FRIENDLY TALK TO FRIENDS IS DR. MORGAN'S MESSAGE

Noted Preacher Brings Message To London During Saturday Morning Visit.

RENEWS FRIENDSHIP

The visit of Rev. Campbell Morgan, D.D., well-known English divine, to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church...

It was first manifested by Rev. D. C. MacGregor, D.D., pastor of St. Andrew's, who recalled what great pleasure and profit the congregation had had in intimate association with Dr. Morgan...

The fact of friendship ties renewed was manifested by Dr. Morgan himself, who spoke of the genuine gladness it gave him to visit St. Andrew's again...

But perhaps most of all among the manifestations of the central fact of the meeting with friend again was the address, delivered by Dr. Morgan...

The first manifestation drawn from the chapter by Dr. Morgan was that of Jesus standing on the shore interested in fishermen fishing...

The second manifestation was that of Jesus waiting on the disciples by building a fire on the shore and cooking a breakfast of fish for them...

The third manifestation was that of Jesus looking out over the world and His church, and talking to the people as focused in Peter...

Dr. Morgan closed his address with an eloquent and earnest appeal to the men of business and the women of the home to draw from Jesus' manifestations of Himself...

To illustrate his point, Mr. Donnelly spoke of the stunted trees of the Arctic circle. The Norway pine grew only 18 inches in the far north...

Men would never find the giant who slept in their lives until they went out to find him. A giant was not a man of flabby muscles and inactivity...

GRECO-TURKISH ROW THREATENS

Hellenic Statesmen Allege the Turks Making Wholesale Arrests of Countrymen.

OFFICIALS WORRIED

Associated Press Despatch. Brussels, Oct. 27.—What statesmen who framed the Lausanne treaty frankly have termed "one of the most cruel decisions in history" threatens to decide serious complications in the near east, according to League of Nations spokesmen who assembled in Brussels last night in preparation for the special meeting of the council of the league, which will open this afternoon.

That decision, arrived at as the most practicable means for avoiding future wars between Greece and Turkey, was that of arranging for the compulsory exchange of populations between Greece and Turkey that is isolating the Greeks in Turkey back to Greece and the Turks in Greece back to the territory of Islam.

Greece now contends that Turkey is violating the terms of the treaty of Lausanne by making wholesale arrests of the Greeks of Constantinople, who were exempted from the exchange arrangement, provided they had established themselves in Constantinople before 1916.

M. Politis, who has succeeded M. Venizelos as the main Hellenic statesman abroad, will arrive here today prepared to defend to the last Greece's charges against Turkey; and his friends assert last night that the Greece looks upon the situation as extremely grave unless Turkey should show signs of meeting Greece halfway and affording some protection in Hellenic residential quarters in Constantinople.

The league officials are worried because they are not sure that Pethi Bey and his Turkish associate representatives will agree to any discussion of the Greek charge, as the meeting of the council of the league was called especially to consider the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Irak frontier and the Greek problem has come at the last moment while Pethi was on his way to Brussels from Angora.

The plight of the Constantinople Greeks and Greece's appeal under the league covenant that the controversy threatens to disturb the good relations between the nations of the overhauls for the moment the Irak controversy, despite the conviction entertained generally that back of the Irak dispute lies a rivalry for the oil fields of the Mosul vilayet.

HEBRIDEANS MAY OUST JAPS IN B. C.

Father A. MacDonell Says the Scheme Feasible If Govt. Gives Adequate Grant.

SCORES CALDER

Canadian Press Despatch. Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—"Provided the British Columbia government really means business and intends to replace her Japanese fishermen with Hebrideans I can bring out gradually several hundreds of families of Hebrideans exactly suited to this industry, but the provincial authorities must be more generous than the present offer of $300 per family indicates."

Father A. MacDonell, who has been instrumental in bringing 1,000 such settlers to the Dominion, stated last night. During the year 500 settlers had been brought in from the Hebrides, and many more were available for next year, he said.

Father MacDonell said the offer of $300 was quite inadequate, but that he hoped it would be doubled. Under the empire scheme the British government will donate the same amount as the government of British Columbia.

"A sum of $1,200," said Father MacDonell, "would enable each family to have its own house and a few acres of land. Some of the critics seem to think $300 sufficient, one of them even suggesting to me that if I brought out Hebridean fishermen, I ought to arrange for them to live in tents until they saved enough money to build their own homes."

Father MacDonell said the Hebrideans were satisfied with the offer of good in Canada, and he resented remarks by R. L. Calder, K. C. of Montreal, who said that the Hebrideans were quite unsuitable as agricultural settlers for the prairies.

Some 20 members of the probationers class at the Victoria hospital training school enjoyed the delightful drive, arranged by the women's auxiliary board, last Saturday afternoon under the convener'ship of Mrs. Frank White and Mrs. Angus Graham. Cars were loaned by a number of Londoners, and the drive took in Springbank park, the sanatorium, the University of Western Ontario, where, through the kindness of Dean Fox, the visitors were taken through the building, then on to the Ontario hospital and back home through the city.

Mrs. Gerald Henry, Wilson avenue, entertained Friday evening at a delightful miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Hilda Meanley, a bride-elect of early November. The house was prettily decorated with Halloween streamers and autumn flowers. The numerous gifts were presented in a huge umbrella artistically trimmed in orange and black. A shower of confetti, which fell from a pumpkin suspended above, the guest of honor, greeted her after the gifts had been opened. Later an enjoyable lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Gurl Connors. Those present included Misses H. Meanley, Mamie Francis, Margaret Flood, Anna McIntyre, Grace Warburton, Vivian Meanley, Margaret Haines, Madeline FitzGerald, Mary Maynard, Gurl Connors, Clarice Meanley, Josephine Francis, Marie Warburton, and Mrs. Howard Broughton.

CANADIAN CLUB BACKS CITY JUVENILE COURT

Executive Forwards a Strong Resolution to Attorney-General and City Council.

The Women's Canadian club, after hearing a true exposition of the workings of the Vancouver juvenile court by Judge Helen Gregory MacGill, has placed itself on record as strongly favoring the retention of a properly constituted juvenile court in London.

A resolution, which is being forwarded to the attorney-general and to the city council from the executive of the Women's Canadian club, reads as follows:

It is the opinion of the executive committee of the Women's Canadian club of London that the juvenile court for the city of London has since its inception been productive of great good in the community at large, and particularly in that part thereof from which juvenile delinquents chiefly come. "That it would impair the efficiency of the juvenile court and detract from its value as a humanitarian agency in the prevention of crime, and the reclaiming to good citizenship of delinquent juveniles if the court were made simply an adjunct of the police-court, which would inevitably result from the appointment that has been suggested of the police magistrate as juvenile court judge. "Therefore, we respectfully request that there shall be retained in the city of London, Ontario, a properly constituted juvenile court entirely distinct from the police court or any other institution.

MISS HANNAH (JUNE) WARREN, winner of the gold medalists' scholarship for all Canada at the recent singing competition, Canadian National Exhibition, who will be heard at the armories tonight in connection with the presentation of medals to men of the City of London Regiment.

"Rev. Quintin Warner has in every way demonstrated his ability, capacity and fitness for the office of juvenile court judge, and it is in the interests of the entire community that his services should be retained by his re-appointment to that office. "The juvenile court judge should be adequately remunerated for his services."

Everybody's Friend

Life Insurance has taken on a new importance. Everybody needs it, most people want it,—it is everybody's friend. As a result, people are asking themselves today:

"Am I insurable?"

"How can I get sufficient life insurance?"

and the answer is found in the ever-increasing number of policies now being applied for.

There is a foundation for this success: The general public is rapidly coming to realize the solid basis upon which life insurance rests; that the business is subject to a rigid system of Government inspection; and that while Life Insurance is a form of organized sharing of each other's burdens, it is managed on a sound business basis.

Sarnia Intermediates Gain Edge In Playoff Series By 10-6 Win Over London

Tunnel City Enters Protest Over Londoner's Touchdown

Occasional Fumbles Are Only Faults of Losing Team.

LEAD IS SLENDER

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Oct. 26.—Sarnia intermediates 10-6 win Saturday means they will take only a four-point lead with them to London, and like some of the wise-aces said when the majority against the O. T. A. was at its zenith, it may not be enough. Sarnia was full value for the four-point lead and although Huestis and clan looked better for the first two periods, they played a second fiddle thereafter. There was a lot said about the touchdown which Stritret gained for London in the first quarter. A protest concerning it has been forwarded to the O. R. F. U. executive.

ERMINIO SPALLA, the Italian fighter who holds the European heavyweight championship, was the last man to be boxed by the Belgian champion, in a bout in Naples, Italy.

Sarnia showed a lot of improvement in its play although London was smarter in passing the ball. Stritret had a host in himself. Wantless made some pretty runs, and generally there was little fault with London other than a few fumbles by the defence. Sarnia played well and never let up. At Wilson grabbed all the points by his accurate placing. Karn several times speeded away on his own. Perry on his own made a dash for the half way line and it was stopped only by the last man to touch it. London's interference and bucking was as strong as ever.

The thanks of the executive were tendered to the London C. of C., and their invitation to dine at the township councilors as well as the Masonic temple was gratefully accepted.

Local associations having for their objective the advancement of township affairs, such as farmers' clubs, etc., will also have a part to play in the discussion. The executive will recommend a change in the bylaws in the township where 5,000 population will have the membership fee reduced to $5.

An Insult To Britain.

The Los Angeles Times tries to explain why it is that British shopkeepers are not pushing the sale of American-made goods as they did during the war, when the "made in Germany" article was under the ban. The Times quotes travellers who have returned from London as saying that in Oxford street shops, where clocks and watches are sold, the German-made article has shoved the U. S. product to the back of the shop.

The explanation, which seems to satisfy the Times, is that Britain, once the money power of the universe, sees United States in possession of half the gold of the world, while its own coffers are depleted, and therefore, in a fit of pique, has turned its back on United States goods.

The Times also claims that "Americans are wearing expensive clothes and eating expensive meals, while the British are going threadbare and living on herrings and porridge that they may pay big income taxes to be remitted to us in payment of their huge war debt." With that view, which seems to gloat over the honorable effort of Britain in paying for a war that was fought for United States as much as for any other nation, there may be some difference, but there will be positive hostility to the concluding statement in the Times article:

"Surely Britain cannot be more concerned about the commercial restoration of Germany than about retaining the good will of her American cousins. Still, if she is, we, as her $4,000,000,000 creditor, can afford to overlook her commercial antagonism just as we overlook the actions of a piqued and pouting child."

Britain has no apologies to make for her war debt, and it is to her everlasting glory that she is willing to eat herrings and porridge in order to pay her debts. These debts were contracted on behalf of all the allied nations during the time when United States' participation in the war consisted of selling all manner of supplies, including bacon that was so rancid that it could not be eaten, at top-notch profits.

When United States was at last forced into the war through the murder of her own citizens, it was the British navy that guaranteed safe conduct to the U. S. troops; it was this same navy that made it possible for supplies to be shipped. When the U. S. troops were ready for action they faced an enemy that had been battered and hammered for years by the allied forces.

When the war was over Britain was in bad shape; she found United States seeking to wrest from her, in the moment of her weakness, her supremacy as the sea-carrying power of the world. She found her debtors, France, Italy, Belgium, Germany, unable to pay even the interest on their obligations. Struggling under that load, she faced her debt to United States, sent her financiers straight to that country, and placed her signature on an agreement to pay every last cent of the $4,000,000,000 with interest, and she has not yet failed to meet a single payment.

When one looks that fact squarely in the face and then reads that the Los Angeles Times considers Great Britain a piqued and pouting child because the sale of American watches and alarm clocks is slowing up in London, the realization breaks that all sense of decency has been discarded, and all regard for national gratitude and respect for worthy tradition has been forgotten.

Britain may be poor, she may be forced to eat her herrings and porridge, but never yet has she played the role of the pouting child. With all her problems, great enough to crush a people of less spirit, she has given a leadership in the past six months in restoring order in Europe that in itself would form a heritage which United States might envy. Great warrior as she is, Britain has set her face toward the League of Nations boldly and without reservation, while United States' contribution consists of sending an official observer, and farther than that she refuses to go.

The Los Angeles Times has penned an insult that will be as deeply resented by right-thinking people in United States as it is in the British dominions.

A Problem For Premier Ferguson.

Judging from the comment in the press, Premier Ferguson's position in dealing with those in his own party who looked to him to give them some other measure than the O. T. A. is not a pleasant one. Some Toronto members have already declared that Premier Ferguson will have to effect a change in that city or suffer loss of seats.

A glance at the election returns shows that Mr. Ferguson has supporters from many ridings that returned very large government sale majorities. It is not necessary to review the whole list, but the following bring out the point:

Fort William	3,655	Toronto N.W.	5,411
Hamilton E.	5,246	Toronto S.W.	15,014
Hamilton W.	4,461	Toronto S.E.	11,531
Kingston	1,417	Waterloo N.	5,913
Niagara Falls	2,236	Welland	2,696
Parkdale	1,508	Windsor	12,612
Riverdale	9,824	York E.	4,285
St. Catharines	4,408	York W.	3,568
Sudbury	5,186
Toronto N.E.	4,231	Total	107,102

From the point of practical politics, many of the men who represent these ridings will hold that their people have voted for something which the government is not able to deliver. Some of them have already done so, and others will do the same thing at the first opportunity. Mr. Ferguson has stated that the O. T. A. is the law of the land, and he is powerless for the present to do anything for them. He has tested public opinion, and must abide by the results.

If Premier Ferguson does face difficulties within his own party he has himself to blame. All through the provincial campaign he failed to make a clear-cut statement showing where he stood on the issue. He played for the rural vote on the idea that he would enforce the O. T. A.; he allowed those opposed to the measure to believe he would do something for them. When he brought in his "enabling legislation" after being returned to power he was implementing this unwritten promise to do something to shake off the O. T. A.

That the O. T. A. is still the law of the land is not due to the work of Premier Ferguson. He used each opportunity in answering inquiries about the proposed government control in Ontario to assure the people that it would not contain features to which they objected in other provinces, and yet he knew the legislation had not been framed, and that he could speak as only one man in the cabinet. These statements of the premier were used extensively in the Moderation League advertising to attempt to persuade the people that something definite and real was known of the proposed measure.

The truth is that Premier Ferguson was poorly advised when he first set his hand to the work of tampering with the Ontario Temperance Act. He cannot claim that he was not thoroughly warned from many sources to leave it alone. In the aggregate there were hundreds, if not thousands of resolutions forwarded to him stating that the people were satisfied with the O. T. A., and wanted it left alone. These resolutions he set aside and listened to the advice of others whose identity he has never disclosed. The premier is entitled to credit for his prompt statement that the O. T. A. will remain, and that the people must live with the conditions they themselves created. The same thing applies to Mr. Ferguson. If his policy of presenting an opportunity to smash the O. T. A. has created a political problem, he will have to live with the situation which he created.

The Free Press Breaks Its Silence.

The London Free Press on Saturday, October 25, became editorially aware that there had been a plebiscite in Ontario.

It breaks its long silence to say that it's too bad that Toronto can't have what it voted for, and to remark that "a lot of hard things were said during the campaign."

Now that's too bad, that men on both sides who were not afraid to come out and say where they stood have said some hard things. But the Free Press can say, with positively no fear of contradiction, that its editorial columns never uttered any of those hard words, nor did it utter any soft words, long words, short words, bright words or dull words.

The St. Thomas Times-Journal, summarizing press views uttered on Friday as to the outcome, stated the case very well when it said:

"The London Free Press expresses the same view as it has throughout the whole campaign—nothing."

Note and Comment.

We'll have to revise that talk about a white-collar job, seeing that so many men are now wearing 'em colored.

A new plot has been discovered in Germany for a monarchy. Despatch does not say in which cemetery it is located.

Perhaps the politicians have already made the discovery that there's a great big wallop in the rural vote of Ontario.

London's vote showed this city to be a little damp, not wet, and yet not dry. A pair of rubbers, but not an umbrella and a slicker.

In Hamilton employees of the tax department got cash by the simple method of placing an I.O.U. Imagine the indignation of these same people if taxpayers tried to pay on the same basis.

Before and After

I always note in readin' of the men who get locked up in jail, a-seekin' after someone who'll put up ten thousand for their bail, as how these men when trouble comes and empties on 'em peck by peck, and when the hand of justice goes and grabs them firmly by the neck, it ain't till then they start to talk the things what lie inside their dome, and wonder what they's goin' to do about the folk's what's left at home.

I've seen this thing year after year, some jay he goes and cracks a door, and sneakin' in he robs the place while honest folks they sleep and snore.

He goes a-sneakin' out again, he puts the swag beneath a tree, a-reckonin' that no other man is half as smart and cute as he.

Another crook he gets an axe, a crowbar and a jimmy too, and plunders up the village store like honest folks would never do; he doesn't tell the folks at home as how he's bustin' through the law, and how a cop should come along and use a billy on his jaw.

Some other folks they get a car, and in their pockets pistols clank, they stop their bus and sneak about a-holdin' up the village bank, where humble folks with horny hands, who play the game and do it fair, have trudged their path into its doors and parked their hard-earned ducats there.

These shootin' men they never earned no dollar for the work they done, they grew no pains upon their back, no blisters ris upon their thumb.

Yet when the cops get on the job and put their eyes upon the ground, and when they snoop around a spell until the guilty guy is found; it's when they've run these crooks a race they start to whine a spell and groan, they don't know what they're goin' to do about the folk's what's left to home.

'Tis only when the copper comes and places them inside the coop, and when they dine on humble fare and sup the spineless jail-house soup, they start to think what fools they be, they start to crumple in the spine, the tongue they used for plottin' with, they use it now to croak and whine.

'Praps it's cruel to say such things of chaps who prowl about at night, maybe we should be pointin' out the things men do what's good and right, yet all the same it seems at times as them what use a gun and dirk should think about the folk's to home before they start their dirty work.—ARK.

THE CROSS-WORD PUZZLER.

No longer parties rough and wet
 Can lure him forth to guzzle;
 He stays at home each night to get
 His crazy cross-word puzzle.
 He growls and grumbles, frets and fumes,
 On meals he's lost all tab,
 For he's become a craven, cringing, cross-word puzzle crab.

No dynamite or brutal force
 Can oust him from his attic,
 His wife is getting a divorce,
 He swears like some fanatic;
 Wild-eyed and foaming at the mouth,
 You'd think he'd need a muzzle
 If you could hear his "cross" words while he does his cross-word puzzle.

If asked the puzzle to define
 "A mental test," he'll style 'em;
 Last night they took him to confine
 Him in the town asylum.
 And now he raves in section D
 In nice, congenial ranks
 For they put him with ten other craven, cross-word puzzle cranks.

A New York scientist says it is pride that makes poor young men give their girls expensive engagement rings. But our guess is that it's the girls.

When a man's wife makes him refrain from cards, smoking, and the club, his life is one grand, sweet refrain.

The cause of most domestic battles is because a wife's yearning capacity is usually so much greater than her husband's earning capacity.

Another paradox is that when you wear your trousers out you cannot wear them out.

A go-getter is one who will get it anywhere—including the neck.

A lot of nice women dress as if they weren't which recalls the old maxim that all that glitters is not gold.

The Best Amusement.

The best form of amusement is not found by going forward in complexity and invention, but by going backward to simplicity.

The nearer a thing comes to being primitive, and the farther an act reaches back into antiquity, the more diverting it is apt to be.

People like baseball because, many thousand years ago their ancestors ran from their enemies, or swatted them with branches broken from trees, or threw stones at them. This running, striking and throwing is what constitutes the game of baseball and these three acts reach back to such a time when the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

May Peterson, former Metropolitan opera singer, was married last June to a wealthy Texas colonel, who was also a member of the American legion. At the recent convention held in St. Paul, May headed the Texas delegation as she rode upon an old gray mare.

She declared that it was her intention to ride to Texas on the best.

"The pioneer brides of Texas took their honeymoons in prairie schooners," she said. "I will go them one better. I never rode before, but I am game."

We predict that the charming May will find more fun in this trip than she has ever found in Broadway cafes or Paris entertainments.

She will be going back to nature and will uncover a thousand little pleasures in doing so that the members of the high life of society have forgotten. Many a bored member of the smart set would be rejuvenated if he could mount an old gray mare and ride out of his environment back to nature.

We cannot run away from the human race or escape our instincts. We cannot be wholly artificial even if we want to. Nature draws us back.

And in the arms of nature are usually found more kinds of genuine pleasure than are found anywhere else.

If there is any room on the back of Miss Peterson's old gray mare we would like to apply for the place.

Just Another Gold Brick.

SEIZED WHISKEY WORTH $100,000

Windsor Inspector Captures Boozie at La Salle—Found in Freight Cars.

Canadian Press Despatch.
 Windsor, Oct. 25.—Whiskey and beer, valued at $100,000 bootleggers' prices, was seized at LaSalle this morning, following a raid instituted by M. N. Mousseau, chief license inspector for the county of Essex. This was carried out, he says, as the result of information which indicated that liquor and beer for export were being sold in the border cities and outlying districts.

Thursday Inspector Mousseau captured $15,000 worth of liquor at La Salle and Ford.

The huge shipments taken today were located in freight cars and export sheds. One of the docks is operated under the name of John Major, according to the inspector, and the other dock is known as Benoit's. From these sheds and from the box cars 1,400 cases of assorted brands of choice whiskies and 1,400 cases of Canadian beer were taken.

WARNS OCCIDENT OF RACIAL DANGER

Presbyterians Urged Oriental Christianity Essential To Success.

To prevent Christendom from becoming involved in a struggle which will result in their mutual destruction the Occidental powers must do two things, declared Rev. Alfred W. Gandier, D.D., LL.D., principal Knox college, Toronto, and last year moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian church of Canada, in a powerful sermon in First Presbyterian church last night on the occasion of the 32nd anniversary of that congregation. They must set an example of the beneficent use of knowledge and power, and they must set themselves with all serious celerity to the task of Christianizing the countries of Africa and the Orient.

Dr. Gandier made the above statements in the midst of a discussion of the crisis which today faces not only the church but the whole world, and a discussion in which he reviewed honestly the entire situation, touching upon its responsibilities as well as its dangers.

Respect in Christianity.
Enlarging upon the fact that there had been aroused in the yellow and black races a respect for themselves through the Christian teaching of the missionaries, he stated that those races had become imbued with the idea that the superiority of the white races over them was due solely to learning and science, and that in such an idea they were not far wrong.

Having become seized of the desire for Occidental learning, Japan gathered up the best system of German militarism, the British naval system and the American school system and transplanted it into the life of its people. The results of that effort was astounding, and almost overnight Japan became a power in the world. It took only the great war to completely shatter in the minds of the people of the Orient belief in the moral superiority of the whites and more than ever there has been kindled in the colored races an intensified desire to assert themselves and their power as a race opposed to the whites.

"What would be the issue," asked Dr. Gandier, "if the colored races rose in their new-found might to smite the white man?"
"Though now it is a misnomer, 'Christian Europe,' must become Christian in fact as well as name. There must be fair treatment of China and Japan; there must be sympathetic treatment of the movement in India for self-government and the people of Africa must be freed from all the bonds of slavery and encouraged to develop their country and their civilization.

World-Wide Evangelism.
"The Occident countries must Christianize the Orient, for they dare not allow the colored races to gain a knowledge of western science and learning apart from the spirit of Jesus Christ. They are getting the one. Are they going to get the other?"

GOLD MEDALLIST.

Grace Christie, aged 12 of Leamington, who made the highest marks at the recent entrance examination in South Essex. The medal was presented at graduation exercises on Friday night last in Leamington.

The only way to make Christian nations is to make Christians of the individuals. The great call of today is for world-wide evangelism, that and that alone.

"Christ is the Living One who still works in the hearts of men. He can meet the many-sided needs of the races of the world if we only make Him known to the world. Our Jesus, and He alone, is able to do the impossible thing which has to be done. 'It is my opinion,' concluded Dr. Gandier, 'that nothing would so tend to improve the state of international affairs today as the doubling or trebling of our missionary forces. For through the missionaries the colored races can be brought into the fullness of their intellect and thus make their ultimate contribution to the well-being of the human race.'

Farmer Brown's Boy Saves Bobby Coon From Browser the Hound

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Rabbit was so excited that he actually shook all over. It wasn't fright that made him shake. It was excitement and nothing else. Peter wasn't afraid, in the first place he knew that no one knew that he was hiding in that hollow log, so if no one knew he was there there was nothing to be afraid of. The cause of Peter's excitement was the fact that Bowser the Hound was barking as if he were trying to bark his head off, and at the same time trying to dig his way under the big pile of brush where someone had frightened Peter by growling at him. Peter felt sure now that he would find out who it was under that pile of brush. Farmer Brown's Boy was coming, and Peter was quite sure that he would pull over that pile of brush to find out who it was who was exciting Bowser so.

So Peter poked his head out of the end of the hollow log to watch, and while he watched he shook with excitement. He wouldn't have missed this for a great deal. He saw Farmer Brown's Boy come up to where Bowser was barking and trying to dig his way under the brush. "Bowser, if you keep on barking like this you'll lose your voice! Yes, sir, you'll lose your voice. Now suppose you get out of my way and let me look under there and see who it is you are so excited about," said Farmer Brown's Boy, as he pushed Bowser out of the way.

He got down on his hands and knees and peered under the brush. Of course it was dark in under there and he could see nothing but a pair of eyes. Whose eyes they were he hadn't the least idea. "There is someone in there, sure enough," said he to Bowser. "Now, I wonder who it can be? It certainly isn't Reddy Fox. It may be Yowler the Bob Cat, but I doubt it. If I thought it was Yowler we would go away and leave him alone. Ha! There is a black and white little in can. It is Bobby Coon in there. We'll pull away this brush, Bowser, and find out."

So Farmer Brown's Boy began pulling away the brush. Of course, Bobby Coon heard him and knew what he was doing. Bobby was in despair. He didn't know it was Farmer Brown's Boy who was pulling away that brush. He thought it was a hunter. He knew that if this were so he hadn't a chance in the world for his life. There he was with a little tin can, which he thought was a trap, fast on one paw and no chance to run or climb, and very little chance to fight.

Farmer Brown's Boy pulled away the brush, more and more light came into where Bobby waited for the end. Bowser kept barking more and more excitedly. He kept getting in the way of Farmer Brown's Boy. At last his master made him lie down at the foot of a tree a short distance away. Bowser obeyed. But all the time he kept whining and whimpering with excitement. Farmer Brown's Boy expected to see Bobby Coon run out and make for a tree. He didn't know what he was making it when...

At last the brush was pulled away so that the light fell fully on Bobby. He crouched there, glaring.

so that the light fell fully on Bobby. He crouched there, glaring at Farmer Brown's Boy and ready to fight as best he could. Bobby Coon is no coward. Then Farmer Brown's Boy saw the little can fast to Bobby's paw, and instantly he understood. "You poor little chap!" said he softly. "So this is the reason you didn't run! I guess it is a lucky thing that Bowser and I came along this way this morning. You poor little chap!" (Copyright, 1924, by T. W. Burgess.)

FAITH IN OLD BIBLE IS BAPTIST IDEAL

Impressive Convention Services Held in Talbot Street Church.

Eloquent appeals for faith in the old Bible and for faith in prayer were made yesterday by Rev. G. R. Mac-Faul of Ottawa and Rev. Gabriel McGuire of Montreal, respectively, at convention Sunday in the Talbot street Baptist church.

Rev. G. R. MacFaul, one of the Baptist Grande Ligne missionaries, stationed in Ottawa, speaking at the morning service on "Authority in Matters of Faith," demanded absolute faith in the Bible and the practice of the teachings of Christ in daily life as the sole inspiration required for the Christian conduct of life.

He quoted Dr. Campbell Morgan, the Welsh divine, "The Christian is the world's Bible, and a revised edition is necessary," as containing the substance of his recommendations in practicing the faith of the church and in increasing her influence in the world.

Bible Authority. "We turn to the Bible as our authority," he said. "I am not going to argue whether it is the Word of God or not. It is done after enough. The authority of the Bible rests in the truth inherent in it. In Scripture we have the question, 'What must I do to be saved?' and the answer, 'Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved.' That is the whole authority.

"It is commonly said today that all we need is Christ in the heart and not a story of his life. But I tell you that there can be no Christ in the heart without the Christ of history." Mr. McGuire at night, recounting the fall of Jericho, declared that by the same power of prayer the accomplishment of all worthy human desires could be accomplished. Faith in the ability of prayer to bring the gift asked from God, was, he said, one of the fundamentals of Christianity today.

Strength In Faith. "Faith does four things," he stated, just as it did in the days when the walls of Jericho fell before the prayers of the children of Israel. It confesses its utter inability alone to achieve the end desired. It falls on its knees and prays. It believes implicitly in God's word, and it proceeds at once to the task in hand.

"St. Paul says, 'I can do all things through Christ, and David with his five pebbles went with faith against the Philistine giant. There is no substitute for the power of the Holy Ghost. Can any lawyer, professor or doctor of divinity give me a definition of prayer? We should not ask in a minister what are his degrees, or what of his eloquence, but can he pray and has he the ear of God.

"Today we have become filled with the vanity of the ego. From the beautiful Lord's Prayer, and its 'Our Father' we have received a habit of prayer in which we say 'When I Lay Me Down to Sleep, and 'Save My Soul.' We are in the same position as the Pharisee in the temple, and as it is well we should remember that it was the publican who went to his home justified rather than the supercilious Pharisee."

A NATIONAL ASSET. As the greatest transportation company in the world, the Canadian Pacific Railway has maintained a national service in the Trans-Canada Limited which is second to none and on the conclusion of the summer schedule of this crack train has transferred the equipment to the Vancouver Express.

Special to The Advertiser. Leamington, Oct. 26.—Raymond Hammond lies at his home here in a serious condition as the result of a motor accident near South Woodside on Saturday night. He has three broken ribs and it is feared is injured internally. With three companions he was motoring home about 11 o'clock Saturday night and failed to make a turn in the road. The car went into the ditch and he was pinned under the wheel. His companions escaped with a shaking up.

Special to The Advertiser. Kingsville, Oct. 26.—Unknown persons burned a fiery cross on Saturday night about 10:30 in the intersection of Mill street and Davison street, close to the Methodist church and only a couple of blocks from the main business corners of the town. So far as can be learned the men were not in K. K. K. dress or masked in any way. They escaped in two automobiles before their identity could be learned.

Special to The Advertiser. Stratford, Oct. 26.—A three-year-old boy named Roy Stock, who was surmounted by a letter K. It was all made of wood and covered with cloth, which evidently was soaked in gasoline or kerosene. No attempt was made to extinguish the blaze, and the ruins now lie on the Methodist church lawn.

Some people believe that the incident might be taken as a warning to those who are trafficking in liquor and reference is made to the fact that a cross was recently burned

New Fire Truck
Hit Twice In Day
Special to The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Oct. 26.—The St.
Thomas fire department had a most unlucky day Saturday, when the apparatus persisted in getting tangled together. The first misfortune took place when the department was responding to a call on Kains street. As the driver was negotiating the turn at Talbot street, he failed to turn wide enough with the result that the rear of the new hook and ladder truck swung around and struck a power pole, breaking one of the ladders and ripping off the fittings.
Three hours later, while the scene of a fire on Jesse street, the new truck was backed into the nose truck, breaking a 50-foot extension ladder and damaging the hood and radiator of the hose truck.

DE FEO COMPANY
ARTISTIC TREAT
"Cavalleria Rusticana" and
"II Trovatore" Heartily Applauded at Grand.
The comparatively small audience which heard the De Feo Grand Opera Company at the Grand theatre Saturday night was not only appreciative, it was enthusiastic.
The interpretation of two of Giuseppe Verdi's best known and most-popular grand opera compositions,
"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "II Trovatore," by the De Feo Company was such as to merit even more hearty approval from a much larger audience.

Love the Theme.
"Cavalleria Rusticana" and "II Trovatore" are two peculiarly similar yet dissimilar operas. The central theme of both is love, yet not the same kind of love. In the one love is taken advantage of and trampled upon, in the other its passion and fire lead to complications only because two noble men love the same beautiful woman. The story of the one is essentially a story of the peasant. The other is a story of the nobility.
Two more moving and contrasting operas by the same composer could hardly have been chosen for production on the same program. The De Feo company lost not a single opportunity in bringing out that contrast.

Miss Matilda Flint entirely captivated the audience in her difficult role as the Duchess Leonora. Miss Flint possesses a rich and colorful soprano voice, and she has it under perfect control at all times.
Miss Hortense Jones as Azucena, the gypsy, sang her part well throughout, especially in the camp fire scene at the beginning of the second act.
Her role as the avenger of her mother, who had been wronged and burnt at the stake, was most artistically portrayed, both as to voice and emotional acting.
Mario Rogati took the part of Man-rico in a very satisfactory manner.
His best and most passionate individual work was in the scene with his reputed mother, Azucena, where his powerful and true tenor voice was heard to advantage.
"Cavalleria Rusticana" was featured by excellent singing and sympathetic acting upon the part of Miss Grace White as Santuzza; Philip Culcasi as Turridu and L. Puliti as Alfo.

CHIEF JUSTICE R. M. MEREDITH, last of the four chief justices under Ontario's old judicature system and gray-haired veteran of the bench, who, as calmly and quietly as if he were addressing a group of young law students, Friday afternoon sentenced Aemilius Jarvis, Sen., millionaire broker and banker, and Peter Smith, former provincial treasurer, to six months and three years imprisonment, respectively, and fined each of them $600,000.

Rev. W. A. Cameron, Toronto, Delivers Brilliant Address
in First Methodist.
That there can be no end to the spiritual heights to which a man can ascend who says and believes "The Lord is My Father" was the keynote of a brilliant sermon given in First Methodist church Sunday morning by Rev. W. A. Cameron of Bloor street Baptist church, Toronto, one of the delegates attending the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec in session in London at the present time. Rev. Mr. Cameron is one of the outstanding Baptist preachers in Canada, and his presence in a local Methodist pulpit attracted a large congregation to which he was introduced by the pastor of the church, and a close personal friend, Rev. J.
Bruce Hunter.

There can be no end to the spiritual heights to which a man can ascend who truly believes that the Lord is his own shepherd.
"Look To Past."
To know what God is like, it is only necessary to look to the past.
Greek civilization did not produce the best results because it appealed mostly to the intellect. Roman civilization appealed to the social and it failed. The British empire does not count itself more secure than did Rome at one time in history, and it too will fall if it does not keep its inner life in harmony with well-ordered Christian principles. To Matthew Arnold is ascribed the phrase, "There is a power which makes for righteousness," and this was the inspiration to Lloyd George's patriotic song: "make us mightier yet," and said material prosperity can never be the chief glory of a nation.
When the church is engaged in matterialities and an inanimate religion and when helplessness goes unplied then will our civilization be ruined.
Long for God's Vision.
At this time we are longing for a vision to God which will do two things, satisfy the mind and satisfy the heart, because there seems to be a chasm between the God of the head and the God of the heart. One writer has said that by faith he was a Christian and by reason a heathen.
It is necessary for man to say that he is a Christian both by faith and by reason, and to this end the work of evangelization of the intellect must go on, and every branch of science learned for God is always honored in every forward movement that uncovers Him. In this task sacred scholarship and evangelical zeal should go hand in hand.
In conclusion, Mr. Cameron said that the character of Jesus is the character of God, and the cross of Jesus is the cross of God. To know
God, it is first essential to know Jesus.

Rev. Mr. Cameron returned to Toronto shortly after the service to take charge of the evening service of his own people. The congregation of Bloor street Baptist church has overtaxed the capacity of the church, and the evening services are held in a large theatre building, and were largely to Mr. Cameron's popularity and renown in Toronto as a preacher.
