DELTA'S GREAT FAIR

It takes more than a cloudy morning to deter the people of Leeds county from attending Delta's annual fair. This was demonstrated in a pleasing way on Wednesday last, when, despite the most unfavorable weather conditions that prevailed all the forenoon, fully four thousand people assembled on the fair grounds. About noon, the clouds dispersed and most delightful weather prevailed for the rest of the day.

The exhibit was well worthy of the meritorious record of the society. The ladies in their department did particularly well, and the large space allotted to their exhibits was filled to overflowing with evidences of their skill in every branch of domestic art.

The dairy and apriary, field and garden were all well represented. In the main building, there were several interesting special exhibits, including furniture by Mr. Horton of Delta, stationery by Mr. Connoe of Delta, the Karn piano by Mr. G. L. Riches of Brockville, the Standard sewing machine by Mr. W. Webster of Lyndhurst, the New Williams sewing machine by Mr. Russell of D-la, Ramsay's paints, and Mrs. Eli Chant's really fine exhibit of stuffed birds and animals.

As usual, in the live stock department, Delta fair excelled. The exhibit of horses and cattle was exceedingly good, showing a very noticeable improvement over previous years. All the sheep pens were filled with popular breeds, and several sales were made in this class. In the swine department the favorite bacon breeds prevailed. The poultry building contained a fine showing of birds which were greatly admired by all visitors.

Out on the grounds the horse ring and driving track engaged the interested attention of the large crowd all the afternoon. The races during both days were good, and resulted as follows:

It was expected up to the day before the fair that the 41st Batt. band of Brockville would be present, and on learning that this was impossible the managers made every effort to secure a band elsewhere, but failed. As near as we could learn, neither the society nor the band could be properly blamed for this failure, as it was due altogether to the fact that the men composing the band found it impossible to leave their business.

The B W & N W Ry gave excellent service. The train from the east was well filled and the train from the west brought in over 300 passengers.

Delta scored a success under most unfavorable conditions, and the prospects for the future are very encouraging. Every detail of the fair worked out smoothly, which was due to the efficient management of President Morris and his efficient staff and to the careful preparatory work and exact bookkeeping of Secretary Phelps.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON NO. 111. OCTOBER 15, 1905

Returning From Captivity.—Ezra 1: 1-11.

Commentary.—1. The proclamation of King Cyrus to return (vs. 1-4). 1. First year of Cyrus.—That is, his first year as sole king at Babylon. He was king 39 years before this, of Elam, and gradually extended his empire over the Persians and Medes, Babylonians and Chaldeans. For two years after the capture of Babylon Darius was King of Babylon under Cyrus. Now Cyrus reigned at Babylon, and this was his first year of direct sovereignty over the Jews. Word of the Lord.—See Jer. xxv. 12; xxx. 10. The promise was that after seventy years the Lord would bring his people again to Palestine. Stirred up.—Cyrus—There is good reason to accept the Jewish tradition according to Josephus, that Daniel, occupying a high position in the court of Cyrus, brought to his attention the prophecies of Isaiah, which name Cyrus as God's servant (Isa. xlv. 26-28; xlv. 1-4), and perhaps, also, the prophecies of Jeremiah, showing that God had for this purpose given Babylon into the hands of Cyrus. Made a proclamation.—See chapter 6. In writing.—To preserve it on the records, to prevent any mistake or reversal which might occur.

2. God of Heaven—Hence the Controller of all men and affairs. "God of Heaven" seems to have been a usual title of the Supreme Being among the Persians.—Rawlinson. At this time the Medo-Persian Empire was very extensive, extending on the east to the Red Sea, on the north to the Black Sea, on the west to the Islands of Cyprus and Egypt, and on the south to Ethiopia.—Clarke. Hath charged me, etc.—Cyrus probably accepted the prophecy of Isaiah as a charge to build the temple.—Cook. "The existence of prophecies in which, two hundred years before he was born, his victorious career and the important services he should render to the Jews were foretold, led him to acknowledge that all his kingdoms were gifts bestowed on him by the 'Lord God of Heaven,' and prompted him to fulfill the duty which had been laid upon him long before his birth. This was the source and origin of the great favor he showed to the Jews.—J. F. B. 3. Who is there among you?—The return was to be a volunteer movement, which in all respects was the best both for the purpose of Cyrus and for the new Jewish settlement. His God was with him—A pious wish, indicating the deep religious feeling and goodness of heart which characterized Cyrus alone of Persian monarchs. He ruled his subjects like a father.—Herodotus. No nobler character appears in ancient history.—Let him go.—As the carrying away of the Hebrews had taken place at intervals of from seventy to fifty years before, there were but few of the original exiles remaining; and it is somewhat remarkable that so many of their descendants, nearly fifty thousand in all, should be willing to go to a country they had never seen. Build the house.—This was their great errand, not to build their own houses, but the house of God. He is the God whom we can understand this great truth far more clearly than could Cyrus. Let him go to it that he live out the knowledge which we possess."

4. Whosoever remaineth—Some persons of true and eminent piety were so situated that they did not deem it their duty to go; as Daniel in the court of Cyrus; others were hindered by old age. Many more, however, had seen the light, and carried away captive.—Scott. Let the men... help him.—Let the heathen population help him.—Cook. Free will offering—Probably that made by Cyrus himself. There were two funds—one for the temple, one for the aid of returning emigrants. Those who cannot work in gold should contribute to it. Few give too much; many give too little. Giving is as much a means of grace as praying. II. The captives made preparations for the return (vs. 5-11). 5. Chief of the fathers—Venerable men, heads of families, some of whom had seen the first temple.—Whedon. Judah and Benjamin—These tribes, last exiled, were the first to return. "But that there were many from the other tribes who returned appears from many other passages.—Hurlbut. 6. Strengthen their hands.—Their neighbors helped them and contributed liberally. 7. Cyrus... brought forth, etc.—Nebuchadnezzar little thought that he was unconsciously preserving the sacred vessels of Israel in a safe and inviolable stronghold, till the day when Jehovah would bring about their restoration to his people. Some of these vessels had been profaned by Belshazzar on that night when Babylon was taken and Belshazzar slain.—Whedon.

8. Sheshbazzar—The Chaldee or Persian name of Zerubbabel, given to Daniel and his friends. Born in Babylon and named by his friends Zerubbabel (exile in Babylon). He was recognized as hereditary prince of Judah; was leader of the first company of exiles, and director of the rebuilding of the temple. II. All the vessels, etc.—This number, 5,400, is more than double the sum of verses 9 and 10, which was 2,400. "It is probable that only the larger or more costly vessels were numbered in detail, and the 5,400 includes a great number of smaller and less costly ones. So they are reckoned by the restoration of the Jews to their own country, the names of three Jewish leaders and of three Persians are prominent. The first Jewish leader was Zerubbabel, who left Babylon under this proclamation of Cyrus (vs. 1-4) seventy years after the first captivity. After an interval of about twenty years he was enabled to complete the rebuilding of the temple, in the reign of Darius Hystaspes, seventy years after the destruction of the temple. The second Jewish leader was Ezra, who went up from Babylon about eighty years after Zerubbabel, in the seventh year of Artaxerxes Longimanus. He labored chiefly to restore the institutions of Moses. The third Jewish leader was Nehemiah, who went up from Susa, or Shushan, in the sixth year of the same Artaxerxes. He rebuilt the wall and set up the gates of Jerusalem and promoted many reforms.—Blakie.

PRACTICAL APPLICATIONS. I. Promise.—"That the word of the Lord... might be fulfilled, the Lord stirred up Cyrus" (vs. 1, 2). Two hundred years before God named him, heathen king and declared his will concerning him, he "saith of Cyrus, he is My shepherd and shall perform all my pleasure; even saying to Jerusalem, Thou shalt be built; and to the temple, 'Thy foundation shall be laid' (Isa. xlv. 26). "By the mouth of Jeremiah" God had declared to the captives, "After seventy years be accomplished at Babylon I will visit you, and perform my good word toward you, in causing you to return to this place. For I know the thoughts that I think toward you, with the Lord, thoughts of peace and not of evil, to give you an expected end" (Jer. xxx. 10, 11). Centuries before Jesus came it was written of Him, "His name shall be called Wonderful" (Isa. lxi. 1-3).

I. Profession. "Cyrus, king of Persia" (vs. 2), was not only a type of Christ, but of every Christian of whom it may be said, "Thou, hast professed a good profession before many witnesses" (1 Titus vi. 12). His profession was of 1. God's goodness. This heathen king begins his proclamation with Jehovah's name and declares that this 'Lord God of heaven hath given' him all the kingdoms of the earth" (vs. 2). Christ always "witnessed a good profession" (1 Titus vi. 13). He always acknowledged his Father's goodness. 2. God's authority. "He hath charged me to build an house" (vs. 2). Daniel, no doubt showed Cyrus the word he was meant to fulfill and the work God had given him to do. Loyally and royally did he fulfill the charge. The ambassador of Christ, delivering any message, hath announced me; 'He sent me' (Luke iv. 18; John vi. 39, 40). 3. God's greatness. This God of heaven, who gives me commands and to whose authority he bows, is "the Lord God of Israel. He is the God" (vs. 3).

III. Permission. I. Definite. "Who is there among you of all His people... let him go" (vs. 3; 2 Chron. xxxvi. 23). It was addressed to all Israel. The gospel proclamation is, "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come" (Isa. lv. 1). "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden" (Matt. xi. 28).

V. Performance. We may straighten "the hands" (vs. 6) of those who labor; may be "laborers together with God" (1 Cor. 3:9). I. Daniel in exile having discovered "by the books" that God had fixed the period of seventy years for the desolation of Jerusalem, humbled himself and confessed his sins and the sins of his people, and supplicated the fulfillment of the promise. 2. With silver and gold (vs. 4). If all the old cast-off jewelry were to be brought out and sold and the money used for benevolence, how the hearts of many, burdened for lack of means to carry on their work, would be lightened. 3. With what you have. Those who had no money might help "with goods and with beasts." Many a minister and missionary might be kept from want if those who have but a little money to give would be generous with their "substance" (Pro. 3:9). And we should not wait for an abundance before we give our tithes and freewill offerings to the Lord. A poor young carpenter often said, "If I were only rich I would show people how to give."

VI. A minister and missionary might be kept from want if those who have but a little money to give would be generous with their "substance" (Pro. 3:9). And we should not wait for an abundance before we give our tithes and freewill offerings to the Lord. A poor young carpenter often said, "If I were only rich I would show people how to give."

WAS THIS MAN DONE TO DEATH?

Negro's Body Found in the Thames at Ingersoll.

Met on Bridge Friday Night by Six White Men.

The Crown Holds That There Was Murder Done.

Ingersoll, Sept. 28.—The body of Isaiah Wright, a colored laborer, aged thirty-four, and a well known character around town, was found in the Thames about 9 o'clock this morning, some twenty yards or so from the Wonham street bridge. It bore marks that led to the suspicion that death had not occurred from natural causes. A jury was empanelled and an inquest begun. After the remains had been viewed an adjournment was made until October 5th at 1:30 o'clock in the Town Hall. Chief of Police Wright at once moved to arrest the men believed to be responsible for Wright's death. On the night of September 22nd it is known that the dead man was met on the Wonham street bridge by six white men. That will, it is understood be shown in evidence.

He was never afterwards seen alive, and the theory of the police is that in the course of a quarrel the colored man was beaten and thrown into the Thames. That the men in whose company he was had any grudge against Wright was not established. The condition of the body and the cause of death will not be known until the surgeons who made the post-mortem to-night report, but it is generally believed that Wright, although badly beaten was alive, when thrown into the river.

Five Charged With Murder.

Chief Wright and Constables Cook and Sherlock during the afternoon arrested the following five men on a charge of murder George Dennis, George Hartwell, George Bower, Thomas Wilson and Ewart Bell. All are of Ingersoll and of the laboring class. In addition John Campbell, a farm laborer living to the south of the town, is held on a charge of vagrancy. It is believed that Campbell was a witness of the affray, and that he is really held as a material witness. The prisoners were brought before the Police Magistrate to-night, but were not asked to plead. They were remanded on instructions from the County Court Attorney till Friday, October 6th, and were ordered to be taken to Woodstock jail. The case has created a very great deal of excitement here, and crowds gathered around the Town Hall during the hearing.

Isaiah Wright, the victim, was a well built, powerful negro of a decidedly combative disposition. He had been several times in the Police Court, but Chief Wright said to-night that so far as he knew the men under arrest had no special cause for attacking him. They were the last people seen in the victim's company, and his body having been found almost where they met him, there was nothing to connect them with the crime. The ascertained facts made the case highly suspicious.

DUNDONALD'S DREAM

THAT A BONUS WOULD CATCH THE CANADIAN RECRITS.

London, Oct. 2.—In the October number of The Fortnightly Review there is a twelve-page article entitled "Notes on a Citizen Army" by Lord Dundonald. "That such an organization as a citizen army for home defence is feasible has always been believed, and my recent experience with the militia of Canada has given me practical proof of the soundness of my belief," he writes. Lord Dundonald entirely disapproves of adult compulsory military service for adults in time of peace. "The basis, or starting point, of any scheme for a large voluntary citizen army must be the military training of boys."

Lord Dundonald, after a lengthy review of his own work in Canada, says: "In the past all the efforts of colonial Governments to maintain an organized force, in readiness for Imperial purposes, have been doomed to failure, and there has been nothing in the history of the last five years to lead us to expect a change of attitude, but all the advantages sought for might be obtained without any of the accompanying objections by applying the bonus system to the colonial forces. A colonial reserve might be instituted for which I am certain, whole regiments of colonial militia would volunteer. My experience of the Canadian citizen soldiers would thus volunteer en masse to take part in the campaigns of the mother country."

Lord Dundonald mentions Major Morrison, and other officers of the Ottawa militia corps, who took part in the expedition to Tibet. "Recent changes in the higher administration of the nation, and the fact that Canada and Australia have brought about something like a divorce between the Imperial and colonial military organizations. It is not necessary to emphasize the disadvantages, even dangers, of such a tendency. The whole question of Imperial unity is seriously affected by it."

BENNETT FOUND GUILTY.

The Brantford Jury Says He Murdered Betsy Jacobs.

JOE BENNETT.

Brantford, Sept. 28.—The jury to-night returned a verdict of guilty against Joe Bennett, the Indian, for murdering Betsy Jacobs on July 9 last. Mr. Justice Anglin finished his charge at 6:30, while the jury came back after 11 o'clock. At first they reported a disagreement, but wanted an explanation of the evidence of David Garlow, an Indian constable, who was called in rebuttal. Garlow was guarding the Jacobs homestead on the night succeeding the tragedy. Elijah Kick, the man who swore the alibi, was with Garlow at the time, and told Garlow that he had last seen Bennett in Brantford on Saturday afternoon before the crime. The evidence was read to the jury, and after a few minutes' deliberation, they returned their verdict.

Not a muscle of Bennett's face moved. He took the verdict with the greatest of stolidity. No sentence was passed to-night, as both Bennett and Felix Doyle will be sentenced to-morrow. Mr. Justice Anglin, in commenting upon the verdict, said that, in view of the evidence, he did not see how the jury could do anything else but find the accused man guilty. Mr. Heyd addressed the jury in the Port Huron.—In carrying out its plans of increasing its terminal facilities, the Pere Marquette system has acquired the right from the Grand Trunk in the latter's former yards between Black River and the Military street bridge for the laying of six miles additional side track at an expense of about $50,000.

Rev. George Damm, of Credit, stated in his evidence at the Hauch inquest at Tanstock, that he saw flashes coming from the darkness at spots separate at least a distance of six feet, and that he heard shots discharged simultaneously, or with only a second's time between them. This confirms the supposition that at least one other member of the charitable party beside Hauch carried a weapon, as it would have been impossible for Hauch to discharge his antiquated pistol rapidly as for each discharge a fresh cap was required.

Dry goods trade is good and receipts of country produce are fairly large. Collections are good and local industries continue busy.

Winnipeg trade reports say: Trade continues active in almost all lines. Wholesale houses report a brisk business during the past week. General lines of hardware are moving well and building supplies are particularly active. Heavy millinery and general dry goods orders are coming in and the general report is good. Retail trade is fairly active and collections, which have been poor, are improving.

Hamilton reports to Bradstreet's say: The volume of trade there continues surprisingly heavy. Orders to wholesalers reflect the general confidence in all lines. Country trade is good and receipts of country produce are fairly large. Collections are good and local industries continue busy.

LOVE AND A TITLE

"Who is Florida?" asked Hal, with the deepest interest. "My horse," she replied. "Are you fond of riding?" asked Hal. "Yes," she said—very! I ride every evening, and sometimes in the morning. And you?"

now stands by the door, thrusting his broad nose into Hal's caressing hand. "Carlo is quite amiable." The companion answers something in Italian, and Hal figets with his hat. "Good-by—that is, good-morning," he says, holding out his hand; but the princess goes with him into the hall, Carlo following.

"I call this my kingdom," said the princess, smiling with evident delight at Hal's admiration. "I know every flower in it. See, these are my favorites," and she threw down a bunch of white carnations. "George," said Hal, "they are fine! We've nothing like this in England! They are as thick as blackberries."

Hal is about to stammer something, possibly a prayer to be allowed to repeat the visit, when a step is heard on the front terrace, and with a growl, Carlo bounds forward. Hal, looking around hastily, sees a gentleman at the outer door, and the mere sight of the princess utters a cry, for Carlo has dashed at the glass with an ominous growl and a liberal display of fangs.

"I have enjoyed myself very much, and, except for some very slight and sorry to leave, Lord Lane has had a beautiful yacht brought down to the coast here, and we have been out in it every day. Lord Lane is going to get one built for us on the same plan as the yacht he has just ordered. Yesterday we—Lord Lane and I—tried some deep-sea fishing, and had very good sport. He is very fond of sailing, and he and I are the only two who don't feel ill—excepting the Viceroy, who has a picture, which he will finish at Forbach."

CHAPTER XXVI. "But you don't call that a horse!" says Hal, pointing with indignation to a Götthi animal which the stable-keeper of the Hotel Der Krone has brought from the stall into the yard. "It is the morning after Jeanne's letter; Bell has gone over to the castle to encourage the major-domo, who is almost distracted by the shortening of the time left him for preparation, and by the news that three more suites of rooms are required."

"I have had the pleasure of meeting this gentleman before, senorita, and am charmed to renew the acquaintance. Senorita is far above poor Hal, who stammers out something polite, and moves toward the door, with his hand still on the growing Carlo's collar, as if he really intended walking off with him. "The dog!" he murmurs, "you are not to release him, sir, until he is otherwise secured," says the count, with a smile, but keeping a wary eye on the dog. "Carlo, come here, sir!" says the princess, and Carlo, with a side glance at the count, goes to her. "For shame, sir, for shame, to treat an old friend so!" she says. "He is good now, count—he is very obedient!"

Hal should do, on the table of his esteemed tutor, but he carries them to his own little room, and, having placed them with the utmost care in the milk jug belonging to the wash-up, he looks up at the table, and sits and stares at them. Presently a knock at the door, which rouses Hal, and causes him to blushing remove the jug to a remote corner. "It is Bell, and he has a letter in his hand," says Hal, and he looks at the letter. "Reading, my dear Hal? Am I disturbing you? Here is a letter from the marchioness." Hal takes it, and Bell goes to the window, shyly lingering behind. "Any—any news, Hal?" he asks, timidly. "Oh," says Hal, with knitted brows, "I can scarcely make it out. Jeanne seems to have forgotten now to tell me since she became great well. Oh, look here, they're coming to the palace a week sooner than they expected; that will be pleasant news for your friend, the major-domo, and make him hurry up pretty considerably, and look here; here's something about you—" existence of Homer, concerning which ancient poet Bell was enthusiastic. And now, as he rode along, it seemed ages since he saw her yesterday, quite contrary to what he had expected. He saw her face and fastened the cancella in his buttonhole. "I expect she won't ride this morning," he uttered; "or else she'd had her gallop and gave homey just my luck, and, if I were to see her, I don't know what I should say to her. I can't go on making her presents of fish. I might give her my penknife, just to create a bit of conversation. Oh, I'm making an idiot of myself."

But he still rode on, and still watched, meeting with nothing human excepting a boy driving cows, all through the valley and up the hill, the ascent of which caused his steed to puff and grunt like grampus. "I'm glad I don't meet her with this beast roaring like a bull of Bashan," he grumbled; "and now, old man, we'll have a gallop along the top, just to see if you can bend your legs."

"Will you ask Mr. Bell if he will be so kind as to tell them at the castle that there will be three more visitors than the list contains? You—you see, boys—would forget all about it, but Mr. Bell will not." "That's one for me and ten for you, Bell," says Hal, with a grin. "They are the Countess Stanhope, Lord Lane and Lord Stanhope. Their presence must have a room with a southerly aspect. Shall I read any more?" "Yes, go on," says Hal. "I have enjoyed myself very much, and, except for some very slight and sorry to leave, Lord Lane has had a beautiful yacht brought down to the coast here, and we have been out in it every day. Lord Lane is going to get one built for us on the same plan as the yacht he has just ordered. Yesterday we—Lord Lane and I—tried some deep-sea fishing, and had very good sport. He is very fond of sailing, and he and I are the only two who don't feel ill—excepting the Viceroy, who has a picture, which he will finish at Forbach."

MONSTER SEA ELEPHANT. Killed by Whalers Off the Coast of the Falkland Islands. A new and interesting attraction at the Berlin Zoological Garden is a mounted specimen of a monster sea elephant. It can claim the distinction of being the largest sea elephant that has ever been killed. It was found some 18 months ago by whalers off the coast of the Falkland Islands. They promptly surrounded the monster and subsequently slaughtered it—a no easy task—and the hide with the raw skeleton was purchased at a high price by Mr. J. F. G. Unlauff.

"I have enjoyed myself very much, and, except for some very slight and sorry to leave, Lord Lane has had a beautiful yacht brought down to the coast here, and we have been out in it every day. Lord Lane is going to get one built for us on the same plan as the yacht he has just ordered. Yesterday we—Lord Lane and I—tried some deep-sea fishing, and had very good sport. He is very fond of sailing, and he and I are the only two who don't feel ill—excepting the Viceroy, who has a picture, which he will finish at Forbach."

THE STORE SPYER. She Must Keep Informed as to What Other Shops Are Doing. "For the life of me," said the girl at the ribbon counter to the girl across the way at the chiffons. "I can't make out whether she's a shoplifter, a purchasing agent, or a store detective, indicating a woman, who had just walked away. "You're away off," said the friendly aisle manager. "She's a store spyer. We employ them in this establishment ourselves to spy on other stores, only you just don't happen to know it. They go out in various disguises. Sometimes they are the most fashionably dressed women among the shoppers; sometimes they are quiet, little, unobtrusive women, who don't look as if they knew a bolt of cotton from a yard of wool, and sometimes the store spyer is a clever man. They start out early every morning to see what is going on in the other stores. If Mr. Smith up the street, is selling shirtwaists at 30 cents we want to find out how he can do it; if the newest thing in fall suits is going at $17, and we have just put a lot of ours in for $18, off we send the store spyer to see how it can be done; how much of it is cotton and how much wool. There is cotton and wool in a department store, which takes more nerve and more knowledge of goods. No green hand can go from the kitchen utensils to the carpets and be capable of judging all the fine shadings without knowing something about the dry goods business, and, besides, the store spyer has to carry things in her eye. She has to be able to tell when she gets back to her own shop, just how much better or worse the other stores are selling for the same price. The job's worth all the money they pay for it."

KEEP CHILDREN WELL. Your little one may be well and happy to-day, but would you know what to do if a voice tonight with the crowd, or went into convulsions or spasms to-morrow? The doctor may come to late. Have your reliable remedy at hand? Baby's Own Tablets break up colds, prevent croup, reduce fever, check diarrhoea, cure constipation and stomach troubles, help the obstinate little teeth through painlessly, and give sound, healthful sleep. And they contain not one particle of opiate or poisonous "soothing stuff"—this is guaranteed. They are equally good for the new born infant or the well-grown child. Mrs. Susan E. MacKenzie, Park's Corners, Que., says: "Before I began using Baby's Own Tablets, my little one was weak and delicate, since then she has had splendid health and is growing nicely. I find nothing so good as the Tablets when any of my children are ill. I can't say all druggists, or by mail at 25 cents a box, writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Effects of Destroying Game. (New Orleans Playmate.) One of the penalties for the wanton destruction of birds is paid in the frequent visits by insect pests which devour the crops of the field. They cost the people not only of this country, but of all the other nations which are dependent on their crops, millions in loss. Many States have laws for the preservation of the game animals, birds and fishes, but these laws have no effect on the classes for which they are really meant, and little on the majority of the people. Those who have the new-fangled destructive guns want to use them, and they will find living targets, and in too many cases they may be human beings for their shot.

DON'T KEEP HENS

CROP REPORT.

J. B. Stringer & Co., grain merchants and exporters, Chatham, submit the following report relative to the three crops: Corn—This crop has been a very good one, and has been harvested in good condition, but as about 75 per cent. were late, will take two weeks yet of favorable weather to secure. A few bushels to count. The crop will be fine the yield is not large, 10 to 15 bushels to the acre, so there is promise of not more than about 70 per cent. of last year's yield, and as prices for the new crop are a little lower than last year at opening of season, farmers are not free sellers. Corn—This crop has come on very much better than first expected of it, due to course to the unusually favorable weather. While much was planted late, and little reliance placed on it, yet it is now getting to count. The crop will be no bumper one, in fact is estimated much under a good year, but glad to say will get well ripened, something that hasn't happened to the crop for three years past, to the great loss of producers and shippers. Sugar Beets—A large area of land is now threshed, and although the quality is fine the yield is not large, 10 to 15 bushels to the acre, so there is promise of not more than about 70 per cent. of last year's yield, and as prices for the new crop are a little lower than last year at opening of season, farmers are not free sellers. Sugar Co. by boat loads and train loads, producers realizing $3 a ton delivered on bank of river and on board cars. To shippers points with an increase if over normal percentage.

BERTILLON, MEASURER OF MEN

"I learned the foundations of my finger print knowledge from the English." This striking and at the same time characteristic modest utterance was made in an interview, says a writer in the London Daily Express, by M. Alphonse Bertillon, the great French anthropometrical expert, the man whose name is closely associated with the world over with the identification of criminals by measurements and finger prints.

M. Bertillon was fresh from the witness box at Bow street, where he had been giving some of his deadly finger print evidence with regard to the recent ghastly crop of Paris murders. In appearance, Mr. Bertillon is the serene thinker rather than the man of action, the scientist of the sciences, rather than the public figure of the forum. To talk with him is to see that he has thought out the finger print system bit by bit, arch by arch, loop by loop, whorl by whorl, even as he has thought out the science of anthropometry millimeter by millimeter. A high forehead, a well-balanced brow, a thin oval face, a pair of serene dark eyes, a dark moustache, obviously French, but not too pronounced in curl, a trim dark beard, a complexion strongly reminiscent of parchment, long and delicate fingers, a tall, lightish frame, and the ribbon of the Legion of Honor almost imperceptible on the lapel of his coat—such, in brief, is M. Alphonse Bertillon, the hero of his time. "Do you think, M. Bertillon," I asked him, "that the science of measurements will ever supplant the science of finger prints?" "No," he answered, very quietly. "I think the human measurement system will supplement and assist the finger print system in the ultimate marking down and tabulating of practically every known or potential criminal in the civilized world. The sister sciences will go hand in hand."

"The science that is based upon the fact that each different individual has among his bones certain characteristic shapes and sizes, and that these shapes and sizes are in unison with the science which arises from the circumstance that the finger prints of practically every individual are different from the finger prints of anybody else. Both these truths and the application of them to practical criminal detection have been of enormous service to us in France, and have helped to rid respectable society of many of the human parasites who prey upon it."

"And what led you to take up the study and practice of finger print science?" "Reading of the work of Herschel and Galton, I read into what they were doing as pioneers of the finger print system. I became deeply interested. I soon found that they were right, and I started collecting finger prints if friends and criminals myself. My subsequent experience in actual criminal practice has shown me that if two finger prints tally exactly it is practically certain that they are the prints of one and the same person, however many of the population of the entire world may have passed that way and have handled the article on which the print has been made."

"You don't say that the prints of your own gift to the world, the science of the measurement of man, how did you first come to think that out?" "Well," answered M. Bertillon, with the ghost of a smile, and a tiny, deprecating shrug of the shoulder. "I saw the need for some such system for the identification of criminals. I saw that the evidence of the photographs and the official descriptions might very easily be made useless, and indeed has in many, many cases been quite nullified by the criminal's own little tricks of disguise. All the previously photographed, and officially described criminal had to do was to alter the style of his hair, and the color of it, to distort his features, and in a moment he was ready to alter the eyebrows, or what not, and he had passed beyond the likelihood of recognition."

"But a man cannot change his bones. He cannot disguise the exact length of his nose, of his forearm, the length and width of his head, the length of the left middle finger, the length of the left foot. "You don't say that the prints of the civilized world have the same combination of measurements. This is a central fact, together with the marvelous distribution of the finger print record, has been of immense assistance to us in France in the detection of criminals, and the more of these records we take the more strongly is the efficacy of the two systems of finger printing and measurement substantiated and proved."

"Sir William Herschel, cited above by M. Bertillon as one of his teachers, took many finger print observations while in India, and was so convinced of the efficacy of the principle that he brought back to England a mass of evidence on the subject. This was of great value to M. Bertillon. Francis Galton, the other English finger print pioneer, after long and close study of a vast number of finger prints, estimated that the chance of two sets of finger prints being identical is less than one in 640,000,000. Thus is the march of science going triumphantly on, to the harassing and hindering of the old-fashioned police and their deeds against society and social peace and safety. By a gracious feature of the internationality of France, France, by M. Bertillon, has learned from us, and by Scotland Yard, have learned from France. To the comfort of peace loving citizens, and to the terror of evil doers, be it known that there has long existed between Paris and Scotland Yard a real style sheet of tenite cordiale."

SOME ARE BORN "BLEEDERS." Peculiar Malady Studied by a German Physician. The rare peculiarity known as haemophilia, or "bleeding sickness," has been brought to notice anew by Dr. Boehme, a German physician. It continues for generation after generation in certain families, and is characterized by an extraordinary tendency to hemorrhage, making the extraction of a tooth a dangerous operation, while even a pin-prick may lead to severe or fatal bleeding. The cause seems to exist in an unexplained failure of the blood to coagulate like normal blood. The disease has been studied in more than 60 European families, and in the Mangel family has been followed for more than a century. John Peter Mangel and wife were not "bleeders." Of their 11 children three sons were affected, and from observations on 212 members of these and subsequent generations of the family a most singular law of heredity has deduced. This law is that, while the disease is practically confined to males, it is never transmitted by these males to their sons, but only by the women, who are normal, to their sons.

Some of John Bull's Expenses. (Leads Weekly.) As idea of the cost of running a great nation may be gained from the statement that England's balance sheet for the last fiscal year shows an expenditure of considerably more than three-quarters of a billion dollars. The exact amount was £13,700,000. To meet this revenue was raised amounting to £12,700,000, leaving a surplus on hand of £1,000,000. Of this vast expenditure $20,000,000 went to the army and navy, $20,000,000 to dispensing justice and £12,151,000 was spent on education. There is only one entry under expenditure which reveals the magnitude of the empire's business. It is that for "stationery and printing," and shows that three-quarters of a million pounds was expended on this item alone during the past year. (Cleveland Leader.)

"Can't see why you're so smitten with her." "Why, because she's so deucedly pretty." "Beauty's only skin deep." "Well, great Scott! I'm no cannibal. That's deep enough for me."

No Rheumatism in Japan

almost an unknown thing in the Island Empire. The cause of this is the abstemiousness of the diet of the Japs excess of food, (that is the least particle of food more than the system requires,) is a poison to the system, and one of the primary causes of rheumatism. The delicate membrane surrounding the joints becomes inflamed, and that agonizing pain, so well known to those who have had rheumatism, follows. If not promptly attended the disease spreads, joints swell and become stiff, and finally the sufferer is a cripple. Thomas Wilton, Montague, says:—"Tack's Rheumatic Bone Oil cured both myself and wife of rheumatism. I was on the point of selling my farm from inability to work it when your Oil came before my notice. I cannot say too much in praise of it." If suffering from rheumatism, lame back, neuralgia, etc., ask your medicine dealer for Tack's Bone Oil or send 50c direct to The Tack Bone Oil Co, Limited, Smith's Falls.

Royal Household Flour Is Always Uniform—Why?

It is one thing to make flour pure, well balanced and strong, it is another thing to have it uniformly so—to make flour that is precisely the same in purity and nutriment on Saturday as on Monday—in May as in November.

Because the "Royal Household" mills have the finest testing equipment available and unlimited resources for securing perfect wheat, they can and do produce—every working day in the year—a flour of precisely uniform strength, nutriment and purity.

That is why Royal Household Flour makes always the very best bread and pastry, year in and year out.

That is why Royal Household Flour is the most reliable—the most successful flour—and being scientifically purified by electricity it is the purest—the best of all flours.

The next flour you buy ask for "Royal Household"—and try it for yourself.

KITLEY FALL FAIR

Thursday and Friday last were two eventful days in Frankville's history--those of the annual fair of the Kitley Township Agricultural Society.

"The same old fair, in the same old place," always draws a large gathering of people from all over the neighborhood, besides many from Athens, Brockville, Delta and Smith's Falls.

The weather shined up was perfect in every way, consequently everybody had an excellent day's outing. The directors, from the genial president, Mr. S. Hanton, down to the jolly constable, all wore a broad smile of satisfaction at the fine weather and at the large and orderly concourse of people. A pleasing sight was the presence of the veteran ex-president, Mr. David Dowley, on the grounds. His friends are many, and all were pleased to see him.

The board of management is composed of shrewd business men, who, during the past year vastly improved the already pretty grounds, and also erected suitable buildings for the proper display of live stock and poultry.

The exhibits were better than ever, and greatly exceeded the high-water mark reached last year. The palace contained many really fine articles of the agriculturists care and attention, and the ladies' work, as usual, had a crowd of visitors, who declared the showing better "than has been." All the other classes were above the average, while that of horses and cattle was extra good.

The "doings" were greatly enlivened by the choice repertoire of music rendered by the Rideau Concert Band of Smith's Falls.

A fine exhibit of pianos by Cordingley Bros, Brockville, was in the hall.

Mrs Empey came to Athens about twelve years ago from Easton's Corners, where nearly the whole of her long and useful life had been spent, and during her declining years was comforted by the constant loving care of her daughter and by the frequent visits of relatives and old friends.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs Richard Crummy, Frankville; Mrs Coolidge, Jasper; Mrs Johnston, Smith's Falls; Mrs Patterson and Miss Empey, Athens; Mr H E Empey, Brockville; A Empey, Papillion, Neb; S G Empey, Elrene, Oklahoma

The funeral took place on Tuesday and interment was made at Easton's Corners

THE HUNTING SEASON

Nimrod was a mighty hunter, but had he hunted in the "Highlands of Ontario" that are reached by the Grand Trunk Railway System he would have been a mightier one. Nimrod hunted for glory, but those who go up into the several districts in Ontario hunt for game and have no difficulty in finding it. The regions in which deer abound are the "Musokota Lakes," "Lake of Bays," "Maganetawan River," "Georgian Bay," "Lake Nipissing," the "French River," "Kawartha Lakes" and on the line of the Canoe Atlantic between Scotia Junction and the boundary of Algonquin Park. The open season is from November 1st to November 15th.

For moose, the best region in Canada is found in Temagami, where the season opens October 16th and continues until November 15th.

The open season for ducks in Ontario is from September 1st to December 15th and for partridge September 15th to December 15th.

A beautifully illustrated book "Haunts of Fish and Game" giving descriptions of the different hunting districts, game laws, maps, etc, sent free on application to J Quinlan, District Passenger Agent, Bonaventure Station, Montreal

METZ-PATTERSON

At the home of Mrs. J. Patterson, Athens, on Wednesday evening last, her daughter Miss Carrie was united in marriage to Charles Metz, commission merchant of Tampa, Florida. Rev. W. W. Giles performed the ceremony.

Cut flowers and garlands of green in profusion decorated the pretty home. The bride, who was unattended, wore a clinging gown of white voile de soie over taffeta with trimmings of d'Alencon. A coronet of orange blossoms held in place the veil and a shower bouquet of white bridal roses, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern was carried. Preceding the ceremony, which took place before a bank of ferns and beneath an arch of evergreens and white roses, Mrs. (Dr) J. Patterson sang most sweetly the hymn "Oh, Promise Me," and to the strains of the wedding march the bride entered the parlor with her brother A. M. Patterson, who gave her away, and during the progress of the ceremony the piano was played in subdued tones by Miss Berney. At the conclusion of the ceremony and the receiving of congratulations the guests accompanied the happy couple to the dining-room, which was decorated with carnations, sweet peas and smilax, and an exquisite wedding dejeuner was partaken of. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold watch and chain. About 40 guests were present and among those out of town were Rev. W. W. Giles and Mrs. Giles, of summit, N. J.; Dr. and Mrs. Patterson, of Burlington, Iowa; Miss Johnson, Smith's Falls; Miss Dixon, Greenbush; Mr. Bolton, Portland; Mrs. Crummey, Miss Nellie Crummey, Me-srs. S. Crummy and A. Crummey, of Frankville; Mr. and Mrs. G. Taplin of Addison, and Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Patterson, Miss Giles, Miss K. McLean, G. Buckman, and Dr. Clave, of Brockville. The bride's going away gown was a mixed tweed of grey and green with white felt hat trimmed with wings and green velvet. Mr. and Mrs. Metz left that evening via Brockville and Montreal for their new home in Tampa, Florida.

Loss of Appetite

Is commonly gradual; one dish after another is set aside till few remain. These are not eaten with much relish, and are often so light as not to afford much nourishment.

Loss of appetite is one of the first indications, that the system is running down, and there is nothing else so good for it as Hood's Sarsaparilla--the best of all tonics.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women

They are the prescription of a specialist.

This is an age of specialists--men who give all their time, study, and practice to some particular branch of medicine. These are specialists of the eye, specialists in diseases of the lungs, specialists in diseases of women. It costs something to get a prescription from a specialist, but it is worth all it costs, when you get it.

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women are the prescription of Dr. Hugo, of Paris, a specialist of forty years' experience in diseases of women.

It embraces the latest medical discoveries of the other skilled physicians in the world. It might be called a compound prescription of the world's best specialists.

No ordinary physician can prescribe such a remedy. The better the physician, the nearer will be his prescription to that of Dr. Hugo.

Thousands of women in Europe have paid $50 for a consultation with Dr. Hugo and got the same remedy. Considering the benefit they received from it, it was worth $50, but it costs women now only 50c. for six dozen tablets--enough for an extended treatment.

It is a compound remedy containing all the tonics and alteratives that any woman can need, no matter what her condition. For women suffering from a run-down condition, or any weakness peculiar to her sex, it is now acknowledged to be beyond doubt or question the best remedy available to-day. It makes healthy women.

A BUTTERFLY FARM IN A CITY FLAT.

To create butterflies of new and gorgeous colors in a city flat is the hobby pursued by Dr. Otto Seifert at his home in East Eighty-fourth street.

It was in his boyhood home in Hanover, Germany, that the first became interested in butterflies. His father didn't want him to play in the streets, so he sent him to the woods and fields.

Now he has butterflies by thousands and is raising more all the time. Caterpillars are coming to him from friends in all parts of the world.

Dr. Seifert is now making experiments of special interest. By means of the application of the extreme of heat and cold to the caterpillars, butterflies of more gorgeous, or more sober colors, are the result.

In doing this he is following out the discovery first made by George Dornmeister, a Bavarian school teacher, and since followed up by August Weismann, Dr. Standfuss in Zurich and W. H. Edwards in this country.

Dr. Seifert discovered that by putting the pupae of the butterflies belonging to the family Arctiidae away in the cold of his cellar for a certain length of time he secured a modification in form and color which made the resulting butterflies resemble a butterfly of another northern clime.

Dr. Seifert has taken a butterfly common from Labrador to the Cape of Good Hope, and by the incubation of the pupae he has achieved specimen which have an individuality of their own.

The pupae from northern form of butterfly is put as soon as its shell is hard into the refrigerator or freezer for two hours before being taken to the freezer for its long sleep, to accustom it to the freezing temperature.

Extreme heat seems to retard development just as cold does. Freshly formed pupae of the Arctic are exposed to a temperature of about 100 Fahrenheit for 100 hours.

The apparatus employed in these transformations is exceedingly simple. It is an ordinary icebox or freezer, where the chrysalis are kept in the least trouble it, and it is prepared to assume the color which it would assume in the extreme north.

From the freezer it is transferred to a cardboard box in a living room until the butterfly is ready to emerge.

Dr. Seifert has had many queer things to do with his caterpillars and rearing of butterflies. His care of his caterpillars is so simple that any one can do it.

One species which he reared while another was in the incubator, and the two were reared together on anything but the twigs of the very food of caterpillars.

WOMEN IN ADVERTISING.

Here, as Elsewhere, They Are Making Forward Strides.

Women advertisers are in the field to stay, and those in Philadelphia are no laggards in the business. Two young women of bright minds, who were both educated at Vassar College are occupying very lucrative positions as advertisers.

The brighter the girl, the more originality she has in this particular line, the better her opportunity for a lucrative employment. Just at the present time woman's work in this line is mostly in the purely feminine fields of dress and trinkets, but there is no reason to doubt that with enlarged experience she will have an opportunity to direct some of the advertising of the general departments of the larger shops.

One Day Was Enough. A Kansas editor tried the experiment of telling the unvarnished truth in his journal one week. He didn't get beyond the first day. This item appeared on Monday.

Married—Miss Sylvia Rhode to Jas. Carman, last Sunday evening at the Baptist Church. The bride was a very ordinary town girl, who doesn't know any more than a rabbit about cooking and never helped her mother three days in her life. She is not a beauty, by any means, and has a snail like complexion. The bridegroom is an up-to-date loafer, has been living off the old folks all his life, and don't amount to much, now. They will have a hard life while they live together.

The editor is still in the hospital.

TRIED ALL ELSE TO NO BENEFIT

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured His Diabetes.

St. Mary's Ferry—He Tells the Story Himself.

St. Mary's Ferry, York County, N.B.—Sept. 24.—(Special.)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills cured my Diabetes, one of the most deadly forms of Kidney Disease, has been satisfactorily proved by Mr. Thos. Harrison, of this place. Speaking of his cure Mr. Harrison says:

"I began to suffer with severe pains above the region of the Kidneys. When I lay down it was torture to get up again. My appetite failed and I lost flesh rapidly.

"I doctored with several physicians but it was all no use. Shortly after this I began to urinate blood and then I knew I was in the grip of that dread monster Diabetes.

"At this time a friend prevailed on me to try a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and they did me so much good I continued the treatment till I had used up three boxes. They cured me completely.

Britain Raising Its Eyes. "There is little use in trying to make marks when we run the eyes of the nation in childhood." This statement was made by Sir James Crichton-Browne, an eminent London physician.

"In two generations half the people will be blind and the other half wearing spectacles, unless something is done to check the injury to the eyes of the children," he declared.

Professor H. R. Kenwood, M. D., declares that on the important question of the care of their eyes, the children are in complete ignorance.

They work under bad light that injures even good eyes, he declared, and are kept at work with eyes that badly need expert attention. Hundreds of them are even made partially blind from want of mere common sense and a little elementary knowledge of the matter.

MUSCULAR RHEUMATISM, produced by exposure, if neglected, develops into the chronic form with almost incredible rapidity. South American Rheumatic Cure is a quick-acting, safe, simple and harmless cure, acts directly on the system, not a liniment to temporarily deaden pain. An internal treatment that will absolutely cure most acute forms in from one to three days.—Lit

Won't Dance. Young men of the New York swell set no longer dance, and the girls are frantic over the situation. When a youth is invited to a social of any kind, he makes careful inquiries about the dancing end of the game. When he finds out that this is to be a feature he says "Good-bye!" He is willing to cut up a goose or sit out in the open air and sing songs or even go to the show, but he will not even play cards with anyone.

Tips in Department Stores. (Philadelphia Ledger.)

The tipping evil is growing in New York despite the discussion aroused by the new law aimed at purchasing agents. The latest claim to demand tips is in department stores. According to an experienced shopper the woman who does not recognize and satisfy the itching palm of the girl who waits on her will obtain poor service in some stores. Akin to this is the store "graft" in which many of the clerks figure as regular addition to their income. This is the change left over from purchases, at odd prices, such as $1.43, $1.67, etc. Usually it only amounts to 2 or 3 cents, but very many persons give the seller $1.50 or $1.75 and go away without waiting for the change.

This often amounts to a considerable sum in the course of a day. Sometimes it even amounts to "white money" as silver is called, and adds materially to the day's takings.

The Counter and the Choir. WANTED.—A leading retail implement dealer, in a good sized Iowa city, is in charge of the choir of the Methodist church. He needs a first class young lady for bookkeeper and stenographer, and in filling the position would like, if possible, to help along the church work by securing a lady who is a good singer, either soprano or alto, and capable of carrying her part in a mixed quartette. He needs also a good food salesman, and a man who has a first class bass voice would receive preference. Address: CONVINCED BY PRINTED TESTIMONY of the hundreds of the cured, Mrs. Benz, of 418 E. 8th street, New York, who was for years a great sufferer from Catarrh, procured two bottles of Dr. Agnew's Catarrh Powder, and it effected an absolute cure in a very short while. One puff through the blowler will clear the head and stop headache. 50 cents.—113

To Make an Indelible Impression. Tell a man once a month something you think he ought to know and in the intervening twenty-nine or thirty days he will forget it. Tell him once a day and he can't forget it. The principal retailers know what would happen to their business if they were to drop their practice of communicating daily with the public and confine themselves to the promulgation of a monthly bulletin of store news. What is good for the retailers is in this instance good for the wholesalers and manufacturers. There ought to be more manufacturers hammering persistently in the newspapers day by day to make a lasting impression on consumers.

HOUSE OF COMMONS GALLERY.

Accommodations for Press Inadequate—Reporters Summarily Ejected. (London Chronicle.)

Though no one now questions the right of the press to report Parliamentary proceedings, it is strange that in this land of liberty of speech and freedom of the press it should ever have been possible to exclude reporters or make their action a breach of the privileges of Parliament.

Down to the year 1871, however, any member of the House of Commons could at his mere will and pleasure cause the representatives of the press to be summarily ejected by simply rising in his place and informing the Speaker he "needed strangers." The Speaker was thereupon bound to order all strangers to withdraw, including, of course, the reporters.

There are perhaps now only a few gallery men who remember those "good old times" when, in consequence of such occurrences, they were politely removed by the officials and were left free to spend a pleasant evening together at a hostelry—now pulled down—in New Palace yard. In such cases there was generally some amateur reporter among the M. P.'s who furnished the newspapers with more or less accurate accounts of what was said and done in the absence of the professional stenographers.

Individual members of the House having, however, frequently since the year 1871, resolved that for the future strangers should not be excluded, except after motion put from the chair without amendment or debate, and carried by a majority.

For a long time, admission to the gallery was almost exclusively confined to the London morning and evening papers. The provincial papers were not supplied with a summary of the debates. In the "Six some of the great provincial newspapers succeeded in obtaining admission for their own staff of reporters, and this rendered it necessary to obtain the necessary accommodation for the press, especially on "big" nights, is still totally inadequate, as indeed, it is in all other parts of the house.

How the Skeptical Are Convinced. The first impulse of a man who succeeds in so investing his money that, though safe, it yields him an unusually large return, is to put out the increment at equally profitable interest. That is why the hesitating tradesman who begins with a two-inch newspaper "ad.," as a feeder rapidly branches out into display. Newspaper advertising is the one investment that brings such returns as are generally anticipated only from speculation.

We Measured the Baby. We measured the riotous baby Against the cottage wall; And the boy was just so tall— A royal tiger lily With spots of purple and gold, And a heart with a jeweled chalice The fragrant drop to hold.

His eyes were wide as bluebells, His mouth like a flower unbloomed; Two little feet like funny white mice Peeped out from his snowy gown. And we thought, with a thrill of rapture, That yet had a touch of pain, When Summer comes, with golden rod, We'll measure the boy again.

And me, in a darkened chamber, With the sunshine shut away, Thro' tears that fell like a bitter rain We measured the boy to-day. And the little bare feet that were dimpled, And sweet as a budding rose, Lay side by side together, In the hush of a long repose.

Up from the dainty pillow, White as the rising dawn, The fair little face lay smiling, The dimples of heaven above, And the dew little face, like rose leaves, Dropped from a rose, lay still, Never to scratch at the mosquito, That crept to the shrouded sill.

We measured the sleeping baby, With ribbons white as snow, For the little white velvet casings That covered him below. And out of the darkened chamber We went with a childless man, To the height of the stiles and gates, Our little one had grown.

The Amount of Water to Drink. The normal amount of water daily required is a mathematical calculation regulated by the sensation of thirst; a reduction of the body of water by 1 per cent. produces thirst. Life can be sustained for a longer time when water is taken without food than when dry food is taken without water, holding in solution waste products is excreted in twenty-four hours from the body weighing 105 pounds; this will serve as an approximate guide to the necessary amount of water for daily ingestion.—Woman's Medical Journal.

Philosophy of Helen Dodge. A clever young Kansas girl supplies the following to the Club Member, official organ of the Kansas Women's Clubs: Lots of women don't begin to cry until they find their handkerchiefs.

What puzzles one about the Mormons is: Where do they get the money? Sometimes an old bachelor gets married because he is tired of himself. It is usually the one that winds the clock who regulates the household.

Often a woman buys so many bargains that she has nothing left to pay for what she needs. The difference between a skin and a complexion is that you can get the latter at a drug store.

About the only library which domestic felicity really requires consists of a check book and a cook book. Women write most of the short stories that get into print these days, but as they also read them, the men should not complain.

Men do not fully realize their unimportance in commerce. Women do the buying men merely the paying. Ask any advertiser. Men wear clothes for comfort; women for adornment. Men adjust their clothes to their figures; women adjust their figures to their clothes.

Creations Without Eyes. Marvelous are the lives of creatures condemned to live always in darkness as black as night. One of these creatures is a very rare specimen and is styled the cavern beetle. It was first discovered some seventy years ago in an Austrian cave, the grotto of Adelsberg. One specimen only was caught and though its discoverer offered a prize of $25 for another, it was fourteen years before a second was found. Brought out from its gloomy haunts into the light of the sun, dies almost immediately. The sunlight seems to wither and shrivel up these insects, just as though they had been placed in front of a hot fire. Yet, in spite of this fact it is known that the blind cave creatures are descended from others which originally lived in the light of day.

Southampton's Success. Tidal oddities are the secret of the prosperity of Southampton, which is used as a port of entry in spite of the fact that under ordinary conditions costly dredging would be required to make the town available as a port. Southampton has four daily in place of the ordinary two, and scarcely has one tide begun to ebb when a second checks its progress and gives high water again.

Owing to the position of the Isle of Wight, the tides enter both from the English Channel and the Solent, and there is but an hour of ebb to each tide. This enables the largest steamers to dock at any time, and has drawn largely from Liverpool, with its costly improvements.

BURGLARS AND POLICE IN PISTOL DUEL.

Raiders Scared Off Without Booty, but One Officer is Wounded.

Bomb Fiends Wreck and Fire a House in Which Twenty Persons Sleep.

Yellow Fever Fight in Mexico Has Been Marked by Gratifying Success.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 2.—A pistol fight between two burglars, who had blown open a safe in the post office in Glastonbury, and two policemen, was fought early to-day on the East Hartford bridge. One of the officers, Edward Hayes, was wounded twice. The burglars escaped into the woods in Windsor, although pursued by a deputy sheriff's posse. Officer Hayes is at the hospital, but his injuries are not serious. The burglars did not secure any booty at Glastonbury, as the dynamite charge was so heavy that the safe was shattered and the interior of the post office wrecked, the debris covering the safe so that it was difficult to get at the money drawer.

Town people who had been awakened by the explosion telephoned to the Hartford police to watch the East Hartford bridge for burglars.

Within a minute after the explosion flames had nearly enveloped the rear walls of the building. The police believe that the Black Hand, Italian assassins, threw the bomb. The object of the attack was the rear door of an Italian barber shop on the ground floor. The fire was extinguished with slight damage.

Yellow Jack in Mexico.
Mexico City, Oct. 2.—The Superior Board of Health reports that there was one death from yellow fever yesterday in the hospital at Vera Cruz, and that there are two other cases. There is one case at Tierra Blanca and three at Tecapana. One patient has been discharged cured. Merida, capital of Yucatan, reports one case, but there is nowhere any epidemic of this disease, and the Gulf ports are remarkably free from it. The passing of September without an outbreak of yellow fever is regarded as a great victory of sanitary science over the disease. Cooler weather will soon set in, which will check any fever which might originate in the hot country.

Bomb Fiend's Work.
New York, Oct. 2.—A bomb containing both dynamite and a quantity of inflammable oil was thrown at the rear of a crowded five-story tenement house at 13rd street and 8th avenue to-day. Over twenty persons, who were sleeping at the time, were hurled from their beds by the explosion, and two of them were carried from the house unconscious.

Didn't Discuss Morocco.
Rome, Oct. 2.—The reports received here relative to the meeting yesterday between Chancellor Von Buelow and the Italian Foreign Minister, Signor Tittoni, at Baden Baden, say that Morocco or the Franco-German agreement was not discussed, the subjects considered being the Hungarian crisis and affairs in the Balkans.

N. Y. LIFE PRESIDENT REFUSES THE BOOKS.

Some Very Rotten Transactions Revealed in the Inquiry Yesterday.

New York, Oct. 2.—George W. Perkins, Vice-President of the New York Life Insurance Company, and a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan and Company, created a stir before the Legislative Investigating Committee to-day when he objected to a request that he produce certain books of J. P. Morgan and Company to explain some of the firm's dealings with the New York Life Insurance Company in connection with the sale of navigation syndicate bonds to the life insurance company. He said he would furnish copies of the entries referring to the transactions in question, but preferred not to bring the books. Mr. Hughes, counsel to the Legislative committee, for the first time during the investigation, showed signs of anger, and said loudly: "I shall have to require that those books be produced."

"All right," replied Mr. Perkins.

Perkins a Financial Poa-ah.
Testifying to the purchase of $4,000,000 of Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis bonds from J. P. Morgan & Company, by the New York Life Insurance Company, Mr. Perkins said he obtained the bonds at $400,000 less than the price stipulated by the life insurance company's finance committee. Questioned by Mr. Hughes, Mr. Perkins said that in this purchase and sale he himself represented both the New York Life Insurance Company as purchaser and the firm of J. P. Morgan & Company as seller.

Testimony was given by Henry Rogers Winthrop, financial manager of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, to the effect that when the Navigation Syndicate, which turned out to be unprofitable, made calls for money on the George H. Squire trustee account for payments on account of syndicate participation, the money for the payment was obtained by borrowing $250,000 from the Equitable Trust Company. Of this amount $27,000 had been repaid. Mr. Winthrop said that in his opinion the money advanced to the George H. Squire trust account on this transaction was really the money of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Where Did the Money Come From?
Henry Greaves, a clerk employed by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, continued his testimony before the Legislative Insurance Investigation Committee to-day. He gave further details of the payment of checks to the George H. Squire trustee account. Concerning one entry of $400,000 deposited to the account on July 12, 1901, and the immediate withdrawal of the sum by draft, Mr. Greaves said he knew nothing. He did not know where the money came from nor by whom it was withdrawn. He could supply no information as to the profits of a half interest in Chicago & Alton Syndicate credited to the Squire trustee account.

Other syndicate profits in 1902 and 1903 deposited with the American Deposit & Loan Company to the credit of this account witness was unable to explain. On May 1, 1901, a new book for these entries was opened, and a balance of $62,770 was credited. The bank deposit book was kept by Thomas D. Jordan, at that time comptroller of the Equitable. Checks for deposit to this account, Mr. Greaves said, he delivered to Mr. Jordan.

Equitable Paid This Amount.
Another entry in the Squire trustee account under date of May 2, 1902, was the first payment of $62,500 on a navigation syndicate call by James H. Hyde. This money was borrowed from the Equitable Trust Company by James H. Hyde on May 7, on the participation certificate. Witness knew nothing of this, merely making the entries in the direction of Mr. Squire. Another entry showed a loan from the Equitable Trust Company of $65,000, being the second call on the Navigation Syndicate, and this was paid upon the order of Mr. Hyde. On Oct. 8, 1902, another loan of $75,000 was made from the Equitable Trust to cover another call in the Navigation Syndicate, and on Jan. 16, 1903, a 10 per cent. call required another loan of $25,000. July 20, 1903, a fifth call demanded $25,000, which was also loaned by the Equitable Trust Company.

The Dividends Not Credited.
These calls were paid on the order of James H. Hyde. Mr. Squire drew a check for $20,000, and on April 18, 1904, another for $7,500, to reduce the loan from the Equitable Trust Company on account of the Navigation Syndicate, but when the dividends came in they were not credited to the George H. Squires trustee account. This syndicate account is still running, and is carried on the books of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

No More for Politics.
President John A. McCall, of the New York Life Insurance Company, has sent out to the agents of the company circulars in reference to his contributions to the Republican National Committee on behalf of the New York Life. After calling attention to his testimony before the Insurance Investigation Committee, in which he said he consented to the New York Life's contributions to the Republican party in order to defeat free silver, Mr. McCall says:

"McCall Thinks Country is Safe."
"The contributions have been called political by some people because they were made through a political party. They were made through a political party solely because it was not possible otherwise to reach the danger that menaced our assets. This company, under my administration, has never made a contribution for political purposes, nor will it ever do so.

"Now, as to the future. The gold standard has been irrevocably adopted. Therefore, the question of similar contributions cannot arise again during this or any subsequent administration of the New York Life. However, in order definitely to express and fix the company's position, I shall ask the Board of Trustees at its next regular meeting to pass a resolution which will make it clear to every policyholder and the public that the New York Life will never contribute to any political organization for any purpose whatever."

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 2.—Serge Governoff, the former proprietor of Novi Krai, a newspaper published at Port Arthur, Manchuria, is penniless in Toronto as the result of an experience here with two slick gentlemen who worked an old confidence game on him and got away with all his cash, amounting to $600.

CHASED BY A BIG SHARK.

Long Island Fishermen Have a Desperate Battle.

New York, Oct. 2.—Five fishermen on Long Island Sound were chased yesterday by a big shark, which viciously attacked their boat and gave them a desperate battle. Oars were used ineffectively to beat off the ravenous fish. The fight took place almost opposite Captain's Island Lighthouse. The men heard a commotion in the water and saw a long body with head submerged coming toward the boats at a furious rate.

Suddenly the head came above water and the fishermen saw it was that of a big shark, which showed its pointed teeth. The monster seemed to be mad from hunger. Several fish were thrown overboard and these the greedy man-eating fish devoured. Then it made lunges at the boats and tried to capsize them.

John Smithers fired two shots from a revolver at the shark, but this did not frighten it, and the fishermen had to row for their lives to the Port Chester shore, fighting their foe the entire way.

The shark followed the boats until the men had almost reached the beach and then disappeared.

DOMINIQUE THE MURDERER.

Verdict at Coroner's Inquest Into Mimico Stabbing Affray.

A Toronto despatch: "That the deceased, Amos Marlow, came to his death through a knife wound; that the said knife wound was inflicted by the man mentioned as Dominique, and that the man named Bruno was an accessory to the killing. The jury are of the opinion that the killing would not have happened but for drink, and that the building used as a hotel where Marlow was killed is unfit for the purpose of a hotel and conducive to excessive drinking, detrimental to the neighborhood and dangerous to public safety."

This was the verdict returned last night by the jury at the inquest conducted by Coroner McCannell into last Friday night's fatal fracas in the bar of the Windsor Hotel, Mimico. Crown Attorney Drayton and Mr. J. M. Goffrey cross-examined four of the six Italian prisoners.

Their evidence was emphatic that in taking up cudgels for his brother-in-law, Bartolo Bruno, who was engaged in an altercation with Marlow, Dominique Tavernito had clapped his hand to his right hip pocket and struck out at Marlow's groin. No knife had been seen, but deceased, on receiving this particular blow had cried out in pain, when before he had been exchanging fist-fights with him.

FIGHTING IN HUNGARY.

Socialists and Coalition Party Have a Clash.

Budapest, Oct. 2.—Between forty and fifty persons were injured in riots here to-night, when Socialists and adherents of the coalition parties, including students, clashed opposite the Royal Hotel, and for two hours there were scenes of wild, tremendous excitement.

At 8 o'clock, about fifteen hundred Socialists gathered outside the Independence Club and announced their intention of entering and clearing out the council room. A large force of police was present, and was assisted by 150 volunteer citizens. The mob made an effort to enter, but was vigorously opposed by the police. A fight ensued and amid the wildest clamor several persons were stabbed; but the Socialists were finally scattered. Fifteen minutes later, however, the Socialists again gathered. By this time many adherents of the coalition appeared and a free fight ensued. A dense mass of humanity surged in every direction, shouting and singing the Marseillaise, and other songs. Knives, sticks and stones were used vigorously.

The general situation certainly has grown worse, while the feeling throughout Hungary against the dynasty is increasing. It is stated that the Emperor has issued orders that in the event of disturbances harsh measures must be avoided, if possible.

BASUTO RISING FEARED.

Flying Force of British Has Been Dispatched From Pretoria.

London, Oct. 2.—It is stated that a flying force left Pretoria on Sept. 26th for the border of Basutoland. Since the death of Lerotodi, the paramount chief, and the report of the last German defeat in South-west Africa, the Basutos have been restless, and a war-like feeling has been simmering, ready to burst out at any moment. Young chiefs are traversing the country stirring up a sort of holy war, that is aimed more at the Boers than the British. It is alleged that the British resident at Maseru has urgently appealed to the High Commissioner to arm the farmers living on the borders. The Boers there are persistently asking permission to carry rifles. The Pondoos are also reported to be restless and anxious to join the Basutos.

The story includes a statement that Great Britain is being asked to send more troops.

HUNGARIAN TROUBLES ACUTE.

A Supposed Internal Machine Discovered.

Czaky May be Asked to Form a Cabinet.

Franco-Russian Commercial Treaty Signed.

Budapest, Hungary, Oct. 2.—A tin box filled with powder of some kind was found this morning under the staircase of a hotel in which the coalition leaders were meeting. The box, which is alleged to be an internal machine, was taken to police headquarters for examination.

The fact that Count Albin Czaky, president of the Upper House of the Hungarian Diet, has been summoned to an audience to-morrow is now considered here as implying that he will necessarily be invited to form a cabinet. On the contrary there is a disposition in many quarters to believe a disposition to Fejervary may be recommended to the premiership. The latter is now understood to support the contention that Hungary has the right to establish independent customs in her territory. This has created a favorable impression.

The nationalist students are demanding the expulsion from the university of all students of socialist tendencies. The leaders of the coalition majority and the newspapers are doing their utmost to calm the political passions and prevent a clashing of the factions during the street demonstrations, warning the population that the reactionaries would thereby be given a pretext for oppressive action.

FORGER GETS BIG HAUL.

New York Bank Swindled Out of Large Amount.

New York, Oct. 2.—The details of a plan whereby the National City Bank of this city recently was victimized by a clever forger, came out to-day. The forger presented a bogus cheque bearing the name of a well-known Stock Exchange firm and received in return securities valued at about $300,000. The institution is believed to be a prominent National Bank operating in the financial district.

Pearl & Co., stock brokers, in William street, recently negotiated a one day loan for $300,000 with this institution. On Wednesday a cheque for the amount, plus $7.50 for interest, was presented at the bank by a stranger, who requested the security deposited with Pearl & Co. for their loan. The bank is one with which Pearl & Co. never had an account, so the forgery was not discovered until the cheque had passed through the clearing house exchanges, when it was branded as fictitious. Transfer of the securities was at once stopped.

It is believed that the forger had an intimate knowledge of Pearl & Co.'s affairs. E. P. Slayback, junior member of the firm, said: "If the forgery should involve any loss the bank will be amply able to stand it."

"The odd amount of forged cheque," added Mr. Slayback, "represents a day's interest at 4 1/2 per cent. As a matter of fact, the loan is recorded on our books at 4 per cent. Clearly somebody must have had knowledge of the loan. Yet had it been some one in our employ the interest rate would have been computed at 4 1/2 per cent." The securities include 1,000 shares of United States Steel common, 1,000 shares Rock Island common, 1,000 shares of Metropolitan Street Railway, 500 shares Missouri Pacific, 200 shares North American Company, 47 American Tobacco Company 6 per cent. bonds, and some Wabash debenture B bonds.

SCANDAL IN FRENCH CONGO.

Startling Report of Count De Brazza Received in Paris.

Paris, Oct. 2.—M. Clementel, Minister of the Colonies, has received the report of the mission to the French Congo, sent out last spring under Count De Brazza, who on the journey died. In connection with the sending of this mission a considerable sensation was aroused owing to the publication of charges against M. Gentil, Commissioner-General of the French Congo, alleged maladministration and great cruelty towards the natives. M. Gentil is now in Paris seriously ill.

Among the cases of cruelty cited in the report is that of several natives who were flogged to death with knotted whips. It is also asserted that to force the natives to pay taxes the Colonial Office at Bangui, in May, 1904, imprisoned 58 women and ten children, and that within five weeks 47 of these died of starvation.

A letter from Count De Brazza, dated Aug. 24, says: "I found the conditions at Bangui intolerable. The population there was being destroyed by requisitions. Everything was done to hide the true state of affairs from the mission, which, however, discovered serious abuses. No reform is possible without a change of administration. I return with the belief that the despatch of my mission was necessary, as otherwise in a short time we should have to face worse scandals than those confronted by the Belgians."

GUELPH CHIEF CENSURED.

Must Pay Expenses of Constable He Obstructed.

A Guelph, Ont., despatch: The Police Commissioners have rendered judgment in the charge made by County Constable Merewether against Chief of Police Randle. A prisoner had been placed in the cells by High Constable Merewether to be detained, pending the arrival of a constable from Milton to take him to that town on a charge of horse stealing. The constable arrived, intending to take his prisoner back by the return train. However, by interference of the Chief of Police, he was unable to get his prisoner out of the cells, and was put to additional expense.

The board censured the Chief, and directed that he should pay the entire expenses incurred by the constable from Milton and other expenses in connection with the matter.

BRITAIN AND THIBET.

China Wants to Amend the Existing Treaty.

Washington, Oct. 2.—A conference will be held in the near future in Calcutta, India, at which it is hoped that the difference between China and Great Britain in regard to the treaty of the latter country with Thibet will be adjusted. At this conference, which will have as its purpose the framing of a new treaty between Great Britain and China concerning Thibet, the Chinese Minister in London, Chang Ia von, and the Viceroy probably will be the British representative.

China never recognized the treaty Colonel Younghusband made with the Thibetan authorities, and protested against it as soon as the military expedition returned from Lhasa. The first commissioner who conferred with Lord Curzon did not make much progress in the negotiations, whereupon they were temporarily stopped, to be taken up again within a few weeks.

His Friend Made Some Excuse, and Promising to Return Soon, Withdrew After Borrowing Governoff's Camera, Worth $35, which he Prized Very Highly.

Russian was ill in bed the most of the day, and also on Saturday and Sunday.

On Monday he decided to make some inquiries about his friends, and went to the American Hotel, at York and Wellington streets, where they were supposed to be stopping. The informant got there was that they had their bills and left on Friday.

Thinking that they were probably sightseeing, Governoff returned to his hotel. The strong box was still under the bed and intact. Getting a little short of money on Wednesday, while in a Turkish bath, he spoke to one of the employers about a locksmith to open the box. Yesterday after breakfast he got the mechanic, who came and opened the box. Breaking the seal of one of the packages, Governoff was surprised to find, when the seals were broken, not crisp bank notes, but pieces of New York papers, neatly cut to the size of bank bills. Realizing that he had been the victim of a clever swindle, Governoff went to the police department, and told his story to Sergeant Reburn, who has put Detective Cuddy and Black to work. Governoff has also reported the loss of a new suit of clothes which was purchased in New York, and which was stolen from his baggage.

Placed Cash in Strong Box.

While sitting at the table it was explained to Governoff by the Frenchman that it had been thought advisable to have a strong box, which they had with them, in which to keep their money. The American produced a roll which he said was $400, and readily placed it in the box. The Frenchman talked a good deal and laid on the table a huge wad of cash. He then made a motion as if to place it in the box, at the same time inquiring as to the safety of Governoff's cash. In order to keep each lot separate, it was agreed between the Frenchman and the American that they would do the rolls up in official blue paper and label them. Governoff watched the Frenchman proceed, and after he had seen the two packages laid away in the box he drew his money from his pocket. He rolled up his own parcel and carefully placed it on top of the others. The Frenchman then took the key to the strong box, locked and given into his care. The Frenchman kept the key, and the American saw Governoff safely to his room in the Palmer House.

London, Oct. 2.—The Italian censor stopped a despatch from Rome announcing that the King intended to appoint as Senator Mgr. The Pope replied that he was gratified at the friendly intention, but as the appointment would involve the removal of Bonomelli from his diocese he could not sanction it.

WILL MAINTAIN THE TAX.

Provincial Treasurer McCorkill's Reply to a British Agents' Delegation.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—A delegation of four representatives of a British Agents' Association to-day had an interview with Hon. J. C. McCorkill, Provincial Treasurer, with regard to the commercial travellers' tax.

The Treasurer said: "I told these gentlemen very plainly that we believed the principle of the law good and would not abolish the tax. Now there are certain matters of detail which they referred to, and on these points I will be glad at all times to receive any information they may be able to give, so that the Government may be in a position to everybody and clear to all. It is even possible that we may be able to give British agents certain advantages over foreign competitors, but that is merely a suggestion for the present. As to the law itself, however, it is working to the advantage of Canadian houses, and I see no reason to alter the principle."

ADULTERATION OF PEPPER.

Less Than Half of Samples Analyzed Found to be Pure.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—Mr. Thomas MacFarlane, chief analyst of the Government, has completed the examination of 60 samples of black peppers and 86 samples of white peppers. Of this number only 40.7 per cent. were found to be undoubtedly genuine and 47.7 per cent. were proved to be adulterated. The collection of samples was made all over the Dominion. Wheat flour was found to be a common ingredient of adulterated commodity. Other foreign substances which deteriorated the peppers were maize, starch, stone cells, and wheat starch. Where the peppers were found to be impure the percentage of foreign substance ranged from 1 to 16 per cent.

He was arrested yesterday, and has been remanded for eight days. The alleged offence was committed some time ago, but prosecution has been delayed to give the young man a chance to make good the losses.
