I'm coming up." But how different the sensation when she hears Mrs. Jones from across the street wending her leisurely way through the kitchen, peeping into the pantry en route, and noting that the dining-room has not been swept, not that Mrs. Jones has the slightest idea of being anything but friendly; far from it! She thinks she is doing a praiseworthy act in saving her hostess the trouble of coming down stairs, having never laid to heart the tume-honored maxim, into which the sufferings, as well as the wisdom, of generations has been crystalized, "Every man's house is his castle." For surely it will never do to let only "an Englishman" claim that blessed privilege: the proverb should be PROGRESS readers who have bright young friends should tell them of this opportunity and help them along. All they have to cosmopolitan. I am convinced that that wise speech was not any sudden inspiration of genius, like "Tupper's proverbial philosophy," struck off in the white heat of poetic phrenzy, with all the masterly brevity for which that celebrated poet was distinguished. No! It was a cry wrung the over-full heart of some worldworn, weary man, whose next-door neigh-bor's wife was in the habit of coming in at Complaints of the Train Service Between St. John and Rural Points. City people residing out of town beyond Rothesay are very much annoyed by the present train arrangement. They regard it as neither safe or convenient. A gentleman writing to Progress gives some par-ticulars which show that on the afternoons of Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday two ter evening, and after sitting silent for a few moments he burst forth: "We had a surprise party at our place last night, and locomotives are brought into requisition. Concerning the Fireworks and the Way They Were Handled—"The Best Display East of Montreal," So He Says—The Bills Not Rendered Yet. The disatisfaction of the public with the

Some misunderstanding between the committee and others in authority again disappointed the people and the disatisfaction, instead of being allayed, increased.

The last league game between St. John and Mos cton proved very exciting for a good-sized group that crowded in close to the wire once near the grand stand. The central figures were two tall fellows, with slouch the and sunburnt faces, who looked like lumbermen, and two styliab-looking individuals, who wore blue glasses and talked though their nose about the uncertainty of asse ball. During the first of the game the made considerable bluster by betting on the innings, and invariably "dropped" to the tall fellows. But they said, "N wer mind, the Monetons are playing good hall, and may win yet."

"How such will you go on it?" said the tall felloy.

"Oh, the odds against me are too great; the score is 7 to 3."

From that time on the excitement in that corner of the grounds was intense, the symdently.

"You seem sure of winning your money," said the fellow who talked through his nose.

"Yes, pratty sure, I'll bet you $50 that I do win it, and there's a man on second." But the let wasn't made. The Monctons got in the run, but that was all. The tall tellow you and the crowd was glad.

Chairman Blackadar's assertion that the public has no right to know the facts, will not meet with popular approval. The right of the people to know is unquestionable. He seemed to think that because the committee had explained the matter so satisfactorily to the daily papers that they had not inquired further, that the question was at rest. The public is inquisitive. So is Progress. Chairman Blackadar's statement may be quite satisfactory, but the fact remains that Mr. Fellows' contribution covered the actual expenditure for fireworks, including duty, and that the additional appropriation of $500 made by the ramival managing committee for illustrations and offered it to the carrival managing committee for illustrations and customs of the must say 'no thank you mama does not let me take cents.'" TALE OF THE THEATRE

The Carnival has sixed at Hard Blow-Cavides such as the straight and strong stafement made to interest him at the theatree during carnival works such as a destinate to Understance such as a destination.

This is the straight and strong stafement made to Procauses by a leading member of one of the largest firms in the city—and careful inquiry has disclosed the crushing fact that there is a good deal in it.

There is so much in it that the exhibition as a secondary of the second act, when if there is to be an exhibition, there should be united and decisive action. There is a strong and growing feeling that the strain of an exhibition after the carnival will be too much. The fact cannot be denied that, while the carnival brought thousand of visitors to the city, while it was a great success in very many respects, trade was interfered with and production was practically stopped for one week. Labor was disorganized, workmen did not work and wages, consequently, were not paid. Merchants and manufacturers regard these facts now in their true light, and question existence. The secondary of the carnival was, after all, six is only play for more years and the secondary of the carnival was, after all, six is only play for more years and the secondary of the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six only play for the carnival was, after all six on the secondary of the carnival was, after me of its Advantages Over Gas—Illustra-trations of the Thompson-Houston and Bresh Lamps and Dynamos, and Edison's Licandescent Lamp and Dynamo, Etc.

The electrical exhibition has given a decided boom to electricity as a lighting and power agent. St. John people are always ready to appreciate a good thing, and the manifold advantages of electricity have been set forth so plainly that the interest of rich and poor has been aroused.

There is an old adage the substance of which intimates that a man's heart is in his pocket; the moment you touch one you are in contact with the other. Whether this be the mainspring of the sudden interest in electricity as a thing for use, is hard to say, but no one can deny that the merchant who is assured that he can illuminate his large or small store for less money by electricity than he can by gas, takes a deeper interest in the cheaper and better lighting material.

Their admiration was excited first in the exhibition building by the rare beauty of the scene about them, by the brilliant flashing parlor incandescent lamps, and the dazzling ling rays of the larger are lamp more fitted for store or street illumination. Their interest was aroused by the electric welder. which has become world wide and led to its There was something to interest everybody from the boy with his box of broken tools at home, to the old gentleman who has seen in places where gas could not be used from

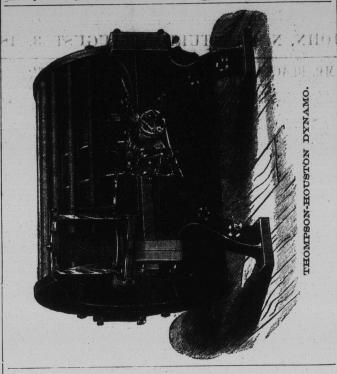

AN EDISON MOTOR

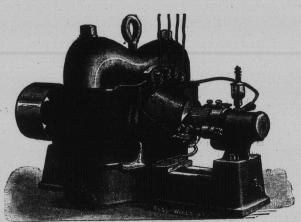

In a few of the advantages of incandes cent light may be included the absence of soot dirt or gases and the consequent condition of ceilings and decoratings; the small quantity of heat given off being less than one-twentieth of gas and about onefortieth of that of a wax candle; its safety introduction into places where artificial light has been forbidden; its application the fact that there is no flame and no heat; its cost, which does not exceed that of gas, and is less when the saving in items of depreciation of decorations, pictures, etc., is considered; it can be lighted or extinguished in an instant.

A little more space is given to this subect than would be warranted, but for the fact that it may be introduced in the city before long. A writer describes a private ouse lighted by incandescent lamps:

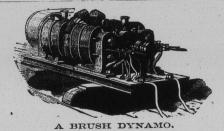

As we enter the door, we turn a switch close at and, and immediately the hall is lighted; another hand, and immediately the hall is lighted; another switch placed in a convenient position at the parlor door controls the chandleir. The dining-room is lighted in the same convenient manner, and from the dining-room the kitchen lamp is controlled. A switch at the head of the stairway lights the cellar, and enables one to go into the coal vaults without a candle and its usual provoking episodes. The lamp over the back porch is serviceable in case of intru-sions of man or beast at night, in which event the ever ready switch casts confusion on the tresswitch, teaving [the rooms behind us in darkness. Wishing to go upstairs, we turn the key of a switch, which lights the lamp in the second story hall, and when we have reached the landing we put out the lamp below by 'means off a second switch. Inside each bedroom langs a switch on a flexible cord; press the button and the room is lighted. The cord is long enough to reach the head of the bed, so we lang the switch on a brass hook on the headhoard, and it is in easy reach from the bed, ready for use at any time of night. As we go out the hall, we hang the switch on its hook at the side of the door, where we can reach it as we come back, and, pressing the button, the room is dark. So each room is inspected, and the convenience and economy of switches made manifest. The light is in use only when needed.

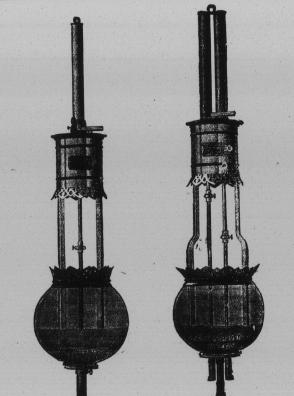

Some of Progress' readers outside of St. John will take a greater interest in the two cuts below than the people in the cities who use them every night. Both of these

THOMPSON-HOUSTON ARC LAMPS.

More is known in this section of the arc-that in use in the stores at presentthan the incandescent lamp. The latter is likely to replace gas, to a great extent, in this city, as it has already in many American and some Canadian population centres. The value of an Edison incandescent lamp, the left represents a single lamp like most represented above, is in the carbon within of those used in the city which will burn the globe, which requires no expense of inspection or attention, until it is exhausted, when the glass shell is thrown away. simple apparently as any about them. There was no glowing forge, no anvil, no muscular assistants to swing the hammer.

A neat and natty young gentleman dressed as such, in less time than it takes to describe it, would take two broken pieces of iron or steel rod, place their ends together in a place prepared for them in the welder, turn on the electric current, and in a few seconds the fractured ends are at a white heat and joined so securely that the rod would break as quickly at any other point as where the pieces are joined. The practical use of the welder is so apparent that it has attracted greater interest than almost anything else

People with wealth and handsome residences were greatly taken with the incandescent system of lighting. There is a mistaken idea abroad that it is dearer than gas. If there is any difference, the incandescent lamp has it, and what a difference between the lights!

PROGRESS undertakes this week to give its readers some idea of electrical lighting, motors and machinery. The interest aroused by the electrical exhibition is more than ordinary, and the information comes at a time when it will be appreciated and

OUR ST. STEPHEN EDITION.

Rarely has PROGRESS met with such success as in St. Stephen at present. The illustrated special edition seems to have come to the people at the right time, for the leading merchants and manufacturers

This enables us to give more and better Mr. McDade, is delighted with his cordial reception, and will, we know, do St. Stephen justice from every standpoint.

THE MAYORALTY.

Ald. T. W. PETERS has shown admirable foresight in retiring from the mayoralty contest. His statement that other than civic issues are involved is correct, and his acceptance of that view of the situation stamps him in our opinion more fitted than ever to hold his present responsible repre-

The fight is now between Messrs. Lock-HART and JONES. The city would be saved expense and the citizens the excitement and rry of another election if Mr. JONES would retire and save himself the mortification of defeat.

It seems rather absurd that, among so many prosperous and business gentlemen in the city, Mr. Lockhart's opponents have to select a candidate whose record is that of a displaced leader of a disorganized and defeated party, and a broken down

We cannot imagine Mr. Jones as chairman of the present council which includes some of the rash, headstrong, unscripulous and injudicious men who misruled, mismanaged old Portland.

Mr. Jones' fate has been that of many a good man-he has failed in businesswhich is another strong reason against his aspiring to be mayor of a solvent city. We cannot afford to ignore this when the candidate is one who is known not only to portant concerns in the old country.

The man who will not think that such chief office in the city, must not complain if the fact is brought plainly to his notice. We have no fear but the citizens will agree with us that the St. John of today prefers a mayor who is not a politician and who is not widely known as having failed in any of his undertakings.

There are better men than Mr. Lock-HART, but he is the best in the field, and we have no doubt of his election.

Mr. Douglas Sladen has sent us an admirable sketch of "Flowery Fredericton," which will appear in the next number of reach here in a few days. And now the talks, in a fascinating way and with unusual a very large number of kettles would be and around Fredericton will not lack the appreciation of anyone who has lived or been in the Celestial city. PROGRESS will not only contain this article next week, bu a number of others of more than ordinary interest. The advantages offered by one of our maritime colleges will be dwelt upon by a recent graduate. This article will be illustrated by splendid engravings of the college buildings. Other articles of a lighter vein will also find space in this issue which even at this early hour, promises to be of unusual worth.

It may have been a mistake to ridicule any Canadian city in our carnival parade but the citizens of Halifax and the Mail will not forget the sneer at St. John published in the carnival programme issu the carnival executive committee of Halifax. We have a lively interest in each others welfare and prosperity, but exchanging such courtesies as these will not prom the good feeling that should exist between the only maritime cities in Canada.

Ald. T. W. PETERS says there are other

The editor took the paper and read the following in the "Society" column: "Gennal Col. Mumble-check thinks of making a trip to the seaside very soon, accompanied by the beautiful Misses Mumble-chock, his charming daughters."
"Now, sir," exclaimed the excited man, "I am Col. Mumble-check, and I have called to inquire, sir, by what, authority, sir, you take this liberty, sir, with my own and my daughters' names in your paper."

"First time I ever saw the item," said the editor,
"but I suppose it's all right. Our society reporter is a very stirring man."

"But I never gave him permission to use my the colonel, his face getting redder than ever.

"But you are going to the seaside, ain't you,

"Certainly I am." "And your daughters are going with you?"

"Of course, if you desire it," said the editor.
Then Col. Mumblechock went to a periodical store around the corner, and ordered 25 copies of the paper marked and put in wrappers to send to his friends. And when he returned from the seaside and the paper said nothing about it, he was so mad that he never bought another copy of that paper

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

To the Editor of Progress: I would like to call the attention of the Lansdowne Theatre management to a crowd of young men and boys who, I understand, attend the theatre regularly and are a source of annoyance to those who want to see and hear the performance. I have twice been compelled to take a seat near the entrance and on both occasions these young fellows were there, repeating the lines after the actors, making a noise and throwing things into the audience in front of them, which made it very unpleasant for everyone around them; so much so that one gentle

LINCOLN AS A LOVER.

One of the Strangest Proposals of Marriage Ever Made.

One of the Strangest Proposals of Marriage Ever Made.

Abraham Lincoln's offer of marriage was a very curious one, and, singularly enough, it has but recently come to light. Numerous as his biographers have been, and closely as they have gleaned for new facts and materials, it was left for the latest one, Mr. Jessie Welk, of Greencastle, to discover this unique and characteristic production of Mr. Lincoln's almost untutored mind. The letter is one of several written, presumably, to the lady he afterward married. Addressed to "My dear Mary," it reads as follows:

"You must know that I cannot see you or think of you with entire indifference, and yet it may be that you are mistaken in regard to what my real feelings toward you are. If I knew you were not, I should not trouble you with this letter. Perhaps any other man would know enough without further information; but I consider it my peculiar right to plead ignorance and your bounden duty to allow the plea. I want in all cases to do right, and the most particularly so in all cases with women. I want at this particular time, more than anything else, to do right with you, and if I knew it would be doing right, as I rather suspect it would, to let you alone, I would to it.

"And, for the purpose of making the matter as plain as possible, I now say you do it.

"And, for the purpose of making the matter as plain as possible, I now say you can drop the subject, dismiss your thoughts—if you ever had any—from me forever, and leave this letter unanswered without calling forth one accusing murmur from me. And I will even go further, and say that if it will add anything to your comfort and peace of mind to do so, it is my sincere wish that you should. Do not understand by this that I wish to cut your acquaintance. I mean no such thing. What I do wish is that our further acquaintance shall depend upon yourself.

I do wish is that our further acquaintance shall depend upon yourself.

"If such further acquaintance would contribute nothing to your happiness, I am sure it would not to mine. If you feel yourself in any degree bound to me, I am now willing to release you, provided you wish it, while, on the other hand, I am willing, and even anxious, to bind you now willing to release you, provided you wish it, while, on the other hand, I am willing, and even anxious, to bind you faster if I can be convinced that it will in any degree add to your happiness. This, indeed, is the whole question with me. Nothing would make me more miserable than to believe you miserable, nothing more happy than to know you were so.

"In what I have now said I think I cannot be misunderstood; and to make myself understood is the only object of this letter. If it suits you better not to answer this, farewell. A long life and a merry one attend you. But if you conclude to write back, speak as plainly as I do. There can be neither harm nor danger in saying to me anything you think, just in the manner you think it. Your friend,

"LINCOLN."

Probably this is the queerest love letter on record, and the most remarkable offer of marriage ever made. It is a love letter without a word of love, and a proposal of marriage that does not propose.—Indianapolis Journal.

AND HALLIFAX

And the Happenings in Social Circles of Fredericton, Moncton, Richibucto, Dorchester, St. Stephen, Sussex, Amherst, Truro, Calais, Etc.

When you to the country-or length are progressed in their week should not have reached the office of Progress of the firm for publication, when I tried to make it of more than small interest for carrival week, giving the addresses of many of the visitors and describing a number of sell eyens given in their honor. Space will sow of my repeating them all, but I will give my readers, as far as I am able, an account of some of the larger entertainments given for some of St. John's guests last week.

THE REPORT OF THE PROPERTY OF

There is a remarkably strong and strik-ing story in Scribner's Magazine for August, by Prof. H. H. Boyesen, entitled "A Pagan Incantation." It is entirely new in material and we need say nothing of its prose-style for Professor Boyesen's style is too well-known to require comment. "Form in Lawn Tennis," by Dr. James Dwight, will find many interested readers. Robert Louis Stevenson, that master of prose, gives us chapter x. of his continued story. "The New Poverty," by George Parsons Lathrop, hits off capitally some of the weaknesses of our nineteenth century society. Miss Guiney's nocturne doesn't quite satisfy us, perhaps because Miss Guiney has taught us to expect work from her pen far above the ordinary. Brander Matthews contributes a series of sketches, "Memories"; Robert Grant, "Tarpon Fishing in Florida"; Henry Morton, "Electricity in Lighting"; Benjamin Norton, "How to Feed a Railway;" and E. C. Martin, "A Monster of my Acquaintance." There is a good deal of Tennyson in this number—an engraving of the poet himself as the frontispiece; "Tennyson's First Flight," by Henry Van Dyke, and a paper on "The Two Locksley Halls," by T. R. Lonnsbury.

With the August number, The Forum completes its second volume. The leading article in this number is by John G. Carlisle, speaker of the house of representatives, on "The Republican Program." He explains and defends the Cleveland administration. "The Transformation of New England" is dealt with by Mr. A. L. Bartlett, superintendent of schools at Haverhill, Mass. In an article on "Prohibition and License," Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, concludes that license of the liquor traffic has in the main been a failure, and he shows that prohibition does prohibit in "The Defects of the Coroner Advoct, of Boston. Mr. Edward Atkinson sums up his economic theories by a demonstration that every man, under existing conditions, can earn all that his character and industry fairly article his System" are pointed out by Dr. S. W. Abbott, of Boston. Mr. Edward Atkinacter and industry fairly entitle him to have. Judge James M. Love, of Iowa, makes a comparative study of the governments of the United States and Canada, to the great advantage of the former. Mr. Walter Lewin, in a review of the main purposes to which fiction has been put, reviews American novels in a triendly spirit. and predicts the decline of the novel written for a religious or a psychological or a sensational purpose, and predicts "a return to Scott." Mr. Alfred H. Peters writes concerning "The Extinction of Leisure." The Foram Publishing Co., 253 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

A genuine midsummer number is The Century for August, with its opening article on "The Stream of Pleasure River Thames," by the Pennells-husband and wife,-who have written about and minutely pictured that gay and thronged resort of boats and boaters. Little and big, there are 20 pictures in this article Mrs. Foote's "Atternoon at a Ranch" has also a midsummer air; and all inland vacationists will find matter of interest in Dr. Weir Mitchell's profusely illustrated article "The Poison of Serpents,"a line of inquiry in which he has made important discoveries. George W. Cable gives the true and extraordinary history of it with the hose, you'd think it was the "The 'Haunted House' in Royal Street"; grocery fellar what was drowned, he splut-Edward Bellamy, author of Looking Backward, has a short story called "A Positive Romance"; and in this number is begun turned the hose where he was, and I guess a three-part story by Joel Chandler Harris he thort it was better fur him to run. portrait the Rev. Dr. Van Dyke gives the result of his study of Tennyson's use of the Bible, under the title of "The Bible in Tennyson." Dr. Van Dyke incidently discusses the relation of the English Bible to English literature. There is an unusual number of poems, including a last to roll barrels of flour in a grocery Mr. and Bill thinks so, too. He's watchin' for me now, and I haveter go round the other way, 'cause I can't always take the hose with me. I guess if he don't git tired, though, what Bill will haveter trip him up and make him lanus so's he can't. ('Uncle Remus') entitled "The Old Bascom number of poems, including a long one by Robert Burns Wilson—"A Song of the Woodland spirit"; and shorter pieces by Harry Stillwell Edwards, Mrs. Moulton, Frank Dempster Sherman, Celia Thaxter. and others.

Mr. James Russell Lowell's poem, "How I consulted the Oracle of the Goldfishes." covers nearly six pages of the Atlantic for can poem printed for many a month. The goldfishes as he saw them as a child, as he sees them now, and the analogy between the theories which goldfishes have (if they have any), as to the curious appearances outside their little sphere, and man's theories about the occurrences which take place outside his universe, are the subject of the poem. Mr. James shows his imense cleverness in an incidental account story of "The Tragic Muse," in which it occurs, will be interesting for its vivid pictures of this celebrated theatre. The story itself is full of incisive and brilliant points. so that the reader has to stop and think lest he may lose something which is too good to lose. "The Background of Roman History"—the half mythical, half historical period of the travels of Æneas, is interesting-

The poet is Louis Frechette; there are a good many extracts from his poems and it is also interesting as a sketch of the attempt at a French Canadian literature in which Fre-

Harris). Mrs. White describes bread-making, as the Boston public school-girls do it. The number is largely written by travellers and sight-seers. Mrs. General Fremont describes her "Camping near the Giant Trees" in the early California days. Miss Risley Seward, "In the Meadows at Trianon," writes of a somewhat peculiar visit she made to the famous playground of Marie Antoinette and her court, with a glimpse of those great Frenchmen, Thiers and Laboulaye. Mrs. Humphrey, in "Queen Mary's Child-Garden," gives an account of a day she spent last year on the islet of Inchmahome where Mary, Queen of Scots, abode for a time when she was a little girl. "Fishing in Tweed and Yarrow," with its beautiful engravings of the historic river scenery, is a most readable fishing paper by Andrew Lang and will set all anglers wild, young or old. Then there is a touching melo dious ballad by Mrs. Harriet Prescott

Professor Max Muller's new book on Natural Religion, being the Gifford lectures which he delivered at Glasgow last year, will be issued here in a few days by Longmans, Green & Co.

All our visitors is gone, and pa hadter give the feller from Nover Scosher enough ney to buy his ticket, 'cause the blan fool tried to make money with a shell and pea man, for he thort 'cause he's always good at guessin' at church bazaars what he could guess where the pea was, too. Bill and me's goin' to learn how to do that August, and is the most noteworthy Ameritrick now, so's when anything comes again, we kin have a try.

It Makes Three Times More Work. The reduction of the tolls on the ferry was a bad thing for the "bums," who were always asking for three cents to go across to Carleton. Although it makes more work for them, there are some yet in the business. A hard-looking fellow, who mense cleverness in an incidental account of a play at the Theatre Francais, and a visit behind the scenes, which, to lovers of the drama, even if they are not reading the story of "The Tragic Muse," in which it —want to go to Carleton—would you lend me a cent?" He got it.

many extracts from his poems and it is also interesting as a sketch of the attempt at a French Canadian literature in which Frechette seems to be the chief figure. "The German Boy at Leisure" shows us that the lad in the German gymnasium is not quite so overworked as one is accustomed to think. John Fisk has a remarkably good historical paper on "The French Allance and the Conway Cabal." These are perhaps the most salient features of the number, but it also includes other valuable papers, and a review of Emerson's Concord life by his son which will be read with interest: Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

Wide Awake for August is an open air number, full of things to be done out-of-doors; geologizing (by Prof. Frederick Starr), boating (by Miss Guiney) and the making of wild-flower books (by Miss Harris). Mrs. White describes breadmaking, as the Boston public school-girls do it. The number is larrely written by travellers and sight-seers. Mrs. General Leanuret describes her "General Leanuret the Romanna of the Control of this guests, and his good hunor, intercepted with several nummurs of the songs of the day, seems to give an air of gaicty to the house, which is not always found in our Canadianu watering places. The Brunswick Patent Flush Valve has now been over 18 months in use in a number of the best dwellings throughout the city, and in every instance gives the city, and in every instance gives the very best of satisfaction. It is the only water closet valve that thoroughly washes out the closet and leaves the trap full of clean water, thereby preventing bad smell in the house. Parties about making sanitary alterations would do well to see this valve before having their work done. Ply to THOS. CAMPBELL, Plumber and Gastiter, such hard luck on Wednesday, the fickle dame owed them another deal.

It was a lesson for some of the Moncton sports, any way. They have been making the loudest kind of talk about lugging off the pennant from St. John; never once did the idea of a debat let alone two in one day, from the Celestial ball-tossers enter their heads.

I have a warm spot for the capital city players, because they are a team of gentlemen. They have done no boasting, and there is not a kicker on the nine.

The Fredericton club is strong in individual players, and with a little more team practice the nine will prove troublesome to any of the crack visiting teams.

And look how the colts, Estey, Hayes and Mc-aughlan, are improving. They are all sharp, re-lable fielders, and with a little more experience, rill show up well at the bat.

The team, as a whole, is sure to sing anything but a crack pitcher. In the first Moneton game they put Wagg to sleep for a total of atxteen bases in one inning! And in the second game they batted Moneton's pride, Jimmy Robinson, for thirteen base hits!

I don't know just how to divide the honors among the professionals. Call's catching is clean and neat, and his throwing to second bothers the best of them. Burns is a fine all-round player, and the life of the team.

Foster, besides batting well, surprised everybody last week by his elegant fielding. Thayer's batting was heavy and timely, and his stops and throws on the third bag were superb. The Shamrocks would like to sign Thayer, but he won't leave the Celestics. Underwood is not only an excellent pitcher when he is well supported, but an old reliable at the bat and in the field. find favor anywhere, and it was at point in the game, which made the much worse.

The Moncton managers dropped some cash on the games last week—personally I mean. The club inade something, but not so much as it anticipated. It costs a trifle to keep from nine to twelve men at a lootel in St. John for carnival week, and I fear that to ur Fredericton and Moncton friends didn't carry home a pocketful of yellow coin. Deducting all expenses Fredericton had a balance to its credit of between $50 and $100, and I doubt if Moncton did any better.

I regret that Halifax seems to have lost every consideration for gentlemanly sport. Even the cricketers have broken faith with us and resorted to what is termed here "a contemptible trick," to make the maritime match take place in Halifax. No spirited St. John cricketer will have have any part in the composition of a maritime team to play the match in Halifax.

Come, come, Mr. Times, of Moncton, don't begin to call names. "Manager" Skinner is not "comso-The "Nettional" Dinning rooms are the best in tourn. Dinning from 12 to 2. Choice lustches at all hours.

Underwood is not only an excellent pitcher when he is well supported, but an old reliable at the bat and in the field. Graves at short leaves nothing to be wished for and wields the waggon-tongue with indgment.

Jimmy Hawthorne made a great mistake in allowing the Monctons to utilize Donovan in that second game. No player but a signed member should be allowed to take part in the league consect. However, the experiment will probably not be tried again, for the club winning by such tactics would be entitled to no credit whatever.

Larrabee has been doing fine work for the Monctons from the first. He is a willing worker and would be an acquisition to any of the provincial teams. Soule buts heavily, but is sometimes a little off in holding throws halls at second.

Parsons' generous aid to the Shamrocks, in helping them out of the hold occasioned by the illness of their pitcher in that game with Moncton, has scienced the air all round. It has been a long time since the Shamrocks and the Athlete nine felt is owll disposed towards each other. In fact, I regard the latchet as now buried finally. After all, it was ally one or two cranky players that caused all the past ill-feeling, and I see no reason why two such you can be asale. If Unparts that caused all the past ill-feeling, and I see no reason why two such you will an a gent the same and a series of the reason and all will go well. And let the kickers be muzled at the first croak.

Well the junior league umpire has done the big thing at last. When the winning club admits that he made a very rank decision in their favir, nothing more can be said. If Unparts Melville was a should not ring in a new regime. The Shamrocks are slowly but surely grathering a fine team together. Let there be good, manly ball when the 'kwo clubs meet his season, and all will go well. And let the kickers be muzled at the first croak.

The West Ends may think kim as fine fellow, but then every club hasn't got a clown who can a true standard the amount, allow when the matter very land the sam

"Billy" Donovan, the Shanrocks' catcher, is becoming more popular every day, both as a ball-player and an umpire. In the two games he umpired between St. John and Moncton there was no kicking, and the best of humor prevailed.

The Moncton managers dropped some cash on the games last week—personally I mean. The club inade something, but not so much as it anticipated. It costs a trifle to keep from nine to twelve men at hotel in St. John for carnival week, and I fear that our Fredericton and Moncton friends didn't carry home a pocketful of yellow coin. Deducting all expenses Fredericton had a balance to its credit of between $50 and $100, and I doubt if Moncton did any better.

There was some complaint of the treatment given the two league clubs by our A. A. GOOD CIRCUIT SUGGESTIONS.

Horses Into the Circuit.

HALPAR, July 31.—Correspondence such as that of your Fredericton correspondent in your last issue, can only be of great benefit to the Maritime circuit, and if horsemen will only give their views in this manner, the representatives of the tracks will just know what to do to suit the horsemen. The gentlemen who met in St. John last March, all strove to do the best they could to suit the owners of trotters, and if they find they have made mistakes this season they will be quite willing to consult them. Your correspondent's suggestion that a horse should not be allowed to frot throughout the

The Lovell Arms nine wanted too large a portion of the sphere for us. Their terms were frigid. We don't mind hugging the north pole, but draw the line at climbing it.

"St." Croix's" interesting horse gossip arrived too late for complete insertion in this issue and is held for the next. The publication of his concluding partiraph, however, must not be postponed a day. MRS. DONNELLY'S LEGAL MIND.

Why She Thought the Office Boy Was from Cork. Mrs. Donnelly has been calling on my legal friend again, and her naturally active mind has been thrusting out tendrils in a new direction. Her conversational style inclines towards monologue, so I give her words as they were spoken: "Ah then, sir, it's a terrible climb up them stairs of yours, it is, and old bones want a long yours, it is, and old bones want a long rest before climbing down again. Sure, sir, where's the lad with the red cheeks that used to be here? The wan that had his hair down over his eyes, so he had. A dacent lad he was, too, for he was tellin' me he was born in Cork. Lord save him. I thought he was just lyin' to me then, but I've been thinkin' it over, and I belave it was all true, for he told me he'd been to the Lake of Killarney many a time, where the blessed St. Patrick threw the great serpent, all locked up in an iron box, so he did; rest his soul! And that lad told me many's the time he heard the serpent from the bottom of the lake cryin', 'Will tomorra never come, will tomorra never come?' And every good Catholic knows that's what the serpent says. So that lad must have come from the old sod. An' it's home I'll be goin' now, sir, for-the blessed home I'll be goin' now, sir, for—the blessed saints between us an' all harm—it's many's long day since I've been here without yer havin' some kind of a spasm in yer inside before I went, an' it's my belief yer that simful that nothin' but the holy wafer'd do ye any good."

Mr. Gallagher then delivered a stirring address, taking for his text the verse from St. John's gospel, "Gather up the fragments, that nothing be lost," after which Mr. Quicke was presented for ordination by Mr. Gallagher, and after answering the usual questions, he was duly ordained by the bishop by laying on of hands. After receiving the charge, the congregation was briefly addressed by the bishop, who pointed out to them the necessity of holding up their pastor's hands in his efforts for good. The impressive service was closed by singing a hymn, and the benediction was pronounced by Bishop Fallows.
