Poetry.

The Old Home Paper. Ill printed, old fashioned and homely, bearing name of a small country town, With an unfeigned sneer at its wrapper cover, The postman in scorn throws it down.

Despatches and pictures are wanting; For calligrams terse search his waist; Yet an unfeigned sneer at its wrapper cover, The postman in scorn throws it down.

But I can't get it sent to me. The Doctor's Signature and directions are on every bottle. If you can't get it sent to me, try 35 cents, six 60c. Sold by Druggists. Pamphlet free. I. S. JOHNSON & Co., 22 Custom House St., Boston, Mass., Sole Proprietors.

As I read I drift dreamily backward To days when to live was but joy; I think and I pore till the dawn of dawn, Grown faint and again I'm a boy.

Rare perfume of green country byways, Far from mowers and bees, And the quaint little town, with its streets leading down, To the creek and its low bending trees.

And the paper tells how all prospered, I follow their lives as they flow, Applauding each gain and regretting each loss, For the sake of the days long ago.

Then someone my eyes sees less heavy For the voyage that I take as I read, And I laugh, for the moment each week I'm obliged to replenish my need.

Above all the huge city dialies, With ponderous utterance wide, This scanty page hath power to spread out for an hour, A fairland sweet to mine eyes.

Ill printed, old fashioned and homely, bearing name of a small country town, I wait and I long for the moment each week When the postman in scorn throws it down.

Reuben Caggs' Theory. I was sitting in a cafe below Fourteenth street, with my feet on Reuben Caggs. It was a sultry July day, and he ought to have been at his country house on Long Island, where he had invited me to spend a couple of weeks.

I'd like to bury the whole lot of you." Then he turned to me and said "What did I tell you, Hught! The poor prey on the rich. They won't work, and..."

"My mother works," broke in the boy, in stout defence of himself and his family. "I ain't no mother, as I follow can't help his sister's dying, can't he? Ain't my fault cos she's dead."

He was pallid with excitement and grief. There was a defiance in his eyes, too, and he stood squared against old Caggs.

"Who told you that story?" he sternly inquired. "Nobody didn't tell me that story," answered the boy. "It's no story. It's true's you live. If you don't believe it, come along. Guess when you see Sis dead, you'll know I ain't shamming."

"Right, will you go with me?" "Certainly." It was a new experience for both of us; a curious chapter in the history of city life, and I was not sorry to read it.

"By Joe's!" said Caggs, "we reached the street. I feel like a fool. Now if Julia was here, she would give you a good word for breakfast, and believe every word he said."

The Weekly Monitor.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1895.

The service across the bay this winter is certainly a great improvement on that of former years. During three or four of the winter months there was a boat but once or at most twice a week. On other days...

For these increased facilities, which are proving highly satisfactory to the people of these western counties, we have to thank the energetic management of the Dominion Atlantic Railway. Their steamer, the Prince Rupert, has not only revolutionized the summer travel of western Nova Scotia...

While discussing this subject we wish to call attention to one feature of the present time-table of the D. A. R. which has been the cause of some little criticism. The train going east in the afternoon seems to be too late. Possibly the management had some reason for fixing the time for this train as late as an hour, but from the point of view of the general public that feature of the time-table is open to objection. The boat from Boston generally arrives at Yarmouth at about 7 or 8 a. m. while the train does not leave there before 10.30 local time, causing a rather tedious delay of two hours there. This makes the afternoon train late all the way to Halifax. In many places along the line couriers have long distances to travel after mail as received and distributed in the morning again, causing a lot of night travel when the roads are bad and weather unfavorable. If this afternoon train could be run at an hour earlier it would be a boon to this class besides giving the people their mail at an earlier hour.

The political circles in Canada have been somewhat stirred during the past week by the election in North Ontario, and the resignation of Hon. N. Clark Wallace, Controller of Customs. The first of these resulted in the election of John A. MacMillan, the government candidate, by something like 1000 majority over the patron candidate who came next, and 1100 majority over the liberal candidate, who gained only thirty three places in the race. North Ontario is a strong orange constituency, its people being nearly all protestants; and as both the liberal and patron candidates declared themselves as strongly opposed to remedial legislation, or any interference whatever with Manitoba on the part of the dominion parliament, the result was looked to as a test of the protestant sentiment of Ontario upon the school question. It is true that Mr. MacMillan did not declare himself in favor of remedial legislation, but on the contrary declined to commit himself until he had seen the proposed measure. The result, therefore, as regards that question is not quite as decisive as it otherwise might have been. The resignation of Mr. Wallace of the Controllership of Customs is owing to his inability to support the policy of the government on the school question. It has been expected for some time, and in Catholic conservative quarters is causing a good deal of satisfaction. Just what effect it will have politically is as yet a matter of some doubt.

For several weeks past there has been a fleet of no less than forty-two of the finest war ships afloat in Turkish waters, within a few hours sail of Constantinople. Of this fleet 18 ships belong to Great Britain, 6 to France, 6 to Austria, 5 to Italy, 3 to Russia, 2 to Germany, and 2 to the United States. Notwithstanding this display of power on the part of the Christian nations, the Sultan appears to have permitted the robbery, outrage and slaughter to continue unchecked in his eastern provinces. After week the same story is repeated until it is now stated that the number of the slain and of those who have lost their property through these outrages reaches fully half a million. European statesmen seem reluctant to begin action against the Sultan as no one is yet able to see where or what the end will be, when one move is made. How long the present state of things will continue is as yet uncertain, but it certainly cannot last much longer.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, secretary of state for the colonies, has sent a despatch to the governors of the colonies with a view of investigating thoroughly the extent to which in each colony foreign imports have displaced or are displacing similar British goods, and the causes of such displacement. Mr. Chamberlain asks them to furnish tabulated returns showing the value for 1883 and 1884, 1893 and 1894, of foreign articles imported, and the reasons why they are preferred to British imports. He also desires to secure a return of any products of the colonies that might with advantage be exported to the United Kingdom or other parts of the British empire, and to be able for information as to the quality, price and freight charges that would be useful to British importers.

The visit of Premier Whitney to Canada just now is giving rise once more to the question of the union of Newfoundland with the dominion. The finances of that island are still in a bad condition and the general business outlook very gloomy. Some change in the island's present status seems necessary, but opinion differs as to just what would be most expedient. Newfoundland's present premier has always been in favor of union with the dominion, but a majority of his fellow islanders have thus far opposed such union.

GENERAL COXLEY, who led an army of ragamuffins to Washington a couple of winters ago, and of whom little has been heard since, was a candidate for Governor of Ohio at the recent state election, running as a populist, or people's party candidate. He received about 50,000 votes, thus affording a fairly accurate test of the number of fools there are among the voters of that state.

Handsome and Convenient Stores.

Annapolis may well feel proud of the two new stores lately opened there by Messrs. Geo. E. Corbit and H. A. West. Few towns of even greater proportions can boast of two such handsome business rooms, and they certainly reflect great credit upon the owners.

The store of H. A. West was built under contract by Messrs. Carry Bros. & Bent, of this town, expressly for the hardware and crockery business, and is admirably adapted for the enterprise in its various lines. The building is two stories high with a flat roof, is 30x60 feet on the ground floor, with an all 15x35 in the rear. The plate glass front is one of the largest in the Valley, each light being 8 1/2 inches square, and shows off to good advantage the well arranged stock. The ceiling and walls of the main store are sheathed and finished in natural color with hard oil, and the floors are hardwood. The ill is used for storing heavy goods such as tin, glass, paper, cement, etc. The building is heated with a combined combination hot water and hot air furnace. The front half of the store is divided into three very desirable offices and the rear half is used by Mr. West for his reserve stock.

Mr. Geo. E. Corbit has remodelled his building throughout, taking the space formerly occupied by H. A. West, and has now the finest grocery store in western Nova Scotia. It being a model restaurant, it is most modern in all its appointments. His main store is 30x40 ft., with a large store in the rear and is heated throughout with hot water. The interior of the store is very handsome in appearance, being painted in pure white and varnished. The ceiling is sheathed and finished in natural color, and the floors are hardwood. The store contains large plate glass windows in which are displayed very attractively a choice lot of groceries especially adapted for the Christmas trade.

Mr. Corbit feels justly proud of his new and commodious quarters and takes much pleasure in showing his many customers through his capacious and elaborate premises. He intends early next season raising a new roof for his building and adding another story to it, to be used as a cement.

School for the Blind. This institution is doing its work right well. The annual meeting Monday evening was presided over by W. C. Silver, Esq., and was largely attended. The report showed that the number of pupils in attendance has steadily and rapidly increased. At this time the year ago the pupils numbered 70. The present number is 70. The buildings are planned for 60 pupils; and the present attendance proves that the accommodation is not increased. Mr. Fraser's report as superintendent showed that 74 were under instruction during the year—22 boys; 22 girls. Of those now in attendance 41 are from Nova Scotia, 17 from New Brunswick, 4 from P. E. Island, and 6 from Newfoundland. Mr. Fraser expects before very long an attendance of about 100. The sale policy is to build with an eye to the requirements of the local population and to expect the attendance of all who ought to attend. Four teachers are now engaged in the literary department. Of the 70 pupils 35 are receiving lessons in music. The staff of instructors is highly spoken of by the authorities, and it is made as received and distributed in the morning again, causing a lot of night travel when the roads are bad and weather unfavorable. If this afternoon train could be run at an hour earlier it would be a boon to this class besides giving the people their mail at an earlier hour.

The Beaver Lake Lumbering sailed at an early hour last Friday morning from St. John for Liverpool with a large cargo. She is loaded right down to her gunwales. Her cargo has not yet been made up, but it includes the following goods: 50,000 bundles of maple blocks; 4,000 bundles of hay; 1,800 sheep; 75 horses; 1,000 packages of butter; 5,000 boxes of cheese; 2,000 barrels of apples; 250 barrels of fish; 150 barrels of cranberries; 8,000 bundles of meat; 500 cases of canned salmon; 75 dressed hogs; 50 cases of turkeys; 1,000 boxes of meat; 2,100 cases of eggs; 200 standards of deals and 200 tons of birch timber shipped by W. M. Mackay; 50 standards of deals (shipped by Waterson & Todd), and a lot of small stuff. The Lark Superior also took away 120 passengers. She had good weather in the bay.

Dangerous Bridge. The public are hereby cautioned as to the dangerous condition of the bridge crossing the river at Middleton. About eight o'clock last night a Dr. Spangis was crossing the structure he was violently thrown from his chair by horses falling through one of the holes in the bridge and was considerably shaken up. Fortunately, however, he succeeded in extricating his horse without any animal receiving any serious injury, though it seems almost miraculous that such proved to be the case. The bridge is and has been for several days past, quite dangerous to travel, and needs prompt attention.

Salvation Army quarters. A quartette of cultured singers, in connection with the Salvation Army, under the leadership of Estlin East, will hold a musical meeting in Victoria Hall, on Thursday evening, Dec. 18th, next, and in the Temperance Hall, Lawrencetown on Wednesday evening, Dec. 19th. The meeting, outside of the musical program, will be addressed by some of the officers as present located in this field, and will be of deep interest to all who attend.

Dismissing a Car. A despatch from St. John, N. S., dated Dec. 17th, says that a Despatch from Demerara on New York, which put into that port Nov. 27th in a leaky condition, is discharging her cargo. There was a full moon on the 2nd of this month, and there will be another one on the 17th. The moon will be in the sky for three full moons in December, which is a month in which Christ was born, 1896 years ago. On Monday evening, Dec. 23rd, there will be a pie social in the new hall at Hampden. If that evening proves unfavorable, it will be on Friday evening, the 27th. A good time is anticipated.
