For the Free Press. DOWN BY THE FLOWING RIVER.

BY W. ARTHUR CALNEK.

Here by the flowing river, At the witching sunset hour,. I sit, and watch the bubbles, That adown its current pour.

And as the passing shadows Of the clouds that sail above, Bestow them again to the sunlight Waere it shi a ners Lorth its love:

Sure am I now-as ever In new boyhood's days I was-Beside the i road roung river, Omits banks my steps to pause;

Lovingly asking-ever,

Why the day-ord's dving because

Beptize the bubbles with Leading And my soul with poet dreams?

Down from the shadows broading, O'er the stream upon my right They come to the sunlit spaces— To my left they sink from sight,

Not as in days departed, Do I watch them as they glide, Unheeling the truthful lessons They are flashing o'er, the tide;

Then as they came and vanished. Never came into my soul, The lore that they gave the current, As it sought its ocean goal;

Now, as I gaze, the river Its bubbles, the dreams of boyhood. In the vortices of strife;

And as I see them bursting, They are emblems far from dumb, Of Hope and its earthly piedges-Save the pledge of life to come.

Yea, and the stream that bears them Is a type of that vast stream, That floweth-the River of Life-From the throne of God supreme :

Floating upon whose surface. Is the life of what is ME; A hubble that soon must mingle With the stream eternally.

Flowing from God and ever, Turning its waters again, To the Fountain whence they came.

I, too, affoat in shadow. On its heaving bosom broad, Shall find in the End it bore me, In a circle back to God.

Still will I six by the river. Watching the bubbles that flow, And read the lesson they teach me In the sunser's golden glow. North Williamston, Annapolis, April 1865.

maps, together with a map of NOVA SCOTIA, NEW BRUNSWICK, AND PRINCE EDWAD ISLAND, PRINCE EDWAD ISLAND, all to be drawn and engraved in the neatest style by the best artists, colored by townships, well-varnished and firmly mounted on muslin and roller. The publishers hive undertaken an arduous task and one that requires the most skillful and experienced professional labor in the department of civil enced profe-sional labor in the department of civil twographical engineering and engraving, aid an expendure of thousands of pounds to finish and produce these works. But it has been undertaken under the these works. But it has been undertaken under the pitronase of the government and at the solicitation of various geatlemen in different parts of the province, with the confisent hope and expectation that men of business, &c., &c., would gladly avail themselves of this source of information, and order the work when an opportunity is offered. It is at once appurent and must be conceded, that Nova Scotia has no represented to the conceded, that Nova Scotia has no represented to the conceded. has no proper or c rrect maps of its territory, and that a great necessity for the same constructed in the most appropriate manner, is now very generally felt. The Canadas New Brutswick and Prince b. Island have new and authentic maps of their respective territory prepared and issued by the sanction and under the patronage of the governments of the same while the best map that can be round of Nova Scotia, shows nothing but the general features of the country. The maps now contemplated will be infinitely, superior to any ever before offered to the people of this country.

The census of 1861 shows a population of more than 350,000 in Nova Scotia, with increasing valuation, proving the progress of wealth in this province. Mineral wealth unbounded is being discovered and is attracting the attention of thousand of capitalists both in England and in the United States. Commerof neighboring communities and avai interests, and everything betokens i'r the people of this country a bright future; therefore new and reliable maps ought to be made to represent, in a proper manner; the interests of the Province both at home and Carving & Mortising.

These maps we have undertaken to produce, and are sure that the people of Nova Scota will sustain enterprise. The map of Halifax county is now in progress o completion, an I will be issued in a few he also has a months, provided sufficient encouragement is secured MO when we shall at once proceed with the publication A F.
