WESTERN ONT. EDITORS SEE GREAT PROSPERITY AHEAD; PREPARE FOR IT, THEY URGE

Optimism Prevails Among Newspaper Heads That Period of Transition From War To Peace Will Pass Without Serious Dislocation.

Western Ontario daily newspaper editors, replying to questions asked by The Advertiser, have sent in replies which smack of optimism in the future of the banner district of Ontario. Daily newspapers are the clearing houses of opinion for their communities, and no commercial business is more quick to feel the change in the barometer of business conditions. In that barometer are registered the changing fortunes of the commerce of the soil and of the manufacture, of the retail store and of the financial concern, which constitute the four broad divisions of "business."

SHOULD WEATHER PEACE PERIOD FINE

Courier Editor Believes Western Ontario Will Come Through In Good Shape.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 18.—Western Ontario, with its expansive farming areas and manifold industries, should be able to withstand the aftermath of the war in good shape. There will be dislocation, of course, but with Russia mainly unproductive under Bolshevism, and the shell and trench metal soils of other lands, the farmers of this continent should receive excellent produce prices for a long time to come.

In like manner increased activity of implement and other industrial concerns in order to meet European demands should go far to offset the lessening of munition orders. In addition, the State aid, especially to widows with families, would seem to be a certain development.

Expecta Big Changes. Socially it is not going to be the same world. The industrial classes have borne their share of the war ungrudgingly, and they are going to insist upon the square deal.

Then, too, there is the fact that women have proved their ability to handle jobs hitherto barred to them, and their advent as competitors must be reckoned with. Many regard shorter hours as the probable solution.

The problem to be faced will be onerous, and it is going to take men of great breadth of vision and sympathy to successfully handle them. State aid, especially to widows with families, would seem to be a certain development.

BRANTFORD CITY READY FOR CHANGE

Factories Have Abundant Orders—Great Prosperity Is Expected by Exporter Editor.

BRANTFORD, Nov. 18.—In Brantford, the home of the agricultural implement industry, the war period should be felt, but very little. Most of the city's factories are busy now and have abundant orders in sight. Those plants making munitions have plans for production on a large scale for peace time requirements, and there is every indication that Brantford, after the war, will be bigger and more prosperous than it was before or even during the conflict.

What is true of Brantford is probably true of the rest of the banner district along the Grand River Valley.

"THINK PROSPERITY," URGES THIS EDITOR

Success of Reconstruction Period Will Depend Entirely Upon the People.

CHATHAM, Nov. 18.—The prosperity and success of Western Ontario following the close of the war, rests largely with the people. If there is a general feeling of advancement, success and prosperity, then the banner district will exist, but if there is a fear of the future, then conditions may show a tendency to deteriorate.

Naturally Western Ontario should be prepared for the future.

Big Men Wanted.

men, men with big minds and broad genized from a commercial standpoint, and they will be required to look to foreign countries. Organization seems all that is needed to secure for Canada the increased trade that is bound to result to fill the requirements of war-torn Europe.

Chatham's industries have not been disorganized in the least by war orders, and they were never in a better position to do their full share in continuing prosperity of the past.

FUTURE OF W. ONTARIO SHOULD BE BRIGHT

Peninsula Blessed With Tremendous Advantages. Points Out by Mercury Editor.

GUELPH, Nov. 18.—The future of Western Ontario should be bright. It is a favorite geographical location, has a wealth of water power, which should contribute to its industrial and commercial prosperity. Its social and economic conditions are such that it should improve with the extension of modern conveniences calculated to bring the people of the town and country more in contact.

After a little time, when trade has had a chance to adjust itself, there should be a betterment of the position of the masses through the removal of undue advantages hitherto too often given, at public expense, to favored individuals and classes.

Greater attention to education of a practical kind, such as technical training in the towns and cities, and the study of agricultural subjects in the country, will improve the usefulness of our school curriculum.

Don't Preach Blue-Rain. The interest of the whole community may be developed along these lines, and in many other ways, no doubt. It is too much to say there are no problems pointing to immediate consideration of them now confronting us. Whether they have received or are receiving adequate consideration is another question. Newspapers must take a sane view of industrial conditions and the development.

It would require a good deal of optimism to urge that the immediate future of the country will have unbroken prosperity. On the other hand, it certainly would not help to preach blue-rain. Bearing in mind the position of the people of the West, when we once settle down to the permanent normal life of the future we should be able to thrive as well as any people on earth.

EDITOR THE MERCURY.

EXPECTS AN ERA OF UNEXAMPLED PROGRESS

Wise Leadership Needed to Successfully Bridge Transition From War to Peace.

KITCHENER, Nov. 17.—The consummation of peace should be the signal for an era of unexampled progress for Western Ontario and for Canada, and the industrial centres and rich farming districts of Western Ontario should be among the first to reflect the progress. But wise leadership will be needed to successfully bridge the transition period from war to peace.

The people look to the Governments at Ottawa and Toronto to provide the proper distribution of the labor force, and the closing of munition works and Allied war industries and the return of our soldiers from overseas, but the Government should not arrogate to itself the whole responsibility for the future. Both Houses of Parliament should be immediately convened for consultation with the people's representatives who should have a voice in the policies to be promulgated.

Proceed With War's Public Works. Owing to the war, construction on buildings, roads, etc., that is absolutely essential, was held up. This can now be proceeded with, including such new enterprises as the new Toronto-Windsor highway.

Food for the Starving. The supply of food to the starving peoples of the devastated areas of France and Belgium and the resumption of their normal activities will afford opportunity to the agricultural and industrial interests of Ontario, which in turn will benefit the whole of the period of prosperity unparalleled in the history of Western Ontario.

One of the highest of Kitchener's intentions has already begun the execution of plan for doubling its output. The transition period may be difficult, but its difficulties can be successfully overcome if we continue to display in time of peace the same courage, resource and splendid spirit that has characterized our efforts during the past four years of war.

A. BEAN, Kitchener Telegraph.

WE MUST AWAKEN TO FUTURE POSSIBILITIES

Cannot Afford to Sit Back and Wait—This Is Time To Be Alert.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 18.—Now is the time we must be alert. The war has been too busy celebrating victory and buying Victory bonds to give much thought to after-war problems, but the feeling so far as we can gauge it is most optimistic. True, it will without doubt take time for matters to readjust themselves, but business in general reflects a feeling of strong confidence that Ontario, in common with the rest of Canada, is due for a prosperous career.

Provided that advantage is taken of the opportunities that will offer for extending trade with other countries. In this district manufacturers are very much alive to the possibilities, and are already planning to reach out into new fields as soon as the labor shortage which has been Owen Sound's chief difficulty, is relieved.

Need Consideration. All plans, however, will take time to work out, and it would seem advisable to provide channels into which the stream of war labor can be directed. Many Government enterprises—Wells and Canal enlargement, hydro extension, railway and road building—which were held up by the outbreak of war, should be taken up again and work on them hastened.

Problems that will arise demand prompt and thorough consideration. A heavy consideration appears to have been given to anything but the demobilization of Parliament, the Legislature should be kept busy on them at all times. While we believe that Canada's future is assured, yet there is such a thing as taking too much for granted. Canada, Ontario and Owen Sound never had a time to sit back and wait. This is a time to be on the alert to grasp opportunities. This should be emphasized. We all have unbounded faith in Canada and our own section, but faith without works is dead.

MANY PROBLEMS FOR CONSIDERATION

Pull Together and Continue Unbroken Progress, Urges Sarنيا Editor.

SARNIA, Nov. 18.—Western Ontario is the garden of the Dominion of Canada. Western Ontario's industries are great and behind these industries lies a fertile soil, second to none on the continent. The day of reconstruction after the war is at hand, and the side demand immediate consideration if the good name of Western Ontario is to be acknowledged and respected, and if one hundred cents on the dollar is to be realized from the natural and other resources of this great grain-growing, fruit-bearing section of the province.

Commercially, Western Ontario holds a place of prominence, but she can loom into greater prominence still. It would seem that thorough organization and co-operation of men and their talents in this new day are the fundamental factors which will count to make Western Ontario a bigger and better commercial centre for the future.

Big Men Wanted.

vision must be called to the fore to harness and to channel the forces.

Those in the ranks must respect discipline in civilian life as would a soldier respect discipline in his country's army. Unless men to men as brothers be recognized as the place of importance commercially or otherwise; cannot hope to rise to great things in the new era of promised prosperity. Let us not be selfish with that which is ours, either in finance, talent or thought. Let us be honest with ourselves and our fellow-men, and let us be practical in all we say and do.

Let us cultivate modern ideas, modern manners. Perseverance and determination to conquer has been a great factor in the recent triumph over the enemy, Germany.

These things, together with whole-souled effort in the civilian, commercial and other courses of life, will bring about success. There is no good reason why Western Ontario should not have unbroken prosperity in the future.

O'Neill, Editor the Canadian Observer.

EDUCATION ONE OF GREAT NEEDS OF DAY

War Has Shown What We Can Do—What We Must Do.

WOODSTOCK, Nov. 18.—The problems of reconstruction are so many and so difficult that it is perhaps too much to expect that the education of the masses, but because they are so important, we must expect that they will call into play some of the highest talents and the finest energy of the country.

One of the great needs, of course, is education, and one of the grounds for hope is that there is now at the head of the education department a man who through stilling, seems to be at his command both ideas and resources.

It would be a mistake, perhaps, to count too much on uninterrupted prosperity, but if it would encourage a feeling of optimism, there will be trials and disappointments, but we can look forward hopefully to permanent results of a beneficial character from the processes of reconstruction.

The war has shown what we can do when we are united. There are many influences that will tend to put the work of reconstruction on a compulsory basis, too.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED TO ACHIEVE GREATNESS

Slip-Shod, Easy-Going Methods Thing of Past Era of Expansion Here.

WINDSOR, Nov. 17.—When war threatened to bring into being the economic fabric of the Dominion, keen, brain-brained Western Ontario business men and manufacturers were among the first in Canada to sternly and successfully tackle a most delicate situation. Because of the sudden revolution from peace to war, the task was stupendous.

Now with the advantage of many experiences the majority of our commercial and industrial executives have long planned for the cessation of hostilities and its inevitable reaction. That their work has been well done is set beyond doubt by the very apparent lack of business chaos obtaining in the latter part of 1918.

Future Never Brighter. But what of the immediate future? It was never brighter. True, the war has been the cause of a great deal of artificial prosperity in many branches of industry, but the soundness of the manufacturer and businessman has become immeasurably keener, and it is this reasonableness that will stand them in good stead in transposing artificial real prosperity into the real prosperity of the future.

The Christmas Spirit of a Wonderful Empire

For the past four years our Christmas enthusiasm has been checked by the unprecedented conditions brought into our lives by war. It disturbed all currents, upset our customs and changed our habits for four long years, and the greatest Christmas Box the world has ever received was when the Dove of Peace descended from Heaven upon the nations so furiously engaged in this great struggle.

A New Christmas Spirit Has Been Born

It is part of our being, of our civilization—sacred with its mission of happiness and youth, friendship and fireside, and it has already burst forth with the energy of a new-born nation. The old Christmas, which has been under restraint for the past four years, has been revived, the load has been lifted, and now it is fitting that we make this at least a real old-time Christmas season.

OLD NOT STOP DIRECTORS CHOSEN FOR LONDON'S NEW INDUSTRIAL BOARD

New Name Is Chamber of Commerce.

FOURTEEN ARE ELECTED

Seven of These Are For Two Years and Seven For One Year.

The members of the new London Chamber of Commerce have elected by direct ballot the directors of the new industrial board. The result of the election is taken to show how the board will be composed. There were 588 votes cast in the election for a board of directors and a very close count resulted. The election committee announced the election of the following members:

Two-Year Term:
George H. Bolton.
John J. Fox.
James Gray.
Frank G. Jewell.
George W. Reid.
A. E. Silverwood.
C. E. Somerville.

One-Year Term:
Sir Adam Beck.
Dr. E. E. Braithwaite.
John W. Brown.
Col. W. M. Garsshore.
Ray Lawson.
B. S. Little.
J. K. McDermid.

The plan of the organization states that the seven members receiving the highest number of votes in the election shall be elected for a term of two years; the seven receiving the next highest number shall be elected for one year. It took place at the annual meeting of the board of directors held at the Hotel Hamilton on Monday evening, November 18.

Several of the nominees on the final ballot publicly announced that, for good reason, they could not serve as directors. It is a fact that Mr. Hume Cronyn, M. P., A. T. Little, Geo. McHenry, Clarence McIntosh, and Harold Donahue, Rev. Father Foster, and Rev. Father McKeown, who were on the list, have all declined to serve. The Chamber of Commerce has elected its board of directors and the completion of the organization will proceed without delay. Permanent quarters will be selected and the members will be organized into various committees.

DELEGATES FLOCK TO CITY TO TAKE PART IN LAURIER CONFERENCE

Great Enthusiasm Shown by Both Men and Women, Latter Enjoying New Experience—Many Old Liberal Standard-Bearers Present To Greet Sir Wilfrid.

One of the most enthusiastic Liberal gatherings held in London in a number of years is in progress today, a convention of Western Ontario Liberal delegates for the purpose of conference with the Ontario Liberal Association. The fact that Liberalism is very much alive is evidenced by the large quota of delegates who have come in from each constituency.

This convention is unique in the history of political conventions in this province, from the fact that the delegates and just principles of Liberalism have been manifested in an equal representation of men and women, three men and three women from each constituency.

On Every Train. Each train coming into the city this morning brought in large delegations, who proceeded at once to the headquarters in the Tecumseh House.

The executive of the London Women's Liberal Association acted as a reception committee to welcome the women delegates, who on their arrival, were directed to the drawing-room on the second floor.

The rotunda and adjoining rooms rapidly filled up with men who exchanged greetings in the old-time manner before the entrance of women to the political arena.

Women Rejoice.
So far as the women delegates are concerned, their enthusiasm and eagerness is unbounded and they are rejoicing in the privileges of being present at the first convention after the war to hear Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Exchanging experiences in regard to their political careers, the members of the Liberal Association, it was noted, were all well and happy, and that their programs for the coming season are being built with a view to educating women in the responsibilities of citizenship and to vote intelligently.

Standard-Bearers Here.
Standard-bearers for Ontario are here today, such as ex-Mayor and Senator John Muir of Brantford; Senator Katz, Waterloo, formerly of London; and Mr. J. H. McKeown, formerly of London.

AN OLD ILLUSION BOBS UP.

THE CONTROVERSY which broke out two years ago over the "disappearance" of Lord Kitchener is once more raging throughout the British Isles and threatens to become a minor issue of the election campaign. Although the Government has made it very clear that Kitchener perished while on his way to Russia when the Hampshire went to the bottom, there is still an amazingly large number of his countrymen who believe the official report of the disaster was a dodge to blind the enemy while the great soldier put over some sensational military feat.

The most popular of these explanations is that as a spy he assumed the task of penetrating to the innermost war secrets of the Hun. At one time he was heralded as leader of the great Russian drive against Austria, camouflaged as "General Brusiloff." Even the grotesque suggestion that he was leading some of the kaiser's armies to destruction disguised as a German commander found its supporters. Now that the war is over, and Kitchener has not turned up, as was so confidently expected, these sincere romancers profess to seeing something political in his non-appearance. "Where is Kitchener?" may become a slogan of the ballot-battle which has just opened in the Old Country.

The Kitchener illusion illustrates an odd twist in the mental make-up of many. Once the victim has become possessed of an idea, however unreasonable and easily refuted it may be, he sticks to it, or rather it sticks to him. He will never be convinced by explanations that are at once accepted by the average man as absolute proof. Right here in Canada we have an instance of this. Hundreds of citizens still believe that a huge Russian army passed through Canada two years ago bound to the western front. It doesn't matter that the British Government has officially stated the Russians were brought from Archangel by sea or that a high C. P. R. official has declared the system has not carried a solitary Russian soldier. Folk at Winnipeg, Port Arthur, Toronto and Montreal had seen miles and miles of troop trains carrying Russians hurrying through at midnight, and that was all there was to it. Some of those clean-cut, spruce Canucks from the coast and the prairie will not feel too flattered, perhaps, when they learn they were mistaken for a lot of shaggy, lumbering Muscovites. Those who "saw" what they couldn't possibly have witnessed are quite sincere in their contention. They are not Munchausens or just plain, every-day liars. They "know" they are right, and will believe so to the end of the chapter, even were proofs to the contrary piled heaven-high. They will carry the illusion into the next world and will smile knowingly when the celestial information bureau tells them they were wrong.

THE LIBRARY AT LOUVAIN.

THE destruction of the priceless library of Louvain University in the early days of the war did more at that period, perhaps, than any other happening to prove that the Hun was a pure vandal and that his so-called "kultur" was but a veneer, and a thin veneer at that, over his utter barbarism. The enemy has tried hard since then to excuse the wanton act by asserting that the Louvain library was not "very valuable," but even if that were true it would by no means lessen the guilt of those who sought by the torch to blot out even the intellectual treasures of their opponents.

On the fourth anniversary of the Louvain tragedy a meeting of international representatives was held at Havre to consider plans for the restoration of the library as the heart of the ancient university's work. As a matter of fact the work of restoration has been under way for three years under the direction of the John Rylands Library of Manchester, England, which has been acting as a depository for the books that have been coming in from all over the civilized world. It is impossible, of course, to replace those destroyed treasures, the manuscripts, rare books and prints that had been gathered together through centuries, but something at least is being done to supply Louvain with the equipment for its faculty and its students when its doors reopen, as they may be expected soon to open.

Louvain University was founded in 1423 by John of Brabant, and has ever since enjoyed first place among Belgian institutions of learning. It has always prided itself upon its theological teaching. In 1679, the university was established in the old Cloth Workers' Hall, a building dating from 1317, with long arcades and graceful pillars supporting the upper stories. Its library prior to the war contained upward of 100,000 volumes, with hundreds of rare manuscripts. In the 16th century, Louvain had as many as six thousand students. May the coming days give it as great a place in the life of the Europe to be as it has had in the life of Europe of the past.

BELGIUM NEEDS HELP.

WHOLE VILLAGES have been annihilated in Belgium and razed to the ground. The homes of the people have been burned and the population driven into the countryside with no food or shelter. Starved and crazed with the fear of a hidden death, or even worse, these peasants have sought refuge in the woods, and there they have lived from day to day as best they could, gathering roots and herbs or whatever else they could find to sustain them and keep body and soul together. Many have died and lie unburied in the ditches by the roadside, women and tiny children have been cruelly murdered, while others were forced to work for the enemy under the most brutal treatment and on starvation rations.

Today the cry goes out from Belgium, not to any one country nor to any one people, but to humanity in the Allied countries: "Help us or we starve." It is their S. O. S. call; it is frantic, despairing, appealing. Should that same call go out from a ship in distress at sea, a country deluged by flood or stricken by earthquake or explosion, help would be rushed to their aid from all quarters out of sympathy and fellow-feeling.

Is not Belgium's distress as great as any of these; is she not as helpless, and is her suffering not as great? Thousands have died in Belgium, innocent victims in the most terrible war the world has ever known; thousands more are today without home or food or proper clothing. And even when peace has been declared and the world settles down to a normal life again, little Belgium and her brave people will still be laboring to adjust the great wrong that has been done her. Homes will have to be rebuilt, food supplies will have to be organized, agricultural lands will have to be cleared of the litter of battle, and industries, wherein the people must gain their living, must be reconstructed. It will be years before Belgium will be in a position to support herself again, and until that happy time comes the people of the countries who have been allied with her must contribute towards her maintenance.

Belgium's need is of the present and the future. At present she has nothing to call her own, nothing to "carry on" with. The only food in the country is that which is being sent in from the other Allied countries, and there is little enough of that to go all round, and until her people are properly fed and clothed the future cannot be cared for.

Help the Belgians regain what they have lost and lay the foundation to start life anew. Answer their S. O. S. call by sending your contribution to the Belgian Relief Fund, either to the nearest local committee or to the Central Committee, 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal.

LLOYD GEORGE'S PROSPECTS.

LATER developments may greatly alter British elections prospects, but the opening of the campaign shows the outlook distinctly favorable to Lloyd George. Bonar Law has accepted the premier's policy for a continuation of the Coalition Government, and Barnes, one of the foremost Labor leaders and a member of the present ministry, has declared himself for the Welshman. Barnes lining up with the Government means a weakening of the Laborites, who have announced themselves opposed to any alliance for this election. Remains the Asquith wing of the Liberal party to declare itself, but as Mr. Asquith has appealed for a united Liberal party and pledged his following to the support of Lloyd George if the latter's policy was based on real Liberalism, there is every prospect of his coming in. Lloyd George's program is decidedly liberal, a policy for the people. While he accepts the imperial preference plank of the Unionists, he insists there shall be no taxation of food. He calls for important reforms in agriculture, government assistance for those who will be temporarily out of work through the cessation of hostilities, and a regulation of prices which will protect the little trader or producer from being put out of business by the corporations or trusts. These will all have a wide and popular appeal. By declaring that home rule must await the settling of the problems of reconstruction he has definitely arrayed the Nationalists with his political enemies, but if he can go to the polls with the full strength of the straight Liberals and Unionists and a section of the Laborites he should have no difficulty in routing a combination of opponents.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Allies will be Germany's Santa Claus this Christmas.

The kaiser talks of returning to Germany. Perhaps he will—in a baggage car.

Berlin police promise to be polite, gentle and considerate in carrying out their duties. That puts it up to Toronto's cops.

Imagine our feelings if Beatty sailed into some German port to hand over the pick of his fleet to the enemy, and you will catch something of the extent to which German arrogance and pride has been jarred.

Some are sobbingly picturing the ex-kaiser as haunted by the faces of those he has slain or tortured. Rubbish! The only think that haunts him is the fear that he will be made to suffer in a way to fit his crimes.

U. S. Government has headed off a big rush of tourists for Europe. That will meet with the approval of all decent-thinking people. In time tourist trade will help France get solidly on her financial feet, but just now the scars and wounds are too sacred to be overrun by an army of sight-seers.

THE DAY.

By Henry Chappell.
(The Advertiser printed this great poem in 1914. It is dramatically appropriate to reprint it today. You bought the Day, and you toasted the Day, And now the Day has come. Blasphemer, braggart and coward all, Little you reck of the numbing ball, The blasting shell, or the "white arms" fall, As they speed poor humans home.)

You dreamed for the Day, you schemed for the Day; Watch how the Day will go. Slayer of age and youth and prime (Defenceless blood for never a crime) Thou art steeped in blood as a hog in slime. False friend and cowardly foe.

You have sown for the Day, you have sown for the Day; Yours is the harvest reed, Can you hear the groans and the awful cries? Can you see the heap of slain that lies, And countless turned to the flame-splashed skies The glassy eyes of the dead?

You have wronged for the day, you have longed for the Day That lit the awful flame, 'Tis nothing to you that hill and plain Yield sheaves of dead men and the grain; That widows mourn for their loved ones slain, And mothers curse thy name.

But after the Day, there's a price to pay For the sleepers under the sod, And He you have mocked for many a day— Listen, and hear what He has to say: "Vengeance is mine, I will repay." What can you say to God?

Zam-Buk! This is the appeal that is constantly reaching us from the front, and we pass it on in case there may be some who do not know how necessary Zam-Buk is to the boys in France. Amongst the many letters that have been brought to our notice, is one which reads: "I wish we could get more Zam-Buk sent out from home instead of so much tobacco. We can get tobacco here, but unfortunately we cannot always get Zam-Buk, and we need it badly."

Zam-Buk is used by the soldiers for sore hands, frostbite, cold cracks, cuts, sores of all kinds (including gas sores), and sore and blistered feet. It is put up in tins of convenient size for carrying in the pocket so that a man can have it handy to apply at the right moment. When an injury is treated immediately with Zam-Buk, there is no danger of festering or blood-poisoning. A number of articles have been stolen, but most of them might be classified as junk. Although this is serious enough, it is thought that these men have some plan which, if not frustrated, may cause considerable trouble. They may be planning to poison the water supply, it is suggested. However, no chances will be taken, and a sharp watch on their future movements will be kept, and if possible the provokers will be brought to court.

Zam-Buk is just as necessary, too, at home for injuries and skin troubles of all kinds. A tin of Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c box, 3 for $1.25. Send this advertisement and 1c stamp (to return postage) to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, and receive FREE SAMPLE.

added many details. It was a changed Bonnie who smiled at her old friend, and her mother talked long over Mattie's sad romance, and when Bonnie wrote to her husband she told him that story, adding that she was so glad that she was not an unhappy old maid, and that he had married her, over all objections.

When he read the letter it was so different in tone from her others that he whistled a merry tune, and his bunkie told him, "Good news, Ben. I've asked wistfully, hoping to hear of the happy romance of some home. You've guessed it, Scotty, and it's all through the little schoolmarm they used to call Meddlesome Mat." Then he recited Mattie's romance to Corporal Scott.

They talked long and sympathetically about the poor little old maid that had lost her nerve and her waver. "I'll bet you, man," observed the corporal, "that Mattie's mighty nearly all right, that little old girl. Let's both write to her. I'll go no harm." So they did.

Mattie, cheered by the vast improvement in Bonnie, kept up the pace day after day, dropping in with a bit of news, a flower or a poem that reminded her of Lochie, till it was the seventh wonder of the village that Bonnie Bennington had discharged her doctor and was taking long walks about the country with her old teacher.

Then one day two overseas letters came to Miss Mattie Mayfield. The one from Bonnie's soldier husband, which she opened first, left her so excited and happy by its ardent thanks. She had made a better soldier of him, he said, than he ever was before. Then she read the other, which was from her old teacher, and she was so glad that she had been able to do anything but make her living. Wouldn't it get you?

But Ben, with tears in his eyes, was realizing the need that Mattie had felt that something heroic must be done to save his wife, and Mattie's stock soared to the skies.

When Mattie wrote she had told her age, Corporal Scott was just turning thirty-one. When she confessed the correspondence to Bonnie they laughed and giggled like two romantic school-girls.

Of course love can come "slight unseen," as the boys say when they swap jackknives, for letters often disclose real facts. So Ben was chaperon to the romance which culminated when he and Scotty were allowed to come home on sick leave. And Scotty needed no second invitation to spend his leave with Ben. There were two very happy couples indeed that made a foursome in the walks and drives about the village.

Corporal Scott tried to convince Mattie that it would now be in order for them to elope, for he was ready to wind up the romance in true Lochie style. Whose romance is it now, I'd like to know?" growled Ben. "Bonnie and I did enough eloping for all of us, and we earned the right to stand up with you right regular."

And so it was that Meddlesome Mattie ceased being meddlesome at the same instant that she ceased being the village "spin," and became the wife of Corporal Scott.

TOOK BRONCHITIS
AFTER THE MEASLES

Measles is a disease that is very hard on children, and it generally leaves the system in such a debilitated condition that it is liable to attacks of some other trouble. One of the most common of these is bronchitis, which starts with a short, painful, dry cough, a feeling of tightness through the chest and difficulty of breathing, accompanied by a wheezing sound from the lungs.

There is a raising of phlegm from the bronchial tubes, which is very often streaked with blood.

Bronchitis, although not really dangerous, should never be neglected, as some serious lung trouble is most liable to follow if it is.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will loosen the phlegm, soothe and heal the irritated bronchial tubes, and in a short time the bronchitis will disappear.

Mrs. Murdoch-McLean, Adm. Apt., Winnipeg, Man., writes: "About two years ago my little girl had bronchitis; took them after having the measles. I tried several cough remedies, and she died of all kinds, but they all failed. At last I got Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. After using three bottles she has never had any sign of it since. I can honestly recommend it as being a grand medicine."

The genuine Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25c and 50c. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The destitute Belgians need your help abominably as a human creature could need it.

I am from Bruce, and I wonder if you hear from others there (besides me). Perhaps next time I write I may send some useful hints. If I am welcome? Can I come again? Thanking you for your kind attention, I remain yours truly,
LITTLE BRUCE GIRL.

Ans.—Oh, yes, little girl, we hear from quite a few folks in Bruce County, and one of them is a schoolmate (I don't think she's very stern—not out of school hours, at least). By all means call again and the hints will be welcome, too.
NEW ROUTE TO WESTERN CANADA
On your next trip to Western Canada why not travel over a new route, using two famous trains on your journey and traveling some of the most interesting territory in the Dominion? The International Limited of the Grand Trunk will carry you from Montreal to Toronto, where another famous train, The National, starts on its westbound flight to Winnipeg. The National is a through train which leaves Toronto at 8:35 p.m. on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The rails of the Grand Trunk are used to North Bay, which is reached early on the morning following the departure from Toronto. A daylight train is made through the lakeland beauties of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario to Cochrane, calling at Cobalt, with its wonderful mining activity. From Cochrane to Winnipeg your journey lies over the Canadian Government railways, with splendid opportunities of inspecting the fertile regions of New Ontario, including the famed clay belt, where tens of thousands of settlers will make their homes in the future. The three railways have combined to make the passenger service over this new route of the highest possible standard. The greatest travel comfort is assured, while there is no added expense for railroad fare as compared with any other route. For further particulars, apply to any Grand Trunk ticket agent or C. E. Horning, P. O. A., Toronto.

DINNER GOWNS

Variations in Decollete Effects and Increased Prominence of Velvets and Charmeuse Satin.

(By Mlle. Francis, the Famous Creator of Fashions, New York City.)

Dinner gowns, like dinners, are even yet governed by the war. The extremely low decollete which used to distinguish all evening gowns designed for dinner, the opera or dancing has passed into the limbo of memory. Necks are higher, frequently being low only in the front, and the back and sleeves are covered with a thin veiling of net. All this is possibly an old story now, but it is again accented to bring home the fact that the woman of good taste no longer wears decollete, which too generously displays her neck and shoulders however lovely they may be.

Velvets in the most wonderful shades of rose and blue—sapphire and emerald—blue and broad crepes in softest weaves are extremely popular for the long drapery lines of the new dinner gowns.

The menu may be meatless and the day wheelless, but the woman still clings to the thought of keeping herself beautiful and making others happy in the radiance of her loveliness.

Charmeuse satin is a favorite fabric for evening gowns. It has a lovely lustre and reflects artificial light as few materials can. The lighter orchid shades are especially beautiful in this material which seems to carry all the gorgeous loveliness of an orchid in the purplish depths, which shade to palest lavender when a fold of the satin catches a high light. I especially recommend orchid to the woman of fair coloring. Orchid and flesh pink are always an effective combination.

However, some gowns run to more definite colors, such as rose, blue, black and white. The long skirts are taking us back to classic and empire lines.

The Grecian influence is strongly felt in a dinner gown of rose velvet with lacings of rose silk cord on the long shoulder. These lacings show the skin along the curve of the shoulder. The open sleeve is faced with vivid blue charmeuse which gives just a suggestion of color contrast. As the graceful wearer moves her arms in gestures, or becomes vivaciously enthusiastic when talking, the waistline is low, giving full chance for the folds of the beautiful velvet to blouse over a deep circle of jet. A strong spot of color is the jet, but very good in contrast with rose and blue. It sounds the color value of the other two shades. The skirt hangs in long simple folds, with a deep plait laid on the left side. Very paintable in this gown on a woman of rich coloring.

The blue velvet skirt is long and quite narrow. It is split all the way down the front. The edges of the velvet are turned back and the two sides lace, old enough to have taken on the perfect ivory tint. The classic surprise of the black bodice is lovely against the cream lace and flesh tones of the neck. The skirt appears intricate and yet it is beautifully draped in one piece. The material is wound about the figure in a bias line and one side drapes over the girl which manages to curve itself into the waistline with just a touch of firmness here and there. A long train continues from the side front drapery and finally reaches the floor. Black chenille fringe which drops below the skirt of charmeuse follows the train on a dull white background. A long straight panel falls from the shoulders. This panel is faced with white chiffon cloth. A ribbon of vivid blue, which defines the high waistline, shows a tiny edge of silver on either side. Nothing could be simpler than this "baby sash," and yet it strikes the color note needed on an all-white gown.

You will recognize "la jeune fille" in every detail of a blue velvet dress for the debutante. A youthful decollete is effected by a ruffle of Mechlin lace which falls away from the throat. A chemiselet of cotton net which matches the mesh of the lace is gathered in a casing through which runs a ribbon of palest orchid and is tied in a little bow. A circle of bluish lavender is the proper background for a bunch of violets. An old-fashioned peplum of velvet is ruffled in Mechlin lace.

This net carries several ruffles of Mechlin lace in three different widths. In the centre of the front a tiny bow of palest orchid runs through an empire wreath of violets. Rows of Mechlin lace are quilted around the bottom of the blue velvet skirt.

A picturesque Romney hat is worn with this gown, and is made of black velvet. From the broad brim falls a ruffle of Mechlin lace in a different pattern from that featured on the gown and shades demure eyes of violet.

Jacob Wins Esau.—Gen. xxxiii, 1-11.
QUESTIONS FOR TODAY.

4. Verse 1.—How does God look upon a Christian who daily gives up his life to him? But still lives in dread of some evil befalling him?
5. Verse 2.—Is it wise, or otherwise, and why, for parents to think more of some of their children than they do of others?

6. Verse 3.—Why does God allow the fear of the consequences of forgiven sin in the hearts of men?
7. Verse 4.—How does God punish Jacob's sin of years before he met him?

Golden Text: A soft answer turneth away wrath.—Prov., 15:1.
GOD PROSTITUTES OUR ENEMIES.

On the morning following the night of Jacob's victory he met Esau and with him four hundred men. It seems evident that Esau coming with such a large company of trained soldiers intended to pay off old scores with Jacob, and to take from him more than a fair recompense for that of which his brother had robbed him in the years gone by, but evidently God had wrought a change in Esau, for instead of greeting him in anger he met his brother Jacob in love. It is true that Jacob still sent some very valuable presents of flocks and cattle ahead of Esau, but doubtless Esau's change of disposition was brought about by God in answer to Jacob's prayer, and hence we reason that God prostitutes our enemies.

Jimmy Coon and His Friends

The Adventures of the Little People of the Great Forest.

One rainy night, Father Beaver called out, "Now everybody come along quick with me, for we must cut a lot of wood tonight for our winter woodpile. And this rainy night is just the kind of night for beavers like for this glorious work of cutting down trees."

Now all were inside their house when Father Beaver spoke; and at his command all jumped up with joy for beavers would rather work than do anything else in life. Why, you know, work for them is just as much fun as play, because they love to work.

Father Beaver stood up in their big dining-room, and he made a splendid dive into the deep water in the back hall until he reached the secret canal, and then he swam under water through the long canal, until he reached the poplar trees in the Big Forest.

And Mother Beaver also took a "chicken" and some she was swimming through her back hall, and through the secret canal. And Tom and Jerry Beaver, seeing their parents rolled over in bed, and still in their pyjamas, dived from their beds into the deep water, and soon were swimming fast to overtake their parents. And then all their brothers and sisters dived from their bedrooms to the water, in the back hallway, and swam rapidly to overtake Tom and Jerry.

You see, beavers build their houses with every comfort and convenience. How nice it is to be able every morning to wake up early, and stand up on the edge of your bed in your pyjamas, and take a cold plunge to your health, as you dive head-first into your bathroom.

The cellar of a beaver's house is one big bathroom and swimming pool. Whenever a beaver wishes to get out doors, he dives into his big bathroom in the cellar, and then swims out of the back wall, where a secret canal, and then out into Mirror Pond.

The five sons, John L. of Windsor, James J. of Toronto, Joseph J., Daniel J. and William P., all of this city, were present on the occasion and presented their aged parents with substantial purses of gold. Several grandchildren and one great-grandchild were present for the occasion. The celebration was to have been held on the 24th of October, but was postponed owing to the Spanish influenza epidemic.

Mrs. F. B. Clegg spent the week-end out of town.

CAPT. EDDIE GRANT DIED LEADING HIS MEN INTO BATTLE

Former Giant Third Baseman Fell in Argonne Forest.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The details of the death of Capt. Eddie Grant, the former third baseman of the Giants, in the Argonne forest, have just reached this country in a recent issue of the Stars and Stripes, the newspaper of the A. E. F. Capt. Grant was killed while going to the rescue of Major Whittlesey's lost battalion. The Stars and Stripes describes his death as follows:

"It was late in the afternoon of October 5 that Capt. Grant was killed. His company had been in the thick of the fighting on the Vesle. They had a part in every attempt to relieve the boys of New York's Own (in Argonne forest), and were moving forward on a sixth attack, when the wounded major of their battalion, being carried past a litter, directed Capt. Grant to take command. Capt. Grant, whose own men just an hour before, had given up at least a fruitless effort to rescue him. They had seen by his white, drawn face how utterly he was exhausted. They had watched while he started several times to drink his coffee and then left the cup stand, literally too weary to lift it to his lips. They had tried to persuade him to go back to the aid station and rest, even for a little time, but he paid no heed to them. Now, with the whole battalion under his command, he was moving forward, when a big shell exploded, killing several men in the company just ahead, and badly wounding his own adjutant. 'Flopp, everybody!' the captain called out to the men of Company H, but because his lieutenant had been hurt he himself remained standing, so that he could shout down the forest path, 'Stretch, stretch, stretch!'

"That was the last word he said, for there came a second shell, and a piece tore his side into his side and he fell. He was killed instantly. He was buried in the forest, two feet from where he fell. The men of Company H testify that they never went into action without their captain in the lead, and one of them—used to be a policeman at the Polo Grounds in New York—says that to the onlookers there never was any difference between the Capt. Grant who walked forward, smiling and unconcerned under shell fire and the old soldier who fell from the forest path to his death.

"When several days later, reporters made their way to that ravine where former Major Whittlesey, commander of the beleaguered battalion, was encamped, he met them with the words that ran something like this: 'The real story is not here. The real story is with the men who day and night fought their way to our relief.'

"As matters now stand, the only thing we will have lost will have been a month of play last September. Naturally, baseball men hail the events of the last week with great joy, not only as patriotic citizens, proud of the achievements of their country in winning a great victory, but as businessmen.

Thriving Days Ahead For Baseball, Opines Heydler

Acting Head of National League Declares the Public Will Be Anxious for Return of National Game.

New York, Nov. 18.—The coming of peace brought many joys, and by few was it held with more enthusiasm than by the major league baseball owners. A feeling of optimism prevailed in all baseball headquarters this clear morning of the baseball skies, as well as of the general world situation, said John Heydler, acting president of the National League. "Baseball, of course, will have some serious problems to meet before we take the field again, but thinking surely have a different hue from what they did when we suspended play last Labor Day."

"As matters now stand, the only thing we will have lost will have been a month of play last September. Naturally, baseball men hail the events of the last week with great joy, not only as patriotic citizens, proud of the achievements of their country in winning a great victory, but as businessmen.

BAN JOHNSON WILL PATCH UP TROUBLE WITH THE MINORS

American League President Has a Plan All Worked Out.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—Peace, not war, is to be the motto of relations between the major and minor leagues, according to Ban Johnson, president of the American League.

Johnson, who has a plan all worked out, which he says will solve the troubles of the minors and bring prosperity to baseball generally, in spite of the disorganization caused by the war, expressed himself as unalterably opposed to abolition of the draft. This step was demanded by the minors in their conference at Peoria this week.

Previous to the organization of the Federal League the majors paid the minors a quarter of a million dollars a year, on the average, for new playing talent," he said. "The controversy with the Federal League compelled a gradual retrenchment, from which the major leagues had not recovered when the European war began to be felt. In consequence the minors would not exist with the chief source of their revenues cut off. If they are to resume, this source of income must be restored."

"I am not one of those who believe that the minor league club owners must gouge their finances according to their receipts alone. They are the great incubators of baseball and it is just that they be recompensed for the players they develop, particularly the smaller circuits."

"The absolute abolition of the draft, however, cannot be considered, in justice to the players. A class D owner, for instance, might turn up a second Ty Cobb and sentence him for life to play in class D company by fixing so high a price on him that no major club owner could afford to take a chance on the youngster. It is essential to protect the player that some method be in force by which the youngster can be assured of advancing in his profession as fast as his ability entitles him to."

Better Babies

A constipated infant begins life heavily handicapped. Constipation means infinitely more than mere failure of the bowels to move regularly and thoroughly. It means stagnation of waste matter, production of irritant and poisonous substances, and their absorption into the blood by which they are carried all over the body.

Cells are poisoned, growth interfered with, and a soil prepared in which germs of disease easily take root and develop. Constipation in infancy is a bad habit, but giving an infant drugs to force the bowels to move is a crime. A baby is like a bud—both may easily be blasted.

The Nujol Treatment for Constipation is not only absolutely harmless, but is in the highest degree efficient.

Nujol is not a drug, does not act like any drug.

Nujol helps Nature to overcome the bad habits by re-establishing natural, easy, thorough bowel evacuation, as regular as clockwork.

Every drop of Nujol taken into the body comes out of the body. But in its passage through the intestinal canal, it keeps the bowel contents soft and moist, makes it easier for the intestinal muscles to act, absorbs poisons and helps to discourage germ growth.

Get Nujol of your druggist and give it according to directions.

Warning: Nujol is sold only in sealed bottles bearing the Nujol Trade Mark. Insist on Nujol. You may suffer from substitutes.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

The Only Wise Treatment For Adenoids Is Prompt Removal

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University.)

A child or adult who suffers from enlarged tonsils usually suffers from adenoids.

Both of these ailments are small growths in the throat. Tonsils are found on the sides of the throat just beneath the soft palate or extension of the roof of the mouth. These may be enlarged on both sides of the throat, and when they are enlarged they can be affected by the tonsillitis, ruffled growths. When the tonsils are normal they cannot be seen, as they are situated close to the walls of the throat, and hence seem to be a part of the round, smooth contour of the throat cavity.

Adenoids are located just in back of the nasal chambers where they join the throat. These cannot be seen when the mouth is open. They are present, especially in children, when the tonsils are enlarged.

The Probable Causes. The cause of enlarged tonsils and adenoid growths is still unknown, but it is believed that they are due largely to the breathing of germ-infected air. Early ventilated schoolrooms are a great means of conveying nose and throat infections to the child. Many children, especially those of a weak nature, who do not easily ward off infections by strong bodily resistance, find it exceedingly difficult to attend to a whole term without suffering some disorder. These are usually among the first victims of nose and throat ailments, if the teacher is not very careful about allowing all the fresh air possible to pour into the room.

In poorly ventilated sleeping rooms, likewise, there is danger of permitting the already breathed out air to re-enter the channels of the nose and throat, and cause infections there. When the child has already developed enlarged tonsils, early attention to their removal is absolutely necessary. Until he has rid himself of the ailment, the affected boy or girl is subject to frequent colds, to breathing through the mouth because the nasal air passages have been blocked, and consequently there occurs tonsillitis—inflammation of the tonsils.

Any ordinary individual can discover the presence of enlarged tonsils upon looking into the throat, but he cannot see the adenoid growths, because they are situated higher in the throat, and are entirely out of the view of unprofessionals.

Symptoms and Cure. By the symptoms of adenoids, however, you can tell that they are present. In the first place, they largely prevent breathing through the nose, by which ordinary child does most of his breathing. Since the natural breathing process is thus interfered with, the child becomes backward in his general state of health. Persons afflicted with these abominations are not wide awake. Their general appearance is dull, they keep their mouths open, and their faces have a weak, listless expression. The upper jaw becomes narrowed. The roof of the mouth distorted, and the tip of the nose, through lack of use, become narrow and pinched and assume the appearance of a shriveled-up part of the mechanism.

The victim also shows the presence of diseased tonsils or adenoids, or both, by his nasal voice, frequent headaches and colds, stupidity and his habit of facial grimaces.

There are no half-way measures in the removal of tonsils and adenoid growths. In past years "freezing" the tonsils or the removal of the surface of the swelling has been practiced, but this has been found to be useless, because the inevitable return of the trouble. This method also has been found to be harmful, because the germs harbored by these growths are thus permitted to remain and infect not only the throat, but possibly other parts of the body. Prompt removal of these diseased adenoids and tonsils must be removed, root and branch. This can be accomplished by an expert surgeon who specializes on nose and throat operations.

MY SOLDIER HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S CONTINUATION OF REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Mother Graham Proposed to Help Dicky.

"Dr. Gibson?" I queried as the click of the receiver told me my telephone had been connected with the physician's home.

"This is Dr. Gibson's house," a measured feminine voice answered.

"May I speak to him?"

"Dr. Gibson is too ill to make calls or even to take messages."

"Oh!" The exclamation reflected the sudden impingement of my spirit. "Who is attending to his practice?"

"Dr. Spencer of Cresthaven. But unless it is a very urgent case I shouldn't advise you to call him. He is very busy."

"Thank you. Good-by."

I hung up the receiver with a feeling akin to panic. The thing that had faced many homes—that of not being able to obtain the services promptly of a competent physician—now came home to me. Dicky, who had not violently ill, was yet distinctly not well. His temperature was below normal, as were his respiration and his pulse, and there were other symptoms which worried me.

"Well," my mother-in-law's voice, sharp with anxiety, sounded behind me. "What's the matter?"

"I don't know what to do."

"I told her, saw the troubled lines deepen on her face.

"And Richard so strenuously objects to having a physician, anyway," she said.

"I know. Dr. Gibson is the only one who ever could manage him," I returned. "I simply don't know what to do."

My mother-in-law looked at me queerly.

"Didn't that jackanapes of a Pettit get home last night?" she asked, although she knew perfectly well that I as well as all that us knew of the young physician had come back from Washington to my father's temporary home next door.

"Yes, he did," I answered, with difficulty keeping her cheek smile at bay. "The doctorization of Dr. Pettit, whose skill she grudgingly admired, but whose personality she disliked. (But I don't see how that's going to help. You know, while Dicky doesn't admit it, he's the way he used to do, yet he doesn't particularly admire him, and—and—I'm afraid—"

A Sickness of Convenience.

"Suggest calling him, Dicky would get up on his feet and see the man," his mother finished with a grim smile. "Yes, I'm quite sure he will. But one thing's certain. The boy's got to have medical attention right away, and while Pettit's brain is seven-eighths mush, yet the one-eighth that is working isn't so bad. So we simply must send for him. If we could manage it without Dicky taking it into his head that we had called Pettit for him especially."

I ventured no reply. If anyone but Dicky had been in question I would have proposed feigning illness myself, in order to get the physician in the house and in conversation with Dicky. But I knew this course to be impossible. The mother-in-law's voice was heard again, used to exhibit hadn't been in evidence since Dr. Pettit's return from South America, and the revelation we had had of his signal sacrifice and devotion to my father. But I was afraid that it only smoldered underneath, and I only wished to avoid any action which would again arouse my husband's antagonism.

"There's only one thing to do," my mother spoke incisively. "I'll have to go to bed with something—more drastic, I venture to say. And I'll instruct you to ask Pettit to come over. Of course Dicky will be to see me, and I'll try to manage the rest. You can keep out of it as much as possible."

Motherly I said warmly. "You—you are simply wonderful. Motherly I said warmly. "You—you are simply wonderful. Motherly I said warmly. "You—you are simply wonderful."

"Fiddlesticks!" she retorted caustically, but I knew that I hadn't offended her. "You go back to Dicky, and in about an hour I'll get into bed, call Katie, and send her to you with a tale woe. There's no use of Katie knowing the real facts."

"Indeed no," I agreed. "If she is a trifle frightened, it will make your illness very realistic."

"She'll be that, right," my mother-in-law asserted firmly. "But whatever you do don't let her paw me over and try to do things for me."

"I'll keep her in order," I promised, and went back to Dicky's room.

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effete matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N. S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SPECKS FLOATING BEFORE HIS EYES

When specks start to float before the eyes, when everything turns black for a few seconds and you feel as if you were going to faint, you may rest assured that your liver is not working properly.

The essential thing to do in all cases where the liver is slow, lazy or torpid, is to stir it up by the use of a medicine that will clear away all the waste and poisonous matter from the system, and prevent as well as cure all the troubles arising from this accumulated mass which has collected in the system.

Keep the bowels open by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills and you will have no liver trouble of any kind. They will clear away all the waste and effete matter which has collected and make the liver active and working properly.

Mr. John R. Morrison, Grand River Falls, N. S., writes: "Several months ago I was troubled with a sour stomach, and had specks floating before my eyes. I took five vials of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills which cured and cleaned my blood before any length of time. I told my friends about it and they got some, and they, too, find themselves different since they took them. I recommend your pills very highly."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25c a vial at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

To-morrow's HOROSCOPE

By Genesius Kemble

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 20.

The past year's prognostications for this day are of most encouraging nature. There is a strong prospect of radical changes, involving journeys and removal. These may present themselves in the most abrupt and unplanned fashion—the sudden removal of a person from the removal of a crystallized condition which has long been an obstacle and a cause of great anxiety and distress. This delay and disappointment regarding cherished plans and important projects will be definitely and quickly swept away, possibly through the intervention of elderly persons and through assistance coming from an unexpected or irregular source. It is a time for taking advantage of all co-operation from individuals and projects. Those whose birthday it is may expect a year of radical change, with the fruition of long-cherished plans and projects. A child born on this day will be industrious, trustworthy and inventive.

Those who are afflicted with these abominations are not wide awake. Their general appearance is dull, they keep their mouths open, and their faces have a weak, listless expression. The upper jaw becomes narrowed. The roof of the mouth distorted, and the tip of the nose, through lack of use, become narrow and pinched and assume the appearance of a shriveled-up part of the mechanism.

The victim also shows the presence of diseased tonsils or adenoids, or both, by his nasal voice, frequent headaches and colds, stupidity and his habit of facial grimaces.

There are no half-way measures in the removal of tonsils and adenoid growths. In past years "freezing" the tonsils or the removal of the surface of the swelling has been practiced, but this has been found to be useless, because the inevitable return of the trouble. This method also has been found to be harmful, because the germs harbored by these growths are thus permitted to remain and infect not only the throat, but possibly other parts of the body. Prompt removal of these diseased adenoids and tonsils must be removed, root and branch. This can be accomplished by an expert surgeon who specializes on nose and throat operations.

Good Night Stories

By Blanche Selous

FIXIT HELPS THE MEAN MAN.

"Get up, you beast!" cried the man angrily, as he leaped the poor, bony horse over the back with a stick.

The poor horse pulled with all its might, but the two back wheels were so deep in the mud, he couldn't budge the wagon.

"Pull it up or I'll fix you, you lazy old-for-nothing!" cried the man, and he raised his whip to strike the poor horse again, but something caught his hand and he looked down at it.

A queer little Dwarf stood looking at the man.

"I'm Fixit, from Whereaway Land," said the Dwarf, stepping in front of the horse. "This is a pretty fine horse you have here, only you don't feed him enough."

"Move out of my way!" exclaimed the angry man. "He's a good-for-nothing old horse. If he had all the food in the country he wouldn't pull up this hill."

"Well, I don't blame him, if you always act this way," laughed Fixit. "What will you bet I can't get him up the hill without even touching the whip?"

"I'll bet the bag himself, you can't," replied the man.

"It's a bargain!" exclaimed Fixit. "If he pulls up this hill, he's mine. If not, you are." answered the man, who was sure it couldn't be done.

Fixit lifted the sunken wheels from the mud, then jumped upon the horse's back and stroked his long shiny neck. "Come on, old fellow," he said kindly. "We've only a little further to go."

The horse gave a weak pull.

Fixit patted his neck and coaxed in gentle tones.

The horse made another effort.

"Come On, Old Fellow."

"Fine!" exclaimed Fixit, "another pull like that and we'll be there!"

"Hal! Hal! Hal!" laughed the man. "I knew I was safe in making that bet."

But he had hardly spoken the words before the horse pulled with all his might and up the hill he went.

"There's no reason for that who won't try to do as you want him to, if you only treat him kindly. A horse should never be beaten or yelled at when he's trying to do his best. Kindness goes a great deal further than harsh words and blows," said Fixit, patting the horse's head. "This is a bad hill, and your wagon is loaded too heavily, and before the horse could draw the wagon tipped over, burying him under its load."

"Now," said the man, "the horse was out of sight."

When the man reached home there, to his astonishment, he found the old horse in his stall and on his halter was pinned a note from the Dwarf:

"Always remember that kindness does more than harsh words and that pleasant smiles are better than blows. From that time on and every time you do not let her paw me over and try to do things for me."

"I'll keep her in order," I promised, and went back to Dicky's room.

"Indeed no," I agreed. "If she is a trifle frightened, it will make your illness very realistic."

"She'll be that, right," my mother-in-law asserted firmly. "But whatever you do don't let her paw me over and try to do things for me."

Correct style worn by well dressed young men in all localities. Lace boot—medium narrow recede toe, low heel—made in black, tan or patent calf. Price, $7.00 to $10.00.

Style—Plus Service at a Fair Price

THE style illustrated above is one that is largely preferred by Canadian business men—especially young men. It has the medium long vamp and narrow, somewhat pointed toe which gives the foot a slim and "dressy" appearance, without being extreme in style. Those who like this type of shoe will find it thoroughly satisfactory in fitting qualities and a comfortable easy shoe to walk in.

This style can be obtained in several grades of black and tan. The price range—$7 to $10—considering the present leather market, is extremely moderate.

Next spring a shoe of the same wearing qualities will cost from ten to twenty per cent more. It would cost more now except for the fact that the resources of this company enable us to cover our needs well in advance.

SAVE YOUR HAIR AND BEAUTIFY IT WITH "DANDERINE"

Spend a few cents! Dandruff disappears and hair stops coming out.

Try this! Hair gets beautiful, wavy and thick in few moments.

If you care for heavy hair, that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness, and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine. Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff; you cannot have nice, heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast.

If your hair has been neglected and is thin, faded, dry, scraggy or too oily, get a small bottle of Knowlton's Danderine at any drug store or toilet counter, for a few cents; apply a little as directed, and ten minutes after you will say this was the best investment you ever made.

We sincerely believe, regardless of everything else advertised, that if you desire soft, lustrous, beautiful hair and lots of it—no dandruff—no itching scalp and no more falling hair—you must use Knowlton's Danderine. If eventually why not now?

MANY BYLAWS TO BE SUBMITTED TO VOTE IN JANUARY

Forms of Commission Government Will Be Included.

BUSINESS TRANSACTIONS BY THE COUNCIL.

Appointed Dr. W. S. Downham M. O. H. at a salary of $2,500 a year. Declined to continue the payment of $1,000 a year to the hygienic institute for services rendered.

Approved the following bylaws to be voted on at the January elections: For the purchase of an industrial area not to exceed $50,000.

For a grant of $600 to the Victorian Order of Nurses; $1,000 to the Italian Red Cross fund; $5,000 to the Boy League; $500 to No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Association.

Authorized the preparation of a bylaw embodying the form of commission government recommended to the board of control by Controller J. M. Moore, with the amendment added which provides for the election of the mayor by vote of the citizens instead of by vote of the 24 commissioners.

Decided to take a plebiscite of the voters on the question of Sunday cars to Springbank.

Passed up the question of the Tozer charges regarding certain members of the fire department again.

The fire department was brought to the attention of the council by a communication from J. M. McEvoy, which was a copy of the letter he had sent to Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop in reference to the several charges against the department.

After reviewing the action of the council regarding the whole question up till the time when the special committee reported that "it had heard each man of the fire department on the fire department matters" and recommended that the chief's report be adopted and the matter closed," the letter proceeds in part:

"A truly magnificent closing for a city council to father, having in mind that the Firemen's Union had endeavored to stop Tozer when he was appointed lieutenant, and had expelled him and George Atkinson from the union for accepting promotion over senior men, just before the complaint was lodged. It is easy to get from the divine right of discipline to the divine right of majorities."

The letter then further reviews the case in reference to the different resolutions calling for the investigation of the matter, and the removal of the charges against the fire department. The letter concludes by saying that the matter must rest there, and that the council should take steps to have the matter removed from the council's agenda.

There was considerable cross-fire regarding what action should be taken. Controller J. H. Saunders moved to send the Tozer charges to the county sent for investigation. Mayor C. R. Somerville pointed out that the council would have to back up the charges to have them investigated, and in the event of their not being proven, it would be liable for action for damages. The motion was defeated by eight to seven.

Commission Government.

The commission form of government occupied a deal of the time also. Under this form, proposed by Controller J. M. Moore, there would be twenty-four commissioners elected to govern six departments into which the work of the present governing bodies would be divided, four to each department. The following are the proposed departments: Finance, public works, education, public utilities, railways and health. The original proposition left the election of the mayor to the 24 commissioners, and he was to be chosen from among their number.

The amendment gives the citizens the right to elect the mayor as well as the commissioners. These 24 will form the council, which would be the executive head over all departments. In this way all the spending bodies of the city would be co-ordinated under one head.

The proposal to introduce a bylaw to appoint an executive committee to, in a measure, take the place of the board of control was referred back to No. 1 and No. 2 committees for further consideration.

NEW "FLU" CASES ARE CROPPING UP THROUGHOUT CITY

Many New Patients Being Admitted to Hospital Daily.

"I'm afraid it is going to be quite a while before this thing is stamped out," one city doctor was overheard remarking to another yesterday. They were comparing notes in regard to their influenza cases, both having a number. One doctor said: "I have been having at the rate of one new case a day. If other doctors are getting as many, that means a good number in the city."

One doctor was feeling decidedly blue yesterday. He had been rushed almost to death when the epidemic was at its height, and has had several calls to new cases in the last few days.

London Hospital admitted seven new cases on Saturday, and seven on Sunday, as well as several yesterday. St. Joseph's Hospital has as many cases as a week ago.

"What do you think is the trouble?" was asked of one doctor. "Is this a slight recurrence?"

"Whatever it is," he replied, "it indicates that people have been getting careless. They have felt reassured that it was all over and have stopped taking precautions. You see them crowding into street cars, stores, public gatherings of every description. Holding together in large numbers is the thing that spreads this disease."

"The first, most important precaution in my estimation, is to keep away from crowds."

"People will have to start gargling and washing their hands again," said a trained nurse, whose experience with the epidemic has given her reason to fear even the slightest recurrence.

VETERANS HONORED BY PARKHILL CONGREGATION

Parkhill, Nov. 18.—Sacred Heart Church, Parkhill, has again honored her returned soldiers. Corp. W. Garden and Pte. J. Gallacher were the recipients of an address and well-filled purse. Corp. Garden enlisted in the 15th Battalion and spent two years overseas. Pte. Gallacher enlisted in the 3rd Battalion and was wounded twice, buried twice and gassed once. He is now convalescing in London Military Convalescent Hospital.

MARY PICKFORD AT HER BEST IN GREAT PLAY AT THE MAJESTIC

"Jack" King Sings the Prologue From Pagliacci.

Mary Pickford, "the sweetest of the screen," in her latest success, "Johanna Enlists," attracted capacity audiences at all performances at the Majestic yesterday. The story deals with Johanna Renssler, uncouth and freckled, who has been reared on a farm amid surroundings not conducive to the development of all the good that is in her. She has a romantic soul, but her parents treat her with coldness. She meets a brakeman at a distance, so that when a regiment of soldiers camp near the Renssler farm, accompanied by many handsome officers, Johanna's prayer for a beau seemingly has been answered. Everybody, from the commanding officer to the humblest trooper, falls in love with her. She decides upon a milk bath to enhance her beauty, and this results in startling developments.

The letter then further reviews the case in reference to the different resolutions calling for the investigation of the matter, and the removal of the charges against the fire department. The letter concludes by saying that the matter must rest there, and that the council should take steps to have the matter removed from the council's agenda.

NUXATED IRON

"Nuxated Iron helps put astonishing strength and energy into the veins of men and bring roses to the cheeks of pale, nervous, rundown women," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital. "I prescribe it regularly in cases of depleted energy, anaemia and lack of strength and endurance. There is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to quickly enrich the blood, make beautiful, healthy women and strong, vigorous, iron men." Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

HAVE ROSY CHEEKS AND FEEL FRESH AS A DAISY—TRY THIS!

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

To see the tinge of healthy bloom in your face, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, to wake up without a headache, backache, coated tongue or a nasty breath, in fact to feel your best, day in and day out, just try inside-bathing every morning for one week.

Before breakfast each day, drink a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it as a harmless means of washing from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire system. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that. Those who are subject to constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, rheumatic twinges, also those whose skin is sallow and complexion pallid, that one week of inside bathing will have them both looking and feeling better in every way.

SAPPER CHAS. UPSHALL WINS MILITARY MEDAL

Sapper Charles Uphall of 571 William street is another one of London's sons to win the Military Medal for distinguished service on the battlefield. He was presented with the medal on September 3 for his work at the battle of Arras. His friends received word to this effect today. Prior to his enlistment, Sapper Uphall was employed with the Bell Telephone Company of this city.

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Bitro-Phosphate To Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright, and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

CAUTION.—Although bitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.—Advt.

THE BEST KIND OF POLICY

Men often ask the question, "Which is the best policy for me? Upon first-class risks it makes no difference to the company. Some writers have argued from a one-sided view, that the less money paid for protection the better; but it all depends upon circumstances. Protection is not like house rent, or like an article that can be worn out and consumed, and leave no future value behind it. Life insurance must inevitably couple the future with the present. A man of limited means and large insurance needs will find the cheapest insurance in a full life participating policy, while the man of larger means or of independent fortune may profitably take the ten, fifteen or twenty payment policies. In the event of early death, the latter will have paid more, but in case of living he will not only pay less in the aggregate, but will experience the satisfaction of having his insurance fully paid up before he is old. It is simply an outworking of the law of average, as the interest equalizes the different propositions.

Notwithstanding the higher cost, the advantages of endowment insurance are distinct and worthy of the most careful consideration.
