TRAGIC COINCIDENCE OF DEATH FROM STR. CITY OF CHATHAM

Anniversary of Sailor's Death Sees Same Startling Summons Sent to Successor—Tragic Drowning of Delbert Richmond Before Sunrise

on Sunday

Larkin fell to his death from the boat while at her moorings at the Rankin dock. He was found in the boat while at her moorings at the Rankin dock. He was found in the river the next day, dressed in trousers, shirt and socks. Just before the tragedy is supposed to have occurred a companion saw him leave the skeping quarters. This was about two o'clock in the morning. Sunday morning, September 17th, 1905, Delbert Richmond, fireman on the same boat, met a death, precisely similar in its tragic details.

Dressed in exactly the same manner, in trousers, shirt and socks, he was seen by his bunk mate sitting on the edge of the bank about 2.30 a.m. That was the last seen of him. It is supposed that, attempting to go ashore for some purpose, he was drowned.

The tragedy occurred at Detroit. The boat arrived there Saturday night on its trip from Chatham. Richmond left the boat when it tied up. At nine o'clock he was seen in Windsor in company with a young lady from Walkerville.

It is supposed that he spent the evening in her company and took her to her home. After this he returned to the wharf where the "City of Chatham" was moored. The night watchman on duty on the wharf saw him and put him on the boat. This was about two o'clock Sunday morning.

It is hardly possible that he got on the wharf and went up to the city as he was not seen by the wharf watchman or any of the police on the neighboring beats, all of whom were notified. His half dressed condition would have attracted attention.

Walter Dolman, the Talented Young J. W. White so Designates the Good Organist of Christ Church Ten-Book Used for Division Court Swearing ders His Resignation

It will be a source of deep regret to music lovers in the Maple City to learn that Walter Dolman, the accomplished young organist of Christ Church, has tendered his resignation on account of ill health.

Mr. Dolman is a young Englishman and an exceptionally talented musician. For the past eighteen months he has presided at the Christ Church organ, during which time the musical services have made wonderful advancement, the new organ has been installed and the now famous surplice choir formed. A large share of the credit for this splendid progress is due to the untiring efforts and ability of Mr. Dolman.

From his boyhood the organ loft has been his home, and for several years in England he presided at the musical services in the Midland churches. He is specially gifted and has, moreover, studied with many of the old land's masters.

Mr. Dolman's regrettable resignation has been forced upon him by failing health, and his many Maple City friends devoutly hope the rest he contemplates will fully restore him to his wonted activity.

Filgrims passed through Chatham, via C. P. R., enroute to Detroit. They were met, by arrangement, by a committee from the local club, consisting of F. D. Laurie, H. Flowers and H. W. Anderson, with a view to securing the Kent County game in Chatham.

Mr. Laurie accompanied the Pilgrims to Detroit for the purpose of closing arrangements. Here it was found that the advance agent has mismanaged the dates in such a wey as to call for departure to St. houis on Wednesday morning, leaving both Chatham and Toronto unaccounted After considerable wiring and consultation Mr. Laurie was successful in securing assurance that on completion of the American schedule on Oct. 7th, the Pilgrims will return to play at Buffalo, Toronto, Seaforth and Chatham.

The tourists' management were profuse in their applogies for the postponement and the players heartily expressed their desire to Mr. Laurie to come to Chatham. The Toronto dates had also to be postponed, the management stating that the long travelling in this country was killing the players.

The Chatham club has been put to considerable expense and inconveniance to agrange for this match. Players had arranged for abases.

Crown Expects Startling Developments in Robbery From Raleigh Homestead

$175 Was Placed in Box and Hidden --It Strangely Disappears— Rich. Gill's Loss

The Crown is to day busily investigating a case, from which the Crown Attorney anticipates somewhat startling developments.

Richard Gill, of Raleigh, recently sold cattle for which he received the sum of $175 in cash. This amount he carried around for some days in his pocket, but on Friday last he placed it in a box where other valuable papers were kept, and replaced the box in a private place known only to himself and his family.

Yesterday (Sunday) morning about ten o'clock, at the front gate of the homestead he unexpectedly found the box filled with old receipts, etc., but minus the money.

The matter was at once reported

The matter was at once reported to the Crown authorities, and a very interesting and somewhat startling investigation is in progress. As to its character the Crown Attorney declines, at the present time, to give out anything for publication.

asked where he was born, he first said Christ Church asked where he was born, he first said in the States, then changed it to a place on the St. Lawrence River, and finally said he was born in England. Then he tried to make out in his explanation that Quebec was in England and Battle Creek was in Quebec, on the St. Lawrence. He evidently has not got a full or even fair portion of the common sense that belongs to a sane and sensible man. He tried to explain the stealing of the fruit by saying the man had moved out of the house and left the fruit, and so he thought he might as well

ATTEND CHURCH

Members of the 24th. Regiment At tend Divine Service in Christ Church

The first church parade of the season was held yesterday when the boys in red attended divine service in Christ Church. Owing to the unfavorable weather there was not as large a turnout as there would otherwise have been. Over a hundred men were on parade, however. They marched on the sidewalks and dispensed with the bands.

Before commencing his sermon Mr. McCosh, who is the chaplain of the Regiment, took occasion to welcome the boys to the church on behalf of himself, the wardens and the congregation. He hoped they would always remain the prosperous organization that they are at present and that they would grow and prosper with the erection of the new armories. Chathamites are proud of the splendid 24th.

The music by the vested choir under the able direction of J. W. Wilson, was of a special nature and was very much enjoyed. It was marked by two special numbers—a sole by Miss Gertrude Potter, and a selection from the Christ Church male quartet, composed of Messrs. Wilson, J. R. Smith, Wilf Smith and Angus. Upon the return to the barracks votes of thanks were passed to the choir and rector of the church for courtesies extended, Ex-Reeve Campbell, of Tilbury, was in the city Saturday. Mr. Campbell reported that the wind accompanying the previous day's electrical storm did great damage throughout Tilbury and Raleigh. The zone of devastation continued as far as Charing Cross. Chimneys were blown down, windmills toppled over and fences torn up.

The storm reached Blenheim also, where chimneys were the principal sufferers—those on the Byram, Pardo and Collar mill being blown down. In addition to this the windmill on the Town Hall was blown down and shade trees throughout the town were uprooted.

Fortunately, as the crops were all in, no damage was done to them.

TALES OUT OF SCHOOL

More Merry Mistakes By the Author, Henry J. Barker, M. A.

A lady teacher, on returning from church service with her string of little pupils, said to one of them whose hand the was fielding:
"Well, dear, and how did you like the service this morning?"
"Oh, so much; so very much!" replied the little dot.
"And why so, dear?"
"Cause they sang my fav'rite hymn

The teacher, very much puzzled, requested the child to repeat those lines referring to the bear, and they turned out to be:

Yes, she may forgetful be,
Yet will I remember thee."

A mistress wanted to elicit from the little ones the fact that the oldest trade was that of gardening, and ac-

trade was that of gardening, and accordingly she asked—
"What trade or occupation did our first parent follow?"
"Please, mam. he was a dustman," responded one of the mites.
This reminds me of an equally naive answer which a child gave on a kindred subject—the life of Adam and Eve in Paradise.

subject—the life of Adam and Eve in Paradise.

"What," asked the teacher, "what, was the name of that tree which stood in the midst of the Garden?"

And one little child responded:

"The Tree of Porridge of Good and Evil!"

Some time ago a certain noble lady—a duchess, indeed, she was—pald a visit to a north-country school, and found the lads engaged in a drawing lesson. The object to be drawn was a carrot, and a fine specimen of that vegetable lay on the table. The duchess—after a word with the master ventured to put a question to the lit-tle rustics. Taking the carrot in her the rustics. Taking the carrot in her hand, and holding it up before them, she said:

Queen Alexandra and Jap Princess. Queen Alexandra has taken a grea liking for the Japanese Princess Arisuliking for the Japanese Princess Arisu-gawa, says the Marquise de Fontenoy, and saw far more of her during her stay in England than would appear from the newspaper records of the do-ings of the former Crown Prince and Crown Princess of Japan during their sojourn in the United Kingdom. As soon as the Princess reaches home she will make a large collection of rare Japanese bric-a-brac and art furniture, as well as draperies, which will be brought to England by skilled workmen from the Imperial Palace at Tokio in order to put into execution at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle, under the personal direction of the Queen, the suggestions made by the Princess.

It must be remembered that until now there has been no intercourse of the kind between any of the feminine members of the religions dynasty in Japan and no doubt but that the between any of the feminine members of the reigning dynasty in Japan and those of the royal houses of Europe. Whatever relations have existed have been of an epistolary character, and there has been a marked disposition to treat Japanese royalties with a sort of patronizing and almost contemptuous condescension, which has been bitterly condescension, which has been bitterly resented at Tokio. The friendship of Queen Alexandra and Princess Arisugava marks the inauguration of a new era.

Moral For Bargain Hunting.

"A little incident that occurred at a fashisoable society wedding last week should serve as a warning to the bargain hunter at the summer sales," says The London Chronicle. "A woman in a new hat—it was a particularly successful hat—sat serene and self-satisfied in one of the top pews. To her came an agitated lady's maid. A whispered colloquy followed, resulting in the blushing discomfiture of the serene and self-satisfied woman. MAYOR ACTS

By-Law to the put Through at To night's Session to Oust P. M. from

Some time ago the Mayor was given power to act in the Head street spur matter. The result is that at to-night's session of the City Council he will introduce a resolution that the tracks be removed.

that the tracks be removed.

This is the result of a conference with the city solicitor, who has but recently returned. For thirty days after the passing of the resolution objections to it will be received. If there are any they will be heard and taken into consideration.

KILLED BY A TRAIN.

Unknown Man Run Down by Freight Near Port Hope.

Port Hope, Sept. 18.—An unknown man was struck and instantly killed by a freight train betwee 7 and 8 o'clock by a freight train betwee 7 and 8 o'clock Saturday night.

The body is that of a man between 35 and 40 years of age, about 6 feet in height, and 200 pounds in weight, and of a fair complexion.

He was rather poorly clothed, in a dark grey tweed suit, and a small coin was all the money found in the pocke-tes, along with several small orticle-tes, along with several small orticleets, along with several small articles.

The dead man is believed to have been a Frenchman, who had been noticed wandering about the neighborhood during the afternoon. The only wound inflicted was a deep gash on the back of the head. back of the head.

"You need not say anything," she announced, though neither of them had spoken, "and if you want to help me, mother, will you see that a few of things are packed? I shall start this evening.'

The train seemed to crawl; minutes seemed hours and hours days. Plain or mountain, stream or lake, the landscape seemed dull and dreary. The girl lived years on the trip, and as she read and reread John's farewell letter, which she had kept, her resentment and distrust died away, her girlish faith in him returned, and she saw only the real love and the self abnegating honor of the man.

As the train pulled into Los Angeles she remembered suddenly that she did not know his aunt's street address. How would she find him? Would she be too late? Dazed and weary, she emerged from the car into the brilliant California sunshine and stepped down, half blinded, into a crowd strangers—and John Barry's arms. He was brown, vigorous and smiling Quite unabashed, he kissed her, and they seemed suddenly to be all alone. "What does it mean?" she gasped.

He laughed. "The doctors have given me up-discharged me-cured, of what I never had, and I wanted you-I"-

"You might have written and notnot frightened me so." She choked back the tears. "You knew I cared or I wouldn't have come."

"I know, sweetheart. We will have a wedding this afternoon. I had to telegraph for fear you would have one without me." She turned and looked at him in astonishment.

"I didn't want Golden to get you," he explained. "Did you think be ever would?" she asked indignantly. "I simply wanted to bring father to his senses. "Well," John answered slowly, "you succeeded. Just look at this." He handed her a crumpled telegram:

John Barry, Los Angeles, Cal:

If you want to marry Rosellan, fo heaven's sake do it before Steve Golden does.

They both laughed. "You see," he said, "if I had started to go to you, you might have taken him before I reached you, so I called you across the continent, and Aunt Eu-nice has divided up with me. She says she would like to be worth at least half as much to me alive as she would be dead, so we can live here."
Rosellan considered.

"John," she said softly, "I haven't a white dress to my name.'

New England Justice.

Ebenezer Snell, the grandfather of the poet William Cullen Bryant, is described as a good type of the New England farmer, in whose nature Puritanism, with its stern rigors of conduct and conscience, was overlaid with many of the amenities of Yankee hu-Bryant preserved several anecdotes of his grandfather, one of which quoted by Mr. W. A. Bradley in his biography of the poet, may serve to indicate the way in which he exercised his humor, and also to show the patriarchal conception of justice that was held in a remote New England con munity at the end of the eighteenth century.

My grandfather, said Bryant, once found that certain pieces of lumber in tended by him for the runners of a sled and called in that part of the country sled crooks had been taken without leave by a farmer who lived at no great distance. These timbers were valuable, being made from a tree the grain of which was curved so as to correspond with the curve required in the runners.

The delinquent received notice that his offense was known and that if he wished to escape a prosecution he must carry a bushel of rye to each of three poor widows living in the neighborhood and tell them why he brought it. He was only too glad to comply with this condition.

The Japanese Jury.

In the Teiyei era (along about the middle of the thirteenth century) a Japanese statesman brought the laws in touch with the people by establishing a council of state, with twelve judges, the same as our jury. Before these twelve all litigation was brought for investigation and decision. The plaintiff and defendant had their spokesmen, who argued and defended the case, and afterward the twelve retired into a closed chamber, where the following cath was administered:

During the deliberation of a case, and the decision afterward between right and wrong, neither family connection nor sympathy with, nor antipathy against, the party shall influence. Fear not a powerful family or favor not a friend, but speak in accordance with the dictates of truth. Should there be a case decided wrong and redress refused to a man we shall be punished by all the gods and goddesses of the realm. Thus we swear, and affix our

It ake pleasure in telling you what Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has done for me. I was taken with Diarrheea and severe Cramps in the Stomach. I secured a bottle of your medicine and had only taken a few doses when my trouble disappeared. In the future I will always keep it in the house ready for use.

Ever since my mother first knew of the wonderful curative qualities of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, it has always been kept in the house. She says that it always acts like magic; and especially when given to teething babies. Ever since my mother first knew of babies.

Powers Scon Again to Be Addressed on the Subject.

Roosevelt Won't Be Happy Till He Gets It-Last Winter Every Power Addressed Except Russia Responded Favorably, and the Czar Accepted the Principle Then-So Far the Prospects Seem to Be Bright.

Washington, Sept. 18.—According to a statement made by an official of the State Department yesterday it is practically certain that President Roosevelt will soon address the powers again on the subject of an international peace conference at The Hague. The step may be take within a week, but it is more likely that nothing will be done until the President returns to Washington and confers with Secretary of State Root regarding the matter.

When Mr. Roosevelt does call the attention of the powers to the matter again, taking up his plan where it ended last winter, when the Russian Goverment spoiled the chances of a conference by refusing to participate until the war in the east had come to an end, the first step will probably be a circular note to the powers, suggesting that the time is now opportune for a discussion of the subjects which shall come before the conference. When the plans become partly defined, the Government of the Netherlands will issue a call for the conference. Such was the plan outlined last December, and it is not likely that it will be changed to any great extent. to any great extent.

to any great extent.

Every power addressed ten months ago by Secretarp Hay on the subject responded favorably with the exception of Russia. The St. Petersburg Government, however, accepted the principle of the conference, but said that under the existing circumstances—the war—it was not practicable for Russia to enter into a peace conference. Japan consented to participate, at the same time making a condition that none of the questions of the war then existing be discussed. It is believed here that it will take some weeks for the various powers to reach an understanding as to the subjects to be discussed by the conference and it is not cussed by the conference and it is not thought probable that the meeting can be convened before some time next

There have been many questions brought to prominence by the Russo-Japanese war just ended, and these will undoubtedly be set forth by either Russia or Japan for discussion.

held up the looking glass with considerable energy at last night's City Council meeting, and the reflections his worship found therein were nct particularly complimentary. It is seldom that a public body receives a more drastic or terrible ar- | te editors raignment than that which was handed out to the School Board, They were plainly told that their institus tions and proceedings were permeated with graft, and wire-pulling and ward-heeling. They were assured that it seemed "almost impossible for these men to do things on their merits" and told that they "couldn't be elected by the reputable people of the city at large." An impersonal excepcity at larze." An impersonal exception was made to "a few of them," but three at least were singled out for special serious attention. Trustees Wm. Robertson and Richard M. Paxton were definitely accused of graft and informed that they were criminally liable to disqualification and heavy fines—and a third, unnamed, was instanced as supplying the "influence that the editors and proprietors of our city papers daren't come up against."

More than that, the Mayor intimated that a very similar state of affairs must exist in the Collegiate Institute Board, as, he said, Rev. Dr. Battisby—a member thereof—had called him up to congratulate him upon his determination to do away with it and said, "If you knew the facts of the workings of this Board as I know them, you would never stay your hand till its extermination was accomplished."

The charges arose during the discussion of Ald, Austin's motion to abolish the C. I. and P. S. Boards and form a Board of Education in Chatham. His worship read the report of the last meeting of the School Board from The Planet and the criticismy of some of his statements and figures made by the trustees.

"Now," said the Mayor, "I have taken pains to verify my figures as to their expenditures of this Board from their own figures. I find them as follows: tion was made to "a few of them,"

Mayor Cowan in conversation with a Planet reporter this morning state ed that he would not be a candidate for re-election to the mayoralty for re-election to the mayoralty chair next January.

"I think I have done my duty by the city," said he, "in serving several terms as alderman and one as Chief Magistrate. I am not tired of it but, naturally, the drain on my time is very severe and, consequently, my business has suffered. Instead of lying awake nights thinking of my own affairs I have to think of civic matters."

own affairs I have to think of civic matters."

This announcement will be received with regret by the Mayor's many friends. During his term he has gained a reputation for fearless and outspoken conduct when civic affairs have demanded it—a reputation which will not soon be forgotten. In addition to this his energy and ability have made his administration one of the most successful on record.

NOTED ARTIST

A. M. Fleming, Chatham's popular and talented artist, came off with flying colors at the London Fair, where he exhibited some of his paintings. Mr. Fleming secured the first prize and received most flattering notices on his work from the hoff don newspapers. Mr. Fleming has exceptional talent and gives promise of wonderful achievements.
