TERESA.

A Tale of Revolutionary Rome.

BY N. C. GRATTAN, ESQ., AUTHOR OF "HIGHWAYS AND BYWAYS."

Among many acts of revolting tyranny exercised by the French invading army, on their taking possession of Rome, in 1798, there was one exception which redounded much more to their credit, and which neutralized to a certain degree the hostile feelings of the people. This was their having thrown open the convents and nunneries, and released many young women who had taken the vows, under various circumstances of restraint or necessity.

It was shortly after the edict had come into effect, and the evacuation of the Holy City by the republican troops, that a young Englishman arrived there bearing a letter of recommendation to Lord —, who immediately appointed him to the situation of his private secretary. This nobleman was a military man, had been a diplomatist, and was more over a man of pleasure. His visit to Italy at that juncture was supposed to be connected with politics, but nothing transpired which could lead the public to know the exact nature of his mission—and not even this private secretary was admitted into the secret. In fact, the latter had so little to do in his new functions, that he only wondered at his own nomination to such a quasi-sinecure.

Lord W — occupied apartments in the Piazza d'Espagna; but the hotels of Italy at that period not affording the luxurious accommodation now to be found, his Lordship expressed a wish that his secretary should look out lodgings in some private house, and in a particular quarter of the city, which Lord W — specified as the one most to his taste. During one of his rambles, a few days afterwards, for this special purpose, Edward Moreton, the secrétaire sans portefeuille (as the French say) observed in a balcony, in a pleasant and retired street of the desired neighbourhood, a most beautiful young girl peeping from behind a half closed verandah. Being of a romantic turn, and fond of adventures, he stopped and gazed; but when her eye caught she she instantly retired. Struck by the extreme modesty of her look, and fearful of exciting observation by a prolonged intrusion, Moreton turned away into an adjoining street, having carefully noticed the number of the house. But just as he took a lingering look at it round the corner, he observed his patron and employer walking off in an opposite direction, and at the same time, as Moreton thought, slyly observing him. The secretary was of a frank nature; he had, moreover, been for a full week habituated to the peculiar atmosphere of secret diplomacy. Therefore, whether it was from a downright cunning, or upright character, I do not pretend to determine, but he no sooner reached the hotel, having ascertained that Lord W — had also returned home, than he told him of the discovery he had made.

"You are perfectly right, Mr. Moreton," said his Lordship, "always be prompt in revealing a secret that you know to be already found out."

Moreton blushed up to the eyes. "I assure your Lordship," stammered he—"Never mind, never mind, my young friend, and pray be cautious through life about asserting or protesting any thing positively."

"But yet, my Lord —"

"I do not like but yet, Mr. Moreton—"

But yet is as a jailor, to bring forth Some monstrous malfactor.

So says Shakespeare, and so say I; and there will both go and sup this evening with the peeping beauty of the balcony."

There was a decided and peremptory manner about Lord W —, very imposing to a young and inexperienced man. Moreton therefore did as he was desired, that is to say he said nothing more on the subject; and when evening came he made ready, without any observation, to accompany his Lordship. But he could not help thinking that if the young lady were, as he fervently hoped, a person of respectability and character, it was very presumptuous on the part of his Lordship to make a party, uninvited, for her supper-table; and if, on the contrary, (and he shuddered at the supposition,) she was of dubious reputation, he thought it still more indecible of his titled employer to lead him into such company.

At eight o'clock the same evening—and a lovely autumnal evening it was—

"When all was pretty in air and sky," Lord W —'s carriage was at the door of the hotel. In less than a quarter of an hour young Moreton's heart beat high, when he found that they had stopped under the identical balcony which he had so closely remarked in the morning. He threw a hasty glance upwards; the verandah was open, and the balcony unoccupied. His eager look next darted into the room on the ground-floor, but no graceful form filled "the dim obscure."

"Come along, Mr. Moreton," said Lord W —, with a smile, as he observed the secretary's abstraction, he himself having descended from the carriage while the other only gazed from the window. In a few minutes they were in that little ground floor saloon which Moreton had so instinctively peered into, ushered by a "G-nelle Ritella," as received by a portly dame, of a commanding figure, who was evidently not unconscious of her now waning beauty, and resolved to make the most of it by an assiduous attention to her toilette.

While Lord W — paid his compliments to the lady, in a manner which proved his visit to have been expected, while he was himself a stranger to her, Moreton cast his inquisitive glances round.

"— the place where the beauty was not;" but, in lieu of the living ornament which he sought, he allowed his admiration to rest on several clever copies of pictures from the old Italian masters. Anxious to lead the conversation to the absent Signorina, he was on the point of asking if the paintings were the work of the lady's daughter, but Lord W —, as if divining his thoughts, and for the purpose of avoiding their abrupt expression, inquired of his hostess whether the pictures were by her husband, and if they formed part of those intended for sale.

This question led to a long answer and explanation, all in the affirmative, but more irksome than a hundred rapid negatives to the impatient secretary. Whatever Lord W — felt, he listened with exemplary and most diplomatic composure to the detail of personal mishaps and disappointments. Moreton just caught enough to let him know that the lady was the widow of a lately deceased artist, and that her chief, if not only means of subsistence, was the produce of the unsold, and, in some instances, unfinished pictures which formed her collection. His interest was somewhat more excited when the dame began to touch on the younger branches of the family, and when she stated, in plaintive tones, that her only son, who had been apprenticed to a notario, had been drawn as a conscript a short time after his father's death, thus depriving her of her only means of support and protection.

"But you have the consolation of feeling that he is serving his country, and fighting against its enemies," said Lord W —, with a tone of benevolent inquiry.

"Alas, no, my Lord," replied the dame; "even that cruel consolation to a mother's heart is denied to mine. My beloved boy is at this moment in prison, falsely denounced as a democrat, and detained in defiance of justice, and despite my most urgent appeals for his release."

"Indeed!" said Lord W —

"Alas, my Lord, it is true, and I am almost driven to despair—" sobbed forth the dame, and a few genuine mother's tears trickled down her cheeks, throwing an interest into her whole bearing and appearance far surpassing that of her graceful though somewhat coquettish manner.

Moreton watched his employer's countenance, and he thought he discovered an unwonted expression of feeling in it. He was, however, too young in diplomacy to decide if it was real or feigned. As for himself he was not so touched with compassion on the score of the son, as tickled with curiosity relative to the daughter—for that there was a daughter in the case he had quite made up his mind. But he, with due deference to example, listened attentively to the widow's lamentations over the loss of her son, and he showed no unseemly gratification when she changed the subject and the scene together, leading the way to another apartment, a sort of gallery lighted from the roof, the walls of which were covered with pictures of a still better execution, many of which she said had been ordered by the famous connoisseur Lord Bristol; the celebrated historical painter and antiquities seeker, the Seigneur Jovino Hamilton, and other English amateurs who had been obliged to quit Rome in consequence of the revolutionary movements.

Lord W.—as if to secure a place in the good graces of the lady, at once fixed on the pictures for immediate purchase, begging her to name her own price and to send them home to him on the morrow. This liberal conduct seemed greatly to excite her gratitude; and her sisters, before so depressed, rose rapidly to a height which produced a corresponding effect upon her beauty.

"Is she not a lovely creature, Moreton?" whispered Lord W.— "She has certainly been a fine woman, my Lord."

"Has been!" My dear Moreton, that is not the way you must consider her; I beg, I expect, that you will admire her as she is," replied his Lordship, with a tone and emphasis quite beyond the reach of the secretary's philosophy. But before he had time to reflect on it he was startled by the sounds of a harp proceeding from an inner room. Quite thrown off his guard, he exclaimed, "Ah, Signora, that is your—"

"Harp?" chimed in Lord W.—, with a reproving glance at Moreton. "Yes my Lord, it certainly is a harp, and mine," replied the old lady, thinking the joint stock exclamation an odd one.

"And the performer is no doubt," said Moreton— "A friend of yours?" interrupted Lord W.— "Why, I hope so—it is my daughter who plays."

"I thought so." "You have a daughter, then?" said the Englishmen respectively. "Yes, Milord, and one of whom a mother may be fairly proud, without being unwisely vain: on the suppression of the convent where she received her education she returned to her family, and is now at home."

"May we hope for the honour of an introduction to the young lady?" asked Lord W.—, while Moreton looked the inquiry much more ardently.

"You know, Milord," replied the matron, with some reserve, "it is not the fashion in this country to introduce unmarried girls to strangers;"—(Moreton's heart sunk)—"Poor Theresa has already suffered much by attracting the notice of one; but the English are an honourable nation, and I shall not scruple to grant your wish."

MISCELLANEOUS.

FROM LATE EUROPEAN AND AMERICAN PAPERS.

SUDDEN DEATH OF GENERAL AYDE, C. B. ROYAL ARTILLERY.—This distinguished officer, had spent the best part of his life in the "tented field," and was at the principal battles and sieges during the late war. He was wounded severely at that ill-conducted and ill-fated expedition to Walcheren. Subsequently on the plains of Waterloo he added another wreath to his well earned honours, and received the cross of the Bath. Wednesday the General accepted an invitation from his friend and companion in arms (who shares equal honours) General Drummond, R. A., to meet a few brother soldiers at dinner, and he returned about eleven to his house on Woolwich common near the Royal Military Academy, in perfect health, but about two o'clock in the morning of yesterday Mrs. Ayde, discovered he was a corpse!

Portsmouth, Sept. 7.—On Tuesday, the 4th, sailed Her Majesty's ship Pique, Capt. Boxer, for Sheerness, from whence she is to proceed to St. Petersburg, with the Marquis of Clanricarde, Ambassador to the court of Russia.

The Edinburgh has taken on board four sixty-eight guns, and the Pique, before she sailed, took in two of the same calibre, from which are fired either hollow shot or shells.— This very effective plan of arming vessels of war, has been copied from the French, who have for many years adopted it.

Lord Camberme, who is in his 70th year, will be married in a few days to Miss Gibbons, a lady possessed of £100,000 fortune.

The South Australian Commissioners sold, during the present year, 19,040 acres; the greatest amount, 5,920, was sold in June; and the price was £1 per acre. The population is now estimated at six thousand, which is three and one-third times the amount of the population of Swan River.

Mr. Crane, of New-Brunswick was still in London, and had been using his exertions to have the Mails transmitted by steam vessels to Halifax; which measure the Government was favourable to.

Miss Martineau was in Glasgow on Thursday last, when she visited several of the public works and other objects of curiosity. She is now on a visit to the Lord Advocate at Strachur.

Two persons of very moderate age have died within a short period of each other, at Cheltenham, of internal ulcers, brought on, in the opinion of an eminent medical practitioner, by the excessive use of cigars.

The profits of the Great Western from the 25th June to the 25th September, are estimated at $32,285.

On Friday evening, Choo-th-lang made a public profession of Christianity, and received the rite of baptism, at Dr. Burder's church, Hackney, in the presence of a crowded Assembly. The service was altogether of a highly interesting character, arising, no doubt, in some measure, from the fact that he is the first Chinese who has ventured to come over to this country, and one of the few of his countrymen who have yet embraced the Christian faith.

The regular sittings of the 95th Annual Conference of the Wesleyan Ministers commenced at Bristol on Wednesday last. At six o'clock in the morning, between three and four hundred preachers assembled in St. Philip's Chapel. The Rev. E. Grindrod, president for the past year, took the chair as usual. The Conference proceeded to the election of a president for the ensuing year, and the Rev. Thomas Jackson was chosen, by a large number of votes. The appointment of a secretary was next entered upon, and the election (or rather the re-election of the Rev. Robert Newton was determined almost unanimously. The Rev. John Anderson and the Rev. Isaac Keeling were elected sub-secretaries, and the Rev. William Barton, journal secretary.)

Mr. Charles Harvis, the pedestrian, who recently completed the Herculean task of walking 1000 miles in 1000 hours, has now made an engagement to perform 1000 miles in 1000 half hours; and will commence on the 19th inst. near the Plinckney Common.

The Rev. Mr. Magawly, a Roman Catholic Clergyman, is engaged by the Waterford Canal Company, in the construction of a boat to be propelled by quicksilver, and which is expected to go 20 miles an hour.

A quantity of tea, the produce of the British territories at Assam, has been received at Leadenhall street, and pronounced by tea-dealers and others, equal in every respect to the produce of China.

London papers state that competition has arrived at such a pass, that one company has advertised to take passengers to Boulogne for 3s., Gravesend, Is., Woolwich, 6d., and Greenwich, 4d., Sundays included.

A drunken fellow being asked by a publican to pay his score, amounting to ten pots of beer, replied, "No, no, wait till I have had twenty and then it will be a score indeed."

HOSPITALITY.—An Irish soldier who came over with General Moor, being asked if he met with much hospitality in Holland? "O yes," replied he, "too much! I was in the hospital almost all the time I was there."

UNITED STATES.

The whaleship Vermont, of Foughkeepsie, lately returned from a whaling voyage, with a cargo valued at £209,005. She had been out 14 months and 10 days.

A match at bricklaying came off on Friday last, on the Crofton Aqueduct, between R. H. Nicholson of Hartford, (Conn.), aged 21 years, and G. B. Neagle of Philadelphia, aged 19. The parties commenced their labour at six o'clock in the morning, and at half-past eleven Neagle being of a light frame, found his strength failing, and gave up, having laid the incredible quantity of 3,700 bricks in five and a half hours. Nicholson continued until 12, at which time he had laid 5,350 bricks. The work was performed in the presence of the aqueduct inspectors, and pronounced by the engineers to be thoroughly well done. An average day's work is 1,200.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

ABSENCE OF MIND AGAIN.—While a gentleman at Boston was winding up his watch, he wound up himself, and never perceived his mistake till his creditors objected to let him go on tick any longer.

The Newfoundland House of Assembly beats "all natur," as Sam Slick says. A few years ago, the chair and wig of the Speaker of that august body were brought to the hammer for a debt owing to an honest man, who had given the members house room for a session, and who had not taken the precaution of getting paid in advance.

From the New York Times.

AN ISMOTHER.—Early in the present week a French Canadian named Jacob Forget, arrived in this city in one of the North River boats, accompanied by his wife and family. His wife is said to be a maniac. Having lodged his wife and children in some house in Thirty-fifth street, he repaired to the Alms house where he told a most piteous tale. One of the visitors was sent to his residence to learn the truth of his statement. Here he found the woman to be a raving maniac, but there were no symptoms of poverty either in the apparel or mode of living of the parties. He was informed that the poor people had plenty of money, and been flaring up in a horse and wagon.

Mr. Forget admitted that he had come to this city under and by the advice of the Canadian authorities, for the express purpose of getting his wife and son foisted upon the Alms house.

When at the Alms house, Mr. Forget exhibited a number of begging petitions; one of them, of which the following is a copy, was taken from him:—

"Jacob Forget, not understanding English, begs of you to read this paper. I am afflicted with a rupture in both sides, and my wife has been crazy for sixteen years, and has a family of children to support. I am unable to do any thing to support myself; but recommend myself and family to good and charitable people; you can see my wife's situation.

I take money, meat, clothes, or any thing you may see fit to bestow on me.

We certify that this man has been afflicted for sixteen years, and conducts himself as an honest sober man, and takes all trouble and pains with his wife's affliction.

G. W. ARNOLD, Priest, A. ARGANDO, Capt. PICAR."

When Mr. Forget found that he could not hoax the good people of the city of Gotham, he broke out into a violent rage, and cursed America in particular, and said he should take his departure for a place more charitable than this.

QUEBEC, SATURDAY, 20TH OCT. 1838.

From London, Sept. 19 | From New York, Oct. 13.
From Liverpool, Sept. 17 | From Halifax, Oct. 2.
From Paris, Sept. 17 | From Toronto, Oct. 2.

New York papers of Monday last are without any news of moment.

We understand that His Excellency the Governor General has altered his intention of proceeding to England via the United States, and that it is now definitely arranged that His Excellency, with the Countess of Durham, family, and suite, will embark on board the Inconstant, on the 1st of November, and will sail direct for England on that day, weather permitting.

The report mentioned in our last, of the retirement of the Hon. Chief Justice Sewell, and the appointment of Mr. James Stuart as his successor, was well founded. The venerable Chief Justice, we understand, will deliver his valedictory address to the Bar to-day.

The most strenuous and unremitting exertions continue to be made by the military and police for the discovery of Theller and Dodge, who escaped from the Citadel on Tuesday last. It was rumoured yesterday that they had been seen, in company with a third person, near Frampton, on their way to the United States.

The Quarter Sessions of the Peace for this District will commence on Monday next.

The police force of this city has been rendered more effective by the augmentation of about 40 men.

The Hon. Henry John Bolton, late Chief Justice of Newfoundland, left Montreal on Wednesday last, en route to Upper Canada.

The Canadian of yesterday mentions a report that the Chief Justice of Montreal is about to resign, and is to be succeeded by Mr. Justice Vallieres de St. Real, of Three-Rivers. Another rumour states that Mr. Attorney General Ogden will be appointed to the situation of Chief Justice of Montreal, and that Mr. Buller, the Principal Secretary of the Earl of Durham, will receive the appointment of Attorney General.—These rumours are given for what they are worth.

The Brigade of Guards have offered a reward of one thousand dollars for such information as will lead to the apprehension of Theller and Dodge; or five hundred dollars for such information as will lead to the apprehension of either of them.

Captain Maryatt has addressed a humorous communication to the Louisville Journal, in answer to five hundred anonymous correspondents who have honored him with their "letters of advice," under the impression that he is travelling about the country as a spy, and is going to write a book about American manners. He complains that these correspondents do not pay postage of their letters, and that the five hundred which he has received have cost him on an average 50 cents each.

EXTRACT OF A LETTER, DATED

Three-Rivers, 18th October.

"The King's Dragoon Guards, under the command of the Hon. Lieut. Col. Cathcart, left Three-Rivers, on Tuesday morning, the 16th instant, about eight o'clock, in the John Bull steamer. I noticed with much satisfaction that a great number of the citizens, induced by a feeling of respect for this gallant Regiment, were on the beach at the time the steambot was about to leave port. On her leaving Molson's Wharf, the band who had previously played several fine airs, struck up "Rule Britannic," when the crowd on the shore gave thrice cheers. When "Auld lang syne" was played by the band, cheers were again given from the shore, and were responded to by the troops on board the John Bull. Previous to the departure of the Regiment from Three-Rivers, the Hon. Lieut. Colonel Cathcart received an Address from the inhabitants of the town. The following is the Address which was presented to him:—

To the Honorable Lieutenant Colonel CATHCART, Colonel Commanding the First, or King's Dragoon Guards, Ke. Ke. Ke. Sir,—The Clergy, Magistrates, and Inhabitants generally of the Town of Three Rivers, avail themselves of the departure of Her Majesty's Regiment, the First, or King's Dragoon Guards, to offer their sincere and grateful acknowledgments to the Honorable Lieutenant Colonel Cathcart, Commandant of the Garrison; to the respective officers under his command; and to the brave men of that distinguished corps; as a testimony of their exemplary good conduct and excellent discipline, during their sojourn in this Garrison, from their first disembarkation from the shores of Europe:—

The best wishes of the Inhabitants of the Town of Three Rivers, for their future welfare, were ever attend them.

Three Rivers, 16th October, 1838. To this address, the gallant Colonel replied verbally, that he thanked them for the Address which they had presented to him, and that he was truly sensible of their partiality and kindness, for which he offered his sincere acknowledgments. He would give them his answer in writing, immediately after his arrival in Chambly.

T. E. W. Turton and S. Derbishire, Esqrs. visited this Town at the commencement of this week, to communicate with some of the citizens about the expediency of the Registry Law. I have learnt that the Hon. J. R. Valliere de St. Real and Hughes Heny, Esqrs. (formerly member of the House of Assembly,) have given their opinion against the enacting of any Registry Law. The Commissioners might have referred to others, more disinterested individuals to obtain their opinions relative to the necessity of a Law, so much required by the inhabitants of this Province. The Commissioners were so hurried in their deliberation, that they devoted the whole of Sunday to make the necessary enquiries. They must have acquired much valuable information from the above named gentlemen; particularly from one of them, who might with confidence have referred them to the records of the Court of King's Bench of this District, for the cause of his hostility to the enacting of a Registry Law.

HEADACHE.

DR. E. SPOHN, a German physician of much note, having devoted his attention for some years to the cure and removal of the causes of NERVOUS AND SICK HEADACHE, has the satisfaction to make known, that he has a remedy which by removing the causes cures effectually and permanently this distressing complaint. There are many families who have considered Sick Headache a constitutional incurable family complaint. Dr. S. assures them that they are mistaken, and labouring under distress which they might not only alleviate, but actually eradicate by the use of his remedy. It is the result of scientific research, and is entirely of a different character from advertised patent medicine, and is not displeasing to the taste. To be had of

BALDNESS.

A BEAUTIFUL HEAD OF HAIR is the grandest ornament belonging to the human frame. How strangely the loss of it changes the countenance, and prematurely brings on the appearance of old age, which causes many to recoil at being uncovered, and sometimes even shun society to avoid the jests and sneers of their acquaintances; the remainder of their lives consequently spent in retirement. In short, not even the loss of property fills the generous thinking youth, with that heavy sinking gloom as does the loss of his hair.—To avert all these unpleasant circumstances, OLDRIDGE'S BALM OF COLUMBIA stops the hair from falling off on the first application and a few bottles restores it again. It likewise produces eyebrows and whiskers; prevents the hair from turning gray, makes it curl beautifully, and frees it from scurf. Numerous certificates of the first respectability in support of the virtues of Oldridge's Balm are shown by the proprietors.

Read the following:

ROBERT WHARTON, Esquire, late Mayor of Philadelphia, has certified, as may be seen below, to the high character of the following gentleman:

The undersigned do hereby certify that we have used the Balm of Columbia discovered by J. Oldridge, and have found it highly serviceable not only as a preventative against the falling off of hair, but also a certain restorative.

JOHN S. FUREY, 101 Spruce st.
HUGH McCURRY, 243 South 7th st.
JOHN GARD, Jr., 123 Arch st.

It will certainly raise its virtues in the estimation of the public, when it is known that three of the above signers are more than 30 years of age, and the others not less than 50.

From the Mayor,
Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
City of Philadelphia.

I, ROBERT WHARTON, Mayor of said city of Philadelphia, do hereby certify that I am well acquainted with Messrs. J. P. Inghish, John S. Furey, and Hugh McCurry, whose names are signed to the above certificate, that they are gentlemen of character and respectability, and as such, full credit should be given to the said certificate.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the city to be affixed, this sixth day of December, &c.

CAUTION.—Observe that each bottle of the genuine Balm has a splendid engraved wrapper, on which is represented the Falls of Niagara, the agent's name, &c.

D. R. BRANDETH requests a perusal of the following article:—

LIFE AND DEATH,

Every thing has two distinct principles to its nature; one

THE PRINCIPLE OF LIFE

THE OTHER

THE PRINCIPLE OF DEATH.

So long as the principal of Life predominates, Health is enjoyed. When the principle of Death, Sickness takes place. How is this accounted for?

By the principle of Death, I mean the principle of decomposition or decay, which is each hour going on in the human frame from the hour of birth, to that of our final exit. While the natural outlets—the pores—the bowels—and all other directories of the body, discharge these decayed particles as fast as they are generated, we are in a state of health; we are free from the presence of the disease.

When, from breathing an impure atmosphere, living in a vicinity of swamps, or where we are in the constant habit of coming in contact with bad smells—effluvia arising from obnoxious accumulations of animal or vegetable bodies in a state of putridity, being infected from a living body under the influence of disease in a malignant state; or sedentary occupations; or, in short, any cause which promotes decomposition faster than the stomach and bowels and the other excretories can remove, naturally; we are then in a state of disease. And should the cause which produces this state of the body remain, and nothing be done to drive the accumulated and accumulating impurities out of the body, the principle of death or decomposition, will become paramount, and the last glimmering of life depart from the once animated clay.

How then, shall we counteract these death dispensing influences? How?

PURGE!—Yes—I say Purge! The magic in that word shall yet be understood, if this hand or brain can accomplish so mighty an explanation. Yes, purged be that pain in the head, the back, the bowels, the foot, the stomach, the side, the throat. Does it arise from internal or external cause,—I still say purge!—For know this self-evident truth, that pain cannot exist, save by the presence of some impurity—some deposit of decomposed particles upon the organ or part where the pain is seated. And purging discharges this impurity by the bowels, and continuing the practice daily will cure every complication of disease; and will prevent any person from becoming seriously indisposed, even when in constant contact with the most malignant fevers which cannot by possibility seriously affect the body, if we are continually careful to preserve it in a pure state, by frequent and effectual purgation. Hippocrates says, "Purgation expels what must be expelled, and patients find relief; if, on the contrary, they are tormented by purgation, it is a proof there are yet matters which must be expelled."

The subscriber of this has resided in every variety of climate, and by always purging on the first appearance of sickness, has enjoyed for the last ten years, uninterrupted health. For we may call such the state of him who never sick more than 6 or 8 hours, about the time it takes to secure the effect of a purgative. The purgative I make use of is my grandfathers' pills, and they are, to my certain knowledge, the most judiciously balanced purge in existence. I have used them for 8 months daily, in doses of from 2 to 16 pills per day, to satisfy myself as to their innocency. It therefore, cannot be doubted. It is my opinion, that any person, be he ever so prostrated by disease, provided he is capable of taking exercise at all, may lengthen his life to 60 years, by continuing to assist his natural functions with the BRANDETH VEGETABLE PILLS. Death never can take place until the Principle of Decomposition puts out the lamp of life. And that would seldom be before 60 or 70 years, was this principle of purgation always resorted to on the first appearance of sickness.

In the hope that these remarks may be of some service, I am the public's obedient servant,

D. BRANDETH, M. D.

Great caution is required to procure the genuine Brandeth's Pills. Druggists and Chemists are never in any place appointed Agents by Dr. B. All his authorised Agents have an engraved certificate of agency, signed by himself; unless this certificate can be shown, do not purchase. This caution is absolutely necessary to guard the public against spurious Pills.

HÆMORRHOIDS—NO CURE NO PAY!

Price $1—Hay's Liniment—No Fiction.

THIS extraordinary chemical composition, the result of science and the invention of a celebrated medical man, the introduction of which to the public was invented with the solemnity of a death-bed bequest, has since gained a reputation unparalleled, fully sustaining the correctness of the lamented Dr. Gridley's last confession, that "he dared not die without giving to posterity the benefit of his knowledge on this subject," and he therefore bequeathed to his friend and attendant, Solomon Hays, the secret of his discovery.

It is now used in the principal hospitals and the private practice in our country, first and most certainly for the cure of the Piles, and also so extensively and effectually as to baffles credulity, unless where its effects are witnessed externally in the following complaints:—

For Dropsy—Creating extraordinary absorption at once.

All Swellings—Reducing them in a few hours.

Rheumatism—Acute or Chronic, giving quick ease.

Sore Throat—By cancers, ulcers or colds.

Croup and Whooping Cough—Externally and over the chest.

All Bruises, Sprains and Burns—Curing in a few hours.

Sores and Ulcers—Whether fresh or long standing, and fever sores.

Its operations upon adults and children in reducing rheumatic swellings, and loosening coughs, and tightness of the chest by relaxation of the parts has been surprising beyond conception. The common remark of those who have used it in the Piles, is "it acts like a charm."

THE PILES.—The price $1 is refunded to any one who will use a bottle of Hay's Liniment for the Piles, and return the empty bottle without being cured. These are positive orders of the proprietor to the Agent and out of the many thousands sold, not a single one has been unsuccessful.

We might insert certificates to any length but prefer that those who sell the article should exhibit the original to purchasers.

CAUTION.—None can be genuine without a splendid engraved wrapper, on which is name, and also that of the Agents.
