Health and Happiness

Women of today seem to listen to every call of duty except the supreme one that tells them to guard their health. Home duties, church duties, war activities, and the hundred-and-one calls for charitable enterprises soon lead women to overdo. Nervousness, headaches, backaches and female troubles are the inevitable result.

Philadelphia, Pa.—“I was very weak, always tired, my back ached, and I felt sickly most of the time. I went to a doctor and he said I had nervous indigestion, which, added to my weak condition, kept me worrying most of the time—and he said if I could not stop that, I could not get well. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound my husband wanted me to try it. I took it for a week and felt a little better. I kept it up for three months, and I feel fine and can eat anything now without distress or nervousness. Health and happiness? Yes, I have both now.”—Mrs. J. WOODRUFF, 2843 North Taylor Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

The majority of women nowadays overdo, there are so many demands upon their time and strength; the result is invariably a weakened, run-down nervous condition with headaches, backache, irritability and depression—and soon more serious ailments develop. Avoid them by taking in time

Plain Facts about Milk Routes

A team of horses costs about $400, double harness $100, a wagon $75, making a total of $575. A Ford Truck costs $750 at Ford, Ont.

Government experiments have proved that the cost of feeding a horse is 8.7 cents per working hour, or 17.4 cents per team per hour. One team, if collecting milk, could not cover more than 30 miles a day. The cost for twelve hours would be $2.09, or about seven cents a mile. The cost for gas and oil for a Ford Truck is only 4 1/2 cents a mile. The Ford Truck soon pays for itself in the reduced cost of operation.

A Ford Truck will cover at least 60 miles a day collecting milk or 250 miles on long hauls. It enables you to operate at a lower cost per mile and to cover twice as much territory as with horses.

WILL ROAR TOWARD GERMANY

Position of Sculptured Lion on Famous Battlefield of Waterloo Is to Be Reversed.

The lion on the battlefield of Waterloo is to face the other way, and before long it will stand with open, ponderous paws roaring silently, after the manner of your, fierce but considerate sculptured lions, toward Germany instead of France. Fortunately for the quiet of the countryside the roar is imaginary or the lion would long ago have become a nuisance whichever way he faced. The lion was set up by Belgium after the battle of Waterloo, and stood as a warning to France not to engage in any more Napoleonic dreams of conquest; and year after year it looked toward France, while behind it Germany prepared for the next effort to dominate other nations. It maintained its attitude while Germany carried through the program that separated Alsace-Lorraine from France; but presently behind the lion's back Belgium began to fortify, and eventually left him in the ridiculous position of looking in one direction while the Belgian fortifications looked in another. A tame lion, one might say, roaring for the edification of tourists and with no personal feeling about it. But now Belgium decides to turn him round and let him roar toward Germany as a solemn reminder of the unwisdom of dreams of world conquest.

THINK TERM IS EFFEMINATE

Some Tennis Players Object to Word "Love" as at Present Employed in Scoring System.

There is talk among the overlords of tennis of finding another word than "love" to mean "nothing" in the scoring system, for, although it may surprise many to hear it, the game is sometimes spoken of as effeminate, and this bit of terminology is held responsible. Nobody has ever explained why "love" means "nothing" in tennis, but there is a footnote in an old and rare book about card-playing which refers to an old Scottish word "luft," which meant "nothing," and this, perhaps, may have been somehow transferred into the game of tennis. Or, again, the term may be of far eastern origin, where a word sounding like "love" was used in the old form of tennis that was once popular in the orient. Whether or not the terminology undergoes change, the game is in no immediate danger of falling off in popularity, and the repeated shouting of these seeming endearments across the tennis net has occasioned much innocent merriment.—Christian Science Monitor.

Honor Cuban Generals.

Cuba is to pay honor to the memory of General Maximo Gomez, the land republic's military hero, by erecting a costly monument. A first prize of $25,000 was awarded recently to Aldo Gaba, an Italian sculptor, for a model of the memorial, which is to cost $200,000. Second and third prizes went respectively to Huertas Cabarrocas, a Spanish-Cuban, and Guson Borglum, an American. General Gomez became popular as the leader of the Cuban forces in the war for independence from Spain, from 1895 to 1898. He also took a prominent part in the Ten Years' war, a revolt which began in 1868. On the day of his death, June 18, 1905, the general's family was presented with a gift of $100,000 by the government of Cuba. At the conclusion of the Spanish-American war, General Gomez was honored at a public reception given by the American forces occupying Havana at that time.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Wheat Weevil Hard to Kill.

Although special methods that proved successful to a large extent, were used in treating Australian wheat stored during the war, for the destruction of weevil, much of the Australian grain, when it arrived in California, was found to contain not only weevil but many other insects.

Culture of Fruits Favored.

A more general culture for fruits in gardens and home orchards would contribute substantially to the health and pleasure of the average family besides furnishing a supply of valuable food products at a relatively small outlay of money.

Feed often means more than breed. A cow with a pedigree a yard long cannot produce milk with her stomach empty.

For Asthma and Catarrh.—It is one of the chief recommendations of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it can be used internally with as much success as it can outwardly. Sufferers from asthma and catarrh will find that the Oil when used according to directions will give immediate relief. Many sufferers from these ailments have found relief in the Oil and have sent testimonials.

Helium Gas Cheap

Up to 1915 the total amount of helium gas in all the world was probably less than 100,000 cubic feet, and it was worth about $1700 a cubic foot. But just before the war was signed a shipment of 10,000 cubic feet of helium gas was sent to America, and it costs less than 15 cents a cubic foot.

Helium gas was first discovered in the sun, by spectroscopy. It is the best gas for use in balloons, for it is not inflammable. It is now extracted from the natural gas of Texas and Kansas.

The method is delicate and complex, but is based upon the fact that the principal constituents of natural gas liquefy when cooled to approximately 329 degrees F., but that helium remains a gas at that temperature, and hence is easily separated.

Surveyors Use Airplanes.

Four airplanes are being used to survey the extensive forests of Labrador to determine the value of the wood pulp represented by the growing trees. Aerial photographs will be taken of many parts of the peninsula for use in compiling statistics. The surveying party, which left the United States recently for Nova Scotia, is composed of 40 persons and is headed by a man who served two years as a captain in the British air forces.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Rich Gift to Museum.

Field museum, in Chicago, has just been given a rare treasure trove, consisting of a collection of gold ornaments excavated from the basin of the Nechi river in Colombia, South America, last June, consisting of breastplates, aprons, elaborate earrings, bells and necklaces, all in pure gold, forming the most valuable collection in the world of art of Colombia's ancient inhabitants.

The Return of the Sword.

The British army order requiring all "field marshals, generals and colonels, when dismounted," to wear the sword on all ceremonial parades and at official ceremonies, has provided material for the humorists. The sword, having been superseded by other weapons for those who actually come in contact with the enemy, and being therefore doubtless useless to officers of exalted rank who must remain at a considerable distance from the hand-to-hand engagements, had been discarded during the war. But now it returns with all its faded glory for times of peace and its formidable "clank" will once more accompany its wearer's martial stride. However ludicrous this may seem, it is apparently to some extent unavoidable owing to the forbidding ugliness of modern engines of war—bombs, trench periscopes, portable machine guns and the like, which are obviously less desirable as emblems of authority than the graceful lines of the sword, the scimitar and the halberd of other times.

Atlantis' Effort in 1873.

Although the first successful passage of a dirigible across the Atlantic easily called to mind the attempted journey in 1910 of Walter Wellman in the dirigible America, considerable time seems to have elapsed before anybody remembered the old-fashioned balloon Atlantis and its effort nearly fifty years ago to cross the ocean. The Atlantis started from Brooklyn N. Y., at nine in the morning of October 6, 1873, carrying as passengers Prof. Washington H. Donaldson, who was chiefly responsible for the enterprise, and two companions—Alfred Ford and George A. Lunt. The travelers were carried in a regular ocean lifeboat, suspended beneath the balloon, and to answer the purpose of modern wireless apparatus the expedition was equipped with homing pigeons. The effort was short-lived, for the balloon came down the same afternoon in New Canaan, Conn., about 100 miles from the starting point, having made no progress toward Europe.

Work Counts.

"Recommendations are all right in their way," declares Mayor Snyder, "but nowadays they are too lightly given to be of any real value. Like that of a cook that once applied at my home. When told that her recommendation was really a very poor one, she replied:

"Well, sir, 'twas this way. The missus was too busy to write it so she had the maid do it and the maid had only been to night school three times sir."—Los Angeles Times.

Hint Proved Effective.

Peggy was allowed as a special favor to accompany her parents to a dinner party given at a friend's house one evening. Jelly of the kind made with gelatine and fruit juice was a dessert. In some way Peggy was overlooked when this was passed, but being a polite little girl she did not ask for any, but at the conclusion of the meal she turned to her neighbor and said: "What flavor was the jelly?" Needless to say, she was helped to a generous portion.

WATFORD, JULY 2, 1920.

DOMINION DAY NEGLECTED

Our manner of celebrating Dominion Day is a mistake. While the day marks the anniversary of the most prominent event in the history of the country, an event that has made Canada a nation instead of a bunch of scattered provinces, in nine towns out of ten the national holiday passes unmarked by special notice. Business places close and the public generally takes a day off, but further than this it gets no more attention. The occasion should be used to inculcate a spirit of patriotism by demonstrations that would recall the event which Dominion Day commemorates. In the United States every child knows what the Fourth of July marks; in Canada thousands of new comers and children would be at a loss to tell what the First of July stands for. It is time Canadians changed their attitude in this matter. They must stir themselves if they are to assimilate properly the thousands of immigrants coming annually to our shores and imbue in the minds of the rising generation the importance of the day.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A Bruce Peninsula man shot a cow in mistake for a bear. That's what we would call a "bull".—Ontario Reformer.

Sir John Willison says that, whoever may be profiteers, publishers are not, and Sir John speaks with knowledge.

The Farmers' Sun says:—With paper, ink and other mechanical charges mounting and wages being repeatedly advanced, the day of cheap printing seems to be rapidly passing. The leading country weeklies have raised their subscription rates from $1.50 to $2.00, and this latter price is being readily accepted by readers as a logical outcome of the trend of the time.

A plague of grass hoppers has struck Michigan, and hundreds of acres in the counties of Antrim, Grand Traverse, Lenawee and Wexford have been devastated by the pest; although farmers are fighting them, the situation is still unimproved. The damage already will run into hundreds of thousands of dollars. The Michigan State Farm Bureau has taken the matter up and has shipped 30,000 pounds of poison to the affected districts in an effort to subdue the hoppers.

The old maxim that anything a man finds belongs to him as against all the world but the rightful owner, seems to be disregarded in a recent decision. A passenger on a train found a package; the owner had left the car; the finder refused the request of a trainman to turn the package over to him as a representative of the company; the finder was arrested; he sued the company for false arrest. He has lost the case after carrying it to the highest court in New York State. The package after all this bother, we are informed was found to contain a five-cent loaf of bread.

It has come to the attention of the Department of Customs and Inland Revenue, that certain purely retail dealers are charging their customers with the sales tax on the sales made to consumers and showing such sales tax as a separate item on their bills and invoices. Under the resolution before Parliament the sale of goods by the bona fide retailer, selling exclusively to the consumer, is not liable to the 1 per cent. sales tax. The amount of the sales tax, which the retailer has paid upon the goods at the time of purchase from the wholesaler, may be included in the retailer's bill to the consumer, provided that it is not included in the cost upon which profit is calculated, and provided also that it is not shown as a separate item on the retailer's bill or invoice.

A century ago less than nine per cent. of the people in Canada and the United States lived in cities. Today over fifty per cent. are crowded into urban centres. If we were dependent upon the sickle and flail to cut and thresh our grain, as our grandparents were, we would be unable to feed the multitude in the cities. Even as it is, we are rapidly approaching a period like that which preceded the downfall of the Roman empire. The decline and fall of the great empire was traceable to this cause—the people flocked to the cities until famine stalked in the land. Unless we are greatly mistaken next winter will see a food shortage—not necessarily in Europe—but in this land of plenty. Politicians, the big interests, governments and the mass of the people in the cities refuse to believe there is any danger. They imagine we are trying to frighten them by crying wolf! They will have a rude awakening some day.

Continuance of the Wheat Board is provided for in a resolution in the Commons introduced by Sir George Foster. The authority of the present Board ends on August 31, and the new Board, consisting of the whole or part of it, need not be nominated for several weeks yet. In the schedule of powers the board is given authority similar to that at present enjoyed, as regards purchase, storage and transportation of wheat, and to sell wheat, in excess of domestic requirements, to purchasers overseas for such prices as may be obtainable. The resolution gives the board authority to fix maximum prices or margins of profit at which flour and other products may be sold by millers and to fix standards of quality for such products. It may purchase flour from millers at prices to be fixed by the board and sell the same in Canada and other countries. For the purpose of performing its duties the board may allocate Canadian lake tonnage and distribute cars for rail shipments.

GUARD BABY'S HEALTH IN THE SUMMER

The summer months are the most dangerous to children. The complaints of that season, which are cholera infantum, colic diarrhoea and dysentery, come on so quickly that often a little one is beyond aid before the mother realizes he is ill. The mother must be on her guard to prevent these troubles, or if they do come on suddenly to banish them. No other medicine is of such aid to mothers during hot weather as is Baby's Own Tablets. They regulate the stomach and bowels and are absolutely safe. Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

FOREST BOY ACCIDENTALLY KILLS BROTHER

While playing with a loaded revolver in bed, nine-year-old William Walter Baylis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sefton Baylis, of Broadway st., Forest, was accidentally shot and killed by his 12-year-old brother, James, about 8 o'clock Friday morning.

The revolver belonged to Mr. Baylis, who was in Hamilton at the time of the accident. The boys are said to have had the revolver in their possession yesterday and it is believed that they had the weapon in bed with them all night. While the older lad was examining the gun in bed this morning it accidentally discharged, and his younger brother received the bullet in his stomach, death resulting almost immediately.

The affair has cast a gloom over the village. Mr. Baylis before the war was European manager of the International Harvester Company and was recently engaged in farming near here.

The Institute is second to none in this good work. The following resolution was formed. "At the District Convention of West Middlesex Women's Institute, we, the representatives of the eleven branches of the West Middlesex district, in convention assembled, Resolved, that we express our keen disappointment that the complete municipal vote has not been granted to every woman 21 years old who is a British subject in Ontario. Be it therefore resolved, that we request that any disability in extending the full municipal vote (school vote included) be annulled. Also that the date of the annual school meeting be changed to a more convenient time for women, making it easier for them to be able to attend that meeting."

STARTED IN JOKE FROCKS OF COTTON

Explanation of Story of Roosevelt's Hard Drinking.

Colonel Informed Group of Newspaper Men How the Rumor Originated—Jesting Remark Caused All the Trouble.

Few things in Colonel Roosevelt's later life are fresher in the public memory than his suit against a Michigan editor who accused him of drunkenness, writes John J. Leary, Jr., in McClure's. The unfortunate editor, unable to produce a scintilla of proof, admitted his fault, and so far as the records go, the matter was disposed of. There was nothing developed, however, to show where the false starter or what foundation, if any, it might have had.

Colonel Roosevelt, however, had an explanation. He gave it to us one afternoon in the trophy room in Oyster Bay; when passing the cigars around, he remarked that he would vouch for the quality. "They must be good," he remarked, "for they're some of Leonard Wood's. I never smoke myself, so I have to rely on the judgment of others."

"Did you ever smoke?" some one asked.

"There is where that story of my drinking started," he continued, not hearing the question or ignoring it.

"You see, when I would decline a cigar, saying I did not smoke, folks would often ask, in a joking way: 'What are your bad habits?' In the same spirit I would reply 'Prize fighting and strong drink.'

"Now, it so happens that the Lord in his infinite wisdom elected to create some folks with whom it is never safe to joke—solemn asses who lack a sense of humor. I am very fond of that story of Sidney Smith's who, playing with his children, stopped suddenly, saying: 'Children, we must now be serious—here comes a fool! You know the kind he meant—those poor unfortunates who must take everything said to them literally.'

"One of those to whom I made that remark said: 'Roosevelt, I hear you drink hard.' The other fool replied, 'Yes, that's true. He told me so himself.'

"And so it went."

"That is all there ever was to the talk of my drinking. From that start it spread and spread until, in self-defense, I was compelled to take action to stop it. Some folks have said I went out of my way to find a little editor who could not defend himself. The fact is, he was the one editor I could hold to account. There were and are editors nearer New York I gladly would have sued under like circumstances, but they knew better than to print what they knew was untrue. Had any one of them done so I would have hauled them up short, and with much more glee than I did the Michigan man, for the men I have in mind have real malice toward me, and he, I am satisfied, had none."

"We parted good friends. I certainly had nothing against him. In his zeal to do things, he put in print what shrewder and really malicious men who would harm me if they could, dare not do. I believe he was honestly sorry when he found his error."

"However, the thing had its value. We're never too old to learn, and I learned to be careful with whom I cracked the simplest joke. Thank God, there are many you can joke with in safety. If we couldn't laugh once in a while what a world this would be! It wouldn't be a world—it would be a mad-house."

Avoid All Form of Worry.
Worry is the skeleton that befools many a secret chamber. To be sure it may be difficult to forestall the monster. A moment's unguarded speech may occasion the loss of friendships that can never be regained. A hasty decision may mean the loss of fortune. The indiscretion of friends may put us in jeopardy for the rest of our days. There is occasion enough to be alarmed when such things happen. The mind seems to revert its troubles as water does to its levels. If these things are permitted to remain as the creaking occupants of the mind the result will be worry and mental friction. Like sand in the gears, it will wear out the mental power, and make people old before their time. You dare not allow your mental life to be sapped by friction.—Exchange.

Fabric Promises to Supplant the More Expensive Materials.

Beautifully Figured Voiles Rival Flow-ered Silk Georgettes; Swiss and Organdies Are Good.

And now the word comes from Paris that skirts are to be slightly longer, no fuller but with an additional length of an inch or so, it is said. At this rate the American woman will have hard work to keep her skirt length regulated to suit the whims of Paris.

Fortunately the distance of the bottom of the skirt from the floor is not such an important matter after all, the woman of good taste wearing them at whatever length is most becoming to her.

Next season will probably be one of cotton, as silk has advanced so in price that it is almost out of reach. This fabric, which in its raw state is sold by the pound, used to be wholesale in pre-war days at $3.50 to $4.50 a pound. Now the same quantity brings $20.

Of course, if cotton, which is already high enough in price, is featured as the correct material for summer frocks, some horrid weevil in all probability will attack the cotton boll, and the cost of this material will advance also. As it is, beautifully figured voiles are offered which rival the flowered silk georgettes. Dotted swiss, it is said, will also be good as well as plain and figured organdies.

A new style blouse is shown by some of the shops which has caused quite a good deal of comment as to whether it is a frock or a waist. It is in one piece and falls to the bottom of the skirt, its beauty lying in the material employed in its development and the embroidery with which it is trimmed. The long-ago waist of Irish crochet has been revived this season. It is usually fashioned in the short peplum style.

In neckwear lace plays an important part. Irish crochet, tinted or in white, filet and Carrickmacross, also an appliqued design on a background of net are much used for collars, are round, square, and rolling and are shown attached to little vests.

HOLLAND LAND OF PRIMNESS

American Visitor Attracted by Neat Appearance and General Cleanliness Everywhere Noticeable.

Holland and the Hollanders are as unlike France as two countries can be. The Corp. David Ramsauer writes in the Indianapolis Star. The rural districts of Holland look like one big formal garden and the cities of Holland look as if they had been cast in a huge mold, set down carefully and scoured and polished every day. But France looks more like a country expressly designed to please the eye, and the cities of France, more helter-skelter, reflect the temperamental spirit of the French.

A small city in France neglects whole streets and districts in order that one spot, one park, cathedral or building, may be beautiful. But in Holland the idea seems to be to make it all substantial and neat and that is why whenever one goes in Rotterdam or The Hague he finds the same orderly rows upon rows of apartment houses or business blocks with the same little staid parkways and parks that somehow remind one of the old-fashioned "best rooms" of a generation ago.

I have covered Rotterdam and The Hague, and in neither city have I found a district that corresponds to our tenement districts or that was characterized by the squalor or dirt of the poorer sections of our American cities. I found districts where poor people lived and where the houses were not so good, but even those poorer people looked clean and their houses were clean, just as in the better districts.

In Holland it is the men who wear the best clothes; it is the men who are the better looking; the best shops are for men, the tobacco shops of Rotterdam are gorgeous, there is no other word, they rival in splendor even the jewelry shops of Fifth avenue, New York. The shops for men's wear are much more attractive than those for women's wear and everything there seems to be of men and for men.

In Rotterdam one would not, as he would in a French town, drop into a cafe or store and start jollyng the madame or mademoiselle and playing with the youngsters. I rather think that if we did that over there the stolid Dutch frau would call for help and one of the solemn-looking policemen who stalk about the street would escort us to the local jail. Those things aren't done in Rotterdam.

A creation that makes you realize that soon the mild weather will be with us, and we'll see lots of pretty misses attired in printed blue chiffon over tan georgette for it bids to be come popular again.

JERSEY CLOTH FOR BLOUSES

Slip-Over With Peplum Said to Still Hold Prominent Place; Silks Desirable.

Jersey cloth in silk, in one of the weaves that go by various names, is used increasingly for blouses. In spite of everything that has been predicted, the slip-over blouse, with a peplum, is still the smartest vogue. To be sure, some of the very smart new blouses reach only to the waist-line, but the peplum is the rule. And it is in these blouses that jersey in silk weaves is especially desirable. For it has body enough and at the same time suppleness enough to hang well around the hips. It is often elaborately embroidered, sometimes heavily braided in soutache, sometimes worked in machine stitchery with colored wool in a way that adds distinction to many of the new blouses.

New Coiffure.

The quaint and the unusual are appearing in the new hair dressings. Besides the bobbed hair the contours are showing an adaptation of the Grecian knot. With the bobbed hair, we have a covering of the ears, but the latest tendency is to let the lower tip of the ear lobe show below a soft roll of waved tresses. The Spanish style headress has entered the field, and the open filigree of a high backed comb now makes the dividing line between a smoothly brushed head and a large, loose knot in many fashionable headresses for the evening.

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be got by the thousands from mothers who know the great virtue of this excellent medicine. But the powders will speak for themselves and in such a way that there can be no question of them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose. in

How Coal is Tested.

Coal sold on the basis of heating value is tested by the United States bureau of standards by the bomb calorimeter. A thirtieth of an ounce of coal is enclosed in a strong steel capsule, oxygen under high pressure is introduced, and this bomb being placed in the calorimeter, the coal is ignited electrically. The heating effect is calculated from the rise of temperature of the water in the calorimeter. Coal samples of known heating value have been prepared, and are supplied to persons using the calorimeter to enable them to check their own results.

An Election Bet.

It was at the time of the presidential election. There were two boys, great chums, who expected to be married soon. One was a Republican, the other a Democrat. This young Republican was so sure of Hurches that he told his chum if his man lost he would go without a shave a week before and a week after the wedding. He lost, and was married before a large crowd, as grizzily as a bear. He almost lost his bride over this episode.

When The Day Is Over

When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is nothing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago.

Everything growing out of the ground seems intended for some use in establishing natural conditions. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found out what is naturally best for women's diseases. He learned it all through treating thousands of cases. The result of his studies was a medicine called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. This medicine is made of vegetable growths that nature surely intended for backache, headache, weakening pains, irregularities, and for the many disorders common to women in all ages of life.

Ottawa, Ont.—"I suffered from a bad case of woman's trouble with backache, nervousness, disordered digestion, irregularity and I had great pain all the time, sometimes I would faint at my work. I had one physician after another but they did me no good. I then took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it fixed me up all right. I look much better and feel fine. I will recommend the 'Prescription' to all suffering as I did."

PROTECT ROADWAYS.

Shade Prevents Undue Variation of Temperature.

Education is credited with fostering the present widespread demand for good roads in all parts of the country, but if this is so the education in this case must have been more or less narrow, judging by the lack of one feature, important to the maintenance of roadways of the most improved type and to the comfort and edification of travelers, which is noticeable in the case of many of our new roads, namely, the planting of trees on the roadside. Permanent roads for present and future traffic should be built of any of several materials well calculated to stand the wear imposed by motor vehicles, but the consensus of opinion seems to be in favor of concrete, largely on account of the fact that the cost of the surface, in a road built of such material, is practically the total cost of the road, other materials, such as asphaltic compositions, brick, granite or wood blocks, requiring a rigid base to ensure their success, which base can only be constructed at a cost equal to or greater than the cost of the surface. With the concrete road in favor it is only right that every reasonable effort should be made to add to the permanence of this type of road, and in tree planting we have a means of adding to the life of the concrete road that is well worthy of consideration.

Although possibly the most durable material that can be used in road construction, concrete has a limit of durability, and this limit is most quickly reached in cases where the road is most exposed to sudden and extreme changes of temperature. In our hottest weather it is often possible to find the pavement showing a temperature of 115 to 120 degrees, and when a rain comes following such heat a drop of as much as 50 degrees is likely to occur in the temperature of the pavement. Were the pavement shaded by tree growth the above-mentioned high temperature would not be attained in the first place, and the drop resulting from the rainfall would not be so great. The give-and-take set up in the material of the road surface by such extreme variations of temperature is more than any material can stand indefinitely.

This matter of protecting the road surface from extreme heat is only one feature in favor of tree planting on the roadways that has a practical, money-saving side to it, though even this one feature extends itself to cover the point of protection for automobile tires, the feet of horses and the comfort of pedestrians and other travelers. Possibly shade trees, grown and trimmed for that purpose, would not provide such desirable lumber as would forest-grown trees, but in the existence of such shortage as exists at present, the lumber could not be displaced, and at the worst the timber would be valuable for fuel, when the time arrived to get rid of the trees so as to make room for planting both nut and fruit trees along the public highways, and there is little reason why similar methods should not be adopted in this country.

Protect Cattle In Field.

Lightning rods have proved an almost absolute protection. Only in very rare instances have they been known to fail and, even in these cases, their failure was probably due to defect in installation or to deterioration, says an article in Conservation, which points out that "though electric storms reach highest frequency during the heat of summer, they often occur in the spring, and fire losses are by no means unknown in April and May."

The article advises owners of buildings to examine their lightning rods for broken insulators, for bends in the cable which allow contact with the framework or for corrosion of the cable where it enters the earth.

When building wire fences it is advisable to use ground wires about every five rods. Lightning is attracted by wire fencing and as, during a storm, animals will congregate near fences, many of them are killed by contact with the wire. These ground wires may be of about No. 9 gauge wire, given one turn around each strand of the fence, and carried into the earth beside the fence-post.

Money In Poultry.

During the annual Poultry Fair held in December last at Arthur, some thirty tons of dressed, dry-plucked poultry were sold in three days, according to James Farrell, secretary of the local poultry association in that neighborhood. The bulk of the fowl were Plymouth Rocks, but some geese and turkeys also were disposed of. More crated and dry-plucked poultry come from the county of Wellington, according to the authorities at Guelph, than from any other county in the province.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. Boys' and Girls' Calf Club.
Why shouldn't a boys' and girls' calf club grow into a men and women's cow club? Or, more immediately speaking, a larger boys' and girls' calf club—larger boys and girls, that is, not larger club. Or, getting nearer the meat—or the milk—of the thing, why shouldn't the club boy or girl who raises a calf milk that calf when she becomes a cow, watch her development, keep a set of books on her production, and, in a small way, learn the essentials of dairy farming, taking the figures to school and getting them interpreted, and incidentally teaching "the old man" a new trick or two?

That is the question, in one form or another, asked by the experts of the dairy division. It is a question that farm people and agricultural extension workers might think about. There may be more to say on the subject after a while.

Solving Labor Problem.

About the only practical solution to the labor problem for a big majority of farmers is to use more horses and wider implements. Make three horses do the work of two, and four horses do the work of three wherever possible. There is little doubt that the acute shortage of labor during the last few years has induced many men to invest in farm tractors who otherwise would never have thought of buying them.

Clean Litter Essential.

A poultryman with 440 hens found that when the litter in the poultry house was clean the egg production per day was 212. He left the same litter six weeks, and during this time the eggs laid fell to 80 a day. He then put in clean litter, and changed it regularly, and in two weeks the egg yield went up to over 200 a day.

Immature Seeds Unsafe.

Immature seeds, though they germinate readily, have not sufficient food supply to resist adverse conditions and will, as a consequence, produce a less vigorous growth, and if persistently used will doubtless result in a dwarfed variety of deteriorated strains.

The Bothwell Times says:—"Bothwell is about as dry these days as a sponge would be in a pail of water."

TO SAFEGUARD YOUR DIGESTION

The Blood Should Constantly be Kept Rich and Pure.

If you suffer from any form of indigestion, your diet should be carefully chosen. Over-eating is always harmful, but at the same time one must take enough food to supply the needs of the blood. It must be remembered that the blood has to carry nourishment to every part of the body, and fuel for energy and defence against its enemies, as well as the requisite juices for digestion. Hence, when the blood becomes weak and fails to do its work, indigestion arises; also when indigestion begins the blood still further suffers. Therefore, to safeguard your digestion the blood should be kept rich and red, and this can best be done by taking a course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These pills are a blood-building, nerve-restoring tonic and through their use your digestive system will respond naturally, your appetite will improve and your food will do you good. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of stomach trouble is shown by the experience of Mrs. J. H. Alexander, Barriefield, Ont., who says: "Some years ago I was in a terribly run down condition. I had indigestion of a severe nature, and sharp pains of agony all through me. My stomach was so weak that it was difficult to retain food, and often after eating I would have vomiting spells. I was under medical treatment, but as I did not improve my nerves were in a terrible condition and I was always in much misery. One day I read of a woman who had been cured of similar trouble through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I decided to try them. The result can be summed up by saying that after using the pills for some weeks I was completely cured, could eat a hearty meal and was again enjoying life. If I feel run down at any time I take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and always get benefit from them." You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SHE WOULD BE A MASON

The funniest story I ever heard, The funniest thing that ever occurred, Is the story of Mrs. Mehitable Byrde, Who wanted to be a Mason.

Her husband, Tom Byrde, was a Mason true, As good a Mason as any of you; He is tiler of Lodge Cerulean Blue, And tyles and delivers the summons due, And she wanted to be a Mason too— This ridiculous Mrs. Byrde.

She followed him 'round, this inquisitive wife, And nagged and teased him half out of his life;

So to terminate this unhallowed strife He consented at last to admit her, And first to disguise her, from bonnet to shoon.

This ridiculous lady agreed to put on His breech—ah! forgive me, I meant pantoon; And miraculously did they fit her.

The lodge was at work on the Master's degree; The light was ablaze on the letter G; High soared the pillars J and B; The officers sat like Solomon wise;

The brimstone burned amid horrid cries; The gow roamed wildly through the room; The candidate begged them to let him go home,

And the devil himself stood up in the east As proud as an alderman at a feast, When in came Mrs. Byrde.

Oh, horrible sounds! Oh, horrible sight! Can it be that Masons take delight In spending thus the hours of night? Ah! could their wives and daughters know The unutterable things they say and do Their feminine hearts would burst with woe—

But this is not all my story, For those Masons joined in a hideous ring, The candidate howled like anything, And thus in tones of death they sing (The candidate's name was Morley):

"Blood to drink and bones to crack, Skulls to smash and lives to take, Hearts to crush and souls to burn— Give old Morley another turn,

And make him all grim and gory." Trembling with horror stood Mrs. Byrde, Unable to speak a single word;

She staggered and fell in the nearest chair On the left of the junior warden there, And scarcely noticed, so loud the groans, That the chair was made of human bones.

Of human bones! on grinning skulls That ghastly throne of horror rolls— Those skulls, the skulls that Morgan bore! Those bones, the bones that Morgan wore! His scalp across the top was flung, His teeth around the arms were strung— Never in all romance was known Such usage made of human bone.

That brimstone gleamed in lurid flame, Just like a place we will not name, Good angels, that inquiring came From blissful courts, looked on with shame

And tearful melancholy, Again they danced, but twice as bad, They jump and sing like demons mad! The tune is "Hunky Dory!"

"Blood to drink and bones to crack, Skulls to smash and lives to take," Then came a pause, a pair of paws Reached through the floor up sliding doors.

And grabbed the unhappy candidate! How can I without tears relate The lost and ruined Morley's fate? She saw him sink in a fiery hole, And heard him scream, "My soul! my soul!"

While roars of fiendish laughter roll And drown the yells for mercy!

That ridiculous woman could stand no more, She fainted and fell on the checkered floor;

'Midst all the diabolical roar, What then, you ask me, did befall Mehitable Byrde? Why, nothing at all— She had dreamed she'd been in the Mason's Hall.
