

KENNEDY BURIED WHILE THOUSANDS BOW WITH GRIEF

Winds Sob Requiem as Body
Is Placed in Snow-Clad Grave.

TRIBUTE IN SILENCE

Notables From All Parts of Canada Pay Tribute at Funeral.

Special to The Advertiser.

Windsor, Jan. 24.—Thousands of heads were bowed in sorrow here this morning as the casket carrying the remains of the Hon. W. C. Kennedy was borne slowly from St. Alphonsus' church. Thousands of heads were bowed, from the prime minister of Canada and the leader of the opposition down to the humblest workman in Windsor and his wife.

The funeral procession from the Kennedy home was the largest ever known in the history of Windsor.
Starting from the house a few minutes after ten, the procession wound through streets lined with people. At St. Alphonsus' church every foot of ground was packed in the vicinity, with cordons of police and firemen keeping back the crowds.

The chief mourners for the late
Mr. Kennedy sat on the right side of the church, with the members of the cabinet on the left. The casket was placed in front, immediately before the altar.

Mass Celebrated.

Solemn high mass in memory of the departed minister was celebrated in the church, starting at 10:30. As the stately and solemn Latin choruses by the choir sang out, the somber tones through the church, many a tear dropped unheeded from eyes that were filled. Men and women alike, unashamed, showed their grief for a dear friend who was gone.

Those who officiated at the solemn high mass were Very Rev. Dean
Downey, pastor of the church; Rev.
Father McShane, of Montreal; Rev.
Father Frank Brennan, of London; Rev. Father W. Langlois, master of ceremonies, and Rev. J. Gerard Thurber.

Following the solemn high mass,
Rev. Father Coughlin, C.S.B., preached a short funeral address.
The honorary pallbearers were Premier King, the Hon. Mr. Arthur Meighen and members of the federal cabinet. The active pal-bearers were Charles E. King, Col.
E. S. Wigle, Dr. P. A. Dewart, Gaspard P. P. Burns, A. R. Bartlett,
E. A. Cleary and George Hanrahan.

Preach Funeral Service.

After the delivery of a solemn high mass in St. Alphonsus church at 10:30 this morning, a short funeral address was preached by Rev. Father Charles Coughlin, C.S.B.
"We have assembled this morning to pay the last religious tribute to William Costello Kennedy," said Father Coughlin. "It is usual on such solemn occasions to direct silence to more golden in its eloquence than are intruding words of praise or lamentation. Silence, because our heads are bowed with a national grief; silence, because our hearts are in sympathy with her and them who were dearest to him; silence, because we are appalled by the suddenness of this present manifestation of death."

"But because he, whom we mourn, played no small part in our national life, because he was the admirer of all, despite their political, their religious, or their national bonds, it seems fitting that his name should be mentioned, thus in public, although eulogies, the mother of all his virtues, should prefer that silence should be his eulogist."

"To my country's leaders and to my fellow citizens, the death of our mutual friend has come with the sharp shock of an irreparable loss.
"There lies the best of him, of him who assisted so mightily in fashioning the present government. The judicious, amiable, energetic soul has fled to the world beyond. Behind he has left a most burdensome office.
However, our nation's grief is somewhat assuaged when we contemplate that in his brief sojourn in parliament there was honesty of intention and of act to mark his daily life;
there was justice and charity to characterize his dealings with his fellow men; there was unselfish devotion to his country's cause to stamp his sterling policy. These virtues, my friends, no tomorrow can efface
from the memory of his colleagues."

Character Magnificent.

"Moreover, the magnificent character of the man which has received so much publicity in his truthfullogues of our press, cannot but build up in the hearts of the citizens a castle of confidence; confidence in those chosen legislators whom William Kennedy so loved; confidence in the men who weave the destiny of our nation. His death has not been in vain. It has heralded abroad the message that members of parliament aim at ends which are for their country's, their God's and their truth."

"Cold words of sympathy are these for his friends. Little do they soothe the many children of this and of other cities who were blessed by his charity. Some other kind benefactor be their helper. Poor argument it is to offer to his sisters who were so attached to such an illustrious and loving brother."

Weak, shallow sympathy.

"Weak, shallow sympathy. It is her heart who gloried most in his triumphs and who grieves most in his death."

JURY EMPANELLED

M. W. Mitchell Placed in the County Jail on Charge of Manslaughter.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Jan. 24.—Michael William Mitchell of Detroit is in the county jail charged with manslaughter as the result of the death of Herbert Keyes, last buyer of the department of public highways, who was killed on the provincial highway about two miles west of this city at an early hour last evening.

Keyes, who was 32 years of age, was driving a light car and was struck by a heavy machine driven by Mitchell, the police allege. They also allege that behind it all was an illegal effort to supply Detroit patrons with Canadian "boose."
Small pieces of evidence which the county police have collected thus far indicate a show of inhumanity on the part of the man that is almost inconceivable.

Mitchell was arraigned in the county police court this morning, and when asked by an official of the department of public highways to relate the circumstances of the accident, declared:
"I won't say nothing until I see my lawyer."

He will be represented by R. L.
Brackin, K. C.
A coroner's jury viewed the remains last night, but was discharged this morning, as some of the men had visited the scene of the accident before being empaneled. Another jury was formed.

The new jury viewed the remains and will meet again tomorrow morning. The big car bore a 1922 make-"27." It is believed that the car belongs to Benny Kert, 4470 Russell avenue, Detroit. E. F. McDonald is acting temporarily for the accused, for R. L. Brackin is out of the city.

Alice Discovers Parliament Is a Wonderland of Ladies

Objects to Sitting on the "Floor" of the House—Glad That Men Hold Their Own.

Special to The Advertiser.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—It was because Alice had insisted that a person owed it to herself to see how her country's laws were being made, that Alice and her girl friend found themselves at the opening of parliament yesterday afternoon. "And they say you have to hurry if you want to get a seat, because there's always an awful crowd," said Alice. "I suppose that's what they mean by running for a seat in parliament." So although the ticket said 2:30, Alice and her girl friend arrived there at 2 o'clock, and half an hour before the doors were opened there was a long line of people waiting.

The line stretched half way down the corridor. There was a dreadful crush. Alice heard one lady asking another lady whether she expected to sit in the gallery or on the floor:
"And if it's a question of sitting on the floor, we won't stay," Alice declared to her girl friend, "because floors are terribly drafty this time of year."

Go Up To The Top.
It looked so hopeless at the end of the line that Alice and her girl friend finally went up to the top and inserted themselves quietly in front of a stout lady, who wore draped velvet and a real lace bertha, and who had been waiting in line for an hour and a quarter. The stout lady expostulated bitterly, even after Alice had patiently explained to her that if they had waited at the end of the line they would probably not have got in at all. As Alice said afterward to her girl friend, you can always tell a lady by the consideration she shows to strangers in public.

Alice felt that something was missing.

"I know what it is," she said finally to her friend. "It's the members of parliament. Where do the members of parliament sit?" Alice's friend turned to the lady next to her and asked where the members of parliament sat, and the lady explained that they sat in the two rows of chairs that faced each other on either side of the throne.

Rows of Women.
Alice and her friend could scarcely believe their eyes, for the two rows of chairs were quite filled with two rows of the most elegant ladies that Alice and her girl friend had ever seen. "My goodness," said Alice's girl friend, "I never knew that we had that many women in parliament."
Why, Premier Drury is the only man left, isn't it perfectly wonderful?"

The lieutenant-governor came in with true pomp and splendor and gave the speech from the throne. The sergeant-at-arms made mysterious passes with the mace. The two gentlemen were introduced to the House as Mr. Alfred Goulet and Mr. John Currie. It was announced that they had come to claim the right to their seats.

When Alice heard that she simply leaped over the gallery and clapped as hard as she could. "Well, thank goodness," said Alice, "thank goodness, they're still capable of trying to get their seats back. I'd hate to have seen them give up without a struggle."

Alice declared to her girl friend on the way home, "You can't tell me that women can get along without men in politics. Why wouldn't have thought it was the opening of parliament at all. You would have thought it was just simply nothing but a society function."

PATRIOTISM WINS FRENCH RESPECT AND LENIENT FINE

German Industrial Barons Are Lightly Penalized for Disobeying Orders.

REPLIES ARE PROUD

Thyssen Tells Judges He Is
German and Obeys Country.

Special to The Advertiser.

Essen, Jan. 24.—It is stated on French authority that the occupied territory of the Ruhr will be completely isolated from unoccupied
Germany tomorrow.

Associated Press Despatch.

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen
and the five other German industrialists, charged by the French with refusing to co-operate with the allied plans for delivery of reparations coal from the Ruhr Valley, were all found guilty by a court-martial here today. Fines were inflicted.

Herr Keeten was fined 15,642 francs; Herr Quastenehofer, of the Essen Mine Association, 8,640 francs;
his son, Herr Tengelmann, of the Essen Anthracite Coal Company, 6,920 francs.

Herr Thyssen was the first prisoner to be questioned. He admitted having refused on Jan. 18, at Bredey, to obey an order given by the French authorities for the delivery of coal.
He said he was a German, and my duty compelled me to obey the orders of my country and to serve my country," he said. "The entry of troops into my country was not justified by anything.
That is why I will remain faithful to my fatherland."

Explained Circumstances.
At the suggestion of the French technical adviser, as a means of simplifying the procedure, Herr Thyssen told the circumstances under which the French had summoned the industrial leaders to a meeting, which he did not attend, at which the French instructed them to obey orders, and his subsequent announcement that he would obey the German authorities, and could not comply under menace.

Herr Thyssen told how the industrial leaders informed M. Cote, head of the French inspector general of the Ruhr, that they would supply coal
if paid for, provided the German Government did not order otherwise, and how orders were given afterward to the industrialists to deliver coal, but that the French Government telegraphed instructions not to deliver coal, the industrialists then informing M. Cote that they must obey their government.

The five other prisoners gave their assent to Herr Thyssen's statement.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Essen, Jan. 24.—French troops in the Ruhr were withdrawn from the larger cities today, and quartered in nearby villages. Patrols and staff headquarters remained in Essen, Bochum, Dortmund and other industrial centres, but the bulk of the army of occupation was scattered among rural areas. Whether this move was presented as a conciliatory gesture or further conciliation on the part of the French, or was preliminary to the establishment of a military cordon around the frontiers was not made known.

Germany today charged the French with deliberately spreading "nauseous" reports of "troop movements" in Germany.

The French stated they had information of German officials and army units deliberately spreading "nauseous" reports of "troop movements" in Germany.

Miners in the Ruhr were given extra bonuses because of an unprecedented jump in prices.

RUHR MINERS GET RAISE.

Associated Press Despatch.

Essen, Jan. 24.—The Ruhr coal miners today received a wage increase of about 80 per cent over the January scale, effective Feb. 1. The extra allowance for the increased cost of living will be almost doubled.

In addition, the scale is arranged to meet the higher living expenses of the last half of January. Fourteen and fifteen-year-old workers will each get 40 marks extra for this month.
Twenty-year-old workers will get 20 marks extra for this month. The 21-year-old workers will receive above this 1,000-mark increase for each additional year of age. Workers 30 years and over will receive bonuses of 8-000 marks, with further special allowances for old men and workers having children. These January extra payments will be made during the first three days of February.

PLAN TWO-YEAR OCCUPATION.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Paris, Jan. 24.—The French are planning to occupy the Ruhr for at least two years, it was learned on reliable authority today.

General Weygand probably will be appointed high commissioner for the newly-occupied territory, which may be completely cut off from the rest of Germany.

Militarization of railways and communications is expected to be the next coercive step with even more drastic measures to follow if German resistance continues.

Associated Press Despatch.

Mayence, Jan. 24.—Fritz Thyssen
and his five fellow German industrialists apparently faced only fines by the French court-martial, trying them here today for their resistance to the French demands for Ruhr Valley coal. The prosecutor, at the close of the forenoon session, suggested he was inclined to leniency because of the patriotic motives of the Germans.

He referred the court to the provisions in the regulations of General Desoutte for the imposition of a fine in case of refusal by the Germans to comply with orders.

OMNIBUS BYLAW GOES BACK AGAIN TO POLICE BOARD

Mayor Wenige Believes Final Settlement Will Not Be Hindered.

ASKS OPEN SESSION

Chief Magistrate Declares Only
Two Members Barring Press
Representatives.

Special to The Advertiser.

The omnibus bylaw goes back to the police commission for a fourth time, Mayor Wenige stated this morning.

As the people's representative on that body, by virtue of his office, his worship shed further light upon what transpired at yesterday's secret session.

"The commissioners did not object to the bylaw itself," he explained.
"They felt, however, that they should have a clearer recommendation from the city council. I explained to them that the bylaw was drafted by a special committee that had been appointed to act with the full authority of the council as a body."

"However, they are sending the by-law back again this afternoon with another communication, making it clear beyond all shadow of a doubt in this respect, that they believe that there will be any impediment now in the way of a final settlement."

Registers Protest.

Mayor Wenige registers vigorous protest to any heading in the press to the effect that "the police commissioners bar the press or the public."
"You mean that two of the commissioners bar the way," he stated. "You know my stand in the matter. I have always been for open sessions. Take the people into your confidence."

"The police commissioners had better not exceed their powers. There is a limit to human endurance," warns Alderman Gordon Drake today, appropos of the same situation.

"I can't understand their attitude at all," he stated, "with respect to the bus bylaw. I can see why they don't do it, but I don't see why they are so sure they were told to by the city council."

"The commissioners may as well go ahead and pass the legislation that they suggested. The bus bylaw is not to be introduced again for discussion," he stated, "with respect to the bus bylaw. I can see why they don't do it, but I don't see why they are so sure they were told to by
the city council."

Issues Warning.

"If the police commissioners do not want to act on our suggestion let them throw out the new bylaw and they won't be able to collect any more insurance premiums while there is no insurance requirements agreed to as yet."

Something will yet be heard about the commissioners barring the press to the press representatives yesterday, Ald Drake warns. "It's a funny business," he says, "something will be heard about this at our next meeting." Ald Drake is one of the members of the special committee of the council which drafted the omnibus bylaw.

COUNCIL AT CHATHAM
VOTE ALDERMEN PAY

Aldermen Approve Bylaw Granting Remuneration of $5 For Each Meeting.

MAYOR GETS $500

Appointment of Full Time Assessor Urged by Alderman Mindorff.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Jan. 24.—The city fathers decided that they are entitled to be paid for their services.

It came as a surprise when Ald. Lamarch introduced such a bylaw at the close of the regular meeting last night. It was supported by Ald. Murdoch, and when put to a vote was adopted without discussion.

The new bylaw provides that each alderman shall receive a sum of five dollars for every regular meeting they attend, and a similar sum for every special meeting, and all members of the council hold in committee.

The bylaw makes the new system of paying aldermen salaries retroactive from the first of the year.

Under a bylaw passed some time ago the mayor is entitled to receive a salary of $500 per annum.

With two exceptions, all the city officials were formally reinstated at their present salaries.

The exceptions are the city assessors and the medical health officer.

Ald. Mindorff has a plan that the assessing should be done by one official, to be the sole assessor, building inspection, and all matters relating to the position to be a full time job.

At the present time the assessing has been conducted by two assessors on part-time duty. He has an alternative scheme that one assessor only be appointed.

At that time, according to court records, Goddard sued to recover stock which Goddard had given him in his contracting business, and then is alleged to have taken away again. Dow testified the stock had been given him for his efforts to expand the business. Goddard is said to have admitted this, but to have charged that as soon as he got the stock the secretary lost all interest in his work and spent most of his time in social activities.

Miss Baxter alleges in her slander suit that during the Goddard-Dow litigation Goddard accused Dow of improper relations with Otis, a well-known actress, and that he had admitted this in a letter to her. Dow denied this, and the matter was referred to a jury.

How to Avoid Getting the "Flu"

Special to The Advertiser.

Copyright.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Here are seven simple rules for keeping well during the present "flu" epidemic, as laid down by Surgeon General Hugh S. Cumming, Chief of the United States Public Health Service:

1. Keep your feet dry. Girls with fancy slippers are warned particularly in this respect.
2. Get plenty of fresh air and a reasonable amount of exercise.
3. Don't stand around when anybody coughs or sneezes, and when you cough or sneeze cover your face with a handkerchief to protect the other fellow, and keep out of drafts.
4. Keep out of crowded places as much as possible.
5. Get plenty of sleep, because nothing makes you more susceptible than physical and mental fatigue.
6. Eat regularly and be careful of your diet.
7. Live regularly and don't worry.

DETROIT MANICURIST ASKS $35,000 DAMAGE

Sues F. H. Goddard, Prominent Contractor, For Defamation of Character.

Special to The Advertiser.
Detroit, Jan. 24.—Miss Betty Baxter, manicurist, has filed a slander suit for $35,000 against Frank H. Goddard, prominent contractor, who was learned yesterday. The action arose out of a suit fought last summer by Goddard against Baxter.

At that time, according to court records, Goddard sued to recover stock which Goddard had given him in his contracting business, and then is alleged to have taken away again. Dow testified the stock had been given him for his efforts to expand the business. Goddard is said to have admitted this, but to have charged that as soon as he got the stock the secretary lost all interest in his work and spent most of his time in social activities.

Miss Baxter alleges in her slander suit that during the Goddard-Dow litigation Goddard accused Dow of improper relations with Otis, a well-known actress, and that he had admitted this in a letter to her. Dow denied this, and the matter was referred to a jury.

HATHORN CORN SHOW MARKED BY QUALITY

Judges Praise Excellence of Entries in Exhibition At Armories.

MAKE FIRST AWARDS AWAIT CARNARVON

Fifteenth Annual Show of Ontario Growers Best On Record.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chatham, Jan. 24.—The fifteenth annual show of the Ontario Corn Growers' Association and the fourth annual show of the Chatham Poultry and Pet Stock Association, which will open at 10 o'clock in the Kent Regiment Armories tomorrow morning, will probably be the best show ever sponsored by these two organizations. For the past few days both bodies have been working early and late in order to have their shows properly organized and for the last-minute handling of entries, of which there have been quite a few.

The executives of the above organizations, assisted by several score of helpers, have attractively transformed the otherwise drab interior of the armories. The corn is laid out on double racks in the west end of the armories, while the poultry and pet stock occupies the east end. An admiring crowd of spectators will be on hand to see the show.

Quality Is the Slogan

"Quality rather than quantity" is the slogan adopted by both the organizations in charge, and there is every indication that this very commendable object will be followed out in the spirit which prompted the annual show of the exhibitors.

The following is the list of awards that were made up to five o'clock this afternoon. In turning in their reports the judges commented freely on the excellence of the exhibits, declaring that there was no scrub stuff to be found among the exhibits.

EXCAVATORS OF TOMB REST FROM LABORS

Tired and Worn, Mr. Carter and Party Seek Respite From Curious.

AWAIT CARNARVON

All in Readiness For Opening of Sealed Inner Chamber.

By ARTHUR WEIGEL.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

(Copyright, 1923, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)
Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 24.—Excavators at the tomb of Pharaoh Tut-Ankh-Amen took a day's rest today, no work being done on the tomb. I have been out all day in company with Engelbach, who succeeded me as inspector general of antiquities, and made a long tour of the whole Theban necropolis.

Encounter Ford Car.
As we rode along the sunbaked encampment, which serves as a road to the necropolis, we encountered a rolling and bumping Ford car, the first ever seen on this ancient soil, which proved to contain an excavating party—Mr. Carter, Mr. Burton and Mr. Lucas—on their way down to the river to spend a quiet day at the winter palace hotel on the other side of the Nile.

On their return at sunset I met them again, surrounded by a few ladies wearing headscarves, and about to bolt back to the peace of their home among the desert hills. Mr. Carter tells me he has a most difficult time keeping his eyes from being drawn to the objects of antiquity at arm's length, but I hear he has kept his temper admirably in often trying circumstances. It is no joke having such responsibilities on one's shoulders.

Most antiquities from the main chamber have now been removed to the workshop, and the way is nearly clear for the opening—soon after Lord Carnarvon's arrival this week-end

The Ontario Legislature.

The artillery banged, the gold-plated mace was put across the table, homespun made way for fine raiment, and the Ontario House was off on the last lap in the life of the present parliament. Because it is the last session prior to an election more interest centers in the proceedings than usual. The province will watch for new alignments of parties, for the laying down of issues on which the appeal will be made to the electors, and the watching will be keen, for there are many possibilities in the situation at Toronto.

It is frequently stated that the O. T. A. is going to be an issue, but who is going to force it? That point will have to be cleared up. The Drury government has stated its position plainly, and they cannot be looked to as the party to alter it in any appreciable manner. The Moderation League, representing the chief opponents of the act, asked the liberal leader, Mr. Wellington Hay, where he would stand on this issue.

Mr. Hay replied that as the people themselves had voted for the O. T. A., it certainly could not be altered by any legislative measure unless the people themselves voted for the change. That is perfectly logical ground. Mr. Hay knows, also, that the trend of liberal legislation in Ontario has always been toward curtailing and abolishing the liquor traffic, so he may be sure he has the weight of liberal sentiment behind him in his stand. He did not even suggest that he favored a referendum.

If the Moderation League approached Mr. Hay, they probably put the same question to Mr. Howard Ferguson, and the leader of the Conservative party in the House should lose no time in declaring where he stands. A frank statement from Mr. Ferguson would settle the matter.

The Drury party and the Liberals start in where they left off. Were the things for which these two groups stand put down side by side it is hard to see where there would be many points on which they would seriously differ. Some of the methods of financing road construction, and the matter of giving out large timber limits without seeking the cutting on these advanced as far as possible toward the finished product before leaving the province would probably form the chief topics of discussion.

There are difficulties in the way of an understanding between the Drury and the Liberals, and these exist chiefly because some men on each side would object on the ground that it would mean the wrecking of their party. It is time to look this side of the question squarely in the face and find out what it amounts to. The plain facts are that we have two parties in Ontario who think and act along the same lines and from a similar motive, viz., the welfare of the greatest number of people in the province. The matter should be thoroughly and frankly discussed before the province is in the throes of a general election.

The Police Commission.

London Police Commission met on Tuesday. Reporters went around, believing that as public business was being transacted they would be welcomed.

They built their hopes on a resolution or something of the sort that was carried upon the city tablets back in 1909. Being interpreted it runs something like this:

"That reporters be permitted to attend any meeting of the board at which estimates for the year, calling for tenders, awarding of contracts, or other expenditure of city moneys are to be considered."

Put into execution, this would mean, "now you're in, now you're out."

Reporters have no desire to be a hindrance to the police commission. They realize there are a number of matters that would be spoiled by publicity. It is probably necessary at times to put members of the force on the carpet, and reports of such incidents would spoil the morale of the force.

The press desires to publish only such information as the ratepayers are entitled to. They are putting up the money, and the columns of the newspaper is where they should look for this information.

That New York Preacher.

Dr. Percy Grant occupies the pulpit of a large and fashionable church on Fifth avenue in New York City. He is now preaching sermons in which he flatly denies the divinity of Jesus Christ, and as a result Bishop Manning has asked him to desist or leave the pulpit. The reply is that Grant wants greater freedom of expression, and appeals for a move that will strike the shackles off the preachers' hands.

There is a feeling—a general one—that the occupants of pulpits should be free to deliver their messages as they are inspired to do so, and there is a drawing away from the old bound idea that would permit of one theology and no other.

But this New York pastor

risers in his pulpit to deny the divinity of Jesus Christ he marks himself as a man without a message for the world, and therefore as one whose further occupancy of a pulpit in a Christian church is an impossibility.

When a preacher reaches that stage officials of the church are quite within their bounds in suggesting that he leave and hire a hall of his own.

Smokers and Non-Smokers. Local Rotarians believe they received some little criticism from a local pulpit over smoking at their weekly dinners. Rotarians are a collection of men quite representative of all the frailties and strength of the human race. They have members who smoke and members who do not smoke. In fact, the use of the weed is neither a barrier nor an aid to membership.

The members of London Rotary Club discussed at a recent meeting the question of smoking at their dinners. Some of the members enjoy a smoke after dinner; others do not, and to some of those who do not the habit is objectionable. The man who smokes has his rights, and the man who does not has a similar standing. So they compromised and decided to stop the smoke screen until 15 minutes before closing time.

As to the right or wrong of smoking, where is the man who can decide the matter and give proof that will hold water? To some it is a relaxation, to others who pursue it in its worst forms it is a menace and a detriment.

As a nation we are smoking too many cigarettes. There should at all times, though, be a reasonable amount of consideration on the part of smokers for those who do not smoke, and who have decided views and good reasons for them. The Rotarians in their solution of the matter seem to have struck a note of reason that will appeal to many as being a very fair solution.

Living in 1921.

Hon. Arthur Meighen spoke to Conservatives of Peel County at Brampton. Some 600 of them sat down and supped together, after which Hon. Arthur once more gave his little after-dinner talk entitled, "Canada's greatest folly was defeating me in 1921."

Meanwhile Conservatives cannot help wondering how they are going to operate in 1923 with a leader whose great occupation is conducting a sort of perpetual post-mortem on the 1921 landslide.

Note and Comment

The only tax that is popular is the one that doesn't put a test hole in our own pocket.

If Miss Prosperity doesn't come along in 1923 how would it be to sue her for breach of promise?

The Cleveland Plain-Dealer asks, "Is the earth wobbling?" Arthur Meighen said it was in December of 1921.

A fountain pen looks powerful like a tack-puller after the five-year-old son and he has tried his first hand at ink.

We've resolved not to print any more puns on the Coue teachings. They're getting worse and worse every day.

Advertising horse races may be made against the law in Ontario. But somehow these things get whispered around just the same as the street and number of a boot-legger.

It's hard to get people to agree on how cold the weather gets at night. Some go by the official figures in the papers, while others do their measuring by the feeling on the end of their nose.

A cat that lived in an alley romped off with the prize at the New York show. Be careful the next time you leave a boot out the window that you don't spoil a blue-ribbon animal.

Both Dominion and Ontario premiers have to count noses to see that the boys are all home before anything starts. Ottawa has about one to the good, and Toronto can meet all comers on a 50-50 basis, as the government has 55, Liberals 26, Conservatives 26, and Independent 3, making another 55.

Canada is feeling the effects of the French invasion of Germany. The Halifax Chronicle puts it this way: "The cancellation of the German contracts for Wabana ore of the Dominion Steel Corporation will bring right home to our own province the effect of the Ruhr occupation upon international trade and finances." An upheaval in any part of the world is recorded on the delicate instrument of trade and commerce at distant points.

Peculiar points of interest come to the surface. For instance, the Duke of York, second son of the King of England, is not allowed to work for a living. He can either enter the army or navy. This is precedent or law, and the country has in the past financed such cases. The Labor party is too strong to try it now in Britain, and the million or so unemployed also provide another barrier to financing the duke on a princely scale. Perhaps one way out would be to ignore the precedent. The duke might be able to startle the nation as a shopkeeper.

"PASSIVE RESISTANCE"

TO THE EDITOR

COUNTED TOO FAR.

Editor Advertiser: Sir—I am sure your paper would want to know the latest story about Coue, as we have read his articles in your paper for some days. But it runs like this:

A man had been bow-legged for some time and followed the Coue idea of repeating that he was not going to be bow-legged any longer. He was to say it 150 times at night. But owing to the pressure of business he forgot to put down how many times he was to say it, and instead of stopping at 150 he went right through to 450 times, and the next morning when he got out of bed and started to walk he found that he was knock-kneed.

Yours truly,

IN LIGHTER VEIN

Three Times and Out.

The shy curate was put next to the very deaf duchess at dinner, and she wished to be gracious.

"I didn't quite catch your name," she said. "Will you please tell me what it is?"

"Jinks, Your Grace," answered the curate.

"Just a little louder please," "Jinks, Your Grace," repeated the curate, raising his voice.

"I'm awfully deaf," apologized the duchess. "When you mind saying it just a little louder."

"Jinks, Your Grace," he almost yelled.

"Oh, sorry," said the duchess, giving it up. "It sounds just like 'Jinks' to me.—London Ideas."

Parrot Learned Quickly.

Bishop J. S. Filpper said in an address at Atlanta.

"Be sure your sins will find you out. An Atlanta family had a parrot that looked sick, and they sent it downstairs to be treated in the servants' quarters. The parrot remained downstairs several weeks. Then it was brought back, cured, to the drawing room."

"But always, after that sojourn downstairs, the parrot could never hear a bell without exclaiming crossly: 'Oh, let the devil ring again!'"

The Wind Blows.

He was an optimist and had just moved into a new home with his wife. On the north of them dwelt a gas company. Chemicals were used as fuel. The west wafted weird soap-bubbling effluvia. But bless you, he was an optimist!

"Dear, dear," he murmured, holding his nose. "It is a little trying sometimes. Still, there's an advantage in this arrangement. At least, we don't need to buy a weather-cock to tell the which way the wind blows."

Truth Will Out.

Two financiers who were partners discovered that an office boy in their employ had been tampering with the petty cash.

One of them was so enraged that he desired to send for the police, but the other was a calm and just man. He took a more moderate view of the situation.

"No, no," he said. "Let us always remember that we began in a small way ourselves."—Tit-Bits, London.

Your Health

HOW YOU OUGHT TO TREAT A "REGULAR SICK HEADACHE."

By Royal S. Copeland, M. D. Commissioner of Health, New York City; U. S. Senator-Elect from New York State.

There are many kinds of headaches and every kind is a disagreeable thing. Most headaches can be ended in a few minutes. The victim will go about his affairs just the same as ever, even though his head aches, as if it would split.

There is another kind of headache, called "sick headache." This is accompanied by nausea and vomiting. The symptoms may be so severe that to get the slightest relief, the patient must go to bed in a dark room.

The sick headache may take the form of a "migraine"—a one-sided headache. This may be so pronounced as to affect exactly one-half of the head.

Sometimes this disturbance may be a "blind headache," partial loss of vision being one of the temporary symptoms. It is not unusual to have blindness for everything to the right or to the left, as the case may be, together with sickness at the stomach.

On looking at a watch or clock one or two of the numerals will be blank. The blindness may spread until the vision at one side disappears. In an hour or less all the eye symptoms have returned, but there is a dazzling alternation of black and white flashing colors. In a few minutes the headache is over, but there is a disagreeable, dull aching in the head and a sense of nausea.

All these varying forms of headache and associated symptoms may be described as sick headache. It is not uncommon to hear them spoken of as "nervous headache" or "bilious headache."

Nine times out of ten such headaches are due to some disturbance in digestion, notably to intestinal inertia and absorption of the poisonous waste materials of the body.

Perhaps you get tired of my telling you that constipation is an evil thing. But it causes the retention in the body of vile substances which grow viler as they ferment. The delicate tissues of the intestinal tract absorb these materials, and the products of their decomposition. They act like poisons upon the system.

Fortunately, Nature has made the large intestine of the lower bowel, resistant to absorption. This is not true of the small intestine and, thus, the opening between the two sections of the bowel. The purpose of this is to prevent the passage backward of materials which have been absorbed into the small intestine, through the valve into the large intestine.

Sometimes, as a result of ineffective efforts to move the fecal mass forward, the valve may be sprung and the waste material backs up into the small intestine. In the meantime it has fermented and has become more capable of producing evil effects when absorbed by the lining of the small intestine.

I am always suspicious of intestinal disturbance as the probable cause of sick headache. There are other causes, of course. One of them is eyestrain. But more than likely the cause must be looked for in the digestive tract.

The surest means of getting rid of headache of this type is to correct the faulty eating. Meat should be restricted, and a diet of fruits and vegetables should be selected with a view to hastening the removal of waste.

Drink plenty of water, add a tablespoonful of bran to the cereal, sleep in a well-ventilated room and get plenty of outdoor exercise.

Board of Works Authorizes Engineer to Act To Protect Property.

Deputations voicing one complaint and another, all of long standing, featured proceedings at the board of works last night. South London was well represented, rival delegations appearing to advance the relative merits of the Ridout street breakwater, such as it is.

A number of the residents of the immediate district surrounding the Matthews Lumber Company again on deck were heard, and told that a decision would be forthcoming later. They seek a definite ruling as to the right of this concern within the fire limit.

To Insure Protection. The committee recommended that the city engineer's department proceed at once to fill in a portion of land to the rear of Mrs. Hemsworth, South London, in order to insure safe protection from the river.

Hemsworth appeared, accompanied by her attorney, William R. Meredith, who stated that a couple of years ago the city council proposed to fill the gap in question, but the job had not been completed.

He claimed, on behalf of his client, ask his aid. This warmed his heart, for Hemsworth confessed to himself he'd fallen in love with this pretty girl, who was physically so near to him and yet who was forty-four stories away.

Homer now waited impatiently for the noon hour. Under the office arrangement Homer spent most of the noon hour in the office and Mabel did this in her office. The arrangement was entirely satisfactory to Homer. So now Homer waited impatiently for the noon hour.

But when the noon hour came there was no Mabel at the window across the way to wave him a friendly greeting, as she had been doing each day for the past few weeks. This worried Homer. Where was Mabel? What was wrong?

Again he had recourse to the phone. It seemed a long time until he heard Mabel's voice in reply. And when her voice did come it was strained, unnatural.

"Mabel, let me help you," cried Homer. "What's the trouble?" "Oh—h, I—," came her reply. Again her words stopped abruptly. Almost it seemed to Homer as though some outside force or person was making her stop.

"What is it? What is it?" cried Homer. But again there came the sudden click as the receiver at the other end of the line was placed on the hook.

Restlessly Homer got up and went to the window, trying to catch a glimpse clear into the office where Mabel worked. He could make out some sort of movement in the room, but he couldn't see just what it was.

He opened his window to see more clearly. If only that man who had been looking out of his window one day, happening to glance directly across he'd seen her standing close to her window, gazing at him with a slight quizzical smile. For just a moment he'd hesitated, then he waved his hand to her. At first he thought it was going to turn away in resentment, then she'd waved back, friendly.

From day to day their friendship had increased. Homer had managed to find the name of the office in which Mabel worked and had called her up and talked to her. She'd given him her name and he'd told her his. But that was as far as it had gone. She had resolutely refused to let him come to see her, and as Homer was tied to his work during the day, he was unable to journey down and then up to the Central Building during the hours she was on the job. And, during the winter months, when he tried to find her, he'd always failed.

So now on this particular day Homer looked out of his window and saw Mabel standing in the hallway, looking at him with a slight smile. He was genuinely interested in Mabel. He wanted to be sure he was not mistaken. How in the world was this ever to be accomplished?

Now, in spite of Homer's preoccupation with his own trouble, he couldn't help noticing that Mabel seemed distinctly worried this morning. Her smile was almost lacking as she responded listlessly to his morning hand wave. There was a frown on her face. That she was in deep trouble was plainly evident.

From the window Homer turned to the phone and fumed until he heard Mabel's voice at the other end of the line.

"You're in trouble, Mabel," said Homer. "What's the matter?" A little sob came to Homer over the wire.

"Oh, can't tell you," came her voice, almost in a whisper. "Come on, tell me," urged Homer. "We're friends, you know. I want to help you if you're in trouble."

For a moment or so Mabel seemed to hesitate, as though questioning whether or not she should tell him. "Well," she said at last. "I'm—"

Then, suddenly, she broke off abruptly.

"Good-by," came her rather frightened whisper over the phone. And she hung up.

For a moment Homer waited in the hope that she might again take up the conversation. But when a few moments elapsed with nothing but silence as his reward he, too, hung up his receiver.

For a minute or so he sat at the desk gazing at his reflection in the heavy plate glass mirror in front of him. It only told him that he was him. Mabel's heart. And if only this job of his of selling mirrors and looking glasses didn't keep him so tied down he might make the trip to the Central Building and meet Mabel face to face and find out just what the matter was. Perhaps he might snatch a half-hour to do so in spite of the rush of business.

But duty called, the routine of the day pressed in upon Homer, and before he realized it half of the morning was gone.

Once again Homer looked across to the rear of the office, saw Mabel tearing off the sag, turn the key in the office door and make her way into the hall. She was safe, at last!

Somewhat later Mabel and Homer smiled into each other's eyes.

"And we'll hang the mirror in the best place in our home," said Mabel. "I'll be sure to tell you," exclaimed Homer rapturously. (Copyright, 1923, by McClure News-Paper Syndicate.)

Board of Works Authorizes Engineer to Act To Protect Property.

Deputations voicing one complaint and another, all of long standing, featured proceedings at the board of works last night. South London was well represented, rival delegations appearing to advance the relative merits of the Ridout street breakwater, such as it is.

NEW COUNCILLORS MAKE FINE START IN CITY WORK

Open With Good Progress, With No Signs of Slackening Speed
—Take Definite Stand on City Hall and Juvenile Court Issues.

SEVERAL CHANGES TO BE CONSIDERED

What is going on in civic circles this year? Has it been all talk and bluster or has anything been actually accomplished? What are the future prospects—good, or have the new councillors shot their bolt?

These are timely questions that have been quietly answered this morning after a brief survey of the city hall minutes to date. To say the least, there has been a wonderful start, with every indication that there will be no slackening of speed until the night before the next election.

Here are a few things accomplished by Mayor Wenige and his associates in the city council since their inaugural meeting January 8, fifteen days, two of which were Sundays.

1. Agreed definitely that there would be no city hall this year.

2. Authorized the establishment of a real juvenile court and petitioned the attorney-general to proclaim the juvenile delinquency law.

3. Directed the complete re-organization of the city assessment department; indorsed the Richter scheme, thereby dispensing with many temporary assessors, meaning in time they say, a gain of many thousands dollars for the city.

4. Authorized the establishment of a complaint department at the city hall for the direct benefit of all manner of citizens.

5. Provided considerable relief work for many citizens, incidentally petitioned federal and provincial governments for further financial assistance. (No reply is yet forthcoming.)

6. Adopted the Wenige "pay-as-you-go" policy, pledging to issue no debentures this year in excess of those retired, or to the value of about $172,000. The aldermen have asserted that they will live within the means of the community in 1923. For this reason the city hall project was abandoned.

7. They opened friendly negotiations with the chamber of commerce, the Western Fair Association, and other organizations, with a view to cooperate for unparalleled industrial expansion this year.

Many other undertakings are contemplated. Even now the councillors are gathering data in readiness for another special general session Friday night when they consider the city engineer's department in all its phases.

The police, fire, and other departments have yet to be considered with other recommendations contained in Mayor Wenige's inaugural address. From present indications, all these issues will have been considered in the council meeting on Friday night, the year are brought in and the mill race struck. This will be at as early a date as possible.

ASKS MOTHERS TO AID IN WORK OF SCHOOLS

Principal Galpin Addresses the Members of Club at Ryerson School.

WILL HOLD SALE

Papers Will Be Collected in an Effort to Purchase Library Books.

"Work and Good of the School" was the subject of an interesting address given by Mr. H. B. Galpin, principal of Ryerson School, at the regular meeting of the Mothers' Club held Tuesday evening. Speaking of the financial part of the school, Mr. Galpin stated that a large sum of money had been raised last year by the sale of waste paper, collected by the children, and the funds used to buy books for the library. Another sale will be held this year, the last day before the Easter vacation, and he asked the co-operation of the mothers with this sale, urging them to save all old papers and magazines. The principal explained the double grading system, which is used in the school, due to the large classes.

This system is proving most satisfactory and saves the children a year at school," stated Mr. Galpin. "For example, the children of the senior grade four, are placed in the senior grade five, and if the grade four children can keep up with the work they are kept up in this class, thereby saving a year's work of the mothers in glowing terms of the splendid work being done by the school choir, and also stated that the health of the children had been greatly improved since the rule had been enforced that all children must go outdoors during recreation on fine days. He asked for the co-operation of the mothers in sending the children to school on time, and stated that to encourage the children to be prompt a shield had been offered to each room for promptness.

Want Baby Clinic.

It was decided that an appeal be made for a baby clinic to be held in Ryerson school, and the mothers promised to give their co-operation and help if it were established.

A vote of thanks was given to John Fetherburgh, for offering the use of his private rink for the north-end children.

Readings by Miss Ruth Tanner were greatly enjoyed, and the meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. C. K. Bluet, was concluded by community singing and dainty refreshments.

Rectory street mothers were guests at an interesting meeting of the Chesley Avenue Mothers' Club held Tuesday evening.

A bazaar, to be held after Easter, and Mrs. Dowell, Mrs. Little and Mrs. James Patton were made joint conveners. A series of local, Mrs. Philmore of the relief committee reported that help had been given in the district during the past month. A social hour followed the meeting.

An interesting paper "The Rural Home" was given by Miss Elton at the meeting of the St. Lawrence Mothers' Club, held Tuesday afternoon.

The home of Mrs. R. F. Brown, in the absence of the hostess, was made for a social to be held in aid of the community, and the mothers are asking the co-operation and help of the whole community with this affair. It was decided to donate three granite cups to the school to be used for the hot lunches served to the children. Owing to illness there was a very small attendance at the meeting, which was presided over by the secretary, Mrs. R. F. Brown.

Tea was served by the hostess at the close of the meeting.

CIVIC GARAGE PROJECT GIVEN CONSIDERATION

Application for the Position of Manager Received by the Board of Works.

The civic garage proposal is being accepted with enthusiasm this year. While the question is still under consideration an application has been received by the board of works for the position of manager of the garage, which is being considered by the board.

Ald. Leonard Douglas fought consistently last year for the establishment of the municipal garage, but was thwarted at every turn by his colleagues.

This year Mayor Wenige and a number of the council have joined the struggle, and it looks as though something will actually be accomplished.

Askin Street Church Reported Seeking to Retain Popular Minister.

It is understood that a section of the congregation of Askin Street Methodist Church is favorable to inviting Rev. J. T. C. Morris for a sixth year at this church, subject, of course, to the sanction of the London Conference, which will meet in Sarnia in June.

Mr. Morris came to Askin Street Methodist Church in 1918, so that his ordinary four-year term as pastor expired last year.

Representations were made to conference, however, which led to his being sent again to Askin Street for a fifth year. This is an unusual proceeding in Methodism, which adheres pretty strictly to the term of three, or at most four years. It is regarded, therefore, as doubtful if the conference will look with favor on a great extension of the pastoral term as is now desired by some of the Askin Street people.

The extension of last year was made for several reasons. One was that the church was just embarking upon an extension of its plant, and a second was that none of the men whom the pulpit supply committee had considered as possibilities for the pastorate, were moving in 1922.

Some of these will be moved, however, in 1923, and so might be considered for Askin Street Church, which is one of the most important churches of Western Ontario.

JOIN FORCES TO IMPROVE HARBOR AT PORT STANLEY

Mayor Wenige will attend a session of the chamber of commerce set for Friday afternoon, when preliminary details will be arranged for a joint conference with the St. Thomas Chamber of Commerce, in connection with the proposed improvements to the Port Stanley harbor.

Ald. P. J. Watt and John T. May are London's representatives to the convention.

SCORES METHODS OF SELLING FRUIT IN GREAT BRITAIN

Henry Cox Investigates Cause of Failure in Growers' Marketing System.

GOVERNMENT FUTILE

Believes It Should Not Interfere With Farmer in Packing Products.

By HENRY SOMERVILLE.

Special Cable to The Advertiser. London, Jan. 23.—The press has referred to the Niagara Fruit Growers' experience of a calamitous year in 1922, when the prices realized did not pay freight expenses, and that the dissatisfaction of farmers had been aggravated by a lack of information to explain the cause of ruinous results because of lack of official investigation by the Fruit Growers' Association. To remedy this Henry W. Cox, of Wines, has made a trip to London to find out how conditions can be improved.

His findings and recommendations he has submitted to the Niagara Fruit Growers' Association, which is a letter mailed to Mr. Baxter, general manager of the Niagara Fruit Growers' Association, Grimsby, Ont.

Mr. Cox says that the Ontario government regulations regarding the packing of fruit are entirely unsuitable for exporting to the British market. He says that farmers should make their own pick without any government interference.

Steps should be taken to cultivate a taste for Ontario fruit, he claims. With this in view, Mr. Cox has introduced Ontario peaches and apricots to the shops of London hotels.

He also claims that Ontario grapes are better than Australian grapes, and he wants the Ontario government to permit the making of wines from the Australian grapes.

The Australian government, he points out, gives official guarantee to Australian wines, which are widely sold in England.

Mr. Cox is disgusted at the meagreness of the display of Canadian official buildings in London compared with the stately homes of the Australian officials, but he loudly praises Agent General Knox, who sells Ontario apples over the counter in his office on the Strand.

CUT IN FREIGHT RATES STIRS HEADS OF LINES

Action of Australian Company Expects to Start Reduction War.

Associated Press Despatch. London, Jan. 24.—The reductions in freight rates on homebound and outward bound cargoes between Great Britain and Australia, and subject of lively debate in shipping circles here as it is regarded as marking the beginning of a freight war between the shipping companies and the government.

It is being freely suggested that Australian political considerations are behind the reductions, since the question of government operation of steamships has long been a matter of party squabbles.

What happened in the London conference, however, which led to his being sent again to Askin Street for a fifth year. This is an unusual proceeding in Methodism, which adheres pretty strictly to the term of three, or at most four years. It is regarded, therefore, as doubtful if the conference will look with favor on a great extension of the pastoral term as is now desired by some of the Askin Street people.

Love Reigns, Father Forgives Wayward Girls When Found

Albert Duke Bares Heart-Breaking Troubles As Warning That Parents With Daughters Might Profit.

This is a sermon. Its text is "As Found Daughters." Albert Duke found Annie, aged seventeen, in Victoria Hospital. He found Maud, aged fifteen, in the Rescue Home of the Salvation Army at Bethesda Hospital. And both girls were unwed mothers.

Annie's baby was born last November and died soon after. Maud's little daughter came two weeks ago. "What did Albert Duke do?" a pretty girl asked any man to feel. He had never been taught very much about anything. He just trusted and his heart told him. He forgave.

Last night he went back to Kincardine and Maud and her little baby with him. They went home, and Annie is going, too, as soon as she is strong enough.

Albert Duke came into The Advertiser office yesterday afternoon and told his story voluntarily. He told it to help other Annies, other Mauds, and other Albert Dukes. "I want to tell people about my trouble," he explained to The Advertiser, "and then perhaps other people will know how to be careful. We wanted to give our girls freedom and we did it in the wrong way. We were to blame. We knew about the world and they didn't. I want to make it right."

TO PROBE COMMISSION FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Municipalities Given Invitation to Attend Convention Held in London.

London has sent out official communications to those municipalities in Ontario where the inauguration of the commission form of government is under consideration.

It is proposed to stage a convention in this city as early as possible in order that a formal request be drafted for submission to the Ontario legislature.

Several years ago the ratepayers of London, by popular vote, approved of this type of administration, but nothing was attempted after the provincial government objected to the manner in which the proposition had been presented.

At the second day of the conference Russell Harris, superintendent of young people's work of the Presbyterian Church, gave the opening address on "Freedom."

Laren presented the report of the commission on domestic, civil and national status of boys' work.

Howard Crocker presented the report of the commission on physical work with boys, which showed that through the work of the Y. M. C. A. a really large percentage of the boys of every community is being reached.

Election of officers for the year resulted as follows: President, Lloyd Houlding, London; Vice-President, Norville Luck, Central Y. M. C. A., Toronto; Secretary, Angus Buchanan, Brantford; Treasurer, Midland; George Guiton, Montreal; Harle Fowler, Galt.

Those in attendance at the conference were: H. J. Fowler, Galt; O. Belleville; A. Buchanan, Brantford; G. Hubbs, Capreol; E. E. Cunningham, Hamilton; W. H. Spearman, London; G. A. Watson, Orillia; A. The chapters of the I. O. D. E. family in the city are extending congratulations to the "All Scotch" Chapter, organized Jan. 23, 1922, which is celebrating its birthday on the eve of Burns' birthday by holding a banquet at the Blue Dragon tearooms. Above are the pictures of regents of the chapters, with one or two exceptions. Each and every primary chapter, like the Loch Lomond, is valiantly doing its part in patriotic service. The one regret in connection with the banquet is the unavoidable absence of the honorary regent, Mrs. E. B. Smith, regent of the Municipal Chapter (in the center). Mrs. Smith is taking her first real holiday and rest since before the war. In addition to her responsible office in the I. O. D. E., she is provincial commissioner of Ontario Girl Guides and president of the London Local Council of Women.

THE LOCH LOMOND CHAPTER CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

I. O. D. E. Order Throughout City Has Been a Splendid Institution Since It Was Founded During the Days of the South African War.

The congratulations of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire in London go out today to the "All Scotch" Loch Lomond Chapter, which is celebrating its first birthday with a banquet at eight o'clock at the Blue Dragon Tea Rooms. Of hardy Scottish stock, the chapter has successfully escaped infant mortality and the foes that prey upon early childhood, achieving in triumph the entrance to its second year.

The birthday has been a movable festival, in order to make the festivities coincide with the eve of the birthday of the Scottish hero, Robbie Burns. But not very much straining of accuracy was required to bring about the happy conjunction. The Loch Lomond Chapter actually was organized on Jan. 23rd, 1922, in the home of the regent, Mrs. M. Tagg. Enthusiastic Daughter of Scotland that she is, Mrs. Tagg had gathered around her a group of friends who shared her view that some organization of women should be formed in Canada to render patriotic service while perpetuating the ideals of the heroic land of their birth or that of their ancestors. They wanted, further, to honor Scottish heroes who gave their lives in the great war, either from the old land or those who had gone overseas from Canada or other parts of the world.

The solution, and the Municipal regent, Mrs. E. B. Smith, who herself glories in Scottish ancestry, was invited to attend a "talk" she was accompanied by Mrs. Emerson Nicholls, acting secretary of the Municipal Chapter, and regent of the Hugh Niven Chapter. Such enthusiasm was manifest that Mrs. Smith promptly ruled that delay was unnecessary and organization might be effected at once.

Poetry and Scottish tradition were contained in the name chosen, "Loch Lomond," suggested by Mrs. E. J. Dunlevy. The motto chosen was "Scotland Forever," and the colors the Royal Stuart tartan. Col. Rev. W. Beattie, D.D., C.M.G., was asked to fill the office of honorary patron, and he has been invited to be the speaker to-night. Mrs. E. B. Smith graciously consented to act as honorary regent, and the one regret in connection with the celebration is the fact that, owing to absence from the city, she will not be able to attend.

No sooner was the chapter going than it started doing things in a way which notified the citizenship that it was very much alive. An early decision was to endow a crib in the War Memorial Children's Hospital in honor of Scotland, who laid down their lives for a great cause in the Great War.

Honor To Band. When the Scots Guards Band came to town it was naturally the Loch Lomond Chapter which craved the honor of giving a banquet in honor of the famous musical organization.

Initiative has been revealed again and again in methods employed of raising funds for this crib in the hospital and other work. For example, when a big circus was coming to town in the summer, Mrs. E. J. Dunlevy, convener of the ways and means committee, was seized with the idea of parking cars. The story is well-known of the difficulties which arose when the circus unexpectedly changed its location at the last moment, and the committee, backed by the regent, Mrs. R. M. Tagg, was obliged to pre-empt parking space in the vicinity of the new setting ground, going to all kinds of trouble to locate lost, strayed and stolen property owners of the area.

Next big "stunt" was taking charge efficiently of the checkrooms at the Western Fair.

In addition to raising its quota for the hospital, the chapter has revealed its Scottish love of industry and service in working for the Child Welfare Association.

Baby Chapter. For a long time the Loch Lomond enjoyed the sunlight position of being the baby in the London family of I.O.D.E. Chapters. Some months ago, however, it was obliged to yield place to a reincarnated chapter, the Harriet A. Boomer, with Mrs. W. H. Line as regent. Some weeks later, the C.E.F. Returned Chapter took a new lease of life, with Mrs. B. J. Dunlevy, the first vice-regent of the Loch Lomond, accepting the regency. But still, the Loch Lomond Chapter still insists that it is the really newest of the order in the city.

In a few weeks, the oldest primary chapter, the Trafalgar, will be celebrating the anniversary of its first annual meeting, held in February, 1901.

The Trafalgar stands shoulder to shoulder with the first chapters of the order organized any place in Canada, evolving in the days of the Boer War in 1900 for the purpose of war service, from the old Maple Leaf Club, of which Mrs. Joseph Marshall was the president. The late Mrs. E. H. Johnston, the regent, in 1901, holding the office until the time of her death a few years ago.

Bale to South Africa. The very first bale of goods for South African war relief work came from the I. O. D. E. in London, and was sent by the Trafalgar Chapter.

During the great war, Mrs. M. Logan, one of the charter members, never missed a packing day at the Municipal I. O. D. E. headquarters in the Croydon Hall. Mrs. John Callard was the first to be there. Since the war, energies have been devoted to raising funds to endow a room in the War Memorial Children's Hospital.

In its active membership, the mother of London chapters has still six who were on the charter list. Mrs. L. Harding, who has been continuously the treasurer. Mrs. Drenay, Mrs. A. Walker, Mrs. M. Logan, Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. M. Strogan. Mrs. E. J. Ram is the present regent.

Dividing honors with the Trafalgar Chapter for long and valuable patriotic service is the Lord Roberts Chapter, named after the famous "Little Boats" and having as honorary regent, Lady Alison Roberts. Mrs. E. H. Johnston, the regent, has just announced her intention of resigning from office, much to the regret of the membership. The destiny of the chapter was guided in the war years, by the way, by Mrs. E. B. Smith, regent now of the Municipal Chapter.

The Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., which dates back to 1900 or 1901, with five chapters enrolled, and came with nineteen, such was the impetus given by the need for war service.

During those years, between $70,000 and $80,000 in cash and supplies contributed by the order, passed through the hands of the Municipal Chapter honorary treasurer, Mrs. C. T. Campbell.

In addition, unique service was rendered by each and every other chapter of the order.

All Serve. An imperishable memory for scores and hundreds of ex-service men is the Soldiers' Club, with its unfailing hospitality and home cooking always on order. The various chapters work in and week out doing their day to day service.

The Overseas Chapter, made up of close relatives of men enlisted for action, supplied individual lunches to every man going away whenever marching orders were received. Mrs. A. H. Clinger, with almost a whole family overseas, was the first regent, having as her loyal lieutenant, Mrs. A. H. Clinger, who also had a big stake in the war. Mrs. Clinger naturally succeeded to the regency when Mrs. Clinger left the city to make her home in Detroit.

Once upon a time, in troublous times, the C. E. F. Chapter was "C. E. F. Overseas," with Mrs. W. E. Coles as presiding officer.

A mighty balm would be required to hold the shining record of the Campbell Becher Chapter, I. O. D. E., named for one of London's own best known war heroes, who gave his life in the early days. Always, whoever takes office, the chapter's name will suggest that of Mrs. F. J. Greenaway, the indefatigable regent, and honorary secretary of the War Memorial Children's Hospital committee.

The Hugh Niven Chapter, named for another London man, who, fortunately came through the war alive, and with a great sheaf of honors to his credit, will go down into history for one very important reason. The Hugh Niven Chapter has acted as the sewing committee to take charge of making up all the initial linen equipment for the War Memorial Children's Hospital. The task has only been equalled by that of the hospital committee, which was responsible for raising the funds.

Convener for Drive. Mrs. H. J. Sutherland has acted as convener for the grand drive, with Mrs. Emerson Nicholls holding the post of regent.

Untiring in good works is the Sir George Ross Chapter, I. O. D. E., a group of young girls, which meets weekly, with Margaret McCrimmon as their regent. They are making a down payment in the Children's Hospital in memory of a beloved member, Miss Harriet Priddy.

Another chapter of young girls which has been very active is the Sir John Carling, with Miss Jessie Gillespie as regent.

The Nicholas Wilson Chapter, of which Mrs. G. L. Macdonald is acting regent, has been especially identified with educational activities along patriotic lines.

Princess Pats. It isn't difficult to guess how the Princess Patricia got their name, and they have done credit to the lovely and gracious Princess Patricia (or is it Lady Ramsay?) in the scope and value of their work for blinded soldiers, for children's hospital, in a dozen and one avenues of service. Miss Eula White was re-elected regent by acclamation at the nomination meeting a few days ago.

The Isabel Hampden Chapter, of which Mrs. Ross Thomas is regent, includes members of the nursing profession, many of whom have retired to homes of their own. In the first few active years, Mrs. A. C. Joseph was the efficient regent.

The Abigail Becker Chapter owed its origin to the enterprise of Miss Harriet Priddy. Never was task too humble for it to undertake in the war years if soldiers and country might be served. The members did their bit valiantly at the Soldiers' Club. When apple paring was demanded in the interests of food conservation, Miss Priddy personally took charge. The deeply-mourned regent, who passed away a year ago, has been succeeded in office by Mrs. T. C. Duncan. By the way, the chapter is undertaking a new order of patriotic service as its particular mission, extending a helping hand to girls in prison and on expiration of their sentences.

Starting as an organization of business girls, the Janey Canuck Chapter, of which Mrs. W. J. Glassford is regent, in war days sent countless boxes of sweets overseas to gladden soldiers. Since then, it has found many outlets for energy, and is measuring up in capability and enterprise to its patron saint, Janey Canuck, otherwise Judge Emily Murphy of Edmonton, or Janey Canuck, distinguished author.

Senator Coffey. The Senator Coffey Chapter, with Mrs. E. H. Nelles as regent, though a younger member of the I. O. D. E. group, has brought much credit upon the name of the order in the city and Western Ontario.

The Lord Elgin Chapter, which has as its regent Mrs. Howard Higgins, dates back before the war, serving with unabated interest year after year.

Big war work rush over, the Municipal Chapter turned its attention to the question of a suitable memorial to the men of Canada who gave their lives in the great war. A living memorial was the answer, the War Memorial Children's Hospital, a movement which made such appeal that it has been backed up by organizations and individuals all over Western Ontario. The I. O. D. E. alone has contributed between thirty-three and thirty-five thousand dollars.

And today the chapter sisterhood says, "Many Happy Returns" to the Loch Lomond Chapter.

The 7th Regiment Chapter bears a name that is honorable in London, living up gallantly to the name. Mrs. F. H. Butler is the regent.

SOCIETY LEADER SAYS IT IS BEST

Declares Tanlac Overcame Stomach Trouble of Years' Standing—Only Medicine She Ever Indorsed.

Mrs. Mary Hurd, 736 King street, Regina, Sask., former president of the Parkdale Women's Club and well-known in society circles, is among the latest residents of Regina to give a public statement on behalf of Tanlac. She said:

"I have never spoken publicly about a medicine before, but since I have derived such great benefits from Tanlac, it is a pleasure to recommend it. I suffered several years from stomach trouble, was extremely nervous and had awful headaches. My food always disagreed with me and many nights I could not sleep because the gas on my stomach was so bad I would be all filled up with it, and felt like every breath would be my last.

"I took three bottles of Tanlac and all my troubles disappeared. I am now feeling better than I have in years, have a sign of indigestion, am full of energy, and always ready for my duties. Tanlac is simply grand."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 85 million bottles sold.—Adv.

DYSPEPTIC DIET NO LONGER NECESSARY

The old plan of prescribing strict diet for dyspeptics and stomach sufferers is no longer popular among progressive medical men partly because of its weakening effect, but mostly because of the discovery that nearly all stomach troubles are caused by indigestion. The organs of digestion are themselves the cause of the trouble. The logical treatment, therefore, is to get rid of the acid when natural painless digestion will follow. For this purpose a teaspoonful or four tablets of Biurated Magnesia in a little water neutralizes the acid, stops the fermentation of the food, dispels the gas, and thus permits the stomach to proceed with its work without hindrance. Owing to its prompt and certain action Biurated Magnesia, which is obtainable from any druggist, in either tablet or powder form, should always be used in preference to the other forms of magnesia, such as the milks, citrates, carbonates or oxides. Stomach sufferers are advised to try this plan for three weeks and note results.—Adv.

AURA LEE'S SURPRISE KITCHENER SENIORS

Old Vets Put in Second Place
by Hustling Near Tail-Enders.

Toronto, Jan. 23.—Aura Lee seniors chased the "Hus" away at the Arena tonight when they defeated Kitchener in an exciting game by 3 to 2. The visitors were outplayed in every period by the youthful local team, who should have had a bigger lead at the finish, but an unusual tussle away from the goal kept the result places Kitchener in second place and Aura Lee in sole possession of the top rung.

The visitors were ineffective against a close checking of the Avenue road and, and their vaunted combination as not apparent.

The teams: Kitchener—Goal, Hainsworth; defence, Hemphill and Merrick; center, Miller; wings, Miller and Roth; subs, Schmitt and Solomon.

Aura Lee—Goal, Hayes; defence, Cain and Spear; center, Dinmore; wings, Rice and Cotton; subs, Waller and Shaw.

Referee—Harold Farlow.

ABS and—HOLDS

New York, Jan. 23.—The next clutch between Harry Greb, American light heavyweight champion, and Tommy Loughran, his young Philadelphia customer, will take place in Madison Square Garden on Jan. 30, fifteen rounds to a decision. As Tommy has now met Greb twice, his third meeting will qualify the Philadelphia fighter as a steady client at Harry's store. Loughran gave Greb two fierce fights, however, and the windmill champion was just able to outpoint him both times.

Thus, there will be three large events at the Garden in the space of twenty days. Greb-Loughran, Louis Firpo-Bill Brennan and Tommy Gibbons-Floyd Johnson.

Greb recently gave Captain Bob Roper a severe beating in Pittsburgh, and Monday night he hammered Dave Shadoff to a far-thing-well in Jersey City.

Gene Tunney, former champion, now operating under new management, is still beseeching a match with Greb, who seems disinclined to mingle with him whatsoever.

The heavyweight class, which furnished the most interesting bits for pugilistic followers a few months ago, has gone bloodless and seems to be only one or two good men in it now.

Although Joe Lynch regained the title last summer, he has gone to the top of the list. The only reason he won was that Johnny Buff had slipped back still further. Lynch, who has been in the ring with Midget Smith that he is due for a first time he meets a live one.

Who was both flustered and in champion at the beginning of the year, has passed out of the scene. An old man as fighters go, Buff acted an illness that sapped his strength, and when he returned to the ring after a long layoff he had nothing to offer. Lynch and later for Joe Villa. Now he is in retirement, getting a little and he has been considered a veteran, and yet he has been set days. Smith reached the top of the list at the time he fought Pete in the Garden last winter. He is going to retire.

Joe Sharkey, who defeated Jimmy Smith and took part in the greatest heavyweight fight in New York in recent years, has outgrown the ban on a class and now is struggling along in the featherweight division.

Pal Moore, who won popular decisions over every champion from Williams on down, is about through. Moore is the virtually beaten by the veteran Jack Wolfe last summer. A few nights ago he was beaten by an unknown, Buddy Taylor of Terre Haute. A year ago Moore was so good he had all the top notchers jumping sideways. One of the champions would take him on in a decision fight.

Roy Moore retired from the ring a few months ago. Roy is no relation to Pal and never was as good as the Memphis jumping Jack, but he was good enough to meet all the top notchers. He had enough sense to get out of the game when he found that he was losing more often than winning.

Of the veterans, Joe Burman of Chicago is the only one who has not gone back. There is little doubt that Burman would win the title if he could get the match. Weight does not seem to be a factor in his case.

Johnny Britton and Joe Egan are the best and most dangerous of the newcomers. Pancho Villa is the best and most dangerous of the newcomers. Villa is only a flyweight, it is true, but he would not have much trouble winning the title if he could get the match. Weight does not seem to be a factor in his case.

Jess Willard announces confidently that he can lick Jack Dempsey. Jess makes this statement at the age of forty. Willard insists he is but thirty-six. Records give his age anywhere from thirty-nine to forty-two years. He appears to be nearer forty than thirty-six.

Jess may feel, in his own mind, that he is capable of licking the man who beat him four years ago at Toledo and thereby won back the heavyweight title. But he might glance over the fact that he is a heavy-weight title was thirty-five when he turned the trick. That man took three or four years younger than Jess. Willard is a steady client at Harry's store. Loughran gave Greb two fierce fights, however, and the windmill champion was just able to outpoint him both times.

Fitzsimmons lost his title at thirty-seven. When he was forty he tried to regain it from James J. Jeffries and failed. So there you are.

To discuss the relative merits of Fitz and Willard would be bringing in individual judgment. The facts are enough. Jess has been fighting frequently up to date. The vest that he lost the title to Jeffries in eleven rounds at Coney Island in 1899 the freckled one took two tough birds in two weeks and licked both of them. He dropped Gus Ruhlin in six rounds, and Sallor Jack Sharkey in two.

Fitzsimmons was a light man for his weight class. Consequently he did not face the toughest task for a veteran—reducing. Fitz could and did drink plenty of beer and ale while training to add strength.

Willard, always troubled with superfluous fat, has had to lose from twenty to thirty pounds for each of the few fights he has had in his career. Now, as he talks of licking Dempsey, he weighs 160 pounds—at least thirty pounds over the maximum weight at which he could expect to fight.

Legs Might Go Dead. The worst part of Willard's excess weight is that it is all above his hips. His legs are sprightly for such a big man. There is a question whether or not he could train down without going dead in his legs.

On the other hand it must be said in Willard's favor that he has lived much sadder than the fighting Corneliusman. Fitz drank with abandon all during his career. He did not take care of himself. Willard always has lived a sane life. He may, therefore, have a more sturdy frame and stand a training siege better than Fitz could at the same age.

Willard, figured, four years now, was beyond the age when the other great heavies lost their titles when he took his beating from Dempsey in 1919. John L. Sullivan lost the championship to Corbett at thirty-four. Corbett won the title from him in 1892. Jeffries was thirty-five years old when he crawled into the ring in a dazed condition to take a pitiful beating from Jack Johnson and lost the crown. The Big Black was thirty-seven himself when the younger and stronger Willard outboxed him at Havana.

Willard can defy Father Time, Tradition and Dope. He would step into an enviable place in fight history were he to turn the trick on the younger man. But the odds seem against him.

Johnny Curtin has come along fast during the last year. Curtin is not exactly a newcomer, but it was only during the last few months that he won a place near the top. He now is in line for a battle with Lynch.

Special to The Advertiser.
Toronto, Jan. 24.—Trade was slow, but prices for butcher cattle were holding steady at the 50 cents decline recorded earlier in the week. The week's run of cattle is by no means yet cleaned up, but as it is hardly likely that the run will be material increased in the week-end receipts, commission men are hopeful of a clean-up without further declines.

ACCEPT RESIGNATION OF DETECTIVE EGGLETON

Police Commissioners Decide That Retirement Became Effective On Dec. 31.

DISCUSS PRESS

Reporters Are Again Barred
From Meeting of City Body.

Detective Sergeant Robert Eggleton, after 43 years' service, has resigned from the London police force.

The Advertiser said so ten days ago.

The London Police Commission at its meeting yesterday afternoon decided the resignation took effect December 31. The commissioners acted on the retired officer's recommendation of October 4, when he asked for three months' leave of absence, stating that if he did not return at the end of the year his resignation would become effective.

No appointment to the vacancy has been made.

Behind locked doors the commissioners met to discuss various issues of the day, such as the omnibus situation, the status of the press from the viewpoint of, and with relation to, the commissioners, and other matters of lesser importance.

Mayor George Wenige took up his position in the police chief's office. Then Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon and Judge Talbot Macbeth, who had been awaiting the arrival of the mayor, followed. As the judge entered the office, he closed the door. The reporters tried to handle and found the door was locked. They were barred out with a vengeance.

However, the commissioners did not forget that there were reporters in London. They even began to discuss the question of whether the reporters should be admitted to the meetings.

Six-Year-Old Had Bronchitis Every Winter

Bronchitis generally begins with chills, followed by fever and a harsh, dry, hacking cough. There is a swelling of phlegm, which at first is of a light color, but, as the trouble progresses it becomes a yellowish or greenish color, and is sometimes streaked with blood.

All those who are troubled with bronchitis will find in Dr. Wood's Pine Syrup a remedy that will stimulate the bronchial organs, subdue the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, and loosen the phlegm.

Mrs. Oliver C. LePage, South Rustico, P.E.I., writes: "My little six-year-old girl had very bad attacks of bronchitis every winter. In the evening and during the night she would have fever and choke up, and had a wheezing in her chest. We tried several cough medicines, but they never seemed to do her any good. A neighbor advised us to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which we did, and after she had taken two bottles she got perfectly well."

Price 35c and 60c a bottle; put up only by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE FRENCH OCCUPATION OF ESSEN.
Here is the first photograph of the actual entry of French troops into Essen to reach this city. It shows a squadron of cavalry passing the railway station.

How, why or when the discussion started is not known. The reporters were on the outside—and not even looking over the fence—unable to get a detailed report of this important item on the afternoon's program.

Resurrect Resolution.

However, the famous resolution on the subject, of which Judge Macbeth spoke some weeks ago, was discontinued from the minutes of the meeting of April 2, 1909. For fourteen years this resolution had been buried. Today it was resurrected.

And here it is verbatim: "That the reporters of the city newspapers be permitted to attend any meeting of the board at which estimates for the year, calling for tenders, awarding of contracts, or other expenditures of city moneys are to be considered."

Just how binding this resolution is is not known.

At the inaugural 1923 meeting of the commission the press took advantage of the favors this resolution bestowed. But the reporters only remained 45 minutes. The judge excluded them, but still did not fail to carry out the terms of the resolution, for this time-worn document does not state that the press can remain for the entire meeting, or even for five minutes of the meeting.

The commission was requested by Spencer & Braund, solicitors, to release the money which was taken from the person of Powell Martinchuk, Russian gunman, when he was arrested. This prisoner is now serving a seven-year term in Kingston Penitentiary. As the city hospital has a bill against Martinchuk for $185 for treatment of the wound he received in a revolver duel with the police, and as the police physician has rendered a bill for $85 for his services the matter will be referred to the attorney-general of Ontario and the inspector of public institutions for a decision. Martinchuk possessed about $70 when he was apprehended.

Recommends New Bylaw.
The special transportation committee of the city council sent a recommendation to the commission that a police bylaw governing the regulation of omnibuses on city streets be drafted. The commissioners, however, decided not to act on this, preferring to wait for suggestions from the city council itself.

The new forms for the monthly returns of the police magistrate are so much larger than the ones used in 1922 that a new typewriter with a larger carriage will have to be provided for the police court clerk's office, the commission was told. This machine will cost $125. During the past month a machine has been rented for this work. The commission decided not to buy the machine for another month at least, until the provincial authorities give a definite assurance that the present form sheets will not be abandoned.

USED NAMES OF CITIES TO DESIGNATE BRANDS

Special to The Advertiser.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Here is the code that the fashionable customers of John J. Lynch used to obtain their liquor from him:

All orders were made over the telephone, and the following substitute words were used: Rye, Charleston; Scotch, Savannah; gin, Augusta; Irish, Baltimore; champagne, C; and brandy, B. The purchaser would call up and begin a conversation about Charleston, for example. He would say, "I'm off for Charleston at 2 p.m." and shortly at his home he would find two quarts of rye. If he said 1 a.m., it would be one quart.

MIDDLESEX WARDEN CALLS FOR ECONOMY

W. Ross Describes Hardship Prevailing in County During Past Year.

HEARS REPETITION

P. J. Thompson, Inspector of Schools, Retires After 34 Years' Service.

Calling in his inaugural address for a policy of economy during 1923, William Ross, reeve of East Williams, elected warden of the Middlesex County Council yesterday afternoon, declared that real hardship had existed in smaller towns, villages and townships during last year. He further stated that he could cite numerous cases where farmers experienced very great difficulty in obtaining enough money to pay their 1922 taxes, and pointed out that something must be done immediately to remedy matters, or a repetition would occur this year.

"I know the good roads question has been one of the main issues before the provincial and county bodies for some time," he said, "but an issue far more important than good roads is the relieving of conditions as they exist today in the villages and townships."

Problem of Importance.
Mr. Ross also drew attention to the fact that re-establishment of returned soldiers was a problem of no small importance. He urged that those who fought "over there" for Canada, and who have families to support, be dealt with as leniently as possible, and be given every encouragement in their new work, whatever it may be. By keeping taxes as low as possible this year, he said, they would be doing a great deal towards properly re-establishing the returned men.

Extending his sincere thanks to the members of the council for bestowing upon him the honor of electing him as warden, Mr. Ross expressed the utmost confidence in his colleagues and their co-operation in endeavoring to maintain peace and harmony in the 1923 council.

Mr. Ross was elected warden over A. Holman of West Williams by a majority of three votes, the former having 16, while the latter polled 13. The seven nominees for warden were: C. C. Henry, Metcalfe; William Ross, East Williams; W. J. Fuller, London; J. E. Harrison, Parkhill; A. Holman, Newbury; Thomas Elliott, West Williams; and William Boler, Westminster. Mr. Fuller withdrew his name before the balloting. Ten ballots were cast, after the fifth one the lowest automatically dropping out.

The results from the sixth to the tenth ballot are:

C. C. Henry	6	5	7	6
William Ross	9	10	11	13
J. E. Harrison	3	6	5
A. Holman	6	5	7	11
William Boler	2

Submits Report.
P. J. Thompson, for the past 34 years the inspector of public schools for West Middlesex, who is retiring this month, submitted his annual report for 1922. The total disbursements for last year were $153,357.57, an increase of $7,805.32 over 1921. The greater part of the increase the inspector attributes to higher wages. The report showed that the average cost of maintaining a schoolroom during last year was $1,300, and that the average salary for a male teacher in 1922 was $1,029, an increase of $29 over the preceding year. The average salary paid to a female teacher was $1,021, an increase of $25.27 over the preceding year.

In Prosperous State.
Mr. Thompson spoke well of the progress made by the public schools in the county during the last year and stated that everything appeared to be in a prosperous state.

On behalf of the council, J. E. Harrison, of Strathroy, thanked the retiring inspector for his long and faithful service as a public school inspector in this county, and praised Mr. Thompson for the thoroughness with which he had undertaken all his duties and for the tact and wisdom he displayed at all times. He assured him that he would carry away with him the friendship and the good wishes of all the members of the council. Mr. Thompson was later presented with an illuminated address.

The personnel of the special committee named to strike the standing committees is as follows: Councillors Cousins, Calvert, Holman, McPherson, McDougall, George Lewis, Dan Lewis, J. M. Ross, Turnbull, Gordon and Fuller.

The council accepted the invitation of the chamber of commerce to dine with that body in the Tecumseh House at 12:30 Thursday, and also one to be present at the meeting of the agricultural section of the C. of C., Saturday afternoon, when W. H. Porter, of the Farmers' Advocate, will speak on his recent trip to Europe and on his impressions of foreign trade markets.

HURL MANY QUERIES IN HOUSE AT PREMIER

Ontario Government Will Be Asked To Explain Regarding Certain Expenditures.

READY FOR FRAY

J. W. Freeborn Will Move
Adoption of Reply To Throne Speech.

Canadian Press Despatch.
Toronto, Jan. 24.—The Ontario Legislature is losing no time in getting the session under way, for not only were the opening ceremonies concluded this afternoon but there was considerable business transacted and the government met a long list of questions which will be replied to later.

The floor of the house and the galleries were crowded when Lieutenant-Governor Harry Cockshutt read the speech from the throne, formally opening the session. For several days the demand for tickets of admission had been growing and many people waited for hours in the corridors of the parliament building in order to gain a vantage point in the chamber from which to view the ceremonies. On the floor of the house were leading clergy, educationalists and jurists, in addition to great numbers prominent in other walks of life.

Freeborn to Speak.
Immediately after the address, John Currie, newly-elected member for Southeast Toronto, and A. Goulet, recently elected for Russell county, were introduced and took their seats. The usual motions to provide for the appointment of committees were introduced. Tomorrow J. W. Freeborn, farmer member from Middlesex East, will move the adoption of the reply to the speech from the throne and it will be seconded by P. Heenan, labor member for Kenora.

The list of questions indicate that care both parties in the opposition are taking in planning their offensive against the ministry. W. E. N. Sinclair of South Ontario had 20 questions regarding the number of commissions the government has appointed and the costs and results obtained from them. The same member asked what new sources of revenue the government developed this year and how much money the province received from these sources.

J. R. Cook, Hastings North, Conservative, also evidently had an eye on government commissions when he asked how much Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., had been paid or is to be paid by the government. T. R. Kennedy (Peel) asked similar questions with respect to R. T. Harding, K.C., while Dr. Forbes Godfrey (York West) asked "was the question as to the right of the government to pay Justices Riddell and Latchford for their services submitted to the courts?"

Asks Amount Borrowed.
Hon. Howard Ferguson asked how much money was borrowed by the province during the past fiscal year, and also how much money has been spent so far on Knox College. Charles McCrea, Sudbury, queried about the sales of pulp and timber areas in the past year. He also asked for the correspondence respecting the appointment of Allen McDonald, former assistant crown timber agent at Port Frances. Nearly all the members of the Legislature were present this afternoon and all parties expect vigorous times right from the start.

ADVISES ADVERTISING IN DAILY NEWSPAPERS

Mayor Avers Action Essential
To Sell Goods To Citizens.

Newspaper advertising is needed to sell the City of London to its citizens and to the world at large. This Mayor George Wenige impressed upon the members of the London Advertising and Sales Club at their regular dinner at the Tecumseh House last night.

With all due deference to the reporters of the city newspapers, the council should authorize the advertising of the minutes of each council meeting, he contended.

Mayor Wenige declared that the progress of this city, or any other city, moves only with the thought of the majority.

"We claimed the city had more to sell to its citizens than all of its enterprising merchants combined." Ample proof that London was not being sold to its inhabitants was furnished by figures showing the percentage of the total electorate who voted at the municipal elections during the past ten years. Until 1922 this average was 44 per cent. "The other 55 per cent, obviously, were not interested."

The speaker had overheard a remark that he had gained the mayor's chair by advertising. But, what was of more importance, he claimed, was the fact that in 1922, 65 per cent of persons eligible to vote in London went to the polls, realizing their obligations.

His ambition was to have all the citizens take a deep interest in the welfare and progress of the city, he asserted. He believed newspaper advertising would bring this to pass.

As newspapers were in reality traveling universities, no better nor more economical form of enlightenment could be obtained than the buying of space in the papers to publish the minutes of every meeting.

Mayor Wenige asked the Advertising Club to get behind this proposal.

tion. Unanimous indorsement of the mayor's ideas was given. The club intends to thoroughly discuss and take action on this matter at a later date.

George Wesley, manager of the British and Colonial Press in London, gave an interesting talk on engraving, and explained the details of the work with the aid of lantern slides.

Peter Glen was elected vice-president of the club for the ensuing year. Members of the club gave members of the various women's societies which are boosting the joint recital of Miss Marion Beck and Miss Helen Little at the Patricia Theatre, February 6, in aid of the united welfare fund, an opportunity to dispose of some of the tickets at the meeting. Quite a number of sales were made.

Mayor Wenige and Mrs. Hookway, Mrs. Greenway and Mrs. Edwards, the latter three representing the women's societies, were guests of the evening.

President D. E. George Clarke occupied the chair.

ATTENDS 23 MEETINGS SINCE INAUGURATION DAY

A slight idea of the volume of business undertaken by the new administrators at the city hall (exclusive of school trustees and public utilities commissioners) may be gathered from the fact that since inauguration day, Jan. 8, City Clerk Sam Baker has attended no less than 23 meetings. This does not include three special informal parleys of the city council and a number of special gatherings of aldermen, of which no official record is being kept.

NIAGARA FALLS TO GET HEARING ON GAS RATES

Special to The Advertiser.
Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 22.—City Solicitor McBurney received word today that the provincial gas commission would give this city a hearing in Welland on Jan. 31 at 11 a.m. in connection with the protest made by the city council against the increase of price of natural gas here granted in 1921 by Gas Referee Henderson, which the city claims is a violation of the franchise held by the Provincial Natural Gas and Fuel Company.

Lighten the Burden of Womanhood With a BABY GRAND IRONER

Every woman knows it takes longer to iron a wash by hand than it does to wash it. And ironing is real drudgery for any woman.

The BABY GRAND IRONER will do in a little more than an hour what it will take from a half to a full day to do by hand. It is a portable machine that can be placed on your kitchen table and attached to any convenient socket.

It weighs only 75 pounds, will iron as well or better than can be done by hand, and at a power cost that is trifling.

The BABY GRAND IRONER will iron everything in the family wash—tablecloths, napkins, bungalow aprons, sheets, pillow cases, bedspreads, curtains, underwear, men's negligee shirts, children's dresses—in fact, it will iron anything that should be ironed.

EASY PAYMENT PLAN

Let us tell you about our easy payment plan which makes it possible for every home in London to have a BABY GRAND IRONER.

A small sum down will place one in your home. No extra wiring is required to use the BABY GRAND IRONER.

Housework Made Easier With Efficient Methods

Women of Today Need Do None of the Hard Work Their Mothers Knew—Modern Inventions Lighten Their Burden of Work.

The old-time drudgery which formed part of the life of every housewife has passed with the advent of the hundreds of modern inventions which have come into being in this now well-known twentieth century. In the days when grandmother was starting her married life there was no time for her to attend women's clubs, conventions or other functions.

On Monday morning she arose at five o'clock, perhaps, to get the weekly wash of voluminous size under way. This was all done by hand in an old-style tub, and every inch of material had to be rubbed clean by hand. Grandmother did all this herself until such time as Aunt Peg and Aunt Katie were of sufficient age to help her along. These two, and all the others, are now grown up and know no such hard work at all. They put the clothes to be washed in an electric washing machine, turn on the current and go about the other housework, knowing full well that everything will be in good enough shape to allow them to go downtown in the afternoon and buy that new hat they have had their eye on for the last two weeks.

Such was not the case in the early days—grandmother had her hands full from morning till night. On Tuesday there was the ironing to be done—and no small amount of it either; sometimes she did not finish this until nine or ten o'clock at night, and then went to bed too tired to sleep. Nowadays her daughters have electric irons which do the work three times as fast as the old flat irons used in their youth. They finish their ironing before noon and have the rest of the day to devote to whatever pursuits please them.

In "the good old days" it took grandpa and the boys the better part of a month to cut enough wood into suitable lengths for burning in the kitchen stove in the winter season. The kitchen stove was the centre of the family in the cold months.

Today all this is changed. There is a commodious furnace in the basement which heats the entire domicile, and keeps it heated; the kitchen is used merely as a place for preparing the meals. When the evening repast is finished the heads of the family carry on their discussion in the parlor or the living room and the children are free to do their "home work" wherever they please, as every room in the house is equally warm.

The kitchen stove served not only as a central heating plant, but also as the only means of doing all the necessary cooking. Grandmother had to keep it constantly filled with wood all day long, while she was baking her pies and cakes and bread.

Nowadays there is a gas or electric range in the kitchen and mother has but to turn a lever or button to secure all the heat she needs in a few minutes. When the cooking or baking is completed the heat is turned off, with much saving of energy. In the hot summer months mother is not nearly roasted herself while preparing a meal in the kitchen.

The modern gas and electric stoves do not "throw" the great amount of heat that the old style wood burners did, but rather the calorific energy generated in them is applied almost exclusively to the cooking or roasting of whatever food is in the oven. Grandmother kept all her kitchen utensils in a huge wooden cupboard at one side of the room and mixed her bread and pastry dough on a table at the other end of the kitchen. Now mother has a modern kitchen cabinet containing special compartments for flour, sugar and everything else she needs in the fabrication of edibles. She sits or stands right beside this cabinet, with every necessary utensil and ingredient right before her.

There is no needless walking to and from the cupboard.

Wonder Electric Washer

Buy no other washing machine until you have seen the London-made WONDER ELECTRIC WASHER. You owe this to yourself and your pocketbook. For while it costs less money, it will do the washing better, and the machine will stand up with anything built for durability, appearance and simplicity.

Why The "WONDER" Leads Them All

By its new, exclusive, patented principle, THE VACUUM RING—the Wonder Electric Washer, washes faster than any other machine on the market.

Sixty suction and compression strokes a minute gently, yet positively, flush the hot suds through the fabric, producing perfect results by a happy combination of the cleansing vacuum lift-and-dip and the famous "Figure 8" agitation.

Up and down, and from every direction the waters swirl the dirt away, yet never rasp or strain a thread of even the sheerest things.

The big ten-sheet size copper tub—the largest all-metal tub made—gives you increased capacity at lower cost.

The sturdy metal frame has four rigid legs, fitted with easy-rolling castors.

A polished copper tub, and a white-enamelled all-metal frame, surmounted by an aluminum wringer, combined in a clean-cut design, that places the Wonder Electric Washer in a class by itself as a dependable servant and home ornament.

An all-metal combination of finest copper, steel, bronze and aluminum that age and use cannot decay. Its bronze bearings are all easily replaceable to make the Wonder new again, at trifling cost, after years of service.

All moving parts safely inclosed and packed in lubricant. The four-position swinging wringer is protected by a new-type safety release.

The quarter-horsepower, oversize waterproof motor will wash and wring a big family washing for less than one cent.

The handy drain cock is fitted for a hose connection to drain the water off direct to the sewer.

HOUSEWORK EASIER FOR MODERN WOMAN

and fro in the kitchen to take a nutmeg grater from behind the stove or fetch a rolling pin from the woodshed. The kitchen cabinet relieves her of a great deal of unnecessary waste of energy; it increases her efficiency and enables her to consummate her work in half the time grandmother needed.

Then there is the matter of refrigerators; these were unknown in the pioneer days. A cave or root-house was built in the yard somewhere as a place for storing food in the summer time. It was covered all around with sod, thus keeping the interior cool to a certain extent, but these root-houses were in no wise as efficient as the modern kitchen ice-box. In these latter the housewife keeps as large a quantity of victuals as she cares as long as she wants.

In the "good old days" the carpet and rugs in the home were all swept with a broom twice or three times a week and removed from the floor at spring house-cleaning time to be hung on the clothesline and laboriously beaten to remove the dust and dirt. This was one of the most dreaded tasks of the housewife of early days, and she was a glad woman when the unwelcome job was accomplished.

Today there is an electric vacuum-cleaner in nearly every home. These machines are merely run over the carpet and all dirt and other foreign substances in the fabric are noiselessly sucked up into the dust bag, with no clouds of dust choking the housewife or covering the furniture and curtains in the room.

The mother of the twentieth century has light and durable aluminum-ware in which to cook her family's meals. This form of cooking utensil is less heavy and more easily cleaned than the great iron pots and pans of yesterday.

Then there is glass ovenware, especially constructed to withstand high temperatures. One can look right through it and see if the food is cooked thoroughly.

It is a good thing that the women of this age do not have to do the hard work that formed part of our grandmothers' daily life, and it is a favorable indication of the advance of civilization that their lot is yearly becoming a better one.

ARMIES DISBANDED, BACK TO NORMAL LIFECzecho-Slovakia Succeeds in Solving Serious Problem Creditably.*LAND PROGRAM AIDS*Bank Organized to Finance Returning Soldier Contributed to Happy Outcome.

Associated Press Despatch.

Prague, Jan. 24.—Czecho-Slovakia has been successful in solving a serious problem, that of disbanding her armies and at the same time returning her soldiers again to normal life, but with the preferential treatment it was universally felt these men should enjoy. Co-operation between the soldiers themselves and the government was the keynote to the happy outcome.

After the revolution of October, 1918, the new-born republic had on its hands an army consisting of two groups of fighters. One came from the old Austro-Hungarian army, called the internal group, and the other was composed of the Czecho-Slovak legions which had fought against the central powers in France, Italy, Russia and Serbia, called the external group. The latter was recruited from Czech and Slovak war prisoners, and from Czechs and Slovaks who resided abroad at the outbreak of the war, including the element in the United States, and who came home to fight.

Unions to Find Men Work.

The policy of demobilization was to disband each unit as it came home. The internal men, once free of the army, went back to their old occupations. Those who could not find work at once were permitted to stay with the colors until some opportunity offered. When, however, the time came for final and complete demobilization of all those who had not been absorbed into the channels of industry, unions were created to find men work in government enterprises. Similar methods were applied later to the legionaries from abroad. A special bank was organized to finance returning legionaries, and operated with notable success. This institution contributed largely towards keeping the former soldiers contented, and it today occupies an important position among the banks of Czecho-Slovakia.

War invalids have been cared for partly by the state and partly by their own organizations, which take the form of agricultural and commercial unions. Another helpful factor has been the land reform program of the government, according to which legionaries and ex-soldiers are granted special consideration in the distribution of parcels of land which have become available through the division of large estates by expropriation.

ADVOCATE EMPLOYEES SHARING PART EXPENSEProvincial Builders in Session Argue Against the Present Compensation Payments.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon of the Provincial Builders' Association in the Builders' Exchange, the following committees were appointed:

Resolution committee—J. S. Webster, Galt; J. R. Wright, London; R. Irvine, Sarnia; E. Bond, Hamilton; C. Braund, Kitchener; F. Ingram, Stratford; R. Shee, Peterboro; A. Chatters, Soo; W. E. Dillon, Toronto; G. L. Russell, Toronto; J. G. Blakely, Chatham.

Nominating committee—A. D. Carmichael, Toronto; John Elmer, Sarnia; R. J. Wilson, London; L. A. Boss, London; John Scott, Toronto.

Legal committee—George Gander, Toronto; J. M. Piggott, Hamilton; W. E. Dillon, Toronto.

Auditors—R. Shee, Peterboro, and E. R. Bond, Hamilton.

The afternoon was devoted to a general discussion of a number of questions vital to the building trade, such as the workman's compensation board; the position of united labor, and its effect on wages and the cost of building, and the case of outside contractors coming into a town and offering higher wages than those in vogue in the town at the time.

In regard to the compensation board, many of the members argued in favor of a different arrangement whereby the payments might be more evenly distributed so that employer and employee might share an expense that was for the benefit of both. A number of the members said that they found a number of employers in their own towns who did not quite lately had not been paying any subscriptions to the fund. The passing of any resolution on this subject was postponed until today when it was expected to have a larger attendance.

The report of the legislative committee at the last meeting of the association in Peterboro dealing with fire and accident insurance, the eight-hour day, the sales tax and the matter of the appointment of a five-man committee to the board of compensation, a matter taken up with Premier Drury without much success, was read and adopted.

The chairman of the meeting was the president of the association, Norris E. Gibb.

EGYPTIAN MONARCH HAD ALL POSSESSIONS IN HIS TOMBTut-Ankh-Amen Believed To Have Been Childless Monarch Who Oppressed the Israelites—Ancient Treasures Now in Cairo Museum Gradually Passing Into Decay.

This is the third of the articles which Arthur Weigall is writing descriptive of the startling new discoveries in Egypt, where over forty million dollars' worth of jewels has already been recovered. Mr. Weigall is sending his articles exclusively to the Daily Mail, London, England; the London Advertiser, and the North American Newspaper Alliance.

By ARTHUR WEIGALL. Special Cable to The Advertiser.

Luxor, Egypt, Jan. 23.—A large, airy tomb, a short distance from the newly-discovered sepulchre of Tut-Ankh-Amen, the Pharaoh who ruled about 1350 B.C., is being used by excavators as a storeroom and workshop. Thither all the unusual antiquities are now rapidly being removed so as to clear the original chamber before opening the sealed burial chamber on the return of Lord Carnarvon early next month.

Among the most interesting objects thus brought into the daylight in the

as now being done, and also complete arrangements for their perpetual preservation. Lord Carnarvon's excavations have suddenly sprung this mass of glorious relics of the past upon the unprepared present, and somehow we must hand them on to future generations. Thus the urgent question is how to make the Jimcrack Cairo museum fit to receive them if this is to be their home.

Professor Petrie thinks that the great quantity of objects found in this tomb is due to the fact that Tut-Ankh-Amen was childless and therefore had nobody to whom he

ENTERING THE TREASURE TOMB. Howard Carter at the entrance to the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, holding a piece of the plaster removed to obtain entrance. The plaster bore the imprint of the seal of the king. Howard Carter is the American who, backed by Lord Carnarvon, made this greatest archaeological discovery in history.

last few days is a beautiful footstool, inlaid with a row of figures of foreign slaves or captives, the idea being that thus the king's feet would tread contemptuously upon them. In view of my contention last week that Tut-Ankh-Amen was the Pharaoh of the oppression, it is interesting to note that some of these captives are semitic, and, quite possibly, the actual Israelites of the Exodus.

In previous despatches I referred to the bad state of preservation of the beautifully-painted casket found in the tomb. Apparently dampness penetrated the chamber owing to the low position of the sepulchre in the valley bed, and a consequent percolation of occasional rains. The face of one of the two statues of Pharaoh was split open. The royal robes removed yesterday from the tomb are in the most fragile state, while other objects require most careful handling.

Will Save Treasures.

Fortunately the services of Mr. Lucas, the government chemical expert, are still available. A great debt is due Mr. Lythgoe, head of the Egyptological department of the Metropolitan Museum, New York, who is directing neighboring excavations, and who has lent an experienced staff to us. Mr. Howard Carter, who with Lord Carnarvon discovered the tomb, also has much skill and ingenuity in such matters. Hence there is little likelihood that the treasures will perish.

It is a question, however, whether the moisture has penetrated into the sealed inner chamber and whether the mummy or mummies will be found rotted. When I entered the tomb of King Akhnaton some years ago the king's body was merely a moist heap of bones and decayed flesh and wrappings, due to a fissure in the ceiling, by means of which rain-water had penetrated.

I have been much shocked by the present condition of the Cairo Museum antiquities which we found in the valley of the kings 17 years ago. When they came from the tomb they were a blaze of gold. They seemed absolutely new, untouched by time. Now they are tarnished and dingy and dropping to pieces. Moreover they have crammed wretched old showcases full of these invaluable relics and the staff of curators, while most efficient, is too small and hard-worked to handle the rapidly increasing mass of antiquities. A ruinous condition thus grows ever more confused. The building, though modern, is in a dilapidated condition, and part of the roof fell in a short while ago, destroying many fine objects. If antiquities removed from a tomb where they were perfectly safe are thrown pell-mell into an understuffed museum in the damp climate of Cairo and left to rot, the excavation becomes utterly immoral.

Must Remodel Museum.

It is a fact that scientific excavation should involve both the immediate safeguarding of objects found, who will lead a third party, it is reported, if both Democratic and Republican parties refuse to support him in the nominations for president of the United States in 1924.

WILL ASK BOOTLEGGERS TO PAY AN INCOME TAX

Associated Press Despatch.

New York, Jan. 24.—Bootleggers who have done a profitable business in New York during the past year have been warned that they would be expected to pay income tax on their illegal gains.

John D. Appleby, prohibition zone chief, announced that he was preparing a list of bootleggers known to have made money, which he would submit to the internal revenue department, and that he believed these men to file returns, which does not mean that they will be prosecuted for bootlegging, as under the law information given by the bootleggers in making their returns is confidential and cannot be given out even to another federal department.
