PELLY'S BRICK.

The Glynn Mills Hotel at Corner Brook is faced with Pelly's Brick. Imported Brick were to have been used, but the promoters saw a car load of Pelly's Brick being unloaded at Corner Brook and, recognizing its superior quality, actually secured enough of that car load to start up this work until further supplies could be sent them by rail.

You can have the new fashionably smooth arrangement for the fluffiest hair

THE newest hair arrangements—whether for long or for bobbed hair—are severely smooth. The hair may be waved, but it must follow closely the outlines of the head. The difficulties of giving this fashionably smooth appearance to unruly hair are easily overcome with Stacomb.

—and your hair will be just the way you want it. And it will have a lustrous gloss, too. You can get Stacomb at all drug and department stores—in jars or in tubes.

A QUEEN UNCROWNED

THE STORY IN THE LONE INN.

CHAPTER X.

"She is fainting!" cried Jacinto, springing forward in terror.

Shocked and terrified at the effect of his words, spoken without thought in the white heat of his passion, Disbrowe advanced; and alarmed, lest she were really fainting, he would have caught her, but with a great cry, she held out her arm to keep him off.

"Go! go! Leave me!" she cried, huskily, pointing with one flickering finger to the door.

"My dearest cousin!" he said, in sorrow and remorse. "What have I said? Can you ever forgive me?"

"Leave me!" she exclaimed, passionately.

"Forget my words, dear Jacquetta; forget what I said."

"Never, so help me Heaven!" she fiercely cried. "Go, and never come back! I never want to look on your face again."

There was no resisting that tone! Sorrowfully, he turned away, casting one last look behind him—a look he never forgot till his dying day.

He saw her fling herself on the sofa, her hands still tightly clasped on her breast, her face buried in the pillows. He heard a passionate, unheeded cry: "Oh, my heart! my heart!" And then the reproachful eyes of Jacinto were raised to his; the door was closed, and the young, fearless mountain queen lay uncrowned and unthroned, unscathed and disgraced, with the arrow he had sped quivering in her heart.

He had to stand for some moments himself to regain his calmness before he could knock at the library door. He turned the handle, in answer to his uncle's "Come in," and stood before him with his customary

She Is Willing to Answer Letters From Women Asking About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Halifax, Nova Scotia.—"I am a married nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to women who need a good tonic. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy or two of your little books on women's ailments. I have one which I keep to read. I will willingly answer letters from any woman asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. S. M. COLEMAN, 24 Uniacke Street, Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Could Not Sleep Nights

Dublin, Ont.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I learned about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound by reading the letters in the newspapers and tried it because I wanted to get better. I have got good results from it and I feel lot stronger, and am not troubled with such bad headaches as I used to be and am more regular. I am gaining in weight all the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. JAMES RACKO, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

composure; but with a face paler and sterner than that worthy old gentleman had ever seen him wear before.

"My dear boy," he exclaimed, pushing up his spectacles, "what is the matter?"

"Nothing," said Disbrowe, taking a chair—"at least, nothing you need disturb yourself about. I have come to thank you for the pleasant hours I have spent beneath your roof, and to announce my departure."

"Your what?" exclaimed Mr. De Vere, in consternation.

Disbrowe smiled.

"My departure. I leave to-morrow."

"To-morrow! God bless us!" said Mr. De Vere, pushing back his chair, and looking at him. "Have you gone crazy?"

"No, sir; I hope not."

"Then what has put this absurd notion into your head? And so suddenly, too! Why, last night, when you told me you were going to write to Earncliffe to-day, you had no idea—not the remotest—of leaving."

Disbrowe colored.

"Circumstances alter cases. I have changed my mind since then. I must go."

"Nonsense! You can stay if you like. Who is to make you? Who is to say must to you?"

"Ah! thereby hangs a tale!" said Disbrowe, smiling slightly. "There is one o'er the water a-sighin' for me!"

"Oh, I see!" said Mr. De Vere, a light breaking in on him. "There is, as they say of the duels, 'a lady in the case.'"

Disbrowe bowed; and a faint red tinged his cheek.

"Indeed! who is she, Alfred?"

"Miss Norma Macdonald. You remember the Macdonalds of Castle Hill, Inverness. Her father is of that ilk."

"I know them—yes. There were two brothers—Angus and Randall. And a wild scapegrace Randall was—ordinately fond of 'women and wine.' Which is her father?"

"Randall Macdonald. He is a reformed character now. His elder brother died, and all the property fell to him. He was abroad at the time, and only returned upon the death of his brother—a widower, then, with his only daughter, at the time five years old."

"Does he live at Castle Hill?"

"No, he bought a magnificent estate in Derbyshire, and has lived there ever since I can remember. I fancy he found the old manor rather dull and gloomy, and so preferred England."

"And so you are engaged to be married to her?"

"Yes, sir, I believe I am," said Disbrowe, carelessly.

"Is she handsome?"

"More—she is beautiful."

good old Scotch blood flowing in her veins. "Who was her mother?"

"Can't say. A foreign lady, I believe. Indeed, if I am not greatly mistaken, she was an American. Mr. Macdonald, I know, was in America for some time, and from several slight things, I more than once suspected she was a native of this new country. He never alluded to the subject himself. I never heard him speak of his wife in my life."

"Humph! that's odd. Perhaps—but no matter. When are you to be married?"

"When Miss Macdonald attains her nineteenth birthday."

"And when will that blessed time be?"

"Some time next November, I believe."

"You believe! You're a pretty lover! Of course, you are all impatient till the time comes!"

"Of course!" was the dry answer. Mr. De Vere looked at him with a queer smile.

"Is she rich?"

"Very—worth ten thousand a year."

"Which, with the barony of Gullford, and the earldom of Earncliffe, will be nearly a hundred thousand. Do you know you will be one of the richest peers in England one of these days, Alfred?"

"I need it, I am poor enough now."

"I suppose Earncliffe gives you a liberal allowance."

"Does he? Something like two thousand a year; and what is that to me—and with the set I move among, too?" said Disbrowe, contemptuously.

"Many a man could subsist pretty easily on that sum," said his uncle, dryly. "My yearly income does not exceed it."

Disbrowe stared.

"My dear uncle, I thought you were rich."

"Well, I am, too—as rich as I want to be."

Captain Disbrowe felt a strong inclination to whistle; but he didn't.

"My dear boy, will you let your old uncle ask you a question, without being offended?"

"Certainly, sir. Ask as many as you please."

"Then, was it you or Lord Earncliffe brought about this engagement?"

"Earncliffe."

"Ah! indeed! Do you love her, Alfred?"

"No, sir!" said the young man, coldly.

"My dear boy!"

"My dear uncle!"

And Disbrowe positively laughed in his uncle's grave face.

"But, really, this is—oh, Alfred! this marrying without love is a wretched piece of business! I wonder you should consent to such an arrangement, Alfred."

"My dear sir, what would you have? I can't do better. She is everything I can desire. I like her well enough; she loves me, with all my faults, and we will get along very well together."

"Did you ever love any one, Alfred?"

"It is late to ask that question. Of course, like every other young man, I have been in love scores of times. It is like the measles and whooping cough—we must suffer through such attacks."

New Navy Plane Does Work of Three

A sea and land plane combining the functions of three planes of the usual types has been developed by the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department in collaboration with the American aircraft industry. The plane, known as the "CS," is designed for bombing, torpedo launching, and long-range scouting. It is said to be the lightest plane for its horse-power ever built.

Another important feature is that it is able to fly with more than its own weight as a load. In fact, tests have shown that with its single engine it is able to carry a greater load than the twin-engine bombers that have been in use for the past few years.

The CS plane is powered with a Wright T-2 engine of 650 horse-power. It is quickly convertible from a seaplane into a landplane, or vice versa. The weight of the machine is about 4000 pounds. Its wings spread is 56 feet, its height 11 feet, and its length 34 feet.

Fully loaded for a long flight, the CS carries 15 barrels of gasoline and one barrel of lubricating oil. It has a range of about 2200 miles, without landing and without refueling. Its landing speed is 55 miles an hour and as a landplane its maximum speed is 105 miles an hour.

The construction is of steel and duralumin except for the wings, which are made of wood and fabric, and are so designed that they can fold back, thus effecting a marked saving in space. This plane is also designed so that it can be launched from a catapult on the deck of a battleship.

Included in the equipment is a radio set for both sending and receiving, two machine guns, and lights for night flying.

Thirty-five of the new machines have been ordered for the navy.

V. C. Lies in State

FIELD-MARSHAL'S TRIBUTE TO A SERGEANT.

"In memory of a comrade who did good service to his country," was the inscription on a wreath from Field-Marshal Lord Methuen which was one of many placed beside the bier in Bristol Cathedral on which the remains of Sergeant H. Blanshad Wood, V.C., lay in state throughout Tuesday night. Four sergeants of the Scots Guards—Wood's old regiment—were on guard in full uniform.

Thousands of people attended the funeral, including the Lord Mayor, representatives of the Corps of Commissioners, of which Wood was a member and local units of the Territorial Army.

Pipers and drummers of the Scots Guards playing a lament headed the procession to the "Soldiers' Corner" of Arnos Vale cemetery.

Sergeant Wood was awarded the V. C. for bravery at St. Python, France, on October 19, 1918, when the command of his platoon devolved on him. He also gained the Military Medal.

Disarmament Conference to Be Held in June—House of Commons to Meet Sept. 30th—Arbitration Proposals to End War Practically Finalized.

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE

GENEVA, Sept. 19. The International Conference for reduction of armaments, provided for by the draft protocol submitted by British Minister Benes of Czechoslovakia to the disarmament sub-committee of the League of Nations, will be summoned by June 16, 1925, according to statements made by members of the sub-committee this evening.

SUCCESS IN SIGHT.

GENEVA, Sept. 19. After three weeks of tense labor, success loomed over Geneva to-night, marking the efforts of the representatives of sixty nations who are striving to bring an end to all wars through disarmament, security and reduction in armaments. The protocol on arbitration and security has virtually been agreed upon, and so confident do the disarmament men feel that it will be signed that the so-called big twelve present assembly decided to recommend the convocation of a great international conference on disarmament to be held in Geneva, June 15, 1925.

RUSSIANS SEIZE WRANGLER.

MOSCOW, Sept. 19. Soviet officials express keen satisfaction over the success of the expedition of the armed transport Krasni Oktabr, "Red October," in planting the Red flag on Wrangel Island, off Northern Siberia, taking formal possession on behalf of the Soviet Republic. They believe that this action will settle the status of the Island which has been in dispute for more than half a century, rejecting the suggestion that final adjudication should be referred to the League of Nations with the declaration that both historically and ethnically the Island belongs to Russia. They regard it as an important base for a wireless station and a centre of supplies in the event of war. It now develops that Great Britain recognized Russia's right to the Island in the recent negotiations in London. The despatch of an armed transport bearing a company of infantry immediately followed the agreement. The Soviet Government prepared to lease it to others for development.

FIGHTING IN HEDJAZ.

FORT SUDAN, Sept. 19. The position of Jeddah is unchanged and Wahabi invaders have made no further advance from Taif. Refugees who are arriving at Jeddah in large numbers, say the first night after the capture of the town there was much shooting and pillaging. The number of deaths has not been ascertained.

but will possibly reach between 200 and 300, mostly residents of Mecca, which is 60 miles from Taif. Taif, the seat of the summer residence of King Hussein of Hedjaz, was occupied early this month by the Wahabite tribesmen, King Hussein's Hashimites retiring without firing a shot.

SURRENDER OF SHANGHAI A RESPONSIBILITY.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. The surrender of Shanghai to the Kiangsu forces seeking to capture it, was admitted this morning at headquarters of the defenders at Lungwha, to be a possibility. It was stated that the defending soldiers were not in retreat.

HEAVY FIGHTING REPORTED.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. General Lu Yung Hsiang, Military Governor of the Chekiang Province, who is defending Shanghai against the Kiangsu army, to-day announced his army would make a stand on the Hwangtu-Liuh line northwest of the city. Heavy fighting is reported to have occurred at Hwangtu and Liuh.

CAPTURE OF HANKOW EXPECTED.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 18. Sun Chuan Sang, Techum of Fukien and supporter of Wu Wei Fu, the Peking General, is marching against Hankow, capital of the Chekiang province, from the south and is expected to capture the city to-day.

FIRST ARMY BEARING THE BRUNT OF BATTLE.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. The revolt of the third Chekiang army defending Shanghai has thrown the brunt of the battle to-day on the first army, under command of General Ho Seng Lih, the defence commissioner, whose army was holding the line west of Shanghai against the Kiangsu forces fighting for possession of the city.

TRADES AND LABOR CONGRESS FAVOR GOVERNMENT CONTROL.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 19. With only four or five out of the 200 delegates dissenting, the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress to-day passed a resolution favoring Government control of the sale of spirituous liquors. The delegates from Quebec refrained from voting on the ground that they would not wish to try to influence the dry provinces in the matter. Delegate McLeod, of Nova Scotia, characterized the resolution as a piece of wet propaganda.

CANADIAN REFUNDING ISSUE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 19. J. A. Robb, acting Minister of Finance, announces to-day that his 1924 refunding programme has been completed by the sale of $85,000,000 Dominion Government Bonds to a strong Canadian syndicate. The issue consists of $35,000,000 two year four per cent. bonds and $50,000,000 twenty years four and a half per cent. bonds. A public offering will be made at an early date.

S.S. ARCTIC IN THE ST. LAWRENCE.

HALIFAX, N.S., Sept. 19. The Government steamer Arctic, returning from the Far North is due to arrive at Quebec on September 25th, according to a wireless report received at Halifax early this morning from the steamer. An amateur radio station IAR at Dartmouth, N.S., was in communication with the Arctic's wireless operator for two hours from 4.30 a.m. to-day. The ship reports she is now west of Anticosti.

THE PRINCE A JOURNEYMAN PRINTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. The Prince of Wales was made a journeyman printer yesterday, when he became an Honorary member of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America with dues paid for one year. He will receive to-morrow an engraved membership card which enables him to work as a printer if he needs a job.

PARLIAMENT TO MEET SEPT. 30.

LONDON, Sept. 19. Satisfied that public interest requires that the House should meet earlier than October 28th, Speaker J. H. Whitley announced to-day that the Commons will be convened on Sept. 30th. This is the date mentioned when Parliament adjourned for consideration of the Ulster Boundary Bill. The Ulster Cabinet's refusal at its last meeting to appoint a representative on the Boundary Commission makes it necessary for the British Government to introduce a Bill in Parliament by the 30th. The matter in question is to provide authorization for setting up the Boundary Commission without Ulster's participation.

REPORT OF RETREAT DENIED.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 19. There is no evidence here this morning of any retreat on part of Chekiang Army which has been defending Shanghai against Kiangsu forces; neither are there any changes noted in the positions of the armies west of here.

MINISTER CHARGED WITH MURDER.

MOUNT VERNON, N.Y., Sept. 19. While Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, a Methodist preacher of Ina, twelve miles south of here, was taken to the County jail here on a charge of murder which was in connection with the death of his wife last Friday, the body of Wilfrid Sweetin who died under mysterious circumstances in Ina two months ago, was being exhumed in the village cemetery. The arrest of Rev. Mr. Hight was ordered after a Chicago chemist had examined his wife's stomach and found there an amount of poison. The similarity in the circumstances surrounding the death of Sweetin caused the authorities to order the body of the man exhumed.

CANADIAN PACIFIC STOCK SOLD IN NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19. A block of 38,000 shares of stock of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company formerly held by the Imperial German Government has been sold in the New York market, according to information obtained. The block was part of a total of 58,000 shares held by Germany, the shares having been taken over by the Canadian Government.

Survey of Britain's Coal Seams

The government of Great Britain, at the instance of the Secretary for Mines and the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research, according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its English Information Service, has decided to provide at once for the rapid development of a chemical and physical survey of the coal seams of Great Britain, to determine the possibility of replacing some 140 million tons of raw coal at present burned every year in its natural state by other and smokeless fuels obtainable from coal by carbonisation and gasification. It is pointed out in this connection that (if coal can be carbonised on a large scale in such a way as to yield a supply of fuel oil for the navy and mercantile marine, and an important share of motor spirit for use in motor cars and aircraft, the balance of foreign trade would be altered in favor of Great Britain, while the abatement of the smoke nuisance in towns and manufacturing districts owing to the abandonment of raw coal as a fuel would have immediate and far-reaching effects upon the health and housing of the people.

A Surprise Shower

On Thursday night at the residence of Mrs. Walter Vey, Hamilton Street, a miscellaneous shower was tendered to Mrs. J. H. Clapham, the wife of the organist of Wesley Church, who has lately come to Newfoundland. Upwards of twenty-five guests assembled, and Mrs. Clapham, though taken by surprise, made an eloquent speech and thanked one and all for their visit. Games were indulged in during the evening, and an enjoyable time was spent by all.

One notices a surprising amount of lace for both afternoon and evening.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The weekly meeting of the Municipal Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook and Councillors Martin, Vimecombe, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present.

Following the reading of Minutes, a deputation from the Child Welfare Association, consisting of Miss Southcott, President of the Association; Lady Crosbie, Vice-President, and Miss Anderson, head of the Community Nursing Service in St. John's, were admitted to the meeting.

Miss Southcott, on behalf of the deputation, informed the Mayor and Councillors of the object of their visit, which was to discuss and if possible, find some means of improving the health of the city. She introduced Miss Anderson, who, she stated, was a member of the Examining Board of Sanitary Inspectors of Great Britain, her certificate allowing her to practice as a Sanitary Inspector in London.

Miss Anderson then very ably outlined some of the aims of the Child Welfare Association, referring particularly to the rate of Infant Mortality in St. John's during the past few months, and stating that the main object of the Association was the reduction of this alarmingly high rate. The sanitation of the city was one of the most important factors in their work, and while the deputation did not wish to be unreasonable, realizing the many difficulties with which the Council has to contend, still they felt sure the Council would be only too willing to adopt, and which they thought would greatly improve conditions.

(1) That the hoppers in the various city streets be given proper attention as regards cleaning and that they be removed at least twice a week.

(2) That covers be placed on the hoppers and also the garbage carts. This, she thought, was most necessary.

She also referred to the housing problem, and called attention to several places in the city where conditions were deplorable, and which were certainly not fit for human habitation.

She touched on many other matters of sanitation and public health, and in concluding her remarks, reminded the Board that "the babies and children of to-day are the citizens of tomorrow," and expressed the hope that within a very few years St. John's would be the healthiest, as well as the most fortunately situated city in the world.

The Mayor informed the deputation that the Council were well aware of the good work being done by the Community Nursing Service and Child Welfare Association in the city, and that they would be only too willing to assist them in every possible way; that, while some of the suggestions made by Miss Anderson could not be complied with at once, the question of flushing and cleansing gullies would be attended to immediately, and instructions would be given the Sanitary Supervisor to have the men of the department see that the covers provided for the garbage collection carts are used.

The deputation then withdrew. A very interesting and lengthy communication was tabled from Mrs. Evelyn Cave Hiscock, Graduate Nurse, dealing with matters generally in connection with public health, and containing certain suggestions which she thought would be of value to the Council. Her communication together with the various suggestions of the deputation will be given full consideration at a future meeting.

The Deputy Minister of Finance acknowledged receipt of Council's cheques (1) for the sum of $43,271.73 being half-yearly interest on city debt to June 30th last, and (2) for $7,000.00 contribution towards upkeep of the Fire Department for the same period.

F. W. Knight, Southside Road, applied for street line to enable him to fence his property, a considerable portion of which is at present being used by pedestrian and vehicular traffic. The City Engineer is to enquire and report.

A number of residents of LeMarchant Road petitioned for the placing of a light on the proposed street leading from Brazil's Square. This was referred to the Lighting Committee. The residents of Quidi Vidl Road asked that side drains be placed along this thoroughfare to carry away the surface water, which at times floods the whole street, thereby causing annoyance and inconvenience to them and to the public generally. The City Engineer was asked to visit the site and report for next meeting.

The application of Sylvester Hiscock to erect building on Lake Avenue was referred to the City Engineer.

Messrs. McNeil and the Valley Nurseries, Ltd., submitted price lists of bulbs, and trees, solicited share of patronage in supplying the City Parks.

Tenders for the erection of a new fence at the Sanitary Stables, Hayward Avenue, were received from the following:—James King, William Doran, William Cummins, Bolger Brothers. The tender of Mr. William Cummins was accepted.

The Medical Officer of Health reported six new cases of Scarlet Fever and eight Typhoid (one death) in the city during the week.

The City Engineer tabled his weekly report.

The Newfoundland Light and Power Company are to be notified to immediately repair that portion of the street along the belt-line for which, under their contract, they are responsible, as many complaints have been received of late of the danger to vehicular traffic because of the rails projecting above the street level.

The storm sewer, Leo's Lane, was ordered to be proceeded with.

PLANS.

Plan of addition and alteration to dwelling for Mr. Gaul, New Gower Street, was approved.

Permits were refused the following: S. Noseworthy to erect dwelling Leslie Street, there being no water and sewer available.

John Fowler, Atlantic Avenue, to erect shed, as same would project on the street line.

Mr. Cochrane must submit proper plans of proposed extension to his residence, corner of Cabot Street and Cookstown Road, before same can be given consideration by the Council.

The Councillors took occasion to express their approval of the action of his Honor Mayor Cook in placing the Council Chamber at the disposal of the Naval authorities, so that the bodies of the late Lt.-Commander O'Callaghan and Lt. Burrows could lie in more suitable surroundings.

Reference was made to the tragic motor accident which occurred within the past week, whereby some of our best-known citizens lost their lives, and it was ordered that the deepest sympathy of the Mayor and Councillors be conveyed to the bereaved relatives of the late Messrs.

Whitty, King, Duder and Harrison, and also to Captain Campbell of H.M.S. Constance in the sad loss which he and his associates have sustained in the death of the late Lt.-Commander O'Callaghan and Lt. Burrows.

Considerable routine business was disposed of, and with the granting of requisitions, passing of weekly accounts, etc., the meeting adjourned.

Report Of Chief Agent For Week Ending Sept. 19, 1924.

Asked to put to death three dogs, one for Mr. Egan, one for Mr. Hibbs and another for Mr. Morgan, Knight Street. Also one for Mr. G. French, George St. Humanely put to death five cats owned by different people. Dr. Bishop advises that the horse referred to in last week's report be humanely put to death. I shall attend to this as soon as possible. I have ordered off the street one of the truckmen's horses who is suffering from a sore back. Two men were ordered to send their horses to the forge to have their shoes attended to. I received a call early on Sunday morning to humanely put to death a horse owned by George Knowling. This was done on orders from Dr. Furneaux. Mrs. Connolly, Mount Pearl Road, reported to me that a horse, running at large on the road, had bitten her child. The horse was owned by Mrs. Greely, Heavy Tree Road. I saw Mrs. Connolly and suggested that she get a lawyer's advice concerning the matter. A woman from Mount Royal Avenue reported to me that a neighbor had broken her child's leg. She intimated that I speak to the neighbor about it. There were no witnesses so the case was settled out of court. Also a man from Oxen Pond Road complains of a neighbor cruelly ill-using his chicken. I also attended to the landing of two car loads of cattle for the Abattoir Company, and 25 head of cattle from the Sable L. 60 head from the Lisgar County; all were well looked after, fed, watered and taken to pasture by Mr. Halliday. Attended two sales of cattle, everything satisfactory. I have given all complaints received my attention.

MOST PITIFUL SIGHT IN LIFE is a man or woman who has no "will-power" as a result of nerve force exhaustion

All the physical suffering which may be caused by nervous irritability, headaches, backaches, indigestion, heart palpitation, etc., as a result of nerve force exhaustion, are nothing as compared with its awful effects upon the mind and "will-power."

The most pitiful sight in life is a man or woman who has "no will-power" who has noble impulses and desires but not enough "will power" to carry them through. The memory also fails, the judgment is bad and everything therefore seems to go wrong. In such cases, do not take mere stimulating medicines nor narcotic drugs (which only further injure your delicate nervous system), but what you need is something to put more nerve force into your nerves and more iron into your blood to help make new nerve force with which to feed your starving nerve cells. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains strength-giving organic iron for the blood and may therefore be said to be both a blood and a nerve food. Millions of people are using it. Satisfactory results are guaranteed to every purchaser or the manufacturers will refund your money. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold by all druggists.

The Gasoline Tax

(Sydney Record.)

Present probability is that Quebec's gasoline tax of two cents a gallon will yield the province an annual revenue of at least $400,000. One feature of this tax plan is that it compels visiting motorists to pay something for the use of the highways which their cars inevitably help to wear down, but the payment required of them is so small that travel to the province is not lessened because of the impost.

Other provinces might perhaps follow Quebec's example in this regard with advantage to themselves.

The world's smallest airplane, christened the "Fly," is the prized possession of the Army Aviation Corps at Kelly Field, Tex. Though the wing spread is only 18 feet, it develops a speed of 115 miles an hour.

The machine is equipped with a three-cylinder motor of 60 horsepower. It is of the radial type. The cruising radius of the plane is 500 miles and sufficient fuel can be carried for four hours' flying at full speed, or 8½ at cruising speed. The plane stands no higher than a man.

Is This Advertising Our Resources?

To the Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—Following up my letter to the press of August 32nd last on the propaganda now being used by the enemies of the coal mining industry of Newfoundland, I find in a pamphlet, issued from the Wembley Exhibition, London, on the mineral resources of Newfoundland, the following reference, which can only apply to "The St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd."

"Only one coalfield of possibly economic importance is present in Newfoundland. This area, known as the St. George's Coalfields, is located eight miles east of Robinson's Station, and between the Barachois and Robinson's Rivers. The coal measures occur here in a basin at the foot of the Long Range Mountains, by which mountains they were protected from glacial erosion. A total development of 2,500 feet of coal measure is present in the upper 1,000 feet of which two minable seams of good quality occur. The seams known as the Jukes and the Cleary are fifty inches and twenty-six inches in thickness respectively. It has been determined that they underlie approximately one-half square mile and would produce approximately 2,000,000 tons of coal. One other seam, called the Murray, occurs in the lower 1,000 feet of the measures. This seam is thick but is intercalated with shale seams; where exposed, it is not commercial. It is possible however, that certain parts of it might furnish minable coal. If the Murray seam could be proved commercial, it would furnish a large tonnage as it underlies the whole coal measure basin, or nine square miles."

The pamphlet also says:—"Other supposed coal areas are at Grand Lake and South Branch. These areas have been thoroughly explored by borholes and no commercial coal occurs."

The responsibility for these unwarranted mis-statements regarding "The St. George's Coal Fields" is laid on the shoulders of Mr. D. J. James, B.Sc., E.G.S., etc., Government Analyst for Newfoundland, as he is the man in charge and should have known that his statements are contrary to fact. From what source he received his information or by what motives he was actuated to misrepresent our coal areas, I do not know, as he never saw the property, and I doubt if he has ever travelled a mile from the beaten track.

In the opening paragraph of the pamphlet in dealing with our minerals, reference is made to the late J. B. Jukes, Esq., F.G.S., as a noted English Geologist, who made a cursory reconnaissance of the Country in the early forties, and also of the late Alexander Murray, Esq., F.G.S., whose reports were published yearly by the Newfoundland Government between the years of 1864 and 1880. Their work, the pamphlet says, was the initial exploration of the island and was extremely well done and to-day is considered authentic and in the main correct. They also mention the work of the late James P. Howley, Esq., F.G.S., and say the information obtained from these gentlemen is of great value at the present time.

The following extract from Hatton and Harvey's history of Newfoundland, page 356, which has bearing on the work of Jukes and Murray may be of interest:—

"In the rocks of the carboniferous age, which cover extensive areas on the West Coast, it is now placed beyond all doubt that there are large workable seams of coal. Mr. Jukes paid a visit forty years ago to St. George's Bay. On the south side of the bay, near Crabb's River, and about eight miles from the coast, he found a seam of coal three feet in thickness, of excellent quality, being cannel-coal. As the top was wanting he concluded that it belonged to a still thicker bed. He says in his report:—'There is no doubt of there being more beds in this vicinity, and of the probability of all the centre of this low district being occupied by a productive coalfield. Up the Codroy River, in a similar parallel, beds equally valuable are reported to exist.' From fair data Mr. Jukes calculated the extent of this small portion of the coal basin of Newfoundland at about twenty-five miles wide by ten in length. Mr. Murray has laid down the position of an outcrop upon his map, in order to show where workable seams were likely to occur in St. George's Bay, and he calculates that the plan of one seam, there drawn as three feet in thickness, and occupying an area of thirty-eight square miles, contains 54,720,000 chaldrons of coal, or 1,435,000 chaldrons per square mile. A very considerable portion of this he believes will be found within workable depth, and this is but one of the many seams that may yet be found in the area between Cape Annette and the head of St. George's Bay."

The late James P. Howley, Esq., in a report to the Imperial Government on the Mineral Resources of Newfoundland, published by the Colonial Office in 1896, makes the following statement in reference to the coal areas now owned by this Company:—"Of the twenty-three coal seams mentioned above, the greater number are of small dimensions, ranging from a few inches only to a foot in thickness. Those over one foot in thickness are the following:—

- (1) On Middle Barachois River—Jukes's Seam, containing 4 feet 6 inches of coal.
- Cleary Seam, containing 2 feet 3 inches of coal.
- 18 Inch Seam, containing 1 foot 6 inches of coal.
- Slaty Seam, containing 1 foot 4 inches of coal.
- Rock Seam, containing 1 foot 8 inches of coal.
- Murray Seam, containing 5 feet 4 inches of coal.
- (2) On Robinson's River—Howley Seam, containing 4 feet 2 inches of coal.
- (3) On Northern Feeder—Shear's Seam, containing 1 foot 2 inches of coal.

The Jukes's Seam, which is the best in that section, averages, as above, 4 feet 6 inches of good, bright, clean coal; but at one point it was found to swell out to 14 feet, containing 8 feet of coal. It was traced for a quarter of a mile along the strike. The Howley Seam comes next and contains 4 feet 2 inches of excellent coal. The Cleary Seam, 2 feet 2 inches, is also a good quality of coal, while the Shear's Seam, though only 1 foot 2 inches at its outcrop, is of a superior character, being almost a semi-anthracite. The Murray Seam, though the largest in the section, is not as good as the others. All the known seams in this trough aggregate a total thickness of 27 feet. This should give for every square mile they may be found to occupy 25,920,000 tons."

Since the above report was written by Mr. Howley, which applies exclusively to these areas, considerable development, with excellent results, has been done. The Murray Seam, No. 2, which was first opened by the late Alexander Murray in 1873, was lost sight of, owing to a landslide, for a number of years. This seam has been re-opened by this Company and a tunnel driven for 25 feet, and now shows 3 feet 3 inches of clean coal. The 18 inch seam referred to by Mr. Howley is now called the Furlong seam and shows 4 feet of solid coal.

Other areas recently opened, notably the Jukes shows 5 feet to 8 feet of coal and the Howley on Robinson's River shows from 4 feet to 11 feet of coal.

If Mr. Davies believes the reports of the late J. B. Jukes, Murray and Howley to be authentic and in the main correct, may I ask the question why he fails to quote from some of their reports, or by what change of heart, on whose advice, or on whose authority he issues to the world a statement which is false, misleading, and libellous (not alone to this Company and the twenty-seven hundred Newfoundlanders who trusted the writer with their money), but to the country and Nation in general, as no country can ever hope to become industrially great without coal.

Admiral Sir Frederick Field in response to a toast from the Prime Minister, Hon. W. S. Monroe, at a dinner tendered him at Bally Haly, a few evenings ago said:—"We live in an Empire, which, if we like to read history, we can easily see, was built up by sea power; and, on many occasions, it has owed its existence to adequate sea power."

Everyone will agree that the words of the gallant Admiral are correct, but behind this power stood men of vision who foresaw in the coal and iron fields of Great Britain the success or failure of the Nation. Was it not for coal and iron, the great cities of Manchester, Sheffield, Newcastle and at one time the uninhabitable morasses of Lancashire, would be as peaceful to-day as they were a thousand years ago.

I would now invite the attention of the Government to the statements made by Mr. Davies and ask that a correction be made, and the actual facts laid before the public of Great Britain and the millions who may have read the pamphlet prepared by Mr. Davies. It is a mere matter of justice to the investors in "The St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd.," that these misleading statements be corrected.

As it stands to-day Newfoundland's representative at the "greatest industrial exhibition of modern time, held in the heart of the Empire, is the only one who has misrepresented and under-valued one of the greatest natural resources of this country. The Government is responsible in some measure for this, and amends should be made through the official channels through which the misstatements were circulated.

Yours truly,
THOMAS J. FREEMAN,
Managing Director, The St. George's Coal Fields, Ltd.

Bonus for Doctors

IS NEW IDEA IN FRANCE.

Paris, Aug. 30.—American doctors will hail with interest and possibly some trepidation a revolutionary idea put into action by the mayor of Tulle, a small town in the Sarthe Department.

The mayor of Tulle has decided: (a) To give a bonus to doctors for preventing illness.

(b) To support any sick person who refuses to pay a doctor's bill because he has not been cured.

"Prevention before cure and a cure before pay" is the slogan of this progressive official. He has appointed all the local medical practitioners as a committee to "keep the town healthy."

If their efforts are successful the doctors will be given a bonus at the end of the year computed according to the amount of fees they have lost by the scarcity of patients.

Ostriches at Wembley

Not the least interesting of the attractions in the South African Section of the British Empire Exhibition is a flock of ostriches. For the benefit of visitors, demonstrations are given in plucking the feathers in the manner adopted in this great industry in South Africa.

The nest of the ostrich is always built by the male, though this certainly is no arduous task, as it consists of little more than a round hole dug in the sand or earth.

The hen then lays an egg every other day, about fifteen making a full nest. The hen sits on the eggs during the day and the male bird takes her place through the night, an arrangement which would appear to have been admirably provided for by nature, for while the male bird is adorned with jet black feathers and is therefore indistinguishable at night, in the daytime the drab color of the hen bird's feathers covers nest and eggs and is equally unnoticeable.

London's Buildings Rocking

The continuous vibration occasioned by London's intricate underground railways is having the effect of weakening the foundations of buildings according to an eminent professor of structural engineering in the University of London. He measures sound by reflecting light from the surface of a delicately suspended concave mirror on to a screen. When a sound wave strikes this mirror its vibration strength is shown by movements of the ray of light on the screen. "In the early morning," he said, "and late evening I have noticed that the vibration decreases with the lessening of the traffic. This university building and every other one in London is gently rocking all day long."

"Monkey Bread" Tree Furnishes Medicine

Dr'sd Boobab Leaves Give Specific for Certain Diseases.—Salve Made From Bark Gum.

It is reported that at Dakar, in Lower Senegal, is an enormous boobab tree, whose trunk measures fully seventy-five feet in circumference at the base.

The fruit of the boobab, which grows abundantly in Senegal, is called "monkey bread." It is used by the natives for curdling milk and as a specific for certain diseases. Decoctions of the dried leaves are also used as medicine.

From the bark strong cords are made, and the gum that exudes from it is employed as a salve. The root of the young boobab is sometimes eaten by the natives.

The Opening OF THE NOTRE DAME BAY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.

To-day is a red letter day in Twillingate and marks the successful accomplishment of a great work which the people of the northern district set themselves some years ago. This morning at eleven o'clock His Excellency the Governor formally opened The Notre Dame Bay Memorial Hospital in the town of Twillingate, which has been erected to commemorate the men of Notre Dame Bay who gave their lives to their country in the Great War.

For years a hospital in this part of the Island was felt to be a pressing need, and eventually a committee of citizens headed by the late Magistrate George Roberts approached Dr. Grenfell with the suggestion of erecting an institution in Twillingate. Circumstances, however, made it impossible for him to undertake the work, but he encouraged the people to begin raising funds for the purpose, and by 1919 a sum of $15,000 was in hand.

At that time Dr. Charles Parsons, M.D. of John Hopkins Medical School, who had put in considerable work in several hospitals in the United States and had a high reputation as a surgeon, was working with the Grenfell Mission. His interest in the undertaking was secured, and he entered enthusiastically into the work. Gradually the local contributions to the fund increased until about $22,000 had been raised. A subscription of $5,000 was received from the British Red Cross through the influence of Sir Charles Harris, the former Governor, and the Government granted $10,000 for construction work. Dr. Grenfell interested the Commonwealth Fund in New York and obtained from them a grant of $25,000, and with $60,000 in hand the site of the hospital was selected in the summer of 1921 and purchased.

Difficulties of every kind faced the promoters, but one by one they were overcome by the whole-hearted labours of the people themselves and by the voluntary assistance of experts when their services were required. In this connection the work of Mr. Ronald Philip, the consulting engineer of the A.N. D. Co., is deserving of special mention. He gratuitously surveyed the site, and arranged the plans for a water supply and a reservoir. Fishermen, with that adaptability for which they are noted, turned masons or engineers as the need arose, and successfully carried out the operations under the able supervision of Mr. Benjamin Roberts, and men and women generally freely laboured with pick and shovel in laying water pipes and digging out the foundation.

Through the kindness of Mr. W. A. Delano, of the firm of Delano & Aldrick, Architects, New York, the plans were drawn and redrawn, until they met with the approval of the many experts to whom they were submitted. Finally they were revised by Mr. C. Neergard of New York, a specialist in hospital planning, who kindly gave his time and advice in the matter.

When the tenders for construction were submitted, the promoters were greatly discouraged by the bids made, which ranged from $75,000 to $90,000, but just when they were faced with a further postponement of the work Mr. Harry W. Rideout, who in former times had lived near Twillingate and had spent many years engaged in masonry and building, appeared on the scene and undertook to erect the hospital for about $50,000, the sum which the promoters had in hand. Delays in shipments of material and bad weather hampered the workmen, but the construction work was pushed on. All through the summer of 1923 they laboured from seven in the morning until nine o'clock at night, and by October the outside work was finished. With the same expedition the interior was completed and to-day the people have their reward.

The building is built of concrete and is entirely fireproof. The beams of the roof were sawed by hand from the timbers of a wrecked schooner in the harbour, and the roof is covered with red asbestos shingles which were supplied by John Manyly Company of New York at half their usual value.

The dimensions of the building are as follows:—Basement including boiler room, 117 feet by 40 feet wide; length of other floors, 110 feet by 40 feet wide; height of the building, 40 feet. The ground floor is a half basement, and includes kitchen and storerooms, laundry, boiler room, and maid's quarters. On the next floor are the living quarters of doctors and staff, office, admission department and treatment room, X-Ray, laboratory and drug rooms.

The second floor is occupied by two twelve bed wards and two sun parlors with accommodation for six more patients; toilets, baths, utility room and diet kitchen; operating and sterilizing rooms, babies' ward and isolation room.

The top floor as yet has not been completed and full equipment has not been installed through lack of funds, but can it be doubted in view of the work that has been accomplished and the noble sacrifices made that they will not be forthcoming? Towards the maintenance the Government has promised $10,000 yearly, and any deficit expenses will be looked after by the people themselves. About $25,000, however, will be required for electrical fittings and appliances, and for the general articles of furniture necessary for the hospital.

To the people in the surrounding settlements the institution will be a great boon, and it will also help to relieve the pressure on the hospitals in St. John's and at St. Anthony. The establishment of the hospital is a great achievement in itself, but of even greater importance is the fact that the people of the North took the initiative in the matter, and by their own efforts have materially helped to better the conditions of life. Such a spirit is exemplary and is deserving of every success.

Train Connections

Monday morning's outgoing train will make connections with S.S. Argyle at Argonia for ports of call in the Red Island route. Monday morning's train connects with the S.S. Glencoe at Argonia for which place she sails this morning. Passengers leaving here by Tuesday's cross country train will connect with S.S. Sagona at Humbermouth for ports in the Straits service.

PEPPY BEHIND THE SCENES

Sept. 19.—The weather grown cold and gives poor hope of a good fall, so I abroad in my heavy topcoat that I keep for the winter time, and, indeed, feel the need of it greatly. But Lord, how fine a thing it would be, could I have a bottle of that good rum that was obtainable in the old days, being no better way to keep out the chill. This day, the City Council is visited by a delegation from the Child Welfare Association, and certain recommendations made for the improvement of the town are accepted by the Mayor. News out of China tells of many battles and seem to be a score of different armies, all of whom claim to be victors, and, indeed, are like to meet the same end as the much famed cats of Kilkenny.

Express Passengers

The following passengers crossed over to Port aux Basques yesterday morning, and joined the express which is due in the city at 6 o'clock this evening:—Miss B. Badcock, Miss M. Hicks, Mrs. N. Gray and daughter, Miss May Hicks, Mrs. J. Cullough, Mrs. A. Wiseman, F. Walton, Mrs. W. Bishop, A. R. Cobb, L. Bennett, J. J. O'Brien, J. M. Mercer, G. East, J. W. Stewart, C. A. MacDonald, A. R. Last Excursion Train for Season

To-morrow, Sunday, the last excursion train for the season will go out at 2.30 p.m., for points as far as St. John's Harbour should the day be fine. No doubt a large number of people will avail of this opportunity for the purpose of seeing the ships of the British Naval Squadron before they leave Conception Bay on the final leg of their world tour.

New Grocery Store Opened To-Day

BY MESSRS. BOWRING BROTHERS.

The enterprising firm of Messrs. Bowring Bros. are opening to the public to-day an up-to-date and attractive Grocery Store, on the western end of the present premises, and with an efficient staff of clerks in waiting, and with an improved service, the same patronage as in the past is assured. For several months past extensive alterations have been made to the premises, and the Grocery is the first completed.

The store is a spacious one, the extensive stock on hand is nicely shelved and so arranged that the customer can move around freely and select with ease any particular line of goods required. One of the many improvements in connection with this department are some forty galvanised bins, coated with enamel, extending the full length of the shop. These contain articles of food and are within reach of the clerk at once. The bin is just proof, and when it needs replenishing a cut off, attached to a feed pipe is opened and the desired commodity flows down from similar bins on the second floor. At the rear end of the store is a refrigerator counter, where the perishable goods are kept in stock and can always be seen by the customer. Next to this is the meat department, with a marble top counter. At intervals around the store are large glass cases with a very attractive supply of goods on display. There are also installed four large oak counters, the workmanship of Messrs. Saunders, Howell & Co., and on the front of each are small glass cases which contain specimens of food carried in stock, while a large plate glass counter, shaped like the letter L, strikes one on entering from the front.

The floor of the store is of maple, the shelves and fixtures are of a most excellent design, the place is well lighted, and the whole surroundings have a bright and very pleasing appearance, and compare very favourably with any of the stores abroad. At the rear of the store is the parcel department. Here the parcels are made up and delivered to the express at the rear of the building. A special entrance and elevator has been provided for this purpose, and there is no necessity for the delivery vans to stand on Water Street as formerly. We bespeak for the firm of Messrs. Bowring Brothers an increased share of the public patronage through their enterprise.

West Coast Notes

32 POUNDER LANDED. John F. Gillis caught a 32 pound salmon in the Bride pool, Highland River, on Tuesday. The fish, which was a fine all round specimen, put up a fight that taxed John's skill and patience, as it took more than two hours to decide the issue.

ONLY ONE YOUNG STAR.

Mr. French, of New York, accompanied by Allen and Hugh McIsaac, returned lately from a ten days' caribou hunt. The party proceeded to the hunting grounds from North Branch, and cutting across country came out here. But one deer, a young stag, which was shot, was seen on the trip.

LATE FISHING GOOD.

Capt. Lambert and Mrs. Lambert returned to the Log Cabin, Spruce Brook, on Sunday. Miss Clarkson, of the same party, preceded them by a few days. The captain, who is an expert angler, had fairly good fishing during his two weeks' stay at the Highland River. His biggest capture weighed 28 pounds.

U. S. FLIERS SEEN AT CRABBE'S.

Excitement prevailed here last week when the world flight American seaplanes were seen flying westward along the shore. For some time the roar of the planes' engines could not be accounted for, but the mystery was explained when the seaplanes were sighted, and a number of people had a good view of the aerial visitors before they disappeared into the west. The presence of the planes in this vicinity came as a big surprise as apparently no one had the least inkling that they would pass near here.—Western Star, Sept. 17.

Glencoe Sails

S. S. Glencoe, Capt. Arch Blandford, sailed for the south coast at 10 o'clock this morning to take up her former service between Argonia and Port aux Basques. She took a small freight and 20 passengers:—Mrs. May, Mrs. Beallin, Rev. Fr. Badcock, besides two in steerage.

The Trains

There is no report Thursday's express arriving at Port aux Basques owing to line interruption. The east bound express left Alexander Bay 9.10 a.m. and is not due until 6 p.m. The local train arrived at 12.25 p.m. The regular cross-country express will go out to-morrow at 1 p.m.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

THE PRINCE AS A MOVIE ACTOR. SVOSSET, N.Y., Sept. 19.

On his own private lawn, cut off from the public gaze by several hundred yards of dense woods, with only the members of his staff and half a dozen motion picture and newspaper photographers present, the Prince of Wales to-day did an act for the movies in a manner that indicated that he thought it rather good fun.

WRECKAGE OF A RUM RUNNER FOUND.

GLoucester, Mass., Sept. 19. A place of wreckage and cases of alcohol found floating early to-day on the southeast part of Middlebank, off Eastern Point, indicates, the authorities believe, the loss of a rum running vessel of a type common to Gloucester fishermen. The wreck was discovered shortly after midnight by the fishing steamer Nahawena, which salvaged 72 cases of alcohol and turned them over to the coastguards.

GRAND DUKE CYRIL TO ATTEMPT RUSSIAN LIBERATION.

LONDON, Sept. 19. Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of the former Emperor of Russia, has issued a proclamation declaring himself Emperor of all the Russians, according to a Berlin despatch to the Daily Mail. The proclamation, it is said, will be published on Sunday in a Russian newspaper printed at Belgrade. It will declare that the Grand Duke Cyril is to devote himself to liberating Russia from the Communist yoke and that while sworn to observe the Orthodox Russian faith he will allow complete religious liberty.

PRESS RESENTS MAKING THE FLEET A POLICE FORCE.

LONDON, Sept. 19. The British Press are complaining against the proposal made at Geneva to have the British fleet put at the service of the League of Nations when aggression has to be met on sanctions imposed upon a misbehaving nation. Every one of the literary weeklies takes the position that the proposal is unthinkable, and Lord Parmoor, credited with being the father of the scheme, is criticised and laughed at by editorial writers. Most of the journals point out neither Lord Parmoor nor his Government, nor any other British Government, has power to place the Empire fleet at the disposal of any one without consulting Parliament.

MACMILLAN EXPEDITION GAIN VALUABLE INFORMATION.

WISCASSET, Sept. 19. Information which will be of great value to navigators was obtained by the Macmillan expedition into the Far North. Captain Donald B. Macmillan, explorer, said upon his arrival at Monahan Island every object of the fifteen months' voyage which carried him and his seven companions six hundred miles north of the Magnetic Pole was attained with one exception only, the explorer said, to-night. Ice conditions and lack of food, he said, prevented his wintering in Ellesmere Land, according to earlier plans.

Personal

Mr. Leonard Outerbridge is taking passage to the Old Country by H.M.S. Hood, sailing to-morrow. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Oldfield left to-day for Silvia, on a trip to Boston and Toronto. Mrs. J. J. Bates and children arrived by the Digby this morning from Halifax.

MARRIED.

On the 17th inst., at St. Mary's Church, Heart's Content, by the Rev. Canon Smart, Annie M. Farham, Heart's Content, to James L. Watson of London, England.

Passed peacefully away, on the 19th inst., after a long and tedious illness, Harriet Matthews, beloved sister of the late Mrs. Gannors, aged 88 years. Funeral on Sunday at 2.30 p.m. from the residence of Miss J. Kelly, 378 Water Street. Friends please accept this, the only intimation. R.F.P.

IN LOVING MEMORY

of dear Earl Joseph Miller, who died Sept. 20th, 1923. You are gone from your home to a glorious heaven. But oh, how we miss you no one can tell. But we will meet you again, dear Earl in the brightest of glory. Where nothing can part us ever again.—Inserted by his Mother and Father. WINARD'S LIVERY, THE ASS. LET'S REMEDY.

To the Patrons of the Nickel

Dear Friends:—

Lillian Gish in her greatest role! The ethereal little star who tugged at your heart strings in such big productions as "The Birth of a Nation," "Broken Blossoms," "Orphans of the Storm" and "Way Down East" at last has a role that tests her full powers. When you see her in the Henry King production of "The White Sister," opening at the Nickel Theatre on Monday, you will be thrilled, captivated and exalted as never before.

John Barrymore has acclaimed Miss Gish as the one actress who carries the supreme tradition of Bernhardt and Duse to the screen. And in "The White Sister" she has a picture that is incomparably the finest of the year. Nothing equals the beauty, pathos, suspense and spectacular magnificence of F. Marion Crawford's story of love and sacrifice.

"The White Sister" was made by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and seven months were spent amid the beautiful backgrounds of Italy and northern Africa in photographing the scenes, which include a magnificent view of the volcano of Vesuvius in actual eruption, a fight in the desert with the Arabs and a town submerged in an avalanche of water as a great reservoir bursts.

The picture has been released by Metro and has broken records at $2.00 admission prices in New York. It realizes the most wonderful possibilities of the screen.

Sincerely, J. P. KIELY, Nickel Theatre.

Preliminary Enquiry Begins

The preliminary enquiry into the recent Topsail Road motor tragedy, was begun yesterday afternoon in the Magistrate's Court, before Judge Morris.

From Cape Race

Special to Evening Telegram. CAPE RACE, today. Wind light, variable, weather nothing in sight. Bar. 30.20; Ther. 50. Mr. Leonard Gillespie Reid, who stands charged with manslaughter, was represented by Mr. L. E. Emerson B.L. The Crown was represented by the Attorney General in person and associated with him were Messrs. C. E. Hunt, B.L., and F. G. Bradley, B.L. Mr. Emerson intimated to the Court that Mr. W. R. Howley, K.C., would be associated with him at a later date in the proceedings. On behalf of the Crown, William Noel, of the Crown Lands Department, was called, and a plan of the scene of the accident was put in, as an exhibit.—sept.20,21.

The "KODAK" Store

Sells You Quality and Gives You Speed FREE

Do you get the very best results from your Snapshots all the time? Do you if you use the KODAK STORE develop and print the for you, because so exceptionally up-to-the minute are their printing and developing methods and equipment, so efficient are the assistants (you see they handle far more films than any one else in the city, and they're developing and printing only, all the time) that while they can, and do, give you a 24-hour service, no detail of quality is lacking. Every print from every negative is accurately and perfectly finished. When the KODAK STORE develops your prints it does not sacrifice quality for speed; it combines the two, and gives you—perfection.

JOSEPH O'RIELLY,
ASSESSOR.

sept.12.20.27

Dr. G. Campbell Morgan

When this distinguished expositor came to St. John's there were thousands of our citizens who had never heard of him. Such is our comparative isolation. To-day the city understands why the largest halls in both America and Canada have been so small to hold his crowds. Should he ever venture back the first night would exceed all expectations.

THE SON OF GOD AS GOD

was the fourth of the series on the Gospels. In an age of so much doubt it has been refreshing to hear the announcement each afternoon "The Son of God." It is true that Our Lord may be considered as King and Priest-Servant and Man, but all of these are nothing unless he is more than the Son of Joseph, unless he is what he claims to be, and what believers know he is, that is the Son of God. Dr. Morgan himself led in prayer an appeal most suitable when the subject is considered a climax to the series. Yet we know instinctively that the services yet to come are going to reach an even greater height of inspirational power. The last of them will be Sunday morning in Gower St. at 11 o'clock. The announcement comes almost as a shock, but such is the passage of time. This Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday morning finish this splendidly stimulating and thought provoking mission of teaching.

THE MOST PROFOUND BOOK IN THE WORLD

In the Gospel according to John. The book must be handled mechanically, and yet there is no book which requires greater prayerfulness. (Psalms: Acts was the argument prepared by Luke for Paul's trial at Rome.) We know why John wrote his Gospel. In John 20:30 "That ye may believe that Jesus is the Son of God and that believing ye might have life." That is an intellectual and a spiritual reason. Dr. Morgan feels that the humanity of Jesus is more real in John than even in Luke, for example John speaks of "Jesus" twice as often as any of the other three. And this most intimately human Jesus is the Son of God.

In John 20:30 also method is suggested. He evidently selects the events of a mere twenty days of the life as signs which will produce conviction, which yielded to results in salvation. A sign is valued in Peter's address at Antioch. He there speaks of it as a "power," that is the fact—the deal alive for example. If a man was there he would feel power and the effect upon him would be "wonder." This power which created wonder is the sign, but not the symbol for a symbol can be chosen capriciously but a sign cannot. The Maple Leaf is the symbol of Canada chosen by accident. It is not the sign of Canada. Your signature is not your sign, it may change, but your finger prints are your sign for they come out of you. The sign proves you. These signs proved Jesus the Son of God.

John 1, 1-18 has come to be called "The Prologue." It is infinitely more. It is the fact. The signs are those of his life 1-19 to 17 Anis. . . . death (the final sign) 18 to the end. The term "The Final Sign" is used because the answer he gave to that question: "Give us a sign" was "Destroy this Temple and I will raise it again." Similarly he said the sign I give is like that of the prophet Jonah, a sign of death and resurrection.

There are eight signs each in the realms of works and words. Commencing at 1-19 at a wedding. He turned water to wine. Cleansed the Temple. Healed at a Distance. Healed at Bethesda. Fed 5000. Stilled the storm.

Opened eyes of born blind (only example of a recorded error of birth corrected).

Ending at a funeral He raised Lazarus.

These signs do not prove the divinity of Jesus. They prove God and the perfection of Jesus so great that God could work through him.

In the matter of signs found in language. Jesus uses I three times oftener in John than in any other book, and in half of the instances he uses "I" emphatically.

The eight word signs are: I am the Bread of Life. I am the Light of the World. Before Abraham was I am. I am the door. I am the good shepherd. I am the resurrection.

These were in public. In private he added I am the way, the truth and the life and I am the vine. Arnold wrote The Light of Asia (regarding Buddha), but writing about Jesus he had to call him what Jesus called himself, "The Light of the World." No man could use these terms. No man would allow any other man to use them.

Now are these claims true? In Jesus the Bread of Life? Thousands can answer yes, and so for all the rest of the eight signs in words. The signs in words are the greatest. "Believe Me, or else (as a lesser proof) believe me for the work's sake."

THE FINAL SIGN.

that is the death of Jesus, is recorded by all, but John gives a new vision of the death. He records of Jesus "knowing that all things were finished," he said "I thirst." The finishing preceded the dissolution of the body. That is, the physical death of Christ did not redeem men, though that was the sacramental symbol, but the death which was his own act which was in the Godhead from the formation of the world. Jesus had power to lay down His life, which was symbolized by the folded grave clothes. This death did redeem men.

VERSES 1, 14, 18, CHAPTER 1, JOHN

Read those three verses consecutively. They constitute the final finding of John after he had written the body of his work. In verse one are three statements: In the beginning was the word. The word was with God. The word was God.

In Verse 14 are also three statements: The word was made flesh. The word dwelt among us. The word was beheld full of grace and truth.

In Verse 18 are two statements: No man has seen God. The Son has revealed God.

A Hebrew could say all of verse one. Compare Proverbs, 8. All philosophy says "what is Truth?" Hebrew philosophy started the other way. The word, that is the truth, is with God. Now read clause 1 of Verse 1 and follow with clause 1 of Verse 14 and you get: "In the beginning was the word and the word was made flesh." In the second clause we get: "The word was with God and the word dwelt among us," and in the third clause "The word was God and was beheld."

Take lastly, Verse 1 and follow it with the 1st clause of Verse 18. The result is "In the beginning was the word, but no man hath seen God," and lastly take Verse 14 and follow it with the last clause of 18 and the finding is: "The word was made flesh," that is "The Son of God."

FRIDAY EVENING.

The prayer of the evening was led by Rev. Mr. Elliott of St. Thomas' Parish. The prayers of each evening have been noteworthy. It is not true that too often all attention is centered on the sermon. It would seem strange to record an outline of these beautiful offerings of love and expression of worship. They are all laid up in the treasures above.

Dr. Morgan himself spoke briefly regarding the finances of the campaign. The details do not matter to our readers, but the impression made in regard to the value of giving in church work was most arresting. Probably most of our churches have not handled the subject properly.

THE BOOK

is a proper name for what is made up to 66 pamphlets. It is in its entirety the Hierarchy of Christ. He is latent in the New Testament. The Old Testament shows the world's need and a record of God's intention to fill the need. In the N.T. is the record of the completion of that intention.

Read Hebrews 1, 1 "God who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in times past unto the fathers by the prophets hath in these last days spoken unto us." This is a text for the whole Scripture. It assumes (1) God, (2) That God speaks, (3) That He spoke through prophets, (4) That He has finally spoken through his son. This summary is confirmed by the statement that "To him gave all the prophets witness."

When you put your ear down against Genesis, Exodus and Numbers and listen you hear two words, thundering through them. The first is Sin. The second is Salvation.

The first verse of Genesis contains a marvel. Inspired by God the writer says "In the beginning God created the Heavens and the Earth." Imagine the wonder of naming the earth, (which is next to nothing in the swing of the universes) in the same breath with those vastnesses. Copernicus counted 4,000 suns. Another found 400,000. Lord Ross counted 1,800,000. Herschel said that they could not be counted. Jeremiah said that long ago. Think, The Heavens and the Earth. That verse is the most rational known explanation of the universe.

The world which was created by God became waste and void. There is a booming of catastrophe. Isaiah says it was inhabited before that catastrophe. Then God restored the original order and rest created man by a distinct act. A man who believes in God is beyond surprise. The man of the third Chapter of Genesis, the crowning glory of the restored earth, listened to the temptation from without.

In Chapter 12 God finds a new vantage point for his purpose whose children became a company, then a nation which ended its early history "in a coffin in Egypt"; but after 400 years emerged as a theocracy, the most wonderful government in the world for God has no use for a Democracy.

Sign and salvation continue to ring. There is the sign for a priest, who shall lay his hand upon man and upon God and unite them. Joshua leads the people into the land.

Judges is next. It records seven times a sequence of disobedience, discipline and deliverance. The last of the Judges held his place for life rather than for the period of need and soon the people said "Make us a King." Though that was a distinct rejection of God. Kings is the third book of the group, but Saul, David and Solomon were hulking animals, and poor kings. Nehemiah—Ezra came next. A remnant but now giving up all clamor for a King and never again setting up an idol. The sign for a Priest, the cry for a King, is followed by the wrong thinkings of the wisdom books as for example Job. Job is a breakdown of the best human philosophy when forced to meet the greatest needs of man. Job is so stripped that he has to ask questions about God. Oh, how loveable were the friends of Job in their going to see the man that was down. They were loveable because they kept their mouths shut seven days and because they spoke to his face not behind his back. Their reasoning was faultless as far as it went, but it did not meet Job's case. One said "acquaint thyself with him." Job answers "where shall I find him," God himself breaks in, "why darkest counsel by many words." God at that time only revealed his glory and so silenced Job, but he did not reveal the philosophy yet hidden. The Psalms provide for the man who is glad, find or sad, but are always marked by "following hard after God." A sentence had to discuss the prophets. There was always the cry for a final prophecy.

Now the afternoon meetings have shown the answers to the cries. There is the cry for a priest. Mark has it. There is a call for a King. Matthew answered it. Every need of the Old Testament is satisfied.

In hopeless, marvellous wonder and joy the scribe ceases to try and catch even an outline of the flood of leaping, playing, thundering, beseeching, eloquence that flung book after book before our view in a single sentence until Babylon the mother of Harlots, one city, is ultimately destroyed, and the other city, the City of God, is forever triumphant. The Bible is a Book united in Christ from whom all proceeds, to whom it all leads. C. H. J.

Boy Captures Salmon

An almost unbelievable fish story comes from Selby, England, where a young fisherman claims to have captured a 35-lb. salmon by jumping into the water on top of it, while his father killed it with a mallet. However, his straightforward statements are convincing. "I jumped into the water, landing on top of the fish and encircled its body with my arms. We rolled over. I came on top. The fish tried to knock me out with its tail. It is only fair to say that the struggle took place in 18 inches of

A REQUEST TO MOTORISTS

FOR KIND CONSIDERATION.

It has been brought to the attention of the Newfoundland Motor Association that there are several thousand people in the city who do not own motor cars and who walk to Bowring Park on Sunday and holiday afternoons.

It is a well-known fact that these citizens are deluged with dust in the fine weather and often splattered with mud in wet weather, as however careful a driver may be, it is usually impossible not to raise dust and sometimes it is impossible to prevent splashing when driving through the mud.

The Association has therefore decided to issue a personal request to Motorists generally not to use the Southside Road on Sunday, Holiday and Half Holiday afternoons, thereby affording the many people in the city who do not own cars an opportunity to walk to the Park in some degree of comfort on Sundays and holidays. (This request, of course, does not apply to motorists living on the Southside nor motorists wishing to call at houses on the Southside on these afternoons.) This is an appeal to Motorists, not an order nor a demand. A little consideration is all that is asked and the Association believes that Motorists, generally, are considerate.

Issued by the Executive and Road Committee.

Do You Sleep Too Much?

Six Hours a Night Should be Enough
If You Learn the Right Way to Use
Deep and Restful Slumber—Practical
Hints by a Distinguished Authority on How to Increase Your Waking Hours and so Improve Your Health,
Happiness and Efficiency.

(By DONALD A. LAIRD, Ph.D.)

The one piece of advice that you probably have heard most often is—"Get plenty of sleep!"

Your parents undoubtedly began telling you that—and enforcing their wishes—when you were a child. Later you heard it from your family doctor, from your teachers, from your employers, your friends—in fact, from almost everybody who claimed to have your interests at heart. Eminent men when interviewed are fond of including some variation of the "early to bed, early to rise" adage as part of the recipe for success.

The implication in this familiar admonition, and the impression of the sleep question that you probably have retained from childhood, is that to try to get along with less than eight or nine hours' sleep a day is only a little less harmful from a hygienic course of poisoning would be; that to sleep the clock around every night is about the surest way there is of becoming "healthy, wealthy and wise," and, I suppose, happy.

Of course, there are the Edisons, the Napoleons, the Humboldts, and the other great men, past and present, who accomplished most extraordinary things on only three or four hours' sleep a night. Probably you assumed that, being exceptional in so many other particulars, these men probably were exceptional in their sleep requirements as well.

At it happens, however, recent scientific investigation shows quite definitely that the time-honored idea that it is wise to get a great deal of sleep has scant basis in fact; that, as a matter of fact, many people probably get too much sleep and that too much sleep may be harmful, just as too much food is. It shows, too, that, like food, the value of sleep to the body depends not on quantity but quality; that, though sleep may seem to be the most natural thing you do, there is an art of sleeping you can learn.

The famous men who slept little undoubtedly had mastered this art and had learned how to extract from a few hours of good, sound sleep more physical benefit than many people obtained from a full night of fitful, wakeful, light slumber.

Science shows, too, that there are good and bad times for sleeping. That the way you lie in bed has great bearing on the quality of sleep you enjoy; that by cultivating proper habits of sleep and surrounding yourself with conditions conducive to good sleep, you probably can reduce your sleeping time to six hours and yet awake refreshed, invigorated, and with no trace of the tired feeling that now may make rising in the morning so much of a task.

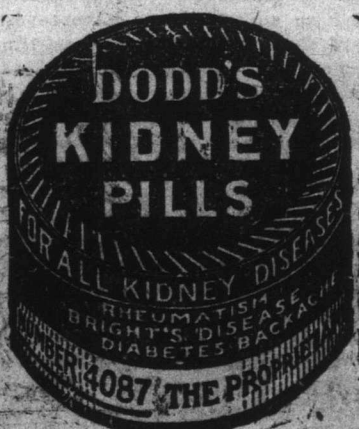

Undoubtedly you understand the purpose and general nature of sleep. Every living thing seems to sleep. Plants grow by rhythms—alternate periods of rest and activity—so do even the lowest forms of animal life. The single-cell amoeba pauses to rest. Mollusks have periods of inactivity during which they sink deeper into the mud.

Your sleep, though, is highly complicated. During sleep your pulse beats more slowly and more, feebly than when you are awake. In fact, after you are asleep a few hours, it is virtually impossible for any one to detect your pulse with the fingers. Special apparatus must be used by scientists to take pulse records of persons who are serving as subjects in sleep investigations.

Also, when you sleep, the flow of blood to your brain decreases markedly. Science can thank a Parisian beggar for its first knowledge of this fact. This man was injured in a street accident, and portions of his skull were broken away, leaving the brain exposed. Through this "window" scientists in the hospital were able to watch the blood stream ebb and flow as he slept and awoke.

Upon the decrease of the blood flow to the brain during sleep depend such familiar methods of wooing reluctant sleep: as eating a little, or placing a hot water bag on the feet. In either case the stimulation of the blood flow elsewhere in the body tends to draw the blood away from the brain; hence, tends to produce sleep.

If you find it hard to get out of bed in the morning, it is because you have not learned how to sleep. The "tired feeling" that makes arising at the call of the alarm clock so difficult would not disappear, as you imagine, were you able to disregard its summons, for the deep, restful sleep—the real restoring sleep that repairs weariness of body and mind—comes during the first hour or two after you go to bed. It is then that your muscles are most relaxed, your blood pressure lowest, and your skin sensitivity least.

After the first couple of hours, sleep becomes lighter. After four hours it is very light. The slightest noise will awaken an average sleeper after this time.

Now, to continue this light sleep in the morning is not restful. The extra hour's sleep usually is made up of short naps—broken sleep. It is beneficial neither to your body nor your mind. On the contrary, it is likely to do you grave harm by helping build up a habit of lassitude.

Why not, then, do away with this light, fitful slumber that does you no good, and substitute deeper sleep of shorter duration? Cut two or three hours from your night's sleep and still obtain more rest than you do now?

You can do it very easily if you can manage to take a noonday nap of less than an hour every day. You usually drowsy at this time, and apparently nature intended you to sleep then. Forty-five minutes of deep, restful sleep at midday is equal to three or four hours of the light sleep you get from three to seven in the morning.

If you can take this noonday nap, follow it with a short period of light exercise, such as rapid walking, to aid digestion. It may take you a few days to accustom yourself to sleeping during the day, but within a week you should be able to do it easily, and you will find yourself able to cut three or four hours at least from your night's sleep and still be stronger and more efficient both mentally and physically.

Of course, I realize that it is difficult, if not impossible, for some people to take a nap at noon. Those who can't, will find themselves improving the quality of their night's sleep if they will follow a few simple rules for sleeping.

To begin with, restful sleep depends on entire relaxation of the body. The only way you can relax entirely is to lie at full length. Some animals can sleep standing up, but human beings seldom attempt anything like that.

Still, I knew a man, several years ago, who would sleep by his bed. There must be something wrong with a man like that, you are thinking. Very likely. When I knew him he was a patient in a hospital for the insane, which is about where all of us would end if we tried sleeping the way he did.

Probably you would find it impossible to do as he did. Muscular relaxation is so essential to the sleep of human beings that you can prevent yourself from sleeping by clenching your fist or bunching the muscles of your legs or arms. Conversely, you can coax sleep by relaxing every muscle of your body—your arms, legs, trunk, neck—even your ear muscles.

The best way to do this is to sleep partly on your side—either side—and partly on your stomach. To sleep on your side will not permit entire relaxation, for some of your muscles must be kept tense to prevent you from rolling out of bed. Neither can such complete relaxation be obtained by sleeping on your back. In this posture, gravity will cause your lower jaw to drop and your mouth to open when your jaw muscles relax. This will cause you to snore—loudly enough possibly to awaken yourself or others.

Not that snoring is an evil accompaniment of slumber. On the contrary, it is a sure sign of deep, restful sleep. You can avoid snoring, however, and still get quite as much muscular relaxation and quite as much rest if you will sleep in the position I have mentioned. This is one of the very likely ways of causing the morning "tired feeling" to disappear.

Besides muscular relaxation, the other prime requisite for sleep is monotony. Excitement prevents slumber and causes bad dreams. Indeed, the excitement that usually accompanies evening gatherings probably is the cause of the nightmares that most people attribute to something they have eaten before going to bed. The deep sleep of old people and people who live in the country can be attributed to their monotonous existence.

The best way to obtain monotony is to sleep in a quiet room. Yet quiet is not absolutely essential to monotony. Regularly repeated sounds, such as the incessant ticking of a clock, are monotonous. They are good instigators of sleep—after you become accustomed to them. The muffled ticking of a watch underneath your pillow will help you to sleep.

Extraordinary sounds, though, tend to awaken you. You can learn to sleep in a boiler factory and find the constant uproar conducive to sleep. But a comparatively slight noise—the passing of a trolley car or an automobile, or the foot-step of some one near your bedside—raises your blood pressure immediately, and is likely to awaken you if you are not sleeping deeply.

The next most important consideration in seeking deep, restful sleep is comfort. A soft, comfortable bed, a soft, comfortable pillow to raise your head and prevent the blood from rushing to your brain, and covers that are sufficiently warm without being heavy are essential to sound sleep. A hard bed, a lumpy mattress, or very heavy covers cause uneven pressure on the body. They are irritants, and tend to make sleep light.

selection similar to one which he had memorized in a little more than 2 minutes before losing sleep. After 88 hours, he could not memorize at all!

Another man began to "see things" colored insects which he tried to kill. All of the men suffered immeasurably.

However, you need not be afraid that something like this will happen to you if you learn to dispense with two or three hours' sleep a night by learning to sleep deeply. The subjects I used in my investigation all were accustomed to eight to nine hours' sleep a night. Now they get six.

They discover that the shorter sleeping time not only is giving them more time for work or play, but actually has increased both their mental or physical efficiency.

This is not guesswork. Scientific tests of the body metabolism and mental efficiency that each man underwent before breakfast during the investigation show that this increase in efficiency undoubtedly has taken place.

If you are going to cut down your sleeping time, make the reduction from the night end of the sleep period. That is, stay up later and rise at your usual time. When this is done, the deeper sleep that you get when you go to bed seems to compensate for what you have lost.

Remember—it is not how much sleep you get that counts; it is the kind of sleep. Are you getting enough of the right kind? Or do you get too much poor sleep?

Did you know that one out of every 10 persons in the world suffers from defective hearing of some sort? How well do you hear? Perhaps you are partially deaf and don't know it.

The Weather Optimist

Upon the happy British Isles
An anticyclone sits and smiles,
So, though it looks extremely wet,
Dear reader, do not be upset.
These drops that you see falling down
Over the country or the town
May look excessively like rain,
But none the less I will maintain
Upon inspection we shall find
That they are nothing of the kind.
The sky that looks so grey to you
Is really of a stainless blue.
The sun, which you may fail to see,
I'm sure is shining brilliantly.
Further, it must be understood,
The visibility is good.
The temperature, it is clear,
Is higher than it might appear.
For those who are on holiday
The prospect is extremely gay.
And if you ask me how I know
That all these things are really so,
I answer that I lately read
What all the weather prophets said.
I don't know how they found it out,
But there's no reasonable doubt,
An anticyclone sits and smiles
Upon the happy British Isles!

New Wonders in Giant Twin Star

STRANGE FLAMING BALLS OF GAS
TWELVE TIMES HOTTER THAN MOLTEN IRON.

(Discovered by DR. J. S. PLASKETT).
Two vast flaming balls of incandescent gas 12 times hotter than molten iron—the smaller ball 12,500 times as bright as the sun and 2,000 times the diameter and 8,000,000,000 times the volume of our earth—hurting about each other in a colossal eclipse of 173,000,000 miles every two weeks at the amazing speed of 128 and 153 miles a minute respectively!

To such a tremendous conception were the imagination of astronomers summoned recently when the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Victoria, B.C., analyzed the light from B. D. 6° 1309, a star catalogued more than 60 years ago and visible to the keen, unaided eye.

For the spectroscopist—an instrument that breaks up starlight into the various colored lights that compose it—and mathematical analysis revealed that this barely perceptible gleam came from two stars, by long odds the brightest and most massive ever discovered.

By means of the great 72-inch reflector of the Dominion Observatory, the diameters of these great twin stars as well as their distance apart, have been measured. Each has been weighed. Their physical properties, temperature, and brightness have been determined. It has been found that they are three times as hot as our sun, and that their distance from our earth is at least 52 million billion miles!

Ten thousand years ago, centuries before primitive man found his way upon the stage of history, the light that only yesterday was analyzed started racing to the earth at the terrific speed of 186,000 miles a second. While history dawned and while empires and civilizations waxed and waned, that light streaked tirelessly across the inconceivable immensity of interstellar space.

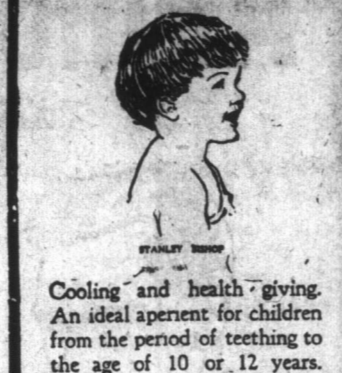

If this giant twin star were inhabited and possessed astronomers, today they would be studying light from our earth which started on its comic journey ages before the stones of Nineveh were laid.

Stupendous are the figures that have been cited to describe these twin giants, probably they far underestimate the facts. For they are calculated, with scientific caution, on the theory that the orbit of the twin stars' vast swing is in the line of our sight. If such is not the case, the figures would be much larger. As the bodies have not been observed to eclipse each other, probably their respective weights are at least 14 per cent more than the figures mentioned, and their velocities at least five per cent greater.

The next largest twin star known is V. Puppi, determined at Harvard University, with a combined mass 33 times that of the sun. The combined masses of the monster pair determined at the Victoria Observatory are 139 times that of the sun, at the lowest estimate.

It is not impossible that these stellar Titans no longer exist, except as a diffuse nebula, a great fire mist streaming across interstellar millions of miles. For in bodies with such enormous masses the radiation of light pressure of the interior is nearly equal to the prodigious gravitational force that tends to contract them. So delicate is this balance that even a slight disturbance of it might release the imprisoned energies within them in a mighty cataclysm, exploding them across the black vastness of cosmic space.

More Uses for Radium

The healing properties and uses of radium are rapidly increasing as the days go by. Thousands of scientists are experimenting with it, and daily its sphere of usefulness is widening. The famous Beth Israel Hospital of New York, has made unusual progress in the treatment with radium of ailments such as diseased tonsils, cancer of the tongue, and goitre, is announced in the report of the otolaryngological clinics.

The physicians in charge of the radium treatment have become convinced that malignant disorders of the mouth and throat hitherto considered hopeless and beyond the help of operations may be eradicated by radium and surgery.

The report is made by the physician in charge of this branch of the work at Beth Israel Hospital. His experiments have been confined largely to cases sent by other institutions and considered incurable. The report states that in the treatment of twenty patients for inoperable tonsil diseases, good results were obtained in all.

"By the results obtained we can now say that we have a method of eradicating diseased tonsils without the risk of fatalities in inoperable cases," the report says.

The action of the radium was continued in all cases until the tonsils were completely atrophied. The neighboring structures around the tonsils were not affected in any way, the radium evidently having a selective action on the lymphoid tissue of the tonsils. In several cases involving cancer of the tongue the lesions reacted quickly to radium.

"Operations for cancer of the tongue and mouth have always had a depressive effect because they were considered permanent mutilation as well as uncertain of cure," says the report. "By means of radium alone, or combined with surgery, these afflictions can now be eradicated. In fact, we can now say that radium takes first place in the treatment of cancer of the nose, mouth and larynx."—Ex.

The Chinese Civil War

It is greatly to be hoped that there is nothing more serious in the highly sensational news sent out from China than a factional fight. True, the Chinese Generals who are struggling for victory claim that they are leading movements for the unification of China, but that has been a slogan of every war lord who has led a body of troops into a miniature battle ever since the Emperor of China was deposed. What has brought British and United States warships on the scene, and what is likely to give the British authorities at Shanghai cause for apprehension, is that the rival factions are fighting for the control of the all important Yangtze waterway, and that one of the Generals had declared the Chinese control of the Shanghai district is essential to the successful pursuit of his unification plans.

Shanghai is under international control, with British influence overwhelmingly predominant. It commands the Yangtze delta, and thus holds the key to that great inland waterway which leads into the districts where the greatest British vested interests in China lie. Order must be maintained, and there is every reason to feel confident that the British forces on the spot, with whom the U. S. troops will of course act in common accord, will be fully equal to the task of keeping either General, or both if need be, from making any trouble for missionaries and other white people in Shanghai.

How the peace and welfare of the world, as at present constituted, could be maintained without a powerful British Navy it is exceedingly difficult to perceive. At the present moment units of that navy are on special and important duty off the coast of North Africa guarding the Soudanese against inimical interests, in South American waters keeping a watchful eye upon troubled Brazilian affairs and at China—possibly also elsewhere, in the interests of the Empire that does police duty for a good part of the world.—Ex.

Looking After Paris Morals

The policemen of Paris have had more work thrust upon them—that of looking after the public morals. By a special edict he is expected to keep an eye on the picture postcard shops, where the most startling examples of photographic art are exhibited quite shamelessly. Jules must forbid ladies who frequent the cafes to introduce themselves to pipe-smoking British tourists in caps and knickerbockers; and he is empowered to pounce on the unsavoury-looking guides who hang about the English tourist offices—bent on showing glibly Britons something very different to the Louve and the Eiffel Tower.

Should the title of a theatrical piece be considered lewd, Jules has the right to sample the performance. He greatly enjoys this particular duty. The other day a policeman objected to an elderly, white-whiskered Parisian, of portly and pre-eminently respectable appearance, buying postcards which were guaranteed to bring a blush to the cheek of the most seasoned inspector. Worse still, the hoary purchaser cracked an improper jest with the highly-delighted saleswoman, a mere flapper, after pinching her.

VOICES.

What individual things values are!

Millions—a-and millions of them, and no two just alike!

And how cram jam full of personality a voice can be, or how with the lack of it! I called up a man who is the head of a large business the other day. He said I have never met only heard of him for business reasons I had to call him up. A voice came over the wire. "Is this Mr. Jackson?" I asked. "Yes," said the voice. I stated my name, and the voice answered at intervals. As I talked I wondered how much force enough to hold the attention Mr. Jackson held, and presumably charm enough to be able to meet people as he must meet them.

The Real Mr. Jackson. When I had finished stating my errand I asked a question. "Wait a minute," said the voice. And then a new voice came on the wire. This time it was Mr. Jackson. I had only been talking to his secretary before. Evidently following the custom of the office, the secretary handles what telephone business he can without explaining that he is not the chief. And that a different voice this one was beautiful, full of individuality and life and color. You could feel the personality behind it. You felt a sense of confidence and liking. You wished you might meet its owner. And all that from a voice! Straight From Heart to Heart. Oftentimes the tone of a voice speaks more truly than the words it carries. Voices are like music, they communicate straight from heart to heart without having to pass through a medium, sometimes distorting and deceiving.

And voices sometimes are more trustworthy than faces. A smile on a face is often just a deliberate twisting of muscles without any feeling behind it; it is much rarer to find anyone who can put the warmth of good feeling into his voice unless he really feels it.

The Voice Tells. Voices sometimes tell us things about people that people do not know they are telling, or even that they do not know about themselves. A doctor who had to be able to judge how much pain people were really suffering, without depending on what they told him, explained that he did it by the voice. "You can hear pain in the voice," he said, "even when people try to hide it by a smile on their faces. And you can tell when pain is getting better by the different tone in the voice even when the person will not admit he is better."

It is a wonderful thing to have such pictures of those whom we have loved long since and lost awhile, as the modern camera gives us. I do not know but what it will be even more wonderful when the custom of having our loved ones make voice records becomes common, as I think it will some day. Unless it is almost too poignant to bear.

Building in Britain

London Times: The limiting factor in the output of houses has hitherto been the lack of skilled building operatives. The most disastrous result of committing the fortunes of the building industry to the chances of party politics has been that labor has left the industry; new labor has hesitated to come in, and the number of skilled workmen has declined ever since the Armistice. The engineers of the Chamberlain subsidy may do something to overcome labor's fears, and to promote again a natural flow into the industry. In addition, if the building industry accepts the Act as the guarantee for which its spokesmen stipulated, it is pledged to accelerate their influx to the extent of maintaining a proportion of one apprentice to every three skilled men, and also of raising the age limit and abbreviating the term of apprenticeship. Even more important is the undertaking, vague in its terms but vital in its potentialities, to revive the traditional method of recruiting the ranks of skilled men by the upgrading of laborers.

Cleanliness is one of the chief secrets of charm, and perfect cleanliness results from the use of Ivory Soap.—advrt.

THE WEEPING BRIDE.

I in thoughtless ways new-married jays who truly love each other cause tears and gloom—sometimes the groom will brag about his mother's plan, her buckwheat cakes were winners; my teardrops fall when I recall her good old-fashioned dinners. My mother's tartly heated broken hearts, her waffles-made men younger; for mother's jam and potted ham throughout the day I hunger. The lovely bride has nobly tried to please him with her squashes, and hoped meanwhile that he would smile and spring admiring glances. A word of praise, a cheerful phrase, and she'd be happy looking; but he regales his bride with tales of mother's record cooking. "My mother's kraut," she hears him shout, "all merit was accorded; my mother's wurst" was always first when medals were awarded." The fair young bride is heavy-eyed, her cheeks are growing haggard; in words of praise that brighten days, her husband is a laggard.

Keeping Abreast of Science

What the Newest Discoveries Are Worth to You.

Engineering science is the modern covered wagon, opening up trails to new countries, pushing the frontiers of civilization to new limits, fitting for habitations unbroken lands where Nature stands a stubborn sentinel, repelling the advance of those who would wrest from her the territory where she always has reigned in complete supremacy.

The amazing accomplishment by this present-day pioneer are testified in the work of the United States Reclamation Service, the efforts of which are dramatically set forth in a survey recently completed by a committee appointed by Secretary of the Interior Work.

In 20 years, working in 15 Western States, with Washington, Arizona, Texas, and Nebraska at the remote ends, the service has made habitable and fertile more than 3,200 acres of desert lands, that would yield an annual crop value of between $50,000,000 and $75,000,000.

It has supplied home sites for more than half a million people. Only Maine, of all the New England states, can report a larger number of farms than those contained on these arid lands. Flourishing communities with all the activities of the typical American town, have sprung up in the sections that irrigation has reclaimed. More than 90 per cent of the settlers are native-born Americans; hardy, venturesome souls of the type that crossed the plains in the days of '49 and won the West to civilization.

It is interesting that all of this work has been accomplished at no expense to the American taxpayer. The initial funds of the Reclamation Service were supplied by the sale of public lands and contributions from the States benefited have supported the service through the years.

A MECHANICAL KIDNEY.

Removing every drop of blood from a human body, clearing it of impurities and then returning it to the circulation may seem like an impossibility, yet that is exactly what German scientists purpose to do, utilizing the "artificial kidney," an amazing device invented by Dr. John J. Abel, professor at Johns Hopkins University.

The "artificial kidney" was developed by Doctor Abel to be used in treating victims of biologic-mercury poisoning, certain forms of acute nephritis, and similar toxic states. Its name is derived from the fact that it stimulates the action of the natural kidney. Doctor Abel has used it successfully on animals, but if the German scientists carry out their announced intentions, their experiments will mark the first use of the device on human beings.

The artificial kidney may be described as a sort of filter. One end is attached outside the body to an artery, and another connection is made to a vein. Thus the blood passes through, and the impurities are strained out by tubes of a substance called "cellulose," which, however, does not remove the vital corpuscles and proteins. An extract called "hirudin," obtained from Hungarian leeches, prevents the blood from clotting as it passes through.

Doctor Abel was prevented from continuing his early experiments with the apparatus when the war made it impossible to obtain hirudin. If the artificial kidney is successfully used on human patients, it is likely to prove one of the most successful weapons ever given to medical science for treatment of disease.

SUPER-GENERATOR.

An electric generator capable of developing 15,000 volts of direct current—from four to five times more than any direct-current generator previously built—recently was completed by S. R. Bergman, consulting engineer of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, N.Y. The machine is expected to influence remarkably many phases of electrical work, notably radio broadcasting.

At present long-distance broadcasting is accomplished by means of a rectified high-voltage alternating current, which produces ripples that affect the clearness of the transmission. But the use of direct current, supplied by generators of the new type, this defect will be eliminated.

France Returns to Single Budget System

The Finance Commission of the French Chamber of Deputies has been informed by its President, Mr. Auriet, that the French Government hopes to be able to furnish it with the budget proposals for 1925 before the end of next September.

One of the most interesting features in next year's budget, according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its French Information Service, will be the elimination of the so-called Special Budget of Recoverable Expenditure and the return for the first time, since the armistice, to the single budget system. The items usually included in the special budget will form part of the ordinary budget which will also be credited with the sum, estimated for the first year at 900 million francs, recoverable from Germany under the Dawes plan.

Further modifications contemplated in next year's budget are a revision of the tax on business turnover and a general reduction of administrative expenditure. The Finance Commission of the Chamber of Deputies will make a special effort to place its report and recommendations before the Chamber for discussion not later than November.

Famous Recipes for Home Cooking

CONCORD FOUND CAKE.

(This New England town, famed for its authors, sent us this recipe.)
1 scant cupful Crisco.
1½ cupfuls flour.
½ teaspoonful baking powder.
½ teaspoonful salt.
5 eggs beaten light.
1½ cupfuls sugar.
½ teaspoonful ground mace.
1 teaspoonful vanilla.
1 tablespoonful milk.

Cream well together Crisco, flour, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs light, add sugar and beat until very light. Add ground mace and vanilla. Add a little at a time to first mixture beating well, and add tablespoonful milk and beat well. Bake in a slow oven at a temperature of 325 degrees. Citron may be added if desired.

Don't Say Paper, Say the Evening Telegram

"Baby Week"

After five days of success, baby week was brought to a successful conclusion yesterday afternoon and it is to be hoped that the movement will achieve the results for which it was inaugurated. Throughout the week many people have visited the display and all must have been impressed by what they saw and heard. The various stalls all had their own specific purposes as did the other displays, but in the main the object was in short "The welfare and health of every baby in St. John's." One of the features of the show, was the exhibition of "mending boots" given by Mrs. Walters of Scott St. This woman has been a widow for three years, and being forced to support her family, she set about to find ways and means whereby she could economize. One of the ways she soon learned was the mending of boots of her children and this she proved herself very proficient at. Her equipment is small amounting only to an iron last, a hammer, knife and piece of glass, but the workmanship, is of a high order and showed what can be accomplished by industry and perseverance.

Yesterday the speaker was Mr. C. E. Hunt, B.L. whose subject was "Some legal obligations." Mr. Hunt delivered a very able address and gave much valuable advice, that should be of great benefit to those who heard it. The speaker showed the obligations laid down by law, for parents to their children, showing that the law states a child must not be abandoned, but is entitled to receive parental care up to a certain age. A child is entitled to medical aid, in cases of illness and the parents who refuse this are guilty of an offence punishable by law. Contagious diseases, must be reported to the proper authorities and at times when there is danger of an epidemic and a proclamation is issued for the vaccination of all those under the age of 18 years, it is the duty of the parents to see that the children get it. Food must be protected, and it is not lawful for anyone to bring food through the streets not properly covered. As the child grows older, it is still entitled to protection, and the speaker showed the manner in which children are viewed by the law, at different ages. No law has yet been introduced dealing with child labour or compulsory education and owing to the conditions prevailing in the country, he thought it very difficult to introduce such a law, just at present. However he had no doubt that with the advancing years, such would eventually come into force. Dealing with the reformatory, he said much had been said for and against it, and there was much reason in all of it, but the speaker is of the opinion that a reformatory is a much better place to come from than the Penitentiary. With many other phases Mr. Hunt dealt briefly and much valuable advice was received by those who were present.

At the close of Mr. Hunt's address Miss Southcott, President of the Child Welfare Association expressed her thanks and asked those present to show their appreciation, which was done in a very hearty manner. Throughout the week teas were served under the direction of Mrs. McKean. In the afternoons the mothers were served tea and their children biscuits, whilst visitors were also served with teas. For this, many donations were received and the Association feels grateful to all those who sent cakes etc., to help in this work. The Star Hall where the show was held was given free of charge and for this the Association also feels grateful. Baby Week was not inaugurated for the purpose of making money, much as this is needed at the present moment.

Miss Southcott and the other members of the Child Welfare Association, as well as Miss Anderson, the organizer, are well deserving of the congratulations which they are receiving on the success achieved.

Where Shirt-Sleeves Are Taboo

The proprieties are somewhat punctiliously observed in the British Government offices, and extreme heat or cold are not regarded as sufficient excuse for breaking away from established custom. However, an attempt was once made to break down this wall of formality and shirt-sleeves were displayed. Lord Hammond, when Under Secretary at the Foreign Office, had a notice exhibited: "Clerks are not to walk about the corridors in their shirt-sleeves," and tradition has it that one day he chased an offender and hauled him before the doorkeeper for identification. Alfred Montgomery tried subtler methods. When a secretary came into his room one broiling day without a coat, A. M. blandly observed: "If it should be convenient to you, Mr. , to dispense with your trousers, pray do not let any consideration for the Board prevent you doing so."

Beautiful New White Rose

The outstanding feature of the great annual Rose show, in Regents Park, London, was a new white, scented rose. The new flower, which is very beautiful, is called Mercia Stanhope, and is produced by a florist of Chippenham, near Slough. It received the only gold medal. Unhappily, from his point of view, the grower does not seem to have anticipated the winning of a great prize. Mercia Stanhope already appears in his catalogue at a very low price. Had he known what the decision of the Judges would be he would have been justified in withholding the rose from the market till able to meet the great demand which will assuredly arise, and he could also quite reasonably have trebled or quadrupled the price. However, he seemed perfectly happy and was cheerfully booking orders at the modest figure named in his catalogue.

Submerged British Wealth

Approximately 8,000 British ships are known to be lying on the ocean bed. These sunken ships are reckoned to account for about 15,058,788 gross tons, and their estimated value is $1,280,000,000—at pre-war shipbuilding rates. With their cargoes, the ships below the sea are worth a fabulous amount—experts put the figures at $8,000,000,000 roughly. There is need for the ships as well as their precious cargoes to be raised, and there is small doubt that the salvage engineer will be kept busy for years hence. Ships of less than 2,000 tons can usually be raised bodily by means of pontoons; ships above such a mark require often more ingenious handling. Pontooning is employed whenever possible for salvaging sunken ships; the second method is for ships to be pumped and floated, which means that divers must go down, locate holes, and mend them with plates, before the ship is pumped free from water and raised again. In a third method compressed air is used to force the water out of the ship at the bottom of the ocean.

Loops of amber beads are used on the kid cuff of a glove of beige suede. Fringe and the circular apron front seem fashioned for each other.

9th Commandment at the Majestic

WONDERFUL FEATURE WILL BE SHOWN NEXT WEEK.

What is meant by "The Nth Commandment?" This picture should be interesting to all housewives. It is to be compared to "Humoresque," since the author, director and scenarist combined to create that successful production, and it is similar in its appeal. Colleen Moore, James Morrison and Eddie Phillips play the leading roles. The story tells of a young wife, whose husband is ill and who leaves home one evening presumably to work overtime at the Mammoth department store where she is employed, to obtain the money necessary to send her husband to the country for his health. Instead, she attends a speedy Christmas Eve party by a number of her friends.

At a cafe a sum of money is thrust into the hand of the bewildered girl by a drunken admirer. In her hurry to escape she neglects to return the money and carries it home to her husband, telling him that she received it from an aid society. He knows that she has not been to the store working, for he has been there to take her home, so he accepts this as a plausible excuse. The question arises, was this girl justified in deliberately telling a falsehood in order to preserve the peace of her home and perhaps save her husband's life? Was she justified in fooling her husband? You will be better able to answer this question for yourself after viewing one of the showings of this splendid picture.

Charlotte Merriman and George Cooper are included in the cast. Frank Borzage directed; Fannie Hurst wrote the original story and Frances Marion made the adaptation. "The Nth Commandment" has scored heavily wherever presented this season.

Almost a Tragedy at the Zoo

There was almost a tragedy at the Zoological Gardens, London, recently and now strongly-worded notices are posted round the pond of "Old Bill," the chequered walrus.

He had made a determined effort to commit suicide, with the unconscious help of a visitor who gave him a whole pound of biscuits. The new notices implore the public not to feed the rare seabast.

Someone who knew a little about the inside of the walrus was horrified to see the last of the biscuits disappear into the animal's throat. When, later in the day, poor "Old Bill" developed what seemed to be fits, instant action was taken. The water was drained from his pond so that he should not escape the doctors, and half-a-pint of castor oil was forced down his gullet, while the whole party struggled in the slimy mud with the anguished patient.

It is good to report that the walrus seems himself again. He eats his codsteak eked out with smelly seal-bubber (specially imported from the Arctic Circle, and it is hoped that he has learned his lesson.

Biscuits, buns, chocolates, oranges, and monkey nuts should not be given to the walrus. Admirers bringing offerings of food for "Old Bill" are now requested to submit them to the Council of the Zoological Society. He costs 1s a day to feed, yet the Zoo can stand the strain, and needs no 'extras' of this kind from the public.

The Greatest Story of Modern Times

"THE WHITE SISTER" AT THE NICKEL MONDAY.

Henry King's production of F. Marion Crawford's "The White Sister," starring Lillian Gish, has been acclaimed everywhere the dramatic triumph of the year—the greatest love story of modern times.

In New York audiences crowded in to see the picture for months and months at $2.20 admission prices.

"The White Sister" is pictorially the most beautiful film ever made. The company spent seven months in Italy and northern Africa filming sections of Rome, Naples, Sorrento and Tivoli as backgrounds.

Lillian Gish has the finest role of her career and her acting has been acclaimed as the greatest in the history of the screen—worthy of a Barnhardt or Duse.

A new favorite has sprung up in the person of the dazzling Ronald Colman, who plays the soldier lover.

The picture was produced by Inspiration Pictures, Inc., Charles H. Duell, Jr., president, and it released by Metro.

For the climax of the picture the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius in early 1923 was filmed. This outbreak caused the loss of hundreds of lives and millions of dollars. The scenes were taken at enormous personal risk on the part of the staff. This film will be shown only at the Nickel Theatre in this city.

To Capitalize Mount Ararat

Armenians See Possibility for Tourist Trade.

Erivan, Armenia.—Efforts are being made by a group of Armenians, headed by Leon Pashalian, secretary of the Armenian national committee at Geneva, to interest capitalists and amusement promoters in a plan to exploit Mount Ararat upon which Noah's Ark is supposed to have grounded when the flood waters began to recede.

The project contemplates making Mount Ararat a tourist resort. The plans are to erect a railway up the slopes of Ararat the mighty snow-clad summit of which at an altitude of 17,055 feet marks dividing line between Armenia, Turkey and Persia.

SUNSET is
to use

SUCH lovely, lovely colors you can get with this modern, clean, fast dye. There are 22 different SUNSET colors. And by varying the strength of the dye-bath, or by mixing two or more colors, you can get the most exquisite tones and unusual shades. Whether the material be silk, wool, cotton or mixed goods, SUNSET will dye it perfectly, and clean and freshen the texture as well.

Bright, cheery rooms for winter days!

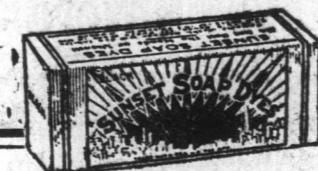

Send for folder "The Season's Colors" and instructions on tying, dyeing, and washing. Nearly all good dye stores sell SUNSET. Look for the SUNSET display case and ask to see Color Card. If you can't get it, send 15c. per case, postage extra, to our Dept. 8, Our Home Services Department, giving address and return questions.

Take down the faded draperies and listless curtains, remove old pillow and cushion covers. Now dye them in fresh, new SUNSET colors. SUNSET, the modern fast dye in convenient cake form, requires only 30 minutes for the entire dyeing operation. Without staining your hands or spoiling utensils, old fabrics can be renewed with SUNSET in beautifully clear, even colors for only a few cents.

Our folder, "The Season's Colors," tells you how to obtain the most popular, fashionable shades. To prove to yourself how easy, quick and clean SUNSET dyeing is, dye an old pair of curtains or a table-runner—you will never think of using old-fashioned dyes again, and a whole new world of beauty and pleasure will be thus opened to you.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOTBALL

As a result of last night's game the play off for the Tie Cup will be between the Guards and the Saints. Last night the Guards and C.L.B. played for a second time in this series and the result was two to nil for the Guards. The game was a hard-fought one from beginning to end and the players never relaxed their efforts to bring victory to their colors. After about 30 minutes of play J. Hussey, of the O.L.B. back division, got knocked out in a collision with an opponent and had to be taken off the field, thus leaving the team with only ten men for the balance of the game. The first score was recorded about five minutes after the opening when Dick Quick pounced on a pretty pass from Coultae. The teams kept up their work for the remainder of the period, but without result. On changing over, the game continued hard, but for the first five minutes the ball was kept in C. L. B. Territory, where many efforts to score were made, but without success. For a time after this play was general and the advantages about equal, and then the C.L.B. came within an ace of scoring, bringing the ball right to the mouth of the opposing goal. It was successfully cleared, however, and Parsons, taking a long shot from the grandstand side dropped the ball in the C.L.B. net, for the second tally. Twice after this the C.L.B. had the ball in the mouth of the Guards' goal, but on each occasion it was successfully kept out and the full time whistle found the score Guards 2; C. L. B. 0. Mr. T. Delahunty was referee.

CHARLES PADDOCK (Sprinter).

(By F. A. M. WEBSTER).

Charles Paddock was America's great discovery in the year 1915, and like so many of her best athletes hailed from California, where he was educated at the Southern University.

As I saw him first at Antwerp in 1920, he was a short, stocky fellow whose running action was not any more pleasing than that of Eric Liddell. At that time he was a great believer in omens, and would run no race until he sprinted 50 yards down the track and crossed his hands once over the other twice on a piece of wood at the side. He always finishes his race with a great jump for the tape.

Neither of the Olympic sprint races was satisfactory to Paddock at Antwerp. In the 100 Metres final, which he won, the starter got his field away abominably badly, so that Edward (Great Britain), Murchison (U. S. A.), and Ali Khan (France) were all left on their knees. In the semi-final of the 200 Metres, Edward pulled a thigh muscle, and he, incidentally, was considered Paddock's most dangerous opponent at both distances. In the final at the longer distance Paddock was beaten by the U.S.A. Naval officer, Alton Wooding.

In 1921 Paddock went in for a perfect orgy of record-breaking, and succeeded in sweeping the board at both metric and yards distances from 90 yards in 8 2-5 sec. to 200 metres in 23 1-5 secs. His best time for 100 Metres is 10 2-5 secs., and for 200 Metres 21 1-4 secs.

He is a generous soul, and lately has been training Eddie Sudden, of Stanford University, who, he says, must be the greatest sprinter ever, and will some day break up all his own records. Last year Paddock quarrelled with the American Athletic Union, who forbade any American Olympic athlete to compete abroad prior to the next Games. But Paddock wanted to take part in the International Universities Meet at Paris in May last year, and he did so, hence he has been under sentence of suspension by the governing body, but an amicable honorable has been arranged and we shall probably see him in Paris.

Olympic record for 100 Metres stands at 10 2-5 sec., made by D. E. Lippincott, U.S.A., at Stockholm, 1912. Great Britain's best man at this distance is probably E. H. Liddell, Edinburgh University, who last year won the A.A.A. Championship in 9 7-10 sec., which, on an ordinary timekeeper's watch, equals Paddock's world's record of 9 2-5 sec. Unfortunately the 100 Metres heats will be held on a Sunday in Paris, and Liddell's religious scruples will prevent him taking part. In his absence from the race we shall rely on H. M. Abrahams, W. F. Nichol, a young Nottingham schoolmaster, and Tom Mathewman, from Huddersfield, the Northern Champion; both the latter have shown 9 4-5 sec. for 100 Yards.

The Olympic 200 Metres (218 7/8 yards) record stands at 21 3-5 sec., made by Archie Hahn, U.S.A., at St. Louis, in 1904. Paddock has beaten this time. Liddell's 21 3-5 sec. for 220 Yards at the A.A.A. Championships last year is also better than the Olympic record. In this event the Scotch crack will be our best hope. He was far from a polished runner last year, but it well may be that he will give us a new world's record at Paris.

The American "Ace" was defeated in the recent Olympic by Scholtz, of America, and Abrahams, of England.

Carthage in England

The ruined temple at Virginia Water, Surrey, England is always somewhat of a mystery to visitors to that beauty spot which was at one time a dreary swamp.

Standing in a romantic silt, its columns look as though they had been undisturbed for two thousand years. The fact is that the temple has been in its present position about a century. Its original site, was ancient Carthage.

On several of the stones are inscriptions. One in Greek, on an altar stone, tells how Publius Arelidus dedicated it to Jupiter and to the other gods worshipped in the temple. Others are written in Latin. One of these reads: "Marcus Julius erected this to his most beloved wife Domitia Rogata, who lived twenty-three years."

At one time a fine group of Ancient Greek Statuary stood near these columns from Carthage. When William IV. opened these lovely grounds to the public, however, these statues were so shamefully mutilated by visitors that they were completely ruined and the public were again excluded until the reign of Queen Victoria.
