Toronto Crown Attorney Demands Bench Warrant For President Daly.

REQUEST GRANTED

All Defendants Feel Position Keenly in Police Court.

Special to The Advertiser.

Island Grove, Oct. 4.—Mr. Herbert J. Daly, president of the Home Bank, had another bad turn this morning, but is now resting comfortably, according to a report from The Elms, his summer home. Another nurse will arrive from Toronto tonight to assist in caring for the bank president. At one time during the night it was feared that he would not recover, but he has rallied sufficiently to inspire hope that if he is left undisturbed he will again be himself in several weeks. Mr. Daly, however, it is pointed out, has been ill for fully a year, and the bank crash simply accentuated his condition. On all sides, the admirable fortitude of Mrs. Daly is highly praised.

Canadian Press Despatch.

Toronto, Oct. 4. — Adjournment until October 12 was made today in the hearings at the police court of the cases against ten directors and officials of the suspended Home Bank. All appeared in court with their counsel and bondsmen, except the president, H. J. Daly, who it was stated was detained through illness. A formal bench warrant was issued. formal bench warrant was issued his case, but it is understood his bail will be renewed as it was in the

The following were the directors who appeared in court this morning: R. P. Gough, F. J. B. Russell, J. F. M. Stewart, S. Casey Wood, K.C., all of Toronto; C. A. Barnard, K.C., and Lieut.-Col. Clarence Smith of Montreal; also A. E. Calvert, acting general manager: Olean S. Smith general manager; Olean S. Smith, chief accountant, and Sydney H. Jones, auditor, all of Toronto. Police Magistrate Jones presided, ception of Herbert J. Daly, president of the defunct bank, appeared per-sonally with their bondsmen. They were: R. P. Gough, vice-president; were: R. P. Gough vice-president; F. J. B. Russell, J. F. M. Stewart S. Demands Bench Warrant. When the name of Mr. Daly was called, T. P. Phelan, K.C., appeared to represent him, and produced a certificate from Mr. Daly's physician to the effect that the president was ill at his Lake Simcoe home, and was to appear. "That certificate will not satisfy said Assistant Crown Attorney Murphy, who prosecuted, "and I ask for a bench warrant for Mr. Daly. "That's just adding indignity to these proceedings," said Mr. Phelan.

"It's not at all necessary in this case."
"I say it is absolutely necessary," retorted Mr. Murphy, "and I want the bench warrant issued." Magistrate Jones consented to e the warrant, but stipulated that it be not executed until October 12, when if Mr. Daly is not in a fit condition to appear in court, the bail

Mr. Daly was bound over in the sum of $100,000; Mr. Gough in $100,000; Charles Barnard in $100,-000; J. F. M. Stewart, $100,000; Lieut.-Col. Smith, $50,000; S. Casey Wood, $50,000; Fr.J. B. Russell, $50,-000; A. E. Calyert, $25,000; Sydney long. $59,000; and O. G. Smith, Charges Preferred.

The charges were not read to the accused, and the proceedings consisted solely in binding them over for their next appearance in court. In the warrants which were executed yesterday Mr. Daly was charged with signing 'a false return respecting the affairs of the Home Bank," and the directors were charged with concurring in the "false return" of the bank's affairs.

Canada's Minister of Railways Takes Part in Economic Conference.

By GEORGE HAMBLETON.

Canadian Press Cable. London, Oct. 4 .- Turning again to he subject of trade development, the empire delegates met this morning for the second gathering of the economic conference. Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways, represented Canada, Premier King being engaged in other work.

The conference in the first place liscussed the order on its agenda giving preliminary consideration to such subjects as co-operation in the collection of statistics on patents in the consular services.

'It is expected that empire settlement will be the first important subject before the conference, although it is not likely to be reached today Great Britain's representatives, it understood, have expressed a desire that this subject should be taken up first among the important matters. Despite heavy appropriations, the overseas settlement scheme has met with the success which had been hoped for, while the unemployment problem is growing, not only in Great Britain but also all over the whole of Ireland. Advices received today intimate that New South Wales is deferring her part in the immigration agreesay, secretary of the Western Ontario ment owing to the refusal of the land owners in that Australian state to subdivide their land for settlement

Against Mr. Jones, the auditor, it is charged that he did "negligently prepare a false or deceptive statement respecting the returns of the bank."

In regard to the charges Hon. W. F. Nickle, K.C., attorney-general, made no comment, holding that they were self-explanatory. Premier Ferguson amplified somewhat the government attitude which lay back of them by the following statement:

The official statement in Curator
A. B. Barker's report did not attempt to place blame on any individuals for the bank's condition. He merely stated the facts as he found them in a hurried cross-examination. He did not even mention the fact that depositors would receive a 25 per cent initial dividend at an early date, as disclosed by the official statement of Sunday last. There was no mention of criminal proceedings. That phase of the matter was entirely with the crown offieers, who had been accurately inform ed by Mr. Barker as to what was ferthcoming and who had laid their

Financier Presents Clear Y.P.L. CONTINUES Statement On Home Bank ST. MARYS ME

Shows Readily Disposable Assets Not Sufficient For 25 Per Cent Payment.

BARKER SUMMARY

comeone Must Have Faith To Advance Necessary Sum.

Canadian Press Despatch. Toronto, Oct. 3 .- A simple way of figuring out the financial significance of the Home Bank curator's report, as suggested by one who is experienced in such matters, and who has analyzed the curator's report, is as follows:

Quick assets, $5,643,051. Preferred claims of note holders and government's, $2,955,426.

Available for immediate distribu ion, $2,687,625. General liabilities, including depositors, $15,531,552. Required to pay 25 per cent to all public creditors, $3,882,888.

Thus it will be seen that the readily disposable assets fall short by $1,195,263 of the amount required to make an interim 25 per cent payment to the public creditors. If that payment is to be made someone has to have enough faith in 'he "assets not immediately collectible" of $9,229,997 to advance the difference. In any interim payment, the deposi-tors simply rank with other creditors. No great risk would be run by any-one putting up the $1,195,263 with the slow assets as security, but the latter will scarcely realize more than 50 cents on the dollar, or say $4,500,000. Following is a summary of Curator Barker's report on the conditions of the Home Bank: ASSETS-

A verdict of accidental death was last night investigated into the death of Madame Elizabeth Moxley, 15 Bernard avenue, who was shot by her son Andrew last Friday evening at 7 o'clock. According to the testimony given by six witnesses at last night's inquest, the shooting was entirely accidental, and nothing but the best relations existed between Mrs. Moxley 935,352 and her son Andrew.

Hazel Patterson, sister-in-law of Andrew Moxley; Mary Ball, a sister, Richard Ball and Andrew Moxley himself all told the story of the accident

Richard Ball, waiter on a boat of the Northern Navigation Company, had secured a revolver in Sarnia from a fellow-waiter, who had given it to him as security for money At the end of the boat season Ball returned to his home in London, carrying the gun in his suitcase. At the Moxley home at 7 o'clock, Friday, while unpacking his grip, he Moxley. A bullet remained in the league and install a junior breech. Moxley turned the gun over instead. The Grand Trunk came to the Dominion government for assistance in western extension, and the government laid down the conditions on which they would co-operate. The directors of the company had the late Charles M. Hays, an able railroad man, as their head, and they agreed to the bargain, which turned out to be no better for the Dominion than it did for the company.

(2) The charge that the Grand Trunk property was confiscated by the Canadian government. The Canadian government at various times came to the assistance of the company with millions of dollars. When the company could no longer operate, it came to the government and admitted its inability to go on any longer. The government could very well have let the matter drift to the courts, but it decided it would be bad business for the country to let the road collapse, so an agreement, assented to by the directors, was made whereby the government took over the railway. The government of Canada did not confiscate the road.

(3) British papers have even said that the government secured a profitable enterprise, and that the profits from the road are now going to the Canadian government. The fact is that the government took over a bankrupt concern, and the Canadian taxpayer can how many people attended Lindsay Fair; some say

May the Improvement Come Now.

Brantford's population in 1923 is 29,148, against 31,362 in 1921. The decrease has been caused by mechanics and labor leaving Brantford because there were not enough orders in to keep the shops running there.

Brantford is largely engaged in making agricultural implements, and has some excellent establishments capable of very great and very good production. Brantford has realized that if the cities are to be prosperous the agricultural population must be pros perous. When there is buying power in the farming districts of the world there are orders for the factories in Brantford. When the farming communities find their buying power cut down there are very few orders for factories in Brantford or elsewhere. It is good news to hear that there is more demand now than some weeks ago for labor in Brantford, and that some of the skilled mechanics are starting to come back. We hope the movement continues. THE INWARDNESS OF EVIL.

Out of the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders.-Matthew xv., 19. We are often inclined to make the faults of our natures and dispositions the excuse for our misdeeds.

But truly, if anything could increase our unworthiness, it would be just this fact that our worst temptations come from within ourselves, and we are driven into wrong not by any outward tempest so much as by the force of our own impure and selfish passions.

Never plead your natural disposition a sane excuse for evil deeds. But for the deeds the disposition would not have become confirmed. It is as base to love lying as it is to lie.

It is as bad to have a murderous temper as it is to kill. It is the evil nature which God condemns.

Let us make it not a cloak for sin, but a reason for penitence and a strong plea for help to overcome it. When a man really wishes to reform and do better, he should go to the root of the matter. His prayer should be: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within

FOR A BETTER FALL FAIR.

Editor of The Advertiser: Sir,—Your comments in the issue of the 29th prox, 12 your observations of certain fall exhibitors at fall fairs certain tall exhibitors at fall fairs taking first, second and third prizes in numerous sections of the different classes, is certainly food for thought that the officers of the various township fairs should sit up and take notice of. The secretaries of township fairs have a great change to have fairs have a great chance to observe some very peculiar traits of men and women who make exhibits at fall fairs from purely selfish motives.

Township and other fairs are conducted for the purpose of education. Fairs should not cater to the pro-fessional exhibitor. The exhibitor who tries to "hog" as much prize-money as he can is about the same as the "sore-head" who has a grouch if he is not awarded a first prize very exhibit he makes. Such exhibitors spoil the educa-ional purpose of fairs.

The various school fairs, to my mind, are conducted more in the spirit of competition and less hard feelings, than the larger fairs. Johnnie had no doubt told Tommie last year, You beat me this time, but look out n 1923; I will have something better

The horse that was prought to the show ring had done his share of hard work on the farm, his share of hard work on the farm, and was in very poor condition, more the type of a badly used horse you often see at heavy grading contract work. This man eased his conscience by thinking he was helping the fair. He actually helped himself to some prize-money he was not entitled to. Officers of fairs should not put temptation like this in a man's way. Township fair bylaws and regula-

Township fair bylaws and regulations should read: "All exhibitors must be residents of township A, or A and B, of A, B and C, as the reumstances will permit. No memper allowed to make more than one entry. Every member to be the bona ide owner of all his exhibits." Revise the prize list from year to year, and cut out all where only one or no entries are made. Insist that every article on made. Insist that every article on display has been made or grown this year, excepting red clover seed, which cannot be threshed in time to be

If such and other suggestions for the benefit of the fair were put in force fully 90 per cent of the exhibiting members would, and the balhibiting members would, and the parance should, carry home with them a pleasant smile, and say, "I tried to show the best I had. I did not expect the prizes. Other people had some better articles than I had."
Then the fair could be rated "a success," and the object for which it was organized had been to a high degree fulfilled. Hoping that others may fer some suggestions, and that the agricultural societies needing such will make use of them, and thanking your paper for your valuable space, I remain, OLD SECRETARY.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D. One of my friends wrote me recently asking if it wouldn't be a good thing to have an article about overeating after illness. This question was asked:

"Doesn't death often occur because patients are fed too much?"

My correspondent thinks doctors and nurses should discourage the giving of food during illness—that no food is better than a heavy diet.

I agree fully with the suggestion is needicine, but there is little difference of opinion here.

Over-feeding is not confined to the sick. It is a common fault of all humanity. I am getting so that I feel sad when I see a person who is conspicuously over-weight. Over-weight is due in most instances to over-feeding.

I have no sorrow over fatpess because it offends my eye.—As a matter of fact, I rather like plumpness.

Do you think that food acts like a hypodermic injection. producing in-stant results? It does nothing of the sort. It takes several hours for to digest and even then the body has not appropriated it. This takes time, too, so before any material good comes from the food a half day has

Why Overeating Is Bad

Your Health: For One On the Sick List takes this same view and treat their patients accordingly. There are One of my friends wrote me re-many corroversial matters in medicine, but there is little differtood is better than a heavy diet.

I agree fully with the suggestion that overeating during illness is a bad thing. Overeating at any time is a bad thing.

When the body is fatigued, or under par from any cause, it is a mistake to take food. Too many times it is forced on the victim, because of the popular idea that it is necessary to give food "to keep up the strength" cause it offends my eye. As a matter of fact, I rather like plumpness. I hasten to say, however, that I like thinness, too, provided it is not overdone. But the reason why I amy sad about the over-weight is because excessive flesh lessens the chances of long life. Let me tell you again what I have said so many many, times:

A person 50 years of age who is 50 pounds over-weight has reduced his chances of living 50 per cent.

chances of living 50 per cent. Think this over!

When one of the family feels insposed let him alone. Give him all disposed let him alone. Give the water he wishes; but do n him to eat. He will call for food when it is necessary.

Nature requires the blood and not appropriated it. This takes time, too, so before any material good comes from the food a half day has passed.

Food is needed to repair waste. When the patient is quiet there is not much waste unless there is high fever. In the latter case, food should not be given anyhow and in the former it is not needed. Therefore it is foolish to give substantial food to a sick person.

I am sure all doctors and nurses

"In Europe today for instance, the conditions of Germany Austria, Russia and all the Near-East countries, prevent them from b tured articles. Even when they have reached a state of moderate restoration they will have to invest their earnings in the rehabilitation of their own industries before they can have any surplus to spend on anything more than absolute necessities in the way of manufactured articles. Professor Freeman admitted that the present situation in Europe is not very satisfactory, or even promising.

"The situation of depression in England," he declared, "is due to two things. There is an internal reason which comes from the heavy national and local taxation, with a very serious effect, because when a man's income from one kind of work is reduced, it naturally leaves him less to spend on the other trades. And then there is the external reason, which includes the present position of all the Central European countries, and is adversely affected by the situation in the Near East. Beyond an immediate need for machinery that is the first step in the reconstruction of many of these countries."

Trade Lessened

"Another thing that hold Europe back," he added, "is that the countries which supplied England with materials find that with a lesser demand comes also a smaller revenue, and that this all acts as a brake on the wheels of international trade and commerce. Professor Freeman congratulated the Chamber of Commerce on the field of work it is covering. "It is my own conviction," he said" and the conviction of the faculty at the university, that a close connection between the university and the Chamher of Commerce can be fraught only with good to the community as a whole. We can learn a great deal from you and perhaps you can in turn learn something from us." The newcomer was received with a hearty round of applause when he was in-troduced by James Gray, president of the chamber, and an even heartier one when he resumed his seat. In the minors the boy has given every thought to working toward visioned goal. In the majors he has allowed his attention to be distracted by other things. He gets the idea that he can do two things at once. But he learns that he can only do his best at one of them.

Columbus, Ga., Oct. 3.—Boxing fans were arriving on all trains tonight to witness the "Mike" McTigue-"Young" Stribling bout tomorrow for the lightheavyweight championship of the world, the greatest fistic event held in the South for three decades.

Major J. Paul Jones, head of the American Legion committee promoting the bout, announced that the advance sale of seats had passed the 17.000 mark, which does not include 10,000 general admission tickets which will be put on sale tomorrow.

Stribling, an 18-year-old schoolboy from Maccn, Ga., and the champion, McTigue, have completed training. Both today confined their work to long walks around Columbus.

Both battlers declared they were in great shape for the ten-round battle. The champion said it would be short; "Just about three rounds before I hit the youngster for the knockout."

Stribling was scient. His father and manager, "Pa" Stribling, said: "Well, my boy has fought 87 battles in the last three years, and a knockout is yet to come. I don't believe it will be delivered tomorrow, nor neither does the boy. He will be on his feet at the end of the tenth round—that is a certainty. He may put over a knockout because the boy has plenty of steam." Associated Press Despatch.

GLENCOE TENNIS CLUB MEETS.

Glencoe, Oct. 3.—The annual meeting of the Glencoe Tennis Club was held Monday evening, with H. I. Johnston, resident, in the chair. The election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows: Honorory president, J. Wilson; president, E. Mayhew; secretary-treasurer, Bettle Grant; conveners of committees—Grounds, G. Dickson; games, H. I. Johnston; social, Mrs. E. Mayhew.

A. H. Wilson's Home Rink Is Second At Woodstock's Fall Tourney.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Oct. 3.—The most successful tournament ever staged by the Woodstock Bowling Club was the "Saow Bird" tournament staged today. Fifty-two rinks took part, and the club was forced to turn down the entries from six others. Rinks were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Caledonia, Brantford, Paris, Galt, Stratford, Mitchell, Preston, St. Marys, London, Petrolia, besides the rinks from the different clubs of Oxford County. The weather conditions were perfect and the greens were in fine condition. It was the concensus of opinion among the bowlers that it was the best fall tournament; ever held in Western Ontario, and the large galleries that watched the games were repaid by some fine exhibitions of bowling. One of the closest games of the day was that staged between the rinks skipped by R. B. Ricc of Toronto and N. Longstreet of Woodstock. The lead alternated from one to the other throughout and at the end of the fourteenth end the score was tied at 15-15. In the fifteenth and last end Rice won out by one shot. The tourney was conducted on the plus and minus system, each rink playing three games:

Ty To Still Get $60,000 Wage

Associated Press Despatch.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Kid Gleason will not be dropped as manager of the Chicago Americans, nor will he replace Ty Cobb as manager of the Detroit Americans, according to the Chicago Herald and Examiner today.

Ty Cobb is collecting $60,000 a year for leading the Detroit team, and is serving the first year on a five-year contract as manager. Gleason was offered the Tiger managership three years ago, and declined to accept the leadership of the White Sox.

"Ty Cobb can manage the Detroit club just as long as he lives," the Herald and Examiner quoted President Frank Navin of the Detroit club as saying.

Rumors that Gleason was to be retired as Chicago's manager have resulted from the position of the team in the second division, the newspaper stated. associated Press Despatch.

Central Will Have Plenty of Opposition At Combined Meet.

Although Central Collegiate's rugby practice cut heavily into the track trials held yesterday afternoon, at Queen's Park, in preparation for the combined collegiates meet, Oct. 12, some 25 or 30 of the boys were out. All the running events that were on last year's program were run off, and some nice talent appeared. The jumps, along with the pole vault and shot put trials will be held tonight after school, on Central Collegiate grounds.

Central has quite a task ahead, if its team cops the school championship. Those in the know point to the loss of three of last year's star performers, who now are attending the East London Collegiate, namely, Bill Wanless, W. Doan and Reg. Armstrong. These three boys were individually high point getters, and with others, including Bernie Fitzmaurice, an Assumption athlete of last year, the East London Collegiate is expected to provide really dangerous competition.

year. But the intermediates and juniors will be considerably changed. Numerous athletes have been lost to Technical and South London Collegiate, as well as to the East London Collegiate and practically new intermediate and junior teams are likely to result.

Yesterday's trials cut some ten boys off the competitor list, according to Mr. Hall, and today's continued trials will still further reduce the squad.

TRIS SPEAKER EQUALS WORLD'S TWO-PLY RECORD

Associated Fress Despatch.

Cleveland, Oct. 3.—By knocking out his 56th two-base hit of the season at St. Louis today, Tris Speaker, star outfielder and manager of the Cleveland Indians, equalled the world's record. Ray Moly was pitching for the Browns when Speaker drové out the hit in the third inning.

The former world's record was held by Ed. Delehanty, who established it in 1899. Speaker broke his own American League record of 53 doubles in one season at Philadelphia. September 26, when he knocked out a two-bagger in each game of a double-header, speaker established the former American League record in 1901 when he was a member of the pennant-winning Red Sox.

Five games remain on the Indians' schedule.

While Central's boy hopes may have a somewhat difficult time getting a lead on the championship, the girls are being looked to, to render assistance that may be a life-saver, as far as a championship won their respective league championship goes. Both boys' and girls' points are added together, in totalling each school's point, to arrive at the championship winner, and Central's girl athletes certainly have been showing more interest, increased enthsiasm and vastly improved talent this fall.

Yesterday afternoon the 25 boys were almost lost in the bevy of feminine athletes that swarmed to and fro for the various trial events at Queen's Park. From the 75 girls who are trying for places on the team, Miss Edna Holland is confident that an excellent team will be selected.

It is expected that Central's senior team will be nearly the same as last year. But the intermediates and juniors will be considerably changed. Council Takes Decisive Action and Amendments Are Defeated.

MOULD RESIGNS

The long-disputed question of the ight of Fred Burke to hold office as ecretary of the trades and labor ouncil, has been settled. A motion by Delegate Linnell at last night's meeting, to declare the position vacant, was carried, a standing vote showing 18 in favor of the motion and four against.

Prior to the vote being taken, two mendments were offered to the motion declaring the office of secretary vacant, one being that the matter be laid over until Tom Moore's visit here, six weeks hence, and the other that the whole matter be again referred to the grievance committee. Both of these attempts to further prolong the dispute, which has raged since the provincial election, were rustrated by an overwhelming vote. Another outstanding feature of last night's meeting was the voluntary esignation of Arthur Mould as a delegate to the trades and labor ouncil.

Mould Resigns.

Mould said in part: "I am resignng from the council now that the controversy is closed. I have stayed with the council through the stormy lays of the last few weeks, and now hat the matter is settled for the ime. I feel that since my right as a delegate here has been challenged, hat it is in the best interests of the ouncil that I should resign. If the F. of L. sees fit to give a decision hat will proclaim my right to remain in the labor body here, I shall be only oo g'ad to come back. Meanwhile eel that my position here is not in e best interests of the council, and think it is really up to me to leave itil such time as the present wounds of ill-feeling are entirely healed

Discuss Action.

At the adjournment of the meeting the members gathered in groups to discuss the vacant office of secretary and the possibilities of the can-didates which have been nominated for the election two weeks hence. Those who are standing for election at the next meeting are Delegates Ballard, Stewart, Thompson, Dempsey, Ellis, Wright and Darling. These men had little to say outside the men had fittle to say outside the meeting, and nothing will occur to mar the even tenor of the ways of labor in London for some time to come, unless the late secretary sees fit to make good his threat to appeal the decision of the council to the Dominion Trades Congress.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box Every Wife Has a Right to the Pleasures, as Well as Sacrifices, of Matrimony-The Deferred Proposal - Mixing Religions.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My husband not only expects me to keep the house running smoothly, but also to help him in his business. But in return he never shows me any of the little attentions which would bring ppiness and contentment. Instead, he tells me he prefers the company of other men's wives, and he tortures me by telling of the fine parties and good times he has when I am not along. What treatment would you

I am unalterably in favor of every wife demanding a square deal from her husband, and I think that if every wife would insist upon a fair division of the pleasures and perquisites, as well as the work and sacrifices, matrimony, it would do more than any other one thing to make good husbands, and marriage a grand, sweet song, instead of the dirge it so often is now. No woman gains anything by permitting herself to be made a doormat. She just causes her-self to be despised and trampled under foot. Therefore, a wife is an idiot who lets her husband impose upon her. Men accord women just exactly the amount of respect and pay them the at-tentions they demand, and the woman who doesn't demand anything for herself never gets

My correspondent appears to be doing the work of a servant and a clerk without getting the salary of either. She should strike and refuse to do another hand's turn of labor until she gets a fair adjustment of the money question, for, certainly, any man who can afford to go on fine parties must have a well-lined pocket. Of course, if her husband doesn't enjoy her society and wants younger women for his companions; that's another question. She cannot make him desire her as a stepping-out partner, perhaps; but if she has the money to buy herself good cloth to go about and amuse herself, she can make life interesting for herself, and she will be far more likely to interest him than if she stayed put at

The moral is that wives who earn half of the money of the firm of Benedick & Co. deserve to get their pro rata—and they should see that they collect it.

Dear Dorothy Dix-I have always had plenty of beaux at parties and had good times, but for the last two years I have been going steady with man about thirty-five years old (I am twenty-four), and he never says anything about getting married. Is it advisable to drop him and be forever wishing I hadn't or just keep on going with him, regardless of whether he intends to marry or not? I am very fond of him and feel that I can never care for anyone else in just the same way. He is a very fine man, but is rather set in his ways, and I wonder if he is holding back from proposing to me because he feels that it is expected of him.

Nothing ever keeps a man from popping the question to a girl except not wanting her enough to be willing to make the sacrifices involved in matrimony. No man's stubbornness keeps him from taking his heart's desire when he can get it, so don't delude yourself into thinking that the reason your platonic friend doesn't ask you to be his wife is because he won't be driven by public opinion It's because he is too selfish. He doesn't want his way interfered with. He wants to spend all his money on himself instead of having to split it up with a wife and children.

I think no other woman is more foolish than the one who lets thersel et shunted off into one of these blind-alley love affairs that end in a black wall of nothingness instead of at the altar. The woman gives her youth, age of her lave her enthusiasm as grows old before her time because she eats her heart out in anxious waiting, and when it is all over she has nothing left but the memory of her own folly and a man's beastly egotism. She has invested her all in a

The man is never really in love or else he would want to marry the girl. He is just playing with her, and after a while he gets tired of the toy and wants a new toy with fresher paint on it, and he throws the old one away. Or if, in the end, he does marry her, he does it with a condescending air that shows how grateful he thinks the woman should be to him for marrying her at all.

Either way there is no happiness for the woman, and so, I think, Reader, it will be wise to make a break with your dilatory suitor while you are still young enough to have the little dent in your heart heal without making a scar and attractive enough to find some man whose attentions are backed up with intentions.

And, believe me, Reader, there is little to mourn over in losing a man who loves himself better than he loves you. Dear Dorothy Dix-Would it be possible for you to write an article trying to dissuade a young Protestant girl from marrying a Roman Catholic young man? Nothing against the young man, except that we do not approve of mixing religions. ANXIOUS PARENT.

Answer:

The most irreligious thing in the world is the lack of religious toleration, and there is nothing more cruel than the idea that the form which one worships God should separate two loving hearts and bring sorrow and discord into their lives. Yet such is the case, the more shame to humanity! No differences are as bitter as religious differences, no wars have been as bloody as religious wars, no persecutions have been so merciless as religious persecutions; and, so far from education and travel and association having taught us to grant each man the privilege of worshipping God according to his own conscience, we are still murdering in the name of religion and trying to force our own belief down the other man's throat.

Because so few people can rise to the heights of religious tolerance, mixed marriages are seldom successful, for even if a man and woman mixed marriages are seidom successiul, for even if a man and woman themselves are broad-minded enough to respect each other's faith, their families step in and raise ructions about it. And, anyway, there are enough things to fight over in marriage without having a domestic holy war always going on as a side issue.

But it does not seem to me that a difference in religious belief is sufficient reason for breaking off a marriage, and the mother who keeps her daughter from marrying a good Catholic young man and then sees her married to a dissolute Protestant, or else a source old maid, will have a great crime to answer for on Judgment Days After all, creeds are just the different paths up to God. The latter part of June proved unusually hot in many sections of the country and brought out hosts of dainty summer dresses. Gingham, while worn to a certain extent, is not in quite such high favor as it has been the past seasons. Voile, organdy and dotted swiss are great favorites among the washable materials. Organdy lends itself well to many pretty designs, and is used to trim other materials as well. Collars, cuffs, fichus, sashes, etc., are all fashioned of this fabric. It is inexpensive as well as serviceable, and always produces a cool and airy effect.

Constant pressing is the price one has to pay for that fresh look so indispensable to summer garments, which erumple so easily. An electric iron is one's constant companion, but it pays to be particular in this respect.

"I never saw Miss Divine, to my knowledge, till after she came on board the yacht."

"Miss Divine never came on board your yacht. Why, I know this child this convent child! I met Miss Desmond at her father's house. She's ten years younger than Juliet Divine, and innocent of the world as a kitten."

Scoundrel the man might be, but there was a ring of truth in his voice. A hundred memories rushed over Miles the other caught him up. "I believe the the caught him up. "I believe you can be arrested for kidnapping." which had struck him so incongruously at first; all her sweet ways of a child. her chatter of the nuns and the convent; her talk of religion that night of lief that "the poor little thing hadn't a cent." and that indignant refusal of ten thousand dollars—all these ways of wantage. He hit below the belt. Sheridan was half stunned. All desire to fight had died in him. There was something sinister to be found out, and he had to get at it.

"The lady you speak of is Miss Divine." he insisted. "And I'm going to marry her myself."

Nazlo laughed a short, ugly laugh.
"I daresay you want to marry her come for a yachting cruise alone with these ways of an ingenue which Phillips had warned him would be displayed to snare him. Had he been a blind fool? But how could he have guessed? Was it true? Could Phillips himself have been bambobzled? Wasn't this tirade an attempt at blackmail from Nazlo? "If my wife won't divorce me, there are other ways." The words spoke themselves.

"The words spoke these questions: yet the inner self that was his real self, and in the most intimate secrets of his soul, knew suddenly and surely that the girl he loved was not Juliet Divine. He could have groaned aloud, shamed by past thoughts of her, past deeds towards her. Anita Champlain's parents belonged to the "hasbeen" class, and though they still kept up a considerable show of prosperity, one of the conundrums with which her acquaintances amused themselves over the teacups was. "How in the world do the Champlains manage to get by?"

That Anta had been in the market now for many seasons, with no takers, was another of the pleasant little things people said about the Champlains. The rumor that she had, in spite of the storms and tears of her parents, refused several very advantageous offers, was scouted by the well-informed as being altogether too businessman, moving but little in Roger's anger at the hypocritical

Many and facile are the ways by which the unpleasant and malicious things said about us and our affairs come to us, while the kind and pleasant things seem to encounter blocked roads and impenetrable paths to our ears. didn't care—he cared a lot—but he resolved to marry her just the same, for he was very much in love with her. And he thought—he hoped, as all men do under such circumstances—that in time she would come to love him in return. Anyway, he felt that he could make her happy by supplying her with all the ease and luxury which seemed so much a part of her life and which she now enjoyed upon such precarious tenure. And if Anita was happy, why, he didn't care-he cared a lot-but he surprise

There is no need to go into the details—unfortunate investments, the failure of a bank, the collapse of a railroad, and so forth and so en—a series of cumulative financial catastrophies, and the thing was done.

Anita's parents were properly wrote at the foot of the column headed assets, "Anita Champlain."

"There, said she, "perhaps I have entered that in the wrong column—perhaps I shall be a liability instead of an asset to you, Roger, but I'll try not to be."

Everybody said she was going to marry him for his money, and in the face of it the statement seemed very like the truth. For what other conceivable reason should she marry him? Such was the condition of things when the fickle jade Fortune began to play pranks with Roger Carwood. You have heard that old saying that riches have wings. It is true—they have, and they spread those pinions at the most unexpected times. Carwood's riches went into the aviation business and left him from being a yery rich man a comparatively poor man. "Yes, and in me, too," replied Anita. She had risen and now stood as if wanting to say something and not knowing exactly what to say. On the desk before her lay a written statement divided into two columns, on headed liabilities and the other assets. Anita glanced down at it, reached over and took a pen and wrote at the foot of the column headed assets, "Anita Champlain." "Yes, and in me, too," replied Anita. She had risen and now stood as it possibilities growing out of the Reading slituation. The report 'hat Baldwin Locomotive was to have a capital split up like American Locomotive, with two shares of new to earry $5 dividends, was denied by the president of the Baldwin company. Moreover, it was given out that nothing beyond the regular distribution of 7 per cent was to be looked for. Insumuch as this story had been made much of during Wednesday's 5-yount jump, it was remarkable that the denial should have had so little effect. The action of Baldwin Locomotive in bettering Wednesday's high, certainly bore out all that has been said upon the subject of the short interest in this stock having been larger in proportion to the outstanding supply than anything eise on the list.

Another stock in a similar position was Dupont, which had a further rise above 130. Other specialties coming in United States Cast Iron Pipe.

CLAIMS SMALL SHIPMENTS KEEPING MEAT PRICES UP

Associated Press Despatch. London, Oct. 4.-Cattle had not come from Canada in the numbers expected or promised before the removal of the embargo, the president of the Glasgow Fleshers' Society stated at a meeting of the Scottish Federation of the Meat Traders' Association today. Thus, he explained, it was not the fault of the meat raders in Great Britain that their promise that the price of beef would be reduced to the public had not been fulfilled. It was because the promised large Canadian shipments had not materialized.

IN THE RHINELAND

Policy Replaces Support Movement by Separatist Group.

USE FRENCH MONEY

By HIRAM K. MODERWELL. pecial Cable to The London Advertiser and Chicago Dally News. Copyright. Berlin, Oct. 4 .- The French have iven up their support of the Rhine and separatist movement, under the leadership of Dorten and Mathes, and have established a policy of direct atrol of the country for an indefinite period, according to reports received from the correspondent he Advertiser and the Chicago Daily lews at Dusseldorf.

His analysis of the situation indicates that the Rhineland and the Ruhr already are separated in fact rom Germany, and that the formal $50,000 LIQUOR YACHT The important elements of the situation are these: French Currency Prevails. First, the Ruhr and the Rhineland already are separated from Germany by a sharp border control. Person entering and leaving these areas must present visas exactly as though they were a separate political entity.".

Second. French money already is the official currency of the Rhin land. Railroad fares, postal fees and customs duties must be paid in francs. Hence, it will be necessary for Rhinelanders to buy francs with marks, incidentally boosting the franc and depressing the mark still further. The first effect of this will be a shortage, requiring the issue of more French currency. Rhenish businessmen are only too anxious to go on a franc basis, so it is probable that the franc will become the sole cur-rency in the Rhineland and the Ruhr, gradually displacing the mark

May Ease Situation. This will give France an oppor-tunity to expand her currency for tunity to expand her currency for the legitimate business needs of 15,000,000 more people, thus, per-haps, easing the financial position of the French without unjustifiable in-

Third, the French and the Belgians completely control the gians completely control the rail-ways and supervise the postal and telegraph services. They have made it clear that they will not give up this control. They have announced that only 30,000 of the former 189,000 German railway workers will be re-instated, and these only if they will take an oath before the occupation authorities. The German government is permitting them to do so in order to avoid impending resumption of to avoid impending resumption negotiations with France.

Demonstration of National Confidence Augurs Well For Future.

100,000 IMMIGRANTS

Special to The Advertiser. Ottawa, Oct. 4.-The marked suc cess of the conversion loan is expected to have a pronounced effect in restoring confidence in the financial, industrial and general business out-

It is possible to over-estimate the importance of the loan's success as a barometer of business conditions, for after all it is a conversion loan, and does not represent $200,000,000 of new hat as a demonstration unfidence it confidence it is impossible to overconfidence it is impossible to over-estimate its value.

While admitting that in raising

$200,000,000 for war purposes Canada gave a striking demonstration of her financial strength, still some have thought that possibly when the time came for refunding the war loans it might be found that the country had taken on more than it could handle and that, to a considerable extent re course would have to be had to the outside money market.

This fear has now been quite effectually dispelled. $100,000,000 Interest.

The country is well able to take care of large government offerings much better than it could before the war, for if nothing else, home investors probably receive from the Doportion of which is available for investment purposes. The great increase in life insurance held in Canhas piled up large reserves that are available for investment. These facada during the last-ten years also make it possible for Canada to ake care of a big loan in a way that as impossible before the war.

Taken in conjunction with other indications of increasing business, it may mark the coming of another important period of development. The who hold this viewpoint to the fact that the total external trade of the country during the twelve months ending August increased by $381,000,000. Of course, this was not all in the form of exports, but $221,000,000 was. Coming at a time when Britain is com-plaining of the lack of markets, and when the exports of the United States

Milton Town Council Turns Down Motion For Expenditure.

Special to The Advertiser.

Milton, Ont., Oct. 4 .- At last night's meeting of Milton town council a notion to grant the Milton high school board the sum of $15,000 with which to build an addition to the new high school here, was defeated by 4 to 2. In the municipal election last January the ratepayers voted against spending any more money on the new high school, which has now cost about $85,000, and the councillors who voted against it last night claim they were carrying out the will of the ratepayers.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Oct. 4.—Trading was still very tame at the cattle market today. On top of about 1,600 state cattle unsold, fifteen cars of western cattle arrived late yesterday. Some of these were shipped direct to the packing plants, and the balance put on the market. There were some very fair quality cattle among the westerns. Dann and Levack selling a couple of loads of very nice handy steers at $6.15.

The Kennedy Company sold a load of good western heifers at $5.50. A few native butcher steers and heifers, good quality, were picked out in small bunches at from $6.00 to $6.50, but there was nothing of outstanding quality in the market, and trade on the whole was draggy, leaving still quite a heavy carry-over.

TODAY'S OPENING PRICES.

Associated Fress Despatch.
Chicago. Oct. 4.—Assertions that for at least the time being price advances had been overdone had a bearish effect on the wheat market during the early dealings today. Sellers pointed out that a reaction was to be looked for in view of 8½c recent upturn in quotations on the December delivery. Profittaking on the part of holders was a feature. The opening, which varied from unchanged figures to ¾c lower, was followed by a material setback all around and then something of a rally. Corn and oats weakened with wheat. After opening at ¾c off to ½c up, corn underwent a decided general sag before beginning to recover. Oats started at ¼c decline—to ½c advance. Later all months showed a loss.
Futures opened:

Wheat—Dec., $1.08½; May., $1.11½.

DONNYBROOK FAIR UPHOLDS RECORD

Maintains Reputation For Being Blessed With Big Crowds and Fine Weather.

HORSE RACES FAST

Special to The Advertiser by a Staff Correspondent.

Dorehester, Oct. 3. - Donnybrook Fair still maintains its reputation for being blessed with a record attendance and fine weather. Today was no exception to the rule. By noon all the vacant fields in the vicinity of the fair grounds had been filled with parked autos. All afternoon trains from London and from the east brought their quota of visitors. There was a long list of entries, several good, fast horse races, plenty concessions, and not a little of the real old-time fun associated such an historic institution as Donhybrook Fair.

Religiously each year hundreds of mer residents of Dorchester and township travel to the annual exhibition, cancelling all other engagements on the fair date. Others who, though not well known in Dorchester, but who felt sure an after-noon's real fun was in store, helped augment the invading forces. Donnybrook held its reputation of being a whirlwind half-day fair, with mething doing every minute. Among native sons of Dorchester Among hative sons of Dorchester who returned for the event were John and William Sutton of Simcoe. They have not been back to their birthplace for 50 years. Today they came

PRINCIPAL'S CONDITION STRESEMANN IS REPORTED UNCHANGED

Rushed To Victoria Hospital Suffering From Hemorrhage of Stomach.

The condition of Everton A. Miller, principal of the Central Collegiate, with supervision over all collegiates in the city, who was taken suddenly ill yesterday morning and rushed to Victoria Hospital, was reported at noon today to be unchanged. His case is diagnosed by his attending physicians as hemorrhage of the stomach, which will confine Mr. Miller to the hospital for some time. When Mr. Miller was appointed to the position of principal of the central collegiate, succeeding W. H. T. Mooney, he immediately began to make the school one of the best in Canada. PROPOSE CIVILIAN DICTATOR. Associated Press Despatch.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—With the retirement of Chancellor Stresemann's coalition cabinet, there is talk of the estab-lishment of a civilian dictator, sup-ported by martial law. Dr. Stresemann himself is spoken of in some quarters as well fitted to take over such ar office, in view of his experience in economics and finance.

The resignation of the cabinet came ast night after the four Socialist members had withdrawn following their rejection of a compromise pro-posed by the chancellor on the eighthour law. The bourgeois members of the government, after deliberating for half an hour, voted to retire in a oody and authorized Dr. Stresemann to apprise President Ebert of their
