BALLOONS IN WAR TIMES.

During the Siege of Paris 66 Ascended from the City and Only Three Were Lost. (From the Chicago Record.)

The last big European war taught the French more about ballooning than they would otherwise have learned in a generation.

One hundred and sixty persons, including Gambetta, were carried safely over the Prussian lines, and 2,500,000 letters were sent.

When the applause had subsided at the close of the lecture John L. Carleton, in a brief speech which highly complimented the lecturer and paid a tribute to the subject, moved a vote of thanks.

THE MINISTRY.

When Mr. Foster spoke for himself and the six ministers who acted with him...

Even the way for the formation of a government whose premier would command the confidence of all his colleagues...

We shall see in a short time how far the ministry as now constituted meets these conditions.

The ministry cannot yet flatter itself that it satisfies the liberal conservative party. Its strongest elements are at the head...

The government is not now a weak one, nor does it fail to represent the liberal conservative party.

MANITOBA HEARD FROM.

The Greenway government appealed to the electors on one question, and has been successful.

Who demanded that the federal government dissolve the act which abolished the schools?

Who opposed the reference of the matter to the courts?

The expert who decided that letters written by Dr. Montague were in the same penmanship as the famous Oron letter...

Judging from Sir Richard's observations, it must have been against his Nova-Scotia colleagues that Mr. Mackenzie had to mount guard over the treasury.

Now that Mr. Greenway is sustained, the question is, what is to be done...

ABOUT IT AT OTTAWA.

So far as can be seen, there is no change in the attitude of the government respecting the Manitoba school question.

It is more doubtful whether it will become law. The members of the house of commons supporting the government will probably not deem this a question on which they are bound to stand together.

JAMESON'S RAID.

For Thirty-six Hours His Starving and Exhausted Englishmen Kept a Body Five Times as Numerous as Bay, and Only Gave in When Their Ammunition Was Expended.

(London, Eng., Telegraph.) Slowly, and with irritating delays, the story of the recent fighting in the Transvaal is becoming known in this country.

Among the arrivals in the city this week were "Mysterious" Billy Smith, Billy Hennessy and Eddie Connolly of St. John.

Connolly is in the best of condition and did not receive a scratch in his bout with Jimmy Dime at Cleveland last Friday, which ended disastrously for the latter.

Billy Smith, in speaking of the contest with Dime, said that the latter fought hard in the second round, but the St. John boy was able to smother him very effectively.

The contest lasted the scheduled number of rounds, Connolly would have won, as he was cool and steady, and never lost opportunity to get at his opponent.

The contest was a real and interesting tragedy, starting alike in its inception, its development and its conclusion.

LIVELY IN PARLIAMENT.

Dr. Weldon and Mr. Kenny Handle Cartwright Without Gloves.

Sir Herbert Tupper Also Takes a Hand in the Discussion on Sir Richard.

Ottawa, Jan. 21.—This has been a stormy day in the house. At the outset everything portended quiet, but it is impossible to tell when the storm has sprung up, and this has certainly been a lively day in the house. Sir Richard Cartwright's remarks yesterday that Nova Scotia was the dry nurse and nurse of booties, a remark for which the Liberals are cursing Sir Richard under their breath, was the cause of all the rumpus.

Dr. Weldon delivered an eloquent address in defense of the character of the public men of Nova Scotia, and it was little wonder that Mr. Kenny, who thought there is no man more respected in the house, should have deeply resented, and in strong language attacked, the remarks of the hon. member for the public men of his native province by Sir Richard Cartwright.

followed, dealing briefly at the outset with the trade question. It was necessary, he thought, to utter a few words on that subject. Sir Richard Cartwright used an expression which caused a speakable pain to Mr. Borden, when he referred to the character of Nova Scotia's public men. He called them a rascally pack of booties. Nova Scotia had a name, he said, for enormous vanity. That little peninsula wall in from the sea with its iron-bound rocks all along the coast was proud of one thing. It was singularly proud of its public men. It had a suspicion which it never whispers, and he thought he was the first Nova Scotian who ever in this house whispered it in the capital of the Dominion; that no province in the Dominion has carried the name of its public men of such singular ability, genuine devotion to the public service, (Cheers). And when he heard Sir Richard's speech, he thought it was a pack of booties his memory brought back days of which he (Weldon) knew better than the member for South Bedford. He thought himself of the Nova Scotians who had died. He would not speak of the living. Was Herbert Huntington of Yarmouth a bootie? He had a name of honor in Nova Scotia. Was James H. Williams a bootie? Or were his distinguished sons booties? Did any foe in the Dominion and hottest fight in Nova Scotia ever have a name of honor like Williams? Young that he was a bootie? Take James W. Johnston, a man with perhaps as strong intellect as any name, and a man of unimpeachable character, his life devoted to the dying beloved by the people of Nova Scotia, was he a bootie? (Cheers). Was any man ever foolish enough to charge that that man who was (Weldon) in the house of Commons, was a bootie? (Cheers). Sir, I come to the last and the greatest of them all, Joseph Howe, for whom we are now striving to build a monument in Halifax. (Cheers). Old Joe Howe, as the people affectionately call him, whom they loved with an affection yet strong, although he is now twenty-two years dead, who they loved with an affection that boys love their fathers. Was Joseph Howe a bootie? (Cheers).

No man in the province, taking him all in all, had the abilities he had; nay, I will go further in saying, and I will risk my reputation for historic perspective by saying that no man born in British North America, and no man born abroad who has served the Queen in the North American continent, has all his gifts of mind, his nobleness of character, his brilliancy of imagination, with his remarkable gifts of eloquence (which I have heard speak of), and whose speeches I have read, are equal to Joseph Howe. (Cheers).

Whoever dreamed of calling Joseph Howe a bootie? Money he never cared for. These are the names, I am speaking of the dead. These are the names which the people of Nova Scotia have put in the niches in our temple of fame. (Cheers). He agreed with Sir Richard Cartwright that not all servile, blameless public men which Nova Scotia had given to Canada. He should also have remembered the Archbalds, the old master of the rolls, and him who died only a few years ago. He need not speak of one who recently passed from our midst. Were the Archbalds and John Thompson booties? Sir Richard Cartwright knew Sir John Thompson, and he need not say now how unfortunate was his remark. Sir Richard Cartwright did not know how deeply he wounded the hearts of many men in this house. He (Weldon) was not a Nova Scotian. He was a New Brunswicker, but the last half of his life he had lived in Nova Scotia, and he could tell Cartwright they were an extremely sensitive people there. We are proud of our public men. No other province in Canada is so proud of her public men as we are, and we are specially proud of their good character. The remarks of the hon. Sir Richard Cartwright were therefore, very unfortunate.

Taking up their positions Mr. Weldon said that last night Mr. Dickey had referred to a debate of four or five years ago, when the idea was advanced that the empire should strive to develop and protect trade relations with our own colonies, and make herself independent of food supplies from foreign powers, who might be hostile powers. We thought then that we were the one danger that in times of war threatened that magnificent imperial power centered in the British Isles was that our people were not quite sure of their food supply.

We saw that they were buying more than two-thirds of their wheat supply from abroad and not raising quite one-third at home. Once again this idea was coming to the front, and he hoped that those remarks cabled yesterday from London were an expression of a true movement that was on foot and that the imperial authorities had sanctioned their food supply. In this connection he ought to refer to the efforts of Mr. McNeill, who in season and out of season had advocated it with a fidelity of purpose and with a devotion to imperial interests which he thought that the hon. member with that strength of imperial feeling that all knew. (Cheers).

It was with great pleasure that he saw that sound imperial idea, which was the basis of the present movement for the development of Canada, taking this step in advance. (Cheers). The growth of men uttered the other day by the German Kaiser, and the attitude of our country towards the world in face of all the possible complications that might follow, accentuated the danger of the mother country depending upon foreign nations for her food supply. (Cheers). He said hereafter English statesmen would see what must come from this fruitful English race that breeds so fast in the British Isles and overseas in the empire's own colonies, in Australia, in Canada and in South Africa. It was necessary, he thought, to utter a few words on that subject. Sir Richard Cartwright used an expression which caused a speakable pain to Mr. Borden, when he referred to the character of Nova Scotia's public men. He called them a rascally pack of booties. Nova Scotia had a name, he said, for enormous vanity. That little peninsula wall in from the sea with its iron-bound rocks all along the coast was proud of one thing. It was singularly proud of its public men. It had a suspicion which it never whispers, and he thought he was the first Nova Scotian who ever in this house whispered it in the capital of the Dominion; that no province in the Dominion has carried the name of its public men of such singular ability, genuine devotion to the public service, (Cheers).

And when he heard Sir Richard's speech, he thought it was a pack of booties his memory brought back days of which he (Weldon) knew better than the member for South Bedford. He thought himself of the Nova Scotians who had died. He would not speak of the living. Was Herbert Huntington of Yarmouth a bootie? He had a name of honor in Nova Scotia. Was James H. Williams a bootie? Or were his distinguished sons booties? Did any foe in the Dominion and hottest fight in Nova Scotia ever have a name of honor like Williams? Young that he was a bootie? Old Joe Howe, as the people affectionately call him, whom they loved with an affection yet strong, although he is now twenty-two years dead, who they loved with an affection that boys love their fathers. Was Joseph Howe a bootie? (Cheers).

Dr. Weldon concluded a magnificent speech by insisting on Canada's position in the world. He said that the relations with the United States. She should be careful not to wound the feelings of her neighbor, but yet at the same time to maintain her own rights. (Cheers). SIR CHARLES H. TUPPER, who was loudly cheered, said he thought he ought to put the feelings of Sir Richard Cartwright in the light of the purpose of making a few observations. Sir Richard had referred to a speech made by Mr. McNeil, but it was significant that he had never mentioned the apology which Mr. McNeil subsequently made in Parliament. Cartwright—He made none. (Cries of order).

Sir C. H. Tupper, continuing, said that the hon. member for the public men of his province, whom he eloquently referred to by the name of Dr. Weldon, died the personal and political friends of Sir Charles Tupper, although they had previously

THE WINTER PORT.

Sand Point With the Three Ocean Steamers Presents a Busy Scene.

St. John is Aided by Another Extra London Steamer.

Sand Point, Carleton, was even a busier scene Thursday than on the previous day in consequence of the arrival of the Furness steamer Baltimore City. Crows went over from this side of the harbor to have a look at the discharging and loading of the three steamers, the Baltimore City at the C. P. R. wharf, the Warwick at the face of the Connolly wharf, and the Lake Superior at the north side of the latter structure. As these boats are working day and night, somewhere in the neighborhood of 200 ship laborers must be working on them. This means a great thing for the city, as nearly all the freight that is being handled is either for or from the west.

The Lake Superior finished discharging the portion of her cargo for the west yesterday and it is either now in or on its way to Montreal. Some forty carloads were sent out altogether and the only stuff that remains to be shipped is a lot of chains. They will probably be forwarded today. The St. John portion of the Lake Superior's cargo will be on this side of the harbor today. In fact, most of it was brought over yesterday. This boat has still some sail in. There are a schooner and a scow alongside to take part of it away. She was taking in deals yesterday and will receive her grain probably tonight.

The Warwick has on board about 60,000 bushels of the 75,000 or 80,000 that she is to take away. She is also loading deals, having finished the reception of the Birch timber.

The Warwick will finish up with meats, butter, eggs, sack peas, flour, and oatmeal and 240 head of cattle, 160 sheep and 12 horses. The live stock will arrive from Montreal on Saturday.

The Baltimore City is taking on board deals and flour. The Baltimore City is a writer port for the receipt and shipment of goods from London to Liverpool, Glasgow and London. The latest fact that has been brought to the Sun's notice is that goods from London for the west via St. John are put through faster than via Boston.

The claims that the citizens of St. John have made for years regarding this port are steadily being proven by the fact of actual experiments. Another fact gleaned yesterday was that another extra steamer for London freight is expected to come here in a few weeks. The accumulation of freight for London has been one of the notable features of the season's trade. The Baltimore City will take over 100 carloads, and the Halifax City, due early next week, will take the bulk of the freight left by the other, but further engagements are being continually made, with the result that another extra steamer, even larger than the Baltimore City, will be bound for London during the course of a few weeks. There was a conference in the C. P. R. offices here yesterday between the officials of that road and the St. John and Halifax agents of the Furness line, with reference to the forwarding of London freight, and matters were very satisfactorily arranged. As before stated in the Sun, the Baltimore City, in addition to a very large freight from here, will call at Halifax for some thousands of barrels of apples.

The Sun is informed that the trade of the west is greatly pleased with the rapid despatch of goods from British ports via St. John. Merchants are highly pleased with the manner in which the C. P. R. rush the goods forward on arrival here.

The steamer Warwick will sail Sunday today, and will have to wait until Sunday next to be ready to go on her berth. Friday's Sun intimated that the steamer liner would probably come here shortly. The Oregon was formerly a combination line mail steamer, but with the arrival of the new line was purchased by Mr. Furmex, and she is a fine vessel. She has 46 feet beam and 25 feet depth. Her gross tonnage is 3,714 and net 2,778 tons. She is larger than the Lake Winona and smaller than the Lake Ontario. Mr. Furmex expended considerable money on her and she is a fine vessel. She has 46 feet beam and 25 feet depth. Her gross tonnage is 3,714 and net 2,778 tons. She is larger than the Lake Winona and smaller than the Lake Ontario.

The Oregon will bring any freight that is available at Liverpool, and is expected to sail from St. John on the return voyage about Feb. 5th.

DIPHTHERIA PREVALENT.

A little over a month ago Hugh A. Molins of Red Point, Lot 46, lost two children from diphtheria. The family doctor, Dr. Campbell, a near neighbor, was the first to take the disease. One of the members of this family, a fine young girl, who was a general favorite in the neighborhood, died, while her brother, who contracted the disease about the time her sister died, recovered. The school in the neighborhood was closed for a time, but was reopened about a month ago. Since the opening two of the scholars, children of John Bruce, have been stricken down by the disease. The consequence is that great uneasiness is felt among parents in that part of the country. Since writing the above example to the Sun, we regret to hear, have broken out in the neighborhood.—Charlottetown Examiner, 14th.

DIED AT ST. MARTIN'S.

Another land mark case in the person of Samuel Dally, an old and respected resident of St. Martin's, St. John Co., who passed peacefully away on the 2nd inst. after a short illness, at the advanced age of ninety-five years. He emigrated from county Cork, Ireland, in 1833 and has since resided in St. Martin's. He always took an active part in the advancement and welfare of the community, and especially in the education of the young, and when the present school law came in force, although he met with a great deal of opposition, he would not be discouraged. He was a consistent member of the Episcopal church, and always set a good example to his family. His funeral took place on Sunday, the 5th, at 2 o'clock p. m. from Holy Trinity church, St. Martin's. The Rev. A. A. Shipper preached an appropriate sermon from Second Corinthians, 5th Chapter and 1st Verse. His remains were interred in the church burying ground on the Mosher Hill.

little over a month ago Hugh A. Molins of Red Point, Lot 46, lost two children from diphtheria. The family doctor, Dr. Campbell, a near neighbor, was the first to take the disease. One of the members of this family, a fine young girl, who was a general favorite in the neighborhood, died, while her brother, who contracted the disease about the time her sister died, recovered. The school in the neighborhood was closed for a time, but was reopened about a month ago.

Since the opening two of the scholars, children of John Bruce, have been stricken down by the disease. The consequence is that great uneasiness is felt among parents in that part of the country. Since writing the above example to the Sun, we regret to hear, have broken out in the neighborhood.—Charlottetown Examiner, 14th.

Another land mark case in the person of Samuel Dally, an old and respected resident of St. Martin's, St. John Co., who passed peacefully away on the 2nd inst. after a short illness, at the advanced age of ninety-five years.

He emigrated from county Cork, Ireland, in 1833 and has since resided in St. Martin's. He always took an active part in the advancement and welfare of the community, and especially in the education of the young, and when the present school law came in force, although he met with a great deal of opposition, he would not be discouraged.

He was a consistent member of the Episcopal church, and always set a good example to his family. His funeral took place on Sunday, the 5th, at 2 o'clock p. m. from Holy Trinity church, St. Martin's.

The Rev. A. A. Shipper preached an appropriate sermon from Second Corinthians, 5th Chapter and 1st Verse. His remains were interred in the church burying ground on the Mosher Hill.
