TEUTON DRIVE INTO RUMANIA NOW CHECKED SAYS LONDON

Austro-German Forces Have Been Thrown Back.

DRIVEN FROM BORDER

Elsewhere Defence of the Rumanians Is Stiffening.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 14. — A news agency dispatch from London today says:

The Rumanians have halted an attempted Austro-German invasion south of Red Tower Pass and have driven the Teutons back a considerable distance from the border.

Bucharest dispatches today reported that General Falkenhayn's advance has been checked everywhere along the southern Transylvanian frontier. On the eastern frontier, the Germans have been stopped on the Rumanian northern wing and thrown back at some points by strong counter-attacks. Elsewhere the Rumanian resistance is stiffening.

REFUSES TO SANCTION NEW COURT-MARTIAL AGAINST LIEBKNECHT

Reichstag Committee Demands Proceedings of Former Trial.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Oct. 12.—Via London, Oct. 14—11:05 a.m.—Delayed.—The Reichstag committee today refused to sanction the new proceedings of the court-martial at Thorn against Dr. Karl Liebknecht. The committee also recommended that the Reichstag demand to see the report of the proceedings before the Berlin court-martial before finally sanctioning the sentence imposed by that body on the Socialist leader.

In the case of the Socialist deputy, Otto Ruehle, the committee refused permission for the continuation of the libel action brought against the deputy on behalf of Gen. von Bissing, governor of Belgium, and his staff.

Dr. Liebknecht is at present under sentence of four years' and one month imprisonment, imposed by the court-martial at Berlin for "military treason." Pending his appeal from this sentence a court-martial at Thorn commenced action against him charging that he attempted to incite the soldiers of the Thorn garrison to disobedience and rebellion through letters he sent them.

No previous information has been received of the action against Deputy Ruehle. Herr Ruehle was a follower of Dr. Liebknecht and indorsed the latter's conduct in his speech before the Reichstag, after which he withdrew from the Socialist group.

HEAVY DAMAGE DONE BY GALE OFF BAYFIELD

Bayfield, Oct. 14.—A heavy gale on Huron Friday, which at times piled up waves thirty feet high, did damage to fishermen's nets to the extent of thousands of dollars, as the tugs were unable to go out and fetch them in.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Oct. 14.—"Except for intermittent hostile shelling," says a British official statement issued this afternoon, "there is nothing to report from our front south of the River Ancre (in France). Last night we carried out two successful raids on enemy trenches northwest of Ypres and southwest of Bulluch.

Counter-Attack of French Expels Huns From Ground Taken in Heavy Assault

Germans Last Night Captured Portion of Ablaincourt, Only To Lose It Immediately—North of Somme the French Made Progress Near Bouchavesnes.

Paris, Oct. 14, noon.—The Germans delivered a strong attack last night on Ablaincourt, south of the River Somme, and reoccupied part of the village as well as trenches northeast of it, it was officially announced here today. The French immediately launched a counter-attack. By this move they recaptured all the ground which had been won by the Germans.

North of the Somme the French made progress on Malassise Ridge, north of Bouchavesnes.

HOW GERMANS HAVE IT.

Berlin, Oct. 14.—Via London, 4:12 p.m.—The battle between French and German troops for the French town of Ablaincourt, south of the River Somme, has been revived with German successes, says the official statement issued today by the German army headquarters' staff. "The Germans have gained a portion of Ambos wood and have taken 400 prisoners."

BOVIC SIGHTED DANISH VESSEL CHASED BY SUB

Hellig Olav Was Trying To Shake Off the U-Boat.

MANY AMERICANS ABOARD

Danish Steamer Left New York on Thursday for Copenhagen.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 14.—When the White Star freighter Bovic sighted a westward-bound submarine in the Atlantic yesterday morning, she was apparently in pursuit of a Danish passenger ship, the Hellig Olav, according to observers on the deck of the Bovic, which arrived here today.

The nationality of the U-boat was not identified. The Bovic, in fear of attack, because of being a freight ship, put on full speed and headed directly west. At the time that she passed out of the sight of the other two vessels, the Danish boat still seemed to be endeavoring to escape from the submarine. The weather was clear, and the Hellig-Olav was between two and three miles distant at the moment she was first observed, with the submarine about one mile to the Dane's stern. This was about 8:30 a.m., when the Bovic was approximately 200 miles east of New York.

Many Americans Aboard.

The Hellig-Olav left here on Thursday for Copenhagen and other Scandinavian ports, carrying 36 apssenegrs in the first cabin, 37 in the second cabin, and steerage passengers. A great many of those in the cabins are Americans.

At the time she was sighted by the Bovic the Dane was flying no flag, but her identity was distinguished by her name and the Danish flag painted along her sides. The Bovic reached port with a gun mounted on her stern.

CARRIES NO CONTRABAND.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 14.—Representatives of the Scandinavian-American Line said today that the Hellig-Olav carried no contraband and that they did not believe that the vessel's captain would undertake to escape from a submarine. The line has sent a wireless message to the ship asking for an account of the circumstances.

STAGE MANAGER OF "FAKE" DROWNING OF JAMES BRANDON

A. J. CLARKE, 214½ Dundas street, manager of the "Little Big Bargain Store," who has confessed to framing up drowning story of chum's death in order that latter might disappear. Mr. Clarke's veracity is illustrated by the following dialogue with an Advertiser reported:

"Mr. Clarke, we want your picture."

"I have none. I never had one taken since I was a boy." There are no pictures of mine in existence."

CRIMINAL ACTION RUMORED NOW IN "DISAPPEARANCE"

Insurance Company Representative Confers With Crown.

INVESTIGATION TO FOLLOW

Praise Given To Inspector Who Ferreted Out Details of Conspiracy.

There is a possibility of criminal proceedings being taken in connection with the disappearance of James R. Brandon, who was supposed to have been drowned in the River Thames.

A conference was held today between Clair Jarvis, secretary of the Woodmen of the World, and Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop, in reference to the question. What transpired is not known publicly.

The first statement of A. J. Clarke, who was in the boat with Brandon when the latter was supposed to have been drowned, were given to Mr. McKillop, who also has a signed confession from Clarke, in which he admitted that there was a conspiracy.

Rumors have come to the crown attorney regarding some matrimonial ventures of Brandon. Just what they were could not be learned, but the information was of such a character that an investigation will be made of this.

The Woodmen of the World, which carried a policy of $3,000 on Brandon's life, has cancelled that policy.

"I think Mr. Barrell, the inspector of the Merchants' Casualty Company, did a splendid bit of detective work," said Clair Jarvis, secretary of the W. O. W. "We were in touch with him at the time, and I am sure the organization will not forget him. A conference was held with Crown Attorney McKillop, but the results of it I am not at liberty to disclose."

HAIG'S GIANT GUNS HIT ENEMY'S LINES ELEVEN MILES OFF

Twelve, Nine and Eight-Inch Monsters More Powerful Than German "Fat Berthas"—In Artillery Huns Are Out-Numbered and Out-Shot.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Oct. 14. — Telegraphing an account of the latest Anglo-French attack launched on the Somme front on Tursday afternoon, Beach Thomas, correspondent of the Daily Mail, says:

"Though comparatively small was the infantry advance, the day was one of a colossal artillery duel. Never in the world's history have guns in such number, power and size been heard. The quantity of them leaves one aghast."

He mentions the new British 18-inch weapons, which are heavier and more powerful than the famous Krupp "fat Berthas" or the 16.8-inch howitzers and also a mobile gun of 12-inch calibre, itself big beyond the previous imagination of soldiers, and which hit a target eleven miles away; also lesser monsters, especially the 9.2-inch and 8-inch guns which were in so close in places one could scarcely pass between them.

"The German guns," adds Mr. Thomas, "multiply, but always the Allies outmultiply their multiplication."

Rome Reports Great Battle, With Triest as Prize, Is Raging With Undiminished Violence — Vienna Statement Says Rumanians Continue To Lose Ground.

(Canadian Press.)

New York, Oct. 14. — A news agency dispatch from London says:

The Austrians have lost 28,000 men in the last two days of fighting on the Carso Plateau, said a wireless dispatch from Rome today.

The battle continues with undiminished violence.

IN TRANSYLVANIA.

Vienna, Oct. 13—Via London, Oct. 14, 11:45 a.m.—The Teutonic advance in Transylvania is continuing, and the Rumanians have been driven from the Upper Alt and Maros valleys into the frontier mountains, says today's war office statement. Progress is also being made against the Russian forces in the Kronstadt region. The statement follows:

"Fighting in the region of Kronstadt is taking a course favorable to us. Yesterday one Rumanian officer, 170 men and two guns were captured.

"On the Eastern Transylvania frontier we drove the enemy from the valleys of the Upper Alt and the Upper Maros to the frontier mountains.

"North of Kirlibaba (Carpathians) a Russian advance was repulsed after hand-grenade fighting."

HEARST'S MAN PAMPERED BY FOE'S PRESS BUREAU, SAYS AMERICAN WRITER

German Officials Give Every Attention to Correspondents of International News Service at Berlin, While All Other American Correspondents Are Subjected to Espionage and Studied Insult.

It was stated today on good authority that the Hearst news service, which was barred from Great Britain for its vicious pro-German lies, was also to be denied entrance to Canada. Some Toronto papers have already given up the service, but the local Conservative paper has not yet announced intention to the public.

Meanwhile the Hearst service continues to send out dispatches under London, Eng., date lines, although according to the official announcement of the home secretary, no further news could be secured by Hearst in London. The great William Randolph defied the British, and said that he would get the news in spite of them, probably meaning that his dispatches would reach the United States and Canada by U-boats, after they had deposited their cargoes of Canadian nickel and were returning for another load.

[Canadian Press.]

London, Oct. 14.—The German censorship absolutely will not permit unbiased war news to be sent from Germany to the United States or any other neutral country. Unprejudiced American correspondents find it almost impossible to send the whole truth to their papers. They can send only news favorable to Germnay.

These are the principal statements in the latest instalment of the report of D. Thomas Curtin of Boston, printed in the Times, on what he found during a considerable stay in Germany. Mr. Curtin names various American correspondents in Germany and tells what sort of reports they are sending and how they are treated by the German Government.

Hearst Man Pampered.

After giving a detailed account of the personality and activities of the two correspondents, Karl H. von Wigand of the New York World, and Wm. Bayard Hale of the International News Service, who, he says, are pampered and given every attention by the German officials, Mr. Curtin says the American correspondents generally are made to cut a humiliating figure, although not all of them realize it.

"It is notorious," he writes, "that they are spied upon day and night, and sometimes even ruthlessly snubbed by the German officials. For instance, when the merchant submarine Deutschland returned to Bremen on August 28, the American correspondents were invited to Bremen to see the triumphant arrival, after which a luxurious banquet had been provided at the Rathhaus for the assembled bigwigs. The Americans saw the arrival of the Deutschland all right, but were excluded from the banquet. Instead they were provided with a separate dinner at a neighboring tavern.

Correspondents Shackled.

"Several American correspondents, including those of the Associated Press and Cyril Browne of the New York Times, are honestly trying to practice independent journalism, but it is a difficult, almost a hopeless, struggle. They are shackled and controlled all the time, and cannot send the unadorned truth to the United States.

"All that they are permitted to report is that portion of the truth which reflects Germany in the light in which it is useful for Germany to appear. Germany has organized the sending of news to neutrals in the most intricate fashion. A certain kinds of news is doled out to the United States, and a totally different kind to Spain, Switzerland, Brazil and China. The motto of the German war press bureau is: 'All the news we think fit to print.'"

JAPAN AND RUSSIA BLOCK BUILDING OF CHINESE RAILWAYS

Protest Over Concession Recently Granted American Company.

[Canadian Press.]

Peking, Oct. 14.—Prince Nicholas Koudacheff, the Russian minister to China, lodged a protest at the Chinese foreign office against the proposed American railroad from Fenc-Cheng, Shansi Province, to Lanchow-Fu, in Kansu Province, alleging that the Chinese minister in Petrograd promised verbally 18 years ago that Russia should have the privelege of building railways in the vicinity of Mongolia.

The disputed line was to run for a distance of approximately 400 miles. The agreement entered into between the Siems-Carey Company of St. Paul, with the Chinese Government empowers the American company to construct equal mileage elsewhere if the protest holds.

Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, the Japanese minister to China, today protested to the Chinese foreign office against the Government's agreement with American contractors for the reconstruction of 200 miles of the Grand Canal in Shantung Province.

The Japanese claim by reason of their conquest of the Province of Shantung all the rights heretofore held by Germany in the development of that Chinese province. The Chinese Government contends that Germany must be defeated before such a claim will hold good. The dispute involves the Siems-Carey agreement providing for the construction of the northern half of the Grand Canal.

TEMPEST SOARED LIKE A FALCON FAR OVER ZEPP

Went Up 10,000 Feet, Then Swooped Upon Monster Raider.

SET DIRIGIBLE ABLAZE

Narrowly Escaped Collision Several Times With the Flaming Airship.

London, Oct. 14.—The Daily Chronicle describing the exploit of Lieut. Wulstan Joseph Tempest in connection with the destruction at Potter's Bar of a zeppelin on October 1, for which he was awarded the Distinguished Service Order, says:

"On the fateful day, Tempest finished his regular duties, spending the evening with friends at a dinner party. Before the meal was over a call reached him and a few minutes later he was back at the aerodrome. He made a speedy start with the idea of intercepting the zeppelin, which was reported as approaching. He was not satisfied until he reached a height of upwards of 10,000 feet.

At the end of two hours, a searchlight picked out the zeppelin, and persistently stuck to it, despite its efforts to get beyond the focus of the beam. Some other searchlights added to the volume of illumination, and Tempest's guns began to pepper at the airship. In a moment, a great sheet of fire swept along the zeppelin, and it began to fall at a speed increasing as the law of gravitation came into play.

"Immediately after the zeppelin caught fire, Tempest traveled the complete length of the airship from stem to stern, being parallel with it all the time. Then he began to descend, but the falling zeppelin hampered his movements very considerably. Once or twice he narrowly escaped collision with the flaming mass, and in order to avoid this he was compelled to resort to nose diving, the work being done under tremendous strain. But Tempest fortunately escaped injury of any kind. The spot where he landed was miles away from the place where he had first taken the air."

TENT CLOTH FOR ALLIES DESTROYED BY FLAMES

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 14.—Fire of mysterious cause today completely destroyed the large plant of the Price Fire Proofing Company of this city, with a loss of probably $200,000, and for a time menaced the waterfront manufacturing section. Tent cloth for the Entente Allies being waterproofed for service, was stored in large quantities, much of it ready for shipment.

VAST FUND STARTED BY AMERICANS FOR CARE OF FRENCH WAR ORPHANS

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 14.—A fund of $180,000,000 will be necessary to put into effect the plans of the American Society for the Relief of French War Orphans. This enterprise, incorporated yesterday, is described as the most gigantic philanthropic move ever undertaken here. Leaders in business, finance and society are promoting the movement.

The directors announced today that the attempt to care for the war orphans of France, already reported to number 200,000, is intended as an expression of America's sympathy for the suffering the present war has brought upon France.

Not only does the organization propose to give immediate aid to the French orphans, but it expects to care for them at least fifteen years, if necessary.

A committee of seven Americans resident in Paris will be formed for the purpose of aidding in the distribution and to investigate special cases.

The society's announcement says: "The daily burden borne by the French Government for direct war expenses is stupendous and will long preclude the passibility of adequate aid to war orphans and families of dead or incapacitated soldiers.

160TH BATTALION GIVEN FAREWELL BY LONDON TODAY

Hundreds at Departure of the Bruce Unit.

UNIQUE ORGANIZATION

Most Representative Canadian Regiment Yet Formed for Overseas Service.

Although the 160th Battalion has been in London but a few months, there were hundreds of Londoners at the East End G. T. R. station this afternoon to bid it good-bye when it left for other training quarters. Many from districts where the battalion was recruited came in this morning by train or auto, and formed part of the crowd. The farewell was a hearty one, the trains pulling out to the sound of hundreds of cheering soldiers of other units in the city, as well as those of citizens.

Own Band Plays.

Differing from the procedure usually followed at the departure of a battalion, its own band furnished the music for the march to the train, forming up at the rear of the battalion. The bugle band of the 153rd Battalion led the way down Rectory street, which was lined with people from Dundas street to the tracks. The men passed over almost the same route as that taken by the famous 18th Battalion on its departure, recalling many of the scenes at the beginning of the war. The furled colors of the battalion were also carried on the march.

The men wore their full equipment and carried their kit bags.

Little Confusion.

At the station a cordon was drawn about the waiting coaches by the 153rd Battalion. The men joined hands, forming an unbreakable circle, and little of the confusion noticeable at the departure of other battalions was experienced. The departing men passed

RUMANIANS CHARGED WITH VIOLATING RULES

Sayville Sends Out Story of Alleged Atrocities In Transylvania.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Oct. 14—Via Sayville.—An official statement issued by the Austro-Hungarian authorities charges violations of international law and atrocities against the Rumanians in Transylvania, according to the Overseas News Agency, which gives the following:

"In Fogaras, a portion of the German and Hungarian population was rounded up by the Rumanians, driven to the bank of the River Alt and then forced into the water with knouts. Rumanian soldiers stood on both banks and drove those who tried to reach the land back into the river, which at this point is many metres deep. The Rumanian soldiers who participated in these atrocities are said to have been hopelessly intoxicated after collecting all liquors in Fogaras in barrels.

"At Fogaras all German and Hungarian shops were looted.

"The Rumanian military authorities requisitioned horses, cattle and stores without giving either money or requisition receipts."

AMERICAN IS SENTENCED FOR TRADING WITH FOE

[Canadian Press.]

Paris, Oct. 14.—William Chester Silbermann of New York has been sentenced by the correctional court to five years in prison and 500 francs' fine, on a charge of trading with the enemy.

Silbermann, according to the prosecution, came to Paris armed with papers describing him as the representative of the Knight Rubber Company. On the strength of these papers, he obtained several important orders. He was finally denounced by a German who had known him in New York and who said he was acting for Gottwik, Scheffer & Co., 309 Broadway, New York, a firm with German affiliations.

AIRMEN OF ALLIES RAIDED WIDELY IN SOUTHERN GERMANY

Berlin Reports Attempt To Belittle Extensive Attack.

[Canadian Press.]

Berlin, Oct. 13—Via London, Oct. 14—Noon.—Details of the operations of Entente aerial squadrons in their raids in Southern Germany on Thursday are given in supplementary reports issued today by the war office. The attacks are declared to have been carried out by from forty to fifty machines, but it is asserted that no military damage was done. A total of seven persons killed and more than a score injured was the extent of the casualties, says the statement, which follows:

Widespread Raid.

"The enemy air squadron raid upon Southern Germany mentioned in today's communique occurred, according to supplementary official reports, on October 12. In the afternoon several enemy squadrons, totalling from forty to fifty machines, advanced in our South German home region. Bombs were dropped on Donaueschingen, Allenenhofen, Huefingenin, Eschweiler, near Neustadt and Hatsch, in the Klnzig valley, and Rothamiel, but caused no military damage. To a small extent they damaged private property and injured several citizens. At Tuebingen a bomb fell on the reserve hospital, killing two children in a neighboring garden. At Tuebengen and Oberndorf seven persons were killed and a number wounded, totalling 27. Nine of the attacking aeroplanes were brought down by our airmen and anti-aircraft guns, including one British aeroplane."

The statement adds:

"The enemy in this fresh attack on peaceful German places had to pay heavily without having achieved results of military importance."

KENTS WILL TOUR WHOLE COUNTY FOR ALL OF NEXT WEEK

186th Battalion Plans for Extended Manoeuvre.

TO ERECT ITS OWN CAMP

Will Visit Several Villages and Hopes to Get Recruits.

One of the most pretentious military manoeuvres planned by overseas battalions of this military district will be carried through next week by the Kents (168th Battalion) on the return of that unit from Camp Borden. For a whole week the Kents will tour Kent County, and will afford the residents of that municipality an opportunity of seeing their own boys in action.

The 186th is slated to leave Camp Borden on Sunday morning, and will detrain at Bothwell some time the same afternoon. Under present arrangements this will be about 2 o'clock. The unit will immediately erect its own camp, and will go under canvas for the night.

Monday the battalion marches to Thamesville, where it will spend the night. On Tuesday Ridgetown will be reached. Blenheim will see the Kents on Wednesday, and on the following day the unit will be in Merlin. On Friday, Tilbury is the slated bivouac, and on Saturday the 168th marches into Chatham, where it will have its winter quarters.

A 75-Mile Hike.

The county-wide route march will mean a distance of 75 miles to be traversed by the Kents, but in their present state of efficiency this will have little or no effect on the men, it is claimed. Full equipment is being carried by the battalion, which is to sleep each night in camps of its own erection. The mere erection of the camps will be a military feature that bids fair to excite unusual interest in the country.

Not only does the unit intend to make all its camping arrangements, but it will feed itself also. Rations will be issued from London, and the company cooks, with their equipment of field kitchens and so on, will provide all meals.

A regimental train of 25 horses, a motor ambulance, a big A. S. C. motor lorry, and six A. S. C. transport wagons will be taken on the march. It is the intention of the officers to leave as speedily as possible in the mornings, after the night's bivouac, in order that the next stopping place may be reached early in the day. This will allow the men freedom during the afternoon.

Sports a Feature.

Military sports will be a feature of these afternoons off, for a series of football and baseball games between the military teams and those from the towns visited will be played. It is also planned to have evening concerts if possible, but in any event the battalion band will put on musical numbers that should prove attractive. The band came second in the Camp Borden musical contests.

The object of the trip is a dual, and in fact, a triple one. First, it is for training purposes, to give the men an idea of service conditions; second, it is to show the people of the home county what can be done by their own soldiers, and thirdly, it is a recruiting move. It is expected that the presence of the soldiers will be a stimulus to recruiting.

Lieut. J. N. Mowbrary of the 186th was in London on Friday arranging for the A. S. C. equipment and other features of the trip, and will go ahead of the unit to finish the details in the different towns to be visited.

"SPANKING" PRINCIPALS' TRANSFERS ARRANGED

Spanked Bugler Boy Goes to 153rd, Spanker to Signallers.

Pte. Renton, late of the 142nd Battalion, and one of the principals of the "spanking" episode, as a result of which Lieut.-Col. Graham was temporarily suspended from the command of his unit, has been attached to the Divisional Signalers. Pte. Belanger, the youth who was spanked, has been transferred to the 153rd Battalion.

Instructions were received from authorities at Camp Borden to have the transfers put through.

The incident, which aroused considerable feeling, occurred on Thursday, October 21, at Camp Borden. Pte. Belanger, who had been up before his company commander and Lieut.-Col. Graham on several occasions for minor offenses, was reported for insubordination. Lieut.-Col. Graham, despairing, he claimed, of the boy improving his conduct, ordered him to be "spanked." The order was carried out by Pte. Renton, acting on explicit orders from Sergt.-Major Colter.

The matter got to the ears of the camp commandant, who asked for the resignation of Lieut.-Col. Graham. Renton and Belanger were shipped to London, and Renton was informed that he had been discharged. Major E. M. McLean forwarded instructions to local headquarters to discharge Renton, but he was asked to supply higher authority.

Both men were attached to the Special Service Company temporarily, and have been awaiting instructions from Camp Borden. Lieut.-Col. Graham went to Ottawa, and as a result was reinstated in command of the 142nd.

Instructions definitely place both Renton and Belanger.

CAPTAIN HAGERMAN RETURNS TO LONDON

Capt. Hagerman, late of the 24th Battalion, who has been engaged in recruiting in the western part of the province during the last few weeks, has returned to the city from Windsor. He expects to be attached to some overseas battalion in a short time.

The captain states that recruiting has been fair and is improving. The 242nd is expected to leave soon for the front.

Kents Are Coming

Through an error, it was stated in a heading in this morning's Advertiser that headquarters at Camp Borden had refused to allow the Kent Battalion to come to Bothwell as planned. This should have referred to the 168th (Oxford) Battalion, members of which desired to return to their homes before going overseas.

The 186th is scheduled to arrive at Bothwell on Sunday afternoon.

Lieut.-Col. Neil Smith, commanding officer of the 186th, wires from Camp Borden as follows:

"186th (Kent) Battalion will leave Camp Borden on Sunday at 7:30 a.m. for Bothwell, and complete proposed route march. Your report erroneous.

"LIEUT.-COL. NEIL SMITH,
O. C. 186th Battalion.

HOME ON FURLOUGH, HE RE-ECHOES PLEA FOR MORE RECRUITS

Popular 18th Non-Com. Declares Need Is For Men.

GERMANS AIM TO WOUND

Company Sergt.-Major Ed. Walker, 18th Battalion, one of the prominent London non-coms. who went overseas with Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle of the 18th, has returned to the city on sick furlough. He expects to return to the front in November. Dysentery sent the sergeant-major home.

On his return to London he saw for the first time a new arrival in his family in the shape of a 15-months-old girl, born since the 18th left for overseas service.

He was reticent as to his personal experiences in the big war, and as he has been invalided in England for nearly five months he could give little news relating to his comrades of the 18th Battalion. He stated that they were all well when he left them, although their number had been greatly reduced.

Men, More Men.

He emphasized the need for "men, more men, and yet more men," before the war could be brought to a successful conclusion. He stated that the new recruits were much in demand and that although the experience of men who had been on the firing line for months was valuable, their health and constitution could not equal that of the new recruit. The recklessness of the new man, too, aided him greatly, as men who had been wounded and returned to the firing line were over-careful.

This accounted for the fact that casualties occurred chiefly among new men. They were not alive to the dangers of trench warfare and exposed themselves needlessly. The fighting, he asserted, had produced many surprises from the standpoint of quality of certain men. Trained athletes had, in many cases, been the first to succumb to hardships, where men who had been considered weaklings at home were still fighting.

"The knocks in this game are a little different from those you get in other games, and it takes a different type of man to withstand them," said the sergeant-major.

Germans Want to Wound.

He explained the reason so many of the men now reported in the casualty lists had received wounds in the legs and lower parts of the body. The Germans were using high explosives to a greater extent than at the beginning of the trench warfare. This had brought about more open fighting, and in almost every action German machine-gun fire had been directed low with the object of only wounding the charging men.

"It is of more advantage to the Germans to have a foe wounded than killed," he said. "In the former case he has to be transported back to the base, receive treatment in the hospitals, utilizing altogether the services and time of nearly a dozen men, and in many cases remaining a source of expense to his country. If he is killed there remains only the cost of burial, and in many cases not that."

Desire Conscription.

Conscription, he said, was working out well in Great Britain, and nearly all the Canadian boys now in England were anxious to see it passed here.

"They're close to the fight there and they realize what it means," said Sergt.-Major Walker. "I wouldn't want to see any part of the British Empire, much less Canada, in the same condition as the countries in which the fighting has taken place. I have seen whole towns absolutely destroyed. In many cases even the cellars are wiped out by the heavy gunfire.

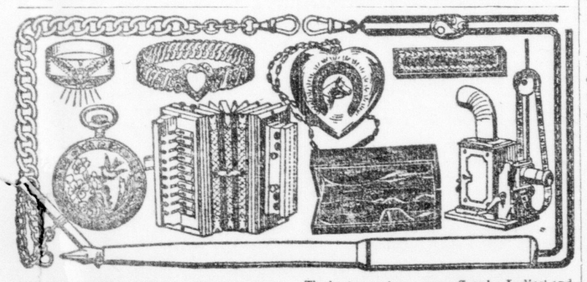

"One of the latest drafts to our battalion included a number of men from the 33rd Battalion. They were as fine men as we ever had and they have made a name for themselves 'over there,' although working under many disadvantages."

SAM GETS A SOAKING INSTEAD OF SALUTE FROM CAMP STRENGTH

Planned March Past at Borden Called Off.

JUP. PLUV. TO BLAME

Proves Mightier Than Even Would-Be War Lord of Canada in Staging Spectacles.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

CAMP BORDEN, Oct. 13.—A drenching rainstorm chilled everyone and Lieut.-General Sir Sam Hughes today, who, when he found that the divisional ceremonial review had been called off, left early in the afternoon, via special train. At an early hour this morning the battalions began to parade out to the ceremonial area in the rain, but Col. H. C. Bickford saw that there was not likely to be any cessation of the downpour and ordered the units back to their lines. The minister of militia arrived at 10:25 a.m. and was met by Major-General W. A. Logie, Col. S. C. Mewburn, Col. H. C. Bickford, Lieut.-Col. H. C. Osborne and several other members of the headquarters staff. The Ottawa party included Lieut.-Col. J. D. Langton, Hon. Lieut.-Col. T. A. Duff and Major H. M. Daly.

After a conference at headquarters Sir Sam motored to the 1st Brigade and inspected the latrines, incinerators, meals of the men and was greatly interested in a mechanical potato peeler.

In the afternoon he visited the 2nd Brigade and spoke to the 157th Simcoe Battalion, which was preparing to move to a point east later in the day.

Troops Do Camp Credit.

In speaking of the troops in camp Gen. Hughes said they were a credit to it and compared favorably with any he had seen. When it was suggested that recruiting depots for local units which have won fame at the front would assist recruiting, rather than the battalion scheme now employed, the minister replied that he had no faith in the idea, especially since the men now clearly understood that their commanding officers could not go with them farther than England. He also surmised that under the depot method interest would soon fall off, as in everything else. He professed ignorance to other current topics, such as rumored appointments, or evaded the questions by pleading ignorance because of stress of time.

The Simcoe battalion entrained for a point east this afternoon and several hundred visitors were present to cheer their departure, despite the heavy rain. The 180th Battalion went on last leave. This is the last unit of those warned for overseas to have leave.

168th Not To Return.

Headquarters eannounces definitely today that the 168th Battalion would not return to Woodstock or any other place before going overseas. In fact, as stated some time ago, all battalions now warned for overseas will proceed overseas direct from the camp.

The announcement that headquarters was sitting in state to weigh out a severe sentence on the Oxford unit brought their absentees back in a hurry, and practically all have been accounted for now. It is learned from good authority that headquarters has decided not to take any decisive action at this late date after taking into consideration the good record of the unit during the summer training.

Major F. W. Kirk, C. S. C., I., will preside on a board of officers, of which Capt. R. W. Angus, of the 186th Battalion, and Lieut. A. H. Murphy, 142nd Battalion, will be members, to examine the non-commissioned officers of the ninth brigade.

London's Own to Bayonet.

The 142nd London's Own Battalion will have battalion instruction in bayonet fighting and physical training tomorrow morning, while the 114th Haldimand and the 161st Huron Battalions will undergo tutoring at the district bombing school.

WESTERN "U" UNIT IS NOW SERVING AT FRONT

Casualty Lists of Today Announce Patients Being Sent to No. 10 Hospital.

That the Western University Hospital Unit (Stationary Hospital No. 10) is now serving at the front is indicated by casualty messages sent to London today. This is the first intimation that the local doctors and nurses who form the Western "U." Unit have been assigned to duty together. Letters recently received in the city said that the staff had been split up for instructional purposes, but the fact that London soldiers have been reported admitted to No. 10 Stationary Hospital at Rouen is taken as proof that the Western "U" men have at last attained their desire.

If the casualty messages are to be taken as a basis for making the assertion, then Pte. Robert Bell, 22 Gunn street, West London, is the first London soldier to be treated in the hospital organized and recruited in his own home town. Pte. Bell went overseas with the 70th Battalion, and a message to Mrs. Jane Bell, 22 Gunn street, today announces that he was admitted to "No. 10 Stationary Hospital, Rouen, with gunshot wounds in the left eye and buttock on October 5."

859 PAIRS OF SOCKS FOR "LONDON'S OWN"

Women's Auxiliary of 142nd Sends That Many Off This Week.

The Women's Auxiliary of the 142nd Battalion meet this week at the home of Mrs. (Major) Calder to arrange for the sending of socks to the N. C. O.'s and men of the battalion as a parting gift.

During the afternoon 859 pairs of socks were packed.

The auxiliary takes this opportunity of thanking those who so generously donated to the fund. The following donations were recently received: Overseas Chapter, I. O. D. E., $5; Miss M. W. Moore, 2 pairs; Miss Young, 2 pairs; Miss Burnett, 3 pairs; Mrs. H. Henderson, 2 pairs; Mrs. Alex. Hay, 4 pairs; Mrs. Wilson, 6 pairs; a friend, 5 pairs; Miss F. Magee, 2 pairs, and one pair from each of the following: Miss A. Yeates, Mrs. Cron, Mrs. Wigham, Mrs. Trudell, Mrs. B. Clement, Miss Hannah, Miss Murray, Mrs. D. C. McGregor, Mrs. Jos. Brown, and Mrs. Paterson (Ingersoll), Miss McMillan.

THREE MORE LONDONERS LISTED AS WOUNDED

Two Are Reported Shot in Left Eye and Third in Face.

Three London soldiers of as many different battalions were reported wounded in messages sent through from Ottawa today.

Pte. Albert Horne, 415559, infantry, has been admitted to No. 11 Stationary Hospital at Rouen, with wounds in the left eye, according to a message sent to Mrs. Lucy Horne of 677 Talbot street. The soldier was admitted to the hospital on October 4.

Another Londoner reported wounded in the eye is Pte. Robert Bell, 124178, a former member of the 70th. He is also reported to be wounded in the buttock, in a message received by Mrs. Jane Bell of 22 Gunn street, West London.

Company Sergt.-Major Jos. Frith, 53078, a member of one of the most popular units that ever mobilized and trained here, is in No. 11 Stationary Hospital with gunshot wounds in the face. He was admitted on October 5. The message was sent to Mrs. Jennie Frith of 10 Argyle street.

NO CHANCE OF 118TH GOING TO KITCHENER

[Special to The Advertiser.]

KITCHENER, Oct. 13.—"Do you expect to winter in Kitchener?" was asked a prominent officer of the 118th Battalion. "No, I don't," was his answer. 'We leave Camp Borden on Monday, October 16, and our destination will probably be Galt, although no definite orders have been issued regarding this matter."

It was declared today that the reason for not sending the men to Kitchener was that representations had been made to the Government that harmony did not exist among the people of Kitchener over the name changing question, and that the presence of a battalion of soldiers would not help to heal the breach.

THE ONLY WAY TO CURE RHEUMATISM

Must Be Treated Through the Blood and the Poisonous Acid Driven Out.

The twinges and tortures of rheumatism are not due to cold, damp weather as so many people suppose. Rheumatism comes from poisonous acid in the blood. This is a medical truth that every rheumatic sufferer should realize. There is only one way to cure rheumatism—it must be treated through the blood. All the liniments and rubbing and so-called electrical treatment in the world will not cure rheumatism, and the sufferer who tries them is not only wasting money, but is allowing the trouble to become more firmly rooted in the system and harder to cure when the proper remedy is tried. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have had remarkable success in curing rheumatism because they go right to the root of the trouble in the blood, driving out the poisonous acid, releasing the stiffened joints, clearing away the torturing pains, and giving the victim renewed health and ease. Mr. Vincent Brow, Havre Boucher, N. S., says: "For two years I was an almost constant sufferer from rheumatism, the trouble being so bad at times that I could scarcely get about. The trouble seemed to bring with it anaemia, and altogether I was in a very bad condition. I used doctor's medicine for almost a year without relief. Then on the advice of a friend I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I think I took altogether about a dozen boxes, with the result that I am again enjoying perfect health."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail, post paid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn grey, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or grey. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a 50-cent bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, grey, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all grey hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Velvets and Plushes for More Exclusive Styles

The Fashion Mirror

Women are changing a little, says Mrs. Westermann, America's leading fashion artist. To know just why—read her letter published here today.

"Oh, yes, that is the style, and you certainly must wear such a suit!" Having delivered this sentence, there was nothing left for one to do but to appear in the suit, no matter how unbecoming or utterly unsuitable for the purpose. A jacket had to be so long—or, well, one might just as well be counted out. Today it is quite different, women demand a length suited to their figure, so short, medium length, long and very long jackets are shown in the leading Fifth Avenue, New York, shops. Some jackets fairly hug the figure to the waist, and then flare alarmingly; others descend from the shoulders with a graceful dignity, giving the waist more of a straight line effect. Velvets and furs occupy first position for the more exclusive styles, the jackets of which are generally quite long. The materials much favored are Broadcloths, Gabardines and Serges—but velvets and plushes for novelty styles are most popular. And most suits have fur collars or band trimming, notwithstanding its scarcity.

COMMISSION IS REFUSING TO BOW TO ONE-MAN POWER

This Is Cause of Opposition To Wells Purchase.

PURITY IS CERTIFIED

M.O.H. Report Shows This and Majority of Board Want Emergency Met.

The committee appointed by the utilities commission to bring the purchase of the Macgregor wells before the city solicitor to arrange the details of arbitration as to price, purity and quantity, has not yet met, but it is expected that next week the arrangements will be completed and the arbitrators named.

The committee is made up of Commissioners E. R. Dennis, Philip Pocock and T. G. Mitchell, and unless the proposal to delay the proceedings, which is now being urged in the camp of Sir Adam Beck, is successful, the water will be in possession of the city within a short time at a price between the $50,000 asked by the owners and a figure to be set by the utilities commission.

Purity Accepted.

The report of Dr. H. W. Hill, M. O. H., at the last meeting of the board, that water from five wells was absolutely free from colon bacilli, is regarded as final by the majority of the commissioners. It is said that Dr. Hill assured several of the commissioners that the water was absolutely pure as well, and added to this is the action of Chairman Pocock, who has secured options on property adjoining in order to have competition in the Macgregor offer.

The question of purchase has already been decided by the commission, and on the ground of necessity. One of the commissioners has pointed out that the shortage was known a year ago last summer and that nothing was done. He believes that the emergency demands that the Macgregor wells be secured and a storage reservoir of five million gallons capacity be constructed. The medical officer of health secured water from six wells on the property. Five of these were free from colon, and the sixth had a trace.

Refuse Dictation.

The commissioners felt that although the proposal was opposed by the One-Man Power they were not going to be dictated to at a time when it was stated and acknowledged that there was serious shortage of water.

That the question of the ownership of the wells was what was bothering the One-Man Power, not the question of purity or quantity, was stated today by a commissioner who voted for the Macgregor proposal.

"They tried to work the One-Man Power on the utilities commission and found that the power has waned," he said. "Since then they have decided to try to delay the scheme by saying that the people should decide as to the purity. The medical officer of health has given the answer as to purity, and the city will pay only what a court of arbitration decides.

"The proposal to take the matter to the board of health may prove that the One-Man Power has not a strangle hold there, either," he added.

Should Be Secured.

"The wells should be secured if the price is right, and the opposition is purely spiteful, a manifestation of the fact that for once the supreme dictatorship of Sir Adam Beck did not sway the majority of the commission, who were on both sides of the political fence. The practice is to cast suspicion upon the acts of all who did not get in line, but put through millions for the pet railway scheme without so much as a 'by your leave' to the people."

CANADA'S DUTY TO PROTECT MARKETS FROM HUN RAIDERS

Capt. Guinness Appeals To Market Crowds To Lend Aid.

CALLS FOR NAVY MEN

Three Months Is Enough To Transform Landlubbers To Efficient Seamen.

Capt. Hon. Rupert Guinness, of the royal navy, is showing a lot of energy in his campaign for recruits for the navy, and at noon to-day addressed two gatherings on the market. Mayor H. A. Stevenson accompanied him, and introduced him to the large crowds. Lady Guinness and Lady Beck were also present. They did no speaking, but they assisted in other ways.

The distinguished visitor explained the needs of the navy, the great demand for men, and the possibilities of doing a great service for Canada and the Empire in this class.

Capt. Guinness explained to the audiences the kind of men needed. The fact that a man had no previous experience on sea was no barrier. In three months he would be ready for one of the big ships of the line, and would be doing useful and splendid work.

"Without the navy, the war would not have lasted as long as it has, and we would have been beaten," he told the crowds. "It has kept the seas free from German vessels, has enabled the Allies to get food and materials, and has made it possible to attack the enemy on all sides. It is your fight, and you will help us, I am sure, in maintaining our great position. It is your privilege, I was going to say, your duty, to help us at this time. Your markets depend on the efficiency of the navy. I am sure Canada will do its duty, and help us. The organization is purely Canadian, and as such will appeal to you."

Capt. Guinness was enthusiastic about the prospects. He declared that as soon as the need was realized, Canadians would respond, and respond in large numbers.

CALLS BECK THREAT WORSE THAN KAISER'S

Niagara Falls' Mayor Declares Prussian Could Be No More High-handed.

"Neither czar nor kaiser could act in a more high-handed way," said Ald. Stephens of Niagara Falls, Ont., at a meeting of the city council of that place last night.

Niagara Falls had been negotiating with the Perfection Tire and Motor Company to locate there.

The city passed a bylaw with more than two-thirds majority agreeing to sell power to the company at $10 a horsepower, although the regulate rate for power was $14, the balance to be given the firm as a sort of bonus.

Sir Adam Beck threatened to cut off the power of the city, leaving it in darkness, and without means of carrying on business, of the city if the power were sold for $10.

The councillors were indignannt, as they had power under the municipal act to grant bonuses. They expressed their opinion of Sir Adam Beck in heated language, but for the present because of the threat to cut off the city, they are marking time.

BARRIERS ARE STILL UP DESPITE MAYOR'S ORDERS

West London Breakwater Blockade, However, Coming Before Council.

Although Mayor H. A. Stevenson gave orders some time ago to have the fence barriers of the West London breakwater removed, no action has as yet been taken, and the pathways are still barred.

It was stated at the city hall today that the matter would be taken up at once by the board of control.

The city engineer's department is acting under instructions from the city solicitor, and until the board of control or council issue other instructions, the roadway will continue to be closed. It was a great convenience to the residents of West London, and they feel the action of the city engineer to be a hardship.

Sell Out Or Be Put Out Choice

These Are Alternatives Put Up by L. and P. S. Overlords.

"Sell outto us or we'll go into the dance hall business, and put you out of it." This was the attitude taken toward the proprietor of a dancing pavilion at Port Stanley by the mighty overlords of the London and Port Stanley Railway.

A St. Thomas man constructed a handsome dancing hall on Erie beach at Port Stanley. He thrived for several seasons, even before the London railway was electrified. Each season business has increased and his enterprise has been rewarded. Uncertain as to the permanency of the dancing craze, nevertheless the owner spent large sums.

Observant members of the board noticed that he was doing a good business, and he was told that they wanted to buy him out. Their mania for municipalizing everything had been transferred from steamboats to dance halls, and it is said that plans are now under way to construct the hall, as well as a bathhouse.

While the bathhouse enterprise is commended by citizens, as having a certain permanent standing, if the investment is not too high, many citizens do object to the investment of London's good hard-earned dollars in dance halls. By the same token the city should begin at home and purchase all theatres, dance halls, and ice cream parlors, with restaurants expropriated as a side line. Gradually the system might be transferred to cigar box factories, shoe warehouses and other staple industries.

Meanwhile the Port Stanley man, who put his money into the dance hall, is said to be ready to give the municipal jig-shop a fight to a finish.

BRITISH RED CROSS CAMPAIGN OUTLOOK MORE THAN BRIGHT

Workers Enthusiastic Over City's Contribution.

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS

Teams Report Last Night and Hear Testimony of Great Service.

Another step in the British Red Cross campaign was completed last evening at a meeting of the executive committee at the Tecumseh House.

The reports of the captains of the different teams were submitted, and final arrangements will be completed next Wednesday evening for the canvass to be held on Thursday, October 19, when an effort will be made to raise $71,000 for British Red Cross purposes.

The city council will be waited upon by a delegation on Monday evening next, and will be asked to grant $5,000, the same amount as granted last year.

George H. Belton, president of the board of trade, presided, and after a few remarks introduced Pte. Hugh Fleming of the 1st Battalion. He was twice wounded in the second battle of Ypres, and was at different times in nine Red Cross hospitals.

Praised Red Cross.

He exhibited an X-ray photo of his arm, showing the bullet embedded in the flesh. He then told of the care and attention he had received in the hospitals, and attributed the recovery of the usefulness of his arm to the extraordinary attention he had received in the British Red Cross hospitals.

The Red Cross nurses, he said, worked harder than the men in the trenches.

Controller W. W. Gammage, captain of the Shriners' team, informed the executive that all arrangements had been completed by his team, and it was ready for work.

E. C. Mitchell and A. H. McMahon, captains of teams selected from members of the board of trade, reported that their arrangements were nearing completion and they would be ready in a day or so.

Rotarians to Help.

Capt. Watt was unavoidably absent, but the chairman announced that the Rotarians would put at least one team, if not more, in the campaign.

Rev. Principal Waller, speaking for the Canadian Club, said that the matter of a team from the club had been left in the hands of the executive committee, which would report within a few days.

Ensign Martin of the Salvation Army, stated that the Army team was ready for the campaign, and that it would make an endeavor to beat all previous records.

The chairman announced that A. E. Knox would captain a team from the Builders' Exchange.

R. H. Dowler will take charge of a team to be selected from the Advertising Club.

Chas. Abbott, who was unable to be present, has agreed to furnish a team from the Benevolent Order of Elks.

An educational team will be in charge of President E. E. Braithwaite of the Western University and Public School inspector C. B. Edwards.

Inspector Edwards announced that he had spoken to the principals of the schools and had been assured that the central committee could rely upon their support.

F. E. Leonard, Philip Pocock and A. B. Greer all spoke warmly in favor of the strongest efforts being put forth to raise the $71,000 on Thursday next. Mr. Pocock pointed out that no Red Cross funds had yet been raised in London by taxation, though there was an impression to that effect.

J. H. Laughton promised a team from the I. O. F., which was already doing great patriotic work.

Dr. H. J. Reason, district commissioner of the Boy Scouts, promised, with the help of George T. Copeland, district scoutmaster, to enlist the services of the Scouts in the city-wide canvass, which will follow the canvass by teams.

All teams will meet on Wednesday evening next, and all captains are requested to send the names of the members on their teams not later than Monday morning to Secretary Gordon Philip.

153RD ROUTE MARCH.—The details of a route march to be held next Tuesday afternoon are contained in today's orders. The 153rd Battalion is the only unit affected. The route will take the men through the country north of the city. The men will march north on Adelaide street until they reach Geary's Corners. From there they go east on the 4th concession road, from there east to the Asylum side road, south to Oxford street to the camp.

CHATHAM 33RD MAN WOUNDED IN THIGH

CHATHAM, Oct. 13.—Official word was received this afternoon that Pte. Herb Chrysler, who enlisted with the 33rd Battalion, had been wounded by gunshot in the thigh.

THREAT OF CRIMINAL CHARGES FOR FOUL PLAY BRINGS TRUE STORY OF DISAPPEARANCE OUT

Rather Than Face It, "Survivor" Makes Clean Breast of His Participation in Frame-Up That Was Followed by Harrowing Tale of Drowning.

Faced with almost incontrovertible proof of his complicity in the recent attempted "get-away" of James Brandon on the evening of October 4, A. J. Clarke of 214½ Dundas street, manager of the Little Big Bargain store, confessed yesterday that the whole affair was a "frame-up" from start to finish.

The confession made by Clarke to T. J. Barrell, on investigation for the Merchants' Casualty Company, came after fourteen hours hard gruelling by the insurance representative.

Held Out for Hours.

Clarke clung for hours to his original story as told the night of the supposed drowning, when he claimed he and Brandon while on a fishing trip down the River Thames attempted to change places in the boat and as a result the boat capsized and Brandon was drowned.

The investigator's assertion that unless Clarke came through with a true statement, he would be charged with foul play because of the non-discovery of the body, apparently had an effect that was somewhat startling to say the least.

His first statements given to Mr. Barrell were sworn to before City Clerk Baker, and merely reiterated his story as told in the papers. An additional statement made to the investigation at noon yesterday admitted the frame-up, and reads as follows:

FIRST CONFESSION.

I, A. J. Clarke, on being further questioned by Mr. T. J. Barrell, state that I mailed a parcel given to me by James Brandon addressed to "Smith," Niagara Falls, and the parcel probably contained clothes.

The boat was upset by Brandon, and at the time it was his intention to get away to St. Thomas and then to Niagara Falls.

He is not dead and was not drowned that night, and my part of the affair was not to obtain the insurance money, but to help him get away from London.

A. J. CLARKE.

London, Oct. 13, 1916.

Confesses at Last.

When interviewed last evening by an Advertiser reporter at his store, 214½ Dundas street, Clarke admitted first that he had signed the statement, a copy of which was shown him, but still declined to admit that the plan was prearranged between him and Brandon.

Finally he was induced to say that the whole affair was staged from start to finish.

He then told his story. "I guess I might as well come across, they have got the goods on me, so I admit that it was a 'frame-up' between Brandon and myself."

Had Short Notice.

"I did not agree to the plan without some hesitation; in fact, the scheme wasn't suggested to me until we were in the boat, and had started fishing.

"Brandon asked me if I would help him to get away by consenting to tell that he had been drowned. He told me he was sick of London, and had had a lot of trouble with relatives, although none with his wife, and he urged me to help him see the thing through. I consented, but I regret the part I played in the affair, as I nearly lost my life in getting out of the river.

Misjudged the Spot.

"We had arranged to tip the boat at a comparatively shallow spot, but we miscalculated, and went over in a deep spot.

"I never saw Brandon after we went over, but I know now that he got away, although for a few days I really believed that he was drowned.

"Insurance was never mentioned, and I am sorry now that I had any connection whatever with the affair.

"The last words Brandon said to me were, 'I will write you when I get away,' but I never heard from him yet.

"That's my story; I have told it all, and that's all I can say."

Wife Surprised.

Mrs. Brandon, when seen by the reporter, stated that she could hardly believe that such a thing would have been possible, but was now satisfied that her husband was not dead, since Clark's confession had been made.

"They were inseparable friends, but I can't understand why he would want to leave me as he did. We had no trouble, and although he had many times said he would like to get away from the city, I never thought he would take the course he did. He could have left without doing it the way he did.

Expects His Return.

"I am not going to take any action against him whatever, as I believe he will yet return to his home and children. I really don't believe his conscience will permit him to desert these two little children, and I think he will come back when he fully realizes what a terrible mistake he has made," said Mrs. Brandon, and her voice choked with emotion, and tears came to her eyes as she looked at the youngest child playing on the floor unconscious of his mother's mental anguish.

Had No Suspicion.

Mrs. Brandon claimed that her husband had said nothing to her the evening he left, and she had been led to suspect nothing.

"Some persons may think I was in on this deal to try and get his insurance, but I swear that I knew nothing, and fully believed him dead until today, when Clark confessed to the story," said Mrs. Brandon.

"He simply worshiped the children, and I cannot possibly believe that he has deserted me never to return. I will be looking for word from him any time, as I fully believe he will write. I did not know until Clarke told it, that my husband had sent an express parcel to Niagara Falls. He told me that they were going down to fish, and even took a basket along for the fish.

Had Premonition.

"I pleaded with him not to go, because I seemed to have a premonition that something might happen. My grief since this affair has happened has been almost unbearable, and now that the truth has come out and the scheme exposed by Clarke, it seems even a greater burden to bear.

"For the children's sake, if not for mine, I hope he will return," continued Mrs. Brandon, who was forced because of her feelings to discontinue a further discussion of the affair.

Fifty dollars was given to Mrs. Brandon on Tuesday from the McClary benefit fund, the amount payable at death of an employee of the firm.

Mrs. Brandon states that the money was handed over to her without solicitation on her part, and agrees to return it at any time, now that she is convinced that her husband is not dead.

The committee of the McClary benefit fund, which handed over the $50 to Mrs. Brandon, fully believing Clark's story that Brandon was drowned, has decided to hold a meeting the first of the week to decide what course to take in the matter.

Two courses are open to the committee. One to ask for the return of the money from Mrs. Brandon, the other, because of the destitute circumstances in which she was left, and out of sympathy to her and the children to permit her to retain the money.

Crown Attorney McKillop has the facts in hand, and has under advisement what action will be taken with Clark.

Firemen to Make Claim.

Fire Chief Aiken will attempt to seek redress from Clark for the time spent by the firemen, and has placed the matter in the hands of City Solicitor Meredith to deal with.

The firemen are extremely indignant that they should have been forced to drag the river for hours, in fact, days, because of the plot between Clark and Brandon. Chief Aiken says that it means a lot of money in lost time for the department, and hopes he will be able to recover damages from Clark as a result.

"When I heard the story of Clark's confession and saw his signed statement at the hall here yesterday, I wished then that I had that Clark fellow by the nape of the neck on the bank of the Thames, and I would have given him a ducking worth while, and I'll gamble he would have got any cigars he had in his pocket wet before he got out," said one indignant fireman today who spent hours assisting in the dragging operations.

A Modern Sherlock Holmes.

How Clarke's original story was explained by the Merchants' Casualty investigator reads like a Sherlock Holmes story brought up-to-date. Mr. Barrel makes no pretence of being another Sherlock, but his deductions lead to the idea.

One of the first clues was the lantern, supposed to have been lit before the pair left. Mr. Barrel got the lantern, fished up from the river, and found the glass was still intact. If, said Mr. Barrel, the lantern had been lit for the time Clark claimed, then the glass would have been hot. The sudden immersion in cold water would have broken it in a second. Still the glass was intact. When this was put up to Clark his story changed. He "recalled" that the lantern was not lit, because it was a moonlight night. Mr. Barrel declared that if it was not a moonlight night, and the original version was weakened still further.

Watch Told Story.

Another was the wrist watch of Clark. Clark claimed to have swum half the river on his way to shore.

"If you did," said Barrel, "your wrist watch, being a stem-winder, would have stopped if you had swum that distance."

Clark thereupon made another change in his story. His watch had stopped, but he had started it again by striking his wrist. Continuing his investigations, Mr. Barrel found that the time, as indicated by Clark's watch, corresponded with that shown by other correct watches and therefore, it could have been in the water but a short time. This hardly jibed with the man's assertion that he had not only been in the water so long, but had lain long on the shore after reaching it.

A cigar was another trap for the alleged survivor. Clark took it from his pocket after the "rescue," and handed it to one of those present on the spot. It was given to one of the searching firemen and smoked by him. This was another proof that his statements of the time he had been in the water were false. If the cigar had been in the water it would have been unsmokable, even by a "smoke-eater" of the London fire department.

Stories Varied.

Different stories of how the "fatality" occurred aided in cracking up the alibi. One story was to the effect that Clark had gone over Brandon's head. Another version by Clark was that he had been thrown on one side of the boat and Brandon on the other.

A full basket of lunch for a two-hours' fishing trip after supper was something Mr. Barrel wanted explained. There was no satisfactory explanation forthcoming.

Another question mark in the investigator's mind was the hat recovered from the river. It was moored on the crown only, and apparently had been weighted down to sink it.

Still another was the bait. This was of cardboard, and identified by Clark as the ones he had taken. As his previous stories indicated, this had been thrown into the river with bait and earth, it would have either sunk or been water-soaked. Only grass-stain marked it.

With these to work on, the investigator started after Clark, to use his own statements. The sworn statement that the "survivor" made bore out his previous stories of the accident, but some questions that might have appeared unnecessary and foolish on the face were incorporated therein, and the answers succeeded in tripping up the man.

Constant cross-examination broke down first one part of the story, then another, and finally the written statement was secured, in which Clark made the assertion that Brandon was not dead, never had been drowned, and had made a "get-away."

The investigator declared that in his opinion, Mrs. Brandon, wife of the supposedly missing man, was innocent of any connection with the frame-up. Her story, however, secured by cross-examination, that two coats had been taken by her husband on his fishing expedition added to the story that piece by piece was put together by the inspector, and finally put up to Clark, with the result that he made his statement.

TANKS MOST MARVELOUS WEAPON HE EVER SAW

London Aviator Tells of Visit to One of These Wonderful Machines.

Sub.-Lieut. R. S. Carroll, a former Londoner, nephew of William H. Skinner, 415 King street, an aviator in the British army, has written some interesting things to the family here, describing the world-famous "tanks," now doing great execution against the Huns. Lieut. Carroll was employed in the Bank of Commerce, and last year studied aviation at the Curtiss school, where he was most proficient. When in England, he passed his examinations most creditably, taking a high stand. He did the spiral, and other feats, and was given a first-class pilot's license. He is now on duty on the French front.

"I have personally been inside one of these new types of armored cars or 'tanks,' as they are called," he writes, "and a more marvelous or ingenious weapon I have never seen. Of course, I must not give you any particulars of this new mammoth wonder, but will tell you this much, these terrific cats can travel over mine craters, shell holes, brick walls, houses, trenches or barbed wire entanglements as easily as if these great obstacles never existed, and that's saying a lot."

In his own department, he makes some interesting comments.

"The mere flying of the machine is a secondary phase of this life," he continues. "Besides other things the pilot has a Lewis machine gun to fire in the event of a hostile machine being seen. Nowadays each machine is provided with two machine guns, one for the pilot and one for the observer. The pilot also has to do the map reading and, last but least, he has to do some of the observing."

"I was on evening patrol from 8 to 10 o'clock the other night," runs still another letter. "I had climbed to an altitude of 9,500 feet. After I had been up about an hour the sun began to set and at the same time a thick bank of pure white clouds began to roll up at a much lower altitude than that in which I was patrolling. I shall never forget that sight. Imagine a blood-red sign on the pure white clouds. Then the German artillery started, and the flashes of their heavy guns and trench mortars completed the picture."

FRANCHISE EXPIRES, BUT THOSE CANS DO NOT

Unsightly Receptacles Still Litter Streets—Will Go Soon.

The franchise for the unsightly garbage cans that have not beautified London's streets for a decade has expired, but the cans are still there. Just why this should be is not known. It has not been hinted that some of the aldermen have passes for the theatre that controlled the franchise, but it is strange to the ordinary observer that the cans are still on the streets, when there is no franchise and no permission has been given the owners since September to so clutter the highways.

City Solicitor T. G Meredith informed the council some months ago that the franchise would expire in September, and after that date, the company had no right to keep the cans on the streets.

It is probable that the council on Monday evening will take some steps to get rid of the nuisance.

Chief of Police Williams informed The Advertiser that he knew nothing of the expiry of the franchise for the garbage cans.

"We have received no instructions regarding them," he stated to The Advertiser. "When we are informed as to our duty, we will see that the law is lived up to. Had any instructions been given us, they would have been carried out."

The cans have no right on the city streets, and the garbage department or street cleaning departments could remove them. That this will be done is certain, unless the owners of the cans get rid of them at an early date.

City Clerk Baker stated to The Advertiser that the franchise had expired, and that it was the duty of the council to order their removal from the streets.

160TH BATTALION

through the line in single file, passing to the coaches assigned to their section.

The train was divided into two sections. A and B Companies occupying the first one, in charge of Major Moffatt; C, D, the Base Companies and the band left with the last section, in charge of Lieut.-Col. Weir.

Authorized on the 29th of November, 1915, the 160th began recruiting on the 29th of December. On the 29th of March, 1916, the bells of Walkerton simultaneously commenced to peal. The men of Bruce had turned out to the call of their chieftains and the battalion was up to strength.

A concerted effort on the part of all the prominent men in the county, working on the best recruiting system so far originated in the Dominion of Canada, had filled the unit in record time. They were coming so fast that they could not be stopped, and almost 1,400 men had been attested before the last were in.

Fates Against It.

Although the beginning was auspicious the fates were apparently against the battalion, as measles and mumps attacked the men almost at once. For months the diseases crept through the battalion, and even after it was sent to London for the summer the men had to be isolated for some weeks. Training was naturally interfered with and on top of that the call came for men to work in the fields to prepare for the harvest. The battalion was scattered.

Scarcely had they returned from the late seeding operations when the men, many of them still suffering from the diseases which had earlier afflicted them, were called out to get in the harvest. Another month of this passed and hardly a man remained to carry on the work of training.

Lost None of Their Spirit.

Returning to London on the 17th of August, Col. A. Weir for the first time since recruiting had a full battalion, free from disease, with which to work. It is a great compliment to the influence which the commanding officer exercised over all ranks that they lost none of their "esprit de corps" as a result of their various misfortunes. All ranks, under his inspiring leadership, immediately got down to hard work, determined that if at all possible the 160th would make amends for the blows which fate had dealt them.

That it has succeeded is apparent. When Major General Lessard inspected the unit some weeks ago he was very enthusiastic, and it was no longer in doubt that it would be called upon to take its place in the firing line before long.

Most Canadian Yet

The 160th is claimed to be the most Canadian battalion which has so far been organized in Canada. The statement is based on the fact that more than 82 per cent of the men claim Canada as their place of birth. The average of physique and intelligence is unusually high, and even in the ranks are to be found men who are in affluent circumseances in private life.

It is confidently predicted that Lieut.-Col. Weir's unit would form part of the new 5th Canadian Division which is being organized for service at the front. That it will be a credit to Canada and to its native county is a foregone conclusion.

List of Officers.

The battalion leaves in full strength this morning a new nominal roll of the officers was made out embodying some change which it was found advisable to make. The list of officers is as follows: Lieut.-Col. Adam Weir, officer commanding; Major A. McL. Moffat second in command; Capt. R. B. Whitehead, adjutant; Capt. A. H. Veitch, medical officer; Capt. F. Shaw, pay; master; Major A. W. McNally, "A" Company; Major H. M. Chadwick, "D" Company; Capt. J. C. Little, "B" Company; Capt. H. Danard, Capt. A. P. Todd, Capt. Logie Foster, Capt. W. L. McKay, Lieuts. H. E. Henderson, D. D. McLeod, E. D. Cameron, H. Parker, R. C. Rowland, J. A. Cronin, M. J. Aiken, V. A. McKechnie, H. B. Krug, J. A. MacDonald, E. Pettigrew, H. Oliver, D. W. Stewart, J. H. Zinn, F. C. James, H. C. Harcourt, A. M. Chatter, R. T Selbert and E. H. Johns.

Capt. E. R. Clarke, Lieut. H. V. Patterson and Lieut. H. E. Kay were rejected at the last minute as medically unfit.

By Elizabeth Thomas.

Perhaps you are suddenly becoming stout, or it may be that you have been putting on weight for years. In either case the cause is the same—lack of oxygen-carrying power of the blood. This trouble occurs in adults of both sexes and all ages, but it may be overcome very easily and without any of the privations that most people imagine necessary to reduce their weight.

Simply go to your druggist and get some oil of orilene capsules. Take one after each meal and one before going to bed. Weigh yourself so as to know just how fast you are losing weight. Wonderful results have been accomplished by this inexpensive recipe, but be sure to get the genuine oil of orilene in capsule form. It is sold only in original sealed packages. MECHANICAL VOICE AND HUMAN CANNOT BE DISTINGUISHED

Edison "Acid Test" Reveals Qualities of Phonograph.

WONDERFUL EXHIBITION

Artists Demonstrated Reincarnation of Voice and Instrument by Machine.

One of the most novel and interesting recitals which music-lovers of London have ever been privileged to attend in this city was given last evening in St. Peter's Parish Hall by a whole constellation of celebrated stars.

But the event was a remarkable one apart from the merit of the artists, who contributed to the program. It was a demonstration which indisputably proved that the wizard of invention, the great Edison, has given to the world an instrument which not only reproduces, but actually recreates tone.

Edison is the only inventor who has dared to throw out to the public the challenge of presenting the artist whose musical efforts have been recorded along with the record. It was such an experiment that was tried last evening in St. Peter's Parish Hall, to the wonder and delight of the many who attended, in response to invitations issued by William McPhillips.

Occupying the centre of the stage was the modern miracle, an Edison diamond disk phonograph, taken from the stock, which Mr. McPhillips has in his warerooms at 189 Dundas street.

Several numbers were given by Hardy Williamson, a distinguished tenor from New York, who sang with his own records, the audience finding it impossible to distinguish between the human voice and the reproduction.

Equally remarkable was the acid test applied by Mr. Lyman, flautist, who played in unison with flute recreations. One of the most wonderful experiments was the presentation of two violin records, which in their exactness of reproduction revealed the difference in tone between Stradivarius and Guinarius violins.

A feature which had an element of humor was the singing of Mr. Williamson of a duet literally with himself, otherwise with his own record.

It was all weird and wonderful and entertaining and the many who attended owe a debt of gratitude to Mr. McPhillips for the treat afforded and the opportunity of witnessing the application of the third degree to a modern invention, which came out of the trial entirely acquitted of any false pretences and with flying colors.

Scholarship Winner.

Harold L. Lyman, flutist, one of the demonstrators, and also the lecturer, first introduced Hardy Williamson, tenor of New York, who holds the highest paid church position in that city. Mr. Williamson, born in Sunderland, England, 28 years ago, worked in the mines until the age of 20, when he won a Royal Academy of Music scholarship in a competition in which 325 took part. He has sung before the King and Queen by command on various occasions, and came to America four years ago with the Century Opera Company.

Was it possible that Mr. Williamson could sing with his own record and a difference in the quality of tone not be detected?

A well-known number, Absent, by Metcalfe was first chosen for experiment, the artist standing close to the talking machine. The lips of the artist were still as there floated from the music box tones of wonderful purity and beauty, the notes of a lyric tenor. The tone increased in volume. Mr. Williamson was singing with himself. The most sensitive ear could not detect the slightest difference between the tone of the singer and the tone of the mechanical device. Both were equally liquid, flexible and vibrant.

Of several numbers, probably the best tests given by Mr. Williamson were Open the Gates of the Temple, in which, during the repetition of the words "he knows," he stood at a distance from the phonograph, and in the dramatically rendered composition of Stephen Adam's Thora. For the second part of Thora the lights were turned out.

An Artistic Triumph.

Out to the audience came the words of the song, of passionate sorrow and regret, each word distinctly enunciated, the whole an artistic triumph. "The machine has stopped and Mr. Williamson is singing alone," was the surmise of a number. Others believed the artist and his record were being heard together. When the lights suddenly flashed on, the stage was empty of human presence and the only evidence which remained to the moving number was an unemotional looking box well in the foreground.

Equally remarkable were the "acid tests" made by Mr. Lyman with his flute. Tuning his flute to the record, he presented The Butterfly by Bondix, with the laboratory re-creation of a flute and clarinet duet, now playing in unison with the flute and now with the clarinet.

Another delightful number was the record of Charmant Oiseau from Le Perle du Bresil, by David, sung by Miss Anna Case, with flute obligato, Mr. Lyman playing with the flute obligato.

Uncanny Difference.

The marvellous exactness of the Edison re-creations of tone was revealed in a couple of violin selections. Mr. Lyman called attention to a well-known fact that no two violins are exactly alike in tone any more than any two voices are exactly alike. Moreover, no violin sounds quite the same when played by two different people. The first record given was a re-creation of Le Menetrier (Wieniawski) as played by Carl Felsch on his Stradivarius violin. In this, the robustness of the tone was particularly noted. Next was heard a re-creation of Meditation, Thais (Massenet), as played by Albert Spalding on a Guinarius violin, equisitely delicate and honey-sweet in tone.

It was almost unbelievable that such difference could exist and almost uncanny the manner in which it was revealed.

The possibilities of the re-creation of piano music were revealed in a record of a piano solo by Andre Benoist, The Two Larks, by Leschetizky.

BROKE CITY LAW

Citizens Who Burned Leaves on Pavements Must Appear in Court.

Several summonses have been issued by Chief Williams against citizens charged with burning leaves on the street.

The city council passed a bylaw some weeks ago prohibiting the burning of leaves on the street, due to the detrimental effect on the pavement.

The police department was asked at the time of the passing of the bylaw to enforce the measure to the fullest extent.

Warnings were published at the time, but notwithstanding several citizens have persisted in burning the leaves on the pavement contrary to the bylaw. As a result these people will appear in court on Tuesday.

Chief Williams again warns citizens that all future violations will mean a summons to police court.

SUFFERING OF BELGIANS BEYOND IMAGINATION

The situation here is simply frightful, writes a resident of the Belgian town of Alost, describing the conditions that exist in that place under German rule.

For the last three months, he continues, we have had no potatoes. The death rate is increasing alarmingly on account of the lack of nutrition and because of the suffering endured.

Numerous cases of insanity and sudden death have been especially noticed. But what is more maddening is the fear that exists among the people that his neighbor, or the man next to him, may be a German agent. The suffering endured and the pressure of such a state of affairs on the mind are beyond imagination.

Industry in Alost, formerly prosperous, is at a standstill. Were it not for the aid given by the Belgian Relief Committee thousands of unemployed would be reduced to a state of famine.

The force of all the work done by the Belgian Relief Committee is brought out in this one statement made by one of the seven million of Belgians who would starve to death today were it not for the activities of the committee. This is a man speaking. Think what all this must mean to the women—think of the terrible anguish of the little children, starved and suffering and not even understanding why. The Belgian Relief Committee has to do more than feed these people, it has to keep up the morals of the Belgian populace in the occupied territory. This feature alone should be sufficient to prompt every one of the men, women and children of the allied nations, not doing his bit, to help.

There is a branch of the Belgian Relief Committee in your town or near at hand. Surely you can see the necessity for help. The dollar that means little to you here means much there. Help feed them and help keep up their splendid morals. Millions of dollars a month are needed to do this. If not to the committee in your town, then send your gift, large or small as you can afford, to the Belgian Relief Committee, 59 St. Peter street, Montreal.

LESS THAN $10,000 SO FAR COLLECTED FOR Y.M.C.A. FUND

Canvassers Unable to Cover All Territory.

TO CONTINUE CAMPAIGN

Volunteers Wanted to Help Bring in Another $5,000.

Only $9,459.90 had been collected by the canvassers for the $15,000 Y. M. C. A. fund when they met at a banquet last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. Of this nearly $1,000 was collected after 1 o'clock. The reason the amount fell short of the intended total is that there were not nearly enough workers. Fully three thousand names were on the canvassers' lists, but of these only one thousand have been reached by the canvassers. This is not because of lack of energy on their part, for everything possible has been done in the three-day campaign, and automobiles have been used to the fullest extent in trying to reach those citizens whom it is thought would be willing to aid the work.

To Continue Campaign.

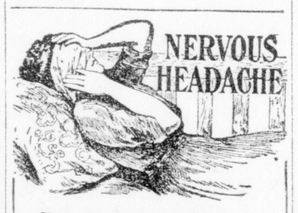

The workers decided at the banquet that the campaign would not be closed as scheduled, but would be continued until the $15,000 mark was reached. Speeches were made by J. K. McDermid, E. R. Dennis, Alderman Webster, Ray Lawson, John Cottam and A. A. Langford, outlining the course of the campaign and the success with which it had met in such parts as they were able to reach. They emphasized, however, the urgent need of more workers and will appeal to the citizens for more men to assist in the campaign. Each day's work netted almost the same amount, namely $3,000. It was thought that this was an indication that there were still hundreds more who would be willing to aid the organization which has done so much for the men who are serving the country, besides aiding materially in making better citizens of the youths of the country.

Volunteers Wanted.

It was asked that persons willing to assist in the work of canvassing get in touch with A. T. Taylor of the Y. M. C. A. at 'phone 51. It was pointed out that the work was not difficult, as almost without exception the canvassers had been cordially received by the citizens, and met with generous responses. Those wishing to contribute, and who have not been reached by the campaigners, should also get in touch with Mr. Taylor, and arrangements will be made for receiving the subscription.

The workers will meet again tomorrow night to report further progress in collecting the necessary $5,540.

The captains of the teams so far in the field are R. J. Webster, W. R. Yendall, C. T. Glass, E. C. Mitchell, Ray Lawson, A. A. Langford, F. G. Mitchell, A. E. Silverwood, E. S. Crawford, C. R. May, J. Macpherson and J. E. Magee.

AUTUMN BUSINESS IS CALLED "GOOD" ALL OVER CANADA

Holiday Shows Little Effect on London Trade.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

Optimism Beams in Reports of Good Collections Generally.

London reports to Bradstreet's say that the autumn trade is measuring up to the expectations of those who anticipated advances on last year. Even taking the holiday into account, the volume of business for the week is quite respectable, and is above that of last year in most lines. Cold weather has caused a more active movement in seasonable articles, especially clothing, hats and shoes. The country trade is particularly good. Labor is in great demand at the present time, although the situation is noticeably easier on account of the movement of labor from country to city. Remittances are generally reported to be good.

Toronto reports show that business is holding well up to the standards set at the beginning of the autumn trade, and continued active distribution of all commodities is assured. There is no cause for complaint in any line of mercantile business. The shortage of labor is still a factor which hinders prompt deliveries, and this is holding back orders to a greater extent than the scarcity of raw materials reported in some quarters. Payments are reported good.

Montreal reports say that general business is satisfactory. Constantly advancing prices have not tended to minimize the volume of trade.

Winnipeg reports that wholesalers declare general trade to be keeping up steadily. Failures in the west are less numerous than in 1915, because business conditions demand a closer approach to a cash basis. Spring shoe orders are large, and the fall sorting business is now easier after the recent busy period. Fall hardware is moving out satisfactorily, and price advances have been noted. The wheat market was somewhat unsettled, but the inherent strength is little changed. Collections are generally good.

Thousands of men suddenly called to undergo the hardships of winter training find the sustaining power of Oxo Cubes invaluable for supporting health and strength.

Oxo Cubes have a body-building power out of all proportion to their bulk. Many a young soldier, wet through, and physically exhausted by hours of marching or other duties, has had cause to bless the invention of Oxo Cubes.

Oxo Cubes are so convenient and handy that they can be carried on the person without adding to the weight of one's equipment. A cup of Oxo or an Oxo Cube sandwich enables one to go for long hours.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at first sign of Bladder irritation or Backache.

The Canadian men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid, which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminiative tissues clog, and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

NAVAL VOLUNTEERS URGENTLY REQUIRED ON BRITISH VESSELS

Capt. Hon. R. Guinness Makes Strong Appeals.

NEW BOATS BEING BUILT

And Recruits Will Release Experienced Men to Work Them.

That Canada should contribute men to the navy was the keynote of the address delivered by Capt. Hon. Rupert Guinness, M.P., at the Masonic Temple last evening. There was a good attendance, and considerable interest was manifest. Mayor Stevenson presided, and Sir Adam Beck and Col. L. W. Shannon, O. C. Military District No. 1, were on the platform.

The appeal of the navy was clearly and concisely put. There were no oratorical frills in the address, and Capt. Guinness went straight to the point. There were a vast number of ships building, and being completed. There were more and more boats put into commission, and the demand for men was constantly on the increase. It was to fill up the places that he was appealing to Canadians to join the navy. Capt. Guinness had no intention of robbing the merchant marine of Canada. There was a great necessity for men in that branch of the service. Men from business offices or the shops, between the ages of 18 and 30, were the ideal type. They learned quickly, and were of great help. Two thousand men at once would release 2,000 men on training ships in Britain, giving them an opportunity to join the crews of the famous fighting ships of the first line.

British Navy Supreme.

The British navy was supreme. The Germans could not attack them on water, but had to use underseas boats. These were not dependable, and many of the German boats were at the bottom of the sea through storms, and many more had paid the price through the expertness of British gunners.

"The navy has enabled the Allies to concentrate the strength of the world against the Germans," said Capt. Guinness. "It has enabled the French and Russians and the Italians to do the splendid service that they have done. We want to increase that efficiency, by getting more men into the service, which means more boats and more fighting strength."

Capt. Guinness warned the Canadians not to be unduly alarmed at the appearance of a German submarine on this side of the Atlantic. A ship lost in the Irish Channel was as much lost as one on the coast of America. He did not figure that there was much of a menace here.

Appeal to Ladies.

Lady Gwendolen Guinness spoke briefly. She made a direct appeal to the ladies to assist in the work of recruiting. The life was not unpleasant, and the results for Canada and the Empire great.

A hearty vote of thanks was voted the speakers, and the audience agreed to heartily co-operate in the work.

At Canadian Club.

Capt. Rupert Guinness, M. P., of the royal navy, opened his campaign for recruits for the British navy from Western Ontario at the noon luncheon of the Canadian Club on Friday. He made a stirring appeal and his sentiments found an echo in the hearts of the large crowd that listened to him. Sir Aemelius Jarvis, who is in charge of the work for the province of Ontario, was present and also outlined the policy of the Government in this matter.

Rev. Principal Waller, the president, in introducing the guest of the day, expressed himself as delighted for many reasons. For one, Capt. Guinness had twice won the diamond sculls, the premier rowing honors of the world, an amazing record. As an oarsman, this was particularly interesting to him. The zeppelins had paid a lot of attention to his constituency, and had caused some damage. However, two of these murderous machines had been brought down in his riding by some of his constituents, a matter of great satisfaction. There were many other reasons, but he would omit them at this time.

No Reduction of Forces.

Capt. Guinness was given a hearty welcome. He was sent to Canada to secure recruits for the navy. Since universal service had been introduced into England, it was found necessary to get recruits for the navy elsewhere rather than reduce the fighting efficiency of the land forces. Canada had not made any direct contributions to the personnel of the navy, and it was thought that a fine field was presented in Canada.

The recruits will be outfitted in Canada and sent direct overseas, where they will be given a training course. In three months they would be ready to take their places on the fighting units of Jellicoe's fleet. He saw no reason why Canadians, with their ability to adapt themselves to conditions, their initiative, and their strength of body and mind, should not make excellent sailors in a very few months, or possibly weeks.

Rates of Pay Similar.

The rate of pay would be the same as the Canadian soldier received, namely, $1.10 a day, with separation allowances, etc. While in the navy he would receive the same pay as a regular sailor, 30 cents a day, the balance being retained by the Government or placed to his credit in a bank for the man's use.

Some criticism had been uttered because he had come to inland towns and cities to recruit, it being claimed that the coast towns along the Great Lakes were the better. Capt. Guinness did not agree with that. This policy would result in robbing the merchant marine. The men from office and factory could in a short time be made proficient for the navy, while the merchant marine, so necessary for keeping supplies going forward for the Empire, would not lose its efficiency.

Capt. Guinness told of his organization of the naval reserve in old London. The idea was scoffed at, but the men had produced results and were valuable men in the navy.

Must Have Men at Once.

"A mere lad in the battle of Jutland, a boy from the east side of London, in the navy but nine months, won the Victoria Cross for valor," said Capt. Guinness. "Canadians can do equally well."

The problem of manning the ships now ready made it necessary to get men at once. The personnel of the British navy had doubled since the war began. A new navy is practically ready in the Clyde.

"Your men can be very useful when learning," said the captain. "They have the ability. In later years, these men will be the nucleus of the seamen for your own navy."

Sir Aemelius Jarvis was introduced. He had been placed in charge of the work for the Province of Ontario. He had decided to give up all his time to the work, and the Government had given him a free hand. There was to be no money necessary for the work, as the Government would pay the bills. It was the intention to undertake a publicity campaign through the newspapers, utilize moving picture shows, and use other means to bring the needs of the navy to the attention of the people. The local military organizations would assist in the work, and would give every support.

Sure Canada Will Send Them.

"We need the men, and I am sure Canada will send them forward," he declared.

The Canadian Club will co-operate in the work. It was decided to have a team in the Red Cross campaign of Thursday next. The members will be selected later. Professor A. M. Wrong, of the University of Toronto, will address the club on October 27. Mr. Miller of Korea will speak on November 9. Arrangements were being made for other speakers.

INTERESTING WORK OF NAVY TOLD BY LADY G. GUINNESS

Naval Officer's Wife Addresses Large Audience.

APPEALS FOR RECRUITS

Says Canadians' Spirit of Adventure Should Move Them.

In his appeal to Canadians for recruits for the British navy, Hon. Rupert Guinness has a most gifted and able ally in his wife, Lady Gwendolen Guinness.

Lady Guinness not only charmed a large audience which she addressed yesterday afternoon in Cronyn Hall, under the auspices of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, on the subject of "The Imperial Tie and the Navy." She did more. She aroused the keenest interest of her listeners and inspired in them something of the enthusiasm that is felt in regard to the army, for the men who insure the safety and the life of the allied nations and maintain for Britain the position of mistress of the seas.

"What do we owe to the navy?" asked Lady Guinness. The answer she gave to her own question was, "Before the war the commerce of Germany was second only to that of the British Empire. Our navy has bottled up the German fleet and prevented Germany's ships from going forth to engage in commerce with other nations. Our fleet has enabled the Allies to get anything they want from any part of the world. Our navy has patrolled the seas, guarded against the danger of submarines, and swept the highways of the ocean free from mines.

Fishing For Mines.

"It is wonderful how the boats have been saved from mines. The British admiralty is constantly trolling with little vessels, sweeping up mines. It is a very dangerous occupation in which the mine-sweepers engage. If the mines are not taken up in just a certain way, it means the loss of the lives of those who are endeavoring to rid the route of the menace.

"It is wonderful, too, the way in which the navy has protected merchant ships and transports from the submarines. When a submarine causes the wreck of one boat, we hear of it. But there is nothing said of the 99 that pass along the way in safety, thanks to the activity of the navy.

"Large numbers of the men taken into the service of the admiralty have been fishermen who go out to sea in the same ships that they did before. But they are going out for a different kind of fish. There is another difference now; they have guns on board."

One of the most striking features of the address of Lady Gwendolen Guinness was its ringing note of optimism.

In making an appeal for Canadian men for the British navy, "your navy because you are British," the gifted speaker spoke with absolute confidence of the coming back to Canada of the men who enlist for the admiralty branch of the service.

Sure To Come Back.

"Of course they are coming back," she said. "Of course we are going to be victorious. What we felt in the early months even of this year was a great gravity. We realized that it would be a long time before the end, and that victory would come at a high price. But we had no doubt about the end with Britain holding the supremacy of the seas."

Regarding the necessity for making an appeal to Canada for recruits for the navy, Lady Gwendolen reminded her audience that every man in England and Scotland between 19 and 41 is liable for service wherever he can best serve the country in relation to the war. The munitions factories are being combed and combed again for men whose places can be filled by those unfit for active service or by women. Men unfit for the trenches are being placed at the base behind the front. Since the outbreak of war one million tons of shipping has been added to the British navy of all kinds of vessels. This would mean 40 dreadnoughts.

Considering that all sized vessels are included, a million tons represents hundreds of ships. New crews are needed for these, and the personnel of the navy has been doubled. Experienced men are needed for the new ships, but these crews may be diluted with inexperienced.

Several incidents were related to illustrate the point that long training and experience are not required to fit a man to serve in the navy. Reference was also made to the British volunteer force for the admiralty, of which her husband is senior officer. The idea was to give volunteers, including men of every occupation, a certain amount of training in the navy, say two weeks a year. Volunteers were received from all ranks. Her husband's verdict on the success of the experiment was, "When an intelligent man wants to do a thing, he can do most things."

Reasons For Interest.

In conclusion, the speaker made an appeal for enthusiastic interest on the strength of the attractions which the service offers. "In some ways," she said, "it is more attractive than the life of the soldier in the field. Wherever the sailor goes, he takes his house with him, an advantage in itself. The service appeals because of its great traditions. One hundred years ago, it was an adventure of hardship to come across the sea to Canada. The blood of the people who made this adventure flows in the veins of you who are living inland in Canada. Doesn't it bring home the romance of the sea even to the third and fourth generation? The greatest achievements of science have gone into the making and equipping of the ships of the navy. Going into this branch of the service is a great education. Canada's share is going to be a big question after the war. It will mean something to have contributed 3,000, 4,000 or 5,000 men to the fleet.

"I ask you to be missionaries of this cause. The navy belongs to Canada because Canada belongs to the Empire. There is a beautiful prayer, some 300 or 400 years old, in the Church of England prayer book, referring to the navy which "safeguards the sovereign and his kingdom and brings security to those who cross the seas on all occasions." This, I think, is the best expression of what our navy has meant and means."

Mrs. Niven, regent of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E., presided, and seated also on the platform were Mrs. R. M. Graham, secretary of the Municipal Chapter, I. O. D. E.; Mrs. Cl. T. Campbell, treasurer, and His Worship, Mayor Stevenson, who gave the opening address of welcome and greeting to Lady Gwendolen Guinness. Mayor Stevenson also moved the vote of thanks to her, expressing his great pleasure in the address, and commenting especially upon her message of good cheer and optimism.

Lady Beatty's Fund.

Mrs. H. A. Boomer conveyed to Lady Gwendolen most sincere and graciously expressed thanks, asking permission to refer to the Lady Beatty fund for sailors' relief for which £100 has been forwarded from London, and £50 more will soon be on the way.

Replying, Lady Guinness expressed her warm sympathy with the efforts of Lady Beatty on behalf of the sailors, and her gratification to know of the contributions sent from London. She had this advice to offer: "If any of your London boys enlist for the navy, I think it would be well to make a point of looking after them and keeping them supplied particularly with news. They will likely be lonely. It wont be the same as going with a unit of Canadians."

Wearing his naval uniform of navy blue and gold braid, Hon. Rupert Guinness arrived just before the close of the meeting, and consented to take a seat on the platform, though he could not be prevailed upon to speak.

In any case, he looked the part, the type of sturdy, clear-eyed, wholesouled, big-hearted sailor-fighter, born to command, and to be respected and beloved of his men, and to maintain the noble traditions and the supremacy by sea which have belonged to Britain for centuries.

Mrs. T. H. Smallman, first vice-regent of the Municipal Chapter, and Mrs. Ernest Smith, regent of the Lord Roberts Chapter, subsequently entertained at afternoon tea, when the regents of the various chapters of the Imperial Order of Daughters of the Empire, and presidents of other women's organizations of the city, had the pleasure of meeting the distinguished guests of honor, Hon. Rupert and Lady Guinness.

PART OF VILLAGE BURNED.

QUEBEC, Oct. 13.—A very serious fire destroyed Wednesday last in the upper part of the village of St. Victor de Tring, Beauce, ten private dwellings and seven barns with all their contents. The fire is said to have started from a spark in the forge of Mr. Joseph Fortin, and the flames spread with such rapidity that in less than two hours the seventeen buildings were destroyed. The church was saved with difficulty.

By proclamation of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario Thursday, October 19th, "OUR DAY" is set aside as a day of giving to

The British Red Cross

Here is a call to touch Men's hearts, and Women's, too. Give generously, that the cry of your anguished defenders may not go unheeded.

The British Red Cross maintains hundreds of hospitals in Great Britain and on every battle-front. It provides and runs hundreds of motor ambulances, steamships, motor launches, rest stations and convalescent homes. These Suffering Ones Need YOUR Help

A Wounded Comrade—Official Film, "Battle of the Somme."

Why Should You Give to the British Red Cross?

BECAUSE your gift may save some gallant life.

BECAUSE without Red Cross work thousands of soldiers and sailors would die.

BECAUSE trained men are vitally necessary to the Empire's safety, and their lives must be saved.

BECAUSE your own friend, son, brother, husband may be the next to call for Red Cross aid.

BECAUSE you may not be able to fight, but you CAN heal with your gift.

BECAUSE the British Red Cross is the greatest physical agency for good in the world, and the most efficient.

BECAUSE your money does more good in the hands of the British Red Cross than spent in any other way.

BECAUSE the Motherland's only direct appeal to us Canadians is for assistance in the great mercy work.

BECAUSE Ontario's shining gift of $1,514,000 last year should be an inspiration to us now.

BECAUSE the number of sick and wounded is ever increasing as the price of victory.

BECAUSE if you do not give you will have missed a great opportunity for doing good—"the Angel of Mercy will move on, abashed, from your doorway."

Give and Heal!

NO TRUCK OR TRADE.

THE FOLLOWING is from a recent issue of Toronto Saturday Night:

"Canadian architects and builders are a patient lot. They come up to the counter cheerfully with their share for the payment of the nation's bills; but when it comes to getting a share of the nation's business, that is quite another matter. When the Dominion wants an arsenal, it is first of all decided to locate it at Lindsay, this being the home town of Sir Sam Hughes, and then the contract is given forthwith to a New York firm. To make a bad matter worse, our Government not only presents this contract to alien architects and builders, but does so without even inviting tenders from our own people or from anybody else. To make the situation even more absurd, it may be recorded that upon the very day Sir Sam Hughes, in full war paint, and amid great ceremony, laid the cornerstone of the Lindsay arsenal, members of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were in New York City, hat in hand, putting in tenders for materials for the structure. It is apparent that in the eyes of the Government, Canadian architects and builders only serve a useful purpose in helping pay for the war."

Conservatism of today is not a doctrine based on principle, but on the lowest form of public morality, which if it were applied to the individual Canadian would cause him to be regarded as a double-dealer, a liar and a grafter, as well as a strutting bully and a card sharp.

There was a time when the Conservative party had broad constructive statesmen in its high places. Today the good men of the party are, like the rank and file, disgusted with the disgrace imposed by ministers such as Hughes and Rogers. There was little that divided the two great parties fifteen years ago, and on certain things the big men of both divisions saw eye to eye and buried their differences. There was far more independence than exists today, and not even Sir John Macdonald would have tolerated some of the things that have taken place under the Borden regime.

The "no truck or trade" cry of the reciprocity campaign was perhaps the line of demarcation for the new, strange era. A policy of sham patriotism and deceit seized upon the party, and the most mendacious campaign ever launched was carried through to an accompaniment of vilification and claptrap argument, such as was never before heard of, and which shamed Canada.

The campaign was bad enough, but when on securing power in 1911 the Conservative party turned itself inside out, and commenced to do those things for which they condemned the Liberals, the limit had been reached. The United States became the chief source of supply when money was needed for a certain time, rich contracts went to the Americans, while Canadian manufacturers were turned down; and as in the case of the Lindsay arsenal, which Sir Sam Hughes gave to his own home town, the American contractor was given precedence over the Canadians. It has been said that the Canadians could not build this arsenal. It must truly be a wonderful thing to behold, requiring, perhaps, certain secret vaults into which Sir Sam Hughes may some day retire with his imitation ex-colonel, J. Wesley Allison.

Conservatives also said that Canadians could not make time fuses for shells, but since the Liberals bared the rottenness of the Hughes system, many contracts for fuses have been let in Canada, and none have gone to the United States.

The Conservative Administration since 1911 has the most vicious record charged against any government in the history of Canada. The Pacific scandal was a mild affair compared with what has gone on in the last five years.

DIFFERENT METHODS.

"Being without faith in Canadian manufacturing, would he (Sir Wilfrid Laurier) have organized the manufacturers into shellmakers for the period of the war?"—London Tory Organ.

COMING from a paper which was one of the bitterest opponents of reciprocity, after the then Conservative Opposition had decided to fight against the very measure it had previously prayed for, this statement shows to what lengths of misrepresentation it is prepared to go in order to bolster up the case of the present Government at Ottawa.

Sir Wilfrid without faith in Canadian manufacturing! Was it not he who had faith that the manufacturers of this country were able to hold their own against those of the United States with less "protection" than the Tories considered absolutely essential? He had more faith in them than they had in themselves. He believed they had brains, enterprise and skill which fitted them to overcome outside competition, being protected only so far as to enable them to overcome whatever advantage accrued to American manufacturers from their larger output.

But what faith had Sir Robert Borden and his associates? They cried out blue ruin. Canadian manufacturers were, in their estimation, babies too frail to withstand the cold draughts which competition on a fairer basis would arouse. They need to be wrapped around with the warm swaddling-clothes of a thick and high tariff until they had another century or two to grow in strength. The wonder is that these manufacturers did not turn, one and all, in disgust from the Tory party which had so little faith in them.

As to organizing the manufacturers for munition-making, there is no reason to doubt that Sir Wilfrid Laurier would have taken immediate and effective steps. In the matter of handing over contract-making to J. Wesley Allison and others of his ilk so that they might make large profits for themselves out of the nation's pocket, he would certainly have fallen far short of the accomplishments of Sir Robert and his colleagues. It is also fairly certain that instead of giving or lending such Government property as the National Transcontinental shops at Strathcona to private individuals for the making of shells, etc., he would have utilized them for manufacturing these munitions at cost, eliminating the middleman's profits and saving money to the nation.

There are other directions in which the present authorities have shone with a light which the Liberals would never hope to equal. Under Sir Wilfrid's guidance, private secretaries and stenographers of cabinet ministers would not have been offered the opportunity to share in shell-making profits or sell to the Government at huge prices patent pick-axes which might also be used as toothpicks by the men in the field, or shovels which could be converted into sugar-tongs. But the people would be glad to forgive such omissions.

The local Conservative organ has no need to strain its imagination in order to find things that Sir Robert Borden has done, or permitted to be done, which would not have appealed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier as desirable actions. There is an almost unlimited supply really existing.

PRINTING HEARST NEWS.

REPORTS say that the Hearst news service, which is used in Canada by several Toronto and by the local Conservative newspaper, will be barred from Canada. The operators of the service in Canada are getting a little nervous wondering whether they will have positions in a few days.

Why the Government should permit the Hearst service and the Hearst newspapers to continue to come into Canada is difficult to understand. The service has been officially barred from Great Britain because of the repeated lying perpetrated by the bureau at New York, calculated to give an anti-British flavor to the news.

Why Canadian newspapers should continue to have "truck or trade" with Hearst is a matter for wonder. They must realize that they are trading with one of Britain's most treacherous enemies, and that the news he sends to them has been branded as "fake."

In spite of the barring of Hearst by the British authorities, the Hearst news service continues to send out "special cables" from London, England, although the authorities have refused them facilities, such as cables and wires. These dispatches are appearing in the Canadian papers which subscribe to the Hearst service. Mr. Hearst must be using the well-known "clothes-line special" system. His manager has issued a defiant statement in which he declares he will get the news despite the British authorities. Will Canadian papers continue to print dispatches from London, England, which cannot possibly have originated in London, England?

COAL AND IRON.

A FRENCH GEOLOGIST, quoted in the Literary Digest, maintains that Germany made the war largely to get possession of the Belgian coal fields and the iron mines of French Lorraine. Tremendously rich already in coal, Germany would by the acquisition of Belgium and northeastern France, become the unquestioned arbiter of industry over all central and western Europe. At the same time her comparative weakness in iron output and her dependence to some degree on Sweden would be remedied by the annexation of French territory rich in iron

The French scientist argues that France must get some of Germany's mineral territory when peace is made. Certainly the retrocession of Alsace-Lorraine, where there is considerable iron, would weaken Germany and help France. Farther north in Westphalia, around Cologne, are coal deposits, and this territory also is claimed in order to redress the balance as regards coal and industry. The old foreign policy of France summed up in the phrase, "the Rhine frontier" threatens to be revived from a new point of view. It was the policy of Louis XIV, which led to the original acquisition of Alsace, and, later, still the policy of the revolutionary French republic and at first of the great Napoleon. Now it is coal and iron that again beckon France to the goal pursued through centuries, the Rhine, which the Germans have so eagerly sought to make a German river.

Canfield's Adventure

By Louise Oliver.

On rounding a curve of the beach, young Canfield spied a tent, and on the other side a thin column of smoke. His breath came in quick gasps, signifying that he had been sprinting for some distance.

"Thank goodness!" he wheezed. "I'll get the fisherman to help me hunt."

But on the other side of the tent he found, instead of an old salt, a girl frying bacon in a long-handled skillet.

"I—I beg your pardon," gasped Canfield, "but did you see an elephant go along this way?"

The girl turned and regarded him curiously. "I don't remember," she answered. "Perhaps I did. I may have, but you see so many elephants go by early in the morning that I really don't notice them particularly. Was your elephant any special kind—pink or striped or something like that?"

Canfield flushed. "Really, I'm not joking. I've lost an elephant, don't you know. A really, truly one, trunk, tusks, and all, same as any other elephant, except that—oh, yes, he may have been carrying a bunch of blue balloons."

The girl turned the bacon with a toasting fork before she answered. "Well, I'd certainly remember the blue balloons. No, I haven't seen your pet. Why don't you buy him a sleeping-basket? That's what I put Toto in every night. You can shut them up, you know, and lock them, if necessary."

"Oh, I say! You're still kidding, and I was never more serious in my life. You see, Old Rusty can do a lot of damage, if he wants to. I had him chained to a big white oak tree——"

"And he ran off with the tree, as well as the big balloons!"

Canfield laughed at last, and the girl, putting down her pan, laughed, too. "You actually have a sense of humor, after all," she said. "Really, I've never heard of anything so funny. How on earth did you happen to lose an elephant? How, in the first place, did you happen to have him at all?"

"Just because I'm a silly ass! Van Kleek and I were motoring through a village near here and it happened to be circus day. It seems business had been bad, and while we were having lunch at the hotel we heard that the whole outfit was being sold by the sheriff. Van Kleek and I hurried over and he dared me to buy the trick elephant. I got him for $25, including the canopy for Sambo to ride in during the street parade as the great Maharajah of Bellhugger. And then some imp out of hades put another notion into Van's head. 'I'll bet you $5,000,' said he, 'that you're not game to ride the rest of the way on this peanut-eating beast into the borough of Manhattan and up Fifth avenue to'——" Canfield stopped in confusion.

"To where?" she demanded.

"To a friend of mine," he finished evasively.

"Well," she answered, "if $5,000 looks as big to you as it does to me, I don't blame you. I suppose you won't get it now, since your pet has escaped?"

"Not unless I can find him."

"It ought not to be hard. What's that up in the air out over the water?" She shaded her eyes from the sun and pointed to an object moving seaward.

"If it was the Fourth of July I'd say it might be an elephant, as it isn't, I'm afraid it—isn't."

She went into the tent and returned with field glasses. "It looks like grapes," she ventured.

"The balloons, by jove! That's part of the bet gone. I was to carry them on my triumphant entry into the metropolis. Well, I must be going if I want to find his highness today."

"May I help you hunt?"

"Nothing I'd like better." His face lighted up instantly.

"I'll take Toto. He's splendid for tracking things."

"Fine! No reason in the world why he shouldn't think an elephant an overgrown field mouse."

"Here, Toto! Come, doggie! Why, where is he? Toto, come here, sir!"

But no doggie responded.

"What do you suppose? Your nasty old elephant has eaten him up—that's what."

Canfield shifted uneasily. "Do you really think an elephant could pass here without you seeing him?"

"Before I was awake. Certainly."

"He wouldn't eat your dog. But he could put him up in the cupola thing and give him a ride." Suddenly he gave a whoop. "Look here, quick! Here are his tracks, about as big as a washtub. Come on! Up this way! Let's hurry!"

They followed the trail up the beach, then across a grassy swamp to a grove of young saplings.

"I believe I hear him," he whispered. There was a crashing among the trees, followed by a short, sharp bark.

"Toto!" exclaimed the girl.

"Sh! He's right over there! How do you catch elephants?"

"I don't know. Don't you lasso them?"

"Goodness, no!"

"Couldn't we telephone the police?"

"Yes, if we had a telephone. Great guns, he's coming this way!"

"Mercy, I'm getting terribly frightened. I wish I hadn't come."

He reached for her hand and held on to it. "Now, listen. He won't hurt us if we just keep still. He's used to people. Picks 'em up and carries them all around in the circus. If he spies us let him alone and see what he'll do."

Sure enough, the elephant came their way. The girl gripped Canfield's hand hard, but she didn't make a sound. The animal, seeing them, cantered up and stopped. Then suddenly he wrapped his trunk around Canfield's companion, lifted her over his head and set her carefully in the gilded box on his back. Then Canfield, too, felt himself lifted off his feet, and the next instant he was beside the girl.

"Toto, you darling!" The little brown Pomeranian had jumped into his mistress' arms, yelping for joy.

"Well, this is what I call homelike," exclaimed Canfield. "If we'd only brought some of that bacon. I'm hungry as a bear."

"Where do you suppose he's going?" cried the girl, for the elephant had started off toward the road at a gentle lope.

"Let us hope to the Bronx Zoo. Any place towards civilization and food. If we only had Sambo now he could lead us up Fifth avenue and we'd still have a chance at the money. But——" he stopped suddenly. He had forgotten that he was to present himself at the door of a certain lady. He turned and took a good look at the girl beside him, slim and graceful in a blue sweater suit, her light brown hair blowing in little curls around her ears and forehead, and the flush of exercise and excitement in her cheeks. She was very, very pretty! His hand still tingled where she had touched it. She raised her eyes suddenly as if to speak, then, seeing his own fixed upon her, she dropped them, flushed a deep red and was silent.

"What were you going to say?" he asked.

"I know something."

"What?"

"I'll tell you some time again. You are going to be very, very angry when I tell you, so I'd rather postpone it."

"Promise to tell me some time."

"Yes. Look! Here's a car."

"Van Kleek! And somebody's with him."

The car stopped, and, strange to say, the elephant stopped, too. Van Kleek's companion got out and slipped a chain on the elephant's legs.

"Hello, Rusty, old boy!" said the man.

"Thank heaven, you're safe!" called Van Kleek. "I worried over that fool bet till I couldn't sleep. Come on down out of that. You've won. Let his owner take him, for goodness' sake!"

Then Canfield heard the girl give a queer little click with her tongue. The elephant reached up with his trunk, took her gently around the body and set her on the ground. Then he did the same with Canfield. Last came Toto, who barked madly around them all.

"Sort of a family reunion, isn't it, father," said the girl, leaning her head against the man's arm and looking mischievously at Canfield out of the corners of her eyes. "Let's all go down to my tent and have breakfast."

"I second the motion," assented Canfield, when he found his voice. "Van Kleek, make that five thousand over to our friend here, will you, and let him buy back his circus."

"COME OVER AND HELP US."
"I was in prison, and ye came unto me."

* * *

Five words in a letter which came in today
From a dear lad imprisoned by Huns,
Made hearts heavy and sore for the lad far away,
And here's how the sad story runs.

A letter had reached him in his prison camp,
Which told him of friends here at home
Who were going away on a holiday trip,
Through our autumn-hued forests to roam.

In answ'ing he jokingly wrote "I'll get leave
And go with you; It will do us all good."
Then a pause—and his hopelessness we can conceive,
When he wrote, "Lord; if I only could."

Don't we hear, there, the cry of an over-wrought heart,
Such as makes our good red blood run mad;
Won't we offer to go and help do our part
To free those held by Huns—with this lad?

Boys, let us quit dancing and frolic and fun,
Let us cease being boys, and be men;
Though it cost us our lives, strive to master the Hun,
And if God wills we fall; say amen.

For it's better to die striving others to save
Than to live and our service withhold:
For living, our souls would be laid in the grave,
Though the breath in our bodies we hold.

Sure no man would want his birthright to sell,
And cling to this life, a poor clod:
When doing his duty he'd but loose the shell
Lets his soul soar triumphant to God.

Sept. 18, 1916.

Dear Friend:

Many thanks for your parcel of cigarettes and tobacco. They were handed to me while in the trenches, and were much appreciated, as the "boys" were without a smoke just at that time. Again thanking you very much,

With best wishes,

PTE. C. SHILDS,
C. E. F.

While the prisoners in Germany enjoy the weekly packages sent them, they also appreciate very highly cheering letters which they sometimes receive from the ladies who adopt them. Mrs. Tobias of the Campbell Becher Chapter keeps up a correspondence with their prisoner, Pte. A. Strefford, in Cassel. The following is the last letter received from him. There is no doubt that a kindly letter from Canada helps to cheer the boys in their confinement.

"Dear Mrs. Tobias—Your beautifully interesting letter only reached me today; so you see how long it takes to come. I can quite picture the lovely scene you describe; and am longing for the time when I can enjoy the peaceful quietude of home life again. No; I am not a born Canadian, though I love Canada well. When I joined the Royal Highlanders I was living in Montreal; though I always had a desire for the West. I have made a great friend of a gentleman who hails from Vancouver, and have promised to visit him there. I am looking forward to the visit. I must thank you very much for your generosity. How grateful I feel I can hardly express in this letter, but I can assure you the packets are jolly well appreciated, and help me to keep comparatively fit. It is astonishing the amount of knocking about a man can stand if he keeps himself fit. The ladies of Canada have more than done their "little bit,' which I for one can be thankful for. Please write me again. I am not a married man, though 35 years old, so I do not receive many letters from ladies. Again thanking you for your lovely letter, and assuring you that I feel already too much indebted to your chapter, I am, sincerely yours."

Some idea of the way the British soldiers now interned in Switzerland spend their time may be gathered from the following letter sent to Mrs. T. H. Smallman by her adopted prisoner, Joseph Gill. It is dated at Leysin, September 23:

"Dear Madam—About two weeks ago I wrote you a letter to let you know I had got a chance to get out of Germany. Since then I have felt much better, and my arm is getting stronger. Thanks to good weather and sun cure we are all improving in health. We are treated here very well; accommodations in the hotel are good, and good food. We rise at 7 a.m., breakfast at 7:30, and then room-cleaning. From 9 till noon, sun cure; then dinner, and from 1 to 3 p.m., silence and rest. Tea at 3:30; from 4 to 6, walk; supper at 6:30, then walk till 8; lights out at 9:30."

Evidently the boys in Switzerland are having a more comfortable time than they had in the German prison; and have some prospect of recovering their health. All that Pte. Gill can find a need for, in response to Mrs. Smallman's inquiry, is a sweater and some tobacco. And he will get them all right.

RED CROSS AND C.W.C.A.

"BLOOD-STAINED MONEY."

There came the other day to a London mother a letter from her son "Somewhere in France." In it was a clipping from a newspaper, the copy of a letter from a Frenchwoman to a brother in Canada. It should be read by every woman in Canada, because of the lofty spirit or complete sacrifice it breathes forth.

"Dress and pleasure we foreswore long ago," she writes. "If you hear of French styles, you may take it for granted they are not for us. . . . We could not afford the price. It would be heartless derision whilst our men are in rags fighting and dying in the trenches. The finger of scorn would follow the woman who would so demean herself while thousands are in want." And then she adds a searching question: "Are there any Canadian women spending blood-stained money on baubles, pursuing pleasure, whose eyes have not yet wept hot tears?"

"Blood-stained money!" How the words bring one up with a shock. And yet, is the expression too strong? For every dollar we spend upon ourselves which might have been given to help those who are breasting this fearful world-storm is surely costing the life of someone whom we might have saved. How we should hoard and save the scraps to keep our money clean. We dare not allow it to become stained with the blood of those whom we have sent overseas to fight for us.

There is that money we spent on just one day's pleasure which should have gone to feed a starving Canadian boy in a German prison. Is it free from stain? There is the neat little bank account to which we are adding regularly the amount that should go to our Red Cross dues. Is it clean, shining money when we remember that our hospitals are calling for donations? And that ornament for the house? And the hundred and one little expenses we might have curtailed? Ah, perhaps if we examined carefully our expenditure we would surely find that some of our dollars have indeed been blood-stained.

We in Canada have not begun to even dream of such sacrifices as the women of France make—and they make them bravely and willingly.

"To eat less," goes on the writer of the letter, "to wear old skirts, to work hard for little or nothing, what is that to complain about when the world tells us to 'go to it'? . . . There are no men left fit to work on the farms. The very young, the very old, with the help of the women must save the harvest. And they will do it!"

It is a gallant letter—the true expression of a woman of a great and gallant country. Men with mothers like that are unconquerable. And we Canadians must not be behind just because we have not felt the full brunt of the tyrant's blow. We must prove a gallant ally of these gallant women. We, too, must be self-forgetful, uncomplaining and ready for work.

And the work! There is so much to be done one does not know what to mention first. There is a labor of love waiting for every woman of Canada. There are thousands and thousands of socks to be knit for this winter campaign we are facing. There are hospital supplies to be sewn—miles of seams waiting for busy hands. There are boys of our own country whom the Germans will starve in their prisons if we do not feed them.

There must be no stain on either our time or our money. We must keep them bright and clean, a fit offering upon the altar of our country and our Empire.

MARION KEITH,
Press Secretary.

[Correspondents are requested to make their inquiries as brief as possible, and to write on one side of the paper only. It is impossible to give replies within a stated time, as all letters have to be answered in turn. No letter can be answered privately.]

Old-Time Songs.

Dear Miss Grey,—I noticed where "Job's Youngest Sister" asked for a song—"The Butcher Boy"—and as we used to sing it at home some years ago, I thought I would send it in. It has been years since we sang it, but I think I have written it correctly. I wonder, Miss Grey, if anyone could send me the words of an old song, namely "Katie Lee and Willie Gray"? From a FRIEND OF THE MAIL-BOX.

Constance's Gift.

"Constance."—Shall with pleasure forward your gift to "Aunt Nannie." It touches me deeply, too, to see how folks like yourself ever respond to needs like hers. My own earnest wish is that you may be completely restored to health ere long.

Wants Patterns, Too.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw where "Mother of Four" was giving someone a pattern of men's overalls, and I wondered if I would be presuming too much to ask her for one, too. Will be glad to help whenever I can. Would also like to get some "Black Watch" tobacco coupons if any of the Mail-Boxites would spare me any.

ANOTHER HAPPY MARRIED WOMAN.

Ans.—Your address will be sent to "Mother of Four," and I hope she will find time to cut a pattern for you, too.

Interested in Movies.

To the "Girl of the Limberlost": I was so glad to see one interested in "movie" lore in the Mail-Box town, as myself. I know a great deal about the motion-picture world. But as "G. O. T. L." has answered others, I wish she'd help me. Do you know Wallace Reid's age? He is my favorite actor. Tell me, is Pauline Frederick divorced? Has she been married more than once? If so, to whom?

Now, I'll be much obliged if you'll answer these questions, if you could, "Girl of the Limberlost." I'll sign myself, THE HARVESTER.

Ans.—Our "Limberlost Girl" will be only too pleased to answer, I know, if she has the information. Re your queries to me, "Harvester," I have never heard that writing such as yours was an indication of what you say. How would one of these do for the pup: "Minel," "King," "Fluff," "Jet," "Gip," "Fifi," "Tip," "Dinty," "Wink" or "Chad."

Removing Mole.

Dear Miss Grey,—I saw in the Mail-Box where someone asked if it was painful to remove moles by the electric needle. It just causes a little pricking sensation while they are operating. The mole dries up, and falls off, when the skin is healed under it. A little scar is left, which gradually disappears.

JUNE ASTER.

Ans.—Reader inquiring please note "June Aster's" kind reply.

Killing the Calves

—All sorts of excuses are offered for the high price of beef, the most plausible being the alleged demand for veal—"the killing of calves which should be allowed to grow into regular beef." You cannot have beef if you eat it as "veal," but you can have Shredded Wheat Biscuit which contains more real nutriment than beef and costs much less. Shredded wheat biscuit is the whole wheat steam-cooked, shredded and baked. Make it your "meat" for ten days and see how much better you feel. Wholesome and strengthening for any meal with milk or cream or in combination with fruits.

(All Rights Reserved.)

The six daily studies for this week constitute the International S. S. Lesson for next Sunday. Read the Bible Story on which this study is based, as you ponder the following questions:

17. Verse 22—What motives probably influenced Agrippa to want to hear Paul? (See Acts, xxvi., 28).

18. Knowing what you do of Paul, and his preaching, how do you account for the murderous hatred of the leaders of the Jews against him?

19. Is there any such spirit in any modern or present day ecclesiastical body, as animated the Jews against Paul? If so, please specify.

20. In what way do you consider that the words of Festus, to King Agrippa, when introducing the case of Paul, showed a true and noble spirit?

Lesson for Sunday, October 22, 1916: "Paul's Defence Before Agrippa." Acts, xxvi.

ENSEMBLE PRACTICE.

It is very important that every student wishing to accomplish great things in music should have opportunities of practice in ensemble work. This the Conservatory makes possible by means of orchestral practice, the study of concerted works, and frequent opportunities for singing and playing with other instruments and with other performers. This work is absolutely necessary to a well-developed musical education.

Is it Fair?

BELGIUM entered this war because she would not sell her honor to an overwhelmingly powerful neighbor.

Britain and Canada took up arms in defense of treaty obligations and simple justice. The Belgian motive is as noble and unselfish as our own.

Belgian troops are holding the line side by side with our own gallant lads, braving equal dangers—bearing equal hardships—straffing the common enemy.

But there the equality ends! We non-combatant Canadians are living in a land of plenty—well-fed, lacking no necessity, and indulging in many luxuries.

The Belgian mothers and children in millions are eking out a pitiable existence on the daily ration of three slices of bread and a pint of soup supplied by the Belgian Relief Commission.

Are we justified, before the bar of common humanity, in callously feasting ourselves while they endure near-starvation?

What have YOU done to relieve them?

$2.50 will feed a Belgian family a month! The average Canadian family would scarcely miss this sum. You yourself could probably spare several times this much monthly—feed several Belgian families—and be none the worse off!

Will you do it?

How many hairs has a Bear?

We doubt if there is any person in Canada who is not interested in Furs, and who does not admire their beauty, softness and warmth; but how many have ever thought of the great number of hairs required to cover a skin to produce this warmth and softness?

The actual number of hairs on any given skin can be actually determined by mathematics and an abundance of patience.

We have cut a piece out of a black bear skin, one inch square in size—have sealed and deposited it with the bank and are giving to the 64 persons who are nearest correct in their estimate of the actual number of hairs on that one square inch of black bear skin.

This contest is entirely free to every one who complies with the conditions, and we might frankly state that the sole object of this contest is to familiarize as many people in Canada as possible with the wonderful bargains they can secure in stylish guaranteed Furs and Fur garments, through Hallam's system of dealing direct "From Trapper to Wearer."

Just send today for a copy of the 1916-17 Edition of

on the back cover of which are full particulars of this Zoological contest.

This 1916-17 edition is a handsomely printed 32 page book—fully illustrates the latest styles and models of Fur Coats and Sets and will show you how you can save many dollars on furs. It will pay you to read it. Don't fail to send for it to-day and have a free chance of sharing this $300.00.

Pilot of World's Champions Declares He Is Finished With Baseball.

BOSTON, Oct. 13.—The Boston Americans today divided the winners' spoils of the world series, which they closed with a victory over the Brooklyn Nationals here yesterday. Under the apportionment decided upon by the players at a secret meeting, full shares of $3,82[illegible] each were given 22 players, including several who had figured but little in the team's success. The remainder of $97,756.47, which the team won, was given other substitutes and club employees. Heine Wagner and Vean Gregg received three-quarters of a share each, Wyckoff and Pennock divided one share, and Walsh, who came to the team only in the last month of the season, was allowed $1,000.

The meeting of the players was marked by the farewell of Manager William Carrigan to the team which he had piloted to world honor in two successive years. He said he was "through with baseball for all time." President Lannin, in bidding the players God-speed, however, said he was still hoping that Carrigan would return. George Foster, former crack pitcher, who suffered from a lame arm this season, notwithstanding he pitched a no-hit game, also announced his retirement.

Some of the Red Sox started in their motors today for trips that will take them to hunting reserves in Canada.

COLLEGIATE RUGBYISTS GO TO ST. THOMAS MONDAY

The collegiate rugby team will journey to St. Thomas Monday afternoon to take on the Railroad City collegians in a return game at St. Thomas on the field day. Captain Tom McDougall of the locals, who distinguished himself in the game here a week ago, states that a strong linup will make the trip and that London is out for another snow-under. The lads will leave here Monday afternoon in a special car and will take a crowd of rooters with them.

Western U. Rugby Squad Prepares for O. A. C. Game

Boys Are Practicing Hard for Battle With Aggies in the Royal City Next Saturday—Field Day Friday.

Although robbed of some of its best men the Western University rugby team will present a formidable line-up when it meets the husky aggregation of farmers from the O. A. C. in Guelph a week from today in the opening game of the season. The boys have been practicing hard this week and are gradually getting the kinks out of their systems. They will make the Aggies go the limit to win in the Royal City.

Art Smith Back.

Art Smith, who has been the star pigskin chaser of London teams for several years, is head chauffeur of the college machine, with Art Brickenden and Roy Kingswood as chief mechanics. The two Elgie boys, Bill and Goldie, will be among those present when the whistle blows for the first game, as will also Dad Pardy. The Med. freshmen have a bunch of cracking sturdy boys and things look good for a heavy line.

"Cap" Gandier at Helm.

The O. A. C. always has a good team and with "Cap" Gandier to train the farmers they can be counted upon to make the London crowd step right along to bring home the bacon. The next practice will be held Monday afternoon at Tecumseh Park, when the boys will go through a stiff workout.

The Western University field day will be held Friday afternoon in Tecumseh Park. The Meds. have a great array of athletes to trot out before the crowd, while the boys that follow the arts course are few in numoer, but long in the legs. It promises to be a big day.

With the Trotters and Pacers

[BY J. H. F.]

Lee Axworthy, 1:58¼, is the fastest stallion. Uhlan, 1:58, may lose his crown as the fastest trotter of the age, if the Axworthy horse is again turned around for a record.

The Real Lady is a regular lady at trotting. Imagine a 2-year-old stepping a second heat in 2:04¼. Some baby.

Volga was considered the prize thing in the infant classes, but The Real Lady has the call now. If the latter trains as a 3-year-old, a lot more records should go.

Lucile Spier, with a tin mark of 2:03¼, will take in the big stakes on the Grand Circuit next year. If right, she will make some of them step to records to beat her.

Murphy keeps on trying with Vanko, but he can't get him into the winning class, no matter how slow the time.

Mabel Trask can handle St. Frisco this year, and looks all over the best trotter unearthed this year in the big stakes. She will be the big money winner for 1916.

Zomrect, 2:03¼, is the fastest son of Zombro. He looks a pretty handy trotter right now.

Yedno, the Eastern Ontario pacer, has won a flock of races this year. Last week, she handled Frank Bogash and Lillian W. in a smashing five-heat race.

Nat Ray has won close to $6,000 this year with Dayspring. He looks good for the big time.

Dell Wood, who has taken to farming, turned around a nice trotter at the Dorchester Fair, a 4-year-old named Mona Heart, by Mograzia, by Moko, dam Cecil Heart by Greatest Heart. In a field of hobbled pacers, she was just nosed out. She is green at the racing game, but has manners and speed, and should show. Mr. Wood has quite a breeding establishment on his farm. He will race none of his colts, but others will do that for him.

Ray Biggs has placed a piano in the stable back of his undertaking establishment at Waukesha, Wis., for the sole accommodation of his horses. Mr. Biggs said, when he read a few months ago about a phonograph being used in a chicken coop to make chickens lay, he discredited the report, but now he has been convinced that music has a soothing effect on animals. One of the men employed at the stables plays the piano proficiently, and he verified Mr. Biggs's statement that when the horses came in with their nerves at high tension, they immediately become calm and complacent when the hear the soothing strains of a popular waltz. Mr. Biggs says he is thinking of placing a musical instrument in the stable on his farm northwest of the city, with the belief that it may have some effect on his cows when the milking hour approaches.

The Aul, a pacer by The Eel, given his early training by Dan McEwen, and known then as The Bum, has been turned around at Lexington and Columbus, but has not been in the money. The pace was apparently a trifle fast for the baby. He is being educated by Driver March for next year's campaign.

Dan McEwen will have a few horses shortly. A couple will arrive in a day or two, among them an Eel colt that is said to be some fast boy.

The future of Vanko will be watched with interest. Murphy must have hopes of his coming around, or he would not fuss with him so long. He apparently does not understand the horse.

GEORGE KENNEDY GIVES BOND FOR APPEARANCE

MONTREAL, Oct. 13.—George Kennedy, the sport promoter, visited the court house this afternoon and gave his personal bond for his appearance next Friday on the charge of promoting a prize fight, which was laid against him yesterday by John H. Roberts. Judge Lafontaine stated that he was willing to accept Kennedy's own bond in the matter.

JIM DUFFY OUTPOINTS SCOTT AT HAMILTON

Hamilton, Oct. 14.—Hamiltonians had their second glimpse of Jimmy Duffy of Lockport, N. Y., at the Arena last night, when he beat Pete Scott, the local welterweight, in every one of ten rounds. After the second round Duffy beat a tattoo on the Indian and set a dizzy pace that had his opponent in serious trouble at several stages. Scott put up a game bout, however, and rallied in the tenth.

Young Alter bested Jack McCracken in the main preliminary, while Cayuga, an Indian, and Maynard boxed a six-round draw.

BAN JOHNSTON PROMISES CHEAPER BALL GAMES

New York, Oct. 14.—Exorbitant prices for admission to future world's series baseball games will not be tolerated, declares President B. B. Johnson of the American League. "The world's series as conducted at present," said Mr. Johnson, before leaving last night for Chicago, "threatens to jeopardize the fair name of the game in public opinion. We can never stand for that. Baseball is clean; it must be kept clean. Year by year prices have advanced, which was never intended, and shoul' never be tolerated. There is some house-cleaning to be done, and it's going to start where the most dust of discontent has gathered.

"I have talked with my colleagues of the American League, and I am sure of their support. I think I can safely promise fandom on behalf of the American League that a scale of prices more just to the purse of the great general public which supports the game will prevail in the future."

BASEBALL OFF THE MAP, FOOTBALL HOLDS STAGE

New York, Oct. 14.—Football holds undisputed sway as the leading sport throughout the east today. The Princeton-Tufts game has the centre of interest in this section, owing to the victory of the latter over Harvard last week. Harvard has for its opponent the North Carolina eleven, which was beaten by Princeton, 27 to 0, last Saturday. These two games give a double chance for measuring the relative strength of the Princeton and Harvard elevens.

Other important games in the east include Yale vs. Lehigh; Pennsylvania vs. Swarthmore, and Cornell vs. Williams.

FAST TIME EXPECTED AT BIG CHICAGO AUTO RACE

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 14.—Fifteen thousand dollars will be distributed to those of the 21 automobile drivers who come within the prize list of the Great American automobile race, which is staged at the Speedway today. The race is over a distance of 250 miles. Fast time is expected, as several of the drivers have made the circuit of the two-mile bowl in tuning up trials at a rate of more than a hundred miles an hour.

Resta is picked by many Chicagoans as favorite, in view of the fact that he has won every event staged in this city during the current year.

Zocanno Announces Two Fast Bouts For Oct. 23

Jim Brady of Chicago and Baker Murray of Buffalo Will Go Ten Rounds at 133 Pounds—Forfeit Posted.

Matchmaker Tony Zoccano announced today that he has secured two fast boys to box ten rounds at the Masonic Temple on the evening of October 23. Jim Brady of Chicago, who is the undefeated champion featherweight of Michigan and the Northwest, will take on Baker Murray of Buffalo at 133 pounds, ringside.

Baker has fought some of the best lightweights in New York State, and is anxious to get a chance at Brady, who is out to add another win to his long string of victories. The latter has trimmed some of the fastest scrappers in the lightweight division, although only a featherweight, and is the winner of over one hundred ring battles. He has come through without a defeat. Brady has already deposited a forfeit with Zoccano that he will make the required weight. Several fast preliminaries will be staged.

Zoccano also announced that this would be the last boxing exhibition staged in London by him if the fans did not support the game better than they have in the past. Tony will put on bouts in Sarnia every Saturday night, starting at the end of the month.

TORONTO WILL NOT GET AMERICAN LEAGUE BALL

"Until Close of the War at the Earliest" —So Say Club Magnates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Discussion of the possibility of Toronto entering the American League, to replace an eastern club of that organization, was renewed when James J. McCaffery and J. Solman of the Toronto International League club conferred in this city today with President Ban B. Johnson of the American League. The Toronto magnates, after the conference, said it was not probable that such an honor would be conferred on Toronto "until the close of the war, at the earliest."

Carl Cline Wins Senior Collegiate Field Day Honors

Arthur Gillies and Harold Windrim Give Cline Run for Money.

Carl Cline, son of Dr. C. A. Cline of Queen's avenue, is senior athletic champion of the London collegiate institute for 1916-17. The announcement was made on Friday, following the running off of events that were not completed at the annual field day sports the previous week.

The senior championship was the only one remaining in doubt and Cline copped the honors with three points to the good. Arthur Gillies with a score of sixteen points was the runner-up, while Harold Windrim made a close third, being only one point behind Gillies.

CARD TO THE CHIEF.—Chief Police W. T. T. Williams received a postcard today from Lieut. Joe Walters showing a member of the Royal Guard and telling the chief that he found the members of the guard to be just as the chief had described.

GREEK KING PLOTS AGAINST ENTENTE, DIPLOMAT CHARGES

Says Rumania's End Will Come Within Fifteen Days.

FEARS A GERMAN DRIVE

Royalist Plot To Co-operate With Kaiser Unearthed At Athens.

London, Oct. 14.—"When a high diplomatic personage besought King Constantine to change his policy," says the Daily Telegraph's Athens correspondent, "the king replied:

"'I prefer to lose my throne rather than endanger Greece. I am convinced that in fifteen days Rumania will exist no more. If Greece went into the war, then, after the conquest of Rumania, the irresistible German forces would be directed against Greece, and she would share the fate of Serbia and Rumania.'"

King in Plot Against Entente.

According to Athens dispatches received here, the Entente Allies sent their ultimatum to Greece because they had unearthed a royalist plot to fight the Entente. It was planned, the dispatches add, that if the Allies should seek to coerce Greece into joining the war, and try to force Eliotherios Venizelos upon King Constantine, the king should retire northward along the railway, taking the troops with him, and concentrate at Trikala, in Thessaly, and lie entrenched there until the arrival of the German army, when he would strike in unison with them at the Allies.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—"Admiral Dufournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet," says a Reuter dispatch from Athens, "yesterday addressed a complimentary note to the Greek Government, demanding on behalf of the Allies the control of the Greek police, the prohibition of Greek citizens from carrying arms, the stoppage of sending war munitions to Thessaly and the lifting of the embargo on the transportation of Thessalian wheat. The Greek cabinet sat with the chief of the general staff until midnight discussing the note. The council was resumed in the morning, when all the demands of Admiral Dufournet were accepted.

"The British minister here has visited M. Zaiocostas, the new Greek foreign minister, whereby the Entente recognizes the new Greek cabinet.

KING TO FORM ARMY CORPS OF NAVAL MEN.

ATHENS, Oct. 12.—Via London, Oct. 13.—(Delayed.)—King Constantine has decided to turn the men of the navy into an army corps. The officers and crews of the ships which were delivered over to the Entente Allies are being formed into a regiment.

THREE GERMAN SOLDIERS CAUGHT AS STOWAWAYS

Escaped From French Prison Camp and Boarded Ship for States.

[Canadian Press.]

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 14.—Nearly dead from exhaustion three German soldiers who had escaped from a French internment camp and had boarded a steamer bound from Bordeaux to Newport News, were discovered in the coal bunker of the ship and were turned over to the military authorities here today. They were suspected of being on the steamer, which was held at Bordeaux for two days, while a search was made for them, but without success. Two days after leaving port another search was made for the men as it was thought they were in the coal bunkers. Some of the crew dug for them and the men were discovered among the coal. They had their faces blackened, their eyes covered with lumps of coal which they had evidently placed there when they found they were near detection. Alongside of them were loaves of bread which were blackened from the coal. There was also found a can to which a string was attached, which they used through the bilge exhaust to obtain water while at Bordeaux.

BETTER CONDITIONS SOON IN MEXICO, SAYS WILSON

But It Is Not Yet Safe to Withdraw the Troops.

[Canadian Press.]

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 14.—President Wilson, in a letter to Governor Whitman of New York, sent October 9, and made public here today, declared that the emergency which caused the sending of the militia to the Mexican border "unhappily still exists." He added, however, that he believed conditions in Northern Mexico are improving and that "in the near future," it probably will be possible to "do more than has been done to relieve the embarrassments under which organized militia regiments have necessarily suffered."

The president, in his letter, which was a reply to one from the governor regarding the New York militia organizations on the borders, declared he had been advised by the war department that a withdrawal of the militia at any time since they were sent to the border "would in all human likelihood have been followed by fresh aggressions from Mexico upon the lives and property of the people of the United States.

DENY RAILWAY COMPANY DESIRED NIAGARA LINK

Part of Plan to Bring Canadian Northern From Toronto to Borden.

[Canadian Press.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 14.—The public service commission today denied application of the Niagara and Eastern Railway Company for permission to connect the Buffalo, Lockport and Rochester Company's line with the Niagara frontier at a point where it is proposed to build a new international bridge across the Gorge at Devil's Hole. The prevailing opinion in which all but Commissioner Emmett concurred, held that the possibility of consummating the connection across the Gorge is too remote to be considered in the present application.

The road was suggested as a connecting link in a proposed new continental line involving the extension of the Canadian Northern from its eastern terminus at Toronto to the Niagara frontier.

WHEN PEOPLE RIDE IN MOTOR CARS

Watch the expressions on the faces of a motoring party when a street car slowly starts up and blocks their crossing—perhaps for four seconds. Mother frowns; the children kick the footrest in rage; the impressions of a row of gritted teeth are along father's jaw, and he shakes his fist as if he had just heard that his cashier had sneaked away from his office with $1,875,-943.52.

Why this hurry, good people When you drove a buggy fifteen years ago you were well content to draw up for two or three minutes to permit the horse to switch a fly.

High-speed men and women, your place is on the race-track. Public roads are for motorists, not for speed nuts. We are building a whole series of nice speedways all over the country for you. Here you may hit it up, chasing your tail-light to your heart's content, and people may pay to see you do it.

All new motorists should consider what a mule-headed, dangerous fool is the speed fan. He has no place of glory. Each day he becomes more unpopular. Let's push him off every road!

WORTH THE CAREFUL DRIVER'S EYE

When making motor adjustments it is usually necessary to exercise a little patience in order to get the best results, for the reason that the effects of adjustments are not always instantly apparent. In carburetter adjustments, for instance, the motor must be given a little time to feel the changes made, and the results obtained immediately following the turn of a needle valve or an air valve spring may be misleading.

The practice of driving in ruts will wear out a tire faster than any other individual bad habit. Obviously, this method of driving exposes to wear the part of the tire least calculated to bear it. The main strength of the tire lies in the tread. The side walls are made comparatively thin, because wear on them is not expected, and yet, by running in ruts, that is exactly where the hardest wear falls.

When installing tire chains it is not advisable to have them too tight. If the chains are held in a fixed position the tread of the tire is apt to be loosened at these points. If the chain is slightly loose it will work around to different positions and will cause less injury to the tread.

Do not dash up to the place where you intend to stop, and then set the brakes as hard as you can. It wears the brakes needlessly and strains the tires. It may even cause the wheels to lock and slide on one spot on the tire. Careful motorists gauge the momentum and bring the car to rest with only a gentle pressure on the service brake.

If your motor is growing noisy look at the valve tappets. If the adjustments are loose, the space widens, and the valve-lifter gives a hammer blow on the valve-stem. Adjust the space to the thickness of a visiting card while the engine is cold. When motor heats up the valve-stem lengthens, and takes up nearly all the clearness, making but little noise, if any.

When removing any part of a mechanism mark parts who come together, so that there will be no mistake in replacing them. When you take off a nut replace it on the stud, so that it will not be necessary to hunt for it when wanted. The usual practice of dumping everything into a box is a bad one, as it takes too long to sort out nuts and bolts when parts are to be replaced.

Remember always to apply the brakes gently. When brakes are jammed hard it puts a severe strain on the tires, and may cause one wheel to lock and slide, wearing the tread at that point. Judge your distance and momentum, and stop by using brakes as little as possible.

If engine is missing explosions, and you suspect the magneto, try this simple test: Disconnect the lead wires to the spark plugs and set the ends one-eighth to one-half inch from some metallic part of the engine. Spin engine and see if spark jumps from the wires. If no spark jumps, the magneto is at fault.

Grant Six "Reverses Nine and One-Half Miles Up Mount Wilson.

How a 1917 Grant Six "reversed" up nine and one-half miles of narrow, winding road to the cloud-covered top of Mount Wilson, in California, should interest even a stunt-satisfied automobile public. Coming right on the heels of the Pike's Peak Hill climb and the New York to Boston High Gear Test, this is remarkable all-around testimony to the efficiency of the Grant Six.

The Belkins-Spear Automobile Company of Los Angeles has just wired the Grant Motor Car Corporation that W. B. Felix of Los Angeles turned the Mount Wilson trick, thereby subjecting the Grant Six to what probably is the most wonderful cooling and lubricating test ever made.

The Grant Six started at sea level and backed up the tortuous mountain over a continuously winding road, including 120 turns and 19 per cent grades, at which it is absolutely impossible to get any kind of a run.

The altitude of Mount Wilson is 6,000 feet. At this elevation a motor has not the same power as at sea level. At sea level water boils at 212 degrees Fahrenheit; at 6,000 feet above, water will "boil over" at 190 degrees. In the Grant Six trip up Mount Wilson on reverse gear, the water did notb oil at any stage—a tribute to the cooling and lubricating system used by the Grant.

Mount Wilson is the highest mountain in California. The Mount Wilson road originally was a trail, and was widened into a road to take telescopes up to the observatory at the top. Along its nine and one-half miles of turns and twists, it's a track road all the way, and there are only sixty-five places from bottom to top where it is possible to pass another car.

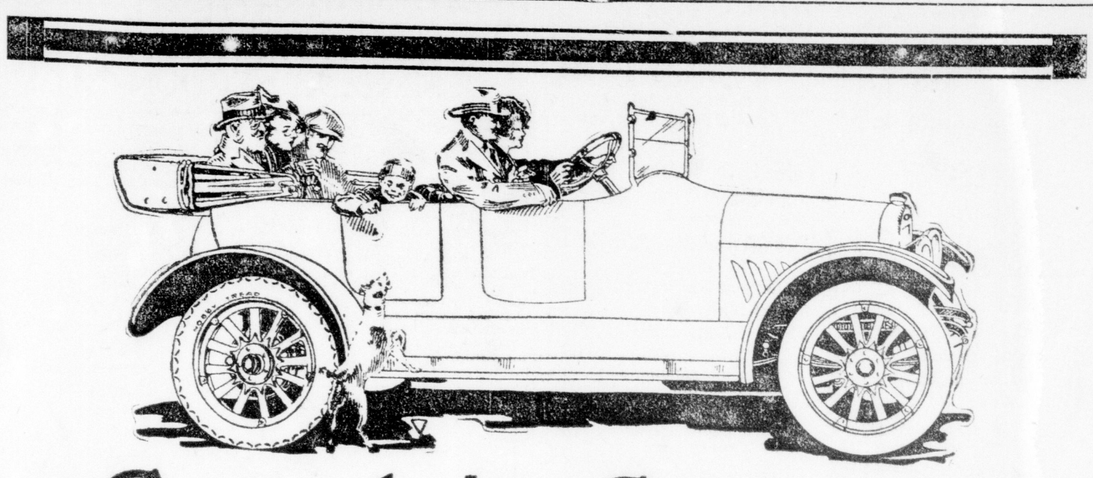

On the whole grade there's not 100 yards of straight-away road. In five places the grade is 19 per cent.

The "Devil's Elbow" turn, about two miles up, is the worst. This turn is so bad that it has been boarded, and it is impossible to come out of it at a greater speed than five miles an hour after going into it at twenty. On one stretch of one and a half miles the grade averages 15 per cent about every 75 yards.

Two recent performances can be compared with the Grant's Mount Wilson climb on reverse.

One is the Pike's Peak climb, when the Grant Six triumphed over all competitors in class "E" (piston displacement 230 inches and under), and was only four minutes behind the winner—a car with a special engine. In this contest the Grant Six defeated cars of much higher price.

The other performance was the New York to Boston run on high gear all the way, with the first and second gears removed and the mechanism officially sealed. The run was made in record time and, official investigation showed, in perfect condition.

PAY A LITTLE MORE AND GET

A LOT MORE

Don't put a mortgage on your judgment in buying a car.

There's many a man who paid too low a price for his car—and lived to regret the day.

We are not saying anything against low-priced cars. There are a number of good ones. They do the job well.

We are trying to get people to get a bird's-eye view of the motor car situation instead of a worm's-eye view.

Sometimes by paying a hundred or two hundred more you get $500 extra value.

We refer now to the 1917 3400 r. p. m. Chalmers. Here's a car that has been run more than 1,000,000 miles in the hands of owners, yet attained a service record of 99.21 per cent perfect.

That is the mark of a great car. And though it costs possibly a little more than you ever paid for a car before—remember that extra little sum gets you from the zone of a fair car to the zone of a great car.

It is not only money in your pocket in the long run, but pride everywhere you drive. There's a pleasant and interesting satisfaction in driving a regular car.

The big Chalmers plant at Walkerville is turning out the cars for Canada, and puts us in a position to satisfy all Chalmers owners in the matter of service.

Prices—5-passenger Touring, $1475; 2-passenger Roadster, $1475; 3-passenger Cabriolet, $1900; 7-passenger Touring, $1775. All f. o. b. Walkerville.

Magical Effect of Simple Face Peeler

To maintain a clear, white, youthful complexion, there's nothing so simple to use and yet so effective as ordinary mercolized wax, which you can get at any drug store. Just apply the wax at night as you would cold cream. In the morning wash it off with warm water. If you've never tried it you can't imagine the magical effect of this harmless home treatment. It causes the old worn-out scarf skin to come off in minute particles, a little at a time, and soon you have entirely shed the offensive cuticle. The fresh young underskin now in evidence is so healthy and girlish looking, so free from any appearance of artificiality you wonder why you had not heard of this marvelous complexion-renewing secret long ago.

Equally magical in its action is a simple wrinkle-removing lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. Bathing the face in this for two or three minutes immediately affects every line and furrow and improves facial contour wonderfully.—Advt.

DRINK WATER TO AVOID SICKNESS SAYS AUTHORITY

Glass of hot water before breakfast daily keeps the doctor away.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides with results that are of untold blessing to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

TEUTONS FLEE AS RUMANIANS TURN TO STEM INVASION

Forced To Retreat at Two Points in Transylvania.

VICTORY NEAR KRONSTADT

Artillery and Infantry Engaged at Many Points on a Long Front.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—At two points in Southern Transylvania the Rumanians have turned on the Teutonic forces, repulsing attacks and forcing retreat. The official statement issued at Bucharest today says:

"Quiet reigns at Eratoce. At Sousaiu, west of Predeal (south of Kronstadt), and at Predeal, the enemy has been repulsed, and has retreated to Timos. At Guivala there were patrol engagements.

"At Caineni there were artillery actions. West of Caineni we repulsed a night attack of the enemy. In the valley of the Jiul and at Orsova (on the Danube) there were artillery actions.

"Southern Front: There were artillery duels and infantry fighting all along the Danube.

"In Dobrudja quiet reigns."

Berlin Claims Victories.

The official communication issued at Berlin says the Rumanians have been expelled from further portions of Transylvania, and are being pursued by the Austro-German forces. The region is a strip of territory in Eastern Transylvania paralleling the Rumanian frontier. It includes the Gyergyo and Mazek valleys and the Lower and Upper Csik.

According to the official communication from Sofia Bulgarian troops in Eastern Rumania have made a small advance, capturing a village. The announcement follows:

"Along the Danube there was local patrol skirmishing.

"The situation in Dobrudja is unchanged. An advanced Bulgarian detachment dislodged the enemy from Nutkovo, and occupied the village.

"A squadron of seaplanes on October 10 attacked Constanza, causing great fires in the oil tanks in the harbor."

CONSTANZA RAIDED.

BERLIN, Oct. 13.—Via Wireless to Tuckerton.—A successful attack by German naval aeroplanes upon Russian transports in the Rumanian harbor of Constanza, on the Black Sea, is reported in an admiralty statement issued under date of October 12, as follows:

METHODISTS TO RAISE $800,000 FOR MISSIONS

TORONTO, Oct. 13. — The general board of missions of the Methodist Church decided today upon a great advance policy, which will take eighteen months to fully work out. A financial objective of $800,000 in the church year of 1917-18 was fixed upon, and this year the church, as a whole, will be thoroughly organized in order to prepare for this great increase. It is an advance of $150,000 over the amount now raised.

A simultaneous missionary campaign throughout all Canada and an "every-Methodist" canvass will take place next fall after a year's thorough organization. The officers of the missionary society were requested to present a statement to the next meeting of the annual conference.

Magic "Nerviline" Cures Toothache, Earache

It Relieves Every External Pain.

Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Tight Chest and Hoarseness.

It's when sickness comes at night, when you are far from the druggist or the doctor, that's when you need Nerviline most. Experienced mothers are never without it. One of the children may have toothache. Without Nerviline —a sleepless night for the entire household. With Nerviline the pain is relieved quickly. It may be earache, perhaps a stiff neck, or one of the kiddies coughing with a bad chest cold. Nothing can give quicker results than vigorous rubbing with this old-time, family remedy.

Nerviline is too useful, too valuable to be without. For lumbago, lame back, sciatica or neuralgia there is no liniment with half of Nerviline's power to penetrate and ease the pain.

As a family safeguard, as something to ward off sickness and to cure the minor ills that will occur in every family, to cure pain anywhere, you can find nothing to compare with old-time Nerviline, which for forty years has been the most widely-used family remedy in the Dominion. The most economical size is the large, 50-cent family-size bottle; small, trial size, 25 cents. All dealers sell Nerviline.

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 Per Cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eyestrain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses, and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear, I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time, and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note.—Another prominent physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists, and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances, or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Standard Drug and W. T. Strong sell it.

GERMANS CANNOT AGAIN SHAKE THE FRENCH FORCES DEFENDING VERDUN CITADEL

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Gen. Nivelle, commander of the French forces at Verdun, in talking with Walter Hale, an artist, and H. O. Beatty, director-general of the American relief clearing house of New York, at his headquarters during the shelling of German trenches by the French on Tuesday, remarked that the French were throwing more than one hundred shells to one thrown by the Germans, and that soon they will be doing better than that. The defender of Verdun said that his army had had its bitter struggles but that now, if there should be an attack, it would be broken by the French.

Beatty and Hale watched the cannonade for two hours at night from the ramparts of Verdun. They also spent a night in the citadel at Verdun with Gen. Petain, commander of the French forces in the Soissons-Verdun region, with whom they also had lunch. Gen. Petain thanked Dr. Beatty for the gift of 50,000 francs by the American relief clearing house. The general said he intended to use the money in purchasing artificial legs and arms for the mutilated soldiers of his army. The French commander said he deeply appreciated the open-hearted charity of the American people.

GERMANS ARE LEARNING ALLIES MEAN BUSINESS

Words of Asquith and Lloyd George Are Sinking In.

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 13.—Commenting on the speeches in the British House of Commons by Premier Asquith and War Secretary David Lloyd George, in which they declared the war must be continued to a finish, the Lokal Anzeiger of Berlin says:

"So we know it now for the hundredth time and shall take measures accordingly. We too must provide for the future of our people and shall not relax our efforts until they are guaranteed against all designs of our enemies to strangle them.

"As Mr. Asquith has had to admit, it is not so simple a matter to conquer us; but the fighting must go on because the interests of the island empire demand it. Well, then, we shall take care that the heart of the British lion shall yet learn to know fear."

"Along the Struma there was considerable activity by reconnoitering detachments. An attempt of two hostile battalions to advance against Barakli-Juma under protection of violent artillery fire was shattered by our fire. The enemy's long range guns shelled Seres, killing many inhabitants.

Because of the War

we are compelled to make this announcement.

The leading merchants of Canada have this year given us more and larger orders for "CEETEE" underclothing than ever before in our history.

Yet we find it impossible to fill them promptly for two reasons: one, lack of raw materials (finest Merino yarns); the other, scarcity of specially qualified labor.

The Raw Material

difficulty is due partly to the fact that all the yarn-spinning factories in the Old Country are under the supervision of the British Government, and the bulk of their yarn is required for clothing for the men of the great Navy, the Empire's bulwark, and for Kitchener's great Army—consequently we can only secure what can be spared from the overplus, if any.

We can buy plenty of "Merino Wool," and good Merino Wool at that, but not of the quality we have always used and intend to always use for "CEETEE" Garments.

Indeed, we would rather not make any at all than lower the quality.

Then partly to the difficulty of securing ships to carry the wool in.

The Labor Scarcity

is caused partly from the fact that the knitters or operators on the "Special Machines" (the only machines of their kind in Canada used for underclothing) required for "CEETEE" are specially trained and almost "bred" to the work—family after family for generations being trained in this special line—consequently when many of our employees joined the colors they could not be replaced, as it is impossible to secure new workers from Scotland or the Old Country owing to even a much greater need for them over there, where they are "doing their bit" by making underclothing for the Army and Navy.

We do not complain, in fact would cheerfully lose all our business if it would assist the Allies in bringing this great fight for civilization, liberty and democracy to an earlier close.

We felt it our duty, however, to frankly explain the situation to the Canadian public and ask them to order their "CEETEE" Winter Underclothing from their dealers EARLY if they wish to be sure of getting it—and to be patient with us if they do not secure it promptly

Very truly yours, (Signed) President

THE C. TURNBULL CO., OF GALT, Limited

GALT, ONTARIO, Manufacturers of

Finer-Knitted and Lighter Underclothing the Warmest

The following item will show that the British Government are now recognizing a fact that we have always been proclaiming.

The Principal of Hawick Technical Institute, Scotland, recently stated as follows:—

"Owing to the lack of sufficient numbers of coarse gauge frames on which to make military garments, the mill-ties have been compelled to consider the acceptance of garments of a FINER class.

"The results in point of comfort for the men have been so satisfactory that it is very unlikely that there will be a general acceptance of coarse fabrics, as in the past. . . . . It has been discovered that in using the coarse types of woollen yarns, made from wool of thick fibre and of small heat-retaining property—the men are carrying weight WITHOUT CORRESPONDING INCREASED WARMTH.

"Indeed, it is found that for warmth and comfort, BETTER RESULTS are obtained from finer fibred materials, while the freedom of movements of the limbs is very much increased.

"The recent increase in the demand for FINER YARNS FOR MILITARY GOODS will certainly be permanent."

The extra warmth of "CEETEE" Underclothing, which is now a recognized fact, is due to the above facts. Not only is it made from the finest and purest Australian Merino Wool, but it is knitted closer, thus producing lighter weight, with greater warmth and freedom.

All joins have selvage edges and are KNITTED, NOT SEWN together. Thus there are no seams to ravel or irritate.

A "CEETEE" garment is so soft a baby can wear it.

Furthermore, a "CEETEE" garment WILL NOT SHRINK, and this is guaranteed.

None Like it in Canada

The unique distinction of being the only underwear of its kind made in Canada belongs to "CEETEE," the pure wool underclothing that will not shrink.

"CEETEE" UNDERCLOTHING is knitted on special machines that automatically shape it to fit the human form, by adding or reducing stitches as required.

This is what makes "CEETEE" so comfortable on the body.

They are then put through a special secret process, which makes them so that they will not shrink.

So confident are we in this secret process that we absolutely guarantee to replace, free of charge, any garment that shrinks.

This well-known brand of pure wool underclothing is made on special machines, used exclusively by us.

These machines are the only ones of their kind in Canada used for making underwear.

When the agent of the British Government came to Canada, looking for underclothing for the army, these were the only machines in Canada that could make the goods up to the standard of the samples he brought with him.

Now, ordinary underwear is knitted on circular machines, in different widths, to suit the various sizes of the body. They are then cut into proper-sized lengths for vests, drawers or combinations—sleeves sewn in and seams sewn together.

These are good garments, and we make a lot of them, the finest of their kind, and have done so for sixty years.

But for people who are particular and can afford to pay for them, we manufacture our "CEETEE" UNDERCLOTHING, which will compare favorably with any garment the world over.

The firm of Turnbull's has been established in Canada since 1858, and has grown from a small water-power mill to one of the largest plants of its kind in Canada.

HEAVY BATTLES ALONG ALL OF ITALIAN FRONT

Austrians Defeated in Trentino and on Carso Plateau.

NEW POSITIONS TAKEN

Cadorna's Men Advancing to Foe' Second Line on Carso.

ENEMY'S LOSSES HEAVY

Over Four Hundred Dead Are Found on Front of One Battalion.

ROME, Oct. 13, via London.—In the Pasubio region of the Trentino, Italian troops have taken strong Austrian positions between Sette Crocf and Monte Roite, says the official statement issued by the war office today. Austrian attacks in the same region were driven back, it is added. Italian troops, the statement says, also have made considerable progress on the Carso plateau, where there has been heavy fighting during the last few days. The statement follows:

"In the Pasubio region we drove back some bomb attacks between Monte Spil and Monte Corno, and also on the southern slopes of Monte Roite. Our troops then took strong enemy positions between Sette Croci and Monte Roite, making some progress in spite of the difficulties of the terrain and the obstinate resistance encountered. We captured 32 prisoners.

"In the Posina valley (Trentino), there were artillery actions. Some small encounters also took place, ending in our favor. On the Ponte Bana torrent, in the Fella valley (Carnic Alps), hostile artillery bombarded our positions heavily, but did no damage.

Austrian Attacks Repulsed.

"On the Julian front there was violent artillery activity. During the night of October 12-13 and yesterday morning, the enemy launched further heavy counter-attacks, especially at Sober, near Gorizia, south of Novavilla and towards Point 144 on the Carso. They were all driven off with heavy losses. On the front of one battalion alone near Sober 400 enemy dead were buried.

"During the afternoon our forces on the Carso captured positions between the first enemy line, which we already held, and the second. On the slopes of Monte Pecina, the first house of Loc Vizza and Hudilog were reached. We captured 400 prisoners, including ten officers.

"Enemy aircraft bombarded Grado and other points on the lower Isonzo. Above Gorizia a hostile aeroplane was driven down, and it fell near San Marco."

LOBO AND CARADOC FAIR.

ILDERTON, Oct. 13.—The rural school fair of the Lobo and Caradoc schools, which was held on Monday, drew immense crowds from the district. Eight Lobo schools and two Caradoc schools competed.

In many respects the fair was equal in the quality of the exhibits to the larger fairs. The competition in live stock was keen and great interest was taken during the judging. In the heavy colt class Master Ferguson had a fine colt, and in the shorthorn class Master Mitchell had a heifer which would be a prize winner at any fair. The poultry exhibit raised from bred-to-lay Rocks was fine, first prize being won by Miss Irene Stewart, S. S. No. 7. The exhibit in the large fruit show was unique. Master Gibson took first in apples. The large tent was crowded in the afternoon. During the speaking competition in the hall great interest was shown and the addresses were good. One on "Red Clover," by Master Cutler of Coldstream, made the district representatives present sit up and take notice. The competition in the races was keen, and about evenly divided between the different schools. The trustees' 100-yard race was a record-breaker, Howard Zavitz winning, with D. McNeil a close second. The parents of Lobo seem to believe in the usefulness of the school fair, judging by the attendance and interest taken. The Ladies' Institute sold lunches and coffee and boys and girls were busy selling Red Cross buttons, all for Red Cross work.

HUN BLACKMAIL POLICY

Recent Sub Raids Attempt To Drive Bargain With the United States.

LONDON, Oct. 13.—The operations of the German submarine U-53 off the American coast raises no new issues as far as the British Government is concerned, in the opinion of Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, who discussed today with the Associated Press the latest developments in the relations between Great Britain and the United States. Lord Robert Cecil declared that this form of warfare on merchantmen violated international law as it was recognized by Great Britain and the United States in the days before the war, and was still objectionable to Great Britain, but no more so than when it is done on this side of the water.

Replying to the charge that Great Britain is violating its equal treatment provisions of the Anglo-American treaty of commerce and navigation of 1815 by granting licenses to Japanese and French exporters while refusing permits to American shippers for similar goods, Lord Robert Cecil said that such restrictions were in the hands of the board of trade, but that he was personally of the opinion that such treaties lost validity during a state of war.

Germany's Logic.

Continuing, the minister of war trade said: "German public opinion appears to be obsessed with the idea that the way to deal with the Allied blockade is to have a succession of sudden crises with neutrals which may be used for striking diplomatic bargains. These bargains, in the mind of Germany, always take one form: that Germany is to refrain from violating international law and humanity in return for the abandonment by Great Britain as towards neutrals of the legitimate military and naval measures of the Allies.

"In the last few weeks there has been a recrudescence of this idea in Germany, coupled with a good deal of talk of peace and mediation, and the press of the whole world is now engaged in conjecturing that the submarine activity off the coast of the United States is the first step in a new attempt at a bargain of this kind. It is an ingenious idea, but it does not have the advantage of being novel among nations. It has been the usual device resorted to from time to time by militarist governments which have substituted might for right. Napoleon tried it with his Milan decress, and it failed then, as it will fail now.

Also Called Blackmail.

"The whole of the recent German foreign policy has proceeded on the same principle. Kiao-Chau, Agadir, the mailed fist and shining armor are examples of the international procedure. In private life it is called blackmail. It may be well to say at once in answer to these German ideas of international diplomacy that the sinking of ships off Nantucket is precisely calculated to prove at once the danger of any concessions by the Allies and the injustice of the many American criticisms levelled against our naval and military measures.

"Three weeks ago Americans might have argued that the presence of British cruisers in American waters just outside the three-mile limit was, in view of the present stage of the war, merely a petty annoyance. What has happened is a sufficient commentary on that argument. Again, Americans have suggested that our trading with the enemy regulation and our refusal to allow British goods to go to certain firms in America is also petty and unnecessary.

Deutschland's Cargo.

"That sounded reasonable a week before the Deutschland appeared in an American harbor, but when we tell you that the Deutschland took on board in America certain vitally necessary metals, of which there is a serious shortage in Germany for munition purposes, and that there is reason to believe these particular metals were a part of the small stock mined in allied territory, you will see again how important it is that we should take precautions to prevent allied property getting into the hands of those who we know will use it to help our enemies. We can only do this by preventing British subjects at home trading with firms that will help the enemy with supplies obtained from us.

"It would be all very well if we could sit down at any moment and say the war has settled down into certain known channels. But war never does that. War is a continued succession of unexpected strokes. Recent events have shown that even American waters are not outside the area of war.

Concessions Might Be Fatal.

"Any concessions made by the Allies in regard to their war measures—the abandonment of the defensive armament of their merchantmen, the withdrawal of their cruisers from certain parts of the high seas, the allowing of stocks of materials needed by Germany to accumulate in the United States from British territory without some kind of assurance that they will not reach the enemy, the export of British material to firms known to be in sympathy with our enemies—all these things might at any moment assist the German armies in the field to prolong the war and, even in the extreme case, jeopardize our success.

"By the enterprises of the Moewe, the Deutschland and the U-53 and the continued carefully prepared conspiracies in the east, conducted through territories of the United States and by organized outrages against American factories and Canadian public works, Germany has gone out of her way to prove there is no point at which the Allies can safely abandon, in any part of the world, the measures which they are entitled to take under their national rights and under the laws of war."

BOTH LEGS BROKEN.

Paris, Oct. 14.—Norman Prince of Boston, sergeant-major in the Franco-American Aviation Corps, who was decorated for distinguished services last week, has been wounded. Both Prince's legs are broken, but his condition is reported satisfactory.

Prince is a Harvard graduate who gave up a law practice to volunteer for service with the Allies.

Prof. Mulveney's World Famous Remedy

Is Saving People's Lives in All Parts of the World, While the Professor Sits in His Office, Where You Are Invited to Call, at 167 Dundas St., Toronto, and Be Convinced of This Fact. The Indisputable Evidence to Be Seen, the Result of What His Remedy Has Done for Suffering Humanity, Removes All Doubt. It Would Be Wise to Save this for Future Reference.

Doctors Prescribe Prof. Mulveney's Tape Worm Remedy the evidence of which may be seen at his office

How People Feel When They Have TAPEWORM

TAPE WORM.

Tape worm is bred from a parasite. This parasite is a creature male and female in one. It is a pear shape, having two, four and six suckers. It lays the eggs, which are only connected together with slime. They develop and form a body, which is the worm. Each joint is an individual, having a sucker or mouth. The worm grows to be much longer than the bowels where it is located, and sometimes a whole colony of them are found, enough to fill a quart of solid worm, and when put in a bucket of water would apparently fill it. It is the hardest task in the world to destroy this parasite without doing injury to the individual who may be so unfortunate as to have it, as the parasite clings to the bowels, freeing itself from the body of the worm, and remains there to breed another. It is an internal demon and causes its victim to suffer all the symptoms of disease imaginable. The cleverest physicians are led to believe the patient is suffering from some other disease, as nearly every person has different symptoms. Some have been treated for cancer of the bowels, consumption of the lungs, chronic dyspepsia, nervous prostration, melancholia, hypochondria, hysteria, inflammation of the bowels, appendicitis and other complaints, when one or more of these internal demons were eating their lives away.

Prof. Mulveney has made the discovery to free the victim of this monster without injury to the system, destroying the parasite as well as expelling the worm with one dose of medicine, without any previous starvation. Visit his office, where he has in his possession the most wonderful collection of these death-dealing monsters in the world, which have been expelled from hundreds of people by his famous remedy, some bottles containing colonies of worms, and anyone seeing them cannot imagine how a person could possibly live with them in his bowels. It is surprising the number of people that have them. Thousands have them and are not aware of the fact. The letters and testimonials the Professor has in his possession are enough to convince us of this alarming fact. Some of the most prominent symptoms are: Ravenous appetite, dizzy spells, headaches, cramps in the bowels, a feeling of something moving in the bowels, also a feeling as though something was crawling up the throat. The only certainty of having one in the system is when segments or joints are seen, which come away almost any time. They are flat and from three-quarters of an inch to one inch long, which have often been mistaken for pin worms by those who do not know the difference. There are many other feelings of distress which would take too long to enumerate. Strange to say some people of strong constitution have very little distress.

Prof. Mulveney's world-famous Tape Worm Exterminator is safe, sure and harmless. No starvation, no danger, is not disagreeable to take. One dose nearly always effects a cure. Mother's Friend For Sick Children

CURES STOMACH AND PIN-WORMS
BUT IS NOT FOR TAPEWORMS

This valuable medicine expels Stomach and Pin Worms. It is not only valuable as a Worm Medicine, but is an excellent Tonic, Physic and Appetizer; strengthens the Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, and has stopped some of the worst cases of Wetting the Bed. Many children that were wasted away to a shadow have been built up and made healthy and well from its use, and their mothers made happy. Good for Coughs and Colds; also checks Fever, and is useful in cases of Whooping Cough, Measles, or scarlet fever. It is a real mother's Friend, and gains its name from restoring sick children to health and quietness

MOTHER'S FRIEND

This valuable medicine is working wonders in all cases of sickness among children. I have one case in mind just now of a little girl eleven years old, who had been treated for over four years without any marked improvement, in fact, she got worse all the time. Her case seemed to puzzle the physicians in attendance, and they finally agreed that an operation on the stomach would be necessary to find out what was the matter. Her father, being opposed to an operation, called and got a bottle of Mother's Friend. He told me his little girl was in almost a hopeless condition, that she measured 38 inches around the stomach and her body wasted away to skin and bones; her arms no larger than a broomstick; she was a beautiful, patient child, with a lovely disposition. To make a long story short, Mother's Friend took away the enlarged condition of the stomach, built her up, so as she was able to go to school, which was, of course, a surprise to everyone in their neighborhood, and her mother and father made happy.

Another case comes to my memory of a baby about two years old. The mother brought her to me in her arms. She was wasted away to a living skeleton, and was a pitiable looking sight. This case was beyond all reasonable hope of recovery. I thought, well, your faith is great if you ever expected this child to get well. She purchased a bottle of Mother's Friend, and took it home, used it, and the little one was relieved of scores of worms of different kinds. It was about three months after when this lady brought the little one with her to my office. She was after another bottle of Mother's Friend for her own children and another for one of her neighbors she had recommended it to. I did not recognize either the lady or the child until she told me of the circumstances. She said: "Do you not remember me bringing a baby in my arms, all skin and bones? This is her; isn't she a fine, healthy child now? No one would have believed it. Worms was the trouble. She got rid of scores of worms. Now you can see for yourself what a fine, healthy child she is. Just look at the rosy cheeks!"

About nine o'clock one night a lady called for a bottle of Mother's Friend. She said her little boy had been taking fits for 24 hours, and the doctor had given him up with brain fever. She had asked a lady friend to call in and look at him, and she pronounced him to have worm fever, recommended her to try Mother's Friend, and a few minutes after taking the first dose he went to sleep, and next morning was relieved of a lot of stomach worms. The little fellow has had no fits since, and is healthy and well.

Price $1.00. Put up two packages in one parcel. Each package makes one pint and a half of medicine, just twice as much as in liquid form.

Freddie Annamorate, 137 Baldwin street, aged 2 years, was relieved of monster Tapeworm by one dose of Prof. Mulveney's World-Famous Tapeworm Exterminator. He was a very sick little boy, but is now improving nicely. The picture was taken March 1st, 1916.

THIS TAPEWORM MAY BE SEEN AT 167 DUNDAS STREET, AT PROF. MULVENEY'S OFFICE.

Toronto, Aug. 15, 1912.

To Whom it May Concern:

This is to certify that we have used Prof. Mulveney's World-Famous Tapeworm Cure with most gratifying results. My baby, two years old, took convulsions, and we discovered she had a tapeworm. I lost no time in going to Prof. Mulveney to get his cure, which we got and used, and I am pleased to say baby was relieved of a monster tapeworm, about 20 feet long, the head and all, in about two hours, without causing her to be sick and without previous fasting. I have great reason to be thankful, as we realize this remedy has saved baby's life. I am giving Prof. Mulveney her picture, taken a week after being relieved of the monster, which he will be able to show you. I have given him perfect liberty to use it in any way he may deem fit in order that others may learn of this wonderful remedy.

Yours respectfully,
Mrs B. Brooks.
St. Catharines.

Prof. Mulveney, Dear Sir:

When I was in Toronto a few months ago I got a bottle of your remedy called Mother's Friend Worm Medicine, and it has been a treasure, and I am now out of it, and want to get more. The first time I gave it to her there came from her like a nest; it was just full of worms four or five inches long, and also small worms most like maggots, and some pin-worms, and ever since when I give her medicine she passes several worms and a great many pinworms. This morning there were three like fish worms; she was also restless, throwing herself and kicking, and getting scared and talking. I got up and gave her the Mother's Friend Worm Medicine, and this morning her stool was full of pin-worms and those three large worms like fish-worms. I have one more dose, yet to give, and I must have more. Send to give, and I must have more. Send at once, at order for $1.25, as I don't just know what it will cost to send it here, so if it is any more than 25c to send it let me know. Thanking you very much for your valuable medicine. My little girl is four years old. Hoping to receive this medicine by return mail, I remain, yours respectfully.

Why Not Try B'Well?

It Makes People Feel Well

B'Well is a medicine that assists nature, made from roots, barks, herbs, leaves, etc. The concentrated extracts of these herbs tone up the stomach, regulate the liver, act on the kidneys, and it contains a harmless worm destroyer that is sure death to worms, and can be used with perfect safety.

B'Well is not a tapeworm exterminator and is not recommended for that trouble. B'Well is restoring thousands of people to health. I am not going to enumerate the different diseases and complaints that people have been relieved of from the use of B'Well, as it would take up too much space. I can simply say that restlessness and disease cannot remain if you take this medicine for a time, and it will surely make you feel fine.

It does not contain poison in any form, or narcotics that only relieve pain, but the different roots and herbs that regulate the system. It stimulates the stomach, liver, and kidneys into healthy action, helps digestion and keeps the bowels regular, expels all gas from the system, and takes away the bad feeling around the heart and fearful feeling from the head, depressed spirits and melancholy simply vanish, and a cheerful spirit takes their place. B'Well is a blessing to those that feel life is a burden to them that are downhearted and unhappy from disease. B'Well carries the poison out of the system through the natural channels of health, and, as the poison is carried out of the system, nature restores herself, and a cheerful spirit follows, as there is nothing like good health to make a person cheerful and happy. People treated for Epileptic Fits have been restored by its use. Don't ask me if it cures this, that, and the other disease. It is different from most medicines advertised as cure-alls, and I am not advertising this remedy as such, but simply advertising it as a medicine that has and will regulate the system, carry the poison out of the blood, and common-sense must surely tell you the result. Men and women who have been nervous wrecks, with hollow cheeks and sunken brow, have become plump, healthy and cheerful from its use, and I can only say what it has done for others it will surely do for you. Young men and women whose faces were covered with pimples and a sickening sight to look at are now free from them from its use. Men, women and children who had eating ulcers and running sores have been healed, and what it has done for them it is likely to do for you. Terribly itchy, scaly skin diseases have disappeared from its use, and the sufferers made happy and healthy.

Prof. Mulveney's World-Famous Tapeworm Remedy is saving thousands of valuable lives, and B'Well is doing just as much for those requiring this kind of medicine. The letters from people who have used B'Well are sufficient evidence as to its merits. Price, $1.25 per bottle, six bottles, $6.00.

B'Well is put up in powder form for convenience to send to foreign places by mail, which does away with all breakages. The package of powder makes twice as much medicine for the same amount of money. Full directions for making. Price, $1.25, six packages, $6.00.

Write for further information, free, and send self-addressed, stamped envelope with your address written plainly, for reply. These remedies are sold only by Prof. R. L. Mulveney, 167 DUNDAS STREET, TORONTO, ONT.

The Furnishings Had To Be Artistic

They had to conform with the smart individuality of the Patricia, so London's Largest House-Furnishers were called in and told to go ahead and furnish the rooms properly. An evidence of the way we handled the work is to be seen in the cosy, home-like rest and lounge rooms, the delicate blending of shades and the tasty floor coverings.

We carry at all times a full line of house-furnishings of all descriptions. A visit to this store and an inspection of its many departments will more than repay you. We'll be pleased to have you come.

COLOR IS COLOR

But what a difference there is in its treatment. The same color box is open to all artists. This thought is quite apparent in the subtle coloring worked out in masterful effects in the New Patricia. They are really different, most noticeable in their soft, delicate blendings. The Patricia is only one of a number of choice decorations completed by this firm, including "The Grand," "Majestic" and many others. No order too small, none too large.

Thos. L. Partridge

Plumbing and Heating Contractor

Was the man selected to do the Plumbing and Steam-Fitting in the new PATRICIA Building.

In order to compare with the rest of the work in the building the plumbing fittings had to be appropriate. They had to be installed with care.
The Heating equipment also had to be just right. The radiators had to be placed to give heat in proportion to the different parts of the building.
And because he has had many years' experience in that particular line of work, and carries one of the finest stocks of Plumbing Fixtures in the city, he was given charge of the job, which has been completed very successfully.

If You Have a Plumbing or Steamfitting Problem

REVISION COURT HAD NO POWER TO STRIKE OFF TAXES

This Is Opinion Expressed by Judge Talbot Macbeth.

CASE COMES TO COURTS

Church Garbage Tax Fight Is Argued, But Decision Withheld, Pending Appeal.

The appeal of the churches against paying the garbage tax was heard this morning by County Judge Talbot Macbeth, but final decision was left over for a week, in order to allow George S. Gibbons, on behalf of the Ministerial Alliance, to prepare a stated case for the court of appeal.

Judge Macbeth made it clear that the court of revision was altogether wrong in striking the church assessments from the roll. In this it exceeded its powers, said his honor. He also informed the counsel that he had no right to decide whether or not the churches should pay or should not pay the garbage tax on the assessor's valuation. Mr. Gibbons thought he could, and it was on this point that a stated case may be secured.

Churches May Refuse.

However, it is probable that the case will end at that. The next move for the churches, according to information received, is to refuse to pay the taxes. In that case, the municipality will have to sue. Then the courts will be asked to decide whether or not the city can compel them to pay. This, in the opinion of lawyers at the court house, is the only method by which the case can be properly disposed of.

T. G. Meredith K.C., on behalf of the city, pointed out that the appeal was against the action of the assessment department in placing the churches on the assessment rolls. The court of revision had found the assessments there, but had struck them out.

Court of Revision Wrong.

"There is no question that the court of revision had no right to strike the assessments from the roll," declared Judge Macbeth. "The assessment act says that they must be entered on the rolls. The court of revision was manifestly wrong. Churches are not exempt from local improvements. Some properties exempt for other purposes must pay school taxes. They all must appear on the rolls, however. As to the right of the city to levy a garbage tax, I have no power to say. That has nothing to do with the case. The Municipal Act says the garbage tax must be collected, no matter whether the property is exempted by statute or by-law."

Mr. Gibbons asked for a week in which to decide whether or not to prepare a stated case, and was given the time.

T. H. Purdom K.C. represented St. Andrew's Church, and J. F. Faulds looked after the interests of the Catholic bodies.

SCHOOL FAIRS OF COUNTY COMPLETED ON MONDAY

Have Been Success This Year and Most Beneficial.

Monday will see the conclusion of the rural school fairs for 1916, which have been held throughout the country by the Department of Agriculture. The final exhibition will be held at Gladstone. Practically without an exception they have proved a success this year, in spite of the unfavorable weather experienced throughout the whole season, the judges state. Exhibits have been more numerous and greater interest has been displayed in the other parts of the work than formerly. School parades were especially good this year, the judges assert, and a keen interest has been displayed in wheat-naming and stock-judging competitions. Public speaking has attracted more contestants than formerly, it is stated.

The Brinsley school fair has so far been he largest one, both for attendance and the number of entries, although it is expected that the fair being held at Thorndale today will equal it. C. F. Bailey, assistant deputy minister of agriculture, will be present, as well as W. J. Black, Dominion commissioner of agriculture. Some keen contests are expected.

Shields have been offered for wheat-naming and stock-judging contests, and as this is the second year they have been contested for, their ownership will be finally decided. The rules require that they be won twice in succession by the same school before they can be kept. Last year District School No. 6 won the shield for the wheat-naming contest, and District School No. 2 the one for stock-judging.

BROTHERS GIVE LIVES FOR KING AND COUNTRY

Two Former Well-Known London Boys Killed in Action.

Two former Londoners, members of a family for many years well known here, have lost their lives in the great war. They are Tom and Jack Barker, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Barker, who resided in South London some years ago. The other brother, Cecil, is a lieutenant in the artillery and is now at the front.

All three boys attended Askin street school, and were active in school sports. Tom went to Toronto and at the time of enlisting Jack was at Winnipeg. The latter leaves a wife and two children, who are now at Parkhill with Mrs. Barker's mother. Mrs. Barker, sen., went to Parkhill from London several days ago to see her daughter-in-law, after their mutual bereavement. They were young men of the finest type and those who knew them mourned their death.

$133 THANKOFFERING.

Mrs. James Menzies, wife of Rev. James Menzies M.D., who is on furlough from Honan, China, addressed the annual thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Thursday evening, giving a most interesting description of conditions in China and of work in the mission school. The present friendly attitude of the Chinese towards the missionaries was contrasted with their attitude of suspicion 28 years ago when missionaries were located in North Honan by the Presbyterian Church of Canada which is responsible for the evangelization of 8,000,000 people.

English, she stated, is being taught in the government schools and the ranks of the teachers are largely recruited from the students who have passed through the mission schools thus reducing to a minimum the difficulties now in the way of the propogation of Christianity.

A solo rendered by Mrs. Watt was very much appreciated.

When the thankoffering envelopes were opened, it was discovered that the contents amounted to $133. It is expected this sum will be increased. In view of the fact that the thankoffering of last evening was the second special effort of the past six months, and also taking into consideration the special offering to the mission work of the church on Sunday last, along with many other calls, this was considered very good.

POWER OF PRAYER.

The power of prayer was emphasized by Mrs. Jonathan Goforth of North Honan, China, in an address delivered by her at the annual thankoffering meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church Thursday evening. In connection with the subject of Prayer, several instances of its efficacy and of direct answers in relation to mission work in North Honan were cited by the speaker. Instances were related of answers to prayer coming from Australia, New Zealand and other corners of the world.

In regard to the mission work of the Presbyterian church in North Honan, Mrs. Goforth urged the need for putting forth every possible effort at this time owing to the great opportunity of the hour in the open-mindedness of the people. "Doors," she declared, "are open on all sides, waiting for the message of the gospel to enter."

The thankoffering received amounted to $105 with the probability of this sum being augmented.

PATRON SAINT'S DAY.

The Broughdale people of St. Luke's Church will duly celebrate the festival of their patron saint, St. Luke, the evangelist, on Sunday. There will be morning and evening service with Holy Communion at each time. Rev. J. Edmonds will preach in the evening. In the afternoon there will be a musical service for children, young people and others, rendered by th Grant Milligan family, with short addresses. On Wednesday evening, the 18th (St. Luke's Day), there will be a special devotional meeting for prayer, praise and instruction.

GIFT OF LOVE.

The Elgar Ladies' Quartet will sing at the evening service on Sunday in the Empress Avenue Methodist Church. Rev. J. D. Richardson, the pastor, has announced the subject of his sermon, "The Gift of Love."

The following week, the anniversary services of the church will be held, when a former pastor, Rev. George W. Dewey, is coming from Stratford to preach.

TO HELP SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

Throughout the diocese of Huron special collections will be taken in Anglican churches on Children's Day on behalf of Sunday school work.

WHAT NEXT?

"No Wine—What Next?" is the sermon topic of the evening service in Talbot Street Baptist Church for Sunday evening. Rev. H. H. Bingham will deal with further social reforms that are to follow in the wake of prohibition.

MIRACLES AND MAGIC.

"Miracles and Magic" will be featured at the evening meeting of the People's Forum, formerly known as the Radical Club, J. W. Easton is to lead the open discussion on things occult

17TH ANNIVERSARY.

Bethany Union Mission, 577 Pall Mall street, tomorrow celebrates its 17th anniversary. Two special services will be held at 3 o'clock and at 7 o'clock, with extra music and addresses.

MEMORIAL SERVICE.

A memorial service for Pte. Edgar Coleman and other members of the Hamilton Road Presbyterian Church, who have recently been killed in action at the front, will be held on Sunday evening. Dr. McCrae will preach and there will be appropriate musical services.

CONTINUING SERVICES.

Tomorrow morning Rev. Jas. H. Boyd will continue in the Adelaide Street Baptist Church his series of sermons on "The Higher Life." His subject will be "The Transfigured Life," while in the evening his theme will be "The Resurrecting of a Dead Army." There will be baptism during the service.

TORONTO SPEAKER.

Rev. James Wilson, B. A., pastor of the Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church of Toronto, will be the speaker at both services of the St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church tomorrow.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

W. C. T. U. Wor' in France.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The Ontario W. C. T. U. in November, 1914, became responsible for all the necessary money outlay in connection with the work of a Y. M. C. A. representative in France. In January of 1915, two such men were taken under our care. In all, we have had five Y. M. C. A. representatives. Two of these —Capts. Oscar Irwin and Harry Whiteman—died in France. A third was invalided home. We are now supplying all the needed support for Capts. Ed. Archibald and Charters Sharpe.

The following letter from Capt. Ed. Archibald has recently arrived:

France.

Dear Mrs. Thornley,—I received the marked Testaments and the leaflets, O. K., for which accept our hearty thanks.

Having been appointed to oversee the physical recreation and sports for the whole Canadian corps, I am in a position to use anything in the way of outdoor or indoor games—baseball, football, lacrosse, tennis, checkers, chess, dominoes, etc., etc.—anything out of which the boys could get pleasure and exercise.

I also want all sorts of small musical instruments—concertinas, flutes, piccolos, bones, mouthorgans, etc.—for they are a great factor in our entertainments.

We have been having some very trying times lately, and have lost a large number of our men. But there must be no pause in our service whatever the casualties. Yours in the work,

ED. B. ARCHIBALD.

No one can read the accounts of life at the front without realizing the intolerable strain under which our men live.

Again and again, Capt. Archibald and other Y. M. C. A. workers have mentioned the absolute need for recreation and the soothing, helpful influence of music and games.

In thousands of Canadian homes, there are just such unused articles as Capt. Archibald needs. The boys have grown to men and gone their ways out into the world; and the once cherished flute or mouthorgan or football is lying away in some forgotten corner. Look for it, mother dear, and send it to us, that it may help those other brave lads to bear their almost intolerable burdens.

But if you should have nothing of the kind—perhaps the grandchildren have taken possession—and you are still minded to help, you can send us money to buy anything you designate. Should you decide to purchase yourself, please do not get several instruments when the money you expend would procure one article that would give real satisfaction. For instance, the 25-cent mouthorgan is not to be compared with the 75-cent make in tone, range and durability. The key desired is C, if that is procurable. Where the keys are alike, or can be harmonized, trench concerts can be arranged.

And that box of dominoes, or the checker board or chess set—hunt them up, and send them along to the

CITY W. C. T. U. HEADQUARTERS,
432 Park Avenue,
London, Ontario, Canada,

where all the supplies for Capt. Archibald's work are being gathered.

Please do not forget the last two items of this address, for since the war began many a letter intended for this town has crossed the ocean.

As fast as enough material is received to fill a barrel, it will be shipped.

Both Capts. Archibald and Sharpe are anxious for gospel portions. They can also use an unlimited quantity of the specifically-prepared soldiers' leaflets. These are daintily gotten up, and $1 buys 50 copies. They carry the Good News in winning language and attractive dress.

Hoping that those who can, may help promptly; and, on behalf of the Ontario W. C. T. U., heartily thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the space so kindly accorded, etc.,

(MRS.) MAY THORNLEY,
President W. C. T. U. Patriotic and Missionary board, 843 Dundas street, London, Ont.

ORGY OF RESOLUTIONS BY REAL ESTATERS

Friday Night's Crop Touches Fire Chief's Auto, Police Dept., Leaves and Water.

The Real Estate Owners' Association had another evening of resolutions last night, and passed several of them. One was a criticism of the police commission in adding to the police force. Another found fault with the council for buying a new automobile for Fire Chief Aitken, and a third objected to the purchase of the Macgregor wells by the utilities commission. Some remarks are also made on the falling leaves.

The resolutions are as follows:

More Cops Unnecessary.

No. 10,764. Resolved, that whereas it has been shown by the public press recently that the police commission is seeking more men for the police force, in which the inducements of over $20 per week, 8 hours a day, free street car service and winter and summer clothing are offered, we deem that a more prudent move pending the dawn of the new prohibition conditions would be that no further addition to the force be made. For if the provincial press has correctly reported the lessening of drunks and other evils connected with the sale of liquor, it will only be a short while when the force may be reduced one-third or probably more than 50 per cent, or enough, at least, to cover all the loss in revenue, and ultimately a still further reduction, and thus lessen the burdens of the sorely-oppressed taxpayer.

More Objections.

No. 10,765. Resolved, that this association does not approve of the action of the council in saddling the collection of dead or fallen leaves on the garbage system. Nature in its wisdom has provided a blanket for the tree rootlets and the lawns that has no peer. In addition, if left to lie and rot under the trees, and upon the lawns they are an excellent fertilizer, and the few that rustle on the sidewalk or pavement do no injury to either human or beast. It looks as if the 1916 council, instead of trying to lessen the causes that make high tax bills are at their wits' end in fishing up fresh schemes to squander the other people's money.

Want Spring Water.

No. 10,766. Resolved, that the so-called Macgregor wells and the Redmond pond, being impure, dead water, drainage from the surrounding lands, not springs, as showing no natural outflow, even containing colon bacilli, and quite unfit to turn into the city mains, we, the R. E. O. A., among whom are some of the largest taxpayers of London, and we think our sentiments will be echoed by a large majority of the ratepayers, protest against considerable sums being spent at the present or any time for what is no value, without a vote of the people. We further believe when more pure water is needed plenty can be obtained by boring in north or east end, as on Horton street, and if not istead of going 14 miles down to Komoka and pumping it up hill, the north branch springs, from which it will flow down by gravitation, giving one-third more and at just about half the cost, will solve the problem.

No. 10,767. Resolved, that this association does not approve of the action of the 1916 civic administration in purchasing in the face of the highest tax bill the ratepayers have ever had, a new auto for the fire chief. We think that under existing conditions the old one was quite sufficient and efficient, and we believe the electorate should resent the keeping of two autos for the fire chief by their votes at the next election.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

THE LOCAL MARKET

Oats took a sudden jump on the local market this morning. Old oats brought $1.90 to $1.95 a cwt., and new oats brought from $1.62 to $1.75 a cwt. By the bushel new oats went for 64c to 66c. Wheat was firm at $1.50 a bushel for old, and $1.38 a bushel for new, Barley was unchanged at $1.35 a cwt.

Potatoes were fairly plentiful, but there was no further drop. They sold for $1.10 to $1.25 a bushel. Few tomatoes were offered, and there was little demand for them at 40c a basket. Cabbage was firm at 60c to $1.50 a dozen. Beets brought 30c a dozen, as did carrots. Green onions brought 40c a dozen, and parsley 30c to 40c. Spinach was sold at 75c a bushel. Pumpkins were sold at 5c to 15c each.

Apples brought 60c to $1.00, the higher prices being for the better-keeping varieties. Peaches were fairly plentiful, but were not of good quality. They sold for 30c to 50c a basket. Grapes brought 20c to 25c a basket.

Butter was firm at 40c a pound, retail, for creamery, 38c a pound, retail, for dairy butter in rolls, and 37c a pound for crocks. Eggs, however, jumped, bringing as much as 42c a dozen retail. Honey was slightly cheaper at $1.10 to $1.35 for 10-pound pails. Chickens were sold for 90c to $1.40 a pair, dressed, retail. Ducks were firm at 15c to 17c a pound, retail.

Hog prices were firm, as were those of hides and wool.

GRAIN.

Winnipeg, Oct. 13.—Wheat closed ⅛c higher for October and November, and ⅜c higher for May. Oats were ⅛c lower for October, ⅛c higher for December, and ⅛c down for May. Flax was ½c to 2¼c higher. Barley was 1c higher.

It was another small day, when the only excitement was in the closing minutes. The pit crowd continued to even up, and the professional traders did a little spreading. Some fair lots of oats were put through the clearing house. Wheat was ¼c lower in premiums all round. Barley was firm, buyers being in the market for all grades.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Bullish crop reports from Argentina tended today to lift the wheat market here, but buyers were cautious as a result of the outlook for further havoc from submarines. Dispatches from Argentina said the weather was clear and hot, and that as a result of drought the estimates of yield were being reduced daily. The weekly forecast of shipments to Liverpool indicated that supplies were not adequate to meet requirements.

Opening prices, which ranged from ½c decline to ⅜c advance, with December at $1 57¾@1 58⅝, and May at $1 58 @1 58¼, were followed by some downturns, but then a moderate general advance.

WEEKLY MARKET REVIEW.

[Canadian Press.]

New York, Oct. 14.—The stock market was under constant restraint this week because of the apprehension created by the extension of Germany's naval operations to the New England seaboard. Prices recovered more or less irregularly from their precipitate decline of the early week, but were subjected to fresh depression yesterday on reports which suggested a renewal of last Sunday's submarine operations. War issues naturally bore the brunt of the selling movement, but the entire list was disposed to yield to moderate pressure. The ease with which prices receded seemed to be due quite as much to an overextension of the bull account as to any other cause.

There was nothing in basic conditions to warrant any diminution of public interest or confidence. Peace rumors were without effect upon foreign demand for American raw or manufactured products, national bank clearings as reported by the comptroller of the currency are the largest in the country's history, financial statements of railroads and industrial corporations show even greater prosperity and general business is far ahead of the same period for 1915.

Trading continued at or near the rate of a million shares for every full session, but this activity was maintained at concessions. The short interest evidently extended its committments, particularly in United States Steel and other leaders whose movements most often are accepted as governing factors.

Investment demand found its most direct reflection in the international bond list, those issues being at all times active and strong. There was also a steady inquiry for bonds of the lower-priced railways, including the cotton carriers, while the shares of those companies responded in sympathy.

WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 14—Wall Street, 10:10 a.m.—Shipping issues were again active and strong at today's opening, with irregular gains in leading rails and some specialties. Canadian Pacific, however, yielded a substantial fraction.

10:30 a.m.—Apart from the further strength of shipping issues, notably Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, and the underlying strength of prominent rails, such as Union Pacific, New York Central and Norfolk and Western, today's early dealings presented no features of special interest. Trading was again of a tentative or cautious character, with the customary week-end settlement of outstanding contracts. United States Steel was under moderate pressure, with such industrials and equipments as Republic Steel, Air Brake and Colorado Fuel. Coppers were variable, the same tendency being shown by motors and sugars. Columbia Gas and International Paper rose a point or more. Secondary prices were lower in the main.

Close.—Caution was the dominating note of today's short session, the market soon reacting from the firm tone of the opening. Leading stocks were under restraint, United States Steel and related issued reflecting constant pressure. Among the few neutraliing features were the shipping issues at gains of 1 to almost 3 points, International Paper, Butte and Superior, Continental Can and Studebaker. Rails barely held steady after their strong opening. The closing was irregular. Bonds were lower.

Reasons for Life Insurance

It Replaces the Lost Earning Capacity.

1. At death all the income which arises from a man's personal efforts ceases. It becomes a total loss, while family expenses go on just about the same. True, the estate may be large enough to give the family an ample support, but the earning capacity has gone forever. Insurance, in a measure, replaces this loss, and it is the only thing that can be made to do so.

WIDE FLUCTUATIONS ON COTTON EXCHANGE

[Reported by Thomson & McKinnon.]

New York, Oct. 13.—Prices advanced 20 to 33 points on heavy buying by spot houses, mills, local bulls, Wall Street and Liverpool, then reacted on rumors that the submarine U-53 had again been off Nantucket and another report that a submarine of the same nationality has been sighted 200 miles east of New York. Also there was a vague rumor that Liverpool may close indefinitely. This rumor was circulated some time ago, but proved to be unfounded. Liverpool will be closed tomorrow and until further notice. This is nothing new as that exchange closed on Saturday for some time past. There was heavy profit-taking today by Wall Street, the west and scattered interests, and there may be more of this, but big people including prominent trade interests stick to the bull side and buy on all breaks, though they expect wide fluctuations from time to time.

JUDGMENT RESERVED IN CARD-PLAYING CASE

Three foreigners, Michael Trokiklo, Michael Gye and Marquis Kozekisbia, appeared in police court on Friday, charged with a breach of the Lord's Day act, and Vosey Bocoore, the fourth member of the quartet, who was too ill to appear today, will answer to the charge next Friday.

The breach of the act, it is claimed, was gambling by the four at 554½ South street on Sunday evening last.

Judgment was reserved until next Friday to permit the evidence of Bocoore to be submitted.

The accused said they were not playing for money.

PROMINENT CITIZENS ACCUSED OF SPEEDING

One Fined, But the Other Denies He Was on the Street.

Two well-known citizens appeared in police court yesterday charged with exceeding the speed limit on the city pavements on Monday last. The first, a Dundas street merchant, claimed that he had always been a careful driver and took exception to Patrolman Harpur's statements that he had attained a speed on Wellington street on Monday evening of 23 miles an hour.

The officer testified that his calculations had been made with the police official stop watch.

Defendant was fined $5 and costs, which was paid.

The second, a local bank manager, attempted to prove an alibi by claiming that his auto was not on Queen's avenue, the street specified by Patrolman Harpur, at the time claimed by the police officer.

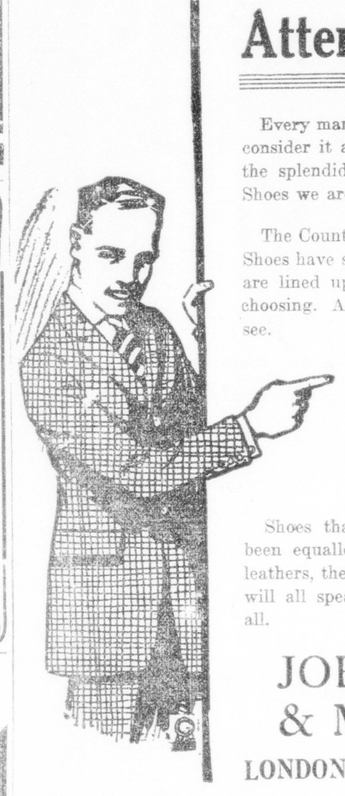

The patrolman testified that at 4:55 on Monday afternoon the auto bearing the bank manager's number travelled on Queen's avenue from Colborne to Waterloo streets in 21 seconds, which figures out better than 25 miles an hour.

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate Judd until Friday next.
