A Delightful Motor Trip

F. G. Scott of Montreal, spent the week-end here, the guest of H. H. Hatfield, his partner in the potato business. On Sunday Mr. Hatfield gave his guest an auto ride on which he saw a good part of the country in a short time.

Leaving Hartland something after 11 a.m. the party dined at Perth, then went across to Fort Fairfield where a short stop was made, thence on cross-country to Houlton via Mars Hill, Blaine, Bridgewater, Monticello, etc.

Passing through Houlton the party went to Nickerson's Lake where a couple of hours was spent, then back to Houlton for supper. The ride home was made around by Woodstock, Grafton, Newburgh and by moonlight, reaching home at the early hour of 9.30 p.m. having covered something over 130 miles. The roads in some places were excellent; other places they were bad and spots were struck where there had been recent showers. The potato crop, which was naturally under strict observation by the gentlemen, was as varied as the roads—some places very green and rank other places having died down and there was evidence of considerable rust all along the way.

Mrs. Hatfield, Miss Dora Robinson, Miss Marion Stevens, and Miss Ellen McGoldric were also of the party on this grand and glorious ride in Mr. Hatfield's brand new McLaughlin-Buick Special.

CARLETON CO. BOYS PAY HEAVY TOLL

The Wounded Ones Return as They are Able to Come

Not since last April, when the Canadian boys paid such heavy toll in the battle of Vimy Ridge, have the names of the Carleton county boys filled the casualty lists as, during the past few days.

Among those who have been reported injured are Clifford Thornton, who went over with 115th, and is suffering the effects of being gassed.

S. G. Barter of the 140th has had a slight wound in the side and a bad attack of trench fever, but is recovering.

John K. Glass has gunshot wound in the hand.

Corp. Wendell Nixon, son of Richard Nixon of Lower Brighton is reported suffering from gas. He went over with 140th.

The early part of the week Ed. Hanning, a Hartland boy, who was with the Fighting 26th in most of their fiercest battles, and who is one of the few left of the original regiment, arrived home. He has been twice severely wounded and tells wonderful tales of the horrors of the war.

Lee Dyer who also went over early in the fray also returned this week suffering four serious shrapnel wounds. He is but a shade of his former stalwart self and was glad to get back to his wife and family of little children.

Lieut. W. A. McDougall, who was in command of the platoon stationed here last year, is reported wounded.

Others sections of this and Victoria county report in this issue the cruel work of war with our boys.

Lieut. R. W. Lindsey, who went from British Columbia and was severely wounded, arrived here last week to join his wife and family who have been staying with Mrs. Lindsey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kennedy. Lieut. Lindsey expects to return to the front shortly.

First Shipments Aug. 24

The first shipment of potatoes from Carleton county was made from Hartland on Friday, Aug. 24. A carload of potatoes and another of turnips was shipped to the Potato Products Co. at Woodstock and will be used to start their evaporating plant in operation for the season.

The potatoes were raised by Gurston Day, who got a yield of about 60 barrels to the acre and which brought $2.25 a barrel. The turnips were produced by sundry farmers and brought $1, a very profitable price if it can be maintained.

From all sections of New Brunswick and Aroostook come reports of ravages of rust and subsequent rot. From conversation with a large number of farmers The Observer makes the deduction that about half a normal crop will fill present expectations, although at least two farmers have reported yields exceeding 100 barrels to the acre.

Digging is now quite general.

Back from the West

Frank Hendry, who a year ago sold his farm at Waterville and moved to California, have returned. It was chiefly in the hope that the change of climate might be beneficial to his wife's health that he went to California. There was disappointment in this, however, and he soon came to Calgary, where they were located for some months previous to their return to New Brunswick.

Borden Wants Carvell

The Ottawa correspondent of the St. John Globe, in an article on the political situation at Ottawa, says:

"F. B. Carvell is badly wanted by Sir Clifford and Sir Robert, but the hope of getting him has been abandoned. He objected to joining a government of which Hon. Robert Rogers was a member, and now that Mr. Rogers has gone Mr. Carvell appears reluctant to enter a ministry in the formation of which Sir Clifford Sifton is taking so large a share."

The above must certainly make pleasant reading for the Tory politicians of New Brunswick and their newspaper organs, who have for years made Mr. Carvell the target for the vilest kind of abuse. How B. Frank Smith, J. Kidd Flemming and J. B. M. Baxter must have rubbed their eyes in astonishment when they read the Globe's Ottawa despatch from which the above extract was taken! One can almost see the editor of the St. John Standard and the coterie of boodlers who control that paper, pinching themselves to see if they are alive. The very fact that Mr. Carvell is "badly wanted" by Sir Robert Borden to join his tottering government, must be gall and wormwood to the Tory bosses of this province. No doubt they protested vehemently, but their protests evidently carried little weight with the premier. He still wants Mr. Carvell, but the despatch tells us that he has about abandoned hopes of getting him, not because a howl has been raised by the Tory bosses of New Brunswick, whom he evidently regards as "flies on the wheel," but because Mr. Carvell appears reluctant to enter a ministry in the formation of which Sir Clifford Sifton is taking so large a share. Toryism in New Brunswick has certainly fallen on evil days.—Fredericton Mail.

Your compositor made a mistake in names in last week's correspondence. Al. Boone of Bridgewater was reported as being at Dr. Brown's over night on his way to the races in Fredericton. Then we remarked that although along in years Mr. Boone was still somewhat of a sport. Your compositor put Dr. Brown instead of Mr. Boone. This mistake caused some amusement and the genial doctor has had to stand a lot of chaff. He is not yet considered in the "along-in-years class."

CROPS OF PROVINCE

Report By the Minister of Agriculture

Fredericton, N. B., Aug. 24—The provincial department of agriculture is now working upon the organization of a new system for securing monthly crop reports. The intention is to have the chairman of the boards of revisors in each parish prepare reports by a new method of classification of crops. The scheme has not yet been worked out fully, but it is expected that it will be in operation before long. Reports in the past have not been very accurate, as in many cases blanks were filled in by men not in touch with agricultural conditions.

Hon. J. F. Tweeddale this morning gave a statement of crop conditions so far as the information received by his department, and his own personal knowledge would permit. Hay is abundant. On the Upper St. John much old hay is pressed and ready for shipment, and the cut of new is so great that storage room is at a premium. (Farmers with hay containing a large amount of clover are letting it ripen with the intention of threshing it for clover seed. Similar conditions prevail in other parts of the province.)

There is little live stock in the province to which to feed hay, a regrettable state of affairs, resulting largely from the demand of the United States market for young animals.

In all sections the potato crop promised good until within the last week. In that time rust has hit Victoria and Carleton counties hard. The largest potato acreage is in that section. Some fields are entirely brown and rot also has made its appearance. Farmers anticipate that the yield will be seriously affected. Similar conditions are reported from Aroostook county, Maine.

The minister said that turnips were of acreage from fifty to seventy per cent, greater than the average and everywhere were in an excellent condition. The yield was expected to be more than the average.

Wheat, the growing of which was encouraged particularly by the agricultural department, gives excellent promise. The acreage is the largest in years. The wheat is well headed and ripening fast. The crop promises better than oats which appear to have been injured by the heavy rains of the spring.

Buck wheat grain has grown better than in years. The yield will be an average one with extra good straw. Barley is in excellent condition. Beans are a larger crop than ever.

Ouch ! ? ! ? ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and lifts right out without pain.
He says freezone is an ether compound which dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin. A quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels.

John Wanamaker

John Wanamaker, the great merchant, took the occasion of his 79th birthday to declare a business man has never reached full success until he has learned there are other compensations in life than money.

Here are some other bits of advice Mr. Wanamaker handed around to callers:

"It is a great thing to show people how to work and teach them to love it.

"More people have blind minds about business than there are people with blind eyes.

"There is no better school for learning in the world, its people, customs and financial methods than the mercantile.

"To give the people better conveniences and actual satisfaction has been my business motto for half a century.

"Patron first, merchant afterwards, is another one.

"When people get down to the fact that principles are essential for safe foundations they will not justify practices that consider only the ways that yield the quickest and largest return in dollars and cents."

"There is no need to be concerned about the times and general business if manufacturers and storekeepers will stop nursing forebodings and raising alarms."

What's Time to a Hog

The mountaineer's razor-backs were running loose and feeding on such fattening forage as grass and green apples. "Why don't you pen them up and fatten them quick with corn?" asked the summer boarder. "It takes so much time to get them ready for market as long as they run wild." "Hell!" snorted the mountaineer, "what's time to a hog?"

MR. FLEMMING'S CASE

The Woodstock Press, the pocket organ of J. Kidd Flemming, has made the discovery that the payment of $2,500 to its patron saint by a member of the firm of Kennedy & McDonald was the outcome of a conspiracy hatched by F. B. Carvell, M. P. It is alleged that Mr. Carvell advised the payment of the money, but charged the firm to give it to none but Mr. Flemming. "Without suspecting a trap," it goes on to say, "Mr. Flemming took the money and within a few minutes delivered it to the hands of the treasurer of the fund, and, for doing this, the bona fide grafters and conspirators have, in their newspapers, been condemning him ever since."

Poor, innocent Mr. Flemming! To think that he should have formed the habit of falling into traps! In other words, his sins always found him out. He got caught in a trap when he collected the sum of $10,000 from Contractor Corbett, and he got caught in a much larger trap when he gave his consent to the extortion of $73,000 from the timber limit holders of the province. Developments in the Gould arbitration case at St. John on Thursday show that he was caught in a regular dead-fall of a trap when he held up Contractor Gould of Valley Railway fame for the tidy sum of $100,000 just prior to the local election of 1914. The Woodstock organ—if it masters up sufficient courage to offer an explanation—will probably try to bamboozle its readers into believing that "Mr. Flemming merely took the money and within a few minutes delivered it to the treasurer of the fund." But it will scarcely claim that the trap on this occasion was set by Mr. Carvell, although he had a hand in catching the quarry.—Mail.

Having read of 'Fruit-a-tives', I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 34 years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using 'Fruit-a-tives', and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain."

REGGY THE COOKEE

By SAMUEL ALEXANDER WHITE

The cook of Gilmore's Camp at Number Nine had tucked out from quinsy and had to make the hospital by sleigh-train just before the snow roads went in slush. The company had shipped in the latest, smallest, most expensively equipped of a cockney that ever appeared in the north. He could not cook. He could not do anything in reason. Murphy, the big boss, was wild. In despair he sent out for his own wife to come in from Ottawa to save, through proper food properly served, up some thirty-seven lives. She came in with their four-year-old boy, Dan, just before the drive started. The river was killing. Men had to have heavy meals and have them often. And for two joyful days the gang at Number Nine dined as kings of the northwoods dine. For two days! Then gloom fell upon the rivermen. Mrs. Murphy herself went sick with influenza. She lay in bed on the big raft in the rear of the drive, and Reggy, the incompetent entered into his own again.

That very day he slopped up an insufferable dinner. So bad it was that the men could have taken him out and hung him on the nearest spruce. The boss was in a fearful mood, and it needed only the jam at the Chats to make him verbally consign the cookee to utter and endless perdition. Reggy was the direct cause of the jam. He could see nothing else for it. On that unspeakable dinner the men had slouched. He had noticed them slouching. More than that, he himself had slouched. But now he seemed like a demigod, and seemed the incarnation of activity.

"Pole, men, pole!" he shouted, flinging across the shore eddies of the rapids and jabbing in his pole like a murderous lance.

Big Donald, Shockey, Dreen, Lake Wilson, Ducourtelle, and all the rest of the gang hurried themselves at the sullen mass of grounding logs that grated on the rocks in the rapids and upended every timber that followed in a chaotic mountain of pine which choked the Chats from gorge to gorge. There sounded a crunching, a thrashing of the logs that came like battering rams, and through and through the acres of dark trunks the brown river water seethed and foamed. Poles were useless. Peavys were called on, and the sweat poured out of the men as they heaved with all the strength that empty stomachs allowed. Hemmed in by serrated ranks of cedar on the shore, the great rocks saw the sun and killed the breeze. One breathed as in a furnace.

"O, for staks in our stomachs!" growled Big Donald, recognizing the uselessness of their efforts.

It was indeed useless. A half-hour's wrestling had taken down piece after piece, but there was no budging. The foundations of the jam. The key-piece was in the centre. The mass would not pull, and to pick it away would take a month. Murphy, already four days behind schedule, looked like a copper-colored thundercloud. He threw aside his peavay.

"The dynamite!" he roared to the raft in the rear. "The dynamite, you say, cookee. And be quick!"

Showing his usual pelerity, Reggy came poking ashore with the death-dealing case of dynamite swinging carelessly from a strap on his shoulder. "Thunderation!" Murphy howled. "He'll drop it, and blow us a million miles. The good-for-nothing dog!" But Reggy didn't drop it. When he handed the case to Murphy, the thanks he got was one terrible look. Yet, unruffled, hands in pockets, pipe in mouth, Reggy watched the boss set the stick to break the jam. Murphy lit the fuse, thrust the long pole with the charge attached down into the heart of the pile, and ran for the rocks behind, which the gang had taken shelter.

Heads were peering out as he came running in. "What's you white?" asked Wilson.

"Where?" demanded the boss. "At you end of the jam. Look. See it move."

The whole gang stared. The white blue raised and showed distinctly on the brown logs.

"A handkerchief," Wilson ventured. "A pinafore!" gasped Murphy. "My God, my boy!" He dashed towards the rapids.

And forgetful of danger the whole gang rose from shelter. Big Donald ran to hold the boss, and Ducourtelle ran to render possible help to him. In a task they understood how it was. Young Dan had followed the cookee off the raft, and climbed the muckle of logs that stretched ashore. There he was, perched astride a giant pine, laughing and waving his arms to the onrushing men.

From the rocks the gang watched. Reggy in the midst of them watched.

"The fools," he broke out. "The bloomin' fools. They'll never do it, donch' know. No time. They'll never."

He paused and suddenly made a bee-line for the head of the jam.

"Where in thunder you goin', you run?" Shockey Dreen yelled. "They ain't there. They're on the tail."

"It's only 'art as far," Reggy called. "What's he mean?" asked Wilson.

"Dunno. He'll get catapulted hard. And the boss and Donald. Oh, God, ain't it bitter! They'll never make the kid."

Murphy, frantic as a madman, was on the crest of the jam. Big Donald crouched below, ready to catch the tiny atom of humanity if the boss should be in time to toss it to him. Hopeless their endeavor looked, and the gang on shore waited, tense, to see the puff of smoke, to hear the crash of explosion, to witness the men and the boy go down in the writhing, grinding maelstrom of death. Every second they listened for it. Their ears strained for the sound, but it failed to come. Now, they thought, as the boss held outstretched hands upon the log, it must surely come. But the boss and Big Donald were racing for shore, and the gangwayed for another half-minute's respite. The fuse must have been a trifle long. They breathed another prayer that it might be slow as well, and on the heels of that prayer Murphy and Big Donald tumbled over the rocks among them with the boy.

And the boy, thinking it horse play, pulled at his father's beard and laughed.

"Daddy," he cried, "wot oo run for?"

Never an answer could Murphy give. There were choking sobs in his throat, and he hugged the lad tight in his brown arms.

"Three cheers for the boss. Three cheers for Big Donald!" Wilson shouted exultantly.

The rocks rang with the rejoicing, and a voice echoed the cheer from above. The men looked up and saw on the big lip of the gorge the cookee with a long pole on his shoulder.

"I know'd they would nevah do it," he piped. "No time, doncha know!" "What, mon?" thundered Big Donald.

"No time," returned Reggy. The head was only 'art as far."

He showed out a grimy hand. In it was the dynamite charge with the fuse snuffed out.

Potatoes in Aroostock

The best judges estimate that Aroostock county will this year have from 65 to 70 per cent of an average crop, according to present indications. A few fields are harmed a little by rust, but many of them are harmed a good deal, the yield in some of them promising to be only a reasonable fraction of what it ought to be. A very few have begun to dig already, but none will begin to amount to anything until early next week, when buying and shipping will begin in a small way. The probable price at starting will be $2.75 which is the price paid a number of days ago at Houlton, when the buying began there.—Review, Aug. 22.

Fatal Accident At Camp Sussex

Sussex, N. B., Aug. 22—A most regrettable accident occurred here on the camp grounds about 4:45 o'clock this afternoon when Private Harry Jones, of the Forestry Unit, who was engaged in a friendly boxing round with James Jones, who is employed in the canteen on the grounds was struck by the latter directly under the heart and collapsed immediately. Private Jones, after the drilling of the day, came to the canteen for refreshments. He tapped Jones on the shoulder in a friendly way and they put up their hands for a friendly go. In a few seconds the fatal blow was struck and Private Jones fell to his knees in a crouching position. A soldier, standing near, began to count thinking Private Jones was shamming a knockout but, instead at the count of ten seconds, the soldier fell on his face, dead.

Cost of Printing

It is a common knowledge that the printer is the last of commercial institutions to apportion to his clients a just share of the cost of production, and if at possible will carry the lion's share of the burden himself. Occasions occur, however, when he must to some extent consider himself, if he desires to remain in business, and the present situation is urgent and calls for action.

We have always tried to co-operate with our customers, and to consider their difficulties before our own, and in doing this we have carried the increasing problems up to the present time practically without disturbing the prices charged before the beginning of the war, but the continuous rise in the cost of materials and the general and heavy advance in the price of labor which came into effect the first day of June, makes it impossible to continue our good intentions in this direction and an increase in our charges becomes absolutely necessary if we are to maintain our establishment.

SAND MARTINS BUILD QUEER, SAFE NESTS

World's Most Industrious Bird—Small Eggs—Fast Clever Opposition in These "Swallows"

A writer from Western Canada says that sand martin bird, sometimes called, is possibly the most industrious of its feathered brethren, as it persistently rebuilds its nest in the face of the sternest opposition. It is not a large bird, about five inches long and of a dull greyish brown color with white on throat and breast; but is extremely graceful as it appears on a calm evening skimming in beautiful curves above the ground, then gracefully rising above one's head into the blue.

In Strange Places They usually build their nests beneath the beams in vacant huts, in caves of old stables or in steep cut banks of the rivers, and are particularly partial to a district where limestone boulders. In these banks they have been known to excavate two or three feet, working with their bills and feet, making a hole just about big enough for a man's hand at the entrance and widening gradually at the inner part. These holes are usually about four feet from the extreme bank and only a few inches apart. They are lined with dry rootlets of grass or feathers. On these downy cushions are laid the five little white eggs with spots of reddish brown, where the mother bird may hatch her young.

Crows are Enemies The moisture necessary for making the walls firm is carried in their beaks from the shore of the river, and while these banks are practically safe from intrusion by man, the crows learn to know the hatching season and are on the alert to devour the young swallows as they emerge from the nests. The small boy has been known to lie flat on mother earth, and reaching over the edge, obtain the eggs, but it is a risky undertaking as the steep banks are of shifting sand. From the river bank below, the bill with its myriads of holes presents a honeycomb effect, and almost seems to move as the little heads peep up and out.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION

Canada's Backward Position Shown in a Government Report

In 1910 the Dominion Government appointed a Royal Commission to enquire into the needs and equipment of the Dominion respecting industrial training and technical education, and into the systems and methods of technical instruction obtaining in other countries. The following is from the report of the Commissioners, showing the need of industrial and technical education in Canada: "Until recently Canada was an interested and debating spectator of the movements for industrial efficiency. The training of young workers to deftness in manipulation and technique, and to an understanding of the principles and sciences which lie at the base of all trades and industries, was not provided for in the schools. When manufacturing goods were wanted in increasing quantities and variety, and towns and cities were growing by leaps and bounds, it was discovered that there had been practically no organization of means for preparing the hundreds of thousands of young people to become the best qualified artisans, farmers and housekeepers in the world. The country's growing wealth was ample for the cost; but the educational work was becoming backward in its progress, and, worse than that, was developing into school systems that had few points of contact with or relation to industrial, agricultural or housekeeping life."

WEDDING RING FINGER

There is a very ancient belief that a blood vessel extends from the base of the fourth finger of the left hand to the heart, whence, as is alleged, the choice of that finger for the wedding ring. In literature allusion to it is made as the "venia amoris," or the vein of love. Unlike most notions of the kind, this idea is entirely correct, for a vein does arise directly at the root of the ring finger and, running over the back of the hand, finds its way through the "royal" vein, the "axillary," the "subclavian" and the "innominate" to the heart. This vessel is very conspicuous, standing out clearly when the hand hangs limply downward.

The reason for putting the ring on the fourth finger, however, is probably quite different. Its use for the purpose goes back to prehistoric times, and its selection is likely to have been due to the fact that it is the least free in its movements of all fingers. Accordingly, a ring encircling it will interfere less with the use of the hand than if placed on any other digit. It happens that the extensor tendon of the fourth finger is attached to those of the third and fifth fingers by cross-bands which restrict the movements of the ring finger considerably. Anybody may test this for himself by holding the third and fifth fingers forcibly bent, and trying at the same time to extend the ring finger.

Hail the Dairy Cow

Because she converts a larger percentage of her feed into a form suitable for human consumption the dairy cow is considered a more efficient producer of food than any other animal. Animals slaughtered for beef return only about one-fourth as much of the energy in their feed as milk cows.

LLOYD-GEORGE REPARTEE

Rev. Dr. C. F. Aked writes: A thrust by Lloyd-George holds the world's record. He was discussing a project then known as "Home Rule for Ireland," that is to say, a separate Parliament for Ireland, a Parliament for Scotland, a Parliament for Wales, a Parliament for England, and an Imperial Parliament for imperial affairs. So: Lloyd-George triumphant! "I stand for home rule for Ireland!"—great cheering. "Home rule for Scotland!"—some cheers. "Home rule for gallant little Wales!"—thunders of applause, and a voice. "Home rule for 'ell," and yells of laughter, hisses, and catcalls.

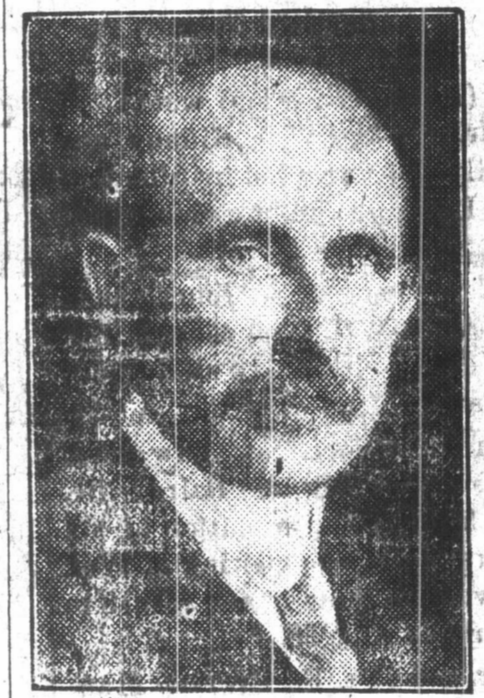

"Right," said Lloyd-George, "quite right. I like to see a man stand up for his own country!"

THE CLEVER BOY

Unduly Retarded by Means of Elementary School

Professor J. Maclean of Manitoba University, says: An easy-going kind of education is bad for anyone, but it is doubly injurious to the lad who is going on to the secondary school, and then to the university. He is handicapped early in his career by an acquisition of bad mechanical habits, not to speak of the time wasted when he will have to make up in the second-year school and the university. A patriotic educationist perhaps says: "Our system has been devised to meet the educational requirements of the masses, not to meet the wants of the exceptionally clever boy who is going on to the University." It may however be denied that the present system does as much as it might for the masses, and on the other hand affirmed that a national system of education cannot afford to neglect in the elementary stage the interests of the secondary school and the university. If it does, wealthy parents will send their children to private schools and from them will arise those class distinctions which it is one of the merits of our national school system that it discourages. If the present course of studies is all that a dull boy can take in 8 or 9 years, facilities should be provided to enable a clever boy to take it in 5 or 6 years. But is the dull boy such a dullard? The elementary schools even on the present lines could be greatly improved, and the secondary school and the university each have an opportunity of realizing the educational aims which pertain to them."

Britain's Priceless Charter

Britain has many possessions which "no money could buy." Perhaps the most precious of them are the Great Charter—an old parchment enclosed within a glass case in the British Museum; and the stone under the Coronation chair in Westminster Abbey, on which centuries of kings have been crowned and which is said to have served as a pillow for Jacob, son of Isaac and Rebekah. Time was when the Great Charter was bought for four pounds by a London tailor, from whose hands it was rescued just as he was about to cut it up for measures. Today all the gold of a Rockefeller could not purchase it.

Wren's Masterpiece

St. Paul's Cathedral and most of the City churches were designed by Sir Christopher Wren, one of the most remarkable persons who have ever lived in England. He started life as a mathematician, and made many wonderful inventions in connection with telescopes, microscopes, etc. He was an extraordinary worker, and lived to the ripe age of ninety. Sir Christopher built fifty-five churches in London alone.

Novel in Eleven Words

Tabloid claims to have written the "shortest complete novel on record." Here it is. In less than a score of words: "A man, a maid, a pout, some doubt, misunderstood; same man, same maid, a kiss, some bliss, Miss understood." Even this tabloid novel could be still further condensed, thus: "Man, maid, pout, doubt, misunderstood; man, maid, kiss, bliss, Miss understood"—a life romance in eleven words.

Barbers Itch Eczema

BARBERS' Itch is in reality a form of eczema. The delicate skin becomes irritated from shaving, a little infection gets in, and soon burning, stinging eczema is set up.

Fortunately, there is cure for Barbers' Itch and Eczema in the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and once you have made the acquaintance of this soothing, healing ointment, you will always keep it on hand to apply after shaving. Not every time, but whenever there is roughness or irritation of the skin.

Mr. Chas. A. Duxbury, Mansford, Ont., states:—"While out in the Northwest I caught barbers' Itch, and anyone who has had it will admit that it is not at all pleasant. It began on my neck below the chin, and spread until I became alarmed. It itched so bad that I had to scratch it, and that only made it worse."

"A friend of mine told me to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I did so. The application of this ointment gave prompt relief to the itching, and it was not many weeks until I was entirely freed of this annoying ailment."

Some of the ingredients of Dr. Chase's Ointment are very expensive, and for this reason imitations and substitutes are offered because they afford greater profits to the dealer. They will only disappoint you. The genuine Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment will positively cure.

On Sunday, accompanied by Mrs. Hatfield, Misses Dora Robinson, Marion Stevens and Ellen McGoldric, and his business partner, F. G. Scott of Montreal, Mr. Hatfield drove his car to Perth, Fort Fairfield, Houlton, Nickerson's Lake and Woodstock, covering about 130 miles.

While driving to his home at Waterville on Saturday evening Percy Britton met a mishap that might have been attended with serious results. While driving across a culvert near the home of Arthur DeGrasse the roadway sank beneath him and slid over the bank, which at that point is high and steep. Mr. Britton went with the wreck and suffered some injuries, but luckily escape with his life and whole limbs. The culvert was rotten and undermined by the rain, and like many others all through the county, needs immediate attention.

HAVE YOU WEAK LUNGS?

Do colds settle on your chest or in your bronchial tubes? Do coughs hang on, or are you subject to throat troubles?

Such troubles should have immediate treatment with the rare curative powers of Scott's Emulsion to guard against consumption, which so easily follows.

Scott's Emulsion contains pure cod liver oil which peculiarly strengthens the respiratory tract and improves the quality of the blood; the glycerine in it soothes and heals the tender membranes of the throat.

Scott's is prescribed by the best specialists. You can get it at any drug store. Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ont.

New Rooms at Hospital

Two rooms have recently been refitted and refurnished in the Fisher Memorial Hospital. One is named the Colter and the other the McLaughlin room. The former room was furnished by a fund by the past masters of New Brunswick and originally intended as a testimonial to the late Dr. N. R. Colter, but his sudden demise changed the plans and the funds were donated toward furnishing a room in the hospital in Carleton County, where Dr. Colter had many years practised his profession and for years represented the county in the Dominion parliament. The McLaughlin room was donated by the late John McLaughlin of Glassville.

Aged Couple Ill

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Giberson, who now reside in Carleton, Me., and have many relatives in this county, have been very sick for the past two weeks, and slight hopes are entertained for their recovery. They are a very aged couple, Mr. Giberson being in his 87th year and Mrs. Giberson in her 85th. A number of grandchildren have been called home owing to the dangerous illness of his parents, Frank Giberson of Foxcroft George of Waterville, and Roy W. of Portland, Florence Wilson of Bangor, also their daughter, Mrs. Frank Walter, who has been in Boston and Lowell for a few days, and their son, Rev. G. A. Giberson of Bath.

Tired And Discouraged

Mrs. Warren Randles, Rotherham, Kings County, N. B., writes—"I have three small children and had to stay in the house all winter. So when spring came I was all run down doing all my work and looking after the children. I felt all tired out, and looked on the gloomy side all the time. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the results were most satisfactory. I feel fine now, and am recommending the Nerve Food to others."

Who wants this Farm?

Here is one of the Biggest Bargains in Carleton County

A 100 acre farm at a great bargain. One of the best farms in Carleton County being thrown on the market at one half its actual value. Splendidly situated about one mile from Lakeville village; 80 acres in good state of cultivation, all level and entirely free from stone. Comfortable 8 roomed house with ell and small cellar; one new barn—30 x 40 feet situated on main road from Centreville to Woodstock, one mile from school, church, saw mill and grist mill; 1½ miles from railway station and potato houses. Daily mail R. F. D. Farm well fenced; small orchard. Another of the several good features of this farm is that it has a 75 rod front on road, thus overcoming the inconvenience of long hauls so common on narrow farms.

The owner has three farms in addition to several other industries and is compelled to part with this one, therefore offering it at a remarkable low figure of $2650. This is a rare opportunity and no doubt will not remain long on the market.
