THE NORMAL ENTRANCE

Athens High School Makes a Great Record.

The Toronto morning papers of Friday last contained the results of the Entrance to Normal examinations, and the announcement brought joy and regre's to many homes. Here there was unusual jubilation as the number of passes was abnormally high. Out of 29 students writing 23 were successful—all that the staff calculated lated would get through—and 11 of these obtained honors. In the whole of Leeds and Grenville, including Gananoque, Athens, Brockville, Kemptville and Prescott, the total passes was 68 with 26 honors. It will therefore be seen that the percentage of passes obtained by Athens High School was very high, and we have pleasure in congratulating Principal Sexton and his staff of able assistants on the result.

Following is the list of passes and honors obtained by students of this school:—

DEATH AT TOLEDO

A sad death occurred at Toledo on Sunday morning last. Lester Palmer of Smith's Falls, with his wife and little baby, was driving to Athens for a visit at the home of Mr and Mrs Nelson Earl and stopped at the Toledo hotel to water the horse. To give the horse greater freedom, he removed the head-stall and as he did so something struck or startled the horse and it sprang forward. Lester jumped to grab its head but missed it and was caught in the seat of the swiftly moving buggy. When by-standers picked him up he was unconscious and when medical aid arrived it was found that his skull had been fractured. He lived only a few hours. By using the telephone, the horse was caught after running a couple of miles and the occupants of the carriage were uninjured. Deceased was a son of John Palmer, formerly of Athens, and nephew of Mrs N. Earl and Mrs Clayton Wiltsie.

MANCHESTER—NIBLOCK

A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of Mrs M A Niblock at Athens, on Wednesday evening last when her daughter, Miss Margaret E. was united in marriage to Mr Henry Elward Manchester of Leamington, Ont.

The house decorations were very pretty and harmonious. Festoons of pink and white adorned the parlor while in the dining room the prevailing color was pink. Everywhere there was an abundance of midsummer bloom, the whole presenting a very festive appearance.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev W H Montgomery, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, in the presence of about fifty guests. The wedding march was played by Mrs T L Kelly as the bridal party entered the room and as they took their places, Miss Nellie Kelly sang very sweetly "The Voice that Breathed o'er Eden."

The bride presented a charming appearance attired in cream silk mull trimmed with satin ribbon and seed pearls with chiton yoke and overlace. The bridesmaid, Miss Lila Lyons of Almonte, was attired in pink mull and both carried bouquets of cream roses. The groom was supported by Dr J. Kelly of Delta, cousin of the bride. Following the ceremony the happy couple received the congratulations of their friends and then all partook of the rich and varied repast provided. A toast to the bride was duly proposed and honored.

The bride was the recipient of many valuable tokens of esteem. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and chain, to the bridesmaid a gold hat pin, to the groom a gold pin, and to Miss Nellie Kelly a gold ring.

Though invaded since her recent accident, Mrs Niblock was able to receive her guests and to enjoy the festivities of the evening. However, her health was such that the bride and groom delayed their departure until Monday when they left by boat for Charlotte and will visit Rochester, Brockport, Buffalo and Niagara Falls before settling in their home at Leamington.

The bride's travelling cortume was of Alice blue serge with hat to match. The Reporter joins with their many friends in extending congratulations.

OPENING MEETING

The first public meeting in the election campaign in this riding was held here on Tuesday evening.

The Liberal candidate, the Hon. Geo P. Graham, Minister of Railways and Canals, arrived from Brockville shortly after 8 o'clock, accompanied by Hon. Chas. Murphy, Secretary of State, Mr McLaren, president of the Brockville Liberal Association, and other friends. The 41st and Lyn bands accompanied the party.

When Mr I. C. Alguire, chairman, opened the meeting, the large hall was packed to the doors and many were unable to gain admittance.

Mr McLaren was the first speaker and he briefly outlined the issue between the two parties, claiming that while reciprocity would primarily benefit the agricultural class, the manufacturers would share to the full in their prosperity.

Hon Geo P. Graham, on rising, was accorded a magnificent reception, the large audience cheering and applauding most heartily. Mr Graham, after expressing the pleasure he felt at meeting so many old friends, presented the subject of reciprocity from a strictly business point of view. He reviewed briefly the history of reciprocity, showing that it was in perfect accord with the policy of the late Sir John McDonald and Sir John Thompson and in harmony with the views until recently held by all present day Conservative leaders. The feeling among the public men of this country, he said, had been practically unanimous in favor of reciprocity until for party purposes various cries had been raised against it. Reciprocity was simply a business proposal designed to benefit both parties to the agreement, and he quoted figures to show that the pact would prove highly advantageous to the Canadian farmer.

The Secretary of State spoke briefly in closing, paying a high tribute to the worth and ability of Hon. Geo P. Graham and prophesying his triumphant return on Sept. 21st.

Cheers for the King, Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal candidate closed this highly successful meeting.

TRIED TWO DOCTORS WITH NO BENEFIT

Then Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Wrought a Lasting Cure.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made so many remarkable cures in serious cases that people are liable to overlook their value as a tonic for the blood and nerves in debility and general run-down conditions. That such conditions are the cause of much misery and unhappiness is fully known to those who suffer from them and the need of curing them is as vital as relief from disease with higher sounding names. We commend the following statement to any one suffering from weak, thin blood, or shattered nerves. Mrs. Mae Macabe, (Gleichen, Alta., says: "A few years ago I became run down, not seriously ill, but just tired and weak all the time. I consulted our family doctor, who gave me tonics after tonics, with no effect. I gradually got weaker and weaker until I could not do my work. Then I went to another doctor, who pronounced my case one of decline, and recommended a warmer climate, with complete rest. This I could not afford, and I began to worry and fret until I became a complete nervous wreck. One day, while visiting a neighbor, an old gentleman who was taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for partial paralysis recommended them to me. I sent out and got three boxes, but without much faith that they would help me, but before they were gone I noticed an improvement, and I continued taking the Pills, constantly growing stronger, until I had taken seven or eight boxes, when I was completely cured. I could do my work as easily as ever I had done in my life, and the doctor told me that he could scarcely believe the change in me, as he had not had the least hope that I would be strong again. Now I always keep the Pills on hand, and if I feel fatigued or weary take them for three or four days, so as not to get run down."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50. From The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEST ENGLISH.

The first essential toward the accurate use of English is to know the real meaning of words, and then to choose the right one to express the idea. What is expressed in English-speaking people should be in the English tongue, with no foreign phrases introduced. It is always better to use the familiar names of familiar things and ideas, to use simple Anglo-Saxon words than to live speaking, and are more readily understood, than the longer words of foreign origin. A short word saves time for both writer and reader, and our ordinary speech should not be burdened with the high-sounding words necessary for the treatment of most subjects remote from ordinary events and simple feelings. Let us, therefore, "read" the morning paper, and let the pedant "peruse" it. Let us "see" the beauties of the sea, and sky, and not "discern" or "witness" a sunset. Let us "build" a house, and make of it a "home," allowing a crown prince to "erect" a "residence," and let us "oversee" our household, not "supervise" it. Why should we drop so hearty a word as "kissman," adopting the vague and misty substitutes of "relation" and "connection" forced upon us by elegant people? Nothing is gained and much is lost, for the latter are both general terms. Men have relations of various kinds, and connections are of still wider distribution, whereas a man's kinsmen are only those of his own blood. —New York Times.

PREVENTS ACCIDENTS.

A device which prevents a railway carriage from being started when a passenger is mounting or dismounting is being tested on the line of the Portland railway, Light and Power Company, Portland, England. It consists of a hinged step which is depressed about one-half inch when a weight of from five to ten pounds is placed upon it. This breaks an electric circuit connected with the contactor, so that the contactor fails to close. The device is arranged, however, so that the motorman is able to reverse the carriage, regardless of the condition of the step.

IKU'S DEPARTURE.

The departure of the arch-hermit Iku from Pekin to exile is described as rivaling in splendor that of the most distinguished envoy to foreign parts. All the unemployed great ones of Pekin "saw him off": he took four cooks and twenty servants with him, and left behind with each servant's family a solution of fifty ounces, moreover, each servant had to "sign on" and secure "bail" for good behavior. "It pays to be a traitor." —From the Westminster Gazette.

CAUGHT BY THE RECOIL.

"Alas! this suffragette movement is causing the ladies to be turned," remarked Mr. Merton. "In what way?" "My wife is making all kinds of energetic objections to the price I paid for my new dress." —Washington Star.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS. THE GREAT REMEDY FOR ALL KINDS OF URINARY AFFECTIONS. PREPARED BY DR. J. C. DODD, 23 THE PRINCE OF WALES HOTEL, LONDON, W. 1.

Girl Penetrates Africa to Place a Stone on Her Lover's Grave

After traveling for months through African country never before traversed by white woman, Miss MacLeod has lately returned to England from the perilous region where a year ago her affianced husband, Capt. Boyd Alexander, was killed by savages, and where, five years before, he had buried his brother, Capt. Claud Alexander. Miss MacLeod made this dangerous and adventurous trip that she might place a stone on the unmarked grave, where the young explorer was laid after his body was recovered from the scene of his death. In her journey she covered 2,700 miles, mostly on foot and horseback. Sometimes she waded knee-deep through jungle swamps for hours. She discovered the mysterious falls of the Mao Kabi, and the French, in admiration of her energy and daring, named them after her. When she and her two companions, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Talbot, arrived at Lere, they learned that no Europeans had yet succeeded in finding these mysterious falls, which are mentioned in Comandant Lemaire's book "La Grande Route du Chad," and are asserted by the natives to be devil-haunted and guarded by troops of gnomes—the devils, to keep the natives away; the gnomes, to lure Europeans away and entice them from the spot.

They found M. Beraut, the resident of the district, was desirous of discovering the falls, and they departed from the mapped out route of their trip long enough to discover them, in the face of obstacles placed in their way by the natives. The latter declared that the falls had been seen for the first time by the eyes of M. Beraut named the falls Les Chutes MacLeod, and there is no doubt that the French Government will approve his order. The falls are notable in that they are the chief obstacle to a navigable waterway between the ocean and Lake Chad.

The daring young Scotchwoman is the daughter of Sir Reginald MacLeod, late permanent undersecretary for Scotland. Her father, Alexander, was a British army officer, who, though not much past thirty, had won an enviable name as an explorer. The Royal Geographical Society of Antwerp gave him a gold medal, the Royal Scottish Geographical Society made him an honorary fellow, and he was a gold medalist of the Royal Geographical Society of London. Before he had become a captain, he had led a scientific expedition to the Nile, and after that he spent a year in the African jungle, and explored the Zambesi River for its entire length. As a soldier he participated in the relief of Comassee. An exploring expedition to Perandoro, which he headed, was succeeded by a three years' exploration of Africa from the mouth of the Nile to the Niger. A SHORT LIFE BUT A MERRY ONE. His colleagues in the leadership of the expedition were Mr. Talbot, the same who accompanied Miss MacLeod last year to the Lake Chad region to find and mark Alexander's grave, and Capt. Claud Alexander, Boyd's brother, and his wife, a daughter and celebrated explorer. The hardships endured on the trip were such that Claud Alexander felt it his duty to bury his brother in the same grave as his own. Claude Alexander died November 12th, 1904, and his last words to Boyd Alexander were: "A short life, but a merry one." The spirit in which these brothers took their perilous labors in the wilds, and the devotion to duty which they showed, are a fine example to all who follow. Boyd of the Little Brigade. Around Claude's grave Boyd set a wall of native spears, and set around the top. It was three years after he had buried his brother that Boyd and Alexander reached civilization again. The survivor escaped with his life, but his legs, recuperation in England was necessary. It was while he was resting from his labors and adventures that he met Miss MacLeod. After a short courtship they became affianced. In 1906 the captain left for Africa again, with the understanding that upon his return they were to be married. He penetrated into the dangerous and hostile country to the northwest of Lake Chad. That famous lake is on the northwest coast of Africa, a thousand miles from the mouth of the Niger. PUTS STONE ON HIS GRAVE. The last post of white men in the Lake Chad is Malfont. It was just a little over a year ago that Capt. Alexander, under the name of Boyd, was sent to the region of the savages. A month later two of his black servants, the only survivors of the expedition, succeeded in getting back to the post and told of the battle in the jungle, in which Captain Alexander had put up a desperate resistance against the Wadal, a savage tribe inhabiting the country. An expedition was promptly sent out from Malfont and succeeded in recovering the body.

When word of this was carried to Malfont, Miss MacLeod demonstrated that she was a fit bride for such a man. She at once announced that she would go herself to the Lake Chad region and place with her own hands a stone on the captain's grave. Despite all efforts to dissuade her, she, with Mr. and Mrs. Talbot, set out on the journey. She was received with honor everywhere, a military funeral was given Captain Alexander, and Miss MacLeod placed on his grave the stone he had carried so many thousand miles. At one point she crossed the Keffir-Keffir country, where are the remarkable fortress hills inhabited by a race, which, in its own words, "lives for fear" as the coming of the whites.

The flies that are now in your kitchen and dining room were probably feasting on some indescribable nastiness less than an hour ago, and as a single fly often carries many thousands of disease germs attached to its hairy body, it is the duty of every housekeeper to assist in exterminating this worst enemy of the human race. Wilson's Fly Pads kill flies in such immense quantities as cannot be approached by any other fly killer.

DISTANCE TOLD BY WIRELESS.

Making use of the difference in the traveling time of a wireless message and an audible signal, a system has been recently devised whereby it is possible to secure, with reasonable accuracy, the distance of the source of the signal. It is well known that sound ordinarily travels at the rate of 1,123 feet per second, while the wireless wave travels at the rate of 186,000 per second. In the sounds would be so short as to be indistinguishable, but a chart with another piece of apparatus has been devised by which the distance of the source of the sounds can be arrived at with a fair degree of accuracy, and the method will be especially valuable in aiding the master of a vessel to arrive approximately at his position in a fog.

DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS CURED

"I think it should be the duty of the schools to teach children how to keep well," writes Miss Nannie E. Naydon, a well-known and highly esteemed resident of Bristol. "Ignorance of the laws of health and the use of improper remedies destroyed my vigor and led me to the verge of invalidism. I was as a girl ruddy and strong. Nothing seemed to affect me until I was about thirty. Then gas began to form in the stomach. I suffered with bloating and a general failure in strength set in. If I went upstairs my breath hurt. My system was very irregular and until I grew pretty bad I didn't pay much heed to my condition. Then I got blue, worried all the time, wakened in the night and couldn't get to sleep again. None of the medicine I took helped me. One day I was reading of a very interesting case like mine cured by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I took the same treatment. It was just right—didn't physic me to death, but took hold of the weak, sick parts of my system and set things right. It seems as if Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made me young again and all my color, spirit and vigor are returned to me. Every girl and woman should use Dr. Hamilton's Pills regularly. They help a woman in many ways. Beware of the dealer who asks you to take an inferior pill on which his profit is larger than on Dr. Hamilton's. Sold in yellow boxes, 25c per box, all dealers, or The Catarrhzone Co., Kingston, Ont.

TO MAKE SURE.

That jars are sealed airtight, wipe dry around the rubber and lid before putting them away and stand them upside down on white paper for twenty minutes; if the liquid comes out they are not airtight, so either take putty and seal all around the rubber and the lid or tie three folds of cotton batting over the top of the jar. That the damp in your cellar will not spoil your preserves and canned goods that you have so carefully put up, wrap each jar in coarse brown paper, or put them in a box lined with cotton batting and with a lid. That catsup, chili sauce and other sauces and meat will not ferment, stir one teaspoonful of salicylic acid in them after they are made. That water in wells, cisterns and springs will not purify, drop fragments of clean iron in them from time to time. Two ounces of permanganate of potassa thrown into a cistern will render the foulest water pure and sweet.

WATER-POWER IN NORWAY.

Nature has endowed Norway with immense stores of power which we, but little utilized, before the advent of hydro-electric plants, but which are now making of that country an important centre of various kinds of manufacture. A low estimate of the total available water-power of Norway is from 5,000,000 to 7,000,000 horse-power. The manufacture of nitrogen from the air will find a new power in 170,000 to 180,000 horse-power, and in the course of a few years it is hoped that 300,000 horse-power will be utilized for this purpose. The red cloak which the Welsh women wear at the ceremony in Carnarvon is not only ornamental but it is also "deus in tutamen" in arms, and contributed to the repelling of the last invasion of their island. The French, knowing that scarlet was the British uniform, concluded that large reinforcements had reached Fishguard and hastened to make their unconditional surrender.—From the London Chronicle.

AMALGAMATION OF FLOAT GOLD

A patent for a process of amalgamation of float gold has been taken out in France. By a kind of capillary particles of gold are not wetted in washing, and remain, in spite of their density, on the surface or in suspension, and they also resist the action of mercury. To prevent this capillarity it is sufficient to add a caustic substance to the water to keep the gold in suspension, such as ammonia, lithia, potash, and soda, or salts of these alkalis. The gold particles not wetted by pure water are reached by alkaline liquids and obey the law of gravity. The solution has also a favorable influence on the bath of mercury, keeping the surface clean.

PRODUCTION OF MERCURY.

IN THE PHILIPPINES. One of the Hottest Fights in General Funston's Career. In order that I might be able to exercise some influence on the firing line as a whole, and not get mixed up in a local fight where I could see only one or two companies, I remained about two hundred yards behind the line for the time being. Here I was joined by the well known correspondent, Mr. Jas. Creelman. I had sent Sergeant-Major Warner and Trumpeter Barshfield away to carry orders, and was glad to have company. The noise was so overwhelming that it was difficult to think, for the whole brigade was fighting as hard as it could and the woods were filled with the roar. Creelman and I sat on our horses for a while, and then unanimously dismissed the idea seeming to strike both of us at the same time. Companies E and H had struck the worst of it, being opposite the most formidable trench, and Creelman and I were directly behind them. A natural tendency of the Filipino, and for that matter, most people, to shoot high made our position one of the warmest places I have ever been in. Only once, and that at Casocorra, in far-away Oubang, had I seen bullets thicker. The two companies were right on the river bank, and as the stream was not more than forty feet wide, and the Filipino trenches were on the opposite bank, the two firing lines were not more than fifty feet apart. The river looked deep, but as yet our people had not overcome the enemy's fire sufficiently to allow the matter to be tested.

WINDSOR MARRIAGES. (Windsor Record.) Only recently a Chicago lawyer, the son of a Canadian minister, who had been married by a justice of the peace in the Windy City, paid a visit to Windsor and had the contract solemnized by a clergyman here, after which the bride declared that she felt really married. It has also been established in court that divorce applicants in Detroit have claimed to have been married in Windsor when no such ceremony took place here, and probably these same applicants had not even touched on Canadian soil. "Married in Windsor" seems to bear weight with the Detroit judiciary in severing the marriage tie. Let the State of Michigan pass more stringent regulations in regard to the granting of divorces, and complaints against marriages performed on this will disappear.

THE GIRL'S HANDICAP. (Youngtown Telegram.) In her pretty new frock Sister Mabel felt quite proud as she sat on the front step and watched some boys playing in the sidewalk. After a time one little boy came up to talk to her, and to admire, in his rough little way, her bright, shiny shoes and pink wash.

SPRING WHEAT.

Only Ninety-Five Days Between Dates of Seeding and Cutting.

Brandon, Man., Aug. 7.—Unless there is something freakish about the growth of the new unnamed variety of wheat just cut at the Experimental Farm, farmers will undoubtedly be much interested in this grain. This new variety of wheat was sown at the Experimental Farm in April and was cut on July 31, so that there are only ninety-four or ninety-five days between seeding and cutting. Last year Marquis wheat, which is a very early variety, occupied one hundred and seventeen days between seeding and cutting, and Red Fife was one hundred and twenty-three days. If the new variety, which is not yet named, lives up to the record it has this year, farmers may find it a much more suitable variety for the country than the other spring wheats.

FOUR DROWNED

Three of Them Young Lads and the Other an Old Man.

One Lad Drowned Swimming—Boat Overloaded and Sank With Other.

Montreal despatch: Four victims of drowning were taken from the water of the harbor to-day, and in three of the cases the victims were under 20 years of age.

With his boat overlaid with driftwood, which he had gathered from the harbor, to help in the support of his mother and sisters, John Archibald MacPherson, 19 years of age, lost his life when his boat swamped yesterday afternoon.

The body was recovered and taken to the morgue, where it was identified by the mother this morning. The coroner's inquest disposed of the case as one of accidental drowning.

Men on board the market boat Princess this morning saw the corpse of a boy floating in the canal at Lachine. The police were notified and the body was recovered between Cote St. Paul and Lachine and identified as that of Zeo-tique Leduc, eight years of age, who had been missing from his home at 34 St. Louis street, Lachine, since the night before last.

Victor Ethier, 18 years of age, who resided with his parents at Beauharnois street, met his death while in bathing with a couple of other little chaps, all of whom had walked out to the Back River for the purpose of learning to swim. The tragedy occurred at the south end of the bridge, known as Pont Beau, where the current is quite strong. The body has not been recovered.

Still another victim was recovered from the Wellington Basin early this morning, near the Dominion Coal Co's sheds. He was a middle-aged man, dressed in blue serge coat, trousers and black boots; $3.41 in money was found in his pockets as well as his watch.

He is awaiting identification at the morgue.

RUSSIA OBJECTS.

Will be Trouble if British Officer Goes Up Against Ex-Shah.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 7.—The Novoye Vremya, in a leading article to-day, says that Anglo-Russian relations would be disturbed by the appointment as rumored of Major C. Stokes, the British military attaché at Teheran, as head of an expedition against the deposed Shah, Mohammed Ali Mirza. Russia and Great Britain, the paper says, should not interfere in the internal affairs of Persia. If Great Britain prizes the Anglo-Russian agreement of 1907, she will not permit Stokes to resign his command in the British army for the sake of participating in combats outside the British sphere of influence, as consent to Stokes' appointment as chief financial general manager, as is planned by the "financial dictator Slusher," to operate throughout Persia, including the northern provinces, which are in the Russian sphere of influence.

Mrs. Napolitana was sentenced to hang on Wednesday next by Justice Britton at the assizes for the murder of her husband with an axe on Easter Sunday morning. Owing to the widespread interest which was manifested in her case the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment, and as soon as she is well she will be removed to Kingston penitentiary.

TO ADVISE GIRLS

Women to Take Place of Special Officers at Many Points.

Recommendations of Anglican Social and Moral Reform Committee.

Toronto despatch: A comprehensive report is to be laid before the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada, by the Committee on Social and Moral Reform. The committee pleads for sympathetic aid to fallen women. It suggests a plan for the elimination of vice in the public schools, and appeals for the abolishing of betting from the nation's social games.

The report runs: "Owing to the prevalence of procuring girls through fraud and trickery, it is recommended that the appointment be made in large centres of population of a female officer or officers, whose duty it shall be to meet unattended girls and women coming into the district, and to advise them as to proper places of abode, and also that in such places where no officer can be appointed a committee of women be formed for the purpose."

With reference to rescue work the committee have decided that "women are often led astray through worries and misfortune, but were they met by a sympathetic hand of women ready to stretch out a caring hand of sympathy they would be helped back again to a pure and upright life."

"While recognizing that this is done by clergy and laity in many parts of Canada, the turning of the cold shoulder against such unfortunate by the community at large requires that a more general interest be taken in the redemption of the fallen."

The question of juvenile immorality has received the full consideration of the committee, whose finding follows: "Attention has been called to the charge publicly made and with some positiveness and published in the newspapers that social immorality is increasingly rife among boys and girls in public schools."

"The committee thinks that the church should demand the introduction into all public schools of a complete system for the teaching of morals based upon religious principles."

"Parents are perhaps the most natural teachers of their children of purity and chastity, but parents are not always willing to accept the most capable. It should, therefore, be the duty of all teachers in our schools."

"Betting is strongly deprecated by the committee, which finds that while the gambling spirit has been to some extent stifled, it is by no means overcome. The human endeavor to gain a living otherwise than by the sweat of the brow and the extravagant desires of the people as a whole beget an energy to become rich by chance."

"This desire for costly recreations and luxuries has done much to unsteady the ordinary individual. He does not confine himself to the race track or common gambling house, but has entered social homes with professional gamblers, which but for the spirit of gambling would be harmless and helpful. The committee recommends that the fight be continued, not only against the race track, but against the spirit in general."

EDISON'S RULES.

Inventor Off on a Trip Says He Expects to Live to be 150 Years Old.

New York, Aug. 7.—When the Mauretania left the dock to-day one of its passengers was Thomas Alva Edison, who, with his son, was about to begin a vacation in Europe. Mr. Edison talked freely to the newspaper men who besieged him with numerous questions.

"Why don't you try to invent an airship?" he was asked.

"Why don't I try?" responded Mr. Edison. "I looked into it from every side. We knew then the principle of gliding just as you have them now, but we didn't have an internal combustion engine."

"To take the present trip Mr. Edison has broken the rules of his most punctual life. Some of these were discussed by him on his last birthday. He repeated them to-day.

"With my system of living I expect to live 150 years.

"My system is based on proper living, sleeping and clothing.

"I am in bed six hours, all of it good, solid sleep. It's enough.

"I don't ever intend to retire. Work has made this earth a paradise for me, and I don't believe there is any paradise up above.

"My body and I are still keeping at it for about eighteen hours a day, and I seldom get tired.

"I am better able to keep working now than when I was twenty-five.

"This earth is a cinch if you take it right.

"Agreeable work never hurt any one. I am no exception.

"I am not an individualist; I am an aggregate of cells.

"When I have any spare time I study music.

"I eat as much as I want, but that is very little—half a handful of solids at each meal."

Toronto despatch: Max Mendel, 19 Chestnut street, was pulled out of the bay yesterday by John Foster, an employee of the T. Eaton Company, who delivered goods at the Island. The boy fell in at the foot of Bay street. Foster, who was not far away, grabbed a pike-pole and used it successfully, bringing the boy out.

CANNOT GO.

Italian Government Prevents Italians From Going to Argentine.

Rome, Aug. 7.—The decree issued by the Government which forbids Italian emigration to Argentina and Uruguay and places restrictions on the exodus to Brazil has aroused laborers here and elsewhere in the country. During the past few days there have been a series of anti-Government meetings held in the Town Halls in many Italian cities.

The prohibition of emigration to Argentina is based on the sanitary restrictions of the latter country, which the Italian Government maintains, works injustice to the Italian interests. Advice from Buenos Ayres, however, state that the Argentine Government does not intend to modify its restrictions, even in the face of the stoppage of Italian immigration.

HAVE NO PRESIDENT

Haiti Without a Head and Capital Occupied by Rival Forces.

British and German Marines Landed to Help Keep Order.

Port au Prince, Aug. 7.—Haiti is without a president or organized government to-day. The capital is occupied by two rival revolutionary parties, headed respectively by General Cincinnatus Lescotte, a former Minister of the Interior, and Gen. Antenor Firmin, who deserted his post as Haitian Minister to Great Britain to join the revolt against President Simon.

A committee of public safety, composed equally of Firminists, Lescotteists and neutrals, has been organized through the initiative of the diplomatic corps and is maintaining public order.

British and German marines have been landed to aid the provisional authorities. During the night there were attempts at pillage and it was necessary to shoot several drunken looters. Energetic measures prevented any serious outbreak.

Antoine Simon, the deposed national executive, who was compelled to withdraw from the city yesterday, was still on board the American schooner Bradford French, which is anchored in the harbor under the protection of the guns of the United States cruiser Boston. Simon waits the arrival of a fruit steamer for Kingston, Jamaica.

Peller, Boston, National Advocate and head of the Committee on Laws; Dr. E. W. Buckley, St. Paul, National Police; Thomas J. McLaughlin, New York, National Warden; Rev. P. J. Griffin, New York, and William H. Gulliver, Portland, Me.

KNIGHTS FOR TEMPERANCE.

Detroit, Aug. 7.—The Knights of Columbus have vigorously reaffirmed the declarations of the order in favor of total abstinence.

In executive session an attempt was made to amend the by-laws so that wine and other liquors, which are now prohibited, may be served at banquets and in the club rooms of the organization. There was a storm of opposition and the amendment was overwhelmingly defeated.

The annual report of Supreme King Flaherty shows that on April 30 last the membership of the order aggregated 256,000, a net gain for the year of 18,012. A net gain of 83 councils for the year is reported. This includes the establishment of the first council in Porto Rico and makes the order active in Canada, Newfoundland, the United States, Cuba, the Philippines and Porto Rico.

The amount paid in death claims since the organization has been in existence is over $5,000,000, with an aggregate collected in assessments of more than $7,000,000.

MANY ORE BOATS.

Duluth, Minn., Aug. 7.—Sixty boats arrived in the harbor for the 48 hours ending at midnight last night and during the same time 48 cleared, most of them with ore.

Predictions that the fall rush would come up for the quiteness prevailing during the earlier part of the season seems to be in a fair way to be verified.

NEARLY KILLED.

Toronto despatch: Shortly after one o'clock this morning Thomas O'Leary was found under a freight car at the foot of John street, laying on the tracks, and it is possible he may have been there for some time. He was practically unconscious, and was hurried to Grace Hospital. There it was found that his right arm was so badly lacerated that amputation will be necessary. The man was intoxicated, and was apparently stealing a ride on the train. O'Leary is about 45 years of age.

ILLEGAL WHISKEY.

Porcupine, August 7.—Three hundred bottles of confiscated whiskey were destroyed this morning by the police authorities. C. Dewstro was fined $100 and costs for selling liquor without a license, and P. Fisher was fined $200 and costs for the same thing. Napoleon Groux skipped his bail for the same offence, which the authorities have collected. It was $250.

WINDOW MODEL

National Trimmers Condemn Papier Maché Displays in Stores.

Expert Drapes Young Ladies in Dresses to Show Convention.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The old-fashioned show window "dummy," with its placard appeal of "Take me home for $9.98," is to become a thing of the past. Flesh and blood models are to take its place.

Members of the National Association of Window Trimmers—the men who form the connecting link between dry-goods merchants and the casual passer-by—assembled in convention in Chicago, decreed this yesterday afternoon. More than 200 "trimmers," all of whom regard their calling as a scientific profession, voted to pass papier mache figures when the superiority of the "real thing" was demonstrated by one of their leaders.

The contract was shown on the "stage" of a school of window trimming in West Jackson boulevard. There were several women dummies with fixed smiles and hands extended in stiff greeting, gowned tastefully and expensively. Eyeing them with the typical unenthusiastic stare of their kind were a number of "gent dummies," rigged out in everything from "neat and nobby campus clothing" to full evening regalia.

Then Will Bates, an instructor at the window trimming seat of learning, began his lecture. "Before us," he said, "we have a sample of the wooden display with which we have contented ourselves in the past. If anything, the expressionless countenances and the motionless figures of the dummies frighten prospective buyers.

"Goods might just as well be displayed on racks. Remember, this is the twentieth century—well along in it, too—and people don't look on the dummy as they used to years ago. What they want is novelty, and there isn't any more of that in the dummy. Just think how much better this clothing could be displayed on the human figure and how much more striking would be the effect!"

The shade was drawn down and the audience waited.

When the curtain rolled up again the same background was discovered, but the dummies were gone. In their places stood three young women in street clothing.

Mr. Bates ascended the platform carrying several bolts of cloth. With these and a paper of pins he worked wonders. In fifteen minutes, without cutting or stitching, he had dressed the girls in costumes that, so far as appearances were concerned, might have come from Paris. The folds and tucks, the sweep of the trains, the outlining of the slender figures were as perfect as if the gowns had taken days to put together.

KILLED BY CAR.

Run Over by Street Car in Toronto and Instantly Killed.

Toronto despatch: William Smith, 60 years of age, a night watchman for the Toronto Railway Co., on East Queen street, where the tracks are being greased, was struck and instantly killed at 8:50 last night by a westbound King street car. The front wheels passed over his shoulders, almost severing the head from the body, and his left arm was torn from his socket.

As the car approached, the unfortunate man was standing on the tracks at the corner of Queen and Ashdale avenue, adjusting one of the red lanterns which are used to warn the public that the street is under repair. The motorman ran the going, and Smith attempted to run off the tracks when he tripped on a brick lying between the tracks and fell directly in front of the fender. The front wheel passed over the dead man's shoulder, almost decapitating him, and he was so badly twisted up that it seemed as if every bone in his body was broken. So tightly was Smith wedged underneath that the repair car had to be sent for to jack the wheels before he could be got out.

As the body was being lifted the head dropped off, and the left arm fell out of the coat sleeve.

50,000 MEN WANTED.

Ottawa, Aug. 7.—The Grand Trunk Pacific agents here announce to-day that from 45,000 to 50,000 men can be taken care of for harvesting and other work along their western lines this summer. Advice to the Commissioner of Dominion Immigration place the number, conservatively estimated, at 40,000 to 45,000, and state that harvesting will be in full swing by Aug. 10.

CRIPPLE CURED.

Kingston, August 7.—John IV, of Iry Lea, who went to St. Anne de Pennepe a cripple owing to a dislocated hip, from which he suffered several years, came back to his home cured. At the famous shrine he threw away his crutches and walked almost as well as ever. Mr. IV is 70 years of age and well known down the St. Lawrence.

FISHED BOY OUT.

A YOUNG HERO.

Twelve Year-Old Lad Saves Mother and Infant Child From Drowning.

Toronto despatch: Heroic work on the part of Frank Walker, a 12-year-old lad, saved a mother and babe from possible drowning when a 25-foot yacht capsized in Ashbridge's Bay yesterday afternoon. The upset yacht came from Woodbine beach and was occupied by two men, a woman and a baby. While going through the shallows the centreboard jammed in the mud and the boat toppled over, spilling her crew into the bay.

Young Walker saw the accident from the shore and accompanied by Miss Anna Brown, of Simcoe Park, sprang into a rowboat and went to the rescue. Although the water was only about four feet deep the woman and child were floundering about in a panic-stricken manner and were in danger of stepping off into deep water.

Master Walker got them into the boat and took them safely to shore. The two men were rescued by another boat.

A JAP MOVE.

Cultivating Friendly Relations With Germany as "Compensation."

Berlin, Aug. 7.—The Marine Bondsman, the official monthly review issued by the German navy department, publishes conspicuously a despatch from Tokio indicating that Japan will seek to "compensate" herself for the disadvantages she suffers under the revised treaty with Great Britain by a rapprochement with Germany.

Encouragement in this direction is seen in the circumstance of prominent Japanese like Vicecount Aoka and two cabinet ministers, Goto and Hiraki, taking the initiative in the reorganization of the defunct "Society for the Cultivation of the German-Japan friendly scientific and social relations."

Gen. Nogi, the victor of Port Arthur, who is visiting Berlin, is receiving distinguished attention from military leaders. The general will be the Kaiser's personal guest at a great military parade at Bayreuth on Aug. 14.

TELLER SHOT.

Melsons Bank Official at Diamond City Found Dead in Bed.

Edinburgh, Alta., Aug. 7.—Hazen B. McLaughlin, teller and accountant of the Melsons Bank at Diamond City, was found lying on a bed in his room at the rear of the office last night by D. C. Morrison, manager, when he returned from lunch. A revolver lying beside McLaughlin showed the cause of death, but whether it was through suicide or accident is uncertain.

No cause for suicide is revealed, as the teller's accounts are correct. He had intended leaving to-morrow for his home in Alvinston, Ontario.

RAINS IN WEST.

Winnipeg, Aug. 7.—Heavy rains have fallen through Manitoba and Saskatchewan for 48 hours, interfering with harvest operations. The rain continues. Persistent rumors of black rust in Saskatchewan are being vigorously denied. Some grain has been cut and there seems no basis to the report of the rust disease. The yield and condition of harvested grain is over the average.

LAD DROWNED.

Montreal despatch: Another drowning accident was recorded yesterday afternoon, the victim being Darceus Lamontie, 17 years old, living at 195 4th avenue Emard Ward, who perished whilst swimming in the Lachine Canal. He had been swimming for some time when at 3 o'clock he was noticed to weaken in the water and before aid could be summoned he had disappeared from view.

WANTS A DIVORCE.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 7.—Lena Porter Ueno, a former Minnesota school teacher, 29 years old, who was married to a Japanese May 11, 1910, yesterday asked the Superior Court for a decree of divorce on the grounds of cruelty and incompatibility. In the complaint the white wife says she does not know "how she happened to marry the Japanese." They lived together only 31 days.

SUPPOSED MAD DOG.

Guelph despatch: A dog, believed to have been mad, ran through the Rockwood districts on Monday, biting a number of animals which came in its path. After it had bitten Mr. George Graham's dog at Creswell's Corners, Mr. W. Lamb and Mr. Wilson gave chase with a horse and buggy and succeeded in coming up with it and shooting it in Nasagawa township. The dog, which was bitten by it will be isolated in a suitable place.

A 'CROSS COUNTER TALK

Customer: "How do you know the colors in Sherwin-Williams Paint, Prepared, are durable?"
Dealer: "The colors in S.W.P. are durable and lasting because of the high qualities of raw materials used, the care taken in manufacture and the skill employed in mixing and grinding. The S.W. Co. has its own dry color plant and produces dry colors second to none for brilliancy and strength; operates its own linseed oil mill and manufactures all pure linseed oil for S.W. Products; has its own lead and zinc mines, and employs a large staff of chemists to maintain the standard of all raw materials and finished products."
"With materials of such quality, combined with the thorough assimilating they receive in mixing and grinding, is insured the most permanent and durable colors it is possible to manufacture. S.W.P. wears as long as any paint can wear and retains its brilliancy and freshness for the greatest possible time."

HISTORY AN ENTRANCE SUBJECT

It may in fairness be considered a mistake that the subject of history was ever removed from the Entrance Examination. It remains as an obligatory subject, and every teacher must certify that the course has been well covered by his Entrance Candidates; but taking it off the final examinations has led to its being slighted by many teachers. It would not be so slighted if it were required for the last test. Some men argue that the completeness of the subsequent High School course justifies the partial neglect of the subject in public schools; others maintain that the student in High School can better appreciate history then can the younger pupil in public school; but during his life at public school the pupil's mind is capable as never again of receiving lasting impressions; and history ought to be given diligent attention because many attendants at school, especially in rural districts, do not take a high school course where they might be able partially to compensate for the lack of the course in the lower school.

I do not blame the Minister of Education nor those responsible for the removal of the subject as much as I blame certain teachers. The former in removing it from the final examinations, meant it to be maintained as a real subject through the term; but the latter have often, perhaps thoughtlessly, given it a small place on their timetables. I have conversed with several teachers on this question and the following remarks made by them are representative of their views: "Plenty of time for History in High School"—"It is not really required to pass my pupils and by neglecting it, I can polish them up all the better in the required subjects"—"In my rural school I really haven't time for everything, so I take only a little history"—"All three views are disloyalty to the Minister of Education who meant history to be maintained; all three show that some teachers are preparing their scholars for examinations and not for life; only the last view is in any sense excusable. If history were beside Grammar, Geography and the other required subjects for the Entrance test, no excuse would be offered and the subject would be fully taught."

It is true that between the ages of sixteen and nineteen, the student finds History a more interesting subject and a more certain reality than does the public school pupil; to the older scholar it means more than a list of dry facts and dates. Such is the argument of some teachers. Let them consider, however, that the young pupil is not expected to understand the story of a nation, to read into the doings of men with the vision of a man's mind; he should only learn now and meditate later; and to regard teaching History as the laying down of certain dry facts is not a tribute to the personality of any teacher holding such a view. There are space and material to render it a lucid subject. It is unnecessary to enlarge upon the axiom that the young mind preserves its impressions more truthfully than does the older mind. Therefore, in public school is the time to put before the student the framework of History. The importance of History as a public school subject urges that it there be diligently taught; and a good safeguard for the correct teaching of it would be the replacing of it among Entrance subjects.

To all scholars leaving school after fourth book, public school is the last likely chance for studying History. In all the Dominion, in country sections especially, many are unable to continue upon a high school course because of a variety of reasons. If they miss History while in school, they never will they regain the loss; but if the subject is rightly treated, their interest may lead them to personal further study at a later time. Our citizenship will not attain its best until each mind is filled with the annals of at least its native land. The farmer will add a light to his somewhat dreary path, when he gives his evenings over to studying about his country.

The Japanese we call a nation who are learning; we are anxious to teach them certain things and rightly so. But we can be taught one thing by them—patriotism. Let every child, the father of a future man, be wisely lead to see the ideas, the victories of the past; to see the men who have cast their parts into the common cause of the Empire, so that what they now learn they may unconsciously emulate in after years. No guarantee for the complete teaching of History in public schools should be neglected; and there is no stronger guarantee than that History be required as an Entrance subject.

A CORONATION SCENE

The night spectacular performance at the Ottawa exhibition will be the most magnificent pyrotechnic display ever attempted in the Capital. Arrangements have been made with the Hand Company, of Hamilton, for a reproduction of the grand naval review as held at the Coronation of King George V. All the splendor of the great function will be portrayed. Following this a fireworks display showing a host of new creations will be made.

Local Items

At a meeting of Farmers Bank depositors held at Lin'ray on August 5 a committee was appointed consisting of two members from each place where the bank had formerly carried on business, to interview the Government and leader of the Opposition in the Dominion Parliament to see if some measure of relief could not be undertaken by the Government whereby the depositors would be protected.

In consequence of the general election being held in September, Judge Reynolds has postponed the division courts appointed for nomination week until October. The following are courts postponed and the new dates: Newboro, Oct. 8th; Delta, Oct. 4th; Athens, Oct. 5th; Frankville, Oct. 6th; Prescott, Oct. 17th; Spencerville, Oct. 18th; Kemptville, Oct. 19th; Merriekville, Oct. 20th.

Sacrifice of Household Effects

I still have for sale some household effects which I will dispose of at a sacrifice rather than store them. The list includes one bedroom suit, kitchen chairs, bedroom chairs, kitchen washstand, kitchen cupboard, odd wash bowls and pitchers, lamps, fruit sealers and jelly glasses, stone jars, chopping bowl and knife, bread pan and many other kitchen utensils. These must be sold by the 15th of August.—Mrs D. Fisher.

Recorder: W. J. Hamblin, the well known horseman near Athens, has just disposed of a three-year old colt for the sum of $250. The colt was a cherry colored bay and registered under the name of "Kentucky." Mr Hamblin takes great pride in breeding high-class horses, and if all farmers would do likewise they would be rewarded by good prices, as Canadians are living in an age when well bred stock is in demand and the shrewd ones are reaping the benefit.

During last Thursday night burglars visited the office of R. G. Harvey & Son, Lvnthurst, and wrecked the safe with nitro-glycerine. There was no money in the safe, but a cash box containing legal documents was abstracted and with this the burglars made their escape. The explosion aroused the whole village and a search for the thieves was instituted. Two young men carrying a grip were sighted near the station of the B.W. & N.W. but they managed to elude their pursuers.

The McIntosh Mills football club will hold a grand basket picnic at Graham Lake, McIntosh Mills, on Saturday afternoon and evening, Aug. 12th, and a grand list of sports is being prepared for the day, including a baseball match between the Mallorytown and Long Point teams, a football match between Toledo and the undefeated Dresdenites, a tug-of-war between McIntosh Mills and Caintown. A large and spacious platform will be on the ground and first-class music will be furnished for dancing.

MEN BADLY NEEDED

A conference was held in Winnipeg lately between Deputy Ministers of Agriculture for provinces of Manitoba and Saskatchewan and the Dominion Government Commissioner of Immigration, dealing with the question of harvest laborers needed this year, and most conservative estimates place the number at from 40,000 to 45,000. Government reports show that winter wheat in Alberta and earlier district in South Saskatchewan and Manitoba will commence cutting before August 10th and harvesting will be in full swing by August 15th and 20th. The railway companies are taking action to co-operate with a view to obtaining the necessary labor, and in this connection the General Agent of the Grand Trunk Pacific advises that that Company can take care of 4,000 or 5,000 along their line by August 8th and 9th, and commencing August 15th as fast as they can be obtained.

MIDWAY OF MARVELS

The directors of the Ottawa exhibition have broadened the scheme of entertainment. That will be evident from announcements later of the famous vaudeville stars, acrobatic troops, etc., that will appear before the grand stand. The inevitable midway will be more sensational and curious than ever. This rollicking feature will be furnished by the Park Booking Circuit of New York, which means that a gorgeous assemblage of the world's freaks and marvels will be at Ottawa.

HOMESEEKERS' EXCURSIONS

THIS ORIGINAL DOCUMENT IS IN EVERY POOR CONDITION

Sweet Miss Margery

With a little laugh Vane put her hand on his lips and flitted away, while Stuart called to a gardener and ordered the pony-carriage to be brought round. Vane was down again almost immediately, her face nearly as pale as her cousin's. It was but a few minutes before the carriage appeared, yet to Stuart they seemed hours. He tried to laugh at the absurdity of the report, yet a presentiment of trouble possessed him.

"It cannot be, it cannot be," Vane had said, and now she was again; and then she approached her.

"Tell me once more the messages she sent," he said hurriedly; and Vane breathed the tender falsehoods in his ear, touching his agitated troubled spirit with her healing balm sweetness.

"Whither away, wounded knight?" he asked, lightly.

"To the village I shall be back soon, Douglas."

Then turning to his cousin, he said, "Drive fast, Vane."

With a puzzled brow Sir Douglas watched them disappear—he could not understand Stuart's apparent attachment to this selfish worldly girl—then with a sigh, turned westward in doors. The next day was that fixed for his journey to come down from London, and he had much to occupy his thoughts. He sought the squire's room, and in a chat over bygone years, lost for awhile his anxious, restless expression.

Stuart sat silent beside his cousin as they bowed along the lane to the village; and Vane gave him a look and again at his pale, lined face, wondering when he knew the truth, what his opinion would be of her.

The village reached, he broke the silence by asking Vane to drive straight to the little cottage by the Weald; and without a word, she came out for him and Stuart, heedless of his aching arm and weakness, alighted, and walked down to the gate he knew so well. It was just such an afternoon as that on which he had parted from Margery, and the memory of her beauty and the sweetness lent strength to his steps and desire in his heart. He pushed open the gate and entered. The window-blinds were drawn; the door pushed with his one able hand—defied every effort. He grew faint and cold, and leaned against the door-post for a moment, while the room nodding in the breeze seemed to whisper to him a sense of his loss in all its bitterness.

Margery was gone! But why—and whither? He turned and walked down the garden, his head drooping dejectedly on his breast. Margery gone! What could it mean? Why had she left him, without a word, a sign, in the very moment of their joy and happiness? The truth did not come to him even then. There must be some mistake, he tried to convince himself. A hundred different answers he tried, but all came to naught. He turned and walked back behind him and turned away. There was a man standing at the gate of the next cottage, and at first Stuart determined to pass him; but a sudden impulse seized him, and he stopped and spoke with forced lightness.

"Ah, Carter! How is the weather for the crops? Is this true that I hear about Morris?"

"Good afternoon, squire. Hope I see you better. It were a stiff fall as you had. Morris, sir? What? That's his gone to Australia! Ay, sir—that's true enough."

Stuart's left hand grasped the gate. "Rather sudden, isn't it? he questioned, trying to clear his voice.

"Well, sir, it were rather; but you see the death of his missus fair knocked him over, and he made up his mind in a minute."

"And he has gone alone?" asked Stuart, every nerve in his body quivering.

"Oh, no, sir! He's took Margery with him; and right sorry as he was to part with her, I can tell you. She were just a sweet lass. Have you heard that Sir Hubert and my lady ain't coming home, after all, sir? Perhaps that's why Margery went, 'cos she belongs like to her ladyship—don't she, sir?"

Stuart murmured a few vague words in reply, and then passed on. "Good afternoon," said Carter; and then, as he watched the young man mount the hill, he muttered, "That there fall ain't done the young squire no good; he looks the ghost of hisself."

Vane sat silent as Stuart came toward her, even her cold, calculating heart was touched at the sight of his distress. He took his seat and sunk back against the cushions, looking deadly pale and worn. Vane gathered the reins together, and prepared to turn back to the castle; but Stuart stopped her.

"Drive to Chesterham," he said, in a quiet tone. "I must find out if they went to London."

Without a word she did as he wished, and in silence they sped along the lanes to the town. Vane was by no means comfortable during the drive, for she was beset by disagreeable thoughts. What if the girl, after all, had come to London only to bid farewell to her adopted father? What more likely? Would she not have taken leave of her neighbors and villagers had she started for so long a journey? What if, on their arrival at Chesterham, they came face to face with her? Vane grew cold and faint at the thought not only of the foundation, but of such a termination to all her scheming. She set her teeth fast, and her face grew paler as she pictured with disgust when he learned the truth. It was a nasty, so strange a flight, that Vane, as she sat absorbed in deep thought, could not but feel that the clouds were much against her.

Stuart did not notice his cousin; he seemed never to have noticed her. He seemed to have vanished. The joy of life seemed to have died, and his heart was heavy with its pain. From now and then he would look at the young presentment that had come over him since first he had learned the news, and it as it was true.

As they approached Chesterham, Vane began to tremble, and the hands grasping the reins shook with fear.

"Draw up for a few minutes, Vane," Stuart said; "here is Bright—perhaps he can tell us something. Andrews said it was through his instrumentality that Morris had gone."

Vane checked the ponies and leaned back, feeling quite unmoved from the sudden reaction.

"Ah, Bright, you are the very man that I want to see," exclaimed Stuart. "It is one thing to say you will start on such a voyage, and another thing to do it. It takes two or three days, Bright, you know, to make the necessary arrangements."

"Australia? Why? But they can not have gone yet—they must be in London. It is one thing to say you will start on such a voyage, and another thing to do it. It takes two or three days, Bright, you know, to make the necessary arrangements."

The farmer looked at the young squire's flushed face with a little surprise and much gratitude.

"Thank you, sir. It's like you, Mr. Stuart, always to be kind; but it's no use now, sir. Robert started last night; by this time they're out of the Channel. It's a hard thing to see one's only son, Lord Court, and Mr. Stuart, and all along of a bit of a girl."

"A girl!" echoed Stuart, shivering, he scarcely knew why.

"Ay, sir—that lass of Morris's, that nameless thing! She just bewitched him, has played the fool with him, said him 'No,' when he'd have made her his wife; and now she's gone out together."

"Margery!" exclaimed Stuart, in a dull, startled way. "She—they have gone together?"

"Ay, sir—she've took him from us all with her fooling, and I make no doubt but they'll be married afore they reach the other side, and the mother would have welcomed her gladly to keep Robert at home; but she weren't honest enough to do that—she must needs give herself airs like a fine lady, and drag my boy after her."

Vane saw Stuart's jaw set, his face flush, the veins on his forehead swell. After a pause, he said, in a low tone: "And you are sure of this, Bright?"

"I'm just back from London, sir. I've been down to the docks, and there's no mistake; they all remembered the girl—her pretty face, they called it. Ah, it will be weary work for us, sir, waiting till she comes back. My wife's most distraught."

"Good-bye, Bright," Stuart put out his hand, which the farmer grasped. "This is indeed bad news! I am sorry, very sorry for you."

"Thanks, Mr. Stuart."

Bright looked at Vane's hand, and with a respectful salute to Vane, passed on, something like a tear twinkling in his eye.

Vane looked straight ahead, pretending not to see the quick, hurried way in which Stuart bent his head for a moment. Victory was hers, she took it here and there. Suddenly Stuart looked up—victory! Suddenly Stuart looked up—it is all over now—so much the better!

The recklessness of his tone pleased her; it showed her that anger rankled as well as pain, that mortification filled his breast with despair. If this mood lasted, her work would not be difficult.

CHAPTER XIV.

"Margery! Margery!"

The light of the setting sun was gliding the branches of the few trees standing in the centre of the square garden. A girl was sitting in a bay-window in one of the largest and gloomiest of the houses in the square, apparently watching the sunset; but really the sunset had no charm for her. She was so deep in thought that the sweet tones coming from the further end of the room did not reach her.

"Margery!"

The girl turned quickly, her musings disturbed by the touch of plaintive wistfulness in the last word.

"I beg your pardon, Lady Enid," she said, hurriedly, moving from the window.

"I am sorry to disturb your dreams, Margery," observed Lady Enid, gently, "but I should like to sit up for awhile and no one can help me like you."

There was a knock at the door, and a maid entered with a letter. "It is from your father, Lady Enid," she said, handing it to her.

"Dear Lady Enid," the letter began, "I am afraid that sometimes it is very lonely and dull for you here, with only a poor sick girl for company."

"Man to do so if you do," she said, "I can never say it often enough. Do you know, I had a presentiment that we should become friends the very instant Mrs. Fothergill mentioned your name? Margery Daw! There is a sweetness about it, a touch of romance. I was quite eager you should come, and I was so happy when the letter arrived saying that you would. I am afraid, dear Lady Enid added, with a sigh, 'that sometimes it is very lonely and dull for you here, with only a poor sick girl for company.'" not care for me, for she never repeated her visit; and I was left in peace till the end came.

"I will not linger over the rest, Margery; you can guess it. Nugent had grown to love her—he was bewitched by her beauty; and he whispered to me one evening that she proposed to become his wife. I tried to murmur words of happiness; but my heart failed me, and I could do nothing but look into his dear face with eyes that would speak my distress. Nugent left me that night. WIT AND HUMOR

STRATEGY.
(New York Sun)

Miss Highness—But it is time for the guests to leave.
Hostess—Yes, that's why I want you to sing.

THE QUESTION OF TO-DAY.
(Judge)

First Man (boastfully)—I haven't taken a drop in a year.
Second Man—Er—er—aeroplane or prohibitionist?

WHY, CERTAINLY NOT.
(Washington Star)

Of course the enormous amount of attention J. Pierpont Morgan secures in Europe is in large measure influenced by the fact that he is a wealthy American.

HIS MODERATE AMBITION.
(New York Sun)

Kitchner—Wouldn't you like to walk where foot never trod before?
Bucker—I'd be happy enough if my wife let me track mud in the kitchen.

FOR A RAINY DAY.
(Washington Star)

"We should all say something for a rainy day," said the prudent woman.
"I try to," replied Miss Cayenne. "But I must confess that I find silk hosiery expensive."

NEVER.
(Puck)

Mr. Willis—But why don't you take your bank book in to have it balanced?
Mrs. Willis—I don't want that snooty-looking cashier to know how much I've got in there.

FORETHOUGHT.
(Harper's Bazaar)

Mrs. Clever—I have engaged two cooks, my dear.
He—Two-cooks? one will come tomorrow and the other a week hence.

JUST IN TIME.
(Harper's Bazaar)

Bridget—Me missus discharged me to-day.
Nora—For what?
Bridget—She says she knew to-morrow would be her day.

DEFINING HER POSITION.
(Washington Star)

"Is your husband in favor of the initiative and referendum?"
"Yes," replied the woman in the sun-bonnet; "and the recall and local option and anything that'll enable him to go by rail across the continent to compete in England with apples from Nova Scotia."

WASTED TIME.
(Cleveland Plain Dealer)

Hercules had been driven in a taxi-cab to the August stables and told to harness.
"What's the use?" he bitterly muttered, "as soon as I get 'em cleaned up they'll be turned into a garage."
Nevertheless, he fell to work.

A BAD START.
(Detroit Free Press)

"Don't believe she'll ever get married."
"Why not?"
"Her friends have started telling what a good wife she'll make for some man some day."

HIS STATUS.
(Boston Transcript)

He (rejected)—Then you regard me merely as a summer lover, a convenient escort to excursions and picnics?
She—That's about the case, George. I have looked upon you as a lover in the picnickin sense only.

LOOKING FOR A WORD.
(Washington Star)

"When a man tells you things you can't believe about places he has never visited," said the foreigner, "what is it that you call him?"
"Scoundrel," replied Miss Cayenne. "We merely call him a popular astronomer."

WOULDN'T TELL HER THAT.
(Boston Transcript)

Heck—Did your wife enjoy her two weeks' vacation in the country?
"Ack-yes, but not any more than I did."

GOT A TASTE OF IT.
(Toledo Blade)

Missionary—And do you know nothing whatever of religion?
Cathal—Well, we got a taste of it when the last missionary was here.

NO CRITERION.
(Judge)

Tummy—I don't think aunts will stay. She didn't bring her trunk.
Johnny—Huh! Look how long the baby has stayed, and he didn't bring anything.

FASHION NOTE.
(Baltimore American)

Wife (eyeing her new extreme model costume)—I wonder if the hobbie skirt is never going out?
Hubbie (also eyeing the same with dejection)—Not with me.

THE RURAL CYNIC.
(Washington Star)

"So you don't care much for life in a large city?"
"No," replied Farmer Corntossol. "The population of a large city is composed largely of folks that went there with money and had to stay 'cause they were broke."

TO KEEP OUT WITCHES!
Outwardly the Cornishman has become modernised in places, but his thoughts and actions are still governed by the traditions of a dead past. A horse-shoe over stable door attracted my attention and of the stableman I asked:

"What is that for?"
"That's to keep out witches."
"But even if there were witches nowadays, how could they hurt you?"
Slowly I drew it from him. You might find that your horses were "overlooked." Perhaps you yourself might suffer from the effects of the "evil eye." One can be "overlooked" in the twentieth century—in Cornwall—and the remedy is to discover the witch and prick her with a needle or pin until blood is drawn. He instanced an acquaintance one Nimmo, to whom had befallen a long series of lamentable occurrences "till he trapped old Mother Tapp's arm with a great rusty nail two or three times till the blood flowed, and she can't hurt him again."—H. M. Clark, writing on "Saints and Smugglers" in The Canadian Magazine for August.

FOR APPLE MEN.
(Montreal Witness)

It seems, however, that the Canadian farmer will have all he can do, and that immediately to preserve his market. Trees must be sprayed and pruned with even greater care. On many soils there must be cultivated and ground annually enriched. Quality, not quantity, must be the motto. After the growing season when apples are dumped into barrels and shipped off will fetch a price. To-day they must be sorted into grades according to quality. Sorted again according to size, and then packed in boxes—so singly to the row, so many to the tier—and honestly labelled. It is by this means that the California apple, which has been the bane of the State of New York, is being abandoned. By this means British Columbia is to-day shipping cars of British apples by rail across the continent to compete in England with apples from Nova Scotia.

LITTLE SURPRISES.
(Chicago Tribune)

"Yes, I've been thinking lately that I ought to take out some life insurance. I'm dead, and I can't hunt me up, you know, ma'am."
Mr. Chiggers, here's the cup of coffee I've borrowed from you the other day."
"Father, you're tired; let me do the dishes."
"Thank you, just the same, sir, but the boss will allow a few more days."
"I congratulate you on your new job, old chap; they're finer than anything I've got."
"I don't know how the story ends, Fan; I haven't looked at the last chapter."

Brockville citizens' picnic at Delta Park on Monday was attended by an unusually large number from town and country. When the 10 a.m. train reached here all were unable to board it, but a second train coming twenty minutes later took on the overflow, so that all reached the Park. The great crowd was handled in splendid style by the railway officials.

FOOD - FOR THOUGHT

Who pays the enormous expense of those show-rooms in our towns and cities? Is it not the people who buy pianos there? Why buy from them when you can get just as good, and in many cases better, from me, delivered Free from the factory to your door? This is one of the reasons I can sell you a piano for less money than you pay at any show-room.

All kinds of instruments taken in exchange. We defy competition for the money in all grades. Get my prices before purchasing, for they are certainly very low for strictly high grade pianos.

Also agent for Raymond, New Williams, and New Home Sewing Machines

P. S. - Pianos sold on instalment plan when wished.
