he is a native of St. Petersburg, a widower 48 years old, with an only daughter that he left in Spain on escaping from that country.

On being arrested, two of Manasseina's or Alexander Sadrowsky, portmanteaus were seized but although strictly searched nothing but personal affects were found in them, in spite of which, the Russian ambassador declares that prisoner ought to have several million rubles somewhere.

The Russian and Spanish ambassadors conferred yesterday evening as to whether the prisoner should be conveyed to Spain or to Russia, and after an interview with the home secretary, and in accordance with the extradition treaty of England, Russia and Spain, it was agreed that the prisoner should be conveyed to Spain, to stand his trial for manslaughter, and that only after his trial can the Russian government ask Spain, through diplomatic channels, for his extradition.

An Artistic Attempt.

While there is not the slightest likelihood of Mr. Hueston taking up the offer, the letter and clipping are interesting, in that they reveal the machinery of the operators. The same thing in different forms has come to the attention of the police, but nothing quite so artistic as this has been seen before. "The Spanish prisoner" is something on the order of the foot-race game, so well-known in these parts.

A man might well scoff at the general tone of the offer, and then have his interest and cupidity aroused by the fact that "Sadrowsky" makes it plain that he is ready to have the accomplice come to Spain. Few would agree to that but some might be led by the offer to answer the letter, regretting that they could not go to Spain. The next step would be for "Sadrowsky" to state that his friend was willing to handle the case if the funds were sent over.

Mr. Hueston says that he has been inoculated for the sting of all kinds, that of the Spanish busy bee included. Some day he may drop his kind-hearted friend Sadrowsky a postcard bearing the words: 'After you, my dear Alphonse."

Fearful Headaches

STOMACH BAD, NO APPETITE, WAS LOSING WEIGHT AND STRENGTH.

WONDERFUL CHANGE WHEN HEALTH WAS RESTORED BY

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Headache is a symptom and not a disease in itself. It acts as a danger signal to warn you of serious trouble.

By reading Mr. Donneral's letter you will be satisfied that there is no treatment to be compared to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of building up the system and removing the cause of headaches, sleeplessness and indigestion.

Mr. Charles Donneral, Kleinburg, Ont., writes: "I wish to communicate to you the great cure which I received from Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. For over two years I suffered from fearful headaches, my appetite was always poor, and the stomach bad. I took medicines from physicians, but the headaches persisted, and I was rarely free from them.

"Reading about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I began using it, with little idea that I would be benefited. I had become thin and weak, but the very first box helped me, and with continued treatment I have been cured and feel like a new man. The headaches have disappeared, my appetite is good and digestion excellent. I write this letter in hope that other sufferers from headache may use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and be cured."

ALD. STEVENSON ON GARBAGE SYSTEM

Favors the Placing of Incinerator Near Victoria Hospital.

At the next meeting of the city council a bylaw to provide $30,000 for an incinerator to destroy garbage will be prepared, to be submitted to the people in January. The details of the cost of maintenance, etc., are now being worked out, and will be ready this week.

The proposition is meeting with great favor in the city, and there is every prospect that it will carry, if properly explained.

Ald. W. J. Stevenson, who is also a member of the board of health, advocates a site in close proximity of Victoria Hospital, and declares that such a location will prove of the greatest benefit to the citizens.

"The question should be properly explained to the electors, and if they are convinced that it will be almost self-sustaining, they will vote for it," he declared. "The bylaw will call for the expenditure of $30,000 for the incinerator. Now, my reasons for advocating that it be located near Victoria Hospital are these: It is necessary to install a new heating system in the hospital. The present one is out of date, and, to my mind, unsafe. The cost of this will amount to from $5,000 to $10,000. The yearly heat bill amounts to $5,000 or more.

Saving Money.

"I have not the figures at hand, so I cannot be accurate. Now, if we put in the incinerator, the money that would of necessity go for a heating system for the hospital could be applied against the incinerator, and that would bring the first cost down from $30,000 to $25,000, perhaps $20,000. Now, if the garbage destroyer were placed within two blocks of Victoria hospital, the steam could be carried to the hospital without any trouble, and the yearly coal bills of the latter institution could be used to destroy the garbage.

"There is no reason in the world why it could not be located within a block or two of the hospital. Between Wellington and Waterloo, along the river bank, there is plenty of land that could be purchased at a reasonable figure. In Toronto and other cities, these destroyers are in the heart of the city, and no bad odors are apparent. In Westmount it is in a residential district. The steam could be piped much longer distances.

"The surplus steam could be disposed of in other ways. We could use the clinkers, as they do elsewhere, for foundations for roads and walks. The proposition could be made to pay in a very short time, and the cost would be very small from the inception.

"The citizens, I think, will carry the scheme. The sites I mentioned are quite central, and will reduce the cost of the haulage.

Paying the Cost.

"I forget to mention that I am in favor of paying the cost out of the general revenue. It would not benefit me or any other citizen to pay to have our garbage removed, if my next-door neighbor kept his place dirty. Make a general bylaw and compel all to dispose of their garbage in this way. It would pay the city in the long run."

Other citizens, when spoken to, agreed with these opinions. It is not likely that the medical men will object to such a location, although some of them would oppose the bylaw if the incinerator were to be placed on the present hospital grounds.

OBITUARY

The funeral of Margaret M. Eby, wife of Albert M. Eby, took place Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Schabacker, 291 Ottaway avenue, to Mount Pleasant Cemetery. The funeral was very largely attended and the floral offerings were numerous. Rev. H. A. Graham and Rev. Dr. Manning conducted funeral services at the house and grave.

GEORGE W. NEELY WAS NOMINATED

Selected by East Middlesex Conservatives as Candidate in the Provincial Elections.

VOTE WAS CLOSE ONE

Mr. Neeley's Attitude on Several Occasions as a Representative Came in for Criticism.

There was an exceptionally close contest for the Conservative nomination in East Middlesex at the convention in Duffield Hall Saturday afternoon. Eight names were placed before the meeting, but four out of the eight candidates voluntarily withdrew.

On the third ballot George W. Neely, M. P. P., Dorchester, was chosen by a very narrow margin over S. Frank Glass of Eastmount.

The other candidates who were balloted upon were: Col. McEwen, of Byron, and Henry Siddall, of London township.

The four candidates withdrawing were Capt. T. E. Robson, ex-M. P. P., James Robson, Frank Shore, and R. H. Harding, Thorndale.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. D. McFarlane, of Nissouri.

Mr. Neely Speaks.

Mr. Neeley, in addressing the convention outlined the work of the last Provincial Legislature and extolled the Whitney Government for its humanitarian reforms and its general administration. He was glad that his own record had been one that met with the favor of his constituents so far that his name had again been placed before the convention of his party. While he might have done some things in his term of office which all might not agree with, yet he had only done what had appeared right to him, and he had nothing further to say in the way of an apology for anything he had done. It would be very necessary for the convention to select a man who would be supported by the undivided strength of his party, since the immense majority given the Conservative candidate in the Federal election could not be taken as a normal party majority.

Mr. Glass' Address.

Mr. Glass dwelt upon the good works of the Whitney administration, and upon the corruption and in what he termed the maladministration of the Government previous to the Conservative regime. No matter whom the convention members might select as their candidate, they should do all in their power to return the Whitney Government to office.

Col. McEwen a Farmer.

Col. McEwen said that while he had nothing to offer in the way of criticism for other candidates before the convention, yet he thought that as a practical farmer he was quite fitted to bear the Conservative standard in the leading farming electorate of East Middlesex.

He was not altogether satisfied with the turn of events in connection with the law touching municipal remuneration for sheep killed by dogs. He thought that the sheep breeders were entitled to better treatment and he referred to a member of the Government as opposing a proposed change in the law, which change would have been in favor of the sheep breeding industry.

A member of the Government had also voted against a law having to do with the licensing of stallions, and which Col. McEwen thought would have been greatly to the advantage of horse breeders.

More for Agriculture.

Capt. Robson thought that notwithstanding all the Government was now doing for agriculture, the department could do more for this leading industry of Ontario. He withdrew his name from the convention.

Mr. James Robson, Mr. Shore and Mr. Harding also declined to go before the convention.

Mr. Neely asked leave to speak a second time before the balloting was called for. He thought he was the member referred to by Col. McEwen, and he did not regret his stand on the two proposed changes in the law. At present the law states that a township may remunerate to the extent of two-thirds value sheep owners losing their animals through the ravages of dogs. It was proposed to insert the word "shall" in place of the word "may." This would have resulted in involving township councils in law suits which might be brought against them by any sheep breeder who thought he had not received two-thirds the value of his animals. The law to license stallions he did not think advantageous to the farmer.

The Colonel Objects.

Col. McEwen objected to Mr. Neely speaking twice, and disagreed with him that the proposed new laws would not have benefited the stock breeder. Several members of the convention received Col. McEwen's stand with favor. Col. McEwen declared he was willing to let the farmers in the convention say whether they would not have been benefited by a change in the present laws.

A closed session for the delegates was called, and the balloting proceeded with. On the first ballot none of the candidates had the requisite majority and the lowest candidate, Mr. Henry Siddall, dropped out of the running. On a second ballot, the name of Col. McEwen was also dropped, although quite a number of votes stood to his credit. The result of the third balloting was the closest kind of a contest.

A Small Majority.

It was found that Mr. Neely had a very small majority, and he was declared the choice of the convention. On the motion of Mr. Siddall, seconded by Mr. Glass, Mr. Neely's nomination was made unanimous.

Mr. Neely spoke briefly, following the voting and thanked the convention for selecting him as their standard-bearer.

Mr. William Grey also addressed the convention. He said there was too often a tendency to forget old standard-bearers, but he was glad that he desired nothing but the respect of his party not only in his own city, but throughout the Dominion.

No man should accept the nomination of his party until he was able and ready to give it his entire and undivided attention. For this reason he had refused nominations which his party was ready to offer him.

Mr. Peter Elson, M. P., was also at the convention.

ITALY DOES NOT NEED TO CALL ON HER SONS

Report That London Man on Honeymoon Trip Had Been Impressed Is Untrue.

Mr. Dominic Cusolito, of 136 Queen's avenue, states that the report that certain Italians returning to Italy from Canada had been called into military service and ordered to Tripoli is without foundation.

Mr. Cusolito's nephew, Antonio Cusolito, recently returned to Italy with his bride, formerly Miss Josephine Sidoti, a daughter of Mr. Bartolo Sidoti, of 96 Fullarton street, and they are now enjoying their honeymoon in the sunny homeland.

It was reported locally that the groom had been called to the front, but this his uncle states to be entirely untrue. The young couple will return to Canada early in the spring.

Italy has no need, declares Mr. Cusolito, to call any of her sons to her service. There are far more volunteers than are required.

All male Italians up to 39 years of age are liable to military service should they be required, but there is no likelihood of such being the case in the present war.

The Italian consul-general at Montreal has received applications from ten thousand young Italian Canadians, all eager to go to the front and fight for their loved Italy. But to all these he has replied that they are not needed, and only the regulars have so far been drafted into service.

The consul-general in New York has received a great number of similar applications, and in addition to this thousands of Greeks, Macedonians and Bulgarians have written to the Italian minister of war, offering to enlist in the Italian army. So it does not appear that Italy will lack for soldiers or that she will be driven to any unusual extremes in order to recruit her ranks.

BUREAUS TO CHECK WHITE SLAVE TRAFFIC

United States Government to Establish Them in All the Cities.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Washington, Oct. 29. — As the first step toward putting a systematic check on the white slave traffic in the United States, the federal department of justice is establishing bureaus in the large cities.

In Baltimore, where the first working bureau has been established, a census of the tenderloin district is being taken by department officials. Every person of either sex connected with a place of questionable character has been required to fill out a blank card, in which the complete history of the individual is given. Copies of this card will be kept in the local bureau and the original forwarded to Washington, where the centre bureau will later be established. It is understood that after the department of justice completes this system it will be extended to all the larger American cities, where the white slave evil is said to exist.

Under the system, each person coming within the purview of the bureaus will be compelled to report arrivals and departures to the bureau. Each new arrival will be required to immediately fill out a record card.

Music and Drama

The Right of Way.

"The Right of Way," a dramatization by Eugene W. Presbrey of Gilbert Parker's novel, was fairly well presented at the Grand Saturday afternoon and night. Sanford Dodge, as Charles Steele, the chief character, is an actor of considerable ability. Several members of the supporting cast are also capable of rather fair acting. Harry Ferrard, as Joe Portugais, was particularly good and Harriet Gay, as Paulette Du Bois, played a difficult minor part exceedingly well.

Maude Adams in "Chantecler" Twice Today.

The greatest theatrical novelty of recent years, "Chantecler," Rostand's poetic drama, will be presented at the Grand twice today, matinee at 2 o'clock, evening at 8 o'clock. The title role will be essayed by Maude Adams, who has a larger public following than has any other woman or man on the stage in this country. The drama has created more interest than any other work given to the stage in the memory of man. It possesses distinct literary values, its versification flows freely and with distinct charm, it is rich and clear in its symbolism, and it carries a glorious message to the world. Miss Adams' enthusiasm over the work has been unbounded, and in the role of the Cock she has shown anew her fine artistic talents. Before the opening scene is disclosed Miss Adams comes before the curtain in her own person to deliver the ingenious prologue which explains the absence of all humans from the scenes that are to follow. This prologue serves to kindle the imagination, so that when the curtain does go up the audience views the scene as through a magnifying glass. By resorting to the exaggeration in size of inanimate objects, the hens and birds are made to appear no larger than they really ought to be. The four scenes are all massive, and the costumes are, as is to be expected, both novel and picturesque. Seventy people take part in the drama.

"The Rosary" Tomorrow.

Telling a story through which runs a virile religious sentiment that is heart-touching, and yet is not of the nature to bring offense, "The Rosary," the play of Edward E. Rose's which proved such a big success last season, is repeating this year with added brilliancy. Harrington Reynolds plays the leading character, and seems to have caught the author's inspiration in his conception of the role, as the audiences at the Grand will see when the production is presented tomorrow night. He displays a keen Irish sense of humor and good-will as a foil to his priestly calling, and thus is able to solve the depths of a domestic tragedy and restore happiness to a home that is near destruction through the machinations of a designing villain who seeks revenge because another has won the woman he loves.

The First Duty of the Laird o' Dunoon.

As everyone who has ever met him knows, Harry Lauder, the noted Scottish comedian, who comes to the Grand on Thursday night, is a thrifty sort of a Scotchman. Not stingy or anything on that line, but simply shrewd, wise as to the value of dollars and dimes—or pounds and shillings—and never overlooking a good investment. Not long ago, as Mr. Lauder proudly announced to his friends, he bought a fine old Scottish estate near Dunoon, and thus became a real laird after years of saving and planning. Every Scot hopes and dreams that he will some day be a laird, and the truest proof of Lauder's Caledonian blood is shown in the eagerness with which he bought the old estate, and the pride with which he assumed his new dignities.

Harry's thrifty soul, however, was doomed to a joyous jar before he had long been Laird o' Dunoon. A day or so after he acquired the old place, he summoned one of the tenants, a gray old cotter, and questioned him as to the lairds and habits of the previous lairds.

"Ye will ken, Sanday, mon," said Harry, "that I weesh ta follow a' the auld customs o' the Lairds o' Dunoon. Wull ye speer tae me o' these customs?"

"That I will, an' gladly," said the old fellow. "First of a', it has been the custom o' ilka Lairds o' Dunoon tae gie a grand supper tae a' the lads an' lassies o' the estate. When wull it please ye tae haud the first one?"

"As ye say in America," says Harry, ruefully, "I was the goat." The festival was duly held, and Mr. Lauder's tenantry say that the new laird fed them well, but Harry has been careful since about inquiring as to the ancient customs.

Box office seat sale opens tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Lauder played the Russell, Ottawa, last Thursday, and when he arrived they had sold out for the evening performance, so they arranged a special matinee, and sold out for it also.

"The White Squaw."

The romantic American drama, "The White Squaw," will be the attraction at the Grand on Saturday next, matinee and night. This play is said to have valid claim upon the admiration and patronage of votaries of the stage in this country. It is a play built upon romance, laughter and heart interest. The scenes are laid in the wilderness of Michigan about 100 years ago. Antoine Campeau, of Montreal, his wife and their two little daughters, Leah and Octavia, were among the earlier of the hardy settlers who blazed their way through the forests that are now Detroit and its flourishing adjacent territory. Leah is dark, indicating her French ancestry on the father's side, while Octavia has the golden hair and blue eyes of her English mother. Campeau goes on a hunt one day, allowing Leah to accompany him. He is slain by a wild beast and the child is rescued by an Indian Michabo, who, with his wife, Ampata, rears the child to believe she is a redskin and their own. It is from this maize of conditions that a dramatic chain is woven without a link missing to mar its completeness, beauty and interest.

Coronation Concert.

The prospects look very bright for a good audience at the First Methodist Church tomorrow evening to hear England's renowned organist, Gatty Sellars, and the King's trumpeter, William Short. The church choir of sixty voices will also take part.

KEEP OUT OF ROW ORDERS FROM LONDON

King George's Proclamation Telling Subjects To Be Neutral.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—British subjects the world over are warned to preserve strict neutrality in the war between Italy and Turkey. The Royal proclamation, a copy of which appears in the Ontario Gazette, sets forth that "we are happily at peace with all Sovereigns, Powers and States.

"And whereas a state of war unhappily exists between his Majesty the King of Italy and his Imperial Majesty the Sultan of Turkey, and between their respective subjects, and others inhabiting within their territories, countries or dominions;

"And whereas we are on terms of friendship and amicable intercourse with each of these powers, and with their several subjects, and others inhabiting within their countries, territories or dominions;

"And whereas great numbers of our loyal subjects reside and carry on commerce and possess property and establishments, and enjoy various rights and privileges within the dominions of each of the aforesaid powers protected by the faith and treaties between us and each of the aforesaid powers;

"And whereas we, being desirous of preserving to our subjects the blessings of peace, which they now happily enjoy, are firmly purposed and determined to maintain a strict and impartial neutrality in the said state of war, unhappily existing between the aforesaid powers;

"We therefore have thought fit, by and with the advice of our Privy Council, to issue this, our Royal proclamation;

"And we do hereby strictly charge and command all our loving subjects to govern themselves accordingly, and to observe a strict neutrality in and during the aforesaid war, and to abstain from violating or contravening either the laws or statutes of the realm in this relation thereto, as they will answer to the contrary at their peril, etc."

Keep From British Waters.

Copies of the letter of Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to the Admiralty, are also given. Sir Edward, on behalf of the Government, calls upon all in authority to prohibit all Italian or Turkish ships of war from making use of any British harbor any place, any such ship putting into a British port must leave within twenty-four hours. No supplies other than coal will be permitted to be taken. No prizes captured by the ships of either nation can be taken into British ports or kept in British waters.

THANKSGIVING.

Thanksgiving Day was originally a festival of gratitude to God for sufficient harvests in a rocky land and for His protection against savage foes. Now that the wild beast is no more and the Indian's sun has set, when increased production is taken for granted in broad Canada, the day has become for most people a holiday, on which to feel thankful that it is a holiday. Many a hard-working man is glad to prolong this Sunday rest a little way into the week. On this fine day people should enjoy the keen, bracing air by way of appetizer to the renewal of labor tomorrow.

But it is right to find time to reflect on grounds of thanksgiving broader even than those originally taken. Thanksgiving should mean the spirit of optimism which lays an emphasis on the joys and not the ills of existence; today we ought to recall by preference, the year's pleasures and profits, or to remember even the pains and trials as blessings in disguise. Now that winter, the evening season, has begun to cast its long shadows over northern lands, we may yet muse in our church pew or before the hearth fire and amidst the family circle, on the sunny side of life. How good to live and learn, to have a home, friends and work to do, to look before and after, to give and take, to be loyal! What a fair Canada this is, and Western Ontario in particular, with its splendid climate and soil, its river valleys and two great lakes, everything to gladden the eye and content the mind.

Thanksgiving must be rendered more definitely to the forefathers who prepared this land. Canadians may learn from the Japanese an increased respect for ancestors. Civilization is "heir of all the ages," and ought to recognize at least its more immediate makers. But in our time the people of the world become so intricately knit together, that we all owe each other debts which only thanks can pay. The honest Chinaman does his best to provide our tables with tea and our wardrobes with clean linen. Shall he be rewarded for his patient and uncomplaining toil by contumely and ill-will? The German loads our Christmas tree with cheap and wonderful toys; on this day when we rest, the homes and factories of smoky Saxony are fervid with the last rush of work on the supply for Christmas, 1911, and the workers are ill-paid. Is the German our enemy, or shall we thank his gentle skill and bless his hands, for the children's sake?

We may give thanks for the authors, both English and foreign. Thackeray's centennial is no sooner done than the Dickens' festival comes on. Who shall ever measure what we owe to the noble minds of the past and of the present? Was Dickens fully paid in cash for his contribution to the happiness of the world? It is worth while to reflect a little on the debt we owe as "heirs of all the ages." We can not but gratitude to the artists and inventors, most of whom were poor enough in worldly goods. To the statesmen and warriors who built up nations, the engineers who have bridged the chasms, tunnelled mountains, drained and spanned the morasses of the world, to the mariners who ride the ocean waves, to the men who delve in the mine or raise the pinnacles of our buildings, to all our earnest fellow-workmen, we owe our thanks.

This we may pay in more than in words. There ought to be a more tangible gratitude. A resolve to work more resolutely and more honestly in our calling, to help the future as the past has helped us, to act upon the motto of "noblesse oblige," to hand on the torch, not dimmed, but brighter, may well occupy the mind on Thanksgiving Day. A deepened sense of individual and civic responsibility may be won. There are reforms to be achieved on all sides. Gratitude for an education may properly show itself in the sons' finishing the fathers' work.

When barns are full and the beasts are in stall, a mellow mood possesses the time. The genial feeling and emulative spirit of Thanksgiving Day sets the keynote for the Christmas carol not long later to follow. The idea of rendering man and God their due, acknowledging our indebtedness and resolving to meet it, comes pretty close to the theme of brotherhood, peace and goodwill, which will occupy the next red-letter day in the year's calendar.

EARLY TRAINING.

[Harper's Bazaar.]

"She claims that her ancestors stood torturing with red-hot pincers."

"I believe it. She can wear shoes three sizes too small and look happy."

ALL SORTS OF ILLS.

[Rich Hill (Mo.) Review.]

If your wife has a baby, or your daughter gets married, or there is any other kind of sickness in the neighborhood, let us know.

WORSE THAN PAINLESS DENTISTRY

[Philadelphia Times.]

Wife—I'm tired to death. Been having baby's picture taken by the instantaneous process.

Husband—How long did it take?

Wife—About four hours.

THE NEW CHINA.

[New York Mail.]

It is no longer safe to say that "China never changes." The China that confronts us today is already a changed China. It is a China of a myriad newspapers and of a strongly active public opinion. Railroads are building. The pigtails are coming off. Ideas have crept in. If the Chinese really wish to be free, let us bid them godspeed in the attempt.

POOR FARMING.

[Ottawa Journal.]

Earl Grey's statement to the English press that Ontario should double her agricultural production, and could do so without adding an acre to the farm area, may be taken as a gentle hint to Hon. Mr. Duff and the Ontario cabinet in general to get busy.

JURY DUTY.

[Chicago News.]

It is easy to understand how a juror got into the wrong pew on returning from lunch and sat half through another case without knowing the difference. It is as easy to slumber in one court room as another.

QUITE ANOTHER THING.

[Philadelphia Times.]

Pendennis—Did you see Hooker when he came in from fishing?

Warrington—Yes, I was on the pier.

"Were there any fish lying about him?"

"No; he was lying about the fish."

THE SCOTLESS CABINET.

[Montreal Herald.]

Somebody has been making a count of the new cabinet, and finds that four of its members are Roman Catholics, seven of the Church of England, and six Methodists. The discoverer, writing in La Croix, complains that the Catholic representation falls a long way below the population ratio, Roman Catholics being about forty per cent of the general population. What will occur to most people as much more remarkable is the total absence of Presbyterians. Not one in the seventeen, and only one of them claiming to be of Scottish descent. Here is some change from the days when the parties were both officered by Scottish-Canadians, when Sir John and Sandfield Macdonald, Sir A. T. Galt, John Hillyard Cameron and Matthew Crooks Cameron stood over against the Browns, Mackenzies and Mowats. The Whitney cabinet in Toronto is almost equally devoid of the Scottish element. There wasn't much of it left in the Laurier cabinet. And, look at the thing any way one pleases, it is a great pity to see this virile, long-headed, prudent, forceful race apparently dropping out of its own accord.

It is not altogether surprising that the Scottish element should be lacking, and the Church of England element strong in a Conservative, say a Tory, cabinet. Scotland, it must be remembered, has been Liberal for a very long time, and the Scots who came over brought their political preferences with them. It was their mentality which supplied all the reform movements of other days with the driving power they had. The Liberal party of Canada is not itself if this element has permanently ceased its activities. If the cessation is only temporary, then the activity should be renewed at once, or the Scot will be in danger of losing his prestige.

STRANGE THINGS WE SEE.

[Montreal Witness.]

We are to see Mr. Sevigney, who told his compatriots how the very sight of the Cornwall, a British training ship, made his blood boil, seconding the loyal reply of his majesty's faithful Commons to the speech from the throne. We should not even be surprised yet to see Mr. Bourassa receiving a knighthood for having so nobly and so consistently promoted imperial interests in the matter of the navy.

TOO DANGEROUS.

[Baltimore American.]

"There is one thing belonging to the people which grafting officials in power never want to tax."

"I did not think there was anything. But what is it?"

"Their memory."

THE RETORT MATRIMONIAL.

[Baltimore American.]

She—You can't ever accuse me of helping you to make a fool of yourself.

He—I don't know about that. You said yes when I asked you to marry me.

NEIGHBORLY SYMPATHY.

[Chicago News.]

"By the way," said Mrs. Gabbles, "did you hear about Mrs. Goodwin's husband? He fell and broke his leg last night."

"You don't say!" exclaimed Mrs. Gadby. "I'll run over and console with them at once, and see if I can't borrow a cut of butter. I'm entirely out."

GOT WHAT THEY VOTED FOR.

[Windsor Record.]

The London Advertiser refers to the great loss suffered by farmers in the decline of the price of hogs since the defeat of reciprocity, and asks this pertinent question: "Incidentally has anyone noticed that the city man is paying less for dressed meats since the defeat of reciprocity and lowered prices on natural products all around?" So far as Windsor is concerned the price of pork and bacon is as high as ever. But that is what the people voted for.

UNAPPRECIATED AMBITION.

[Lippincott's.]

"My hair," remarked the middle-aged man sadly, "is the most ambitious thing about me, it seems."

"What's the answer?" queried his friend.

"It is always coming out on top," explained the first party.

VOTED FOR IT.

[Stratford Beacon.]

Canned goods are dearer, but the people voted for this, and we shall have to make the best of it.

LIKEWISE ARTHUR HAWKES.

[Brantford Expositor.]

Five out of the sixteen members of the Laurier cabinet, Messrs. Templeman, King, Fielding, Oliver and Graham, were either editors or ex-editors; but in Hon. R. L. Borden's ministry not one editor has been included. What's the matter with W. F. Maclean, J. S. Willison and Sir Hugh Graham that they should have to sidestep for lawyers and financiers?

The Great Northwest

From Saskatoon to Edmonton by Grand Trunk Pacific.

NO. 6.

[Special Correspondence of The Advertiser.]

The following day's train took us from Saskatoon to Edmonton. The same train in every respect, perfectly equipped. I do not know whether it was imagination or not, but the land immediately in the vicinity of Saskatoon did not seem so well settled or so good as east, yet as long as daylight lasted we went through what on the whole appeared to be good country. The train was late, and it was towards midnight when we landed at the new hope of the west—Edmonton.

By common consent, Edmonton is marked out to become the second city in the Northwest, Winnipeg retaining the first place. How does it strike you? Just in that way. It is more like an Ontario city than any place in the Northwest. There are trees sufficient to give it that appearance. It is taking on form and shape rapidly. Edmonton is situated on the bank of the Saskatchewan River, and is the capital of Alberta. Across the river is Strathcona, and together their population amounts to 35,000.

* * *

The gem of all the provinces from an architectural standpoint is the Provincial Parliament buildings. I was informed that the plans were prepared by local architects, then submitted to experts, and very little altered. I have seen the provincial parliament buildings of every province, and these buildings please the eye the most. The proportions are perfect, and the style classic. They are well situated on the high bank of the river, and very imposing from the opposite bank of the river. If I had the power I would buy a block or two on the Edmonton side; the land has a depression. I would bridge that, and let an expert gardener do the rest. It would enhance the appearance of the buildings at the approach to the main entrance, and be worth all the cost.

As a complement to these beautiful buildings, a new Government house is being erected up the river on even a more beautiful site than the Parliament Buildings. As you stand where the work is progressing, and look towards the Parliament Buildings, the park grounds on the flats below, with the golf links, form a beautiful picture, and your hope is that while the country is still young as much as possible will be retained for public use and beauty. The flats do not appear to be nearly as valuable as the high lands, but are situated so close to them that their use, as well as ornament, would be a very valuable addition to the district. The grounds surrounding Government House are all that could be desired, and as the building is in the hands of the same architects as designed the Parliament Buildings, there is nothing to fear.

* * *

Here the same evidences of prosperity are taking place as at Winnipeg. Some of the banks, foreseeing the future greatness of Edmonton, are securing new corners, on which to erect finer bank buildings. Most of the banks are already well represented, and you hear of a church that located near the main corner selling out for about one hundred and ninety thousand dollars. This was a Presbyterian Church, St. Andrew's. I went to it in the morning, and was reminded of home by finding Mr. Ross, of Ross Bros., clothiers and furriers, in the seat I was shown into. I was further reminded of home, as it was forty years ago. The organ was out of commission. The electricity was off, and they sang the psalms without the aid of an organ. Of course, I couldn't help thinking of the last stand made by that revered clergyman, the Rev. John Scott, against the organ. The sermon and the preacher were both orthodox of the old school. It occurred to me, too, that here was a good subject for single taxers to wrestle with. Who made that one hundred and ninety thousand dollars that the church sold for, and how much did the city receive in taxes, while that value was accumulating? I suppose it will work out all right in the end.

* * *

Another question Edmonton would do well to minimize as much as possible now is the level crossing nuisance. I understand provision to avoid this is made where the new high level bridge crosses the Saskatchewan from Strathcona to Edmonton, but only a few blocks up you strike the Great Northern station, used also by the Grand Trunk Pacific, and then it goes on east across the city. How many tracks will it contain? How many bridges or subways will it need for the traffic? The question increases in magnitude as the city increases. You have only to look at the millions being spent in all the large cities in America to know that if you do not provide for it now as well as you can, your time will come. It is a good idea to run the sidings down the centre of the blocks in Third and Fourth streets to make provision for the wholesales, but these will be only temporary and form a small section of what will be the wholesale section of Edmonton.

* * *

Edmonton and Strathcona are now all Edmonton, and across the river are the first buildings of the new university. Alberta took to its capital, Edmonton, both its parliament buildings and its provincial university, while the Province of Saskatchewan divided them, Regina taking the parliament buildings and Saskatoon the university. All the benefits of the university as well as the capital go to Edmonton. Here, as in Saskatoon, everything is on a large scale worthy of the future. Whether they will have ideas large enough to foresee what will take place, time alone can tell. It strikes me as quite clear that the West fully appreciates the value of education from the kindergarten to the university, and are making as rapidly as possible every provision they think necessary.

* * *

Jasper street is a great street, a fine wide one with some buildings on it already that would be a credit to any city. First street seems to be the best one, running at right angles, the corner of Jasper and First streets is like the corner of Main and Portage in Winnipeg. The banks and the chief business houses will centre here apparently. How far out they will spread a few years will begin to tell. As the country opens up to the west and Edmonton's commercial importance increase the area will become greater and greater. Already it gives you the impression of a large place in the making, and you can't help thinking that if the railways do not block it, it does not follow up any means that as in Detroit, Toronto, Montreal, Buffalo, and other large cities, the principal part may not in the years to come hug the river as closely as it does now. The location of the stations and the safe crossings obtained over the railways may have a very great effect in directing the growth of Edmonton.

* * *

Taken altogether Edmonton is today a nice city, with evidences of growth and future greatness very apparent. The foundation of the university, the capitol, the banks and business houses, the railways coming in, the country opening up westward, the splendid surrounding country, all have only one meaning and point in one direction. They fit into each other and establish as well as anything can be established that Edmonton will be one of the largest cities of the great Northwest and more like an Ontario city than any one west of the Great Lakes.

TO DEVOTE HER LIFE TO CLEARING NAME

[Special to The Advertiser.]

London, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Herbert Squiers, widow of the former United States minister to Panama, who died in London about ten days ago, will devote her life and fortune to clearing her husband's name of the slanders circulated in connection with his services in South America. Mrs. Squiers says her husband died of a broken heart over the reports of his alleged misdeeds in connection with his duties as to minister of Panama.

MANAGER KILLED AND SELIG SHOT

A Crazed Japanese Gardener Shoots Moving Picture Men on Coast.

Los Angeles, Oct. 29.—Francis Boggs, 38 years old, general manager of the Pacific coast department of the Selig Motion Picture Company, was killed, and W. N. Selig, of Chicago, head of the concern bearing his name, was shot through the arm, shortly before 11 o'clock this morning, by Frank Minnimatsu, a crazed Japanese gardener employed by the motion picture people.

The shooting was done in the office of the company's studio at Edendale, a suburb. Mr. Selig had arrived from Chicago yesterday and was in conference with Mr. Boggs in the office, when the gardener rushed into the room.

Without a word, and before the men realized what the insane man was doing, five shots were fired by the Japanese. Two took effect in the body of Boggs and one struck Selig.

Led by a mounted officer who heard the shots, several of the actors rushed in an overpowered the Japanese.

Fights Like Demon.

Minnimatsu, who is a small man, fought like a demon, and, using his heavy, old-fashioned weapon as a club, kept the officer and actors at bay for several minutes before being overpowered. He was held on a charge of murder.

Boggs, who was still breathing, was rushed to the receiving hospital in an automobile, but was dead when the hospital was reached. Selig suffered a flesh wound in the arm. It was thought at first that he was more seriously injured. He was taken to the Sisters' Hospital. Mr. Boggs had been manager of the local studio since it was established about two years and a half ago. He was a pioneer in the motion picture business and had made numerous friends since he came here from Chicago to take charge of the western productions. He was married and his wife is said tobe visiting in Chicago.

Selig's Injury Slight.

"We learn from our branch office at Los Angeles that Mr. Selig was slightly wounded and is resting easily," said August Selig, chief clerk of the Selig Polyscope Company and brother to W. N. Selig. "The attack was entirely unprovoked. The man who killed Mr. Boggs and wounded my brother was a Japanese who became crazed through the use of drugs. This is the only explanation that would sound reasonable to me, as my brother was very peaceable and would never provoke any trouble."

FALCONIO MODEST

But Thinks It Possible, He, Farley and O'Connell Have Red Hat.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Washington, Oct. 29. — "I believe that there may be truth in reports from Rome that Archbishop Farley, of New York, Archbishop O'Connell, of Boston, and I, have been elevated by his holiness to be members of the Sacred College of Cardinals," said Mgr. Diomede Falconio, papal delegate at Washington, tonight. "I have today received six cablegrams from friends in Rome who are members of his holiness' household, and who would be in possession of official information as to the creation of the new cardinals.

"Last night I was inclined to doubt the authenticity of the report, and, of course, it may not be true. In the absence of advices I shall not communicate officially with Rome on the subject. I remain, so far as official information is concerned, in a receptive attitude. If the holy father desires to designate me as a cardinal, no doubt he will inform me of his intention. Possibly my friends in Rome may have acquired their information from reports published in official newspapers, and are accepting that information as authentic."

After-Supper Talks

With Cynthia Grey

SHOULD THIS MARRIAGE BE POSTPONED?

A young woman writes that she is engaged to a young man, and that the wedding day is set. But that now, within a few weeks of when they are to be married, he has been promoted in business to a higher, but much more difficult position, and that until he has mastered his new duties he would like to put off his marriage. He wants to give every bit of his attention and ability to this new work; for he is ambitious to make good and he doesn't want anything to distract his mind from it. He thinks that if he gets married the new life will to some extent take his mind from his work, and he has therefore asked her to postpone the wedding, perhaps a year, at least six months.

But she thinks this is unreasonable. She contends that, in asking this, he shows that he cares more for his business than he does for her. And she wants to know, too, what her friends think if she puts the wedding off. And she says that instead of postponing the wedding, she feels like breaking the engagement; only, she concludes, that would break her heart.

The trouble, here, it seems to me, is that she is thinking of herself and of what friends will say, more than she is thinking of him. She has promised to be a helpmate to him. Now, in what way can she help the most? How can she best show and prove her love? These are the questions she should ask. Real love forgets self. And if she will forget herself, and study these questions, she may see a little more clearly what is the wisest course.

Business today is a hard taskmaster, and this man who is out in the business world knows it. He knows better than she does what will be required of him in his new position. He is quite right, too, when he sees that the newness of married life will take much of his time and thought. That he perceives this, and does not want to undertake what he cannot put through is to his credit. And he wishes to succeed in this new business probably as much, if not more, for her sake than for his own. So that it seems to me that his request is not only reasonable, but wise.

But if she is going to break the engagement, or else continually load him with reproaches, she will interfere with his attention to the business and distract his mind from it quite as much as would the trials of starting a new home. If she does postpone it at his request, she should drop the matter right there, and throw all her interest into his new work, and inspire and help him as much as possible.

On the other hand, if she has good grounds for thinking he cares more for his business than he does for her, or purposes postponing it because in reality he is tired of her, then indeed is she wise to wait until she has entirely settled this in her mind. To enter into a marriage shadowed by such a doubt would only be to invite trouble.

It seems to me her wisest course is to wait, to throw all her enthusiasm and interest into his new work; and if, in the course of time, she becomes convinced that he is purely selfish and indifferent, then to break off the engagement altogether.

The PRODIGAL JUDGE

The Famous Novel by

VAUGHAN KESTER

Copyright, 1911, The Bobbs Merrill Company

"Aren't you Mr. Yancy?" she asked.

"Yes, ma'm, that's me—Bob Yancy." He regarded her with large gray eyes that were frankly approving in their expression, for she was more than commonly agreeable to look at.

"I am Mrs. Ferris, and I am very pleased to make your acquaintance."

"The same here," murmured Yancy, with winning civility.

Mrs. Ferris' companion leaned forward, her face averted, and stroked her horse's neck with gloved hand.

"This is my friend, Miss Betty Malroy."

"Glad to know you, ma'am," said Yancy.

Miss Malroy faced him, smiling. She, too, was very good to look upon; indeed, she was quite radiant with youth and beauty.

"We are just returning from Scratch Hill—I think that is what you call it?" said Mrs. Ferris.

"So we do," agreed Yancy.

"And the dear little boy we met is your nephew, is he not, Mr. Yancy?" It was Betty Malroy who spoke.

"In a manner he is and in a manner he ain't," explained Yancy, somewhat enigmatically.

"There are quite a number of children at Scratch Hill?" suggested Mrs. Ferris.

"Yes, ma'am, so there are; a body would naturally notice that."

"And no school—Not a church, even!" continued Mrs. Ferris in a grieved tone.

"Never has been," rejoined Yancy cheerfully. He seemed to champion the absence of churches and schools on the score of long usage.

"But what do the people do when they want to go to church?" questioned Mrs. Ferris.

"Never having heard that any of 'em wanted to go, I can't say just offhand, but don't you fret none about that, ma'am; one's up at the Forks, and there's another at Balaam's Cross Roads."

"But that's ten miles from Scratch Hill, isn't it?"

"It's all of that," said Yancy. He sensed it that the lady before him was a person of much force and energy, capable even of reckless innovation. Mr. Yancy himself was innately conservative; his religious inspiration had been drawn from the Forks and Balaam's Cross Roads. It had seemed to answer very well. Mrs. Ferris fixed his wavering glance.

"Don't you think it is too bad, Mr. Yancy, the way those children have been neglected? There is nothing for them but to run wild."

"Well, I seen some right good children fetched up that-a-ways—smart, too. You see, ma'am, there's a heap a child can just naturally pick up of himself."

"Oh!" and the monosyllable was uttered rather weakly. Mr. Yancy's name had been given her as that of a resident of weight and influence in the classic region of Scratch Hill. Miss Malroy came to her friend's rescue.

"Mrs. Ferris thinks the children should have a chance to learn at home. Poor little tots!—they can't walk ten or fifteen miles to Sunday school, now can they, Mr. Yancy?"

"Bless yo' heart, they won't try to!" said Yancy, reassuringly. "Sunday's a day of rest at Scratch Hill. So are most of the other days of the week, but we all aspire to take just a little mo' rest on Sunday than any other day. Sometimes we ain't able to, but that's our aim."

"Do you know the old deserted cabin by the big pine—the Blount place?" asked Mrs. Ferris.

"Yes, ma'am, I know it."

"I am going to have Sunday school there for those children; they shan't be neglected any longer if I can help it—I should feel guilty, quite guilty! Now, won't you let your little nephew come? Perhaps they'll not find it so very terrible, after all." From which Mr. Yancy concluded that when she invaded it, skepticism had rested as a mantle on Scratch Hill.

"Everyone said we would better talk with you, Mr. Yancy, and we were hoping to meet you as we came along," supplemented Miss Malroy, and her words of flattery were wafted to him with so sweet a smile that Yancy instantly capitulated.

"I reckon you-all can count on my nevvy," he said.

When he reached Scratch Hill in the waning light of day, Hannibal, in a state of high excitement, met him at the log shed which served as a barn.

"I hear you-all have been entertaining visitors while Uncle Bob was away," observed Yancy, and remembering what Crenshaw had told him, he rested his big hand on the boy's head with a special tenderness.

"There's going to be a school in the cabin in the old field," said the boy. "May I go?—Oh, Uncle Bob, will you please take me?"

"When's this here school going to begin, anyhow?"

"Tomorrow at four o'clock, she said, Uncle Bob."

"She's a quick lady, ain't she? Well, I expected you'd be hopping around on one leg when you named it to me. You wait until Sunday, and see what I do fo' my nevvy," said Yancy.

He was as good as his implied promise, but the day began discouragingly with an extra, and, as it seemed to Hannibal, an unnecessary amount of soap and water.

"You owe it to yo'self to show a clean skin in the house of worship. Just suppose one of them nice ladies was to cast her eye back of yo' ears? She's surely be put to name it offhand whether you was black or white. I reckon I'll have to barber you some, too, with the shears."

"What's school like, Uncle Bob?" asked Hannibal, twisting and squirming under the big, resolute hands of the man.

"I can't just say what it's like."

"Why, didn't you ever go to school, Uncle Bob?"

"Didn't I ever go to school? Where do you reckon I got my education, anyhow? I went to school several times in my young days.

"On a Sunday, like this?"

"No; the school I tackled was on a week-day."

"Was it hard?" asked Hannibal, who was beginning to cherish secret misgivings; for surely all this soap and water must have some sinister portent!

"Well, some learn easier than others. I learned middling easy—it didn't take me long—and when I felt I knowed enough I just naturally quit and went on about my business."

"What did you learn?" insisted the boy.

"You-all wouldn't know if I told you, because you-all ain't ever been to school yo-self. When you've had yo' education we'll talk over what I learned—it mostly come out of a book." He hoped his general statement would satisfy Hannibal, but it failed to do so.

"What's a book, Uncle Bob?" he demanded.

"Well, whatever a body don't know naturally he gets out of a book. I reckon the way you twist, nevvy, mebby you'd admire fo' to lose an ear!" and Mr. Yancy refused further to discuss the knowledge he had garnered in his youth.

Hannibal and Yancy were the first to arrive at the deserted cabin in the old field that afternoon. They found the place had been recently cleaned and swept, while about the wall was ranged a row of benches; there was also a table and two chairs. Yancy inspected the premises with the eye of mature experience.

"Yes, it surely is a school; anyone with an education would know that. Just look!—ain't you glad yo' Uncle Bob slicked you up some, now you see what them ladies has done fo' to make this place tidy?"

Shy children from the pine woods, big brothers with little sisters, and big sisters with little brothers, drifted out of the encircling forest. Coincident with the arrival of the last of these stragglers Mrs. Ferris and Miss Malroy appeared, attended by a colored groom.

"It was so good of you to come, Mr. Yancy! The children won't feel so shy with you here," said Mrs. Ferris warmly, as Yancy assisted her to dismount, an act of courtesy that called for his finest courage.

Mrs. Ferris' missionary spirit manifested itself agreeably enough on the whole. When she had arranged her flock in a solemn-faced row on the benches, she began by explaining why Sunday was set apart for a day of rest, touching but lightly on its deeper significance as a day of worship as well; then she read certain chapters from the Bible, finishing with the story of David, a narrative that made a deep impression upon Yancy, comfortably seated in the doorway.

CANDIES FOR HALLOWE'EN

Cocoanut Cream Bars.

Melt two teaspoonfuls of butter in a granite pan; add one cupful and a half of white sugar and half a cupful of sweet milk. Heat slowly to the boiling point, let it boil for twelve minutes, then take from the fire. Add a third of a cupful of shredded cocoanut and half a teaspoonful of vanilla. Beat until creamy and pour into buttered tins.

Maple Cream.

Three cupfuls of light brown sugar, a small lump of butter, one-half cup of cream or milk. Cook this just like small ball when dropped in cold water. Add flavoring and chopped nuts Beat fudge, or until the candy forms a until creamy. The candy is more creamy if cooled somewhat before beating.

Sea Foam.

Boil two cupfuls of brown sugar and half a cupful of water together till it hairs. Add vanilla to taste, and pour it all very slowly, beating all the time, into the stiffly beaten white of one egg. Then beat quite hard till it is rather thick. Stir in chopped nuts and even candied orange peel, or cherries chopped, if you have them. Then drop on buttered tins.

Cinnamon Taffy.

One and one-quarter cupfuls of sugar, four tablespoonfuls of vinegar, eight to ten tablespoonfuls of water, cochineal to color. Boil these till the mixture spins a thread, and be careful not to stir in after it begins to boil. When it is done put in one teaspoonful of cinnamon extract and pour into buttered pans.

Chocolate Taffy.

Three pounds of white sugar, one cupful of water, one-half cupful of cider vinegar, butter the size of a walnut, six tablespoonfuls of grated chocolate. Boil all together till crisp when dropped in water. Put into buttered tins and pull when cold.

Blutwurst Candy.

Grate three cakes of German sweet chocolate; mix in half a pound of confectioner's sugar; set over hot water, and, when partly melted, stir in two eggs, yolks and whites. Beat well, return to the fire and continue beating over hot water till the ingredients are well blended. Then stir in a quarter of a pound of blanched almonds. Set it off the fire to cool, and when it can be worked mold it in the shape of a wurst, wrap it in parafin paper and by next day you can cut it.

Peanut Goo.

Roll shelled peanuts to a paste; then make a syrup by melting two cupfuls of sugar, pour it over the peanut paste, let it cool and cut in squares.

Fruit Roll.

Two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of water, one cupful of finely chopped figs, one cupful of finely chopped dates. Boil the sugar and water till it forms a soft ball in cold water. Remove from the fire and beat until it creams, but be careful that it doesn't get too stiff. Then add the chopped fruit and beat as long as possible. Roll in a wet cloth and leave in a cool place over night. Slice in thin strips or cut in fancy figures.

Fondant for Creams.

Take a glass and into it put the white of one egg; pour water in with the egg until the glass is half filled; then stir the egg and water together, being careful not to beat it until a foam or froth comes. Mix in pulverized sugar until the substance can be worked into a roll with the hands, then flavor it and make it in small pieces. Different shaped and colored candies may be made in this way, and by using a little knack you may obtain a variety of sweets. Nuts, cocoanut, cinnamon, raisins, candied cherries, etc., make the candy good.

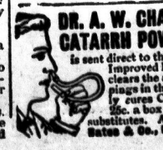

Two Ways to Cook Mince Meat

New England Mincemeat.—Cover four pounds of lean beef and two pounds of beef suet with boiling water and cook until tender. Cool in water in which they are cooked and finely chop the meat and add to it twice the quantity of finely chopped apples. The apples should be pared, cored and quartered, previous to the chopping. Then add three finely-chopped quinces, three pounds of granulated sugar, two cups of molasses and two quarts of sweet cider. Take four pounds of seeded raisins, three pounds of currants, half a pound of citron and chop well together. Mix them with the ingredients formerly prepared. To this add one tablespoonful of cinnamon and mace, one tablespoonful of powdered cloves, two grated nutmegs and a teaspoonful of pepper. Mix this in with the already prepared edibles and salt to taste. Take the suet from the stock in which it and the meat were cooked and chop it fine. Add it and the stock to the prepared mincemeat. Place it all upon the stove and cook slowly for two hours.

Mock Mincemeat.—Take four ordinary soda crackers, roll until fine and mix with one cup of molasses half cup of lemon juice or vingar, one-half cup of sugar and two well-beaten eggs which have been beaten separately with one-half cup of butter. Into this stir a cup of seeded and chopped raisins, a cup of currants, and cinnamon and nutmeg to the taste. Mix together with the other ingredients and bake between crusts. The quantity here given is sufficient for two pies.

HANDLES ON MATTRESSES.

Mattresses are not only heavy, but unwieldly things to handle. The latter difficulty may be greatly lessened if you will sew strips of ticking or other strong goods securely on each side of the mattress about a foot and a half from each end. Fasten the strips at each end, and you can then slip your hands into them, easily instead of having to grasp the edge clumsily.

Years of Suffering

A Desperate Case of Catarrh in the Head.

"My father had catarrh in the head for a long time. It was such a desperate case that he didn't know what to do, but one of his friends recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla. He got a bottle immediately, and as soon as he commenced taking it he felt relief and after the use of two other bottles he was completely cured. He was so well pleased he has ever since recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla." Delle Allen Regin, Levis, P. Q.

Don't Be Foolish.

Dear Miss Grey,—I am fifteen years old. Am I too young to have a boy friend, say seventeen? The majority of my girl friends have. I would like to retain the friendship of a boy; how shall I go about it? Thanking you in advance. C. E.

A.—You are certainly too young to entertain any foolish "love" notions yet, but it is only natural that you should find pleasure in the company of your boy friends. Does your mother approve of your having a special chum? Show yourself agreeable and likeable. This is the only way I know of holding the friendship of either boys or girls.

Orris Root.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have been much interested in your column and would be pleased if you will kindly answer the following questions: 1. In Oct. 10 paper it tells how to care for the hair. It says to put orris root and therox. Will you kindly tell me what it is, as I cannot find it in druggist catalogue? 2. Please give the recipe of caramels. Thanking you in advance. A READER.

A.—1. Inquire at a drug store, and if they do not keep it, they will probably order the article for you from a wholesale house. 2. Chocolate caramels: Four cups of brown sugar, two cups New Orleans molasses, one-half cup milk two cups chocolate finely grated, butter the size of an egg; stir all together and boil slowly over a slow fire until it "cracks" in water. Add vanilla flavoring and turn it about one-half inch deep into large, flat, well-greased tins. When nearly cold mark it deeply into squares with a greased knife. Break apart when cold and wrap in waxed paper.

Cynthia Grey's Aid to Homemakers

Dear Miss Grey,—1. Give recipe for canning green beans. 2. Also how to salt down cucumbers. 3. Also for white taffy. 4. What will remove warts. 5. What color is amethyst? 6. What color is becoming to a girl with brown hair and eyes? E. M.

A.—1. Wash beat, season and put in glass jars. Set jars, with covers set on loosely, on a board in boiler of warm water. Cover with lid and boil for two hours. Twist covers as tightly as possible, cool, and set away in dark place. 2. Put in cold water for an hour. Remove and drain. Turn into clean stone crock, and pour over them cold brine, strong enough to float an egg. Let stand 3 days, remove, drain and dry. Wash jar, return to the jar and fill with cold water. In 24 hours pour off the water and cover with hot spiced vinegar. Add a cup of sugar. After standing a week, reheat the vinegar, pour over the pickles and cover tightly. 3. Boil two cups sugar with half a pint of water and a bit of cream of tartar. When a drop in cold water hardens, stir in a teaspoon of vanilla and turn into a pan to harden. When cool enough to handle, pull with the fingertips. 4. Apply once daily a mixture of one ounce acetic acid and one drachm salicylic acid. Keep liquor out of reach of children. 5. Lavender. 6. All shades of brown.

A USEFUL GIFT.

There are times when every woman needs to press a seam or darn a rumpled dress and it is by no means always convenient to get a hot iron from the kitchen; and often when one has secured the iron there is only a highly polished table to iron on; so a small pressing board, which can be carried in the trunk, makes a most acceptable and useful Christmas gift.

Buy in a carpenter's shop a board twenty inches long, nine inches wide and half an inch thick. Cover this with several thicknesses of old flannel and cotton, pulling the cover snug and tight. Buy three-forths of a yard of brown linen for a cover and one piece of red worsted braid to bind it. The cover is practically a bag, with a slip pocket on the outside and a lap at the top like an envelope. For this cut two pieces twenty-four inches long and ten inches wide; across one piece stitch a piece of the linen, nine inches long and ten wide, for the slip pocket. Cut another piece of the linen seven inches deep and bind it with the braid, after having rounded the two lower corners. Sew this across the upper edge of the back part of the cover for a lap. After sewing the outer edges of the bag together, bind it with braid, and sew a long loop at the top to hang it by.

Make the fancy holders for the pocket and a simple design in crewel stitch in black. Small designs cut out of cretonne applied on are even more effective.

Useful Recipes For the Nursery

A trained nurse of some years' experience with delicate and teething babies gives this recipe and assures me that she has found it beneficial when all other foods have failed. It has also the advantage of being inexpensive and only requires extreme care and cleanliness in the making. This food is especially good during the summer months.

Recipe.—Soak two cups of oatmeal in cold water for an hour; pass through a wire sieve of medium mesh and then boil for three hours after it has come to a boil. When done add two teaspoonfuls of sterilized cream to two tablespoonfuls of gruel and increase as the baby grows stronger. If the child's stomach is inclined to be sour, add two teaspoonfuls of lime water when the gruel is cold, add to all the gruel made from the two cups of oatmeal a pinch of salt and two tablespoonfuls of sugar.

For a very young and delicate baby, the gruel should be boiled twelve hours. Keep one saucepan especially for this food and keep it spotlessly clean. Clean well after each time the gruel is made. To sterilize the bottles, wash each time after they are used in cold water empty out and fill again with cold water and set the bottle on its side in a pan of water on the stove. When the water comes to a boil, boil for five minutes.

To sterilize the cream.—Put about two tablespoonfuls of cream at a time in a gem jar, then place the jar in a pan of cold water on the stove with water enough to come above the cream. When the water boils, let it boil well for twenty minutes.

CARING FOR A FERN.

"My Boston fern is the admiration of every one," says one woman, "and the reason I give for its vigorous growth is that I allow the top soil to become dry before the fern is watered; then I prepare tepid water and shake soap in it just until the water is cloudy, watering the fern generously with this. Then, once a month, after the usual watering, I pour boiling water in the saucer of the fern pot. This treatment has developed a beautiful plant."

AUTO EXPERT IN PERIL

The great automobile industry which is the marvel of the twentieth century has been developed at a terrific cost of human energy.

The well-known automobile engineer of New York City, C. M. Archer, had a very trying experience which he relates in a letter as follows: "As a result of overwork in my profession my health became broken down a year ago. This grew worse and I became very weak and nervous. Then I began to take Vinol and now I am strong and well again.

"Vinol has certainly worked a miracle in my case. It is the greatest body-builder I have ever seen and nothing equals it. You may publish this for the benefit of every man and woman who wants to know the way back to health and strength."

There are many overworked men and women in this town who ought to take Vinol right now and recover their health and strength while they can. Do not delay another day. We guarantee Vinol to do you good and give back your money if it does not. W. T. Strong, druggist, also Anderson & Nelles, druggists, London, Ont.

TAFT TO FIGHT BUSINESS PIRACY

Says Illegal Combinations Have Existed Twenty Years.

NOT PLAYING POLITICS

President Not to Be Swerved From Duty By Insinuations.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—In a speech here last night, which was regarded as having a direct bearing upon the Government's latest trust prosecution against the United States Steel Corporation, President Taft denied in vigorous language that the administration was being influenced by political motives.

"I would rather cut off my right hand," he exclaimed, "than to do anything to disturb the business of this country, especially with a motive of cultivating political success.

"Statements as to what I may be responsible for in bringing about business troubles, however regretful I may be that it is so, cannot turn me from the duty that lies straight before me."

The President spoke to an immense throng in the First Regiment Armory, and his anti-trust declarations called out a storm of applause and cheering. There was no doubt as to what was in the President's mind when he said:

"I come to the subject of the trusts at a time when the matter is boiling."

He was delivering in part his Waterloo speech on the relation of the government to business, and had declared he believed the railroads of the country had brought themselves within the law, and were conscientiously trying to keep within it.

Mere Bigness No Crime.

"I hope that at a time not far distant the same thing can be said of the great industrial combinations," he said. "Mere bigness of plant, mere bigness of company or corporation, does not constitute a violation of the law. It is the purpose to restrain trade to suppress competition, and control prices that transgress the statute, and the Supreme Court has decreed that these practices must end."

"Throughout my career," the President continued, "I have always conducted myself with the idea of promoting business and promoting prosperity. If there is anything that arouses disgust in me, it is the calamity howler—the man who attacks business and seeks to arouse prejudice against it. Prosperity we all need. We are all in the same boat."

It was here that the President declared he would rather cut off his for political motives.

"But," he added, with a pound of his fist on the railing before him, "we have a condition of lawlessness to deal with. We have had it for twenty years. We have gone on organizing combinations in violation of the anti-trust law on the theory that it either could not, or would not be enforced.

Question of Evidence.

"There is a vast difference between uniting plants to reduce the cost of production and uniting to suppress competition to restrain trade and control prices. A jury could find that difference in two minutes. It is a question of evidence and fact.

"I am just now in the remarkable position of being charged with an attempt to destroy business by enforcing the anti-trust statute, and of having set up the supreme court to emasculate the statute in the interests of trusts."

"I am hopeful that this period of strain soon will end, that business soon will square itself with the law. I believe a majority of business is already square with the law.

"There is only one way that I know of to cure the corporations that are suffering from contagion and disease, and that is to eradicate the disease. The law will be enforced to the letter. Now I hope that is understood."

VERY CHEAP POWER.

MET ON TRAIN AND UNTIED AT RENO

School Girl Found That Her New-Found Husband Was a Gambler.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—An undefended suit for divorce, decided in Reno, Nev., carries a warning to impressionable young women against secret, hasty marriages.

Miss Sarah B. Pearl, a beautiful girl, was going home from school to pass a vacation with her parents at South Bethlehem, Pa. She met a handsome, engaging young man on the train; she says in her affidavit that he told her he was Victor Lang with a profitable business in New York. He told her, too, he was of a noble Hungarian family, closely related to royalty.

So quickly did he fascinate her that, yielding to his perfervid pleadings, she left the train with him at Elizabeth, N. J., and they were married immediately.

Scarcely had the ceremony been performed when, she says, her husband told her that his profitable business was gambling, but that he dared not tell her so before their marriage lest he lose her. She declared she could not live on money gained by gambling, and left him at once and went home, where she confided these astounding facts to her father, the head of one steamship company and interested financially in others.

Nevertheless her husband had so strong a hold on her then romantic mind that, at his constant prayer, she consented to be reconciled to him. Very soon she swears, Lang demanded that she influence her father to settle a large sum of money on her. Then, she says, she realized her husband's true character and left him finally.

She went to Reno, acquired a legal residence and filed the charges of non-support on which she gained her divorce. The court gave Miss Pearl permission to resume her maiden name and she has done so.

THREE NEW CARDINALS FOR UNITED STATES

Archbishop Farley and Monsignors O'Connell and Falconio Honored.

Rome, Oct. 29.—The Pope will create a large number of cardinals at the consistory to be held Nov. 27. The Most Rev. John M. Farley, archbishop of New York, and the Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, are among those who will receive the red hat. Mgr. Diomede Falconio, apostolic delegate at Washington, also will be elevated according to the announcement made today. The full list of prelates whose elevation to the cardinalate is officially announced is:

Mgr. S. M. Cos Y. Machof archbishop of Valladolid.

Mgr. Diomede Falconio apostolic delegate at Washington.

Mgr. A. Vico, papal nuncio at Madrid.

Mgr. J. Granito Di Belmonte Pignatelli, ex-papal nuncio at Vienna.

The Most Rev. John M. Farley, archbishop of New York.

The Most Rev. Francis Bourne, archbishop of Westminster.

The Most Rev. Francis S. Bauer, archbishop of Olmuetz.

Mgr. L. A. Amiett, archbishop of Paris.

The Most Rev. William H. O'Connell, archbishop of Boston.

Mgr. F. V. Dubillard, archbishop of Chambery.

The Most Rev. Franz X. Nagel, archbishop of Vienna.

Mgr. De Cabriers, bishop of Montpellier (France).

Mgr. Bisleti, papal major domo.

Mgr. Lugari, assessor of the holy office.

Mgr. Pompeli, secretary of the congregation council.

Mgr. Billot, of the Jesuit Order.

Mgr. Van Rosseu, redemptiorist.

The last consistory was held in December, 1907, four cardinals being appointed at that time. Since then many vacancies have occurred in the sacred college by death, and now there are 22 seats of the total of 70 unfilled.

Since 1907, the intention to hold a consistory has been announced from time to time, and on each occasion the convocation has been postponed for various causes. The question of the appointment of another American cardinal has been under discussion a number of times. Archbishop Farley, Archbishop O'Connell and Archbishop Quigley, of Chicago being mentioned. But on one occasion it was stated that the Pope adhered to his opinion that the United States should have not more than one cardinal during the life of Cardinal Gibbons.

The proposed consistory in November will be the fifth held by Pope Pius X. On the death of Leo XIII. there were 64 cardinals. During the last eight years Pius X. has created 17 new cardinals, of whom two have died. Thirty of the cardinals who took part in the election of Cardinal Sarto as Pope also have died.

ANGRY SUFFRAGETTE HORSEWHIPS A JUDGE

Prominent Seattle Woman Hits Jurist Across Face and is Arested for Attack.

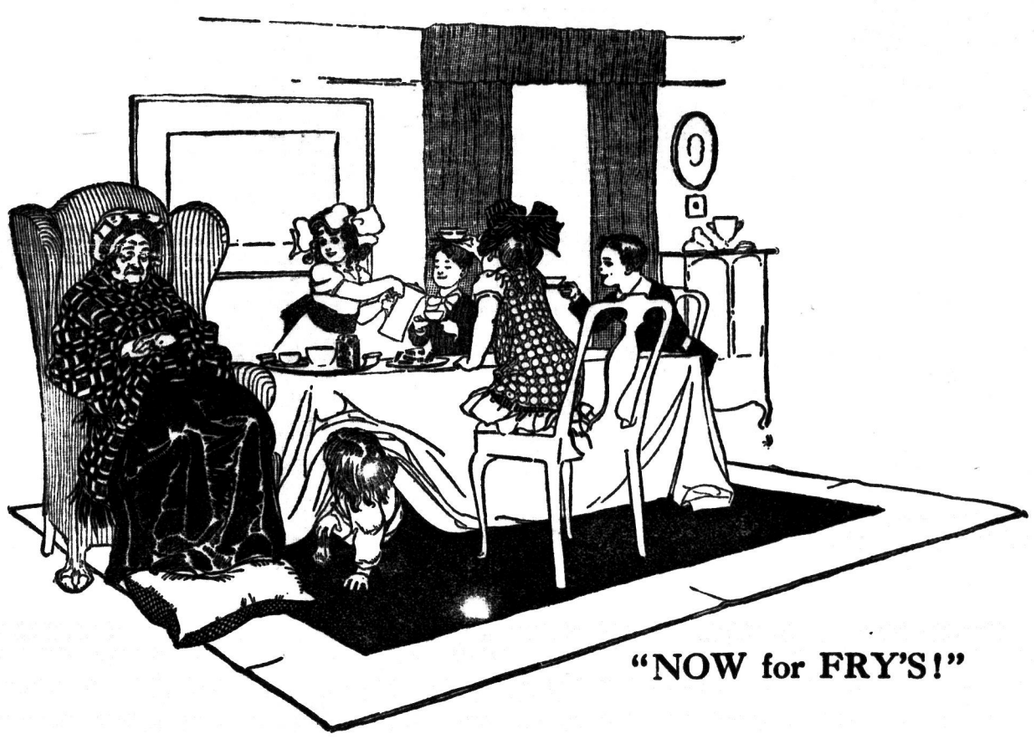

Seattle, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Christine Olsen, a prominent Seattle suffrage worker and voter, caused a sensation in the county courthouse today by horsewhipping Superior Court Judge John V. Main in the corridor. The enraged woman rushed upon the judge unexpectedly and wielded a heavy horsewhip across his face, head and shoulders, raising large welts on his face.

Mrs. Olsen, who has been an active suffragette, was waiting for Judge Main and as he appeared in the corridor rushed upon him and attacked him. Mrs. Olsen had no business, so far as can be learned at the courthouse this afternoon. Some time ago she became involved in a dispute with her landlord, was sued for rent and a jury rendered a decision in her favor. This was set aside by Judge Main.

Judge Main personally is one of the most popular members of the Kings County bench and the attack is generally regretted. It is regarded as the outgrowth of the many anarchistic mass meetings held here recently at which courts both state and federal, have been derided and condemned, and speakers urged to pay no attention or respect to court decrees or injunctions affecting people's rights.

After one of the metings the crowd burned a federal judge in effigy because he had granted a temporary restraining order for a matter of a few days until the question of an interlocutory injunction could be heard.

Mrs. Olsen is in the county jail. Bail has not been set, although she is wealthy.

RAH! RAH! PUPILS BAR SHAKESPEARE

Young Moralists of High School Arise and Eject the Bacon.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Consternation will come to publishers today when it is learned that the pupils of the Hammond High School yesterday officially and summarily ejected the literature of William Shakespeare, an English playwriter and poet, author of "The Merry Wives of Windsor," "Julius Caesar," "The Twelfth Night," etc., etc., from the school.

Mr. Shakespeare was sniffingly termed "the George M. Cohan of the Elizabethan age" and "a cheap grand stand player," and an "immoralist." His writings were found by the Hammond students, after mature and critical judgment, to be licentious, inartistic, and unworthy of study. Particular scorn was manifested against the impressionistic verse of Mr. Shakespeare except "Venus and Adonis," hotly qualified as the "most licentious literature in the English language"—probably not excluding the report of the Chicago vice commission, though not contemporaneous.

Verdict Is Held Righteous.

And—wore blow to publishers—the teachers of the high school admitted the righteousness of the pupils' stand late yesterday afternoon, when confronted by Beebon Amoss, ambassador extraordinary of the Thespian and Iola clubs, comprising practically all the students of literature in the school.

"We respectfully ask that every writing of Shakespeare be removed from the school's curriculum and that none of his likenesses, either in picture of sculpture, be displayed within the building," firmly declared Ambassador Beebon. "We request the substitution of Ibsen and Shaw for Shakespeare."

There was a short conference between Prof. James McDaniels, Prof. Ralph McElroy, and Prof. Clyde Alle, in charge of the literary departments. the instructors then announced to Beebon that the change in the English courses will be made forthwith in compliance with the pupils' wishes.

Rest of World Found Wrong.

"We agree with you that he isn't entirely clean," they are reported to have told Beebon.

The pupils' action was taken yesterday afternoon at a joint meeting of the Thespian and Iola clubs. This followed a discussion for several weeks, in which the sentiment of the entire enrollment of the school was found arrayed against the judgment of the rest of the world as ripened during some fifty years.

"The admirers of this Shakespeare person will be glad to admit now that Bacon wrote the stuff," said one Hammond literaturer last night.

PROBING INITIATION

Inquiry as to How Jack Johnson Became a Mason.

New York, Oct. 29.—A special cable from Edinburgh, Scotland, says:

Jack Johnson's recent initiation as a Freemason at Dundee, has caused a commotion in Scottish Masonic circles, owing to unorthodox scenes accompanying the ceremony.

The Marquis of Tullibardine, as head of the Grand Lodge of Scotland, presiding at a solemn meeting to consider the case, ordered that the provincial Grand Lodge at Forfarshire be requested to investigate all the circumstances. Meanwhile, Johnson's fellow members of the Lodge of Forfar and Kincardine, profess to be unable to see what objections the Grand Lodge can take to Johnson as a member of the craft, since colored people are Freemasons in many countries.

It is stated that everything connected with the nomination and initiation of Johnson was carried out in proper form, the only irregularities being the hurried summoning of the meeting and the subsequent changing of the hour of assembly to suit Johnson's convenience.

The lodge members' attitude toward the Grand Lodge is defiant, it being held that Johnson is every bit as good a man and as good a Mason as any Scotsman, and that he cannot be expelled, anyway, although he might be prevented from advancing in the mysteries of the craft.

Other Masonic authorities say that expulsions depend upon the seriousness of irregularities proved against those responsible.

M'GILL DEFEATED BY VARSITY 26-22

Montreal Men Practically Put Out of Running for Championship.

ELLIOTT GREENE STARS

Plays Wonderful Game and Helps the Toronto University to Victory.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Montreal, Oct. 28. — McGill was defeated by Varsity 26 to 22, in one of the greatest battles ever seen on the local campus here this afternoon. The outcome of the game was always in doubt, and it was not until the final whistle blew that it was decided. It would be useless to attempt to give the credit to any player in particular, as both teams put up an excellent article of football. Varsity's back division were the better catches, and from McGill's tumbles the visiting team gained much ground.

Elliott Greene played a wonderful game, catching, running and punting, and worked excellently with Maynard and Ramsay. The latter caught faultlessly and played his best game of the year.

Sinclair and Hassard tackled like fiends, and Rusty Bell was prominent always. The game put a great damper on McGill, as it practically wrecks all hopes of the championship, as no team can afford to lose a home game.

Varsity's Demonstration.

Varsity supporters, of whom there were a large number at the game, carried Capt. Maynard and a number of the players shoulder high off the field and then formed a procession to the hotel. This has been truly a great victory for Varsity, and one that will long be remembered.

The teams took the field in the following order:

McGill—Full back, J. Lee; halfbacks, Murray, Billington, Masson; quarter, McEvenue; scrimmage, Rogers, Savage, Turnbull; wings, Johnston, Waterous, Lang, Digby, Gardhouse, Lewis.

Varsity—Full back, McDonald; halfbacks, Green, Ramsay and Maynard; quarter, Campbell; scrimmage, Curtis, Bell, Knight; wings, Clark, German, Sinclair, Corey, Taylor, Hassard.

Referee—Walter Burland.

Umpire—McMaster, Montreal.

DUNLOP TIRE TROPHY CYCLISTS IN LONDON

Thirty-Five Arrived Here on Sunday and Reported a Splendid Run.

Thirty-five motor cyclists from the Toronto Motorcycle Club arrived in the city on Sunday at 12:30 o'clock from Hamilton. After having dinner here, the party left at 2:15 for Stratford, the next stop in the run. They left Toronto on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, going to Hamilton, where they spent the night. This morning they will leave Stratford for Toronto, arriving at home in the evening.

The contest is for the $350 trophy given by the Dunlop Tire Company. It is an annual affair, and awakens a great deal of interest in the Queen City, and also in the cities and towns along the route.

The cyclists were accompanied by three automobiles. The pathfinder laid out the route. The second car contained the officials of the run, and the third machine carried the Dunlop Tire Company's repair crew.

They left Hamilton at 7 a.m., and were timed for the 80-mile run in 5½ hours. Promptly at 12:30 they began to arrive, and at short intervals they came in. The contestants were supposed to make the run in a time specified. Some of them were a trifle late when they struck the city pavements, and they certainly made a great run to Mitchell's garage.

At the outskirts of the city the local Motorcycle Club met the visitors and escorted them down town.

Mr. E. Williams, local manager for the Dunlop Company, was on the scene early, and looked after the comfort of the cyclists.

The competitors found the roads good, and they all came through with little trouble. The new Dunlop tire, called the traction tire, was given its first test, and worked beautifully. One of the tires was punctured twice, but otherwise it gave the very best satisfaction.

On their arrival here a carrier pigeon carried in the official car was liberated with a message for the Dunlop Company, Toronto, and the officers of the Motorcycle Club, announcing the safe arrival of the tourists.

"It was a very fine run," said Mr. Williams. "The men had an excellent day, and everything passed off well."

Herbert Kipp, sen., and Herbert Kipp, jun., the latter the champion motor cyclist of Canada, acted as timers.

ST. MICHAEL'S GIVEN BEATING BY ALERTS

Hamiltonians Hand Collegians An Awful Walloping—Score, 52 to 2.

Hamilton, Oct. 28.—The season's second O. R. F. U. fixture in Hamilton brought together St. Michael's College and Alerts at Britannia Park this afternoon, the latter winning by 52 to 2. A cool, clear day provided ideal football weather. A much smaller crowd than witnessed the opening game here was in attendance. The Alerts' lineup was weakened by the enforced absence of Ross Craig, whose fractured rib has not sufficiently healed to let him in the game. Bill Murray, the strong middle wing, and captain of the college team, was back in the game, after having been kept out for two weeks with water on his elbows. The lineup:

St. Michaels—Flying wing, Hanrahan; halves, Flanagan, M. Gonter, W. Gonter; quarter, Canfield; scrimmage, Gorman, Dwyer, Holland; inside wings, Hickey, Roach; middle, Andrews, Murray; outside, Ryan, Reaume.

Alerts—Full back, "Ge" Fickley; halves, Carr, Flannery, W. Becker; quarter, Harper; scrimmage, Pfeiffer, McCarthy, B. Craig; inside wings, Graham, J. Grey; middle, H. Becker, Clarke; outside, Rockmaker, Fisher.

Referee, Frank Robbins; umpire, P. Munroe.

The score by quarters was: Alerts, 17, 35, 35, 52; St. Michaels, 0, 1, 2, 2.

TIGERS TROUNCED BY OTTAWA 23-9

Hamilton Supporters Did Not Anticipate Result and Bet Heavily.

THE LOSSES WERE GREAT

Score by Quarters: Ottawa 8, Tigers 0; Ottawa 2, Tigers 2; Ottawa 23, Tigers 2; Ottawa 23, Tigers 9.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Ottawa, Oct. 28. — Hamilton Tigers were trimmed at play and financially at Lansdowne Park here today, when Ottawa defeated the visitors handily, by 23 to 9.

Fine weather prevailed for the struggle. A strong wind blew down the field, and a kicking game resulted. The Tigers had a large crowd of rooters up with them to back the yellow and black, and they had all the songs and yells of the Hamilton Rooters' Club along. The Tigers' supporters asked odds of 4 to 3, and lost a barrel of money on their favorites. The best crowd of the season viewed the struggle. The Ottawa team had a large bunch of supporters out, and had a new line of yells for the occasion. Billy McMaster handled the whistle, with Hugh Gall acting as umpire, both the clubs having agreed on these two men. Referee McMaster gave the preliminary lecture.

The teams lined up as follows:

Tigers—Full, Oliver; halves, McKillvery, Smith, McNeilly; quarter, Burton; scrimmage, Nevilles, Awrey, McCann; outside, McFarlane; Pollicary; middles, Woodley, Gatenby; insides, Isbester and Thompson.

Ottawa—Full, Johnstone; halves, Robertson, Girrard, McCann; quarter, Snelling; scrimmage, Wilkinson, Kilmartin, Black; outsides, Ryan, Glassford; middles, McLoughlin, Kuhn; insides, Phillips, Vaughan.

QUEEN'S—OTTAWAS WAGE BATTLE AT KINGSTON

Capital College Crew Wins Out by a Score of 12 to 8 — Half-Time Count 11 to 4.

Kingston, Oct. 28. — A fair-sized crowd turned out this afternoon to witness the game between Queen's and Ottawa College, and they saw a game in which the strong wind from the south played no small part. Ottawa won 12 to 8.

The result meant much to both the teams. Victory for Ottawa means that they are decidedly in the running for the championship, while a defeat for Queen's is the blasting of their last hope. The weather was cold and rather raw, and even the excitement did not keep the fans warm. The Ottawa team came up accompanied by about two hundred supporters.

The teams were:

Queen's—Back, Leckie; halves, Hazlett, Dick, Macdonnell; quarter, McNeill; scrimmage, Cochrane, Barker, Dunlop; wings, Siller, Rodden, Kinsella, McLeod, Erskine and H. Smith.

Ottawa College—Back, Corneillier; halves, Heffernan, Quilty, Shanter; quarter, Killian; scrimmage, Cyr, Kennedy, McDonald; wings, Nagle, Harrington, O'Leary, Sullivan, Pfohl and Gilligan.

Walter Camp, Jun., Plays Spectacular Game—Yale Beats Colgate 23 to 0.

New Haven, Oct. 28. — Yale won an easy victory here this afternoon over Colgate's eleven, 23 to 0. Walter Camp, jun., appeared in the Yale lineup for the first time this season, playing a spectacular game at half-back, and featuring with smashing gains through the Colgate line.

The first period ended without a score, Yale's fumbles proved costly, while the visitors carried the ball into Yale territory twice, getting first down.

The Toronto men were considerably heavier than their opponents, but both showed fair in the practices.

Supporters of the locals anticipated an easy victory, and did not turn out to the match.

The teams:

$90,000 NOT ENOUGH TO GET JOHNSON INTO RING

Champion Writes He Can Write a Check for $100,000 and Has Retired for Good.

New York, Oct. 28.—Champion Jack Johnson now abroad, in a letter to Tad, the famous sporting cartoonist, reiterates his cabled statements that he has retired from the ring for good. The letter, in part reads:

"I noticed in your paper a few days ago a great headline that Jack Johnson was broke."

"Does this appear like a man who is broke? I can write a check any day in the week for $100,000. Besides this, I have property in the way of automobiles and jewelry. I value my cars at $25,000 and jewelry at $60,000, and I have a few thousand in my pocket. Outside of that I'm kind of shy.

"Just received an offer to box Langford in the States. I don't know whether it is genuine or not but neverthel ss I have retired for once and all. It would not make any difference if they offered me $90,000. I shall never fight again."

JOHNSON DENIES COBB IS GOING TO YANKEES

Ban Also Says Stovall Will Not Manage Senators—Has No Scheme to Stop Scalping.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Ban Johnson president of the American League, returned yesterday from the scene of the Athletics' triumph in the east. The first thing that Ban set about to do was to puncture the rumor that Ty Cobb was to leave the Tigers to join the New York Highlanders at his or anyone else's request. Having nailed this report as an untruth, he also declared that the announcement that he had developed a system by which ticket-scalping at future world's series games could be prevented was made out of whole cloth.

"The national commission has tried for several years to prevent ticket-scalping at the big series, but so far has been unsuccessful," he declared. "The evil was more pronounced this year than ever before, and fully ten thousand tickets found their way into the hands of scalpers for every game that was played in New York. There is not the slightest doubt in the world that someone connected with the New York club is responsible, and to discover the identity of this person will be the subject of an investigation on the part of the national commission which will take place within the next two or three weeks.

Cobb Won't Move.

"That stuff about Ty Cobb going to New York, and that I was supposed to have a hand in his leaving the Tigers is the veriest nonsense. Ty will play with Detroit as long as he wants to or is wanted. George Stovall will not be manager of the Washington team next season, though I am not prepared to say at present who will get the position.

"I expect to remain in Chicago for several days to get rid of the work which has piled up in my absence, but on Tuesday, if possible, I intend to leave for Mercer, Wis., to join Charles A. Comiskey and his party and forget for a short time all things incident to the national pastime."

GRIDIRON STAR PLAYS WHILE UNCONSCIOUS

Pete Lawlor, of Trinity Team, Is Kicked in Head During Play and Loses Memory.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 29.—That Pete Lawlor, the star half-back of Trinity team, played practically all of the sensational Trinity-Wesleyan game on Trinity field yesterday while unconscious, was the statement of Trinity tonight. Lawlor's case puzzles the physicians at the college, who declare it one of the most remarkable cases of temporary lapse of memory ever known, and say it is still more wonderful when at the end of the game Lawlor insisted that only one quarter had been played and continued to attempt line plunging against his teammates. Lawlor in a scrimmage during the first period was kicked in the head, being rendered unconscious. He continued to play, however, and not one of his team-mates noticed his condition. They realized that he missed a couple of signals and was slow on others, but as he was one of the Trinity's strong players, nothing was said to him. Throughout the remainder of the first period, the whole of the second and third periods, and for about six minutes of the fourth period Lawlor continued to play, and while his work was at times somewhat different than his usual style of playing, his team-mates did not suspect that he was playing while unconscious.

Lawlor today told his team-mates that he had remembered nothing from the time of the scrimmage shortly after Wesleyan had scored its first touch-down.

The mutton of the world is reckoned at 480,000,000 head, of which Australia is credited with 98,000,000. England ranks next with one-third that number.

SMIRLIE LAWSON BACK ON GRIDIRON

Appears in Uniform of Argos, Who Trim Montreal.

A VERY CLOSE BATTLE

Mallett, of Winners, Fails to Enthuse the Crowd With His Fumbling Demonstrations.

Toronto, Oct. 28.—The first appearance, save for the Varsity old boys' game, of the great and only Smirlie Lawson, who came out in an Argo uniform, and Mr. Mallett's exhibition of his ability to fumble anything that came his way, were the early features of the Montreal defeat by the Oarsmen here today. The score was 12 to 8. The Argo line had it on their eastern rivals all the way, but the back division seemed able to lose and advantage which their line could gain. Scott, at centre half for the visitors, showed as the most valuable man on the field, while Murphy at middle wing for the Argos was playing some football. The lineup:

Argos—Back, Parkes; halves, Mallett, Lockhart, Smith; quarter, O'Connor; scrimmage, Russell, W. Brown, Addison; inside, Sinclair, Gale; middle, Arnoldi, Murphy; outside, Moore, Murray.

Montreal—Back, Bailey; halves, Scott, Brophy, Craig; quarter, Ross; scrimmage, McAllen, Roberts, Kalas; inside, W. Kelly, Kellyt Biddle, Norcross, Porteous; outside, Savage, Cameron.

Referee, Dr. Hendry; umpire, J. B. McArthur.

RIVERS AGAIN CLIMBS LADDER

Mexican Does Come-Back Stunt With Kirkwood.

Los Angeles, Oct. 28. — Joe Rivers, the Los Angeles featherweight, "came back" in decisive fashion at Vernon today, defeating George Kirkwood, of St. Louis, in the eighth round of their scheduled 20-round bout. Referee Charles Eyton stopped the fight to save Kirkwood from further injury. Kirkwood was semi-conscious and had no chance to win, and Rivers was given credit for a knockout.

GIANT PLAYERS DIVIDE PROCEEDS

New York National Club Members Get $2,436.39 Each for World's Series Play.

TRIP TO CUBA CERTAIN

Manager McGraw Remains in Charge During Cuban Invasion.

New York, Oct. 28.—A check for $2,436.39 was in the hands of each of nineteen players of the New York Nationals yesterday as their share of the proceeds of the world's series.

Two other players, Catcher Hartley and Infielder Paulette, divided one of the remaining shares, the former getting $1,827.29 and the latter $609.10. One full share remains, and that will probably be divided between Coach Wilbert Robinson, Pitcher Maxwell Outfielder Burns and Trainer Ed. Mackall.

The players made up a contribution among themselves for Al Bridwell, who was traded to Boston in the middle of the season whereby the latter will draw down the equivalent of one-half a regular share.

Will Play in Cuba.

Having lost out in the series, the players have decided to accept the proposition of the Cuban promoters and take a jaunt to the island for twelve games. Such a trip would not have been permissable had they won the world's series.

The players will leave here on Nov. 10 and will sail from Cuba on the return trip on Dec. 10. Games will be played on Sundays, Mondays and Thursdays for four successive weeks, making twelve games in all. The players have been guaranteed $500 each and all expenses for the trip.

McGraw In Command.

Manager McGraw will be in charge of the team during the Cuban invasion, but he will not have his full team. Meckle and Murray will be out of the line-up, their places being taken by Devlin and Becker.

Some of the star battery men will also be missing. Chief Meyers will leave next week for his home in California to give personal attention to his fruit farm.

Nine of the party are married men and they are accorded the privilege of taking their wives along, all expenses paid.

The Giants will make their last appearance of the year in uniform tomorrow afternoon when Larry Doyle will assemble the team for a game with Ty Cobb's All-Star club. Marquard will pitch.

LONDON WILL MEET GALT JUNIORS TODAY

Exhibition Match to be Played at Tecumseh Park This Afternoon.

The fast Galt junior O. R. F. U. Rugby football team plays the locals today at Tecumseh Park. A clean game is promised. Galt has attained a reputation for always being out to win, and most always succeeding; but the locals state that today's game will be one "that Galt men will not be able to hang on their belts."

This match should prove of value to London, as it will afford an excellent work-out for the boys, and should give them a good opportunity to work their signals with the full team.

Galt will bring quite a number of rooters along, and a large crowd will be at the park. No charge is being made for the grand stands.

The London lineup will be: Grafton, Smithson, Morrison, McKay, Moore, McKinnon, Little, Fitzgerald, Thompson, Sage, Callahan, Fletcher, Stevens, Molland, Sing, Lackie, Strickland.

A Hip-Pocket Message to Londoners
Subject: The All-Conquering Motorcycle

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Today marks an epoch in the history of Motor Vehicle travelling; the Motorcycle has made good.

For the first time in the annals of Ontario a score of men have proven that the Motorcycle can be regulated and controlled for an even speed over a distance of nearly 400 miles.

London should feel proud that she was the "turning point" in this, the first Motorcycle Endurance Run of the banner province; and also, for what is probably the first time on the continent, that her newspapers should receive a paid-for advertisement carried from the advertiser to the publisher—a distance of 225 miles—in a Motorcycle rider's pocket.

Last September the Dunlop Company donated a Trophy for a Motorcycle Reliability Run, with Winnipeg as the starting and finishing point. It was the first event of the kind ever held in Canada. Success crowned it as it crowned the undertaking which is the subject of this letter, and which was carried out under the auspices of the Toronto Motorcycle Club, in competition for the Dunlop Trophy. Won three times this trophy becomes the property of the rider. It is expected that the Endurance Run will be an annual affair.

There can now be no doubt that the Motorcycle is here to stay. It fills a commercial as well as a social necessity, and as time goes on will no doubt become popular with every class of society.

The Dunlop Company, as the pioneer tire-makers of Canada—and the originators of all the basic ideas in tire-construction—welcome this latest achievement of the Motorcycle industry.

When the history of all these achievements is being recorded in the chronicles of Motorcycling, full tribute will no doubt be paid to the power for good which the Dunlop first Reliability Run meant to the cause.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) JOHN WESTREN,
General Manager,

RALPH ROSE MOVES TO SAN FRANCISCO

Is Showing Great Form at Heaving the Shot.

San Francisco, Oct. 29.—Ralph Rose, the giant, shot putter, has taken up permanent residence in San Francisco as a lawyer. There was not much opportunity for the display of his ability in his native town, Healdsburg, so he thought he would try Frisco for better luck. Whether or not he is swamped with briefs is not known, but he is not neglecting an occasional heave of the shot and quite frequently he can be seen out at the Golden Gate stadium arrayed in his athletic toggery and working as if his life depended on every try. Rose has his eye on the team next year and intends to be in the best possible shape. He is devoting most of his attention to putting with the left hand, for the two-hand competition is on the Stockholm programme along with that for the best hand. It is said that Rose can make a total of 90 feet for the two-hand competition, so that he is a pretty sure point winner in two events for America.

It has been planned to secure the services of the score or more professional ball players wintering in this city to compose two teams for a series of games. Baker has not yet replied to the offer.

REV. H. H. BINGHAM ON QUEST OF TRUTH

Interesting Address Delivered in the Auditorium on Sunday.

"The Quest of Truth" was the subject of an interesting and inspiring address delivered in the Auditorium yesterday afternoon by Rev. H. H. Bingham, of Talbot Street Baptist Church. His text was in part, "And ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." "Questlessness is always growthlessness," said Mr. Bingham. "The scientific and progressive ago of today is asking, 'What is truth?' The purpose of all education is the attainment of truth, but to attain to the truth involves steadfast search and sacrifice.

"Be free to do your own thinking. As a man thinketh in his heart so is he. When the mind holds the true attitude the man will be right.

"The religion of Jesus Christ invotes investigation. Evolution does not eliminate God as the truth. God is back of all the wonders of science. God is the First Creator and the Eternal Truth. Evolution is merely a process, and evolutionary doctrines only push God further back in the process.

"Fallen humanity, is as it were, a mutilated picture from the hand of the Great Artist. God sent Christ the Perfect Man into the world to express the ideal in the mind of the Divine Artist. The principles and teachings of Jesus Christ are the essentials of true freedom."

An excellent musical programme was rendered by the Moelwyn Male Choir.

STOLEN WHEELS WERE FOUND IN EAST LONDON

Both Were Taken From the Vicinity of Victoria Park.

Two bicycles were found on Saturday morning in front of an empty house on Glebe street, near King street. The wheels had been placed there the night before and remained until late on Saturday morning when the matter was reported to the police. The owners were located Saturday afternoon and their property restored to them. One of them stated that he saw a young man running with his bicycle, but did not know it was his machine until the lad got out of sight. Both wheels were taken in the vicinity of Victoria Park, and young boys are supposed to be the guilty parties. They were apparently East London lads and after riding the bicycles out there had deserted them.

7TH REGIMENT WILL LEAVE FOR THE FRONT

War Will be Played in the Dundas Valley Today.

Sharp at 7:15 this morning the special train carrying the 7th Regiment to the scene of the military manoeuvres at Copetown will pull out of the Grand Trunk depot. The train will be composed of eight coaches in all. The rear coach is given over to Col. Campbell and his staff of officers. There are over 250 members of the regiment going to Copetown, and all are looking forward to a big day.

Owing to instructions from headquarters, the band will not go along with the soldiers. The tactics this year will be carried on minus the bands. It is expected that the train will arrive at its destination about 9:30, and the soldiers will at once march to the scene of activities. Special trains from Chatham and Guelph will also be run. The Chatham train will follow the London special, leaving here about 7:30 a. m. It is expected that about 300 men will be aboard it.

Col. Hodgins, who will command the Greyland forces, left for Hamilton on Saturday, and will be on the grounds bright and early in order to get acquainted with the lay of the land. A number of newspaper reporters accompanied the soldiers, and will act as "war correspondents" on the field during the manoeuvres.

EXAMINATIONS OVER BY THE END OF JUNE

Matriculation Examinations To Be Held Early to Avoid Heat.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Dr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, deputy minister of education, has announced that henceforth the matriculation examination of the department of education will be held earlier in the year so as to avoid the extreme heat of July.

Dr. Colquhoun states that the regulation has not yet been adopted, but he does not anticipate any objection to it. Dr. Pyne had received many complaints last July, and then and there decided on the change. It is expected that the examinations will be over by the end of June.

DR. GRIFFITH THOMAS IN ST. JAMES' CHURCH

Former Oxford Professor Preached at Anniversary Services.

Anniversary sermons were preached in St. James' Anglican Church yesterday by Rev. Dr. H. Griffith Thomas, of Wycliffe College, Toronto, and formerly of one of the colleges of Oxford University. In the evening Dr. Thomas selected the text, Acts viii., 39: "He went on his way rejoicing."

Just as the magnet does not attract the pin as it attracts the needle said the speaker, so Jesus Christ does not attract all men equally. The fault is no more Christ's than it is the magnet's. Jesus Christ brough to bear on different men has different effects. The Ethiopian who went on his way rejoicing had come 1,500 miles to hear the gospel. He desired to know the truth, and was living up to the light which he possessed. There are many men like the Ethiopian eunuch who are men of high power, position, ability and intellect, but yet are lacking in the one indispensable, Jesus Christ.

"How can I understand unless some man guide me?" asked the eunuch. The world will never get beyond the need of the spoken voice, said Dr. Thomas, let the power of the press be magnified as it may. When men do not understand the Bible it is always owing either to prejudice or ignorance. God is unable to remove prejudice; man himself must do that. What man must do in order to be saved is to surrender and serve. There is no real satisfaction or strength outside of Jesus Christ.

At the evening service a solo was beautifully rendered by Miss Quigley. Both morning and evening services were well attended.

INTEREST IS KEEN IN RURAL ELECTIONS

Practically All the Members of Present County Council Will Run Again.

Residents of the rural communities of Middlesex are beginning to take great interest in the coming municipal elections, and it appears that the contests in the different sections will be fought keenly.

Practically all members of the present county council will again go before the people, a number of the present deputy reeves seeking higher honors.

Mr. W. A. Roberts, second deputy reeve of London Township, will go back in the field for first deputy, while the present incumbent, Mr. Chris. Brooks, will compete with Mr. Robert Jackson for the reeveship. Mr. Roberts will be opposed by Mr. George Taylor, while Mr. Thomas Clark will attempt to return as second deputy against Mr. George Hudson. A number of other names have also been mentioned in connection with London Township elections.

A New System.

A new system of electing the township councillors may be adopted in London Township as a proposition to make the term two years instead of but one is to be submitted. It is claimed that this scheme will work out more satisfactorily, as in practically every instance councillors have been given second terms. This would also result in an annual saving of several hundred dollars, supporters of the scheme claim.

The matter was voted on in McGillivray a couple of years ago and was defeated, but side issues were responsible for its downfall there, it is said.

Another bylaw to be submitted in London Township calls for the issuing of between $50,000 and $60,000 twenty-year debentures for the purchase of building and repairing bridges.

A Happy Condition.

The township thus far has no debt excepting that incurred at the time of the purchase of the Proof Line road but the last of it will be wiped out this year.

Just who will be the next warden of Middlesex is a question, and no selections will be made until after the elections, as neither political party is certain of a majority. The present council stands 15 to 15, with one man showing a degree of independence.

A CONTEST FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Western Ontario Commercial Travellers Will Hold Nomination on Saturday.

The annual nomination of officers for the Western Ontario Commercial Travellers' Association will be held on Saturday next.

It is expected that there will be a contest for some of the offices, particularly the presidency and second vice-presidency.

Mr. John M. Dillon, who has been president for the past two years, is retiring. It is expected that the contest for the office will be between Mr. Richard Davis and Mr. Donald Ferguson. The latter is at the present time first vice-president, while Mr. Davis was defeated for the presidency two years ago.

Mr. H. W. Lind is second vice-president, and he will become first vice-president. There will be a contest for second vice-president, Mr. Hugh Rennie and others being mentioned for the honor.

GOVT'S MAJORITY ABOUT 37,775

But Missing Returns May Reduce the Figures.

THE POPULAR VOTE

Outside of the City of Toronto It Was For the Liberals.

Ottawa, October 29.—Official return for 194 out of 221 constituencies for the recent general election show an aggregate Conservative vote of 569,-670, and an aggregate Liberal vote of 531,896, giving a nominal popular majority for the new government on the returns so far in of 37,775.

This however will probably be reduced when all the returns from Alberta and Saskatchewan are in. Of the missing constituencies fifteen went Liberal and ten gave Conservative majorities. In addition to this it is important to note that there were three Liberals elected by acclamation.

If the net Conservative majority in Toronto, totalling some 25,000, were eliminated it is probable that the returns from the rest of the country when finally completed would show a popular majority in favor of the Liberals.

Aggregate returns by provinces with missing constituencies indicated are as follows:

Nova Scotia.
Government, 50,303.
Opposition, 52, 234.
Missing constituencies Cape Breton south.

New Brunswick.

NEW YORK WOMEN PLAN FOOD REFORM

Every Housewife To Be Her Own Inspector Hereafter.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Oct. 29.—"Every woman her own food inspector." This is the slogan of the Housewives League, a new organization whose promise is to give pure, inspected food, honest weight and lower prices for better quality of food in New York.

The work of the league was outlined by Mrs Julian Heath, chairman of the household economic committee of the City Federation of Women's Clubs at the Hotel Astor, and indorsed by this body as part of their progressive work. On Tuesday Mrs. Heath will send out a call to all the club presidents represented in the federation, asking them to co-operate in the work, and outlining its purposes.

"Every woman who becomes interested in the league will be asked to sign a pledge promising to do some actual, effective work along the lines of reform we have adopted," said Mrs. Heath today. "Every day in the week housewives are cheated by dishonest tradesmen. State and municipal laws to protect the family from poisonous and adulterated foods and impure milk are not enforced.

"While we shall punish the dishonest tradesmen through the courts, we shall at the same time protect the honest merchant and show our appreciation by giving him our trade. We shall get the record of every tradesman in the city, and punish every violator of the pure food law.

"In France the Housewives League has done splendid work in reducing the high cost of living, and with an effective co-operative force I believe we can do it here."

A BRAVE BAND FIGHTS FOR LIFE

Mexican Federals Surrounded by a Superior Force.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Mexico City, Oct. 29.—Fighting for their lives, one hundred Federals and Maderists surrounded, by seven hundred Zapatists are holding the top of the ancient "Pyramid of Stars" at Cholulu, while the entire town burns around them. Special trains have brought practically all the inhabitants of Cholulu into Puebla, fleeing from the second looting of the city where the Aztec rulers were buried, and where Cortes with 1,500 men defeated 50,000 Indians.

The refugees report every house sacked and burning. The Federals are almost out of ammunition and annihilation seems certain. Frederick Garcia, at the head of the Maderist forces in the Puebla district issued a call this afternoon to all Maderists who had laid down their arms to take them up and follow Zapata.

Fifty Zapatists were killed in an hour's battle yesterday, and the band annihilated at Tocapixtla.

The President and minister of war tonight ordered troops rushed to Cholulu. The situation is desperate.

ENRAGED CONGREGATION ATTACK A PRIEST

Drag Him From the Pulpit for Denouncing Saloons.

[Special to The Advertiser]

Ansonia, Conn., Oct. 29.—Because he favored temperance in his initial sermon at the Russian Orthodox Greek Catholic Three Saints' Church here today, the Rev. Father Kudrivoff was dragged from the pulpit and badly beaten by angry members of his congregation.

The priest was rescued and escorted out of town by the police. Father Kudrivoff was brought here by the Austrian faction in the church who dismissed the regular pastor on Saturday. The new priest, after naming several of his congregation who owned saloons, said: "Saloons are pitfalls on the road to hell, and those that own them are allies of the devil."

Friends of a wealthy saloon keeper whose money made possible the life of the church thereupon rushed to the pulpit and the priest was being dragged along the street when rescued. His clothes were torn and his face badly cut.

A woman who helped drag Father Kudrivoff from the church attempted to set fire to the building tonight, but was frustrated.

TRIES TO EXTERMINATE HIS WIFE'S FAMILY

Succeeds in Killing His Father and Mother-In-Law.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Parkersburg, W. Va., Oct. 29.—A tragic climax to the sensational episodes in the life of Carroll A. James during the past few weeks came this morning when, in an effort to exterminate his wife's entire family, he succeeded in killing Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Pritchard, his wife's parents, at their home in Pennsboro, desperately wounding his wife, and then killed himself. James' first shot his wife in the hip and then killed her parents. His four-year-old daughter clung to his neck as he ran to the rear of the house and shot himself. She did not let go until he struck her a forcible blow in the face, which, however, did not seriously hurt the child.

The tragedy is the finale of a series of sensational episodes. A few weeks ago James shot a man who he said, he found in his wife's room when he returned home unexpectedly. For two weeks before the Jameses had not lived together, owing to family disagreements. The wounded man was not seriously hurt, a trail of blood showing he had departed on the next train. Mrs. James charged her husband with conspiracy, alleged he had sent the man to her home, and that he had been there but a few minutes when her husband came and fired at him. Two days later she sued for divorce. A week after the divorce proceedings were instituted there followed another sensation when Mrs. James charged her husband with conspiracy to defraud the United States Express Company, by whom he was employed as a messenger, naming George Mittner, of Grafton another messenger, in the same complaint. James was arrested and had been out on bond.

DAN CUPID DEFEATS MARS AND WIRELESS

Daughter Caught by Father's Warship When Eloping With Turk.

Vienna, Oct. 28.—From Rome comes details of a lively skirmish between Cupid and battle-scarred Mars, that ended, as usual, in the veteran warrior being badly worsted.

Signorina Livia Malfetti, a lady-in-waiting upon the Dowager Queen Margherita, closed her ears to war's approach, and when the excitement was greatest eloped with Omar Rifaat Bey, military attache to the Turkish embassy in Rome.

While fleeting through the Straits of Messina on a passenger ship, they ran plunk into Admiral Malfetti, the young woman's father, and his big warship Doria. He sent his daughter ashore under guard, and speeded the departure of the other vessel toward its Turkish port. Once at home, the young woman twice attempted suicide. Now comes news from Mantua that her family says she may wed her Turkish lover after the war over Tripoli.

When the beautiful signorina announced her engagement some weeks ago, there was instant and bitter opposition both from the powerful Malfetti family and the Italian court. So aroused were they that a request for the young man's recall was sent to the Porte. But before action was taken the war began, and he had to make a hasty departure.

His sweetheart was true and left Rome with him. Instead of going direct to Constantinople they journeyed secretly to Genoa to elude pursuit, which had become warm. After waiting some days in Genoa, they took passage on a steamship for Turkey.

It was on this stage of their flight that they encountered the stern old Admiral Malfetti. He was watching for hostile Turkish vessels, and though he had been notified by wireless that his daughter had eloped, he did not know she was aboard the Turkish passenger ship until he halted it.

Rifaat had used the power of his office to obtain the best accommodations, and his full name and titles were on the register, so he had no trouble in nabbing the elopers.

A piteous scene on deck was witnessed by the entire ship's crew, but despite the frantic appeals of his daughter and her lover, the admiral sent her over the rail under guard.

This elopement, following less than a year after the horrible tragedy in a hotel in Rome, in which Countess Trigonia, one of Queen Helena's ladies-in-waiting, was murdered by her lover, a notorious Sicilian blackmailer, has caused a pronounced sensation.

TOWNSHIP PEOPLE ARE WROUGHT UP

Do Not Like Talk Going On In Regard to Niagara Power.

London Township officials do not take kindly to the objections likely to be made by the city to the township furnishing Niagara power to suburbs such as Ealing, Eastmount and other places. It was stated to The Advertiser on the best of authority that the city would object, Reeve S Frank Glass does not think the city will succeed.

"I think the claim is absurd," he informed The Advertiser. "It is very kind of the water commissioners or whoever else are objecting, to take such a paternal interest in our affairs. I think we are in a position to handle our own business in a proper way. But I do not think they will succeed for various reasons. It is not our intention to divide what revenue may come to us from the sale of power in the township with the city. It would be ridiculous to do so.

"It is equally absurd for us to divide our constituency with them. The more customers we have the less the overhead charges will be per capita. In these sections there are many people closely grouped together, and it will be much easier to serve them than it would be to farmers only. By the whole township combining in the enterprise, we will be in a position to get getter rates for all parties.

"The city are not furnishing any power whatever to London Township. We tried to get it from London for Eastmount. They wanted a minimum charge, and in addition asked us 75 per cent more for the energy than was being paid in the city. As a result we could not see our way clear to accept their offer.

"As for annexation to the city, it would be better to cross that bridge when we come to it. There is no sentiment here for annexation at the present time."

SEND THE CHILDREN

You can safely send the little folks to our store on errands. There are no objectionable features here. We make a special point of waiting upon children promptly, and give them courteous attention. To avoid misunderstanding, it is well to send written orders. In fact, the written order is quite necessary when sending very young children.

LABOR CANDIDATE FOR NORTH TORONTO

Independent Party To Try for Seat in the Legislature.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 29.—At a meeting of the Independent Labor Party in Toronto Sunday afternoon, Mr. James Richardson was given the nomination in North Toronto. The other nomination in North Toronto was unanimously accorded to Mr. William Stevenson, who is a popular street railway conductor, and is under thirty years of age. He offered the objection that he could not make orations like Cicero, but his fellow members vouched that the average man who went to the Legislature was nothing but a "dough-head," whereas he had some practical experience in committee work, which would be very valuable. It was rather difficult to get two candidates to contest East Toronto, so the nominations were held over until next Sunday.

ADVANCE TIPS FOR BIG ONES

Steel Trust Financiers Were Protected, It Is Charged.

THE PUBLIC TO SUFFER

Wall Street Men Were Enabled to Sell Out Their Steel Stocks.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Oct. 29.—If a crime was committed by the organization of the U. S. Steel Corporation, United States Government is a party to that crime, for not only did it neglect to enforce the law, but it actually indorsed some of the things now complained of. If the crime committed was a great one, then the greater crime has been committed by the Government in attacking the Steel Corporation now for present purposes.

Only a year ago the decision was reached to permit the Steel Trust to adjust itself to what the Federal authorities conceived to be the law and thereby to avoid ligitation. But after long and mature deliberation the conclusion was reached that more voters could be gained by bringing suit for dissolution.

Advance Tips.

This was bad enough, but either by fair means or by foul, leading financiers got advance information that the suit would be brought and they were able to sell stocks and prepare for the market collapse, which has found the great body of Steel Trust shareholders and investors in general utterly unprotected. Investors will be properly punished for the crime of owning stock in a corporation that had the approval of the United States Government from the first day of its organization. It remains to be seen whether the men responsible for the outrage involved will also be punished by being retired from the positions of trust they have dishonored. The time is past for discussing the morals of trust breaking. The deadly results must now be considered.

Speaking at Chicago, President Taft said: "The law will be enforced to the letter. Now I hope that is understood."

At Milwaukee, the President said: "We shall enforce the law against everyone high and low, whether it be a trust or a trade union, the law shall be enforced. Then if the law work iniquity the law can be changed."

In the same address at Milwaukee, the President made it clear that by a "trade union" he meant organized labor.

After these statements by President Taft no one can doubt that the suit against the Steel Trust is only one of a long series against corporations, labor unions, jobbers associations, trade clubs and dinner parties. The administration can not back out. Nothing will save business men from prosecution but the amendment of the Sherman Anti-Trust law or the passage of a new law by Congress to replace it. President Taft says he will not favor amendment unless the law works iniquity through the prosecutions he has pledged himself to carry on. He can not be sure that the prosecutions will work iniquity until they are completed and therefore the campaign of wholesale prosecutions must continue for several years unless the Democratic party takes the whole matter out of the President's hands by putting a new law on business through Congress with such heavy majorities to pass it over his veto. Judging from the reported sentiments of the leaders in Congress, there is no prospect of this being done. Therefore investors are foe to foe with a condition demanding urgent attention.

Perhaps the most important thing for the general public to realise as stockholders is that the great financiers by reason of their advance information of what was being done at Washington have had an opportunity to project themselves by selling their stocks. The positive information that the suit will be brought against the Steel Trust may have been obtained by them through the dishonorable methods but they obtained it. They stand to lose nothing in the stock market, but rather to gain vast fortunes by snatching bargains on days of demoralization when the general public is frightened by sensational developments in the suits that will soon be under way.

Directors Informed.

The steel suit was filed after two months of secret preparation, but secret preparation only as regards the public, for it now appears that speculative directors of the Steel Trust had full knowledge of what was coming. It is only fair to say that the treachery of stenographers and printers at Washington is notorious, and the responsible officers of the Government may be perfectly innocent of stock market alliances in connection with this litigation. Anybody with sufficient money can purchase advance copies of most state papers long in advance of their publication.

The next important thing for investors who are not so fortunate as to be in touch with some treacherous private secretary at Washington is to remember the Government has not accomplished anything yet in its attempts to destroy the Standard Oil and the American Tobacco companies. Judging from conditions ruling at present in those two companies, nothing will be accomplished, or if anything the oil and tobacco trusts will come out of the struggle stronger than ever. All signs point to a year or two of depression. Stocks would have gone down even if the Government had adopted a different policy in connection with the trusts.

Any wholesale attempt to sell stocks will cause unnecessary panics in the market and enable the insiders to pick up bargains with the cash they were enabled to accumulate by reason of their advance information of the Government's plans.

FINANCIAL.

The Montreal and Toronto Stock Exchanges are closed today.

(From Charles Head & Co., by private wire to J. J. Tearney.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Wall street's closing letter.—There was a more or less irregular opening to the market this morning, followed by a stronger tone, in which prices rose ¼ to 1 point, the latter in Union Pacific. Steel gained ¾ and the preferred 1. Southern Pacific gained one point. After the first hour the rally petered out, and quotations dropped to or below opening figures in some cases, with but little feature of interest being shown. Rumors of a coming raid on for the D., L. and W. stockholders are in the air. Fears of attempts to prevent payments in future on Steel common by injunction are considered groundless. Some estimates have been made that the Morgan interests have bought 200 000 shares of Steel to protect the market. In the last half-hour prices strengthened, and the closing was at near high, with a better feeling prevailing. We still believe that better class of rails pay profits if bought on recessions.

[Special to H. C. Becher.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—The London market this morning indicated that today's session would be without unusual events. Were it not for the complex situation in the United States, growing out of the construction of legal proceedings as a vehicle to convey politicians into office, the improved foreign situation would attract investors from abroad to our market and we would be exchanging our securities for their gold. Despite the experimental form, the Government has conceived, by the action on the legal end in its contention against business corporations, it is evident that a distinction in all speculative and investment commitments will be drawn as between seasoned railroads and industrials which have to contend with this new form of political economy. We therefore advise the confinement of operations to railroad stocks for the present. We are of the opinion that purchases, followed with patience, will show fair rewards.

PRISONER FIRES ON PAL AND JUDGE

Wounds Fellow-Culprit Before Being Shot Down by Police Chief.

Mason City, Ia., Oct. 29.—Brought into court without being searched for weapons, Bob Gable today opened fire on his alleged partner in crime and on the judge, prosecuting attorney and police who were in the court room.

Only one of his bullets took effect, lodging in the spine of Rex Kibbling, his fellow-prisoner. Before he was shot down by Chief of Police Lock, Gable succeeded in firing all the cartridges in his revolver.

Gable and Kibbling are at a local hospital, and attending surgeons say both probably will die. Gable's bullet penetrated Kibbling's intestines and liver before finding lodgment in his backbone. Chief Lock's single shot perforated Gable's lung and it is expected that hemorrhages will cause his death.

Relies Police For a Day.

The shooting was the culmination of an exciting 24 hours, in which police reluctance to arrest Gable enabled that young desperado to swagger about town, displaying a weapon whenever a patrolman approached him. When he finally agreed to go to the court room to be present at the trial of Kibbling on a charge of larceny, the policeman who had made the "arrest" was so relieved at his acquiescence that he waived the formality of disarming his "prisoner."

Kibbling, when placed on trial, said he had received a revolver from Gable with instructions to realize at least $1 50 by its sale. He was unable to sell the weapon, he said, and so had returned it to Gable.

"That's a lie," shouted Gable, as Kibbling finished his story.

"All right, Bob, have it your own way," Kibbling replied.

"This is my way!" Gable cried, drawing the revolver in question. He was only a few feet from Kibbling, and his first shot felled the 17-year-old boy, unconscious.

Shoots Wildly at Officers.

Gable then began shooting promiscuously, one of his bullets striking a photograph on Judge Rankin's bench and narrowly missing the jurist's head. The other shots were aimed at the policemen and court officials, but all went wild, and when the revolver was empty Chief of Police Lock's single shot was found to have found a mark.

Gable's defiance of the police started yesterday, when he was asked in the police station if he had a revolver.

"I have," he said, drawing the weapon. "Here it is, but none of you will see it out of my hands until it is empty."

Chief of Police Lock, Patrolman Spaight and Desk Sergeant Hyde were in the station at the time, and Gable backed out of the door, holding them all covered out of the door, holding them all covered with his weapon. The police conferred and decided not to go after Gable until today. This morning Assistant Chief of Police Snyder accosted him, but was covered with the weapon and decided not to make an arrest.

The crime with which Gable and Kibbling were charged was the larceny of several boxes of cigars and $3 in cash from a local tobacco shop.

PROTEST PETITION IN WEST KENT

Conservative Asks Disqualification of Liberal Member.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Toronto, Oct. 29. — Party politics and local option seem to have got much mixed up in the city of Chatham, hence a petition filed at Osgoode Hall on Saturday afternoon, against the election of Mr. A. B. McCoig, M. P., the Liberal candidate for West Kent in the general election of Sept. 21.

According to an interesting inside story going the rounds in political circles, the primary aim of the petitioners in launching the action against Mr. McCoig's election is to secure the carrying of local option bylaw in Chatham city. It is represented to certain of the Liberal workers in the constituency, whom it is desired to swing into line for the forthcoming local option campaign, that the hotelmen of Chatham and certain of the liquor interests are behind the effort to unseat the successful Liberal candidate.

The protest petition, which is filed by Mr. Wm. Roberts, jun., a plumber, acting on behalf of Mr. Ward Stamworth, the unsuccessful candidate, alleges the usual grounds of bribery, corruption, etc., set out in some thirty-three paragraphs. In addition to the petition to locate the seat, the disqualification of Mr. McCoig is asked.

Origin of Thanksgiving.

Rev. W. L. Steeves preached a special anniversary sermon in Exeter Street Baptist Church yesterday morning. He touched upon the origin and historical significance of Thanksgiving Day coming down from the Puritans in 1621, about one year following the landing of the Mayflower, and he pointed out the need of thanksgiving on the part of the home, the church and the state. In the evening the pastor's sermon was on "A Man Who is a Professional Kicker." Special anthems were rendered morning and evening by the choir and Miss Emma Graham sang a solo at the evening service.

Kisses Offered Santa Fe Manager in Exchange for New Depot.

Guthrie, Okla., Oct. 29.—C. W. Kouns, general manager of the eastern lines of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad system was yesterday offered kisses from 20 of the prettiest girls of Perry, Okla., in exchange for a new depot. When Mr. Kouns, with other officials of the Santa Fe who are on an inspection trip arrived at Perry, nearly all of the city's inhabitants visited the special train. Among the visitors were 20 of the city's most handsome young ladies. They asked for the officer who had to do with the construction of the new depots. When Mr. Kouns was identified the young women promptly made their offer. Mr. Kouns refused to enter into the trade, but it is understood that word has gone to headquarters recommending a new station for Perry.

PICTURE COWBOYS CHASE DIRECTOR

Moving Film Man Has Thrilling Adventure in the West.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Oxnard, Cal., Oct. 29.—Pursued by a band of moving picture cowboys mounted on horseback and firing into the air and at the tires of his automobile, Director Chas. Goodman, of the Melies Film Co., taking pictures between this city and Santa Paula, was forced to flee last night from the picture camp to this city, later leaving on a southbound train to take up the matter with the company. The scene presented eclipsed any motion picture plot the company has ever acted in and aroused the entire Santa Paula section.

The trouble started several days ago, when members of the company objected to several stunts the director had asked them to go through with. Dislike of him gradually increased, particularly among the cowboys employed to give versimilitude to Western scenes and the old "shooting getaway method" was finally decided upon to rid the camp of Goodman.

WILSON---SISKIND

A Pretty Jewish Wedding In Horton Street Synagogue.

A pretty Jewish wedding was celebrated in the Horton street synagogue at six o'clock Sunday evening when Miss Ada Siskind, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Siskind, of 461 Simcoe street was united in marriage to Mr. Michael Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Wilson, of Detroit. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rabbi Joseph Chassey.

The bride who was given away by her parents, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Sarah Leff and Miss Ethel Leff. The groom was assisted by Messrs. Israel and Samuel Leff. Little Miss Ethel Leff, niece of the bride, made a very charming flower-girl. The bride was very beautifully gowned in white China silk, trimmed with medallions, and wore a bridal veil with orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet consisted of white roses and carnations. Miss Ethel Leff wore a charming gown of salmon-colored silk, trimmed with old gold, and carried pink carnations. Mrs. Sarah Leff was dressed in pale green silk, with gold trimmings. The flower-girl wore a pretty dress of pink silk. Following the wedding ceremony a dainty wedding dinner was served in Cullis Hall. Among the guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Wilson, of Detroit, parents of the groom; Miss Wilson, Detroit; Mrs. Hubert and Mrs. Bloom, Detroit; Mr. L. Stein, Watford; Mr. and Mrs. H. Wilson, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. H. Siskind, Boston; and Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Reshefskay, Thamesville; and others. Telegrams of congratulation were read by Mr. Julius Siskind, from Boston and Toronto. A part of the evening was spent in dancing, Mr. H. Kurtzma, acting as floor director. A pleasing incident was the crowning of Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Siskind by all their children, in honor of the wedding of their youngest and last unmarried daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson left this morning on a short wedding tour to include Buffalo and other eastern points. On their return they will reside in London.

U. S. NAVAL REVIEW

Taft to Look Over the War Fleet in the Hudson.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

New York, Oct. 29.—One million people, mainly New Yorkers, today viewed from every point the most gigantic fleet of warships America has ever seen, resting at anchor in the Hudson, awaiting review on Thursday by President Taft. Only a few of the 102 vessels to be in line are yet to arrive. It was Sunday on the warships, but there was little evidence of it elsewhere. Hundreds of river craft were passing and repassing, each bearing its burden of humanity for a nearer view of the great fighting machines, while thousands surged along the water front and Riverside Drive. Sunrise brought the first spectators, and each hour added its quota.

Fifty thousand persons viewed the vessels from close range. The majority of these engaged passage on the huge excursion steamers which left at frequent intervals. There were several small-sized riots in the vicinity of One Hundred and Twenty-Ninth street, when passengers who had embarked on the small boats with the understanding that they were to be taken aboard the ships were simply taken around one or two ships. If the passenger protested with sufficient spirit he got his money back.

HOME-LOVING QUEEN AND HER KNITTING

Have Set Fashion in Aristocratic Circles—Revival in Hand Embroidery Work.

London, Oct. 29.—Some society women are finding a new pleasure in the art of fine needlework and embroidery, a revival that is claiming fresh converts every day. Artistic ability of a high order is needed to reproduce with needle and thread the works of old masters, but Lady Carew has lately finished a large needlework reproduction of the well-known painting, "The Meeting Between Beatrice and Dante." A clever exponent of old Italian embroidery is Lady Ashburton, a daughter of J. C. Donnelly, of New York. Her boudoirs and reception rooms at the Grange, Arlesford, are full of beautiful specimens of her handiwork.

To Queen Mary is due, not only the revival of embroidery, but other old-world acomplishments. Only those outside the immediate court circle know with what enthusiasm Princess Mary is following in her mother's footsteps. The princess is already an expert at tatting and drawn threadwork, and she contentedly sits by the hour with her work in her lap, with what at one time would have been called old-maidish persistence. Strange to say, she has developed quite a passion for composing old-time "simplers," a favorite occupation of Queen Victoria in her girlhood. The smart set find such things dull, but the number of those following the royal lead is wonderful.

Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, has also done much to revive interest in the art of needlework among women of leisre. And in a more practical fashion the Countess of Mayo is an enthusiast in handicraft.

EAGLE SOARED OVER AUTOMOBILE PARTY

Huge Bird Appeared Ready to Swoop Down on Passengers.

Although autoists have been accused of perpetrating many Baron Munchausen stories, they have never been placed in a class with Dr. Cook, of North Pole fame, or other nature fakirs, so it is possible that two stories reported by motorists after trips yesterday afternoon will pass unquestioned.

The first comes from Thamesford, a village about fourteen miles east on Dundas street, or, rather, the Governor's road. As a party passed over a bridge at the east end of the village, three or four people gathered and gazed intently at the stream below. Before the motorists had gone a city block the entire population was on hand, so the travellers "'bout shipped," as mariners say, and put back to learn the cause of the commotion.

"What's the trouble?" asked one as the care reached the scene.

"Pike," came the reply from a young fellow, who perched himself in a perilous position on the edge of a bridge, just above the water.

Taking this as advice to look for himself, the visitor scanned the bed of the stream, but could 'pike' nothing.

"Come again! I didn't get you," he suggested ,addressing himself to the person who first answered him.

By this time some person had procured a fishing pole, to which was a pliable wire in the form of a loop-snare. Then the most expert anglers proceeded to display their skill, but despite the best efforts of the men of the village, the huge fish, for that proved the cause of the trouble, refused to allow the wire to be placed about his middle. He slipped about the stream for half an hour or more, but his elusive manner tired the inhabitants, who gradually dispersed to procure Sunday recreation in some other form. The motorists say the pike was three feet long.

The second tale has a rather melodramatic touch and actually occurred on the Proof Line road a half mile or so north of the village of Birr.

As a party proceede toward London late in the afternoon an eagle circled down to within a few yards of the car, and apparently deliberated as to which of the passengers would afford the finest Thanksgiving repast. All prepared for combat, however, and while the bird, whose body appeared easily as large as that of a goose swung in the air a few feet above the car, considered what Theo. Roosevelt would have done under the circumstances.

However, the eagle apparently thought a second time and disappeared in a clump of trees at the roadside. It is said to have been about five feet across the wings.

JOS. PULITZER

time in the public libraries. Now he had an opportunity to display his wonderful energy in a field that suited him. He was a success as a reporter, and rose to the editorship.

Successively he became a legislative reporter, editorial writer and part owner of the Post. An inheritance from a member of his family in Hungary gave him the means of purchasing a share in the paper.

In 1869 Mr. Pulitzer was elected to the Missouri Legislature. He had found time to study and be admitted to the bar. He became a member of the Missouri constitutional convention.

He was a delegate to the national convention which nominated Horace Greeley in 1872. In 1874 he sold his newspaper stock and went to Europe, returing at the time when the Tilden-Hayes campaign was beginning. He joined in the campaign and made 70 speeches in 16 states for Tilden. He went to Washington to correspond for the New York Sun and thus made his trenchant pen first felt in the metropolis. In Washington he met Miss Kate Davis, a niece of Jefferson Davis. She was one of the most beautiful women of Washington society, but the young correspondent triumphed over many suitors and won her hand in marriage.

After another trip to Europe he returned to St. Louis in 1878, and purchased the Evening Dispatch for $2,500. In a few days he consolidated it with the Evening Post, athus founding the Post-Dispatch, which became one of his largest properties.

It was in 1883 that Mr. Pulitzer came to New York, intending to purchase the Daily News. Negotiations fell through, but on the same day Jay Gould offered to sell him the New York World. The offer was finally accepted, and Mr. Pulitzer got the paper for $348,000.

The paper was in a bad way, but its new owner took hold with a vigorous hand and an inventive brain. He made many innovations in all branches of the newspaper field, and usually they were successful. Three years ago there was a celebration of the 25th anniversary of Mr. Pulitzer's control of the paper.

200 DELEGATES OF PLYMOUTH BRETHREN

Attending Convention in Gospel Hall in East London.

Some two hundred delegates from out-of-town are in attendance at the Plymouth Brethren conference in the Hamilton Road Gospel Hall. Last night an evangelistic service was held, when Messrs. S. W. Benner, of Orillia, A. B. Miller, of Kansas City, and Adam McMurdo, of New York, took part.

Sunday morning Mr. Robert McMurdo, of New York, spoke on "The Great Spiritual Need and Present Opportunity of the Church." The church in the past, declared Mr. McMurdo, had experienced successively the need of the Bible, the need of the liberty to read it, and the knowledge to understand it. All these had been gained. But today the church is lukewarm and the condition of the world is "the form of godliness denying the power."

Self-denial, the individual exercise of the heart before God, and gospel power, are what the church needs today.

The conference will be concluded this evening. Large attendances marked all the meetings yesterday.

Hallowe'en Party.

Master Jack Saunders, 591 Maitland street, entertained twelve of his little friends to a party on Friday afternoon from 4 to 7. The little kiddies thoroughly enjoyed the dainty supper that was prepared for them, the table being lighted with Hallowe'en lanterns and candles. They all went home tired, but happy.

Spirit of Gratitude.

"Thanksgiving" was the subject of Rev. H. A. Graham's morning sermon in Wellington street Methodist church yesterday. Everyone, he said, should cultivate the spirit of gratitude towards all with whom they come in contact. They cannot thank God whom they have not seen, if they do not thank their fellowmen whom they have seen. A special service of praise was rendered in the evening by the choir of the church, assisted by the London Male Quartette.

A Juvenile Thief.

A little 11-year-old girl appeared in the juvenile court Saturday morning to answer a charge of stealing money from purses and hand-satchels. The alleged thefts took place in Brewster's store, the little girl taking the money from the different owners while the owners had their backs turned. About a year and a half ago she was charged with the same kind of thefts, and has been under the care of the Children's Aid Society ever since. Lately she ran away, and committed the thefts. The child is an orphan. It is likely she will be given over to the Children's Aid Society to be looked after.

Death of Mrs. Westell.

She is survived by her husband and three small children. The funeral will be held from her late residence, 127 Horton street at 2:30 p. m. on Tuesday. The services will be conducted at 2 o'clock. Hundreds Take Advantage of the Great Pen Sale at Guillemont's.

The sale of fountain pens at Guillemont's filled the store with eager purchasers and those in charge of the sale were kept busy practically all day Saturday. They sold the pens as rapidly as they could hand them out and the total number disposed of evidently ran up in the hundreds. Nothing like it has ever before been seen in London, and it shows that the public realize the wonderful value that is being given. Numbers of the purchasers bought several pens, and stated that they would give them as Christmas gifts. You have your choice of any pen in the display for $1.25. b

ENGLISH DOCTOR FOR INSTITUTE

It Is Said He Will Take Charge of Hygienic Work in This City.

COMES IN DECEMBER

Name Is Not as Yet Made Public, But He Was Chosen by Hon. Adam Beck.

It is now stated that the Hygienic Institute on Ottaway avenue will be opened after the New Year. For some time, negotiations have been under way between the Provincial Government and the Western University regarding the institute.

The first definite step as to the future of the institution is the announcement that a head has been appointed. He was to have come to London some months ago, from England, to be ready for the fall term, but he was unable to leave his position in London, Eng. Had he been able to come, he would have accompanied Dr. Bruce, the newly-appointed superintendant of the London Sanatorium.

It is stated that Hon. Adam Beck had several interviews with the doctor when he was abroad last summer, and practically closed the deal whereby he was to come to Canada. The doctor has had a great deal of experience in laboratory work, particularly along the lines the Hygienic Institute will be conducted. His name is not given out.

Medical College Opposed.

It was some time before the medical men in control of the Western Medical College would consent to an outsider taking the position. They preferred a local practitioner, one in touch with local conditions. However, the Government would not consent to this, and the appointment of the English doctor followed.

According to the information furnished The Advertiser, he will be here some time during December, to take up the work after the New Year. The equipment is now being considered.

The institute will be used as a training school for medical health officers, and for pathological work. Analyses of water, foods, etc., as well as the cultivation of germ cultures, such as diphtheria, will be made. The building will be used by the Medical department of the Western University for certain branches of their work. The Arts and other departments of the university will have lectures and experiments in physic and chemistry.

If the weather is fine in the afternoon he will be shown the city in an automobile. At night a banquet will be given in his honor at the Masonic Temple.

A large number of visitors from Detroit, Buffalo, Windsor, Toronto, Hamilton, St. Thomas Stratford, Sarnia, Brantford and other cities will be on hand to take part in the festivities.

THE HOLIDAY TRAFFIC IS UNUSUALLY HEAVY

All Railways Report a Big Thanksgiving Business.

The holiday traffic into and out of the city has been unusually heavy since Friday, and the officials of all railways entering London report a greater amount of business than is usual for Thanksgiving. Many of the through passenger trains have been running behind time as a result, and the railway officials have been kept busy handling the large crowds. There have been no special trains put on, but the regular trains have been carrying extra coaches to accommodate the increased flow of travellers.

NO MONEY IN HOGS, FARMER DECLARES

Belleville Man Sold His Stock at a Clear Loss of $106.

$5.75 IS LOSING PRICE

Live Pork Cannot be Profitably Grown for Less Than $6 Per Hundredweight.

With the heading "The Price Paid," the Belleville Ontario of recent date says:

A leading farmer called at our office yesterday and showed us a roll of bills amounting to $515, which he informed us was the payment he had received for a shipment of hogs. We expressed the opinion that this must have been a very satisfactory return for his investment and his season's work.

On the contrary he informed us that he had kept account of everything and without making any allowance for labor or cost of pens and equipment, the actual outlay had been $621, or $106 more than he had received from the sale.

The present local price for live hogs is $5.75 a hundred pounds. Farmers who have kept careful account of the cost of feeding and production maintain that at present prices for feed and labor, live pork cannot be profitably grown for less than $6.00 per hundred weight. On Buffalo market yesterday the price for mixed hogs was given at $7.00 or $1.25 higher than the price at Belleville.

The pork-raisers who rejected reciprocity will now have the satisfaction of knowing that they have not only saved Canada and the flag, but they have also saved Flavelle.

We do not know that this particular farmer felt that his attachment to Great Britain was strengthened by the fact that he was compelled to sell at a loss in order that Flavelle might continue to have the opportunity to add to his millions.

DYSPEPSIA-PROOF.

How Any Meal Can Be Thoroughly Enjoyed by Any Stomach.

Costs You Nothing to Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Men, as a rule, are first discovered by their enemies. Their anatagonists turn on the searchlight, and the proof of merit will lie in being able to stand the flash.

It was only in this way that Mr. White ever knew that dyspepsia was one of Mr. Black's worst enemies. Sitting face to face at a two-by-four table, he handed his afflicted friend the bill of fare:

Oyster Cocktail. Stuffed Olives.
Boston Clam Chowder.
Strained Gumbo.
Sirloin Steak with Mushrooms.
Boiled Ox Tongue with Sauerkraut
Lobster a la Newburg.
Baked Pork and Beans.
Combination Crab Salad.
Hot Mince Pie.
Pineapple Fritters.

Mr. White ordered a "little of each." Mr. Dyspepsia Black ordered crackers and a glass of milk. "I had such a big breakfast this morning," he said, "that I'll just take a bite to keep you company." But Mr. White could not be deceived: "I am afraid you can't stand the gleam, Mr. Black, Why don't you say you have dyspepsia and be done with it? You'll always have that hungry look anyhow as long as you have dyspepsia. Now listen, My stomach was in just as bad condition as yours at one time. But now I can eat anything, at any time. For instance, this clam chowder or sirloin steak or even the lobster would be just as welcome to my stomach as your crackers and milk. You don't realize how this dyspepsia business is robbing you of your spirit, of your energy and ability to think quickly. I can't help notice it. You haven't the cheer and sociability you had three months ago. Now I'll tell you what to do," and thereat the cheerful Mr. White took a vial from his pocket and extracted a wee tablet. "There, there is a tablet that contains an ingredient, one grain of which digests 3,000 grains of food. For even the worst dyspeptic it's the only thing that really gives relief. The reason is it relieves the stomach of nearly all the work it has to do, digests everything in the stomach and stimulates the gastric juice. I can't get along without them. They are Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. You can get them anywhere on earth for 50c a package."

Yes, it is true. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets absolutely stop heartburn, nausea, indigestion, dyspepsia of the worst type, sour stomach, bloaty feeling and all eructations and irritation, and freshen and invigorate the stomach. They cheer you up, and make you get all the good there is in your food. You will forget you ever had a stomach to worry you.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a sample package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldgs., Marshall, Mich.

Not a Flake Broken

THAT'S one beauty of Tillson's Oats.

Every flake is whole.

That's why porridge made from Tillson's Oats doesn't come to the table a sticky, jellied mass; but instead, as inviting to the eye as it is tasty to the palate and nourishing to the body.

Every flake is as thin as it can be rolled without breaking it.

That's why Tillson's Oats are cooked thoroughly in 15 minutes—no more. No all-night cooking, as it used to be with the old-fashioned oatmeal. No half raw porridge due to imperfectly rolled oats.

If you ever found porridge hard to digest it was because you made it from rolled oats containing coarse and fine particles, some of which were not cooked through.

Compare Tillson's Oats with any others that you have been in the habit of using, and you will see and taste the difference.

Try them tomorrow.

Your grocer has Tillson's. Two sizes—10c and 25c. Each 25c package contains a handsome piece of English Porcelain Tableware.

CANADIAN CEREAL & MILLING CO., Ltd. Toronto, Ont.

It was a strange brand of patriotism that did service at the late election. But many farmers liked it so well that they indorsed it at the polls. They were enabled to save the country for Flavelle, and will not grumble in the least because that gentleman shows his appreciation of past favors by taking their goods below cost. Such farmers as opposed the opportunity to secure wider markets will derive the keenest satisfaction out of the low prices they are compelled to take by the ennobling thought that it is patriotic to allow yourself to be plundered.

Western patriots will also be cheered by the report that their cattle are gradually being driven out of the English market. Under, date of October 21, the following press despatch from Winnipeg appeared in The Toronto Telegram:

Unless the cattle-raisers of western Canada can manage to reduce the necessary cost of raising cattle considerably, they may as well say goodbye to their English market.

That is the opinion of W. S. Williamson who has been interested in the cattle business for nearly half a century, and who for many years looked after the English end of Gordon, Ironsides and Fares' business. Mr. Williamson is permanently located at Liverpool.

"There is not the slightest doubt," he said, "that Canada is losing the larger part of her export cattle trade to the other zones and the South American Republic. Argentina can send meat to England much cheaper than we are doing. As a result, our trade is falling off.

Shut Out of the Markets.

While they will in this way lose the British market they are on account of this Flavelle species of loyalty shut out of the nearer and better market at their doors.

Canadian growers of wheat and oats will, owing to White-Flavelle patriotism, be compelled to take fifty million dollars less, on this year's crop, than they might otherwise have obtained.

This patriotism is a great thing. It repelled the daring Yankee invader who desired to pay us higher prices for our goods, and saved Canada for the Canadian millionaire.

RICHESON'S FIANCEE TO FACE GRAND JURY

Expected To Give Valuable Information for Prosecution.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Boston, Oct. 29. — Violet Edmands, fiancee of Rev. Mr. Richeson, spent the day preparing for the trying ordeal of appearing before the grand jury as a witness for the prosecution.

Dramatic interest is attached to the expected appearance of Miss Edmands at the courthouse, due to the fact that the day will be the eve of the date set for her marriage to the young minister. The Brookline girl has remained steadfastly loyal to Richeson, and is now in the jurisdiction of the local court only because she refused to heed the pleadings of her millionaire father to go away.

She has informed friends that Richeson told her all the circumstances of his acquaintance with the little Hyannis girl many weeks ago.

Richeson told her the engagement with Avis Linnell was broken nearly a year ago, and admitted subsequent meetings, claiming, however, that he was merely interested in the girl's future.

Miss Edmands' Evidence.

It is known that the district attorney will expect Miss Edmands to give the grand jury the benefit of all explanations made by Richeson to her while the newspapers were hinting at his identity just prior to the date of his arrest. During this period of nearly a week, the clergyman did not leave the Edmands home in Brookline. The young woman will also be expected to furnish any information in her possession that may help the prosecution as to the whereabouts of Richeson on the afternoon of Oct. 14, when he is believed to have given Avis Linnell cyanide of potassium. There was a conference between the attorneys for the defence and the Edmands family at the Brookline residence this afternoon. After the lawyers left a messenger was sent with a letter to Richeson. At the jail it was said the handwriting on the envelope was that of Miss Edmands. Among the other twelve witnesses who will be examined by the grand jury before a vote is taken on the expected indictment will be Dr. H. M. Gardner, Richeson's personal physician. There is much mystery as to the nature of the evidence expected from Dr. Gardner. It is said also that as a friend of the Edmands family the physician will assert his professional rights to be excused from exposing the confidence of the former patient.
