WE HAVE SOME IN WATFORD

The following paragraph is from the Parkhill Gazette and refers to parties who wish to push their opinions before the public and hide behind the editor. We have a few of them here as elsewhere, always seeking to drive their knife into some one.

Do not try to grind an axe by having your church troubles or your school troubles or your family troubles published in the columns of the Gazette. We have troubles of our own with which we could burden these columns to the delight; if not to the edification of our readers. But the Gazette is not issued for that purpose. It is here to publish the news and anything that savors of politics or of family or church scraps we do not publish; This is not because the writer of the article is not telling the plain, unvarnished, painful truth but because he is. We are sorry to say that people who desire to be mourned by their neighbors when they die and editors who want to earn a living, cannot afford to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth. We admit, that once in a while we have a wild idea that in some future issue of the Gazette we shall print nothing but the ugly, unclothed, uncharitable, do-unto-others-as-you-would-not have them-do-unto-vou-truth. But to tell such truth either in the newspaper or in polite society would be little short of madness. It is not done. And when we refuse to print certain articles in these columns we are merely guarding our paper from others as we guard it from ourselves.

INCOME TAX CHANGES

Amendments made to the Income War Tax at the last session of the Dominion Parliament will be of importance to the Canadian people in connection with the payment of tax. this year. The main change, so far as the administration is concerned, is that the first return is to be filed by April 30th, and with it a first payment of 25% of the tax, when the return is filed. The balance of the tax may be paid in three subsequent instalments at intervals of two months. An important change puts the onus on the citizen to make up his own tax returns, and fix the amount he has to pay. The new form, which is not yet out, will resemble that used in the United States. It will be remembered that the income tax was increased at the 1920 session of Parliament by an addition of 5 percent, to the tax and surtax on incomes of $5,000 or more. Provision was also made for the taxation of stock dividends and shareholders' bonuses, while the Minister of Finance retained power to take action against a taxpayer whom he suspects is about to leave Canada, so that the obligations toward the income tax shall not be evaded. The new forms to be filled in by April 30 will apply to the incomes of 1920.

GUESS!

What will be the value in money of the United States trade with Canada for February, 1921 ? Read every word of the display announcement on page 5, and put in your guess, and go in to win the $300.00 cash prize. Three guesses allowed, and guesses for your friends and neigh-

Mr. F. S. Scott, President of the Canadian Shoe Manufacturers' Association, says it is generally conceded that the bottom in prices has been reached, and that a gradual return to more normal conditions can be looked for. The retailers doubtless hope that means an end of recent "slaughter" sales.

Judge Coatsworth being a lawyer, naturally recommends that only lawyers should be appointed as magistrates. The Grand Jury takes the opposite view, and in our opinion the sensible stand. The lawyers would have us believe that mankind was made for the observance of laws. They place more emphasis on laws than on humanity.

The man or woman whose childhood was spent in the country will always retain fond rememberances of the old homestead, of country lanes white starred with bloom, where wild things nestle shy and sweet; of the wild bird's ringing call and the breath of leaf-strewn mold; of that font of love and dreamy thoughts; of the cool, grassy spots embossed with blue for-getme-nots; of the parents who gladly sacrificed much that we might have; but, above and beyond all else, will be cherished as a priceless possession the sweet, sad memory of a sainted

The church can no more expect that what it has to offer for the uplift and blessing of the world will make a strong appeal if it is not taken up and commended on every possible occasion, and in every consistent way, than the manufacturer can expect that his goods will sell in any phenominal fashion if he does not advertise. The consistent, wholehearted, enthusiastic advertising of its goods has been one of the obligations and duties that the Church has very poorly fulfilled in the past, and, indeed, that it is very poorly fulfilling to-day.

PROTECTION FOR MOTORISTS in Purchasing Starting Batteries

HEN it comes to buying a storage battery, the average motorist has to take a lot on faith.

However, there are two safe rules to follow which, if strictly adhered to, take all the uncertainty and guesswork out of buying a battery, placing it on the firm foundation of demonstrated facts , thus insuring complete

The first rule to be observed is to inquire carefully into the reputation of the company manufacturing the battery under consideration, and the second i sto find out what service it has rendered other motorists.

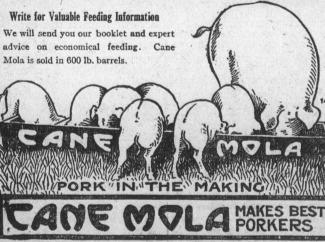

Thousands of motorists have solved their battery troubles for all time by applying this test to Exide Batteries, and in every case, the results have been eminently satisfactory. For in the first place the Exide Battery is made by The Electric Storage Battery Co., the world's largest maker of storage batteries for every purpose. It is backed up by the skill and knowledge resulting from thirty-two years of manufacturing and engineering experience. And secondly, it has been the universal experience of Exide users that this battery is as good as human skill can make it.

Experience has also shown that Exide Batteries, owing to their compact, simple, rugged construction, require the minimum of attention and repair, but when adjustments are necessary, motorists have learned that Exide Service meets their needs in a broad-minded, liberal and efficient spirit that is unique in the annals of the automobile industry. This service is at the command of EVERY motorist in the country-no matter where he lives and irrespective of the make of storage battery he uses.

COUNTY COUNCIL

The Lambton County Council took longer-much longer-to select County Clerk at their initial session Tuesday afternoon than they did to elect a warden. The ceremonies attending the filling of the position of Chief Magistrate for the County occupied in all but about ten minutes, while the choice of a clerk took over an hour and a half. In the former case, after N. Sitter had been appointed clerk pro tem, the nomination of John T. Sproule was proposed by Councillor Higgins and seconded by Councillor J. W. Davis. No other nominees were named and Reeve Sproule was declared elected. He was sworn in by County Judge Albert E. Taylor, who expressed regret at the death of the late County Clerk, John Dalziel, and also the late County Treasurer John B. Woodhall.

After donning the gown and cocked hat of the office. Warden Sproule addressed the Council breifly congratulating the old members on their return to the council board and the new members on their success. He referred to the two vacancies in county offices, caused by death and pointed out that the filling of these two positions would be one of the mportant items to be considered during the session. "Lambton is one of the best Counties in the Province and we should be able to choose able men, said the Warden. In conclusion he suggested that the selection of County Clerk should be made by ballott and this suggestion was subsequently adopted, and J. W. Davis was appointed as chairman to carry on the ballotting.

The following applications for the were read and the applicants who were present were asked orized a grant of but $1,000. to give brief addresses setting forth their qualifications etc. D. P. Shaw, John Huey, H. Saunders, Wm. Nisbet, E. S. Phillips, George A. H. be taken at the present time on the Richardson. Three other applications were read but the sponsors were not present. The council decided to village. make the selection in camera and the aspirants to the clerkship and other spectators were requested to leave the council chamber. It was not until after several ballotts had been taken that the choice of John Huey was announced at 5.15 o'clock, and the covering bylaw was adopted, the sal- cillors recited personal experiences ary being fixed on the same basis as his predecessor $1225.00 per annum. Clerk Huey was later sworn into office and took up his duties.

Communications, 'notices of motion and requests by delegations furnished a diversified program at Wednes day's session of the Lambton County Council and it also marked the assumption of the office of County Clerk by the new appointee, Ex Warden John Huey. The majority of the communications received and read were requests for financial aid. The East Lambton's Women's Institute asked for a grant to carry on their work and the Suburban Road Commission requested an appropriation of $7,000 from the County for the maintenance and construction of suburban roads. These along with a appeal from the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division were referred to the Finance Committee. The Legislative Committee was handed a communication from the Department of Public Works requesting that the County Road Superintendent and other county officers in touch with highway work be delegated to attend a Good Roads meeting in Toronto on February 28, March1st and 2nd, A request from the Hospital for Sick Children went to the Finance Committee and another request for a monetary grant from the Ontario School Trustees Association was turned over to the Educational Committee.

The following notices of by-law were given: By-law to grant aid to towns and villages under the Highways Act, By-law to aid the school fairs in the county, By-law to appoint a member of the County Board of Audit, By-law to appoint a County Treasurer, By-law to aid Women's Institutes in East and West Lambton. Ex-Warden T. Simpson addressed the council on behalf of a grant to the County Branch of Ontario Plowmen's Association incidentally announcing that it is the intention of the association to hold a County ploughing match this year at a place yet to be named. The rant requested $400.00. J. Gilroy also spoke respecting a grant to this association pointing out that it aimed to increase interest in agriculture The request was referred to the Finance committee. He also acted as spokesman for a deputation advocating the taking over as a connecting link with the Longwoods road the road running through Alvinston, Glencoe and Petrolea thus aiding communication from Sarnia to the eastern sections of the county. Mr. Moss, Mayor Preston, of Petrolea, and Ex-Warden Simpson also spoke on this topic and it was referred to the advisory board. Further notices of bylaw were given before noon adjournment as follows: bylaw to grant aid to the Petrolea Hospital, to raise money for the County Roads System, bylaw to raise money to pay current expenses, bylaw to appoint High School Trustees at Petrolea, Watford and Forest and a bylaw to provide for the payment of grand andpetit jurors for 1921.

Eight ballots were necessary to choose a new County Treasurer from the nine aspirants to fill the vacancy caused by the death of John B. Woodhall. On the final ballot, John E. Leckie, of Alexander & Leckie, real estate agents, Sarnia, a former township and county municipal man and an unsuccessful candidate for January from our Watford and Alderman at the January elections

Power Farming with FORDSON TRACTOR

HERE is no power farming job that the Fordson cannot do better, cheaper and faster than it can be done by any other source of

At those frequent times of crisis on the farm when quick action means everything-the full significance of Fordson reliability in a pinch is appreciated. Twenty-fours hours each day, every working day in the year it will give maximum service.

The time to buy a Fordson is now. Look ahead. Get this power farming vision. Be ready for the springtime problems that come suddenly. Have your Fordson on the land to solve them.

Meantime, over the fall and winter your Fordson will more than pay for your investment by handling every kind of draw bar and belt work, such as plowing, threshing, silo-filling, pumping, manure spreading, baling hey, hauling wood, road work, and supply power for farm lighting plant and electrical appliances in the house.

The Fordson has a drawbar pull of 1800 lbs. at 2% miles per hour and 2500 lbs. at 11/2 miles per hour. It has a road speed of 12 to 14 miles per hour and can be used with success for heavy hauling. Should parts or repairs be demanded in a hurry, we are at hand to see that you get service prompt and efficient. We will welcome your most searching investigation of Ford Service

The minutes of last Annual Meeting were then read and approved, as was also the Auditor's Report and Financial Statement. To those who have not seen the Report, we might state the losses paid in 1920 were $17464.78, the smallest amount in several years, while the receipts were the largest. The Cash Assets of the Company being now over $63000.

The Directors Report was also read and approved. It referred to the growing prosperity of the Company, stating the full amount insured now to be $12,453,131.00.

Messrs. Brownlee and Reader advocated the extension of the Company's business to the towns and villages in the county.

After the adjournment of the Annual Meeting, the secretary called the new Board together for organization. Mr. John W. Kingston was re-elected President and Jas. Smith vice-president. W. G. Willoughby was again appointed Sec.-Treas. and Manager. The Agents and Inspectors being the same as in 1920. The President and Secretary were appointed delegates to the Mutual Underwriters Meeting in Toronto.

Meeting then adjourned.

OBITUARY

The death occurred on the Main Road, Adelaide, whereby the township loses one of its most highly respected residents in the person of Mr. Donald Fletcher. Although the deceased had been in failing health for some time his death came rather suddenly at the last.

He bore his long illness with great patience and leaves to mourn his loss his widow and two sons, Hugh at home and Munroe of Adelaide, also two brothers, Alex. of East Williams and James of Strathroy, and one sister, Mrs. Angus McAlpine of Lon-

On the 6th of January, 1853, the ased was born in the Township of Dunwich, Elgin Co., from whence he moved with his parents in the year 1870 to the Township of East Williams. In the year 1886 he was married to Miss Annie Fraser of the same township. For a number of years he lived in Brooke township moving later to Adelaide where he lived till the time of his death.

The funeral was held on Thursday, Jan. 27th, when a large number of relatives and friends gathered at the home. The service was conducted by the Rev. G. B. Ratcliffe of Arkona, and interment at West Adelaide cemetery. The pall bearers were Jas. Wilson

Robt. Conkey, Wm. McChesney, D. Edwards, Geo. Hawkins and J. A Minielly, all neighbors of the deceased.

Mr. Fletcher was a member of West Adelaide Presbyterian church. The family feel deeply the loss of a kind husband and father and the community of a kind neighbor.

TWO THINGS THAT HURT THE EYES

Reading by Intense Light
A person has been known to say, "I have ruined my eyes by reading too much." Not so—the eyes were made to use. One the eyes were made to use. One sure way to permanently injure the eyes is reading by intense light. The light should come through ground glass to soften it. Never use clear glass for either gas or electricity. Oil lamps give out a soft light, lamps give out a soft light, therefore clear glass chimneys.

Reading by Dim Light Take our advice—do not read or sew by a dim light—it will be a direct strain upon the sight centers of the brain. On these two things hang the fundamental laws of sight economy. Never use cheap or pick-up glasses—come to us for advice about things optical. Everything needful here.

Shopping for Aunt Olivia

By FLORENCE MELLISH

(6), 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate. "Great Caesar! have I lost that sample?" Harry Beldon stood looking the way of impatient shoppers while he searched his available pockets,

"I have, and Aunt Olivia has got to have that silk this afternoon. It's her only chance to be fitted by Mme. Cyr, or words to that effect. What was that stuff? It wasn't dope; it was something. Are the pitying angels looking down on me now?"

Apparently no angelic pity soothed Harry's perturbed spirit. His dis-tracted gaze rested on a young and graceful figure at the hosiery counter. Two rapid strides and the courage of desperation brought Harry to her side. "I beg your pardon, madame," he be-

She turned with a surprised expression in her lovely eyes,

"I don't like to trouble you," he went on with an embarrassed blush, "but would you mind telling me the color of that gown you have on?"

The surprise in her face deepened. The fluffy blonde who presided over the hoslery was listening with undisguised interest.

"You see," Harry tried to explain, with more blushes and increased embarrassment, "I was to get one like it for my aunt."

It hardly seemed possible that that apple blossom face would assume such a haughty expression or that those exquisite blue eyes could have that frozen stare. "Really!" was all the beautiful lips could utter, as the young lady turned with intensified interest to the inspection of hosiery. The fluffy blonde was laughing frankly. But Harry is like the president. He has a "single the president. He has a "single track" mind. He rushed to the silk counter. "Can you see that lady three counters down—the pretty one? Quick, please, before she goes away!"

The tall, severe, middle-aged girl who was selling silks glanced in the direction he indicated.

"My eyesight is fairly good. Yes, I can see her," she answered stonily.
"Good! I want four yards of silk just like that gown she is wearing.

"We are out of that shade this morning."
"Oh!" he gasped. "Are you sure?

You see, it's for my aunt. She's making over something, and I have to get "You don't have to get it here." Here! Harry saw a ray of hope. "Is there somewhere else? It's a very important commission." His distress was evident. The middle-aged girl relaxed a little from her severity.

"They might have it at Ballard & Barr's.

"Oh, thank you. Thank you a hundred times." He turned back to whip out a notebook. "What color shall I ask for?"

"Taupe." "That's it. I remember now." Harry slapped his thigh in recognition. He printed in large capitals that covered page of his notebook: T-O-P-E and vanished.

"Silk or satin?" asked the tiredlooking salesgirl who was measuring endless lengths in Ballard & Barr's.

"Which is the more expensive?" "Oh, satin."

"Then I'll take that." Fatigued with his efforts, Harry rushed to the nearest lunch room and dropped into a vacant chair. Glancing at the demure face opposite, he recognized a pair of blue eyes. His vis-a-vis was the wearer of the identical taupe gown. Her gown was relieved by a few touches of rose color and her dark hair was crowned with a rosecolored creation that accentuated the lovely color in her girlish cheeks.

"O!" he gasped, "I beg your pardon -that is to say-I hope I don't intrude.'

"Certainly not," she answered serenely. "This is a public table."

"Oh, yes, but I thought—I was afraid you might be offended by my abruptness in Congreve & Cutler's You see I was shopping for Aunt Olivia. She isn't really exacting, you know, only when she has got to have a thing, she has got to have it."

"Then she wouldn't consider me stranger. I used, the minister's boys and I, to steal melons out of her garden. I am Harry Belden, and I am employed by the Amaranth Insurance company. You haven't any advantage of me, though. You are Miss Jessie Galbraith. I saw your name in the Meridon Free Press. Here's the w er. Only tea and cakes for you? Mayn't I order for two?"

Presently Harry glanced from his beefsteak to the cherished parcel beside him.

"Aunt Olivia is going to wear that at the Wylfe-Wallace wedding. You know about that?" "I should think so. I'm one of skeptical floor-walker of the mistake and carried his purchase home in triumph. "It's two shades darker than the sample and satin instead of faille. Aunt Olivia announced with a "just-important letter to write."

Miss Olivia looked after him as rushed to his den. "With all his faults

SAVE LIFE ON THE DESERT

One reads about the "traveler's tree," the "water-barrel cactus" and other desert plants that yield stores of water for thirsty wayfarers, but the watermelon is the best and most satisfactory of them all. In Bechuana-South Africa, where it grows wild, it furnishes drink for both man

Nobody knows when this water-sto ing vine was first cultivated, but it must have been very long ago, for it was grown in Egypt and southern Asia in earliest historic times and the peoples of southern Europe were well acquainted with the watermelon before

The Arabs, the Phoenicians and the Egyptians explored South Africa in very ancient days, seeking gold, slaves and other things & Elue, and doubtless the watermelon was one of the plants they thought worth carrying

The wild watermelon is of no great size. In this respect it has been developed by cultivation; and if more at-tention had been paid to making it weeter and better flavored, it would be today far more excellent. Efforts in this direction, however, have recently been undertaken by the plant breeders.

A JAPANESE MARRIAGE

Maiden Never Considers Spinsterhood

For a Moment. With the Canadian girl marriage is quite a free-will affair—she has the right of either marrying or remaining single; she reserves the privilege to choose her husband. With the Japanese maiden this is not the cus-When she arrives at the age of twenty or thereabout she is expected, as a matter of course, to marry. The alternative of perpetual spinsterhood is never considered either by her or her parents. Marriage is as much a matter of course in a woman's life as death, and is no more to be avoided. In choosing her husband she is usually allowed her choice in regard to whether she will or will not marry a certain man, but the initiative is generally taken by the parents. In brief, the Japanese courtship and wedding are somewhat after the following manner: A young man, who finds himself in a position to marry, speaks to some married friend and asks him to be on the lookout for a suitable maiden, says East and West News. The friend immediately gets busy and makes a canvass of all the young maidens of nis acquaintance, and finally decides hat so-and-so—Miss Hana, let us say—will be a very good match for his friend. He then goes to Miss Hana's parents and lays the case of his friend before them. Should they approve of the suitor, a party is arranged—gen erally in a tea house in a park, or in a theatre, where the young people may have a chance to meet each other and exchange salutations. If the meeting is satisfactory to all parties, the parents of the young people un-dertake to ascertain that nothing wrong exists concerning such vital matters as the heredity of the family and the character of the young man nd woman. Should all turn out satand woman. Should all turn out sat-isfactory, a formal betrothal is enter-ed into by the exchange of costly presents, and the marriage is arrang-ed. A lucky day is selected for the wedding, and all arrangements be-tween the contracting parties are made by the go-between and his wife who first arranged the happy event and therefore hold themselves retherefore hold then ponsible for the success of the mar riage. The go-between is a voluntary affair seldom paid for, but because of the happy nature of the office there s always no lack of respectable people glad to act in that capacity.

The marriage ceremony takes place at the house of the groom, to which the bride is taken, accompanied by her go-between and her relatives. Her rousseau and the household goods which the bride brings with her are borne by men, who follow the car-riage of the bride, forming a procession, getting cheers from obser as it passes through the streets. ceremony consists merely in the for-mal drinking of the native wine (sake) from a cup, which is placed alternately to the lips of the bride and groom in the orthodox fashion This drinking from the same goblet is a symbol of the equal sharing of the joys and sorrows of married life At the ceremony no one is present but the bride and groom, their go-between, and a young girl whose duty it is to pass the goblet and fill it with sake. When this is over, the wedding guests, who have been assembled in another room during the caremo join the wedding party and a grand feast is spread, at which much merri-

On the third day after the wedding e newly-married couple is expected makes a visit to the bride's family which is the occasion for another great feast. The young couple bring with them presents from the groom's family to the bride's family in return for the presents sent on the wedding day. All this makes the Japanese wedding an extremely costly affair, the expenses often exceeding tens thousands of dollars among the well-

Within the past few years, for many reasons, the marriage customs have been changed considerably. Greater regard is now being shown than formerly to the wishes of the young people in deciding their partners, and the novel practice of allowings the young people a short period of association before the bethroihal has come in vogue. The formality of the wedding ceremony, too; has lost much of its former elaborateness, more stress nowadars being laid on than formerly to the wishes of the more stress nowadays being laid on the spirit and significance of wed-lock. Such reactionary women, who, ignoring entirely the customs of the land, follow the American way of free courtship, have also appeared of late.

Overcoming a Difficulty.

A consulting surgeon tells many amusing stories about the experiences amusing stories about the experiences of medical men. It is nothing uncommon, he says, to find a patient to whom a doctor has been called suffering from a disease quite different from that mentioned in the message received by the doctor. On one occasion a certain medical man received a note asking him to come at once to a case of smallnor, but to his sura note asking him to come at once to a case of smallpox, but to his surprise, on arriving at the patient's bedside, he found that it was merely a case of rheumatism. "This is very plainly not smallpox," he said to the writer of the letter. "Why did you say it was smallpox?" "Well, doctor," replied the man, as he shuffled one foot over the other, "to tell you the truth, we knew it was rheumasism, but there was nobody in the ism, but there was nobody in the house could spell 'rheumatism,' and we thought 'smallpox' would do just as well until you came, and preselt bring you quicker."

Gunmen Kill Gangster

TEW YORK'S crime wave. which has been as well advertised as other New York productions, and which has promised to be almost a permanent wave, has reached its crest, and now may be expected to subside. Hitherto the victims of the gunmen of the American metropolis have been comparatively inconspicuous. But death, as the poets say, loves a shining mark, and as a climax of this carnival of crime one of the most noted citizens has been shot. He was not one of the most estimable of citizens, but he was known from one end of the country to the other, though not under his baptismal name, which was William Delaney. To announce to New Yorkers that Mr. William Delaney had been shot dead would not create any furore, unless one proceeded to say that when he was found dead he had $140 and two pairs of eyeglasses in his pocket, in which case people would wonder what a man would do with two pairs of eyeglasses in faur cleak in the of eyeglasses at four o'clock in the morning. But when it became known that

Mr. William Delaney was Monk Eastman, Americans sat up and came to the conclusion that the ascame to see conclusion that the assassins had gone too far, for Monk Eastman was perhaps the most notorious citizen of New York. Even Canadians have heard his name. He never reached the bad eminence of Gyp the Blood and Lefty Louis, but for twenty years he was recognized as a sort of uncrowned king of the underworld. It is true that he servunderworld. It is true that he served two or three terms in jail, but his record on the police blotter is unworthy of his prowess even if it is significant of his influence. He was arrested a score of time, Ite was convicted only three times. One was for the murder of a detective for the murder of a detective, a stretch of ten years, which the good behavior of his political backers had cut in half. Another time was for operating an opium joint. The third was for being in possession of stolen silver valued at $10,000. He served nearly three years for the last crime, and when he was released joined the American army and served in France. He appears to have been a good

He appears to have been n good soldier, having a contempt of death bred of his long experience as a gangster, and his identity not being known to his comrades he was respected by them. When he returned home and received his honorable discharge his friends appealed to Governor Smith, asking that he should be pardoned for his previous misdemeanors and be reinstated as a free and independent American citifree and independent American citizen. The governor hearkened to the request, and Monk Eastman, announcing that he was through with crime, became a normal American citizen, with full power to vote and erve on juries. Considerable fuss was made over the incident, and several writers drew morals from his career proving that war had a purifying and even ennobling effect.

Monk Eastman got a good job and went to work.

He entered a governo but the writers are several ways.

He entered a garage, but the sur-roundings not proving congenial, he got another job as foreman. In this he had a partner, and it is got another job-as foreman. In this he had a partner, and it is said that Monk and his partner quarreled over the proceeds. Their quarrels usually happened over a bottle of hooch, the result being that Monk threatened to kill his partner, which broke up the company. It seems only too true that he gradually drifted into his old associations, though it is not known that he committed any specific crime since winning the war. It is hinted that he was a bootlegger; it is also binted that he became a police informer and helped the authorities mark down some of the illicit vendors in drugs. One theory is that he was detected in double crossing his associates and was killed. Another theory is that some new fledged gumman recognizing Monk thought that he might gain a reputation in the underworld by killing him knowing that Monk see ing Monk thought that he might gain a reputation in the underworld by killing him, knowing that Monk, as a reformer, would be unarmed.

Eastman was about fifty years old, and for twenty years past was perhaps the best known desperado in New York City, if not in the world. He had the reputation of being fearless, and early in his career, when taken to the hospital with two or three bullets in his body, he refused to say who had shot him, though it appeared that he could not live. Shortly after his release a couple of rival gangsters were found dead, and it was assumed that Monk had taken his revenge. Time and again after some crime of violence he was arrested, but his political affiliations were so strong that he was released. The police may have been convinced that he was an assassin, but evidence was hard to get, and easily suppressed. He was not an ordinary thief. Violence rather than plunder attracted him. and at elections he suppressed. He was not an ordinary thief. Violence rather than plunder attracted him, and at elections he was valuable. When he met his death he was under the influence either of liquor or of drugs. Otherwise it would have been a difficult and dangerous job to bump him in.

GOOD SUIT YEAR FOR THE SHOPS

Weather Has Been Satisfactory -Not Too Warm and Not Too Cold.

PRICES LESS THAN YEAR AGO

Decline in Cost of Clothes Most Noticeable Feature of Season-Duvetyn Leads in Popularity, Fashion Writer Asserts.

Never has there been a better "suit year," as they have it in the vernacular of the shops. The weather has been just right-not too warm and not too cold. And just at this time, says a New York fashion correspondent, one sees the newest creations in the way of winter suits and all-the-yearround/suits and fancy suits and plain suits. After a few weeks have passed the "general horizon" will again be dotted with varieties of top coats and fur wraps, etc., but right at this min-ute the popular trend is all in the direction of the suit. Then here is the psychological moment to study the suit, for the forward marching ones are setting the styles for many months to come and the little variances which they show are the ones that are destined to live. Thus does the wary woman plan her dressing, so that when she buys there will be no danger of her becoming the proud posses sor of style that has seen its day.

Then again we have such encourage ing news by way of bargain announcements that prices are much below those of last winter. A suit that retailed last winter for about $125 sells this year for between $65 and $75. And it is not the same suit, either, but one that has the same value as the one of last year-not the same style points, remember. There is no doubt that better times are ahead on this high price of clothes question-and the high price of suits is one of the first columns to be touched by the Duvetyn Family in the Lead. A critical observance of all of the best-dressed women about town dis-closes the fact that of all materials duvetyn and the allied weaves that be-long to that family are the ones which are displaying their popularity above all others. And in this woolly or heavily napped fabric there are shown all sorts of variety, from those weaves which are as thick and heavy as any blanket to those which are so soft and pliable that they can be gathered into no space at all, so to say. There are the woolen velours and the silk velours and the velours that are made of a clever combination of the two sorts of thread. The latter, they say, wears better than all the rest put together. It does not show that evil characteristic of matting into a mashed spot at the place where the suit is subjected to rubbing. However, so fine and well made are most of these piled fabrics that when mashing does occur it can very easily be removed by a little judicious steaming.

The colors of these newest of fabrics are perhaps their greatest charm. for it has been many years since we women have been able to indulge ir

All the way from the brightest and most glowing of shades to those that are verily neutral in their effect is the range of color tones, and while most of the suits run to browns or to one of the numerous tampes shades, still there are some made from the gorgeous blue and green tones that make up so well with the gray furs and others in the reddish shades that are so, effective when combined with the darker brown and black, both long and short haired furs. Coats Are Noticeably Long. The conts on the newest of all the suits that are being worn are quite noticeably long—so long, in fact, that but the merest bit of a skirt hangs out, for, with the present rage in New York for skirts that are short and with this added favor for longer coats there is left but a small portion of space that can be allotted to the skirt. There are reasons to be thankful for this, the latest whim of fashion, too. For, while the legs that protrude from the short line of the skirt must necessarily be cold, still upon the remaining portion of the body two layers of material are lavished—more than we have had to keep out the chilly blasts in many winters gone by. Some of the coats are fitted quite snugly, following the lines of the figure, and then again many of them are made full enough to make a tightish belt necessary to gather the fullness together about the waist. There is one exception to the longer coat, and that is the little box coat, which has to be short in order to carry out its character. It reaches a high hip line this season, and is singlebreasted-and it is more apt to be made up from the homespun materials, as it is a little more outdoors in style than are some of the other cuts. One particularly smart box coat had a rather narrow rolled collar of beaver with pockets of the same fur set on the extreme edge of the coat, so that they looked more like a wide binding for the coat than they did like conventional pockets.

Skirts Are Quite Short. From all the skirts that could be noticed the conclusion was drawn that they are still "in our midst," and, all prophecies about French tendencies to the contrary notwithstanding, quite, quite short. Some of them might be called too short for beauty of pro-portion, but, be that as it may, the longer skirt as yet looks out of place in and around New York. The widths of the skirts are still moderate, and they are as straight as can be in line. with just enough room left to allow a step to be made in comfort and ease. There is no skirt that retards walking

The sleeves of the very nicest of the suits are fitted to the last degree of perfection. The armholes are as small as they possibly can be and still remain in the class of the "perfect fit." Our American suit shows not the least tendency to go large and kimono-like in the armhole. It keeps the wellmade tailored look, and sometimes it is astonishing to see how far back an armhole can go and still keep its uninterrupted contour.

Trimmings, of course, are the important features of any new winter offerings in the way of suits, for trimmings are necessary in order to keep up the warmth of the proposition, and whether they are in the form of trimmings that are permanently attached or whether they are the popular fur sets, still they become a part of that suit. The shorter furs are the ones that are receiving the most attention.

Furs inat Are Liked.

Beaver and nutria and mole are the ones that are best liked for collars and cuffs on the brown and taupe shades of duvetyn, and their colors blend so very harmoniously with the shades of those favorite materials. The longer haired furs, as far as suits are concerned, have sunk into the back-ground just now. All of the suits have that slick look that is out of key with the longer and more irregutar looking skins. Astrachan Krimmer are very popular, and these furs are particularly lovely when they are combined with the rich dull-red shades. Baby lamb has sprung into favor for this sort of trimming, and this season it is the fancy of the best designers to dye this fur, not only black, which has been the accepted color in the past, but any of the gray and tan and brown shades to harmon ize with the color of the material with which it is combined.

The fur sets that are designed to be worn with suits have very slight neck-pieces and muffs. They are mere aceents for the collars and cuffs and the smartest of them do not attempt to be the cape variety, the matching muffs keeping the small, regularly rounded shape that is always the accepted thing for a muff at any time. Indeed, the high prices to which furs have as ended make this fashion for restrains, in their use almost a grim necessity.

Internally and Externally it is good.—The crowning property of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is that it can be used internally for many complaints as well as externally. For sore throat, croup, whooping cough, pains in the chest, colic and many kindred ailments it has curative qualities that are unsurpassed. A bottle of it costs so little and there is no loss in always having it at #### Solitude.

The truth is that sollfude is not an affair of being physically alone. There is a solitude immense and remote, that can be ours in the midst of noisy multitude, chattering roomful, a world in tumult, or an age of hate. It is secret withdrawal into the silent places of our own minds, profound and aloof, without ever violating the couriesies of daily intercourse; it is the companionship with the finest minds and spirits of the ages, obtained through great books and expressed in high conduct.

Such is the only solitude that never turns sour; such the only solitude on which nothing can intrude,—"Uncle Dudley," in Boston Globe, encyclopedia defines afternoon as that part of day which extends from noon to evening; and evening as the time, from sunset until darkness; in common usage the latter part of the afternoon and the earlier part of the night before bedtime. However, under definition three it declares evening to be the time between noon and darkness, including afternoon and twilight. as in England and southern United States. It is, therefore, probable that the Southern custom of so designating this portion of the day has come to them from their English ancestors.

Afternoon and Evening,

Internal parasites in the shape of worms in the stomach and bowels of children sap their vitality and retard physical development. They keep the child in a constant state of unrest and, if not attended to, endanger life. The child can be spared much suffering and the mother much anxiety by using a reliable worm remedy such as Miller's Worm Powders, which are sure death to

GOOD HEALTH

AND GOOD SPIRITS

Depend Upon the Condition of the Blood-Keep it Rich, Red and Pure. When a doctor tells you that you are anaemic, he simply means, in plain English, that your blood is weak and watery. But this condition is one that may easily pass into a hopeless decline if prompt steps are not taken to enrich the blood. Poor blood, weak, watery blood is the cause of headaches and backaches, loss of appetite, poor digestion, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervous irritability and many other troubles. To poor blood is due the pimples and blotches, the muddy complexion that disfigures so many faces. To have receipts at fall fair were $1,155.75. good health, a good complexion and cheerful manner, the blood must kept rich, red, and pure. This is easily done through the use of a blood enriching tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to help enrich the blood which reaches every nerve and every organ in the body, bringing with it health, strength and new activity. That is why people who occasionally use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always feel bright, active and strong.

> Mrs. E. E. Cook, Simcoe, Ont., gives strong testimony to the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills when the blood is in an anaemic condition, she says: "I have been a sufferer for some years from a run down condition of the system. I suffered from pains in the back, twitching of the poor, I had indigestion and would get drowsy after eating. My hands and feet were almost ayways cold, and though I was constantly doctoring, the medicine I took did not help me. I had practically given up hope of good health, until a friend from Hamilton came to visit me, and urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It took some persuasion, but finally I consented to try them. I have reason to be grateful that I did for after using seven boxes I felt like a new person .I have gained in weight, have a better color and my work is now a pleasure. For this condition my thanks are due Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I cannot praise them too highly."

> You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.
