The Imprisoned Heiress —OR—
The Spectre of Egremont.

CHAPTER XII.

He experienced a keen disappointment at not having beheld the spectral appearance that had so fascinated him, and his manner was more than usually quiet and constrained as he re-entered the drawing-room.

Although unsuspecting by nature, it seemed to his lordship that Lord and Lady Egremont regarded him narrowly after his return, and the former carelessly inquired if he had had a pleasant walk. He answered quietly in the affirmative, not wishing to explain that he had been out upon the sea, lest the explanation might lead to remarks upon the specter, and what he now chose to guard carefully as a secret, be made a subject for criticism and gossip.

But the evening had at length drawn to a close, the guests had retired, the family separated, the lights extinguished, and silence and the dim moonlight fell upon the mansion.

And then the private door at the side of the dwelling nearest the sea noiselessly opened, and a woman stepped out upon the porch and looked anxiously up and down the cliff.

She was the lady Alexina.

Her velvet evening dress was caught up upon her arm, and her form was shrouded, and her face concealed by a long full scarlet cashmere cloak and hood, of the style known as "Red Riding Hood." The garment was thickly wadded, and lined with white silk, which was rendered conspicuous as she stood there, the cloak being evidently conspicuous as she stood there, the cloak being evidently thrown open purposely to reveal it.

If intended as a signal, it was the only one she used.

She stood quietly in the shadow of the porch a moment, as if listening for a sound from within; then, satisfied that her egress had not been heard or witnessed, she glided over the rocks, taking advantage of a friendly cloud obscuring the brightness of the moon.

She did not pause at her favorite retreat, the niche in the rocks, for the night was too cold and wintry to make it a desirable resting-place, but walked on, turning into the garden walk as the cloud passed from the moon.

The tall evergreens bordering the walk screened her effectually from the observation of any one who might chance to be looking from one of the windows of the mansion, and warded off the cold, piercing wind that came in from the sea.

But, as they nearly met in a pointed arch at some distance overhead, the walk was not particularly pleasant to the heiress, who shrank from its gloom, murmuring:

"What if I should meet the specter here?"

The thought caused her to quicken her steps, and she sped along the path half fancying she heard pursuing footsteps, and that the next moment a spectral hand would press heavily upon her shoulder.

Repressing the scream that arose to her lips at the thought, she hastened onward.

Her destination was a small, substantial pavilion, built in the airiest style possible for a building intended to be used equally in summer or winter, and to serve as a shelter from sudden storms as well as a retreat from summer heats. It stood upon a small point of land at some distance from the house, and was entirely shut out of view from the latter by the thickly intervening trees. Upon one side of it lay the handsome garden; upon the other, and many feet below the sea.

Making her way to this pavilion, the heiress opened the door and entered its one simple apartment.

The room was very dark, except where faintly illumined by the light straying in through the now open door, but Alexina could distinguish nothing within, and her heart beat loudly as she whispered:

"Lyle, are you here?"

"Yes, I am here," responded the voice of Lyle Indor, and he arose from a seat in a distant corner, upon which he had been reclining, and approached the Lady Alexina.

His first act was to close the door, his second to bring out from behind the seat a dark lantern, and his third to turn on the light and deposit the lantern upon a small shelf that projected from the wall.

"Don't light it, Lyle," said the heiress, nervously. "What if some one should be wandering about the garden—one of the servants, perhaps—and see the light?"

"Don't be alarmed, Xina," was the response. "The light cannot penetrate beyond the room. Look at the windows."

The Lady Alexina obeyed, and observed that the inside shutters of the windows, which were numerous, had been closely drawn.

Reassured, she seated herself in a large chair near the door, and said, shivering:

"The night is fearfully cold, Lyle. I am almost sorry I promised to meet you here. Should the meeting be discovered I dread to think what my guardian or Lord Ashcroft would say. I am sure that Lord Ashcroft is the most particular man in the world, and I would not for anything offend him."

"Of course not, Xina. And I would not have you offend him," rejoined Indor, seating himself at a respectful distance. "But, should he come upon us at this moment, I do not see that he could object to our interview. There were things I wished to say to you that could not be said before the family, and we should have been liable to interruption had we met in the picture-gallery or library. The only way to meet in secret was to meet here."

The Lady Alexina shivered again, and tapped her foot restlessly upon the floor.

"You are cold," cried Lyle, springing up and bringing her a warm Scotch shawl he had brought with him. "You see what it is to have a thoughtful friend like me, Xina."

He folded it about her, securing it by a clasp in front, and then resumed his seat.

"What is it you wish to say to me, Lyle?" she asked.

"I have so much to say that I scarcely know where to commence. The communication I am about to make to you will doubtless surprise you, and may condemn me for making it. Yet I can keep silence no longer."

"You need not hesitate to speak freely to me, Lyle," said the Lady Alexina, as he paused for encouragement to proceed.

Lyle Indor hesitated, his effeminate face now presenting a look of greater manliness, but soon said:

"Perhaps the part I am acting is treacherous to Lord Ashcroft, but I am constrained to think that the happiness of the greater number should be considered first."

"I don't understand you."

"I will come to the point. You know that you are beautiful, Alexina, and it is not necessary for me to rave of your dark eyes and scarlet cheeks, although the task would not be unpleasant, for I think of them continually. It is enough for me to talk of the effect of your beauty upon me. I have spent a year under the same roof with yourself, have shared your few pleasures, your hopes and desires, and, as might have been expected, I have learned to love you. Our tastes are congenial. We both love society and society, and I sometimes think we were formed for each other."

The heiress smiled with gratification.

"You do not check me, Alexina. You are not displeased with my presumption?"

The Lady Alexina murmured a gentle negative.

PAINS IN BACK AND SIDES

Ended by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fuslier, Sask.—"For two or three days every so often I would have such pains in my back and sides that I could not do anything—could not even lie quietly in bed, and my head ached, too. I was this way about three years, but was worse after I was married. I was on a farm with not a house nearer than five miles and there was not a person to advise me, as my folks lived in Manitoba. My sister-in-law told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it. I took her advice and have been thankful for it ever since. After taking the medicine for three months I can say it has helped me a lot and I am doing fine. I am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to others and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. HELEN BALANOFF, Fuslier, Saskatchewan.

Often some slight trouble will cause a general upset of the system. Such symptoms as nervousness, painful times, irregularity, backache and headache indicate some form of female weakness.

Women so bothered should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. This dependable medicine has helped thousands of women, and it is reasonable to expect that it will help you. Try it today. Your druggist sells this medicine.

WEARINESS.

I'm growing tired of stories about the hayseed town, the western burg that glories in keeping culture down, where all the men are sordid and all the women cheap; of such we've been accorded an ever growing heap. And still the presses clatter and turn out volumes bad, huge stacks of reading matter about the hayseed grad.

For little western cities I long have been enthused; it seems a thousand pities that they are so abused; of course, in goops and geezers their back streets may abound, but they turn out the Caesars who make the wheels go round. The men whose fame is spreading to every hemispheric, once earned their board and bedding in Punktown-by-the-Mere. The statement you're admiring, whose fame shall know no slump, once tolled with zeal uniting in Squalltown-by-the-Dump. The actress in her beauty, who plays before the queens, once did her humble duty in Quince-town, serving beans. The authors who are jolting the world with cyclic yarns, which find small towns revolting, once played among their barns. The alecks are applauding while authors sling their slurs, and hayseed towns are nodding among their cockleburrs; but still from old Hay Center the nation's great men come, the chieftain and the mentor who make the big world hum.

The K. O. Club

LONDON, Nov. 21.—(C.P.)—A magistrate's visit to a girls' club in the East End was described in court by Magistrate Hall of Old Street Court. He received an invitation with the address. He went to a dismal slum, and in a disused coal cellar that had been tastefully decorated met some 20 or 30 girls. The club was the "K.O." Club—King's Own, because every girl member had enjoyed the King's hospitality at some time or other in her career.

"We talked of many subjects, quite frankly, and I often go down and see those girls," said the Magistrate.

FACE AFFECTED WITH ECZEMA

Also Behind Ears and On Limbs. Cuticura Heals.

"I was affected with eczema which broke out in a rash. I had it on my face, behind my ears and on my limbs. My skin was sore and red and my clothing aggravated it. It itched and burned causing me to scratch, and sometimes I could not sleep at night. My face was disfigured.

"I finally read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. I got relief so purchased more, and using one box of Cuticura Ointment, with the Cuticura Soap, I was healed." (Signed) Miss Arvilla C. Crayler, 239 Taylor St. N. E., Minneapolis, Minn.

Sudan Shrouded in Uncertainty Since Communication Was Cut.

Soviets Apprehensive of Ill-feeling Because Treaty Rejected—Labour Lords are Official Opposition -- Zeppelin Transatlantic Weekly Mail Service Contemplated.

COMMUNICATION WITH SUDAN CUT.

CAIRO, Nov. 28. Communication with the Sudan has been cut, the telegraph lines are down, and the train which connects with the Sudan steamer from Halfaya, in the Eastern Sudan on the Nile, is not leaving to-night. The military authorities here have been in wireless communication with Khartoum, and it is understood the situation is well in hand, but the circumstances are somewhat obscure.

MUTINEERS WERE EGYPTIAN.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The mutiny of Egyptian troops at Khartoum cannot spread sufficiently to endanger the British position in the Sudan, nor is it likely to have any influence against the British there, it was stated by an official this afternoon. It was pointed out the battalion at Khartoum constituted the only force of Egyptian troops now left in Sudan, and that the British military there were strong enough to keep the situation in hand. The battalion in question was to have left Khartoum to-day in the wake of the first battalion, which moved out of the Sudan yesterday.

RUSSIAN REPLY IN.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The reply of the Soviet Government to the two latest British notes rejecting the Russian treaties and repeating the Zinovieff letters, was presented to the Foreign Office this evening. The reply is confined to an expression of regret at the rejection of the treaties, the common assertion that the Soviet Government did its best to reach the basis of an agreement on questions of interest to the British Government and the entire British population, and the refusal to take any responsibility for the feeling of discontent which the decision of the British Government will cause in both countries.

LABOUR LORDS OFFICIAL OPPOSITION.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The decision of the Baldwin Government is that the Labor peers shall be the official opposition in the House of Lords, according to the Westminster Gazette, which says the Labor Party has been pressing for this a long time. The Gazette regards it as an affront, that a party number only five members should have recognition over more than 100 Liberal lords.

CANADA—U. S. TRADE.

OTTAWA, Nov. 28. Canada is buying less from and selling more to the United States than she was a year ago. In the twelve months ended October imports from the United States were $534 million, a drop of $86 million compared with a year ago. Exports to the United States were $418 million, a betterment of $7 million over a year ago. Canada's balance of trade with the United States therefore shows an improvement of $3 million.

ANOTHER HEATED DEBATE IN FRENCH CHAMBER.

PARIS, Nov. 28. Following a heated debate in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon over charges that members of the Herriot Cabinet had received campaign funds from the Association of Economic Interests, an anti-Socialist organization, a vote of confidence was given the present Government, by the Chamber, 282 against 246.

ZEPPELIN MAIL SERVICE CONTEMPLATED.

BERLIN, Nov. 28. There soon will be a weekly zeppelin mail service between the United States and Europe, the correspondents here were informed to-day by Dr. Hugo Eckener, Director of the Zeppelin Company, who had charge of the ZR3 trans-Atlantic flight. The Zeppelin-Goodyear does not intend to establish a passenger service for the present, he indicated, but believes one zeppelin each way weekly carrying half a million letters at 25 cents per letter would be a business success.

READ OUT OF REPUBLICAN PARTY.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, and three of his principal supporters in the Senate practically were read out of the Republican Party to-day at a conference of Senate Republicans. The conference adopted a resolution by Senator Read, of Pennsylvania, under which Senator LaFollette, Senators Ladd and Frazier, of North Dakota, and Brookhart, of Iowa, will no longer be given Republican places on Senate Committees, or be invited to attend future party conferences. Senator Ladd was the only one of the four Senators named in the resolution present at the conference. The resolution will not disturb present committee assignments. Republican leaders said, but will serve as an expression of the view of the conference to be considered by the committee and committees when the question of filling vacancies comes up.

APPEAL REFUSED.

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 28. County Judge Coatsworth to-day refused to grant a certificate of reasonable doubt to facilitate appeal to a higher court in the case of C. A. Barnard, K.C., Montreal, Director of the Home Bank of Canada, convicted recently on three charges in connection with the collapse of the bank. It is understood Counsel for Barnard will carry the motion for appeal to the Supreme Court of Ontario.

KILLED IN MOTOR COLLISION.

LOWELL, Mass., Nov. 28. In a head on automobile collision early this morning, in this city, on Lawrence Boulevard, one woman, Dr. Sadie Hopper Lightman, was killed, and eleven others were injured, several seriously.

CHARGED WITH MURDER.

FREDERICTON, N.B., Nov. 28. The finding of the Coroners' Jury at the inquest held at Fosterville yesterday into the deaths of fourteen year old Cynthia G. Foster, and her ten year old sister, Neola A. Foster, was filed at noon to-day with police magistrate Walter Limerick, by Sheriff John B. Hawthorne and G. T. Feehey, Clerk of the Peace, for York County. Meanwhile a formal charge of murder has been laid against Harold D. Williams, in whose cabin the bodies of the two girls were found brutally murdered. Williams will be formally arraigned on the charge of murder this afternoon and it is expected he will be immediately remanded to York County jail.

FINDING OF THE JURY.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The jury in the Robinson conspiracy suit, involving an unnamed Indian Prince, rendered their verdict this afternoon, finding that a conspiracy had existed to extort money from the Prince, known as "Mr. A." but that Robinson and Mrs. Robinson were not parties to it. The jury also found that "Mr. A." was induced to part with two cheques for $150,000 each through such fear and alarm that his mind was unsettled and that he was not free and voluntary. After these findings the jury again retired to consider further questions put to it by Justice Darling, the presiding Judge.

MASONIC FUNERAL FOR SIRDAR.

CAIRO, Nov. 28. A Masonic memorial service for the assassinated Sirdar, Sir Lee Stack, was held this afternoon. All recognized lodges here, including Egyptian, attended without distinction. Lord Allenby, British High Commissioner, has excused himself from attending St. Andrew's dinner to-night on account of illness.

500 Pounds for an Egg

The most valued egg in the world is that of the great auk, a bird once common in the regions of the North Atlantic, but now extinct. The last auk egg sold realized about $500. The auk was a diving bird about the size of a duck, but was unable to fly because of its small wings. It laid one egg at a time. The birds and their eggs were used largely for food among the seafaring folk. So many of them were killed that the species has entirely disappeared.

Wedding Bells

HISCOCK—RYAN.

At the Oratory of the Presentation Convent on the 27th inst. Miss Helen Constance, daughter of Mr. Arthur Hiscock, was joined in marriage to Mr. Joseph Ryan, by Rev. Msgr. McDermott. The ceremony was performed at 11 a.m., in the presence of a large gathering of friends of both contracting parties. The bride was attired in a toque costume and carried a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums. She was attended by Miss Kathleen Power, who wore an attractive dress of French blue, and also carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. The groom was supported by Mr. Harold Brown.

Following the ceremony the bridal party accompanied by the guests drove to the home of the bride, Long's Hill, where a reception was held, and the customary congratulations and toasts were tendered. Mr. and Mrs. Ryan left by the cross country train at 1 p.m. en route to Placentia, the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ryan, where the honeymoon will be spent.

What Nelson's Column Cost

Trafalgar Square, London, is dedicated to Nelson. It was designed by Sir Charles Barry, and completed at a cost of £10,000 in 1841. The Square was built over the site of what was formerly the Royal Mews, which were removed to make room for the National Gallery about 1824.

The column, begun in 1840, is a copy of one of the Corinthian columns of the Temple of Mars Ultor, the avenging God of War, at Rome. The total height of the monument, designed by William Railton, is 193ft.

The full-length figure of Nelson is 17ft. in height, and an idea of its proportions may be formed from the fact that from toe to heel the foot measures three-quarters of a yard. It is hewn out of two pieces of Craigleith stone, of great hardness, from the Granton quarry of the Duke of Buccleuch, and weighs nearly eighteen tons. The total cost of the column was £50,000, of which £20,000 was raised by subscription and the rest voted by Parliament.

The Biggest Stage Hit

AT THE STAR MOVIE MONDAY.

SAMUEL GOLDWYN PRESENTS "POTASH AND PERLMUTTER."

With the original stars, Barney Bernard, Alex Carr, Vera Gordon and a big cast. Nine years on Broadway; nine years in the Saturday Evening Post; nine years on tour; five years in London; three years in Petrograd; it has been laughed at in twenty different languages "Potash and Perlmutter" means to laugh.

For years the world has been waiting to see it on the screen and now, at last Samuel Goldwyn has produced it with its original starring players as one of the biggest box-office attractions ever handed any exhibitor.

It isn't all laughter, there's a tear in it, there's festival, cabaret, romance and thrill in it. It has all the qualities of great entertainment—the kind that brings 'em back more anxious to see it the second time than the first.

In Chicago thirty hard-boiled critics saw it. They thrilled, gasped, laughed—and then insisted on seeing it again. We don't have to say much more after that, but we'll tell the world it seldom gets a picture as compelling in all respects as "Potash and Perlmutter."

It's sold before you get it—just shout from the roof-tops when you do.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

JELLY DOUGHNUTS FROM SALEM, MASS.

(Miss O. S. A. sends us the following recipe, which she secured from her grandmother, a fine old New England housekeeper.)

- 4 tablespoonfuls melted Crisco.
- 1 cupful milk.
- 1 cupful sugar.
- 2 eggs.
- ¼ yeast cake.
- ¼ teaspoonful salt.
- 1 teaspoonful ground nutmeg.
- ½ cupful warm water.
- 5 teaspoonfuls flour.

Scald milk, then add melted Crisco. Dissolve yeast cake in warm water, add to milk when it has cooled. Then add sugar, salt and nutmeg. Mix thoroughly and stir in five teaspoonfuls flour. Let rise over night.

In the morning knead as for bread, then roll about one-fourth inch thick. Cut in rounds with a large biscuit cutter. Lay out in floured board far enough apart to prevent sticking together when they rise. Let rise until very light three or four hours. Fry in hot Crisco. Keep turning them until they are risen to a round ball. When partly cold make a small opening in the side with a knife and insert a teaspoonful of currant jelly. Dust with powdered sugar.

Even more thrilling was the wedding journey undertaken by Count de Lesdain and his bride, who plunged into the heart of China on a dangerous expedition that took them over mountains 20,000 feet high and into places where white people had never previously set foot.

But the most hazardous undertaking of this kind was the ill-fated voyage of Captain Andrews and his American bride, who left the altar and embarked in a tiny vessel with the object of crossing the Atlantic. Presumably the ship was lost at sea, for the honeymooners were never heard of again.

Health and Comfort

AS age advances our wants are not many and with reasonably good health we can enjoy the peaceful period of life in comfort and happiness.

But unfortunately there are certain ills which conspire to destroy the pleasure of this time in life and they are usually of a decidedly painful nature.

The kidneys are often the first of the bodily organs to fail. Then the poisonous acids which should be eliminated by the kidneys circulate in the blood and cause backache, rheumatism, lumbago and the many ailments which make life so miserable. There has, perhaps, never been a medicine so well suited for people of advancing years as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

This statement is founded on the many thousands of cases reported to us from time to time.

The success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-

Liver pills is due to their direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys and bowels whereby the accumulating poisons are quickly swept from the system and the cause of pains and aches promptly removed.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills do not lose their effect on the system as do so many medicines but can be depended on absolutely to bring about the desired results. Used one pill a dose at bedtime as often as is necessary to keep the bowels regular, they relieve indigestion, biliousness and constipation and keep the system in healthful condition.

You will notice that while the price of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills has been increased to 35 cents, the box now contains 35 pills instead of 25 as formerly.

Likewise the price of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is now 60 cents a box of 60 pills instead of 50 cents for 60 pills.

THE THINGS WOMEN LOVE.

My neighbor has just come home from a little motor trip. With her, as spoils of the road, she brought some little gifts for the various members of the family and a gift for herself—a gay colored Indian basket.

Said my neighbor's daughter as her mother showed me the basket: "What ever do you want another basket for? You've got heaps of them all over the house. Now, mother, tell me what are you going to use it for?"

"Well, I don't know," said the mother vaguely. "I hadn't thought about that. I just got it because I wanted it. I love baskets."

And in my neighbors eyes as she looked at the gay little basket with its odd shape and weave there was that peculiar tenderness with which we look at that particular kind of object which for some reason has an almost irresistible appeal for us.

I say "we all" because I think there are very few women who don't have such a soft spot in their hearts for some class of object.

What Many Women Love.

It seems to me that baskets are one of women's most popular loves. I have known half a dozen women who felt an irresistible desire to possess every pretty basket they saw without having any definite use for the article in mind. "I could use it somewhere," defends one woman when her husband says, "you don't want that basket." "Baskets are always so nice for gifts and that's such a bargain," explains another basket lover.

Nice linen is another of the most common feminine irresistibles. I have known women who could steadfastly withstand the allurements of lovely clothes, who could skip and save on all sorts of personal belongings and personal pleasures, but who became weak as water when they stood before the damask and heavy Russian linen and the exquisiteness of flax inserts. I know one woman who has the simplest of food on her table, who does not spend a hundred dollars a year on her own wardrobe, who does her own washing and walks a mile and a half to the fare limits to save on fares—and has the finest linen sheets on her beds.

Some Women Love China.

Finé China is the symbol of beauty which captures the imagination of other women. They will stand in front of the china store window pressing their noses to the panes like a youngster in front of a tempting candy or toy display. They will gloat over one more cup and saucer, or one more plate added to their collection, or they will have the heartache as badly over the beautiful platter they can't afford to buy, as if it really made any difference in their lives.

Which, of course, it does, for what are any of the things we want but symbols and toys. How very little we actually need. We need food and warmth and shelter and enough clothes to keep us warm. How many millions of things we want.

My Price.

My own particular price is beautiful bowls and pitchers. I love their shapes. I have a bronze bowl with a little silver leaf design on it that seems to me a frozen bar of music. I love their colors. There is a wonderful little pitcher of orange colored pottery that stands out among the blue things on my table. There was a lustre ware bowl, beautiful both in its shape and its marvelous copper color that I committed the sin of loving. But I was punished for it (you see the Puritan in me cropping out) by having it broken. I can't bear to think about that bowl. It's like a lost friend to me.

I wonder if there are things men feel that way about. And I wonder what they are? Golf clubs and fishing poles maybe? Perhaps some of them will be moved to tell us.

How Wild Animals Die

By KENNETH DAWSON.

Violent deaths are the rule, not the exception, in nature's realm. Even those great leviathans of the deep, the whales, are not immune, for they are subject to the attacks of a ferocious creature called the killer, one of the dolphins, which hunt in packs, shunning the chosen victim with their terrible jaws until it dies from exhaustion and loss of blood.

In temperate climates an extra hard winter causes many deaths, particularly among small birds and animals, and draughts levy a great toll in hot countries. The wild creatures have their epidemics, too. The rinderpest, or cattle plague, has in the past exterminated both domestic animals and the wild game over enormous tracts of Africa. In this country foxes are subject to outbreaks of mange which kill them off wholesale, and a few years ago squirrels were wiped out in many districts of the west of England by a species of footrot.

But for many of nature's creatures death comes swift and red. Even the great cats, the lions and tigers, are no exceptions. While in their prime they have few enemies, but when feeble with age, with claws and teeth worn down and useless, they fall victims to the hyenas and jackals which for years have fed on the leavings of the great beasts' kills.

Accidental deaths too are plentiful among the birds, beasts and fishes. Within the last few weeks two of the Curlew terns, the Scythia and the Berangarin, have each killed a whale by ramming it.

Not long ago a case was recorded of a swallow being killed by taking an artificial fly on an angler's cast which had been left hanging from the branch of a tree. Birds which swallow their prey whole, like the heron and the cormorant, are now and then choked by trying to gulp down too large a morsel. Fish die the same way, especially pike and trout, and the large carprines are sometimes fatally injured by the horns of an antelope they have attacked.

Some years ago I found a blackbird pierced by a long spike in the middle of a blackthorn bush. No doubt the bird had dashed in there to avoid the stoop of a hawk and had impaled itself. Birds which line their nests with horse-hair or sheep's-wool occasionally get entangled in these materials and are either hanged or die of starvation.

Foxes are not infrequently caught in snares, and, although they break away, if the wire is drawn tight round the neck it will in time eat into the flesh and kill the luckless creature. Rats, when frightened, sometimes bolt into small pipes and become tightly wedged.—Daily Mail.

BRIGHTER OUTLOOK FOR COPPER.

Largest Copper Selling Agencies Predict a 15-Cent Market in Near Future.

Boston—Unless all signs fail, copper and copper shares are headed in the direction of higher prices.

While there has been no sudden stimulus given to the consumption of copper since the election, this is due in part at least to the fact that for many months the meltings of copper in this country have been of record-breaking proportions. At the same time exports were breaking all records.

The net result has been that the consumption of American copper at home and abroad since the first of January last has been above 102% of production. In 1923 the consumption was something over 99% of production.

In comparison with the fluctuations of operations in iron and steel the brass and copper industry has been giving a remarkable demonstration of growth and stability.

The reason copper has not responded more vigorously to the ideal conditions in the consuming trade has of course been that the production of raw metal has been in almost exact balance with the consumptive demand.

Europe has of late been dictating the copper price, and the largest increase in the demand for the red metal is expected to come from the other side during the next few months.

Copper is the foreign market is selling for about 14 1/4 cents or the equivalent of 14 cents f.o.b. New York. So confident is Joseph Clendenin, in charge of sales for the Guggenheim Bros., of the strength of the market that several weeks ago he directed his European agents to withdraw from the market. If his competitors insisted on forcing copper sales at the expense of the price, they were at liberty to do so. The Guggenheims believe that for a considerable period the consumption of copper the world over will exceed the output and it would not surprise them if before many weeks copper were quoted at 15 cents a pound.

The campaign to educate architects and home builders regarding the economy of brass and copper in myriad forms of construction work has tremendously expanded the consumption of copper during the past two or three years, assisted, to be sure, by the low prices prevailing. In this connection it is interesting to note that in the year 1924 the American Brass Co. will sell a production of brass pipe ten times larger than the company ever manufactured in the biggest year before the war.

Of course copper securities will quickly catch the step once investors are convinced that the long awaited rise in the metal is really at hand.

Remarkable Feats of Memory

DEMONSTRATED HERE BY POLISH VISITOR.

A fish diet may be responsible for the athletic prowess of the Finns, and most best for the courage of the British Tommy; but he who wishes to astonish the world with his memory should not taste them. At least this is the advice of Noun Lipowski, a citizen of Vilna, Poland, who has been delighting psychologists with his feats of memory and who is now in Montreal on his way home to Europe. Ask Mr. Lipowski to cube any number of two figures, and without hesitation he will tell you the answer. This magic he accomplishes not through extraordinary mathematical gifts; but by recalling the results of calculations made long ago. It is merely a trick of memorization. Numbers, dates, logarithms, lists of words, all these Mr. Lipowski has but to look at, and he can repeat them, certainly weeks afterwards and perhaps months and years later.

How He Started.

This unusual gift was noted by his teachers when he attended school as a small boy, but Mr. Lipowski explains that he did not take their comments at all seriously. He first gave his talent serious consideration while taking extension courses at a Darmstadt. The other students noticed that while he never took notes, he did as well or better than they did, and inquired the reason. It was brought to the attention of the professor who proceeded to test him by giving him a list of 50 figures, letting him look well at them, and then asking him to return and repeat them next day backwards and forwards. This marked the commencement of his career, of giving demonstrations of his unique powers—a career which took him during the war to many parts of Russia where as an Army Captain, he gave exhibitions of his prowess, to realize money for the Red Cross.

This is his first visit to America, and during his tour recently completed in the United States he gave demonstrations before classes in psychology at Tufts College, Columbia and Harvard. He also performed his feats of memorization for the benefit of McGill students when he appeared before members of a class in psychology conducted by professor Tait.

Mr. Lipowski states that he has known of other persons similarly gifted, but never anyone who could equal his prowess in remembering logarithms. Some people have musical memories, he pointed out, others can remember languages. He himself speaks nine languages, most of them slavically, but his knowledge of English is limited. He learned 3,600 words of the language in a very short time, but has difficulty with the syntax. He does not know nor has he command of any of the Roman languages. His talent is called by specialists "visual rote memory," for tests made by Dr. Healy of Boston, the specialist who examined Loeb and Leopold were reported to prove that his remarkable powers showed themselves when he looked at what he memorized, rather than when the information was given orally.

GRAVE DEMONSTRATION.
 That he can repeat lists of words heard and not seen, the prodigy showed yesterday afternoon at a special demonstration. Twenty names of disassociated objects were given him, and these he gave back in the order in which they were given, backwards, and answered without hesitation requests for seventh, thirteenth, fifth or any other desired.

No other members of Mr. Lipowski's family have displayed his gifts; but a man from the same village, said thought to be an ancestor, attracted much attention some 150 years ago by a similar abnormal development of his mental faculties. He attained some fame as a philosopher.

Contrary to the opinion generally held, that the successful criminal has a good memory, Mr. Lipowski believes that the habit of lying is fatal to the cultivation of powers of memory. He considers that the Boy Scouts are doing a great work in the cultivation of this faculty, not only through their encouragement of powers of observation, but through the discouragement of the telling of untruths.

Children in America do not learn by rote as easily as do European children, principally because too much time is devoted to sport.—Montreal Star, November 22.

Labour Governor

KNIGHTED BEFORE LEAVING FOR TASMANIA.

It is officially announced that Capt. James O'Grady, who was Labour M. P. for S.E. Leeds till the General Election was received in audience by the King, kissed hands on appointment as Governor of Tasmania, and was invested by His Majesty with the insignia of a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George. With the exception of Sir David Shackleton, Chief Labour Adviser to the Home Office, who was formerly a Labour M.P., and the Law Officers of the Crown in the late Government, whose cases are on a rather different footing, Sir James O'Grady is the first Labour knight. He is also the first Labour Colonial Governor. Born at Bristol in 1866, he was apprenticed as a cabinetmaker at the age of 10, and began his public career as an official of his trade union. He was for a time president of the General Federation of Trade Unions, and afterwards formed the National Federation of General Workers, of which he became secretary.

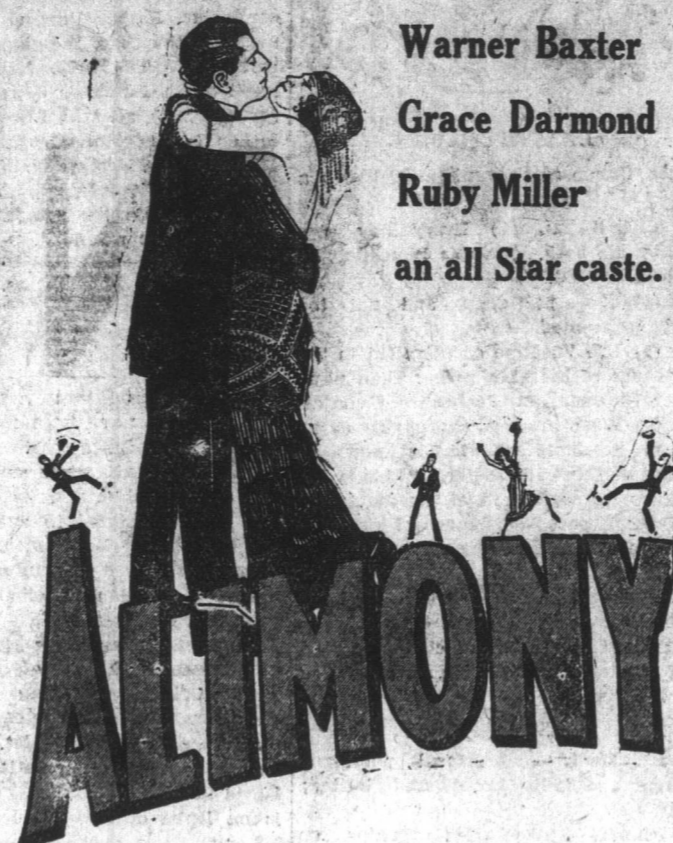

Forbidden Words

Among Scottish fishermen there is a superstition that the word "rabbi" must be avoided at all costs in conversation while at sea. This word, like "salmon" and "minister," is regarded as being unlucky, though no one knows how this queer belief arose.

In certain London theatres the use of the word "fire" is forbidden, "tide" often being adopted as a substitute. "Water" is a word that brewery workers regard with disfavour, while in some hospitals it is breaking an unwritten law to mention the word "disease."

Perhaps the queerest rule of this kind was that imposed on his work-

How the U.S.A. Became Banker To Europe

To-day's message states that representatives of the French and U.S.A. Governments are discussing arrangements for the purpose of funding the former's war-time debt. In anticipation of such a meeting, the Bankers Trust Company recently compiled a study of the financial situation which exists, and found that the total inter-ally debt on Armistice Day was $21,599,717,000. Loans raised since that time have increased the total to $29,100,000,000.

Of the post-armistice loans, it is estimated that upwards of $4,000,000,000 were loaned in compliance with pre-armistice agreements, and to a considerable sum, represent the value of surplus war materials sold on credit, while the sum of around two billion dollars is made up almost entirely of loans for relief and reconstruction. The story of these latter loans has never been fully told. Therefore a few facts regarding them may be of interest.

When the armistice was signed, Europe faced important economic problems. Germany and Austria-Hungary were in great need of foodstuffs, especially fats, while quantities of food were still needed for Belgium and northern France. Even victorious England, France and Italy were forced for a time to continue food rationing and for a long time food control.

On the other hand, America had a great surplus of food which had been produced under the stimulus of high prices and had been gathered into warehouses for the use of her armies and the armies and nationals of the allies. The American treasury department took the position that under the Liberty Loan acts the administration was powerless to continue making loans to foreign nations—former allies or recent enemies. The British took the position that if American financing were to stop immediately, the European governments might find it impossible to go on purchasing food from the United States at war-time prices. On January 8, 1919, the British withdrew their monthly buying orders.

Mr. Hoover, as head of the United States food administration, at once wrote to President Wilson, setting forth the seriousness of the situation to the American agricultural, industrial and banking interests. "If there should be no remedy to this situation," he said, "we shall have a debacle in the American markets." Mr. Hoover also pointed out that before the peace negotiations could be opened up auspiciously, it was essential to have the better feeling of the liberated, neutral and enemy territories of Europe in actual progress, as the foundation of stability in government antecedent to the settlement of the great problems that would come before the peace conference.

Mr. Hoover then suggested that while the large surplus of foodstuffs, many of them perishable, in the United States was no longer required in its entirety by the Allies, it should be used for the good of Europe, and particularly for the acute needs of the Balkan States, for the liberated peoples of Turkey and Austria, also for Belgium and Poland. He further said that food should be made available to neutral countries, while foodstuffs should be offered to Germany "subject to payment therefor and other conditions that the associated governments may impose."

President Wilson acted at once on Mr. Hoover's suggestion and thus it was, notwithstanding evident hesitation on the part of the Treasury and doubt as to the powers of the Secretary of the Treasury in the premises, that loans to foreign governments continued until late in 1920.

At the date of the armistice, according to the Bankers Trust Company's estimate, the United States loans totalled $7,077,118,000. When all loans had ceased, September 28, 1920, the total had reached $9,466,283,000. Thus in a period of two years of peace, the loans had increased in the great sum of $2,389,163,000. Of this amount $295,467,000 represented accrued interest; therefore the actual increase was about two billion dollars. About one-half of this amount seems to have gone to clear up war accounts. The balance, and more than another billion dollars obtained from other sources of income, appears to have been spent by foreign governments in the United States during these two years for food and other supplies.

The total of post-armistice inter-national loans for relief and reconstruction was $1,913,189,000. Of this amount, the United States lent directly $878,488,000 which was undoubtedly used for relief purposes. Other post-armistice lenders for relief purposes were France, $759,357,000; Italy, $114,104,000; and Great Britain, $161,240,000; although some of these loans were known to have been made indirectly by the United States, for example, loans of $62,000,000 each made by England and Italy to Austria, the funds for which are known to have come from Washington. The large post-armistice borrowers for relief, in alphabetical order, were Austria for $153,424,000; Belgium for $303,244,000; Czechoslovakia for $263,246,000; Poland for $420,200,000; and the Serb-Croat-Slovene State for $418,647,000.

At the regular meeting of Whiteway Lodge which was held last night, the chair was taken by Immed. P.M. Bro. Dunfield in the absence of Wor. Master D. James Davies, now on his way from England. Following the business of the evening, the brethren and visitors proceeded to the Banquet hall where a most enjoyable supper was served by the staff of Sterling Restaurant. The guests of the evening were the Deputy District Grand Master, Wor. Bro. Ellis and the Worshipful Master of the Sister Lodges. Songs were rendered by Messrs. J. MacIntyre, A. Williams, H. Foster, R. Herder, M. G. Winter, F. Ruggles, a recitation by P. Mars and songs from the Lodge song sheet added much to the pleasure of the evening. A short toast list was gone through, and the speakers referred most enthusiastically to the programme arranged by Whiteway for the winter months, and predicted that it would be a great success.

PEPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

Nov. 28th.—My ankle still troubles me this day, and makes me think I did use it too much yesterday, yet needs must I hobble abroad again, having much work to do at the office. But Lord, no sooner do I get there when my wife foams me about the cheque I did promise her for Xmas, which she says, I did forget to give her. And, indeed, she is the most annoying wretch, since it would impede her shopping not a jot were she to wait till the afternoon. By my evening sheet, news of the trouble in Egypt, and seems how there is like to be some fighting ere long, if the strongest possible measures are not used to suppress the Egyptians and indeed, force the only argument that these people will heed. This night, going to the Masonic Club, did see one of the games in the Inter-Club billiard tournament, mighty interesting, if somewhat slow. Anon home, and find the Povey's at bridge, but the pain from my ankle increasing, did madden me and makes me play badly, which is a thing I seldom do. My wife puts a hot dressing on it this night, but the wretch, methinks, has no feeling at all, and takes a delight in hurting my poor foot.

CHILD WELFARE

HEALTHY BABIES.

"An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure."
 THE BATH. (1) Every day give baby his bath. It is as important as sleep or food.
 (2) Use a soft soap, and not too highly scented.
 (3) Use Vaseline or Olive Oil in the creases of his skin rather than powder—powder only 'cakes' and chafes.
 (4) Wash his head thoroughly every day. So many get what is known as "Cradle Cap" and generally this is because we are afraid of the fontanelle (the soft part), on the top of his head. There is no need for this fear; you will not hurt baby.

If baby has scurf (cradle cap) on his head—rub in some Olive Oil or Vaseline at night, and comb the skin of his head gently in the morning with a fine comb.

TUESDAY'S MENU.

Breakfast.—Corn-meal porridge; sugar and milk; bread and butter; tea.
 Dinner.—Spare ribs; turnips or carrots; potatoes; bread pudding with raisins.
 Tea.—Pan cakes, with sauce; (fruit if possible—orange); bread and butter; tea.

Obituary.

On Monday morning, the 24th the Angel of Death visited the home of Josiah Pafford of North Hr., P.B., and bore to her eternal rest, Gertrude, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pafford. The deceased, who was a victim of Typhoid Fever, was greatly beloved by all who knew her. She was 21 years of age, and truly it can be said of her, "her sun is gone down while it is yet day." She leaves to mourn their sad loss a father, mother, 5 sisters, 3 brothers and a large circle of friends. Her body was laid to rest in the C. of E. Cemetery, North Hr., where she awaits the glorious Resurrection.
 Sleep on beloved, sleep and take thy rest,
 Lay down thy head upon thy weary breast;
 We love thee well, but Jesus loved thee best

Train and Steamer Schedule

The management of the Railway have decided to operate the Placencia and Heart's Content branches of the Railway under the old schedule, which was in operation prior to the 13th, of July last. The schedule will come into effect on Monday next, with a train equipment assigned to each to cope with snow blockades during the winter months. The steamer Malakoff will leave Port Blandford on Monday next to take up the service on the northern side of the Bay returning to ports as far as Westleyville, before arrival of Thursday's express. The steamer will leave Port Blandford on Friday for the south side of the Bay going as far as King's Cove. This alteration will mean a big saving in running expenses, and will also facilitate matters in the handling of freight, etc.

Fatal Accident at Bell Island

SCHOOLBOY KILLED BY ORE CAR.

An accident which terminated with fatal results occurred at Bell Island yesterday afternoon, when William the 9 years old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kent was hit by a laden ore car. The boy, with a companion, was returning from school by the way of the east track when he was hit by the car. Rev. Father Rawlins, who was near the time, administered the last rites. The little fellow was a pupil of St. Edward's Convent, and a favorite with all who knew him. The father is Superintendent of No. 6 Mine, and resides on Main Street, at the front of the island. To the bereaved parents the sympathy of the community is extended.

Vacancies in Post Office Filled

It is rumored that several new appointments have been made at the General Post Office which take effect on Monday next. It is said that Mr. Sam J. Ryall, late of John Anderson's has been appointed to a position in the Dead Letter Department. Mr. Wm. Galton, formerly a printer, has accepted a position as clerk in the Post Office at Corner Brook, and Mr. Levi Froude takes over the position of fireman and keeper of the General Post Office, replacing Mr. Wm. Thistle, who it is understood has been placed on the Pension List. Mr. Geo. Veitch is now acting instead of Mr. David Scott, Supt. of Telegraphs, who is on leave of absence.

On leaving about a half hour afterwards he found that the coat had disappeared.

Yesterday a gang of men were working near Manuel's Bridge, the scene of last Monday's derailment, and recovered two of the damaged box-cars. They were brought to the city last night and placed in the Car Shop for repairs. The balance of the cars including the engine are now being raised and the wreck is expected to be cleared up by Tuesday next.

DISCUSSING FRENCH DEBT TO U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28. Informal discussions have been instituted between representatives of the French and United States Governments relative to a basis for funding the former's wartime debt to the United States.

RUSSIAN PREMIER ADMITS COMMUNIST CONSPIRACIES.

MOSCOW, Nov. 28. That the Communist Internationale is carrying on a propaganda abroad was admitted to-day by Premier Rykoff, in discussing Russia's present situation among the world Governments. He argued, however, that the Internationale was an organization independent of the Soviet Government. "Affiliated with the Communist Internationale," he said "are Communist parties, the United States, and other countries. We have no reason to refuse representatives of those parties protection or the right of refuge, nor can we forbid them to co-ordinate their activities." The Premier said that he considered the political movement to the right in Great Britain, Germany and the United States, but that this movement only brought Europe much nearer an armed struggle. He felt that Germany's acceptance of the Dawes plan forfeited that country's economic independence, but he foresaw the ultimate joining of Germany and the Soviet in the closest relations. The Soviet Premier declared that nothing had happened in the past year to persuade the Soviet Government to join the League of Nations. "We shall never link our foreign policy with the decisions of a League which is organized for the purpose of exercising an entente dictatorship over Europe," he added, remarking that Russia's international importance had been greatly enhanced since last year by reason of her recognition by numerous foreign powers. M. Rykoff admitted on the other hand that the present international situation represents a most complicated period in the history of Russia's policy "it is quite clear from the notes recently received from Great Britain," he said "that our foreign relationship is undergoing a transformation which may possibly prove dangerous to the Soviet Union," discussing the present Japanese negotiations. M. Rykoff said that they were several times on the verge of collapse but that an agreement had now been reached on the principal points.

MANY ARRESTS MADE OF EGYPTIAN CONSPIRATORS.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The news from Egypt to-day was less reassuring than yesterday but still in the opinion of the authorities it should not be considered as alarming. The precautionary process of arresting Nationalist leaders in Egypt whose public activities are considered dangerous to the maintenance of order continued to-day when a large number of deputies and other prominent persons were placed under safe keeping. Those arrested appeared to be mainly men connected with the organization of former Premier Zagloul Pasha, and it is reported that some of them were engaged in plots against the lives of Field Marshal Viscount Allenby, the High Commissioner, and others, it is said. The Egyptian Government itself now is responsible for the business of internment persons of the dangerous element who include some of the student leaders. The student activities which appeared to have ceased upon Zagloul's advice to refrain from agitation have broken out afresh, and seem likely to form the centre for attracting nationalist efforts throughout the whole country against the British Government's demands upon Egypt. Nothing, however is yet available to test the possible strength of such agitation. It is understood here that the Egyptian troops in the Sudan are giving no trouble to the British and the mutiny at Khartoum to-day, in which one British and two Syrian physicians were killed, was limited to about two hundred men of the 11th Sudanese Regiment, among whom there were several casualties when British troops fired upon them. The remainder of the Sudanese battalion allied the British in overpowering the mutineers. No undue alarm it is said need be felt regarding the situation at Khartoum, but it is not known what the exact status there is as the telephone lines are cut.

SUDANESE TROOPS OCCUPY A HOSPITAL.

LONDON, Nov. 28. The mutiny of the Sudanese troops at Khartoum was due to the withdrawal of their Egyptian officers, according to a despatch to the Daily Mail from Cairo. "This particular battalion, the 11th Sudanese, had been for some time infected by anti-British propaganda by their officers," the despatch adds. "The officers freshly spent money supplied from secret funds of the Zagloul Party." The mutineers, consisting of two platoons after attacking the hospital and kill-

Comedy Drama to be Repeated

The third performance of the pleasing comedy drama, at St. Patrick's Parish Hall last night, drew a crowded house. The presentation was, if possible, better than on the preceding nights, the various roles being filled in a manner that was little short of professional. The specialties by Miss Mercedes Halley, Master and Miss Chafe, and Mr. Karl Trappell, and the music by the Prince's Orchestra, added greatly to the pleasure of all. In response to numerous requests, and as many were unable to gain admission last night, it has been decided to repeat the play on Monday night.

Rehearsing New Play

Discussion will come as usual on the second reading, and two days must elapse between the first and second readings of the bills.

Poultry Exhibition Closed

In the presence of about 2,000 people, the 12th Annual Poultry Show was brought to a close with appropriate speeches and the presentation of trophies. At 9 o'clock Lady Allard, accompanied by Capt. Goodfellow, arrived at the Armoury, and a few minutes afterwards she began the distribution of prizes, at the termination of which she made a brief address, thanking the Poultry Association for their efforts on behalf of the industry. Complimenting the exhibitors, she wished "Good luck to the prize winners; better luck next time to those who did not win, and every good wish to the Poultry Association."

President Williams thanked Lady Allard for presenting the prizes, and on behalf of the Association presented her with a handsome bouquet which she graciously accepted. Judge Landry was next called on to speak. He congratulated the Association on the Show which was one of the best he had ever attended, not only in connection with the exhibits, but on the general management of the show. In Canada there is always a difficulty in getting people to attend the Poultry Shows but this problem had been solved here. He congratulated the winners on their success and the losers for the interest they had shown in exhibiting their birds. The work is a good one that will help to solve the meat and eggs problem of the country. It is a pity that all the poultry in the country is not as good as that exhibited and an effort should be made to this end. Interest should not wane, good care should be given the birds and in this connection Judge Landry sounded a note of warning against buying second class feds shipped from Western Canada, that they are not worth anything. If results are to be expected the best food should be supplied.

The Exhibition was a good one as far as appearance went, but he thought more attention should be given to production, as after all this is the most important factor. In this connection he had suggested to the Poultry Association the formulating of an egg laying contest where birds of different classes would be brought together in the care of a competent man, and there should be given a test as to their laying qualities. He hoped that this would become an accomplished fact, as it would be a step in the proper direction to help keep at home much of the money that is being sent abroad, needlessly, because this country is well adapted for the successful raising of poultry.

The drawing for the prizes in the lottery took place at 10.30 when a large number were present to see the prizes drawn. Mr. Ken Ruby, President Williams and Judge Landry conducted the drawing of the lucky numbers, which were as follows:—

- 1st Prize—A chicken house and trio of Barred Rock fowl; won by ticket No. 1724.
- 2nd Prize—A chicken coop and trio of White Leghorns; won by ticket No. 2754.

Big Feature at the Majestic Next Week

"Alimony"—An Extraordinary Spectacle Will Be Shown on Monday. See It.

The Majestic offers an unusually strong combination of features next week, commencing with that sensational feature, "Alimony" in which the most beautiful women in all Hollywood are seen in an all-star cast. As seen in the advertisement elsewhere, "Alimony" is a striking admission to the careening, jazz-crazy world, showing the glittering capital of cinematic—gorgeously gowned amid the lavish environment of exquisite sets and trappings—portraying in all its heart allurement the swift-moving life of high society—sleek men and sleeker women reveling in moonlight yachting parties; bathing amid the purple dawn in nooks remote from prying eyes; drenching themselves in champagne; plunging through the mad rush and swirl of just such unbridled pleasures as predestined the collapse of ancient Rome. "Alimony" doesn't beat about the bush! It pips home with smashing blows—that smash, that tear, that pound, that strike terrifically at the very roots of our greatest modern evil—that spread before you in vivid panorama the greatest array of visual facts ever flung upon the screen. See it! Then see it again! Drink in its monumental message!

Emmet O'Mara and Jeanne Palowa have an especially attractive programme. The programme of songs is announced in the advertisement, and is sufficient to say that there is a feast of music and pictures seldom offered

A few years ago, Messrs. A. & F. Pears, the makers of PEAR'S SOAP, produced a series of toilet articles which they named the "Golden Series." The articles which comprise the Golden Series are as follows:—

- | | | |
|------------------------------|-----------------------|----------------------------------|
| Pears' Shaving Powder | Pears' Shaving Sticks | Pears' Talcum Powder |
| Pears' Nail Polishing Crayon | Pears' Baby Powder | Pears' Compact Complexion Powder |
| Pears' Dental Paste | Pears' Lip Salve | Pears' Solid Brilliantine |

These new productions of Messrs. Pears possessed such excellent qualities, that many Ladies and Gentlemen desired an entire toilet table equipment bearing the familiar and reliable name of PEAR'S, so Pears' Tooth Brushes and Shaving Brushes were added. The above mentioned Toilet articles will be on sale in St. John's next week. The names of shops where Pears' Golden Series may be purchased will be published in this paper.

Romantic Paris Pulses With Joy in Photoplay

WHICH IS COMING TO THE NICKEL MONDAY.

Paris, as full of caprices as a pretty woman, carefree and captivating, the place we all long to visit at least once in our lifetime, lives in "The Lover of Camille," the screen adaptation of the Sacha Guitry play and David Belasco production, "Deburau," coming Monday at the Nickel Theatre.

knows the famed "Camille," of the Dumas play, and of the many loves of the unprincipled heart-breaker whose heart broke in the end, and who died repentant.

Monte Blue plays the role of Deburau who finds in the Lady of the Camille the dream he has cherished for many years, Marie Prevost, whose last recent performance have shown her to be the possessor of consummate histrionic ability, is the Camille.

The romance we never found, the achievements we somehow missed, the adventure we dreamed of but never knew—all these materialize in the story of Deburau, the master pantomimist and famous Lover of Camille. The supporting cast is distinguished, represented by names well known on the screen. They are: Willard Louis, Terrence "Pat" Moore, Pierre Gendron, Rose Dione, Rosa Rosanova, Trilby Clark, Brandon Hurst, Winifred Byron and Rosita Marstini.

Apart from this unusual screen entertainment, Miss Eleanor Mews, the popular Mezzo-soprano will be heard in a specially selected programme which is sure to satisfy the discriminating taste of the musically inclined. You can't afford to miss Monday's programme at the Nickel.

Report from Chief Agent For Week Ending Nov. 28th, 1924. Attended to a sale of cattle and sheep at the Abattoir Company. Agents were all carefully looked after. The poultry arrived week and were all taken out of crates to Mr. Halliday's Farm. Attended to the landing of two car loads of cattle at the Railway Station. Also the landing of a hundred and sixty head of cattle, ten horses and one hundred sheep from the Canadian Sapper. All were landed in good condition. They were watered and fed before leaving the premises. As this may be the last shipment by the Sapper, I would like to thank the captain and officers of the ship for the great care they have taken of the cattle, while on board ship; also the agents and employees of the Furness Withy Company. Attended to the landing of twenty head of cattle from the Sable I. They were quartered comfortably between decks. Two got clear and went wild through the streets but were captured again. A large bull jumped overboard from the Canadian Sapper and was taken ashore near Hynes' wharf. Quite a number of horses have been taken off the street, suffering from lameness and other ailments. There is a complaint from Maxse Street that some dogs around there are making quite a disturbance. The owners will please see that the dogs are kept in. Another complaint has been received from the Sanitorium, that there are a number of dogs around there at night time, and are a great annoyance. Owners will please see that the dogs are kept away from the building. A warning to the wise is sufficient. I have reports of some cattle yet in the woods, not rounded up for the winter. I caution all owners of stray beasts that they must be housed immediately or I shall have to take action. Phone all complaints to JONAS BARTER, Chief Agent.

November's Shooting Stars

The Leonid meteors are about to pay us another visit. They give us a call every November, and usually they are most prominent about the 14th of the month. They are called Leonids because all the meteors seen at this time appear to come from one particular region of the sky. This region is occupied by the constellation Leo. Shooting stars are lumps of metal and rock that come from outer space. Very likely they are the wreckage of smashed-up worlds. Most of them are very small—about the size of a pill. They begin to shine after they enter our atmosphere. As a matter of fact, it is the friction of the air as they rush through it that makes them glow. Being so small, most of the meteors are consumed before they reach the earth, and occasionally a meteor is big enough to survive its passage through the air. It may even be recovered and deposited in some museum.

Where Comets Come From. The Leonid meteors travel in a well defined path round the sun, and take thirty-three years to accomplish the journey. The meteors are scattered all along the path, but the majority of them are gathered together into a shoal in one particular portion of the orbit. It is only when the earth in its journey enters the zone of the meteors that we get a shower. If the earth happens to plunge into the shoal, we get an exceptional display. Meteors are closely connected with comets, and the November meteors follow the path traced out by the comet known as Tempel's. In fact, it has been proved that a comet is nothing but a compact swarm of meteors.

Where did comets and shooting stars come from originally? It is supposed they came from somewhere in far-off space, but were captured by the attraction of one of the larger planets, and so became permanent members of the Solar System.

Fashions and Fads. The tunic is almost dress length, only a few inches showing of the skirt beneath. Embroidery in crystals is used on a frock of silver cloth, worn over an orchid slip. Some attractive ruches are made of petals of the material bound and massed together.

France is Bitten

London Times: France has displayed hitherto strength and wisdom in the policy of cold aloofness to Bolshevism that she shared with the United States. Her friends will regret that her Government should have committed the nation to a repetition of the harassing experiences of all those people who up till now have tried to establish normal relations with the incurably abnormal Soviet Government of Russia. Narrow strips of chiffon have their ends dipped in sealing wax and are used as fringe.

Hall Door Robbery

Now that the dark evenings are here, the sneak thieves are getting busy, and despite many warnings, householders leave their front doors unguarded. The loss of an umbrella, raincoat, overshoes, walking stick, brushes, children's sleds, skates, etc., is very simple. The value of any one of these articles is MORE than a full year's premium on everything in the house. SPEND TEN DOLLARS FOR PROTECTION. U.S. FIDELITY & GUARANTY CO. J. J. LACEY, Nfld. WORLD'S RECORD BREAK.

Newman's Wonderful Effort Of 1,370 Against Smith.

All world's records for ivory balls were eclipsed when the champion, Tom Newman, completed a wonderful break of 1,370 against Willie Smith in their match of 16,000 up at Burroughes' Hall. This is the fifth time Newman has reached four figures, his other breaks being:—

1,024 against Lawrence at Burroughes' Hall in 1921.
1,274 against Falkner at Burroughes' Hall in 1922.
1,208 against Smith at Newcastle in 1924.
1,021 (championship record) against Reece at Burroughes' Hall in 1924.

Two other records were broken during the present game. The first occurred when, with a magnificent effort of 983, Smith registered the highest break of his career, the second came when, for the first time in his experience, Smith sat through a session without once going to the table. Newman skilfully manoeuvred the balls and made some magnificent shots to regain position. Tapping the balls about under the top cushion, Newman ran up a pretty sequence of 26 close cannons, and then proceeded to score freely by the "pot and cannon" methods at a lively rate. Passing the seventh, eighth, and ninth centuries, nothing untoward happened to prevent the march toward the coveted four figures, and a little drop cannon at the head of the table was followed by a loud burst of applause when he reached the 1,000. He never lost control over the balls until he played a little cannon to leave the object white over the left-hand pocket for a loser, but he struck this a little too full, and put it in the jaws of the pocket. The only alternative shot was a thin loser off the red in the middle pocket, and, in order to save the white, he attempted this. The shot, however, was too fine, and the balls kissed, throwing the cue ball out of its course. The final figure reached was the magnificent one of 1,370. Although Smith was faced with a deficit of 780 when the final stages commenced, he did not slacken. In the 14th session he made a stupendous effort to overtake the champion, scoring 1,194 for an average of 149 against the champion's 565. Included in Smith's total was a wonderful break of 801, obtained by all-round methods. In the 18th session Smith overtook his opponent, and after the lead had changed hands several times, the champion finished 185 in front. Newman's best runs were 428, 179 and 270 unfinished; while Smith was responsible for 438, 366, and 268. Latest scores: Newman, 12,001; Smith, 11,816.

Words That Cost Thousands

LEGAL FIGHTS TO DECIDE THEIR MEANINGS.

What is "punctually"? Everybody may think he knows what it is—in the terms of the dictionary definition, "with scrupulous exactness as to time." But not long ago it was contended that payment on August 8th of interest falling due on August 1st was paying it "punctually" according to agreement, and a number of judges were actually divided in opinion of the point, which was ultimately carried to the House of Lords.

Similar problems frequently crop up in the courts, with the result that litigants spend large sums to get legal definitions of words.

What is "furniture"? Does it include linoleum? This was a point raised under the present Rent Restriction Act. A similar puzzle was: Is a bedstead "bedding"? Is an hotel a "shop"? proved to be equally difficult of solution. After much discussion, it was held that an hotel is a shop for the purposes of the Shop Hours Act.

The meaning of "place" also caused considerable wrangling of judicial brows. It is provided by the Gaming Act that betting is illegal in "any house, office, room, or place." What, then, is a "place"? According to one judge, a tree in Hyde Park cannot be called such, and another held that a man standing on a box under an umbrella was not in a "place."

Great, too, was the squabbling over "tramcar." Is it a "carriage" or "coach"? The House of Lords decided finally that it is a coach. Many other words of the same class have been dragged from court to court, as, for instance: Are horses "cattle"? and, is a bicycle a "carriage" for the purposes of toll?

Still more troublesome has been the word "necessaries" as used to denote what parents and guardians are legally bound to provide for a person under age, and we are still without a working definition. This is because something which may be "necessary" for one person may be a luxury for another, much depending on the station of the particular person. Every case must be considered separately. It was held in one that a typewriter purchased by an infant who wished to learn type-writing with a view to earning his living was a "necessary."

In connection with employers' compensation there has been the same difficulty over "negligence" and "accident"; but the definition of each of these words has probably cost at least fifty times as much as that of "necessaries." Very often times there has been a trade union on one side and an insurance company on the other, and between them they have spent thousands of pounds.

What is an Accident?

When a domestic servant—and precisely what a "domestic servant" is has cost thousands of pounds to determine—on getting out of bed in the morning, was hit in the eye by a piece of mortar, which fell from the ceiling, it was held that this was an accident arising out of and in the course of employment. On the other hand, the court decided that a maid who injured her eye when warding off a cockchafer, which threatened to sting her while she was sewing for her mistress, was not entitled to compensation, because this was not an "accident" within the meaning of the Act.

Insurance matters provide much work for the courts. There was a big fight, for instance, over the difference between "on" and "from," in regard to an insurance to take effect from a given date. If "from" is used, does the insurance begin on that date or on the following day?

A High Court judge declared not long ago that the legal definition of one English word in everyday use has cost at least £5,000 for every letter it contains.

Trips With a Coffin

A woman accompanied by a coffin recently journeyed to the United States. She embarked at the London Docks and refused to travel by any line that would not take her coffin. She had been a widow for twenty years, and her loyalty to her husband's memory is such that she cannot bear the thought that she might be buried in separate graves. She therefore never books a passage without the proviso that she shall not be buried at sea.

She has to travel across the Atlantic a number of times a year for business reasons, but always goes by one particular line, which has agreed to her requests. The coffin, of mahogany, is labelled "Wanted on Voyage." It is placed in her cabin, and on her arrival is put in store until her return trip.

This woman's precautions are not so unusual as one would imagine. Sarah Bernhardt was for years accompanied by her coffin on foreign tours.

There is a depository attached to one of the largest shops in London which houses more than a score of coffins—handsome productions in ivory and wrought iron and all kinds of rare timber. They are lying in wait for their occupants, mostly eccentric women.

Now the man begins to grow.

Self-reliant, clear of eye,
Choosing now 'twixt right and wrong.
Judging all his plannings by Every standard of the throng.
Now he reasons—and 'tis strange
To us both who love him so,
Thus to see our baby change.
As a man begins to grow.

Such a little lad he seemed
Only just the other day.
Then the man of which we dreamed
Of we said was far away—
But we catch it in his talk.
Read it in those eyes aglow.
And we see it in his walk.
Now the man begins to grow.

100 Blooms on One Plant

75,000 CHRYSANTHEMUMS AT NATIONAL SHOW.

No one who has toiled in chrysanthemum culture this cloudy year expected such a feast of colour as was seen in the Royal Horticultural Hall, Vincent-square, S.W., on the opening day of the National Chrysanthemum Show. It was estimated that there were at least 75,000 blooms in the hall. Nearly 400 blooms are borne by 4 hot plants exhibited by Mrs. Douglas Joy, of Bentley, Hants, and grown from cuttings taken last December. One carries more than 100 blooms, each of 5 in. to 6 in. diameter.

The exhibits of the specialist growers are wonderfully fine. Mr. H. J. Jones, of Lewisham, who has gained a gold medal and the Clay Cup for the best exhibit, has a bank of blooms more than 50 feet in length.

Notable Novelties.
First-class certificates have been awarded to many novelties. One is an enormous, perfectly shaped Japanese variety raised by Mr. Pickett, the leading Australian grower (who is visiting England) and shown by Keith Luxford, of Harlow, Essex. It has a silvery mauve, and its name, Thomas W. Pickett, Mr. Luxford has won honours also with a new primrose Japanese named J. Symonds.

Another notable novelty is Annette, a large single about 3 inches in diameter, its colour deep gold, shaded with reddish bronze, Craig, Harrison, and Craig, of Hounslow, are the raisers. Singles are the fashionable chrysanthemums to-day.

Sunburst, a decorative Japanese variety, is of fawn suffused with salmon-pink—a very choice bloom for which H. Shoemith of Guildford, has won the certificate.—Daily Mail.

Mystery of the Moon

By chemical analysis of lavas of the Hawaiian volcanoes, Dr. Henry S. Washington, the famous expert on the chemistry of the earth's crust, hopes to find some clue to the mystery that lies beneath the Pacific Ocean. For example, there is the theory that the moon was once part of the earth, and was pulled out of it millions of years ago, leaving the hole that became the bed of the Pacific.

Another theory is that the continents really float on a semi-liquid layer, and that they slowly drift about, so that the earth's appearance a million years from now will be vastly different from the earth as we know it to-day. The lava, it is believed, holds the clue to these mysteries.

Part of Colony for Sale

AMAZING ACTION BY OUR SOCIALISTS.

By order of the late Socialist Government, Germans are to be given an opportunity of buying back by auction a large part of the Cameroons—one of their old African colonies conquered at the cost of many British lives during the war. This amazing sale took place at Winchester House, Old Broad Street, E.C.4, on Nov. 24 and 25, when Messrs. Hampton & Sons were in setting forth the conditions of the sale, are, of course, only carrying out the orders of the late Government—will offer altogether over 50,000 acres of valuable plantations in the Cameroons, without reserve.

It is expressly stated in the catalogue that by direction of the Custodian of Enemy Properties for the British Government there will be no restrictions as to the nationality of purchasers.

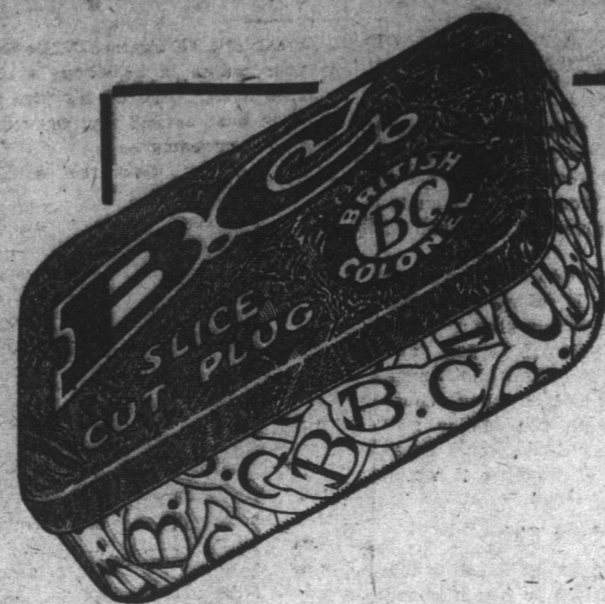

The property will be offered in 56 lots, the largest being 25,000 acres in extent. They are mostly all in cultivation, having been administered since 1922 by an official of the Nigerian Government and are suitable for the growing of rubber, coffee, oil palms, cocoa, tobacco, bananas, coconuts, and sugar. In addition there are valuable timber, such as Mahogany and ebony, to be obtained. Before the war these plantations were in German occupation, this being one of Germany's richest colonies. Combined military and naval operations were begun against the colony in September 1914, and the conquest was completed at the expense of much British life and money in February, 1916.

In 1920 Great Britain was made the mandatory Power over the territory concerned, and in 1922 the estates were offered for sale with a reserve, and with the exclusion of ex-enemy buyers. Money was scarce then and few sales were offered. Now they are again offered and Germans are invited to buy.

When Mr. Thomas, the late Socialist Colonial Secretary, was asked the reason for this, he said that it was because of the Government's desire to get as much money as possible for the properties, in the interests of British nationals. The money will go towards the payment to British subjects of debts owed to them by Germans.

Another reason for the unrestricted sale suggested at the Colonial Office was that by the terms of the mandate given to Great Britain by the League of Nations we were not allowed to give British subjects special advantages, but the answer to this is that there has been no change in the conditions since 1922, when ex-enemy subjects were precluded from bidding.

So Germans are to be allowed again to acquire vast estates in a British colony, with all the future possibilities of secretly importing arms and

"Eczema All Over Arms Suffered for 12 Years"

Mrs. Murray Hough, Warton, Ont., writes:
"I had eczema for twelve years. Every once in a while it would break out and spread all over my arms. I tried all kinds of treatments to relieve it, but without success. One Spring it broke but and nothing gave me relief, even the salve I got from the doctor did no good. At last I tried Dr. Chase's Ointment and it healed the eczema in a short time. That is over a year ago, and I have had no return of the trouble."

Children and Chilblains

That children who come from well-warmed nurseries should suffer from chilblains might be thought an impossibility. Yet we all of us know some poor little martyrs to whom winter means a time of suffering.
The child who suffers from chilblains is normally one who is found to have abnormally cold feet. Such a child should be put into woollen socks quite early in the winter, before the cold weather sets in.

Dry Carefully.

If he gets his feet wet, or even damp, before putting on dry stockings bathe his feet in warm water and dry very carefully. Rubbing the feet gently with camphorated oil is good.

Skipping, especially in the nursery before breakfast, is a splendid preventive of chilblains for normal, healthy children. And although chilblains are a sign of poor circulation, children who are normally healthy otherwise often suffer from them.

With the greatest care, however, mothers are not always able to prevent their children from getting chilblains, so the next step is the local treatment of chilblains. I have found that the treatment that answers with some children does not answer with others, so I will give various remedies that have been found to allay the painful irritation of unbroken chilblains. It must be understood that none of these applications is to be used when the chilblains are broken or even cracked.

Paint the skin with tincture of iodine or with collodion.

Mix vaseline and turpentine and apply to the chilblains.

Rub the chilblains gently (very gently) with methylated spirit.

If, in spite of all your care, the chilblains break, the very best plan when chilblains on the foot are broken is to keep the child in bed, applying dressings of boracic lint in the same way as for any ulcerated wound.

An Even Temperature.

Two or three days in bed will usually be sufficient to effect a cure. The child is not ill, and so can amuse himself with his toys and other occupations, but it is necessary to keep the foot up and in an even temperature.

If the broken chilblains are on the fingers they must be bound up with a dressing of boracic lint or zinc ointment.

Needless to say the child's diet will require attention. He probably suffers from a deficiency of fat, and nowadays that is remedied by giving him cream.

Field St. Mother Finds Vicks Most Useful in Home

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing Ointment Proves Splendid for all Inflammations. Ordinary Colds Usually go Overnight.

To-day hundreds of local people treat head or chest colds, tonsillitis, bronchitis, catarrh or asthma by the vapor method. They use Vicks Vapor-Rub.

When rubbed over throat and chest Vicks acts like a liniment or poultice. At the same time its ingredients, released as vapors by the body heat, are inhaled directly into the affected air passages. It is a severe cold that can withstand this double action of Vicks. Mrs. Charles Myers of 23 Field St. after trying the sample of Vicks, purchased several jars and says: "I find Vicks one of the most useful household remedies for colds, scalds, burns, etc., and do freely recommend it to every one. I would not be without Vicks in the home."

If applied in time, Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start.

Also intended primarily for inflammations of the air passages, Vicks is equally effective for inflammations of the skin, such as burns, bruises, cuts, stings, etc.

Keeping a Husband's Love

DOBOOTHY'S DIX'S ADVISE TO YOUNG COUPLES.

To every young woman about to get married I would say: Don't try to monopolize your husband. Don't try to separate him from his old friends. Above all, don't give him too much of your society.

Of course, no bride will take my advice, for there is no other human being who is so certain that she has been bitten by Solomon's dog and knows all there is to tell about men, as is the young person upon whose marriage certificate the ink is still wet. Nevertheless if she would listen to these words of warning it would save her a lot of trouble.

Honeymoon Strife.

Every bride begins by believing that she can be all-in-all to her husband, and that he cannot possibly tire of holding her hand or desire any other diversion than telling her over and over again how beautiful and wonderful she is. Therefore, when she begins to realize that, having got married, her husband takes marriage for granted and has ceased to be excited over it, and that he has resumed his interest in the grocery trade, and the stock market, and golf, she sheds bitter tears and imagines that he no longer loves her.

The honeymoon is notoriously a time of strife and bickering. The average married couple look back upon their first year of married life with horror and wonder how they managed to live through it. It was the season of torment because the bride was trying to monopolize her husband's every thought and interest, and he was fighting for his personal liberty.

Saved by the Baby.

Fortunately, for most couples, before the battle ends in the divorce court a baby comes along to distract the woman's attention from the man. But before she has cut her wisdom teeth on her wedding ring and discovered that no human being can be all-in-all to any other human being, the hearth is strewn with shattered illusions.

It is this spirit of monopolizing that makes a woman jealous of her husband's mother. She knows well enough that the affection a man has for his mother is entirely different from the love he gives his wife, but she cannot endure to share him.

It is what makes a woman co-soulder her husband's old friends out of the house and supplant them with her own friends, because she is determined to blot out the life in which she has no part. It is what makes her hate even the business or profession in which her husband is absorbed.

SLIPPING THE KNOT.

You meet women who boast that they have been married for years and have never left their husbands for a single day. And you cease to wonder that the women who make the mistake of trying to tie their husbands to their apron strings find that these so often slip the knot. For the thing that is chiefly the matter with matrimony is that there is too much of it.

Husbands and wives get overdone of each other's society, and get so tired of each other that they lose their relish for each other and rush to other people for a change. If people were only married six months a year instead of twelve they would remain lovers until their golden wedding day.

The terrible thing about domestic life is its lack of privacy. There are homes in which no one has an individual room; no one a drawer into which others do not pry; no one can think a thought or have an opinion that others do not discuss. If women would remember that men are far more reticent about discussing their emotions than women, and if they would begin their married lives by giving their husbands privacy of thought and personal freedom, they would save themselves many tears and hold their men to the end.

Let this simple food bring back your health

"I KNEW my headaches and unwholesome complexion were caused by constipation. To take frequent cathartics was my regular program and even by doing this I was tired and doped. 'I like what yeast does for me' said one of my customers and asked if I had ever tried it. I acted on this suggestion and began to drink yeast in milk regularly. Soon people began to comment on how well I was looking—my husband said I grew younger—the mirror told me my complexion and eyes were clear and bright. Cathartics are now a thing of the past."
(A letter from Mrs. Mabelle Cononikes of Marathon, N. Y.)

THESE remarkable reports are typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast. There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low so that skin, stomach, and the general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results. Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—invigorating the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active. Health is yours once more.

"FIVE years ago I had a serious breakdown due to strenuous war work, irregular food, loss of sleep, etc. I was a physical and nervous wreck. When I saw Fleischmann's Yeast advertised for loss of strength and energy and decided to try them. I started with four a day taken regularly with my meals. I liked the taste. In a short time my headaches disappeared. I slept better, my bowels functioned regularly, my flesh took on a healthy appearance. In a few months I felt like a new woman."
(A letter from Mrs. Edith Benzler of Detroit)

"I WATCHED her crumble the crisp cake into the milk. We drifted into conversation. She sang of the magic of Fleischmann's Yeast. Many months before, her doctor had recommended it and she confessed she owed the clearness of her complexion to its use. 'I was persuaded to try the yeast in milk, and prepared to swallow an obnoxious dose. I was pleasantly surprised. It proved a delightfully palatable drink. 'Fleischmann's Yeast waged a successful battle against the canker sores, dried up the existing ones and cured the stomach condition which was causing them. I faced my winter's work with enthusiasm, and came through triumphant.'
(Extract from a letter of Miss Grace S. Baumann of Philadelphia)

"Two years ago I was a sufferer from an affliction of every kind of boil imaginable. At one time I had nine. Imagine playing football with a great boil on the back of your hand, or attending a dance with one right beside your nose. 'I gave up candy and pastry—but the boils continued. Then a friend—you bet he was a friend—suggested Fleischmann's Yeast. I tried it dubiously, but it did the trick! The boils ceased. Since that time I have never gone without my occasional cake of Fleischmann's Yeast.'
(A letter from Charles F. Weiler of Flamington, N. J.)

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink)

—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation. Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain. Fleischmann's Yeast comes only in the tinfoil package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it today! You can order several cakes at a time, for yeast will keep fresh in a cool, dry place for two or three days. Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Care of Goldfish

"I like goldfish—they are so decorative. But I can never get them to live more than a day or two." How often do we hear this or something very like it. The trouble is that so few people know how to treat those fascinating little creatures properly. They feed them on crumbled bread, and a crumb in a goldfish's throat is just as dangerous as a fishbone in a child's. Or, if they give ants' eggs, they are far too generous, and provide a six months' supply daily. The most important thing is to give fresh water daily, and to avoid touching the fish when you clean out their home. Lift them in a teastrainer or a cracked cup kept specially for this purpose. The black spots you sometimes see in goldfish are really signs of a disease which is caused by handling. As for food, the proper ration is three ants' eggs a day. Don't go beyond this. Have you bowl as large as possible, and put it where the sun does not reach it. That last instruction should present no difficulty in troubled that way to any great extent in this country, where we are not tent!

Secrets of the Savings Banks

A DEPOSITOR WHO FORGOT HER HUSBAND'S NAME.

Many curious glimpses of human fallibility are obtained behind the scenes of the Post Office Savings Bank.

A common practice is that of making deposits in false names for the purpose of hiding transactions from husband or wife. Not long ago a man who died suddenly was found to have three accounts in false names—one in the Post Office Savings Bank and two in ordinary banks.

Some people are so cautious that if they live in a village they will not make deposits at their local post office. They do all their banking business in a neighbouring town, and have acknowledgments, and so on, sent to an accommodation address.

Such secrecy often causes accounts to lie dormant for long periods. One paid into the Post Office Savings Bank from the trustee bank at Lewis was not claimed until sixty years after the depositor's death, when it amounted to £297.13s. 8d.

When Payment is Delayed.

Other causes of delay in the paying out of funds are strange errors on the part of depositors. A woman deposited £24, giving her husband's name as John Burns. It was really Stephen Burns. Her previous husband's name was John Scully.

There are, too, many disputes as to amounts deposited. A woman claimed to have paid in £14 7s. on February 11th, 1920, although according to her deposit book in which the amount was entered in both words and figures, her deposit on that date was £4 7s. In the following year she discovered the alleged error, and when the attention of the Post Office assistant was drawn to it, she, thinking that the transaction had taken place in February, 1921, and that there was a surplus of £10 in her cash account, altered the amount to £14 7s.

Subsequently she discovered that there had been no such excess, and accordingly struck out the entry. So in the end the claim was disallowed.

In another dispute over £10 an assistant had received a deposit from a woman in Treasury notes which she placed under a pad. After the depositor had left the girl at the counter drew out the notes, counted them again, and made them £33 as before. She then remembered that she had entered in the deposit book £43, whereupon she at once told the postmaster of the error.

Both the woman and her husband affirmed that the amount deposited was £43, the man stating that he took £53 in £1 notes out of a box, counted out forty-three of them, handed them to his wife, who also counted them, and then tied them up in readiness for conveyance to the post-office. As there was some evidence that the man possessed that amount of money at the time stated, the amount deposited was officially taken as £43.

Many disputes have arisen over discrepancies between words and figures in deposit books. Once a deposit was recorded in words as £12 and in figures as 12s., and, while the depositor swore by the words, the clerk stuck out for the accuracy of the figures.

A man obtained possession of a draft for £25 13s. 6d. prize money, and opened an account with it in the Post Office Savings Bank. His motive in doing this was probably to avert suspicion; but subsequently he found he had made a false move. He disappeared, leaving the deposit book with his handmaid, and ultimately the money was recovered by the Admiralty, which had meanwhile made good the loss of the real payee.

Platinum Lost From Customs

Government Scientists Searched. Detectives are investigating the disappearance from the Customs House, Monument Street, B.C., of three valuable platinum crucibles used for testing exciseable liquor.

The crucibles were missed recently. About 50 Civil Servants who are employed in the laboratory agreed to be searched, which was done by detectives. Many of those who work in the laboratory hold eminent degrees in science.

Platinum is much more valuable than gold. In the form in which it is ordinarily used by jewelers, it is priced at £28 10s. per ounce. Fine gold fetches only £4 13s. per ounce.

Detectives spent some time at the Custom House recently but so far no trace of the crucibles has been found.
