KING AND QUEEN REVIEW THE CANADIAN TROOPS GERMANS RETREATING WITH STAGGERING LOSSES

Russian Warship Said to be Sunk--Reports Persist That German Squadron Has Left Naval Base--Decisive Stage Not Yet Reached in Campaign in France

KING AND QUEEN REVIEW CANADIANS

LONDON, Nov. 4.—King George and Queen Mary, accompanied by a small suite, left London today for Salisbury Plain, where they will inspect the Canadian troops, who have been encamped in this locality since their arrival in England.

NAVAL BATTLE IN NORTH SEA.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—It developed today that engagement yesterday, when the British submarine D5 was sunk, was of much greater magnitude than at first appeared. A fleet of mine layers were at work when it was surprised by a German squadron and the Fraternal was sunk and the Copius badly damaged. The torpedo gunboat Halcyon, which was on duty, engaged the Germans, which later managed to hit the gunboat several times, although the damage was comparatively small. The German raiders were apparently en route to bombard the British coast when they encountered the British vessels and were forced to fight.

DECISIVE STAGE NOT REACHED YET.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—The Germans continue their attacks in force in the territory between the Lys and Aisne, with alternating advances and retreats by both sides. The fighting is admittedly desperate in this section according to the official communication issued at Bordeaux but at no point does it seem to be approaching a decisive stage.

Along the territory between Dixmude and the Lys the situation is unchanged.

Heavy cannonading is taking place in the region of Rheims where the Germans again are active.

GERMANS RETREATING WITH STAGGERING LOSSES.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—That the Germans are steadily retreating all along the French left wing from the North Sea in Belgium to the Aisne was indicated in reports received at Paris military headquarters today. They have fallen back from three to seven miles at various points from their most advanced positions, and, along the line of the Yser and Lys, their retreat has been marked by losses of a staggering nature.

RUSSIAN BATTLESHIP REPORTED SUNK BY TURKS.

AMSTERDAM, via London, Nov. 4.—The Vossische Zeitung published a despatch from Sofia saying that Turkish warships have sunk the Russian battleship Sinope.

GERMAN WARSHIPS EMERGE AT LAST.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Official confirmation is still lacking of the report that a German squadron of heavy craft has left the naval base in the Kiel Canal, and headed for the open sea. It persists in official quarters, however, and there has been no denial. The Admiralty shows signs of the greatest activity. Most of the chiefs have been on duty throughout the night, and it is believed here that important events are impending.

One of the reports which receives the most credence is that the Germans are attempting to run the blockade of the British fleet with some of their fastest cruisers and tenders in the expectation that the Karlsruhe off the South American coast in the Atlantic, and subsequently to join forces with the successful South Pacific squadron under the command of Admiral Graf von Spee, which won the battle from the British cruisers off the coast of Chile last Sunday night.

CRUISER MUST LEAVE HONOLULU.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The Japanese embassy here was notified today by the state department that the German cruiser Geler, which has been at anchor for more than two weeks making repairs, has been given until a certain date, not announced, either to leave the port or to intern during the war.

The date is being kept secret because it would be contrary in such a case to put the Japanese cruisers lying in wait for the Geler outside Honolulu harbor in possession of the date of her departure.

Two German officers and two enlisted men from the Geler who landed some time ago in San Francisco will be interned in the U. S.

DARDANELLES FORTS BOMBARDED.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Secretary of the Admiralty announces that a combined British and French squadron bombarded the Dardanelles forts at long range this morning. The forts replied, but no ships were hit, only one shot falling alongside them.

The statement adds that the damage to the forts cannot be estimated, but that a great explosion, accompanied by dense volumes of black smoke, occurred at the Holles fort.

SERVIA AT WAR WITH TURKEY.

ROME, Nov. 4.—A Constantinople despatch states that Servia today severed diplomatic relations with Turkey and the Servian ambassador asked for his passports.

LIBEL SUIT IN SUPREME COURT

Heard This Morning by Judge Hodgins and Jury

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

A unique libel suit for one thousand dollars was heard in the Supreme Court at the Court House, Belleville, this morning. The plaintiff is Mr. Fred Pelkey of 22 Strachan street, this city, and the defendant, James Belear of Trenton. The claim was for damages arising out of a postcard on which were written some words which the plaintiff contended were libelous, being injurious to his character and causing wounds to his feelings. Mr. Curlew appeared for the plaintiff.

Mrs. Nellie Hly, of 15 Wharf street said Mr. Belear was her uncle. In 1913 he dropped into her home one day and took out a couple of postcards out of his pocket. She testified that he asked her to write to Mrs. Belear with whom he was not living. A card was written with a certain statement about having heard about a trip to Toronto.

Mr. O'Flynn for the defendant—Mr. Belear could not read nor write much. Witness did not say that card to Mrs. Belear. She had not said in Mr. O'Flynn's office that that card was a joke. She did say in that office that she did not think there was any harm in writing it as it was for her uncle. A little girl who was at Mrs. Hly's testified that Mr. Belear had pulled out two cards from his pocket and said that one would be a nice one to send. A picture of an auto and a girl and a woman, he gave Mrs. Hly the picture and delivered the words. The plaintiff Mr. Fred Pelkey said he and Belear were cousins. They were on friendly terms up to 1913. In December the plaintiff learned of the card, which was sent to him by Mrs. Belear, who had got it in the mail box at Trenton and a note was sent by her in an envelope accompanying the card. After a time the author of the card was learned. After the card had been sent through the mail—Mrs. Hly gave the instructions of Mr. Belear, who had given postage money. Mr. Pelkey said he was shunned by his friends. One relative passed him by unnoticed and another forbade him to visit until the affair was cleared.

Mrs. Stafford told of receiving the card which was addressed to a certain person and of her sending it to Mr. Pelkey so that he would take steps to discover who wrote it.

Mrs. Belear learned on Dec. 26th 1913 of the card and had taken steps against the writer when the suit was begun by Mr. Pelkey.

Mr. O'Flynn moved for a nonsuit on contention that the words were not slanderous. The defendant told how he had dictated the card only so that one might know that he knew about a trip to Toronto for he had seen Pelkey carrying the grip. It was not jealousy that prompted him to write. He did not know any harm by the words on the card.

Mrs. Ellis of Trenton, spoke of Pelkey having spoken of a trip to Toronto. To Mr. Curlew she said this was told to her in the early fall.

Pelkey was called in rebuttal of certain statements of the defence.

HARRY GRAINE BEFORE JUDGE

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Harry Graine was arraigned in the Supreme Court this morning before Mr. Justice Hodgins on two charges, indecent assault and rape, on July 28, 1913, in Prince Edward, on which the grand jury had found true bills. On the rape indictment he pleaded not guilty and to the assault he entered a plea of guilty.

Mr. Frank Field, K.C., of Cobourg, crown prosecutor, addressing the court, said that he had carefully considered the evidence of the charges against the prisoner and in view of his having entered a plea of guilty on the indecent assault charge, the crown prosecutor desired not to prosecute the charge of rape. He believed the interests of the justice would thus be served. He was influenced in this course to shield the victim of the assault from the notoriety of a public case. Therefore he moved for the sentence of the prisoner on the indictment for indecent assault.

WELCOMED MR. JUSTICE HODGINS

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

The Bar Association of Belleville yesterday afternoon at the court house extended congratulations to the presiding judge of the assize, Mr. Justice Hodgins on his appointment to the bench. Mr. E. Guss Porter, K.C., M.P., was the spokesman for the legal fraternity, and on behalf of the Belleville lawyers welcomed his lordship on his first visit to this city since his appointment. Mr. Porter said many kind things of Justice Hodgins. The latter made a graceful reply.

COMFORTS FOR FIFTEENTH BOYS

Second Contingent Volunteers Received Gifts From Red Cross Last Evening.

(From Wednesday's Daily.)

Last evening at nine o'clock in the lecture room of the armoures, a farewell event took place at which Mrs. (Col.) S. S. Lazier presided. On behalf of the women of Belleville and the surrounding district, she presented to each of the thirty-nine volunteers of the Fifteenth Regiment who were present, a box of comforts, such as balneava cap, handkerchiefs, wristlets, etc. The gift she said was not from any one society, but from the womanhood of the district. To the boys to come, the ladies would send more comforts, marked with a peculiar mark to designate them as for the use of Belleville boys. That mark would be sent to them.

Col. S. S. Lazier bade the boys God speed, saying "I am at home and would not think of them, as absence but 'as comrades fighting our battles'."

Mr. Col. Panton pointed out that the Fifteenth Regiment not only in its present, but its past was bringing its message to the boys. He repeated the words "Then let memory tell thy heart, Britain what thou wert, thou art, Gird thee in thy ancient night, Forth and God defend the right."

Col. Panton then asked that while their departure was the sacrifice of those left behind, yet it was the glory of service to those who were privileged to go to the front.

The gathering broke up with three cheers for the ladies, given only as soldiers can do.

Col. L. W. Marsh, officers of the regiment, Mrs. W. C. Michel, secretary of the "Red Cross" and others were present.

DOCTOR'S CLEVER RUSE

Gets Back War Levy as Fee For Attending German Imperial Prince

The story of a French doctor's fee for attending a German prince has just become known.

It was when the Germans were advancing towards Scarne and Fere-Champagne. They reached Epernay, where they consumed 50,000 bottles of champagne and demanded a war levy of £7,000.

After the battle of the Marne, when the Prussian troops were in full flight, one of the Imperial princes was seriously wounded. He was at once conveyed to Epernay, which was still being guarded by a few German troops. But not a German surgeon was to be found in the town, so a staff officer went in search of a French surgeon. He was advised to go to Dr. Vernon a celebrated surgeon, who was promised a princely fee if he would attend to the Imperial patient.

The doctor, bearing in mind the war levy demanded from his native city, fixed his fee at the sum of £7,000. The paymaster of the German army sent the amount demanded the same evening to the mayor in gold pieces bearing the image of the Emperor William.

OBITUARY.

LATE LEWIS ROGERS.

After ailing for only two weeks, after a strenuous railroading career, Engineer Lewis Wilson Rogers, who resided at 234 Sydenham St., Kingston, passed away at his residence on Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The deceased was born at Lamesdown fifty-five years ago, and for the past sixteen years had been a resident of Kingston. During this latter period Mr. Rogers was engineer on the G.T.R. suburban train between Kingston inner station and Kingston junction. Previous to this he was employed as an engineer on the main line of the G.T.R. railroad system. It was at this time that he resided in Belleville for a number of years on Foster Avenue. Some sixteen years ago he was transferred to Kingston suburban service. He was a prominent engineer and had been in the employ of the Grand Trunk for thirty-five years and passed through many accidents without an accident. Deceased was a member of Mora Lodge, No. 11, A.F. and A.M., Belleville, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers Division 189, Belleville and Cataract Lodge I.O.O.F., Kingston. He was an Anglican in religion and a member of St. Paul's church, Kingston.

Mr. Rogers was very popular among his associates and bore an excellent character. He is survived by his wife and one daughter, Miss Helen, residing at home. Three brothers and four sisters also survive: Charles of Kalamazoo, Mich.; Albert of Montreal and William, A. S. Gananogue; Mrs. George Nuttall, Mrs. Glover, Mrs. McKendry and Miss Japple, all of Gananogue. The funeral was conducted this afternoon. Service was held at the residence, where Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald officiated. The remains were buried in Castarqui cemetery under I.O.O.F. auspices.

He won many friends by his gentle and unassuming demeanor and his high regard for the rights and feelings of others. His passing will be heard with regret by those of his way men throughout the county who at one time or other came in contact with him.

LIEUT. FITZGERALD LOST EYE AT FRONT

Rev. W. F. Fitzgerald, M.A., of Kingston, well known to Anglicans in Belleville as he has preached here on a number of occasions, received word Tuesday morning that his nephew, Lieut. Gerald V. Fitzgerald of the Leinster Regiment, was severely wounded in the left eye while leading a bayonet charge in Chappelle on the Belgian frontier. The letter was from the lieutenant's sister in Watford, Ireland, and stated that Lieut. Fitzgerald had been fighting for three days when he was struck in the eye by a German rifle bullet. As there was no eye specialist at the base hospital, the injured man was sent by Calais and Dover to Wimpton, where he was operated upon last Friday and the eye removed.

BLUFFED THEM ALL.

Kingstonian Was Taken for German in Napanee.

Paul Seltagne, an electrician with the Bell Telephone company, Kingston, was in Napanee a few days ago, and while at a local hotel he was pointed out as a German. Paul is no German, as everybody in Kingston knows, but just by way of a joke he did not deny the charge of the men in the hotel, instead he took of his coat and offered to settle matters with everybody in the hotel, one at a time, Queensbury rules to govern, but the men who had put such a grave charge against him fell down. The story when the affair reached home before him, in this little role, and Paul and his many friends are now having a great laugh over the incident.

JUDGE REFERS TO EUROPEAN WAR

At Opening of Fall Assize Here This Afternoon

"The court is meeting under circumstances in the minds of all of us, and which are unprecedented in the history of our Empire for one hundred years," said His Lordship, Judge Hodgins yesterday afternoon, addressing the grand jury at the county court house for Hastings.

The war in which our Empire is engaged has taken up our thoughts and interests to a large extent. One hundred years ago there was the same sort of war, for the dominance of the sea was fought by one of the most commanding figures in the world. The present situation is similar. There is a difference however in the point of numbers engaged and the brutality with which the war is being carried on. There are now in the field British troops ten times the number of those that fought at Waterloo. To the credit of the nations then engaged there was not then the absolute disregard of human life and in the method in carrying on the conflict. The cause of war, we all agree is a just and righteous one. Even if it were not, the disclosure of the aims of the Prussian monarchy and its disregard of decency and the rights of weaker states would justify this war on the score of humanity.

His Lordship made these remarks in order that the grand jury in its presentment after the first count since hostilities broke out, might make reference to the need of men. He hoped they would realize the serious duty resting on every part of the Empire to do its utmost. This cannot be done unless men are sent to the front. Much good might be done by encouraging volunteers to enlist, the sentiment coming from such a representative body as the grand jury.

The judge then referred to criminal cases, pointing out to the jury their duty.

Mr. Frank Field, K.C., of Cobourg is the crown prosecutor.

Following is the composition of the grand jury—

Angus Nicholson, foreman
Arthur Alexander
George Brown
Joseph Burns
Adam Corrigan
Archibald Collins
Sidney Cotterell
H. E. Fairfield
Gordon King
Thos. J. McAlpine
Thos. W. Roblin
Wilfred Smith

PREMIER HEARST AND HON. DR. PYNE AT THE ONTARIO SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

First Official Visit of Ontario's New Prime Minister Was for Opening of New Dormitories—Luncheon at the Superintendent's Residence—Address of Welcome—Description of Building

Yesterday was a gala day for the Ontario School for the Deaf for it had as its guests the Prime Minister of Ontario, the Hon. Wm. H. Hearst, the Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for the Province, and a number of prominent citizens of Belleville.

The superintendent, Dr. Coughlin, the staff and the pupils, had made elaborate preparations for the guests' reception and the ceremonies attendant upon the opening of the new buildings.

The contractors, Messrs. Thomas Manley and Son, of Belleville, have just completed the boys' dormitory, which has been under construction for over one year and it was to mark this achievement that the Prime Minister made his first official visit to his new office to the institution.

The train with the private car of the premier, reached the institution station from Toronto about noon, having aboard the guests and a number of newspaper men of the Queen City.

As the party came up the avenue to the Ontario School for the Deaf, the cadets of the institution, thirty strong, in red coats and khaki formed a guard of honor. Arriving at the main building, the distinguished guests with prominent citizens in a representative capacity registered at the residence of Dr. Coughlin, the superintendent, where they dined sumptuously.

The inspection of the dormitories began about 2.15, the first to be visited being the girls' building. As the evidence of this is the erection of the two new residences, to which reference has already been made, which will ever be a monument to your progressive spirit and earnest solicitude for the best interests of the children of Ontario.

In closing, let us assure you, sirs, that we will not be content with a mere verbal expression of our gratitude for the many kind favors we have received from you.

W. J. Campbell, Miss G. Linn. Geo. F. Stewart.

The Hon. Mr. Hearst in rising to reply was given a rousing reception. He first expressed his appreciation of the kind references to Mrs. Hearst, Dr. Pyne, Mrs. Pyne, and himself.

"I have just taken up the reins he has let fall. I know my failings, but I pray to the Omnipotent that I may be given wisdom and power and justice in the task."

His first visit here was two years ago and since then he had told everyone here, every man in duty bound to educate the young. Education must be made to include the training in right morals and high ideals.

The work of teaching the boys and girls is God-given. They are entitled to be fitted for life. These handicapped call upon us first of all.

The Premier referred to the cadet guard of red coats. No better guard could be given. He had no doubt that the boys salute the flag, that they stand at attention to the highest privileges but also for sacrifice.

This institution will compare well with any one on the continent. The cadet or the boy scout influence creates a discipline, respect and self respect.

Dr. Pyne believed the German Emperor alone responsible for the war in Europe. We are not at war with the Germans. They are a wonderful people in industry, in science both in Germany and in America.

Dr. Pyne congratulated the superintendent and staff on the tidiness and happiness of the boys and girls.

Mr. S. Burrows led the gathering in the chorus of the "Red, White and Blue," eight girls in white and wearing maple leaves signed that lyric.

Letters of regret at inability to be present were received from Dr. Coughlin, from Dr. Crouter, Philadelphia; principal of Monterey school for the deaf, and a former Belleville boy, and from J. T. Shultz.

Dr. Pyne was asked to present diplomas to the boys and girls who had secured their entrance, the first in the history of the institution. Those receiving diplomas were:

Evelyn Hazlett, Dorothy Hazlett, Marie Gagny, Margil Kennedy, Mona McArthur, Gladys Sours, Ursula Buchan, Isabel Baker.

Mr. J. W. Johnson, M.P.P., for West Hastings, said the institution was established 42 years ago. No man had succeeded in imparting education better than Dr. Pyne. The speaker said he was glad to honor the prime minister and predicted that more improvements are coming for the O.S.D.

Mr. G. W. Reeves, president of the Association of the Deaf addressed a few remarks which were interpreted orally by Prof. Coleman. He referred to the advantages and improvements of the school, the benefits he had derived, and the steady advance, a step by step of the institution.

The pupils gave hearty yells for Premier Hearst and Dr. Pyne, waving banners.

The gathering then broke up as the ministers had to leave on the train shortly after five o'clock.

A reception was given in the school for the guests. Refreshments were served and an enjoyable time spent.

BOYS' DORMITORY

The two new dormitories are ideally situated on the large lawn before the main building, the girls' on the right and the boys' on the left.

The boys' dormitory is 156 feet long by 80 feet wide and consists of a basement and two stories containing eight large dormitories and three studies.

The basement comprises lavatories, bathrooms and high ceilings. There are also attached to each two of the dormitories a linen and clothes room with clothes' cupboards for each pupil.

The first floor is furnished with a reception room, resident teachers' room, a bedroom suite, one play room for juveniles, dormitories with a room adjoining for the attendant. To each pair of dormitories is attached a washroom with lockers, mirrors and lavatories.

The second floor are four dormitories and attached rooms and two studies for senior and middle grade pupils. Clothes and linen accommodation is provided for on the top floor as in the first. Mr. W. S. Minns, supervisor of the Boys' department, has his room on this floor.

The hardware in the building is of a high standard and was manufactured in Belleville. The exterior of the residence is brick with stone facings, two verandas being supported on stone columns and the building is in the main constructed on the principles of fireproofing.

The interior of the building is finished with oak with rubbed finish. The heat for the building is supplied by underground conduit from the main plant which is situated in the main building almost five hundred feet from the dormitory. The system is the vacuum low pressure steam

$1,400,000,000

That is the value of Canada's manufactures for one year—in money. But what of their value measured in the comfort, the happiness and the well-being of the whole country?

To produce them gives employment to over six hundred thousand workpeople, whose total wages amount to $288,000,000 each year.

These workers, with their families and those who benefit by their purchasing power, number nearly one-third the population of Canada—supported by Canadian manufactures.

How readily it is apparent that the prosperity and happiness of every Canadian—of yourself—depend on the continuous employment of these people—on the consumption of goods "Made in Canada."

system, controlled by the Johnson Controllable System in such a way that each individual room may be kept at any required temperature.

Two additional 75 h.p. tubular boilers have been added to the heating plant, making five boilers which supply heat to the entire suite of buildings at the school.

The plant is of the most modern. Mr. C. J. Peppin is the efficient engineer who explained to the press in detail the wonderful centralisation of the heating and electric system.

A recent improvement is the new fire hall equipped with trucks, ladders, and hose, and with ample tower accommodation for drying the hose. It is east of the main building and is steam heated. It is of brick with stone facing and frame tower.

The old fire conditions have thus been entirely remedied.

Messrs. Thomas Manley & Son of Belleville were the contractors of the boys' dormitory. The buildings they have erected, it may safely be said, cannot be excelled in the Dominion for the purposes for which it was built.

Mr. A. J. Morton was superintendent of works. The marble for the stairway was furnished by the Vermont Marble Co., of Peterborough. Greenleaf and Sons of Belleville had charge of the electrical work. Purdy Harnell, Ltd., of Toronto installed the plumbing and steam heating appliances, and Mr. C. B. Scantlebury of Belleville, did the painting. The fireproof stairway was constructed by the Shipway Manufacturing Company of Toronto. Messrs. Tickell & Sons supplied the furniture and fixtures for the dormitories and clothes rooms. The shades were furnished by The Ritchie Co., Limited.

Crescent concrete walks have been built to connect with the various buildings of the institution. The boys will soon be placed in their new home and the healthy surroundings should have a lasting result in all phases of their education.

approached, a gold key was presented to Hon. Dr. Pyne as a token of the occasion. After the various studies, dormitories, and appointments were inspected, the party proceeded across the spacious lawn to the boys' dormitory. Premier Hearst was presented with a gold key in honor of the occasion as he entered the door. Nothing but praise was given by the visitors as they went from room to room.

Some idea of the work carried on in the institution was to be given the visitors. Miss Ford gave with a small class of boys a very clear explanation of the elementary cultivation of the child's observation and sense of distinction. How pitch was obtained was made clear by Miss Ford. Miss Deaneard with an older class exemplified actual lip reading and speaking according to diagrams representing sounds. Marvellous seemed the success of a little Italian boy, who repeated "Little Jack Horner" very distinctly.

The Premier and Dr. Pyne and others expressed their wonder at the accomplishment of the children under such adverse circumstances.

Owing to lack of time, more classes could not be visited, although they were in readiness.

The public function in the dining hall was attended by hundreds of guests, the staff, the students, senators, members of parliament, and ministers of the city. The platform was decorated with an abundance of flowers. Those taking seats on the platform were Premier Hearst, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Dr. Coughlin, Supt.; Hon. Senator Corby, Mr. E. W. Johnson, M.P.P., Rev. F. N. Baker, Rev. A. R. Sanderson, Rev. A. L. Geen, Rev. G. R. Beamish, Mr. F. E. O'Flynn and Mayor Willis.

Dr. Coughlin, the superintendent, was chairman and after a few words of welcome called upon Principal Rev. Dr. Baker of Albert College, who offered up prayer for the institution in its educational work and for the cause of "light" in the European conflict.

Dr. Coughlin supported by members of the staff then read the following address to the distinguished visitors:

Government, our great appreciation of the splendid new buildings which you have provided, and which you have just done us the honor of formally opening. No more beautiful, commodious and comfortable residences for pupils can be found on the continent and they will stand as a glorious and lasting tribute to the generous and progressive spirit that prompt their erection.

To you, Dr. Pyne, we are under a very special and very great debt of gratitude for the many favors we have received from your hands, and any words we could use would be inadequate to fittingly express our sincere appreciation of the kindly consideration we have received from you throughout the term of office as Minister of Education. During that time very great advances have been made in the work of educating the deaf.

The standard of attainment has steadily advanced. This winter the most important is only one of the many improvements that have been made under your regime. The number of teachers on the staff has been greatly increased, thus enabling us to lessen the number of pupils in a class, without which our advanced work could not have been accomplished. The oral method of instruction has been introduced, which very satisfactory results so far, and with prospects of still greater success in the future, when it shall have become thoroughly established in all the grades. The name of the school has been changed so as to properly denote its character as a purely educational institution and the Compulsory School Attendance law of the Province has been made applicable to the deaf. While the moral and mental development of our pupils has thus so greatly advanced, their physical welfare has also been safeguarded in every possible way. The outstanding

FIFTEENTH AND FORTY-NINTH VOLUNTEERS FOR THE SECOND CONTINGENT BIDDEN FAREWELL

Addresses at the Armouries to Departing Boys-Benediction by Chaplain -Mrs. S. S. Lazier Presented Lunches-At Station.

(From Tuesday's Daily.)

Belleville this morning at eleven-thirty again bade farewell to the soldiers heroes who are on their way to the front, after a stay at Kingston for mobilization and training. The Fifteenth Regiment sent this time 30 volunteers for the second contingent and the 49th Hastings Rifles are represented by 38 men. With flags flying and amid ringing cheers the volunteers were given a hearty send-off from the armouries. The enlisted men of the two regiments lined up in civilian clothes and addressed by Mayor Willis and the chaplain of the Fifteenth, Capt. Rev. Canon Beamish. Mayor Willis addressing the 15th, said "I assure you we feel very proud of the regiment which is sending off its volunteers for the second contingent. In the first contingent there were not so many Canadian boys, but in the second we find many of our best known Belleville young men offering their services. The Mayor judged the honor of the city in looking after any dependent on the volunteers. I wish you all Godspeed and know perfectly well that the city and country will be safe in your hands. I bid you goodbye and wish you a happy return to each and all of you." Cheers were given for the Mayor.

Col. L. W. Marsh called on the chaplain, Rev. G. R. Beamish, who said "Godspeed my boys. You will go to the front if called and do your duty. I trust you will all return to your homes. Many of you are Belleville boys whom I have known for some years. Today in the second contingent we have many of our boys who were born in Belleville. We are proud of you." With heads bowed and bowed, the volunteers repeated the Lord's Prayer with the chaplain, who pronounced the benediction. Mrs. S. S. Lazier, president of the Belleville Girls' Patriotic Society and Red Cross, gave each man leaving for Kingston, a lunch to eat on the train. This was a personal responsibility of the regiment, Albert Lazier was formerly in command.

Albert College boys turned out well and carried three of their gallant comrades across the city. They are thirty or forty of the students followed after, farewells were given all the volunteers until their hands ached. Then the march began for the Grand Trunk depot at 10:40 o'clock, the pioneers and engineers leading, followed by the 15th band, Col. Marsh, Major Brown and the volunteers of the 15th Regt. The Belleville College company followed. Cheers followed and accompanied the boys to the station, the band playing "It's a long way to Tipperary," "40 Canada," "The British Grenadiers," "The Lass of Lochore" and other patriotic airs. At the depot Albert College students created a demonstration for their boys, pennants and flags were waved, the college yell was given, the Belleville High School "Gull" band, and the boys and girls bade farewell with school cheers and yells and personal partings to their fellow student, Frank Rayfield, a high school boy.

At the station many were the signs of parting, weeping sisters, mothers and fathers. One Englishman bade farewell to his little family in the Belleville High School. He had no tears, but his heart ached, but no tears came. His wife a quiet face, but expressive of the seriousness of the situation. His wife buried her face in his neck and her little child as he held her, kissing others of the little household farewell. On the 11:30 train for Kingston were the 40th Regt. boys in uniform. Our lads were all carried aloft, particularly Ern. Geen and Herbie Weller, a large party of friends giving them a hearty send-off. The boys will drill at Kingston for three months or more.

Col. W. G. Ketcheson of the 49th Regiment was unfortunately unable to bid his comrades farewell today, owing to the illness of his only daughter, Mrs. (Capt.) Vandewater, having died suddenly this morning of hemorrhage of the brain. He has the dearest sympathy of the volunteers in his great bereavement. Col. Marsh and other officers accompanied the 15th contingent to Kingston.

MEDICAL INSPECTION. Medical inspection at the hands of Capt. Surgeon Dr. A. E. MacColl was very strict. No less than fourteen were rejected as unfit. General health was considered. Defects in teeth and in sight were marked and bodily configuration entered largely into the question of acceptance or rejection. All the joints were tested. Any deformity of joints was ruled out. Pigeon chests were the cause of rejection. General appearance was also taken into account. The feet of the volunteers was especially looked after. Flat feet, callouses, hammer-toes and corns would rule a man out. Varicose veins rendered men unfit. Eyesight tests included reading of test type (regulation) with both eyes at thirty feet. Private Belch is a widower with two children. Sergeant Bongard is married. The rest of the men are unmarried.

25,000 MORE SHIRTS FOR DEACON'S

Local Factory Received Order From the British War Office for Grey Shirts

The British War Office is giving out orders for army flannel shirts to the extent of about 800,000. The shirt manufacturers of Canada, some thirty-five in all, have formed themselves co-operatively to take care of this business rather than let it go across the line. Orders are now being given out per rata per capacity to the different shirt manufacturers in the country. Mr. W. B. Deacon of the Deacon Shirt Company, Belleville, has been made a member of the executive committee of five who are handling this work. This will mean that the Deacon Shirt Company who have already been working on shirt orders for the Dominion Government will secure an order from the British War Office for from 25,000 to 30,000 shirts. This will keep the factory busy most of the winter. The staff will be put on next week. This is good news for Belleville. The order of the British War Office for the 800,000 shirts will mean that over 2,000 miles of flannel will go into the order that the shirtmakers of Canada have received from the British Government. The bulk of this flannel has been secured from the United States, owing to the Canadian mills being filled up with orders for months to come and the English mills now working at capacity. This order for shirts is in addition to orders for underwear, socks, sweaters, and furled coats that have been given out during the past few days to the manufacturers of Canada. Tommy Atkins wears no undershirt. His shirt is a long grey flannel shirt covered in winter time with a Canadian jacket.

OWES HER LIFE TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Cured Both Stomach Trouble and Headaches

PALMERSTON, ONT., June 20th, 1913. "I really believe that I owe my life to 'Fruit-a-tives'. Ever since childhood, I have been under the care of physicians and have been paying doctor's bills. I was so sick and worn out that people on the street often asked me if I thought I could get along without help. The same old Stomach Trouble and distressing Headaches finally drove me mad. Sometime ago, I got a box of 'Fruit-a-tives' and the first box did me good. My husband was delighted and advised a continuation of their use. Today, I am feeling fine, and a physician meeting me on the street, noticed my improved appearance and asked the reason. I replied, 'I am taking Fruit-a-tives'. He said, 'Well, if Fruit-a-tives are making you look so well, go ahead and take them. They are doing more for you than I can'." Mrs. H. S. WILLIAMS.

"Fruit-a-tives" are sold by all dealers at 50c. a box. For $2.50, trial size 25c. or sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

This battalion will consist of 1,031 men of all ranks who will go overseas as a unit. The war establishment will not be the same as described in "Industry Training 1914," as this book provides for a four company battalion, each of which is really double the strength of the old companies. The establishment of the 3rd divisional battalion will consist of thirty-four officers including attached. These are one lieutenant-colonel, two majors, one adjutant, one quartermaster, one transport officer, one signal officer, eight company commanders, sixteen lieutenants, one machine-gunner officer and the two attached officers the medical and pay-master. The strength of a company will be 110 men, consisting of one captain, two subalterns, one color-sergeant, four sergeants, two drummers, or buglers, five corporals, one pioneer, ninety-four privates, two signallers, two stretcher-bearers, two drivers for the first line transports and three batmen. The machine-gun section will total eighteen men. The headquarters staff, including attached will total sixty-one.

Orders have been sent out by the officer commanding the third division, Kingston, in which he states that all saloons, and bars in the city of Kingston and its environs are placed "out of bounds" for all ranks in the 3rd divisional battalion, which assembles in Kingston until six o'clock daily. Officers and non-commissioned will see that the order is strictly adhered to. It is published for general information, that the regimental canteen at the Lett de Pont barracks is placed "out of bounds" for all troops except the members of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery and attached men of the permanent force stationed in Kingston.

People sending letters to the volunteers who will assemble at Kingston are instructed to address them as follows: Rank and name in full; 21st infantry battalion Canadian Expeditionary Force, Kingston, Ont.

Restore the Service.

In 1880 Deseronto made a contract with the Bay of Quinte railway company, by which, in consideration of $5,000, a train service would be arranged between the Grand Trunk railway and Deseronto. Recently the C.N.R. acquired the Bay of Quinte and the terms of the contract have been said to have been violated. The Deseronto Board of Trade is asking the railway commissioners to see that the C.N.R. restore the connections with the Grand Trunk Railway, according to contract. Mr. Edward Chappee has returned from extended trip to the west.

THE WOUNDS OF WAR.

In the London Lancet there appears the first authoritative statement, a note by Dr. G. H. Makins, consulting surgeon to the British forces, on the nature of the wounds caused in the fighting in France. It was supposed that a great forward step had been taken when the blunt-nosed lead bullet was replaced by the modern steel-jacketed, pointed rifle ammunition. And, generally speaking, such rifle wounds as are now reported are declared to be relatively small and clean. But the tragedy is that the vast majority of wounds are proving to be not rifle wounds at all but shrapnel wounds. Apparently the great losses in the fighting thus far on the side of the Allies, have been due to artillery, not to rifle fire.

The wounds inflicted by the shrapnel are exceedingly severe. Dr. Makins declares that there is a little difference between them and the wounds produced by the round ball fired from an old-fashioned musket. The wounds observed in this war are exactly like wounds of the Peninsular War or the Crimean. The round balls scattered by the bursting of shrapnel produce injuries of the most severe "explosive type" when travelling at a high velocity. Lacerations are the rule and infection is very frequent.

So far as cures in hospital go, an admirable record is prophesied. But it seems certain that the percentage of deaths on the battlefield will be high. In one more respect the phrase "human war" turns out to be a very bad jest.

A GRAVE OMISSION.

Reuter gives a highly interesting story told by an inhabitant of Huy as to what happened at that town during its occupation by the Germans. The German commander was Major von Baschwitz, and at one time he gave orders that twenty-three houses were to be burnt, on the ground that the inhabitants had fired on the German troops. The Burgomaster, who had been taken as a hostage, persuaded the Major to hold an inquiry. The result of the inquiry was remarkable—for the houses were spared and instead the Major circulated among his troops a proclamation, couched in severe terms, stating that shots had been fired by German soldiers, who, under influence of drink, had been seized with inexplicable panic, and had behaved themselves in a most shameful manner. Their act was rendered all the more culpable in that it had caused serious wounds to a German non-commissioned officer and a soldier, who were wounded by German bullets. The proclamation also forbade soldiers to set fire to property or to pillage without orders.

It is greatly to the credit of the German Major that he should have acted in this correct way, and The Westminster Gazette cannot help wondering whether if a similar inquiry had been held at Louvain that city would not also have escaped destruction. It will be remembered that at Louvain the German apologia for the burning was that the inhabitants had fired on German troops; the Belgians, on the contrary, alleged that what really took place was that Germans fired on each other. That is what they did at Huy, as a German court of inquiry has found out; and the German excuse for the infamy of Louvain is in consequence less plausible than it ever was.

VIGOROUS ACTION NEEDED.

One can well understand the impatience which the Militiamen of the West, who are eager to go to the front, feel over the delay in proceeding with the organization of the Second Canadian Contingent. There are, as the despatches tell us, in the Western Provinces alone, 15,000 men who are ready to volunteer, and yet, according to the present arrangements, scarcely more than a tenth of these will be given the opportunity which they so eagerly desire, of enrolling with the colors to fight in the Empire's cause.

The dilatoriness which has been shown by those who are charged with the responsibility of assembling this force is naturally causing a great deal of criticism. More than a month has elapsed since our first expeditionary force was despatched to the Old Country, and yet up to this time, very little has been done in forwarding the organization of a second contingent. Every day brings fresh evidence of the need of reinforcements for the Allies in the western theatre of war. It is not a satisfactory explanation to say that, until the first Canadian expedition has been properly trained there is no occasion for hurry with the work of organizing the second. There is, on the contrary, imperative need for hastening the work. The campaign is now at a very critical stage, and it is imperative that Canada should be in a position to send her best troops to the assistance of the Mother Country at the earliest possible moment. The quicker they are assembled and put into training the sooner they will be in shape to take their place in the field.

There is, so it seems to us, no reason in the world, why the soldiers who will compose our second expeditionary force should not receive in Canada, under the direction of the trained and experienced officers, at the command of the Militia Department, the training which would fit them for active service. At all events every day of training is a day gained. Already more than a month of valuable time has been lost, and in the end that time may be of the utmost value in deciding the issue of the battle.

There is no desire to unduly criticize those in authority, but the dissatisfaction with the delay is wide-spread, as is manifested by the call made by the Montreal Star upon the Government to "recruit more quickly, and hurry up its additional contingents." It is greatly to be feared that those charged at once with the duty and the opportunity of furnishing to the Mother Country the utmost aid which Canada can render in this life and death struggle, do not fully realize the need of haste. Let us hope that the protest which comes from the men of the West, who are shafing under the delay will spur the Militia Department to activity, and that the work of recruiting and organizing and drilling will from this time go forward vigorously and continuously, so that we shall be able to send a constant stream of valuable reinforcements to the Allied armies.

In no other way will the desire of Canadians to show to the world that they are ready to back the Mother Country with their last man and their last dollar, be properly expressed. From this time forth there must be prompt and vigorous action.

IRISH UNITY.

Mr. Redmond made a very important speech at Wexford, in which he made a very eloquent appeal to the Irish people. Mr. Redmond, saying that he was following the example set by General Botha, put it "quite plainly." "Are you, the Irish democracy or are you not? Are you for Ireland with her own Parliament keeping her place as an autonomous nation in the confederacy of the British Empire, or are you not? On which side do the people want to stand—on the side of Great Britain and Ireland, and Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, or on the side of Germany?"

Mr. Redmond added:

"Believe me, we cannot remain aloof. We hate war, but it has come upon us and we must make our choice. I have no particle of hesitation as to the only choice before us. The only choice of honor, the only choice of safety, the only choice of statesmanship is to defend everywhere it is necessary, either at home or abroad, the liberties and the possessions that Ireland has won within the Empire, and to join with the democracy of the Empire in defending its liberties against their declared enemy."

The best comment upon which is the London Daily Mail Special Correspondent's statement that Mr. Redmond was not out of touch with his hearers. "Recent visits to many parts of Nationalist Ireland," says the Mail correspondent, "have convinced me that the Sinn Feiners, who stand opposed to Mr. Redmond as separatists to the end, are a very small and dying force."

THE RIGHT WAY.

On some bright future day, mayhap, the kings themselves will do their slaying, when wanting strife they'll go and scrap, and let their people do the haying. Then rulers of all grades and kinds must each one wield his private swatter, when they've made up their blooming minds and blood and death and fire and slaughter. The angry king will not command his subjects to go forth in armor; he'll take a broadaxe in his hand and swing it like a husky farmer. And while to scenes of gore he flees, and lops the arms from rival princes, his countrymen will trim their trees, and raise large crops of prunes and quinces. A few dead kings would make no odds, except to courtier and fawner, so let them battle for their gods, and for their crowns and misfit honor. I cannot see a reason why good men should into battle frolic, and lose their legs, and bleed and die, because some monarch is as the colic. Most men who on grim horrors sup, on fields of battle, at this writing, would scratch their heads and give it up, if you should ask them why they're fighting. Some king or emperor or czar had told them they must march to glory, and from their persons have the tar knocked by the foe—the same old story. And so I'm waiting for the day when men no more to war will rally, and kings who suffer for a fray will do their scrapping in the alley.

—Walt Mason.

A break in the struggle in Europe will be caused sooner by the destruction of Germany's credit than by the destruction of cities.

The more I study the world the more am I convinced of the inability of force to create anything durable.—Napoleon, at St. Helena.

If the German report on the number of prisoners of war, held in Germany, is correct, it will greatly reduce the casualty list of the Allies.

As if war had not given us the surfeit of real intrigue, several well known intrigue novelists have turned themselves loose on the unprotected public.

Lord Kitchener's appeal to the British public to assist the soldiers in maintaining sobriety by refraining from treating them is a timely and admirable temperance lecture. It should be passed along wherever men are in training.

Like the Emden, the Karlsruhe's achievements are confined to the sinking of unarmed merchant ships. If the British cruisers could once get within range of the fugitive Germans their raids upon non-combatant shipping would be speedily ended.

The chief concern of the German naval officers who used to drink to "Der Tag" now seems to be to postpone the evil day as long as possible. A square stand-up fight is apparently the last thing they want.

The first 500,000 men asked for by Lord Kitchener were secured in record time, and 240,000 additional men have been recruited, making 740,000 recruits since the war commenced. Men are now enlisting at the rate of over 3,000 a day, and the indications are that within the next few weeks the 1,000,000 men asked for will have rallied to the colors. In six months' time, Great Britain expects to have 1,000,000 men on the firing line.

Necessity is admittedly the mother of invention, and she is at least the stepmother of lots of other things. Among the things made scarce by the European war was camel's hair brushes used by artists. Some enterprising person got busy and has discovered that the hair from the inside of the cow's ear is as good, and as artistic, as the genuine imported camel's hair. The camel may get his back up over the substitution, but bossy can chew her cud still more proudly as she realizes she has at last broken into high art as something more important than an adjunct to and filler in of rural scenery.

Increased immigration to Canada after peace, has been forecast by many influential judges of economic influences. On this point The London Statist says: "If after the war there should, as seems probable, be a great exodus of population from the closely populated and war-stricken countries of Europe to the new countries where war is unknown and where a given amount of effort produces a much greater amount of income than in Europe, the adverse effect of the war upon the world income and world trade may be repaired in a relatively short space of time."

Although all the signs are favorable to the Allied cause, the veil of silence is so tightly drawn around the operations on the contorted line of battle between the Oise and the North Sea, that the issue of perhaps the most critical battle of the campaign in the western theatre remains, so far as the public know, indecisive. It is quite different on the eastern frontier, where the Russian army undoubtedly has won an important success. Even the military critic of The New York Evening Post, who has been severely critical, not to say skeptical, of the claims put forward by the allied headquarters, declares that "there can be no longer any doubt of the serious nature of the German defeat in Central Poland," and points out that the official statements from Vienna not only fail to contradict the claims of the Russian General Staff—"which are now fairly precise in measuring the distance which the Germans have been forced back from Warsaw to their own frontier"—but substantially confirm them.

GLENCOE.

During our correspondence with Dr. William Henry Drummond he favored us with a copy of another spirited war poem, "Glencoe."

The battle of Glencoe was one of the few victories gained by the British forces in the generally disastrous first period of the South African war. The triumph of British arms was largely due to a brilliantly courageous bayonet charge by the Irish Fusiliers. The story of the battle as it appears in the poem is supposed to be told by one of the men. Dr. Drummond was himself a native of County Leitrim, Ireland, but came to Canada with his parents when a mere boy. He always had an ardent love for the Motherland, and was a master of the Irish dialect as he later became of the French-Canadian.

The poem "Glencoe" was recited many times during the time of the Boer war by Mr. George Fax, who was then a well known entertainer, resident in Belleville.

Here's to you, Uncle Kruger! slainte! an' slainte galore,

You're a decent ould man, begorra; never mind if you are a Boer, So with heart an' a half ma bouchal, we'll drink to your health to-night

For yourself an' your farmer sojers gave us a damn good fight.

I was dreamin' of Kitty Farrell, away in the Gap o' Dunloe,

When the song of the bugle woke me, ringing across Glencoe;

An' once in a while a bullet came patterin' from above,

That told us the big brown fellows were sendin' us down their love.

'Twas a kind of an invitation, an' written in such a han'

That a Chinaman couldn't refuse it—not to spake of an Irishman,

So the pickets sent back an answer.—"We're comin' with right good will."

Along what they call the kopje, tho' to me it looked more like a hill.

"Fall in on the left," sez the captain, "my men of the Fusiliers;

You'll see a great fight this morning—like you haven't beheld for years,"

"Faith, captain dear," sez the sergeant, "you can your Majuba sword

If the Dutch is as willin' as we are, you never spoke truer word."

So we scrambled among the bushes, the boulders an' rocks an' all,

Like the gauger's men still-huntin' on the mountains of Donegal;

We doubled an' turned an' twisted the same as a hunted hare,

While the big guns peppered each other over us in the air.

Like steam from the devil's kettle the kopje was bilin' hot,

For the breeze of the Dutchman's bullets was the only breeze we got;

An' many a fine boy stumbled, many a brave lad died,

When the Dutchman's message caught him there on the mountainside.

Little Nelly O'Brien, God help her! over there at ould Ballybay,

Will wait for a Transvaal letter till her face an' her hair is grey,

For I seen young Crohoore on a stretcher, an' I knew the poor boy was gone

When I spoke to the ambulance doctor an' he nodded an' then passed on.

"Steady there!" cried the captain, "we must halt for a moment here,"

An' he spoke like a man trainin', full winded an' strong an' clear,

So we threw ourselves down on the kopje, weary an' tired as death,

Waitin' the captain's orders, waiting to get a breath.

It's strange all the humors an' fancies that comes to a man like me;

But the smoke of the battle risin' took me across the sea—

It's the mist of Benbo I'm seein'; an' the rock that we'll capture soon

Is the rock where I shot the eagle, when I was a small gossoon.

I close my eyes for a minute, an' hear my poor mother say,

"Patrick, avick, my darlin', you're surely not going away

To join the red-coated sojers?"—but the blood in me was too strong—

If your sire was a Connaught Ranger, sure where would his son belong?

Hark! whisht! do you hear the music comin' up from the camp below?

An odd note or two when the maxims take breath for a second or so,

Liftin' itself on somehow, stealin' its way up here,

Knowin' there's waitin' to hear it many an Irish ear.

Augh! Garryowen! you're the jewel! an' we charged on the Dutchman's guns,

An' covered the bloody kopje, like a Galway greyhound runs,

At the top of the hill they met us, with faces all set an' grim;

But they couldn't take the bayonet—that's the trouble with most of them.

So of course they'll be praisin' the Royals an' men of the Fusiliers,

An' the newspapers help to dry up the widows' an' orphans' tears,

An' they'll write a new name on the colors—that is if there's room for more

An' we'll follow them through the battle, the same as we've done before.

But here's to you, Uncle Kruger! *slainte! an' slainte galore!

After all you're a decent Christian, never mind if you are a Boer,

So with heart an' a half, ma bouchal, we'll drink to your health to-night,

For yourself and your brown-faced Dutchmen gave a damn good fight.

*slainte—here's health f' bouchal—sweet heart.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson VI.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 8, 1914.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Gal. vi. 1-10.—Memory Verses, 1, 2—Golden Text, Gal. vi. 7.—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

The Golden Text is a fully true, even for redeemed people, that "Whoever a man soweth that shall he also reap." We have recently seen in our studies Judas Iscariot reap something of the reward of iniquity. But we have also seen Jacob doing some bad sowing in the way of desiring his father, and we have seen him suffering for over twenty years for reaping of the same kind through the deceit of his own sons.

The reaping is generally more than we sow, as it is written in Hos. vi. 7, "They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind." Again, in Hos. x. 13, "Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies, because ye have despised trust in thy way." Again, in Prov. xxii. 8, we read, "He that soweth iniquity shall reap vanity." But there is a sowing to the Spirit and a reaping to life everlasting (verse 8).

The two aspects are seen in Jer. xvii. 5, 7, "Cursed be the man that trusteth in man and maketh flesh his arm, and whose heart departeth from the Lord." "Blessed is the man that trusteth in the Lord and whose hope is in the Lord." From beginning to end of the Bible story it is God or the devil—God's way or man's way. The one is life; the other is death.

According to the epistle in which we find our lesson, the age is evil. "The devil, who is the god of this age, has a gospel of his own and enough religion to satisfy most people. But all mere good works of men leave all under the curse, for the law requires absolute perfection in every detail and is intended to turn us from ourselves to Christ. Nothing that man can do avails anything. Men must become new creatures in Christ (chapters 1, 4, 8, 9, 13, 14; III, 10, 24; v. 15). In the fullness of time God sent forth His Son to redeem them that were under the law, hopelessly trying to save themselves by doing the best they could, listening to the devil's gospel of good works and character and aiming to be like Christ, without being born again (chapter iv. 4, 5).

Not until we see Christ crucified for us, made a curse for us, bearing our sins in His own body and, receiving Him, see ourselves as crucified with Him, are we new creatures (chapter II, 20; III, 13; John 1, 12). Then we will gladly say, "God forbid that I should glory save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, whereby the world is crucified unto me and I unto the world" (v. 14). Whatever form of sin may have been our speciality as listed in chapter v, 19-21, the sin that is greater than all others and greater than all put together, the sin that causes eternal loss is the rejection of Jesus Christ as the Son of God and the only Saviour of sinners (John III, 18).

When we are made free from the curse and have become children of God by faith in Christ, Jesus then is our privilege to walk in the Spirit, to be led by the Spirit, stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free and not do the things which the flesh that is still in us would have us do (chapter III, 13, 26; v. 1, 16, 17, 18, 25). Those who are in the flesh live unto themselves; self is their center; they mind earthly things (Phil. III, 19). The new creature in Christ lives no longer unto himself, but is able to say, "To me to live is Christ."

But Christ, who breathes in me" (I Cor. v. 13; Phil. II, 21; Gal. II, 20). When we see others overtaken in a fault, as all are apt to be at one time or another, it is not for us to condemn them, but meekly restore them, remembering that we might some day need similar kindness and restoration. Thus we would manifest the Spirit of Christ, who freely forgave and said, "Neither do I condemn thee. Go and sin no more" (Lesson verses 1, 2). When Noah became drunken it was more Christlike to cover up his shame, as Abem and Japhet did, than to tell it, as Ham did. We have no right or reason to think anything of ourselves or to think that we know anything as we should (verse 3; I Cor. viii, 2). A proper attitude is that of Rom. vii. 15, "I know that in me (that is, in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing."

There is a sense in which we must bear our own burden (verse 5). "Every one of us shall give account of himself to God" (Rom. xiv, 12). If we have been redeemed from the curse of the law we are here to do good unto all as we have opportunity, having reference first to believers, the household of faith; never weary in well doing, knowing that the reaping time is sure and that our labor is never in vain in the Lord (verses 9, 10; I Cor. xv, 58). We may not see nor do the reaping, for we may sow for another to reap, or we may reap from another's sowing. But both sower and reaper shall rejoice together and gather fruit unto life eternal (John IV, 36-38). Whoever may plant or water, God alone can give the increase, but what an honor to be laborers together with God (I Cor. III, 5-9). Another verse comes to mind on sowing and reaping. See II Cor. ix, 6, and lay it to heart, "He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly, and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully."

AY SCHOOL. Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 8, 1914. INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Lesson, Mat. vi, 1-10—Memorize, 1, 2—Golden Text, Gal. 2:19—Commentary Prepared by Rev. J. H. ...

den Text is awfully true, deemed people, that "What man soweth that shall he also reap." We have recently seen in the life of Judas Iscariot the reward of iniquity. We have also seen Jacob going down in the way of death, and we have seen him for over twenty years by the same kind through the life of his own sons.

ing is generally more than as it is written in Hos. vii, "Ye have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind." Again, in the parable of the tares, we are reaped iniquity; ye have sown the tares, ye shall reap the tares. In this way, we read, "He that soweth shall reap vanity." But there is a sowing to the Spirit and a reaping of life everlasting (verse 6).

pects are seen in Jer. xvii, "The man that trusteth in his own strength shall be as a chaff which the wind driveth away." "The one is life; the other is death." In the epistle in which we read, "The god of this age, has of his own and enough reaped vanity." In many cases, the original thought has been utterly lost because of some fanciful interpretation. Consequently very few Christians have any concrete ideas of the meaning of our text, and of other Bible statements respecting the future regeneration of the world.

Regeneration, or a second birth, is absolutely necessary if we would attain everlasting life. The fault lies not with our Creator, that He made us incomplete for, as the Bible declares, "all His work is perfect." The fault is chargeable to sin. "By one man's disobedience sin entered into the world, and death as the result of sin; no death passed upon all men, because all are sinners."

This sentence of death upon Father Adam hindered him from giving to his children the perfection of life in which he was created. His entire race has been born into the world for six thousand years under a death sentence of curse. God cannot alter that sentence. The forfeited life cannot be prolonged, for the sentence of death cannot be set aside; the Supreme Judge of the Universe cannot for any reason declare that He erred in His condemnation of our race. He cannot set aside His decision. But God could provide for the regenerating of Adam and his race. To generate, as all know, signifies to bring into life. Adam failed to generate a race to life; he merely generated a great race of sinners, who were born into the world with a death sentence upon them.

The Divine Provision is that our Lord Jesus left the glory of the Heavenly condition and became a man for the purpose of redeeming Adam and his race, which shared his condemnation. The record is that this sacrificed life laid down by Jesus is sufficient as a cancellation of all Adam's sin. On the carrying out of the Heavenly Father's Program, Jesus was raised from the dead "a quickening Spirit," a life-giving Personage, with a glory far higher than that which He had when He came into the world. "Not I, but God highly exalted, and given Him a name which is above every name."—Philippians 2:9.

The glorified Jesus is Scripturally termed the Second Adam, the Life-Giver or Regenerator. He is the Father who gives everlasting life. The time for the giving of life to the world by this great Second Adam, whom God hath appointed, is now. Throughout the Millennium, it will be the work of Christ Jesus, as the glorified Second Adam, to regenerate the first Adam and all his race. The regenerating influence will begin with their awakening from the sleep of death, in harmony with the Master's declaration, "The hour is coming in which all that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man, and come forth."—John 5:28, 29.

The coming forth from the tomb will be the beginning of the regenerative work, but not by any means its completion. It will be merely preparatory work. The awakened sleeper will be in the same condition of mind that they were in when they fell asleep—in a very similar condition to those who will be living on the earth at that time. Before any of them can be regenerated, they must be brought to a knowledge of the Truth. Their eyes and their ears of understanding must be opened. The Scriptures assure us that this will be accomplished. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped." (Isaiah 35:5.) "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."—Habakkuk 2:14.

The news of God's Love and of the possibilities of return to His favor through the atoning work of Jesus being clearly demonstrated to all, each will have the opportunity of deciding for himself whether or not he desires to return to human perfection and the blessed possibility of everlasting life. To do so, he must be begotten again by the Life-Giver. We will be again only those who desire the new life. Willful rejectors of the privilege, we are assured, will die the Second Death; while those who accept the Saviour's proposal will come under helpful and disciplinary experiences which will gradually lift them up, mentally, morally and physically, to perfection—to all that was lost for them in Father Adam's disobedience and its penalty; and all that was regained for them by the obedience of Jesus and the Divine arrangement of His Messianic Kingdom for the regeneration of the world.

The words begot, born and regenerated, to associate themselves in our minds with our natural birth; but we are not to expect, as Nicodemus queried, that any would again be born as an infant from a mother. The begetting to a new birth will be in the mind—a covenant relationship with the Life-Giver. Nevertheless, there is a beautiful analogy, complete in every feature, for while Father Adam was designed to be the Life-Giver, the Father-generator of the race, Mother Eve was designed to be its nourisher, care-taker and instructor, to bring the race up to complete development. So while Jesus is the Life-Giver, the Father-generator of the new race, His own life was also a part of the Divine Program that there should be not only a Second Adam, but also a Second Eve.

The world will need not only the start of the new life during the Millennium, but also the care and nourishment necessary for their development and uplift—for restitution to perfection. God's provision is that the Church, called especially for this purpose and especially qualified for it during this Gospel Age, shall be the Antitypical Eve—the Mother of the world—the care-takers, nourishers, supervisors, in respect to all regenerated or rebegotten, by the Life-Giver Jesus. What beautiful prospect of collaboration with the Saviour in His great work of rescuing Adam and his race from the effects of Adam's sin and the death sentence!

The Divine picture is very complete for anybody who would do it. He did not become a father; God caused him to fall into a deep sleep, and from his side took Mother Eve to be his bride, his co-laborer, his joint-helper in his inheritance, and his assistant in the work of regenerating the human family. So our Lord Jesus has not yet become a father. But He has gone into the deep sleep of death, and His side has been wounded, and the first result is the great work of regeneration during the past eighteen centuries; of a Bride-class, as Jesus passed from the human condition to the spiritual before He could be ready to be the Second Adam, so the church must remain in the human condition to the spiritual condition, and must share in the First Resurrection, before she can fulfil her part in God's great Plan as the Second Eve.

REGENERATION OF CHURCH AND WORLD

Life Everlasting Obtainable Only in Christ.

WHERE FATHER ADAM FAILED

Why Regeneration is Necessary—Why It Began at the First Advent and Not Sooner—Why the Limitations of the Present Age—The Low and Narrow Gate—The Narrow and Rough Pathway—Why Different Kinds of Regeneration During the Millennium—Why the World Will Have an Easier Pathway Up to Life Everlasting Than Is Now Granted the Church—What and Why the Differences Between the Two Regenerations.

New York City, Nov. 1.—Pastor Russell of New York City Temple, took for his subject, "The Regeneration of the Church and the Regeneration of the World. What are They? Why Different?" His text was, "Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again." (John 3:7.) He said in part:

In the past many of us have studied the Bible in a very careless manner, neglecting to give to its inspired words the consideration and respect they deserve. In many cases, the original thought has been utterly lost because of some fanciful interpretation. Consequently very few Christians have any concrete ideas of the meaning of our text, and of other Bible statements respecting the future regeneration of the world.

Regeneration, or a second birth, is absolutely necessary if we would attain everlasting life. The fault lies not with our Creator, that He made us incomplete for, as the Bible declares, "all His work is perfect." The fault is chargeable to sin. "By one man's disobedience sin entered into the world, and death as the result of sin; no death passed upon all men, because all are sinners."

This sentence of death upon Father Adam hindered him from giving to his children the perfection of life in which he was created. His entire race has been born into the world for six thousand years under a death sentence of curse. God cannot alter that sentence. The forfeited life cannot be prolonged, for the sentence of death cannot be set aside; the Supreme Judge of the Universe cannot for any reason declare that He erred in His condemnation of our race. He cannot set aside His decision. But God could provide for the regenerating of Adam and his race. To generate, as all know, signifies to bring into life. Adam failed to generate a race to life; he merely generated a great race of sinners, who were born into the world with a death sentence upon them.

The Divine Provision is that our Lord Jesus left the glory of the Heavenly condition and became a man for the purpose of redeeming Adam and his race, which shared his condemnation. The record is that this sacrificed life laid down by Jesus is sufficient as a cancellation of all Adam's sin. On the carrying out of the Heavenly Father's Program, Jesus was raised from the dead "a quickening Spirit," a life-giving Personage, with a glory far higher than that which He had when He came into the world. "Not I, but God highly exalted, and given Him a name which is above every name."—Philippians 2:9.

The glorified Jesus is Scripturally termed the Second Adam, the Life-Giver or Regenerator. He is the Father who gives everlasting life. The time for the giving of life to the world by this great Second Adam, whom God hath appointed, is now. Throughout the Millennium, it will be the work of Christ Jesus, as the glorified Second Adam, to regenerate the first Adam and all his race. The regenerating influence will begin with their awakening from the sleep of death, in harmony with the Master's declaration, "The hour is coming in which all that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of Man, and come forth."—John 5:28, 29.

The coming forth from the tomb will be the beginning of the regenerative work, but not by any means its completion. It will be merely preparatory work. The awakened sleeper will be in the same condition of mind that they were in when they fell asleep—in a very similar condition to those who will be living on the earth at that time. Before any of them can be regenerated, they must be brought to a knowledge of the Truth. Their eyes and their ears of understanding must be opened. The Scriptures assure us that this will be accomplished. Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf shall be unstopped." (Isaiah 35:5.) "The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."—Habakkuk 2:14.

Busy Trenton

TRENTON, Oct. 29.—A farewell banquet is being given to Mr. E. V. Illey at the Hotel Gilbert, this evening. Mr. Illey expects to leave for Windsor on Monday next.

Mr. Harry Cook is in Toronto on business today. The Parks Commission met last evening and arranged for the immediate brush clearing of the C.N.R. Park. Men will also be put to work at clearing out the small cedars and generally getting the property in clean condition.

The handsome large flag, to be seen flying on the pole just west of Messrs. Gill & Fortune's office, was stolen from the Prince Edward shore here for the winter, as usual. The Str. Lamonde of Napance, is carrying apples across the bay from Despey dock to the C.P.R. dock here.

A large motor boat is also bringing apples from the Prince Edward shore. Mr. B. H. Siddall leaves for Toronto tonight to attend the Shriners' meeting, to be opened there tomorrow. The street crossings during the last two days have been in a disgraceful condition.

The generous donation of 16 boxes of cigars was one of the things that added to the pleasure of the farewell to the volunteers, on Tuesday evening. Many people are expected to attend the announcement that this gift came from Tripp's tobacco store. The rendering of "Tipperary" by the school children was most creditable.

Capt. Bywater received instructions to report at Kingston this afternoon. There is a rumor on the street that he is likely to get a commission in the second contingent. We have no confirmation of the rumor.

Trenton, Nov. 2nd.—Mr. Arthur Hawkes is urging the Cabinet Ministers to tour the country and speak in favor of recruiting. He states that even in regard to the 2nd contingent, the Canadian born is not showing up well in comparison with the old countrymen. He predicts that at 200,000 men will be required from this Dominion.

Officials of the Dominion Board of Heavy Commissioners will be here tomorrow, in connection with the arrangements for inter-switching between the four railways doing business. The matter will also come up for discussion before the Board, which sits tomorrow at Ottawa.

Dr. Kidd is in Ottawa on town business. He will appear before the Board of Railway Commissioners tomorrow. Mrs. H. F. Whittier is visiting in Trenton for a few days.

Through Mr. Sargent, Superintendent of the Murray canal, a cheque has been received by the treasurer of the Patriotic fund for $31.85, representing one day's pay of the employees of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the first year's premium on thirteen policies which the fund recently placed on volunteers from Trenton, to-day.

Mr. H. A. Carter, formerly of the Montreal Bank staff here, writes from camp at Salisbury Plains, that he is now attached to the Cystic Corps of the 101st Winnipeg Regiment. He started out with the Belleville Artillery corps.

A number of Italians started for the war zone this afternoon. The treasurer of the Patriotic fund paid over to the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, the first year's premium on thirteen policies which the fund recently placed on volunteers from Trenton, to-day.

Mr. H. B. Loomis is building a very quaint and handsome stone veranda around the front and sides of his new residence, on West Trenton. Mr. A. W. Hawley, of Toronto is in town to-day on business.

Trenton, Oct. 31.—Rev. E. P. Pickford of Brighton, brother-in-law of Mr. H. A. Thonson, has volunteered to go to the front as chaplain to the 2nd contingent.

We are very pleased to be able to announce that Capt. Bywater and Capt. Sills, of this town, have been fortunate enough to succeed in obtaining commissions in the 2nd contingent. Capt. Bywater goes to Kingston to-day, where he will probably occupy an important position on the military staff for this district. Capt. Sills believes has not yet been notified to which district he will be attached. In view of the many uncomplimentary stories placed in circulation regarding the alleged unwillingness of local officers commissions in the militia, who have not made every effort to go to the front. In to-day's talk we read that officers with necessary qualifications are in demand for the 2nd contingent, and that it is the intention of the Department to transfer qualified men who cannot get appointments in their own districts to districts where there is a shortage. Canadians do not do much shouting but when the call comes they can be relied on to jump in and do their duty, this has been the case particularly on the part of the officers. Existing by Canadians in their ranks has not been up to the mark, it being reported that only 22 per cent. of the men forming the 1st contingent were Canadians.

The marked feature of the whole business is that so many men who have never been connected with the militia are enlisting, and we believe, that taking them all round, they are an improvement on the class of men forming the Dominion militia.

Mr. L. A. Hill, of the C. P. R. engineering staff, is spending Sunday in town. Mr. J. B. Murdoch, of Toronto, is renewing acquaintances in town. The banquet given on Thursday evening last, at Hotel Gilbert, by the representative business men of the town, to Mr. E. V. Illey, the retiring manager of the Standard Bank, was a most enjoyable affair. Not excepting the Quinte, of Belleville, there is no hotel in Eastern Ontario that can cater to the public in such a tasteful and absolutely satisfactory manner, as the Hotel Gilbert, when it comes to putting up a banquetting supper. Mr. Robert Weddell, with his usual affability and humor, occupied the chair, and kept everything in motion, there being not the slightest hitch of any kind. The speakers were called upon in the following order—Banking, H. A. Thonson; Canadian Club—President, R. Whyte; Board of Trade—President, A. E. Ouff; The Press—F. J. O'Rourke; Athletics—Rev. D. E. Foster. The guest of the evening replied at the close of the different addresses, thanking the speakers for the kind and complimentary things said, and expressing his regret at having to leave Trenton. Mr. and Mrs. Illey leave to-day for Windsor.

Mr. Young, the new manager of the Standard Bank, arrived in town to-day. Mrs. Fairbairn, who has been visiting relatives in Toronto and Niagara Falls, for some weeks, has returned to town.

ANNIVERSARY OF 1899.

Fifteen Years Ago Today First Canadian Contingent Sailed For South African Service.

(From Friday's Daily)

On the 30th of October, 1899, just fifteen years ago today the First Canadian Contingent sailed from Quebec to Capetown, and our Belleville boys were present at Paardeberg, at Bloemfontein, at Pretoria, at Ladysmith and other places, made immortal by deeds of heroism and forced marches of endurance. In this connection it will be interesting to read the Regimental Orders that were issued, and none will ever forget the farewell given our soldier sons on leaving Belleville on their first Imperial Overseas Service. The medals now worn, were worthily won, and will be the medals and honors to be won in the present great conflict in which Canada must bear her full part, and bear it worthily. The dispatching reports from South Africa just received give to this anniversary a new significance.

Headquarters 15th Batt., A.L.I., Belleville, Ont., Oct. 31, 1899. Regimental orders by Lt-Col. Ponton, Commanding. Detail of duties for week commencing 30th inst. Orderly Officer. Lieut. Hawkins. Next for duty. Captain Stewart

The commanding officer congratulates the various companies of the Battalion upon the very creditable parade of the 23rd inst. The hon- on this paid to the representatives of the Battalion who volunteered for the South African Contingent was due to, and was appreciated by each and all of them.

The following members of the XV. Batt. A.L.I. were duly examined accepted, and enlisted in the Special Service Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and on Monday the 30th inst. they sailed from Quebec via S. S. Sardinian under convoy of H. M. S. Crescent for South Africa

Private H. H. Jones. Private R. Cunningham. Private M. McCoy. and— Private Geo. Tilley. M.M. Stewart. members of the Batt.

Each member of the Battalion received from the city of Belleville 24 Sterling in gold and the commanding officer deposited with Major Rogers commanding D. Co. R.C.R. a draft for $30 for a sick and wounded fund for the members of this Battalion, to be drawn on in case of casualty. Members of the Battalion, officers, and non-commissioned officers and men, are urged to use all in-

A VERY USEFUL LIFE

Rev. Mr. Forneri should be, and no doubt is a very proud man. He has reached a rare epoch in the life of a clergyman, the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination, and he looks back upon this long and eventful period with sincere gratitude. Mr. Forneri has been a devoted servant of his Master and Church. He has served both with zealous care. Sincere and faithful in his ministry he has rendered the Anglican Church and the community, in which he has lived a great service, and it can be fittingly remembered at this time. He has been zealous in season and out of season, and won the confidence of the successive congregations over whom he has presided. Best of all he has lived out the gospel he has preached, and earned everywhere the regard and affection of his people. Men of his temperament and type, so calm, consistent, and courageous, do not come more than any one can estimate. His personality is not subject to appreciation generally. It is felt. It cannot be valued.

This tribute was recently paid to the aged rector by a writer. With the right to sign his name as the nobles do, there lives in Kingston in a humility which is almost meekness, a clergyman who has brains far beyond the average scholarship, and a charin of manner which this generation calls "the charm of the old school." He is known as the Rev. Richard Sykes Forneri, M. A., B. D., and he has never risen to a high place in the church because he has persisted in remaining in the background, content with the adoring affection of parishioners who, rightly, call him "saint."

Mr. Forneri is the son of the late Dr. Forneri, an Italian of high birth, who held the chair of moderns at Varsity in the days of Dr. McCaul, and college contemporaries tell us that "Forneri never saw the outside of a Greek grammar till six months before his tragic, but he headed the honor list." After his graduation he went in for divinity at Trinity, and it was his good pleasure to champion the late Provost Whitaker, when contro- versy raged round that cleric's high churchmanship. "My reputation as a low churchman," Mr. Forneri has often declared. "I never saw the cloven hoof of the Scarlet Woman anywhere near the provost in all my days at Trinity." And he declares it with fluence possible to have this sum further supplemented, so that remittances may from time to time be made to Cape Town for the purpose of securing all possible comfort and protection for our absent comrades in times of peril, hardship and trial. The commanding officer voices the feelings of all ranks of the Battalion and of all citizens in thus recording the splendid spirit displayed by those who volunteered for this Special Imperial Service, thus enabling this Battalion on this historical occasion, to contribute to the Royal Canadian Regiment a quota of efficient men larger in proportion than any other city of this size in Canada, and the commanding officer desires for the information of all ranks to record how much our comrades were touched by the enthusiastic farewell received in Belleville, and the personal Godspeed which it was the privilege of several officers representing the whole Battalion to give to them at the historical Citadel of Quebec.

By order, Robt. A. McGuinness, Capt., Act'g. Adjt. 15th Batt. A.L.I. Subsequently in December, 1899, Brigade Sergt. Major W. H. H. Ponton, Corporal John W. Miller and Private Horace Gillespie enlisted from the XV Battalion in the 2nd Royal Canadian Regiment for service in South Africa. Also at other dates Lt-Col. J. Lyons Bigger (Red Cross Commissioner in South Africa), Sergt. Instructor Albert Beattie (who died at Bloemfontein), E. T. Austin and the late Edgar Geen—making 21 in all.

Headquarters 15th Batt., A.L.I. Belleville, Ont., Jan. 2th, 1900 2 The following letter has been recently received from the Marquis of Lorne the honorary Lieut. Col. of the Batt. Kensington Palace, W. London, Dec. 21st, 1899 Mr Dear Colonel Ponton,—

Very many thanks for your kind note telling of the quota sent by the Argill Light Infantry to South Africa. I am certain that Canada will enter to the full into the conflict for all under the flag in South Africa. It is a cause in which all the Empire, and not all the Empire only, but all lovers of freedom throughout the world are interested. The conduct of the Transvaal government would not have been possible but for the extraordinary ignorance of its constituted authorities, of whom never see a newspaper, and really believe probably in very many cases that the line of regression and exclusiveness they themselves took, would be taken by any other government which prevailed over them. It is too late in the day to try to stop the use of the English tongue or limit the area of British freedom in British colonies although they may be successful for a time in putting these in dangerous jeopardy. We are all very proud of the way in which Canada is acting. May you have a good Christmas and may we all have a happier New Year. Believe me, Dear Colonel Ponton, Yours faithfully, "Lorne."

WHY CANADIANS PROVED UNFIT

Captain Oliver Hezelwood, lately returned from England, spoke in Toronto on the serious consequences of the war. It was the result of the fitness, he said and he urged the young men to start immediately to develop those arrival qualities by joining some training corps. It had been said that only 2 per cent. of Canadians were included in the first Canadian force. While the British-born, he said, had been accepted in preference to Canadians on account of their previous military training, yet he had it on good authority that a great many more Canadians would have gone had they been physically fit. This physical fitness, he had been given to understand was due to the habit of cigarette smoking.

good account, the latest to make himself peculiarly useful being Lieut-Col. John S. Skinner, who formerly held a coloncy in the 14th Princess of Wales Own Rifles of Kingston. Mr. Skinner, who, with his wife, formerly Miss Almon Abbott of Quebec, has been in England for some time, has spent the past weeks in raising a regiment of sportsmen, drawn entirely from the ranks of the English gentry. Lord Maitland is the colonel in command and its chief organizer has been a commission. Major Skinner is now busy drilling his raw material.

RAN AWAY WITH THOROLD GIRL

The police of Ontario have received a communication from the Chief of Police of Thorold asking him to be on the look-out for one Joseph Ester, charged that he on the 20th of October, 1914, at Thorold, did unlawfully take or cause to be taken, G. Johnson, an unmarried girl under the age of sixteen years, out of the possession and against the will of her father.

He is wanted on a charge of wife desertion and theft of a gold watch. Also, watch has engraved on back "Gussape Pizzutti," high grade No. 845, Waltham movement No. 18099001, open face, case No. 1957006. Foster is Italian by birth, but does not look like one. Fair complexion, blue eyes, brown hair, 21 years, 5 ft. 7 of 3 inches, 160 pounds. He is a chauffeur, wears wearing blue (white striped) suit, curly blue chinchilla over coat and exp. tan button shoes, carries red leather grip and is declared to have had a revolver.

INCREASE IN SHOE POLISH

Another branch of trade that has been more or less affected by the war is the shoe polish manufacturing industry. The large amount of wax used in the manufacture of the paste is imported from Austria and South America, while the colors come from Germany. Both of these products have advanced appreciably as a result of the war.

Although it is not generally realized by many who have their shoes shined that perfume is one of the ingredients used in the manufacture of the polish, a large amount of this sweet scented article is utilized in the production of shoe polish, quantities of perfume are imported from England, China and Japan.

FIVE PER CENT ADVANCE

"Another article which plays an important part in our business and which we depend upon for our supplies is tin," said a manufacturer "We manufacture our own tin boxes and require a large amount of tin plate during the course of a year. This tin plate is manufactured from pig tin, which made a sensational advance soon after war broke out. It jumped from about 40 cents to 65 cents and then went down, but it is still higher than before the war. Our sales prices showed an advance of 5 per cent."

POLICE ARE AFTER BOER

The police of the province have received a circular from the Pinkerton Detective Agency in which a reward of $200 is offered for the arrest of one, Peter J. De Roux, who it said to have absconded with funds belonging to the Adams Express Co. Le Roux is said to be a Boer, is 35 years of age, 5 feet, 11 3/4 inches high and weighs 165 pounds. The two middle fingers of his right hand are off and he is said to be some piano player. He was anxious to join the Canadian contingent, believing a could secure passage to Pretoria, South Africa.

ONTARIO CENSORS BUSY

War Has Not Hurt "Movies" Says Chairman The war has certainly not hurt the moving picture business if the number of films being censored can afford any indication," said Chairman Armstrong of the Ontario Board of Censors. "We are certainly not aware of any falling off in business from our standpoint. One exchange recently gave us 33 reels to censor in one lot. The standard of the reels submitted to the Board of Censors remains about average. Last week we were obliged to condemn about fifteen features. Our policy is to eliminate objectionable parts but pass the film if the content of the story is not destroyed."

A WOMAN'S RIGHT TO HEALTH

No Reason Why They Should Suffer From Backaches and Headaches.

To every woman belongs the right to enjoy a healthy, active, happy life. Yet nine out of ten suffer, often in silence, from splitting headaches, torturing backaches, violent heart palpitation or some other of the many evils that follow anaemia, or bloodlessness.

That is why one sees so many women with pale, thin cheeks, dull eyes and drooping figures—sure signs that the blood is out of order. All suffering women should win the right to be well by refreshing their weary bodies with the new, rich blood of health that promptly transforms them into healthy, attractive women. There is no other medicine can supply this new, rich blood so speedily and so surely as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Through this medicine thousands of tired, suffering women have found new health and strength.

Mrs. James Drost, Chipman, N. B., says: "For years I did not know what it was to be entirely free from headache or backache. My headaches were cold and clammy all the time. It was difficult for me to get my work done, and to walk even a short distance would leave me completely worn out. My life was one of constant worry and I thought I would never be better. I was doctoring all the time but without a bit of benefit, and finally the doctor stopped giving me medicine as he said he could not help me. Do you wonder that I was in despair. My mother urged me to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I said 'what's the use, medicine can't help me.' However, my husband got six boxes of the pills and to please him I began to take them. By the time I had finished them I undoubtedly had improved and there was the sign of returning health in my cheeks and hands. My husband thought the improvement so great that he got another half dozen boxes, and before these were completed I was enjoying such good health as I had not had in years. In fact, I was a well woman and have since enjoyed the best of health. I sincerely feel that I owe life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and shall always recommend them to all sick people."

You can get these pills at any medicine dealer, or they will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PATRIOTIC CONCERT IN AID OF RED CROSS

Last night was patriotic night at Christ Church A.Y.P.A. "If's a Long Way to Tipperary" was sung as a chorus. A patriotic reading was given by Miss Jane Bishop and a solo by Mr. Burke. A patriotic address was given by Col. W. N. Ponton, in which he alluded to the need of a fuller realization on our part of the great danger that threatens the Empire and Western civilization and the barbarous militarism of the German nation. He then showed slides in which the world-embracing nature of the Empire was particularly illustrated. After the lecture a presentation was made by St. George's Sunday School of Bibles to Mr. James Varley and Mr. Cecil Sawyer, who have enlisted in the second contingent, also a pair of gloves each was given from the A.Y.P.A. of Christ Church to the following members who have enlisted—Messrs. Ralph Finley, Geo. Johnson, Cecil Boyer, and Jas. Varley. There was a large turnout and the evening was very much enjoyed. The proceeds go to the Red Cross Society. The National Anthem brought the evening to a close.

NEW FORD AGENCY AND GARAGE

Mr. Riggs has been very fortunate in securing the Ford Agency for this city and district and will at all times carry a complete stock of Ford parts thereby assuring Ford owners efficient service. The garage will be under the direct supervision of Mr. William Morrice Lewis, one of the best known automobile experts in Eastern Ontario. Mr. Lewis is an expert on the mechanism of Ford Cars, having had a long practical experience on the Universal Car and is well known in this territory.

ARMY CHAPLAIN'S EXPERIENCES

In a letter from an Army chaplain at the front which has been published in the Morning Post he says: "I have been able to do a fair amount of spiritual work. It is remarkable how at such times as this men look for it. If ever human nature showed that at bottom the consciousness of God is in it, it is at times like this, when men cannot tell what the day will bring. I have been able to hold Communion and wish you could see the officers and men in big circles, not such ones as one sees in time of peace, but hundreds. And round the camp fire where they can be lighted, we held evening services and sang hymns. "Abide with me," "Lead, kindly light," and "Holy Father in Thy Mercy," which goes so well to the heart, they do not weary." Well, a great deal of good is done, and the desire and response of all shows that the work done has been good. Our men are wonderful, but the Germans—well, if the way they carry on here is any criterion of how they would carry on if they get to England, God help us for no one else could. England is waking up. I see, but the full extent of the need cannot be driven home too deeply.

$695 STOLEN AT PORT HOPE

Port Hope Guide.—A Pollock who boarded with his sister, Mrs. Mazur, left town on Monday and at the same time $695.00 mysteriously disappeared from the Mazur residence. Instead of depositing the money in the bank the boarders gave it to Mrs. Mazur to keep for them. She placed it in a tin box and hid it under the cellar floor. The Pollock who left town has been out of work for some time and had no money. Monday he purchased a ticket for Toronto, and naturally the suspicion rests upon him. A warrant has been issued for his arrest.

It serves to emphasize the scarcity of hay and the consequent high price. Good hay is worth from twenty to twenty-three dollars a ton and is obtainable only in limited quantities. The hay crop is reported light throughout the whole of Canada. This is due to the prolonged dry spell.—Examiner.

Mr. T. A. B. Browne, of the Immigration branch, of the Department of Interior, Ottawa, has composed two additional verses for Tommy's marching song, which have been well received generally. They are—

But when half way he heard them say, the fighting had begun,
He wrote to Mollie saying, "Dear, although I love you so,
"My country's calling, darlin', as I'm Irish, I must go."
Now Paddy's in the trenches, fighting like a lion bold,
And Irish Mollie's waiting with a heart as true as gold,
But when the Kaiser's down and out, and Belgium's free again,
He'll start for Tipperary town singing this refrain.

EMINENT LAWYER FINDS KAISER WILLIAM GUILTY

A very interesting review of the official documents relating to the war is published in the Philadelphia Ledger. It is entitled "The Supreme Court of Civilization, Case of the Double Alliance vs. the Triple Entente," and is written by Mr. James M. Beck, one of the most eminent of American lawyers, formerly Assistant Attorney-General of the United States. Mr. Beck imagines the various nations appearing before a Supreme Court of Civilization, and asking for a verdict upon the official documents so far issued. He discusses all the evidence, not as a statesman nor as an attorney for either side, but as a judge who is absolutely impartial, and gives a decision upon the documentary evidence, and not upon any events that have occurred since the war began. The review occupies two pages of the newspaper, and forms one of the most complete and interesting articles that have been written upon the subject.

BRITAIN'S DUTY TO FIGHT

Of the supposed questions that would be answered by this court, Mr. Beck says one is very easily answered, (there being, in fact, absolutely only one side to it). Was Great Britain justified in declaring war upon Germany? The answer is an unhesitating "yes." The only evidence that is necessary to substantiate this point is the treaty of 1839, whereby Great Britain, France and Prussia solemnly bound themselves to maintain the neutrality of Belgium. Time and time again Germany had announced her adherence to this treaty. The very day before she violated the independence of Belgium she had asserted that she had no intention of doing so. Germany having attempted to march her troops across Belgium, there was only one course open to Great Britain. She was not only justified in declaring war; it was her plain duty to declare war. The jurist then proceeds to examine the documents in the case of Austria vs. Serbia and Germany vs. France and Russia. One of the very first things he observes is the absence of important documents. He says that there can be no doubt but Austria and Germany have suppressed these documents. Others are struck without date, and this also strikes him as suspicious.

NO EVIDENCE FOR AUSTRIA

As far as Austria is concerned she has not yet published any of the vital documents in her possession. We know from the German White Paper that many communications of the utmost importance passed between the two Governments, yet the text of not one of them has been disclosed. In the British White Paper Sir Edward Goschen reported to Sir Edward Grey that in an interview with the German Foreign Minister he had been assured that the night before he had "begged" Austria to adopt a moderate demeanor to the proposal that Great Britain had made looking for a settlement of the trouble. We have the word of the gentleman who made the immortal remark about the "scrap of paper," but the document is not to be found. Mr. Beck says that Italy, too, must have been consulted by Germany and Austria, as a partner of the Triple Alliance and that in the interests of history Italy ought to make public these documents.

THE VERDICT

After reviewing the evidence at length, the Supreme Court of Civilization delivers the following judgment:—

- 1.—That Germany and Austria in a time of profound peace secretly concerted together to impose their will upon Europe, and upon Serbia in Europe. Whether in so doing they intended to precipitate a European war to determine the mastery of Europe is not satisfactorily established, although their whole course of conduct suggests this as a possibility. They made war almost inevitable, by (a) issuing an ultimatum that was grossly unreasonable and disproportionate to any grievance that Austria had, and (b) in giving to Serbia, and to the rights and obligations of all interested nations.
- 2.—That Germany had at all times the power to compel Austria to preserve a reasonable and conciliatory course, but as no time effectively expired that influence. On the contrary, she certainly abetted, and possibly instigated, Austria in its unreasonable course.
- 3.—That England, France, Italy and Russia at all times sincerely worked for peace, and for this purpose not only overlooked the original misconduct of Austria, but made every reasonable concession in the hope of preserving peace.
- 4.—That Austria, having mobilized its army, Russia was reasonably justified in mobilizing its forces. Such act of mobilizing was the right of any sovereign State, and as long as the Russian armies did not cross the border or take any aggressive action against Austria, each having the right to complain, each having the right to make similar preparations.
- 5.—That Germany, in abruptly declaring war against Russia for failure to demobilize when the other powers had offered to make any reasonable concession and peace proposals were still in progress precipitated the war.

THE DAY OF BECKONING

In conclusion, Mr. Beck says that he reaches this conclusion with great regret as he has a deep affection for the German people and a great admiration for their many excellent qualities. He absolves the German people as a whole from the terrible crime against humanity that has been committed, and says the responsibility must rest upon "its scheming statesmen and its self-centred and highly neurotic Kaiser, who in the twentieth century sincerely believes that he is the proxy of Almighty God on earth and therefore infallible." The very secrecy of the plot against civilization, but against the deceived and misled German people. "One day the German people will know the full truth, and then there will be a dreadful reckoning for those who have plunged a noble and peace-loving nation into this abyss of disaster."

TORONTO MAN DESCRIBES HIS BAPTISM OF FIRE

A Toronto man who is in the firing line with the French army, Mr. Paul Hochat, writes to his wife, 51 Frederika street, describing his baptism of fire. Mr. Hochat wrote on October 7, and his letter bears the postmark of Les Lelettes, which is a little north of Verdun.

"We are at last on the battlefield," he writes, "and yesterday we had our baptism of fire in the form of a shell which burst about fifty yards from us, without wounding anyone, however. We are quite near the Germans, and the cannon are roaring without ceasing. Some of our men are very tired. We try to give them a little rest, but we have to keep on the alert all the time against the enemy."

Mr. Hochat had to write his letter in French, and leave the envelope unsealed, as all letters are read by the authorities before they are permitted to leave the country. Mrs. Hochat was formerly Miss Norma Duffee of Madoc, at one time a student at Albert College. She is well remembered here.

OBITUARY

LATE P. W. STRICKLAND

Mr. Percy Wade Strickland, president and general manager of the Canada Lumber Company, Limited, Toronto, died at his residence, 255 Huron street, Thursday, in his 54th year. Mr. Strickland was a son of the late George W. R. Strickland of Lakeland, and was for many years in the lumber business there, afterwards going to Minneapolis where he became manager for Weirhauser's great lumber firm. He came to Toronto about five years ago, and established the Canada Lumber Company.

Mr. Strickland is survived by his widow and one son. He was a nephew of Agnes Strickland, author of several volumes of the history of Queens of England, and also a nephew of Susanna Moodie, author of "Roughing it in the Bush." The late Mrs. Moodie was a resident of Belleville, and the wife of the late Sheriff Moodie, to whose memory a marble monument with the figure of an angel was erected and stands in Belleville cemetery.

HOW BRILLIA USES THE FUND

Gives so Much Per Month to Soldier's Dependents.

The following item taken from the Orillia Times will be of interest:

The committee for the disbursement of the Orillia Patriotic Fund wish to inform the contributors that they have decided upon the following arrangement for the families who have lost bread winners through the call to the colors. The intention is that each family shall be in the same position financially as if the bread winner were at home. The government allowance to the wife is $20 per month. The committee have considered that the household expenses would be at least $10 less with the man away. For instance, Private A gets $37.50 a month from the Government. The government allows his wife $20, the fund gives $15 and anything Private A should send home out of his own earnings would be so much to the good. In the case of a Sergeant, the pay received is higher, and if he only sends home half, the family with the Government allowance would be better off, in most cases, than if he were at home. In these cases, however, the committee have felt that the arrangement would be perfectly satisfactory to those concerned, and that this statement would be welcomed by the public. Payment of the fund runs from August 14, and will be made hereafter by cheque every two weeks, on the 1st and 15th of each month.

NORTHUMBERLAND REGIMENT WILL BE OVER STRENGTH

Instead of seventy-five men as was called for, eighty-five men have joined the 4th Northumberland Regiment volunteers for overseas service, and expect to go to Kingston on Monday of next week to join the second Canadian expeditionary force, which leaves England in December or January. Three officers will go. They are Capt. Wolfram, Lieut. H. O. Dennis and Lieut. A. S. Morrison. All the week recruits have been arriving, Norwood, Colborne, Brighton, Campbellford being the chief contributory points besides Cobourg. Lieut. Dennis was Acting Adj. here. In the company are about twelve Indians who came in from the Alderville Reserve under Color-Sergeant Comeau. That the 4th is leaving over force speaks well for the patriotism of Cobourg and Northumberland County. — Cobourg World.

EVENTFUL DAY FOR FARMER

On Monday last Felix Vardy, who is working for Mr. Beyer of Faraday, hitched upon the latter's team to drive to his father's home in Danganon. About two miles east of Bancroft he met a drove of cattle, one of which had a sick tick over its eyes. The team took fright and ran away, wrecking, the democrat, and injuring the driver rather severely. They were captured before doing any further damage, and Mr. Vardy was able to continue his journey. In the afternoon he borrowed his father's rig and started on the return trip, accompanied by his sister. When he reached the spot where the runaway occurred in the morning he stopped to pick up a robe. The team made another break for liberty, and succeeded in getting away. Mrs. Vardy was thrown out and badly hurt, and the buggy was nearly reduced to scrap.

"Is there any man who hears me?" cried Mr. Gladstone in 1870, "who does not feel that in order to satisfy a greedy appetite for aggression (coming whence it may) Belgium were absorbed, the day that witnessed that absorption would hear the knell of public right and public law in Europe?" On those words "public right" and "public law" and on the ideas behind them depend (as the Prime Minister said the other day) all the possibilities of any sort of internationalism. Erase them, and there is no bond left between nations, but the world they are not yet created, but they have been mortally challenged. If the challenger triumphed, if the unoffending little country that has been struck down by a perjured blow were left to bleed away and perish in the dust, the consequence would be no whit less than those which Mr. Gladstone described. We have had to make up our minds—and they are made up—that this thing shall not be; that British power and influence shall be established upon the scale on the side of the victim, until the wrong is redressed. If we shirked this course the doom of all the little European nations would be written. Holland converted into a German enclave by the annexation of Belgium, would be the first to be reduced. Switzerland, already far sunk into Germany's economic grip, would not be long after Denmark and Norway would follow, and so throughout Europe. These are only one way to stop this process at the beginning; and only one time to set to work—now. — London Chronicle.

She Was In Bed For Seven Weeks

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Madame Berube.

Montreal Lady tells how, after Four Years' Illness, She Found a Complete Cure for all Her Troubles.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 2.—(Special) Madame J. Baptiste Berube, residing at 1393 St. Morgan avenue in this city, asserts that after four years' suffering from kidney disease she has been completely restored to health by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had a pain in my left side around the heart," Madame Berube says in her statement. "I had suffered constantly with headache and backache, and for seven weeks I was in bed with kidney disease and feebleness. The doctor could not help me, so I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"After the first box I was some better. I continued to use Dodd's Kidney Pills till now the palpitation has left me, and I am a well woman, able to do my work. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured me and I recommend them to all persons who suffer as I did."

Notice how many women are rising to tell their suffering sisters they can find relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills. The reason is that nine-tenths of women's ills spring from diseased or disordered kidneys. Every woman whose kidneys show signs of weakness should use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

THE TRAGEDY OF BELGIUM

There is both courage and pathos in the Belgian Government's farewell proclamation to their people. We trust that their leave-taking will not be for long, and the whole force of the British Empire is pledged that it shall not be final. For over two months we have witnessed upon Belgian soil one of the great tragedies of all time. It has hurt us to the quick that we could not stop it. But we are a naval not a military nation, and the comparatively small army with which we started had to be used where it would best contribute to the object upon which everything else turns—namely, the ultimate defeat of the German aggressors. It would have been no kindness to the Belgian people if this supreme object had been sacrificed to a temporary desire to fight by the Belgians' side on their actual soil. It is for this reason that except at Antwerp and in some of the engagements following their withdrawal British troops and Belgians have not fought side by side. But in obeying the dictates of strategy nothing has been further from our minds than any desertion of the Belgian cause. There is no case, however, which would best contribute to the object upon which everything else turns—namely, the ultimate defeat of the German aggressors. THE GERMAN PLAN FAILED.

The censor has drawn the veil so completely over the operations along the Franco-Belgian coast, where the extreme wings of the Allied and German line of battle are facing one another, that it is difficult to form any adequate conception of the operations which are there taking place. Day after day the official bulletins have told us that this small patch of country has been the scene of fierce fighting, and doubtless one of the greatest battles of the campaigns is being fought there. The country is open, affording little opportunity for entrenchment and the losses of the contending forces must inevitably be very heavy. It is, however, perhaps the scene of one of the most critical stages of the campaign.

It has been assumed by some of the military critics that the operations in this theatre presaged a new offensive movement on the part of the Germans, with Paris again as the objective. The New York Tribune submits this theory to the test:

"Some critics have been imputing to the German General Staff a purpose to launch a new route. According to the supposed new German plan the Kaiser's forces are to sweep from Ostend down the Channel coast, occupy Dunkirk, Calais, Boulogne and Dieppe, and then push on to Havre, whence the march to Paris would be made up the valley of the Seine. Frederick the Great is said to have picked out this route. It has a flavor of antique traditions, therefore, as well as the charm of actual military novelty. If made, it would go down in history in the category with Sherman's march to the sea.

"But it has obvious military disadvantages, undertaken against an enemy at least equal in numbers on land and overwhelmingly superior on the sea. Had the German fleet a secure control of the English Channel, the French Channel ports would serve as convenient bases of supply as they were captured, and Havre could be turned into the final base, just as the Union armies used Hampton Roads as a base in the campaigns against Richmond. But with the British Fleet, holding the North Sea and the English Channel, the French ports in German hands would be subject to hostile raids, and it would be impossible to establish a safe main base at Havre. Any interior line of attack following a trunk railroad would be much preferable for an army obliged to retain a base of supplies back in Germany.

"Moreover, since the Germans already have got as far as Noyon, which is only about seventy miles from Paris, why should they abandon a forward movement from that point in favor of a circuitous march from Ostend, via Havre, which would cover more than two hundred miles. If the German armies are capable of a vigorous advance, why should they not take the shortest cut toward their objective?"

The Tribune supplies the answer to those questions by pointing out that the capture of Antwerp started the idea that Germany was now to make a new beginning on the offensive. The Berlin General Staff had no time to bother about Antwerp when its first dash toward Paris was under way. It was only after the defeat on the Marne and a long deadlock on the Aisne that operations against Antwerp were seriously pushed. The question arises, then, whether the reduction of Antwerp was not a defensive rather than an offensive measure. If Germany intended merely to hold on in Northeastern France and to clear away all obstacles to a safe retirement, if a retirement should be necessary, it was a wise precaution to get rid of the Belgian army in Antwerp. A mobile force there, capable of being enlarged by detachments from overseas threatened the German line of communications through Liege. And the threat was more serious while Germany stood on the defence on the line of the Aisne than it would have been if the German armies had already overrun France as far as Paris and were trying to drive the disorganized Allies out of the valley of the Loire.

"It is easier," as The Tribune says, "to reconcile the turning aside to take Antwerp with a defensive German campaign on the present lines in Northeastern France and Northwestern Belgium than it is to find in its conclusive evidence of the beginning of a new forward movement. Germany's initial military advantages may now be so far counterbalanced that aggression on a large scale is out of the question. Yet German policy demands speedy results at almost any risk. If the Germans cannot resume the offensive in France all the great hopes with which they began the war must crumble. The next ten days ought to throw a good deal of light on their purposes and on their capacity to reap the fruits of their first overpowering rush into French territory."

The events of the past few days, so far as they have been permitted to be disclosed by the censor, however, go to show that the German attempt to push the offensive on their right wing is failing. So far they have been unable to break through the Allied lines at any point. The Allied armies, reinforced by the powerful gunnery of the British fleet, have repulsed every attack and have wrought terrible execution in the ranks of the enemy. The next movement is more than likely to be a retreat, which will sweep the enemy out of West Flanders and perhaps compel them to abandon the whole of Northwestern France. So far as one can judge from the meagre bits of information which percolate through the official channels the German army is now fighting for its life to hold its ground on the defensive. The battle is fierce, but the outlook is more than favorable.

THE GERMAN LIARS.

The report sent out from Berlin that Canadian troops have been sent to Egypt and are stationed along the Suez Canal affords fresh evidence of the elaborate efforts made by the German press bureau to spread false news about the war, and particularly about Great Britain. A London writer recently gave some instances of the ramifications of the Kaiser's campaign in this respect. Most of it is conducted in an extremely naive manner, and most innocent and pro-German non-combatants could hardly be deceived by it. Long telegrams are sent gratis to the Dutch newspaper offices and also to Italy. Most of them are sent out by a gentleman named Bjornson, a son of the famous Norwegian writer of that name who appears to have married a German lady and to have been equipped by his mother (in-law) land with a full-fledged news-agency, from which he issues large quantities of German propaganda to Norway and Holland. Also concerned in this work are many willing helpers in all directions, and apparently no money is lacking.

Plausible gentlemen purporting to be Americans display a touching readiness to be interviewed on the idyllic state of Germany at the present moment. Italy is informed that Mr. Winston Churchill is pursued by an indignant populace, and will have to resign because a German submarine torpedoed three British cruisers of the Third Fleet. Spain is given a speech which Mr. Burns never delivered, on the authority of respectable English newspapers. South America is told the terrible story of the collapse of the Bank of England, Sweden is assured that the revolution in India has been put down by Japanese troops, who have been heavily paid for the purpose.

These picturesque fictions are, of course, defeating themselves, and already they appear less frequently than they did some weeks ago in the newspapers of the countries concerned. In a week or two they will have gone altogether, and the world's entertainment in consequence be the poorer.

THE WORLD'S SEVEN MODERN WONDERS.

In a group of folks a poll was recently taken on the wonders of the world.

The highest vote was cast in behalf of man's conquest of the air by means of devices for flight. Next came wireless telegraphy and, in order, radium, the Panama Canal, the movies and the X-ray.

Some of these, as novelties, may, for a time, cause wonder. You can hardly, however, call the Panama Canal a wonder. It is simply a large ditch; well dug, to be sure, but involving few intricate problems. It is its size, not engineering difficulties, which has caused its fame.

The mysteriousness of the action of the X-ray and of radium creates profound wonder among students of science; and the time may come when we shall find tremendously important uses for these effects in what is now a twilight land of our knowledge of electricity. As yet, though this quest has hardly begun. Not yet are we warranted in classing them among the large achievements of mankind, for we know too little about them.

Discarding, if possible, the factor for wonder, suppose you try to think which among the achievements of the human race in modern times you would place among the seven of greatest value to society.

Would the list include the steam engine, the printing press, the free school, the discovery of drugs to deaden pain, the capture of electricity, as in the telegraph, the telephone, the electric light, etc.), the armoured battleship, the high-powered shooting iron? Or would it include the sewing machine, the safety pin, the discovering and harnessing of petroleum, the cotton gin, the game of baseball and the modern microscope?

Fact is, there are so many useful "wonders" nowadays that pleasant evenings can be had by pa, ma and the kids most any time trying to pick the best ones out.

The story that the Kaiser narrowly escaped capture by the Russians is interesting, but highly improbable. The War Lord is not likely to risk his own skin.

Britain's foreign commerce during September amounted to $350,000,000, and Germany's billion-and-a-half-a-year overseas' commerce has been wiped out. That's why we sing "Rule Britannia!"

The question for decision just now is: "Did the fellows like Jules Verne have a prophetic vision of the way wars would be conducted, or did the fellows who conduct the wars get their hunch from the visionary novelists?"

Germany's beet crop. It is stated, will produce 2,500,000 tons of sugar, and of this nearly 200,000 tons are now ready for export. It is also stated Germany will permit the export of sugar to all neutral countries. If the war stories about all Germany's available men being in the army are true, the question of who gathered the beet crop and is making the sugar becomes a rather interesting one.

The London Times makes the following significant statement: "We have sent merely an advance guard into France. In the spring the remainder of the advance guard will follow, and sometime toward the end of 1915 the main body will begin to come into view."

Referring to the capture of the Brindilla. The New York Journal of Commerce says: "The seizure of the Standard Oil Company's tank steamer by a British naval vessel, and her convey by an auxiliary cruiser to Halifax that was passed upon by a prize court, is nothing to get excited over, and it may result in a better understanding with Great Britain as to her course with reference to neutral vessels."

The New York Herald's special cable reports that gloom is increasing in Germany as the whispered news of the awful losses at the front spread among the people. The gloom was reflected in the speeches at the opening of the Reichstag the other day, when the chastened spirit of the German Ministers in referring to the campaign was in striking contrast to the defiant and arrogant tone of the German Chancellor at the declaration of war when he boasted about the necessity of "hacking their way through."

The Winnipeg Free Press very properly warns the public that it will be necessary to keep watch and ward lest the war be made the occasion for the widespread teaching of poisonous and reactionary doctrines—such as this precious deliverance, which is to be found in the current issue of the University Magazine: "If half the money which is spent on public schools were spent on military camps, and attendance made compulsory, Canadian boys would be better mannered and better educated too." There will be, a good deal of this sort of thing; it will have to be fought vigorously.

The New York Life says: "The unanimity of sentiment in this country against Germany is surprising. It is not anti-German and it is not pro-English. It seems to be a judgment given promptly and spontaneously on the merits of the case as seen by American eyes." They agree with Sir Edward Grey and the White Paper.

In these days when so much is heard of the necessity of many months of hard drilling and preparation before our citizen soldiery will be allowed to go into the firing line, it is interesting to recall a statement credited to the Duke of Wellington: "I have found that raw troops however inferior to the old ones in manoeuvring, are far superior to them in downright hard fighting with the enemy; at Waterloo the young ensigns and lieutenants who had never before seen a battle rushed to death as if they had been playing at cricket."

ON BOARD H.M.S. DREADNOUGHT.

When the sea grows grey and silent and the moon sinks out of sight,
An' the stars turn sick an' tremble after seven hours of fight,
God keep us dirty sailor men from the Pole Star to the Cross,
For we need Almighty keepin', an' some Almighty Boss.

For when the whole deck's throbbin'
There ain't no time for prayer;
But it's "Point your Long Tom dainty
Over twenty miles of air!"

When they wounded German fellows, came a-shakin' up our side
I was funny round my stomach, an' my bloomin' British pride
Trebled like a silly pennant, they was all so human like;

They had eyes an' hands an' faces just like any other fike.

But when the horizon's spittin'
And when we're coughin' back at it,
Say, it's "Sweep the sea o' Germans!"
An' "I guess—that-hit!"

I was walkin' past a cabin where we kept our prisoners tight
The sentry-go says, "Look here," an' I see a funny sight;
There was two of them a-lookin' at a picture in their hand
Just as if there's German mothers in the German Fatherland.

But when we're in the fight line,
It's "Gorget your thoughts and fire"
While the look-out says beside you
"Steady! Nose her up a little higher!"

When I stopped an' looked to seaward in a tiny breathin' spell
I see a Dreadnought stagger with her nose deep in the swell;
She was struck below the belly, an' she sunk an' gurgled down
Very casual like an' careless; made me sweat to see her drown.
But when we're stripped for action,
Say, it's "Glory! glory!" then,
An' it's "Sweep the sea o' Germans!"
As we pick the range again.

We were lyin' close in harbor, coalin' up at Halifax,
I was messin' with the range guns, streakin' polish down their backs.
There was somethin' in the air—feel like a happy English rain;
An' my mate, he says, "You're bawlin'" an' I says, "I guess that's plain."

But when we're sweatin' dirty
An' the sea's unholy red,
Say, it's "Mates we'll fight for England
Till the sun hisself is dead!"

STRATHCONA'S HORSE.

One of the editor's most prized possessions is a manuscript copy of the poem, "Strathcona's Horse" sent to him by the author Dr. William Henry Drummond, shortly after it appeared in the press during the South African War. Lord Strathcona, it will be recalled offered to equip and send to South Africa at his own expense a regiment of Canadian rough-riders, one thousand strong. This offer the Imperial Government gratefully accepted. Strathcona's Horse has since become a part of Canada's permanent cavalry force and has already gone to England with the first contingent. Dr. Drummond the big-hearted author, and interpreter of French-Canadian character passed away very suddenly at Cobalt in 1907, when his literary powers had just begun to bear their richest fruit.

Drummond's grave on the side of Mount Royal has upon its stone a phrase of Moira O'Neill's that has the secret of his wide appeal and endearment to the readers of the English speaking world.

Youth's for an hour
Beauty's a flower

But love is the jewel that wins the world.

"Strathcona's Horse" will be recalled and read with additional interest at the present time.

O I was thine, and thou wert mine, and ours the boundless plain,
Where the winds of the North, my gallant steed,
Ruffled thy tawny mane,
But the summons, hark come with the roll of drum, and bugles ringing shrill,
Startling the prairie antelope, the grizzly of the hill.

'Tis the voice of the Empire calling and the children gather fast

From every land where the cross bar floats out from the quivering mast;

So into the saddle I leap, my own, with bridle swinging free,

And thy hoof-beats shall answer the trumpets blowing across the sea.

Then proudly toss thy head aloft, nor think of the foe to-morrow;

For he who dares to stay our course drinks deep of the Cup of Sorrow.

Thy form hath pressed the meadow's breast where the sullen grey wolf hides,

The great red river of the North hath cooled thy burning sides;

Together we've slept while the tempest swept the Rockies' glittering chain;

And many a day the bronze centaur hath galloped behind in vain.

But the sweet wild grass of mountain pass, and the shimmering summer streams

Must vanish forevermore, purchase, into the land of dreams;

For the strong young North hath sent us forth to battlefields far away,

And the trail that ends where the Empire trends is the trail we ride to-day.

But proudly toss thy head aloft, nor think of the foe to-morrow,

For he who bars Strathcona's Horse drinks deep of the Cup of Sorrow.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Yes, I often think that women are as well qualified for war as men. My husband is opposed to it. But I often feel as if I'd like to leave home and get in the thick of the fight.

"But why leave home?"
"Allow a horrid man to kiss me Never!"
"Neither would I. But, thank goodness, there isn't one among all my mail acquaintances."

"I can't do anything with Johnnie. Why he'd rather go hungry than work. I don't see what's to become of him. I suppose we must face the inevitable."
"What's the inevitable?"
"Looking forward to have a soap-box orator in the family."

When His Bed Walked

An Alaska pioneer was telling how crowded a certain ship was during the gold rush. One day the man came up to the captain and said:

"You will have to give me some place to sleep."
"Were have you been sleeping?"
"Well," replied, "I have been sleeping on a sick man but he's getting better now, and he won't stand it."

"Talk to your mother son," directed the father, who was reading the sporting page.

"Mother," said the son, "I made a mistake when I took up chemistry. But it is not too late to change even yet. I want to take astronomy instead."

The mother searched the eyes of her son sharply. Then she said:
"None. You'll have to think up some better excuse for staying out at night!"

A very systematic business man tried to educate his young wife to keep correct household accounts. With this end in view he gave her an account book, and instructed her to enter on one side all her expenses in detail, and on the other side money received. At the end of the first month the fair young wife carried her account books to her husband in triumph. "See," said she, "I have done what you asked." But a groan of despair escaped from the husband's lips when he read on one page: "Received from Dick $100," and on the other, "spent it."

WHAT GERMANSA THOUGHT OF THE BRITISH NAVY

A journalist who is particularly well informed with regard to naval affairs is Mr. Hector C. Bywater, who for some years was the Berlin correspondent of the Navy, the organ of the Navy League, and of the Naval and Military Record. In the latter paper he not long ago made some interesting remarks upon the German attitude towards the British Navy. He first commented upon the exploit of the British submarine E9 in sinking the German destroyer E129, and continued—

German papers recently to hand have contained allusions to the British Navy which reads somewhat strangely when contrasted with German press utterances on the same subject before the war. We are now given to understand that the enemy entertains a wholesome respect for our fleet. The events of the last two months appear to have convinced them that the navy is not only something in the fighting traditions of the British sea service, which they had been assured by their "experts" were largely based on legend and myth. A great change in the tone of their press comments is to be seen in the fight off Heligoland. The consummate skill, dash, and courage which distinguished the conduct of that engagement obviously came as an eye-opener to the Germans. We may be sure that later events at sea, including the dual exploit of E9, have deepened the same salutary impression. Even the leading German papers now admit that the Fatherland must look to the land campaign both for its latest and substantial success, as the prospect at sea is not encouraging. In a word, they are beginning to realize that the British fleet is a fact—or whose power had been grossly underrated, and it is clear from the guarded admissions that they have no great confidence in the ability of the German Navy to fulfil its much advertised mission of protecting the commerce and the colonies of the Fatherland. It may be remarked in passing that unless it does something, and that very soon, the German Navy will suffer a severe loss of prestige in Germany itself. German patriots, we may well imagine, are already beginning to ask themselves what return they are getting for the enormous expenditure on naval armaments during the last fourteen years. It is literally true that up to the present this great fleet has been utterly powerless to affect the course of the campaign in any direction whatever. It has, perhaps, prevented a hostile landing on the German coast, but this elementary form of coast defence could have been effected by a few small flotilla boats, but the fact of what the High Sea Fleet has done indeed the reliance which has always been placed on shore batteries and mine fields proves that the navy was never intended to be used in the narrow sense of that term. Sooner or later the German public will demand some decisive action by the fleet. Whether the hands of the Navy Department could be forced by public opinion to such a decision, but the officers and men of the fleet cannot be feeling very happy in the knowledge that their comrades of the army are doing all the work while they remain absolutely idle. One of the great misdeeds of the British before the war was that the British Navy was a thoroughly effete institution. Time after time it has been the writer's duty to record in these columns statements by prominent Germans which showed how completely they believed this to be the case. To take the material first, every type of vessel in the British navy, from super-Dreadnought to submarine, was subjected to the most scathing criticism by German writers. Our ships were ill-designed, badly built, unstable, and unseaworthy owing principally to the absence of scientific methods in naval design and the decadence of the shipyard workman. Our guns were of very inferior quality, inaccurate, and short-lived, while the very last issue of "Nauticus," published in July, contained an article in which British gunnery methods were treated with supercilious contempt. It was the personnel, however, which these critics professed to consider responsible for the alleged decline of British naval power. Certain notable writers, who were supposed to know the sentiments of German naval officers, were wont to assure us that these gentlemen had a high respect for the personal character and professional attainments of the British naval officer. Such, however, was not the impression one gained from a perusal of German service literature, in which our officers were uniformly set down as lacking in that zeal for hard work and the strict professional side of their duties which were held to distinguish the German "Seefoffiziere." As for the men, they were mercenaries who had taken to the sea because they were not much good for anything else. Drunkenness was rife among them, and insubordination frequent, with the result that discipline was at a low ebb, and the war training of the fleet suffered in consequence.

Much as we may smile at these views, the fact remains that they were commonly shared by the vast majority of intelligent Germans, and there is reason to believe, by many high naval authorities in Berlin. The prevalence of such opinions helps to explain the supreme confidence with which the Germans looked forward to an encounter with Great Britain. They knew their fleet to be much smaller, but they really believed that the superior skill and devotion of their personnel, together with the incomparably finer ships they manned, would achieve victory in the teeth of heavy odds.

As we have said, Heligoland came as the first rude shock to this characteristic self-complacency. Other events followed, minor in themselves, but all pointing the same way. Meanwhile it must have been brought home to the meagre intelligence in the Fatherland that British grip on German sea commerce is remorselessly complete. With the exception of some good work by its submarines, the "successes" of the German Navy to date have been of the negative order.

PORT HOPERS AID BELGIAN SUFFERERS

Port Hope, Oct. 28.—Eighteen packing cases of clothing have just been shipped for Belgian refugees by the members of Colonel Arthur Williams Chapter, I.O.O.F., of Port Hope. The ladies have also raised $1,076 for the Red Cross Society, and today voted another $100 for the latter.

THE POPE IS SHORT.

The new Pope is as short as the shortest of the kings. Though the Czar is anything but tall, the King of Italy has still fewer inches, and thus Rome now pays its respects to two thrones which are, for the convenience of a lay and an ecclesiastical ruler, the lowest in the world. It was perhaps, the boyish stature of the King of Italy that led the Kaiser, on a recent visit to the Italian Court, to treat him like a schoolboy and tickle him. The little king was much embarrassed, and very ticklish, but no serious offence was taken and the thing passed off in laughter. That was some few years ago, when the War Lord was still known to his fellow-monarchs as the merriest and most jocular of sovereigns.

COULDN'T BEAT JONES

Farmer Brown and Farmer Jones were neighbors, and many a dispute took place as to who was the earlier riser. One day Farmer Brown determined to put the subject to test. Rising very early one morning, he proceeded to get up at five o'clock, four o'clock. Great was his astonishment when he saw Mrs. Jones hanging out the clothes. "Farmer Jones about?" he asked. "Well," replied the lady, "he was the first part of the moon," but I dunno where he be now."

MINISTERS VOLUNTEER

Rev. E. W. Pickford of Brighton has volunteered to go as chaplain to the front with the second contingent. W. E. Smith of Bladon is another volunteer to go "unattached" with the second contingent.

During the past few weeks Lieut. Col. H. R. Duff, organizer of medical services for the 3rd division which includes a number of hospitals, has received a number of applications from trained nurses who are anxious to go over with the second Canadian contingent which is billed to leave Canada in January.

Among the nurses who have volunteered their services are a number of Canadian girls, who are graduates of American Hospitals. Although nothing official has been given out, it is thought that the militia department proposes to give the preference to nurses who are graduates of the Canadian hospitals. A number of the nurses who have volunteered their services are graduates of the Kingston general hospital. In the contingent to go next week, it is expected that the nurses who will go will be notified by the department.

CHANGE OF MANAGERS

Mr. Walter Kennedy, who has for the past fourteen months been manager of Griffin's opera house in this city has received notice of his promotion to the head office in Toronto. He leaves this afternoon to assume his new duties. He will be succeeded here by Mr. E. C. McArthur, late manager of Griffin's house at Brockville. Mr. Kennedy has made a host of friends during his residence in Belleville, who will deeply regret his departure. He has also been a most energetic promoter of business for the Griffin property and has done much to boom the theatrical world here.

SMALL BLAZE DURING NIGHT

At 2.50 this morning, Tony Quattrocchi ran into the police station shouting "My house is afire," and before the officers in charge could ask a word of detail he had turned and run away. It was all the officers, namely Sgt. Harman and Constable Corrigan could do to follow him on bicycles. They traced him over the lower bridge, where his residence was. There was a real fire in progress. One of the policemen returned to the station on his wheel and gave the alarm, no telephone between the two places being accessible. Fortunately the firemen did not have to use hose as the blaze was put out with pails of water from the drinking trough at the corner of the street. So much damage was done to the property. The fire was caused by a hot stove too close to the wall in the back parlor down stairs. There being plenty of fuel in the stove, a great deal of heat was given out through the door and wall near by caught fire.

FINE MARE HAD LEG BROKEN

In Collision With Car on Bridge Street Last Evening—Just Bought Yesterday

Last evening about six-thirty an unfortunate accident occurred on Bridge street not far from the post office. As a result a fine brown mare owned by Mr. S. McCartney of Picton, had to be chloroformed.

Mr. McCartney yesterday morning bought the mare "Floesie" from Mr. Arthur McCoy of McCoy's livery. The animal was eight years old and a very fast pacer. Last night shortly after six o'clock Mr. McCartney and a friend of his were driving eastward, along Bridge street. An automobile said to belong to Mr. J. Doreen of Shannonville, came up alongside. It is said Mr. McCartney's companion shouted to warn the occupants of the car of their proximity. Just what happened cannot be clearly determined as yet. It is alleged that the car plucked into them on the left side, crumpling the animal up like a rainbow and throwing the creature to the road. Whether the car skidded on the pavement or whether the horse turned slightly in front of it may be other explanations. The mare had her left leg broken about a foot above the hoof, so that it is hung up by the hilt.

The creature was taken to the Balmoral stables a little later and chloroformed under a physician's instructions. The mare was worth about $175 or $180.

MEMBERS OF BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

Eighth Annual Dinner Tendered by Mr. John Elliott, Manager of the Standard Bank—About One Hundred and Twenty-Five Present—Able Addresses and a Good Time by All—Nearly $4000 Contributed to Patriotic Fund.

For the eighth successive year the members of the Belleville Cheese Board and their friends associated with the dairy interests of the Bay of Quinte district have been royally entertained by Mr. John Elliott, manager of the local branch of the Standard Bank. This function appears to be growing in importance and influence as the years go by. About one hundred and twenty-five came in response to the invitations, taxing to more than its capacity the spacious dining hall of the Anglo-American hotel. An overflow company of guests had to be accommodated at Hotel Quinte.

MR. F. E. O'FLYNN. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn again presided as toastmaster and appeared to be even more genial and witty than upon previous occasions. Certain it is that much of the air of goodfellowship and interested enjoyment that prevailed was due to the generosity of the chairman. In opening he said, we meet today under different auspices from what we met under a year ago. Then the Empire was at peace. Now we are at war and Britain has met trouble as she always does with colors flying. It is just as important to do as we are doing to prepare the good supplies of the Empire and to keep the wheels of business moving, as to send soldiers to the front. He had been chairman at these functions for the eighth successive time and he feared that was over-doing it. (Woods "No, no.") A number of letters of regret were here read by the chairman from gentlemen prominent in the commercial life and transportation work of the Dominion.

MR. E. Y. ILLIY. The manager of the Tronto branch of the Standard Bank was then introduced and sang with fine expression a patriotic song,—"Long Live the King."

MR. ELLIOTT. The chairman in introducing Mr. Elliott referred to his associations with him in societies of various kinds in a social way, on the board of education. In every capacity he found him in the truest sense of the word to be a man.

Upon raising Mr. Elliott was accorded an ovation. He said in part— It would need a good man to live up to the high reputation given him by the chairman. It was one of the greatest pleasures he had during the year to welcome his guests to his annual dinner. He did not think that he had reached the limit of our accomplishments in the Belleville district. The last time he was here he was the guest of the Belleville Cheese Board. He remembered with gratitude their kindly expressions on that occasion. Prompted by the thought that he would like to do even more for the Belleville Cheese Board he therefore went to Great Britain again this year. He was pleased to note the high standard of honor among Great Britain's business men. Even so the nation was at war because of the high standard of honor in the nation. If the individual so is the nation. It is not to be expected that the descendants of those who came to the Bay of Quinte district to demonstrate their loyalty to Great Britain would now only send their gifts to the Empire but would give their sons as well.

The call had come to us to assist and he was proud of the response that came from the Belleville Cheese Board. The various factories had already contributed $3,985.51. Many times more would be contributed if necessary. He was in London at the time of the outbreak of the war. The stock market was in a panic and for five days the banks opened their doors. But the government said that no friend of the Empire would withdraw their funds from the banks at a time like that. Then the British navy came to the rescue and soon commerce was restored to its customary channels. Now was the farmers' opportunity. They should produce more food and thereby assist the empire, and at the same time themselves and their own country.

We have been devoting too much attention to building up cities. We have been borrowing too much from the old land. The farmers could not compete with the price paid for labor. In the past we had devoted much attention to the development of manufactures we would now give more attention to the promotion of agriculture. The Standard Bank was ready to give money to finance legitimate enterprises in the district. There were more important functions for a bank to perform than merely to pay dividends. They should assist in the development of the district.

MR. ELLIOTT. In conclusion referred to the opportunities for immigrants in this district. A number of the right sort had been located on the farms about here, and several already had good savings accounts at the bank.

MR. A. M. CHAMMAN. The County Clerk then sang with spirit the British soldiers' marching song,—"It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary." The company joining in the chorus with a will. J. W. JOHNSON, M. P. The toast, "The Legislatures of Canada" was next honored and Mr. J. W. Johnson responded in a brief but excellent address. The chairman had struck the right note said Mr. Johnson when he said that there should be no party or partism. It reminded him of Macaulay's lines "When none was for a party Then all were for the state."

This united patriotic sentiment was well illustrated by the patriotism of Canada at its last session when without a dissenting voice magnificent aid was given to the motherland for carrying on the war.

The best illustration of the prosperity of Canada at the present time was that the bank for which Mr. Elliott is local manager had just declared a dividend of 13%.

Great Britain was not only carrying her own burdens but was really leading the world in assisting Canada to do her part. The war had stimulated exports. He was pleased to note that notwithstanding the increase in the price of wheat the price in Belleville for a three-pound loaf of bread was only ten cents. This was a tribute to the fairness of the Belleville bakers.

The British navy has kept open the trade routes and our business went on as usual. It was not only the ubiquitous navy, but an ambitious navy as witness the late prevention of the Germans on land from proceeding to Calais by the firing from the British fleet.

He believed Germany was becoming exhausted that she had shot her bolt. But the Lion's whelps were now only beginning to assemble. The men who had gone were fighting our battles. It was our duty to maintain the wives and children of those who had gone to fight and die for us.

MR. H. W. WRIGHTMYER sang with fine effect that stirring song of the sea "The Admiral's Broom" CAPT. THOMPSON

Capt. Thompson of the Immigration branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture was next speaker. He said he never saw a finer body of men than he saw here today in this banner County of Hastings. His work was in the immigration department to try to induce the right type of settlers to come to Canada. In 1913 there were 45,000 immigrants left Scotland and these 35,000 had come to Canada. Now was a good time to secure farm labor. It would be much more difficult in the spring owing to conditions in the old land. It will pay the farmer to put more help on the land. There never were better opportunities to secure the trade of the world. The mother country will take into account the sacrifices Canada is making at the present time. Farmers could do a patriotic work by relieving the unemployment that now prevails in the cities. He was pleased to bear tribute to the host of the day who had done splendid work in assisting the immigration department and the dairy interests of the province.

MR. E. V. ILLIY favored the gathering with another patriotic selection "Land of Hope and Glory" "THE BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD

This toast had for sponsors the president, Mr. J. W. Haggerty, and the Secretary, Mr. D. J. Fairfield. Mr. Haggerty said there were about seventy factories represented on the board, and these he estimated kept about four thousand patrons busy. The members of the cheese board were not only good looking but good natured. The best of good feelings and harmony had prevailed at all the meetings since he had assumed the presidency in June.

MR. FAIRFIELD. Mr. Fairfield claimed that he was incapable of doing justice to the merits of the toast or of Mr. Elliott. We had here the best cheese board in Canada and we made in this district the best cheese in the world. He would rather hold the responsible position he did as secretary of the board than to be member of parliament. He was working for honest men.—(Laughter)

MR. H. W. WRIGHTMYER sang that fine old British song "The Death of Nelson." Brief address was delivered by Mr. Belanquet, a former president of the cheese board and by Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, president of Belleville board of trade. Mr. Belanquet spoke of the pleasure it afforded him to attend this banquet and complimented Mr. Elliott upon the good work he was doing for the district.

MR. H. F. KETCHESON. Mr. H. F. Ketcheson told how he had travelled through Great Britain with Mr. Elliott the past summer and told of the work he was doing there to promote the dairy interests of Belleville districts. Mr. Ketcheson in his closing remarks gave a vivid description of the scene in London on the night that war was declared.

Cheers for the host, the King and the singing of the National Anthem brought this most enjoyable function to a close.

MR. and Mrs. Fred. W. Thompson and daughter of Brockville, arrived in Belleville yesterday, where they reside in future. Mr. Thompson is a popular G. T. R. conductor. The removal of the family from Brockville, as regretted by a large number of Brockville residents.

ADDRESS TO PROTESTANT SOCIETIES

Volunteers Also Attended Service in West Belleville on Sunday Afternoon.

On Sunday afternoon, the Protestant Societies, Orangemen, True Blues, Practice Boys, Sons of England and kindred organizations attended divine service in Holloway St. Methodist Church, the Rev. A. R. Sanderson, grand chaplain of the Orange Order for Ontario East, being the preacher.

As it was the last Sunday on which the Fifteenth boys who have volunteered for the front with the second Canadian contingent, would be in their home town before departing for mobilization headquarters at Kingston, the Rev. Sanderson extended through La-Coe, March an invitation to the volunteers to attend. Nearly all accepted and paraded at the head of the procession with their Colonel and his son, Master Jack March. The Company will want home for Sunday except three whose homes are in Belleville.

During the service in the church, Mrs. Sanderson sang "The Death of Nelson." The grand chaplain's address was on courage and was addressed in the main to the volunteers. The text was "Quit you Like Men."

The root idea of manliness is strength. Wherever young manhood is found, in marathons, cycling, the gymnasium, or boxing arena, when a man shows he is more resourceful and has greater power of endurance than his fellows, the crowd shouts "He is the best man."

Strength may be exerted along wrong lines and become despotic in character. Such has been the origin of this, the world's greatest war. Our young men in defence of flag and home, truth and righteousness and liberty say "For our own flesh and blood we are strong."

Addressing the soldiers he said - "May God go with you. May God give you the courage of your convictions, and may you be able not only to hold the flag to the breeze, but fight or die for it if necessary. There is a tyranny in German education, the fear of the enemies being instilled into German children for the past half century."

"You are going up against the greatest machine in the world. May you bring down the militarism of Prussia and give to us and the world lasting peace."

Courage is not recklessness nor waste of life. Courage implies a man to risk his life for a worthy cause. The world despises the weakling and the reckless man, but admires courage. Witness the monuments in Europe to the heroes of the nations.

The pastor called the men of the societies to a life of courage and heroism. Moral courage is great. He painted a picture of the Gordon Highlanders kneeling in prayer before a charge. "While you have the prayers of the people at home, get hold of the Omnipotent power of the universe is not 'I and God' as the Kaiser says, but 'God and I'."

Manliness includes reverence, and excludes flippancy. It calls for love of nature. Christianity imposes gentleness and generosity besides making strong. Did it make weaklings of Latimer and Ridley, Cromwell, John Knox or Carson?

The chaplain referred to the Irish trouble of a few months ago over Home Rule and the coercive attitude of the British Government to Ulster. He urged the men to use their hopes to the best of their ability and hoped that if they ever got an opportunity they would blow up the house or tent where the Kaiser happened to be lodged.

"The German infantry won't shoot you. They'll shoot over your heads. Remember you are facing them for God and Country. The Indians, the Russians, the French, and the Belgians are with you. They are your brothers."

The Rev. S. A. Duprad, offered up the prayer during the service.

TO AID MOTHER COUNTRY
Contributions From Marmora Township Loaded for Shipment on Monday
In response to a request from the Dominion Government, through the Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. G. E. Foster, the citizens of Marmora township contributed to a gift which is being sent to the British Government by the farmers of Canada. The donations were brought in on Monday, the total amount contributed being as follows -

248 bags of Potatoes
176 bushels of oats
2 cheese
100 lbs of beans
1 bushel of dried apples
3 packages of knitted goods
3 lbs. of butter
$49.26 in cash

The butter was sold and the price, together with the cash donated, was used to purchase oats and heavy bags for shipping the potatoes and oats. Some farmers contributed very generously, but others did not do quite as well and the total was not as large as had been hoped for, as there was not sufficient to fill the car. Grey County contributed forty carloads of produce, donations which exist in Europe and the privations which are being suffered, those who stay at home in Canada can well afford to give if they don't have to fight - Herald.

BUSY TIMES FOR WORKERS ON THE C. T. P.

Company to Build Terminal Facilities in Rich Territory in British Columbia.

Montreal, Oct. 30.-Mr. D. E. Galoway, Assistant to the President, stated today that, while no details have yet come to hand, it is true that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway has let contracts to the value of $300,000 for terminals in British Columbia.

This construction work will take care of a large number of mechanics and laborers during the winter months and will be an important factor in improving the labor situation along the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific in British Columbia. The contract work comprises the erection of divisional point facilities at Endako, Smithers, Prince George and Pacific, and will include round houses, machine shops and other railway buildings. Preparations are also being made for oil storage buildings along the line, as it is understood that oil burning locomotives are to be used in the fast transcontinental services of the Company.

It is into this country, between Prince George and Prince Rupert that the railway route, which averages about 15 miles in width. There are still good lands open for pre-emption from six to ten miles back from the railway, and this valley is proving suitable for raising hay, grain, vegetables and fruit, and is also a good dairy country. Adjoining the Nechaco Valley is the Stuart Lake country, where there is also considerable good agricultural lands for pre-emption.

These regions can be considered practically inexhaustible in their productivity for agricultural pursuits. The timber growth is comparatively light, although general, and sufficient natural meadows and grazing are to be had for stock purposes without clearing. The growth of natural grasses of the most nutritious kind for fodder is everywhere particularly noticeable where the timber is not so thick as to prevent any growth. The climate is mild. Settlement is not very extensive as yet owing to the entire absence of transportation facilities up to the last month, and there has been no opportunity to get building material in to start small towns around the railway stations.

Comfort for the Dyspeptic.—There is no ailment so harassing and exhausting as dyspepsia, which arises from defective action of the stomach and liver, and the victim of it is to be pitied. There are pills that are widely advertised as the greatest ever compounded, but not one of them can rank in value with Parmelee's.

OFF FOR HUNT

Deer Season Opened Today as Nov. 1st Was on Sunday.

The 1914 season for deer shooting, opened by law on Sunday morning, but this year owing to the Lord's Day Alliance Act the first legal shooting began this morning. A good number of hunters are on their way to the hunting grounds from this city or are already there. Their baggage is extensive consisting of tents, dogs, guns, blankets, long boots.

Deer hunting is a peculiarly fascinating sport and it is a well-known fact that a person once having hunted deer wants to return every season. The tragic results of deer shooting are gradually being overcome by the more universal adoption of preventive measures. These are in the form of brightly colored trimmings on the clothes to clearly identify the hunter, or that it is not a deer he is shooting at.

The deer are plentiful this year in certain districts, but these places are much thinned in the woods, the customary haunt of this animal so many years ago. The runs are gradually working northward with the moving frontiers of civilization.

Hunters from Kingston even go into the district north of Bancroft.

CABLE FROM CAPT. E. D. O'FLYNN

A cable was received this morning from Capt. E. D. O'Flynn who is absent with the overseas contingent. He states that the boys are all well, that they are now at Balfour Camp, Salisbury (Rhine) England. He says the Belleville boys won the tug of war and the light weight boxing championship on the voyage over, that the boys were well and happy and ready to do the best they can for their honor or of Canada and in the defence of the Empire. Before landing a nicely worded message was received from Lord Kitchener welcoming the contingent to Britain. It was very much appreciated by the troops. Captain O'Flynn sends his best wishes to his many friends and his desire for the welfare of the city.

LOSSES ENORMOUS.

German Casualties in Flanders Alone Total 150,000 Men.
LONDON, Nov. 2.—A correspondent of The Observer, writing from France, says: "The German losses have been enormous. A German officer captured yesterday estimated that there have been 150,000 killed or wounded since the occupation of Belgium in Northwest Flanders alone. Whole batteries and battalions have been annihilated by the shell fire from the warships. Thousands have been drowned as the result of the opening of the dykes. In hand-to-hand fighting the German losses have far exceeded those of the allies. Thousands of bodies of Germans floating on the inland sea bear testimony to the magnitude of the disaster."

"Only the main roads and railroad tracks remain exposed above the flooded area. The shattered German regiments are being given no time to abandon the dykes. They are abandoning their wounded, guns and transports. Unless their feet come out to create a diversion they will be driven from the Belgian coast within a week."

"WATERLOO FALL OF MILITARISM"

Subject of Address of Rev. W. G. Clarke at Tabernacle Yesterday

God's Hand in History.—Waterloo the Downfall of Militarism and the Triumph of a Free People" was the subject of a very able sermon at the Tabernacle Methodist church last evening by Rev. W. G. Clarke.

Great Britain he said had been carried through one of the greatest crises in the world's history, by the spirit typified in the words "Thou therefore endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." It had been intended to hold a special song service but owing to the inclement evening this was not given.

What part has song with war? We must realize that song is today playing its part on the battlefields. It rises from the trenches, it is heard in the charge, sailors go down to death singing national anthems. The soldiers of Cornwall sang a psalm, then plunged into battle with the conviction that they were fighting for the cause of a better world.

The pastor read a graphic portraiture of Napoleon, grand, gloomy, heroic, like, wrapped in the solitude of originality depending only on himself, kneeling at the shrine of his own creation; a Catholic yet imprisoning the pope; a patriot yet he bled his country and Europe; making kings of beggars and dethroning princes; the veritable and the novel changing places with him; surmounting all obstacles, spurning space; proof against peril; audacious of design; marvelously active; the romantic taking the place of historic fact by his influence; kings his people; he was always the same military despot. He projected a tide of war that flooded Europe. Asia, Africa; this enemy of England and the United States from 1812-1814. This war seemed like to destroy all the work of the centuries of toil.

The preacher gave a graphic description of Waterloo and drew attention to the heroic steadfastness of an officer who all day long held his place even though the field was hidden from him by smoke. Would the order never come to advance? At last a ringing cry: "The enemy in full retreat and the pursuing British in unbroken line. Such was the cheering sight which met the officer's eye.

NEW INTERIOR AT POST OFFICE

Belleville's Public Building Has Been Greatly Improved by Much Needed Changes

Belleville Post Office now has an interior which compares in all its appointments with the most up-to-date offices in the Dominion of Canada. While much has been done, yet the work has not been completed. The improvements to be added are the painting and caulsomining, while it is possible that the exterior of the public building will before long receive the attention of the decorators.

In as far as possible the improvements have been left in the hands of local men. The first work to be begun was the laying of the pyrofluous floor in yellow with red slate border, under the direction of Mr. Joshua Lang. The new furniture and offices were supplied by government contractors. The woodwork is of oak with natural finish. At the northwest corner of the building is the office of Postmaster Alfred Gillen. Adjacent thereto is a waiting room, supplied with chairs, table and writing material. Then comes the recreation room for the "boys" of the staff. This is also used as a clothes room.

South of these is the bedroom, the furnishings being all new. Three young men remain here all night, said Mr. Gillen. In this way only it is possible to handle the night mail. The Post Office is never closed as someone is always on duty all the time, Sundays and weekdays and holidays, day and night, year in and year out. The comfort of the staff is thus a worthy consideration which has had considerable importance in the improvement of the office.

Cupboards have been supplied for the letter carriers.
A system of handling the mail for carriers and parcel post has been devised so that the work may be expeditiously and easily done without loss of energy. The letter carriers are now all in one department and may thus cooperate to the best advantage of the office's efficiency.

On the east side of the office there are from the south the parcel post office "Parcel Post" is rapidly assuming large proportions and regular deliveries are made as follows:
Three daily to Front Street, twice in the adjacent districts and once daily on the hills.
It is on the north end that the effect of the improvements is seen by the public. From the west are first the letter boxes, only a very few of which are used by merchants and offices which expect mail on almost every train. A large number of boxes are unused and were only installed for emergency.
The general delivery is in the centre of the public room and is devoted to distribution of letters and papers to persons living outside the city limits travelled by the carriers or outside the city.
"Money orders," "registered letters" and "savings bank." The arrangements here are all for saving energy and time in public.
The interior behind the wickets is divided by having screens only between the departments so that the whole office can be seen at glance of a member of the staff.
The lighting is by gas and electricity. Two large chandeliers will be put in the public room.
Above the panelling of the office woodwork is chipped glass and far above to the ceiling is a heavy coat wire netting.
The whole plan has been to improve appearance and increase the accommodation for the staff.
Mr. Gillen entered the post office staff nearly a third of a century ago and he is now the only one remaining of the staff of those days. He has now an office to be proud of.

BOY AND BICYCLE CARRIED ON FENDER

For Twenty Feet as Result of Collision With Automobile.

A serious accident was narrowly averted at eleven o'clock this morning on Front street near the corner of Bridge street. A boy was riding a bicycle on the wet asphalt pavement on the west side and had passed one automobile when another driven by Mr. Thomas Haslip of the Alben Hotel struck him. The boy with great presence of mind clung to the right side fender and the engine hood and supported his wheel so that it did not fall beneath the automobile. The lad was carried from fifteen to twenty feet in this precarious position before the car was brought to a standstill. A light of glass which the boy was carrying was broken by the collision, but he fortunately escaped injury except a strain and shaking up. The force of the impact may be judged by the dilapidated condition of the fender to which the youth clung for safety.

HEROIC FRANKFORD

Frankford is sending six men with the second contingent, three of these are Italians. One of the Italians saw active service in Italy and is anxious to get to the front and strike a blow for Great Britain.

Deceased was born in Cupar, in Fife, Scotland and came with her parents in 1841 as a child to this country settling in Brockville and later in Belleville. She was the third daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Thomson. She was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and was in her 82nd year. Death was quiet and gentle. Recently she had lived at the residence of Mrs. Goddard, 270 Coleman Street. Mr. Thomas Thomson, city auditor, is a brother of the late Miss Thomson.

SMOKER AND CONCERT OF BELLEVILLE LIBERALS

Delightful Evening Spent by Club—Songs, Music and Speeches

(From Friday's Daily.)
The opening smoker and concert of the Belleville branch of the Hastings Liberal Club for the season of 1914-15 was held last evening in the west Robertson block, front street. While owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not as large as expected, an extensive program was carried out and a most enjoyable time spent. The rooms had been prettily decorated with red, white and blue bunting, Union jacks and Canadian flags.
The president Mr. F. E. O'Flynn occupied the chair and in a few words introduced the entertainers. Mr. Arthur Harman opened the program with a piano solo—a medley of marching airs of the type of "Marching Through Georgia" and "The Volunteer." Mr. Scribner rendered a couple of piccolo solos. Mr. Richard King, followed with a very able rendition of "Soldiers of the King" accompanied by Mr. Harman (piano) and Mr. Scribner (piano). Mr. Scribner played "The Lullaby" on the flute. At this juncture Mr. Jack Denmark took the part of accompanist. "War" was sung by Mr. Robert Blund, Jr., in excellent style and Mr. Ed. Brown in "That's Why the Violets Live," made a distinctive hit. Mr. Richard King sang "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," the gathering joining in the chorus. Mr. O'Flynn paid high tribute to the Irish Regiments, one little city having 500 widows of soldiers as a result of the carnage in France and Belgium. Talk about the degeneration of the Anglo-Saxon. "They are better than ever." Mr. John Fahey sang "Sweet Adeline" and Mr. Joseph Rowe "When It's Nighttime down in Burgundy."
The chairman pointed to the club's policy, to help develop the young life of Canada. It stands for Canada first and Liberalism afterwards.
Mr. Platt, vice president, in opening his short address said: "We are all of one mind at the present time of stress, war in the Empire and country are in danger. It is up to us as Canadians and Britons—English, Irish and Scotch—and French and Russians, for they are with us, to try and do the best we can to help out the great war. There are very few who have not the ring of patriotism. Our boys have been trained and are on their way to fight on the battlefield for imperial principles. England is fighting the battle of democracy against one of the greatest foes of the race—the man who has Europe aflame today with his greed to conquer the world. Germany is one of the greatest monsters of iniquity in the world today. Nothing in history ancient or modern can approach the heinous crimes of the Germans.

England today is fighting against Germany, the archfiend of Europe, for liberty and truth. England has kept her word and thus is at war for Belgium's sake. "God bless Belgium tonight. Her heroes are fighting the greatest fight ever fought. Their names will stand in letters of gold as having fought against mighty odds for liberty and justice."
Were it not for the British fleet, not a home in Canada would be safe. It is not for the British fleet, we everyone would have to get out and fight for our freedoms. England is protecting herself, Belgium, our land and our neighbors to the south.
Dr. Platt closed urging the Liberal club to impress upon the youth the need of service against the Germans.
Mr. Fred. Burke sang "The Armourer's Song."
Mr. O'Flynn paid high tribute to the young Canadian officers who were taking commissions in British regiments in place of British officers who had fallen. "We don't know but what we may have to defend our own soil. Men must be urged to join in rifle practice, unite with the Home Guard which can perform home duties while the regiments are engaged.
"If it is necessary to send ten contingents there will be plenty of men going. The men who are volunteering are representing Canada's lifeblood.
"Here we must keep commerce and business moving, ready to supply the needs of war."
We must not criticize Canadian officers. At the last contingent's formation, far too many officers volunteered.
On motion of Mr. Butler and Mr. Rankin a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Grenville Sinclair for his artistic decoration of the rooms.
On motion of Mr. Chas. Whelan and Mr. Gordon Peterson a resolution of thanks was passed to the entertainers of the evening. Mr. R. King replying in their behalf.
Mr. J. O. Herby moved, seconded by Mr. Chas. Whelan a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. W. B. Riggs for the loan of a piano for the evening's music. The resolution carried unanimously.
Mr. Harold Barrett sang a very beautiful lyric, "The Perfect Day" and Mr. David Brown delighted the gathering with a French song.
The meeting broke up with the National Anthem.
The next smoker and concert of the association will be held on Monday, November 16th.

HUGE CROWD AT ARMOURIES

On Saturday Evening—Costume Parade—Prize-Winners.
Between two and three thousand citizens must have attended the Halcyon festival in the armouries on Saturday evening. The large hall was jammed with the crowd which, in a more dignified manner, long before eight o'clock standing room only was to be had in the commodious hall. Promptly on time Mayor Kidd took the chair and opened the meeting by asking the audience to sing the national anthem, which it did with gusto.
In his opening remarks the Mayor explained that the meeting had been called to enable Trentonians to show in some tangible form their appreciation of the volunteers who were going to take their part in the Empire's struggle with Germany and Austria. He stated that the gift of the Corporation to any officers going from Trenton, would be field glasses, prismatic compasses and revolvers. These articles would be procured and presented so soon as it was known which of the officers was selected. A portion of the musical program, which was ably rendered by the school, Jack Thompson, proceeded with, Miss Hazard, Messrs. Taylor, Ilsey, Skitch and Dickey taking part. All the performers were in good voice and were well

PATRIOTIC MEETING AND PRESENTATION AT TRENTON

Trenton, Oct. 28.—Mr. E. V. Ilsey, manager of the Standard Bank here, has to-day received instructions to report for duty at Windsor, on Monday next.
The quickly arranged Patriotic meeting held last evening in the Wellesley Opera House was a great success in every way. No such patriotic stirring up has ever before been witnessed in Trenton. Not only were the men agitated and more or less boisterous in their expressions of loyalty, but the ladies and children were equally concerned, though, of course, in a more dignified manner. Long before eight o'clock standing room only was to be had in the commodious hall. Promptly on time Mayor Kidd took the chair and opened the meeting by asking the audience to sing the national anthem, which it did with gusto.

handsome little souvenirs were presented by Mr. T. F. Rizzo. Accompanying the purses were packages containing many comforts for the men, which we believe were secured for them, very largely through the kindness of Miss Armstrong, who is entitled to very much credit for her thoughtfulness. Another evidence of thoughtfulness was the presentation to each of the men of a box of cigars by Tripp's Tobacco Store. In addressing the men Mr. B. Weddell pointed out that the people of Trenton appreciated the great sacrifice they were making in enlisting for service and assured them that the good wishes of their fellow citizens would follow them throughout the campaign, be it long or short. Excellent speeches were also made by Messrs. Ostrom; Cuff; O'Rourke; Rev. Canon Armstrong; Rev'ds Foster, Bunner, Rogers, Wilkins and Capt. McLean. We forgot to mention that 20 pay life insurance policies for $1000, has been arranged for by the Patriotic Fund announcement of which was made to the men at the meeting.

IT WAS NOT J. DOREEN'S CAR

That Struck Horse—Mr. Doreen Was in Napanea on Thursday Night

Mr. Joan Doreen of Shannonville, was in the city today and informed the Ontario that it was not his automobile which struck S. McCartney's horse on Thursday evening on Bridge street. He said he was in Napanea at the time the accident happened in Belleville. He desired the correction made, which is gladly done. The information as to the owner of the car came to the Ontario from Mr. McCartney himself.

FOXBORO.

Last Sunday Rev. Mr. Biek of Ivanhoe and Rev. W. Jones exchanged pulpits for both services. Mr. Biek was preaching in the interests of the Educational Fund.

Next Sunday the regular Quarterly meeting service will be held here in the morning and in the evening Mr. Jones will address the young people. Then on Monday evening there will be held the special Epworth silver jubilee celebration to which everybody is cordially invited. Just here we might remark in passing that there is a gratifying increase in attendance at both League and prayer services and a marked advance of spirituality in these services. All signs point to an old time revival period in the near future under the leadership of Rev. W. Jones, who is a man of whole-souled consecration and possessed of more than ordinary abilities as an evangelist.

MAGNIFICENT RESPONSE FROM BELLEVILLE CHEESE BOARD

To Patriotic Appeals for Contributions—Nearly Four Thousand Dollars Subscribed by the Various Cheese Factories.

(From Friday's Daily.)
Early in September the Belleville Cheese Board passed a resolution recommending that the various factories in the Belleville district give the proceeds of one day's "make" of cheese to the Patriotic Fund. There has been a magnificent response. We practically unanimous voice the dairy-men responded. Not only did the patrons of the factories freely give the day's product of milk, but the cheese-makers and the milkdrawers donated the day's salary. The total so far reported reaches almost to four thousand dollars, many of these same dairymen, it should also be noted, have contributed in goods and cash to various other patriotic movements. The amount recorded above does not by any means represent the grand total of the patriotic accomplishments of Belleville cheese-making interests. As Mr. Elliott said yesterday at the dinner, Belleville dairymen will contribute many times more, if necessary, for the Empire's defence.

WEDDING BELLS

EMPSON—RATHMAN
Last evening Bridge Street Methodist Church was the scene of a quiet wedding when Elizabeth E., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rathman was united in marriage to Herbert H. Empson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. S. Osborne, B.A., B.D., pastor of the church. The bride was assisted by her cousin, Miss Mabel Rathman, while Mr. W. S. Rathman supported the groom. After the nuptial knot had been tied a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Geddes Street, at the conclusion of which the happy couple left for Montreal and Ottawa.

CILBERT DELONG
Gilbert Delong passed away recently in this city, aged about 88 years. He was a descendant of the grand old U. E. Loyalist stock. He came of Quaker parents and was converted over 50 years ago. His first conversion took place in the first revival held in the village of Hillier. Following that he was a class leader from that until the mission, his home always being open for visiting ministers. His wife preceded him to the tomb about 25 years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss two sons George of this city and John of Prince Edward county and three daughters, Mrs. J. G. Davison of Alberta, Mrs. F. C. A. Man of this city and Mrs. (Capt) E.
