LORD MORDEN'S DAUGHTER
— OR —
THE TRAGEDY OF THE CEDARS.

CHAPTER XXXV.

"Why should we waste time that is priceless? Why should we keep my daughter longer in suspense? Every hour may mean a drop of her heart's blood. You will go first, while I wait outside; I will give you an hour to break the news to her—an hour that will seem to me like an age! Then I will see your father—my unhappy friend—I will see him and freely forgive him all!"

Locksley called Mrs. Rogers, saying: "We are going now, Mrs. Rogers. Let me tell you, in brief, that this gentleman is my wife's father. Frank will understand, and may follow us to Richmond at once. I know that the dear fellow will be wild with delight."

They left the good woman reduced to a state of happy tears, and Locksley was surprised to find his strength returning rapidly. Joy is the grandest of all medicines.

"They entered the cab, and decided to drive all the way to Richmond, as there would be a great waste of time in waiting for a train, and other delays. It they broke the journey."

After talking for nearly an hour of nothing but Dora, Lord Morden referred, with much concern, to the attack upon Edmund on Waterloo Bridge.

"I am sure," he said, "that it must have been a preconcerted affair. An ordinary footpad or highwayman would not have left his booty behind, and these people never murder for murder's sake. Even the most hardened ruffian must have his own safety imperilled before he kills his victim."

"But I have no enemy," Edmund protested, for the twentieth time.

"There is this Richard Marlowe, who has dared to aspire to my daughter's hand," Lord Morden said, indignantly. "The fellow was my steward five-and-twenty years since—an unjust and dishonest steward. There is also the intriguing viscount, who has seduced my unhappy father in his power. I believe that either of these scoundrels would stoop to any crime, and what you have told me, and they will answer for this."

"I fear them no ill-will," replied Edmund. "I am too happy to wish to punish any one. Their bitter revenge will overtake them. There is a sure Nemesis in fate, sooner or later."

"The last half of the journey was passed almost in silence. Both men found plenty to think of in the coming scenes."

"I am only afraid of one thing," Edmund said. "I am only afraid of

"I do not want to die," he said, "but I am not afraid. I have been wounded before."

There was a touch of pride in his tones, and his mind went back to the days of his youth, when he had fought for his country.

At a sign from the acting surgeon, Fairfax was moving away on tiptoes, but Peters saw that he was going, and whispered, eagerly: "Look after my master, sir! Don't let him be murdered, too! The man who stabbed me was employed by Viscount Melville. Find him, and you may get him to confess. He can't be far away. I throw him over the balustrade. Find him—find him!"

He tried to rise on one elbow, but the doctor pressed him back. "I will do as you wish, Peters," Fairfax promised.

"Yes, and you may then learn the fate of Mr. Edmund!"

He closed his eyes, and began to mumble incoherently.

"I must administer a sleeping draught," the doctor decided, "or he will make needless trouble for himself and us." Then he added: "I suppose his assailant is in the hands of the police?"

"I had quite forgotten the wretch in my anxiety about the poor fellow," Fairfax confessed, "though if what he says be true, it is more than probable that he is beyond all need of earthly interference."

He drove back to the Temple with Rogers, and a couple of policemen were called, who were on duty about the law courts.

"A man has been stabbed," Fairfax said, "on the steps leading to my chambers. We have left him at St. Bartholomew's and he informs us that he threw his assailant over the balustrade. If this be true, you ought not to have much difficulty in finding the would-be murderer. The fall is enough to kill a man; but he was not killed, because there is no trace of him."

The policemen examined the stairs, and saw the bloodstains; then they hunted in the dark corners of the court until they came upon what appeared to be a heap of huddled-up clothing.

It was fully fifty yards from the scene of the attempted murder, and when one of the officers touched it with his staff, a moan of agony made him start back.

"He's here, safe enough!" he remarked to his companion, and both flashed their lanterns simultaneously at the black object.

"Hello! what yer doin' here?" demanded the officer who had taken the initiative all through.

"Go away, and let me die," a faint voice whispered. "For Heaven's sake don't touch me. The agony is more than I can bear. I feel that I haven't a whole bone left in my body."

The sergeant sent his companion for an ambulance and at the same time called to Fairfax and Rogers, who were searching in another court.

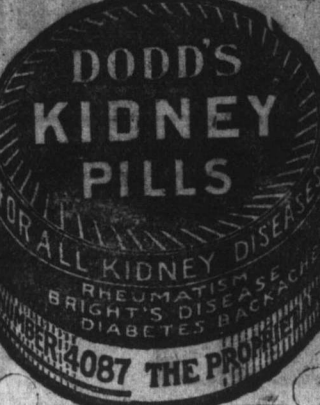

"We've got him, gentlemen," he said.

They looked at the wretched mass of humanity and shuddered, for the left hand was swollen to double its normal size, and was a black as soot.

"Poor devil!" muttered Fairfax. "His hours are numbered, but I hope he will live long enough to confess all that he knows—that he will confess the motive for his foul crime."

With the ambulance came the prison surgeon and two extra men. There was no sound from the crushed body now, for the man had found relief in insensibility.

CORNER BEEF HASH.

I travelled once in foreign lands, to see what might be seen; men welcomed me with cordial hands, with graceful and kindly mien; when I would fry fine victuals, cheap for cash, but nowhere would I buy a plate of corner beef hash. I met a lot of noble girls who entertained me well. I dined with knights and belted earls in mansion and hotel; and things they knew I might desire they got me in a flash, but nowhere could I buy or hire a plate of corner beef hash. I mingled with the peasant folk in lonely thorp and grad, and in their cabins filled with smoke, they fed me what they had. And they had fish and barley bread and leeks and succotash; but nowhere, when the feasts were spread, could I find corner beef hash. "These countries boast their bills of fare," I used to sadly sigh; "that they frame dishes rich and rare no fellow can deny; to doubt their skill in many things would be unwise and brash; they turn out dishes fit for kings, but where's their corner beef hash? I'm weary of the fish and game they feed me, ounce by ounce, and of the grub whose frightful name I shudder to pronounce; I'm weary of the mystic stew, the ragout and goulash; I'd give them all to find in view a plate of corner beef hash." I liked the culture of these lands where I pushed my cart; and I admired the German hands, and the Italian art; but little visits will suffice, one's pleasure goes to smash if he can't buy, who has the price, a dish of corner beef hash.

Put His Age-Back
OLDEST MAN WHO SERVED IN THE WAR.

There resides at Belvedere, Kent, the oldest man who served in the Great War. Mr. John Cunningham, who is 83, retired after his last voyage three years ago at the supposed age of 85. When war broke out he hit upon the expediency of putting his age back 15 years. During the whole of the war he was engaged on troopships and helped to bring the first great Australian convoy to England. He had no exciting adventures, he declared the other day, except when his ship struck a mine near Boulogne. Mr. Cunningham, who is a bachelor, is one of the 100 inmates of the Royal Alfred Home for old merchant seamen, at Belvedere. His last voyage was as quartermaster of the Gloucester, a Union-Castle liner. He is looking forward to representing the British Mercantile Marine at the Empire Thanksgiving Service at Wembley, on May 24th. With him will be 15 other old sailors, all of whom served at sea throughout the war. They all enjoy bowls, in which Mr. Cunningham excels.

Antonio Moreno in "Bluff"

AT THE STAR MOVIE TO-DAY.

Reference to the ad. on another page will show that the dashing Spanish favorite, Antonio Moreno, with handsome Agnes Ayres are featured in a high class social drama, entitled "Bluff" at the popular Star to-night. "Bluff" is a picture that the women are going to "eat". It answers the question which practically every woman has asked herself at some time or another "If I went to New York to try to win money would happen a girl that tried and it makes a most highly interesting picture. For Wednesday that dramatic star, Milton Sills, with Claire Adams are to be seen in a Universal Spectel, entitled "Legally Dead," which deals right to the point with "Bigamy" and is a picture which may be regarded as a sermon from the pulpit. Further reference to the ad. will show that the Management has booked for showing next week, the picture which set New York thinking, "The Woman on the Jury." In this production is the most castly cast ever assembled, including such stars as Sylvia Breamer, Mary Carr, Frank Mayo, Lew Cody, Ford Sterling, Hobart Bosworth and others. It is a story as may be gleaned from the ad. where a woman is placed on a jury to judge another's sin. "How can I sit in judgment of another's sin when I too am guilty? How am I to judge her when I too would do the same as she?" This was the situation. It is the inside truth of a wonderful life, and a picture which will make us all ask ourselves of our husband or wife, "what would I do if this happened to me."

Quakertown Maids Undress at N. Y. Pier

HOBOKEN, N.J., May 32.—While police reporters and customs officials looked on and quietly turned their heads, eighteen comely young women, of Quakertown, Pa., undressed in the pier at which the President Roosevelt docked Thursday afternoon and turned over their silken gowns to the United States Government. The unique procedure followed a decision by customs officials that the silk Quaker costumes, valued at $200 each, which the girls, a dancing troupe, were wearing, would have to be taken into the country.

A Great Musician's Halpenny

For tales of stirring games and legends of the sea, the story of his early life is related by Joseph Halpenny in "The Musician's Halpenny" talking of childhood days, the famous composer of "The Raven" says—

"When I was between six and seven my father gave me a halpenny every Saturday night for pocket-money, and always accompanied it with the injunction, 'Don't make a beast of yourself!'"

"I often wonder what my own children would say if I limited their pocket-money to sixpence. I need scarcely tell you that my halpenny was invested at the tuck shop near the school. It represented practically all the business and even the life which I led in my young life. At that time I was an institution known as a 'puller'. It was a machine with which each one pulled, while a pointer showed the strength of the pull. According to the pointer, one corresponding weight of sweats. The highest one could pull 35 ounces. Those 35 ounces were the height of my ambition. Every week I invested my halpenny with hope and all the strength I could command in vain. One Saturday, however, I gave a tremendous pull and jumped with all my might. To my amazement and for the pointer went to the top, registering 35 ounces. I had achieved my ambition. The proprietor handed me a packet of fearful and wonderful 'confectionery'. It was a packet of sweets. I staggered to my feet and opened the sweets. He said, 'I will take care of these for you, a beast of yourself.' He handed me one or two sweets and then locked up the bag. Every Saturday night, for weeks after that, I received a little packet of sweets, but while they lasted I never got my halpenny!"

RICHARD HUNNET THREE FLOWERS VANISHING CREAM

A Delicate Instrument
There will shortly leave America an expedition that will travel half round the earth and will take daily measurements of the heat of the sun in the interest of long-range weather forecasting. It will occupy four years in this task. The instrument that will be used is a radiometer invented by the late Dr. R. F. Nichols.

This radiometer is so sensitive that the ray of a candle situated 7,000 feet away and focused upon it is sufficient to turn its vane through several hundred scale divisions. Even the face of an observer, when placed in the position previously occupied by the candle, will produce a deflection of twenty-five scale divisions. It has been suggested by a humorist that with this instrument one might almost note the approach of a friend, while still some miles distant, merely by the glow of his countenance. It might even detect the sun in an English summer.

Our Montreal Letter
(From Our Own Correspondent)

SPEECH OF FRANK J. JACKMAN ON THE NEW PARISH.

The movement for the new English-speaking Parish for Westmount is progressing, but the anti's are also busy. The estimated English-speaking Catholic families in Westmount number 400. The assessed value of homes of English-speaking Catholics is over $3,000,000. The English-speaking Catholics last year contributed $15,000 to St. Leo's Church, and paid in school taxes $23,000.

At the dinner given at the Windsor Hotel on the evening of May 14th, Mr. Frank J. Jackman was the proposer of the toast "Our English-speaking Parish for Westmount." He said:—
Gentlemen.—In forming this new parish, our English-speaking Catholics are performing the greatest effort for our people, since the establishment of St. Patrick's Church, 80 years ago.

For nearly 200 years it has been the tradition of the English, Irish and Scotch settlers of this continent, to establish for themselves a spiritual home, wherever there was a group of 125 families or more. The wisdom and vision of the founders of this tradition are seen in the United States today, where our people through their hierarchy are the greatest force against Bolshevism, Socialism and Atheism. As a direct result also of this foresight on the part of our forefathers, we find, that in the United States, over 50 per cent. of the hospitals are directly under our supervision, although we only form 13 per cent. of the whole population.

It is our duty, therefore, as English-speaking Catholics, to carry on these traditions so nobly adhered to by our forefathers in Canada and the United States, and to make our plans for the future so we will be organized, and thus do our part in building up a great Canadian citizenship for our people. We can do this, gentlemen, by having, first a Bishop of our own, and as Rome recognizes this, it does not take a prophet to foresee that we will have an English-speaking Diocese in the Province of Quebec, before many of us here are gathered to our Fathers.

In making our plans for the future, we must not look upon Montreal as a city of a million people, nor Canada as a Nation of nine millions, we must visualize Montreal twenty-five years from now with a population of 3 millions and Canada a country of 27 millions, with an English-speaking Diocese in the Province of Quebec. This Province, which we hope shall always be Catholic, will be the centre of thought for Canada, for we are ever with our French Canadian friends in things Catholic and always with our Protestant friends in their demands for the rights of the minority. Therefore, a great work lies ahead of our people, but only by our being united can much be done to ensure our success spiritually, socially and economically. Illustrating the lack of unity and co-operation among our people, may I point out to you that although the English and Scotch Protestants came to this city about the same time as we did, they have more money invested to-day in three single institutions than the total wealth of our people on the Island of Montreal.

It is useless for us to attempt to build up like institutions without a Bishop of our own, because this institution is the basis upon which the religious, social and economic life of a people is nourished.

The question of vocations for the priesthood and the religious life, representation in civic politics, Board of Trade, Presidencies of large industrial concerns, Banks and Trust Companies—all these, gentlemen, and innumerable other items of spiritual, social and economic value to our people will begin in the palace of our English-speaking Bishop.

It will come, and sooner than we expect, and this is why I said in the beginning, that our establishing this new Church is the greatest piece of constructive work done by our people since the establishment of St. Patrick's Church; for we will bring together under our own spiritual roof, men of education and wealth equal to filling any position in political or industrial life. However, even with men of this calibre, it is impossible to successfully build up such institutions as English-speaking parishes, hospitals, schools, colleges, a University, and commercial institutions such as a Trust Company, and an English Catholic newspaper, without the guidance and personal interest of a Bishop of either English, Irish or Scotch extraction.

With regard to our new parish, gentlemen, let us make this petition the unanimous voice of all the English-speaking Catholics of Westmount.

With little organization over two hundred have now signed, and with a little added effort on the part of each one of us, our object can be attained within the next ten days.

I need not point out to you, gentlemen, the advantages of having a parish of our own. As soon as our Parish Priest is installed he will institute the many practices which have for generations been so dear to the hearts of our forefathers, such as societies for men and women, sodalities for our young people, missions and all other comforts and consolations which are attached to our beautiful faith.

Confident, therefore, that each of us present here this evening will give his continued support to this movement, and thus make it a great success, I ask you to rise and drink with me, the health of the new English-speaking Parish of Westmount.

RETIREMENT OF A NOTABLE JUDGE.
Chief Justice LeBeuf, of the Circuit Court, one of the most picturesque figures in Canadian life, retired from the Bench, Friday, May 22nd, the eve of his 76th birthday. The Gazette says:—

"Though hale and ruddy, with the fiery energy of forty years ago still burning brightly, the jurist must himself now bow before the law which decrees that with the dawn of the seventy-fifth birthday must come retirement. So, after eighteen years in the Circuit Court, where, as Chief Justice, he won the respect and admiration of the Bar and the public, Mr. Justice LeBeuf now lays aside his judicial robes and takes farewell of the halls of justice which he has known, as barrister and judge, for fifty-two years.

Born at St. Timothee, Beauharnois County, on May 23, 1850, of Joseph LeBeuf and Judith Picard, the future jurist studied at the College of St. Timothee, and at the Seminary at Ste. Therese de Blainville. After studying English for some time at Rasopolls College, Kingston, Ont., the young LeBeuf studied law at McGill, graduating with the degree of B.C.L. in 1873. Shortly afterward he was called to the Bar.

But just before his formal enrolment as barrister, the future judge distinguished himself by a brilliant exploit which made him the hero of Beauharnois county, and paved the way for many of his successes.

A reference to old newspaper files will show that on May 13, 1873, the steamer Louis Renaud, plying in the Lachine Rapids, ran on the rocks and broke in two. The bow of the vessel sank, and most of what remained threatened to go down at any moment. One hundred and eighty passengers, many of whom were women and children, panicked by the catastrophe, sought the boats, but were driven back by the escaping steam from the boilers.

In the pandemonium, young Calixte LeBeuf and two companions sought to lower a boat for the scalded women and children, but just as they had floated it, the captain and some of the crew jumped into it, cut the cables and rowed off. The young law graduate, who had found a revolver, emptied it at the deserting navigators, wounding the captain in the thigh, but failing to stop the escape.

The future judge then took charge of the vessel, revolver in hand, keeping order, and caring for the injured passengers until the arrival of two canoes which shot the rapids and plied all night, saving every one. Last to leave was Calixte LeBeuf and his companions. Shortly afterwards the vessel sank.

While this exploit was still ringing through the counties, the young lawyer mounted the hustings under the Liberal banner, pleading so eloquently for the late E. H. Brown, notary, that the latter was returned to the provincial Legislature for Beauharnois county, which had been Conservative for twenty-five years.

Though he never ran for political honors himself, Mr. Justice LeBeuf won fame as a campaigner, and he became one of the trusted right-hand men of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Colorful anecdotes are told of Mr. Justice LeBeuf's many campaigns with the old chief, not only in the eastern townships of this province, where he frequently shared the same room and

For twenty years Mr. Justice LeBeuf practiced his professions in this city, in partnership with Edmond Laroche, M.L.A. After the death of Mr. Laroche, he continued his practice alone. In 1898 he was created a Queen's Counsel. In 1906 he was appointed by Sir Lomer Gouin to represent the province before the Royal Commission on life insurance matters.

The present Chief Justice was elected an alderman twice, in 1900 and 1902, and presided over the police committee for three years.

Mr. Justice LeBeuf also achieved notable success as a journalist, being for fifteen years political director of La Patrie.

In 1888 and 1889, he was president of the Club National, which he re-organized in 1910.

In 1910 he declined membership in the International Railway Commission, a post offered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

WHAT WILL OUR CHILDREN BE!
Dear reader, Education is of vital importance to all. Henry Bourassa, the silver-tongued orator, in both French and English gave a very important address on "What will our children be?"

At the outset Mr. Bourassa spoke of the importance of training the young, and appealed especially to the fathers and mothers to see to it that their children derive those benefits in early life which are their right and proper heritage. He stated, in answer to his own questions, that "they will be what we wish them to be if we give them the proper training."

French-Canadian domestic life, the speaker said, was an example to all. If the laws of the Church, for instance, were less vigorously observed, they might easily have lost their identity. He said that the laws of the Church and the laws in the home, those of parental authority, go hand in hand. If these are observed—and it is up to the parents to see that they are—there is no need to fear what the children will be when they grow to manhood and womanhood.

The Road to Recovery

"I may as well own that I am in revolt against the present all too pervading spirit of pessimism. I am weary of the endless jeremiads of the Press and the solemn lectures of so many public men about our alleged poverty as a nation—the huge destruction of wealth caused by the war, the immense bankruptcy and the danger of national bankruptcy and the necessity of drawing in our horns in every direction, of painfully husbanding our diminished resources and of no longer 'throwing a sprat' even in hope of 'catching a herring.' Frankly I am not convinced that we are as poor as we think ourselves, or that, if we are, the road to recovery is to be found in thierous avoidance of all new opportunities of enrichment. I doubt whether the burden we have to carry is as heavy as it is commonly represented. But, if it is, should we not try to broaden the back which has to carry it? Not contraction, but expansion should be the watchword; not mere economy, but the development of new sources of wealth?"

The above quotation is taken from the late Viscount Milner's "Questions of the Hour," the last of his published works. If his views are considered too optimistic, and if his suggestion is considered unwarranted by circumstances, that a determined attempt should be made to launch out on new enterprises instead of adopting a policy of retrenchment, it must be remembered that the writer's opinions are based on an intimate knowledge of public affairs, and long experience in matters of finance. The road to recovery, as the writer sees it, is that which promises to lead to new opportunities of enrichment. Not contraction, but expansion should be the watchword; not mere economy, but the development of new sources of wealth.

It would appear as if the British Government had adopted such a policy as the writer outlined both in relation to home affairs and to trade expansion overseas. The Chancellor of the Exchequer has been severely criticized for having introduced an expensive "fall in insurance scheme," which adds to the burden of the state and also to industrial charges, but his conviction seems to be that it will be an important factor in removing discontent in labour circles; that by the withdrawal of approximately a million workers between the ages of 65 and 70, a wider margin will be left for the great army of young unemployed, and that it will in course of time lead to the abolition of the Poor Law, and the consequent saving of millions of pounds.

Abroad, the intention of the Government is to stimulate trade, particularly within the Empire, as shown in the speech delivered on Friday by the Hon. Sir P. T. McGrath before the Board of Trade. Such proposals cannot be carried out without the expenditure of considerable sums of money. Such proposals call for a spirit of optimism, loyal co-operation, and enterprise not only on the part of the Government, but by private individuals. It is not contraction, but expansion that is necessary in order to recover; not mere economy, but the development of new sources of wealth.

How are we in this country going to follow such a lead? Are we, for example, going to allow the foreigner to monopolize the British markets which are anxious to absorb a considerable portion of our fishery products? To secure those markets, we must apply ourselves to the task of making our products acceptable to the consumer both in quality and in appearance. We must study the best means of conveying them to the market, and these problems will cease to prove impossible of solution just as soon as we make up our minds to tackle them.

PEPPYS BEHIND THE SCENES

May 30th.—This day might warm yet do feel in ill condition which worries me, albeit Dr. Blabbs do tell me how it is usual to be somewhat upset on the first warm day of the year. Being come to Water Street, do meet with Spragge, but do have little opportunity for discourse, since the street is full of noise and in particular from the new rails that are being carried to the station, that 'tis night impossible to make oneself heard. Indeed, 'tis time that the cobble stones were removed and the street paved with some equally durable but less noisy material. My wife this day plans a picnic for the country to-morrow, which methinks is a silly thing since the season is far too early, yet must let the wretch have her way. I learn this day how a Tourists Publicity Bureau is formed, a good thing, being much needed this long time.

May 31st (Lord's Day)—Astric bedtime, being that my wife has the alarm clock call us that we may get ready for our picnic. But Lord, this morning it rains so hard, though it was fair yesterday, and I greatly pleased thereat being assured of a quiet day at home. Busy all this day about my accounts for the month, which please me not at all, being that I am much worse case than ever before and God knows how I shall improve things. I do already hear much talk of Birthday Honours, but so many names mentioned, albeit Mr. Monroe's the chief, that 'tis beyond my powers to say which is the true one.

An Interesting Cattle Case

DEGUSTING CONDITIONS DESCRIBED.

A case of particular interest to farmers was tried in the Magistrate's Court this morning, when William James, a farmer of Cockpit Road, was charged at the instance of the S. P. A., with causing unnecessary suffering to two cows and two calves. The S.P.A. was represented by Mr. W. Browne. The accused was not represented. James Barter, examined by Mr. Browne said he visited the defendant's farm, off the Cockpit Road, on Wednesday afternoon, and saw five cows and two calves. Three cows were in fairly good condition. The fourth cow had sores all-over her body, mostly caused, in his opinion, by dirt and neglect. The dirt he described as vermin, and the neglect, as poor feeding and not cleaning. The fifth cow was in an awful state, and was, in fact, the worse specimen he had ever seen. This animal, he said, was covered with pussy scabs, from her horns to her tail. The calves, he said, seemed to be suffering from the same ailment. They were tied with ropes, and in the case of one, the rope had chafed the neck, causing it to bleed. In answer to a question by the accused, witness said he saw vermin on the cattle. The accused denied that the cattle were lousy, and said he had made an examination with a magnifying glass, but failed to see any. He protested that he had been promised time to cure his animals, and intimated that he wished to have a "vet" examine the cattle for him.

Dr. Bishop, called and examined by Mr. Browne, said he went to the farm of the defendant on Wednesday last and saw the cattle in question. Two of the cows were suffering from a skin infection which he thought was caused by a mite which, burrowing into the skin, set up an irritation and resulted in pussy scabs being formed. Witness said the defendant's cattle suffered from the same cause last year, and he instructed him how to effect a cure. The condition is not common in Newfoundland, the witness said. He thought the cattle were attacked about 6 or seven weeks ago. Regarding the condition of the calves he said the bleeding was caused by them licking themselves. Asked by his honor if the disease would affect the milk, witness said it would not. The accused giving evidence in his own behalf claimed that this disease occurs even in the best cared for herds and could not be checked in winter. One had to wait until spring when the animals change their coats to effect a cure, he said. Regarding the milk, he said it was better than that supplied by some of his enemies and in fact was 30 to 40% over the standard. He had no intention whatever of causing unnecessary suffering to his cattle and had been applying the remedy suggested by Dr. Bishop for some or some time.

Motor Accident at Clarke's Beach

CAR DAMAGED—OCCUPANTS ESCAPED. On Saturday afternoon last while Silas Moores of Carbonear, with some friends was motoring to Brigus, the steering gear gave out crossing South River Bridge, near Clarke's Beach, with the result that the car with its occupants went over the bridge into the water, though fortunately no one was injured. The car, however, was badly damaged, and was later recovered and placed on board the evening train and sent to the city for repairs.

Work Progressing at Dry Dock

The dry dock premises now presents a very busy scene, especially in the basin where large numbers of men are employed, working day and night shifts stripping the steps. The work in this connection has progressed to such an extent, that two huge derricks have been erected on rails in the dock for the purpose of using steam shovels to remove a lot of the loose earth. Work has also begun on the laying of a spur line from the railway yard to the dock, and when finished the car loads of sand from Trepassy will be brought in and dumped at the scene of operations. The new dock office temporarily erected in the square east of the Railway Station will be finished to-day. Supt. Harvey and staff vacated their old office on Saturday. The old one is now being dismantled. The building erected near the machine shop for the W. I. Bishop Co. is practically completed, and this will be occupied in a few days. Not one accident has occurred at the dock since operations began.

An Appeal to the Women of St. John's

The Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's was formed last September to take over and continue the Playgrounds for children in Bannerman and Victoria Parks which were started by the Rotarians and which did such good work for the city youngsters last season and, if possible it is hoped to start a third playground in the central part of the city this year.

The Executive of the Association being "mere men" and that to make the playground movement a success, they absolutely have to have the co-operation, advice and assistance of the women of St. John's. With this object in view the Executive of the Association is calling a Public Meeting of Women in the Board of Trade, Water Street, next Monday afternoon, June 8th, at 4 o'clock. It is particularly hoped to have the following women attend:—

- (1) The mothers whose children get pleasure, recreation and good health from the use of the playgrounds last season. (2) Women who may not be able to help financially, but who can offer suggestions and advice about the conducting of the playgrounds. (3) Women who are not connected with other organizations and who may be able to spare time to assist the Executive in the business management of the playgrounds. (4) Women who are connected with other organizations but who can still spare a little time in "helping the kiddies out." (5) Finally, all women of the city, single, married, poor, rich, old, young, who are willing to assist the kiddies of this city keep off the dusty streets, keep from under the wheels of motor cars, keep out of the Juvenile Court, and have a real, good time during the hot summer months. "Inasmuch as ye do it unto the least of these ye do it unto Me."

This appeal is issued by the Executive Committee of the Playground and Recreation Association of St. John's. Meeting: Board of Trade, Monday, June 8th, at 4 o'clock.

Arousing Public Interest in Forest

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir—In all countries where the preservation of forests is a matter of prime importance, efforts are being made to bring to the attention of the general public the urgent necessity of preventing the destruction of timber areas, and the very serious consequences which ensue when they are destroyed.

With this end in view the Committee of the Fire Patrol of Newfoundland have organized a competition, in the form of an essay to be written by the Teachers of Newfoundland on "Forest Fires, their Consequences, Causes and Preventions." They feel sure that if once the interest of the teachers is aroused they will impart to the children under their care, instruction on the necessity of conserving the forest wealth, and that in this way the rising generation will grow up with a keen appreciation of the dangers which follow the absence of proper care in the woods.

Prizes have been offered to the teachers in each grade. Many of the essays sent in were excellent and the members of the Committee who acted as judges and great difficulty in deciding upon the prize winners in each section. The following is a list of the prize winners in each grade:—

Associate Grade—1st, Miss Maude Sullivan, Salmonier; 2nd, Miss Mary Francis, St. Anne's School, St. Lawrence. First Grade—1st, Miss E. F. Rose, Bonne Bay; 2nd, Miss Jessie Harding, Greenspond. Second Grade—1st, Geo. E. Green, Happy Adventure, B.B.; 2nd, Frank N. Parsons, Bryant's Cove, via Harbour Grace. Third Grade—1st, Cecil K. Webber, 2nd, R. Hepthick, Grey River, near Ramona.

Nfld. Tourist and Publicity Bureau

At a meeting held on Saturday plans which have been maturing for several months, for the formation of a Tourist and Publicity Bureau were completed and the Association was formed and the following officers elected:—

President—J. P. Moohan. 1st Vice-Pres.—W. Angus Reid. 2nd Vice-Pres.—C. G. Daley. Secy.—Treasurer—F. E. Outerbridge. Executive—the above officers and Messrs. D. M. Baird, Hon. J. R. Bennett, W. B. Comerford, T. V. Hartnett, R. Hibbs, Peter O'Mara, J. A. Young, and a representative of the transportation companies to be appointed.

The objects of the Bureau are as follows:— (a) The establishment of an Information Bureau for Tourists and visitors with headquarters in St. John's in charge of a competent Secretary.

(b) Through the medium of the above mentioned Bureau to supply free information concerning drives, hostels, fishing, etc. in St. John's and vicinity.

(c) To place within reach of visitors and prospective visitors full information as to the excellent facilities for fishing and shooting throughout the Island and to give advice to tourists and visitors entering or leaving Newfoundland.

(d) To promote the cause of Tourist traffic in Newfoundland. (e) To encourage and promote the writing of pamphlets, articles and books tending to advertise Newfoundland's natural resources, climate, summer resorts, hotels, sporting and other attractions.

(f) To obtain contributions of money and other property to be used for the advancement of the Association and to expend such contributions of money and property for the purpose of defraying the necessary costs, charges and expenses of the Association.

(g) To establish agencies for the furtherance of the objects of the Association. (h) To invite and obtain the active co-operation of Transportation Companies, Hotel Proprietors and all others throughout the country who have at their command facilities for the entertainment of visitors.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Webster of the Canadian National Railway, a temporary office has been obtained in the Board of Trade Building and this will be opened during the week and the Bureau will start to function almost immediately.

The Committee in charge has received the most encouraging letter from the Bay of Islands Board of Trade, promising every support to the project and forwarding a handsome cheque towards the funds of the Bureau.

When it is considered that the Nova Scotia Publicity Bureau (of which Col. Montgomery, so well known in this city, is President), claims from most carefully compiled statistics, and the sum of $7,684,200 was distributed throughout the Province of Nova Scotia by tourists during the past summer, it is felt by the gentlemen who have the present project in charge that Newfoundland should make a strenuous effort to encourage the tourist to other shores and if the financial result (other than any other benefit) amounted to only one third of the amount claimed by Nova Scotia, the Newfoundland Bureau would be of the most practical benefit to the country and to every person and trade who caters to the wants of our guests.

In Memoriam

MRS. WILLIAM COOK, Southside. There passed peacefully away, at the General Hospital, on May 18th, Emily, the beloved wife of Wm. J. Cook, of the Southside, aged 68 years. Truly "death takes us by surprise and stays our hurrying feet." The deceased lady had been in apparently very good health up to two weeks previous to her death, when she was suddenly stricken with illness, from which, though everything possible was done both at home and at the General Hospital, she never rallied. And so there has closed a life that was spent in sweet and loving service for others.

Mrs. Cook was the possessor of a most pleasing disposition, dispensing brightness and good cheer on the dull dark days of life as well as on the sunny occasions. Her cheery smile and happy speech will long be remembered by friends outside the immediate family circle; while in her household, where she was enshrined in every heart, there will long be an aching sense of loss, because her bright presence is no longer there. Quietly and unobtrusively she took her place in the community, and up to a couple of weeks previous to her death was active in the work of St. Mary's Church, with which, since her marriage, she has been closely associated. Here, too, her gentle presence will be missed.

The pastor, Rev. A. B. S. Strling, was at her bedside at the time of her passing and also performed the last sad rites at the graveside. In her youth Mrs. Cook was a member of George St. choir, and amongst the throng that assembled to pay their final tribute of affection and respect could be seen several who were her fellow-members of the choir of that day.

Life to her had brought its full quota of gloom and glory, for she was a soldier's mother—her only son, Stanley, having given his life for his country early in the Great War. Left to mourn their irreparable loss are her husband, three daughters—Mrs. Wm. Manning, at present residing in St. Helena, where her husband is stationed on naval duty; and Misses Laura and Nina at home; as well as two brothers, Mr. Alfred Smith, late of Sydney, N.S., but now living in St. John's, and John, now residing at Boston; also one sister, Laura (Mrs. G. W. Ridout), now residing in the States, to all of whom much sympathy is extended in their sad bereavement.

"Where has she gone since yesterday And left us lonely here? To-night she seems so far away Who yester-eve was near? No map of ours on sea or land That journeying may trace, We only know she reached her home And seen her Father's face." O dear familiar Yesterday! O sad and strange, To-day! Yet who would call the glad soul back To rouse the resting clay? Or who would wish that she might share Our tomorrow's toil and strife, Who, loosed from death and all its pains, Has entered into Life."

Obituary

MRS. CALLAHAN SCANLAN. The people of Melrose received a severe shock on Friday last, May 22, when it was learned that Mrs. Callahan Scanlan had passed away. Mrs. Scanlan left home apparently in the best of health, to go to Port Union to see her son, William, who is purser on the Prospero. Having seen and chatted with him for about twenty minutes, she started for home again. As she was walking up the wharf, she was seen to stagger. Mr. Wolgar, who was near, hurried to her assistance, and sent for William again. Mrs. Scanlan lapsed into unconsciousness from which she did not recover. She passed away shortly after being brought home.

Mrs. Scanlan will be sadly missed, not only by her family and the people of Melrose and Catalina, but also by travellers—rich and poor alike—to whom the name of Scanlan meant kindness and hospitality. She leaves to mourn their sad loss, her husband, one daughter, Julia, residing in the States, two sons, Daniel, at home, and William, purser on the Prospero, to all of whom we offer sincere sympathy.

Catalina, May 23, 1925. A Tribute to "Dad"

Berwyn mourns the loss of a citizen from Newfoundland. The shadow of the Infinite passed over Berwyn this week and silently, suddenly, quietly it called to one of the city's earliest settlers. The grim reaper, he alone who is oblivious to rank, age and station, paused a moment and then departed taking with him a man loved and respected by thousands. With bowed heads hundreds stood in silent tribute to Charles William Morris, on Monday, aghast at the realization that there is one call all must answer, one shadow that darkens the homes of the great as well as the lowly.

Coming into the community thirty-five years ago from the bleak shores of Newfoundland, he watched a third of a century over Berwyn's development. While neither a politician nor a preacher, he influenced more lives than if he had been either. As his six sons and daughters grew up, he had a chance, as a father, to select dozens of their companions and friends and inestimable was that influence. All Berwyn knew him and many are those who have their lives moulded to some extent or other by "Dad" Morris. He presided over many a fireside gathering and the young people of Berwyn, Oak Park and River Forest lingered often at his home chatting with the amiable gentleman till late into the night.

During these thirty-three years Berwyn has grown from a small handful of people, to one of Chicago's most thriving suburbs, and the Morris family had its active part in all of the civic and community affairs that have made the city's reputation so enviable. The loss is as great to the community as to the family, for a great friend and leader of Berwyn is lost. But there is a compensation for both family and community: there are six admirable sons and daughters this week grieving the death of their father, but there are six children who will carry on the spirit of the late Mr. Morris for the years to come. School-ed by their father in the rudiments of honest, Christian living, they will perpetuate his memory for generations and will prove a consolation to her whose grief is deepest, their mother.

To the family—pax vobiscum. To Charles William Morris—May he rest in peace. [The late Charles William Morris referred to in the above, which is taken from a Berwyn publication, was the brother of Mrs. (Canon) Bolt, and was born in Trinity, Newfoundland. His last visit to this country was in August 1923.]

PARIS, May 26—Jack Dempsey announced to-day that he will be ready to meet the survivor of the four-cornered competition between Weinert, Willis, Gibbons and Tunney. The statement was made after Dempsey had taken a strenuous workout at the Athletic Club at Paris. He declared he was anxious to get back into the ring and feels that the winner of the two big forthcoming bouts in the United States is worthy of a chance at the championship.

NEW RACE BOAT FOR REGATTA

At the regular monthly meeting of the Star of the Sea Association, held yesterday afternoon, it was decided that the Society will have a new race boat in this year's Regatta. Arrangements for the building have been made with Mr. Bob Sexton, who will begin immediately, having it ready about the same time as the new one for the C.L.B. It is understood that the boat will be named the "Star," and that arrangements are being made to have her operate from the T.A. Boat House.

N.F.L.D. A.A.A. MEETING

A well attended meeting of the Newfoundland Amateur Athletic Association, was held on Saturday night in the office of Messrs. Higgins, Hunt and Emerson. Some time ago a sub-committee was appointed to consider the drawing up of a proper constitution to govern the Association. A report from this Committee was submitted, recommending reformation on the lines of the Canadian Amateur Athletic Union. A proposition was made and carried that a committee, consisting of Messrs. W. Noel, S. P. Cullen, A. H. Thomas and J. Howlett, look into the rules of the C.A.A.U., and from these draw up a constitution to suit the local body. This will be submitted at a meeting of the Association next week, after which other steps will be taken. The President announced that C. H. Hayward, of Grand Falls, had sent in another cup to be competed for in the Annual Athletic Championship Sports. This was left to another meeting for discussion as to what conditions should govern it. T. W. Sparkes, Treasurer, submitted a rough statement showing the financial standing of the Association, and a formal report will be made at next meeting. J. M. Tobin tabled a report of the sweepstakes, held on the Halifax Road Race, last year. This was very successful and a very hearty vote of thanks was passed to this committee. The medals won at the annual outdoor sports last year were presented to the winners at the meeting. At 10 o'clock the meeting adjourned until Saturday next.

STEVE DONOGHUE RODE MANNA TO GREAT VICTORY.

EPSOM DOWNS, Eng., May 27.—Manna, by Pharos out of Waffian, and owned by H. E. Morris, won the Derby to-day. Steve Donoghue had the mount and passed the winning post fully eight lengths in advance of a field of 26 runners, winning, for the sixth time this most highly coveted of English turf classics. Donoghue pushed his mount in front from the start and kept him there, even rounding the difficult Tottenham corner with such ease that he completed the mile and a half course pulling up, while those behind him were using whip and heels. The much-fancied Zionist, of H. H. Aga Khan, was second, and two lengths further back in third place came The Sirdar, the entry of A. K. Macomber. The time for the distance was 2 minutes 40 3/5 seconds.

Lord Astor's Cross Bow, which reigned favorite for the last week, and Lord Derby's Conquistador, second favorite, and the French hope Ptolemy II. Runnymede and others fought for place, but the soft track kept them well in the rear. A drenching rain had softened the course and the going was heavy. This favored Manna and the second and third horses, which had shown they were good on sticky ground. Dalmargery was away first, but Manna joined him and they ran together for the first three furlongs.

Took Good Lead.

Then Manna got to the rail and took a good lead before the half mile. Conquistador, Warminster, Zionist and The Sirdar fought evenly up the hill.

Great Super-Special at the Nickel Theatre

Elinor Glyn is one novelist who writes entirely in inspiration. The picture of her story, "His Hour" is at the Nickel Theatre to-night. This promises even more of a thrilling love story than her elaborate screen production of "Three Weeks."

"His Hour" is an absolutely faithful picture of Russian aristocratic society before the revolution. Each character is drawn from life, each palace shown upon the screen is at Tottenham, but the soft turf was not to their liking and Conquistador and Warminster fell back. From then on the race was largely a procession. The rains which fell overnight and all day upset the calculations of the experts and Manna suffered the early morning indignity of being reduced from second to third favorite.

Long before the start of the Derby Stakes all points of vantage were taken by thousands, who stood for hours in the downpour for a chance to glimpse the horses flying past. Hundreds of hawkers and sidehows, that are always prominent on Epsom Downs on Derby Day, were absent because of the heavy rain, but good profits were forthcoming for those who cheated of their usual labor in pulling hundreds of motors out of thick mud of the Surrey Downs.

Usual Pump Missing.

The King and Queen saw the race and watched the King's entry. Runnymede, go down to defeat. But the pump and display of the usual parade before the grandstands were lacking, as the parade was abandoned. The owner of Manna, Mr. Morris, ran out of the grandstand and eagerly led his mount, with Donoghue up, through the crowds to the Royal Stand, where the King offered congratulations.

This evening the King, following his custom, gave a dinner at the Palace to the leading sportsmen. The betting was:—Manna, 9 to 1 against; Zionist, 10 to 1 against; The Sirdar 50 to 1 against. Manna, owned by H. E. Morris, is by Phalaris, out of Waffian. The Aga Khan owns Zionist, by Spearhead out of Judea. Steve Donoghue's sixth derby victory puts him one ahead of all jockeys who have competed in the famous classic. His nearest competitor is the well known jockey, Fred Archer, who won five Derbys.

Work of Highroads Commission

To-day the Highroads Commission began issuing permits to owners of motor vehicles, and the office staff was kept busy. The repairs to the road from St. John's to Clark's Beach will be pushed with all possible speed. This morning a gang of twenty men were set at work on Cornwall Avenue, and in a day or two other gangs will start in at points further west. Mr. P. Kavanagh has been appointed foreman over the repairs in this section. The Topsail Road is certainly in urgent need of attention.

Why the Necessity for Two Boiler Inspectors?

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Your editorial of this evening in reference to the inspection of boilers, is both timely and to the point.

The findings of the Commission in the case make it very evident that Government action must follow, but in this connection, is it not in order to ask whether the employment of two boiler inspectors is warranted by the amount of work which has to be done?

If your memory serves you right, Mr. Editor, you will recollect how the situation arose of our having two men to fill one man's job.

Sir Wm. Coaker appointed either Mr. Forbes or Mr. Ledingham, I don't remember which, and Sir Richard Squires appointed the other.

It was a case of where one irrefragible force meets another irrefragible force. In this case neither Sir Wm. Coaker nor Sir Richard gave way and both Mr. Forbes and Mr. Ledingham were appointed to fill a vacancy caused by the retirement of Mr. McLachlan.

I can well remember when my old friend "Sandy" McLachlan had charge. He was well able to do the entire work of the department single-handed.

At that time we had between 25 and 30 steamers sailing out of St. John's. All over the country we had small saw mills requiring inspection. Today, we have about one-third the number of steamers and about one-fourth the number of saw mills.

Let the Government Department interested compare the work done by Mr. McLachlan with that done by Messrs. Forbes and Ledingham, and I think my contention that one Inspector is sufficient, will be amply justified.

Yours truly, TAXPAYER.

STUDEBAKER'S EARNINGS.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Studebaker is becoming more or less a mystery stock. When traders see all other automobile stocks advancing and Studebaker standing still, they ask: "What is the matter with Studebaker? It pays $4 a share annually and has been selling around $46 for weeks. It should sell higher, but something seems to be holding it down."

There is nothing wrong with Studebaker so far as financial production or earnings are concerned. The trouble seems to be its technical market position. An advance of a point or two seems to bring out stock. It is now claimed a big block owned by an individual has been overhanging the market for weeks. There has been excellent public buying, and a great deal of this stock has no doubt been absorbed. When the pressure is removed Studebaker may make up for lost time.

Studebaker's strong position is reflected in an announcement that it had anticipated payment on all outstanding bank loans due July 1, and will have upward of $8,000,000 cash after taking care of June 1 quarterly dividend requirements.

Studebaker's record in earnings has been remarkable. In 1915 it earned $27.46 a share and in 1916 $26.15. In 1917 and 1918, war years, profits per share were $9.11 and $10.39, respectively. In 1919 profits reached $28.55. In 1920 there was a stock dividend of 38 1/3 per cent, and earnings were $15.19 a share, with $16.21 in 1921. In 1922 there was a 25 per cent stock dividend, and earnings were at rate of $28.62 a share, followed by $23.50 in 1923. In 1924 the stock was split up into 2-1-2 for 1, and earnings on enlarged capitalization were at rate of $7.03 a share.

Prior to that was the string of big years ranging from 21 1-2 per cent to 32 1-4 per cent per share.

Another interesting example of the hidden equities of American Car and Foundry is the value of the road and which yields a handsome return on its capital of $2,500,000. Some day stockholders are bound to get the benefit of all these little $500,000 Export Co. Experts View of Amundsen Expedition

NEW YORK, May 27.—Since no report has been received of Raold Amundsen since leaving Thursday the experts are of the opinion that he is on the coast of Alaska.
The distance to the Pole from King's Bay, Spitzbergen, is 680 miles, which Captain Amundsen expected to negotiate in about eight hours.
The airships are not equipped with wireless and no information can be obtained until the party returns to its base or some other station.
Amundsen's Greatest Peril. Captain Amundsen's greatest danger and fear was that great chunks of ice, half buried in the snow and invisible from the air, would tear his planes to pieces when they landed.

Retelling Places in Alaska.

Stefansson said there were no signs of life along the north Alaskan shore
The world is without news of Amundsen's expedition for several months.
The frequency of air accidents even now, in overland travel, it must be considered that the Amundsen expedition was a hazardous one.

Where Experts Express Concern.

Experts familiar with Arctic conditions are concerned over the safety of the expedition.

"Some Notes for You"

WORKING MAN'S $1,000 TO HOSPITAL.
There are some notes for you; count them," was the remark made by a working man to Mr. A. E. Briscoe, secretary of the Bolton Royal Infirmary, when he threw down on the secretary's desk bank notes varying in amount from £5 to £199 and amounting to £1,000.
"Don't bother about a receipt," he said. "My name is not to be mentioned to a soul, or I will not give another penny to the infirmary."
He explained that he gave the money as a thank-offering, and said that in giving to the infirmary he had enjoyed some of the happiest moments of his life. Eighteen months ago the same man anonymously gave £500 to the infirmary.

Road Accidents in United Kingdom

In the calendar year 1924 there were 3,631 fatal road accidents in the United Kingdom, and 94,594 non-fatal accidents, or a total of 98,225 accidents in all, according to official figures just received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its British Information Service. Accidents in 1923 amounted to 30,101, of which 3,979 resulted fatally and 26,122 were non-fatal. These accidents are those known by the police to have been caused by vehicles in streets, roads, or public places in Great Britain. Of the fatal accidents in 1924 258 were chargeable to horse drawn vehicles, 241 to pedal cycles and 3,132 to mechanically propelled vehicles. Of the non-fatal accidents, 6,288 were caused by horse drawn vehicles, 78,863 by pedal cycles and 99,935 by mechanically propelled vehicles.

HIDE YOUR HEADACHES.
It is human to suffer, the toothache is a thing
Which is apt to occur to both peasant and king;
This body is prey to all manner of pain
A headache will come to the commonest brain;
There are all sorts of trouble for mortals to know,
Which the foolish display and the wise never show.
Jim Green kept a shop and the wares he displayed
And the prices he charged should have built up a trade,
But if Jim had a headache, then all who might come
To buy from his stock found him surprisingly grim,
He'd quarrel over trifles and grouch through the day
And "take it or leave it," he'd frequently say.

The customers found in their dealings with Jim
'Twas a difficult thing to do business with him;
They heard him complain of the troubles he bore,
And they tired of his conduct and passed up his store.
His prices were fair and his goods were the best,
But to put up with Jim was too much of a test.
It's the man, not the store, when it's all said and done!
To the man goes the battle and not to the gun!
And what Jim Green forgot was the stock on the shelf
Could never be sold 'till he'd first sold himself;
So his customers left for a pleasanter place
To be served by a man with a smile on his face.
The moral is plain. If you're troubled, don't show it!
If you've a headache don't let people know it!

Beavers Become a Nuisance

GOLDEN, B.C., May 15.—So thick and industrious have beavers become in the Winderemere Valley, that they are seriously interfering with mining operations, according to H. E. Porlain, of Wilmer, who is developing claims on Horse Thicket Creek.
The beavers, by damming the creek, caused water to back up into the mine and it was some time before the reason was discovered. After a search the mine workers located a beaver dam and blew it up, but the mine filled with water immediately.
Another party setting out found that the dam they had destroyed had been reconstructed and reinforced in week spots by the busy animals within twenty-four hours. Furthermore, some sixty saplings, cut into usable lengths, were found ready for further work on the dam.
Officials of the British Columbia game board, in an effort to overcome the difficulty, have suggested that the fume idea, evolved by the Biological Survey of the United States, be tried out on the creek. This is the cutting of a fume through the beaver dam so that the water will not rise above a certain point, on the theory that Mr. Beaver pays so much attention to his work that he never gives a glance upward. Though persistent as well as industrious, there is a limit to a beaver's patience and, finding that his dam does not succeed in holding the water back, he and his crew shift to some other place and begin home-making all over again.
Three years ago the Game Board closed the season for trapping beaver south of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and they have multiplied so rapidly that they are becoming a nuisance.

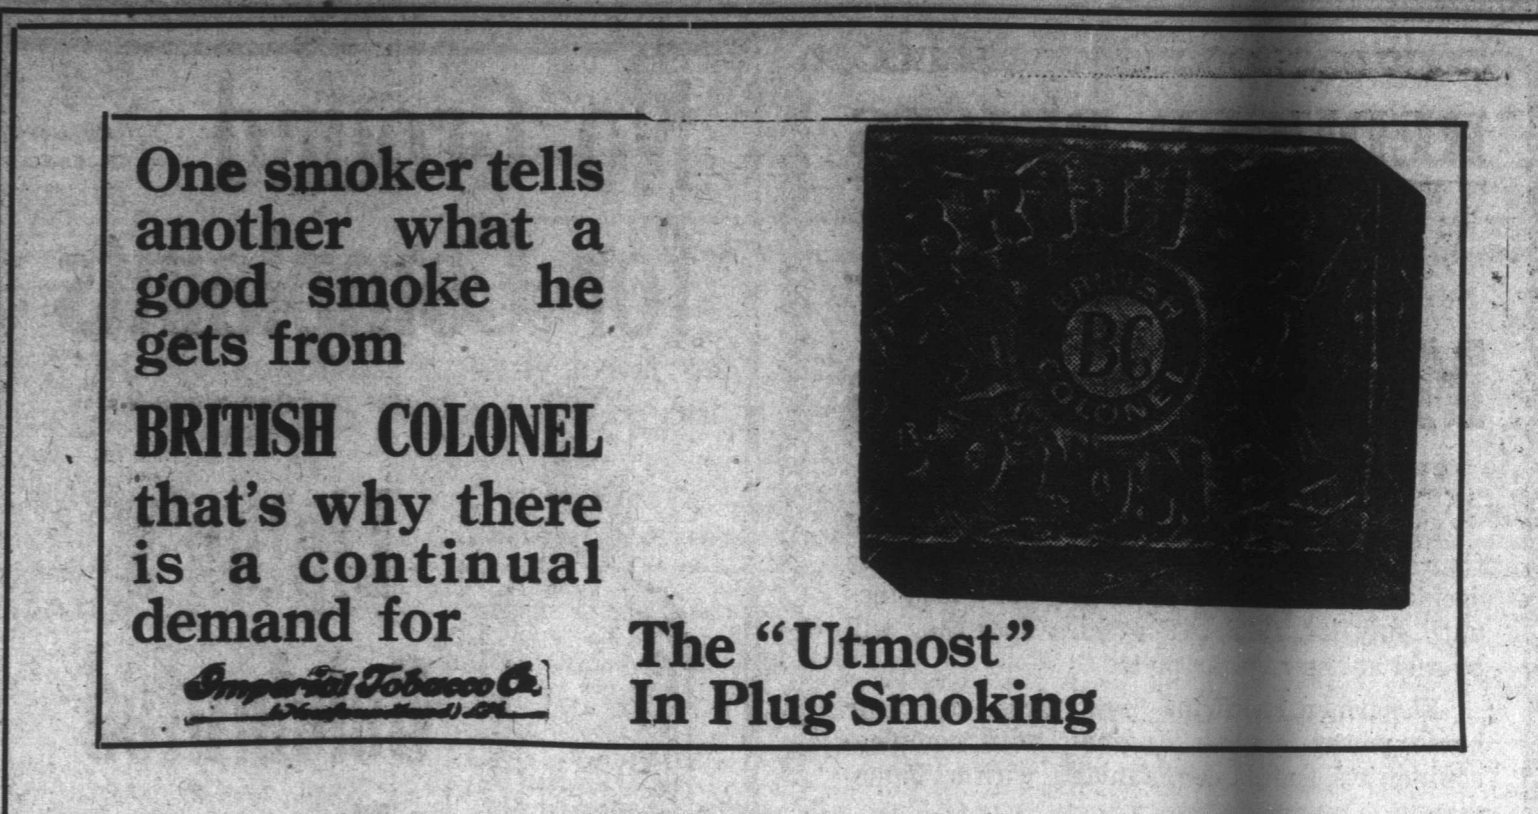

Nominations for Black Rod Ushers

OTTAWA, May 15.—A strong push is being made for the appointment of General Sir Archibald MacDonnell, retiring commandant of the Royal Military College as Usher of the Black Rod succeeding the late Colonel E. J. Chambers.
Sir Archibald is recommended by some very distinguished people. Other reported aspirants are H. M. Daly, Lt.-Col. Rodolphe Girard, Lt.-Col. Lafleche, D.S.O., of Ottawa, and C. A. Fournier, M.P. The Civil Service Commission has some say in the matter and there is doubt whether the nomination to it is made by the Government or the Senate. Apparently the cabinet expects to make the appointment. The salary is about $4,000.

A Rocketeller Wedding

Miss Abbey Rockefeller, the only daughter of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, (Jr.) who, next to Mr. Henry Ford, is reported to be the richest man in the world, has married Mr. David D. Milton, a lawyer with a very modest income-tax return. The couple have been friends since early childhood, when the bride climbed trees on her grandfather's estate. The keynote of the wedding was its simplicity. The Rockefeller family dislikes any display of extravagance. Cheques were conspicuous by their absence from the gifts exhibited at the Rockefeller residence, where the marriage was solemnized in the presence of the relatives of both families.
They left a few days afterwards for France. They take with them their runabout motor car.
After touring Europe they will return to New York, where the bride, who is 21, will become the mistress of a modest flat, and the bridegroom, who is 35, will resume his law practice.

Canadian Fliers Compile Record Without Accident

OTTAWA, May 27.—(By Associated Press)—Aviators of the Royal Canadian Air Force set a new record for safe flying last year by making up 3,340 hours of actual flying time without a fatal accident in carrying air mail, patrolling forests and fisheries and performing other Government service, said a report from the department of the interior.
More than 3,000 acres of forest in Alberta were covered twice a day by air patrols during the season of fire hazard; and in Manitoba 40,000,000 acres were under observation. The forces photographed 40,000 square miles of territory for the topographical survey.

TO YOUNG MEN!

This is specially addressed to the young men who are following the trend of style especially as regards trousers. If you want the bell bottom trousers, with or without cuff, here is the place to get them; we are making and have made recently some splendid examples of this style. This also applies to the straight hanging English trousers hanging free from the hips to the cuff; with plenty of room at knees and bottom.

Your Efficiency

In all business affairs will be measurably enhanced if you are conscious that your clothes are absolutely correct. Tailored in the conservative American Tailor way.
