Editors' Joy of Living

Every once in a while some cheerful idiotic individual remarks to us, "Well, now that the paper is out I suppose you can take it easy for three or four days." Yes, how delightful it is that a country editor has practically nothing to do between press days. Business runs along automatically. When the paper bills comes due money drops off the trees with which to pay them. Subscribers vie with each other to see who can pay the farthest in advance. Subscription arrears are unknown. Advertisers beg for additional space. And the day the news hunts up the editor is pleasant to contemplate. There is something really strange about the way news items act. When the paper is out the editor simply goes to his desk and leans back in his easy chair and looks wise and waits for next week's press day. The day before press day the people line up in front of the office door and then they file past his desk and tell him all the news of the week. He writes it up in fifteen or twenty minutes, takes it back and hangs it on the hook. The compositors take the copy, shake it over the type cases, say a few magic words, the type flies into place and after a few passes by the foreman the forms are ready for the press again. And the editor goes down and deposits some more money in the bank. It is the greatest snap in the catalogue. Now if the editor could only do away with press day, his joy would be complete.

Waterdown Items 46 Years Ago

January 21, 1875

Yesterday this community was thrown into great excitement by the intelligence of the sudden death of the wife of our respected citizen, Mr. John Sandison. After her confinement, wherein she received all the attention medical aid could devise last Tuesday. Mrs. Sandison feeling strong enough to sit up on Sunday last, by over exertion superinduced the condition described by her physician as "fatal syncope."

A serious accident occurred at the High School here yesterday, 19th instant. A talented pupil, Mr. Henry Yenny while cleaning a dynamite cap, accidentally exploded it, and thereby blew off part of the thumb and two fingers of his left hand. His right hand and face was also injured.

Mrs. Buchan died here on Tuesday and is to be buried to-morrow. We are also advised of the death of Mrs. Crocker, on Wednesday evening, after a severe illness.

Waterdown was in a furore of excitement on Monday night, owing to Mr. Chomas Stock's success over Mr. Robert Christie. A high bonfire gave expression to the voters' superabundant spirits of jubilation.

Nineteen additional scholars have entered the Waterdown High School this term. The institution is prosperous.

Women's Institute

Mrs. Wm. A. Drummond gave her home for the Institute meeting on Wednesday. The program was unusually good, Mrs. Sawell on Flowers as Decorations gave many helpful hints, and Mrs. Walker Drummond on Canadian Laws for Women and Children showed a wide grasp of the subject on which she had put much thought. The musical numbers by Mrs. Isaac Baker and the Misses Everitt and Griffin were well rendered. Mrs. Wedderburn very kindly playing the accompaniment. The Misses Corey recited in their usual good style Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight, and The Stove-pipe Hole.

Next month there will be a baking contest for young girls under 19. Plain sponge cake with white icing and lemon tarts will be the test and two prizes will be given in each class.

To the Editor,—

If you please, Sir, will you tell me which is the authorized version:—

And bite with all his power.

The Sunday School Lesson

Lesson X. March 6.
JESUS AMONG HIS FRIENDS.

Lesson—Matt. 26: 1-13.
Golden Text.—"She hath done what she could" (Mark 14: 8).

Historical Setting
Time—April A. D. 30. Place—Bethany.

The Lesson Text.

1 And it came to pass, when Jesus had finished all these words, he said unto his disciples.

2 Ye know that after two days the passover cometh, and the Son of man is delivered up to be crucified.

3 Then were gathered together the chief priests, and the elders of the people, unto the court of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas;

4 and they took counsel together that they might take Jesus by subtlety, and kill him.

5 But they said, Not during the feast, lest a tumult arise among the people.

6 Now when Jesus was in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper,

7 there came unto him a woman having an alabaster cruse of exceeding precious ointment, and she poured it upon his head, as he sat at meat.

8 But when the disciples saw it, they had indignation, saying, To what purpose is this waste?

9 For this ointment might have been sold for much, and given to the poor.

10 But Jesus perceiving it said unto them, Why trouble ye the woman? for she hath wrought a good work upon me.

11 For ye have the poor always with you; but me ye have not always.

12 For in that she poured this ointment upon my body, she did it to prepare me for burial.

13 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever this gospel shall be preached in the whole world, that also which this woman hath done shall be spoken of for a memorial of her.

Comments

Verse 1. "These words" refer to the discourse recorded in chapters 24 and 25. The disciples here mentioned are probably all of the twelve.

Verse 2. "After two days" must mean less than forty-eight hours, or it would have been called three days. The passover festival began Thursday afternoon with the slaying of the lamb. Jesus' enemies were planning His betrayal, and He was preparing to meet it.

Verse 3. The chief priests and the elders were two of the classes constituting the Sanhedrin, and the Sanhedrin was their court of justice, fairness and final appeal.

Verse 4. Note the dignified religious body plotting Jesus' destruction.

Verse 5. It is hardly probable that they plotted assassination, because Jesus had too many friends, and the odium would have clung to this supreme council.

Verse 6. There were many Simons, and this one is distinguished by the fact that he was a leper.

Verse 7. John tells us that this woman was Mary (John 12: 3). This expensive ointment was extracted from the blossoms of a certain Indian and Arabian grass. Mark says that this ointment was worth more than $300, which would be about $1,500 in our money. John says she anointed the feet of Jesus, so she must have poured the ointment over His head and then upon His feet.

Verse 8. By reading John you are convinced that the muttering of Judas led the other disciples to condemn Mary's seeming extravagance. A bad man often leads good men into error.

Verse 9. Judas indicates that Mary herself was abashed and downcast by the criticism of her act of devotion.

Verse 11. The more people do for Christ and His cause, the more they will be led to do for the poor. It is Mary's successors, and not those of Judas, who are benevolent.

Verse 12. Mary did not know that this was to be the last anointing our Lord's body received before His burial.

Verse 13. The memorial of this woman was to be preserved, not in brass tablets or church windows, but in the preaching of the gospel. Every time any one is incited to do an un-

FARM WORK OF THE MONTH

On your Mark!—Ready!—Set! Go! It's going to be a race from now until finish of harvest. Who are going to finish on top, and who are going to be the stragglers? Are you going to be all snug and tight, when November rolls round again, or are you going to be still husking corn, with nipped fingers, at Christmas time? Are we all fresh and ready to start the year's work? We are.

March is like a half-way house—it catches us coming and going. There are dozens of odd winter jobs to clear up and all sorts of things to be done in preparation for spring work. Is the wood pile split and out of the way, or are we going to be taking regular morning exercise beside it in July? And has machinery been overhauled and put in shape, the seed corn tested, and pasture fences repaired?

This is, too, our very last opportunity to trim up the sheep, hoof and rear, so as to give them a square deal, and the lambs, in getting their milk, when they come along a little later. High time it is to start graining the ewes if we're going to save all the lamb crop.

Then there are the cows, and, you know, while we wouldn't do it. Bill Jones is likely to skimp a little at this time of the year, when feed begins to get short. Better not do that, Bill—you'll want to keep up that flow of milk until you can turn the animals out on the June grass. And this is the time to keep a close watch of the herd, so that you will have it fresh at the beginning of winter, when milk prices are high.

Going to milk the cows by hand through this planting and harvest? You'll be too busy to install that milking machine later, and if you're going to put it in, you'd best get used to running it now.

Time to start the horses off on full rations—we're going to call on them heavily pretty soon. And that colt needs a little workout; he won't last long in the harness when plowing starts if we put him in "green."

And don't, while you're doing the other things, forget the King road drag. You know what a little work with it right now will mean for the roads through the rest of the spring.

Where possible to do so without injury to the trees, burn out the old fence corners.

LOSS OF PLANT FOOD

Mixed farming and specialized livestock farming, bring another source of fertility to the soil. Stock manures are as valuable and even more valuable now than ever, and should be handled with the greatest care so that every bit of plant food, which they contain is returned to the soil.

But actual investigators tell us that at least 15 per cent. of the plantfood in crops fed to stock is lost. In many cases much over 50 per cent is lost because the manure is thrown out in open yards, where every rain and snow wash through it and carry off the strong crop-growing plantfood. Even though the 100-acre farm is conducted on the basis of a good crop rotation and even though as many head of livestock as possible are kept—and speaking generally this should be the case—still there is not half enough manure to make up for the drain upon the soil which ordinary crops cause. Hence, the up-to-date farmer, especially he who is preparing for the future, must turn to another source—fertilizers—if he is to supplement the manure so that he can get the best yield possible and still grow crops of high quality.

selfish thing, because of Mary's example, her beautiful deed is memorialized anew.

WINTER HARD ON BABY

The winter season is a hard one on the baby. He is more or less confined to stuffy, badly ventilated rooms. It is so often stony that the mother does not get him out in the fresh air as often as she should. He catches cold which racks his little system; his stomach and bowels get out of order and he becomes peevish and cross. To guard against this mother should keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house. They regulate the stomach and bowels and break up colds. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SOME GIANTS.

Nova Scotia Woman Over Eight Feet High.

When John Van Albert stepped from the gangplank on a recent arrival of the Mauritania he had the distinction of being the tallest man who ever landed in North America. His 8 feet 5 inches of height required that a special berth, made up of two cots placed end to end in a large companionway, be furnished for the trip from his home in Amsterdam, Holland.

Since Johan has left his quiet home among the nearby windmills of Amsterdam and intends to enter the show business over here, it will be interesting to dig up some giant history and see how he compares with previous competitors who used to be great attractions. Probably no living giant in the United States ever exceeded the 8 feet attained by the late Captain Bates, who was a native of Kentucky.

The word "living" is used here because of the fact that for some time during the year 1869 the famous Cardiff giant led many people to believe that a 10-foot man had once lived and had been buried near Cardiff, a village in Onondaga County, New York. The story of this monstrous fraud perpetrated on the American public makes such unusual and interesting reading that it will bear repeating.

The idea had its inception out in Fort Dodge, Iowa, when an adventurous fakir purchased a huge block of gypsum from a quarryman of that place. The block then was shipped to Chicago, it being taken in charge by a sculptor, who chiseled it into a 10-foot giant. The surface was pricked with needles to give the appearance of pores in the human skin, and then treated with a variety of acids which made the entire statue appear of ancient origin. After completion the giant was securely packed in an iron box and shipped to Union, New York, where the owner claimed it, loaded the bulky box upon a large wagon, and hauled it five miles to a farm near Cardiff. The giant form was then removed from the box and secretly buried, remaining under the ground nearly a year, until it was "accidentally" discovered by some workmen who had been engaged to dig a well by the promoter of the fraud.

This great discovery was made on October 16, 1869, and news of the wonderful petrified giant spread all over the country. The lucky finders covered it with a tent and put it on exhibition, while special trains were run from New York City and other nearby points so that the clamoring multitudes could see the astonishing Opportunity at the earliest opportunity. Until the discovery was made it is estimated that more than 50,000 persons jostled each other in order to view the wonder, paying a dollar apiece for the remarkable privilege.

But, passing on from this greatest hoax, it is found that Captain Bates was the tallest of our modern American giants, although his 8-foot height was slightly exceeded by that of Anna Swan, a native of Nova Scotia. Going further back into giant history we find that Queen Elizabeth's head porter was 7 feet 6 inches high, probably being given this exalted position on account of his ability to see what was going on at all times.

Among royalty itself it is claimed that one of the Roman emperors was nearly nine feet high, but the measurements of those days may have allowed him considerable more height than he would be entitled to at this time, though no doubt he was a person of great stature for history to make note of the fact.

Shrubs Yield Rubber.

Explorers have located on the Pacific coast five varieties of shrubs that produce rubber of better quality than any we get from Mexico. They range from the sea level of the desert basins to an altitude of a mile and a half.

These shrubs are plentifully distributed over a belt extending from the Mexican border far into British Columbia, its eastern limit being reached in Nebraska and South Dakota. The western limit is the Coast Range, along the eastern slope of which the plants run all the way from British territory into Lower California.

Over vast desert areas and "death valleys" the rubber-producing shrubs are a dominant woody type. Already (says Motor Boating) plants estimated to contain 300,000,000 pounds of finest rubber have been territorially mapped.

OUR BOYS' AND GIRLS' CORNER

By Aunt June

DEDICATED TO EVERY BOY AND GIRL IN CANADA

My Dear Boys and Girls:
A little visitor has just been on my window sill. I was writing a letter when I felt that someone was moving outside the window, and looking up where the branch of a tree almost taps against the window pane I saw Mr. Squirrel swinging himself down from the tree branch on to the ledge. He did not stay very long—not even long enough for me to put out a handful of nuts which I always have saved up for such a visit. There are many trees up and down the road in which I live, and this particular little friend has a merry time running up and down the branches and jumping from tree to tree. He was soon off again, and in a very few moments away in the farthest tree on the other side of the road, but now I have put out a little store of nuts ready for his return, and hope that tomorrow he will come again and find them. You who live in a city like Toronto see many of such little friends, but to one who is living in a city like Toronto the sight of Mr. Squirrel on a city street is a great pleasure.

LETTER BOX.

Tiverton.
Dear Aunt June:—I am a little girl eight years old, and I've been reading your Boys' and Girls' corner for some time. I would like to be one of them too, and receive a badge. I wash the dishes and sweep the floor and mend my little baby brother. He is getting awful cute. He is a year and nine months old and is beginning to talk. I've three brothers and one sister. My two brothers and one school; but we don't get there very regular in winter time. We've quite a ways to go. I have for a pet a white cat. I call her "Duffie." She is a good mouse. My sister's name is Ruby; she is three years old; her and I got dolls from Santa Claus.

JEWEL MARIE HUNTER.
Dear Jewel:—Your letter is most interesting. You have given me so much news about yourself. I am sure you love the baby brother. I am glad you have some pets, and that Santa Claus was so good to you. I am sending you a badge, as you are a true Helper.

Winnipegosis.
Dear Aunt June:—We get the paper every week, and I read the Boys' and Girls' corner. As these letters are always interesting, I thought I would like to join the club. I am thirteen years old and am in grade nine. I passed my entrance last summer. I am going to be a school teacher. I have been in bed since Tuesday with the cold, but I got up

Thursday afternoon and am all right now. I have made home work, so I can't help my mother much on school days, but I do the supper dishes, make my bed, and tidy up my room and go for the milk at night, also any errands. Today I scrubbed the kitchen floor and my bedroom floor, cleaned three lamps, went to the post office, did some shopping, carried three pails of water and went for the milk. I will have to close now, as all the ink is used in my pen. I should like other club members to write me.

KATHLEEN DEMPSEY.

Dear Kathleen:—Your letter is one of the neatest in my box this week; it is always a pleasure to receive such a clear, nicely written letter. I am glad you have got over your bad cold and welcome you to our League of Helpers. Your list of good deeds is a long one, and I am sure you have earned the badge.

Renfrew.

Dear Aunt June:—I have been reading your Boys' and Girls' corner and think it just splendid. I have decided to join your true Helpers' League of Service. I am a boy of twelve and I am going to school every day. I have only about three acres to go to school, and come home every day for dinner. I am in the Senior fourth class, and I am going to try the entrance this summer.

I feed the cattle and put them in every evening. I have one pet and I give her the best of hay. I milk her in summer time. We have a nice team. We call the black one "Harry" and the bay one, "Sandy." I carry in wood and water for mother. I also keep house when all are away. In summer time I help papa to draw in the hay and many other chores. I have two pets, a cat and a dog.

call the cat "Bert" and the dog "Topsy." I like the dog best.

THE FARMER'S MERRY SON.

Dear Farmer Lad:—What a lot of pets you have! I should like to see every one of them especially Harry and Sandy. Being a boy, I suppose you would like the dog best of the other two pets. I am glad you do so much to help mother and father, and hope you will be proud to wear your badge.

Centurion.

Dear Aunt June:—I help milk, wash dishes and help carry in wood. I have the letters from others and thought I would write.

CLARA COUSINS.

Dear Clara:—Won't you tell me what kind of little girl you are? You did not tell me your age or about your school. I see you are a true Helper, however, so I am sending you a badge and look forward to another letter some day.

Flower Sta.

Dear Aunt June:—Just a line, as I saw other boys and girls writing letters to you. I live on a farm and my father is a blacksmith. Sometimes I go to the shop and help him to bolt tires when he is not horseshoeing. My mother has been sick, so I have had to do most of the work, but my grandmother came up a few days ago to help me. I can milk, harness a horse, bake, and do most all the housework. Sometimes I go to the barn and feed the cows. I have been sick for a long while with blood poisoning and did not get better very quick and cannot go to school for a long time. I was in the senior third class.

EVA LOVE.

Dear Eva:—I am very sorry to know that you have been ill and hope you will soon be able to go to school again. You must be very useful and helpful indeed to mother if you can do most of the house work and cook. I am sending you a badge at once, and wish you the best of success and good health.

St. Peters, C. B.

Dear Aunt June:—I was looking over the Boys' and Girls' corner. I like to read your letters very much. I would like to join your Helpers' League of Service, and I am enclosing a three-cent stamp for a badge which I would like to receive. I go to school every day, make my bed, help clean the lamps and help washing and ironing. I dress my grandmother quite often, as she has rheumatism and cannot walk.

CATHERINE STEWART.

Dear Catherine:—I am very glad to welcome you into our League. You do quite a lot of helpful deeds outside of your school work. I wonder how you like ironing. I should like to hear something about the place you live in, St. Peters. The name sounds as though it might be interesting. I am glad your grandma has such a helpful little niece.

Priceville.

Dear Aunt June:—I have been reading the letters for a long time and thought I would like to get a badge. I think it is real nice to have a few columns in the paper for the boys and girls to show each other how to help their parents and friends. I will mention a few things I do to help: I help to wash and iron. I wash and wipe the dishes, make the beds, sweep the floor. I have to go to school. I am in the entrance class.

JEAN CAMPBELL.

Dear Jean:—I am very glad you like our corner. You are a true Helper. I hope you will be successful in passing your entrance when the time comes, and that you will like your badge and wear it often.

Hepworth.

Dear Aunt June:—I would like to get a badge and thought I would write. I am 12 years old and in the fourth class. I clean out the stables and pump water and do many other chores. I also split the kindling. Wishing you luck.

PAUL ANDERSON.

Dear Paul:—Thank you for your good wishes. I am sending you a badge. I am always glad to welcome boys into our corner. Perhaps you will tell me more about your home country next time you write.

St. Egin.

Dear Aunt June:—I have been reading your corner, which I enjoy very much. I want to join your Boys' and Girls' corner. I help mother by washing dishes, sweeping and many other little things. Also I help out doors. I just love horses and love driving them, which I do very often. I have one horse which I call "Mokey" and a cow, "Babe." I would like to receive one of your badges. I just love snow, don't you, Auntie, for it always means lots of fun for the boys and girls. If I don't soon run away, I will wear my welcome out. May I come again? Hope to receive my badge, also see my letter in print. I will sign my pen name.

"JACK FROST."

Dear Jack Frost:—What a seasonable fellow you are! Yes, indeed, I hope you will come again, even if it happens to be summer time; you might help to keep us cool. I am very glad you help mother so much. I think I shall have to let the other Helpers into the secret that Jack Frost is really a little girl, because when you tell about the horses and helping out of doors, some people might think Jack was a boy. I am very glad indeed to welcome you as a Helper.

Tiverton.

Dear Aunt June:—Jewel was writing to you, so I thought I would too. I am a boy of nine years and I help with the chores, feeding the cattle and the pigs and putting down hay and straw from the mow; then I bring in wood and water for mamma. I have a pet dog. I call him "Teddy." He'll haul the little sleigh for us and we have great fun with him. I have ducks and they are great pets. I am going to try raising a lot of ducks next summer. Mamma gave them to me this fall, so I am hoping I'll have good luck with them.

CLARENCE T. HUNTER.

Dear Clarence:—You will be like the man in my riddle if you go in for keeping ducks. I hope you will be able to have an egg for breakfast every morning, too. Send it in any time you see it. I am very glad you like pets. I am pleased to welcome you to our League of Helpers.

NEW HELPER SENDS A POEM.

Wheatley.

Dear Aunt June:—I have been reading the letters written to you. I thought that I would like to have a Helpers' badge, so I thought that I would tell you that I have been carrying water for my mother for about a year. Here's a piece which I thought up:

"My mother used to say,
That I should help her every day,
But I did not think I should,
But I am happy because I would.

I had to help her every day,
Then help my father make the hay,
Next I would do the chores,
And chase my sister out the doors.

Then my apples I would have to half,
To hear my little sister's laugh,
Next she'd give me half her candy,
And think that I was dandy.

EDEN ROBINSON.

Dear Eden:—I am glad to read in your little poem that you gave little sister half the apple after chasing her out of doors. The chasing was meant to be in fun, I am sure, or did you only put it in to make the verse rhyme. I hope you will make up some more poetry. I am glad you find happiness in helping mother. You shall have a badge.

New Liskeard.

Dear Aunt June:—I am very much interested in your corner, I read it every week, and I was wishing I could join the corner. I hope I will be included in the corner. I wash dishes, clean the house and attend to the chickens sometimes. Mother was away and I attended to the cow, but now I am taking music lessons and I haven't time to do the outside work. I have two sisters and one has a girl about four years old and they stay with us. We have another sister about seven weeks old. His first name is Francis. I like the name, don't you? I cannot write very good or spell very good. Hoping the corner has every success.

"PUGGIE."

P. S.—I am twelve years old. I am in the fourth book.
Dear Puggie:—I am delighted to hear from you. Certainly you shall be included in the Corner and have a badge. I like to hear about the sisters and the work you do to help, and especially about the babies. Yes, I do like the name of Francis very much. St. Francis, you know, was a very beautiful character—a man who loved little children and birds and flowers; so your baby boy is named after a very fine character.

Southampton.

Dear Aunt June:—Mamma showed me the letters to you in the paper, and I think it is great fun to read them. I would like to be a member too. I am seven years old and go to school. Our teacher gives us a "star" each week for being good, so I have got one every week so far. I put down feed for the cows and carry in wood for mamma, and when she is out milking I put the separator together.

KARL WM. NICKASON.

Dear Karl:—I am glad you find interest in reading our corner. How proud you must be of getting a star each week! If you will look out for the little pledge, you can send it in next time it appears in the paper. I hope you will continue to be a true Helper and will like your badge.

Toronto.

Dear Aunt June:—I have been reading your Boys' and Girls' cosy corner for some time and would like to become a member. I am eleven years old and in the senior third class at school. We have manual training every Thursday and I have made a string box, match scratcher, and I am starting a fish line winder. We have a summer cottage on Lake Ontario. I help my mother and grandma with the garden. I wash the dishes and look after my sister Mary, and sometimes run errands after school.

JOHN W. B. MADDOCKS.

Dear John:—You share with me the pleasure of living in this dear old city of Toronto. I wonder if you go to Brown school, as you seem to live in that district. I should like to see the things that you have made. I think one of the jolliest things for a boy is to be able to make useful things such as you describe. I can imagine how you would enjoy the

Mr. Herbert Osborn Tells How Cuticura Healed His Wife

"My wife began to be troubled with itching and burning of the palms of her hands and the soles of her feet. Later the skin cracked and became inflamed, making walking or even standing very painful and preventing sleep at night. Later it became necessary to bandage both hands and feet.

"She was treated but obtained no relief. She saw an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. She bought more and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment she was healed." (Signed) Herbert Osborn, 133 Elmerbrooke Ave., Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 2, 1919.

GROCERS TAKING LESS PROFIT ON MANY LINES

RED ROSE TEA PEOPLE MAKE A FURTHER STATEMENT.

Some of our friends among the grocers, in speaking of our letter to the press on grocers' profits, have indicated that apparently it has been construed by some readers to mean that Red Rose Tea was the only article on which the grocer takes a smaller profit. In order to give his customers a higher quality.

It was not our intention to convey such an impression, as we know that most grocers sell well known brands of other goods at less profit than they could make on some brands equally well known, and for the same reason that they recommend Red Rose Tea because it naturally came first to our mind and because we knew that grocers were selling it at a less profit than they make on other teas.—T. The Ancients At Dinner.

The ancient Greeks and Romans did not sit up at the table as we do, but declined round it on couches, three and sometimes even four occupying one couch, at least this latter was the custom among the Romans. Each guest lay flat upon his chest while eating, reaching out his hands from time to time to the table for what he might require. As soon as he had made a sufficient meal he turned over upon his left side, leaning upon the elbow.

ADVICE TO GIRLS

BY MISS ROSALIND

Registered According to the Copyright Act.

Miss Rosalind welcomes letters from young women asking for advice on any subject. All you have to do is to address your letter to

MISS ROSALIND,

34 King William St. Hamilton, Ont.

Dear Miss Rosalind:—
As I value your advice very much and am writing to you to advise me what to do. I am only 13 years old, but am very tall. In our town there is a certain minister's lad that I would like to get acquainted with and I don't know whether I should speak to him first or him speak to me. As I always see him at church, I have good opportunities. He is a little smaller than I, though 14 years old.
I would like you to advise me what to do. I am only wanting his friendship.

ALSACE.

Dear Alsace:
Girls and boys belonging to the same church usually meet at Sunday school and church socials. There is always a crowd having a good time together and somebody will surely introduce you. But keep with the crowd.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:—
I am a girl of twenty-one and my courtship days have just begun. I can't just say that for I have been going with a young man about my same age. When ever he takes me out, he generally calls for a girl friend of mine and I think he spends more time entertaining her than he does me. I like him very much, but I am afraid he is going to take up with my girl friend.

SPORTY.

Dear Sporty:
Better that he should decide to go with the other girl now than after you are engaged to him.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:
I am a Christian girl nearly eight-teen years old. Lately while out working a few miles from home I started going with a boy a few years older than myself who is also a Christian. His people do not object to him going with me, but father does.

I am home at present and this boy would like to come and see me but does not because he knows father would not like it. He thinks a great deal of me.

While at church one Sunday he offered to bring me home but I refused because I know father would object, father himself being home that Sunday. Should I have accepted anyway or did I do best in refusing? I think a great deal of this young man.

All the other girls in our neighborhood, some even younger than myself are going with boys so you see I feel left out in one way.

Please advise me what to do. It seems I cannot take advice from father like I can from other people.

Am I old enough to go out working without my parents' consent? Please advise me as soon as possible.

SQUIRREL.

Dear Squirrel:—
Your problem is as old as the ages.
There are many fathers who cause their daughters heart-aches, but they don't mean to be unkind. They are so anxious for the welfare of their dear ones that they are strict—often too strict. I think I know exactly how you feel about it, my dear, and I sympathize fully—if that helps any.

If you are perfectly satisfied in your own mind that this companionship is a good thing for you, tell your father about it and explain as clearly as you can how you feel about it.
I know it will not be easy, but I want you to keep honest and above board in all things. There is no reason at all why you should not have boy friends as well as girl friends, and you should surely be allowed to bring home a boy friend after church. But be patient and nice about the way you tell it all to dad.

A girl is supposed to be old enough to think for herself at eighteen, but she is not legally of age until twenty-one.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:
A friend of mine who has written you some time ago told me how you had helped her.
I am a girl of about eighteen years, not very tall, and a blond. When I go to dances I never miss a dance and have a good time. When I go to skate the boys do not skate very much with me or bring me home while they do the other girls. I never have a steady friend. When a new boy comes to town he goes with me for a short time, raves about my dancing and by looks, then drops me. What is the reason?

I have two friends, they both have told people they like me. They dance a great deal with me, yet they will not go with me or take me out.

A. B.

My Dear Girl:

A man will dance with a girl who dances well. Just for the pleasure of the dance; the same may be said about skating. Evidently you dance well, skate indifferently and have not the knack of holding friends. You will say you know all that before.
Perhaps so, and my advice is, examine yourself as if you were somebody else. See if you are selfish and inconsiderate to others. See if you are stupid, not able to be entertaining, see if you are boring—talking only of yourself, your possessions, your achievements. See if you are self satisfied and trying to boss everybody and dominate all occasions. In short, study your shortcomings and have criticism.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

1. Is it alright to go to dances or showers in company with a young man, my age being 16?

2. Which is the proper way of becoming acquainted with a young man.

3. Is 16 too young to go with young men. I remain,

IGNORANCE.

Dear Little Girl:

Sixteen is not too young for a lot of boy friends, but much too young for a "steady."

It is all right to go to parties with a boy if your mother knows all about it.

A friend introduces you

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I am fifteen years old and go to high school. I skate and attend such parties as are proper for me. There is one thing however which nearly spoils all my fun especially at the rink. You know when girls are my age they have school-boy friends who skate with them and if her parents think proper he walks home with her. Why is it I am never asked to skate? I skate as well as most of my girl friends, am as good-looking as most fifteen-year-old girls. Why is it I am left and girls no better in looks or skating chosen in my place.

Of course I don't want to go with anyone yet but don't you think it natural for girls my age to like the companionship of boys our own age as well as girls?

Another matter I need your advice on is this: Though school boys apparently don't notice me, a couple of bigger boys about eighteen years old tried to go with my chum and me.
Did we do right in giving them no encouragement? Now a boy about seventeen seems to have a desire to become more than a mere acquaintance. I have kept him at a distance so far and will continue to do so if you think me too young to chum with him. If you don't think I'm too young I would enjoy his companionship, though I would much rather have a school-boy friend till I am older.

Thirdly I wish to ask you if you think I am too young to think of writing a book? Would it do me any harm if I should try to mature a plan for a book during the next five or six years? I love writing stories and have a lot of ideas in my head.

BOBBY.

Dear Bobby:

Do you know Bobby I think the younger boys think you are a "Highbrow" and they are scared to death of you. You know, afraid you will think them "mere kids."

Of course, I know you are just a sweet, clever little school girl and I found your letter delightful. You are rather mature for your age, however, so if mother doesn't object make chums of the big boys.

By all means write a book. It will be the best thing in the world for you.
Write to the Round Table for help if you are in doubt on any point.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

I have a gentleman friend who I know admires me very much, and I think a lot of him, but there is another young man across the way who has a considerable amount of money and my parents would like me to win his affection. Now dear Rosalind please give me your advice as I am quite undecided.

POWDER PUFF.

Dear Powder Puff:

Surely you can have too friends for awhile. When it comes to a question of marriage you must settle it for yourself—no one can help you decide that.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

As I have been delighted with the advice you have given other girls, I thought you might be able to give me some assistance in my affairs. I am about twenty years of age and have found a very good friend in a young man about my own age. Is it proper to accept his affection by allowing him to put his arm around me, etc., as I permit girl friends of whom I think the same to do? How many young men is it proper to encourage at once if they reside in different localities? Also, how many evenings a week is it right to allow my friend to visit me?

BWBILDERED.

My Dear Girl:

There is no limit to the number

TAFFY was a Welshmaid,
Taffy wore odd clothes,
Taffy had a stove-pipe hat
To shade her little nose.
I went to Taffy's house, Taffy wasn't in,
Taffy'd gone to church, instead,
Which surely is no sin.

Had two other Welsh persons.

of friends a girl may have, providing they all understand that they are friends, not lovers.

The question of how many times
one young man may call in one week should be decided by you and your mother.

A pretty safe rule to follow is the big brother one, when it comes to demonstrations.

ROSALIND.

Dear Rosalind:

For several weeks I have been reading your Advice to Girls. I read a letter signed by Violet and I would like to know why she is so lonesome.
I have been real lonesome myself at times, and I can sympathize. I would be very pleased to correspond with her.

ANXIOUS ONE.

Dear Girl:
It is necessary to send a stamped and self-addressed envelope so that a correspondent's name may be sent to you.

ROSALIND.

Dear Miss Rosalind:

I would like a few correspondents.
If there are any please send my address to them. I am seventeen and would like them to be about that age.

Am I too young to attend dances in private houses?

COUNTRY GIRL.

Dear Country Girl:

You are not too young to go to dances in private houses so long as your mother approves. See answer to Anxious One, re correspondents.

A Quick Relief for Headache

A headache is frequently caused by badly digested food; the gases and acids resulting therefrom are absorbed by the blood which in turn irritates the nerves and causes painful symptoms called headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, etc. 15 to 30 drops of Mother Seigel's Syrup will correct faulty digestion and afford relief.

Is It Fair?

To the Members of Grace Church.
Dear Brethren:

Great demands are made upon Christianity especially by those who give no aid to this greatest work of soul saving, at the same time few of our young people show much inclination to help. They should see that by their example as well as precept they are thwarting our efforts. It takes many workmen many days to erect a fine building. One rascal can blow it to pieces in a second. So with christianity. Is it fair? Will you leave this great work to a few and then expect ten times the result you could possibly expect in other work?

There are four organized congregations in Waterdown. It behoves us who take the name of Christ to "depart from iniquity" and "avoid the the appearance of evil" that we give the enemy "no reason to blaspheme." Let us remember that if even one of our weakest brethren fail, all the rest suffer. Further, we must defend one another.

There is one thing the writer has often noticed. A certain class of people are very brave when they have health, but let there be a funeral in prospect and they are the very first to raise a howl for the Preacher. Is it fair? Is it brave? Is it honest? They allow other people to maintain an institution, and at their convenience use other people's property for nothing. If this were done in the business world such people would be kicked off the street.

The writer has been working for 36 years. In all these years he has never seen one who has dared to refuse a christian funeral. True, he had in one place a saloon-keeper and horse-racer who said with his mouth, "I have been a sport all my life and have never paid attention to religion, I will die the same way." Never the less three christian ministers led that funeral procession to a useless grave. And what afterwards? His elder son was discharged, for gambling, from a splendid position in Eaton's, Toronto. The younger son, a splendidly dressed, came to me when I was struggling to raise five babies on a small stipend, and tried to borrow money. Was it fair? Was the saloon keeper fair to himself, fair to his family, fair to the preacher, fair to christianity? Where is the braver? Where the honest? Brethren we must as tenderly as possible speak the truth. People are thoughtful. A few, very few we hope, are too contemptibly mean. Those of us who are fighting for Heaven, must incite one another to good works. "Visit us with Thy salvation, visit us with salvation O Lord God of Hosts."

Yours faithfully,
H. J. Leake.

Diameter of Pine Tree.

Mr. Hill, lockmaster at Buckhorn, Ont., experimented with a pine tree to determine improved growth which may be secured by proper care. Fifteen years ago, he pruned all the lower branches off a 4-inch white pine sapling, removing other saplings from its vicinity, dug up the earth around it and applied manure to its base. It is now 19 inches in diameter at its base and has a long, clean pole. Thus, during the fifteen years, the growth in diameter has averaged one inch annually. — Conservation.

The coming Referendum

Vote and Vote "Yes!" on April 18

THE Ontario Temperance Act as a war-time measure was an unqualified success.

On October 25, 1919, the people of Ontario voted by an overwhelming majority in favor of the permanent continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act, prohibiting the sale of intoxicating beverages.

The "Bootlegger" Must Go

On December 31, 1920, came the repeal of the Federal Order-in-Council—which was also a war-time measure—prohibiting importation, manufacture and export of intoxicating beverages.

Thus it became possible for individuals in prohibition provinces to import liquors for consumption in the home; thus the "bootlegger" is able to offer the same for sale contrary to law, and thus the expressed will of the people in this province is being defeated.

Importation Must Cease

Everything that applied in the last vote against the sale of intoxicating beverages within this province applies equally to the Use of them, and their Importation for beverage purposes should also be prohibited.

Hence arose necessity for further legislation and another Referendum.

Shall the Importation and the bringing of intoxicating Liquors into the Province be Prohibited? YES!

THE MAELSTROM

BY FRANK FROEST.

Late Superintendent of the Criminal Investigation Department of Scotland Yard.

THE STORY SO FAR

Jimmy Hallett, millionaire adventurer from New York, lost in a London fog has a bundle of cancelled cheques signed by J. E. Greye-Stratton thrust into his hand by a young woman who disappears in the fog followed shortly by a man in pursuit. Going to the address of Mr. Stratton Jimmy is admitted by one calling himself a Doctor and ushered into an unlighted room and knocked senseless. Remaining consciousness he discovers the body of Stratton and reaching the telephone calls up Menzies of Scotland Yard to whom he has an introduction. Investigation casts suspicion upon Errol stepson of Stratton and a search for him and for Peggy, Stratton's daughter who had accompanied her mother when Stratton had turned her out, is instituted.

"Pah" interrupted the prisoner. He spat on the cell floor to indicate his contempt.

"You've shown you know something about this murder," went on Menzies. "The judge is pretty sure to take that into account one way or the other at your trial. I of course should tell him if you helped us. It would probably make a difference, you know."

The prisoner showed two rows of yellow teeth in an unmirrored, contemptuous grin. "Go away, wooden-head. I shall not go to prison, but you will die. You don't know what you call, what you are up against."

"Perhaps I've got an idea," said Menzies. His voice changed. "I don't know whether you're playing the fool, my man," he said sternly, "or whether you really believe that kind of wild talk. Perhaps your friend Errol will be able to enlighten us."

"Errol?" said Smith blankly. "I know him not."

"I heard you," said Menzies. "You think over what I've said, my lad. Meanwhile we'll have a doctor to look at you."

CHAPTER VI

Miss Peggy Greye-Stratton.

Menzies let an unparliamentary expression slip from his lips as the cell door clanged behind them. It is tantalizing to have a piece of evidence drop into one's lap, so to speak, and then refuse to be evidence.

He was annoyed because his efforts to unlock the lips of the prisoner had failed. He knew that if only the man could have been induced to talk days, possibly weeks, of heart-breaking labor would be saved.

This fresh development had him guessing, as Jimmie Hallett might have said, who was "William Smith"? Why had he threatened Hallett, and even gone so far as to try to carry his threat into execution? The hint of an organized conspiracy to save the murderer of Greye-Stratton would have excited his derision, if it had not aroused speculation.

The secret societies in England may talk murder at times, but they never seriously plot murder or carry out a murder. A man who perils his neck has invariably some strong personal motive. And when others actively shield him they also have some other motive than pure altruism.

One person may commit an irresponsible act for no reasonable act for no reason; it is even conceivable that two people may act in concert in some insane crime. But here were at least three people concerned, and possibly more—the woman who had passed the cheques to Hallett, the murderer of Greye-Stratton and "William Smith."

What was the link that bound them all together? That each was acting from some powerful self-interest he felt confident. It might be that there was a community of interest, but he was sceptic enough to think that accidental.

The chief inspector checked his flow of thought with a jerk. Speculation without materials spells a fixed theory—and to a detective too early a theory may be fatal. He is apt to try to prove his theory rather than prove the truth.

He laid a hand on Hallett's arm as the jailer inserted a key in the big steel door that led to the charge room. "Wait a minute. There are a dozen people the other side of the door waiting for us. I want you to have a good look at them when you go in. If you recognize any of them I want you to go up and touch her."

"Her," repeated Hallett. His pulse throbbed unaccountably faster. Menzies eyed him keenly.

"You said last night that you would probably know the woman again who planted the cheques on you. I'm relying on you, Mr. Hallett. You're a man of the world. Don't run away with the idea a pretty face can't be mixed up in crime."

"So you've run her down. Why didn't you tell me before? Who is she? Does she admit passing the cheques?"

Menzies shook a forefinger blandly at the young man. "I'll answer your questions some other time. Only play the game, Mr. Hallett." He was a shrewd judge of men, and all along he had been doubtful whether Jimmie's chivalry would be proof against the test to which he proposed to put it.

And Jimmie himself was doubtful. A week—a day—ago he would have ridiculed the idea that a pair of blue eyes, seen only once, could have swayed him in any degree. He did not put his thoughts into form, but he wondered what the effect to her of an identification might be.

Had Menzies any suspicion against her? Jimmie found himself arguing illogically enough that it was impossible. Menzies's words braced him as they were intended to—come what would, he would point her out if she were in the charge room.

And then the door swung back. The charge room, lofty and bare, was tenanted by a little group of women seated in a row, at the lower end. Apart from them in the centre by the inspector's tall desk were a couple of officers. A third was leaning against the dock. The chatter of voices ceased.

"Take a good look at these ladies," said Menzies's suave voice.

Jimmie had not needed more than one glance. There was a sufficient general resemblance among the army of women, but she was unmistakable. She was the second from the right.

He had taken one step toward her, when her gaze met his. There was nothing in it of appeal. It was indifferent, cold, impassive. Yet Hallett's resolution wavered. He walked past her along the row—and back again.

He felt himself a fool. There was not the faintest reason why he should not identify her. She was possibly concerned in a deliberate murder. And then out of the tall of his eye he saw her moisten her dry lips. That was the only trace of emotion she gave.

"It no good, Mr. Menzies," he said quietly. "I don't recognize any one here." He had played poker in his time, and his face and voice were absolutely expressionless. Menzies tapped a forefinger thoughtfully alongside his nose and smiled ruefully.

"All right," he said, and Jimmie fancied there was an inner shade of meaning to the words. "That will do, ladies, thank you."

RICH, RED BLOOD MEANS HEALTH

PALE CHEEKS AND BLOODLESS LIPS ARE A DANGER SIGNAL.

To be pale is no longer the fashion; to be languid is an affliction. Today the most winsome girl is the one with the pink tinge of health in her cheeks, lips naturally red, and eyes sparkling with life. Add to this a quick active step and everyone can tell the girl whose veins are full of the pure, rich blood of health. How different she appears from her ailing sisters, whose aching limbs and weak backs make them pale and dejected.

Anaemia is the cause of so much suffering among girls and women that it cannot be too widely known that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have transformed thousands of delicate anaemic invalids into happy, healthy women. These pills help to put rich red blood into the veins, and this blood reaches every part of the body, giving strength, rosy cheeks and brightness in place of weakness, prostrating headaches and a wretched state of half-health. Miss Edna E. Weaver, R. R. No. 1, Chippewa, Ont., says: "I was very much run down, weak, nervous and troubled with pains in the side. I tried different medicines but without any benefit until I began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Under the use of this medicine I gained strength, had better appetite, slept better and the pain in my side disappeared. My health has since remained excellent and I advise any one troubled with anaemia, or weakness, to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia and nervousness. Build up your blood and note how the purer and richer blood fights your battles against disease. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that with the observance of ordinary rules of health will keep you well and strong. Get a box from the nearest drug store and begin the treatment now, or send to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent you postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50.

MILK PRODUCERS NELD BETTER COWS

VETERINARIANS URGED TO TAKE INTEREST IN SELECTION OF CATTLE.

Fifty per cent. of the cows owned by Canadian farmers are kept at a loss, declared Dr. J. B. Hollingsworth, of Ottawa, in addressing the Ontario Veterinary Association convention at the Ontario Veterinary College. Of the other fifty per cent. half pay for their feed only, and the other half make money, he asserted. The remedy he proposed was the development by the farmers of their present stocks into high grade cattle. To accomplish this, milk tasting must be accurate and complete records of production must be kept.

In urging the veterinary doctors to take more interest in the selection and improvement of cattle that they might advise the farmers in their locality, he stated that far too many calves were slaughtered and that every year, thousands of first class calves which were valuable potential milk producers were used for meat production.

YOUR EYES AND THEIR CARE

Perhaps one of the reasons why the eye is neglected so grievously is that so little is understood about it. Sight is accepted as something we all should have anyway, and is not really appreciated until lost—then too late.

In a complex little organ, often imperfect, extremely delicate, and so necessary to our every-day life that if all were better acquainted with it and knew its limitations, it would receive much better care.

The eye can actually be compared to a very complete little camera, and the resemblance is really startling.

The camera is focussed by moving the lens system backward or forward from the plate or film; but the human eye is focussed by a little set of muscles which change the shape of the crystalline lens.

At the back of the eye is a sensitive screen called the retina, corresponding to the kodak film of the camera. When you turn your eyes toward an object, the little lens system throws a picture of the object upon the little screen or retina just as the camera lens system throws a picture onto the film or plate, or the motion picture machine throws the picture onto the screen.

Strange to say, this picture in the back of the eye is inverted, or upside down, yet by the time the impression gets to the brain the appearance is right side up in its natural position.

Question: Why are glasses needed? Glasses are worn for two reasons: (1) to give better sight; (2) to give more comfortable sight. Advancing years cause adults to require help at the reading distance to see distinctly and the strain of modern life cause much eyestrain or uncomfortable vision among young folks.

LICE-FREE HEN NESTS.

A poultry raiser in California has a plan which, he declares, keeps lice out of hens' nests. The plan is very simple, and if it is an effective one he says, it surely is worth using on any farm. He describes the plan as follows:

"When my hens are ready to sit, I line the nests with duck feathers. I started this plan after I figured that the way to do was to keep as close to nature as possible. I make the nests on the ground, and put the duck feathers in as a lining, because the lice do not seem to bother at all when the nests are lined this way. I scoop out a sandy spot to make a hole in which to build the nest. I put in a layer of clean hay or straw, and then put in a lot of duck feathers. The grease in these feathers seems to drive away the insects."

MEASURING LAND FOR PLOWING.

When plowing does not follow rowed crops, difficulty is often experienced in marking out the lands so that they are of uniform width throughout. A better method than pacing out the distances is to construct an A frame of light material. The handle at the top makes the device easier to manipulate.

The points are turned forward, pivoting first on one, then on the other, as the user walks along. A count is kept of the number of times the frame is turned and thus the distance is measured. By making the distance between the points five and one-half feet, three turns measure one rod. The frame is equally handy for measuring fence distances, the pipe required for a water main, and other uses.—J. L. A.

HAS NO PAIN NOW

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Peasey of London.

London, Ont.—"I suffered with period pains, was weak and run down, could not eat and had headaches. The worst symptoms were dragging down pains so bad I sometimes thought I would go crazy and I seemed to be smothering. I was in this condition for two or three years and could not seem to work. I tried all kinds of remedies and had been treated by physicians, but received no benefit. I found one of your booklets and felt inclined to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I received the best results from it, and now I keep house and go out to work and am like a new woman. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to my friends, and if these facts will help some poor woman use them as you please."—Mrs. J. F. PEASEY, 290 Rensley Street, London Ont.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

If there are any complications you do not understand write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

"I'm Happy and Well now for I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription"

Thousands of women in this country have reason to speak as above. From every part of Canada women write Doctor

Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., as do these:

PHIPPE, Sask.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cured me when all other medicines failed. The home doctors could do nothing for me. I happened to see Dr. Pierce's advertisement in the paper, sent for the medicine, and felt great benefit from even the first few teaspoonfuls that I took. I took but a few bottles until I was well. I cannot speak too highly of its merits."—MRS. JANET BROWN, R. R. 1

SPRUCEDALE, ONT.—"I am only too glad to tell you what Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription has done for me. I doctored three months, and the doctor said I would have to have an operation, but thanks to Dr. Pierce's medicine, I never felt better in my life than I have since taking the 'Prescription.' It surely is a woman's friend. I took the 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and also the 'Pleasant Pellets.' I was so weak and nervous I could scarcely do any work. That was eighteen years ago this summer, and I have never been troubled with the feminine trouble since."—MRS. JOHN W. HEWETT, Starrat.

All druggists sell Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in liquid or tablet form. Send 10c. to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ontario, for trial package of Favorite Prescription Tablets.

WAR CAUSED FRICTION

AMERICANS LEARN ABOUT FEELING IN CANADA.

They Have Been Investigating in the Dominion to Find Out Why We Do Not Admire Them as Much as They Admire Themselves—Some Sane Conclusions Reached Regarding International Relations.

WILLIAM S. McNUTT in Collier's has an article on "As the Canadians See Us." He got started on the article by meeting a business man who told him that the Canadians were boycotting American goods so he interviewed New Yorkers who had business dealings with Canada. One of them told him that the United States in 1919 did business with all the countries of South America to the value of $969,276,505, and the balance of trade was $167,473,203 against the United States. With Canada, in 1919, the United States did business to the value of $1,282,667,849, and the balance of trade was in favor of the United States to the amount of $344,768,213. The United States sells more goods to Canada than to any other country in the world except Great Britain. These facts impressed Mr. McNutt, and he interviewed others.

He met a traveling man, just back from Canada, who said the Canadians hated the Americans, and that he had had a terrible time. Another traveler, on being told of this, exclaimed:

"I know just what happened. He went over to Canada, and started in to tell all over again how America won the war. I'd bet anything that's what got him in wrong, and I wish they'd hang him before he got back! It's fellows like him who have made it hard for all of us in Canada. Americans go up there and blab around about how Americans won the war, and naturally the Canadians, who were in the war for more than four years, hear it and get sore at all Americans."

Mr. McNutt decided to come over to Canada and see what the state of feeling is, and he visited Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal. He finds that nearly all Canadians have been made weary of the boastfulness and spread-eaglesism shown in American movie films in Canadian picture houses; that they resent the abuse directed against Great Britain in certain American newspapers; that there is no boycott of American goods, although there is a campaign under way urging people to buy made-in-Canada goods. Every Canadian he met resents the fact that the Canadian dollar is rated away below par in the American market—he hates to lose the exchange, feels it to be a dead loss, and in some way or other an injustice. In England people are familiar with the fluctuations of exchange; in Canada people are not, and as they are buying American goods all the time this discount on their own money is a constant annoyance.

The conclusion at which Mr. McNutt arrives is that the friendship between Canada and the United States will long out-last the friction. He thus advises Canadians: "Be a little patient with the seeming boastfulness of the Americans as expressed in the movies and in some periodicals and newspapers. Perhaps, after all, the individual Yankee is not as vain-glorious and susceptible to flattery as some of the American movie, periodical, and newspaper writers may think. At least remember that most of the flamboyant conversation was meant for family ears only, and believe that it is as embarrassing to the majority of Americans as it is annoying to the majority of Canadians. Remember also that in our dark days during the Civil War the American dollar was worth only 40 cents in Canada, and that it did not get back to par until 1879." All of which advice is good. He advises Americans to remember that Canada has gone through a terrible ordeal, and that it is necessary to strengthen justice with a little gratitude.

Crude Canada.

We hear many things from the English papers about the prince's visit that we did not hear during his stay here. Note the following paragraph from the Saturday Review: "It is needless to say that the Canadian press married our Heir Apparent to at least three young ladies by name; and hardly a newspaper omitted the headline, 'Is it a Royal Romance?' Indeed it was not safe for any young lady with tolerable pretensions to beauty and position to be seen in Canada within a hundred miles of the royal train. And dire were the social feuds left in the track of the illustrious tourist! At Windsor, Ontario, the president of the Canadian Ford Company, we are informed, drew lots for 250 out of 2,600 applicants to dine with the prince; and one lady wrote that she had a special claim to be invited because she was familiar with finger-bowls and English etiquette." At another place, which will be nameless, the governor's lady had long been at war with female society. But when the prince landed she was de par le Roi the first lady in the province, and dealt out remorseless punishment to her foes."

Not on Friendly Terms

The figure 8 frowns on old-fashioned washday methods. For it is the magic figure in the 1900 Cataract Electric Washer which forces the water back and forth through the clothes, in a perfect figure 8 motion four times oftener than in the ordinary washer.

The swinging wringer is reversible, and also works electrically. The copper tub hasn't one single part in it—nothing to lift out and clean after the wash is finished!

We'd be glad to deliver a 1900 Washer right to your home, and let you try it out. When you have seen what it can do, you may start paying for it on terms to suit your convenience.
