Sweet Eva!

CHAPTER XXIX.

"It's rather a long journey just for a day, isn't it?" he said casually. "It's going to be wet, too. . . I shouldn't go to-day if I were you. Wait till I come to town and we'll get Philip to run us both down in the car."

"Philip!"

"Yes." He steered his heart to the bitterness with which she echoed her husband's name. He went on hardly knowing what he said.

"Yes. We'll make a day of it. Phil and I used to think nothing of running down there to tea and back. I've never told you what good times we used to have. I must some day. He's one of the best, you know. Takes a bit of understanding, of course—we all do—but I've never known him to a mean or a shabby thing—never!"

He stopped. He had been on the tip of his tongue to add "until now," but he checked the words in time.

"And that's more than I can say of any other man I know," he went on. She knew why he was saying all this; knew that he understood as well as if she had told him the cause of her tears.

"Mrs. Winterdick was always awfully good to me, too," he went on. "She's aged shockingly since the old man died. . . She adores Philip, of course; he's all she's got."

He stopped. He wondered if Eva would ever guess what it had cost him to defend her husband; if she would think that he was blaming her even in the very slightest for what had happened. But he was a man of the world, and he knew that if Eva left the flat to-day in her present mood she was taking the first step towards irretrievable disaster.

He took up a book from the table, looked at it and put it down aimlessly. "So I shouldn't go to Apsley to-day," he said, presently. "Eh?—what do you think?"

Their eyes met across the room, and for a long moment there was a significant silence; then Eva impulsively held out her hand.

Calligan took it and held it hard before he let it go.

"Bless you!" he said rather huskily. He turned to the window to hide a sudden mistiness in his eyes. "You see, I was right, and it's raining cats and dogs," he said, lightly.

"You get them to make up a fire, and stay indoors—eh?"

"Yes." Her moment of madness had died, leaving her inert and coldly indifferent. When Calligan had gone, she went to find her husband. He was sitting on the arm of a chair in the dining-room, an unlit cigarette between his lips, staring at the floor.

He looked up with a gleam of hope in his miserable eyes when she entered; he rose to his feet.

She spoke without looking at him. "I am not going to Apsley to-day."

Headache

Recurring headaches usually come from an exhaustion of the nervous system, and they do not disappear until the vigor of the nerve cells is restored by such up-building treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Temporary relief by use of powders is often obtained at an enormous expense to the nervous system and the general health.

Get the nerves right and the headaches will not return.

Mrs. W. J. Pearce, Nunn St., Cobourg, Ont., writes:

"My system became run-down and I suffered greatly with pain in my head. This was so severe that I would have to bind a cloth tightly about my head so that I could get my work done. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and after taking the first box I found quite an improvement in my condition. I continued using them until I had taken about seven boxes, and they strengthened and built up my system splendidly, completely relieving the pain in my head."

THE FLAVOR LASTS

Trade supplied by MEEHAN & CO., St. John's, Newfoundland.

she was afraid that Peter would wonder at his absence.

Life had been a strange thing lately. Philip kept out of her way save when appearances demanded his presence. She did not know how he spent his time, and never asked, and neither of them had ever again referred to what had happened.

But neither of them had forgotten it. It was a nightmare memory to Philip. Though the bruise had faded from his wife's cheek, whenever he looked at her he seemed to see it still.

He had never asked what had made her change her mind about leaving him, but in his heart he knew it must have been Calligan's influence.

Though outwardly the two men were the same to one another, the old friendship no longer really existed. A thousand times it was on Philip's lips to forbid Calligan the house, but something always prevented him.

He knew that Eva's tolerance towards himself was worn to a thread, and he had long since given up all hope of a reconciliation with her.

His vision was too distorted by jealousy to recognize that Calligan was still the best friend he had—that it was Calligan, time and again, who had stepped into the breach and averted utter disaster.

But Eva knew how much she had for which to thank this man; knew that it was only the knowledge of his presence and faithful friendship that saved her from despair.

There was no man in the world for her but Philip, or ever would be.

"And what's the programme for to-night?" Calligan asked presently.

"Are we going to be gay and giddy, or stay at home?" He looked apologetically at Peter. "You see, I consider myself one of the family," he said laughing. Peter nodded. He was thinking it rather odd that Calligan should so evidently have the run of the house, but he supposed it was all right—he knew that Philip and Calligan had been almost inseparable.

Mob Monday in London.

A great demonstration of unemployed in Trafalgar Square on Monday, February 8, 1886, was made use of by the leaders of the Revolutionary Social and Democratic Federation to repeat their most violent denunciations of the proprietors of the classes and of the existing organization of society; and practical effort was given to their inflammatory harangues by a mob of roughs to whom the demonstration afforded an excuse for assembling. An hour before the procession of the unemployed—lined for 3 p.m.—arrived, Trafalgar Square and its approaches became crowded by a multitude, estimated at from fifteen to twenty thousand in number. The Social Democratic leaders appeared on the scene with a red flag, taking up their positions in front of the National Gallery, whilst three Imperial Colonies were occupied by the organizers and orators of the legitimate demonstration of the day. The latter supported a resolution in favour of providing the unemployed with remunerative labour on useful public works, and proposals of a Fair Trade tendency; while the Social Democratic orators denounced capitalists, ministers, and others with imperious vehemence. Mr. John Burns declared that at their next meetings the bakers' shops in the West End would be sacked. About four o'clock a large body of roughs, with the Social Democratic leaders, made for Pall Mall, where they smashed the windows of the Carlton Club and, encouraged by their own numbers, and the paucity of policemen to be seen on their route, they smashed the windows of the Club-houses in St. James Street, up which they went, turning into Piccadilly on their way to Hyde Park. They indulged their predatory instincts, and diversified their smashing of windows and hurling of missiles at the inmates of passing carriages, by stopping these, dragging from them their lady occupants to be robbed of their ornaments, and by looting several shops, notably a jeweller's and a wine and spirit shop, of which the contents were specially congenial. In Hyde Park they halted to hear a few speeches from their leaders, ostensibly in deprecation of their proceedings, but so little effective in restraining them that on making their way to South Audley Street—smashing the windows along their line of route—they attacked and plundered almost every shop in it; using as missiles such heavy articles as they did not care to carry away with them, and altogether comprising themselves like infuriated sappers venturing to offer any resistance. Proceeding through Grosvenor Square to North Audley Street, they plundered right and left, and reaching Oxford Street, stormed and looted the establishments of several jewellers. Meanwhile, however, a body of police, strong enough to confront them had been collected at Marylebone Lane, and to prevent much further depredation the Oxford Street shopkeepers as yet unassailed hastily closed their premises. Then the ruffianly mob gradually melted away, leaving behind them memories of brutal violence and infamous rapine which was not easily effaced.

Revival Tragedy.

SCENES IN THE NORTH—PEOPLE BECOMING DEMENTED.

The revival movement started recently in the fishing villages north of Aberdeen continues, and it is estimated that the number of converts now total 10,000. In many places the revivalists believe that the Second Coming of Christ and the end of the world are imminent.

In the mission hall at Cairnburg, a village near Fraserburgh, and one of the nerve centres of the revival, a curious miscellany of objects has been built up on the top of the organ. The pile are about a hundred pipes and tobacco pouches, numerous packs of playing cards, large quantities of cigarettes, draught-boards and several pairs of dancing shoes. Practically all the men in the place have given up smoking, and have surrounded their worldly "gear" so that a bonfire may be made of it in scheme for the future relationship between the village streets, an idea reminiscent of Savonarola and Florence. More wonderful still, in many places converts refuse to wear silk stockings with their best clothes, have lengthened their skirts, and adopted discreetly high-necked upper garments.

Zaghul Pasha

INSTIGATOR OF RIOTS.

Zaghul Pasha, scholar, orator, Minister and Extremist, died during the war, been Egypt's strongest proponent of independence. After Lord Alenby became High Commissioner in 1919 and allowed him to return to Cairo, Zaghul threw himself with vigour and energy into a campaign for the abolition of the British Protectorate. He came to London as the head of a Nationalist delegation and of the British Mission to Egypt, his aim was to secure the future relationship between the two countries. Failing, however, to get his dreams and hopes realized, he returned to Egypt an embittered man, and shortly afterwards quarrelled with Adly Pasha, then Prime Minister, respecting the sending of another delegation to London. Zaghul insisted that this was a reflection of his energies to creating a possibility, which he as Prime Minister should himself undertake. From this quarrel dates Zaghul's large following.

Make Every Meal A Perfect Feast

Tanlac Makes Each Bite a New Delight.

WHEN your digestive system is working efficiently and smoothly, extracting from your food abundant stores of vital energy and piling up a reserve force of vigor to meet any emergency, every bite is eaten with keen zest and appreciation. If your meals are not a real treat, if you do not approach the table of digestive fluids, it then promotes energetic action of all the bowel muscles and glands, and enables the food to pass through the digestive canal in the normal time. Each of the thousands of little glands whose duty it is to pick up nourishment from the food and send this to all parts of the body are stimulated to their utmost. The whole result is that food is taken care of without distress of any sort in such manner as to derive the utmost benefit from it.

If your appetite is not keen, if your food seems to disagree with you, if you are underweight, nervous, irritable and lack energy, give Tanlac the chance to show you that it can work a miracle in your condition, as it has in so many thousands of other cases. If you are despondent, gloomy, with little taste for and enjoyment of life, try Tanlac and no doubt you will see the clouds of gloom roll away under the sunshine of health.

You are entitled to be healthy, vigorous, efficient and happy. Give yourself the chance to become so as thousands of others have, by taking Tanlac.

Get Tanlac from your druggist this very day. Why wait for to-morrow when Tanlac—and health—await you to-day?

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

With the most lively anticipation of its delights, then you are only halving the value of your food.

Lack of appetite, or distress from indulging the appetite, are both due to the same cause—failure of the digestive system to properly do its important work. The undigested food remaining in the alimentary canal may merely cause a distaste for more food when it cannot take care of what it has, or it may undergo chemical and putrefaction changes that cause acute disease.

Besides, these chemical changes produce poisonous substances that are carried to every cell and organ of the body and that causes all sorts of distressing symptoms.

Tanlac, the famous digestive tonic and body builder, has achieved its wide success because it is able to invigorate the entire digestive tract. It acts to cause vigorous stomach preparation of the food, both through the muscular churning action of that organ and through ample secretion every shop in it; using as missiles such heavy articles as they did not care to carry away with them, and altogether comprising themselves like infuriated sappers venturing to offer any resistance. Proceeding through Grosvenor Square to North Audley Street, they plundered right and left, and reaching Oxford Street, stormed and looted the establishments of several jewellers. Meanwhile, however, a body of police, strong enough to confront them had been collected at Marylebone Lane, and to prevent much further depredation the Oxford Street shopkeepers as yet unassailed hastily closed their premises. Then the ruffianly mob gradually melted away, leaving behind them memories of brutal violence and infamous rapine which was not easily effaced.

There is another side to the movement. A great evangelical upheaval of this nature is almost inevitably bound to prove harmful to some individuals unable to undergo without injury the emotional strain involved. Already five persons have been certified for admission to mental hospitals, three from Cairnburg, St. Combs, and Fraserburgh having been removed to the Aberdeen Royal Asylum, and two from places farther north to institutions in Edinburgh and Perth.

HIS DIARY.
February 8th.—A great snow storm such as I little thought to see again this year. I to a the dansant in the afternoon, to my great content at night to the club and to play at billiards, but my eyes not so good as they were, and I miss pretty often Early home, and the greatest difficulty in getting there, being that the drift was mighty severe and did make me to lose my breath. Little news of my kind during the day and no work to be done.

About the only time our soldiers really seemed downhearted was when the news came of the death of Lord Roberts. This brought real sorrow to the whole Army.
The first Lady Angelo knew of what threatened was when his aide-de-camp, Colonel Browning, came to the canteen where she was serving and asked her for something light and warm for "Bob" to wear. He had Colonel Browning explained, been reviewing troops, and had discarded his coat, with the result that he had caught a severe chill.
The lightest and warmest thing to hand was a Shetland sweater Lady Angelo happened to be wearing. She at once whipped this off and handed it to Colonel Browning, who hurried with it to General Headquarters.
"I have always hoped," she adds "that Lord Roberts was wearing it when he died."

The Uses of Oats.

In the days of Dr. Johnson, who was born over two hundred years ago, the Scotch ploughman was allowed seventeen and one-half pounds of oatmeal weekly, and three or four pints of milk daily for his food. With a ration like that, perhaps after all oats and the hardy Scot deserved to be mentioned in the same breath.
True enough, oats are a wonderful feed. It is also a good dairy feed, and for sheep, it is liked by most shepherds. Pigs do not thrive so well on it because of the hulls and fiber in the whole oats, but the other stock like oats, and thrive on them as a part of their ration. Many poultrymen feed sprouted oats in the winter time to their hens. They are better than any tonic when properly used.
The oat straw is also used for feeding, and many a horse and cow and sheep has wintered through on this feed. Oat while grain is in the milk stage, and properly cured, oats make a good hay, being both nutritious and palatable. Oat straw is also used as a bedding and for paper making.
As a nurse crop for clover and grass it is used by many farmers. Its place in the rotation is established both by its usefulness as a feed, as a cash crop, and as a valuable help in planning a good rotation.

The Patient Died.

A professor in a medical school asked a student: "What is a dose of croton oil?" The student replied: "A teaspoonful." The professor said nothing, but looked at his watch. The work of the class went on. Some minutes later the student who had replied attracted the professor's attention and exclaimed: "Oh, professor, I made an error. A dose of croton oil is one drop." The professor quietly looked at his watch and dryly remarked: "Yes, and your patient has been dead just 12 minutes."

Damage Estimated Quarter Million Dollars—Craig's Manifesto—Ulster Unionists Kidnapped—Canada Has Big Increase in National Debt—Germany Pays Up.

PROMINENT UNIONISTS KIDNAPPED.
BELFAST, Feb. 8. A large number of leading Unionists of Counties Fermanagh and Tyrone, in the Ulster area, were kidnapped to-day and taken to unknown destinations. Fifteen arrests have been made. The raiders are believed to have come from Counties Cavan and Leitrim, near the border. Forces known as "B. Specials" are being mobilized to-day in Tyrone and Fermanagh and rushed to the scene of the kidnapping. The Ulster Government has announced its intention of taking drastic measures. Among those kidnapped were Major Anstell, son of Anstell Mourty, and the high sheriff Carson, of County Fermanagh, whose house was raided, and single handed for an hour he was wounded and carried off in a motor car. The house of Major Moore, at Bellef, Fermanagh, was similarly attacked, but Major Moore escaped. A party known as "A. Specials" was ambushed near Newtown Butler last evening by a large party of armed men. An engagement resulted in which casualties were sustained on both sides. Meanwhile the residences of other constables of the organization were visited and a number of constables were kidnapped and carried over the border. While the attack was proceeding on a home at Enniskillen, the police hearing firing, rushed to the scene and captured eleven of the assailants and three automobiles, containing rifles, revolvers and bombs. Extensive kidnappings were also reported in County Sligo. Near Clones, in South Fermanagh, about twenty "B. Specials" and sons of Unionist farmers were kidnapped. The raiders accidentally met a lorry when called to halt, opened fire. Another party of raiders met the second lorry and fired, wounding a number of the Specials. Another lorry came on the scene to the rescue of comrades.

CRAIG BLAMES BRITAIN.
BELFAST, Feb. 8. Premier Craig of Ulster issued a manifesto declaring that the British Government was responsible for today's kidnapping outrages, because of its demoralization of special constabulary following the Irish truce.

COLLINS'S OPINION.
DUBLIN, Feb. 8. Michael Collins, head of the Provisional Government of the Irish Free State, in an interview with reference to the raids in North Ireland said, "It was what I feared and what any sensible person would expect. Naturally the people whose feelings were outraged by the impending Derry executions would take some action of this kind, and the blame lies with those who delayed, until the last moment, a decision of the fate of the Derry prisoners." The announcement was made yesterday that the three Sinn Feiners sentenced to be executed on February 9th, in Londonderry jail, had been reprieved. It is stated here that when Collins was in London recently he warned the British authorities what was likely to happen. It is believed here that the release of the captured Unionists will be speedily arranged, now that the Derry prisoners have been released. Collins, however, said he thought the exasperation in County Monaghan was so keen at the detention of the men that some of the Unionists kidnapped by the raiders would be held until the Monaghan men in Londonderry are released.

CANADIAN GOVERNMENT AND RELIEF WORK.
OTTAWA, Feb. 8. Speedily mounting wage demands of the men for whom work was provided by the Federal Government at Ottawa to relieve their distress, have led to a discontinuance of work and hundreds of men who have been receiving $4.00 per day will be jobless. The men were started early in the winter building a retaining wall on Rideau Canal. At first they were paid thirty cents an hour, but received increases until they were getting $4.00 per day.

CANADA'S DEBT.
OTTAWA, Feb. 8. The total net debt of Canada on January 31 was $2,372,585,984, an increase of $63,862,971 over January 31st, 1921.

FORMER TRANSPORT MEETS FIERY END.

Judgment in Cigarette Case.
 THE CENTRAL DISTRICT COURT.

Mr. H. J. Brownrigg, Minister of Finance and Customs vs. Gregory Green.

This is an action taken upon the information of Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, Minister of Finance and Customs, against Gregory Green of Cape Broyle, charging him with the unlawful manufacture of cigarettes contrary to the provisions of Section 36 of the Revenue Act 1905.

In his evidence, the Defendant, in his evidence, stated that he kept a shop at Cape Broyle where he sold tobacco and cigarettes. On the 11th ultimo, Customs Inspector John, with Constable Lee, visited his store, questioned him about his tobacco and cigarettes. The Defendant told the officers he sold the tobacco and cigarettes that he used to smoke Gema and Virgatus. When in town on January 11th, he purchased a cigarette machine from S. Poirer's. He had three cigarettes left from some he had previously made from a package of Vanity brand tobacco, which makes about thirty six cigarettes. Of the three cigarettes he gave Tobin and Lee one each and smoked the third himself. He used to give him the machine about $30 in the evening Constable Lee came to the Defendant's store, asked if he had any cigarettes left. Lee gave him twenty cents on the counter and the Defendant to give him the machine. There were eleven cigarettes, which he had made after the visit of the officers. He gave Constable Lee ten for the twenty cents. The Defendant had not sold any cigarettes except the ten to Constable Lee, which he had made with the cigarette machine. Section 36 of the Revenue Act, under which this action is taken, states "It shall be unlawful to manufacture cigarettes except under the license of the Minister of Finance and Customs, who may grant such license, under application, to any person who has had no charge against him for the offence." Defendant charged to the applicant." Defendant had no license. It was conceded by Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., for the defence, that there was no breach of the Section and he quoted Sections 38 and 40 of the Revenue Act concerning the whole spirit of the Act, that there was no offence as manufacturing for sale means by some process peculiar to a factory or place of that character if the Defendant had a place with machinery, and was engaged in no other work but making cigarettes, that would mean a factory. The selling was a purely gratuitous act to oblige the Constable.

The question for me to decide is—has the Defendant manufactured cigarettes in violation of Section 36 as quoted. The word "Manufacture" says Abbott C. J. in Rex vs. Peter, "has been generally understood to denote, either a thing made with his hands, or a thing made by machinery for its own sake and sale as such." The International Dictionary Vol. IV, quoted by Br. Barron, B.L. for the prosecution, defines "Manufacture" as "The operation of making goods or wares of any kind, the production of articles from raw or prepared materials, or the assembly of these articles into forms, or the combination of these articles, or the hand labour or machinery."

The Defendant had simply rolled tobacco in papers with his fingers, and made the cigarettes for his own use or gave a few to his friends. I would not consider such to be an illegal act, but the making of cigarettes, by the Defendant with a cigarette machine and afterwards putting them into trade by selling them in his shop to Constable Lee, in my opinion, a breach of the provisions of Section 36 of the Revenue Act 1905. For the purpose of the prosecution it would not have any difference if he had made a dozen instead of ten cigarettes, the number does not affect the principle. This is, however, merely a technical and not a vital breach of the Act. I therefore find the Defendant guilty of the offence of the sum of One Dollar and costs of this day's imprisonment.

At St. John's this 7th day of February, A.D. 1922.
 F. J. MORRIS, Judge.
 Mr. J. A. Barron, B.L. for the Prosecution.
 Mr. W. J. Higgins, K.C., for the Defence.

Whitbourne Notes.

Everything has gone on quietly and uneventfully here since the passing of the Christmas season.

Fortunately our train service has continued to date to operate daily, in spite of several big snow storms and temporary interruption. The sweetest music we can hear at this dreary season of the year, is the chery whistle of the "iron-horse" bound East or West. (One feels like touching wood right now!) When the trains cease running Whitbourne becomes a deserted village, indeed.

Miss Jean Butler, daughter of Rev. E. A. and Mrs. Butler, of Sandy Point, spent her Xmas vacation here, with Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Sparkes, returning to Spencer College Lodge, accompanied by her school friend, Miss Ada Sparkes. We think both young ladies thoroughly enjoyed their Xmas holidays.

Miss M. Bartlett, who spent her vacation at her home at Barened, returned here early in January, reopening the C. E. School on the 9th inst.

Mr. Gordon Sparkes who was seriously ill, of a severe chill, bordering on pneumonia for some weeks, is now well again, and able to get at work at the railway office. His friends are glad to see him out once more.

Whooping-cough has been very prevalent here of late, most of the younger children suffering from the distressing malady.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hutchings lost their infant son, of seven months, the little one dying of convulsions, after Whooping-cough, on the 27th inst and was laid to rest, in the Anglican Cemetery, on Sunday afternoon, 29th Jan. Condolences.

Little Mildred Noseworthy, who was seriously ill of pneumonia, is now well again, thanks to our good doctors treatment.

Several cases of Scarlet Fever were reported here in January, but it now appears to have died out, owing to prompt measures being taken by the medics.

We are glad to learn that Mr. Edward Mercer, son of Mr. John Mercer, whose foot was so severely cut, while felling wood for fuel some weeks ago, is doing well in hospital at St. John's, and hopes soon to be able to leave that institution.

Mrs. Abram Peddle, who has been ill since Christmas, is, we regret to hear, obliged to go to hospital for an operation for appendicitis in the near future. Mrs. Peddle, who is President of the branch of the C.E.W.A. here, will be much missed by the sisters at their week-end gatherings this winter. Her friends hope for her complete restoration to health.

Mrs. Petipas, sr., who has been poorly of late, is now much improved in health.

Mr. Edward Tiple, Station-agent, left for Burin last week to attend his sister's funeral, the latter having passed to the Great Beyond in New York, U.S.A. Mr. Tiple accompanied the body of the deceased lady to Burin, where the funeral was to take place. Condolences to the bereaved families.

A sad occurrence took place here this morning when a middle aged man, whose name is Smith, fell in the street, near the station, and was picked up in an apparently dying condition by the section men and conveyed to the waiting-room in the station shortly before 8 a.m. All possible was done to endeavour to restore the poor man, but he passed away soon after. We understand the deceased comes from Hants Harbour, T.B., and was mate on board the Daisy. Mr. Smith's sudden death will be a shock to his relatives and friends, with whom we sincerely sympathize. The remains will be confined and sent home the first train to Heart's Content district.

Rev. C. Jeffrey, who visited Blacktown not long since, could get no train back, and was obliged to walk home, carrying his bag, which is never a very light one.

Mrs. H. Mercer returned from a business trip to town on the 26th inst by express.

Miss M. Jeffrey, who spent a couple of weeks in the city, returned home on the same date.

Mrs. C. E. Hunt was also a passenger on the express train travelling to Glovertown, Alexander Bay, to visit relatives.

After a spell of frosty weather and small blizzards, a mild day and breeze is now unwelcome to-day. Now the snow has settled down considerably, the roads will improve somewhat. Great drifts have rendered the woodsmen's task of gathering fuel a heavy and difficult one the past two weeks.

Here "Candlemas Day" was fair and fine (and we hope) half the winter is left behind. This version is much more cheerful than the other couplet, and

The funeral of the late James H. Monroe, which took place yesterday afternoon, was largely attended despite the unfavorable weather conditions. A guard of honour from St. John's Lodge, A.F. & M. was in attendance, whilst the employees of the Ropewalk and Tobacco Factory made up the first part of the cortege. The services in the Mortuary Chapel in the Church of England Cemetery and at the graveside were conducted by the Rev. E. C. Earp and the Rev. Clarence Moulton of St. Thomas's, of which church the late Mr. Monroe was a prominent member and official.

MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR WARTS

I. O. F. Installation.
On Friday, Feb. 3rd, the Cable Hall, Bay Roberts, was the scene of a meeting of more than usual interest in connection with the order. The proceedings opened with the Installation of Officers for the coming year, although much regret was felt on receiving word from the District Deputy, Bro. W. E. Bradbury of Court Cabiville, Heart's Content, saying it was impossible for him to attend, owing to travelling conditions. The ceremony was ably carried out by the P.O.R. Bro. Butt, who installed the officers in the following order:—
Commissioned Officers:—C.D.—Bro. D. G. Fraser, elected.
C. Phyc.—Dr. Pritchard, elected.
Honorary Officers:—J.P.C.R.—Bro. A. George.
Elected Officers:—C.R.—Bro. R. A. Russell, elected.
V.C.R.—Bro. S. A. Smith, elected.
R.S.—Bro. R. J. Mercer, re-elected.
F.S.—Bro. W. E. Mercer, elected.
Orator.—Bro. Rev. J. O. Britnell, re-elected.

S.W.—Bro. C. C. Butt, re-elected.
J.W.—N. French, elected.
S.B.—M. French, elected.
J.B.—W. J. Mercer, elected.

The Court loses much in the resignation from office of Bro. A. George C.R. and R. W. Myers, F.S., who for the past three years have laboured immensely for the good and welfare of the order.
At 9.15 p.m. the meeting closed when the ladies assembled for a social evening. Refreshments were served, music and dancing was indulged in until the early hours of the morning. The National Anthem brought the affair to a close.

State Schools Hotly Debated.

CLUB VOTES FOR STATE SCHOOLS IN PREFERENCE TO PRESENT SYSTEM.
In the opinion of the Cathedral debating club the present system of education in Newfoundland is not good enough for the country, and State Schools would be more beneficial. The subject was debated last night, and the affirmative side won with a big majority.

SPEAKERS.
The resolution read: "That State Schools would be more beneficial to the country than the present system." The set speakers were: affirmative, J. R. Smallwood and H. Hooke; the negative, Lawrence Cullen and James Jacobs. Besides the leaders the following speakers took part from the floor of the club: Harold Hawkins, G. Laite, Harold Smith and W. Furneaux. It was a most interesting night, possibly the most interesting and informative for the season.

AFFIRMATIVE.
The affirmative side indicated the present system as inefficient, inadequate and wasteful. By its products could the present system be judged. Its percentage of illiteracy was 17, the highest in the British Empire, the province of Quebec coming next with 11 per cent. Scotland had 4 p.c., England 5, and New Zealand and Australia 1 p.c.

The present system had to maintain 1400 poorly paid, (mostly untrained) teachers in 1200 wretchedly built, wretchedly maintained schools. The average salary for these teachers was: male, $548, female $322. Many of them had not even passed their Primary examinations. There was a shameful waste of effort and of money, caused by a super-abundance of schools and too many teachers. Certain small places had two and three poorly operated, poorly maintained schools where the community could support only one.

State schools would mean that all schools should be maintained by the State, and subsidized by the State. There would be free and compulsory education, paid for in a special school tax levied on all adults. It would mean the elimination of competition, overlapping and waste in education. It would mean well trained, efficient teachers. So far as religion was concerned, it could be taught in the schools—even in school hours—by the clergy or others of the various denominations, by taking all the children of that denomination apart for an hour a day or a week. There were state schools in United States, France, Germany, Switzerland, Canada, Norway, Holland, South Africa, Australia, Japan and latterly China.

NEGATIVE.
The negative side almost confined its case to the discussion of what education was. Education was not mere instruction. It was the forming of character. And character was not formed merely by education or learning. Religion was vital, and religious instruction essential. In state schools, they maintained, religious instruction would not be permitted.

So far as the figures of illiteracy in Newfoundland were concerned, the negative accepted them, but wished to make some qualifications. There had been good progress in the cutting down of the percentage of illiteracy in this country. For example, in 1891—31 years ago—the percentage was 62 percent of the population. Then, in 1901, it had been reduced to 51 percent. Now it was down to 17 percent. In 1891 there were 647 schools in Newfoundland. In 1919 there were 1221 schools. The negative thought that the fault with our present system of education was lack of sufficient funds. The teachers were wretchedly paid, and in most cases were not trained. The teaching profession was regarded mostly as a mere stepping-stone to something else. This should not be. Well trained teachers were essential, if our system of education was to be better.—COM.

Religions That Trap Women.

STORMONT HALLIDAY, in Pearson's Weekly.)
We are faced to-day with a danger to our midst far greater and far more widespread than most people realize. It lies in the bogus religions founded by unscrupulous impostors, often with the deliberate intention of luring women into their clutches.

Though the members of these religions are not all fanatics, they are ever ready to fall an easy prey to the glib-tongued impostor who claims to mystic nature to be a saint.

Some such as St. Vincent of the "Order of Love," Dr. Dowle, the "Siam" and "Siam" religions, founder of the "Siam" religion, are but a franchise of the "Siam" religion, and are but a franchise of the "Siam" religion.

Next he excites curiosity by wearing strange clothes and adopting an unusual mode of life. Then he sets out to make converts. The majority are duped by cunning appeals to their highest and noblest emotions, but others—the weak minded—obtain by a form of terrorism.

A common method is the "snowball prayer." The woman marked down as the victim receives one day a type-written sheet, at the top of which is a prayer couched in mystic language. Beneath it are the following instructions:

"If you wish to avoid divine wrath, repeat this prayer every day. Do so, and all will be well; fail, and you will be yours. I command you to send a copy of the prayer and of these instructions to one of your friends each day for ten days. Do not sign it, lest they should fail to believe, Obey, and blessings will be showered on you; disobey, and the visit of wrath will be opened."

Advertising the Movement.
The particular communication quoted is signed "The Prophet Elias." The recipient sends copies to her friends, who are so frightened that they do the same to their friends, and so the new movement obtains wide advertisement.

One of the worst cases of recent years was that of Frank Sandford, who founded a sect known as the "Holy Ghosters."

Such was his influence over the wealthy women who flocked to hear him that within a few months a temple costing $200,000 had been erected. He now assumed the name of Elijah, whilst Holland, his second-in-command, called himself Moses.

Wealth poured into his coffers, but before long suspicion was aroused. Converts, mostly women, went into his temple and did not reappear. Eventually the building was raided, and an appalling discovery was made. It was filled with a throng of pale terror-stricken creatures scarcely recognizable as human beings. Most of them were in the last stages of emaciation, and many had lost their reason.

Sent to Prison for Six Years.
The sect was broken up, but not for long. Elijah's next move was to purchase two ships, the Kingdom Gone and the Cornet, and to form "The Squadron of the Holy Ghost."

Carrying more than eighty women amongst their passengers, these ships sailed for years over the face of the seas. They had never any provisions of their own, but begged food from every vessel that they sighted.

Sandford's fortune was by this time immense, but he appears to have spent little of it on his flock. Finally for ten years for causing the death by starvation of six of his followers.

Another curious case is that of a clever impostor who called himself Dr. Ottoman Zar Adush Hanih. He began by collecting a following of wealthy women, on whose vanity he preyed by offering them the secret of eternal youth. His greatest coup was the securing of the widow of a wealthy contractor, and her twelve-year-old son, who was heir to half a million pounds.

The headquarters of the sect was a magnificent building, the "Temple of the Sun," in which the boy soon found himself confined. He was hailed as the Sun God and fed solely on white grapes and beer in order to increase his divinity.

Violets, Rose Leaves, and Sand.
The Mazdaznanites, as they called themselves, rapidly increased in number, and Hanih's bank balance soon reached £200,000. Before initiation the disciples were starved and tortured in horrible ways.

Once they had become full members of the Temple they were put on a diet of violets, rose leaves, and sand. They were compelled to worship the boy god, and to do homage to Hanih by kissing his feet, and performing the most menial tasks for him.

Those who made him special offerings—one presented him with a gold-embroidered robe which cost £700—were raised to high honours by being appointed priestesses or members of the "inner circle." Disobedience was severely punished, but any woman who obeyed implicitly was told that she might become the mother of "the future Messiah."

Eating Three Steaks a Day.
Hanih was pledged to live like his followers on flowers and fruit, but it was discovered one day that he was consuming as many as three juicy steaks a day! The climax came when the boy's uncle obtained an order from the courts that he should be given up. The widow fled with her son, Hanih was arrested, and the sect came to an end.

There is still a more hideous aspect of the question. There are certain people whose diseased brains are filled with the lust of killing. They found religions whose main principle is that of sacrifice, and as a rule they obtain highly-strung, hysterical women as their accomplices. Voodooism, with its horrible human sacrifices, always accomplished by priestesses, is by no means dead. It is but a few years since its inner ring, "The Human Five," butchered five whole families, each of five members.

The doings of an appalling sect of fanatics known as "The Devil Chasers" were exposed not long ago. Their leader proclaimed that the blood sacrifice was essential to salvation, and orgies that cannot be described took place in this and kindred sects.

One woman was sacrificed in order to "drive the devils out of her"; another was prevailed upon to drown her baby for the same purpose; a third burnt herself alive at the stake.

There is no more dastardly creature on the face of the earth than the man who founds a sham cult for the purpose of robbing women of their self-respect, their dignity, or their money.

Long Service Rewarded.
Yesterday at the Government House His Excellency the Governor bestowed the Imperial Service Medal on ex-Inspector of Public Health Wm. O'Brien, in recognition of his forty two years service in the interest of the Colony. Amongst those present at the ceremony were Messrs. W. J. Higgins, J. G. Higgins, Inspector General Hutchings, Dr. Brehm, Dr. V. P. Burke, Health Inspector Lawlor, W. S. Dunphy, and M. O'Regan. Mr. O'Brien came to this country from Ireland nearly fifty years ago. Joining the police force his attention to duty earned for him speedy promotion, and the appointment to the position of Health Inspector. His duties in this latter service he carried out fearlessly.

REASONS WHY WM. RIMUS PRAISES DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

His Backache is Gone and His Rest is Unbroken So He Will Turn Again to Dodd's Kidney Pills if His Trouble Returns.

Quadrville, Ont., Feb. 8th (Special).—"I can truly say that I get great relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Such is the verdict of Mr. William Rimus, a well known and highly respected resident here. And here is the reason why Mr. Rimus is so positive.

"Before I used Dodd's Kidney Pills I had backache all the time," he states. "And I had to get up once or twice every night and now I have no trouble at all."

"I only used two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. But if ever I am troubled with my kidneys again I certainly will use Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are known all over Canada as a standard kidney remedy. They have made their reputation by doing good to people who suffered from any form of kidney disease.

Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick kidneys.

THE ROMANCE OF THE OFFICE BUILDING.

Don't you think a large office building in one of our big cities is a wonderful place? When you have occasion to pass through the halls of such a building, don't you like to glance, as you pass, at the signs on the doors, and realise the multitude of interests that, spreading out all over the countryside, have their centres in this acre or half acre of the world.

Walk With Me Down the Corridor. Walk with me, for instance, down the corridor of a typical office building in any one of our large cities. First we pass the office of an artisan well known company. Its activities are I know not how many hundreds of miles away, but the brain that controls and sells the product is functioning behind those glass doors. Next comes a teachers agency and next the headquarters of the Eastern Granite Co. Monuments and then the local agency of a tooth-brush that prophylactically brushes the teeth of a nation. Go back, looking at the doors on the other side and we find the selling agency of a big garment factory, a ship insurance firm, a talking machine company, the headquarters of a cotton broker, the headquarters of a wholesale importing firm, and the purveyors of plantings and buttons for women's clothes.

Pass the elevator and go around the corner and you shall find a dozen more activities as varied, all reaching tentacles out into the lives of thousands of men, focussing interests that reach into the far corners of the earth, representing a civilization of infinite complexity and infinite ramifications. And these two corridors that we have travelled together are but a tenth of the space on this floor, and this floor but one of ten (or perhaps 20 or 30) in this building.

The Centre of 10,000 Lives.

Do you wonder that I think an office building is a wonderful place—if you stop to sense it? Not just as an office building but as a centering of all these vast activities?

It makes one realize the complexities of modern civilization as nothing else can. Here are several hundred people, not one actually producing anything with his hands, yet each one necessary (with perhaps a few unimportant exceptions) to the warp and woof of the work of producing things and then getting them distributed to the people who want them.

Could You Tank It Out!
I am not one of those people who think that our present economic system is ideal and that no one ought to talk of altering it. Far, far from it. But I have come to realize how infinitely delicate and complex it is and how slowly any change must be wrought if we are not to do unappealing hurt to everyone.

The office building with its complicated and carefully planned construction is a perfect symbol of the towering structure of modern civilization. The plan of the building may not be ideal but while people are working in it you cannot yank out the ground floor or make some similar change without unappealing catastrophe.

German Paper Money a Quarter Trillion.

GOVERNMENT REALIZES THAT SOMETHING MUST BE DONE TO CONTROL PRINTING PRESSES.

The government has emphasized the necessity of Premier Lloyd George's proposals in regard to limiting the issue of paper money by printing the Reichsbank statement for the end of the year, showing an increase of almost five billion marks in circulation during the final week and a grand total which lacks only a few millions of 122,000,000,000 marks.

The note circulation, which was about 70,000,000,000 at the close of 1920, therefore has almost doubled during the year. The amount of discounted Treasury bills in the Reichsbank hands has more than doubled during the year, the government's unsecured indebtedness to the bank being more than 122,000,000,000 marks, compared with sixty billions at the close of 1920. The bank's holdings of the government's paper increased in the final year more than 15,000,000,000 marks, part representing direct government borrowings for that period, the rest in treasury certificates, which private holders unlocked for the Reichsbank to raise cash for their own requirements. The total amount of this floating debt in the Reichsbank and private hands is approaching a trillion marks, if such astronomical figures have any meaning to the reader. The precise amount will be revealed in a few days, when the treasury statement of receipts and expenditures will be published.

DANGER OF JUST LETTING A COLD RUN ITS COURSE

Public Warned to Beware of a Three Days' Cough and Break It Up Before it's Too Late, by Taking Asprolox, the new Scientific Discovery.

Money Refunded If Asprolox Fails to Bring Relief.

Leading authorities are using every effort to arouse the public to the danger of letting common colds just run their course, for it is definitely known that many serious lung complications such as pneumonia, grippe, etc., develop from colds that hang on persistently.

Colds are curable and preventable, and Asprolox provides the safest, surest and quickest, as well as the most practical, treatment for colds yet discovered.

Asprolox is almost magical in its effect. The first dose usually stops the tendency to sneezing and coughing, and the second and third doses usually suffice to stop the progress of a cold altogether.

The wonderful efficiency of Asprolox is best shown by the fact that all druggists are instructed to refund money where it fails to give satisfactory results. feb 9, 14, 16

Semi-Tropical Britain.

How many people know that there is one part of Great Britain where neither snow nor frost are ever seen or known at Christmas time. How many folk are aware that there is one spot in the British Islands where, as a general rule, you may walk out under the warm sun on December 25 each year, and see semi-tropical plants growing and looking well, whilst the rest of Britain is cold, frozen, and perhaps under thick layers of snow?

For the Scilly Isles, just off the Coast of Cornwall—where the daffodils and other bulb-flowers come from in such profusion in earliest spring—have such a genial and equable climate that they practically know nothing of snow or frost; on them the warm sun is often beaming at Christmas, whereas it may be bitterly cold in London and freezing hard in Birmingham.

At Treco the residence of the "Lord-Proprietor of the Islands," as Major Dorrien-Smith is called officially, you may walk through the famous extensive semi-tropical gardens on a winter's day and see hundreds of plants, bushes, and great trees from places like Chili, India, Africa, Australia, New Zealand, growing, flourishing, and often budding, just as if they were at home in the hotter regions of the earth, just as if England were a spot boasting a climate as suitable for them as their own native one!

The climate and outlook in the Scillys at this season is usually more comparable to that of some islands off Australia, were it not for the strong winds that rage now and then, as a sequel to the Atlantic gales, during the six months between October and March.

When a district can boast an average temperature of 50 degrees through the winter, and of 60 degrees through the summer, as Scilly can, such an equable climate makes for success when growing delicate and foreign trees and plants in a way which other British places can only envy and marvel at.

Those gardens at Treco, through which so many thousands of folk walk with delight each summer, are a perpetual source of interest and surprise. Here may be found blooming in full glory New Zealand trees which, like the Indian banyan, send down from their high branches aerial shoots till these reach the ground, where they again take root and form new trees! Here are late-palms from the Canary Isles; the cassia from the Cape, with its long yellow flowers; the Madeira tree lily-of-the-valley; the Tasmanian pepper-tree, with its red stem; the yew tree from Chili; the white iris Robinsonian, from the Pacific Isles; also the Nepal palm; the banana tree from Algeria; and probably, most surprising of all, the desert-palm from the Sahara.

You have to stay in Scilly from about December 1 to March to understand how wonderful and astonishing the great flower-harvest of earlier spring really is. You have to see the peasantry there wading in fields of yellow daffys, even in the first week of February, or lost in an amazing array of Madonna lilies whilst frost may still be gripping the rest of England, to see them sending down the rough roads of the various islands cart after cart packed with glowing floral masses, so as to catch the morning boat to England, if you want to fully comprehend what this incredible winter harvest means to the good folk of Scilly.

RESPECTING THE LAW.

The law decreed in olden times that witches should be burned; the courts abhorred the heinous crime, and all their pleading spurned. My grandfathers thought they ought to ditch all statutes of the kind; he thought the burning of a witch was not a sport refined. "But while such laws are in the book," my grandfathers used to sigh, "around us daily we must look for witches we may fry." Was there a beldame anywhere, who owned a cat or snake, my grandfathers traced her to her lair, and tied her to the stake. He said, "The law must be obeyed while men for justice seek, and though I hate to burn a jade, I burn one every week. I doubt if witches really work much evil and distress, although they're roasted by the kirk, and by the law and press. But it is not for me to say what laws are right or wrong; I've built a roaring fire to-day, so, witches, come along." The law he doubted was repealed long since, as fierce and vain; old women now may go as fast, with black cats in their train. And if some acrobatic dame can on a broomstick ride, the people will applaud her game, and point to her with pride. The law that's evil or absurd will from the volume fade; but while it is the nation's word, let's see that it's obeyed.

Price of Sugar Will Rise, Says Hoover Report.

TO 500,000 TON DROP IN PRODUCTION.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Higher prices are predicted by the Department of Commerce after having analyzed the present situation of the sugar market. The Secretary of the Department of Commerce is that the dissolution of the Sugar Commission and the present low prices will not be maintained for long. The report states that the present low prices are due to the fact that the production of sugar is less than the demand, and that the price of sugar will rise as a result of this situation.

Summary of Views. The "invisible" stock of sugar is estimated to be 1,200,000 tons, all congested in the Western Hemisphere. The amount of subnormality is variously estimated at from 200,000 to 400,000 tons and is no doubt due to apprehension of further fall in prices. The probable world production for 1922 is estimated to be less than 400,000 to 500,000 tons than the production for 1921. The consumption for 1922 is likely to be larger than in 1921 and with general economic recovery should exceed production and thus absorb some or all of the surplus. The present price of $1.85c for cost and freight raw sugar is the lowest level for twenty years and is below the cost of production about 90 per cent of both domestic and Cuban sugar.

Views follows in full:

1. There is an abnormal "visible" world surplus of sugar amounting to about 1,200,000 tons, all congested in the Western Hemisphere. 2. The "invisible" stocks, that is sugar in the hands of distributing trades, wholesale and retail, is far below normal. The amount of subnormality is variously estimated at from 200,000 to 400,000 tons and is no doubt due to apprehension of further fall in prices. 3. The probable world production for 1922 is estimated to be less than 400,000 to 500,000 tons than the production for 1921. 4. The consumption for 1922 is likely to be larger than in 1921 and with general economic recovery should exceed production and thus absorb some or all of the surplus. 5. The present price of $1.85c for cost and freight raw sugar is the lowest level for twenty years and is below the cost of production about 90 per cent of both domestic and Cuban sugar.

6. This low price of sugar has resulted not only from the fear of the large visible surplus but also from the apprehension of financial difficulties in the sugar market that have been current during the past few months. It has been assumed that in the falling market there might be forced realization of the loans made against existing surplus stocks of sugar; that there might not be bankruptcy among sugar producers; that the dissolution of the Cuban Sugar Commission on January 1 might result in considerable liquidation of sugar. 7. The Cuban Sugar Commission was dissolved on January 1, and it is now demonstrated that no appreciable forced liquidation is likely to take place. The banks generally have been well covered down to the low prices of sugar realization. There appears to be sufficient money for financing the new crop wherever it can be produced on a reasonable basis of cost and the Cuban Government seems to be in a fair way to solve its financial difficulties. 8. The market is now entirely uninfluenced by any artificial control and the present low prices level manifestly cannot long continue without restricting the production of sugar below the world's demands and again creating high prices.

Harvesting the Seaweed.

Among the important features of the agricultural industries along the northern coast of France, in normal times, is the harvesting of seaweed. As soon as the receding waters permit, the seaweed gatherers fall diligently to work. Soon every rock and ledge is shaved of its brown, slimy fleece, and left as bare as the back of a shorn sheep. Then preparations are made for an attack on the reefs so numerous along the southern coast of the English Channel. Everything that will float is pressed into service. Huge rafts are constructed, and next morning, with the current of the ebbing tide in their favor, they are towed by the people in the boats eight or ten miles out from the coast. Low water leaves them stranded on the reefs, and all hands make the best of their time. The worker kneels on the dripping weed, grasps a handful in the left hand, and, with a stick in the right, cuts it off close to the rock and places it in a bag. As soon as he has cut off as much as he can carry, the sack is taken on the back to the raft, upon which it is received by men with pitchforks, stacked and securely roped. Towing the heavy laden rafts to the shore is tedious work, and progress is slow. The wet harvesters are soon chilled to the bone by the keen east wind that always prevails in this latitude during the month of March, the harvesting season for seaweed. The morning ebb tide leaves the rafts and their spoils of seaweed high and dry on the smooth, white beach. They are constantly surrounded by a crowd of people with all descriptions of vehicles. All work together hauling the weed to the field already prepared to receive the precious fertilizer. That it may be most effective, the seaweed must be got into the ground as soon as possible after it leaves its native element.

Huge Plaudits Tendered Nickel Soloists.

CROWDED HOUSES WITNESS MID WEEK SHOW.

The Nickel was the centre of attractions both yesterday afternoon and night, when Miss Ruth Chase and Mr. George Dale again were the recipients of much applause from delighted spectators. Mr. Dale and Miss Chase have won a warm spot in the hearts of the music loving public of St. John's who readily enjoy and appreciate artistry such as these. Last night's renditions will be repeated to-night, and in conjunction with the vocal program the picture "Her Beloved Villain" will again be shown. "The man behind" a motion picture is seldom thought of by the movie patron. He is the genius who cuts the exposed film in a way to get the maximum laughs and action, inserting those cleverly illustrated titles which add so much to the production "Her Beloved Villain." Wanda Hawley has never been seen in so charming a role as she is in this picture. To those who missed this exceptionally well-balanced feature program we would advise seeing it to-night.

"THROUGH LIFE'S WINDOWS." The remarkable picture of the eye, can be seen at the Crescent Theatre to-night. Feb. 8.

Statement of Child Welfare Association.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—Will you kindly publish the enclosed financial statement of the Child Welfare Association for the year 1921. While it is satisfactory to be able to show a balance in the Bank of $1018.90 as of December 31st, 1921, yet this amount will not be nearly sufficient to cover the expenses of the ensuing year, especially as it is hoped to procure the services of another Community Nurse and so extend this most important branch of the work of Child Welfare. It is to be hoped that despite the hard times, every one will continue loyally to support the movement and that as many as possible will enroll as a member of the Association for the small fee of $1.00 per year. I need not point out how vital it is to the future of Newfoundland that the Child Welfare Association should have a whole-hearted support of the community.

Note From Mr. Randell.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—A few days ago an item appeared in your paper with reference to a Capt. Randell who rescued a wrecked crew somewhere in America. I believe, the same who was spoken of in the early autumn in connection with the motor boat incident, and it said he was a son of the Captain Randell who was in the Church ship "Amazon" and "Lavrock." Would you please contradict this, as the Capt. Randell referred to has no connection with our family. The three brothers are as follows: Capt. I. R. Randell in the employ of A. H. Murray & Co., Capt. J. T., now a member of the firm of Holloway, Randell & Co., Halifax, and Capt. Egbert, of the Canadian Aviator. They are my brothers and neither of them has ever been sailing from a U.S. firm. By doing this you will oblige.
Yours sincerely,
M. P. RANDELL,

Clearing the Line.

PLUGS NOW WORKING—TRAINS HELD UP—EXPRESS LEAVES TO-MORROW.
The storm has now subsided along the railway and clearing operations have been started to-day. No trains are running but the routes are at work, and a plough special has been sent to Carleton Place. The snow storm swept the whole line, including all branches. At Harbor Grace there are drifts to a height of 10 to 12 feet. The average height of drifts on other parts of the line is from 4 to 8 feet. A freight train with Hon. W. F. Coak's private car attached is held between Clarendville and Northern Eight. It is expected that the line will be cleared to-day and an express, the first since Sunday, will leave for Port aux Basques to-morrow with foreign mails and passengers.

Snow-Swept Land.

TRAINS BATTLING THROUGH DRIFTS.
Roads blocked, villages isolated, trains delayed, tram-car services suspended, telegraph and telephone wires torn down—these are some of the results in the Midlands and north of England and in Scotland of the blizzards which have swept the country during the past few days. Although yesterday was finer in the south, snow was falling heavily in many northern areas.

After struggling through the snow-storm which swept North Staffordshire on Sunday, Mr. Arthur Ellama, 58, of Tunstall, dropped dead when he reached the Wesley-place Sunday School, where he was a teacher. Severe hardships were experienced by men employed on the railway lines that run through Westmorland and over the Pennine Hills. The snow ploughs had to turn out at 4 a.m. yesterday to break up the big drifts between Barnard Castle and Kirby Stephen. The mail train from Penrith to Kirby Stephen was two hours late and was again snowed up a mile beyond the latter station.

The mail train from Hull, due at Scarborough at 6 a.m., was more than three hours late yesterday, having run into a snowdrift near Malton, which made progress impossible until a second engine was sent to the rescue. In the Fen district of Lincolnshire the difficulty of dealing with the snow is made greater by the fact that frost had begun to fall 10 deg. of heat had been registered and many rivers and watercourses had been frozen over. Many schools are closed as the children cannot get to school, and several motorists who ventured out on Sunday night had to abandon their cars.

Marooned on Island in Far North.

Mrs. Annabel Wight, of Dominion No. 6, has recently received a letter from her son, Sgt. James Wight, of the northwest mounted police, who is now stationed in the Hudson Bay district. Sgt. Wight had just returned from a three weeks' trip to Baffin Land with Capt. Mead, of the H. B. boat Nascope. The Nascope was bringing reindeer from Norway to Baffin Land, where Stefansson had his reindeer ranch, and Capt. Mead invited Sgt. Wight to make the trip. They had quite an exciting time landing the deer from the ship. Sgt. Wight expects to do considerable trapping this winter. He thought he would be on an island in the middle of the harbor this winter, but the Norwegian missionary got the government to fix up three rooms for him in the mission house—a bedroom, kitchen and office. He said he was quite comfortable and the government sent plenty of supplies. He sent the young fellow that went with him back to Montreal, as he got his feet frozen last winter and had to go hospital to get them fixed up.

Stanley Still at Louisburg

At noon to-day the icebreaking steamer Stanley was still at Louisburg. It was understood the steamer would have been busy at work in removing the ice jam at the entrance of the harbor, thus allowing the Newfoundland steamer Melgie, as well as the revenue cutter Restless and the Curlew to leave the port of North Sydney, the former for St. John's and the latter two for Louisburg. Evidently Capt. Blais is acting under instructions from Halifax, which is not interested in the welfare of this port. The Kyle is at Port aux Basques, the first cross-country train to reach that port being due this afternoon at 5 o'clock.—North Sydney Herald, Feb. 3.

Crossing Harbor Ice.

Automobiles and teams crossed to and from Sydney recently, taking the ice at the Leonard Fisheries Ltd. wharf and proceeding almost in a direct line to Sydney. According to those who crossed yesterday the ice is perfectly safe for traffic.—North Sydney Herald, Feb. 3.

With a saucy wild packet, and a basket of fame, belonging to New York and the Dreadnought is her name; where the strong winds do blow, and away in the Dreadnought, to the westward we go.

The Dreadnought is heading out to sea, the boys and the girls on the ship heads do rock; they will give us cheer, while the wind blows freely flow, God bless the Dreadnought wherever she may go.

The Dreadnought is waiting in the bay, for the independence to tow her; she'll be back rock where the waves do flow, the Dreadnought, to the westward we'll go.

The Dreadnought is heading down, the waves are merry, with the full of cheer; the sailors, the boys, with the girls on the ship, they'll give us cheer, while the wind blows freely flow, God bless the Dreadnought wherever she may go.

The Dreadnought is becalmed on the banks of Newfoundland, the waves are green and the sun is bright; the fish of the ocean swim around and the Dreadnought, to the westward we'll go.

The Dreadnought has arrived in the bay, the waves are merry, on the bank of the sea; the sailors and the boys, they'll give us cheer, while the wind blows freely flow, God bless the Dreadnought wherever she may go.

The Dreadnought is heading out, the waves are merry, with the full of cheer; the sailors, the boys, with the girls on the ship, they'll give us cheer, while the wind blows freely flow, God bless the Dreadnought wherever she may go.

Will Build Flour Mill.

CANADIAN FIRM WILL ERRECT MILLING PLANT IN TRINITY BAY—COST WILL BE $500,000—EMPLOYMENT FOR 400 MEN.

Chief among the several needs of Newfoundland is that of employment for its people. The lack of this has driven many thousands from the land of their birth in order that they may have an opportunity to provide for themselves and dependents. So much so has this been the case that the Dominion finds itself with a burden of debt and a stationary if not decreasing population. Such a combination does not make for prosperity.

The average Newfoundlander does not leave his island home except through sheer necessity, and there are thousands no doubt who would welcome an opportunity to return. If we are to retain the many young people who are rapidly coming of age and must of necessity take their place in the different spheres of life, as well as offer inducements to our sons and daughters, in Canada and the United States, to return, there must be a development of industry at home.

The mother country owes her greatness to a very large extent to the building up of home industries. Raw materials are purchased in all parts of the world, and British labour is employed in producing the finished article. Newfoundland cannot do better than follow the lead of old England.

The introduction of new industries will not only tend to maintain and eventually increase our population but incidentally will be the means of relieving us of the altogether too heavy railway load. Increased industry means increased freight and passenger traffic. The people of Newfoundland cannot long continue to put one million and a half dollars annually into a sinkhole.

There can be no surer industry than that which produces the food supply of the country. Newfoundland is depending wholly upon the importation of flour and other cereals for its total consumption. Our average annually is four hundred and fifty thousand barrels of flour and three quarters of a million pounds of breakfast cereals. In view of this, there offers a wonderful opportunity for the establishing and successful carrying on of a milling industry.

Mr. Roland H. Palmer, formerly of Newfoundland, and for the past 13 years a resident of Canada, where he has been connected with the growing and marketing of grain, and as a result has built up strong connections, is now in St. John's endeavouring to make arrangements for the erection of a plant. Mr. Palmer has for the past five years seen the vast possibilities of such an undertaking, and the subsequent development and has been working towards this end.

It is the intention of Mr. Palmer and those who he represents to erect a 500,000 bushel storage capacity elevator, of re-inforced concrete. A fully modern mill of an initial capacity of 1000 barrels per day and a co-oper shop to supply containers, also fully modern and fireproof storage facilities for flour. The site chosen is "Man Point," at Shoal Harbor, T.B. The proposed plant will cost approximately $500,000, and employ around 600 men.

In a further article the reasons for the choosing of the location and facts as to the practicability of such an undertaking will be given.

Shipping Notes.

S.S. Wataki sails for Sydney as soon as ice conditions permit. It is not likely that the ship will return to this port before next spring.

S.S. Meigle will take up the Seagon's route from Placentia as soon as conditions permit. The latter ship will come on here for her annual overhauling.

Schooner Gordon Moulton is loading codfish at G. M. Barr's for Pernambuco and sails during the week.

S.S. Digby left Halifax yesterday morning for this port, and if ice conditions are favourable should reach port to-morrow morning.

Schooner Astrea (Danish) which left Heering Neck on Dec. 17th with a cargo of fish for Oporto has not yet been reported. The Astrea had 4300 qts. of fish on board shipped by Mr. George Cager.

Curliana.

T. & A.K. Cup, 3rd eight first round, T. F. Armstrong's team of Blues was defeated by T. Hallett's team of Whites, score 6 to 9. R. W. Miller's team of the Blue Division was beaten by R. H. Simms' team of the Green Division, score 11 to 9; Mr. M. Butt's team of the Green Division fell down to C. R. Duder, Jr., of the Red Division, score 11 to 9; Charles R. Ayre's team of the Red Division was defeated by W. H. Crawford's of the White Division, score 11 to 6. Owing to the frost leaving the ice, the second rounds for the Squires' Cup and W. C. Job Cup could not be played last night. At the first ice, however, the games will be run off. Curlers are asked not to forget Wednesday, February 15th, which is Memorial Day. Remember! "Curlers are not short."

STOCK MARKET TALK!

Studebaker looks good for 5 to 7 points before dividend record date. It should then be a "sell" for a 5-point decline as it has enjoyed a spectacular advance recently.
