When the most benefit is to be derived from a good medicine, is early in the year. This is the season when the tired body, weakened organs and nervous system yearn for a building-up medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla. Many wait for the open spring weather and, in fact, delay giving attention to their physical condition so long that a long siege of sickness is inevitable. To rid the system of the impurities accumulated during the winter season, to purify the blood and to invigorate the whole system, there is nothing equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Don't put it off, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla now. It will do you good. Read the testimonials published in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla, a'l from reliable, grateful people. They tell the story.

ASPRIATIONS FOR DEATH.

FROM THE SPANISH OF SANTA TERESA. O soul, held prisoner out of reach Of God's great glory in this gloom Of life, as in a living toomb; O God, whose mercy I bessech, When will my spirit rend the chain Of this dark prison house of pain,
Where weeping, pining, faint I lie,
And die, because I cannot die?

How vain this only life I know ! This bitter cup from poisoned springs, These soiled and broken spirit-wings, Stained with my sins and dark with woe; These fetters bound upon my feet, That fain would run their Lord to gre And from my soul goes up the cry,

Here all is weak and poor and frail-Even when my life with thine is blest In Thy Most Holy Sacrament, I long for death to lift the veil; And if the death-psalm, low and faint, Is chanted for some dying saint My prayer goes upward with a sigh-I die, because I cannot die.

Death brings alone the souls release From all this weary, worldly strife; For life is death, and death is life, And through the grave we pass to peace O mournful exile of our years, This life began and closed in tears; In death I hope, to death I fly, And die, because I cannot die.

My life is slain with sorrow's sword, And still I know it is my sin That leaves me this low world within Yet dead lips cannot praise Thee, Lord-Oh! to breathe forth my soul's desire, Until that moment draweth nigh,

To stand within the Golden Gate, Bathed in the affluent light and love Wherein the sphered systems move; To see the circling angels wait Around the great white Throne of Him, The Lord of all the Seraphim,
O blessed life beyond the sky
I die, because I cannot die,

My life, O God, I give to Thee : My life-'tis all I have to give, And, losing it, begin to live Are we not bound here unto death— His bond-slaves, as the Spirit saith?

I die, because I cannot die. Life shrouds us with its gloomy pall Yet still through blinding mists I see Heaven's hely light stream down on a my poor brother, I can stand it no longer. Expose not your life; there are enough soldiers without you, one more or less will not cause the city to succumb. Remember you are the only one left me, what, O! what shall I do without you; what will be come of me if you fall?"

The heart of Dimitrios bled, he could find no reply.

"Speak, brother, speak. Will you remain with your sister, and not leave her again?"

"But, my dearest Helena, in de-"But, my dearest helena has not be said flaw whist his sound as believe whist life w dawned, and she gladly welcomed its approach, for it would relieve her anxiety and bring her news of her brother.
