MRS. J. H. KELLY HAS PASSED AWAY

Passed Away Suddenly at Her Home, New Carlisle on Friday Last

Wide-spread and sincere is the sorrow felt for the sudden death of Mrs. Kelly, wife of Hon. John Hall Kelly, of the Legislative Council, Quebec, which occurred at her home in New Carlisle on the morning of the 15th inst.

Marie Adèle Dionne was the daughter of C. E. L. Dionne, Esq., M. C., of Quebec. She was educated at the Ursuline Convent, Quebec, and was a good student, taking the Governor General's medal for proficiency. She possessed rare talent, artistic lines; her paintings were highly valued, and she played the harp in addition to the piano. Her singing always attracted people; she loved the old and timeless selections.

She married in Feb. 1904 the Hon. John Hall Kelly, then M. P. for Co. Bonaventure, and came to New Carlisle. Two children mourn their mother, Miss Ruth, aged eleven, and baby Kathleen, only one month old.

Her many deeds of love and kindness to the poor will never be known. She found pleasure in bringing joy into the lives of others. Among her many acts of kindness was her interest in the work of the Red Cross. She organized the Society in New Carlisle, and was the active and interested President. No labour was too great to make it successful. It is touching to know that Mrs. Kelly never failed in her interest in the wounded soldiers in the hospitals; her last donation was to the Society. The day before her death she directed that a sum of money should be given to the Red Cross of New Carlisle.

The interment took place at New Carlisle, and was largely attended, being somewhat in the nature of a County funeral. All creeds were represented in the Counties of Gaspé and Bonaventure. Irrespective of creed or condition they gathered to show their respect and affection for the dead lady, and their sympathy with the sorrowing friends.

The burial service was the most impressive ever held in the Roman Catholic Church, New Carlisle. The "Requiem" took place at the house and was performed by Rev. J. C. Guimond, parish priest of New Carlisle. The solemn requiem high mass was officiated by Monsignor Ross, Grand Vicar of Rimouski, assisted by Rev. Placide D'Amboise, Professor of the Seminary of Rimouski, Deacon, Rev. Jos. Plouffe of St. Bonaventure, Sub-Deacon, and eight other clergymen of the various parishes of Co. Bonaventure.

The music was exceptionally good. The organ was in charge of the notary Mr. A. Dorais of New Carlisle, and the choir of Mr. Bourassa of Quebec. The solos were sung by the Misses Evelyn and Estelle LeBlanc of Bonaventure, Mrs. Blanchette of New Carlisle, Mr. Bourassa of Quebec and Mr. H. A. Bedard, Manager of the Bank National, New Carlisle.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. R. A. Bedard, Bank National, New Carlisle, R. N. LeBlanc, Bonaventure, T. B. Clapperton, Maria, F. Blais, New Carlisle, Preston Taylor, Bonaventure, and Dr. E. G. Cyr, New Richmond.

On a beautiful August day, amid sorrowing and sympathizing friends the loved remains were laid to rest in the cemetery beside the beautiful Baie des Chaleurs.

The floral offerings were beautiful and numerous. Among others were those from The Ladies of the Red Cross, New Carlisle, Mr. Dionne, Hon. J. H. Kelly and daughters, Mrs. LeBlanc, Mrs. Shearer, Mrs. Sheppard, Pres. Legislative Assembly, Pres. Legislative Council, Mr. Hamon, Mr. Gordon, Mr. Jibault, Mr. Albert Coldwell, Misses LeFavre, Mr. LeFavre, Dr. Michaud, Mrs. Scollins, Mrs. Greier, Mrs. Flourens.

The stranger was impressed by the feeling of general sorrow and sense of personal loss expressed by the people of New Carlisle. The sympathy and

DEBTOR BREAKS OUT OF JAIL

Dalhousie Man Arrested for Debt Walks Out Saturday Night

The Restigouche county jail has never enjoyed a reputation as a safe place in which to keep things, as very frequently prisoners have mysteriously disappeared never to be recaptured. The latest episode took place last week, when a Dalhousie citizen, whose only asset was a large family was arrested for debt and placed behind the bars. He was making arrangements to "sneak out" when he thought he would try the jail door. This he did and as it was not locked he walked away to freedom.

Needless to say he had not been recaptured when this was written.

STATE POSITION
Hamilton, Ont., 11.—A meeting of the executive of the Hamilton branch of the win-the-war movement last night decided to ask the central body at Toronto to ask Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in view of the fact that he had stated that he was in the war to the finish, to place a definite limit on the time for the continuation of voluntary enlistment and to appeal to him to state that if this effort should fail to produce the men necessary for reinforcements, that he would support conscription.

MINISTER OF LANDS AND MINES HERE

Hon. E. A. Smith Visits Settlements Along International Railway

Hon. E. A. Smith, Minister of Lands and Mines for the Province of New Brunswick was in town last week enroute to the International Railway. Accompanied by Mr. Max. M. Mowat he went to Kedgwick and then to the mouth of the Kedgwick, from which point they ran down the Restigouche river to Matapédia.

Monday morning the party again left by train for Upsalquitch, when they went up river to enjoy the salmon fishing for a few days.

GERMANS ADMIT LOSS IN FLANDERS

Copenhagen, Aug. 11.—A special despatch from Flanders to the Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, cabled the ninth, describes three heavy British attacks on that day, resulting in the forcing and crossing of the Steenbeek river, at a point where the railroad from Boesinghe and Langemark crosses the creek. It says that in consequence of better weather the artillery bombardment flamed up along the whole army front. This and other preparations indicate that a renewal of the general attack is impending as soon as the ground conditions permit, the infantry to attack in the east section on the British attacked at two in the morning of the 9th after a short drum fire preparation coming to grips with the Germans at various points, but according to the Vossische Zeitung version they did not succeed in ejecting the Germans from their positions. Further to the south the British were more successful. Here two hours of drum fire from Merket to Frenzenberg was the prelude to violent infantry attacks in the sector between Braalbanc and St. Julien. The chief effort was concentrated south of the Boesinghe and Langemark railway, where the British established themselves on the west bank of the Steenbeek.

fact of Mrs. Kelly, her kindly smile, her deeds of love and kindness to all will not soon be forgotten. Better than all, her life had been such that they knew her to be a Christian woman.

With the sorrowing husband, children, father and sister many friends in the Baie des Chaleurs join in loving sympathy.

RESTIGOUCHE MUST HAVE GOOD ROADS

Beautiful Scenery Attracting Tourists But Roads a Disgrace to County

There is not a doubt that for beautiful scenery the county of Restigouche cannot be equalled in the Maritime provinces. It is equally true that its roads are among the poorest in these eastern provinces.

Recently a St. John gentleman who motored through New Brunswick to the North Shore stated that he had seen nothing in his travels to equal the drive from Campbellton to Matapédia. Frequently his car was stopped by the roadside that the occupants might gaze upon the beauties of river and mountain spread out before them. But the pleasure of the long trip was spoiled by the rough roads.

The Restigouche Auto Association has had many complaints from local and distant motorists in reference to the roads, and the Good Roads Committee by personal work have been able to have certain exceptionally bad pieces of road repaired, but despite all they could do, there are still many rough places which need attention and the chairman of the committee is taking the matter up.

The following is a copy of a letter sent to our local members, and Hon. P. J. Veniot:—

Campbellton, N. B., Aug. 15th, 1917.

Hon. Wm. Currie
A. T. LeBlanc, M. P. P.

Gentlemen:—

Writing as Chairman of the Road Committee of the Automobile Association, and voicing the many complaints which have come to me, I wish to draw your attention to the condition of the Public Highway, between Campbellton and Dalhousie.

As you are well aware, there is no piece of road in our County which is travelled as much by automobile, and is as popular a drive, as this road to Dalhousie.

It is without exception the worst sixteen miles of road in our County, especially between Campbellton and Dalhousie Junction.

The bridge at Shaw's Cove near the Richard cottage, is absolutely dangerous, it is in such a rough condition, it is liable to throw a car off the road and over the bridge.

This requires immediate attention.

Another section of the road which is in very bad condition is that commonly called the Eel River Portage from the foot of the Morton Hill through the Indian Reserve to Eel River Bar. One culvert on this road requires immediate attention.

During the last week the writer had the misfortune to break a rear spring which costs $14.00.

At our last meeting of the Association reports from all over the County show that the two superintendents on these dissections, are not giving any attention to the work of repairing the roads, and the decision was that the Association be compelled to ask for their removal.

Awaiting your reply on these matters,

I am
yours truly,
H. J. CURRIE,
Chairman.

The sections of road complained of are under the supervision of Henry McIntyre between Campbellton and Dalhousie Junction and John Nowlan of Point La Nim. Both of these commissioners have done some work on a portion of the road, but it was not work properly done.

At the present time earth is being carted into the most of the holes in the road approaching Dalhousie, but the entire road needs to be crowned and then beach gravel of which there is a plentiful supply near, put on.

The Eel River portage is a disgrace to any commissioner who has it in his district. The entire road needs to be crowned. The wooden culvert, complained of is hard to notice until one is right to it. There is a drop of nearly a foot, which is exceedingly

The returned veterans of Restigouche county held a meeting in the Murray Hall last Tuesday evening for the purpose of organizing a branch of the G. W. V. A. About twenty-five were present, but owing to the absence of the organizer, and the Secretary of the Organization, Mr. Chas. PLANS READY FOR S. A. CITIDAL

Capt. Squarebriggs Hard at Work and Building Will be Commenced Soon

The plans for the new "Salvation Army" Citadel have already been prepared. These call for a one-story concrete block building, although it is hoped that another story will be added to the building before same is completed. The building as a one-story structure is certainly an attractive and imposing one and will add considerably to the appearance of the surroundings in which the building will be erected. Ample provision has been made for the platform, auditorium and the several rooms required upon the lower floor. It is the intention at the time to only excavate half the basement, which will permit of the installation of the heating system as well as the toilet rooms. An effort will be made however to have the second story added to the building while same is under construction. The upper story of the building is badly needed for the officers' quarters, the present quarters not being at all suitable, the rooms being entirely too small for living purposes.

Capt. Squarebriggs who is now calling upon a number of our citizens for contributions is meeting with very good success, already having received several handsome donations.

A substantial amount has been voted from the Salvation Army funds for the erection of this building, but as in other places the Army here is required to meet most of the expense.

The Army has undoubtedly done good work in Campbellton and it is altogether likely Capt. Squarebriggs will meet with good success on his mission in raising the required amount of money for the erection of the two story building.

U. S. ARMY READY NEXT YEAR

National Army Will Train All Winter Regulars Going Over in Fall

Washington, Aug. 14.—Two hundred thousand physically fit American men are ready for the first mobilization day September 5th, and, according to reports to Provost-Marshal General Crowder, this contingent could move tomorrow if transportation facilities were available. It is believed the full quota of 687,000 men will be accepted and willing to serve before the end of this month.

With America's first draft army in camp by the first week in October, the second increment, probably 750,000, may not be called for duty until next spring or summer, it was learned today. It will be called up for examination immediately after the first unit is completed however. In some districts this examination already is going on.

Training officers for the National Army already have been drawn from reserve camps, and some Regular Army majors and other officers will go too. Many non-commissioned officers from the regular and National Guard armies will assist.

It will be impossible, accordingly to indications now, to get the first National Army into condition for service abroad before next spring or summer. Tomorrow was to have begun entrainment of Guard troops for Southern camps. Construction work, however, has been slow and these forces will be delayed from two to four weeks getting under way.

Many of these will see service in France this fall.

hard on occupants of cars travelling at even a slow speed.

If we wish to encourage tourists to our county it is up to us to provide at least as good roads as are enjoyed in other sections of the province.

OBITUARY

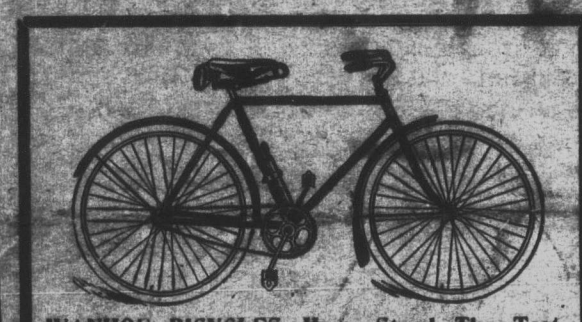

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Peters of Kedgwick will have the sympathy of the community in the death of their only son, Benjamin G. age 11 years, which sad event occurred on Thursday morning at the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Campbellton. The little fellow was as his custom accompanied his father to Campbellton on one of his trips the previous week, and while there was taken seriously ill, complaining of pain in his leg. A physician was called in and for a few days treated the little fellow at the Hotel St. Louis when it was felt advisable to order his removal to the hospital. Even after there was no improvement in becoming weaker day by day and complaining of pain throughout his entire body. Four of our local physicians were called in consultation, but nothing could apparently be done to improve his condition or relieve his suffering.

His mother had been so gratified for was with him during his last hours, as was his father who had remained here during all the time of his illness. Benjamin was particularly bright little fellow, and many friends around Campbellton, accompanying his father as he came on about all his trips here. His passing away will therefore be as keenly felt in Campbellton as at Kedgwick, where the little fellow was a general favorite. The remains were forwarded to Kedgwick on Friday morning's express.

The funeral services which were held on Saturday morning, Rev. Father Thibault officiating, were largely attended.

THE NEGROES AWAY

The seven negroes arrested here last Wednesday night for refusing duty on one of the steamers then at the wharf have all left town, the Capt. of the steamer having decided to take them along with him when the boat left port on Saturday. The injury sustained by one of the negroes in falling down the stairs when being taken into the police station was not as serious as at first thought. A day in the Hotel Dieu hospital was all that was required to fix him up so that he could get away with the rest of the crew.

DALHOUSE

Oh! where would I be going if I had the wings to-night?
I'd go where loyal hearts are true and warm and laughter-light!
I'd go where clover crowns the hills, where wild winds, blowing free,
Kiss the little town, Dalhouse, Dalhouse-by-the-Sea.

Oh! where would I be going if I had the wings to-night?
I'd go where leagues of briny waters bring the sea-caps white!
Where I would lay my troubled heart at rest for evermore—
Where the sunshine falls from heaven on the grand old Bay Chaleur!

OLD DALHOUSE DAYS

The Oldest Inhabitant—The Mail Coach—Ships That Pass—First Survey Pegs—Road House—Clans.

I remember playing "pirate" half-a-hundred years ago, around Bon-Ami's rocks, little dreaming that one day tourist Bon-Ami's rocks would be the tourists' paradise. Old man Bon-Ami had passed away long before this time; he had taken up habitation on the Restigouche river shore when the French were driven from Grand Pré; here, upon the rocks named after him, he spent his last days, musing upon the injustice of the world; still new. Old man Bon-Ami sleeps beneath the sheltering trees, just a stone's throw from the rocks named after him, and I think his ears, though closed to the cry of commerce, must still hear the sea-song of the dear long ago.

I remember lying awake o' nights, half-a-hundred years ago, listening to the bugle call of the incoming Mail-coach, whose wild blowing used to wake the echoes of the Hills. The Mail coach used relays of horses, at such historic high spots as Bartibogue, Belledune and "at Dickie's"; coming down the big hill (eight feet deep with winter snows) with a cracking of whip-lash and a flourish of bugle, such as has never been heard since. In the morning you'd see "the basket pole" at the top of the post office flag pole, that being the sign, MAIL-IS-IN. You see the weekly Mail was an event in those pioneer days.

Transportation methods, even at that early date, were all sufficient for the needs of the settlers. The only travellers being Members of Parliament (elected by open ballot system) whose annual trip to the House made a stir, I can tell you. I don't think mileage had yet come into existence; politics then was a responsibility, not a game, and men voted at election time as their conscience told them to. Since then conscience has gone out of fashion, and I don't believe it will ever come back to us until the old mail coach brings it in!

In summer time The Lady Head boomed her arrival in the bay by a salvo of cannon, and you'd see the pilots, garbed in "lickers" and "sou-westers", hurry to the small boats to "bring in the Boat"; and the passengers, (the name Howe and Anglin were heard then) used to "put up" at Phillips' hospitable hotel, where a bright little hostess made welcome everybody in those golden days. And then, just to smudge the whole scene, along came the Surveyors; they set down little pegs here and there, right out to old man Bon-Ami's rocks—and politicians promised us The Intercolonial Road. We got it—in the neck!

The railway tapped at the door of Dalhouse and then passed by. In 1872 the Intercolonial braggd 274 miles of roadway, and it ran between Halifax and St. John. To-day the "Government Railway", as it is known that Zam-Buk is not an ordinary ointment? It is a herbal skin healer with unusual power in overcoming chronic skin troubles.

Mr. John L. Frenette, of Nigadoo, Gloucester Co., N.B., writes: "Ec-zema developed on my head and spread rapidly, until my head was entirely covered with sores. I was attended by a doctor, but his treatment did not do me much good. By this time my head was in such a shocking condition that I determined to try something on my own account. Having heard of some wonderful cures effected by Zam-Buk, I commenced applying it, and the results were most encouraging. This marvellous balm soon ended the irritation and drew out all the inflammation. Then the sores began to heal and perseverance with Zam-Buk resulted in a complete cure."
This skin healer is equally good for ringworm, salt rheum, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, bad legs, blood-poisoning, boils, piles, burns, scalds, cuts and all skin injuries. All druggists, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. 50c. box, 2 for $1.25.

far and wide, operates an up-to-date freight and passenger service, second to none, to the far west. Over 3,000 miles of road-bed, some nineteen thousand employees keep watchful eyes over, and the last report I saw (1916) gave its gross earnings as $21,374,697.

Before the railway came we had the Road House, and when the Road House went we lost the last touch of romance of the old days. Athol House is still remembered by the Old Times, because Athol House preceded confederation. There our statesmen supped besides the yawning fireplace—there wandering Willies found warmth from the winter winds without—there the traveller slept in the high-posters, down pillows and "patch" quilts (the latter done in fine needle-work design) with woolen blankets—none of your shop variety, but the product of capable home-fingers—giving that blissful feeling of comfort we have never since known. What sumptuous fare was served in the old Road House of the past, vension from the forest deeps—fish fresh from the river—wild goose, ptarmigan; and the Ferguson flagon, (bearing the family arms) passed from hand to hand by men of a day now gone forever.

I remember when the big British men-o'-war used to anchor in Chaleur Bay, and loose-legged sailors swaggared up and down the streets of the tiny town. They were on their way from India, perhaps, but they seemed wonderful to childish eyes; yet these great dark-hulled hulks never gave half the thrill as did the launching of the first ship that was launched from the stocks upon the "upper beach" one wonderful midsummer day. How well I recollect "the day of the launching"; it was the good ship, The Anita, and the pretty wife of the proud Shipowner, Mr. George Haddow, it was who "christened" her, calling out in flute-like tones: "There goes the good ship; The Anita!" and the men cheered, as the women wept (women did not cheer in those days, you understand) and the children gawped, and jumped about and wondered whether it wasn't all a fairy tale? and it was—for The Anita sailed away, as did a sister ship, later, and—oh, woe me! they never came back again; but the plucky venture of the pioneer, a man of stirring worth and great ability, must ever remain a pleasant memory, and prove to the descendants of this present age, that Somebody tried hard to make Dalhouse what God intended it to be, one of the greatest ship building centres in all the wide world!

I remember Moffat's mill. It's five o'clock each morning—the long procession of toilers going and coming at the jingle-ingle-ingle of that call; the a-c-r-r-r of its saws—the roar of its machinery—the bellow of its shutters—and the long boom floating below, where the children used to play "jump", keeping anxious mothers on the qui-vivi for accidental drownings. Yesterday I heard Moffat's mill sending out the old call, but it seemed a harsh jangle of sound from where I stood, in the quiet little churchyard upon the big hill.

Within the small God's Acre I found memories that haunt: names engraved on marble slabs that I had known and loved and spoken, in the days gone by. Here some one had planted a rose bush—there a found hand had placed a wreath—anon I came across a little cross of white pebbles, and, amongst these I came across one that touched the heart of me to tears! It was a white slab bearing the name of a young woman whose labors had been for

EARLY DAYS OF PRESBYTERIANS ON THE RESTIGOUCHE

The following account is taken from "The Free Church Record" Edinburgh, Scotland, May 1852 and was written by an old Presbyterian minister of New Mills, the Rev. Angus Macmaster.

"The organization of the congregation (of New Mills) consists of ten elders in all, seven of whom are at New Mills, two at Point la Nim (a district adjoining Dalhouse, the county town) and one at Escuminac, Canada East, and of eight deacons in all—five of whom are at New Mills, two at Point la Nim, and one at Escuminac, and four deacons elect at New Mills. On the occasion of our communion, which is in the summer season, the people attend at New Mills, from the various stations and extremities; from the west twenty miles, and from the east twenty miles—entirely, forty miles.

The minister resides at New Mills, where the church is built, and he officiates at New Mills two Sabbaths in three; at Point la Nim one Sabbath in three; and at Escuminac, Canada East, occasionally as the ice and weather permit. The distance from New Mills to Point la Nim is about fifteen miles, and Escuminac is three miles from Point la Nim, across the head of the Bay des Chaleurs. In the whole county of Restigouche, which is at least eighty miles in extent from east to west, the only ministers of other denominations is the minister in connection with the Scottish Establishment, Baptists, Methodists and Papists visit occasionally their adherents, but do not reside in the county.

The population of the county is about 5,000, the most part of whom are Protestants, principally Presbyterians from Scotland. The greater part of the others are Papists, both Irish and French.

Westwards up the river Restigouche, there is a large and destitute district, a very proper field for missionary labours. It comprehends both the New Brunswick and Canada sides of the river. In this district a missionary could get abundance of labour; and, through time and patience, by the blessing of God, a self-sustaining congregation might ultimately be formed in it.

The average amount raised for sustentation of ministers, during the four years 'the congregation has been in existence—is a little over fifty three pounds sterling (about $258).

Our station at Point la Nim is a small school house, between two and three miles west of Dalhouse; and if we had a church in Dalhouse, the people of Point la Nim, also of Escuminac, with those of the west end of the New Mills congregation could meet conveniently there, with some in the town additional.

As to the progress of religion in the district, the people's cheerful and regular attendance on the public ordinances, together with the efforts which they make in establishing and sustaining them, is a pleasing evidence, considering general circumstances of the county.

Very few newspapers, or publications of any kind, are read in the place. Money is so exceedingly scarce that the people do not feel themselves in a capacity to pay for such.

The lame, the halt, and the blind, Dame Arsenau, whose ministrations to the sick and the suffering had made her name, her sainted name, a household word—somebody had raised this monument to her memory; so that, after all, this money-mad world of ours has, within its human heart, some throbs of sweet comradeship, for this is proved by that white marble slab rising above a woman's heart, now pale and cold in death. Later, within the home walls of a descendant I found a picture of dame Arsenau hanging upon the walls, and looking at that sweet and sensitive face, I could again hear, in fancy, her soft voice, saying "mon pauvre enfant!" Dame Arsenau had "the healing hand" some said; she made no charge for her Samaritan-like services—the sick came and went away healed, and her name of "goodness" came from the garden wonderer dug with his capable hands. Within a stone's throw from where I write these remnant lines, the garden still stands, and from its stromatic bedges, now overgrown by the surrounding weeds, there arise

WASTAGE IN THE KITCHEN

Hon. W. J. Hanna, Canadian Food Controller, calculates that food wastage in the garbage pails of Canada each year through carelessness and lack of kitchen economy amounts to $56,000,000 per year, or about $7. per head of the population.

Today I walked through the streets of dear Dalhouse, and I could not see for the tears that would come, despite my (foolish) statement that "the sun blinded". What a change, what a deplorable change in the smart little sea-bound city of hopes-of-the-long-ago! Dalhouse had been hurt by the men it had taken, and sheltered, and made rich by its natural wealth! Dalhouse had been betrayed in the house of its friends! Dalhouse, crippled and stricken, like old king Lear, sorrows in its old age, bemoaning unworthy children, but Dalhouse will rise again, for the native energy is still within its heart—native energy will re-vitalize—native beauty belongs to Dalhouse; and some day great grandsons of its great grandfathers will rise up and rebuild anew what might and what should have been a great City by the Sea.

It must come to pass that Dalhouse will survive, because pioneers who laid the foundation stones of Empire cemented these same stones with their blood and tears. They were toilers—men of muscle and men of Mind—they were Acadians who were driven from home. They were Hugonots who sought freedom of worship. They were the Irish who rebelled against an overbearing and a tyrannical rule. They were hardy Scotch, of the Border clans; and these, like their souled ancestors, longed for conquest, and here, upon the New Brunswick shores, they found the greatest of all conquests to be the conquest of self! Do you think a race of such Viking-hearts could ever be beaten or kept down? No; a thousand times NO! Some day the echoes of the river Restigouche will ring with the sound of busy Trade and Commerce; we may not be here to see, but the day is coming; so keep up a brave heart. O! beautiful Dalhouse by the Sea.

A COMMUNITY BUILDER

One of our leading metropolitan papers was kind enough to publish the following which contains more or less "poetry": Our country is dotted with small towns, in each of which one or more small newspapers are published. They do not make any claim to being a review of the entire world even though they do not carry feature articles of a general nature, nor do they boast that their circulation is something prodigious. Yet these country newspapers week after week recording the happenings of the neighborhood, lending assistance to the unfortunate, extending sympathy and consolation to the bereaved, chronicling with pardonable pride any improvements in the town and bringing to the fireside a record of those apparently trifling happenings that are really of more importance to the readers than the crowning of George the Fifth as Emperor of India, meet a demand in our rural life. The country newspaper is of inestimable value in maintaining the moral and financial standards of the community. It is something in which the entire neighborhood can feel a common interest. It is deserving of steady support, not only of the home-folks, but also of those who look back with cherished memories to their life in the little town.

Besides an article entitled "Canada's Amateur Soldiers", which tells about the men who have helped to make famous the exploits of Canadian soldiers, THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE for August contains a good variety of interesting and instructive contributions. The place that liquor has in the every life of the Old Country is well described by Lucy Amy in an article entitled "Liquor and the War", and Austin Harrison gives a splendid article on "How Long Will Hate Last?" The work of the Royal Flying Corps in Canada is the basis of an article by Randolph Carlyle, and "Allen Races in Russia" is the title of a timely article by Laura Denton. There are several excellent short stories of a reasonable character.

PRESERVE EGGS NOW

(Experimental Farms Note)

The indications are that eggs will be dear next winter, dearer than they were last winter so those who want eggs had better put some down now while they are comparatively cheap. Do not use oats, bran, salt or such mediums; moreover, the patent preservatives usually advertised as being so simple and effective had better be adopted with caution. Better, something that has been tried and found satisfactory.

According to Dr. Frank T. Shutt, Dominion Chemist, lime water is one of the best preservatives and we quote the following from the Exhibition Circular No. 42.

The method of preparation is simply to slake one pound good quick lime with a small quantity of water and then stir the milk of lime so formed into a gallons of water. After the mixture has been kept well stirred for a few hours it is allowed to settle. The supernatant liquid, which is now "saturated" lime water, is drawn off and poured over the eggs, previously placed in a crock or water-tight barrel. As exposure to the air tends to precipitate the lime (as carbonate), and thus to weaken the solution, the vessel containing the eggs should be kept covered. The air may be excluded by a covering of sweet oil or sacking upon which a paste of lime is spread. In, after a time there is any noticeable precipitation of the lime, the lime-water should be drawn or siphoned off and replaced with a further quantity newly prepared.

GENERAL PRECAUTIONS

It is essential that attention be paid to the following points:

1. That perfectly fresh eggs only be used.
2. That the eggs should throughout the whole period of preservation be completely immersed.

Although not necessary to the preservation of the eggs in a sound condition, temperature of 40 degrees F. to 45 degrees F. will no doubt materially assist towards retaining good flavor or rather in arresting that "stale" flavor so often characteristic of packed eggs.

Retreating the addition of salt, it must be stated that our experiments conducted now throughout fifteen seasons do not show any benefit to be derived therefrom; indeed, salt frequently imparts a limey flavour to the egg, probably by inducing an interchange of the fluids within and without the egg. Our advice is, do not add any salt to the lime-water.

YOUR AUTOMOBILE

It is just as easy to wash a car properly as not. All the mud should be thoroughly softened by a gentle stream of clear cold water, which also will wash away all the dust. Then all the grease and oil spots should be removed with a piece of waste saturated in gasoline. The car should afterwards be rubbed gently with a clean sponge, using an abundance of clean cold water until all mud is removed. The car should be rubbed dry with gentle strokes of chamois, wringing it out as the water is absorbed. The object is to remove the dust and mud and leave the surface dry and clean, with just a little scratching and rubbing on the finish as possible. Bubbling should be done in straight lines rather than in circles. To prevent water drying and spotting it is well to clean one panel at a time.

JOB PRINTING

TO COST MORE.

The increase in the cost of printing has been so great since the beginning of the war that an average increase in prices of twenty-five per cent has followed. This has been agreed to by the printing firms in Toronto. The cost of material has jumped all the way from 25 to 300 per cent in advance of what it was a few years ago, and the 1917 wage-schedule has brought up the cost of labor from 24 to 35 per cent.

On different kinds of book paper increased range from 64 per cent to 132 per cent on egg shell book. Manillas have gone up 150 per cent, on Kraft wrapping and coated enamel, from 61 to 69 per cent. Bond papers have increased from 50 to 140 per cent. The greatest increase in the cost of materials has been on ink of all grades, which has gone from 25 to 300 per cent, over former prices.

TEA MAY BE SUPPRESSED.

Woman Thinks the Custom Helps the Nation.

A writer in The London Times suggested that the widespread habit in England of afternoon tea be suppressed in the interests of national economy. "A woman tea-drinker," he wrote in The Times protesting vigorously against the afternoon tea embargo, stating that if it is a bad habit it is taking the place of a worse one. During the last 20 years the habit of offering a glass of sherry and biscuits to afternoon callers was replaced by the cup of tea with its addition of hot scones and fancy cakes. The result has been a vast increase in consumption, says the tea defender. It was unfriendly to refuse a glass of wine and daunt one's toiletting visitor, he saved the situation. One might go further and say it has reduced the number of victims of rheumatism in this generation whose mothers (and fathers) from their afternoon sherry-drinking were almost without exception suffering from the disease.

Afternoon tea has become the tonic of all classes, continues the writer, and has become a necessary part of life. "Spreading up" has been made universal. There is not an office in the city, be the employee male or female, where from the chief to the errand boy the afternoon cup of tea is not a constitution-sustaining tonic. It is a tonic, he says, served, but always a tonic, he looks forward to for the evening of fresh news it gives him a tonic of a kind that is every day a tonic.

The Times states that during recent years there has been an extraordinary growth in the observance of the tea hour in London restaurants and cafes. Those who cater for the habit have encouraged it by the provision of a special menu as an accompaniment to tea drinking and cake nibbling and chatter, and the menu has been made as bright and charming as is possible through the art of the decorator.

In some of the more popular restaurants hundreds of light teas are served every day, and on Saturday afternoon it is a common thing to see scores of people waiting patiently to get a seat at the tables. Whatever order is given usually ends with the words, "and bring some cakes." The pastries favored are cream-filled eclairs, or cakes coated with sugar icing. What the afternoon sugar consumption may come to in the aggregate is not known, but the figure, if it could be ascertained by a census, would probably prove a startlingly large one.

Charges for afternoon tea at the best restaurants are out of proportion to the refreshment provided, but price does not appear to be a consideration with the visitors. The profits derived from the national habit are sufficient to enable the caterer regard with dismay any suggestion to abolish the meal. Hotel and cafe proprietors would certainly take exception to a prohibition of the sale of food or drink of any description between the hours of 3 and 6 in the afternoon.

The drinker of intoxicants has taken with a good grace the interference with his liberty to obtain stimulants during the afternoon, and if the enjoyment of a cup of tea and fancy cakes had been the desired end in the national interests an inclination to grumble would not be long sustained.

LUTHER BURBANK THE PLANT WIZARD

Began Life by Learning Wood-working Trade.

DRIFTED INTO OTHER WORK

His Career Has Been Spent Experimenting With Fruits, Vegetables, and Flowers for the Purpose of Improving the Older Species and Also Making New Ones.

At this time when so many men are making their fame with the arts of war, it is interesting to note that Luther Burbank still continues to attract attention by his peculiar genius in one of the greatest arts of peace. Burbank is the wizard of plant life, and he has accomplished wonders with plants, and yet strange to say he drifted, as it were, into the science in which he was to become the most famous man of his day.

Luther Burbank, the horticulturist, was born in Lancaster, Worcester County, Mass., March 7, 1849.

He was educated at Lancaster Academy. At the age of 18 he went to Worcester, Mass., to learn wood turning and pattern making in the shops of the Ames Plow Company, and for three years was in the employ of that company. He then turned to work that was wholly congenial and, buying a 20-acre farm at Lancaster, Mass., he began experiments with fruits, vegetables, and flowers, with the object of producing new species and varieties. The well-known Burbank potato was one result of his efforts in this direction. A warmer climate than that of New England being essential to continuous work, Mr. Burbank removed to Santa Rosa, Cal., in 1875, establishing his principal experiment grounds near Sebastopol, in the same county (Sonoma), where every condition of soil and climate best suited to the work of propagation was found. Here fruits, flowers, vegetables, grains, trees, shrubs, and grasses have been developed—such wonderful results being secured within a short period of time that Mr. Burbank is justly called the wizard of horticulture. At one time eighty thousand lilies, representing a value of one-quarter million dollars, were to be seen there in full bloom. No horticulturist has ever worked on so vast a scale, nor in so scientific a manner as Mr. Burbank.

Humoring a Man.

A writer in The Woman's Home Companion says: "Humoring a man" sounds like a pleasant and comfortable thing, but when one links humoring with the question of who makes the money, it does not seem very flattering to the humor of the humoree. And what a lamentable sight is that of the humoree, what deep inequality it implies, and what an absence of any real respect or understanding between two people in whose lives humoring is a part of the daily routine. When the one to be humored is a woman, it may mean that a man has been forced into the craven part of doing anything for the sake of peace. There are few concessions some men will not make to avoid a domestic storm. Some unfortunate men there are who even give up vital friendships, legitimate forms of recreation, and even their own individualities in this unworthy cause."

A Regular Kaiser.

"The kaiser is a queer customer," said Jacob Schiff, New York banker and philanthropist, during a Cooper Union debate. The more the German people ask of him the less he gives them.

"The way the kaiser has treated the German people about this business of universal suffrage reminds me of the Blue mill."

"The hands of the Blue mill, you know, waited on the owner and told him they wanted shorter hours."

"Very good," said the owner. "Your wish shall be granted, men. We'll begin with shorter dinner hours."

Soil composed entirely of sand is practically of no value for garden purposes.

In fine sandy soil seven per cent of stable manure added will cause it to retain double the former quantity of water.

SERVED HIM RIGHT.

A man in a neighboring town, who took a city paper in preference to a country paper because he got more paper for the money, was attracted by the advertisement of a fire escape which would be forwarded on receipt of $2. He sent the cash and in a few days received a copy of the New Testament.

According to a contemporary, one thing which the war develops is that women are in reality more beautiful in plain clothes than in gaudy ones. The delusion among women that extravagance in dress attracts the opposite sex is what psychologists might call a "hold-over" from some previous period. It is deep seated, but it is not true in the best and highest sense, as women invariably discover when they adopt simplicity. Nothing is more appealing to the ordinary man than the severely plain costume of the trained nurse. It is to be hoped therefore that out of the war this great truth will be more thoroughly understood than the simpler and more inexpensive costume of women, if it sets forth her personality, the more effective and beautiful in the eyes of the other sex.

King George express the gratitude of Great Britain to Canada in the steps taken to increase exports of food stuffs to the Mother Land.
"I have no doubt that the self sacrifice displayed on the battlefields of France by our heroic Canadian troops will find its counterpart in the efforts of those who, at home in the Dominion, are devoting themselves to this work."

Controller Hanna is considering the suggestion of limiting the serving of beef and bacon in hotels and restaurants on Tuesday's and Friday's and to serving of bacon on other days to breakfast time only.

Baron Rhonda, the British Food Controller, visited Canada a year or more ago, and knows Canadian conditions.

"We look to the resources of Canada and to the indomitable energy of Canadians for an answer that will shatter Germany's threat of starvation" said Lord Rhonda in a cable message to the Canadian Food Controller by way of the Canadian Government. "The certainty that we can rely on your whole-hearted co-operation not only utilizing every ounce of national energy to increase production, but in equitable adjustment of prices, gives me the greatest encouragement."

POTASH DEPOSITS.
There are valuable potash deposits in New Brunswick, according to advertisements in the New York Herald. It is stated that a German controller company was negotiating for the property before the war. The price was named by a London agency as nearly a quarter of a million dollars. Negotiations are now said to be in progress for the leasing of the property. Potash is one of the most valuable ingredients of fertilizer and has been scarce since the potash beds of Germany have been closed to the world market.

POTATO CROP CERTAIN.
Government bulletins show the present year will be the greatest potato year in all Canada's history. The greater production is due to its work and in spite of unfavorable weather conditions in many parts at the first, the farmers adhered to their determination, and the prospects now amply justify their faith. The acreage this year is 502,000 acres, compared with 440,000 in 1916, and 484,000 in the best previous year in 1912. What is being produced in the back yard and vacant lot patches by town people this year is not, and cannot be easily estimated. Certain it is that this kind of cultivation will amount to a great many thousand acres all over Canada in itself. The result will be that unless some blight sets in, potato prices will be cheaper, there will be more export, and there will be more to use as substitutes for other foods at home. The day of the $2 and $3 a bushel potato should be a thing of the past with such a yield as predicted.—Ex.

DEATH OF MRS. SHERMAN McNAUGHTON

There passed away at Cross Point on Thursday night Mrs. Sherman McNaughton at the age of 50. Deceased had not for sometime past been enjoying the best of health but it was not until a few days ago that her condition was considered serious. The late Mrs. McNaughton, nee Miss Adams, was a highly respected resident of the place and her death will be deeply mourned by a large circle of friends. She leaves to mourn the loss of a kind and affectionate wife and mother, a bereaved husband, at present in Port Nelson, Man., three daughters, Cora, Teresa and Violet, and one son Sinclair, to whom the sympathy of the community will be extended in this their hour of sore bereavement. She is also survived by three sisters, Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Johnson, Miss Adams, and two brothers Harvie and Archie Adams, all of Oak Bay. The funeral which was held Saturday afternoon Rev. Mr. King of Point La Garde and Rev. Hugh Miller of Campbellton officiating, was largely attended.

MORE AERIAL ACTIVITY NEEDED

Paris, Aug. 11.—Commenting on the Italian successful aerial raids on Pola, the great Austro-Hungarian naval base, in one of which De Annunzio, the poet and military aviator, took part, a French admiral demands to know why the British have not repeated the hydroplane attack they made on Cuxhaven on Christmas Day, 1915. The admiral's contention that the enemy's naval bases should be continually be bombed from the air, together with despatches from Le Journal correspondent describing the activity of the concentrated Allied Fleet, forecasts an imminent army and naval co-ordination and the sustained a harassment of the German positions on the North Sea and the Belgian coast.

GREECE IS NOW AT WAR WITH GERMANY

London, Aug. 13.—In reply to a question in the House of Commons today, Mr. Balfour said Greece was now definitely at war with Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria.
In a statement at the time of the assembling of the Greek Parliament last month, Premier Venizelos said Greece was in the war with the Entente. No formal declaration to this effect was considered necessary the Venizelos government established at Saloniki before the deportation of King Constantine having declared war and placed troops in the field.

TUGBOAT BURNED

Between one and two o'clock on Sunday morning fire broke out on the tug "Mackelvie" at the lower wharf and before the fire could be extinguished the boat was burned to the water's edge. The tug which was owned by Mr. W. H. Miller was valued at $6,000 and was insured for $2,000. The loss will be a total one, the boilers and engine being practically ruined. The fire originated in the boiler room spread with lightning rapidity and little or nothing could be done to stay the flames. The loss of this tug at the present time will be a serious inconvenience to Mr. Miller in his lumbering business, as it will be difficult for him to procure another or make satisfactory arrangements for his towing.

DAMBOY'S-HALL

On Monday morning in the Church of the Sacred Heart a very pretty wedding was solemnized, when Miss Julia M. Hall, one of Bathurst's most popular young ladies was united in marriage to Alex. J. Damboy's of Campbellton.

The bride looked charming in a suit of blue tulle embroidered in dull gold with hat to match, and carried a bouquet of cream carnations and maiden hair fern. Miss Eileen Murray, sister of the groom attended the bride, and the groom was supported by A. M. Hall.

After a dainty repast at the bride's home, the happy couple motored to Campbellton where they took the train for Montreal, Quebec and other northern cities.
Many handsome gifts were received including a substantial cheque from the bride's mother. The groom's gift to the bride was a diamond ring. On their return from an extended wedding tour.

GADSBY'S LETTER

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—Big Business again using Sir Clifford Sifton as a good decoy because he still wears his label as a Liberal. Although he ceased to be one years ago, in the last analysis he is looking forward to a baronetcy. He will find a family and live in England, where he will get the deference due to rank and station.
Sir Clifford does not let more than one quarter of his mind dwell on Canada and its affairs. The other three-quarters of his mind is on England and his career in the peerage, where he expects ultimately to make as great a success as Max Aitken, now Lord Beaverbrook.
The one quarter of Sir Clifford's mind which is accustomed to dwell on Canadian affairs is mostly occupied with hatred of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who let him out of his cabinet in 1905 for good and sufficient reasons. Ever since that time Sir Clifford has hated the Old Chief with a vengeance because Sir Wilfrid never made any motion to take him back into his confidence. Hell high no fury like Clifford Sifton's.
It is passing strange that Sir Clifford should have Sir Wilfrid Laurier so, because the Old Chief was always ready to let him in. It was only when his faults became too glaring to ignore that Sir Clifford resigned, and then with regret. Although Sir Clifford has been a failure as a business man, he came to Ottawa as poor as a church mouse in 1895, and he has been a success as a business man. He came to Ottawa as poor as a church mouse in 1895, and he has been a success as a business man. He came to Ottawa as poor as a church mouse in 1895, and he has been a success as a business man.
This is said to be Sir Clifford's last try at a surprise power. It is a fair time he will shake the dust of Canada off his feet and hike for England and a peerage. Meanwhile he takes himself very seriously. His main trouble is that the people are wise to him. He can't do it. His body really takes him for the second coming.—E.F.G.

HOW FILIPINOS PLANT RICE

Working Hours in the Early Morning and Late Afternoon.
The principal crop of the Philippine Islands is rice, but climatic conditions are so different in various parts of the islands that numerous other crops, such as corn, sugar, cane, tobacco, coconuts, small vegetables, bananas, and many other fruits are grown.
The total production of any one of these crops could be increased at least three-fold if the people would use modern machinery and practice seed selection and better cultivation during the middle of the day. However, the farmer's careless methods and lack of capital, associated with a large degree of laziness, make them satisfied with small production and small income for their year's work.
The single-handed man, using a wooden harrow is used on the majority of farms. These plows are a throw about four inches wide and perhaps three inches deep. Since they are so small and very light they do not do the work for the farmer. To avoid the terrific heat of the day, the farmer usually works from 5 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. in preparing his land for crops. These hours are necessary because all the field work is done with the hand. The plowing for rice is completed immediately after the morning has been thoroughly irrigated. This operation is followed by the modern harrow, which a Filipino rice planter gives it greater weight. This man stands on the harrow by holding on to the tail of the carabao. When the farmer has his rice planted he is at leisure for several months. This is spent idly waiting for the rice to ripen.

The tax would be levied on excess profits during the war. Exemptions include agriculture, fruit-growing, dairying, and allied businesses.

U. S. TO ADOPT CANADIAN PLAN

Toronto, Aug. 11.—A special cable to the Toronto Telegram from Douglas Robertson, from London, says:—American army medical officers after visiting the Canadian Red Cross headquarters here and interviewing Lady Drummond and Col. Hodggets, decided to adopt our system of filing and indexing of the wounded and also the parcel system for prisoners of war, for which the American Red Cross offices will be located in England. The visitors stated that they were greatly impressed by the efficiency of what they saw. They told Col. Hodggets that American doctors attached to Canadian hospitals in France for experience declare they are delighted with the treatment received.

RETURNED MEN IN OUR HOSPITALS

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—If the present average weekly increase in the number of patients on the rolls of the military hospitals is maintained there will be 10,000 returned soldiers in Canadian military convalescent hospitals by the end of the year. On July 31, the number of patients in the care of the commission was 8,491.
Accommodation is at the present time ahead of the returning stream, and when hospitals now under construction are completed there will be 15,000 beds available. There are 13,000 Canadians being cared for in the United Kingdom.

SHEEP BREEDING IN NEW BRUNSWICK

New Brunswick farmers are beginning to appreciate the possibilities existing in this Province for sheep breeding. Hundreds of inquiries are being received at the Live Stock Branch of the Department of Agriculture for information on this subject. Very many of these men contemplate making a start this fall and very many of them in starting are laying their foundation with pure bred stock.
This is as it should be. Start small but start right. Some may not be able to buy anything but a pure bred ram and some common ewes. This means that the ram must be a good one or else the lamb will suffer. A sturdy, blocky active masculine ram means a good bunch of hearty lambs next spring.

To those men who are engaging in this business for the first time, as well as those who are about to go into the business on a larger scale we wish to state that the Department of Agriculture is at your service. We will be pleased to aid you in any way possible. The beginner should start in a small way unless he has had previous experience. Sheep seldom do well on low land. Unless you have a dry upland pasture you will have trouble sooner or later. Select the same breed of stock that your neighbor has. Do not select a new breed because you will have to be continually importing rams, but if you have the same breed as your neighbor you will "swap" rams. This is the cheaper way. Our local supply of pure bred rams and ewes is being rapidly exhausted. If you have not already purchased yours, you had better book your order soon.

MOUNT ALLISON INSTITUTIONS

In another part of today's issue will be found the advertisement of the Mount Allison Institutions, located at Sackville, New Brunswick. These institutions have had a most honorable record extending over more than half a century. They have contributed much to the industrial, educational and moral life, not only of the Maritime Provinces, but all parts of Canada as well as many other portions of the globe. The fact that so many Mount Allison men have enlisted and are doing their part in the great world war speaks well for the training which they have received, at "Old Mount A."

The teachers and professors associated with Mount Allison are men and women eminently fitted for the task which they perform and, with such well known men as Rev. B. C. Borden, D. D., Rev. Hamilton Wigle, B. A. and
Dr. J. M. Palmer, as heads of the University, Ladies' College and Academy respectively, parents may send their sons and daughters to Mount Allison with the confident assurance that they will be well looked after and receive a training which cannot be surpassed anywhere in Canada.

GOING CAMPING?

FOREST PROTECTION

It was early morning on the brilliant Seven Island Lake in the beginning of September 1916. The teapot spattered o'er coals and bacon flavors filled gratefully the nostrils. The Old Guide squatted himself comfortably on a granite boulder and nodded toward the fire. "Boys," he said, there don't look to be anything dangerous in a little bunch of coals does there?

"Not this side of a powder factory," chipped in the Youngster. The Old Guide tapped his pipe bowl significantly: "Some day, we're going to have an argument about which is the trickiest spot to trifle with fire—a powder factory or a forest, and I think the forests will come first. One advantage about the powder factory, is that you know the worst light off. But in the forest, you may walk away for days and days and have the fire of your own making overtake you." That didn't seem reasonable," the Youngster broke in.

"And I won't," agreed the old Guide, until sometime you start a camp-fire in a bog or in an old pine or spruce stump, and after a week's absence, come face to face with your own fire in the shape of a blackened township. There's lots of surprises in store for you my lad. I have known camp-fires to burrow into a boggy soil although doused with many pails of water, and remain there for two weeks travelling under ground until it came in contact with the dry dust of a fine old pinery, then to dart upwards and turn hundreds of acres into a roaring furnace. The only safe way is never to take chances with camp-fires, never build one except on rocks or gravel, and never go away until it is dead out. I have followed that rule for 20 years."

"You certainly make the camp-fire responsible for a lot of damage,"
"Can't exaggerate it because I have seen proofs with my own eyes. I have crossed Canada with parties of geologists, forest-engineers and civil engineers, and seen so many beautiful camping and fishing spots spoiled for all times, that I said to myself:
'Never you become responsible for this sort of crime.' And I believe I have lived up to it." "But smoking said the Youngster, Suppose that I—?"

"Suppose that you threw down a lighted cigarette and a burning match alongside the trail or emptied hot pipe ashes, I should feel like giving you a very good flogging. Lighted

JACQUET RIVER

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. D. McIn Black Cape and New Richmond. Allister, with a large number of ladies they have with them an Overland in attendance, considering the inclement weather. The usual money of the weather. The usual several very interesting papers read on Fresh Air. A pantry sale in connection with the Red Cross Ice Cream sale was discussed and a committee composed of Mrs. Paul Doyle, Mrs. Arthur Culligan, and Miss Marie Shannon appointed to carry on the work. The meeting broke up with the singing of the National Anthem after which refreshments were served.

A number of people from the vicinity motored up and attended the Patriotic Concert held at Dalhousie recently. They included Mrs. W. McMillan, Miss Mollie McMillan, and Miss Virginia Lytleton; Mrs. John Culligan, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Culligan, Mr. and Mrs. Annet, Mrs. D. McAllister; Mrs. Thomas Hayes, Miss Greta Hayes, Mr. Frank Hayes; Messrs. John McNair, Sandy McNair, William Savage and John E. Hickie. All expressed themselves as delightfully entertained with the performance.

On Tuesday afternoon the station at Belledune caught fire in some manner unknown and burned to the ground. The agent, Mr. John Grant, saved all his office papers, but of his household effects it is reported, merely saved his car and piano. A high wind was blowing at the time, so that the flames quickly spread. A quantity of lumber owned by J. & A. Culligan was saved with difficulty.

Mying pictures were held in the C. M. B. A. Hall on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, providing amusement for a large number of the young folks. Some good comics were shown. On Friday evening the C. M. B. A. Hall also was the scene of a merry gathering in the shape of a dance and basket social, under the auspices of the C. M. B. A. A large number attended despite the torments of rain which were descending, but did not seem to dampen the ardor of the young folks. Baskets were auctioned at midnight, and several young gentlemen's lunch was rather expensive. Another entertainment will be held shortly of similar nature.

NEW BRUNSWICK AS A SHEEP COUNTRY

A Summary of the Present Situation and the Future Outlook.

One often hears from an outsider the expressive "What a splendid sheep country New Brunswick would make." This is very true and we all know it but have not realized it, and our sheep population has declined very rapidly. Often we get in a rut like this and pursue even tenor of our ways oblivious to our natural advantage. However there was a time when wool and lamb prices were very low and the sheep-men became disgusted, and dropped the business, but now and for a long time to come no one need fear any serious drop in prices known. It is a well known fact that meat consumption is increasing and meat producing animals are decreasing in numbers the world over. Let us analyse the various sheep countries of the world and see what they have to offer. The Australian supply of mutton and wool is uncertain. The Country is subject to drought and this is sure to effect the sheep crop. Then they are situated a long way from the principle wool and mutton markets of the world, viz London, Boston and New York. This disadvantage offsets many of the natural advantages in favor of Australia, as a sheep breeding country. Argentina is probably the most important exporting country. Sheep and beef are the two they export a bigger per cent of their product than in the case of any other country. Sheep and beef are the two important classes of stock kept by the natives of Argentina. Poor railway and shipping facilities along with drought limits the amount of mutton exports from Argentina. Along with these there is a growing movement of mixed farming.

In point of numbers probably the United States might be considered the meat country of the world. Their population is however increasing very rapidly and their export trade in meat, once the greatest in the world, had rapidly decreased. Home consumption accounts for this. Now they are importers. Next to Great Britain they import more wool and mutton than any country in the world.

The same applies to dairy products, the United States is an importer, South Africa has developed into a sheep country and has the natural advantages necessary for mutton production, but the climate is not the best for producing wool.

The European countries such as France, England, Scotland, Germany, Austria Hungary and Russia in normal times produce a good supply of mutton and wool. Of course they do not produce enough for home consumption. During the last three years this production has very materially decreased. Their breeding stock has been depleted due to war demands and it is very probable that this stock will be still further drawn upon for food. Coming closer home few of us but are familiar with conditions in Canada. On 1910 we had 2,598,470 heads of sheep. In 1914 the number has decreased to 2,058,045, that is a decrease of over half a million in five years. In the year 1910 the Province of New Brunswick had 209,620 sheep in 1914 this number had decreased to 121,739 sheep, that is a decrease of about 40% in five years. In 1914 Canada imported 5,610,512 pounds of mutton and lamb, and 7,255,119 pounds of wool. In the same year Canada exported 65,167 pounds of mutton and 2,841,184 pounds of wool. In the same year Canada exported about 20,500 head of live lambs and sheep. This is the situation in Canada and it is a very good index to the situation in the United States. To sum it up properly we have been going backwards for eight or ten years, and have finally arrived at the stage where we import more than we export.

WHY NEW BRUNSWICK FAILS. MERS SHOULD STOCK UP. One might say there is an unlimited market for mutton lambs at home and abroad. During the next few years the United States can easily take the entire product of Canada. The same thing applies to Great Britain or France. In the spring of 1917 wool sold for 80 cents and 65 cents and no doubt will reach the 70 cent mark. Lambs are easily worth $10.00 this fall.

People engaged in the sheep business haven't suffered to the same extent from high priced labor as have other branches at a time when there is very little work to be looked after. The lambing, shearing and dipping season covers the big end of the labor involved. Throughout the summer little if any real labor is required. The feed bill is not very large, mixed timothy and clover hay or preferably pure clover hay supplemented with Swede turnips, with a handful of oats is the best winter ration and incidentally a cheap one. Hay prices have been low during the last two years and farmers can profitably winter more sheep instead of selling hay. Summing up one might say that sheep raising offers one of the best investments obtainable for—

1. Mutton, lamb and wool prices are good.
2. There is very little labor involved in sheep farming.
3. We have in New Brunswick good upland pasture and plenty of water.
4. We have easy access to the best markets in the world, Great Britain and the United States.

6. The investment involved is small and the turnover is big and quick. The wool crop is marketed in the spring when very little money is coming in to the farmer.

WHAT THE DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE HAS DONE AND IS DOING. Probably one of the greatest curses dog nuisance. The old dog law has to the sheep industry has been the been amended so that it is now up to the sheep breeder of the district to say whether the dog shall be controlled or not. It depends on the enterprise of the sheep breeder whether he has dog protection or not. The Live Stock Division of the Department of Agriculture has been acting as an exchange between breeders and purchasers. Breeders who have stock for sale communicate with us, likewise those desirous of purchasing stock, and we have been able to give material assistance to the purchasers to the location of stock and prices.

A great number of people have taken advantage of this, in fact so many that our local supply of flock headers and pure bred ewes is pretty nearly exhausted. If local breeders cannot supply the demand we shall import from the upper Provinces. In this latter case purchasers deposit a sum of money with the Department of Agriculture, sufficient to cover purchase price and freight charges. The Department furnishes, free of charge, a man to make the selection. To those people who are stocking up with grade ewes we give similar assistance.

In closing I would say "It is a good time to stock up with sheep." Mr. Farmer get busy. If you haven't any sheep you should get some. If you haven't any available stock in your district write to us. Use the Department of Agriculture. We are here to serve the farmers.

FARMER SMITH HAD GOOD ARGUMENTS.

"Well," said Farmer Smith who was considered a pretty shrewd old gentleman. "I see that they are conducting a 'BUY AT HOME' Campaign. I don't know just who is conducting the campaign, whether it is the newspapers, the merchants or the Government, but I believe in it thoroughly. The fact is, I have been reading the papers going high onto thirty years and I don't remember ever reading an advertisement campaign that impressed me more. And I'll tell you why."

Just here every one hitched his chair closer for every one had a vast amount of respect for Farmer Smith and they consider that whatever he said was pretty nearly the right way to look at things.

"In the first place, this campaign urges us in a large number of mighty logical articles to buy our goods from our local merchants, to buy at home. I found those articles interesting and convincing; but neither my wife or myself really needed any convincing. We had thought the whole thing out long ago."

"You see practically all of the local farmers in this district sell their goods through the local merchants. We take our eggs and butter to him; we sell our potatoes, carrots, turnips, oats and even a goodly lot of hay through our merchants."

"But he is not like a broker for us he is better than that. As a rule the local merchant buys our products from us and pays us cash for them. We do not have to wait for our money. We get it just as soon as the goods are sold. The people who want to buy these farm products go then to the merchants for their needs. The local stores are the meeting place between us farmers who have farm products to sell and the general public who want to buy the goods."

"It is just as simple as A. B. C. to my wife and me. We see that it would be suicidal for us to do anything that would destroy that market for our goods. It would mean endless trouble and expense for us to build up a means to carry our goods to the consumers."

"But that is just what everyone is doing who sends his money outside the province to buy his needs. Every cent he sends away a cent that he received through the local merchants, and he in turn through the general public of the province. That cent should go back to the merchant and from him to the general public to keep the wheels of trade going. It is the old maxim, 'Live and let Live.'"

"My advice then is to buy from our own local merchants for it means the maintenance of a market for our goods, a market that it would cost us endless trouble to create. Let us buy at home because New Brunswick needs the money. Let us buy at home because everything that benefits the province, cannot help but benefit ourselves. Let us buy at home because it means the greater saving in the end. And once again, let us buy at home because our market is at home and because we should do everything we can to maintain that market in a healthy condition. 'Buy at home and get another chance at the same dollar.' Do you think that Farmer Smith had the right idea? Buy at home. Buy at home."

HUNS MURDER PRISONERS.

Dark Deeds Revealed by a German Deserter.
A story by a German deserter lifts a corner of the veil which hides happenings behind that front against which the French and British soldiers are hammering day, says a writer in the London Chronicle. It comes straight, as it were, from the very trenches that are being battered in the struggle for victory in the mightiest battle of the world.
I can vouch for it by reason of a strange coincidence. The deserter, a man of high intelligence and education, was before the war a Berlin journalist, and in pre-war days I knew his brother, also a journalist in the German capital. The story was told to a Dutch friend of mine, with whom the deserter was acquainted, and to whom he would naturally open his mind more freely and readily than he would to a stranger. The man, a typical aristocrat, German in build, was with the forces which von Falkenhayn hurled in vain against the British in the early months of the year in October, 1914. He was in the fighting in the Grodno region, came unscathed through the nightmarish horrors of Verdun, and knew all the horrors of the fighting on the Somme front, living in the very trenches which the allied artillery has mangled and British soldiers have won.

It is a curious thing that out of all the sustained horror and excitement of more than two and a half years of warfare—for he has been in the struggle since the very beginning—nothing appears to stand out above all others.
In June, 1915, when with the 17th Infantry Regiment, he saw ten British soldiers taken prisoner. In the year of the front German lines, heavy British barrage fire was falling, and Wachmeister (sergeant-major of cavalry) Niemetz was failed to take the prisoners away. The group of captives and captured had only a short distance when Niemetz shouted angrily: "I don't want to be bothered with these fellows. Shoot them." They were then placed in a line and shot there and then.

"Was the shooting of the prisoners ordered by the headquarters or by responsible officers?"
"No," was the German's reply, "as a matter of fact it is forbidden and I know a case in which lieutenant was sent to prison for five days, mind you—for giving the order, but still the shooting of prisoners was often ordered by sergeants commanding prison guards."

"On another occasion within my knowledge 200 English prisoners taken in the Loos fighting were sent under escort to Valenciennes. Only 10 arrived, the others having been shot en route. I heard of many worse cases, but only mention those within my own direct knowledge."

The Three Phases.
"A long war has three phases," says F. S. Oliver, in his remarkable book, entitled Ordeal by Battle. In 1870, when France fought Germany, the "onset" was all that was of the conflict, which did not get beyond that stage. The tiger's leap totally demolished France.
Germany, in 1914, was confident of repeating this performance. In six weeks France was broken, her army smashed, with Paris held by the Teutons, and the latter turning thereupon on Russia, were to smash her likewise before she was ready to fight.

Such was the plan of the great general staff, headed by the Kaiser. It worked out beautifully on paper; there seemed to be no possibility of failure. The onset was very near to actual accomplishment.
But the "onset" failed at the Marne. Then came the grip, which (governed as must be by relative strength of forces and material) proved greatly favorable to Germany. The onset was a great area of enemy territory and the results of the fighting were all in her favor. Nevertheless, the failure of the decision, and, in consequence, the "drag" ensued. The "drag" became prolonged—appalling so from Germany's point of view. It was not contemplated at all in her original plans. To-day it is still in progress.

Now the "drag of war" has set in it is money and resources that count above all else. The Central Powers realize this full well, and hence the desperation with which they are acting. It is an insane act, and makes absolutely certain the doom of the autocratic government of Germany and Austria.

Blossoms for Dead Soldiers.
One of the most prosperous agricultural districts in France at the present time is in the near neighborhood of Toulon, the Mediterranean seaport not far from Marseilles, and therefore far distant from the scene of war.

But the war is to this district the most important source of its prosperity. For its chief product is flowers, with resources virtually limitless. It is an insane act, and makes absolutely certain the doom of the autocratic government of Germany and Austria.

Early Failures in War Put Him Under Cloud.
FEELING IS NOW DYING OUT
As First Lord of Admiralty He Had British Fleet in Readiness in 1914, and It is Now Seen That Gallipoli and Antwerp Expeditions Were Not Entirely Madness.

WINSTON CHURCHILL'S return to the British Government ought not to surprise those who have been noting the curricula of British public opinion in the past few months. Winston has been coming back for some time. He refused to remain discredited by the Antwerp adventure and the Gallipoli failure. He declined to wrap himself in gloom, and wait for the future to rehabilitate his reputation. He got out and hustled to rehabilitate himself. He went to the front, and was under fire. Then, he believed that he could do better work at home, he resigned his commission and entered on a campaign of publicity. The result of this campaign was that it was not designed to show that he had been the victim of injustice, at least this design did not show on the surface. The German navy like rats in a hole, as he said early in the war.

Since the beginning of the unrestricted submarine warfare on the part of Germany and the formidable, even alarming, loss of British and

Try this yourself then pass it along to others.
It works!

Ouch! 1 1 1 1 This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called Freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and lifts right out without pain.
He says Freezone is an ether compound which drives immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin. A quarter of an ounce of Freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels.

GERMANS RELEASE
DR. LIEBKNECHT

Paris, Aug. 11.—Dr. Karl Liebknecht, socialist leader in the German Reichstag, who was arrested in connection with the May Day demonstrations in Berlin in 1916, was liberated a fortnight ago by the German Government, through fear that he might die in prison. He is said to be suffering from tuberculosis, weighing only 84 pounds.

The authenticity of the above seems certain, says the Temps, Geneva correspondent, although the German newspapers in obedience to orders, kept silent regarding it.

The news says the correspondent, was brought here by a Hollander who had just arrived from Germany. He says the trades union organizations brought pressure upon the Government for the release of Dr. Liebknecht who is now in a private hospital and is not expected to recover, suffering in addition to lung malady, from mental depression, the result of imprisonment while in prison.

MEXICAN SHOT DOWN.
Juarez, Mex., Aug. 13.—Jose Ynez Salazar, a revolutionary leader and former chief of staff to Francisco Villa, was shot and killed at the Nogales ranch, a short distance from Ascension, Thursday.

Americans arriving here today from Casas Grandes said Salazar had been killed by a small band of home guards who were organized to protect the Casas Grandes-Ascension district.

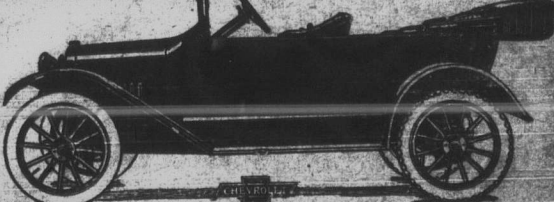

Dr. Liebknecht was tried by court martial in Berlin for "military treason" and sentenced to four years and one month in prison. A court martial at Thorn also is said to have sentenced him to four and a half years at hard labor, charging that he had attempted to incite the soldiers of the Thorn garrison to disobedience and rebellion.
