THE EARN AND GIVE CAMPAIGN

What Will the Boys of New Brunswick Do?

In the great crisis of the hour boys are being called upon to perform man-size tasks. In the great campaign planned to raise millions for the Red Triangle of the Y.M.C.A., the boys of Canada have a part in what is known as the Earn and Give Campaign.

The movement originated in the United States, where last year the boys raised over a million dollars; and when the Canadian boys were informed of the fact, they asked that the same opportunity be given them. Their request has been granted, and the National Council of the Y.M.C.A. have planned a campaign for the Canadian boys.

As already stated, this parallels the campaign now being carried on among the men. The aim is to get 6,000 boys to raise $60,000. Of this amount, the first $50,000 will be devoted to work among the soldiers overseas and at home. The next $5,000, if raised will go towards Boys' work in China and India; while the last $5,000 if raised, will go towards Boys' work in Canada.

In New Brunswick the aim is to get 410 boys to earn and give $10 apiece—the payment of which will be spread over a period of say, ten months. Ten dollars will enable the Canadian Y.M.C.A. to give its assistance to one soldier continuously for at least a year.

Behind this appeal is the great call to National service and sacrifice; there is the call to stand behind the brothers and the fathers who have gone overseas. The fathers, mothers and sisters, by contributing to the Patriotic, I.O.D.E., and Red Cross work are performing well their part. What will the boys of Canada in general and of New Brunswick, and of this county in particular do? Our impression is that they will respond nobly to the call.

The dates for this campaign are May 2-9. Rev. A. D. Archibald of Pictou, N.S., has been appointed organizer for N.B. and Rex L. York has charge of the movement in Hartland. It is hoped that men will be secured for Florenceville and Centreville.

Save Food

In a time needing food economy many people are not getting all the nourishment they might from their food.

It is not how much you eat, but how much you assimilate, that does you good.

The addition of a small teaspoonful of Bovril to the diet as a peptogenic before meals leads to more thorough digestion and assimilation and thus saves food, for you need less.

until two days previous to his death. He was baptised by Rev. I. E. Vanwart at Gordonsville three years ago and was a member of the Baptist church. He was buried at Gordonsville—the family having lived there until last year. The funeral was conducted by Rev. I. E. Vanwart. The service at the home in Bristol was attended by Rev. E. B. McLatchey. Two brothers of the deceased survive one living in U. S. A. and one serving with the Canadians in France. Mr. and Mrs. Bell have the sympathy of a large circle of friends in Bristol and in Gordonsville in their bereavement.

This is Chester Carr, a Hartland boy serving his King and country in France. He is 20 years old and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carr. This boy enlisted with the 115th and was transferred to the 5th C.M.R.

Whooping Cough

Mr. Arthur Hainge, Ashton Farm, Perley, Sask., writes:—"Two years ago whooping cough was very bad in this part of the country, our eight months old boy caught it and had a very bad attack. A neighbor advised the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine and we gave it and nothing else with splendid results. When the older brother took the whooping cough we used this medicine promptly and prevented serious trouble as the cough passed off in two or three days."

HELP TO SAVE FOOD

Have a wheatless meal each day.

Our waste may make our soldiers want.

Use the left-overs.

Food will win the war. Whose food? German or Canadian?

To prepare dried vegetables for cooking: first soak them for several hours or over night, to take up the water lost in drying.

Substitute fish for beef or bacon.

Substitute vegetable fats for animal fats one meal.

Eczema on Baby's Ear

Mrs. F. Clarke, Belmont, Man., writes:—"My baby had eczema on her ear. The sore was very bad and nothing seemed to do her much good. Hearing of the remarkable cure Dr. Chase's Ointment was making, we sent for some, and after the third application the sore began to heal. I am glad to say that it is quite well now and we give the credit to Dr. Chase's Ointment. We cannot recommend this preparation too highly."

ALMOST A BAD BLUNDER.

The apartment house owner called on the apartment house dweller and asked him to come and see him. And the apartment house dweller obeyed the summons with fear and trembling. When he arrived in the office, the owner said:

"I am sorry, sir, but we shall have to ask you to vacate your apartment at once. I was not aware when I leased the flat to you that you had children."

"But we have no children," protested the renter in amazement. "What put that into your head?"

"Other residents of the building have complained that they were kept awake by a baby crying in your apartment."

"Nonsense! That was one of our dogs howling. He sounds just like a kid sometimes."

"In that case, I must apologize. A natural mistake—and you know one can't be too careful. Sorry to have disturbed you—good morning."

A SMALL OFFER

"A penny for your thoughts."

"Of course! Just like a woman, always looking for bargains!"

"If every day were pay day, how like a man I'd be."

"With every day a pay day, how glad my wife would be!"

"Mean comment."

"What do you think Mr. Blunt said to Miss Oldgirl when she remarked she would prefer to be a spring bride?"

"What did he say?"

"That he advised her to select April 1 for any date of the kind, for it would be such a good joke on the man."

"Forgotten."

"I thought you said he was strictly honest?"

"So he is."

"But I loaned him $10 a month ago and he hasn't returned it."

"That's all right. I still think he is honest. Perhaps I forgot to tell you that his chief trouble is that he has a poor memory."

"Concentration."

"What you Americans want to do is to wake up."

"Woke awake all right," said Broncho Bob; "leastwise we're awake here in Crimson Gulch, though we admit not being very noisy. You know sometimes the man that ain't sayin' a word is playin' poker the hardest!"

"Too expensive."

"You've heard of linen showers, tinware showers and other affairs of that nature?"

"Of course."

"Tell me, did you ever hear of anybody being the happy recipient of a coal shower?"

"No."

"Well, I had hardly met him, don't you know, when he called me a fool. What sort of a fellow is he?"

"Oh! he's a wise guy, all right."

"Call the Nut Wagon."

"Think that of writing jokes each day. You could be much out of matter gray; Oh, we feel foolish as can be, A-b-c-d-e-f-g-h-i-j-k-l-m-n-o-p-q-r-s-t-u-v-w-x-y-z!"

"Grounds for Skepticism."

"I have no patience with the person who says he never believes anything he reads in a newspaper."

"Neither have I, as a rule, but I'm disposed to make allowances for him if he's trying to keep up with the situation in Russia."

"The Connoisseur."

"Eins" bimed the man who wore his socks outside his shoes, as he threw his ray of light over the contents of the cabinet. "Rather a choice array. An enthusiastic collector of antique silver. I take it."

"And he did."

Miss Doane's Mealer

By J. L. Harbour

Mrs. Semira Doane was out in her front yard counting her Shirley poppies and admiring their almost infinite variety.

"No two of them seem to be exactly the same tint, and I never had such a lot of them out at one time before," said Miss Semira. She loved flowers and nearly every foot of her small front yard was laid out in beds and mounds. There was not a weed to be seen, and her plants looked thrifty and bore evidence of care. The little white house back of the flower garden had plants in the two front windows, and climbing vines completely covered the small, green lattice-work porch over the front door. All of the flowers and plants were of the old-fashioned varieties.

Miss Semira did not care for floral "novelties." She liked her four-o'clocks and ragged robins and lady-in-the-green and bleeding hearts better than any "others" she had ever seen.

Miss Semira was so small and fragile looking, with such delicately tinted pink cheeks, and such fluffy yellow hair that she looked quite like a flower herself as she moved about in her little garden in a blue lawn dress with little white flowers in it, and her lace-trimmed snowy white apron in which there was neither spot nor wrinkle. She was stooping over picking a dead leaf, or two from one of her geraniums when a shrill, rasping voice startled her by saying:

"How nice your flowers do look, Miss Semira; are they sweet they smell. I can smell them clean over to my house when it's still or when the wind is blowing in that direction. You all have such good luck with 'em. Flowers grow better for some folks than for others."

Miss Semira looked up and saw a tall, gaunt woman in a chocolate-colored calico dress and green and white checked gingham apron standing at her gate. A red and white tennis cap perched on one side of her iron-gray head gave the woman a grotesque look.

"O Mrs. Sampson, is it you?" said Miss Semira. "Come in, won't you?"

"No, it ain't with while little time as I've got to stay. Then I've left some ginger bread in the oven. I want to know if you wouldn't be willing to take a mealer."

"A mealer, Mrs. Sampson?"

"Yes. You see I've got a chance to let my big front room upstairs if I can find a place for the person that wants it to take their meals. I can't undertake to give anyone their meals with my rheumatic petard me the way it does, as I'm Sampson havin' it when I don't. Then I ain't no cook, anyhow. But I do want to let that big front room, an' this person will take it if I can find a mealer place near by, an' here you are right across the road an' livin' all alone, an' you as much of a born cook as you are a born flower."

"Or, an' I've heard you say, that you sometimes got dreadful tired o' takin' your meals all by yourself."

"Who is it wants your room?"

"Well, it's a gentleman—but there, you needn't look so scared. Miss Semira, for it ain't a young gentleman, nor a middle-aged gentleman, but a real nice, fatherly-looking old gentleman that there'd never be a mite o' talk 'bout givin' his meals to. He must be old enough to be your father, an' I don't know when I've seen a nicer appearin' man. I'd a sight rather have him around than nine out o' ten tussly, fault-finderin' wimmen. Don't you say no until you think it all over."

Miss Semira thought it all over with the result that two days later Mr. Jared Lyster found himself seated at Miss Doane's daintily set table. Miss Semira had often been heard to say:

"I don't mind any part of living alone so much as I mind eatin' my meals all by myself. If I just had someone that was interesting and pleasant to talk to at meal-time I wouldn't mind the rest. I would take a mealer if I got a good chance."

Mrs. Sampson had gone a trifle beyond the truth when she had said that Jared Lyster was a "real fatherly looking old gentleman." Miss Semira's mental comment when she saw him was:

"Why, I don't believe that he is a day over fifty-five."

Miss Semira's own years numbered forty-five. She had expected her mealer to be a man of at least sixty-five and possibly seventy years of age, but she did not voice her surprise to Mrs. Sampson. She accepted the situation in a manner that manifested her good sense, and she said to herself:

"There's nothing for people to talk about, if he isn't as old as I thought he was. I have lived in this town too long for anyone to gossip about me. He certainly is a very well-favored, gentlemanly person, and there's nothing in me givin' him his meals that should set any one's tongue to waggin'."

Jared Lyster was a childless widower who had purchased a small store in the town. He was a quiet, gentle, man of domestic taste who, it must be confessed, had no intention of going through life homeless. Like most men he had a fondness for good meals well served and he liked to live in an atmosphere of cleanliness and order. He found this atmosphere in Semira Doane's pretty and well-kept little home, and the meals she served were to his entire satisfaction.

Miss Semira, on the other hand, found the society of Jared Lyster to be more agreeable than she would have dared confess. She would not acknowledge even to herself how much she valued his presence when he had been her "mealer" for three months. But she found herself studying his tastes and cooking the dishes she knew he liked. She found herself also putting a red ribbon bow in her hair nearly every day after he had casually remarked that red was his favorite color and that he liked to see the little bow of red in her hair. She found herself waiting for his coming and he did not know that she often stood behind the lattice work on her little porch watching him out of sight. Nor did she know what his thoughts were as he walked away. He did not know how tumultuously her heart throbbed one evening at the tea table when he said as he slowly and carefully folded his napkin back into its original creases:

"Well, Miss Semira, I think that I must tell you that I have decided to make a change."

"In your business?" she asked with her eyes fixed on her plate.

"Well, yes; the change I have in mind will give me a partner in my business. But what I was going to speak to you about was a change in regard to my meals. It isn't altogether convenient having my room in one place and taking my meals in another. Moreover, I do not quite like being a mealer."

"Of course, if you wish to make a change you are at liberty to do so. I could not promise you any better meals than I have been giving you even if you stayed with me."

"I wouldn't want any better meals, any place."

"O, thank you."

"The meals are all right, but I never before was what they call in this town a 'mealer' and I don't like it. I would enjoy my meals a good deal more if they were served by—well, by my wife. There! Semira, don't look so frightened! It is what I have been wanting to say for a long time, almost from the first meal I ate with you! Let me stop being a 'mealer' and let me be your husband instead."

He had reached across the little table and taken her by both hands and was looking into her face with shining eyes. Her eyes met his in a moment and she must have seen something of hope and encouragement for him in them, for he was by her side in a moment with his arm around her waist and his cheek to hers.

The next day Miss Doane received a call from Mrs. Sampson, who said:

"Well, Semira, it's turned out just the way Sampson an' me have been sayin' for two months that it would turn out. I'm glad of it even if I have lost a roomer. Anyhow, you gained a mealer for life. I wish you joy, I really do."

IRON HADES IN SOUTH WALES

Molten Metal Rolling Down Side of Inhabitable Wall Turns Heavens Into Great Blaze.

The first night spent by a visitor in South Wales, in the center of the great iron country, is marked by a wonderful impression, says the London Daily Mail.

In the daytime the iron works seem only an ugly cluster of tall chimneys and uneven roofs seen through gray smoke. More prominent are the budding cottages of the workmen, at whose doors stand careworn women with anxious eyes. And the dim mountains, sometimes half hidden by sweeping rainstorms and sometimes a clear greenish color, every lonely tree on their bare sides silhouetted in a darker hue, force themselves upon the eye with the tragedy of their impotence against the deafening hand of man.

When one stands right beneath the tips they stand out against the sky like monstrous caricatures of Swiss peaks. There is something about this place desolate and infinitely depressing.

But at night when all is dark the sky is suddenly lit with a red glare. From the window the stranger sees a ruddy light touching the billowing clouds and glimmering away to blackness between them. He sees roofs and chimneys standing out in startling solidity against the flaming background; the furnaces are opened, and it is as though the lid of hell were lifted. Then, on top of one of the tips, but appearing as though isolated in the sky, comes a stream of brilliant gold rolling down the side of the invisible wall in molten fire.

Hospital for War Boots.

The war girl is again setting new records in a factory near the east end of London. Here, however, it is not shells, but boots which she is turning out. It is more like a surgery for boots than a factory because, within 40 minutes, a pair of boots from Flanders thick with mud and hardly recognizable are completely restored to strength and soundness. The boots are scrubbed in warm water, dressed with castor oil, the heel and tap is stripped off, then the outer skin of the upper part is taken off with a machine invented during the war. The sole and heel are renewed, the whole blocked into shape and finally restained, polished and made ready for use again in the army; all in 40 minutes. About 200 girls are working in this boot hospital.

Watch for the Sign of Paint Purity

HARDWARE

ECONOMY applied with a Paint Brush

The great national duty to-day is to "conserve." It's a duty you owe yourself as well as your country. A duty just as applicable to a house or building, as it is to the things you eat and wear. Buildings in fact show so many "waste" in increase in cost, that the importance of keeping them protected is apparent to all who know how steel, wood, brick and cement have jumped in price. And the cheapest protection you can give a building is the kind you apply with a brush—PAINT. For true protection, from the ineffectual, cheap paints. Use only

B-H "ENGLISH" 70% Pure White Lead (Brandram's Genuine S.B.) 30% Pure White Zinc 10% Pure Zinc

The kind we guarantee to possess as its important base, the above correct formula. This formula, printed on every can, and guaranteed over our President's signature, commits us to this standard. High in cost as white lead has become, we must use it in the same proportion as heretofore. To use less of it, would necessitate the removal of the guarantee from our cans—and to do that would injure the reputation that these paints have acquired by reason of their superior ingredients. It is by using pure white lead and pure white zinc in such liberal quantities, that we have been able to produce paints that truly excel in covering capacity—and that stand the severe "climate test" of Canada in a way that speaks true economy for all who use it.

Post Office Clerk—Who's me?
Sweet Little Maiden—I'm Gladys Cummin.
Post Office Clerk—Yes, I dare say you're glad he's coming; but what's your name?
Sweet Little Maiden—How dare you? My name is Gladys Cummin.
Post Office Clerk—Oh—oh—I beg your pardon.

Safe and Sane.
"How long have you had your car?"
"About one year."
"Have you ever broken the speed laws?"
"Never."
"What kind of a motorist are you, anyway?"
"The kind who is consistently ignored by joke writers and police court reporters."

A Success After All.
"What became of the Yerdle girl who was ambitious for a stage career?"
"She turned out much better than her friends expected."
"You don't mean to tell me she's starring now?"
"No, indeed. She's the mother of six children and has a husband who doesn't run around at night."

Another Prefect to Come In.
"Poor Mrs. Brown, I hear she has had a lot of trouble about her husband."
"Yes, poor dear."
"I understand there is a scandal mixed up in it."
"But have you heard the worst?"
"No—no—I haven't heard what Mrs. Gadsabout has to say about it yet."

They make them for ascent.

Brutally Frank.
"How would you look on me as a son-in-law?"
"Judge for yourself."
"Your eyes are fixed on the ceiling."
"Yes; I can't see you in that capacity."

Unjust Conviction.
When the burglar was haled before the judge, charged with attempted larceny for the theft of a pair of shoes the judge fined him $10.
"But, judge," remonstrated the crook, "that's an awful fine; they didn't fit."

A Dubious Question.
"What did pa say when you told him you wanted to marry me, Charley?"
"A very queer thing, darling. He asked me if I had insanity in my family."

Might Be Much Worse.
"When I hear the popular songs whistled on the street wherever I go, I'm so thankful to the whistlers!"
"Thankful?"
"Yes; suppose they could whistle the words!"

Her Wish.
"So she married for money, eh?"
"Yes."
"Did she get it?"
"Yes. But now she says she wishes her husband was a little less like a cash register and more like a man."

Not a Gift.
"Does the doctor give you any hope?"
"Yes and no. He says father will recover, but he's charging us well for that information."

The Quality Goes Clear Through

Building the Gray-Dort—finishing the body in our body plant.

Value 100%

The best motor car in the world sells for far more than you probably are willing to pay for a car. But there is a car within reach of your purse that offers you just as great—perhaps greater—value as the highest priced cars. That car is the Gray-Dort.

When you buy a Gray-Dort you buy more than a commercial product. You buy a motor car that must uphold the prestige of the two honored names it bears. The names Gray and Dort are worth far more to us than the profit on a car. That is why every Gray-Dort car must be a good car—a car worthy of the institutions that built it. That is why every Gray-Dort owner must enjoy unlimited pleasure, freedom from trouble. That is why you will receive 100% value for the money you invest in a Gray-Dort.

The new Gray Dort embodies all the good features that won instant success for former models. The 4-cylinder motor is a triumph of smooth, economical speed and power. The chassis is sturdy and quiet. The springs are long. The upholstery is deep. The equipment is absolutely complete from electric starting and lighting to the tools. New lines of beauty have been given this model.

The five-passenger touring car is $1,125; the three-passenger fleur-de-lis roadster is $995; the Gray-Dort special, beautifully finished, and with extra details of equipment is $1,285 above the list. All prices are f.o.b. Chatham.

The Y.M.C.A. Campaign

Get ready now for the great rush to the assistance of the war work of the Y.M.C.A. First read the advertisement on the 6th page of this issue and post yourself.

Yesterday G. E. Balmain, E. W. Mair and F. O. Creighton of Woodstock came here to organize a committee for handling the local work of the campaign. A number of interested citizens gathered in the Armory and officers were elected as follows: W. D. Keith, chairman; C. S. Baker, treasurer; Rev. G. S. Helps, R. J. Potts and M. L. Hayward completing the executive. A large general committee was named and all are called to meet at the Armory at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening (Friday) for the purpose of outlining the work and assigning it to those capable and willing to see it through. The sole object is to raise funds to support the Y.M.C.A. in its great and necessary work.

The general committee includes: Rev. N. Franchette, Rev. P. J. Trafton, Rev. E. A. Frites, H. W. Annett, A. L. Baird, Dr. Curtis, H. H. Hatfield, A. W. Kyle, J. E. McCollom, R. W. Cameron, A. F. Campbell, J. T. G. Carr, Dr. MacIntosh, H. R. Nixon, A. Plummer, E. Plummer, C. Rideout, Fred Smith, F. H. Stevens, H. Tedlie, R. L. York.

RUSHING POTATOES TO MARKET

Centreville Complains of Valley Train Service

The rain Sunday night and Monday washed away the snow and ice. The roads are muddy and cut up by the heavy loads of produce that are being hauled to the station. Farmers who were holding their potatoes for a big price are now tumbling over themselves to get them in at $1.75 per barrel.

S. A. Perkins' daughter, Hazel, and her husband, Mr. Thompson, have returned from the west and have taken charge of the farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hagerman spent a couple of days last week at Woodstock.

Beecher Clark was in Fredericton a couple of days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fields of Woodstock was here visiting relatives over Sunday.

Miss Robin Wilson of Bloomfield spent Sunday in the village.

Reed O'Hara has gone to Bridgewater to work in the garage there.

Mr. and Mrs. Levi Sherwood of Maple Grove, Me., also their daughter, Mrs. Gordon White of Fort Fairfield, visited Mrs. Geo. Beckwith last week. They were down to attend the funeral of their son and brother, Fred Sherwood who died of pneumonia at St. John.

A number of our farmers visited Woodstock Tuesday to help complete the central organization of the United Farmers of New Brunswick which was recently started in this county and which has made amazing progress.

Albert Simonson visited Woodstock.

Mrs. James Gregg went to Woodstock Tuesday on the morning train.

Service on the Valley Railway is very unsatisfactory lately. Trains are unreasonably late in both directions. This is no fault of the train crews but is due to the large way freight that has to be handled and shunting at almost every station. Some day the management will wake up to the fact that a passenger train should be run somewhere near on time.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to thank all our friends in Bristol and in Gordonsville who so kindly assisted us during our recent bereavement. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bell

UNITED FARMERS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Have Big Meeting at Woodstock and Complete Organization

Woodstock, April 23—Farmers from nearby counties and a host from Carleton assembled here today to launch officially the United Farmers of New Brunswick, an organization of a co-operative nature. This organization is very strong in western Canada and the New Brunswick branch starts off on almost the same lines. Perhaps never before were so many farmers gathered as assembled for this occasion. The afternoon meeting was held in Hayden Gibson Theatre. The secretary of the Canadian Union, J. J. Morrison, and J. D. McKenna, of Sussex, were the principal speakers and both strongly urged the starting of a new party, claiming that the farmers can easily hold the balance of power in parliament. The local speakers were T. W. Caldwell, G. L. Smith, Gordon Sharp and A. A. H. Margison.

The evening session in the vocational school was largely attended. The chairman, C. L. Smith, called on G. E. Balmain, collector of customs, who made a stirring appeal for funds for the Y. M. C. A. for overseas work. May 7, 8 and 9, an effort will be made in Carleton to raise $6,500, which is the allotment.

The following officers were elected: C. L. Smith, president; T. W. Caldwell, vice-president; directors, John Fulton, Wicklow; Judson Corey, Kincaidville; A. A. H. Margison, Centreville; John Young, Glassville; Chas. R. Inman, Kilburn; R. Tracey was appointed auditor.

An exhaustive report of the business and address will be published in The Observer next week.

TEETHING TROUBLES

Baby's teething time is a time of worry and anxiety to most mothers. The little ones become cross, peevish; their little stomachs become deranged and constipation and colic sets in. To make the teething period easy on baby the stomach and bowels must be kept sweet and regular. This can be done by the use of Baby's Own Tablets—the ideal laxative for little ones. Concerning them Bernard, St. Emile, Que., says:—"Baby's Own Tablets cured my baby of constipation and made his teething painless." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The ladies of the Sewing Circle and Mission Band had a supper and sale Saturday afternoon in the Masonic hall. The sum of $75 was realized.

Mrs. Le Baron Anderson of Four Falls and her sister, Miss Gunter, spent the week-end in town guests of Mrs. H. H. and Miss Gertrude Tibbitts.

The Round Literary Club will meet Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. D. R. Bedell.

James Scott, Agricultural Representative for Dept. at Ottawa, who has been in St. John the past two months is spending a few days with his family in Andover.

Rev. J. S. McFadden's many friends are glad to hear that he is improving in health.

Mr. Reid of Woodstock spent a few days recently in the two villages.

Miss Stone who has been nursing Mrs. Stanley Ritchie, spent a day or two the early part of the week with friends at Fort Fairfield.

J. B. Peat spent a few days of last week with his daughter, Mrs. Annie Turner, at Aroostook Junction.

Patrick Lynch spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grant of Upper Kent.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford are in town packing their household goods preparatory to this week for St. John where for the future they expect to reside. Many friends regret the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Crawford from our midst.

First season H. Lee Bedell had the barn near his home completely made over adding much to the appearance of his place. This year Mr. Bedell is having his other barn nicely fitted up with new clapboards and trimmings, doors, windows, ventilators and paint. When finished Mr. Bedell will have two of the finest barns in Victoria county. Mr. Bedell is a progressive young farmer who not only raises large crops of potatoes but goes extensively into raising hay, oats, grain, stock and poultry. This year as the cry goes up for greater food production, Mr. Bedell hopes to raise larger crops than ever before thus doing his part for the great good of mankind.

Mrs. A. E. Kuperky, Mrs. Ida Spike and Mrs. W. A. Gillett left on Monday for St. John, having been appointed delegates to attend the meetings of the Women's Auxiliary.

Mrs. E. E. Holt and friend of Fort Fairfield are guests of Mrs. G. G. Porter.

Don't delay buying your

SEEDS

Seeds are very scarce and hard to get. We have in stock a very good supply of the famous Ewings Tested Garden Seeds but we frankly admit that we may not be able to secure any more. We have turnip seed, which is a very fortunate thing for the farmers, for turnip seed is practically off the wholesale market today. We urge every farmer to make sure of his seed supply NOW—you cannot be sure if you delay.

BOWSER, RESCUER

A Cat Marooned in a Treetop Arouses His Pity.

LIKEWISE HIS INDIGNATION.

What Are Suffering Cats to Callous Hearted Mrs. Bowser? Nothing! But He Will Save the Feline—Mr. Bowser is Better Now, Thank You.

By M. QUAD.

(Copyright, 1917, by Associated Literary Press.)

AT the office, during the afternoon a caller on business had mentioned that Mr. Bowser was looking ten years older than last month. Another caller had doubted his integrity. He had been dunned for his club dues.

A life insurance agent had told him he was too fat to take a risk on. He had had his corns stepped on while bound for home.

He had to sit beside a drunken man for a mile. Of course, Mrs. Bowser was to blame for all this, and he determined she should pay the penalty.

Mrs. Bowser, however, seemed to be on her guard, and he got no opening until dinner was over and he had sat down to smoke and read. Then came the untimely mowing of a cat, and after a bit he dug his paper away and asked Mrs. Bowser:

"Do you know whether our cat is in the house or caught in a trap in the back yard?"

"I saw her in the dining room a few minutes ago," was the reply. "The cat

BEGAN CALLING AND COAXING.

you hear mewing is a strange one and is up a shade tree in front of the house."

Monstrous Cruelty. "But you never told me when I came home that there was a cat up a tree."

"Why should I? What have you got to do with a cat up a tree?"

"How long has that cat been up the tree?" he demanded as he flushed up.

"Since about 5 o'clock."

"How came she to go up the tree?"

"A dog was chasing her."

"And you—you have never moved hand or foot to rescue that poor creature from her perilous position?" he thundered as he struck the wall a blow with his fist.

"I'm not climbing trees to rescue stray cats," answered Mrs. Bowser.

"That's you—that's you to a dot. Right in front of our own house a poor creature has been suffering for hours and you have been too stony hearted and indifferent to even inform me of the fact. It's monstrous, Mrs. Bowser, perfectly monstrous!"

"Have I hindered the cat from coming down the tree?" she protested.

"Do you expect that every time I see a dog with a tin can tied to his tail run past the house I am going to follow him?"

"But you haven't a grain of mercy in your soul," he went on. "It is your utter indifference, your callous heartedness that I complain of. Ah, there is our cat. Suppose she were up a tree over on Beach street and suffering untold agonies. What would you say to a woman who would listen to her plaintive calls for mercy without stirring a finger?"

"I'd say it was our cat's business to keep out of trees!"

Mr. Bowser to the Rescue. Just then the Bowser cat walked in from the kitchen.

"Heaven help the human being with such a heart as you have," groaned Mr. Bowser as he started down the hall.

"That cat is coming down from the tree if I have to get out the whole fire department. In some home near by there are innocent little children crying because she has not come home. They shall cry no more."

He clapped on his hat and went on out. His own cat followed. In a shade tree in front of the gate the starlight showed him the strange cat. He went down to the tree and began calling and coaxing. There seemed to be no good reason why she shouldn't come down, as it is as easy for a cat to descend as to go up, but the feline remained fast to the limb. Mr. Bowser went to the kitchen after a step-ladder. As he brought it out and placed it against the tree two men came along and halted. He had climbed halfway up the ladder when three more came along. Then came two boys, and he offered one of them a nickel to go up and bring the cat down.

"I'm no 'cheap kid,'" was the reply. "If I go up after that cat she'll bite me, and cat bites mean six months in de hospital. It's 50 cents or I don't go."

"What the use anyhow?" queried the eighth person who came along. "If a cat is fool enough to climb a tree, let her be fool enough to come down again!"

Rebukes Heartless Onlookers.

"Men," said Mr. Bowser as he looked around him, "have you no hearts? Would you deliberately permit the helpless to suffer?"

"But if she is suffering, why don't she come down?" protested three or four voices in chorus.

"Because she's lost her nerve. I wouldn't have believed such cruelty existed in the twentieth century!"

And Mr. Bowser got to the top of the step-ladder and hung to the tree and coaxed again. The cat was ten feet away and refused to stir. He increased his offer to the boy to 10 cents, but it was refused. He must either climb the tree or back down, and the reader knows that Mr. Bowser is a man who never gives up unless knocked unconscious.

"Say, you can't climb that tree!" shouted one of the crowd below as he witnessed the preparations.

"But I shall!"

"Bet you ten to one you come down a-lying. You're too fat. Better cut the tree down!"

An Appreciative Audience. The crowd now numbered a score. Of the fifteen different remarks addressed to Mr. Bowser as his feet left the step-ladder not one was replied to. He was too busy. His first move ripped his coat under each arm and barked his knees, and the crowd yelled and applauded. There was a momentary hesitation, and then he went ahead and tore a piece of cloth out of one leg of his trousers and ripped two buttons off his vest. The applause that followed was enthusiastic and sincere, and one of the crowd followed it with:

"Well, if any one had told me that that old duffer was such a monkey to climb, I wouldn't have believed it."

By the time the crowd had numbered fifty Mr. Bowser was almost within reach of the cat. His eyes were glassy and his jaw set. He knew that Mrs. Bowser was watching him from a front window and that he had no other sympathizer in the crowd, but he would accomplish his object if death overtook him in the doing of it. He now got a toe hold on a limb and reached for the cat, but the feline spat at him and jumped away, and as he started back the limb broke, and there was a fourth of July yell from the crowd below.

Mr. Bowser descended like a load of brick, but miraculously the step-ladder was below to receive him. He struck it in a heap and twisted around until he lay across it on his stomach and heard far off voices saying:

"Go to the drug store and ring for an ambulance."

"Didn't the old duffer know better than to climb a tree? Who knows where he lives?"

"Here's a woman come out and meddle she owns him!" called a boy as Mrs. Bowser appeared.

Home Again. She soon settled all doubts of her ownership. She asked assistance to separate Bowser from the step-ladder, and when he had been straightened out as well as possible four men volunteered to carry him into the house. He knew he was being carried, but he made no resistance. He knew when they bumped his back along the hall floor and left him in a disorganized heap in the sitting room, and he plainly caught a voice which said:

"Here he is, ma'am, and, though he ain't dead, he'll probably let cats alone after this!"

Little by little Mr. Bowser recovered from the shock. He opened his eyes and saw the family cat and Mrs. Bowser watching and waiting. He sat up and decided on what he would do, and as he crawled over to the lounge and sat down on it he hoarsely whispered:

"Woman, do you think I'll forgive you if I live to be a thousand years old? Think of me, Mrs. Bowser. Think of the ridicule and contempt."

"The cat came down while they were bringing you in," she quietly replied.

"Do you mean—mean?"

"I mean that the cat came down. She could have come any time. If you haven't any papers to look over in the library and don't want to see your lawyer about a divorce, you'd better go to bed."

And Mr. Bowser went.

Back Ache!

NATURE gives warning of approaching disaster, and backache tells you that the kidneys are deranged.

As soon as the kidneys fail poisons are left in the blood, which cause aches and pains, rheumatism and lumbago.

The digestive system is interfered with, and there is gradual loss of flesh and harshness and dryness of the skin. There is often headache and dropsical swelling of the limbs.

The most effective treatment is that which awakens the action of the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, for these organs work together in removing the poisonous impurities from the system.

This is the reason why Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are so successful in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys. This is why they frequently cure when ordinary kidney medicines fail.

Just put this medicine to the test when you have backache, headache and other indications that these filtering and eliminating organs are sluggish in action, and see how quickly they will respond.

Prevention is always the wiser course. For this reason it is well to keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills at hand, and by regulating these organs forestall serious disease.

Heretofore, the Ford user who wanted to carry loads up to a ton found it necessary to get one of several special attachments or extensions which were on the market. Now the standard Ford truck is available—a car that can withstand the drudgeries of commercial use, and yet lacks superfluous weight, and is easily handled.

The truck differs from Ford passenger cars in that it is specially designed throughout in proper pattern and strength for heavy-duty service. It has a final drive of the worm gear type, so that all gears are enclosed. Rear wheels are equipped with solid tires. Front tires are pneumatic. Standard Ford motor, transmission and ignition.

The largest truck and automobile company in the British Empire, with an organization of more than 700 Canadian dealers stands back of every Ford truck purchased.

Tongue of Fame

By Elizabeth Cherry-Walk

After supper was over, young Gideon Bennett changed his rough clothing for a little better suit, then set to work on the road towards the Alster to be seated.

He had worked hard in the hayfield all day. His back ached, his arms were sore but this was Wednesday night. On the white wooden steps of the church a mile away, Flavilla Lingerel would wait for him. They could sit there quietly until he was rested.

Flavilla was there. He saw her from afar, her pink calico gown making a bright spot against the whiteness of the steps. It was just after sunset when he started. There were rosy clouds still in the west. Flavilla was not a pretty girl, but she had a smile that meant volumes. It was worth a very long walk to see.

These two devoted young people were shy and awkward in the expression of deep feeling between them. Their very loneliness while boy and girl at school had drawn them to each other. He was an orphan and her father had long since married a woman who resented her existence. Neither Gideon or Flavilla had any but a grudging life up to the time each was able to work. Then came days of toil with little to enliven them or broad aspiration.

Stranger things have happened than that both should be absurdly ambitious. In Gideon's family, two generations back, there had been a preacher. He was a devout man, well educated for his time, and not without power in oratory. His son, Gideon's father, had been not only stupid, but a ne'er-do-well. In his grandson, Gideon, revived the devotion, the ambition, the gift of speech, the sturdy industry.

Flavilla wanted a home different from what her home had been. She dreamed of pleasant days of thrifty management, of love, of being kind to those about her. She entered enthusiastically into Gideon's ideas, she stimulated him from his boyhood to daring dreams of success.

"It is with pleasure that I write to tell you of the great benefit I received from the use of your medicine, 'Fruit-a-lives'. I was a great sufferer for many years from Nervous Headaches and Constipation. I tried everything, consulted doctors; but nothing seemed to help me until I tried 'Fruit-a-lives'."

After I had taken several boxes, I was completely relieved of these troubles and have been unusually well ever since."

For seven years they worked, toiled, dreamed. Tonight, as they sat on the steps of the church where the grandfather had lifted up his voice, they seemed little nearer to the fulfillment of their hopes than before. Physically weary, Gideon's spirit wavered. Flavilla was a year the older. That counts a great deal at 19 and 20. Besides, in her burned a more enthusiastic and steady fire.

"I don't see how it can be done this fall, Flavie. I've got the money for the college course, but how am I going to live?"

"I wouldn't take much to keep us."

"Yes, O Flavie!"

"You're never going without me, Gideon. I've got some money, you know."

"It might be. When hay's over, I'll go and see."

This is the reason why a meeting of the faculty of a certain college and theological seminary was interrupted one day by a staid country lad. He came asking impudently for entrance into college, with little money and no church influence to back him.

Then Gideon talked. The spirit of his grandfather seemed in him. He told of his dreams for years, his toil and Flavilla's interest and encouragement. How well he never knew, but as the old president walked from the citation hall to the library afterwards with the professor of Greek, he said gently:

"It is a long time since I felt that a lad had such a clear call. I had been wondering if there was to be no more inspiration."

They promised Gideon shelter in a part of a house on the campus. He went back to Flavilla triumphant. Now was Gideon the very sword of the Lord.

In the quiet country neighborhood his return, the projected wedding, such projects for a lad of his property caused the wildest excitement. Flavilla, from scarce more than a drudge, at once became the most envied girl in the township. Her setting-out was discussed far and near. She had many presents from women who thought that by helping her they gave directly to the Lord. Meetings were held to help her sew and it was from these grew that idea that afterwards caused such a sensation at the college.

The neighborhood religion had been for years a dead letter. The small country church with its pulpit reached by a winding stair, its benches black with age, had not been opened for many years. Now a sentiment grew to open it on Sunday during the summer and Gideon was asked to conduct a service by a committee of grave men.

"I am but entering college," he cried, this lad who had played from sunrise. "I know nothing yet of what I expect to learn. Men, it will be seven years before I am fit to teach the word of the Lord."

"The Lord will tell you what to say," said a very old man who remembered his grandfather, "and we have no other to speak to us Gideon."

He promised to give them an answer on the morrow and went to see Flavilla. There was no happier woman than she those days. She was sitting at her sewing when Gideon came in, humming a quaint country ditty. He thought her a changed woman. Surely, she had never seemed so handsome in the olden days of toil and anxiety. He told her what the people asked. Its full meaning dawned upon him.

"You must do this thing, Gideon," she said, after a silence. "It will help both you and the people."

"But a sermon?"
Flavilla struggled with the thought. To her mind a sermon meant deep knowledge, research, feeling, conviction. Had not she talked these things over with Gideon since they were boy and girl together? The very fact of long, continued thought upon these subjects served well now.

"There will be nothing expected of you that you are not ready for," she told him after a time, "and since you cannot talk of great things, would it not be as well to speak of those at hand? Don't preach. You ain't fit. You're just a common man now. Talk man to man."

"And, Gideon, dear," she went on, "don't forget to talk a little to us women. We need lots of God. It's a God for every day we want."

He only said, after a silence, "Flavilla, I guess I'll go on home."

She understood him. They walked down to the gate together. There was a dark evergreen tree there and he kissed her solemnly.
"Flavilla, you must wear your white dress. And sit all alone on the front bench."

He still had his misgivings as to the propriety of his proceeding. The next morning he wrote a misspelled letter to the college president asking him for advice. Sunday came and no reply had reached him.
The interest in the meeting was widespread. It was a Sunday in late August and the little church was filled, the evergreen standing about the doors and windows. Flavilla had chosen some of her old school mates to practice hymns with her. Their musical knowledge was limited but it would help. They sat on the second bench in their clean summer array. On the first bench, alone, sat Flavilla. She wore the white dress she was to be married in, and a simple hat.

When the house was full, Gideon walked in. He wore his new black suit, but looked like a true son of toil, a lad from the very midst of the people. Flavilla started a hymn, all sang who could, then Gideon read, not any too well, a portion of the Scriptures. Afterwards he stepped down from the pulpit and stood almost among them.

Gideon will never preach such a sermon again. He has gone from field and wood and pasture to more conventional paths. Never again will he walk between an actual living, human Christ and an actual, breathing community as on that day of his boyhood. He talked. God-life in common life in common ways, was made real. In the morning, at noon, in the tired hours of the evening, at toll, in dealing, in birth, life and death Christ-life was depicted. Then Gideon spoke a few sentences of his own future hopes and asked all to keep him in prayerful remembrance.

The silent and stolid people were

NO ALCOHOL IN GIN PILLS

Many have wondered how the famous old household remedy, Gin Pills, derived its name, since obviously there could be no spirits contained in pill form. The origin of Gin Pills can be traced to Gin, which has for a great many years been recognized for its medicinal qualities, particularly its beneficial effects on kidney complaints.

But in the first place there are many who have conscientious objections to taking alcohol, even as a medicine. Secondly, the curative agent of Gin operates in spite of the alcohol, not because the alcohol is a help to the cure.

Investigations were made to determine just what it was in Gin that tended to relieve Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Backache, Swollen Joints, Constant Headaches, and all disorders arising from the kidneys, bladder and urinary system.

This active agent, separated from the alcohol, was then combined with other directives and given the name of Gin Pills, for which a demand has grown greater than for any other medicine in Canada. Gin Pills have a wonderful record of success and anyone applying to the manufacturers can obtain a box of 6 boxes for $2.50. A free sample can be obtained by sending a card to the National Drug & Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Toronto, Ontario, P.O. address, No. 100, College Street, Main St., Buffalo, N.Y.

More moved than they care to know, Old men wrung his hand, women looked at him with misty eyes. Flavilla's tears ran down her cheeks as she bravely started the last hymn. But while the people reluctantly fled out, there strode into the church a man of presence, of speech. He put his arm about Gideon's shoulder, and looked at him with proud eyes.

"The Lord was with you," said the college president. The strange letter had brought him hither.

Gideon is now a great preacher. His own and Flavilla's dreams were nothing in comparison to the reality. They still tell of the college of his hard study, Flavilla's aid and comradeship and of the wagon load of provisions that came to them every few months from their old neighborhood. They still tell of Gideon's gift of speech, his honors, what a credit he is to the college. If you ask the secret of his mission, he looks at Flavilla and says, "I try to tell of an every day God and as man to man."

War Strategy and Chess.

The affinity between strategy and chess, recognized by Napoleon, is not very surprising, since the London Chronicle. The game seems to have crystallized out of some old—perhaps prehistoric—military system akin to that overthrown by Alexander at the Hydaspes. Of that battle Arrian has left us a most spirited picture, in which we can now recognize a singular touch of modernity—the long line of Indian elephants wading, tanklike, into the Macedonian Phalanx. Probably at its birth chess was a branch of military education rather than a form of amusement; and the various early changes in the game, of which we have record, were doubtless attempts to keep the instruction up to date and abreast with current alterations in armament and tactics.

WOMAN WORKS 15 HOURS A DAY

Marvelous Story of Woman's Change from Weakness to Strength by Taking Druggist's Advice.

Pera, Ind.—"I suffered from a displacement with backache and dragging down pains so badly that at times I could not be on my feet and it did not seem as though I could stand it. I tried different medicines without any benefit and several doctors told me nothing but an operation would do me any good. My druggist told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it with the result that I am now well and strong. I get up in the morning at four o'clock, do my housework, then go to a factory and work all day, come home and get supper and feel good. I don't know how many of my friends I have told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."

—Mrs. ALMA METERIANO, 38 West 10th St., Pera, Ind.
Women who suffer from any such ailments should not fail to try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Executions will be issued on all school taxes not paid by April 30.

Vast Issues Depend Upon the Welfare of Our Men!

Cheer Up and Thank God for the Y.M.C.A.

TRY to picture yourself in the muddy cold trenches after exciting days and long nights of mortal danger and intense nervous strain. Rushing "whizz-bangs" and screaming "coal boxes" are no respecters of persons. You are hit! But despite shock and pain you still can face the long weary trudge back to dressing station. Weary, overwrought and depressed, you are prey to wild imaginings of that other coming ordeal with the surgeon. There are other "walking wounded" too! You must wait, wait, wait. And then—

Up comes a cheery Y.M.C.A. man, the ever-present "big brother" to the soldier, with words of manly encouragement. Close beside the dressing station, the good generous folks at home have enabled him to set up a canteen. He hands you biscuits, and chocolate or coffee.

$2,250,000 May 7, 8, 9

Canada-Wide Appeal

"In thousands of cases," writes an officer, "it was that first hot cup of coffee that dragged the man back to life and sanity." The tremendous helpfulness of the Y.M.C.A. as an aid to the "morale," or fighting spirit, of the soldiers is everywhere praised. No wonder the Germans make every effort to smash the Y.M.C.A. huts out of existence.

The Y.M.C.A. is everywhere. You first met the helpful, manly Y.M.C.A. worker in camp, then on train and boat, at camp in England and in France, close to the firing line. Often he risks his life to reach you in the trenches. He has won the warmest praise from military authorities, statesmen—the King!

Have you a precious boy at the front? You cannot be "over there" to guide him away from fierce temptations of camp and city. You cannot comfort him in his supreme hour of trial. Your parcels to him are necessarily few. But the Y.M.C.A., thank God, is "over there," going where you cannot go—doing the very things you long to do—doing it for you and for him.

Will you help? This vast organization of helpfulness needs at least $2,250,000 from Canada for 1918. For your boy's sake be GENEROUS!!

 - $125,000 used in 1917 to build huts in France.
 - Concerts, sing-songs, good-night services and personal interviews energetically conducted. Concerts, lectures, etc., cost $5,000 a month.
 - Thousands of soldiers decide for the better life.
 - Y.M.C.A. sells many useful things to soldiers for their convenience. Profits, if any, all spent for benefit of soldiers.
 - Service to boys in Camp hospitals.
 - Red Triangle Clubs for soldiers in Toronto, St. John and Montreal. Centres in Paris and London for men on leave.
 - Out of Red Triangle Fund, $75,000 to be contributed to the War Work of the Y.M.C.A.

Boys!

Here's your chance to do a fine stroke in the big war! Help the Y.M.C.A. to help your big brothers overseas by joining in the

"Earn and Give Campaign"

Six thousand Canadian older boys are invited to earn and give at least Ten Dollars ($10) to the Red Triangle Fund. That means $60,000 in all! Splendid! Five thousand dollars will be used for boys' work in India and China; another $5,000 for the National Boys' Work of Canada, and $50,000 to help big brothers in Korea. Ask your local Y.M.C.A. representative for information and pledge card. When you have subscribed one or more units of Ten Dollars, you will receive a beautifully engraved certificate.

A GOOD DIGESTION

Depends Upon Keeping the Blood Rich, Red and Pure.

To be able to eat what you want and to digest it properly, is a priceless blessing. Good digestion is not appreciated until you lose it. Then you cannot afford to experiment for strong medicines are hard on weak stomachs. If you have indigestion do not be persuaded into believing you can cure yourself by the use of pre-digestion foods or so-called stomach tonics. There is no tonic for the stomach that is not a tonic for every part of the body. It is through the blood that the stomach gets its power to assimilate and digest food, and as the blood goes to every part of the body and improvement in its condition not only results in strengthening the stomach but every organ in the body. Rich red blood is absolutely necessary to good digestion. If your stomach is weak and you are troubled with sour risings in the throat, a feeling of pressure about the heart, or nausea after eating, try the tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. So many dyspeptics have been cured by this medicine that every sufferer from stomach trouble should try it. You will soon know the joy of good digestion and enjoy better health in other ways if you give this medicine a fair trial. Mr. Fred J. Kendall, Darlin Ave., Toronto, says: "For upward of five years I was a great sufferer from indigestion, which gradually undermined my general health, leaving me in a weak and anaemic condition. I spent considerable money with one doctor and another, but failed to receive any lasting benefit, and had become quite discouraged. One day my wife urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills but I thought it would be the same old story. But she had so much faith in them that she got me a box, and to please her I began taking them. By the time the box was finished, I noticed a slight improvement, and I continued taking them and soon found myself gaining. I could sleep better and my appetite improved, without the distressing symptoms that had previously followed eating. I think I took in all about a dozen boxes, and today I am a stronger man than I ever was in my life. When I began the use of the pills I weighed 143 pounds while now I weigh 167. You may use this letter as you choose, hoping it may reach some poor, discouraged sufferer as I was."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Another Disastrous Fire in Andover

At Andover 3.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon the alarm was given for fire, and it proved this time to be the buildings belonging to the late Miss Sarah Watson. Since Miss Watson's death this winter the buildings have been cared for by Peter Watson, a brother of the deceased. There was no one at home at the time the fire was discovered. Mr. Watson having gone by afternoon train to visit friends at Fort Fairfield. A large crowd soon gathered and all possible done to try to save the buildings but the house soon burst into flames, and was burned to the ground. The shed and barn was saved. The household goods on the ground floor were saved, but practically every thing on the upper floor was destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown. Mr. Watson was notified of the fire, and returned at once, but to find his nice building a smoking mass. The fireman who watched the fire all night wish to thank Mr. and Mrs. Gray for their kindness in providing them with lunch at twelve o'clock. This is the second bad fire that has visited Andover in a week. Only last Saturday afternoon the Baptist parsonage was destroyed.

Rowland-Ketch

A very pretty scene was enacted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rowland, of Charleston, when their son, Frederick Albert was was united in marriage to Miss Jesse Belle Ketch, also of Charleston. The marriage took place at five o'clock and the ceremony was performed by Rev J. D. Wetmore in the presence of about 25 relatives and friends. The bride was beautifully dressed in net lace over white silk. The veil was of handsome net lace with a pretty flower design in each corner which had a pleasing effect. The white pearl beads and hand-some slippers crowned the attire of the bride. She carried a hand-some bouquet of white roses and was given away by her father, Thomas Ketch. Vivian Ketch, sister of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and was dressed in pink silk. Robert Ketch, brother of the bride, acted as best man in the absence of Lieutenant J. J. Rowland, brother of the groom, and who is now in the sanatorium at Gravenhurst, Ontario, having been gassed on the battlefield of Passchendaele. Both the best man and groom looked very charming in nicely tailored suits. The bridal party entered the room to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Molsaer, our little teacher. After the ceremony was over those present congratulated the happy couple and soon they all withdrew to the dining room where a bounteous supper was served. All spent a very enjoyable evening. The bride and groom are two very popular young people of Charleston, and thus were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents. All join in wishing the happy couple a long, happy and prosperous life.

The Real Fact.

"Smith was telling the other night of the awful trouble he had one time when he was shipwrecked in getting away from a man-eating shark."

"Yes, but did he ever tell you how he succeeded in dodging his wife when she was after him for money for a bargain-hunting shopping trip?"

Proper Place.

"The bookkeeper and the stenographer seem to be in love with each other."

"Um."

"See them sitting at that desk billing and cooing."

"Well, that's the billing desk."

The Surviving Vice.
"Charley dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "do you associate with men who drink and swear?"
"Not with men who drink. But some of them are inclined to swear a little because they can't."

After the Lecture.
"In his lecture he gave some bare facts."
"Why, I thought his words were clothed with beautiful ideas."

Natural Proceeding.
"Poor old Grimes! So he's gone at last. What a man he was to run after widows!"
"Yes, after everybody's but his own."

YES! MAGICALLY!
CORN LIFT OUT WITH FINGERS

You simply say to the drug store man, "Give me a quarter of an ounce of freestone." This will cost very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn from one's feet.

A few drops of this new ether compound applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn root and all, dries up and can be lifted out with the fingers.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that while freestone is sticky, it dries in a moment, and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin.

Don't let father die of infection or lockjaw from whitening at his corns. Cut this out and make him try it.
