TO SEVERE CRITICISM

The Ladies' Advisory Board Arouse Hospital Trust.

Report That Details of Management Need Improvement.

Consensus of Opinion That the Condition of Affairs Reported Is Not Flattering to Trust.

Some matters of considerable importance came before the hospital trust at its meeting yesterday afternoon, That in which most interest was taken, which caused most discussion, was brought to the trust's notice by a letter presented by the ladies' advisory board, whose members have frequently visited Victoria Hospital, and observed that which they believed needed improvement, subsequently embodying the results of their investigations into the communication received yesterday. It stated that the ladies had lately found things anything but satisfactory. They had several complaints made to them, the most frequent being about the food, which was very unappetizing, the soup, for instance, being so greasy that the patients could not take it. The ladies wanted to know who was responsible for this, *and also for the condition of the floors, which are not kept clean, one lady reporting them so dirty as to be unsanitary. Complaints were still being made about the clothes of both the patients and nurses becoming moldy and unfit for use after hanging in the basement. This mat-ter was brought up in the early spring, and it was then suggested that large cupboards might be made for the corners of the corridors that would answer the purpose. The ladies' board suggested that it was a mistake to allow the children in good health to occupy the children's pavilion, thereby causing annoyance to the sick children, and taking up the time of the nurses. which was otherwise required.

The members of the trust were agreed that the report was anything but flat-Liquor License Act—Notice Is hereby given that the Commissioners of East Middlesex will meet in their office. 216 Dundas St., corner Park Ave. They themselves had heard that the food was not what it should be; and considered that there was little excuse for such a condition of affairs at the new hospital. The superintendent's explanation was that the kitchen was so far from the different wards that the food was cooled. He said, too, that the nurses had instructions to notify him of complaints about the cooking, and he had not heard a single complaint for months. The trustees felt that an improvement should be made, and had to be made, and Mr. Beck, in particular, criticised the man. agement severely, saying that the su-perintendent was paid to stay at the nospital and oversee things, so why couldn't he bring the matters before Dr. Balfour replied that there was not a man in London who gave more time to his business than he did to the hospital. In fourteen years, he had only been away one week, and that was when he was ill. As for spending time outside, he said he delivered 25 lecture of one hour each, at the Medical School every year, and his connection with the insurance company only occupied about 20 minutes of his time in the evening. He was not the medical examiner, but simply the re-

Finally the whole matter was refered to the chairman and the superintendent. Dr. Balfour reported that of the $5,000 additional appropriation made by the council, $2,517 was yet in the hands of the trust. A portion of this will be used in fitting up a laundry in the kitchen, boiler-room and coal sheds of the old building, which is suitably situated for laundry purposes. He re-ported also that he had the telephone system in the hospital examined by an expert, who found the wiring through the building and the instruments in good working order. The switchboard in the office was at fault, and the trust decided to have it replaced. The system has been in a very unsatisfactory

Gunn appeared on behalf of Contractor Grant to ask that the claim of $275 against the contractor for the use of the city stonecrush. er on the springbank dam be reduced. He drew attention to the misfortunes under which the contractor labored in the execution of the work, and stated that Mr. Grant was under the impression that the loan of the machine was to be paid for only on those days on which it has been put to use. With this in view, he had kept a complete record, showing that the crusher had been used on 38 days, which, at $3 per day, would make the amount due the city, $114. Mr. Gunn also drew attention to the fact that $91 76 had been spent in repairs while the machine was in Mr. Grant's hands. The committee, having no power, referred the matter to the council for

WANT ROBERTS!

To Go Back to South Africa --- Kitchener Regarded by Some as a Failure --- Kipling Scores War Office.

Kipling in a striking letter to the Spec-national feeling that has prevailed this week without regard to party politics. "Men see," adds Mr. Kipling, "that the chosen commanders are not quite in touch with the real army, which with a little taet and a little seriousness, might so easily survive. It is not the triviality or inaptitude displayed in this matter that appeals, but the cynical levity."

Very much on these lines all the weeklies regardless of politics take the government to task. "The English people"-again to quote from Mr. Kipling's letter-"have paid no small price in money and in blood that there might be born an army handled by fit and proven leaders."

WANTS ROBERTS SENT BACK. The Spectator, although among the most cautious of the government's supporters, comes out boldly with a declaration that the appointments of Generals Buller and Wood are absurd, but also with a demand that Lord Kitchener be recalled. This demand is unmistakably worded.

From the moment Lord Roberts left South Africa we seemed to lose our strategic grasp on the country, says the Spectator, and it urges, though without much hope, that its sug-gestion be accepted, that Lord Rob-erts be sent out again. According to the Spectator, Lord Kitchener "has accomplished nothing in a year except by the process of attrition." It compares his methods with those of Grant, but

He declared that the military situation in South Africa was now "not less momentous than when the Boer armies threw themselves into Natal at the beginning of the war," and that the today "confronts difficulties and dangers more embarrassing than those which hung over it in the black week of December, 1899."

ANOTHER WAR LOAN (?) London, Friday, Oct. 5.-The Daily News bases upon the latest returns of ational income and expenditure, an article contending that the government's financial position is so serious that it may be necessary at any moment to summon parliament to provide more money for the war. News figures that the revenue is far below the expenditure, which is far above the estimates. It predicts further loans, and generally regards the outlook as most serious.

FORTY BRITISH TROOPERS. Klerksdorp, Oct. 5 .- Forty men, mostly of the 13th Hussars, and a few Imperial Bushmen, went in the direction of the race course just outside They saw about twenty Boers, and gave chase, running into a cleverly-set trap. At the same timethey discovered that another body of Boers had closed in behind them. They thus found themselves surrounded by some 300 Boers. At the time our men were mostly dismounted. They made a fight for it, stampeding their horses, the majority of which galloped back to the town. A sharp though short fight ensued, some of the Hussars using their swords. The result of the encounter was that two of our men were killed and six or eight wounded, while the Boers are reported to have lost six killed and about a dozen wounded. Some of our men were taken prisoners, but were released after the usual stripping.

BRITISH SCOUT KILLED. Durban, Oct. 5.—The Boer attacked a border post in Zululand at the end of last week and Lieut. Durham, chief scout of the Dundee division, was killed. Lieut. #### COLUMBIA SAVES THE CUP

Shamrock Turned the Outer Mark in the Lead,

But Barr Sent the Defender Ahead on the Beat Home and the Columbia Won.

New York, Oct. 4. - With victory flags flying in honor of her concluding triumph in the cup races of 1901, the gallant sloop Columbia returned to her anchorage tonight under the escort of the entire excursion fleet. She today completed her defense of the honored trophy in another stirring race with the Shamrock II. over a leeward and windward course of 30 miles, crossing the finish line but winning on the time allowance conceded by Lipton boat by 41 seconds. For the second time she has now successfully foiled the attempt of the Irish knight to wrest the cup that means the yachting supremacy of the world. PLUCKY SIR THOMAS.

TWO SECONDS BEHIND HER AN-TAGONIST,

And plucky Sir Thomas Lipton, standing on the bridge of the Erin, led his guests in three hearty hurrahs for the successful defender. "She is the better boat," he said, "and she deserves to be cheered." The series of races just closed will always be memorable as the closest ever sailed for the cup and Sir closest ever sailed for the cup, and Sir Thomas Lipton, although defeated, but not dismayed, will go home with the satisfaction of knowing that his golden boat is the ablest boat that has ever crossed the western ocean. During the series of races not an untoward incident has occurred, and Sir Thomas Lip-ton will return to England by far the most popular of all the foreigners who have challenged for the trophy.

PICTURESQUE. The contest of the yachts, fleeing before the falling wind, was picturesque, but not exciting. The big racers, like gulls with outstretched pinions, had every inch of canvas spread, and all their light sails, including bulging spinnakers and balloon jib topsails. Their crews were gathered aft to keep the ead of the boats up, and therefore until the outer mark was reached it was merely a question of holding on to all the canvas and letting the wind do the Notwithstanding the Columbia beat the Shamrock before the wind last Saturday, the challenger today gained slowly but steadily all the way out, and rounded forty seconds before the defender, having actually gained a minute and four seconds. WIND BECAME FLUKY. Immediately after the yachts turned their noses into the wind for the beat home, the breeze moderated and turned fluky. The skippers split tacks, each searching for wind, with the result that first one would get a life and then the other. At one time Columbia seemed a mile ahead, when a sudden slant of the wind allowed the Shamrock to point nearer the mark, and a mile from home the challenger appeared to be leading by half a mile.

NEAR THE FINISH.

The talent began to feel nervous, but as the yachts approached the finish the Yankee skipper, by some miraculous legerdemain, shoved into the light air like a phantom ship, and 100 yards from home the two racers were almost on even terms. It was a pretty sight, and one seldom witnessed when they crossed rail to rail, the white boat's bowsprit just lapping the golden boat's mast.

The usual pandemonium followed. Whistles, sirens, bells, bands and by firing a national salute of 21 guns.

HONORS DIVIDED. After the Columbia had hauled down her sails and set her victory flag, the excursion boats crowded alongside to the crowded steamers ran alongside the Shamrock and Erin, and the vanquished received almost as much honor as the victor. And thus, with felicitations all around the twelfth series of races ended for the old cup with the best of feeling. THE FINAL STRUGGLE.

At 3:17 the Shamrock went on the starboard tack, being then about a mile and a half from the lightship. She held this tack towards the Jersey shore until she met the Columbia. The Shamrock forced her about, and then swinging around on the port tack, headed for the line. The Columbia followed her immediately. The boats were now headed straight for the finsh, Shamrock having the weather, and looked like a safe lead. It was now merely a question of whether or not the American boat could get to the coveted finish line within her 43 seconds of leeway behind the other boat. At 3:30 they both went on the star-board tack, the Shamrock taking the lead in this maneuver. All that time the Columbia was just underneath the Shamrock's lee bow. It was heartbreaking, and the seconds dragged like minutes. As they drew near the line it was seen that the Shamrock was facing a hard proposition. Almost as one boat they went across the line, the Shamrock first, but the Columbia so close behind her that it made no difference. Thus Columbia won in three straight races. She is the victor of 1901, and the old America's cup again is safe to America. The official time of turning the out-er mark was as follows: Shamrock, 12:48:46; Columbia, 12:49:35. Thus, on the run straight down the wind, the challenger had gained, according to offiial time, 49 seconds, but in reality she had done better than this, for to this 49 seconds are to be added the 15 seconds which the Columbia led her over the starting mark. Shamrock crossed the finish line at 3:35:35. Columbia, 3:35:37.

A FAIR BEAT. Hardly had the Erin's anchors touched bottom when a launch from the Corsair came alongside bearing the regatta of the New York Yacht

EXCHANGE OF CREWS. London, Oct. 5.-There is a feeling of supreme disappointment in London over the failure of the Shamrock II. to win even a single race. Those who denounced Sir Thomas Lipton's ambition, asserting that he was using his yacht to advance his business interests, now realize that his sportsmanlike efforts deserved a better result The question is much debated here as to whether the defeat of the challenger was due to the superiority of American seamanship or the better constructive ability of the Americans. With a view of settling this question, the Daily Express has cabled Commodore Morgan and Sir Thomas that they arrange a race with the crew of the Columbia on board the Shamrock, and the crew of the challenger on board the defender.

LONDON TOWNSHIP'S

Fine Display of Horses and Cattle-The Prize List.

The Township of London Agriculbygone years, it was in every particular an unqualified success. The crowd was large and good-natured, the number of exhibits was in excess of last year, while the judges performed their duties promptly and without showing the least partiality, the latter fact being an important one in a small show retaining its popularity especially among its own people.

J. H. McRae (president), G. Long (vice-president), and P. Bowey (secretary) tary)-treasurer) deserve praise for the perfect arrangements and the smooth way in which the fair machinery ran. The names of the directors are: R. W. Jackson, J. H. Hodgins, W. West, J. Winters, W. Fleming, R. A. Powell, G. A. Scott, E. Porter, Dr. Orme, R. H. Little, H. Needham, J. Beacon. The day was at times rather too cold for comfort, but as nobody could be blamed the crowd took no notice of the fact and went in a neighborly fashion to enjoy each other's company, which, after all, is one of the main features that attract people for miles around to the average country fair. The Lucan Band enlivened the occasion with various melodies, played in good style, and were accorded a good deal of applause during the day. There were a number of visitors from London, some of whom are as regular in attendance as the villagers them-

J. M. Hickey, manager of Grafton & Co., had an attractive display on the grounds that interested a big crowd. While the exhibits in general were numerous and of a good quality, perhaps the show of live stock has never been excelled. Horses were entered in large numbers, making a splendid showing also in the breed, and several admirers ventured the opinion that some of the animals were almost perfect specimens of horse flesh. Grafton & Co.'s special prize of $18 brought in competition three spanking bay teams of general purpose horses, the entire outfit to be considered in awarding the prize. W. Scott won first, Ed. Guest second and E. McLurg third. The past year many thousands of dol-lars have been left in the pockets of farmers in this district for horses, the prices of which are quite satisfactory, and those interested in the fair regarded with pride the splendid exhibit in this important branch of farming, which seemed to indicate the progressiveness of London town-

Cattle-raising is also another industry in which the wide-awake farmer is vitally interested. The quality of the las, W. Headley; red garden carrots entries yesterday was commented upon as being exceptionally good. Large amounts are annually paid in this section for stock of various kinds and the importance of the industry is realized. The display of sheep was not large, but of a spiendid quality. The display of fruit was rather small.

Many envious eyes were cast at the splendid display of home-made lead and about the entire exhibit was purchased perhaps by husbands who took it home to show their wives how a loaf ooked when perfectly baked. Some delicious pies and cakes tempted many visitors to sample them, and the exhibitors seemed pleased at the attention bestowed on their handiwork The display of grain was small: so was that of vegetables. A few giant mangolds fraternized with some healthy-looking pumpkins, but the display was not large. Chickens did not cut much of a figure in this year's show. There was the usual number of slickongued fakirs, some of whom had attractive games, whereby people could become suddenly rich, but few seemed anxious about the matter, and kept their money secure. Following is

'An Ounce of Prevention is Worth a Pound of Cure.'

These two mottoes have been the guide and life-work of the distinguished Dr. Hartman, president of the Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio He has written more to teach the people how to prevent disease than any other living writer. He says the month of October with its lower temperature and equinoxial storms is liable to be a trying one and dangerous to people who have weak lungs or are disposed to catarrh. In this month fall weather begins. Colds, coughs, sore throat and hoarseness, all of which are sure to set up chronic catarrh or consumption, are acquired in this month more than in any other. Thousand upon thousands begin their downward road from health to disease in this month. A bottle of Peruna rightly used at this season is of value untold. Peruna cures catarrh.cures colds, cures coughs, cures la grippe, cures all diseases due to catarrhal congestion of the mucous membranes lining the head, throat, bronchial tubes, lungs, stomach, kidnevs and pelvic organs. Mr. Silvanus Wray, No. 874 Dundas street, London, Ont., is Warden of Chosen Friends, writes:

"Peruna is especially successful in curing catarrhal affection of the lungs and bronchial tubes, and is therefore a most welcome medicine for this country. Three bottles cured me last winter of catarrh in the head and throat, and a number of my friends similarly afflicted have verified my good opinion of this valuable remedy. "I have yet to hear one unfavorable report, and am therefore persuaded that it is but just and proper that I give Peruna my unqualified approval, and indorse it." D. J. BRODERICK.

The Coming Road Motor—Striking Prophecy.

One of the most interesting addresses at the late meeting of the British Association was that given by Mr. N. P. Macdenald, on the future of motor cars. Mr. Macdonald believes that for short distances the electric car of the future will replace the old railway system, just as the steam underground railway in London has had to give place to the electric system, of which the "twopenny tube," which runs through the heart of the metropolis from Shepherd's Bush to the Bank, is a splendid

This change need not surprise the railways, for already on this continent electric railways have come to stay, though they have not yet been tried for very long distances. However, when we consider that as late as 1883 the editor of the leading engineering magazine in America expressed the conviction that electricity could never be profitably turned to account in propelling railway cars - even street railway cars - we need not be astonished to find many changes near future. We may even live to see the day when the trains on the Grand Trunk and C. P. R. lines running through this city may have their cars propelled by electricity obtained from harnessing the power that now runs to waste at Niagara Falls. On line with this idea is the prophecy of Sir Hiram Maxim, who the other day astonished old Londoners by foretelling the construction of an electric railway to Brighton, some 60 miles long, by which the traveler may leave Brighton at 10 o'clock and arrive in London half an hour later.

Mr. Macdonald had, however, but reached the beginning of his prophecy when he expressed his conviction that in the very near future the usefulness of the electric car would be vastly increased. The motor car, in his view. is to be the favorite means of transit in the future. It will, he says, be found to be more convenient, swifter, safer and handier, than either the electric train or electric street railway. Mr. Macdonald is no doubt quite right in at least a part of his statement of the merits of the motor car. It may be swifter and more convenient than either the street car or electric railway of today. But how Mr. Macdonald reaches the conclusion that it will be safer we confess to be puzzled to make out. We read of the perilous chances that were taken by the manipulators of the automobiles in the international race that took place in France and Germany last summer, and we can think of no road rules that would make the highways safe for either vehicular transit or pedestrians, if the new motors were to be let loose on them at the speed that Mr. Macdonald foreshadows. At present railways and their electric competitors have a clear course before them; but the motor car careers along the highway with a terrific speed, the dust raised oftentimes entirely enveloping the occupant and everything that is near him and his "fiery steed." The very outfit of the occupant of the automobile of today betokens the discomfort that he has to undergo in order to "enjoy" his ride. He wears a heavy coat, and he is compelled to guard his eyes with green goggles. On a hot day these discomforting precautions are such as would deter all but the most enthusiastic motor-men from

We see little chance of Mr. Macdonald's prophecies being realized with recars until such time as we have noiseless motors and highways that will per- | this continent, and some even go the mit of the vehicles running their full | length of saying that they consider it speed without endangering the lives of is only a question of time when the pedestrians or running the risk of be- neighboring republic will have aning wrecked by collisions with other nexed to it, not only these republics, vehicles. One thing is certain, in this country, at any rate, the ordinary roads | minion do not subscribe to any such will have to be greatly improved before extravagant doctrine, but it is well the motor car becomes a safe and speedy means of locomotion. We are try, should take note of the aspiraaway behind the old world in this respect, for already they have a great many traction engines conveying trucks along the highway at a considerable rate of speed, and saving money for those who are compelled to use roads for the carriage of heavy goods. This they could not do if the roads were not kept in the very best of repair. Such highways can be most readily turned to account in the era of the motor carriage, which may be nearer than many of us believe. These facts explain why the old world is leading in the use of these new means of locomo-

It is six months since the royal visitors left home and they would be less than human if they were not extremely anxious to see the little ones, the youngest of which is only 18 months old. For this, if for no other reason, London is quite contented that the stay of their Royal Highnesses here shall not be prolonged, but shall be as enthusiastic as it has been sire that Great Britain shall be re- progressive and prosperity-promoting

A Silly Cry Fitly Rebuked.

We want it distinctly understood that Tarte" is a leading "issue" in this Local election in Nova Scotia. The Halifax Herald (Conservative) says so. 'Tarte' is of French descent. Tarte s a Liberal. Therefore, down with the party of which he is a member. That is the only way to build up a united Canada.-Halifax Chronicle.

Fortunately, the result of the gen eral elections in Nova Scotia, where it was attempted to make the Minister of Public Works an Opposition scarecrow, affords as little menace for the continued unity of the nation as it supplies comfort for the mischief-making Opposition. The people paid no attention to the silly attempt to make capital for the Conservative Opposition by berating and misrepresenting Mr. Tarte, and by an overwhelming majority voted to sustain the Government-to let well enough alone.

As the same tactics have recently been resorted to by the Opposition in Ontario, we shall look for a similar exhibition of good sense on the part of the electors when the approaching general elections take place.

The people of Ontario are not less far-seeing and self-respecting than those of the Maritime Provinces.

Why a Wilderness?

Says the Toronto News, an Opposition journal: "For twenty years New Ontario was an unknown wilderness and tens of thousands of desirable settlers passed through it to Manitoba and the Northwest. Who is responsible for the neglect?" The question is not difficult to answer, when it is remembered that the political friends of the News worked overtime deprecating the value of the territory, and urging that it was not worth retaining by the Ontario Government, and ought to be handed over, without further ado, by the Premier of this Province to the Dominion Government, which had re- ever. solved to annex it to Manitoba. Mr. Whitney, the present Opposition leader, is apparently in accord with the traditions of his party, for only the other day he referred to this magnificent heritage of the people of Ontario as "the land of the stunted poplar." Now he wishes he had been more guarded in his metaphor.

The United States and South America.

As South American conflicts go, these two republics are now believed to be at war. though we are told by the telegraph that Colombia has the added trouble of a revolution, with General Uribe-Uribe at its head. What it is all about, it is not easy for outsiders to gather; but we observe it freely asserted that there would be no trouble in either Venezuela or Colombia but for the jingoes of the United States. The object of the disturbance, it is maintained, is to create such a condition of affairs as would justify the employment of the grasping hand of the United States. Is this a swellfounded assumption? We can only judge by the trend of events and by contentions of United States formulators of public opinion. One cannot fail to observe with what persistency so many of the leading newspapers, and many of the statesmen of the United States, talk of the "manifest destiny" of their country, and hold to the view that it is foreordained, as it were, that the United States shall exercise the preponderating influence on this continent. Asked what they mean by the phrase "prependerating influence," the invariable reply is that they consider the interests of the United States shall be paramount on but Canada. Of course, we in the Dothat we, as well as the mother countion of these United States jingoes.

The statesmen of the British nation ought not to close their eyes to the turn that has been given to affairs in these later years and to the wholesale departure by the United States from the position taken up by its statesmen in former times.

One reason why the United States regards herself as the arbiter of South American disputes is her interest in the isthmus and the proposed ship canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, this canal was to be built un-Britain and the United States. It was to be maintzined in strict neutrality Mr. Whitney will succeed on polling it does appear as if the United States aimed to keep the canal as a kind of preserve for itself, in war as well as in peace. This ambition has doubtless magnified, in United States' eyes, the importance of securing control not only of Nicaragua, as opportunity may offer, but also of the states immediately south of the isthmus. A republic, which had only the establishment of a more peaceful condition of affairs than now exists, could best promote the interests of international amity and the progress of the countries affected by using its kindly offices to promote the re-establishment of good order, leaving Santos-Dumont, the French Aerothe management of the affairs of the disturbed regions to the people within their borders. We shall see how far the new President of the United States and his associates are prepared to carry out this view, which twas undoubtedly the attitude taken by the fathers of the republic, and how far Great Britain and other European countries, having either territorial or trade interests on this continent, are prepared to accent the doctrine that the provisions of the Clayton-Bulwer should be set aside. and the United States control of the interoceanic canal between the Atlantic and the Pacific, and permitted to annex the neighboring Central and South American States, on the plea that it ating and prolonging needless compliis "inevitable that there should be a cations with well-wishing powers. progressive absorption of the interior states by the great republic of the

These are very bad times for Opposition parties. Mr. Whitney will have to whistle louder than ever to keep his courage above zero.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the British Liberal leader, is well thought of where he is best known. The other day he celebrated his 65th birthday, and the 33rd anniversary of his being elected to represent the Stirling Burghs in the Imperial Parliament.

Down in Nova Scotia the Opposition attempted to discredit the Liberal Government that was so handsomely susained in the election on Wednesday by representing that Hon. Montague is making speeches "at his Jesuits, Assumptionists, Carmelites own expense" in Australia. Nonsense. Dr. Montague is in Australia at the expense of the Independent Order of Foresters, and his expenses, from start to finish, are paid by that organization. ' . Montague does not talk for nothing; with him talk is not cheap.

Charles Tupper, in the leadership of the Opposition, undertook to supervise the Nova Scotia elections. He went down into the constituencies to organize victory, but came out of the campaign a sadder, if not a wiser man. He did not prophesy, as did his predecessor, or it might have fared ill with even the two Opposition candidates who managed to squeeze in.

The Hamilton city solicitor has been told he will have to walk the plank unless he wins a coming lawsuit that the corporation is a party to. What if the corporation is really in the wrong, and it is so decided by the courts? Surely the aldermen would not be so mean as to decapitate their legal adviser if he lost under such circumstances. Many a good lawyer finds himself on the losing side; if it were not so, there would be few lawsuits.

The Hamilton Spectator takes a daily snarl at the Prime Minister of Canada because, as all Prime Ministers have done in other parts of the British dominions, he has accompanied the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York on their tour through this country. What annoys our contemporary is that it is Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the Liberal leader, and not Sir Charles Tupper, who has the distinguished honor of being Canada's First Minister.

The revival of the agitation for the union of Newfoundland with Canada suggests the one great difficulty in the way-the dispute between Great Britain and France as to the right of fishermen belonging to that republic to the use of the foreshores of the island. Once that knotty question is fairly disposed of we believe Newfoundland would be joined to the Confederation, with all the rights and privileges that belong to a province of this great nation, inside of twelve months. What is Great Britain doing? Canada stands ready to act. The Montreal Gazette is extremely anxious to have the Opposition win in der the joint supervision of Great the next Ontario elections. The fall trade at Montreal is showing considerable activity, and the movement appears to pretty well up to expectations. Retailers are sending a good volume of sorting orders for various lines of staple goods, and apparently they look for a considerable increase in business this month. Values of goods in the hands of jobbers are mostly firm, there being little or no disposition to cut prices. Payments are very fair. There has been quite an increase in the volume of trade at Hamilton. Travelers' orders are large, and in most cases retailers are calling for prompt shipment. Payments have been better since the marketing of farm produce increased.

In London there is more activity in the jobbing trade. The large attendance of farmers at the country markets, bringing in grain and other proluce, created a better and improved payment. The outlook is bright.

The royal visit at the coast cities had the effect of stimulating trade in a good many retail lines, and jobbers ation was wildest in corn, as might be at Vancouver and Victoria have many past two weeks. The fall trade is picking up. Payments are only fair.

NO MYSTERY!

Mrs. Hall' Explains 'Husband's' Masquerading as a Male.

Found It Gave Her Freedom of Action and Insured Safety in Traveling.

New York, Oct. 5. - The story of Miss Caroline Winslow Hall, who died on the steamer Citta di Torina last Monday, and who for years had masqueraded in men's clothing in Italy and elsewhere, as told by Miss Rosalia Baldelli, who has passed as Hall's wife, is interesting.

Miss Baldelli, or "Mrs. Charles Winslow Hall," as her "husband" called her, is unable to speak English, and converses in Italian through an inter-preter. She is of medium size, has dark hair and eyes, and is quite of an Italian type. Seated in the saloon of the ship she said, with an occasional outburst of tears: "I met Caroline Winslow Hall ten years ago while living in Milan, Italy, where I was engaged as a teacher in a government school. She told me that she was an American, that her name was Caroline Winslow Hall and that her home was in Boston. She explained that she was attending an art school, having come to Italy for the purpose of studying

We were mutually attracted almost at once. She was very engaging and fascinating, of much intellect, and I felt drawn toward her. One day she told me she had no sisters or prothers, and that she desired me to take the place of a sister. From that time we were together almost constantly. She was then attending the Breize Art School in Milan. The students were nearly all young men and Miss Hall therefore adopted a man's ccat and trousers as a working costume, as did the other female students.

"After she left the art school we traveled through !taly and elsewhere together. It was not until 1897 that she decided to assume the guise of a man, because she believed we would be subjected to less annoyance if she were men's clothing. She assumed the name of Charles Winslow Hall, and said that I should take the name of Guisepanni Hall, her wife. We tra-veled for three years more, and at no time was her sex questioned. 'Just before her death she told me she desired me to have all her propertv. I do not know what I shall do now that she is gone, for I loved her so.' Caroline Hall was an admin nitator of Rosa Bonheur, the animal painter. She was be hter of John R. Hall, a wellknown Boston architect. "Miss Hall was eccentric," said a relative, "and that is all there is in the whole matter. She left here to go abroad when she was about 17 years old. Her mother, a Boston woman and very fond of art, went with her and remained abroad about five years before returning to this country. "Miss Hall had been abroad all the time for the last 20 years, except for a time about nine years ago, when she accompanied her mother on one of her trips home. She and her mother have a country place just outside Milan, where Miss Hall enjoyed her outdoor life and spent much time shooting and lunting. She was a good shot with a rifle, and when on her hunting trips she was accustomed to dress in men's freedom, of course, and nothing was thought of it over there "In fact. I believe her change to men's clothing as her permanent dress came about because of her liking fo the hunting costume; for she was not regarded by any of her relatives as anything but sound in mind. There was no insanity about it. The Italian woman mentioned in the morning dispatches, I believe, was an artist friend of Miss Hall, who had spent much time with her at Milan, and who work-

Mr. Abbott's health had been failing for some time, and his death, which took place at Malvern last week, was not altogether unexpected. Mr. Abbott, who was first scholar and then fellow of Balliol, was in the first class in classical moderations in 1864, and again in the school of literae humaniores in 1866. He gained the Gaisford prize for Greek verse in 1864, and filled the office of classical moderator in 1883 and again in 1893-94. Shortly after taking his degree, Mr. Abbott was struck with an incurable paralysis of the lower limbs, which resulted in his being a prostrate invalid throughout his life. The past and the remembrance it have a never-ending power; and if painful longings arise to give ourselves up to it, it has yet an inexpressible charm. We can shut ourselves up in thought with those whom we have loved and lost-we can turn away in peace and freedom from all that is external, and though still active and beneficent, for ourselves we ask nothing, for everything that the heart has the power to enjoy is within our breast .- Wilhelm Von Humboldt.

Difficulty is a severe instructor, set over us by the supreme ordinance of a parental guardian and legislator, who knows us better than we know ourselves, and he loves us better too. He that wrestles with us, strengthens our nerves, and sharpens our skill Our antagonist is our helper. This amicable conflict with difficulty obliges us to an intimate acquaintance with our object, and compels us to

I think we may assert that in a hundred men there are more than ninety who are what they are, good or bad, useful or pernicious to society, from opinions worth mentioning on any subject, the humblest or most ignorant can set up a temper. Nothing can deal with tempers except conscience and time. I have known young married couples with whom it was unpleasant to be in the house during the first year of their marriage; and yet habit and sheer necessity made their society tolerable within two years, and posttively agreeable in five. The presence of children is a help to this compatibleness, as being the one possession absolutely shared and necessarily accepted by each parent. Another great aid to the harmonizing of tempersindeed something priceless, as a permanent rule-is to study mutually what may be called the equation of considering, when husband and wife differ about any matter, which of the two has really the most reason to care about it. Thus it may sometimes make little difference to the wife whether breakfast is early or late, while a late breakfast may cost the husband his morning train; or a ontempt."

It must not, however, be forgotten that the husbandman of antiquity, as the nusband his morning train, or a carriage may be a very important matter with a wife with her skirts to take care of, while it may make no serious difference to the husband whether he walks or rides. It is surely sacrifice, on any matter, than that the other should make a far greater one. Many a household jar which would have left prolonged stings behind it, if made a mere test of will and persistence, is settled easily when the equaton of preference is applied to it, and each is ready to make a little sacrifice to save the other from a greater one.

> So far from accepting the theory that marriage is justly to be regarded as a business transaction, I should claim to be one of the best means of securing happiness in married life that young people should not love each other warmly, but should begin poor, if possible, and thus have the discipline of mutual sacrifices, and pleasure of making their way upward in prosperity by gradual steps. It is one of the merits of human nature, or at least of American nature, that a young girl may be brought up to every luxury, and may still, after marrying the man she loves, take a positive delight in sacrificing, for his sake, all her previous ways of living; and she will do the honors of the log cabin as if it were an ancestral hall. knew a young girl connected with a fashionable New York family, a person of whom her aunt said to me that, of all the girls she had ever known, this one was the least fitted to be a poor man's wife. She became the wife of a young naval officer who was not even a lieutenant, but only ensign; and she went and lived with him at a naval station, and managed so well as to save money on his first of married life seems to me very desirable. I am conscious of no stoical aversion to wealth, but I think it is bad thing fer young people to begin with; that they are better off without it, and that it always gives them a sense of security to look back in later life on their day of small means.

DISADVANTAGE OF BEING RICH.

One needs to know Mr. Willaim Vanderbilt well before he will become communicative; but of all the "t'othersiders" who have shown a predilection for European society, he is one of the most worthy. There is not a little finger's worth of snobbery in his whole body, and in the fifty-two years of his life he has probably never done a mean act.

"My life was never destined to be quite happy," he said to me, sitting on the Valiant's deck, under the stars. You see, I have nothing to hope for -nothing sufficiently definite to be sought after, that is." "Is great wealth a handicap to happiness, then?" "Inherited wealth—yes. It is as certain death to ambition as-well, as cocaine is to morality. If a man makes money, he spends it right along; it's part of his business in life.'

"And you?" "I?" The point blank query seemed to startle him. "Oh, I get all the fun I can out of things, and I'm quite pleased if other folks get something out of me."

"And do you really find managing your wealth a burden?" "Not exactly a burden, but a distinct nuisance. Still, what is the use of talking about it? It can't be helped: I must see to it. That, too, is one of the disadvantages of being rich."-From on interview with Mr. Vanderbilt in the Week-End of London.

WOMEN ON FARMS

Large Army of Them Employed in Western

It is said that fully half a million women are employed in the Western a little loafing spell under the trees, States as harvest laborers and gener- and we stop work at 5:30 o'clock, exal farm hands. This is accounted for by the numerous improvements in agnot care for that, however, for the ricultural machinery, which enable the overtime when the busy season is women to do the work as easily as a man, and also by the large number of women who own farms and manage them themselves. This is especially true in Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Nebraska and Minnesota, where there are farms of 1,000 acres belonging to women. Persons who are acquainted with life in those states assert that in many cases the women make more money out of the farms than did the husbands or fathers from whom they inherited them.

A woman, lately returned from Kansas, said the other day: "It is really a pretty and interesting sight to see the women in the fields raking hay, binding grain, driving the horses attached to the mowing and other machines. It cannot be harder work than to slave in a kitchen or stand all day behind a counter, and it certainly is much more healthful! One of them said to me when I asked her how she came to take up that work: "Why, it was all because of the Spanish war, you know. All the young men were away and the field work had to be done or we would starve. So we set done or we would starve. So we set about it, we women, and liked it so well that we do not mean to give it up. I have been in a big store in Chicago, and you do not catch me goin, back. watched as if we were pickpockets. The men who work with us are often more civil than the shop clerks. "It may seem a little early to rise time enough to feed the horses before the 6:30 breakfast, but it is the pleasantest part of the day after you get used to it. About 7:30 o'clock we are in the fields beginning work. At noon we have an hour for dinner and cept in the busiest season, when we over. We get good wages, ranging from $1 50 to $2 50 a day, and I've heard of girls earning a good deal more than that in harvest time, when hands are scarce. "Lots of young women have come out on farms this summer and last from the cities. They enjoy the change; it is good for their health, and they go back with money enough to last while they learn a trade, such as dressmaking or millinery or typewriting. There was one girl here last summer who earned money enough to pay her way through college in the winter. I think it would do lots of them good after being shut up in shops and fac-tories all winter, to come into the country for the summer, and do healthy work in good, pure air. There are always men employed to do the hardest work."

Gentlement: In response to your communication of late date, I am happy to state that I have made use of Powley's Liquified Ozone, and the results have been far after it of any thing I hoped for when I was first induced to try same. I have been a constant victim of rheomatism, lumbago, etc., for nearly two years and tried all sorts of remedies and so-called cures without benefitting from their use. I must say that I obtained some relief, but this was only temporary and quite unsatisfactory. When I was induced to try Ozone I had a very limited confidence in its merits, but I had taken less than half a bottle when I was notably relieved of my trouble and confimed the use of Ozone. The results, I am happy to say, have been marvedous. With less than two bottles I am now entirely free from pain of any kind and feel rejuvenated by ten years, no trouble whatever having been my lot since I used Ozone. #### UNANIMOUS EXPRESSION OF PRAISE

All Classes Join in Eulogy of the Dead President.

Senator Hoar's Eulegy-The Dead President's Last Words-"It Is God's Way."

[From Boston Herald.]

No doubt many a thoughtful reader of last Friday's issue of the Boston Herald said, on laying down his paper, "Here is something to preserve, to return to in hours of serious reflection, and to try to abstract an abiding lesson out of! Such weight of thought, depth of tempered feeling, sympathetic analysis of character, flood tide of patriotic and religious emotion, as are here embodied in these memorial ad-dresses on the burial day of our nation's martyred president, call for the best powers one has of mind, heart and imagination to cope with them!"

The abiding impression made these addresses was that of their sustained dignity of utterance. They indicated a noble breed of preachers. Few of them were marred by even traces of bitterness, party feeling or hysteric passion. The solemnity of the hour and the greatness of the issues involved seem to have steadied every mind and to have brought it to its intellectual and moral bearings. Protestants and Cathelics alike, judges, congressmen, bishops, ministers, professors, teachers, all stood on a height from which they commanded a wideembracing view. Even if alluded to at all, the poor perverted imbecile who had done the ghastly deed was looked upon not so much from the specific as from the generic point of viewas one infectious typhus or yellow fever germ of a noxious spawn which, If suffered further to breed and mu!tiply, would, from its very nature, everywhere spread seeds of disease and death. Altogether, it was at once heartening and inspiring thus to be brought into electric contact with such storage batteries of courage, faith, loyalty, love and reverence as were revealed in these speeches. Furthermore, one common note of loving feeling throbbed through personal them all. It was not an abstraction of government; it was not an isolated ruler that had been struck at; but our flesh and blood country, our ancestral ideals, our, by the grace of God, duly elected and duly enthroned

While-on any other grounds except those of limitations of space-it would seem almost invidious to single out for especial comment individual addresses from the large number that reached so high a standard, there were, none the less, two or three that emphasized so gloriously—certain of our loftiest American ideals that to keep flying from the topmost flagstaff and to salute with morning and evening guns these ideals seems fairly a patriotic

To Senator Hoar in especial, it seems to have been given to illustrate, in soul-kindling words, one of these ideals very dear to the American heart -the devout, the reverential, the religious ideal. For all their worship of wealth, power and material success, Americans are at bottom a religious people, capable of a serious and subof life, of its pathos, tragedy and triumph, as well as of its mere finite success. They appreciate and admire the order of soul which, while it strives bravely for the laurel wreaths the world has to offer, can yet look on undaunted when these are in the twinkling of an eye stripped from the brows and their leaves scattered in the dust. In their Pantheon of heroes, Americans ever revere great public characters who, like Washington and Lincoln, reveal minds rooted and grounded in the eternal, and so who are neither amazed nor made and the mountains be cast into the midst of the sea.'

In the hour of riding on the topmost wave of tumultuous earthly success was it that the harsh and ragged summons peremptorily rang out to the ear of President McKinley through the pistol shot of an assassin. he was all on the spot in an instant, through the religious instinct and conreligious habit of his past life. firmed rengative "Mount of The "It is God's way!" All this Senator Hear voced in a noble strain that will go down to pos-terity as an historical classic. "What pride do we all feel in the republic which calls such men to her high places when we hear the simple story what he said in those moments of supreme trial, when the death blow was struck, when he lay awaiting the result, and at last, when he knew his fate. The sublime pity for the wretch who had murdered him: "Don't hurt the man'; the cheerful counsel to his wife: 'We must bear up; it will be better for both of us.' The murmured verse of the beautiful hymn:

'Nearer, my God, to thee,

'Good-by, all! Good-by! It is God's way. His will be done!' Ah! my friends, if we have given to us in this world a divine pattern, and are commanded to imitate the divine example, surely there can be no presumption or blasphemy in saying that men have sometimes attained to it."

Another memorable passage, long to be recalled and treasured up in all American hearts, was that which fell from the lips of Congressman McCall: "One of God's finest gentlemen has gone out of the world; every part of his nature, was as sweet of a God who has so pl and gentle as a child." All the more jence that we shall impressive is this testimonial because president. Here, then, one gentleman are all in God's school, and if at times recognized and chivalrously saluted our resources are taxed and we are gentlemen!" said Congressman McCall, world was loss irreparable. His signalizing epithet was deliberately chosqualities he felt to be of eminent worth in public affairs. Inevitably it called up the like unwonted use of the noble lines:

"The best of men That e'er wore earth about him was sufferer; A soft, meek, patient, humble, tran-quil spirit, place in our affections, and that the soul which accepts this truth can never The first true gentleman that ever breathed.

Finally, for time and space press hard—there was in the address of the Hon. William E. Chandler a passage profoundly worth reflecting on by all thoughtful Americans. "Mr. McKinley," he said, "was pre-eminently a man of tact, whose like in this respect never saw. Mr. Lecky, in his 'Map of Life,' contends that tact is one of the greatest of traits-he even suggests that it is possibly the very greatest—the ability by kind ways so to influence other men as to gain their affections, control their actions, and achieve success with them for one's circumstances allow, and let no day go plans." Is there not a great deal in by without a search for the happiness what Mr. Lecky says? #### CHEERFULNESS A GREAT PRIVILEGE

Rev. Geo. H. Hepworth Discourses Elequent-Iv on the Optimistic Side of Life.

The living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy.—I. Timothy, vi., 17.

An acquaintance of mine has just given me an object lesson, but it was at the cost of his life. He has shown me how not to live if one wishes to achieve the greatest success, and yet he was not only a good and true man, faithful to public and private duty, but something of a philosopher. The sad fact is that he proved his own philosophy to be false. In the flush of youth he dreamed a splendid dream. He saw that money will buy almost everything that is desirable, and so determined to sacrifice his mind, his body, his pleasures to its quisition. "When I get the fortune am in search of." he said in the twilight of an autumn day long agc, ill cease from labor and give myself the enjoyment of my remaining years. Until then I shall think of nothing but the purpose I have in view.' Time passed, and he was what the world calls fortunate. His wealth ac-cumulated, and he built a noble mansion as a resting place after terrible toil. But he paid too large a price for what he wanted-his health, and the very ability to enjoy which he hoped to greatly gratify. Only last week the slow funeral procession moved by the unoccupied mansion on its way to the emetery. His dream was not realized. Just as he thought to live, he died. Hardly yet on the shadowy side of middle age, the summons came, and he obeyed the imperative demand to leave all. His mistake was that he had rec-koned on enjoying himself by and bye,

ing any by and bye.
Religion teaches us to make use of ery opportunity for happiness, and to let none slip if it is possible to hold it. God never intended that we should give up all today in order that we may enloy all tomorrow. Life may be hard, even as the desert is barren, but in the desert there are oases, and it is a duty o direct our steps toward them and o spend a few hours in their grateful hade. Even in the midst of our anxiety of our incessant toil there are moments of respite, and if we avail ourselves of them the heart is lightened, and the body is strengthened. It is just as much a man's duty to be happy whenever he can be as it is to pray This world is not only beautiful, but it will make our souls beautiful if we learn to appreciate it. Gloom and de-

Mrs. Edward Patterson, acording to her own statement, is today in splendid health. Her rheumatism has left her and although it is ten years since then, it has never returned beyond a slight touch in cold weather, which a Dodd's Kidney Pill or two immediatey drives away. This proves what has always been claimed-that Dodd's Kidney Pills cure permanently. Their effects are lasting-in fact they not merely relieve-they cure. Here is Mrs. Patterson's letter:

"It is many years, perhaps ten or twelve, since I started taking Dodd's Kidney Pills, and then it was not for Rheumatism that I took them. I was feeling miserable, did not know what ailed me, and while reading a paper I saw the testimony of some one had been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills, who had been feeling just as I was. I got a box and found they helped me. I found also that my Rheumatism was not nearly as bad, for I had suffered for many years especially in cold weather. I have used dozens of bottles of medicines and liniments, but it always returned until I used Dodd's Kidney Pills and now seldom have a touch of it. I occasion ally get a box, perhaps two a year. I never hear anyone complain of Rheumatism but I advise them to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Miss Blanche Walsh travels in a private car that is described as a combination hotel and boudoir car. accommodates eight persons, besides, the chief, the porter and a maid. The ranks of the unemployed who hang on to the skirts of the dramatic profession are said to be alarmingly enlarged this season, yet there is a chain of schools from which new recruits are steadily pouring.

Miss Kathryn Kidder is passing a with Mr. Richard Watson month Gilder, editor of the Century Magazine, at his summer home in Lee, Mass. Miss Kidder will begin rehearsals of "Molly Pitcher" in October Manager Augustus Pitou says that this season Chauncey Olcott is having an uncommonly prosperous tour in "Garrett O'Magh." The popular comedian is filling engagements in the west and does not reach this city until February.

Miss Blance Sloane, sister of Tod and Cash Sloane, the world-famous Jockeys, has made a sensation at the Cherry Blossom Grove, New York, by an act on the flying rings which is described as the most thrilling and daring exhibition of its sort yet seen. Henrietta Crosman is to occasionally do Rosalind this season. She will also have in her repertoire "Twelfth Night," "Joan of the Shoals," Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland, and "A Supreme Moment," by Mrs. W. K. Clifford, in which she will appear at the Theater Republic. Wilton Lackaye, J. H. Gilmour and

Theodore Roberts, are mentioned as principals of the organization in Grace George will appear at the Republic Theater, in New York, next November. It is announced that Miss George is to have a comedy by a celebrated American author. Clara Merris signed an agreement last week with Thomas Broadhurst to deliver a series of lectures this season under his direction. Since her retirement from the stage Miss Morris has devoted herself to literature. Her lectures will deal chiefly with her experiences on the stage.

James T. Powers, seen here as the funny Flipper of "A Runaway Girl." appeared for the first time in "The Messenger Boy" at Daly's theater, New York, Sept. 16. The Sun says the piece is the best of seven London gavety farces brought over here, and the general verdict was favorable.

Mrs. Sarah Cowell Le Moyne's new play is entitled "The First Duchess of Marlborough," and deals with the struggle for supremacy at the court of Queen Anne, when John Churchill the greatest soldier in Europe and his imperious wife was a greater power in the kingdom than even the Queen herself.

The arrival of Justin Huntley Mc-Carthy as the guest of E. H. Sothern, and the fact that the star's leading woman (Cecilia Loftus) formerly was the wife of Mr. McCarthy, are causing the busybodies to chatter and wonder whether the once-upona-time happily mated couple will fall into fits of embarrassment when misadventure brings them into proximity.

Wagenhals and Kemper have arranged to start the tour of their new star, Arthur Byron (Ada Reban's nephew), on October 7, in Chicago. They have engaged Jane Oaker, one of the handsomest and most promising young women on the stage, as Mr Byron's leading lady. Madame Modjeska and Louis James continue daily rehearsals of "Henry VIII.," and will be ready for the opening of the tour on Sept. 30.

The forces of the independent actormanagers are growing. The example of Richard Mansfield, who certainly has earned great returns while follow ing his own somewhat eccentric lines, has had its effect on other good actors. James K. Hackett and Frank Keenan have successfully broken away from the ranks, and there are rumors on the "Rialto" of others to follow.

Manager Kirke La Shelle has engaged John Dunsmure, for the last two seasons the basso of the Bostonians, for the leading role of the Duke of Burgundy, in "Princess Chic." will have the opposite part to Marguerite Sylva, the prima donna of the company. The Term "Dress" Defined-Fashion in Hats-Woman, a Heroine et Every Hour.

Formerly dress was a term which comprehended the different pieces of garments which covered the nudity of a person. Now it is a term which has a differ ent signification, according to the country in which the person lives. For for the Hottentot one a pair of ear In civilized countries it is a term which comprehends all the ornaments which are employed to set off a woman. it here; it woud be like hedging the cuchoo, for the fashions are so leeting and the terms so changeable that before the impression was worked off the old ones would be of no signifi cance

To the ordinary observer, for example, woman's dress has not changed much in appearance for the last three years, but a woman of fashion would tell you that not one dress of last season could be of any service to her during this.

As for hats, the fashion changes so quickly that if a man should take a fancy for one he saw in the window of a fashionable milliner and wished to present his wife with it, he would have to quickly drive home with his purchase for fear he should meet in the street a friend who would detain him. A quick automobile would be the safest vehicle.

What is beyond me, what for the life of me I cannot understand, is how women allow themselves to be the slaves of fashion as they do.

worked wonders for them; they have adorned them with artistically draped gowns of beautiful and soft colors might go downward even faster than and gracefully cut, so as to enhance the youngster who has had the optheir figures. Milliners have vied with dressmakers to cover their heads with picture hats of brilliant shape and bright hues.

But who knows what the future keeps in store for them tomorrow? May be sleeves will again go up to the ears, or balloons round the arms will make women look as if they were prepared to work any hours and at about to attempt navigating in the air. Bustles and crinolines may be revived.

If women were born with the deformities that fashion makers sometimes impose upon them, they would straightway go to some orthopedist to have them remedied or cured, but what will they do? Why, submit, and be "in it"

There is nowadays a society for the redress of every imaginable grievance, but I do not know that there exists any for resisting the exigencies and absurdities of idiotic fashions. I have seen women look like parachutes; later on, during the esthetic craze, I have seen them appear emaciated; then a revival of the rotundities took place, and drygoods stores exhibited at their windows twin balmerous instances could be given of loons full of millet seed, afterward clever boys from the country succeeded by wire semi-spheres. By and by bustles appeared, which business and wealth. made thin women look like dromedaries walking on their hind legs. Then I saw bonnets covered with flying plumes and feathers that gave the wearers the appearance of Apaches or Iroquois on the warpath. Yet I never heard women complain It had to be done and they did it. Today they have trains which look graceful in a drawing-room, but which compels them to hold them up, thus monopolizing one hand, while, having no pocket (or, if they have, being unable to find it), they are obliged to carry their purse and their umbrella in the other. Yet they grumble not and submit. When you hear of woman, never Woman is a heroine of every smile.

Country and City Boys. [Toronto World.]

The question is often discussed as to why so many country boys come into the city and outstrip the urban youths in the race for success in business. Many reasons are given, but the principal one may be found in the training and surroundings. The city boy is subjected to temptations that the country lad knows nothing about. The latter may have no better nature For the last few years they have seen fortunate. Dressmakers have given the same opportunities to learn to start with than the city boy, and portunity of visiting haunts of vice all along. But the necessities of any kind of employment. If it is nehe will do it. The city boy thinks farm life have caused the country lad to form frugal habits and keep good hours. When he leaves the farm to start life for himself he is placed on his mettle and comes into the city cessary to go to work at 5 or 6 a.m. 8 a.m. is early enough to get to business, because he has been taught that way. The country bey will go to bed at 9 or 10 p.m. in order to get the rest necessary for his work, while the city boy will remain out until 11 e'clock or mic.a.sht, and will thus rob himself of necessary repose. Watch the boys until they are grown to manhood, and in a great many cases you will see the country boy gaining the lead in business life. Not afraid of work, he gains the confidence of his employer and gets rapid promotion, while city boy thinks he has been worked too much for the money he receives, and grumbles and goes down. Nu

TORONTO, Oct. 4.-There was a very general complaint that the quality of cattle offered at the market today was the poorest of the season. There would be a good market for good export and be a good market for good export and good butcher cattle, but scarcely any of the right sort were offered. The only choice load of exporters in the market sold at $5. No choice cattle were offered, but are asked for. There were too many light stockers, which are not wanted just now, and many of this class were left unsold. Stock bulls and feeders, 1,000 to 1,200 lbs, are worth $3 to $3.75; heavy export bulls, $3.75 to $4.25. Sheep and lambs unchanged and pretty well sold out. Hogs have at last taken a drop, a very heavy delivery today apparently having had that effect. Best selections were quoted at $7, a drop of 3 shillings; light and fat hogs were $6.75. The day's run was 80 loads, with 96.75. a drop of 3 shillings; light and fat hogs were $6.75. The day's run was 80 loads, with 916 head of cattle, 1,393 sheep and lambs, 2,885 hogs and 30 calves. Jesse Dunn bought a load of choice exporters, 1,275 lbs, at $5: a bunch of export bulls, 1,600 lbs, at $3.75 to $4.25; 6 export cattle, 1,300 lbs, at $4.75; 6 more, 1,250 lbs, at $4.10; a load of stock bulls, 1,650 to 1,200 lbs, at $3 to $3.75; 6 stock bulls, 975 lbs, at $3.25. #### OFFICERS FOR THE 8TH YEAR

Chosen by Conservative Club at 5 Annual Meeting.

Mr. Wm. Gray Re-Chosen President and Most of the Other Offices Filled by Acclamation.

The Conservative Club last night held its seventh annual meeting with a good attendance present. The chair was occupied by President Wm. Gray, except during the election of officers, when it was taken by Mr. Thomas Beattie, ex-M.P. The officers chosen were as follows Honorary president, Isaac Waterman; honorary vice-president, R. Shaw-Wood; president, Wm. Gray; first vice-president, R. A. Bayly; vice-president, Arthur D. Huff; secretary, John O. Dromgole; treasurer Walter Evans; auditors, Henry Mack-lin and James Granger. Mr. Gray, who has been president of the club for five of its seven years of existence, announced that he did not desire re-election. The meeting, however, would not consider his retirement, and after much hesitation he accepted the nomination. In nominating Mr. Gray, Mr. E. W.

M. Flock said that the present was an important time in the history of the club and party, and in view of the approaching election it was necessary to have men like Mr. Gray at the head of the club. Mr. John Jones and Mr. J. C. Judd were also placed in nomination, both declining in favor of Mr. Gray. The choice of the latter was made unan-The honorary president of last year, Mr. Isaac Waterman, was re-elected. Mr. R. Shaw-Wood, the honorary vice-president, was also re-elected unanimously.

The only contest of the evening was for the office of first vice-president. There were five nominations—Messrs.
R. A. Bayly, E. W. M. Flock, John
Jones, John Forrestal and Percy
Moore. Messrs. Jones, Forrestal and Moore withdrew, and Mr. Bayly was elected on a close vote. Second Vice-President Arthur D.

Huff, Secretary John O. Dromgole, Treasurer Walter Evans and Auditors Henry Macklin and James Granger, elected by acclamation. Mr. Gray endeavored to get a number of outside speakers for the meeting, but none were able to come, owing to previous engagements, consequently only a few local workers addressed the meeting. None of the speakers of the evening made any reference to Wednesday's sweep in Nova Among those who cent their regrets were E. A. Lancaster, M.P., of St. Catharines; H. Carscallen, M.P.P., of Hamilton; Henry Eilber, of Crediton, and T. Herbert Lennox, who will oppose Hon. E. J. Davis, in the next provincial contest in York.

WINGHAM HORSE'S RECORD. It should be gratifying to Canadians to know that a horse from our province is capable of more than holding his own in one of the fastest races on one of the fastest tracks in the world, writes a correspondent from Newport, Ind. Harold H., bred and raised in Blenheim, and owned in Wingham, Ont., went in the 2:07 pace, Sept. 30, at Terre Haute, Ind., and won in three straight heats; time, 2:06½, 2:04½ and 2:04. He was never once headed, and no urging was necessary. On the contrary, he was held in check at the close of every heat. In the last two heats all six horses were under the wire in better than 2:07. The fact that he went a full mile in 2:02 before the race was well known, and caused several sporting men to declare their readiness to back him against any horse in the world. Mr. Proctor (Harold's driver) proved himself the peer of any in the circuit, and if the It should be gratifying to Canadians to

Amusements.

AT THE LONDON OPERA HOUSE. The Burrill Stock Company continues to please the patrons of the London Opera House. Last night "East Lynne" was presented. Good work was done by Miss Laura Hulbert, Miss Helen Bailey Walls, and Presbyterian College. Messrs. F. W. Sevenoaks and Fred Bigelow. There were eight entries in the amateur contest at the close of the show, the $5 prize going to the Grayson juvenile cakewalkers. The play for tonight is "Kathleen Mayourneen," a standard Irish drama that has long been a favorite with the public. The company's engagement continues next week.

TONIGHT AT THE GRAND. No expense has been spared by Mr. Haswin in the endeavor to make "A Lion's Heart' the greatest melodramatic production on the American stage in years. The scenery is elaborate, and correct, and truthfully represents the locale in which the action of the play takes place. Mr. Haswin's supporting company has been carefully chosen, and numbers many well-known names. "A Lion's Heart' will be the attraction at the New Grand tonight.

THE ORPHEUM SHOW. Vaudeville has become a recognized amusement in the theatrical world. This has been brought about through the enterprise of M. Shea and other leading vaudeville managers of this country, who have taken from the so-called legitimate stage many leading stars paid them big salaries for their appearance in vaudeville, but still kept the price of admission a very moderate one. Next Monday and Tuesday evenings and Tuesday matinee, at the New Grand Opera House, Mr. Shea will present a leading vaudeville organization known as the Orpheum Show. Included in the list are McIntyre and Heath, in a new skit; Joe Welsh, delineator of Hebrew characters; Elizabeth Murray, comedienne: the Anglos Trio, in equilibristic feats; Sturgeon and Engleton, travesty stars; C. Field, eccentric juggler, and The Serenaders, in operatic selections.

DR. JOHNSTON AT MONTREAL

His Address Characterized as One of the Most Eloquent and Inspiring Ever Delivered There.

"The opening lecture of the fall session of the Presbyterian College," says the Montreal Witness, "was delivered by the Rev. Robert Johnston, D.D., of St. Andrew's Church, London, Ont., in convocation hall, last night, the subject being, 'The preacher and his message to the age.' The attendance was quite large, and it may be safely inspiring lectures have ever been delivered in the college halls. From his opening sentence to the end of the lecture the doctor had the closest attention of all present, and the applause which followed the concluding utterances of the speaker was intended as an expression of the highest appreciation of the audience. "In calling upon the Rev. Dr. Johnston to speak, the chairman (Rev. Principal McVicar, D.D.) said the lecturer needed no formal or lengthy in-troduction to a Montreal audience. In fact his career and splendid work were well known throughout the Dominion. It was with great pleasure he introduced the lecturer of the evening. A lengthy report of Rev. Dr. Johnstone's lecture follows:

The W. M. S. Convention.

The Women's Missionary Society of the London Conference, which convened in the Central Methodist Church Sarnia, this week, was largely attended, and much interest was taken in all the sessions. Among other matters, Mrs. McMechan, of this city, gave her report of the mission band work and also an address on the same. A very pleasant feature of the evening was the presentation of a number of books to the circle that had done the best work during the last year and a beautiful banner to the mission band doing the same. Empress Avenue, London West, received books and Seaforth mission band the banner. Rev. C. T. Scott, of this city, also addressed the convention. following officers were chosen: Honary president, Mrs. Burns, of St. Thomas; president, Mrs. McMechan, London; first vice-president, Mrs. Wright, South London; second vicepresident, Mrs. Fowler, West London; third vice-president, Mrs. Dickson, London; recording secretary, Mrs. Acheson, Goderich; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Cunningham, Kincardine; superintendent systematic giving, Mrs. Tennant, London; superintendent mission band circle, Mrs. Daly, London. Squire Nugent was released on his own recognizances of $500.

THE VISIT TO LONDON. A dispatch from Ottawa to the Mail and Empire says: "On the occasion of the visit of their royal highnesses to London, a royal salute has been ordered. The London Field Battery is in a somewhat disorganized state, and has not drilled for three years. If it is not in condition to fire the salute a detachment will be sent either from Guelph or Toronto. The 41st Regiment (Brockville Rifles) will be ordered out to line the streets on the occasion of the visit of the duke to that city." The London Field Battery is in condition to fire the salute, its officers say.

POLICE COURT. Police Court Clerk Moule has completed the returns of police court business, which he sends to the Dominion Government. The returns are for the year ending Sept. 30, 1901, and show that in that time there were 158 summary trials for indictable offenses and 612 summary convictions for all classes of offenses. It is a coincidence that the figures for the summary convic-tions were last year exactly the same as this while the number of summary trials were two more, being 160. The charges of drunk and disorderly and breaches of bylaws form a major por-tion of the returns, with other less common and more serious offenses represented in varying proportions. The total amount of fines imposed was $2,-435 95, though this does not represent the sum contributed to the treasury, as many offenders go to jail in default of payment.

Marriage of Miss Morton—Coronation Rules and Regulations as to Dress.

MISS MORTON'S MARRIAGE. London, Oct. 5 .- The wedding of Miss Helen Morton, daughter of Levi P. Morton, former Vice-President of the Perigord, a son of the Duke of Talleyrand-Perigord, was celebrated today at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Chelsea, with considerable display. THE QUIRINAL IN DANGER. A special dispatch from Rome says that the construction of the new tunnel beneath the Quirinal has so seriously weakened the foundation that the palace is endangered. The walls of the building have sunk and have be-come cracked, and what is known as the Emperor's Chamber, has been greatly damaged, wide splits have appeared in the walls.

FINE DISTINCTIONS. London, Oct. 5.-There is a flutter in high society today owing to the fact that the earl marshal has issued the rules and regulations governing what is to be worn at the coronation of King Edward next year. The regulations in regard to the dress and headdresses are distinctly mediaeval. the peers have been notified that their robes must be of "crimson velvet. edged with miniver, the cape furred with miniver, pure and powdered, with bars or rows of ermine, according to their degree." #### ROYAL TRAIN AT BANFF, N.W.T.

The Duchess Will Stay at the C. P. A. Hotel.

His Royal Highness Will Shoot in Manitcha-Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Car Attached to the Duke's Train.

Banff, N. W. T., Oct. 4 .- The royal train arrived at Banff at 3 o'clock today. The health resort hotels are not the only habitations in Banff, for there is a little village in the valley, they remained for five years. They and it turned out a goodly-sized crowd to welcome their royal highnesses. The arrangement, as already stated, is that the duchess will stay until Sunday afternoon at the C. P. R. Hotel here, which has been reserved for the use of herself and her staff. while the duke goes on to Poplar Point to shoot for a few days.

TRAINS REARRANGED. The trains have been re-formed, the chief change being that Sir Wilfrid Laurier's car is attached to his royal highness train, and he, accompanied by Mr. Joseph Pope, will proceed to Winnipeg and spend the interval there. The re-formed train will consist of seven cars, as follows: Victoria, containing His Royal High ness the Duke of Cornwall and York, H.S.H. Prince Alexander of Teck and Lord Wenlock; the Australia, containing the Duke of Roxburghe, Lord Crichton, Sir Charles Cust, Hon. Derek Keppel, Commander Faussett, Major Bor, Major Maude, Capt. Graham, Col. Sherwood. Sherwood. The government car, 100, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Pope. The other cars are occupied by the servants and baggage.

THE SIGHTS AT BANFF. The duke accompanied the duches from the train to the hotel, and re mained there until 10. The short stay in Banff was taken advantage of by his royal highness to visit the cascade, the buffalos and other of the sights of the park, while some of the ladies and gentlemen of the staff went for a canter along the woodland roads and up the mountain sides. Tomorrow her royal highness will take the train back to Laggan, and pay a visit to the famous Lake Louise

AN INCIDENT. One of the incidents of the day was the meeting of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Claude Macdonald, the well-known ambassador, who went through the legation's siege at Pekin, on the station platform at Field. However, it is likely he will only remain sufficiently long to receive the degree and to make a few

A BREACH OF ETIQUETTE. Ottawa, Oct. 5 .- Someone has been guilty of a gross breach of etiquette in permitting the publication of the address of the women of Toronto to the Duchess of Cornwall and York in advance of its presentation. The rule was laid down weeks ago that these addresses were to be sent to Government House in advance, and they were regarded as confidential. To publish an address intended either for the duke or duchess in advance of its presentation is regarded as a very discourteous act.

It is felt, however, that it would be hardly fair to the ladies' committee to reject the address on account of the excessive zeal of one individual.

Old Lady of Strathroy Feels as Spry as a Damsel a Fraction of Her Age. A noteworthy result of the use of that splendid remedy Dodd's Dyspep-sia Tablets, is the feeling of youth and buoyancy experienced as soon as the pepsin and diastase contained in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets begin to act on the food.

The blood is very soon improved in quality on using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets because instead of being fed by the product of a weak, sour, en-feebled stomach, the full nourishment of perfectly digested food goes to The whole body soon feels the influence of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets because this rich, new blood is immediately carried to every muscle and nerve, building up the wasted places and toning up the entire system. and mental condition soon become fresh and wholesome because the mind takes its tone from the body. If the body is healthy we are happy in spite of trouble. If we are happy in spite of trouble and our bodies are healthy we feel young, for children are the happiest and healthiest of mankind as a general rule. This is what Mrs. Susan Coome, of Strathroy, means when she says she feels like a child again owing to Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

"I have been troubled with Dyspepsia and Sour Stomach for fifteen years. After every hearty meal I would suffer so that I grew almost afraid to eat. I would often have to lay down after meals and as for pastry of any kind I couldn't touch it. Nothing I ate would digest. I tried different remedies but got no relief. I heard of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and got some to try. They cured me. I can eat anything now without the least fear. I feel like a child again. You are welcome to publish this letter that others may learn of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and find health again as I did.'

year. For unadulterated cussedness on the kicking proposition, Peter is near the limit. When things are coming easy the old warrior is all right, but his good-nature becomes warped when his club is losing. Pabst is an insistent kicker and Reilly does not care for the short end of it, but they are not in Lohman's class. In the ninth inning Lohman's kicking took on an amusing turn. He had singled and Arrellanes, the next man up, knocked a grounder into Hutchinson's territory rather wide of the bag. There was a race between Arrellanes and Hutchinson for the sack, and Decker decided that Arrellanes was out. In the meantime Pete had gone to second base. Interesting Programme of Sports at Tecumseh Park.

Contested Events and Many Spectators Mark Sixth Annual Outing-The Winners.

The field day of sports of the London Collegiate Institute took place yesterday afternoon at Tecumseh Park. and was a grand success, wholly eclipsing any previous one. The weather was beautiful, if a little chilly for onlookers, and a large crowd took advantage of the opportunity to see of what stuff physically London's sons are made The foot and bicycle races were far above the average. The 26th Regiment Band, under the direction or Bandmaster Philp, furnished excellent music re the occasion. E. A. Brown won the senior cham pionship of the school, and was pre-sented with a gold medal by Dr. English, while Harvey Hicks won the junior championship and also received a handsome medal. In the tennis tournament for girls' singles, Miss L. Culver won first prize, a brooch, presented by Mr. T. Gillean, and Miss M. Harvey second prize, a ring, presented by Mrs. Radcliffe.

A very fine list of prizes was offered, mostly having been contributed by citzens. The results for the day were: Extra, two-mile handicap bicycle race -1 A. Crawford, 2 J. Barned, 3 W. Darch, 4 D.
