Spectacular Football at Truro

Acadia and Dalhousie Play Scoreless Game

Acadia and Dalhousie football teams met at Truro on Tuesday in one of the greatest games ever played in the Maritime Provinces, and after playing twenty minutes overtime neither team had been able to score. The game was then called as both teams were too exhausted to continue. The match was witnessed by eighteen hundred spectators including a large number of rooters from both colleges. About 180 fans, including the college band, went from Acadia. Although the local collegians did not win it was a great satisfaction for them to keep Dalhousie from scoring.

The game started with Dalhousie taking the kick off at 2.15 and booting the oval well over into the Acadians' territory. Following on, the Dalhousians nailed the ball well short of the half line and it went into a scrim. The Yellow and Black forwards were met by a compact bunch of Acadian muscle, but heeled out in fine shape. Before the ball could get away to the half line, the Acadia boys were through and nailed the Tiger attack with a rush. As the pignin wiggled out of the mass, Lilly took it on Dal's twenty-five yard line and drove it well up field into the sides. Driving the ball before them in a series of short dribbling plays and with a scrim that was sending the ball out almost ninety per cent. of the time, Dal succeeded in getting to within twenty yards of the Red and Blue danger line. Dropping back, Monte Haslam tried for the posts, but the ball went off to the side, and Parker coming in with a rush caught the twisting oval and after running it down field for about fifteen yards, got away a long return kick which sent the play well over the Dalhousie quarter mark.

Runner after runner was sent in by both sides to make territory, but was slammed down with scarcely a yard to show for his efforts. Jones, working like a Trojan, staged several runs, which brought the Dal faction surging onto the field with a howl of "He's away" on their lips, only to see him brought down by long, clean diving tackles. For Acadia, Porter and Tingley were doing the same class of work, while McNeil and Coster showed that they were tacklers of a high order in bringing them down.

The game at this point was near the centre lines and teetered back and forth there for some time, with the spectators shouting their defiance at each other and barking out their cheers with as much snap and vim as the players were putting into the game.

Play worked a short distance into the Acadia section of the field, when Monte Haslam got under way and took the ball for twenty yards up to the Acadia quarter mark. Here he passed to Coster, and "Ted" was away with the Acadia pack at his heels. Circling back of the runners, Haslam came up, along side his teammate once more and took a second part in the same play, going over the line with several of the Acadian players on top of him.

Unfortunately for the hopes of the Yellow and Black faction, the last pass was judged off side by Referee Buckley, and the game was resumed on the Acadia fifteen yards.

Driving everything before them in one after another half line play, the Acadia players forced the ball to Dalhousie's quarter mark, where Ross stopped the play with a long tackle that brought Acadia's series of gains to an end.

Following on too fast by the Acadia players gave Dal a free kick at this point, and Haslam sent the ball back to the centre line. From this point the Tigers forced the going and drove the ball over the Acadia lines. Porter took a chance and brought the ball out on his arm instead of touching for safety. His broken field run gained a clean twenty-five yards for the Wolfville boys.

In the second half the play opened in Dal's territory. Acadia dribbling through the Yellow and Black scrim and carrying the play with them until Lilly, by some fast running, broke into the play and scooping up the ball, drove it spinning downfield.

At times only the boot striking the ball, and the rush of the players as they followed on, could be heard, the sidelines remaining tensely silent as the play waded first one side and then the other of the centre line. Punting battles between Parker and Lilly, the opposing backs, were something worth travelling a long distance to see. Smashing runs from Monte Haslam, Jones and McNeil were offset by fast opposition plays by Beardsley, Wignere and Johnson.

It was hard, heart-breaking football on both sides, with Dal seeming to be forcing the going through her superior scrim work, but losing out through the wonderfully speedy Acadia half line returns.

After making a beautiful run down field for a fifteen yard gain, Jones was tackled hard and was out of the play for a minute, but resumed groggy but game.

Monte Haslam took the ball near the centre with every inch being fought for like a last ditch stand, and just as he got his kick away he was crowned and lay writing on the field, while the play followed his kick until some of the spectators rushed over and informed the referee of the accident. Haslam tried hard to resume, but was unable to do so, and was lead from the field with the barking encouragement of the Dal fans and the sportsmanlike cheering of the Acadia faction. White went into the half line as substitute.

From the time that Haslam was led off, the Dalhousie offensive fell off, while their defensive tightened, and drive as they would the Acadia boys could not force the ball across, though they put the play to the five yard line time and again.

Just what a scrim means to a team was demonstrated at this point, for during the next five minutes of play the Dalhousie players were off their stride and were only held by the scrim working like a well oiled machine.

With the blast of the whistle the ball was near the half line, but slightly to Acadia's advantage. Many of the spectators left the field believing the game was to end at this point, but after a short rest the players decided to play two ten-minute extra periods, and went on again.

On the resumption of the game, the Dalhousie men made a wonderful rushing drive which drove Acadia down field like a gathering of boys, then the Red and Blue lads gathered themselves and held the Tigers without an inch to gain. From this last ditch stand the Acadia players got the ball out to Johnson, who made the longest run of the day, taking it fully fifty yards and clear of the entire Dalhousie field with the exception of Lilly. The Dal back watched the speedy Acadia approach, and judging his course with the precision of a machine he laid out a long tackle, bringing the speedy Acadia runner to earth with a crash.

The play shifted ends shortly after this sensational tackle and the last overtime session began. Little difference could be seen in the form of either team at this point, both being still as determined to win as ever, and driving through to every advantage like tigers. In getting off a kick, Lilly strained some of the tendons of his leg and went limping from the field, while Marshall came on in his place.

Acadia had possession of the ball and banged it back to Marshall, who took it on the run and punted well into the Acadia zone just as the game was called, with the scoreless rivals confronting each other tired but unbeaten.

The work of Referee Buckley was sharp

To Subscribers

In order in some measure to meet the greatly increased costs of production The Acadian must fall in line with the course adopted by nearly all papers throughout Canada by increasing its subscription price. The price of paper is a serious one, being today more than three times that of a year or two ago with no probability of any decrease for several years.

Beginning with January let our subscription price will be $2.00. Subscriptions or renewals offered to that date will be accepted at the old price of $1.50.

DR. MACDONALD'S LECTURE

The lecture at the Baptist church on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Social and Benevolent Society brought out a good attendance, and those who were present enjoyed a rich treat. Rev. Dr. DeWolfe presided in his usual facetious manner.

Dr. MacDonald spoke on "Truth, the most potent factor in winning the great war", and his lecture was most informing and interesting. He showed how Britain and her allies by most ingenious devices succeeded in invading the enemy territory with its propaganda of truth, and at the same time preserving the morale of the army by presenting the broad principals underlying the great conflict. The speaker graphically described incident after incident in support of his contention that truth more than anything else, contributed to the winning of the great victory achieved.

Senator Shafted, of Vancouver, B. C., who died last week as the result of a paralytic stroke, was a native of Halifax county who won success in the west. He was a cousin of Mrs. W. C. L. Bauld, of Wolfville.

Kings County Farmers

Will Join N. B. Farmers in Co-operative Movement

Between one and two hundred of Kings County's representative farmers assembled in the old Nickel Theatre, Kentville on Tuesday afternoon to consider the advisability of joining with their neighbors of New Brunswick in the farmers co-operative movement. The chairman of the meeting was Richmond L. Palmeter, of Wolford, and the secretary, Erenton E. Lee.

The principal speaker was H. L. Taggart the farmers M. P. P. and he handled his subject well, so well in fact that there was a decidedly animated discussion, in which the following took leading parts.—Harold Eaton, W. W. Pineo and Gilford D. Chute, of South Berwick. The result of the meeting was that a resolution was passed that Kings County organize a branch of the United Farmers of New Brunswick, and that steps be immediately taken to organize local branches in every community in the county.

The provincial officers elected were: R. L. Palmer, President; Frank W. Foster, Vice President; F. W. Graham, Secretary and Treasurer. Executive Committee: A. H. Westcott, Guy Fuller, S. G. Stewart, Wesley Graves, W. A. Reid, and L. E. Shaw. This committee will arrange for the holding of the next meeting.

OLD FRENCH-CANADIAN CHANSONS COLLECTED

Quaint and Attractive Volume Revives Melodies of Colonial Times

From picturesque Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, has come a book with the title "Chansons of Old French Canada," to intrigue those who delight in resuscitations of music left forgotten in the byways of other centuries. It is a quaint and attractively printed volume, of paper covers. The title page explains that accompaniments are by Margaret Gascoigne, script by James Kennedy, and illustrations with borders of red and green, black and white, by Ethel Scott. There is a preface by C. Marius Barbeau, who rejoices that "in the desert of American uniformity the ancient rural districts of Quebec form a quaint oasis where industrialism and cupidity have not yet withered all local colour, and individual bias or charm. Leisure and gaiety have not altogether vanished. Singing and story-telling in the old style still are casually indulged in."

An interesting introduction it is, and increases the interest with which the reader will turn to the songs of love, of story, of labor, and, of course, the canoeing songs for which the early French Canadians were so famous, which follow. Here are the titles of the airs, all harmonized with the utmost simplicity: "En Roulant ma Boule," "A la Claire Fontaine," "Sur le Pont d'Avignon," "Marjann' s'en va-t-au Moulin," "La Fill'du Roi d'Espagne," "Hier, sur le Pont d'Avignon," "Sur le Pont de Nantes," "D'ou Viens-tu Bergere," "Dans les Prisons de Nantes," "Isabeau s'y Promene," "Sainte Marguerite." The copyright for the book is in the name of the Canadian Pacific Railway—New York Musical American.

A Very Pleasant Occasion

An exceedingly pleasant function took place at the Dining Room of the Wolfville Baptist church on Friday evening of last week, when the members of the Men's League and invited guests were given a supper by the Social and Benevolent Society of the church.

About one hundred and twenty-five men sat down to the bountifully supplied and temptingly prepared tables, after grace had been said by Rev. Dr. Manning, and did ample justice to the good things provided by the ladies.

After the wants of the inner man had been fully satisfied, Mr. H. W. Phinney, who presided, asked Dr. Spidle to conduct a musical program, and with Mr. D. D. Cameron, organist of the church, at the piano and Dr. Spidle leading, the whole company enjoyed a real old-fashioned concert of popular old songs.

The chairman then introduced Prof. McPhee, who gave a most informing and interesting address on "The League of Nations", which was heartily appreciated.

Dr. MacDonald spoke of the good work done by the League during the year and outlined the prospects for the future. He also gave a most eloquent and interesting address on the incident of the burying of the unknown soldier in Westminster Abbey and concluded with a delightfully written little poem which he had composed concerning the event.

The meeting closed with the singing of the national anthem.

It is to be hoped that there may be other similar occasions during the coming winter when the men of the town may have an opportunity of getting together in a social way.

Those having Friday's night's supper in charge are certainly to be congratulated upon the success achieved.

DEATH OF REV. J. B. HEMMEON

The news which came on Monday morning of the sudden death of the early morning hours of a well-known citizen, Rev. J. B. Hemmeon, was heard with much surprise and sorrow. Although in his eighty-third year no one looked upon him as an old man. On Saturday he was around town as usual but on Sunday complained of feeling unwell. A doctor attended him but found no cause for uneasiness. He retired as usual and passed away evidently in sleep. The deceased was a native of Queens county and was for many years a minister of the Methodist church. He retired from the active ministry about thirty years ago since which time he has resided in Wolfville.

Some years ago he was obliged to suffer the loss of a leg which has interfered much with recent activities. He is survived by his widow and four sons: Rev. D. B. Hemmeon, of St. John's, Nfld.; Dr. Moran Hemmeon, of Halifax; Mr. Arthur Hemmeon, of Winnipeg; and Dr. Clarence Hemmeon, of McGill University, Montreal. His oldest son, Morley, predeceased him a year or so ago. The deceased was a well-informed gentleman and an interesting companion.

The funeral was held from the Methodist church on Wednesday afternoon and notwithstanding the very disagreeable state of the weather was well attended. The service which at the request of the deceased was a simple one, was conducted by Rev. W. H. Watts, pastor of the church, who was assisted by Rev. Mr. Astbury, of Windsor, and Rev. Mr. Whitman, of Lower Horton, the interment being in Willow Bank Cemetery.

Our contemporary the Middleton Outlook has changed hands and is now being published by the new owner, Mr. P. E. Black, of Kindersley, Sask. Mr. Fred E. Cox, who established the paper twenty-six years ago is retiring to enable him to devote his whole attention to other interests. Under Mr. Cox's management the Outlook has been one of our best exchanges and has accomplished much for its constituency. THE ACADIAN is sorry to lose Mr. Cox from the fraternity, but wish the Outlook under the new management abundant success.

The members of St. George's Lodge, A. F. & A. M., had a very enjoyable session on Monday evening. At this meeting the installation of Mr. David Thompson, as Worshipful Master, took place. Mr. Thompson's health not permitting him to be present at the regular installation. There was a large attendance of members and visitors. After the business addresses were given and refreshments served.

ACADIA NOTES

On Armistice Day, Mrs. H. B. Gregory, Miss Van der Pyle, Miss Pauline Nelson and Miss Florence Holt of the Seminary staff went to Kentville and gave a free entertainment to the soldiers at the Sanatorium. The vocal solos, violin and piano selections as well as the readings were all greatly enjoyed by the men.

The Senior House Party, which is one of the big events of the year at the Seminary, occurred on Saturday evening. The reception was held first at which time there were games of all kinds and music.

The party composed of the 35 young ladies and an equal number of gentlemen friends went into the dining room after the entertainment and sat down to a sumptuous repast. Everybody had a most enjoyable time and the young men fortunate enough to be invited found the affair about the most noteworthy of the year.

On the afternoon of Nov. 14, Professor Cavicchia gave an informal talk in the Library on the spiritual significance of some of his favorite authors, and especially of Dante. We hope this will be the beginning of a series of Sunday afternoon conversations, when students and instructors will meet to talk about the books they care for most.

The Library is a busy place this year. The Librarian is giving two courses in Library Science, one in Library Methods and one in History of Libraries. Thirty students from the upper classes have elected these. In addition to attending the lectures, each student does four hours work in the Library every week, cataloging, accessioning, filing, and assisting other students in the Reference Room. Miss Pauline Parry, B. A., is the assistant in charge of the circulating and reference department, and Miss Miriam Chisholm, B. A., is in charge of the department of Canadiana. The Librarian, Mrs. Mary Kinley Ingraham, M. A., is secretary of the Maritime Library Association, a newly organized institution that has been inactive since the death a year ago of its president, Mr. E. J. Lay, of Amherst.

A pleasant evening was spent by the Middle Class of the Academy at the home of Dr. W. L. Archibald, the occasion being the birthday of Harold Archibald, a member of the class.

Some 10 of the Church of England students of the Academy spent a very pleasant evening Armistice Day at the Rectory, at the invitation of Rev. and Mrs. R. F. Dixon.

The Academy Lyceum plans on presenting a play under the direction of Miss Deane, of the Seminary staff, the last of December.

VERY GOOD EDDIE

Eddie had but half an hour in which to finish up the composition on Henry VIII, on which he was engaged. Eddie's treatment of that great man was vivid, but hardly historic. He wrote:

"Henry VIII was a king of England and the greatest widower that ever was. He was born at a place called Anno Domini and he had sixty wives. The first he ordered to be executed, but she was beheaded. He revoked the second, and the third died; and then he married Annie Bowling, the daughter of Tom Bowling. When he died he was succeeded on the throne by his Aunt Mary. Her full name was Mary Queen of Scots, or the Lay of the Last Minstrel."

Weak, Nervous and Run Down

A Condition Afflicting Thousands of People—How to Get New Health

There are thousands of people who are enduring the pains and discomfort of minor ills in the hope that the indisposition is only temporary and will be outgrown in time. Often such illnesses are not serious enough to require the attention of a doctor, but will respond to intelligent home treatment if a reliable remedy is used. Women, busy with a multitude of household cares, young women in offices or stores, or girls studying hard in school, easily fall a prey to that condition of bloodlessness known as anaemia.

The trouble need not be serious if prompt, effective measures are taken to check it in its early stages. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will restore the elements needed to bring the blood back to strength, and once the blood regains its health quality the entire body will soon show the benefit. Among the many who have found benefit through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. James J. Johnson, of Peterboro, Ont., who says: "I can personally strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills because of what they have done for me. About two years ago I felt poorly, was terribly weak nervous and run down. I was easily annoyed and worried, and my heart would flutter at the least exertion. I tried several remedies but did not find a cure until I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I took seven boxes in all and am now enjoying perfect health, and have gained in weight. I calculate the cost small when I think of the benefit I received, and I recommend the pills to all weak people."

Rich, red blood is the whole secret of good health, and from the first to the last dose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills enrich and purify the blood. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

MAKING HOME BAKING EASY

A Book that Makes this Art of the Olden Days a Modern-day Delight

From all parts of the country come reports of the great increase in home baking. In fact, it has again become the fashion, as it was in grandmothers' day, for women to take pride in their about the good things they baked at home.

To encourage this great economy, and to make it easy for the beginner, as well as to give the experienced home bakers the benefit of the most modern discoveries the Royal Baking Powder Company has published a most unique book which, in itself, is almost a course in the art of cookery.

Turning the pages there is included a wealth of information most unusual in baking and cookery. Old and famous receipts have been improved and simplified and on nearly every page there is something entirely new to serve as a surprise. Economy and ease of preparation are the keynotes of the book.

Indeed there is so much of value in this contribution to good living that one wonders how it was all worked out. We find in the introduction that it is the result of three years of constant research and experimenting by the Royal Educational Department, which is conducted for the benefit of all housewives interested in the health, economy and betterment of the home table.

The janitor of St Ann's school, Glace Bay, has had his pay increased $45 a month, he now gets $180 per month. That seems like a pretty good salary for a janitor. The question arises are the salaries of teachers in Glace Bay in proportion to that of the janitor?

"Your Teeth"

By Rea Proctor McGee, M. D., D. D. S., Editor ORAL HYGIENE.

FIRST STAGE OF THE DECAY OF THE TEETH

If your knife and fork, spoon, plate, cup and saucer were left from one meal to another without thorough washing, you would change your boarding-house.

But why so particular about outside matters unless you thoroughly cleanse your own mouth after each meal?

When food is allowed to pack between and around the teeth caries, or decay as it is commonly called, gets a good start. The packed food decomposes and ferments, this makes the bacteria happy so they all move in.

As the bacteria get settled upon the enameled surface of the teeth, they cover themselves with a coating called a gelatinous poaque. Under this protective covering the bacteria grow unless they are removed by thorough cleansing.

Decay of the teeth, caries, is a disease just the same as tuberculosis or measles is a disease. In this disease the hardest tissue in the body is attacked.

The bacteria of decay are really tiny plants. They live and die as other plants do and when they die, they decompose and ferment, forming an acid. This acid, in its fresh state, will dissolve the enamel of the tooth a very little at a time at first, but the further in the bacteria they get, the more rapidly they work.

The enamel of the teeth is not sensitive. It is composed entirely of the salts of lime, into microscopic rods that are bound together by a natural cement. The rods all point toward the centre, like the bricks in an arch. Enamel is the armor plate of a tooth; when the decay gets through the armor it reaches the ends of the tiny fibres from the nerve that radiate through the body to the tooth.

It is here that you get that first sharp pain that tells there is trouble ahead, trouble that only one person can stop. Don't delay. Your teeth are too valuable.

CITY AND COUNTRY

We read and hear a great deal about "rural depopulation" in both Canada and the United States. There is no more frequent topic of discussion in the newspapers and periodicals of both countries. The statistics of both countries continue to pile up proof of the swollen growth of the cities and the lessening population of the rural districts. Nothing is said more often and with greater truth, than that it is exceedingly difficult to keep young men and women on the farm. The attractions of the city, the great advances made in the last couple of decades in the way of provisions for personal comfort, sanitation and entertainment, which are in such large measure confined to the urban centres, mainly in many cases because of their very nature, breed discontent with the country life. But it is undeniably true, at the same time, that there is no lack of discontent in the cities. City life is largely artificial. For every young man on the farm who is anxious to get into the city, there are many men, young and old, in the city, who would give anything to be on a farm. This statement may be objected to as an exaggeration; and it may be said that the city people who thus long for life in the country do so in ignorance or forgetfulness, of the hard work that that has to be done every day on the farm. Nevertheless, the Philosopher believes it to be a fact that there are far more people in the cities longing to live in the country than there are people in the country longing to live in the city. And the larger the city, the greater the proportion of young men and old men and young women and old women who have that longing. For the larger the city, the keener the struggle for existence. - Western Home Monthly.

(From the Halifax Herald)

More modern methods of publicity and packing is advocated by fruit dealers and others in Halifax who are interested in the apple industry of Nova Scotia, it was announced in Halifax yesterday. The fact that the apples are being hauled all the way across the continent from British Columbia and the state of Washington and sold in this province, which was unknown to many until the last few days, has created added interest in the subject.

Many Nova Scotians who have been buying apples from outside have never known that they came from thousands of miles away," said one dealer yesterday. "In many cases they are under the impression that they are buying Nova Scotia apples, just because they know that this is an apple producing province. As a matter of fact, in my opinion, our own apples are superior in flavor to those imported from any place in the world, and when our own people eat these outside apples, thinking they are Nova Scotia apples, they do not get such a favorable impression as they should."

Some dealers point out that either the Nova Scotia farmer must get a lot more for his apples than those of other provinces and states, or else there is something radically wrong with the methods of distribution and sale here. On the Pacific coast they have reduced cooperative marketing, packing and publicity down to fine points, and it is felt that Nova Scotia growers must be wasting efforts on trying to find markets thousands of miles away, when others are coming from thousands of miles in the other direction and selling apples at high prices here.

It is reported that two Canadian banks have $25,000,000 tied up in sugar, and another is heavily involved in wheat. They are now calling for their money and the only way they can get it is for the sugar speculators at least, to throw their holdings on the market for what ever price it will bring.

Nothing Like Internal Bathing for Constipation

If people only knew what Internal Bathing is doing for thousands of others there would be fewer Pills and Laxatives swallowed, and very much less suffering from Constipation and the accompanying Stomach and Nervous Troubles resulting from it.

J. A. Darrach, Copper Cliff, Ont., writes: "I have been using your J. B. L. Cascade for the past three months, and am convinced that it is the most modern and scientific method of dealing with Constipation that has ever been devised, and I will lose no opportunity to promote its use among my friends, as I can speak truthfully and enthusiastically as to its merits."

By the proper application of Nature's cure, warm water, by means of the J. B. L. Cascade, the lower intestines are kept free from all poisonous waste. Drugs force Nature. Internal bathing assists her.

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell of New York, a specialist on Internal Bathing, invented and perfected the J. B. L. Cascade, which has done more during the past 20 years in restoring health and lessening disease than all other means combined.

Ask A. V. Rand, Druggist, Wolfville, for booklet, "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 per Cent. Efficient." They will also be pleased to show and explain the J. B. L. Cascade to you, or write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, 163 College Street, Toronto.

T. E. HUTCHINSON WOLFVILLE

If present plans mature a fishing vessel, designed and built by Nova Scotians, will be completed during the year for the purpose specially of having her contest for the return to Nova Scotia of the International honors in next year's fishing schooner race off Halifax. The idea was first mooted, so it is reported, in Lunenburg, where the people are enthusiastic to have a thoroughly Nova Scotian product bring back the honors of the Blue Ribbon of the Atlantic to her shores.

CUT OUT PESSIMISM

Gideon Robertson, Minister of Labor, predicts 50,000 idle people in Canada this year. There are a lot of people talking "blue" these days. They impress one as qualifying to become funeral directors.

We may have a bit of a dull spell, but not for long. Canada is alright and will soon find her after the war legs and then sprint some.

CASPEREAU LIGHT AND POWER PLANT

Through the kindness of Mr. H. Y. Bishop, Town Clerk, a representative of this paper had the pleasure of a visit to the plant of the Caspereau Light and Power Co., on Tuesday afternoon.

This was not our first visit, but since THE ACADIAN was over the ground last summer much good work has been done, indicating in a measure what is shortly to be accomplished.

The new water-wheel capable of developing 600 h.p. has been installed and is nearly ready for use. This is intended to provide power for carrying on the pulp-mill which the enterprising owners expect to have in operation in the near future.

A staff of men are now at work putting up the building for the pulp-mill which is to be an extensive and important institution. The works present a scene of activity which is very interesting and well worth a visit.

THE ACADIAN also had the pleasure of visiting and inspecting the power-house. Here is in operation a splendid equipment for the production of electric current from water-power. The owners are fortunate in securing the services of such a man as Mr. Cross who is a lover of machinery and an expert in its operation. This is freely demonstrated by the spic-and-span condition which prevails everywhere about the power-house. Mr. Cross was exceedingly courteous in showing THE ACADIAN about the plant and has great faith in the future of the concern.

Wonderful is the progress that has been made during the past year or so by Messrs. Wright & Jodrey in connection with the work and from present indications this is only the beginning of an industry that is destined to contribute much to the future prosperity of this section and surrounding country.

EMINENT CRITICS LAUD GEBHARD

After Boston Piano Recital, Jan. 13, 1920

PHILIP HALE IN HERALD—Mr. Gebhard played delightfully. He brought out the substance and form of Debussy's music without losing the exquisite poetic flavor of the two impressionistic pieces. The Sarabande was stately in its melancholy; he felt the humor of "General Lavine." He was not unduly sentimental in Liszt's "Liebestraum." Chabrier's "Bourree Fantasque" and Liszt's "Waldesrauschen" were played brilliantly, but not merely as battlehorses for parade. An audience that filled the hall was most enthusiastic.

H. T. PARKER IN TRANSCRIPT—Minded often was Mr. Gebhard to large voice for piano and music, to large impression upon his hearers. He spared not in sonorous contrasts in the Chopin "Fantasie," op. 49; full-bodied of tone and march was his Liszt, while the "Bourree Fantasque" was the clattering dance of record as well as of Chabrier's rhythms. A sound pianist, a sterling pianist is Mr. Gebhard. Thorough he is to the core in all that he does. There is no more efficient pianist.

Mr. Heinrich Gebhard will play the following program in College Hall, Dec. 10, 1920, at eight o'clock. Tickets now on sale at Rands' Drug Store, 75c. and $1.00. Every seat reserved.

The Acadia Automobile Agency is the name of a new business enterprise in Wolfville, the officers of which are Philip Hsley, President; J. Elmer Westcott Service Manager; and H. E. With such hustling young men in charge there should be no question of the success of the new firm.

There are six pens from Kings County in the second Nova Scotia Egg Laying Contest which recently began at Truro. There are thirty pens altogether in the contest. During the first week fifteen pens began to lay and included in this number were all six from this county, surely a splendid showing. J. W. Williams, of this town, has a pen of White Wyandottes entered in the contest, and E. C. Griffin, of Port Williams, has entered two pens of birds.

Through the courtesy of Mr. J. E. Hales a representative of THE ACADIAN had the privilege one day last week of visiting the town reservoir where the dredging machine is now at work. The apparatus employed is certainly most efficient and not only moves a large amount of earth in a short time but places it just where it is wanted. Excavation of the new reservoir is being rapidly carried out and the storage capacity will be very greatly increased.

The death of Mr. Thomas Bresnahan, a well known and highly esteemed resident, occurred at his home at Lower Wolfville on Sunday last. The deceased had been in poor health for some time but his condition was thought to be considerably improved and death came quite suddenly. He was a native of Wolfville and 69 years of age. A widow, one son and one daughter survive him. The funeral took place on Wednesday morning, the interment being at the old Catholic cemetery, the service being conducted by Rev. Father Donohoe.

A very tragic accident occurred on Monday afternoon at McCabe's crossing near Oxford Junction when Dr. Orlando R. Salter, of Oxford, a brother-in-law of Mr. George A. Johnson, met instant death when the west-bound Ocean Limited crashed into his car which had become stalled while crossing the track in front of the train. Dr. Salter was 49 years of age and a native of Hants county. He was a most popular physician and his death is a heavy loss to the community. He is survived by his widow. Wolfville people will sympathize deeply with our townsman, Mr. Johnson, this being the second bereavement in a few weeks, his brother, Dr. J. A. Johnson, having passed away suddenly in Lunenburg only a few days ago.

SLIGHT DECLINE IN COST OF LIVING

Further downward movements in prices are shown by the monthly report prepared for publication in the October Labor Gazette by the Cost of Living Branch of the Labor Department. This report shows that the retail prices of foods averaged lower October than in the previous month the decrease being marked in sugar and potatoes. Smaller decreases were reported in the prices of beef, bread, flour and rolled oats. There were advances in prices of hogs products, eggs, milk and in coal. The weekly food budget averaged $15.83 in sixty Canadian cities at the middle of October, as compared with $15.96 in the middle of September, $14.21 in October 1919 and $7.93 in October 1914.

The Best Medicine For Little Ones

Thousands of mothers state positively that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine they know of for little ones. Their experience has taught them that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them and that they can be given with perfect safety to children of all ages. Concerning them Mrs. Joseph Therrien, St. Gabriel de Brandon, Que. writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine I know of for little ones. I thought I would lose my baby before trying the Tablets but they soon made him healthy and happy and now I would not be without them". The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

One of the Canadian Safety bulletins tells what may happen in one second. A vehicle travelling 20 miles per hour will cover 29 feet in one second; one going 25 miles, 36 feet, and one 30 miles, 44 feet. Think of this when you cross a street in front of a rapidly moving motor car and step lively! Better still, don't take the risk.

Alberta will show a 30 per cent. increase in coal production this year. It would be pleasing news if Nova Scotia would make as good a showing.

EARLY HISTORY OF FIRST AUTO

Ridicule Heaped on Inventor of First Combustion Engine Lived To See Principal of Invention Proven

Few people who ride about the country in palatial limousines or tiny runabouts are familiar with the early history of the invention which has done so much to revolutionize transportation, and which has played such an important part in the industrial development of the world today.

The interest aroused by the contest announced by the San Francisco Advertising Club held during the recent auto show in the Exposition auditorium for the display of antiquated vehicles, and for which prizes of cups were given, makes the story of the first automobile in the world of timely interest.

Steam-propelled vehicles had been devised and used to a very limited extent in England and America as early as 1830. In 1835 two New England men proposed electricity as motor power, but the problem of successful road locomotion lagged until the middle seventies. Then appeared a genius who appreciated the possibilities of the motor vehicle at a time when his ideas were regarded as visionary.

External Chamber

Strange as it may seem, and without touch of the ludicrous, the first combustion engine was operated by a combination of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) and coal-oil, mixed by an atomized jet. Very high power was developed in proportion to weight, but as the expansion took place in an external chamber, and the expanding gas had to be introduced into a cylinder proper through a valve, the heat of the explosion invariably fused this valve after a short time and stopped the engine.

The inventor then realized that to make a gas engine for highway locomotion the primary explosion must take place within the cylinder itself. This he worked out to a point of successful operation, and by certain rude tests determined that it developed power enough to propel his vehicle.

Overheating Problem

He met the overheating problem by a splash system from a supply of water in the crank chamber, and he solved the problem of lubrication by means of a mineral manufactured from petroleum. This was in 1877. The engine alone was operated this year. The gears, wheels, clutch and steering apparatus were matters of toy-like models, of blue prints and specifications. On these he secured his patents.

Thus, the first gasoline propelled road wagon in the world was conceived by George B. Selden, of Rochester, N.Y., in 1877, although the actual running model was not built at that time. This reason was expressed by Selden: "In that early day I was unable to interest the capital in such a crazy thing." But it must be remembered that Selden was purely an inventor. He satisfied himself that the mechanical difficulties were demonstrably solved, but did not build. He was not a manufacturer; he was a pioneer experimenter. He first conceived the idea, which he was satisfied could be demonstrated.

For years I have never considered my stock of household remedies complete unless a bottle of Minard's Liniment was included. For burns, bruises, sprains, frost-bites or chillblains it excels, and I know of no better remedy for a severe cold in the head, or that will give more immediate relief, than to inhale from the bottle through the nasal organ.

And as to my supply of veterinary remedies it is essential, as it has in very many instances proven its value. A recent experience in reclaiming what was supposed to be a lost section of a valuable cow's udder has again demonstrated its great worth and prompts me to recommend it in the highest terms to all who have a herd of cows, large or small. I think I am safe in saying among all the patent medicines there is none that covers as large a field of usefulness as does Minard's Liniment. A real truelism good for man or beast.

CHAS. K. ROBBINS, Cheboque Point, N. S.

Recent surveys of Labrador, which have disclosed immense resources of timber suitable for pulp and paper manufacture, have led to a revival of efforts to bring about a determination of the boundary line between Newfoundland and the province of Quebec, which has never been laid down by actual survey.

The two newspapers in Welland, Ontario have amalgamated. The same thing has occurred in Aymer, Woodstock, Owen Sound, Tillsonburg, Sarnia, Lindsay, Niagara Falls, Peterboro, Brantford, St. Thomas, Mitchell, Smith's Falls, Almonte, Eganville, Arnprior, and a number of other Ontario places. The high cost of paper and everything else is having its effect.

ROBERT STEAD'S NEW NOVEL

Time was, not so long ago, when Canadians bought a novel by a Canadian—if they bought it at all—much as one gives money to some worthy cause. They did it to help a struggling fellow-countryman, and felt, perhaps, a compensating glow of patriotism even if they did not expect to get value out of their expenditure.

But Canadians are discovering that their fellow-countrymen are writing books which are most decidedly worth reading on their own account, and perhaps no one has contributed to this discovery more than has Robert Stead, author of the famous "Kitchener" collection of poems, and of the novels, "The Homesteaders" and "The Cow Puncher." There is not a dull line in anything Mr. Stead writes, and this is particularly true of his new novel, "Denison Grant" ($1.75), which has just been published by the Mueson Book Company, Limited, of Toronto. Prepare for a period of absent-mindedness, broken engagements, and forgotten worries of the world when you get your copy of "Denison Grant." You will be so interested in the fortunes of the young Easterner who renounces the family wealth on account of his Socialistic ideals, and who finds greater happiness as a ranch hand in Alberta than as a millionaire in a city club, that the hours will slip by uncounted until you find how it "comes out" in the last chapter. And it "comes out" a little differently from what you expected, and yet in the only way it could and be true to the Stead type of story, which always leaves one with the feeling that the time spent in reading it was spent to good advantage.

France joined with Britain in glorifying the memory of their heroic dead. The unknown poilu who was laid to rest beneath the Arc de Triomphe, equally with the nameless soldier who sleeps in the storied Abbey, symbolizes the victory achieved by the great host of gallant men who fought and fell facing the foe. They sleep now in peace. Their glory will endure forever.

"To be humble is one thing; to be humbled is quite another. To be humbled is a grace on the inside; to be humbled is a mortification on the outside."

No. IV.—Instrumental Accompaniment

Instrumental accompaniment means to accompany with the instrument, or as someone puts it, to add an accompaniment is to add an ornament.

We readily think of the piano as the general accompaniment for the singer or soloist.

The first mention of the pianoforte as an accompanying instrument was made in 1767 on the play bill of "The Beggar's Opera." Between the first and second act Miss Brickler was announced to sing a popular song from Judith, accompanied upon the new instrument by Mr. Diblin. In London, June 21, 1768, John Christian Bach, was heard in a pianoforte solo, the first of its kind.

The purpose of the accompaniment is to support the principal part, it must be independent—but should always be subservient to the chief part. An instrument such as the piano, harp, or organ may be used in accompaniment, even a chorus of voices may successfully carry an accompaniment part.

To acquire this art, the accompanist must have great ear and judgement. He must not overwhelm the voice, but must assimilate with the quality of the voice, taking special care of the contrast. Too often we hear such an accompaniment that is so strong that the soloist is simply an occasional part, and the effect is very ridiculous.

We read that at the time of the old miracle plays the accompaniments were performed by a double lyre, an harpsichord, a double guitar and two behind the scenes, simply to add musical effect, and even Wagner went back to the old way of hiding the orchestra.

Back in the days of 1600, Cavalli arranged instrumental effect of sights and sounds of nature, such as the murmuring of the rivers and the sighing of the winds.

Caecini, a great vocalist of Italy, in the sixteenth century, broke away from the old style composition of many voices and wrote for one voice only. These compositions he sung to his own accompaniment, playing on the Theorbo, a pear-shaped instrument four feet long, with a number of strings of different lengths. Caecini met with great success.

These early musicians aimed only to devise means to combine music with poetry so that the two arts should enhance one another, but when it is understood that the accompaniment to the recitative and solos were provided only with a figured bass from which to read and play, it was the accompanist at the harpsichord that must apply the details. This weakness and ineffectiveness would make the music unendurable to a modern audience.

From about this time on, particularly in the matter of accompaniment, the resources of expression in music was becoming much enlarged and elastic, for the harmony was more richly developed and the tonality better understood. The modulation now came in as an additional means of effect.

Dr. Parry adds—"Where the words are thoroughly musical and the composer sensitive and skillful the music fits the words at every instant and makes the words glow with meaning."

Both Schubert and Schumann were very expressive in this form. Schumann's genius showed itself in his power to suggest unexpressed depth of feeling in a few lines. The piano accompaniment and postludes to many of his songs intensifies this emotional atmosphere.

Some Fundamental Principles of Citizenship

Rev. Dr. MacDonald Gives Valuable Lecture Under Auspices of Civic League.

The first of a series of lectures arranged by the Educational Committee of the Wolfville Civic Club was delivered on Friday night, (Nov. 5) by the Rev. J. H. MacDonald, D. D., in the Lecture Hall of the United Baptist Church, kindly lent for the occasion. Dr. Wheelock, Dean of the Faculty of Applied Science in the University of Acadia and President of the Civic Club, presided. Rev. R. F. Dixon, the venerable rector of St. John's Anglican Church, led in prayer, after which the chairman, in introducing the lecturer, briefly outlined the Club's intentions. On the platform, supporting the chairman, was His Worship the Mayor of Wolfville, Mr. Chas. S. Fitch.

Dr. MacDonald, who, on rising was greeted with applause, said:

I have been asked to give a brief address on the subject of Citizenship, and agreed to do so, not because I know anything particular about the subject, but to encourage others to do a similar thing. I reasoned in my own mind this way: There are men who will be asked to be "one of the speakers" before this Civic Club during the next six weeks; they might hesitate to accept the invitation; but after hearing me, they will likely say—"There is no reason why I should not, for I can easily do as well as the first speaker". (Ironical and almost audible smiles).

The three great institutions which have come down to us are the Home, the Church and the State. They each bear the stamp of their Divine origin. We have responsibilities to each of these. Loyalty to the State should not interfere with Loyalty to the Church, any more than Loyalty to the Home should interfere with any of the other two. Indeed, no one can be a good churchman unless he is a Loyal Citizen. That was St. Paul's conception when he wrote to the Ephesians—"Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God" (Eph. 5:21).

The best definition of a Citizen is that given by Aristotle—"The Citizen shares in the judicial and executive functions of the government." It is quite right that he should. We have our franchise and vote for members of Parliament. We have votes in civic affairs and, once in a while, a subject is submitted to us for Referendum. If we are especially interested in any matter which stir the public mind, we impress our views on our representatives, so that our views prevail.

In judicial matters we may not feel very much like serving on Juries, but we are glad that there is such a thing as "Trial by Jury." We should feel it a personal loss if they were abolished, and we are glad that other people are found to serve on them.

We congratulate ourselves that we belong to the British Empire, with so wise and good a sovereign as George V. (Applause). We congratulate ourselves that Canada has a good form of Government, and is a well-governed country—that is, if our own party is in power; or, if not, we congratulate ourselves that it will be in power presently! (Loud laughter).

But, are we making the most of our citizenship?

1. Meaning of Citizenship and responsibilities of Citizens and "Idiots":

I was interested, some time ago, in looking at the original meaning of the word Idiot. They say an Education is what a man has when he has forgotten all he has learned in College. One of the things I remember from my College days is the original meaning of the word "idiot". We all know what it means today. Some words have grown from a very humble origin to a high estate. They had their origin in humble surroundings but they have grown in dignity and power. Others words have undergone a process of deterioration. They were sown in honor, and they are raised in dishonor. The word "idiot" is one of these. With us the idiot is unfitted by reason of weak mentality for the walk of life. He is an object of pity. He is a burden to society.

That was not how the Ancient Greeks in the halcyon days of Athens used the word. They used the word to designate those who took no interest in public affairs. The population was divided into two classes—Citizens and Idiots.

The Citizens ruled the city. They ruled through their suffrage. Only the Citizens could hold office and share in the legislature. As a matter of fact, the Citizens were only a small part of the population.

The idiots were in the vast majority, and among them some of the brainiest people in the State. They could not have a political meaning. The "Idiot" of Athens was strictly a private Citizen with no interest in the government of his country. So the Athenians were addressed; "Citizens and Idiots"! As a matter of fact, many Idiots would like to become Citizens, but could not afford it. You recall how St. Paul, at one time, claimed "Roman Citizenship"—see Acts 22:25-28—The Chief Captain questioned it saying: "with a great sum obtained I this Freedom. And Paul said, But I was Free-born".

2. Now the original "Idiot" has his lineal descendants. He is any person, who, in Canada, accepts all the privileges of Citizenship and of Democracy and declines to meet its responsibilities and obligations. He pays taxes. He looks on that as a sort of necessary evil. He pays duty on the goods he imports. He will think it no harm to smuggle if he got the chance. He takes no particular interest in public or civic affairs. He reserves the right to abuse those who are in office.

He lives in the country. He receives the protection of its laws and government. He is heir to all that has come down to us out of a glorious past. But his country means nothing to him. He has no passionate love for it. It is not something to serve, live for, die for, if need be! In other words: he lives for himself.

3. word "Idiot" has lost its original meaning and all men are citizens of our great and glorious country. But the man who lives a purely selfish life is not so far from the original "Idiot". A celebrated Alienist has defined insanity as "Concentrated Egotism". If that is so, the man who enjoys the privileges of citizenship and refuses to share its obligations has some of the symptoms of that disease.

He claims to be independant. He is self-made.

He has an orchard, let us say; it produces large quantities of fruit. He is not beholden to any man. Not beholden! Look at what it holds. How does it happen that that there is a Railway to take it out of the Country? Did that Railway grow? How public-spirited citizens labored and agitated for it! What a history it has! How does it happen that there are ships to carry over his fruit? Because public-spirited men, who thought of others' good as well as their own, brought it to pass. How does it happen that a market is found across the Ocean!—The same reason. He is not independant of his fellow-citizens for a single day. He is selfish. Citizens and Idiots! We shrink from that man. We ought to.

4. I say every citizen (man and woman) has a right to take a keen interest in public affairs. He has a right to serve in Civic, Provincial, and Federal affairs. If a man (or woman) is fitted to be an Alderman, he should not shrink from it. He should exercise his franchise and see that the best men will represent him. He should see that no unworthy person shall represent him.

5. There are many, who, in times of crisis, when the bugle sounds for battle, will cheerfully make great sacrifices; but who, in the spring times of peace, are unwilling to give a little time and effort for the public good. They are too busy!

Now, what do they do? They sacrifice public good for private gain. That is precisely the indictment we bring against the demagogue. The men who wash their hands of public affairs are as truly responsible for mis-rule as the men who are in are politics for revenue only. The one manipulates politics for private interests; the other neglects politics for private interests. They are alike selfish, and selfishness and indifference give the grater his opportunity. The good citizen is an accomplice of the bad. The worst feature of it is in our counting the bad citizen as a good man. We expect bad men to be bad citizens, but we should expect good men to be good citizens.

II. The next word I have to say is that Canadians should appreciate the Franchise more than they do.

I am told that there are men in our Country, in our Province and even, in our fair and beautiful County, who do not appreciate the Franchise—who think it no dishonor to sell their vote for a consideration. Perhaps they do not put it in that way. They want something for their day. And I am told that there are men who think it no dishonor to purchase votes, if they can find any votes in the market. Both these classes have a low appreciation of the Franchise. They are idiotically ignorant. They do not know how the Franchise came down to us—how dearly it was bought. They do not know what free-born citizenship means. They are more to be pitied than blamed, perhaps. They are good material for missionary propaganda.

Come with me to Runnymede on the banks of the Thames. It is 705 years ago. There flows the beautiful river through the quiet meadows, only as large as the Gaspereau river is in May or early June, but flowing quietly and calmly. Nearby is Windsor Castle, the towers of which can be seen from Runnymede; and not far away is Stoke Poges, the scene of the quiet church-yard, where Grey wrote his Elegy. But these amid those quiet scenes two Armies are drawn up. At the head of one is King John, one of the cleverest Kings England ever had, and the handsomest, till dissipation left its marks on him, who ever crossed the threshold of Windsor Castle. He had oppressed the people—robbed them of property and even life, and not regarding the sanctity of the poorest home. But across the meadow is another Army, drawn from all sections of the country—the one for Liberty.

A conference was had. The Champion of the peoples liberties read the Charter of Henry I, and when the people heard it, they swore a solemn oath to fight or die for the rights of the people, as embodied in that charter. Then they waited on the King. He demanded till Easter that he might consider! What he really wanted was time to sow dissention in the ranks of his opponents. But they were not to be put off and demanded that the King sign the Charter. Soon Knights stood at his back, with their followers. But before him was a Nation in Arms. He had summoned aid from Europe, but that aid did not arrive. They urged a reply. Stephen Langton put the great Charter before him, and he placed his mark on it. You know its subject conditions. This is what Giot calls the first liberty in the history of Democracy or civilization.

2. Four hundred summers and winters pass over the earth. Shakespear's language is spoken and twelve years previously Ann Hathaway had wept bitterly over the dead poet's body. The year is 1628. The place is Westminster Hill, London. Charles I is King. He stands on the Divine Rights of Kings. One morning the King wakes to find 175,000 citizens crowding the streets between Whitehall and Westminster Abbey. John Pym is there and John Hampden is there. John Milton is among them, and at the edge of the crowd stands a humble farmer—Oliver Cromwell. The people have come to demand another liberty. They call it a "Petition of Rights." It is more than that; it is a Statute demanding the Divine Rights of the People to govern themselves. The King had been taxing people without consent of Parliament. The "Petition of Rights" declared that no taxes, loans, or gifts could be demanded without the consent of Parliament—the men the people sent to represent them. The King stands. He heard the murmur an echo of the Divine Right of the citizens, and he signed the Charter. The Englishman has now become his own Ruler: Second great charter of Liberties of England.

One day in 1916 I was riding on the top of a Bus from the war office back to my own office in London, and I was passing the Banqueting room of the Whitehall. A gentleman occupied the seat with me. He was a stranger and I did not recognize him then. It was Sir George R. Parker, Trustee of the Cecil Rhodes Foundation, so well known in the Educational world. Sir George said: "Do you see that window? third window?" Yes. "It was that window King Charles came out of to his execution," said Sir Charles. Why did they put their King to death? And 21 years after he had signed the Petition of Rights. He defied the authority of Parliament. For 11 years he ruled without the authority of Parliament. He disregarded the voice of the people—the votes of the people. The people of England in 1649 were not revolutionary. They were not Bolsheviks. They did not "see red." They loved the crown. They wanted the Government of the Country to go on.

Nova Scotia and Her Arms

A movement is on foot in Nova Scotia for the restoration of the original armorial bearings of that province in place of those adopted at Confederation. Most Canadians are unaware that in 1621 King James I. of England, and VI. of Scotland, as King of Scotland, and as a Scottish baron, granted to Sir William Alexander (afterwards Earl of Stirling) the territory now forming the whole of the Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, and parts of Quebec and of the present State of Maine, on the sole condition of paying annually "one penny of Scottish money, if so much be demanded" the purpose of the grant being that Sir William might carry out a project he had in mind of making of this vast territory a New Scotland in America, as there was already a New England and a New France.

The story of Sir William Alexander and his efforts to carry out his great project is a long and interesting one. It all came to little enough at the time but bore fruit, as we know long afterwards. Royal arrangements to the scheme given by King James was continued and amplified by his son and successor, Charles I. and among other marks of favor the last named sovereign made a grant of arms to Nova Scotia in three terms: Silver, a cross of St. Andrew blue with an inescutcheon of the Royal Arms of Scotland. Crest, a wreath issuing from two hands, the one hand being in armor and the other naked. Supporters, on the dexter side the Royal unicorn silver, horned, maned, and hooped gold. In: sally crowned, gorged with an open crown and chain affixed thereto and reflexed over the back gold. On the sinister side a savage man proper. Motto (over the crest) "Munit haec et altera vincit." The shield of Scotland, blue, with a white cross of St. Andrew, was thus, it will be noticed, counter-changed to white with a blue cross of New Scotland.

Later, as a separate act, the Barons of Nova Scotia were given the privilege of using this same shield, with its inescutcheon as their badge or coat of arms. An idea got abroad some years ago that the shield was theirs primarily, and only "borrowed" by the province for its seal, etc., when in later times "Nova Scotia" became a reality. The shield, however, be-

It was thought that the Province had little ground for using armorial bearings which (as was supposed) belonged in reality to an order of Barons. The record was not looked for in the right place, namely, in the Lyon Office in Edinburgh, where it might have been found, and so the College of Heralds in London, supposing no doubt that the field was clear, proceeded to prepare arms and a new seal for Nova Scotia as a Province of the Dominion of Canada, now moved thereto by the Provincial authorities on the way, but in opposition to their wishes. The new Great Seal was received in December, 1869, but was neither welcomed nor adopted nor proclaimed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, but pigeon-holed, and left unused for years afterwards. If the Provincial authorities had been aware of the strength of the case for the old arms it is natural to suppose that they would have held out against any change, but in course of time they gave way, and allowed the matter to go by default in favor of the new order.

But even then the ancient arms did not go wholly out of memory. The shield is still to be seen, not only on the old office doors in the Province building, but on odd pieces of jewelry of much later date, and the full achievement appears on the Bank of Nova Scotia $10 notes, of the issue of January 2nd, 1919! In this last, see the Indian sinister supporter is shown in a sitting posture and the unicorn charging around the dexter side of the shield—the shield itself is of a shape characteristic of the period of debased heraldry and is wrongly marked red! All these details are wrong, but the interesting fact remains that in casting about for a suitable design for a new seal the Bank of Nova Scotia selected the ancient rather than the modern arms of the Province. The Historical Societies of Nova Scotia now ask the rectification of the blunder committed when the ancient and lawful arms of Nova Scotia were supplanted by a new and commonplace design of salmon and thistles.

THE SEEING EYE
Principal Reynolds of the Ontario Agricultural College thus delivered himself in the Agricultural Gazette of Canada:
The teacher who hopes to take a right place in the life of the country school district must cultivate the seeing eye and the understanding heart for persons and things rural. The usual, popular, melodrama, comic supplement, moving picture conception of the farmer and of country people must be forgotten. It is essentially and perniciously false. The farmer is something of a humorist, and takes delight in deceiving the simple-minded by a somewhat unfinished exterior. The city-bred person makes the fatal mistake of judging by outside appearances. To the city-trained eye there are two classes of persons, one wearing overalls and the other wearing white collars. The former class work with their hands. The latter class work with their brains. That is the superficial judgement, which ignores the fact that there is a very great deal of clear, hard thinking done to-day by the men wearing overalls. At any rate, the farmer belongs to both classes. The more he understands of those discoveries, which it is the business of the agricultural college to make, the more he absorbs the teaching which it is the business of the college to spread abroad, the better farmer will he be.

A CANADIAN HONORED

The following extract from the Montreal Daily Star, of Nov. 8th, refers to a nephew of Mrs. W. A. Reid, of this town. He is a native of Prince Edward Island. Percy Ellwood Corbett, M. C., a graduate of McGill University, and in 1915 Rhodes Scholar for the Province of Quebec, was elected a Fellow of All Souls, Oxford, on Thursday last, according to news received at McGill. This is the second time that the honor of becoming a Fellow of Oxford University has fallen to the lot of a McGill man. John G. Archibald, son of the Honorable Acting Chief Justice and Mrs. Archibald having, in 1908, attained that distinction.

The news of Mr. Corbett's election to a fellowship was cabled with congratulations by Lord Milner, Secretary of State for the Colonies, to His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, who forwarded the message, with his own congratulations to McGill University, to Sir Arthur Currie.

The message received at the university reads as follows:
"Lord Milner informs me by cable that Percy Ellwood Corbett, Rhodes Scholar, Quebec, 1915, was yesterday elected Fellow of All Souls College, Oxford, and wishes to me to convey his sincere congratulations to the University that this rare distinction should have been conferred upon a young Canadian with such a distinguished academic and military record. I heartily join Lord Milner in congratulations. (Signed) Devonshire."

Mr. Corbett, who comes from Qu'Appelle, Saskatchewan, entered the Faculty of Arts of McGill in 1909, graduating four years later with first-class honors in Latin and French. During his undergraduate Arts course he was twice the winner of a scholarship. He proceeded to a master's degree at the university and in 1915 was chosen Rhodes Scholar for the Province of Quebec. In the spring of that year he entered the army, obtaining a commission in the 73rd Battalion, Royal Highlanders of Canada. He did not proceed overseas with this unit, however, but followed later with the 13th Battalion. While with the latter he was awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service at the Somme.

After two years active service Mr. Corbett was severely wounded and after partial recovery returned to Canada in the summer of 1918. As a result of the wound one arm was incapacitated for some time. In the autumn of that year he returned to England and entered Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar. His election to a fellowship of All Souls, before the completion of two full sessions at the university, bears testimony to the quality of his scholarship during his career at the English seat of learning.

SOME FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLES OF CITIZENSHIP.

They could have been loyal to their King if he had taken the advice of Parliament. But he would not. So in 1639 (30th of January) King Charles was led out of the Banqueting Hall, Whitehall (almost opposite Davy Street, where the people's representatives now sit in Council) and they beheaded him. It was thus parliamentary rights were secured for the British people—by the sacrifice of a King—to them the headless body of King was a sign, and symbol of the Divine Right of the people.

I bring to you another scene (a series of them) nearer home. It was the fighting for Responsible Government in the middle of the last century. We have a parliamentary government, but not responsible government. (The most thrilling chapter of Canadian history is the story of the fight for responsible government. Nova Scotia led the way, Quebec and Ontario gained responsible government by an appeal to arms. This is familiar to you. But I can think of no better subject for a lecture before this club than the story of the fight for responsible government in this country.)

4. But I want to speak of a longer step in advance. For a generation or more women have fought for the franchise on equal terms with men. In this country they fought with the weapons of argument or persuasion and they fought according to the rules. But in England they became militant, and a lot of women (mostly those who had no wholesome outlet for their energies) used the weapons of the Suffragettes. They used them ineffectually. I think I am safe in saying that they would not have won by these methods for 100 years. Against such methods Demus, like Pharaoh, hardened his heart.

But they won. How? You know. The great war broke out. The suffragette threw down her weapons. With her sisters in the old Country—and in this Country—she went to work to win the war. The women gave their sons, husbands, lovers. They kept the home fires burning. They kept up the work. They worked in munition factories. They took the place of men in a hundred ways. They played the game. They never thought of the Franchise. But the people said: "How can we longer withhold the franchise from these people?" And it was given to our women almost by unanimous consent. But how was it won? In the field of blood; in the world Armageddon; by the sacrifice of our Country's Nobles and Best.

And this is the Franchise some people would sell! A Franchise purchased and sealed on a hundred battlefields—Runnymede, Flanders, and such.

I can understand an ignorant foreigner, on coming to our shores, not knowing anything of our history, selling his vote. (I have seen, down south, classes formed for the foreign voters, who, unable to read, were taught to vote for "Elephant" or "Bull Moose", or as the case might be) I can understand foreigners coming to our country doing it—Dukhobors, Russians, Bohemians, Italians, Austrians—But I cannot understand men or women with British Blood in their veins who learned in the schools such names as Magna Charta, Petition of Rights, and who sent friends or relatives to the last great war.

I can understand some type of men, such as I have read of in Indiana and others papers, buying votes, but a man who knows what a secret birthright the Ballot should be—never. Like Esau, he disposes of his birthright. The Franchise should be the sacred ark of the Canadian Covenant.

What we need is a revival of Citizenship, so that it will become to our people as dear as our home, as sacred as our religion.
