The City Engineer's report recommended that permission be granted to five persons to erect projecting signs over their shops. Ald Lamb thought it would not be long before Toronto got back to old times in this matter of projecting signs. But permission was granted.

Some time ago it was decided to extend the Parliament-street sewer out into the bay a distance of 224 feet. This had met with decided opposition from Gooderham & Worts, who have an intake pipe near by, which provides water for their ice manufactory. The matter was referred to the City Solicitor.

The recommendation of the City Engineer that Roxborough-avenue be cedar-block paved on two thicknesses of tarred boards was passed by the board. The cost will be $7700, of which $450 will be paid by the city.

Toronto has every reason to be proud of her fire brigade. In efficiency it will compare favorably with that of any other city on the American continent. Last year was the busiest in the history of the department. The brigade responded to 442 alarms, and by their promptitude succeeded in preventing very destructive results. The total loss for the twelve months was only $210,000. Carelessness was the cause of many fires. Children playing with matches was the assigned cause of poless than 25, the careless use of matches and the fondness of rats and mice for the same started 18 fires. Then there were 26 through bonfires and the burning of rubbish. Many others were clearly preventible, such as the careless use of candles, all the works at back doors, lighting fires with kerosene. The practice of clearing chimneys by "burning out" resulted more seriously than economically. Thanks to the efficiency of the brigade, property in sured for above $1,150,206 only sustained one-fifth of that loss.
