The Secret of Happiness.

"For the most part," says the Rev. Dr. Parkhurst, the celebrated preacher and social reformer of New York. we make our own heaven and hell. The amount of our happiness depends only in small degrees on what we call the circumstances of life.

"We are sure that that is so, for we know people who are very comfortably fixed, but who, nevertheless, are exceedingly miserable and complaining, and other people who seem not to have a great deal to enjoy, but who, in spite of that, go through life satisfied and cheery.

So it is with our comforts; they do not make us comfortable unless we make practical account of them, and deliberate use of them.

The simple fact that we never quite appreciate a blessing till we lose it shows that we gave no particular thought to it while we had it, possessed but untasted. Then, also, some of our discontent comes from the attention we devote to things that we would like, but that are denied us.

"One blot spoils for us the whiteness of all the rest of the page. "Nine comforts in hand are made distasteful by the tenth comfort that is in the bush."

Extraordinary Scene.

On a Sunday forenoon, shortly be ore 11 o'clock, an extraordinary scene was witnessed on the west end of the Dean Bridge, Edinburgh, just where the road takes a bend towards Craigleith. A respectable looking man, who is said to be a leading light burgh, was seen strewing the road for some distance around with mos business looking tacks three-quarters of an inch in length. People on their way to church were puzzled as to the man's actions, until on a closer view, they discovered his occupation Some people passing picked up a few of the tacks as souvenirs. The man was under the impression that he was doing "the work of the Lord," as his aim was to punish those who broke the peace of the Scottish Sabbath by cycling or motoring.

A very eligible boat has been secured in Glasgow and Capt. Linklater who is there representing the firm has completed negotiations for the purchase of the steamer. She is a large, well constructed ship, and certain alterations and improvements will be effected to fit her to contend with the ice floes. She will be engaged as a freighter after the sealfishery concludes. She will come out here in due course.

Grimes of a savage attack committed on him by one John Neil, a burly resident of Murphy's Range, LeMarchant Road, who has a police record. The officer was on his beat at the foot of Barron Street, and was in the act of turning some boys away from a corner when a man jumped out of the darkness and stepping up to the officer dealt him a stunning blow between the eyes, and then grasping him about the throat threw him to the ground where he seized the officer by the throat and tried to choke him. Neil then jumped to his feet and booted the officer so unmercifully in the head that he lay unconscious for 5 minutes. Fortunately his cap fell over the side of the head where his assailant's boots took effect and this broke the force of the kicks received. When Squibb fell, and while Neil was choking him the officer recognized the man. He stood for a short while after committing the assault and then fled down Prince's Street and across George's Street to Waldegrave and Water Streets and then vanished. The officer's cap saved him from being killed. Superintendent Grimes immediately sent all the men on duty. including Inspector Collins and Head Peet to scour the city and capture the man. The police surrounded his resi-

Warships Soon of 30,000 Tons. WASHINGTON, Sept. 7 .- As soon a

some other nation begins to arm its warships with 14-inch guns—the calibre of the rifles which will compose the main battery of the latest designed dreadnoughts of the American navythe United States, it is believed by naval ordinance experts, will seriously consider the 16-inch gun for battleships. The largest gun on foreign vessels to-day is the 13.5-inch, adopted by Great Britain and Russia.

The problem of a 16-inch gun is al ready being worked out in theory in connection with imaginary 35,000 and and 40,000 ton battleships in order to be prepared to take an advance ster whenever foreign competition warrants it. For rifles of that calibre a try controlled by the progress of noughts built or building for the Unihas just been placed in commission, has a displacement of 21,825 tons; the Arkansas and Wyoming, which will be completed in less than a year, will be 26,000 tons, with the Texas and New York, whose construction was begun only a few months ago, will be 27,000 tons. With the 26,000 and 27,000-ton ships building the Navy Department is planning to make the displacement of the two battleships authorized by the last naval act 28,500 tons. That is certainly not the end, for it is believed that the next dreadnoughts will be at least 30,000 tons.

Seaweed

The day may not be far distant when suits made from seaweed will be as common as that from wool or commodity. It forms a cheap barometer and holiday memento for the children; it provides the farmer with a somewhat odoriferous manure; certain varieties of the weed have been turned to account in the manufacture of photographic materials, and now it promises to supply us with sum ner garments.

The weed used for this purpose omes from Australia and is more a fibre than a seaweed proper. It is, dredged up from the bottom of the facture of suitings, but the results I often have a pain in the pit of the tory and beyond all expectation.
