"Courteous, Considerate, Kind"

Among the many things which this ar has shown is this, that some older vays of fighting the foe are better han some newer ways, and that a well conducted retreat is a means of victory for the retreating army.

It has shown also that in addition to the use of the many means of sausing terror and panic, suffering and death employed, more or less, by all who engage in the conflict for mastery, the soldier may find opportunities on the battlefield for the exercise of some qualities of character that have been udged as useful only in peaceful ommunities.

It is a common thing in business circles, where competition is considered the best method of carrying forward our interests, to find men scoff at consideration for the feelings and the failings of others and to hear these men pervert a text so that it reads to suit their purpose: The race is to the swift and the battle is to the strong. That there is kindness and courteous treatment given by men to men in the business world is true, but there is a smothered sense that such conduct is a sign of poor business ability. The law of the market-place in Canada is: Succeed in you deal even if your success means the impoverishing of your fellowman and the killing of your own tenderness and finer nature." To our shame, too, it must be confessed that our church life has been often spotted by a "rarity of Christian that in the bloom of human brothernood which should fellow an acceptance of the Fatherhood of God. German Americans To Irish Americans.

New York, Sept. 28,-Ten thousand German-Americans held a meeting is now prepared to take orders yesterday with the object proclaimed elsewhere by Herr Dernburg, the Kaiser's envoy, of distracting American attention from the question, "Who began the war?" to the more vital question, "How can Great Britain be defeated?" Assisted by Mr. Barthold, a member of Congress, who proclaimed that if Germany was defeated she would wage general warfare, the speakers gave free vent to their hatred of Great Britain.

"Germany," declared Herr Wissman, he President of the German American Alliance of Brooklyn, "intends to break forever England's meddling power." Amid enthusiastic cheering he informed his hearers that the British Army could not be recruited from Ireland or the over-sea Dominions and that the first decisive German victory would be followed by an insurrection n Ireland and the capture of Canada by the Irish in the United States. He said that Germany would not rest until her flag was housted in London and G. E. Russell, Bay Roberts. Paris. These Germans utterly fail to understand American sentiment.

A Trying Experience

The schr. Daryl, Capt. John Snow arrived here Oct. 8th from Labrador, having secured about 350 qtls. fish. Capt. Snow experienced a perilous time during the storm of wind and snow that sweps along the coast of Labrador Sept. 26th. He had anchored in Domino Run, off the Spotted Islands, in the vicinity of the Sand Banks. There in the violence of the storm, while the vessel was bearing the tremendous strain of the storm, she parted from both of her anchors. The people of Spotted Islands, seeing au-Loup as a guide to steamers and the hoisted flag of distress, attempted vessels entering the port. several times to go to his assistance, but found the storm too great for Capt. Snow and his crew wish to thank those kind and brave-hearted people who risked their own lives to save those in distress. The only thing now that remained to be done was to run the schooner for Domino Harbor. This he did in the most perilous mo ment, for the storm was now at its height. As he neared the mouth of the harbor two other vessels were to be seen swiftly driving towards the shore. Skipper Snow and his crew, to escape the same doom, exerted all their power, for well they needed presence of mind in such a time. Their means of escape was to throw all trapgear, lines and grapnels overboard. By doing this they succeeded in saving lives. Apart from God's Providence much credit is due to both captain and crew for acting so bravely under such trying circumstances.
