ANOTHER LARGE EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION OPENED ON THE GASPE COAST LAST WEEK.

New Ursuline Convent Formally Opened At Gaspé—Bishop Ross Conducts Largely Attended Ceremonies—New Building Is A 5-Storey Brick Structure of Thoroughly Modern Appointments—Fifty-Four Pupils Begin Fall Term.

The recent completion of the new Ursuline Convent at Gaspé adds another large up-to-date institution to the growing number of educational buildings on the Gaspé Coast. This new convent opened for the fall term on September 5th, with 54 pupils in attendance.

An Impressive Structure

The new convent is a handsome brick structure of five storeys, 126 feet long by 59 feet in width. The new institution is a fire-proof building and thoroughly modern in every respect. It contains new quarters for the Ursuline Sisters, of whom there are 16 in number at Gaspé, and also provides accommodation for a novitiate, boarding school, Normal School and a school of domestic science. The new building is located on an exceptionally good site back on the range of lofty hills north of Gaspé Basin and commands a splendid view of the surrounding country.

Opened Last Week

(Special To The Graphic)

Two impressive ceremonies were witnessed in the picturesque little town of Gaspé on Sunday and Monday when His Grace, Bishop Ross, of Gaspé, presided on Sunday over the blessing of the bell of the new Ursuline convent and on Monday morning of the institution itself.

Largely Attended

Largely attended by laymen from neighboring villages attended the imposing ceremony which featured the blessing and inauguration of the first convent built in the Gaspé district. The benediction of the single bell was held in the Cathedral of Gaspé, after which it was installed in the belfry before thousands of the faithful of the district.

Benediction of Building

As on Gaspé at the blessing of the bell, Gaspeans flocked to the town of Gaspé on Monday morning for the benediction of the building, which ceremony was performed by Mgr. Ross in accordance with the usual ritual prescribed for such occasions by the Roman Catholic Church. The bishop, staff in hand, walked slowly round the interior of the church, sprinkling the walls and benches with holy water as he proceeded. The interior being thus blessed, Mgr. Ross, followed by two long rows of robed members of the clergy and the faithful, walked around the building on the outside, also blessing the exterior walls of the new edifice. The ceremony consisted of the old Canon, followed by the re-entrance and Mgr. Ross celebrated the solemn high mass in the new chapel.

FEDERAL ELECTION SET FOR OCT. 29.

Nomination Day To Be One Week Earlier—Local Conventions.

Richmond Hill, Ont., Sept. 6.—Addressing his constituents of North York here on Saturday afternoon, Premier King declared his intention to appeal to the people and announced that the Governor-General had dissolved Parliament and that October 29 was fixed for the date of polling.

Hon. Mr. King first gave consideration to the views advanced for and against the calling of a general election. It was not compulsory for him to appeal to the people until the beginning of 1927. But after four years experience of government without a visible majority in the House of Commons, with a Senate that is politically hostile, and an opposition continually thwarting important measures, for no reason other than the government does not take up one extreme position or another, or go in opposite extreme directions at one and the same time, he came to the conclusion that it is not in the national interest further to postpone the day when questions that are pressing urgently for solution, can be dealt with in a reasonable and satisfactory manner.

The Premier detailed the reasons which induced him to reach this conclusion. If another session was held parliament would be kept in session from January till September, nothing the Government attempted would be right every item of supply would be blocked, and for what reason? Just to create an impression before a general election that the Government somehow was in the wrong. This would be a costly business. Then he dealt with the course followed by the leader of the opposition.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Nine appointments to the cabinet were announced last night.

This is an increase of $15,000. The new contract runs for a period of three years.

Ministers retiring from the cabinet are: Hon. Jacques Bureau, former Minister of Customs and Excise.

AUTOS COLLIDE
An auto accident occurred on Sunday evening about eight o'clock at the Subway corner on Roseberry Street, when Anthony Thomas, disregarding traffic rules, allowed his car to collide with that of Mr. A. H. English.

The English car was coming up Roseberry Street while Thomas, coming east, headed toward the Subway, apparently forgetting that the other car had the right of way. Both cars were considerably damaged. Police officers declare that this is not the first time Mr. Thomas has demonstrated a genius for getting in the road.

Newcastle, Sept. 9.—L. T. Hayes and Thomas G. Hines, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses by collecting for advertisements in a Catholic paper which they said they would publish, were allowed to go to-day with a severe censure by the magistrate after they had made a settlement with the merchants complaining. They left Newcastle on the first train.

The prisoners were summoned to court at 2.30 this afternoon. T. H. Whalen, clerk of the peace and representative of the Attorney General, saw fit to recommend to the magistrate that the evidence had not arrived at a stage whereby the accused could be committed for trial. The merchants of Newcastle, Bafarrist and Campbellton had agreed to a settlement of the money which they had given Hayes and Hines was refunded them by the accused.

Magistrate Hines severely censured the prisoners, criticising their tactics and condemning their slipshod business methods.

PIUS MICHAUD, M. P.

Mr. Michaud was in town Wednesday interviewing prominent Liberals in regard to calling a convention for the purpose of nominating a Liberal candidate. The date of Convention will be announced later.

$7,500 LOSS IN FRIDAY'S FIRE

Fishing Launch "Restigouche" Burnt in Chatterton Garage—Chatterton Badly Damaged But Recovering.

A loss of approximately $7,500 was occasioned by a fire which totally destroyed the garage of J. C. Chatterton, on Ramsay Street on Friday evening last.

The Restigouche Fishing Club launch "Restigouche", which had been stored there that morning for the winter, was also totally destroyed and young Calvin Chatterton, aged 14 was seriously burned and had to be removed to the hospital for attention. Young Chatterton was playing with dynamite in the garage at the time and the explosion of this caused the blaze.

The alarm was rung in a few minutes after six o'clock.

The firemen made a prompt response and as the wind was in a favorable direction, no other buildings were endangered. The loss is placed at $4,000 on the "Restigouche" and $3,500 on the building and contents, on which no insurance was carried.

Young Chatterton who was badly burned about the face and shoulders is now recovering favorably.

CHINAMEN SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Local Restaurant-Keepers Charged With Assault—Hearing on Tuesday Morning.

As the result of an altercation which took place on Monday afternoon at the New London Cafe, a Chinese restaurant opposite the C. N. R. Station here, two local Chinamen were sent up for trial on Tuesday morning at the close of their preliminary hearing before Judge Matheson in the police court here.

Jerome Guillard of Belledune who was the victim of the alleged assault, sustained several serious head wounds as the result of blows which, it is thought, only narrowly escaped causing a fracture of the skull.

With his head almost completely concealed by a bandage, Guillard appeared in the court-room and told his story of the affair. He stated that he and a companion, Ben Joseph of Athol, had entered the New London Cafe shortly before six o'clock on Monday afternoon and that after giving their order they paid the Chinese youth who sometimes waits on the tables there. Guillard ordered a sandwich and coffee, and Joseph asked for tea.

When they had finished eating, they started to leave the place. Thereupon they were halted at the counter by Wong Chung who declared they had not paid. They replied that they had paid the "young fellow" and started toward the door. At this juncture, Guillard stated, Wong Chung seized his cap and ran with it in the direction of the kitchen.

Guillard went after him to retrieve it and Joseph followed. At this point, according to the testimony, Wong Chung emerged from the kitchen with a stick and struck Guillard over the head with it four times, breaking the final blow. This was as far as Guillard could go with his story of the fracas. He stated that he remembered nothing more until he found himself on the verandah of Dr. Dumont's office, where, he later learned, his chum had taken him for medical attention.

'Uses Meat Knife'
Joseph's testimony, corroborated that of the victim. He stated that when Wong Ning began to beat his companion with the stick he attempted to get him away. Before he could do so, Wong Chung, who had dodged into the kitchen, returned with a large meat-knife or cleaver and also took part in the fray. Before he could get Guillard away he was bleeding profusely. He took him to Dr. Dumont's office on O'Leary Street and had his wounds attended to. Both Guillard and Joseph admitted having had "a few drinks" before entering the restaurant but swore they were perfectly sober and had not provoked the Chinamen in any way.

Constable Austin Keen testified as to the victims condition immediately following the quarrel. He stated that the doctor had found it necessary to use several stitches to close the wounds in Guillard's head, one of them being about three inches long.

Wong Ning On Stand.
Wong Ning, who has evidently acquired some knowledge of English and Restaurant Clerk, has this day taken the stand upon the request of his counsel, A. P. N. McLaughlin, before taking the oath he was asked if he was a Christian.

"Mr. Posheteran" he replied. When further questioned he stated September A. D. 1925 did make an assault upon and beat and occasion, the case will come before the next session of the county court.

view of the large beds by the Department of Marine and Fisheries, scallop fishing, practically unheard of in this district a few years ago, promises to become an important industry. Two more scallop beds have been located in the Bay Chaleur and one of these, situated between Jacquet River and Belledune, is said to be seven miles long and from one and a half to two miles in width. At prices now available for scallops this bed should be worth thousands of dollars to energetic fishermen.

Found Last Week
These scallop beds were discovered last week by Mr. A. G. Robichaud who, since the 11th of August, has been employed by the Department of Marine and Fisheries as official observer in connection with the experimental operations along the shores of Restigouche.

The most valuable bed, located below Jacquet River is seven miles in length. Its width varies from one and one half to two miles. The centre of the bed is approximately two miles from the shore in from six and one half to eight fathoms of water.

A Second Bed
The second bed, also very extensive, is located outside Heron Island. The bottom there, however, was found to be rather rough, thereby making it difficult to use drags to the best advantage.

A Valuable Asset
According to Mr. Robichaud, the fishermen of the bay have a very valuable asset at their disposal and it is possible that before long this new branch of deep-sea fishing may take on a very important aspect.

Michaud Active
The important work now being carried on in connection with scallop fishing in Restigouche waters is a direct result of Mr. Pius Michaud's efforts. During the past year Mr. Michaud acted as official observer of Marine and Fisheries, Mr. Pius Michaud, Director of Fisheries and Mr. J. J. Cowie, acting director of scallop fishing. In a letter to the Graphic he states that there is a good prospect of developing this new industry and that the Department has agreed to put an expert fisherman on the experimental work to assist Mr. George Melville of Chatham, who is taking an active interest in the matter.

Mr. Robichaud, who is residing at Chatham, will be pleased to give all fishermen interested full information regarding activities. In a letter to the paper he also states that he has an extra scallop drag which will be loaned to any fisherman wishing to undertake the work.

When he was shown the hardwood stick, with which he was alleged to have beaten Guillard, he swore he had never seen it. Further questioning elicited nothing.

"I never see him before" he repeated.

When asked if he had hit Guillard he stoutly denied it.

The Charge.
The charge as read by Judge Matheson to the two prisoners was as follows:

"Whereas, persons known as Wong Ning and Wong Chung, late of the Town of Campbellton, in the County of Restigouche, Restaurant-keeper and Restaurant Clerk, has this day been charged upon oath before the undersigned, for that they at the Town of Campbellton in the County of Restigouche and Province of New Brunswick, on the seventh day of September A. WHAT HAPPENED TO A WIDOW'S CHILDREN

Man of Character Weds His Best Friend's Widow—A Problem

(By Winifred Black.)
No, they weren't poor but they weren't rich either, they were just comfortably well off—as long as the man lived.

He had a good job and a good salary and a young wife—I call a woman of 32 young—and five beautiful children—one of them a baby in arms.

But the man came home with a bad headache and a high temperature and in a day or so he was gone.

There was a little money in the bank, three or four thousand dollars, and the little house the little family lived in was partly paid for.

But what was the young mother going to do to keep the roof over the heads of her children?

She thought and thought—and she asked advice from every one she knew. She was an old-fashioned little thing and had always depended upon her husband for everything—even advice.

She was a good cook and a good manager and she made all her children's clothes and her own, too, except her very best ones, but there didn't seem that there was any way to make much money with these accomplishments.

One of the people who came to see her and tried to tell her what to do was a dear friend of her husband, a man of about her own age, and one day he told the little woman that he loved her, that he always had loved her, but had never hoped to mention it, and now wouldn't she let him take care of her and the children?

The little woman was very much surprised—and she was shocked too—she couldn't believe her ears.

What—think of marrying again so soon after her dear husband's death? And her dear husband's dearest friend at last!

But she married him when the youngest baby was not quite a year old, and they lived together happily in the friendly little house, the five children and the woman and her new husband.

But the woman began to fail in health, she had worked very hard bringing up her five children and her strength was exhausted. The doctors did everything they could and the husband had the very finest doctors to be had for money or for love either, and those you get for love are always best. But it was no use, the little woman went into a decline and died of old-fashioned quick consumption.

And the man is left with five children, who are not his own, on his hands.

What do you think he is going to do about it?
He has put the children into a private institution where they can be kept together, all but the baby, and as soon as the baby is old enough she will be kept with her brothers and sisters, too, and the man is paying all the bills. You ought to see him Sunday mornings when he goes out to see his children—oh, yes, he calls them his and he seems to love them more than many fathers love their own children. He carries out a box of candy and the funny pictures and they find a tree somewhere and spend the afternoon together, laughing and playing.

The man says he is going to take the best care of those children as long as he lives. He doesn't consider them a burden, he considers them a joy.

Doesn't it make you feel ashamed of yourself when you think of a man like that?

It does me. And I'm not ashamed to say it.

"IT HAS COME—LONG PANTS FOR GIRLS"

According to the Springfield, Mass., Union, "it has come—long pants for girls. First the girls wore knickers, then they shingled their hair, so the long pants came easily enough. Two girls are parading around the Hub section wearing long white trousers. They are much stared at, but they won't be in the limelight long. Before a month rolls around the long-panted girls will be the rule rather than the exception."

WOMAN PILOT IN MOTOR BOAT RACE

Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell to Pit Her Skill Against Male Contestants.

New York, Aug. 30.—A single woman will match her skill and daring against nine of the foremost racing motor boat pilots of America in the dash for the coveted gold cup at Manhasset Bay on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Delphine Dodge Cromwell, of New York, daughter of the late Horace E. Dodge, automobile manufacturer, had the Nuisance especially constructed for the event, which will be contested in three-to five mile heats, starting at 2 p. m., daylight saving time.

One of the leading contenders for the cup as well as a winner of many former races withdrew his entry last night when Gar Wool announced at Detroit that propeller trouble would make it impossible for his Babe America to start. This will be the first time in nine years that he has not piloted a boat in the race.

LIVING LONG

(New York Times)

One secret of attaining old age would seem to be not to make a fuss about it.

In this country still another secret would be not to go in for politics, or at least not to let one's ambitions soar too high. How fast we wear out our Presidents is an old story. Whether the reason be in difference of pace, or climate, or heredity, we make a poor showing in this respect compared with the transatlantic branch of the English-speaking peoples. Excluding Mr. Taft, who it is to be hoped will long be with us, and Mr. McKinley, our Presidents, beginning with Mr. Cleveland, have died at the average age of 65. During that same period the real heads of state in Great Britain—Gladstone, Salisbury, Rosebury, Balfour, Campbell-Bannerman, Asquith and Lloyd George—lived or have lived to the extraordinary average of 75 years. In our politics we have Mr. Dewey at the age of 51, Uncle Joe Cannon at 80 and Mr. Root at 80, but to no one of these have fallen tasks so heavy as upon Mr. Balfour, who at 77, and Mr. Asquith at 73, are still in the field of active politics. Possibly it is the difference in pace between American and British life.

THE SANITARY AGE

It is not long since some medical "mud" declared that silk stockings were dangerous because their continuous use over the next few centuries would undoubtedly cause a thickening of the female ankle. There now comes from the ancient City of Bath a warning from yet another doctor with a Messianic impetus that long trousers will cause varicose veins.

But both these threats shrink into insignificance before the assertion of an American doctor at the Pratt Institute that the greatest enemy of mankind is the soft, luxurious carpet. He says the perfect home will be carpetless when people come to realize the fact that they collect dust and dirt and that dust is inseparable from germs.

He hasn't mentioned the curtains or the bedclothes yet, but their turn will come, says "B." in the Vancouver Province. Finally, no doubt, we shall find ourselves living in houses where anything softer than a glazed tile will place the owner in danger of being thrown into a sanitary, cement hoose-gow. Speaking merely as a layman I have yet to learn of any known household substance except soap that will not harbor germs, and, personally, I would rather live to be only 60 or 70 or thereabouts supported on my road through life by carpets and bedclothes than live to be a hundred at the price of walking on linoleum and sleeping on an enamelled slab with a form-fitting tin lid over me."

A FINE TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hatfield and sons, Harold and Frederick, Miss Helen Raymond, and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Clark returned last evening from a week's automobile tour of the Province. They left here Tuesday morning of last week, going north to Rivere du Loup, then following along the south shore of the St. Lawrence down through Matapedia Valley to Campbellton. Leaving there they followed the coast round to St. Jean and St. Stephen then going to Fredericton and on home having traveled 1,200 miles and having passed through every county in the Province except Sunbury and Queens. Mr. Hatfield reports that the crops are looking splendid all through the Province. They found the roads good all through the Province but noticed that they were badly worn by the heavy cars of the tourists of whom there were innumerable numbers. The party is very enthusiastic over the scenery of the Province, that of the North Shore being especially mentioned. They found some extremely bad roads and very steep hills coming across from Gaspe. So bad that the party were fearful of driving down them and so took several of them on foot, leaving Mr. Hatfield to run the risk of them alone, while driving the car. "Hartland" Observer.

"Use It Wherever The Recipe Calls for Milk"

St. Charles is pure, country milk just as it comes from inspected cows in choice dairy districts. Nothing is added. Nothing is taken away except half of the natural water content which is "evaporated" so that this pure milk may be put up in convenient form. If you desire a milk of creamy richness for your recipe use St. Charles just as it comes from the can—or, you can make it go twice as far by bringing it to the consistency of ordinary milk—on adding an equal quantity of water. Try the tasty recipes in the Borden book. For your copy address The Borden Co. Ltd., Montreal.

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN MOTOR POWER

Passenger Carrying Cars
Operated By Electricity—
Developed By Generator.

Passenger carrying cars, operated by electricity, developed by a generator, installed within the body of the car, will be put into service on certain lines of the central region of the Canadian National Railways within a few days. Known as the Diesel-Electric car, this type of equipment represents an entirely new development in motive power and brings to a successful close one of the most interesting chapters in the romantic story of the evolution of rail transportation in North America.

Two types of these cars have been designed, one as a body with an over all length of sixty feet, set on four wheel trucks. This car can pull a trailer when desired. The second and larger type is known as the articulated car. It consists of two bedded with a total over all length of 192 feet, set on three four wheel trucks. The rear end of one and the forward end of the other body are attached to the centre truck. The entrance between cars is protected by a canvas cover in much the same fashion as the vestibule ends of the passenger cars on steam trains.

Both the small and the articulated cars are built to carry passengers, express and baggage. The passenger carrying capacity of the smaller car is 56, of which 18 can be accommodated in seats located in the baggage end. The articulated car can carry 126 passengers, of which 35 can be accommodated in the baggage end.

Relatively speaking the principle behind the motive power which drives the car is simple, although an entirely new departure as far as the transportation industry is concerned. In one end of the car there is a Diesel engine operated by fuel oil which is both safe and economical. It is the lightest crude oil engine in the world outside of Aero Practise. The weight of those in the small cars being 2576 pounds, and in the articulated cars 5000 pounds. These engines are started by a small electric motor and in turn they operate an electric generator which produces sufficient electricity to move the car, to provide lighting and to store up enough electricity in the storage batteries set underneath the car to provide power for the starting motor when it is again required. It is, therefore, as close an invention to perpetual motion as has been found.

The engine for the small car has four cylinders and the power asked for is 100 B. H. P. In this engine has developed 250 B. H. P. The engine for the articulated car has eight cylinders capable of developing 320 B. H. P. In both cases the engines are self governed. That is they run at a constant speed, though at stations they can be slowed down to any required speed. The car can be operated direct from the engine or by remote control, that is to say, from either end of the car. This permits of the car being run in either direction, as required, without it being necessary to place the car on a turn table, or to run it on a "CXY" to be reversed. The motorman has complete control over both the Diesel engine and the flow of electricity. No extravagant claims are made for the new car by those responsible for its design and construction. It is known, however, from many tests made during past months that in the Diesel-Electric car there has been created a type of motive power which can be both economical and serviceable in operation, eminently suited for the type of work for which it is intended, namely suburban, inter-urban and branch line traffic. It is thought also, that it may prove an effective competitor of the motor bus and lorry which, using the public highways, are competing with the rail transportation systems in short haul passenger, express and freight business. For years the best brains in the rail transportation industry have been concentrating upon the development of an economical and serviceable type of motive power. Steam power derived from coal, has become so expensive as to cause serious losses to companies operating branch lines where the density of traffic is low. Relief from this condition was first sought in gasoline cars, these overcame the problem to a degree but experience proved that like all internal combustion engines these cars could not be depended upon to adhere, with a sufficient degree of regularity, to a fixed schedule.

There were too many points at which engine trouble could originate. Next in order came the storage battery car. This type of car is operated by a motor fed from storage batteries. But the big difficulty lay in the fact that these cars had to be recharged every mile they moved. Plans had to be established also for recharging of the run down batteries. Other problems of a similar character were met with. The puzzle was to find something that would not have any of these serious faults, and which could perform the service required. It is confidently believed by those who have been associated in the building of the Diesel electric cars and by those who have attended the tests that in it the ideal type of power has been found.

BIG GAME PROBLEM

Opinion Expressed That A Close Season On Moose For Three Years Would Not Help The Situation Any—Our Glorious Heritage In Forest Fish And Game.

A correspondent of the Record sent us a clipping of a letter which he said appeared recently in a provincial paper. He thinks the subject matter of the letter is good and requested that same be reproduced in our columns. The letter reads as follows:

Sir,—I have noticed several letters in your valuable paper recently in answer to your invitation to discuss the big game question, but to date I have not seen anything of a very enlightening nature.

It seems to me that those of us who ought to know the real conditions of our big game and who should have some really constructive ideas on how best to conserve it are strangely silent on the subject.

I have spent a great many years, summer, fall and winter in the woods of this province, and have observed our game and fur animals in most all phases of their lives.

It is my opinion that a close season on moose for three years would not help the situation any; that it would in fact be harmful, because the moose would tend to become tame, and to lose that sense of danger and what acuteness they at present possess in avoiding man. Then when the season re-opened a regular army would be waiting and then the massacre would start, and the moose, caught off their guard by a long period of safety, would fall easy prey to the most unskillful of hunters.

The reason why today some people think the bull moose is almost gone is because they go out for a week or two and don't get any. They are not, and in the very nature of their lives cannot be, real hunters, and the result is failure.

Game that is much hunted always becomes more wary and cunning as the pursuit becomes stronger, and those who think that wild animals do not think and reason, too, simply don't know wild animals. Ask any old trapper, or hunter, and I think it is safe to state that as a general rule at least twelve moose or deer see and avoid the average hunter to every one that the hunter sees. And the hunter doesn't know it. But to the trained woodsman the story is as plain as the page of a book. He doesn't have to see the animal at all to know what it has done, and what happened.

Something that would not have any of these serious faults, and which could perform the service required. It is confidently believed by those who have been associated in the building of the Diesel electric cars and by those who have attended the tests that in it the ideal type of power has been found.

On a preliminary trial trip made recently the first 60-foot car, No. 15819, made the trip from Montreal to Toronto in approximately eight hours and thirty minutes actual running time. No difficulty was experienced and the engine was not stopped once between those two points.

On a side trip from Port Hope to Lakefield, the same day, the car handled a coach as a trailer, and it was able to negotiate very heavy grades at a moderate speed. The fuel oil consumption from Montreal to Toronto, including hauling trailer to Lakefield and taking into consideration all stand-by losses, averaged one gallon for 4.6 miles or about 10 per cent of the cost of fuel for similar steam operation. It is realized, of course, that difficulties will be experienced and that the performance of these cars will improve as time goes on and employees become better acquainted with their operation. To C. E. Brooks, chief of motive power of the Canadian National Railways and his associates, R. J. Needham and R. G. Gage, electrical engineers of the system, must go the credit, for the creation of the Diesel-Electric car, which it is hoped is the solution of the problem outlined. For more than three years they have been working on the idea and in the carrying out of the project which has been supported by Sir Henry Thornton, president, and S. J. Hungerford, vice-president, in charge of operation of the company.

It was following a visit Mr. Brooks paid to Sweden and Great Britain about two years ago that the plan took definite form and in spite of many discouragements which have attended their efforts on many occasions the idea has been carried through to a successful conclusion. With the exception of the Diesel engine and a specially constructed generator, which are of British manufacture, all the work on the new car has been done in Canada, the bulk of it at Point St. Charles shops of the Canadian National Railways, the car can therefore be truly named as Canadian in its conception and construction.

UNDER DISCUSSION

Opinion Expressed That A Close Season On Moose For Three Years Would Not Help The Situation Any—Our Glorious Heritage In Forest Fish And Game.

Also, the fire-swept lands are now covered with enough alder swamp and birch ridges to afford excellent cover for moose, and they certainly avail themselves of it. And what is more, they know they are hid, and they will in most cases stand, or lie there and watch or listen to the hunter tramp by; and if you go in after them they flee out the opposite side, and often not even the crack of a stick marks their going.

As for our deer, they can always hold their own and more, too. They are far harder to see, still harder to hit; and they breed very fast.

All the states of the United States have faced the problem of vanishing game, and they have tried many different plans, and have at last the one and only plan that will save the game for all time, and still give the public a fair show to get their game. And that plan is known as the game refuge or sanctuary. That is, a certain section of the country is set aside, in or on which absolutely no hunting, fishing or trapping is allowed, and the game is not disturbed.

Under these conditions game breeds fast and there would always be a constant overflow to restock the areas outside the sanctuary and we would always have our game.

If you were going to raise stock, would you, about the mating time, or shortly after, turn a lot of men loose with guns and tell them to shoot your stock? You would not. Therefore, why not have breeding grounds for the deer, where they will be safe from the hunter?

If the people of this province can put forth a better plan why not do so and let us all know what it is.

If they cannot why not have game sanctuaries? We could have at least three very nicely. One in northern New Brunswick and one each in the southwest and southeast New Brunswick. Then guard them well, and punish any person who violates them by a jail sentence of six months, and then the people of this province need have no fear for the future of our big game.

Also we need in this province an aroused public opinion on this subject, and we need a province wide organization of all decent sportsmen to assist the government in its efforts to protect our forest, game and fish and to bring all guilty parties to account.

The day has not yet come when we need to adopt panic-stricken measures; but if the people of New Brunswick don't soon take wise and far-seeing action to save our forests, game and fish, they will wake up some day to the hard facts and find we have nothing left to protect; and we have today one of the most glorious heritages on this or any other continent.

What are we going to do with it? It's up to us. No one else can or will save it for us.

NEW BRUNSWICK POTATOES

That there is a great future for New Brunswick's potato growing industry, if it is carried on in a careful, prudent and progressive manner. New Brunswick's soil and climate are adapted to the production of the best potatoes the world's markets know, but the great responsibility for keeping the present export trade and building up the business to the great heights which may be attained rests largely with the growers and the shippers, all those engaged in the industry. New Brunswick must at all costs maintain its reputation for producing the best potatoes. That reputation assures a market and for the best in anything there is always a demand.

EFFICIENCY OF LIGHTNING RODS

Rods Are Erected on Scientific Basis, and as Result of Improvement Fire Losses Have Greatly Decreased.

Almost daily one reads of some house or barn, in the province, having been struck by lightning.

According to well known authorities much of the damage caused by lightning can be avoided by proper precautions being taken.

A communication in The Mail and Empire of Toronto from George F. Lewis, Deputy Fire Marshal, carries much interesting and valuable information about the efficiency of lightning rods. He thinks that not more than 50 per cent of the buildings in rural Ontario are equipped with lightning rods and that of the number so equipped only about 10 per cent are protected with systems that conform to standard specifications under the Lightning Rod Act.

Since Benjamin Franklin scratched a thunderbolt from the heavens our knowledge of such matters has advanced. His lightning rods with a sharp end pointing to the sky were the subject of a hot debate. One, Benjamin Wilson, a painter and member of the Royal Society, who experimented with electricity, maintained that lightning rods must have knobs on the ends. George III, who took a keen interest in the discussion, declared that Wilson's experiments were sufficient to convince the apple women of Covent Garden and ordered the knob-end rods to be erected on his palaces. Then the dispute shot into politics. Advocates of the knob ends were considered Tories and those of the pointed rods were called disloyal and Jacobins.

Nowadays lightning rods are erected on a rational and scientific basis. Mr. Lewis points out that as a result of improvements in installations the percentage of losses among farmers due to lightning has greatly decreased. In cities losses from fires due to lightning are small owing to fire-fighting apparatus, but in the country a fire once started usually destroys the property. He states that standard lightning rod protective systems properly installed are 99 per cent effective in safeguarding life and property.

EDUCATION ON THE COAST

For all those directly interested in the cause of education on the Gaspe Coast, the recent convocation at the New Carlisle High School will hold a definite significance. In no way, perhaps, could the progress of education in that territory have been more fittingly demonstrated than by the recent meeting there, the sentiments expressed at that gathering and the underlying reason for the meeting itself.

Comparatively few years ago any demonstration of this kind were practically unthought of. One reason for this was that the actual work being accomplished did not warrant it. But on the other hand, the spirit and interest that is now felt in educational work on the coast did not then exist.

While it is hard to point out what actually brought about this change in educational affairs on the Gaspe Coast it is clear that the energetic efforts of a certain group of public-spirited persons, displayed in recent years, has done much to bring about the improved conditions and the healthy interest that now exists. The Girls School Home undertaking and its satisfactory completion is a fruit of this effort, an admirable achievement and also a most effective means of focusing the attention of parents on the importance of higher education.

The influence of School Inspector King has also doubtless had a most beneficial effect. Himself a teacher and scholar, he has proven an untiring exponent of better schools and better teaching methods. The direct results of his work are apparent in many localities on the coast. No one knows better than he the great importance of a good education to the child in after life and it would appear that through his efforts many of the formerly indifferent parents of this territory are coming to realize this truth and beginning to co-operate with the authorities in the hope that their children may secure better educational equipment for a successful career in whatever work they may later devote themselves to.

In New Carlisle the new interest being manifested in education is largely due to the erection of the fine School Residence there. In this undertaking Mr. J. S. Gordon, manager of the two Gaspe railways, was a leader and an energetic worker. In this alone he and the several others associated with him (unfortunately we have not a list on hand at this writing) have rendered their part of the country a service which will not be forgotten. But there is one other man who has done much to bring educational facilities up to their present standard in that community, and that is Mr. Harold McQuat, who for the past three years has been principal of the High School at New Carlisle. Instantly a teacher of judgement and tact, he practically revolutionized educational matters there. Taking over his responsible charge at a time when reform and improvement were sorely needed, he worked wonders on what was essentially a difficult task. Every department of the school was considered in his remarkable program and bottled have also been inspected and passed the test.

Why then should the health authorities attempt to persecute me particularly when so many of the other persons selling milk in the Town School in the Provincial Examinations this year is eloquent of his service and should be a source of great satisfaction to himself. Mr. McQuat is still a very young man and with such a brilliant beginning, he should go far and accomplish much in his chosen profession.

All of which, however, constitutes only a few random thoughts on a subject which would require much space if discussed at length. Our desire is merely to draw attention to the splendid progress being made in educational affairs on the coast and to express the hope that there may be no slackening of effort in a work which means so much in the development of any new country.

EDITOR'S MAIL

We are not responsible, nor do we necessarily agree with the sentiments expressed, or arguments set forth by correspondents in this column. These letters are published by the request of the writer who assumes all responsibility for the statements contained therein.

Campbellton, N. B.
 September 1, 1925.

Dear Mr. Editor:-

Will you kindly allow me space in your valuable paper to state the facts concerning a matter of vital importance to the people of Campbellton especially to those who have young babies in their homes. Just about two years ago I purchased the Maple Green Dairy from Mr. R. L. Hicks, who had been supplying the citizens of Campbellton with milk for several years. In taking over the business it was my aim to maintain a high standard of cleanliness and sanitation in handling the milk: Firstly by being exceedingly careful in the selection of persons from whom I bought my milk and I do not think that I exaggerate when I say that I am selling the best and cleanest milk coming in the town today. Secondly by installing modern and up-to-date equipment to handle the milk when brought to town to be bottled. A short time ago I was approached by the Red Cross Society to see whether I would pasteurize my milk. This I agreed to do not being aware of the cost. After I had carried this out for a time I discovered that the cost was too great and that I would have to discontinue. As a result of this I have been subjected to a great deal of abuse at the hands of the health authorities and the local milk inspector. (If this is not so I should be glad to have my statement contradicted by the persons named above.)

I understand that the milk Inspector that were some of the people of Campbellton to visit the premises of those from whom I buy my milk and was satisfied with the conditions he found. My own milk inspector, however, has also been inspected and passed the test.

I say without fear of contradiction that I am glad to have this opportunity to bring it to their attention. My position, Mr. Editor, is this: I am going to give the citizens of Campbellton GOOD CLEAN HEALTHY MILK, and as I have already stated I have gone to considerable trouble to do this. When I fail to live up to this I will be very glad to be checked by those whose business it is to safeguard the public health, and will always be perfectly willing to remedy defects. But I positively refuse to be ordered by the health authorities to install a pasteurization equipment at my own expense just to please them. The question of pasteurization, as I understand, is one which must be dealt with by the civic government, and when they rule that milk shall be pasteurized I together with the other local milk dealers will be perfectly willing to have this instruction carried out. Thanking you for your kindness in allowing me to publish my views on this matter, I remain,

 In the interest of Good Health,
 W. S. SHAW.

Hints For The Week-End Hostess

There are many problems, that confront the week-end hostess. She must decide just how much shall be spent on entertaining how many she may accommodate at one time, and just how much, available help she can depend upon, so that there may be extra time to enjoy her guests instead of working for them every minute.

The first thing the hostess should think of carefully is the subject of meals. They should be simple, be planned ahead, and be as informal as is possible to make them. If the meals can be served on the porch, so much the better. It is novel for city dwellers and the very informality makes even a simple meal a veritable feast. Use the simplest china, peasant ware if possible, that is colorful and attractive; no dishes that must be worried about, but the straw or cloth mat sets; plated ware instead of silver. And for luncheon, the paper napkins of large size can be used. Even the pretty paper plates with the fancy colored borders may be used to save labor. Regular hours for meals are helpful for both hostess and guests.

The wise hostess puts away her best spreads and bed fixings during the summer unless she has plenty of help to care for them. Instead she uses on the beds the little dimity spreads that are easy to wash and that look dainty and pretty when fresh and clean. This leaves the guest free to use the bed for a nap in the afternoon without worrying over taking the spread off and so on. It is also a good idea to fold a pair of summer blankets over a rod fastened to the closet door for extra use if needed. An extra pillow is often appreciated. If a request comes, then it may be used and added to the bed for that particular guest. A red electric bulb on the fixture in the hall nearest the bathroom is a good idea and saves many minutes hunting some one up to point the way. In helping people to help themselves the hostess really saves herself labor, time and energy, and also leaves the guest with honey and comfortable feelings.

MORE MONEY THAN EMIGRANTS

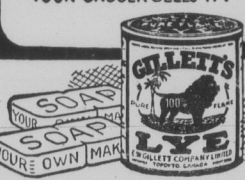

The British Government, under the Empire Settlement Act of 1922, voted $5,000,000 a year toward assisting emigration to the Dominions and more recently the British and Australian Governments provided a loan of $34,000,000 to promote family settlement from Great Britain to Australia. But the annual grants have been accumulating, as they cannot be spent. This is because in none of the Dominions is there any desire to accept the sort of emigrants the United Kingdom is most anxious to get rid of—city dwellers who are unfit for any other sort of life. In Australia and New Zealand this restrictive policy reached its limit. There the trade unions, which are legalized bodies, take a hand in the restriction policy. No British artisan or laborer, unless he is a member of the local trade union, can get a job, and the local trade union need not admit him unless or until it chooses. The Australian Dominions are not getting the kind of emigrants they want. Two-thirds of the population of the great island continent of Australia live in cities, and its rich lands remain uncultivated. Australia would welcome emigrants if they do not come empty-handed. They must possess a certain amount of capital. But even then the Government assistance up to now does not seem to have advanced the solution of the problem.

Make Your Own SOAP and Save Money!

GILLET'S PURE LYE FLAKE

STENOGRAPHER IS NOW COUNT-ESS

(New York World)

The Countess Victoria of Poland, who until Sunday had been Miss Victoria Augustynowicz, a stenographer, sat in her small furnished room at No. 163 West 9th, street yesterday and tried to catch up with things. She had obtained her title, not by marriage, but because the Consul General of Poland in New York had certified, after inquiry, that she was a direct descendant of St. Hyacinth, Archbishop John Tobiasz of Lemberg, and numerous Polish knights and nobles.

The important official documents with their large seals overwhelmed the Countess Victoria. She could scarcely believe the stamp of authenticity had been put upon her title. Of course she had known always that she was a Countess, for it was upon her own application that the Polish Government made its investigation.

Felix Augustynowicz, the Countess's father, came here thirty-five years ago with her mother and settled in Chicago. He died in 1915, and his wife in 1919. Then the Countess learned stenography and a few years ago, having pondered a long time over her father's stories of her aristocratic ancestors, set in motion the inquiry which brought Poland's approval of her title.

The Countess said she treasured her American citizenship more than any title in Europe, but admitted she was somewhat interested in obtaining the treasure which should go with her rank. This, she understands, amounts to the equivalent of eleven barrels of gold and a large quantity of jewelry which was confiscated.

Part of the money she plans to invest in commercial aviation and part she will use to aid indigent nobles here. She isn't engaged and her ideal man, she said, must be a he-man and an aviator.

ENGLAND LAUGHS "BAGS" TO DEATH

The fashion for wide trousers in England has been killed through being over-popularized and exaggerated to such an extent that the wearers became ridiculous.

A night or two ago, at a leading London restaurant, a man 6 feet tall was seen wearing trousers which completely hid his shoes. Anything more fantastic could not be imagined. In a London underground railway a few days ago the attendant was heard to say to an over-dressed young man: "Mind your skirts don't get caught in the gate!"

All this means that though trousers will still be worn wide when compared with a few seasons ago, anything extreme will be taboo. That set of well-dressed Englishmen whose influence on men's styles throughout the world is authoritative have during the past month or six weeks given their tailors instructions: "No more wide trousers."

As a result of this, the proportionate measurements at the knee and over the boot are given according to the height of the wearer of those trousers which, though wide, will still be good style. A man 5 ft. 8 or 9 in. should have his trousers 21½ inches to 22 inches at the knee, and 19 inches round the boot. A man of 6 feet can wear them 22 inches at the knee and 20 inches round the boot. This in itself is wider trousers than two or three years ago, when the average width was 16 inches over the boot and 19 to 20 inches at the knee.

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back, and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Ross, 580 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said an Operation

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a healthy girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Adams, Box 64, Provost, Alberta.
