CHAPTER XXVII.
Blair turned pale, then forced a smile.
"My wife has not left me that I know of," he said. "I married Miss Violet Graham; you knew her, Lottie?"
"Violet Graham!" she panted. "Violet Graham! Oh!" and she put her hand before her eyes.
"Yes, and she is with me here at Naples, she and Austin Ambrose," he said. "He will be glad to see you and tell you that there is some mistake in your idea that he had refused to help you."
"She and he here!" she exclaimed hoarsely. "What does it mean? I can't think! I can't see what he wanted! It is all dark—all dark! Blair!" she exclaimed, seizing his arm. "That man—I tell you—I warn you! Oh, Blair, Blair! Take care! He means—" She broke off and almost groaned. "I don't know what he is working for, what he is plotting, but it is no good—no—" She stopped again and drew her shawl round her.
"Whom are you talking about, Lottie?" he asked. "Not Austin! Why, he was a friend of yours, and is one of the best fellows alive! My poor girl, what have you got in your bonnet? What do you mean?"
"Nothing, nothing!" she said, breathlessly. "I am half mad with cold and hunger."
"Yes, yes," he said, gently. "See here, Lottie; here is some money—get food and a lodging for to-night. Go to the Hotel Nationale. I will come to you to-morrow and you shall tell me all about it," and he held out some English sovereigns.
She looked up at him with a kind of wild horror, then with a cry of remorse, a cry that rang in his ears for hours afterward, she sped away. He threw off his cloak, and started after her, but she had gained one of the entrances to a network of dark and narrow courts, and Blair lost her as completely as if the pavement had opened and swallowed her up.
Lottie was not far off. Hidden in one of the deep doorways, she had Lasting Cure by Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Once the nervous system gets run down everything seems to tend to make it worse. You worry over your condition, are unable to get the required rest and sleep, noises excite and irritate you and the future is most discouraging.
The nervous system does not get the proper nourishment from the food you eat, so you must have something also to lift you out of the run-down condition. You may find that your experience coincides with the writer of this letter and be encouraged to put Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to the test.
You will make no mistake in employing this food cure, for, acting as it does hand in hand with Nature, it is bound to do you good.
Mrs. Jas. Jensen, Gwynne, Alta. writes: "About ten years ago I was troubled with severe attacks of neuralgia and nervousness, and was for watched him relinquish the pursuit; then, as if compelled to follow him, she crept out, and gained the large street, again.

As she passed the Palace Augustus, the guests of the conversation were coming out, and she drew back into the shadow of the doorway to let them pass.
They were all talking in an excited fashion, and two Englishmen, pausing quite close to the trembling girl, were speaking loudly enough for her to hear.
"Rum kind of thing this affair to-night," said one.
"Isn't it? But it's just what one expects in Italy. Gives quite a foreign flavor to the evening," and he laughed cynically. "Fancy two men fighting a duel on such a paltry excuse as that! Why, I didn't hear anything particularly offensive, did you?"
"Not half so offensive as one hears fifty times over at a political meeting in England."
"But then these Italians are all fire, aren't they? And glad of the excuse for a shindy, eh?"
"Poor Blair!" rejoined the other, with a sigh. "Seems rather hard when you are an earl, with goodness knows how many thousands a year, and a charming wife, to be spitted by a fire-eating Italian. But, there, we all prophesied that Blair Leyton would come to a violent end; either a cropper in the field, or the race-course."
"That's all right and consistent enough, and would appear to be the logical conclusion of such a man; but to be pierced through the heart with one of those confounded needles! Bah! And he is such a fine fellow, too! Never saw a better made man. Don't wonder all the women of his set were mad about him!"
"Yes, Blair is a good type of our best men," said the other. "But he may not fall; he used to fence awfully well in the old days, at Angelo's fencing-school, don't you know."
"I dare say, but fencing at Angelo's is a very different thing to crossing swords with a man like Rivani, especially when he means mischief, and if Rivani didn't mean mischief to-night, then I'm no judge of a man's looks."
They passed on, and left Lottie amazed in her ambush.
Blair and Prince Rivani to fight a duel! She had been in Naples long enough to have heard of Prince Rivani's reputation as a swordsman. Blair was as good as a dead man when he stood opposite the prince's gleaming steel.
What should she do? What should she do?
Half wild, she stood wringing her hands, her black eyes gleaming with terror and despair; then, suddenly, worn out and exhausted by privation, and the excitement of her meeting with Blair, and this subsequent discovery, she fell to the pavement in a deep faint.
CHAPTER XXVIII.
Mr. Austin Ambrose was pacing up and down, in tiger fashion, the extremely luxurious sitting-room, waiting for Blair to return from the Rivani's; and Austin Ambrose was anything but tranquil and at ease.
Hitherto fate had played into his hands so completely that he had run his career of villainy as smoothly as a well-oiled piston-rod works in its cylinder, but the sight of Lottie in Naples, close to his elbow, rather upset him.

The countess had gone to her boudoir some half an hour since; but she had languidly dropped a few words indicating that she intended remaining up for Blair, and Austin Ambrose listened intently now and again to hear if Blair went straight to his room.
Presently he heard a step upon the stairs; it was Blair's, but heavier and slower than usual, and it stopped at Austin's door, and Blair knocked.
Austin was almost giddy of an exclamation of surprise as Blair entered, for the handsome face looked so haggard and wearied that it might have been the face of a haunted man.
"You're late," he said, speaking lightly. "Had a pleasant evening, I hope?"
Blair sank into a chair, and his head drooped upon his breast; then he looked up and motioned to the table on which stood a liqueur stand.
"Mix me something—anything, there's a good fellow," and his voice was dry and hoarse. "A pleasant evening," he laughed grimly, "you shall judge for yourself. Austin, I have seen Lottie Belvoir!"
Austin Ambrose started, and he set the glass down with a little thud. Then he smiled.
"Not really?"
"Yes, I was right, and you were wrong; it was she whom I saw. Poor girl! Lottie—who used to be the brightest and the gayest of them—in Naples, starving and in rags."
"It is very strange! The last I heard of her," said Austin, his face pale with suppressed excitement and fear, "she was travelling with a dramatic company. Did she tell you—?"
"She would tell me little or nothing," said Blair with a sigh.
Austin Ambrose drew a long breath. Lottie had stood firm, then!
"Little or nothing, Austin," suddenly, "did she ever apply to you for help?"
"To me!" he exclaimed, raising his brows. "Certainly not! Why do you ask?"
"Because she said that she had, and you had refused to assist her. But she was dreadfully incoherent, and I'm afraid that privation and trouble have upset her reason. She, poor girl, seemed possessed by some wild idea that she had injured me. She even feared that I should—strike her! When I offered her some money and begged her to tell me where I could find her, she turned and bolted, and I lost her."
Austin Ambrose drew a breath of relief and mixed himself some brandy and water.
"Poor Lottie, she must be half mad! Thought she had injured you! Why, how could she do that?"
Blair shook his head.
"By no way that I know of. She behaved very strangely all through. She must be found to-morrow."
"Of course; and there's nothing easier. Don't make yourself uncomfortable about it, my dear Blair. I will set the police on her track at once, and we'll soon find her. But the meeting with poor Lottie hasn't spoiled your evening, I hope?"

Blair was silent for a moment, then he said, in a low voice:
"No; it was not that, painful as it was. I wish to Heaven it was no more! But—but—Austin, I have seen poor Margaret!"
Austin Ambrose sprung to his feet, and his hand slid like a snake into the bosom of his coat.
"Seen—seen—!" he exclaimed, hoarsely.
"Yes," said Blair, whose back was turned toward him and who did not see his white face and the movement of his hand; "yes, I have seen her in a picture."
Austin Ambrose dropped into the chair again, and lifting the glass to his lips took a good draught.
"In a picture, my dear Blair! You—you startled me. In a picture! A face that resembled hers. My dear old fellow, you are too sensitive. You must, really you must fight against these feelings. They are ruining your life. In a picture—"
"Yes; not a face like hers, but her very own. I saw a picture"—and he stood and held out his hand as if he were pointing to it—"of Margaret, of my poor darling herself—lying on the Long Rock at Appleford!" his voice broke, and he turned away.
Austin Ambrose looked at him.
"He is going mad!" he thought.
"My dear Blair, impossible! This is the freak of a mind overwrought by sorrow and too much dwelling on the past. It is impossible. Where did you see this wonderful picture?" he asked. "I should like to see it."
"I saw it at Prince Rivani's. You can see it, no doubt. Do you think I am dreaming! That I have conjured the picture from my own imagination? Do you think I am going mad?"
Austin Ambrose certainly did think so, but he said:
"No, no; certainly not. But—but—"
"You do think so. Let me give you direct evidence that I know what I am about," said Blair. "The picture is Prince Rivani's; he took me to his private room to see it; it is the talk of all Italy, Europe, for what I know. It is a magnificent picture, terrible, moving, to any one; but judge what effect it must have had upon me when I say that it was the place itself, the face and figure themselves of my poor lost darling."
Austin Ambrose stared at him.
"And Prince Rivani showed you this! What did he tell you about it, its history and so on?"
"Nothing," said Blair, gloomily. "I was so startled that I was almost beside myself, and I was about to ask him the history of the picture, and by whom it was painted, when he—you will think I am mad now, Austin!—refused to tell me anything excepting that the picture was a famous one. And he brought the interview to an abrupt conclusion by challenging me to fight him—" Austin Ambrose's face worked.
"Which you refused?" he said.
"For which I asked his reasons. He declined to give me any one, called me a liar, and so—" he laughed, grimly—"provided me with an excuse for shooting him!"
"Well, and—the artist, who is he?"
"It was not a man, but a woman—a girl," said Blair, quietly and wearily.
Austin Ambrose started, and his eyes flashed. He saw it all in a moment. The picture had been painted by Margaret herself! The prince had fallen in love with her, she had told him her story, and the prince meant to avenge her.

RAIDERS IN THE ATLANTIC.
NEW YORK, May 8.
The steamship Venezia here from Bordeaux with forty American citizens aboard, was fired upon and chased for several hours by two commerce raiders, while off the coast, according to a story related when the vessel docked. The captain and members of the crew were reticent when questioned, concerning the attack upon the vessel, but Americans on board who were employed in caring for horses transported on the Venezia's last voyage eastward, vouched for the accuracy of the story. According to these men the Venezia encountered the commerce raiders on April 28, three days out from Bordeaux.
Captain Gaunt, Naval Attaché of the British Embassy at Washington, today investigated the report that German commerce raiders are operating in the transatlantic steamship lanes. Gaunt obtained from Captain Boniface a statement showing the exact latitude and longitude in which the raiders were sighted. The Naval Attaché said that he intended to wire to Halifax, to ask that British cruisers now in American waters would be warned. They will know in Halifax if any of our cruisers or auxiliaries are in the region, reported by Captain Boniface, said Gaunt. If these are really German raiders, that have escaped from Kiel, they will have a short lease of life. We will do everything possible to clear the ocean lanes quickly.

"I've proved Beyond Doubt" that Zam-Buk's power is infinitely superior to that of any other ointment. That not only is Zam-Buk capable of curing where other remedies fail, but Zam-Buk cures are permanent.

When living in Vernon, I suffered acutely for over two years with a sore on my leg, which, despite all treatment, turned into an open ulcer. I tried all kinds of ointments, liniments, etc., but the ulcer only got worse, and finally became so bad that I decided to go into a hospital for treatment. Before doing so, however, a friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, which I did, and the first few applications gave me such relief, that I was encouraged to continue. By degrees all the soreness and inflammation were drawn out, and then healing began. To cut a long story short, perseverance with this wonderful balm resulted in a complete cure. To me it seems nothing short of marvellous, that after suffering so intensely for so long, Zam-Buk should effect a cure in such a comparatively short time, after all other remedies had failed. It is two years now since this cure was effected, and there has not been the slightest trace of the ulcer returning. Since I have enlisted I have further proved the power of Zam-Buk. I have just returned from the front where the men say it is invaluable—so splendid for the many injuries and ailments incidental to the soldier's life. I have personally given Zam-Buk to many of my men for various ailments and injuries and in all cases the results have been eminently satisfactory. I shall be glad if you will publish this letter, as I think everyone should know of this wonderful healing ointment—Zam-Buk! (Sgd.) RICHARD B. NUNN, Capt. Officers' Mess, South Midlands, D.A.C., Salisbury, Eng.

HOW ZAM-BUK CURES The secret of Zam-Buk's healing power lies in its herbal composition and its combined penetrating and germicidal properties. GERMAN CYMRIC REPORTED SINKING.

LONDON, May 8. The White Star liner Cymric is reported sinking, according to Lloyd's, from New York. She carried a general cargo, and no passengers. Sinking is known yet as to the nature of the accident.

NO MUNITIONS ON BOARD.

NEW YORK, May 8. The Cymric when she left New York on April 29, carried a crew about one hundred, none of whom, so far as is known here by the White Star Line, is American. She was commanded by Beadwell, an Englishman. According to the line's officials, the Cymric was in their service. Denial is being made that she had been taken over by the British Government. She carried a general freight cargo, which, according to officials did not include munitions of war so far as they know. The Cymric was due at Liverpool to-day. No word has been received from the line's office in England that the vessel had met with mishap. The Cymric discontinued carrying passengers some time ago, it is stated here.

VIOLENT FIGHTING ON VERDUN FRONT.

PARIS, May 8. Fighting of great violence continued last night on the Verdun front. Furious German attacks near Hill 304 were broken by the French, the War Office announced to-day. The losses of the Germans are described as extremely heavy. The French attacked Hill 304 and drove the Germans from a communication trench which they penetrated yesterday. East of the Meuse there was a series of night engagements. The Germans were driven from a trench south of Laumont which they occupied yesterday and thirty men, including two officers, were captured. The offensive movement yesterday covered a front of two kilometres between Verdun, Wood and Fort Douaumont costing the Germans important losses.

AUSTRALIAN AND NEW ZEALAND TROOPS ARRIVE IN FRANCE.

LONDON, May 8. Australian and New Zealand troops have arrived in France and have taken over a portion of the front. This was announced in an official statement to-night.

U. S. NOTE PROBABLY GONE FORWARD.

WASHINGTON, May 8. The U. S. note to Germany is practically completed and probably will go forward to Berlin to-day. It is understood that it will be a brief information to Germany that as long as the new instructions to submarine commanders are observed, diplomatic relations will be continued, but that the States cannot allow Germany to dictate its negotiations with Great Britain.

REPORT DENIED.

LONDON, May 8. Official denial was made to-day of the report that Pope Benedict had appealed to Emperor William and President Wilson in an effort to avert a rupture between Germany and the United States. The Foreign Office made this announcement. With regard to American and German negotiations it had been widely stated that the Pope on Friday last telegraphed the German Emperor and the President of the United States urging conciliation.

PRETENDERS TO THE ALBANIAN THRONE.

PARIS, May 8. A Havas despatch from Athens says that several pretenders to the throne of Albania are conducting an active propaganda. They are said to include Prince Cyril of Bulgaria, Prince William of Wied, former ruler of the country who has the support of the Austrians, Assif Pasha who is supported by part of the Albanians, and the young Turk Basri Bey, who contends that a Turk should be selected as the Albanian sovereign. It was reported several weeks ago that Prince William of Wied, who fled from Albania in 1914, after a short reign was again proclaimed ruler of the country.

BRITAIN BUILDING ZEPPELINS.

A News Agency despatch from Amsterdam to-day, says that General Townshend, Commander of the British force which surrendered to the Turks at Kut el Amara, and four Generals of his staff, have arrived at Bagdad, and according to Constantinople despatches to-day, they are being shown every consideration by the Turks.

PRESIDENT OF SANTO DOMINGO RESIGNS.

SANTO DOMINGO, May 8. General Jimenes, President of Santo Domingo, has resigned. He took this action in order to prevent armed intervention by the United States. Quiet has been restored and Congress will appoint a Provisional President. In view of the serious situation here, American marines fully equipped, were landed to-day in the outskirts of the city. The French armoured cruiser, Marsellaise arrived in port this morning.

SULLIVAN RELEASED.

LONDON, May 8. James M. Sullivan, former U. S. Minister at Santo Domingo, who was arrested, following the recent uprising in Ireland, notified the American Embassy here from Dublin, to-day, that he had been released.

IRISH QUESTION AGAIN RAISED.

LONDON, May 8. The Irish question was again raised in the Commons to-day by Laurence Ginnell, Nationalist, who attacked the Government last week on account of putting to death the leaders of the Dublin uprising. In response to a question from Ginnell, Premier Asquith said that he could not give any undertaking that no more men would be put to death before an opportunity would be given for discussion of the matter in the Commons. Receiving this reply, Ginnell shouted, "murder, murder." John Redmond, the Irish leader, put a question to Asquith which suggested that continuation of military executions in Ireland was causing rapidly increasing bitterness and exasperation among a section of the population which had no sympathy with the insurrection. He asked whether, following the precedent set by General Botha in South Africa, the Premier would cause a stop to be put to executions. Asquith replied that from the very first Redmond had been urging upon the Government questions which had not fallen on unwilling ears, in favor of clemency for rank and file. Asquith had to say that General Maxwell had been in direct personal communication with the Cabinet on the subject.

FOUR MORE LEADERS EXECUTED.

LONDON, May 8. Four more leaders of the Irish revolt have been sentenced to death by a Dublin court-martial and executed, according to an official statement issued to-day. They were Cornelius Colbert, Edmund Kent, Michael Mallon and J. J. Hession. Nineteen others concerned in the insurrection were sentenced to death, but the sentences were commuted to various terms of penal servitude. On three others, prison terms were imposed. Two were acquitted.

FOR THE RELIEF OF SHACKLETON.

LONDON, May 8. The Government has decided to organize immediately an expedition for the relief of Shackleton.

IN COLLISION.

WASHINGTON, May 8. A standing army of 250,000 men, provided by the Senate amendment to the Army Bill, was rejected in the House to-day by 221 to 122. The House Bill provided for 140,000.

DAYLIGHT SAVING BILL.

LONDON, May 8. The Commons to-day, after a short discussion, adopted the motion by Sir Henry Norman, favoring daylight saving. The Government will introduce a Bill immediately, and if, as seems certain, it passes all its stages this week, the Daylight Saving Measure will go into effect on Saturday, May 20, when at midnight clocks will be advanced one hour.

ST. PIERRE BULLETIN.

PARIS, May 8. (Official.) On the left bank of the Meuse strip-born fighting continues. During the night on Hill 304 district, our resistance not only shattered the fierce enemy attempt, but proved very costly to the boches. A sharp counter-attack delivered by our troops drove the Germans out of the eastern part of Hill 304, where they had penetrated yesterday. We secured fifty prisoners. On the right bank of the Meuse in the southern district of Haudromont wood, during a series of night engagements, we also dislodged the Germans from the greatest part of the first line trenches where they had gained a footing yesterday. We made here about thirty prisoners. It is confirmed that during the German offensive of yesterday on a front extending over two kilometers between Haudromont wood and Douaumont Fort, suffered heavily. Quiet night on the remainder of the front, except in Remieres and Jury woods district. The Ypres-Boulers railway, where our artillery was very active. Two German planes were brought down during an aerial engagement in Verdun district. One fell in the vicinity of Ornes, and the other was seriously damaged and had to ground south of Azannes.

THE CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE.

LONDON, May 8. The British official statement of the campaign in France says that there was some activity last Sunday at various points east of Triepoval wood where the enemy, after heavy bombardment, entered our trenches, causing some casualties before he was driven out. The enemy left some dead in our trenches and one prisoner. North of Triepoval wood we raided the enemy's trenches successfully, driving the occupants into the dugouts, which were effectively bombed. Near Fromelles we were successful, and our troops entered the well-occupied enemy trenches, and inflicted considerable casualties, while our casualties were slight. These raids were carried out by troops of our Royal Welsh Fusiliers and Royal Inniskilling Fusiliers. Last night and to-day there was artillery activity near Ypres salient, about Stelvi, and near the Ypres-Boulers railway. Near Boinaingne we carried out successful bombardments.

ATHENS, May 8. Premier Venizelos, who was a candidate for the Chamber of Deputies for Mytilene, headed the poll by a large majority in the elections held yesterday. Much enthusiasm was displayed by the people over the success of the former Premier.

NO FURTHER NEWS FROM THE CYMRIC.

NEW YORK, May 8. No word has been received at the offices of the White Star Line here, it was said, concerning the steamer Cymric, which was reported sinking in the Celtic despatches from London when the offices closed for the night. J. J. Macpherson, the British Vice-Consul here in charge of shipping, said that as far as he knew there were no Americans among the crew.

GERMANY'S NOTE.

WASHINGTON, May 8. The following is a text of the note called to-day by Secretary Lansing to Ambassador Gerard, at Berlin, with instructions to deliver it to the German Minister of Foreign Affairs: "The note of the Imperial German Government, under date May 4, 1916, received careful consideration by the Government of the U. S. It is noted as indicating the purpose of the Imperial Government as to the future, that it is prepared to do its utmost to confine the operation of the war for the rest of its duration to the fighting forces of the belligerents, and that it is determined to impose upon all its commanders at sea, limitations to recognize the rules of international law upon which the Government of the U. S. has insisted throughout the months which have elapsed since the Imperial Government announced Feb. 4th, 1915, its submarine policy, which is now happily abandoned. The Government of the U. S. has been constantly guided and restrained by motives of friendship, its patient effort being to have an amicable settlement of the critical questions arising from that policy. In accepting the Imperial Government's declaration of its abandonment of that policy, which has so seriously menaced the good relations between the two countries, the Government of the U. S. will rely upon the scrupulous execution henceforth of the now altered policy of the Imperial Government, such as will remove the principal danger of the good relations existing between the U. S. and Germany."

GERMAN GOVT. ISSUES NEW ORDERS.

LONDON, May 8. The German Government has already issued new orders to the commanders of the German submarines, in accordance with concessions set forth in the American note, according to the Daily Telegraph's Rotterdam correspondent.

WAS SHE TORPEDOED?

LONDON, May 8. The 13,000 ton White Star liner Cymric, which for some time has been engaged in the freight service, has been torpedoed by a German submarine, according to advices received here. One report says that the Cymric was attacked in the Atlantic, while information to the White Star Co. as Liverpool is to the effect that the ship was torpedoed about noon to-day.

TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.00 A.M.

LONDON, To-day.
 The Cymric left New York April 29 with an enormous cargo of war munitions. As she usually makes the voyage from New York to Liverpool in 10 days, she was, therefore, within a day or two of her destination. It is considered probable that in the absence of definite delays the disaster to the Cymric occurred off the West Coast of Ireland, but whether on the northerly or southerly route cannot be stated. The fate of the steamer is not yet known, although an early message received in London reported the Cymric sinking. The crew aboard numbered about 100 men, but the steamer carried no passengers.

CYMRIC TORPEDOED.

QUEENSTOWN, To-day.
 "Cymric was torpedoed." The above despatch filed by the Associated Press correspondent at Queenstown is the first direct announcement regarding the torpedoing of the White Star liner. It would seem to indicate that the Cymric was attacked off the S. W. or the south coast of Ireland, possibly not far from where the Lusitania went down. The Cymric was torpedoed at 4 o'clock on Monday afternoon. It is reported she is still afloat and proceeding to an Irish port.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, To-day.
 The entire system of trenches on a northern slope of Hill 304, north-west of Verdun, have been captured by the Germans, according to Berlin. The French in fighting suffered extraordinary losses. In addition 40 officers and 1280 soldiers were made prisoners. Paris reports east of the hill the Germans were driven out from the communicating trenches which they previously had penetrated, and that west of the hill the German assault against French positions on Hill 287 was put down by French fire.

OUT TO WIN WAR.

LONDON, To-day.
 London newspapers refuse to accept seriously the peace talk which has followed the publication of the German Note to Washington. Outlining the position of the Allies in regard to the peace proposals, the Daily Telegraph says the Entente Powers are out to win the war and overthrow Prussian militarism. No inconclusive peace will suit their demands, and the very suggestion of a draw is abhorrent. They will continue to use their superiority in sea power to promote their common purpose. The Daily News says we should nourish extravagant hopes, if we thought that the end which all desire is in sight. There have been no changes in the front and the present movement will doubtless be found to be equally fallacious, but the time will come sooner than many expect, when Germany's approaches will be more definite and frankly on the basis of suitor for peace not of a belittling offering terms. Until that time the Allies will not entangle themselves in futile negotiations.

LONDON, To-day.
 The trial of Casement is to be public. The first hearing is to-morrow. It is understood Sir Roger intends to conduct his own defence. Harcourt has declined to succeed Birrell as Chief Secretary for Ireland, giving ill health as the reason. The choice of Birrell's successor is now believed to rest between Tennant, Under Secretary for War, and Col. Sir Mark Sykes, described as an unfortified health station. The Entente Allies in France have been strengthened by the arrival of Australian and New Zealand troops who have taken over a portion of the front. Four more leaders of the Irish revolt have been executed.

The Rebel Proclamation

The proclamation issued by the insurgents at Dublin at the outbreak of the revolt reads as follows:

"The Provisional Government of the Irish Republic to the People of Ireland:

"Irish men and Irish women, in the name of God and of the dead generations from which you received the old traditions of Nationhood, Ireland, through us, summons her children to her flag and strikes for her freedom, having organized and trained her manhood through her secret revolutionary organization, the Irish Republican Brotherhood, and through her own military organization, the Irish Volunteers and the Irish Citizens Army.

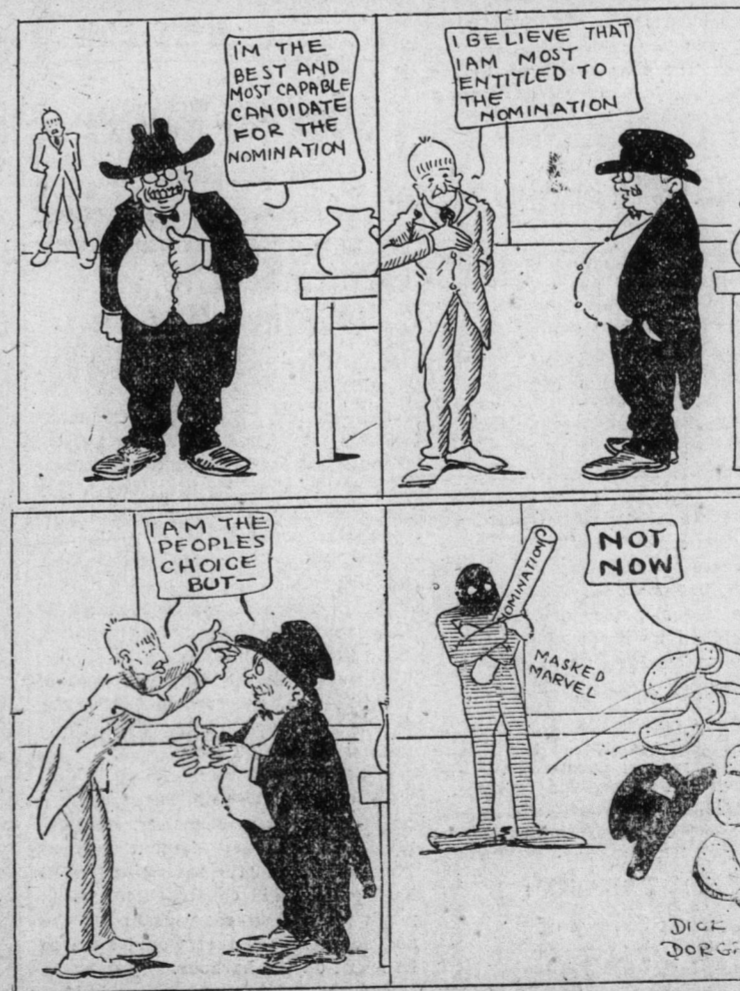

"Having patiently perfected their discipline and resolutely waited for the right moment to reveal itself, she now seizes that moment, and, supported by her exiled children in America and by her gallant allies in Europe, she strikes, in full confidence of victory.

"We declare the right of the people of Ireland to the ownership of Ireland and to unfettered control of Irish destinies, to be sovereign and indefeasible. Long usurpation of that right by a foreign people and government, has not extinguished that right, nor can ever be extinguished except by the destruction of the Irish people.

"In every generation the Irish people have asserted their right to a national freedom and sovereignty. Six times during the past 300 years they have asserted it in arms. Standing on that fundamental right and again asserting it in arms in the face of the world, we hereby proclaim the Irish Republic as a sovereign independent state, and we pledge our lives and the lives of our comrades in arms to the cause of its freedom, its welfare and its exaltation among nations.

Usual Appeal to Dethy.

"The Irish Republic is entitled to, and hereby claims, the allegiance of every Irish man and Irish woman. The Republic guarantees religious and civil liberty, equal rights and opportunities to all its citizens, and declares its resolve to pursue the happiness and prosperity of the whole nation and of all its parts, cherishing all the children of the nation equally and oblivious of the differences carefully fostered by an alien government which have divided the minority from the majority in the past.

"Until our arms have brought the opportune moment for the establishment of a permanent national government, representative of the whole people of Ireland elected by all the suffrages of all her men and women, the Provisional Government hereby constituted, will administer the civil and

"We place the cause of the Irish Republic under the protection of the Most High God, whose blessing we invoke upon our arms, and we pray that no one who serves that cause will dishonor it by cowardice, inhumanity or rapine. In this supreme hour the Irish nation must by its valor and discipline, and by the readiness of its children to sacrifice themselves for the common good, prove itself worthy of the august destiny to which it is called.

Schooner Returns Leaking Badly.

The schr. Lilla D. Young put back to port this morning leaking badly. The ship was 250 miles out to sea when it was not thought wise to continue the voyage. The ship which is owned by the Horwood Lumber Co. was formerly employed in the lumber trade, but was recently chartered by Monroe and Company to convey fish to the European market. Since entering the fish trade the ship has been up against hard luck. About six weeks ago when about to put to sea she was rammed by the tug John Green and was forced to dock at Hr. Grace for repairs. Leaving shortly after more trouble was experienced and the ship put in at Bay Bulls and was towed back to this port for examination. After a short delay mainly caused by unfavourable weather and her captain refusing to take the ship across, and having to get a new captain, Capt. Roberts filling the bill, the ship set sail last week to find her back in port this morning in a badly leaky condition.

Why Be Rude?

By RUTH CAMERON.

Once upon a time I was taken for a canvasser. I had a bag which looked as if it contained books, and I called at a stranger's house to leave a book and a message for a mutual friend. The maid came to the door and I asked for her employer. While I was asking the woman herself came to the head of the stairs. "Tell her I don't want anything," she called down. "But she says she has a book, to" began the maid. "I don't want any books," persisted the Madame, in a high-pitched, disagreeable voice. "What made you let her in? I've told you not to let any of those book agents inside the door. They're too persistent."

The matter was ultimately adjusted, and of course I received profuse apologies, but I knew that was the way I would have been treated if I had actually been a canvasser, and since then they have had my deepest sympathy.

She Hadn't Sold a Book in Four Days.

A woman came to my door the other day with a book to sell. She looked very, very tired and I asked her if she didn't want to come in and rest for a few minutes, though I could not possibly buy the book. She accepted and sank into a chair with a sigh of relief. "This is the first time I've gotten into a house to-day," she said. "I've been walking since half-past eight this morning (it was then about two o'clock), and I got so tired finally that I sat down on some steps."

Further conversation revealed that she hadn't sold a book so far that week.

If People Could only be Kinder!

"If people can't buy, of course I don't blame them," she said; "but I don't see why they need be so sharp and disagreeable."

I was telling this incident to the Authorman and he said, "If Christ came to our town as a peddler, I am afraid He would think the world had not grown much kinder in two thousand years of Christianity." The other day I read a little item in the newspaper that affected me profoundly because of what (perhaps without cause) I read into it. A woman of sixty had been killed at a crossing by a train. The bystanders said it was her own fault, she was careless. The item went on to say that she had just started canvassing, it was her second day out. Of course you can easily guess how I translated that.

She Would Have Gladly Done Other Work.

People who are harsh to peddlers always give an excuse that they might be doing some honest work (why isn't individual selling as honest as collective selling?). I asked the woman with the book why she didn't get into something else, and she said she didn't know where to turn and she couldn't afford to lose time looking. She would make an excellent matron or housekeeper, and she would love the work, but doesn't know how to get it. Of course one cannot always buy of peddlers, but one does not need to be rude to them. Some of them are persistent to be sure; but isn't it possible to combine firmness with a little courtesy and friendliness?

Government to Continue Hudson Bay Railway.

Ottawa, May 3.—The Commons spent most of to-day's sitting putting through the estimate for the continuation of the work on the Hudson Bay Railway. Although a number of the members doubted very much the feasibility of the whole undertaking, Parliament decided to go on with the work to which it was committed by an expenditure already aggregating some fifteen million dollars. Hon. Dr. Reid said that the estimated cost of the whole enterprise was $26,000,000, of which $10,000,000 was chargeable to the terminal at Port Nelson.

Hon. Frank Oliver declared that Fort Churchill would have made a much better harbor but Dr. Reid replied that expert opinion favored Port Nelson and the saving in freight haul and road construction would much more than compensate for the additional money that would have to be spent on the harbour.

Hon. George P. Graham said that he still had faith in the Hudson Bay railway. He thought the experience of time would disapprove the present doubters. Mr. Graham made the interesting announcement that he had been informed within the past fortnight that gold had been discovered within a few miles of the railway line.

In olden days, the which I praise, as warmly as I'm able, we raised our beans and other greens out back ferniest the stable. A garden plot behind his cot each man inaugurated, and there he'd raise the peas a n d maize, and vines with pumpkins weighted. There'd busy boys around him, and he'd have beets and kindred eats when wintry temp-ests found him. This good old plan by modern man, no more, alas, is followed; but at the store he blows his ore for everything that's swallowed. He used to pluck the garden truck, and eat it fresh and juicy, and there was lots for all the tots, for Jake and Fill and Lucy. His grocer's bill then didn't kill. It was no grief to meet it; his bill of fare was rich and rare, and no hotel could beat it. In those old days the poorest jays set up the best of tables; but now man eats his greens and beets from cans with gaudy labels.

A wreath of pinked ribbon ruching is a new feature in millinery.

Battle Cruisers Repeatedly Hit by British Ships.

Courageous Fight of Commander of Light Cruiser Squadron.

London, April 28.—The Lowestoft correspondent of the Daily Mail, telegraphing under date of April 25, says:

"The scream of shells and their detonation as they burst inland was the first intimation the people of Lowestoft had that for the second time German dreadnoughts were off their shores. The people sprang from their beds, peering toward the sea, where, looming through the mist, could be seen great gray shapes here and there picked out with flashes of flame as another shell came ashore.

"The inhabitants scrambled into their clothes and, catching hold of their little ones, hurried out, not in panic, but out of curiosity, to the shore to watch and count the German shells.

"The enemy did not have his own way for long. The watchers saw German seaplanes, which a few minutes before had left the vessels, come hurrying back. The reason was soon apparent. From the south came little clouds of smoke, drawing nearer every moment.

"A rousing cheer was given as it was seen that the smoke was coming from British cruisers and destroyers.

"The big German ships loosed a stream of shells at the approaching ships and then swung to the east, but the German Admiral again changed his course when he found that the British force was not nearly equal to his five great battle-cruisers and many destroyers.

"Every moment we expected to see our ships blown out of the water," said one of our watchers. "Our comparatively small vessels were seeking to get at close quarters with the German giants, and a perfect storm of shells screamed across the water toward them, but whoever commanded our ships had great courage.

Huns Hit Time and Again.

"The German shells were falling all around our craft, but they did not reply until well within range. Then time and again they hit the German monsters. Once we saw a volume of flame leap from a funnel of one of the great warships. Another suddenly staggered, but in a second righted itself, though we could see steam and smoke coming from unusual places.

"Our ships were hit—they could hardly escape, so thickly did the Germans plaster the water with shells. The sea was so churned by the fast moving ships and the exploding shells that it looked like foam.

"Suddenly we saw an aeroplane coming from the north at a terrific rate.

"What ever message it brought the Germans turned tail and made off at high speed to the northeast. As they fled one of the giants seemed in trouble. Our destroyers shot after them and worried them as they disappeared, the sound of the firing growing fainter."

Wesley's Journey When 81.

"John Wesley is beginning to be recognized as one of the very greatest Englishmen who ever lived, and the world is already discerning the unique value of his Journal, not only in relation to his own career and the rise of Methodism, but as a mirror of life in England in the eighteenth century," says the Rev. Bett in the Methodist Recorder, reviewing the seventh volume of the standard edition of Wesley's Journal, which Mr. Nehemiah Curmuck edited with so much devotion.

"This volume carries on the record of Wesley's life from July 13, 1784, to October 24, 1790, that is to say, from about his eighty-first birthday to within a few months of his death. When we remember this it is a staggering narrative. Here are some examples of his incredible endurance.

"During the first week of the year 1785, being then over eighty-one years of age, he spent five consecutive days in begging money for the poor, and succeeded in collecting £200. "It was hard work, as most of the streets were filled with melting snow, which often lay ankle-deep so that my feet were steeped in snow-water nearly from morning till evening."

"In September, 1786, after a stormy voyage from Holland, which absolutely prostrated his younger companions, he landed at Harwich, rested an hour, and then took chaise for London, but had to stay the night at Colchester, because one of his fellow-travellers was too ill to continue the journey, whereupon Wesley seized the chance of preaching in the town. The next morning he started at five o'clock, reached London before noon, transacted business all the afternoon, and preached at night.

"On August 5, 1787, he left Manchester at midnight for Birmingham, and went on from there to Worcester, Gloucester, Salisbury and Southampton, arriving at the latter place on Thursday morning. He travelled nearly 250 miles in 81 hours, with two delays arising from accidents to the coach; he preached at Birmingham, Gloucester, and Salisbury on the way; he preached at Southampton at seven o'clock on Thursday evening, and again at six on Friday morning; and then he went in the afternoon to hear the musical glasses.

LIGHT, HEAT, COMFORT!

The proprietor of one of the best known multiple shopping systems is credited with saying, "Give me any old shop, in any old street, and I'll guarantee to make it in twelve months the most widely known and best frequented shop in the district." He was asked to explain. Holding up three fingers he said, "I believe in the trinity of LIGHT, WARMTH, COMFORT. I should dazzle the moths until the candle drew them, I should bring them into a warm, comfortable shop, filled with a soft, pleasing radiance, and the rest is—well, more child's play."

Mixed metaphors, perhaps, but expressive. Now we can more than imagine the kind of shop this well-known individual would open, for we pass it in almost every town—always a landmark to the eye, and always a place of welcome and invitation as one stands for a moment on the pathway and lets one's gaze travel inside it. The subdued, restful lighting effect, that so charms because of its very unobtrusiveness, the absence of dark corners, the intangible feeling that if one would step inside one would be sure of experiencing a delicious sense of warmth and comfort and cheerfulness—all these are part of its appeal. Truly a shop with an individuality.

We cordially invite all progressive business men to visit our show-room and see our latest Lighting and Heating Appliances, by the adoption of which the ideal outline in the above extract from a London paper may be easily secured. Our new RADIO X Lamp and GASTHEAM Rad atoms fill all light and heat requirements.

"On July 1, 1878, he left Sheffield at half-past three in the morning for Derby. About nine o'clock the axle-tree of his chaise broke, and the vehicle overturned. The horses fortunately stood still, while Wesley and his companions crept through the shattered windows. He remarks that the broken glass cut one of his gloves a little, but did us no other damage. He got another chaise, went on to Derby, visited and preached there, and preached again at five the next morning, leaving a few hours afterwards for Nottingham.

"What a miraculous old man Wesley was!"

The Man Who Dropped the Match.

"Those who know the fascination of pondering on the great 'ifs' of history will find their thoughts set working to some purpose by the news to-day that the wretched Serbian student Prinzip, whose shot at Sarajevo on June 28, 1914, set Europe afire, is dying of consumption in an Austrian gaol," says the Manchester Guardian.

"It is arguable that no single action in all recorded time has so changed the fate of the world as his. It may be that the Great War would have come in any case. That we can never know. But the murder of the Archduke was the immediate cause of it as certainly a dropped match is of an explosion in the powder magazine where it falls.

"If Norman William had died at Senlac, if Wellington had lost at Waterloo, the conceivable consequences would have been less wide than those which might have been averted if this Pan-Slav fanatic had held his hand at Sarajevo, as he confessed he was tempted to do when he saw the Archduke's wife by her husband's side in the carriage.

"That is an 'if' that will not bear contemplation.

"An odd chance has left him to linger in prison and face death by disease while millions whose lives his shot imperilled have met their end by fire and sword. Five of those said to be implicated with him in the plot were hanged, but his age was nineteen, and as a minor he could not by Austrian law suffer the death penalty. His sentence was twenty years' penal servitude. Should he live to complete it, he would emerge to find the world still bleeding from the wounds that came of his act.

"One wonders if his prison walls are thick enough to keep from his ears the clash of nation upon nation around him. If not, his thoughts must be such as would beggar even Eschylus of imaginative compound adjectives."

To properly pasteurize milk put a gallon of water over the fire in a clean pan or kettle. When the water is boiling hard take the kettle from the fire and allow it to stand on the table for ten minutes uncovered. Then put in the filled and corked nursing bottles and leave them for half an hour, covering the kettle meanwhile with a blanket. At the end of half an hour remove the bottles and cool them as quickly as possible to fifty degrees and put them where they will keep cool when needed.

When it is time to feed the baby take out a bottle and set it in a pail of warm water over the fire to heat. After the baby has finished, the bottle should be emptied, rinsed and filled with cold water. At some convenient hour of the day the mother will wash all the used bottles with soap and warm water, using a bottle brush to clean the inside of them. She should then rinse them and boil them in the same pan or kettle in which they were pasteurized.

Pansy League.

Government House, Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—May I through your paper thank all the very nice kind people who came to my sale on Saturday. It was most brave of them to come out in the rain. I had a very happy time, and I scented the music of the gramophone. One dear little member came to enter his name and brought his very own 25 cents. I am very sorry I collided with him when I was harnessed to my little cart but you see I was so happy to see so many friends and also I scented a nice piece of Mr. O'Regan's English Beef. I wonder if little Rex did. I really must learn dog language. I have taken $18.50 in my little cart to the W. P. A., and I have the same for the Pansy League. I must not forget to thank my big kind Master and my two little mistresses for all the nice goods they gave me for my sale. Last but not least by any means, to the grower and painter of the Pansies. Many thanks to the ice merchant and the jumble maker, please I thank you, also your kind promise for future help. Well, I must away. I have still to work hard for my next Pansy League Stall. So we shall meet again on a jolly summer day. With my love to all and many thanks,
Your grateful and loving friend,
PANSY.

That Break-Through.

We shall break through all the West if and when we can count on a superiority of two or three to one in men and guns over the whole front, and when our generalship is such as to ensure a local superiority of six to one, at any rate in the first stages of attack. If we cannot get that superiority this year, we ought to wait till next year, reserving our offensive activities until the enemy has further weakened himself. It will be a shock to waste of time and money; on the other hand, it will save lives, which are more important, and we shall have a much better chance of success. The obsession of the break-through has, we think, got a dangerous hold on the popular mind, and it is desirable that the alternative military plans should be carefully considered by the people, as they have doubtless been by the Government. There are no short cuts to victory in this war.

SAXON "SIX"

A big touring car for five people

The Saxon high speed motor design gets more power on less gasoline than used to be possible with a bigger motor. To-day in your touring car of course you want a "Six." No lesser motor can give you the same even pull—smoothness—power—flexibility. Except for starting the car, shifting is practically unknown to Saxon "Six" owners. The yacht-line body of the Saxon "Six" exemplifies the latest in motor car fashion. The Saxon "Six" is a big car for five people—plenty of room in driving compartment and tonneau. The long, resilient, cantilever springs assure riding comfort. If you seek speed the Saxon "Six" has it. If you seek power the Saxon "Six" has it. "It laughs at hills." The car is absolutely phenomenal in its power and flexibility and our dealers welcome any test you care to invite. We are perfectly confident that the Saxon "Six" for power—speed—flexibility—acceleration—hill climbing—quietness—smoothness—coolness—comfort—economy will outperform any car in its price class. Ask to be shown. EQUIPMENT—Electric lighting and starting system, two head lights, dash light and tail light; one-man top; windshield; electric horn; speedometer; extra rim; tire irons; tools and jack.

SAXON ROADSTER

The Saxon roadster is absolutely modern and up to the minute—yet it embodies no experimental features. There is nothing freakish about it. It is a tried and proved car. It has been tried in the hands of 30,000 users—in engineers tests—in public contests—and anywhere it has made good. And do not overlook the Saxon virtue of economy. The Saxon costs the least to run of any car yet produced. It averages 30 miles per gallon of gasoline and 75 to 100 miles per pint of oil. Half a cent a mile is the Saxon average for car operation—one-fourth of a cent per passenger. Buy an automobile that is stylish and modern, just as you would buy a hat—a gown—or a suit of clothes. There is only one car in the world with these most desirable qualities. That car is the Saxon roadster. EQUIPMENT—Top, windshield, two gas head lights, oil tail light, gas generator and bulb horn. Electric starting and lighting system, with Exide battery furnished on new cars.

Von Igel's Papers Show Plots Re Japan and India.

Germans Planned to Embroil U. S.
With Japanese, It is Declared—Influence Shown in Mexico Also—Code Book and Lists of Names Among Finds—Raid in Nick of Time.

New York, April 25.—The Government's case against von Rintelen and those associated with him in the labor troubles among the munitions plants of this country has been strengthened by the discovery of certain documents relating to payments made by von Rintelen found among the papers seized when the offices of Cap. von Papen's former aide, Wolf von Igel, at 60 Wall Street, were raided two weeks ago, according to a statement yesterday by an official who is connected with the investigations now being carried on before the Grand Jury relating to the alleged activities of Labor's National Peace Council.

It is also hinted that superseding indictments might possibly be looked for in the cases of several of the members of the Council who were indicted last January on the charge of fomenting strikes in plants with the object of hindering the manufacture of munitions.

The raid which was made on von Igel's offices came just in the nick of time for the Government, it is learned. The papers which were laid out had been placed there with the object of sending the whole mass back to the German Embassy, and von Igel was busy cleaning up a few last matters before closing his New York office.

To Embroil U. S. and Japan.

It was said to-day by one of the men connected with the raid that a delay of one hour would have meant that not one bit of incriminating evidence would have been found anywhere on the premises.

The exact nature of the papers which was seized, whose seizure, it is frankly admitted by officials may bring up issues more acute than the U-boat controversy, cannot yet be learned from anyone connected with the Government, but there were rumors which were credited throughout the Federal Building to-day that von Rintelen's activities in connection with labor troubles is only a small part.

One of the sets of papers is said to contain a report and voluminous notes from certain agents in Tokio regarding the "possible" attitude of Japan towards this country on leading questions which are coming up between the two nations. It is declared that among the papers are even instructions to German agents in Tokio urging that no stone be left turned to get the United States embroiled with the Japanese.

Memoranda among the documents are said to reveal the plan to get us in trouble with Mexico and then cause the despatch of so many of the troops as possible to the border, including the National Guard, with the idea that in event of a break between Germany and this nation, certain cities may be left as far as possible undefended. It was asserted today that as many as 10,000 names and addresses are contained in one set of papers of Germans ready to take possession of the Government of this city in case of trouble.

Plots Regarding India.

Other plans show plotting to foment trouble in England's colonies, proceeding from Japan to India, and also working among the Irish element in this nation to stir up trouble.

In addition to these, reports credit the seizure with having obtained for the Government accurate information concerning the Welland Canal plots passport fraud cases, and explosions on ships carrying supplies for the Allies.

The same Grand Jury is investigating both the case of von Igel, von Papen and Hans Tauscher, and that of the Labor's National Peace Council. Arthur A. Hassel, an associate in the firm of George R. Reade & Co., who had charge of the closing of von Igel's offices at 60 Wall street, testified this morning to the effect that the lease was made by von Igel as a private person, and that he took oath at that time before a notary public that he was leasing the rooms for "advertising purposes only."

Embassy's assertion that the raid was not an official German territory.

In connection with the Government's case against the Labor's National Peace Council, it was learned that an assistant United States District Attorney, Mr. Sarfaty who is in charge, went to Chicago last week on a secret mission connected with the case.

Mr. Sarfaty would not tell what he had learned in his Chicago trip but admitted that one of the witnesses before the Grand Jury, G. F.
Hummel, a resident of Chicago, and a member of the "Friends of Peace" and "The Teutonic Sons of America," was called as a result of what Mr.
Sarfaty has learned in the west.

Find Code Book.

Others witnesses in the same matter were Henri Rogowski, a printer, of Pearl Street, of this city, who printed in June and July, 1915, the only two issues of the "Industrial News", which ever appeared. In that issue were articles lauding Congressman Buchanan for his efforts in the Labor's National Peace Council for peace and also strongly condemning the Federal Reserve Banks for participation in the Anglo-French loan. It is believed that Rogowski was called upon to tell where he got his money for the magazine which had such short existence.

It was declared by the United States District Attorney, Mr. Marshall, that the arraignment of von Igel had been put off until next Monday, and might go over still longer.
It all depended on the State Department.

When Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, demanded of the Secretary of State, Mr. Lansing, the return of all documents and papers taken from the raided "advertising office" of Wolf von Igel, the one document that he wanted above all others was the copy of a German code book which, it became known yesterday was taken away by Department of Justice agents. Many of the more important of the documents seized were in cipher, and the code book made the deciphering of these documents an easy matter. It is said all these reports have been undecl-

MINARD'S LINIMENT LUMBER-MAN'S FRIEND.

The Men of 90 Years Ago

Met to Form a Municipal Government for St. John's—Their Resolutions, Bye-Laws, etc.

(By James Murphy.)

March the second, 1826, a very general and respectable meeting of the inhabitants of this town was held, for the purpose of taking into consideration the necessity of having some power of making bye-laws for its better regulations in future.

Thomas H. Brooking having been called to the chair and having stated the object of the meeting, Mr. P.
Morris addressed the meeting at considerable length on the utility and absolute necessity of having bye-laws and a better police establishment for the internal regulation of this town, and concluded by moving the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. Stewart and carried unanimously.

Resolved.—That the want of local regulations for the better security of property from fire and promoting the cleanliness, ease and comfort of the inhabitants of this town, is a great and growing evil, and very prejudicial to the good order and well being of the community.

Mr. James Stewart proposed, That it is expedient that a committee or council of members should be appointed by the inhabitants, with full powers to accomplish these desirable objects; that the powers of the committee should be limited (in the raising of funds for the purposes above mentioned) to an assessment on all landed property within the limits of the town, one half to be paid by the landlord and the other half by the tenant or occupier.

This resolution was seconded by Mr.
P. Morris, and carried unanimously.

Mr. W. Thomas stated to the meeting that it was the opinion of many of the inhabitants that the bye-laws contemplated by the 5th Geo. 4th Cap.
67 would not affect the absentee landlords who derive a large revenue in rents from the country, without being obliged to contribute anything towards the support of its wholesome inhabitants; he would therefore offer to the consideration of the meeting, a proposition which if adopted, would place the subject beyond doubt, and he believed meet the wishes of the inhabitants generally.

The following resolution was then proposed by Mr. Thomas, seconded by Mr. N. Gill, and carried unanimously:
Resolved.—That it is the decided opinion of this meeting, that both landlord and tenant, should be made mutually liable for all the expenses that may be requisite for carrying the intended regulations into effect, and if the present act be insufficient to effect that purpose, that an application be made to His Excellency the Governor to procure an Act of Parliament that shall obligate both the landlord and tenant to contribute an equal portion of the expenses incurred by the committee, the being considered the only basis on which the present meeting would recommend to His Majesty's Government the appointment of such a committee or council.

Mr. Benjamin Bowring then addressed the meeting. He stated that it gave him the greatest satisfaction to see the unanimity which prevailed on the present occasion, and he sincerely congratulated the meeting that the party feeling which had for some time agitated this town, had been completely subsided, each party having in a great measure given up his private interest in the general cause for the public good; he should therefore propose that a committee of thirty persons be nominated to consider the best plan of carrying these resolutions into effect and framing a sketch of such bye-laws as to them may seem best adopted to the circumstances of this community, and that a majority of the committee be necessary to transact any business. This resolution was seconded by Mr.
Thomas and carried unanimously.

The following gentlemen were nominated to select and return to this meeting the names of thirty persons to form the general committee. Mr.
Morris, Mr. Stewart, Mr. Bowring, Dr.
Carson, Mr. Hoyle and Mr. Cross.
The above gentlemen returned to the chairman the following names which were received and adopted by the meeting as their committee for the purpose before mentioned.—Dr. Carson, Meers, Hoyle, P. Morris, Stewart, Bowring, Cross, J. Cawson, William
Thomas, Black, R. Brine, Dunscombe,
Newman, Gaden, Brooking, J. B.
Bland, Beck, Gill, Bennett, McBride,
Doyle, Lilly, Hogan, Shelly, Langley,
J. Brine, Burke, Trompian, P. Keough,
P. Scanlan, R. Brown.

Returned Hero Honoured

By a Banquet Given by His Club Associates Last Night - Fathers and Mother's of Heroes Present.

Private Heber Bishop an inviolated returned soldier was the guest of honor at a banquet given last evening by the members of the St. Mary's Young Men's Association. The Rector, the Rev. H. Uphill, presided and in his opening remarks very cordially on behalf of the Association extended a hearty welcome to the guests of the evening, chiefly among whom were the fathers and mothers of the brave lads who have in defence of their Empire gone forth to fight the Hun. This little band whose total membership is under fifty has sent fifteen of its number in answer to the call. Suspended from the ceiling and in a conspicuous place at the head of the tables hung a large frame containing a photograph of each of the 15 soldiers. Those present, about 80 in number, partook of the good things that were spread before them. The service was excellent, and a word of praise is due the ladies and gentlemen who kindly assisted at the tables. After full justice had been done the inner man the toast list was taken up, the speeches though brief were of a highly patriotic order and were as follows:-

H. M. the King, the Chairman; God Save the King.
England and her Allies—Mr. Crossman.
Peace—Mr. Reginald Dowden.
Our Guest of Honour—Proposed by the Rev. Mr. Uphill; resp. to by Private Heber Bishop.
The Press—Prop. by Mr. Rendell; resp. to by Mr. E. A. Smith.
The Land We Live In—Mr. H. S. Ford.
The Ladies—Mr. L. Cullen.
Our Guests—Mr. Max Colton.
Absent Friends—Mr. E. Ebanry.
Short address by the Rev. Mr. Pike and special speech by Mr. G. T. Phillips.
Patriotic songs by Miss Redstone and Rev. Mr. Uphill were nicely rendered as also was the pianoforte selection by Miss Redstone and Mr. Colton; recitations by Misses Skinner, Long and Whitten, Messrs. G. T. Phillips and B. Colton were exceptionally good.

A War Prophecy and Its Origin.

Remarkable Story Told in a British Paper.
The Staffordshire Advertiser of Saturday, March 18, contained in Outlook's Column of Events of the Week the following:-

I do not vouch for the accuracy or otherwise of the incident referred to below, but it comes from a correspondent whose broadides are indisputable: "The wife of a tiller of the soil was washing up the dinner things one day recently and had the misfortune to drop a plate on to the bed and broke it. Instantly a voice from behind said "That is the first." The woman looked to see who was speaking, but no one was there. She went into the next room, but no one was there except her four months old baby in its cradle. She returned to her culinary duties with worse nerve than before, with the result that she let another plate fall, which shattered, and immediately the same voice rang out. "That is the second." That was too much for the poor woman, because no one was to be found anywhere in or outside the cottage, so she went for the local doctor. When he arrived, she told him just what had happened, so he said, "Bring me a plate." She did so, and he deliberately dropped it on the hard floor, with the expected result, and again the voice, as from Heaven, distinctly said, "That is the third." The doctor now shared the woman's misgivings, but quite undaunted he asked for still another plate out of her small stock. She did so, and he said, "We will go into the other room" (where the baby was). He took up a position quite near the cradle, and again he let the plate fall, to meet the fate of the others. The same voice, only clearer, again said, "That is the fourth," but to his utter chagrin and astonishment the voice came from the mouth of that four month-old child. Before either he or the mother could recover their surprise sufficiently to speak, the wonderful child continued, "In one, two, three, four months the war will end," and the infant's soul immediately fled to its place on high.

The issue of March 25 had this supplementary paragraph:
A good deal of interest has been taken in the last paragraph which appeared under this heading of our issue of March 18. As I expected, doubts have been cast upon the truth of the story, which I quite agree from several points of view appears impossible one. I have been asked in two cases to give the name of the correspondent who vouches for the correctness of the statement, and have forwarded the name and address of his informant, although for obvious reasons, it cannot be given in this column. It seems to be a very fit case for the Psychological Research Society to take up.

Thirty-Six Sons and Sons-in-Law Have Been Killed.

General de Castelnau, as is well known, has lost three sons, General Fauche a son and a son-in-law, General Bailloud a son and a son-in-law, General de Maud'huy a son, General D'Amade a son, General Desrier three sons, General de Puydraguin two sons, General Reynotard two sons, General de Lardemelle two sons, General Nauraud two sons, General de la Nanouville two sons, General Ebaner a son, General de Benoit, a son, General Bonnal, a son, General de Noudes a son-in-law, General de Vassart a son-in-law, General Fatigue a son, General Chailley a son, Rear Admiral Amet a son, General de Morlaincourt a son-

My Son.

(From an Australian paper.)
Considered by many the finest war poem yet written in the Commonwealth.

I have given you unto the Empire;
You will follow its battle flag;
You will hear the sound of slaughter
In valley, on plain, and craig.
I have taken you out of the playground,
From many a merry mate,
To send you, a stripling soldier,
Out to the field of fate.
But when the good work is over,
And your share of strife is done,
I shall be proud to say I sent
My son,
My son.

They have come in their thousands Lusty,
But the gaps still cry for more:
They have come from the bushland
lonely,
From the scrub and the sounding shore;
They have come from the desert
dreaming,
From out of the rolling range,
From the verdant placid pastures,
From the hills that never change:
From out of the alleys squalid,
Where the days are drear and dun;
With pride I have heard their footsteps ring,
And so I have sent to serve my King,
My son,
My son.

They have gone in the teeming troop-ship;
They have fought the fight and fell;
They have felt on their fearless faces
Draughts from the deeps of hell;
Thinned by the hidden horror,
Drowned in the shot-swept blue,
They have closed up the gaps of glory,
Steadied and thundered through!
And into that moulded country
Where the deadly work was done,
Where the blood-stained trenches blur
and blend,
With no war'ring, weak'ning sigh I send
My son,
My son.

Did I fall in a father's duty,
Did I keep him with mine and me,
How would he have the question
In the darkened days to be?
Could he walk in the public places?
Could he do what all good men do
When the patriot women shunned him
When it came his time to woo?
If he took not to-day his bayonet,
His khaki brave, and gun,
I would see his brothers in shame abide,
I would see them pass on the other side
My son,
My son.
