occasion of Sir Wilfrid's 66th birthday, the London Mon

Post said: "No other statesman could have accomplished so much in the short space of a lifetime os the great French-Canadian, who combines an imag-inative eloquence unsurpassed in Britian history with the charm and courtesy of a cultivated Frenchman." The writer in the Post enumerated some of the outstanding measures of the Laurier Administration, and added: "Measures wherein a business capacity was not less necessary than imagination and courage." The last sentence may be taken as a succinctly genuine estimate of the scope of the legislation of the Liberal administration. May Shr Wilfrid be preserved for many more years of useful work for Canada.
