

The Huron Signal

DEVOTED TO COUNTY NEWS AND GENERAL INTELLIGENCE

THIRTY-EIGHTH YEAR. WHOLE NUMBER 2014. GODERICH, ONT., FRIDAY, OCT. 2, 1885. MCGILLICUDDY BROS. PUBLISHERS. $1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE.

THE HURON SIGNAL
Is published every Friday Morning, by Mc GILLICUDDY BROS., at their Office, North St., GODERICH, ONTARIO.

And is dispatched to all parts of the surround ing country by the earliest mails and trains.
By general admission it has a larger circula tion than any other newspaper in this part of the country. It is one of the richest, newestest and most reliable journals in Ontario possessing, as it does, the fore-going essentials and being in addition to the above, a first-class family and freetric paper—it is therefore a most desirable advertising medium.

TRADE.—$1.50 in advance, postage pre-paid by publishers: $1.75, if paid before six months $2.00 if not so paid. This rate will be strictly enforced.

RATES OF ADVERTISING.—Eight cents per line for first insertion; three cents per line for each subsequent insertion. Yearly, half-yearly and quarterly contracts at reduced rates.

JOB PRINTING.—We have also a first-class jobbing department in connection, and possess ing the most complete outfit and best facilities for turning out work in Goderich, are prepared to do business in that line at prices that cannot be beaten, and of a quality that cannot be surpassed.—Terms Cash

FRIDAY, OCT. 2ND, 1885.

SO-CALLED "INDEPENDENTS."
A few papers in Canada are arroza ting to themselves the title of the "in dependent press," and claim that all others are partizan, and, therefore, not reliable in editorial utterance. The absurdity of such pretensions is obvious to all. There are two great parties in Canada, and no matter what straddle -fence utterance may be given by the milk-and-water "independent" sheets, the editors of these sheets have their political leaning toward one or other of the great parties, and when election day comes around exercise their franchise one way or the other. If they don't do so, they are worse than ciphers in the body politic; and if they do, what avail all their preaching when their practice is the other way? The party politics of this country are like the departments in a great mechanical workshop. The in dividuals in one department may have different crochets from the artisans in another, but there is a grand central authority that governs the entire works, and so long as the individuals are loyal to that central authority the business goes on satisfactorily. When mutiny begins and strikes occur, injury is done to all concerned. And thus it is with a political party. We have our leader and our heads of departments in each locality. We have men who have grown grey in political harness, and made state craft their special science, and though we may not at all times see eye to eye with them yet on the great lines of pol itical demarcation we are with them. When such is the fact what are we to think of those who from spleenitic or other motives raise a hue and cry and want to annihilate party lines? If the present parties were disintegrated to morrow others would arise in their place, and so on, and so on. In no country under the sun has party government been done away with, and no such change will be made until the millennium comes. But even when the time comes for the lion and lamb to lie down to gether, we will find some of the so-called "independent" folk who will endeavor to be free of the existing order of things, but whose efforts will then be as futile as they are today.

The disposal of Riel is one of the im portant questions of the day, and the friends and opponents of Sir John are impetuously waiting to see what the old politician will do in the case. The Orange section of the Tory party will be satisfied with nothing, so they say, but the execution of the leader of the North west rebellion; and the Quebec Blues are equally anxious that his life should be spared. We are out of the quarrel and have no interest in the difference of opinion between the Brethren and the Blues, but present indications point that Sir John will do as he did when the Orange bill was before the Dominion House—continue to retain the good will of his French supporters. The Tories will talk loudly for a time, but when election day comes round they will,
as in times past, fall into line, and tick the hand that smote them. We shall see what we shall see.

THE Tory papers are again going in for plenty of coarse personal abuse of the editors of this paper. And the edi tors of this paper smile serenely, and push the circulation of THE SIGNAL on the strength of the free advertising the Tory press is giving us. The younger Tories, however, are surprised to find on close inspection that we do not wear horns and horns, as the virulent party press would have them believe. The best commendation a Liberal editor can have is that the Tory press is down upon him. And so we let the gutter journals rave.

The big pumpkin and the mammoth mangel wurtzel are on deck, and so the prize list of the fall show has crowded out our usually powerful editorial arti cles. The interesting "figures of speech" in the prize list will more than com pensate for the absence of the above men tioned "powerful articles."

The Star last week alluded to the "red-headed editor" of THE SIGNAL. To save argument, we'll admit the impeach ment and allow that the editor's head is red,—in fact, everything in THE SIG NAL is red, and that's more than can be said about the Star. Notwithstanding these facts our advertising rates have not been increased.

The School Board will meet on Mon day evening at the Central School. The public will doubtless be well represented, and the scenes of the last meeting will hardly be repeated. But perhaps some of the hifalutin orators of the board will make the meeting an occasion for abus ing persons either absent or present, as is sometimes done at the Goderich school board.

The editor of the Guelph Mercury, who attended a meeting of the Crofters in Scotland last month writes:—

There was one incident at this meeting strongly characteristic of the strong and sim ple faith of the crofters in the aid to be re ceived from a higher Power, but so far as we are aware, never before practiced at a political meeting. It was opened by prayer.

Two years ago a Reform convention at Brucefield, in South Huron, was opened by prayer. Hon. Alex. Mackenzie led in that exercise.

We are pleased to see that the Star is again making an effort to straighten itself on the temperance question. We must encourage our contemporary in its good efforts, and hope it will not again yield to political temptation. We are glad to know that good influence is not wasted upon the Star editor, and that it is possible to brace him up occa sionally by running a sort of moral poker up his back. We never rejoice over the slippings of a truly good man, we correct him when he goes astray; we commend him when he returns to the light. The editor of the Star is again on the right track, and we give cheerful testimony to this pleasing fact.

The Hamilton Spectator bears the fol lowing testimony to the ability of one of Mr. Mackenzie's appointees to the bench, our former townsman, Judge Sinclair:—
"Mr. Sinclair, before his elevation to the bench, was an earnest Reformer. We have no doubt that his sympathy with the Reform party is as strong to-day as ever. On the bench he lays aside his partisanship and endeavors to administer justice without fear, favor or affection.
He has excellent natural ability, a quick, penetrating intellect, and remarkable facility in getting at the real merits of cases brought before him." The Reform Government always appointed good men to the bench.

The Hamilton Times has the following sentible and timely words:—"Goderich is to have a young Men's Liberal Club.
The recent convention begins to bear fruit. It boldly admits the right of the young men to take a full share in the governance of the country, and by active co-operation with their seniors, by meet ings at which public questions may be discussed, and information exchanged, the young men can do much to qualify themselves for the work which lies be fore them. The young men are the hope of the country. They cannot afford to stand idly by while she is being misgovern ed and her substance wasted by in capable old fossils of the Macdonald and Pope type."

The Toronto World of Tuesday has the following:—
The Scott Act in Goderich.
When the Scott act came into operation in Goderich last May a gentleman there got the following prescription from his medical man, which he has used ever since: "Two gallons whisky, two gallons native wine, two dozen ale, one bottle gin, one bottle brandy, to be taken monthly until further orders." (Signed) M. D.

We would like to see the original before believing the prescription to be genuine. However, with the incapable (or worse than incapable) commis sioners and inspectors, such a condition of affairs could well be imagined. If one liquor store were "pulled" in Goderich both would have to be, and the Inspec tor, who loves his position and salary, dare not prosecute one of them for the most obvious reasons. We need not look for an honest and fearless adminis tration of the Scott Act until we have new commissioners, and a new inspec tor in West Huron.

WEST HURON LIBERALS.
The Reform Convention at Duncannon on Monday promises to be a success.
Among the speakers expected, whose names have been already announced, will be W. T. R. Preston, secretary of the Reform Association of Ontario.
Again we say to the Reformers of West Huron, young and old, rally around the Liberal banner at Duncannon on Mon day.

The friends of temperance will be pleased to know that the diminution of drunkenness was most noticeable on fair day. There was not one drunken man to the score on former occasions. Score one for the Scott Act.

Now is the time for the Reformers in the different constituencies to band themselves together and to adopt means to hinder the voters' lists being tampered with hereafter by the revising barriers.
It will entail some trouble and consid erable expense, but if proper means be tak en the results will well repay the work done. Our Tory friends will not require to lose time or money in the matter, as in the majority of cases the revising bar riers will look after their interests.

The town council will meet tonight.
The harbor mill taxation question will come up, and we hope the best interests of the town will be served, irrespective of any clique or any outside influence.
The council will need to act cautiously and justly, as there is a great division of opinion upon the question. So far the press has left the council to decide the matter as they think best, but that does not imply that they are not keeping a keen eye upon the action of the town fathers on this ticklish subject.

NEWS ABOUT HOME.
A child's among ye, takin notes
An' faith he'll prent it."

TOWN TOPICS.
George Stewart, photographer, is ready to take all kinds of photographs on the shortest notice. He invites an inspection of samples.

attired call upon F. & A. Priddy, Cran ston Bldg.

THE FALL SHOW IS NOW OVER, but Sal low's "the photographer" is still making a specialty of portraits in the picture line. If you want a care and correct likeness of your self, call upon Sallow.

NO TROUBLE LATER.—It is not yet too late to get your houses, fences or gates painted with durable coloring. Call upon E. R. Watson, the Goderich painter, for estimates. He aims to give satisfaction on every job. E. R. Wat son.

Gauders & Son continue to supply all kinds of coal stoves with cheap and at special prices, direct from the mines.
Don't forget to ask prices of our stoves before buying and save money. The cheapest house under the sun.

"FINE TAILORING."—GENTLEMEN.—Our

in Goderich, is on a holiday trip to the United States.

Mrs. Martin Murphy, of Hamilton, is professor of vocal music at the Hamilton Ladies' College.
Mrs. F. Lawrence and Miss Dark were this week the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D.
Wilson, Detroit.

Joshua Moore, who was in the employ of H. H. Kimes, has returned to his home at Benning.

Mrs. W. McLean we learn, intends spending the winter in California for the benefit of her health.

Miss Noble has accepted a position in the store of J. Robertson, Clinton, as mantle and dressmaker.

J. C. Harrison, of the Palace roller rink, returned from a business trip to Detroit on Monday last.

Mr. McCloskey, of Yale, B. C., was the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs.
Geo. Evans, Cambria road.
M. Cressman almost lost his fine horse recently, from its eating too plentifully of new mown hay and oats.

Mrs. Frazer and four children, of Winlock, are the guest of James McFar lane, Mrs. Frazer's father.

D. Cantelon shipped a large quanti ty of apples by steamer for the North west on this port last week.

Mrs. Alex. Kirkbride has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. Logan, of Stratford, for the past two weeks.

Dunlop, the merchant tailor, is adver tising fashionable tweeds and cheap ready made clothing, overcoats, etc.

Three or four liquor cases will be tried at Clinton today. Mr. Campion, of Goderich, has been asked to defend.
Rev. Mr. LeGar, of Holmesville, pre sented at Victoria Street Church, both morning and evening, on Sunday last.

Quite a number of our citizens took advantage of the excursion on Friday last to Chicago, Detroit and other places.
The doctory sheriff showed his pluck and power on fair day by stopping a fight. He is a useful man in a crowd yet.

Capt. and Mrs. Jackson, who have spent the summer at the Albion, pur pose returning to their home at Philadel phia.

Mrs. Simpson and little daughter, of Seaford, spent Sunday in town, the guest of Mrs. M. Johnston, Kingston street.

The Salvation Army made three con verts on Sunday last, one of them being considered a remarkable case. May all hold fast.

The "Harvest Home" of North St.
Methodist church congregation will be given as usual on the evening of Thank sgiving day.

Rev. Mr. Forrest, of Bayfield, preach ing in Knox church on Sunday morning, and the discourse was a pleasing and pro fitable one.

Mrs. W. Smith, East street, is visit ing her son, James Smith, at Detroit, whose wife has been very ill for some time past.

Miss Hodge returned on Wednesday last from a very pleasant visit at Toronto where she was the guest of her brother, A. Hodge.

Miss Lottie Polley, we understand, will teach in St. David's ward school for the remainder of the term, in room of Miss Casaday.

Capt. Cox, who has been in delicate health for some time, will with Mrs.
Cox, retire from the British Exchange at an early day.

The injury received by Mrs. Saults is much greater than was at first sup posed, as the small bones of the ankle have all been shattered.

A collar of hair pin work was taken from the fair on Wednesday; the owner, Miss Skimming, will be thankful to have it returned to her.

Miss Belle McKennia, who has been the guest of Mrs. J. C. Harrison the past few weeks, returned on Tuesday last to her home at Embro.

"To and Fro in London" is the sub ject of the lecture by the witty and elo quent J. R. Clarke, in Victoria hall on Tuesday next. Hear it.

George Ma-tin, a boy employed by J.
W. Smith, baker, was badly hurt on Saturday last by falling from the bread cart, while delivering orders.

There was a quiet wedding at the Albion Hotel on Wednesday evening, the lady being a well-known and re spected hall-keeper of Clinton.

Mrs. Archie Dickson, we regret to say, has been in very delicate health for some time, and we trust that her visit at Seaford will be beneficial to her.

Chas. Seager, jr., this week moved into the residence purchased by him, and Thos. Graham has also taken pos session of the house he recently bought.

Mrs. Mann, of Detroit, and her sister, Miss Alice Platt, returned to their home on Wednesday in consequence of the serious illness of Mr. and Mrs. Platt.

West Huron teachers will meet in convention in Goderich on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 23rd and 24th. An inter esting programme has been prepared.

Alex. Watson, florist, of Goderich, was a judge at the Clinton fall show. He is well posted on fruit and flowers, and with good judgment combines conscien tiousness, a combination not always to be found in fall show judges.

Keith McLean has accepted a position in the G. T. R. shops, Stratford, where he is studying mechanical engineering.
We wish him success in his adopted pro fession.

E. Hopper, who drives the dray, has a card in this week's issue. We com mend him to our readers. A local dis patch wagon is a very convenient thing for the town.

Bairnfather, the Scottish vocalist, will be heard on Wednesday, October 28th. Let the sons of the heather give the minstrel a bumper house when he comes this time.

Dr. S. J. Fraser, of Michigan, and his bride, spent a portion of their honey -moon in Goderich during the week, and were the guests of the doctor's father, Deputy Registrar Fraser.

Next Sunday educational sermons will be preached at the North street Metho dist church by Rev. Andrew Cunnin gham, of Mitchell. The collections will be in aid of the educational fund.

The Educational Department allowing the work of the Model School to be con tinued on the present plan until the arrival of the Model School Inspector.

Mrs. G. W. Thompson, of Goderich, a former resident of Stratford, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. Holmes, of this town, returned home last week accompanied by her daughter, Aggie.— [Stratford Age.]

At St. Peter's during the month of October, on week days, the masses will be said at 6.30 a.m. and 8 a.m., and prayers and benediction will be offered on Tuesday and Thursday evenings throughout the month.

The funeral of the late John McCon ald, of Port Huron, father of John McCon ald, Bayfield road, and of Mrs. Con ners, took place on Tuesday last at Hul lett, his remains being brought by train.
Rev. Fr. Watters officiated.

The entertainment given in Victoria Hall Monday by the Goderich Amate ur Dramatic Club was up to the high standard attained by our local players.
We regret that the press of other matter prevents a fuller notice of the pieces pre sented.

George Cox, foreman of the Goderich Signal, was called at The Times office last Saturday. Mr. Cox is one of the oldest printers in the county, and has been connected with THE SIGNAL ever since it first started, over 37 years ago.— [Wingham Times.]

THE GODERICH SIGNAL, under the management of the Messrs. McGillicuddy, has entered its sixth year. The SIGNAL is now 37 years old, is an able and well conducted newspaper, and an ever welcome visitor to our sanctum.
—[Amherstburg Echo.]

Henry Horton, who spent a couple of months in Great Britain and Ireland, re turned last week. He was delighted with his trip. It was nearly thirty years since he saw old England, and the changes that have taken place during that period were many and great.

Here is a local item which seems to have a very great present popularity with the press: "Now that harvest is over and beautiful crops have been gathered, we all expect those of our subscribers who are in arrears to plank down the cash without any further dunning."

SALVATION ARMY.—The holiness meet ing at the barracks on Wednesday eve ning was the most approved of any S. A. meeting. Dr. Striving, of Kingston, has a perfect mastery of religious thoughts and Biblical knowledge. He was assisted by Staff Captain Glover, D.
O., and Captain Hasaan.

We are pleased to learn that at the recent Manitoba teachers' examination Miss Rose Currie, daughter of our old townsman and chief constable, J. C.
Currie, succeeded in obtaining a second class B certificate. Her success is all the more creditable as the papers this year were rather harder than usual.

The biggest bass of the season was caught on Tuesday by the venerable George Morrow, uncle of Mrs. Cooke.
The old gentleman caught his fish in the river, near the end of the breakwater, and had a lively time landing it. The bass weighed exactly three pounds and six ounces. Mr. Morrow is being con gratulated on his catch.

TEMPERANCE RALLY.—The temperance meeting to be held in the Temperance Hall under the auspices of the W. C. T.
U. has been postponed until Tuesday, October 13th. Some pointed and practical speeches and good music may be expected. Mark the date on your ta blets, and turn out and hear the proceed ings of the next temperance meeting.

We guess we will have to take it all back. The Wingham Times says:—
"The Goderich Signal thinks it would have been better had the Wingham Cal edonian Society not had horse races in connection with their games. As there was no race of that description, or even a horse on the grounds, the advice of our coterie, quite inopportune. It was a mistake of our proof-reader in the first place. We wrote horse-race.

AN ORATORICAL TREAT.—We direct close attention to the advertisement of the lecture by John R. Clarke, the "Boot-Boot Orator." Mr. Clarke is said to be a most eloquent speaker, and he has made a reputation for himself for wit and oratory. The lecture in Victoria Hall on Tuesday will be well worth hearing, and those who would listen to one of the most popular platform spe akers of the day should go and hear him.
Don't miss it.

SANDY McCALLUM'S BOARD BILL.— This somewhat case came off at the division court yesterday. J. McBride, of the Albion hotel, brought an action for some $100 against A. M. Polley for boarding his 'bus driver for several months. It was brought out that the boarding of the well-known 'bus driver was part of the arrangement made be tween Polley and McBride when the Albion was running a free 'bus. Polley was to furnish the 'bus, and McBride was to board the driver. McBride lost the case.

The well known legal firm Cameron, Holt & Cameron, of Goderich, has en larged its membership by the admis sion into partnership of C. C. Ross, barrister, son of the Provincial Treasurer. The name of the firm will not be changed, however. We congratulate our young townsman on his promotion. The new partner associated with the firm, and since passing the necessary examinations has been with the eminent firm of McCarthy, Osler, Hoskin & Creelman. The in creasing business of Cameron, Holt & Cameron will now be better served than ever.

AN ORIGINAL COMPOSITION.—The music of the voluntary sung in Knox church on Sunday evening was, we un derstand, the composition of the leader of the choir, E. L. Brown. It is a very pleasing composition, and was written on the occasion of Henry Horton cross ing the Atlantic, and it was originally intended to sing it on the Sunday he was on the water. The piece is called "Hor -ton," and the gentleman after whom the music was named had the satisfaction of assisting in the first public singing of it on Sunday night. We congratulate Mr.
Brown on his musical gift. The com position will become popular.

CLINTON FAIR.—The Clinton fall show, held on Thursday and Friday of last week, was a great success. The weath er was very favorable, the exhibition was a good one, and the number of per sons attending was large. The band tournament attracted much attention.
The prizes in this competition were awar ded as follows:—1st prize to Waterloo Band, 2nd to Wingham Band, and 3rd to Clinton Town Band. These were the only bands that contested though the Goderich, Blyth and Doherty bands were on the grounds. Judges—Prof. De Paenry, Goderich; Prof. Hissocks, Lon don; Chas. Blackstone, Clinton.

FAREWELL SOCIAL.—The farewell so cial to be tendered to John McGillivray, B. A., this evening in Knox Church, promises to be very successful. An ex cellent programme of reading, singing, etc., has been provided, and the choir has no doubt no trouble to make the even ing an enjoyable one. Addresses are expected from all our resident ministers.
Miss Knox, who is said to be one of the most pleasing elocutionists in Canada, will make her first appearance before a Goderich audience on this occasion.
Refreshments will be served from six till eight o'clock. The admission fee char ged is 25 c., but good value is promised.

SARNOV ON MATRIMONY.—Rev. T. M.
Campbell, of North Street Methodist church preached a very salutary sermon on matrimony on two successive Sabbath evenings, ending on Sunday evening last. His very particular advice to the young women was to impress upon their minds a love of simplicity and natu ralness, which charms the truest men. His advice to young men was that they should love their homes. No young woman should marry a man who did not respect his parents, for he would never respect his wife. Mr. Campbell also stated that matrimony is too often talked of in jest, with much levity, but it was one of the most important steps in the life of man or woman.

S. S. ASSOCIATION OF CANADA.—A programme of the 12th Annual Provin cial Convention of the Sabbath School Association of Canada, to be held in Stratford City on the 20th, 21st and 22nd of October, has been received at this office. The programme is a most interesting one, the Executive Com mittee apparently having left nothing undone calculated to make the session one of great helpfulness to all concerned.
Delegates upon arriving at Stratford should proceed immediately to the place of meeting, Knox church, where the Reception Committee will furnish them billets. Arrangements have been made with the railway authorities for the re turn journey at one fare and a third.
Certificates for this purpose will be fur nished on receipt of the filled up blank form furnished. Judging from the names of distinguished Sabbath School workers on the programme, and that of Mr. Wm. Reynolds, of Peoria, Illinois, together with the Messrs. Whyte Broth ers, who will conduct the music, the session will be one of the most interest ing yet held. Institute exercises will be led by the Rev. Alfred Andrews, S. S.
Secretary of the Guelph Conference.

Coloborns.
SERIOUS FALL.—A man named Mil lion fell from a mow to the threshing floor on Thursday and broke one of his legs. We have been unable to get par ticulars.

Lessons.
FALL WHEAT.—The beautiful weather of the last few weeks is bringing along the fall wheat exceedingly well.

COLT DREN.—Mr. Linfield, lake shore, had a valuable colt die Sunday evening.
The cause of death is uncertain.

FRUIT.—The apple buyers are buying the fall apples pretty briskly. It will pay farmers to look well after their orchards in the future.

THE 4:15 EXPRESS.

BY AMELIA B. EDWARDS.

III.

A week had not gone by when I received a letter from the Secretary of the East Anglian Railway Company, requesting the favor of my attendance at a special board-meeting, then not many days distant. No reasons were alleged, and no apologies offered, for this demand upon my time; but they had heard, it was clear, of my inquiries about the missing director, and had a mind to put me through some sort of official examination upon the subject. Being still a guest at Dunblaton Hall, I had to go up to London for the purpose, and Jonathan Jelf accompanied me. I found the direction of the Great East Anglian line represented by a party of some twelve or fourteen gentlemen seated in solemn conclave round a huge green-based table in a gloomy board-room adjoining the London terminus. Being courteously received by the chairman (who at once began by saying that certain statements of mine respecting Mr. John Dwerrihouse had come to the knowledge of the directors, and that they in consequence desired to confer with me on those points), we were placed at the table and the inquiry proceeded in due form. I was first asked if I knew Mr. John Dwerrihouse, how long I had been acquainted with him, and whether I could identify him at sight. I was then asked when I had seen him last. To which I replied: "On the fourth of this present month, December, eighteen hundred and fifty-six." Then came the inquiry of where I had seen him on that fourth day of December; to which I replied that I met him in a first-class compartment of the 4:15 down express; that he got in just as the train was leaving the London terminus, and that he alighted at Blackwater station. The chairman then inquired whether I had held any communication with my fellow-traveller; whereupon I related, as nearly as I could remember it, the whole bulk and substance of Mr. John Dwerrihouse's diffused information respecting the new branch line. To all this the board listened with profound attention, while the chairman presided and the secretary took notes. I then produced the cigar-case. It was passed from hand to hand and recognized by all. There was not a man present who did not remember that plain cigar-case with silver monogram, or to whom it seemed anything less than entirely corroborative of my evidence. When at length I had told all that I had to tell, the chairman whispered something to the secretary; the secretary touched a silver handbell; and the guard, Benjamin Somers, was ushered into the room. He was then examined as carefully as myself. He declared that he knew Mr. John Dwerrihouse perfectly well; that he could not be mistaken in him; that he remembered going down with the 4:15 express on the afternoon in question; that he remembered me; and that, there being one or two empty first-class compartments on that special afternoon, he had, in compliance with my request, placed me in a carriage by myself. He was positive that I remained alone in that compartment all the way from London to Clayborough. He was ready to take his oath that Mr. Dwerrihouse was neither in that carriage with me nor in any compartment of that train. He remembered distinctly to have examined my ticket at Blackwater; was certain that there was no one else at that time in the carriage; could not have failed to observe any second person, had there been one; had that second person been Mr. John Dwerrihouse, should have quietly double-locked the door of the carriage, and have at once given information to the Blackwater station-master. So clear, so decisive, so resolute, was Somers with this testimony, that the board looked fairly puzzled. "You hear this person's statement, Mr. Langford," said the chairman. "It contradicts yours in every particular. What have you to say in reply?" "I can only repeat what I said before. I am quite as positive of the truth of my own assertions as Mr. Somers can be of the truth of his."

"I cannot tell. I saw them walking together down the platform, and then I saw them standing aside under a gas-jet, talking earnestly. After that I lost sight of them quite suddenly; and just then my train went on, and I with it." The chairman and secretary conferred together in an undertone. The directors whispered to each other. One or two looked suspiciously at the guard; I could see that my evidence remained unshaken, and that, like myself, they suspected some complicity between the guard and the defaulter. "How far did you conduct that 4:15 express on the day in question, Somers?" asked the chairman. "All through, sir," replied the guard; "from London to Crampton." "How was it that you were not relieved at Clayborough? I thought there was always a change of guard at Clayborough." "There used to be, sir, till the new regulations came in force last midsummer; since then the guards in charge of express trains go the whole way through." The chairman turned to the secretary. "I think it would be as well," he said, "if we had the day book to refer to upon this point." Again the secretary touched the silver hand-bell, and desired the porter in attendance to summon Mr. Raikes. From a word or two dropped by another of the directors, I gathered that Mr. Raikes was one of the under-secretaries. He came, a small, slight, sandy-haired, keen-eyed man, with an eager, nervous manner, and a forest of light beard and moustache. He just showed himself at the door of the board-room, and, being requested to bring a certain day-book from a certain shelf in a certain room, bowed and vanished. He was there but a moment, and the surprise of seeing him was so great and sudden, that it was not till the door had closed upon him that I found voice to speak. He was no sooner gone, however than I sprang to my feet. "That person," I said, "is the same who met Mr. Dwerrihouse upon the platform at Blackwater." There was a general movement of surprise. The chairman looked grave and somewhat agitated. "Take care, Mr. Langford," he said; "take care what you say." "I am as positive of his identity as of my own." "Do you consider the consequences of your words? Do you consider that you are bringing a charge of the gravest character against one of the Company's servants?" "I am willing to be put on my oath, if necessary. The man who came to that door a minute since is the same whom I saw talking with Mr. Dwerrihouse on the Blackwater station. Were he twenty times the Company's servant, I could say neither more nor less." The chairman turned again to the guard. "Did you see Mr. Raikes in the train, or on the platform?" he asked. Somers shook his head. "I am confident Mr. Raikes was not in the train," he said; "and I certainly did not see him on the platform." The chairman turned next to the secretary. "Mr. Raikes is in your office, Mr. Hunter," he said. "Can you remember if he was absent on the fourth instant?" "I do not think he was," replied the secretary; "but I am not prepared to speak positively. I have been away most afternoons myself lately, and Mr. Raikes might easily have absented himself if he had been disposed." At this moment the under-secretary returned with the day-book under his arm. "Be pleased to refer, Mr. Raikes," said the chairman, "to the entries of the fourth instant, and see what Benjamin Somers' duties were on that day." Mr. Raikes threw open the cumbersome volume, and ran a practiced eye and finger down some three or four successive columns of entries. Stopping suddenly at the foot of a page, he then read aloud that Benjamin Somers had on that day conducted the 4:15 express from London to Crampton. The chairman leaned forward in his seat, looked the under-secretary full in the face, and said, quite sharply and suddenly: "Where were you, Mr. Raikes, on the same afternoon?" "I, sir?" "You, Mr. Raikes. Where were you on the afternoon and evening of the fourth of the present month?" "Here, sir,—in Mr. Hunter's office. Where else should I be?" There was a dash of trepidation in the under-secretary's voice as he said this; but his look of surprise was natural enough. "We have some reason for believing, Mr. Raikes, that you were absent that afternoon without leave. Was this the case?" "Certainly not, sir. I have not had a holiday since September. Mr. Hunter will bear me out in this."

"You hear, Mr. Langford?" he said. "I hear, sir, but my conviction remains unshaken." "I fear, Mr. Langford, that your convictions are very insufficiently based," replied the chairman, with a doubtful cough. "I fear that you 'dream dreams,' and mistake them for actual occurrences. It is a dangerous habit of mind, and might lead to dangerous results. Mr. Raikes here would have found himself in an unpleasant position, had he not proved so satisfactory an alibi." I was about to reply, but he gave me no time. "I think, gentlemen," he went on to say, addressing the board, "that we should be wasting time to push the inquiry further. Mr. Langford's evidence would seem to be of equal value throughout. The testimony of Benjamin Somers disproves his first statement, and the testimony of the last witness disproves his second. I think we may conclude that Mr. Langford fell asleep in the train on the occasion of his journey to Clayborough, and dreamt an unusual vivid and circumstantial dream—of which, however, we have heard quite enough." There are few things more annoying than to find one's positive convictions met with incredulity. I could not feel feeling impudently at the turn that affairs had taken. I was not proof against the civil sarcasm of the chairman's manner. Most intolerable of all, however, was the quiet smile lurking about the corners of Benjamin Somers' mouth, and the half-triumphant, half-malicious gleam in the eyes of the under-secretary. The man was evidently puzzled, and somewhat alarmed. His looks seemed furiously to interrogate me. Who was I? What did I want? Why had I come there to do him an ill turn with my employers? What was it to me whether or not he was absent without leave? Seeing all this, and perhaps more irritated by it than the thing deserved, I begged leave to detain the attention of the board for a moment longer. Jelf plucked me impatiently by the sleeve. "Better let the thing drop," he whispered. "The chairman's right enough. You dream it; and the less said now the better." I was not to be silenced, however, in this fashion. I had yet something to say, and I would say it. It was to this effect: That dreams were not usually productive of tangible results, and that I requested to know in what way the chairman conceived I had evolved from my dream so substantial and well-made a delusion as the cigar-case which I had had the honor of place before him at the commencement of our interview. "The cigar-case, I admit, Mr. Langford," the chairman replied, "is a very strong point in your evidence. It is your only strong point, however, and your only just possibility that we may all be misled by a mere accidental resemblance. Will you permit me to see the case again?" "It is unlikely," I said, as I handed it to him, "that any other should bear precisely this monogram, and yet be in all other particulars exactly similar." The chairman examined it for a moment in silence, and then passed it to Mr. Hunter. Mr. Hunter turned it over and over, and shook his head. "This is no mere resemblance," he said. "It is John Dwerrihouse's cigar-case to a certainty. I remember it perfectly. I have seen it a hundred times." "I believe I may say the same," added the chairman. "Yet how account for the way in which Mr. Langford asserts that it came into his possession?" "I can only repeat," I replied, "that I found it on the floor of the carriage after Mr. Dwerrihouse had alighted. It was in leaning out to look after him that I trod upon it; and it was in running after him for the purpose of restoring it that I saw—or believed I saw—Mr. Raikes standing aside with him in earnest conversation." Again I felt Jonathan-Jelf plucking at my sleeve. "Look at Raikes," he whispered. "Look at Raikes!" I turned where the under-secretary had been standing a moment before, and saw him, white as death, with lips trembling and livid, stealing toward the door. To conceive a sudden, strange, and indefinite suspicion; to fling myself in his way; to take him by the shoulders as if he were a child, and turn his craven face perforce toward the board were with me the work of an instant. "Look at him!" I exclaimed. "Look at his face! I ask no better witness to the truth of my words."

The chairman's brow darkened. "Mr. Raikes," he said, sternly, "if you know anything, you had better speak." Vainly trying to wrench himself from my grasp, the under-secretary stammered out an incoherent denial. "Let me go," he said. "I know nothing,—you have no right to detain me,—let me go!" "Did you, or did you not, meet Mr. John Dwerrihouse at Blackwater station? The charge brought against you is either true or false. If true, you will do well to throw yourself upon the mercy of the board, and make a full confession of all that you know." The under-secretary wrung his hands in an agony of helpless terror. "I was away," he cried. "I was two hundred miles away at the time! I know nothing about it,—I have nothing to confess,—I am innocent.—I call God to witness I am innocent!" "Two hundred miles away!" echoed the chairman. "What do you mean?" "I was in Devonshire. I had three weeks' leave of absence,—I appeal to Mr. Hunter,—Mr. Hunter knows I had three weeks' leave of absence! I was in Devonshire all the time,—I can prove I was in Devonshire!" Seeing him so abject, so incoherent, so wild with apprehension, the directors began to whisper gravely among themselves, while one got quietly up and called the porter to guard the door. "What has your being in Devonshire to do with the matter?" said the chairman. "When were you in Devonshire?" "Mr. Raikes took his leave in September," said the secretary; "about the time when Mr. Dwerrihouse disappeared." "I never even heard that he had disappeared till I came back!" "That must remain to be proved," said the chairman. "I shall at once put this matter in the hands of the police. In the meanwhile, Mr. Raikes, being myself a magistrate, and used to deal with these cases, I advise you to confess while confession may yet do you service. As for your accomplice—" The frightened wretch fell upon his knees. "I had no accomplice!" he cried. "Only have mercy upon me,—only spare my life, and I will confess all! I didn't mean to harm him! I didn't mean to hurt a hair of his head. Only have mercy upon me, and let me go!" The chairman rose in his place, pale and agitated. "Good heavens!" he exclaimed, "what horrible mystery is this? What does it mean?" "As sure as there is a God in heaven," said Jonathan Jelf, "it means that murder has been." "No—no—no!" shrieked Raikes, still upon his knees, and cowering like a beaten hound. "Not murder! No jury that ever sat could bring it in murder! I thought I had only stunned him,—I never meant to do more than stun him! Manslaughter—manslaughter—not murder!" Overcome by the horror of this unexpected revelation, the chairman covered his face with his hand, and for a moment or two remained silent. "Miserable man," he said, at length, "you have betrayed yourself." "You bade me confess! You urged me to throw myself upon the mercy of the board!" "You have confessed to a crime which no one suspected you of having committed," replied the chairman, "and which this board has no power either to punish or forgive. All that I can do for it is to advise you to submit to the law, to plead guilty, and to conceal nothing. When did you do this deed?" The guilty man rose to his feet, and leaned heavily against the table. His answer came reluctantly, like the speech of one dreaming. "On the Twenty-second of September." "On the Twenty-second of September? I looked in Jonathan Jelf's face, and he in mine. I felt my own palping with a strange sense of wonder and dread. I saw his blench suddenly, even to the lips. "Merciful heaven!" he whispered, "what was it, then, that you saw in the train?" "What was it that I saw in the train? That question remains unanswered to this day. I have never been able to reply to it. I only know that it bore the living likeness of the murdered man, whose body had then been lying some ten weeks under a rough pile of branches and brambles and rotting leaves at the bottom of a deserted chalk-pit about half-way between Blackwater and Mallingford. I know that it spoke and moved and looked in life; that I heard or seemed to hear things related which I could never otherwise have learned; that I was guided, as it were, by that vision on the platform to the identification of the murderer; and that a passive instrument myself, I was destined, by means of these mysterious teachings, to bring about the ends of justice. For these things I have never been able to account. As for the matter of the cigar-case, it proved, on inquiry, that the carriage in which I travelled that afternoon, to Clayborough had not been in use for several weeks, and was, in point of fact, the same in which poor John Dwerrihouse had performed his last journey. The case had, doubtless, been dropped by him, and had lain unnoticed till I found it. Upon the details of the murder I have no need to dwell. Those who desire more ample particulars may find them in the written confession of Augustus Raikes, in the files of the Times for 1856. Enough that the under-secretary, knowing the history of the new line, and following the negotiations step by step through all its stages, determined to waylay Mr. Dwerrihouse, rob him of the seventy-five thousand pounds, and escape to America with his booty. In order to effect these ends he obtained leave of absence a few days before the time appointed for the payment of the money; secured his passage across the Atlantic in a steamer advertised to start on the twenty-third; provided himself with a heavily loaded "life-preserver," and went down to Blackwater to await the arrival of his victim. How he met him on the platform with a pretended message from the board; how he offered to conduct him by a short across the fields to Mallingford; how, having brought him to a lonely place, he struck him down with the "life-preserver," and so killed him; and how, finding what he had done, he dragged the body to the verge of an out-of-the-way chalk-pit, and there flung it in and plied it over with branches and brambles, are facts still fresh in the memories of those who, like the connoisseurs in DeQuincy's famous essay, regard murder as a fine art. Strangely enough, the murderer, having done his work, was afraid to flee the country. He declared that he had not intended to take the director's life, but only to stun and rob him; and that, finding the blow had killed, he dared not fly for fear of drawing down suspicion upon his own head. As a mere robber he would have been safe in the States, but as a murderer he would inevitably have been pursued and given up to justice. So he forfeited his passage, returned to the office as usual at the end of his leave, and lacked up his ill-gotten thousands till a more convenient opportunity. In the meanwhile he had the satisfaction of finding that Mr. Dwerrihouse was universally believed to have absconded with the money, no one knew how or whether. Whether he meant murder or not, however, Mr. Augustus Raikes paid the full penalty of his crime, and was hanged at the Old Bailey, in the second week in January, 1857.

Swedish Manners. One great peculiarity of travelling in Sweden is the extreme quiet and lack of hurry. The Swedish are a taciturn and noiseless people. They do much by signs, and never shout; a Swedish crowd makes singularly little sound. Swedes, even of the lowest class, never push or jostle. It is the custom to do so much bowing and hat lifting that one is obliged to move more slowly than in England to give time for all this courtesy. When a train leaves a platform, or a steambot pier, all the lookers-on lift their hats to the departing passengers and bow to them, a compliment returned by the travellers. If you address the poorest person in the streets you must lift your hat. A gentleman passing a lady on the stairs of a hotel must do the same. To enter a shop or a bank with one's hat on is a terrible breach of good manners. If you enter or leave a coffee room you must bow to all the occupants. Passengers on board the little steamers which ply about Stockholm invariably raise their hats to the occupants of any other boat which passes near them. The very men in charge of the locks on the canal bow politely to the sailors as the boats go through. Imagine English barbers indulging in such amenities.—London Society.
A Certain Result. In all disturbed action of the Stomach, the Bowels, the Liver or the Kidneys, the result of taking Burdock Blood Bitters is certain to afford prompt benefit to the sufferer. Burdock Blood Bitters cure when other remedies fail.
More About Blue Blood. The puerils are putting on aristocratic airs. Lord Boyle has been elected a member of the Northwest Council for Fort MeLeod. As this spring of nobility is a decent farmer, and as such has commended himself to his fellow settlers, there can be no objection to his elevation to the place of honor. There is a decided difference between the selection of Lord Boyle to the Northwest Council and Sir John Macdonald's method of filling up important vacancies in the C. V. Service at Ottawa with Old Country in-patriation, whose sole passport to preferment is that they have blue blood in their veins. The people of Canada care not whether a settler has the title of a Lord or a Duke, is a second cousin to a nobleman or is only a respectable and honest man. What they ask is that ability alone should be the passport to office and not family relationship.—(Hamilton Times.)

St. John's Church.—This week we took a look through the above mentioned church. If it were not for the peculiarity of the pews a person could readily be deceived as to its being the same building as of yore, so completely has the work been done. The walls have been painted with a new shade of green, with a neatly painted border of brown.

Running the full length of the walls are the following Scriptural quotations, on either side, "I will pay my vows unto the Lord now in the presence of all His people," and "Exalt ye the Lord our God and worship at His footstool, for He is holy." On the front wall may be read "Feed my sheep," and "Feed my lambs."

Over the chancel is inscribed "In this place will I give peace saith the Lord of hosts." The pulpit has been done away with and the reading desk brought out in front of the chancel. The choir is placed in the chancel which has been neatly seated for them. The communion table, is covered with purple baize and the arm chairs, desk, &c. are upholstered with the same material. Just above the communion table is the familiar inscription "This do in remembrance of Me," in elegant gilt letters, while over the chancel window is "Holy! Holy! Holy!" There are also three satin banners with gold fringe bearing the texts "The Lord reigneth," "God is love," and "Trust in God." The painting was done by Mr. Olsson, of Goderich, who is well known for his artistic ability. He displayed no small amount of taste in the work done and can get a recommendation from the people of St. John's Church at any time. F. C. Rogers took a very active part in raising the wherewithal to meet the expense of the work done. The church looks very neat, attractive and comfortable. [Post.

The Poet's Corner.

These sunset moments are lovely now. They are falling so soft on my weary brow. Weary with painful reading. Yes, soft and sweet as the zephyr's sigh. That soothes the soul with its lullaby.

RUSSETS.

A late March twilight, with a bitter frost in the air, the moon new just dipping its golden horn behind the maple swamp in the west, and the ground sounding crisply under foot.

"Look here, Kitty," said I suddenly. "These russet apples I can sell them. There are eight barrels at the fifty-eight barrels at two dollars and fifty cents a barrel."

"My dear Addy, no one will buy them at one-fifth the price. Apples are a drag in the market."

"But it wasn't so bad after all. With pardonable egotism, I supposed that everyone would be staring at me, but on the contrary, a young woman selling apples might be the commonest sight in the world, so little comment or surprise did it apparently excite."

She had scarcely spoken the words before there came a knock at the door, and in walked no less a person than Mr. Willis Avery himself. I received him with this air of an empress.

"Your money is ready, Mr. Avery," said he, almost reproachfully. "Do you think one's mind runs always on money?"

A BAKER'S TESTIMONY. For a cough, cold or any bronchial affection, "Pocotia," in my opinion, is just the thing. I have used it in my family for Coughs and Colds for the past four years with the most unvaried success, and today my opinion of it is that I continue to think still more of that which I began thinking well of.

Fun and Fancy.

I don't know as I can make you understand what I mean, Clara, said Margaret, but I'll try to make it plain.

A gentleman not 100 miles from Glasgow was looking through the gates of his palace down the turnpike road, and seeing an Irishman pick up a hare, and wait until he came up, and said, "Pat, does that hare belong to you?"

At the station down in Indiana the Lake Shore Company employs a lady ticket agent. She is a good agent, and attends closely to her business, but she is a woman still.

The Earl of Londale was so extensive a proprietor and patron of burgles that he returned nine members in every Parliament, who were facetiously called Lord Londale's ninetins.

A writer in Harper's Magazine asks the question: "What shall our artists paint?" From the impetuous condition of some of them, and the kind of work turned out by others, the conclusion is irresistible that many of them should paint signs, houses, wagon-bodies and such things.

"I like the mild spring air," said Moon Gilpin, as he sat down on Squire McGill's porch seat, the other awaiting for a friendly chat, "but fresh air makes everything seem. Do you know of anything fresher than the gentle spring zephyr?"

Household Hints.

Bake crackers till crisp to be eaten with oysters.

Corned beef and ham should be put in boiling water.

One teaspoon of baking powder and an egg improves dressing.

The luster of Morocco is restored by washing it with the white of an egg. Apply with a sponge.

Kid shoes can be kept soft and free from cracks by rubbing them once a week with pure glycerine or castor oil.

Inflammations are more safely and far more speedily subdued by the application of warm water than of cold.

The foundation of three fourths of all cases of consumption is laid before the age of 25 years; in women, during their teens.

Intense thirst is satisfied by wading in water or by keeping the clothing saturated with water, even if it is taken from the sea.

Soaking calico just previous to the first washing in a strong solution of either salt or alum, is excellent to preserve the color.

Somebody says that the odor of fresh paint may be removed from a room by placing a saucer of ground coffee in the apartment.

Gold jewelry should be washed with a brush and Castile soap; rinse and lay face down, deep into fine, dry sawdust; let remain until quite dry.

To exercise in weariness, increased by every step, is not only not beneficial, it is useless and worse than useless; it is positively destructive.

The hereditary element is not of special account as a cause of consumption, as less than 25 per cent. of cases are clearly of consumptive parentage.

Very excessive effort in a short space of time, as in running or jumping a rope, etc., has repeatedly caused instant death, by spasm of the lungs, the exercise sending the blood there faster than it can be forwarded to the heart, and faster than it can be purified by the more frequent breathing on such occasions.

No disease ever comes without a cause or without a warning; hence endeavor to think back for the cause, with a view to avoid it in the future, and on the instant of any unpleasant bodily sensation cease eating absolutely until it has entirely disappeared at least for twenty-four hours; if still remaining consult a physician.

The more clothing a man wears, the more bed covering he uses, the closer he keeps his chamber, whether warm or cold, the more he confines himself to the house, the more numerous and warm his night garments, the more readily will he take cold, under all circumstances, as the more a thriftless youth is helped the less able does he become to help himself.

Water cannot satisfy the thirst which attends cholera, dysentery, diarrhoea, and some other forms of disease; in fact, drinking cold water tends to increase the thirst, and induce other disagreeable sensations, but this thirst will be perfectly and pleasantly subdued by eating a comparatively small amount of ice swallowed in a large piece as practicable, and as much as is wanted.

An English society paper in describing the recent law suits in connection with the advertisement says that the girls did not wear corsets. One of them, however, wore a tight white Jersey and thin muslin skirt. There were complaints that skirts hamper the movements and the prospect is that steps will be taken to provide some acceptable suit for next year.

Fruit Recipes.

GRAPE SAUCE.—Pick and wash rich, dark grapes, say Concord or Isabella, fill nearly full of water and cook to pieces, requiring perhaps twenty or thirty minutes. Run through colander, return the juice to the fire, thicken to the face with gluten, rice flour, or corn starch.

GRAPE TRIFLE.—Soak pieces of biscuit or cake in pure sweetened grape juice (prepared as above, only not thickened) until they are quite saturated. Then pile them up in a tassa, sprinkling in desiccated cocoanut throughout, and pour a plain custard over the whole. Place some walnut meat on the top, and finish by laying a whip made with cream, sugar and the whites of eggs, and dot this with currant jelly. Several more simple dishes can be prepared by stopping at different points in the above process.

A COMFORT OF PEACHES.—Take some fine, free-stone peaches, cut them into halves, remove the stones and dip the halves into boiling water. Then, after taking off the skins, cook them in hot syrup, allowing them to boil up twice, when they will be done enough. Then wash them up, strain the syrup through a sieve and pour it over the peaches. The mixture may be served either hot or cold.

PEACH WATER ICE.—Take six good-sized round and ripe peaches. Peel them, remove the stones, and cut them into quarters. Then make a syrup as follows:—Put into a stew-pan a pint of water, a pound of the best loaf sugar, the white of an egg first beaten to a stiff froth, and a peach kernel. Place the pan on the fire and boil for five minutes. Then remove the pan to one side of the stove, put in the quartered peaches, and let them simmer until they become thoroughly soft. Then press all through a fine hair sieve, adding two table-spoonsful of strained lemon juice, and (if a pink tinge is desired) two drops of cochineal. The mixture is then to be put into a freezer and frozen in the ordinary way.

A Speedy Cure.—As a speedy cure for Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Diarrhoea, Colic, Cramps, Sick Stomach, Canker of the Stomach and Bowels, and all forms of Summer Complaints, there is no remedy more reliable than Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. Dealers who sell it and those who buy it are on mutual grounds in confidence of its merits.

PEACH JELLY.—Make a thin syrup with ten ounces of sugar and half a pint of water. Then take ten or twelve ripe peaches, pare them, cut them in halves and take out the stones, bruising the kernels of half of them. Now put the halved peaches, together with the bruised kernels, into the syrup and allow them to simmer for fifteen minutes, adding, for flavor, the seed of two lemons and the juice of three. Then strain the jelly through a jelly-bag, add ten ounces of dissolved gelatine, and pour it into a mould, which should be placed on the ice until the jelly becomes stiff enough to turn out. The peaches themselves may be utilized as a Souffle.

A Sure Remedy.—When there are festering sores, blotches, pimples and boils appearing, it indicates an extremely bad condition of the blood which should be speedily cleansed by that best of all medicines Burdock Blood Bitters.

It is related that many years ago a Mr. Morgan, who represented Westminster in the House of Commons, when on his first canvass called on Father Mooney, an influential priest, and asked him for his vote. The latter replied: "Sir, I'd rather give it to the devil."

"But," said the candidate, "in the event of your friend not coming forward for the county, what then?" He got the vote.

Among the most prevalent fatal and sudden attacks of disease, are those incident to the Summer and Fall, such as Cholera Morbus, Bilious Colic, Diarrhoea, Dysentery, etc., that often prove fatal in a few hours. That ever reliable remedy Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, should be at hand, for use in emergency.

Are you troubled with Salt Rheum, Rough Skin, Pimples or Canker Sores; if so, go at once to Geo. Rhyms' Drug Store and get a package of McGregor's Parke's Carbolic Ointment. Price 25 cents. It was never known to fail.

Fashion's Fancies.

Blue and red is still a popular combination for country wear.

Bathing suits are still made of serge or twilled flannel, trimmed with narrow woolen braid.

A pretty fashion which has become almost universal is to make the costume in two shades, the blouse and hat in the darker, the skirt and scarf trimming for the hat in the lighter.

High-crowned Mackinaw or manilla braid hats are worn by young ladies in the country, and are suitable for driving and yachting, and should be simply trimmed with canvas, wool or velvet ribbon.

Hats are higher than ever, with towering bunches of flowers. Most of them have the straight crown and narrow brim. Some models of the picturesque Rembrandt and Gainsborough shapes are coming into fashion again.

Open-work cotton tissues are worn over thin silk or match or of a contrasting tint; fine glazed satens may, however, be used if silk is considered too expensive. The prettiest of these open-work cotton fabrics are etamine and canvas.

Light summer mantles are made of silk gauze, embroidered with small round beads, steel-blue, garnet-red, beige, bronze or lead-colored. This headed gauze is employed for visor-sleeves, middle back-pieces and the lower part of lapels, all the rest is brocaded silk gauze, without any beads.

Long flowing sashes are more fashionable than ever; their lapels are often ornamented with patterns of flowers embroidered in natural shades of color over either a dark or light colored ground, according to the style of the toilet. Some are embroidered with jet or colored beads, others are simply of striped or watered silk.

A convenient travelling suit is made of light summer beige or mohair, in a plain, straight, tucked skirt with horn, vest and jacket, which may be worn closed or opened. The back of the vest is formed of a lining, otherwise there is no lining in any part of the costume, except the silk in the standing collar and interior front of the sacque.

Jackets are in great favor and are of a number of varied shapes and styles. One of the most favored is the Croizette jacket, which opens with revers upon the chest side with a wide band of dark red velvet, finished at the point of the waist in a long loop; the sleeves are finished at the elbow with a lace trimming to match the plastron. The skirt is a pale buff and elated striped silk pekin, made quite plain and without any trimming round the foot.

A very tasteful toilet for a young lady of cream white lace tissue over pale red silk. The bodice of the dress is laid over the silk in plain and perfectly fitting at the back; in front it is open from the throat in a long point nearly down to the waist; the opening is filled up with creamy white lace, and edged on each side with a wide band of dark red velvet, finished at the point of the waist in a long loop; the sleeves are finished at the elbow with a lace trimming to match the plastron. The skirt is a pale buff and elated striped silk pekin, made quite plain and without any trimming round the foot.

Canadian Methodist Magazine for October, 1885.—Price $2 a year; $1 for six months; 50 cents per number. For sale at all book-stores.

The first article, "Here and There in Europe," gives engraved illustrated illustrations of London, Paris, Rouen, Berlin, Vienna, Warzburg, Oudenarde, Delhi, and other places of interest. "Through the Virginias" is very copiously and beautifully illustrated; as is also "The Cruise of the Challenger." Dr. Darman contributes a second admirable paper on "Newfoundland, its people, resources," etc., including a vivid description of the perils of coast navigation. One of the most striking papers is that by Dr. Dan'l Clark, Superintendent of Toronto Asylum for the Insane, on "Insanity of the Past." He invests with much interest the subject of insanity in Bible times and classic lands—the case of Socrates, etc., and shows the wonderful revolution in the treatment of the insane in recent times. The Rev. J. Cooper Antiff, M.A., B.D., contributes an interesting article on "Fencing." A story of the London City Mission: A Sketch of Christmas Evans, the famous Welsh Preacher; A Plea for Prohibition by the Editor; and other interesting articles, complete the number.

Ontario Steel Barb Fence Company (LIMITED)

SOLE MANUFACTURERS OF THE IMPROVED "LOCKBARB" FENCE WIRE

Reasons why the "Lockbarb" is the Best Wire Fencing Manufactured.

We use only the best English Bessemer Steel Wire, and we claim that in its construction it is superior to all other barbed fence wires. The wires forming the four points pass between the wires of the cables, interlock each other and pass around the cable, which makes the strongest bar in the world. It has the advantage of always presenting the barb laterally, which no two-pointed barbed fence does.

At a recent test of the strength of the "Lockbarb," made at the Northern Railway Shops, in Toronto, the following was the result: Ontario Steel Barb Fence Co.'s 1616 lbs. as against 1050 lbs. and 912 lbs. the Toronto Wire was beating the Montreal Wire, and was awarded the contract.
