Government Orders Will Have Precedence Every Day and Madero Must Resign Before Some Real Business Will Be Transacted - Maclean Amendment to R. & O. Bill on Monday.

By Tom King.

OTTAWA, Heb. 15.—The indications are that the government will keep HE IS LOSING GROUND firm grip on the house for the remainder of the session. Beginning Tues day, government business will engross all the time of parliament, and every day, it is said, some real business will be transacted. Last night the house De La Barra Plays Part of was kept in session until after midnight, something almost without precedent on a Friday evening, and considerable supply was voted.

Monday will be largely occupied with the discussion and vote upon he Maclean amendment to the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company's ill, which places the capitalization of their company under the supervision

Tuesday the government will move the second reading of the naval ill, and pressure will be brought to have the bill itself finally passed as close of Navy Debate.

The scenes which attended the close of the debate and the vote upon the naval resolutions were less interesting and dramatic than might have been anticipated. A full dress debate usually concluded with whirlwind speeches by the party leaders; on Thursday night brief speeches were delivered by the prime minister and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, but they were not of the whirlwind variety. Sir Wilfrid addressed himself entirely to the Verville amendment, which called himself entirely to the Verville amendment, whicsh callsd for a reference of the naval question to the people. No one could tell from his speech where ne stood on the question, but he adroity constructed an indictment of rank Duke of Connaught at Convoby constructed an indictment of rank inconsistency against the prime minister and his followers in case they did not vote for the amendment. It was clever fencing, but the effort was obviously an autempt to score a point rather than to vindicate a principle. Mr. ish in his re- MORE THAN WANTED ply. He intimated that Satan reprovply. He intimated that Satan reproving sin, appeared to advantage in contrast with Sir Wilfrid reproving a prime minister for not keeping his pre-election pledges. However, when Mr. Borden got down to the meat of his argument he made a complete answer to the indictment which had been prepared against him. In opposition he pointed out the Conservatives had inpointed out the Conservatives had insted that no permanent policy should be adopted without a mandate from the people, but they had at the same time insisted that parliament should at once make a substantial contribution to the imperial navy in order to meet the urgent demands of the hour.

Armistice Is Arranged— Life and Death Struggle Continues.

Peacemaker With Hopes of Final Success-Fighting Heavy.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 15 .- Un-MEXICO CITY, Feb. 15.—Unsuccessful efforts to arrange an armistice between the rebels and the federal forces fighting a life and death struggle in the streets of Mexico City, marked the opening of the seventh day's battle. Felix Diaz refused absolutely to hear of peace before President Madero had resigned with the whole of his ministers.

Diaz's firmness in this respect was indicated by the activity of his gunners, who continued the bombardment at intervals during the night, and after dawn increased their fire until it was more violent than it had ever been.

Most of those in Mexico City, who know President Madero's constancy of purpose, were pessimistic today regarding his resignation. Others, however, believed he would yield to the persistent demand made by men high in public life.

Francisco De La Barra, the former provisional president, played the part of peacemaker today and promises to become as stable in this crisis as he was in the adjustment of the difficulties of the Medero revolution, which terminated in the overthrow of Porfirio Diaz.

GERMANY HAS NEW TYPE OF WARSHIP

Speedier Than Dreadnoughts, Lies Low in Water and Fights End On.

LONDON, Feb. 15 .- "The F technical paper of the highest reputation, gives details of a formidable and entirely new type of warship which s being constructed for the German admiralty and will revolutionize naval warfare. The design was first offered to the British Government, but beyond the bare acknowledgment, no further action was taken. The new type is described as speeder than any dreadnought. It lies low in the water, not much more than awash, and fights end on. The only target it presents to the enemy's fire is a bow shield, sloping backward and of such shape and thickness as to be virtually impenetrable. It serves as the carriage of a single gun of maximum power, furnished with projectiles that play the part of aerial torpedoes and the gun remains perpetually screened except at the moment of

The vessel can keep at sea in all weathers and fight effectively at the longest ranges. Twenty of these destroyers can be built for the cost of a single super-dreadnought, and German naval experts hold that a superdreadnought must inevitably succumb if attacked by even five such small

Pains in the Stomach That Yield to Nothing Else, Pass Away Quickly if Nerviline is Used. READ MR. BRAUN'S STATEMENT.

A few weeks ago I ate some green vegetables and some fruit that was not quite ripe. It first brought on a fit of indigestion, but unfortunately it developed into hiccoughs, accompanied by nausea and cramps. I was dreadfully ill for two days—my head ached and throbbed; I belched gas continualand throbbed; I belched gas continually, and I was unable to sleep at hight. A neighbor happened in to see me and urged me to try Nerviline. Well, I wouldn't have believed that any preparation could help so quickly. I took half a teaspoonful of Nerviline in hot sweetened water, and my stomach felt better at once. I used Nerviline several times, and was completely restored."

Czech Tenor Creates Splendid Impression on Second Appear-

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra gave a fine concert last Thursday night at Massey Hall, when Leo Slezak, the Czech tenor, was the soloist. The program opened with a brilliant and eloquent performance of the Beethoven Symphony No. 8, one of the most charming, lively, and tuneful of the nine. It has no great contrasts but abounds in exquisite passages of lyric sweetness and joyful serenity, which, under Mr. Welsman's guidance, were made delightfully effective. The "Nut-Cracker" suite, Tschaikowsky, was perhaps one of the most popular pieces in this season's repertoire. Of the five movements three had to be repeated in response to most insistent demands. The "Marche Ecossaise," by Debussy, was splendidly played and stirred the audience to an outburst of thankful applause.

GROWING GIRLS Watchful Care of Health Extremely Important For Growing Girls. Of course you want your daughter to grow up to strong, vigorous womanhood, fully equipped to take her place in the world of activity. You are seeing that she gets a good education, that the growth of her mind is well looked after, but what about the growth of her body and her physical condition? You must remember that just at this time her vitality is being taxed to the utmost. vitality is being taxed to the utmost, and upon how well or how poorly her system is built up just now de-pends to a large extent the health or pends to a large extent the health or weakness of later years.

To enrich the blood and build up tissue and assure a growing girl of glowing, permanent health and strong womanhood, there is nothing so effective as the scientific preparation called Sanguinol It is a tonic containing no alcohol or harmful days tonic which perceiv ful drugs—a tonic which merely feeds to the system the elements which Nature cannot supply fast enough.

Sanguinol is composed of the iron and manganese of which the rich, red, life-giving blood corpuscles are made and the phosphates which build the tissues and nerve cells. So you see that its action is merely to assist Nature, co-operating with Nature in a most effective way to make sure, stalwart, robust health. Get Sanguinol today and place your daughter safely upon the road to vigorous womanhood. She will thank you for it. You will never regret it. MARGHERITE, QUEEN DOWAGER

ROME, Feb. 15 .- The mother of King Victor Emmanuel is not only one of the stateliest of the royal women of Europe, but one of the most tactful. A reception held by the royal mother at her palace here served to illustrate her gracious character. As a diplomat was advancing to kiss her extended hand, the clasp which held her pearl necklace came unfastened and the gems fell to the floor, rolling in all directions. The royal lady paused a moment without the least sign of discomfiture. Her poise saved the situation, and the diplomats went to their hands and knees and engaged in a regular schoolfboys' gaged in a regular schoolboys' scramble for the pearls. After they had collected the scattered gems from under tables and chairs, they lined up in a row to restore them to their own-er, but she gracefully asked them to keep them as a souvenir. ALLYSTON, Feb. 151—The B. B. McIntyre Furniture Company of Tillsonburg, have purchased the plant formerly owned by the Merner Manufacturing Co. The plant contains about thirty or forty thousand feet of floor space. The firm will move to Alliston and expect to have business in opera-tion in March.

"The Shepherd Of the Hills"

Dramatization of the Popular Novel the Attraction at the Grand Next Week.

Harold Bel! Wright, who is said to be the most popular of the younger American novelists, with the assistance of Eisbery W. Reynolds, has made a dramatization of his widely-read novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills." Its initial production in this city will take place at the Grand next week. Mr. Wright is a man with a mission and a message—he is a story teller, and when the story ends we begin a better life "along the sundit fields where the light lingers even when the sun is down." We start this journey of "the higher trail among the hills" because the gifted writer puts into our hearts the benediction of a renewed faith in men and women, a vital love for truth and beauty, and a deathless hope in the good outcome among the mysteries brooding where our Pilgrimway meets horizon shadows. He calls his story a very old story. This is true, indeed, for have not Good and Bad been in ceaseless conflict since the dawn of human life? Have not toll and love gathered their blossoms and fruit since the time when men and women first learned to weep and sing? The story is old if age comes with the portrayal of the elemental "The Shepherd of the Hills." Its inising? The story is old if age comes with the portrayal of the elemental and eternal forces of our human world; but it is new—wonderfully fresh and sweet with the morning light and dew of virgin hills and valleys—for these age-long forces of the soul find expression in the characters to whom we have never been introduced until now. Yet these people of the Ozarks are real flesh-and-blood folks; some, it is true, reach the heroic; still we feel in them the throb of kinship to all who live outside their almost enchanted land. Here is a play worth seeing in this day of multitudinous and insipid drama. Here is a plot, The movement is ever onward—there are no retrograde and meaningless eddies in this stream of happiness. The current of events seizes you and takes we feel in them the throb of kinship to all who live outside their almost enchanted land. Here is a play worth seeing in this day of multitudinous and insipid drama. Here is a plot. The movement is ever enward—there are no retrograde and meaningless eddies in this stream of happiness. The current of events seizes you and takes you on and on, and when the end comes you are glad and sorrowful—glad because so good a play ends as it does; sorrowful because it ends so soon.

Romance of Hawali to Be Presented at Alexandra Theatre on March 3.

Angeles, out on the Pacific, has been accomplishing wonders for the drama in America—that Richard Walton Tully's fervid romance of Hawaii will be given its local premiere on March 3, in the Alexandra Theatre. Neither the play nor the principal player, who happens to be dainty Bessie Barriscale, are of the unknown order of things. Both have been tried and found not wanting, in other communities. Miss Barriscale, who has won her way with consistent advancement for several seasons past, tho just out of her teens, created the role of Luana, the ingenuous Kanaka child-queen, who just doesn't want to be anything but just doesn't want to be anything but happy as wife of the American 'stranger," who suddenly invades her day dreams of love and eventually cine." Charles Cogh-lan went to the other extreme and made love on the stage, standing at a respectful distance from the leading woman and evincing a restraint that seemed apathetic. One rarely thinks of styles and fashions in plays and in books, but styles there is in both, nevertheless. And so it seems to be with the theless. And so it seems to be with the stage lovers created for us by the authors of different generations. From the lackadaisical, love-sick poet Grovesnor in "Patience" to my present role Alexandre Merital in "The Attack" is a far cry, but since the days when I played Grosvenor at the Boston Museum. I have been cell the Boston Museum, I have been called upon to enact hundreds of heroes, and in the love scenes I have always endeavored to strike the right note of sincerity and tanderness even when of sincerity and tenderness, even when some of these characters were almost mawkish. As Merital in "The Attack" my love for the heroine, who is sup-posed to be about half my own age, begins in a sort of paternal way. Then have to indicate to the audience how the overpowering love of the young girl triumphs over my fears that this love is a possible caprice of a very naive and trusting nature. The situation is absolutely true to life and has the bests in fact. It is one of the most its basis in fact. It is one of the most exacting roles I have ever been called upon to portray. Fortunately I have the co-operation of a most charming young actress in these scenes, and it is needless to say every actor finds inspiration in simulating love when the heroine happens to be a really beautiful when the

Starting Out in Life

To Messrs. F. R. Laing & Co., Suite 17, Northern Crown Bank Building, 269 College Street, Toronto Ont. Dear Sirs:

Without any obligation on my part, send me full particulars with reference to the offer of the Ontario Homes, Limited, stock, and the terms and condition on which I can purchase same. Name

Address

THERE comes a time in the history of every man's life when he has to make a start, when he is thrown into the world to shape his own destiny, depend upon his own resources, and reap the harvest according to the seed he has

It is up to each and every man to see that this start is made on a good foundation, because future prosperity depends entirely on the strength and durability of that foundation.

You are anxious to make a future for yourself, where you do not have to depend upon drawing a weekly salary to enable you having the necessities of this life. In short, you want a channel where you can invest your savings, so that they will bring you in a good return.

> Remember that no one ever became rich by working for wages. Legitimate wealth comes through wise investment to those who have the good sense to investigate, the courage to seize the opportunity, and the determination to begin right now. Those who made their start with the Los Angeles Building Company and invested $100.00 fifteen years ago, and re-invested their dividends, can now draw $16,171.00. Those who invested $10.00 a month each month for the same period can now draw $39,499.20.

Your opportunity to make good as they have done is offered you by investing in the stock of the Ontario Homes Limited, who are operating on the same lines as the Los Angeles Company.

We own and offer for public subscription 10,000 shares of this stock, par value $5.00, with which we are giving a bonus of one share with each two subscribed, and which can be purchased on easy payments.

This is the chance to make YOUR START IN LIFE. Let us send you full particulars dealing with this proposition, and if it appeals to you as the proper channel to invest your savings, then act according to the Dictates of your

Mr. Meighen, the Conservative member for Portage la Prairie, thus ingeniously payed the way for some remarks by himself and others on the banking situation which would have been much more to the point had they been delivered on the second reading of the bill to amend the Bank Act. It will be remembered that when the discussion upon the banks began to warm up and especially after Major Sam Sharpe delivered a few remarks, Mr. Borden stated that in his opinion the Borden stated that in his opinion the discussion was premature and that the objections to the proposed bill should be first presented to and considered by the banking and commerce committee. A nod being as good as a wink to a blind supporter, several Conservative members locked in their desks the notes they had prepared for speeches and walked forth from the chamber disconsolate.

BIG ARRAY OF BEARISH FACTS CONFRONT THE STOCK MARKETS

Considerable Apprehension in Future, but it has hardly begun as yet. While the railroads are buying fewer materials, they are letting large contracts for freight cars. This Outlook-Wall Street Fears Change in Administration Next Month - Prospects For the Near Future.

The following review of conditions in at the week end:

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—A sharp break in stocks to a new low level for the year, after the market had had a sold-out appearance, caused some perturbation in Wall street. Accumulation of political factors, more or les disturbing, were at the bottom of the selling. There does not appear to be much chance of settlement in stocks until the domestic political horizon becomes clearer. We have a change in administration coming in a little more than a fortnight, with expected radical cabinet appointments. An extra session tion coming in a little more than a fortnight, with expected radical cabinet appointments. An extra session of Congress is about to begin modifications of the tariff. This sort of thing always causes uncertainty in the public mind. Until we can get a line on the proposed changes it is idle to expect much improvement in industrial shares, which are directly affected.

Then and Now.

In February, 1909, just prior to an adjustment of the tariff, we had a collapse in U. S. Steel shares, and an open market for the trade. In the third week of that month steel was at its lowest, then there was a gradual recovery, and thruout the summer Steel led the market, even the congress did not adjourn until August. The steel trade was not in good shape when the break came. Today a record business is being done, with little tendency to let up. of governors of the New York Stock Exchange, recently, the results of recent agitation against the exchange were crystallized in the form of a resolution to prevent undue fluctuations in securities, which was passed after considerable debate, and which is only the first of general measures which will be adopted to insure greater safety to the stock-buying public.

At the conclusion of the meeting

President James B. Mabon gave out

the following statement: "For some weeks committees have been at work upon the rules of the ex-change for the purpose of determining vhat changes or additions can be made to the present operations and transactions in securities on the exchange which have been criticized. NEW YORK'S PLACE IN AMERICAN FINANCE

The National Banks of New York handle 75 per cent. of the money of the United States. Every business day $350,000,000 passes thru the clearing house—$500,000,000 a week more than thru all the London banks. Manhattan

was going to close his account which was active, as his orders ran from 100 to 1,000 shares. Naturally the broker was dismayed and inquired the cause. "I am going to open two accounts with another house, as I do not believe you would care to bother with them. One will be a $50,000 trading account and the other a banking account to credit of which I will deposit $200,000. On the latter I will make one withdrawal daily commencing with one cent and doubling the preceding day's withdrawal until the end of the thirty days.

"Why not give us those accounts?" eagerly said the broker. "We want your account, and I'll bet none of my partners will kick at your use of the banking account in the way you suggest." He figured rapidly. "Why, your drafts on the 7th day will be $1.27 and on the 15th day your check would be for $163.84. We'll handle your accounts, and each to be separate of the other, or I'll forfeit a bet of $10,600."

check on the 25th day, which with daily doubling hac reached $167,- 772.16. The cashier refused to honor it because it would have over-drawn the account. A meeting of the partners was immediately called and some rapid figuring was done, and it was found that the customer's drafts on the 30th day would aggregate $10,737,418.23.

The broker wrote his personal check for $10,000, and handed it to give an account of itself, and that it has given its promise to do so, there are physicians ready to advise, plenty of them.

The point having significance in this direction lies in the fact that the exchange is more or less likely to be amenable to reason much as it is expected to co-operate winth the State legislature so as to get a health certificate.

Hitherto it was animated solely, so far as could be perceived, by imagine that nothing was the matter with it, and to rely on that attitude to make good.

But now all is different. A committee from the exchange is to co-operate with the governor of New York and the legislature, in an effort to reform some of the practices among its traders which have been complained of.

Practical Suggestions. Meanwhile the editor of The Wall Street Journal, a most competent judge, has offered his views of what ought to be done. He told them to the finace forum of the Y. M. C. A., in New York, where so many men prominent in financial and other walks of life have been telling what is best for the United States.

First he recommended the employment by the exchange of a competent president, who should fairs of the institution, at an adequate salary. He was free to pants of that office had not measured up to a standard which ought to be requisite for holding the position.

Then he wanted an insurance fund to guarantee the public against the misdoing of members of the exchange, and public supervision of the same to insure its proper use.

He also proposed an avoidance of violation of the law against over-certification of checks by National banks, by having the stock exchange stand behind its. members in the matter of guaranteeing checks certified.

He, however, placed most reliance as a needed reform, on the adoption by the exchange, of rules for the admission of securities for trading approximating the provisions of the British Companies

Under such an arrangement, he pointed out, swindling companies or the like could not even start in business, for they would have to show in advance all contracts, profits of underwriting, nature of the business, and extent of actual capital, sworn to, so that foolish people, of whom the United States has its share, could lose no money in investing in ill-considered concerns unless, they insisted on doing so. Restoring Confidence.

But there are other amendments to rules which might be offered which would go far to recover a good deal of public confidence. Let a high-level valuation of seats become the price for membership, say $100,000 each. With 1,000 members, this would provide quite a fund with which to guarantee customers of members against insolvency of the latter.

It might be used as an insurance against losses by the public from the bucketing of their orders; against brokers' insolvency thru carrying customers who owe exhausted margins; against speculating by the members themselves - which ought to be prohibited - and provide a fund from which adequate fines might be collected for manipulation pure and simple, even if it were not thought necessiry to make good losses to customers due to that abominable practice.

The custom of specialists of buying and selling for their own account is a reprehensible one. This, of course, would be done away with, if the foregoing rules were provided and enforced.

Perhaps Governor Sulzer and the committee having the Stock Exchange reform bills in charge, when the measure gets that far, might with profit take up some such considerations as these.

WALL STREET IS INDISPENSABLE TO NATIONAL ECONOMY OF U. S.

Many Reformers of Today Ignore the First Principles of Modern Financial Science-Trading on Margin Not in Itself an Evil—Fallacy of Diatribe Against Stock Exchange.

Many men and women nowadays are asking one another: "What is Wall street?" Their curiosity has been whetted by the recent money trust investigation and the movement on foot to incorporate and reform the New York Stock Exchange by way of Albany. Stock Exchange by way of Albany.

As an institution Wall street should need no defense for its existence; nor is anything to be gained by featuring it as a den of thieves and gamblers, whose sole objective is public plunder.

Wall street exists in response to public demand and necessity. It is a free public market for dealings in products and securities, and it is indispensable to national economy in marketing them, in interpreting values, in establishing and maintaining prices, and in financing great industrial enterprises and commercial undertakings.

vailing interest rates, and to hold and rehypothecate the stock as collateral, if necessary, the principle of commercial credit is swiftly changed and this transaction bears no analogy to that of the realty purchaser, or merchant, according to exchange critics.

This is manifestly absurd. The element of suspension in payment is the in financing great industrial enterprises and commercial undertakings. The development of the resources of the United States is due to Wall street. This was admirably and concretely pointed by Mr. H. P. Davison, of the banking house of Messrs. J. P. Morgan and Company, in the statement read by him, upon the conclusion of his testimony, before the Pujo committee, a week or so ago.

This is manifestly absurd. The element of suspension in payment is the same in all three cases, and is due precisely, to the same cause—expectation in every line of modern business the "margin" figures either as credit, part payment, or deposited collateral. Indeed, the transaction with the broker is closed outright; for delivery of stocks sold, or purchased, on the floor of the stock exchange must follow bemmittee, a week or so ago.

EASY MONEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 .- An outside broker, who is connected with a well-known international house, recently subscribed for $300,000 of 5 per cent. short term notes. With his connections he was able to have the notes carried on a basis of 4 per cent., and it was understood that they would be marked down daily in the event of a decline Inasmuch as the notes advanced steadily, the broker did not have to put up any money, and he made, besides his profit, 1 per cent. on the interest alone. His profits amounted to $28,000.

ACTIVE TRADE DESPITE SCARCITY OF MONEY

Toronto reports to Bradstreet's say that there is little indication of restraint of business as a result of the scarcity of money. The only visible effect so far is a possible slight increase in the proportion of maturing paper on which renewals are asked. Orders in most lines are coming in very satisfactorily. Dry goods houses are filled with orders, and in many cases cannot accept all that come in. Owing to the early Easter, earlier transaction on the floor of the stock exchange is a gamble, the participants gamblers, and the institution a gambling house. American securities opened quiet and steady, and then advanced a fraction on light buying based on the belief that the threatened strike of railroad men will be averted. The closing was steady, with values ranging from unchanged to 5-8 above parity.

CANADIAN BANK CLEARINGS

1919 The above chart, which is almost self-explanatory, gives the record of bank clearings in Canada (sixteen cities only), over a term of four years, from January 1939 to January, 1913, inclusive. As the bank clearings banks and houses of New York, which are in effect the "vital statistics" of a country, this record constitutes one of the most outstanding evidences of the Pujo committee is trying to find the property of the the growth of the Dominion. It will be noted that, whereas in January, 1909, clearings totaled some $381,000, together as under one control are in November, 1912—the record level to date—they reached the enormous sum of $876,000, or an increase of but on account of the lack of comparisons over a term of years, the above showing is based on 16 only, the other they were $789,824.

The total clearings last month were $804,350; as shown above, in 16 cities in the lack of th

In a table, covering prices of Pennsylvania crude oil from the time the first oil well was ever drilled, in 1859, until to-day, Amos Steffee shows that the highest price it touched was $20 a barrel in 1860, which was the year Pennsylvania oil first appeared on the market. The following year it touched its lowest price, 10 cents a bar-rel. The next high level was in 1864 when it sold at $14 a barrel, and its next low level was 45 cents, in 1874. Between 1878 and February, 1913, high price was $2.69 in 1895 and the low 50 cents in 1891. It is now selling at $2.50.

Wall street traders are delightfully inconsistent. Two of them meet, and one gets ahead of the other with the ahead of the other with the usual question, "What do you know?" The other replies that he knows there is no market. Then the one who asked the first question asks another: "What do you think of it?" and the person whom he addresses immediately proceeds to discuss that of which he has denied the very existence a few seconds before.

The Two New HUDSON Cars That 48 Engineers Built the New HUDSON cars.

There are 48 experts in the organization, at the head of which is Howard E. Coffin, American leading automobile engineer and builder of six famous cars.

Combined, these men had a hand in building more than 200,000 motor cars.

No car can be greater than its engineers planned it to be. We believe mechanical perfection in more quickly and thoroughly accomplished through combining the experience and skill of many men than is ever possible if dependence is placed entirely upon one man.

HUDSON Electric Self-Starting-Electrically Lighted

The Six

The "54" HUDSON supplies every demand made of any automobile, in speed, get-away, safety, power, luxurious equipment, distinctive appearance and comfort. It is not merely a "Six" made so by the addition of two cylinders to a good four-cylinder car. It is capable of a speed of 65 miles an hour with full equipment and will jump to a speed of 58 miles an hour in 30 seconds from a standing start.

Its equipment is complete in every detail, which includes an electric self-cranking, electric lighting—dynamo type—and ignition system, known as the Delco, patented. Illuminated dash and extension lamp, mohair top, curtain, rain vision windshield, speedometer, clock, demountable rims, 36x4½-inch tires, 127-inch wheel base, etc.

The seat cushions are 12 inches deep. Turkish type. The finest materials are used throughout. No detail of finish or equipment is skimped or overlooked.

The Four

No man need be told that Howard E. Coffin leads all in building four-cylinder cars. No designer has built as many successful automobiles.

In building the HUDSON "37" all his skill and experience contributed to its perfection. But in addition there was also worked into the car the skill and experience of his 47 worked to the car the skill and the car the

there was also worked into the car the skill and experience of his 47 expert associates.

Thus was produced a car such as no one man is capable of building. It is truly a composite masterpieca. The "37" combines all that these experts know in the art of automobile building. Its detail of comfort, beauty, distinctiveness and equipment is precisely the same as that furnished on the "Six."

The car has sufficient power for every requirement. It is quiet and free from the degree of vibration common to most automobiles.

to most automobiles.

It is a simple, accessible, durable car—the best our 48 engineers know how to build; therefore we unhesitatingly recommend it as the Master of any four-cylinder car, regardless of cost, power or make.

Cockshutt's Speech Was Misconstrued

Didn't Mean That Borden's Policy is to Give Regular Contributions.

BRANTFORD, Feb. 15 .- (Special.) --At the annual banquet of Brant Conservatives here last night, attended by over four hundred stalwarts, W. F. Cockshutt, M.P., declared that his recent speech in parliament had been misconstrued as meaning support towards a permanent contribution naval policy by Canada. The future, said Mr. Cockshutt, will tell what Canada's policy will be, but for the present the sift of $35,000,000 to Great Britain is adequate.

Hon, Dr. Roche and Hon I. B. Lucas were the guests of the evening. Both delivered speeches extolling the Borden government as one which had kept its pledges with the people.

A NEW MAP OF MERIT.

Another new map has just been published by the Map Specialty Co., which in the opinion of the writer gives a better idea of Toronto's possibilities and future prospects than anything of the kind heretofore issued. It is known as Algate's Waterfront Townships Map and covers the entire waterfront area between Bronte in Halton County and Oshawa in Ontario County, and embraces the area north from the lake to show Milton, Georgetown, Bolton, Stouffville, etc. The area covered from east to west is approximately 60 miles, or 865,000 acres. Those interested in Toronto's railway, industrial and real estate development will find this map indispensable, and, as it carefully gives all roads, the map should be a great boon to motorists, etc.

Medford, Mass., Man Claims His Device Mill Do Away With Any Mistakes.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.-President Ban ohnson of the American League anounced his intention last night of investeating a device of a Medford, Mass., man, who claims that by its use umpires can make no mistake on their decisions as to balls and strikes. A letter was received by the league president giving a few ideas of the invention, which is said to be patterned after the telescope, and he says if it is all that is claimed for it there is a likelihood that it would be there is a likelihood that it would be valuable addition to the baseball field.

FLAVELLE GOING STRONG

WINNIPEG. Feb. 15.—Rochon and Braden met again in the four o'clock draw in the semi-finals of the Purity Flour. Rochon was three up on the ninth, but Braden scored a single on the tenth, another on the eleventh, and, not satisfied with tying in the last end, made a three, thus winning by two points. Flavelle had an easy victory in the four o'clock draw in the Whyte Cup, winning from Fersuson of Hamiota, 10 to 6. At one o'clock Flavelle meets Rochon of the Thistles in the semi-final of this event. The game was very rough in spots, with both teams mixing freely. In the final minutes of the first half Varsity had it over T. R. & A. A. Ike a tent, and the O. H. A. finalists looked particularly ragged. Hunter was the star of the game, and his all-round work was very much in evidence. Meeking and McLean were very effective and displayed some brilliant combination and shooting.

Aird, for Varsity, was the strong man, and he has a shot that rivals anything seen at the Arena this year. His inability to get inside his opponents' defence, however, made his shots easy for Addison. Hanley and Webster also made the speed artists of the Queen City squad hustle. Some nice three-man combination was displayed in the final period.

In the C League a real battle is going on between Sellers-Gough, Opticals and Riverdales, with Eatons and Chescents right on their heels. All leaders are winning most of their games, except when they hook up with each ofther, and there is then some excitement as to who will take the odd game. For a league stanted pretty much as an experiment for the first season, this baby organization has proved a big success in every way.

NOTHING TO DO WITH IT

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 15.—"This has nothing whatever to do with the proposed line from Palmer to Providence," said Vice-President John S. Murdock of the Southern New England Railway, speaking today of the action brought for the dissolution of the Southern New England Railway Co. in

THREE PENNANTS IN A ROW IS THE LIMIT FOR MAJORS

In the 37 seasons of the National League and 13 seasons of the American League no ball club has ever won four pennants in a row.

And it is unlikely that one ever will.

When the Cubs were beaten out by Pittsburgh in 1909 and the same players who had won three pennants and two world's series were in the Chicago lineup it was said a hoodoo kept Chance's great machine from their fourth successive championship, but there is a real explanation.

A team that has won three pennants has had to keep its regular line-up in the field to stay in the race. A pennant contender cannot experiment and develop players to take the places of those who are slowing up. Another club that has been experimenting and developing recruits comes to the front and overtakes the pennant winner.

The baseball sharps figured in 1910 when the Athletics made a runaway race, that Connie Mack would make a new mark by winning four successive pennants. Mack had the youngest team that had ever won a championship, a team that, on paper should be good for at least four years.

But Boston developed players while Mack was playing his regular line-up last season, and the Athletic machine stopped with two pennants. When wise old Connie saw he was out of the race he began to weed out. He let Cy Morgan and Bris go, and started to develop new pitchers and outfielders, the two weak spots on his team. Five teams have won three straight pennants in the 37 years of the National League, while in the American League, Detroit, the championship team in 1907-08-09, was the only three-straight winner. Only seven teams besides the three-time winners in the National League have won two straight pennants, and in the American three teams besides Detroit have won two pennants in succession.

Women of the Lower Classes Set Their Richer Sisters an Example.

London, Feb. 15.—While nobody has much sympathy with the militant suffragette, nearly all belonging to the so-called better classes of society, who have renewed their insane tactics, and are trying to prove their political maturity by breaking windows and destroying letters deposited in street boxes, there are another class of women, not quite as prominent socially perhaps, who are demanding the vote in an entirely different manner, which cannot but win the respect of every thinking person.

A woman's labor conference was forms, very sweeping reforms many of them, but they limited themselves to seven and prove clearly that full justice cannot be done to women by male legislators, no matter how willing these are to be just.

Nearly half of the topics discussed at the conference related to children and motherhood, school clinics and meals, but a demand was also made for sex equality in relation to the marriage and divorce laws, and stricter measures against the white slave traffic.

western Canada to Texas will be on hand to join in the deliberations. The American Trotting Association, which is the parent body of some 800 racing and fair associations in the middle west convenes in extraordinary session Tuesday to revise its rules with reference to racing.

The sessions will be long. The principal questions to come up pertain to hopples and the heats necessary to conclude a race and an equitable distribution of the purse money.

Another event of importance will be the annual meeting of the stewards of the Great Western Circuit. These will meet on Monday to determine upon the 1913 itinerary. Drastic legislation in lowa and Massachusetts has impaired the strength of the eastern leg of the grand circuit, and in consequence the Great Western will profit by the addition of many of the more important racing outfits.

Many western representatives argued connected with the sale of tennis goods, except when such connection shall be heatedly that the proposed clause was designed to eliminate the poor man from tennis. designed to eliminate the poor man from tennis.

The new regulations include a bar from the amateur class of any players of a general nature.

The ranking committee was authorized to rank women players for 1913. The length of spikes in shoes was increased from ½ to ½ inch. The decision to challlenge for the Davis Cup did not include any details. It was decided to hold the national singles championship at Newport, R.I., as usual, while the women's national championship was awarded to the Philadelphia Cricket Club, and the national clay court champdonship to the Omaha Field Club.

Smaller Wheels

Mr. J. W. Moon, of the Moon Motor Car Company of St. Louis, is of the opinion that the big wheel craze in auomobile construction of two years past is about over and that the tendency now is towards smaller wheels with

Two years ago it looked as tho the forty and forty-two inch wheels would be in the greatest demand, but last year the thirty-six inch wheel was favored most.

The size now recognized as the most desirable is the thirty-four inch wheel, with ample sized tires. The greatest disadvantage of the larger sized wheels was the big initial cost of tires; then, too, the big wheels destroyed the possibility of a stream line effect in the car's appearance, except by unduly increasing the wheel base to retain the proper proportion. High cars, not proportionately long, appear top-heavy. For these reasons the body designers in the Moon shops as well as elsewhere are working with smaller wheels and providing them with over-sized tires. They are thus enabled to give their cars the speed effect in the very lines of the body.

This effect is strongly emphasized in the Moon 39 and Moon 48 torpedoes. In these cars not only is the size of the wheels proportioned to accentuate the long speedy effect, but even the cowl is brought back towards the driver to emphasize the horizontal

The Moon cowl is an adaptation of the latest Belgian idea and will undoubtedly be used by many makers of motor cars in the coming season.

WORDS WE BUTCHER.

Kansas City Star: Are either and neither pronounced "eether" and "nee-her" or "eyether" and "neyther?" This question, much disputed, is answered in favor of "eether" and "neether" by Julian W. Abernathy in a useful little book entitled "Correct Pronunciation." Not a single modern dictionary gives "eyether" the preference, says the little book, and goes on to quote Richard Grant White, who says "eyether" is an affectation and a second-rate British affectation at that. Which should hold the "eyether" advocates a

And now about the word vase. It's pronounced "vace," whether it comes from the 10-cent store or Tiffany's. "Vaze" is wrong, says the book, and "vawz" is vulgar. Another tally for us old-fashioned folks. Perhaps you've been confused by hearing people talk about "rice" and finding out afterwards that they meant the noun "rise." Well, they were wrong, too. A straw vote of the best modern dictionaries hands the preference to "rize" as the proper pronunciation.

Another word that is frequently mispronounced is depot. It should be "deepo," not "deppo" or "daypo."

nounced as the the first s were a z. The folks who insist on making it soft are all to the bad.

J. Pierpont Morgan is a "finnanseer." not a "fynanseer."
The Renaissance is pronounced "renesans," accent on the last syllable, not Renaysans, and Salome gets her last syllable pronounced.

Poets are filled with the divine "af-

The ruler of Japan is the Mikado, with the accent on the second syllable, as all serious-minded students of Gilbert and Sullivan know, and never the mickadoo.
Gibberish is pronounced with a hard g' and not "jibberish," and the word flaccid is "flaksid," not "flassid."

Amateur is "amaturr," not "amatoor" or "amachoor."

McIntire had a unique argument to prove that the kink is gone from the arm. Harry was in El Paso, Tex., where he stopped while playing the races at Juarez. One night in a poolroom he picked up a pool ball and was spinning it on the green while talking to a friend. Suddenly a stranger, much the worse for inewater, entered. Going over as best he could to another pool table, the overloaded individual picked up a ball, turned toward McIntyre and classed, they met their manager in the back room of a cafe. 'Fain Would He Climb But That He Fears To Fall"

ERYBODY is concerned with the cost of liv-ing and in these days with the high cost of living. One of the so-called "captains of industry" who is blessed with more than his proper share of worldly possessions has declared the problem to be not so much the high cost of living as the cost of high living and there may be something in the entire state. ing and there may be something in the epi-gram for certain people. But unfortunate-ly a large mass of the common or garden variety of the human product has not the wherewithal to live highly, however much the old Adam in them may incline that way. They are not so much interested in the possibility of living highly as they are in the matter of living with some approximate degree of ordinary comfort. The old myth that the North American ican continent is the paradise of the manual worker is pretty much exploded. Statisticians can still find oppor-tunities to compare wages in certain lines of labor with those of older countries and show to their own satisfaction how incomparably superior is the lot of the American worker. But unfortunately in many trades and occupations and in unskilled labor cold facts show the lot of these to be as hard as they are in less highly favored

In his cartoon on this page The Sunday World artist has given us his idea of the problem from a different point of view. Love has been described as the law of life and is the fate of most of the young and callow. Each has visions of a home with the girl of his fancy and fondly pictures an idyll of family life where happiness reigns and all is bright and rosy. Spurred by that same wicked son of Venus which the sprightly Rosalind declared was "begot of thought, conceived of spleen and born of madness, that abuses everyone's eyes, because his own are out," the poor boy who is so anxious to place his neck in the marriage halter finds a barrier in his path. It is of course our old friend the high cost of living. He balks at the seven barred hurdle and not the goading of his rascally jockey or the wild encouragement of the Peverend gentleman in stole and cassock, animated perhaps by the prospect of the accustomed offering in the near future, can induce him to clear the obstacle and land among the orange blossoms and the bridal bouquets. Fain would he climb, but that he fears to fall. He is a fine example of the other line of the distich, added by good Queen Bess—"If thy mind fail thee do not climb at all."

Our artist is young himself and, tell it not in Gath, may be preparing for the leap himself. But we are confident he, at least, will not be daunted, and that this parfident he, at least, will not be daunted, and that this particular invention of his teeming brain by no means represents his inner impressions of the great problem. But nevertheless it cannot be denied that the matrimonial market is not doing the business it once did. There is less exchange of hearts and hands—there is still a plenty of chaffering and dickering, but not so many completed bargains. Marriages are not so common as they were, the ages of the happy pairs are steadily rising and the number who continue to live in single blessedness is of course also on the increase. Were Charles Lamb still breathing the vernal air of this topsy-turvy winter he would not be so inclined to resent the pitying patronage of the wives of his friends. He would find plenty of his own kith and kin condemned to lone bachelor lives and all on account of that seven barred barrier—the high cost of living.

In the December number of The University Review, Professor Andrew MacPhail discussed "The Cost of Living." "There is," he opens, "in reality, only one serious question which confronts all created beings, namely, What shall we eat, What shall we drink, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? We, in Canada, have up to the present moment, been following the divine injunction and have taken no thought for those-things which are the chief concern of Gentiles who live in less favored lands. Our food supply has apparently been automatic, like water from a tap or light from a wire in a city house." Well, so it may or light from a wire in a city house." Well, so it may have been in days bygone, but today both in Canada and the United States, the matter of obtaining a fair portion of food, drink and clothing at prices that will leave a balance available for the pursuit of other ends than the elemental one of merely living, is one of large importance. If lovers have become more coldly calculating over the prospect of establishing a home, those who already have homes are even more interested in maintaining them. ing them at a decent standard.

Dr. MacPhail quotes Bradstreet's statement that the Dr. MacPhail quotes Bradstreet's statement that the average wholesale price in New York rose 61.9 per cent. between 1896 and 1910 and since the latter date from 6 to 10 per cent. more, whilst the increase in retail prices has been even more marked. This last fact calls attention to the huge toll taken by the middlemen who conduct the distribution of food products. The crop of 1912 is estimated to yield $6,000,000,000 to the grower, but when it reaches the consumers the cost to them will reach the enormous sum of $13,000,000,000. "In other words" says the report of the committee that investigated reach the enormous sum of $13,000,000,000. 'In other words," says the report of the committee that investigated a bill on this subject now before congress, "the producer gets $6,000,000,000, while the distributor gets $7,000,000,000, clearly showing that under our present system it is more profitable to distribute than to produce." Evidently that unpleasant individual, the distributor, is getting too great a rake-off. There is so much and so many of him that he is spoiling the matrimonial equally with the marchandize market. with the merchandize market.

Men's unwillingness to take the seven barred gate that leads to marriage is sending increasing numbers of wo-men into the world to make their own living. Women too are finding that they can live independent and more comfortable lives than is offered them by their adorers. In the United States there are 8,000,000 women earning their own living and not only this, but there is another great army of married women who are forced to work in order to aid in the upkeep of their homes. Our artist has told only half the truth when he lays the responsi-bility on the bachelor lover. The spinster girl is getting to be as wise and as prudent as he. For the young woman of this age has her own standard of happiness and the knowledge of her capacity to support herself causes her to look for a future of ease and comfort which few can hope to attain.

The High Cost of Living

Strephon, aforetime, with ardour pursuing
Phyllis, who fied him, his passion "pooh-poohing,"
Had one incentive—and looked for no ruing—
Which accounts for his stubborn persistence;
He chased the chaste maid 'till he caught her, half-

dead,
Then slew a wild boar—he needed no bread,
It never occurred that he'd bother his head
With the increased expense of existence.

For then, if you wanted a venison pasty To gladden your sweetheart with dish nice and tasty You just went out and got 'em with feet light and hasty,

They ran wild at no very grees distance;
And mallard and teal, in their season, were set
On their table, free, gratis, and fish that they'd net
All helped out the feast—there was never a threat
Of an increased expense of existence.

Now Strephon is ridden by Cupid, and spurred
To negotiate obstacles plainly absurd—
And the moan of the mama quite plainly is heard
Rebuking the wretch's resistance;
But few of the starters dare now face the jumps,
And many a lover is deep in the dumps

The New President and His Policy.

Governor Woodrow Wilson is on the eve of his inauguration as president of the United States. He will enter upon the duties of his high office with both houses of congress controlled by the Democratic party of which he is the head and if he commands the whole-hearted support of its representatives in the senate and in the house he could look forward with confidence to carrying the tariff reform and other progressive measures to which he stands committed. But he will not do this for the Democratic party is divided in opinion. It contains a conservative as well as a progressive section and even before its entrance into power signs of discord are not lacking. Unless appearances are belied the new president will insist on acceptance of his policies. He did this in New Jersey and when its legislature displayed reluctance to endorse his recommendations he did not hesitate to appeal directly to the people and compel their homologation by the weight of public sentiment. But he is known to have high ideals regarding the place and conduct of the chief executive and this favors the belief that he will seek for a secretary of state who can act as interpreter and advocate on the public platform. It is this that has led to the prevalent assumption that he will find the man he wants in the person of William J. Bryan who more than any other has the ear of the people.

In a recent and striking declaration of his political faith appearing in the January number of World's Work, Mr. Wilson wrote -"We stand in the presence of a revolution-not a bloody revolution, America is not given to the spilling of blood-but a silent revolution whereby America will insist upon recovering in practice those ideals which she has always professed, upon securing a government devoted to the general interest and not to special interests. We are on the eve of a great reconstruction. It calls for creative statesmanship, as no age has done since that great age in which we set up the government under which we live, that government which was the admiration of the world until it suffered wrongs to grow up under it which have made many of our own compatriots question the freedom of our institutions and preach revolution against them." Mr. Wilson believes that revolution will come in peaceful guise, but that radical changes must be made in the law and practice of the United States and that those reconstructions must be carried out which a new age and new circumstances have imposed. The people of the Republic are facing the necessity of fitting a new social organization to the happiness and prosperity of the great body of citizens because the order of society that now prevails has not been made to fit and provide the convenience or prosperity of the average man.

The great fundamental change which Woodrow Wilson recogmizes in the United States is the disappearance, in large measure, of the individual. The old personal relationship between employer and employed, general before the rise of the great corporations, no longer exists in their case. There was a time, he observes, when corporations played a very minor part in our business affairs, but now they play the chief part, and most men are the servants of corporations. And they have in no instance access to the men who are really determining the policy of the corporation. "If," he continues, "the corporation is doing things that it ought not to do, you really have no voice in the matter and must obey the orders, and you have with deep mortification to co-operate in the doing of things which you know are against the public interest. Your individuality is swallowed up in the individuality and purpose of a great organization." Hence he recognizes also the injustice of the United States law in the matter of injuries to workingmen by treating them as individuals, while it fails to regard that the modern corporation is not engaged in business as an individual. It does not even attempt to distinguish between a man's act as a corporation director and as an individual. "When," says Mr. Wilson, "I hear judges reason upon the analogy of the relationships that used to exist between workmen and their employers a generation ago, I wonder if they have not opened their eyes to the modern world. You know we have a right to expect that judges will have their eyes open, even tho the law which they administer hasn't awakened."

Since entering politics, he continues, "I have chiefly had men's views confided to me privately. Some of the biggest men in the United States, in the field of commerce and manufacture, are afraid of somebody, are afraid of something. They know that there is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they had better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it." Mr. Wilson then goes on to point out that the United States is not a place of which it can be said, as it used to be, that a man may choose his own calling and pursue it just as far as his abilities enable him to pursue it. This, today, because if he enters certain fields there are organizations that will prevent his building up a business which they do not want to have built up. If he begins to sell to certain retail dealers, to any retail dealers, the monopoly will refuse to sell to those dealers and those dealers will be afraid and will not buy the new man's wares. The rank and file of the business men, if they could vote secretly, would, to his mind vote overwhelmingly "that the present organization of business was meant for the big fellows and not for the little fellows; that it was meant for those who are at the top-and was meant to exclude those who are at the bottom; that it was meant to shut out beginners, to prevent new enries in the race, to prevent the building up of competitive enterprize that would interfere with monopolies which the great trusts have built up."

Thus there is a great deal that needs reconstruction in the United States. What alarms Mr. Wilson is that the middle class is being more and more squeezed out-its members may be sharing prosperity but they are not originating prosperity. No country, he comments, can afford to have its prosperity originated by a small controlling class. And "there has come over the land an Un-American set of conditions which enables a small number of men who control the government to get favors from the government; by those favors to exclude their fellows from equal business opportunity" and by those favors "to extend a network of control that will presently drive every industry in the country." Evidently the new president is a bit of a revolutionary himself and he gives an indication that part of his policy will be directed towards greater governmental control of the big corporations. "This dealing of great bodies of men with other bodies of men," he says, is a matter of public scrutiny and should be a matter of public regulation. In his hands the government will no longer be under the control of heads of great allied corporations with special interests. At least his mind is made up that into the Lines and Planes of his own Face. he will not be so controlled.

The Hike to Washington.

The suffragettes are carrying a secret message to Woodrow Wilson to be delivered to him when he assumes his new office. Two hundred intrepid Amazons started from New York on Wednesday, according to program, with the intention of surmounting all difficulties and hiking the whole distance of 250 miles to Washington. At the end of the first day there were only 16 dauntless heroines in line, the other 184 having fallen by the wayside. The zero weather was their undoing. The Peril in the Air.

Recently, after night fall, there passed over Sheerness, a powerful fortification guarding the mouth of the Thames, one of the newest German airships, and on other occasions crafts of presumably the same flag have flown over Dover and other English strongholds. These flights, made in the time of peace, were probably only to show German stratagists what they can do in the event of war with England and the possibility of a strong attack by a fleet of German airships on all the glorious record of British discovery and ex- belongings, such as memory, culture, dockyards and fortifications of England was strik-

For example, the alderman, having joined the benedicts, a friend, visiting the Zoo with his wife, proceeded to make her acquainted with him, at the same time venturing a gentle jolly on the alderman's late entry into the new estate. The josh passed unheed-ed.

The lady, however, politely tendered her congratulations; whereupon Harry courteously took notice and his silk

And, of the things to be seen, Harry Piper made it his duty, every day while on the job, to have his York and Front Wonderland set right down where it belonged and where it simply couldn't escape arrest and conviction—that is to say, arrest of the attention of people properly out to see things, and their conviction that Toronto Zoo wouldn't crawl before any other institution of higher learning on the outside of earth. My acquaintance with the Zoo and Harry Piper, alderman, showman, dragoman—the accent in the last title to be employed nicely, so as not to imply that he used actual physical force in getting one inside the Jardin des Plantes—began with long-distance communication; grew in beauty side by side with members of a coterie of the journalistic beaux esprits, some of whose full names may incidentally have to occur in the course of these recollections, but of whom it may now only be remarked that, next to a sojourn at Da O'Neill's alluring hostelrie,

A Real Pleasurable Experience.
To visit Toronto Zoo and find the boss in was a really pleasurable experience, no matter how often one had it, for the more you knew the well-groomed, faultlessly-dressed little showman—alert, self-possessed, keenly observant, witty, winsomely bland, and all the time brimful of "great schemes" for enhancing the dignity and promoting the usefulness of his belowed institution—the better you relished discoveries as to his nature, instincts, ambitions and capacity for figurative speech.

The write-up in question pictured the Zoo whale as "over 300 feet long, proportionately wide and deep, with an open mouth, into which could be driven a yoke of oxen hitched to a farm wagon.

"My friend means well," commented the Zoo manager, "but such little typographical slips are like to get the churches after me. I guess Fd better start a censor bureau, or else be prepared to join the Unlimited Liar Club."

Nobody who knows about it, or nosed about it, will ever get further than trying to forget the big whale at the old Toronto Zoo. It came from an eastern seacoast town, having been involuntarily washed up on shore during an insistent gale. Harry Piper read of the capture, bid a tidy figure for the prize, and secured itwith all concomitants.

It Was Quite Dead.

It came along quite dead. But that handicap didn't seem to prey heavily on the buyer—at the time. Carefully suppressing all tendency towards prescience as to contingencies, he busied himself accepting congratulations on his enterprise, keeping in close touch with a powerful press, and supplying

It Certainly Was Rank.

"These kickers get my goat!" mused the genial manager. "I wonder if they expect to hold up the aquarium reputation of Toronto Zoo with sold fish in a glass bowl? Sure," he went on, "that whale is rank, But it's no rank imposter. It makes a noise like whale. It is whale. Bet your life I'm here with the whale goods, all right, all right, ch? If they happen along dead, that's the fisherman's fault. If I can't find the recipe for keeping dead whale from going bad on me, that's not my fault. The club has already offered valuable prizes to the members bringing in the largest number of new members, and the competition is very keen, the two leaders running a close race, with 18 and 20 to their credit. The motorcycle department will have an active exhibition as the motor cars.

Shown and it is likely that the social interests of the cyclists will be taken English Sunbeam racing car is scheduled to start in the third annual 500-mile International Sweepstakes race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, May 30. This word has been received by the officials of the Indianapolis Sneedway, Guyot sending a cable-Speedway, Guyot sending a cable-gram saying that he would enter the race as the Sunbeam pilot and that formal entry blanks were being forwarded by mail.

American followers of automobile racing have long been anxious to see the Sunbeam car in action, but this is the first time that one of these fleet speed chariots has ever been entered in an American event. The car has long held the reputation of being the fastest car in England, and with a man at the helm with a reputation as great as is that of Guyot there is no doubt possible circumstances

Old School Pilot.
Albert Guyot, who will drive the Sunbeam record-breaker, is one of the old school of French drivers. He is motor enthusiasts, having participated in nearly all of the great French races. In 1908 he won the light-car class of the French grand prix and in the fol-lowing year finished fourth in the three litre race at Boulogne. won hundreds of medals and trophies and is noted for his cool-headed, scientific driving, as well as for his daring. He is distinguished among French racing drivers, for he is also an aeroplane pilot, holding the license of the Aero Club of France, and not content with these honors he has also figured prominently in motor boat races at Monaco.

The Sunbeam, which Guyot will drive, in the Indianapolis 500-mile race, is a six-cylinder car, with a bore of 3.5 and a stroke of 6.3. This is the car which holds all world's records on the Brooklands track in class E, from 1 to 13 hours, and which finished only four second behind the winner in the 1912 French grand prix. Three Sunbeams also finished first, second and third respectively in the three litre class, winning the Coupe de l'Auto and the Team Regularity prize.

Sunbeam Consistency.

The wonderful consistency with which the cars ran called forth the praise of the entire motor world. The first two Sunbeams finished within a minute and a quarter of each other, and a feature of this achievement which adds considerably to its impor-tance is the fact that the cars were not fitted with specially built racing engines, but with engines of standard pattern with only slight modifications of one or two minor details.

beam created fifteen world's records. Last September the same car broke the world's record for 50 miles by covering that distance from a standing start on the track at Brooklands in 32 minutes 16 seconds, which represents an average speed of 92.96 miles per hour. A week later three of the world's records which were set up the year before by the Sunbeam were broken by a Sunbeam of only half the nominal horsepower—12-16 H. P. These were the 400 miles and the 4 page 15 hours, records the 400 miles be and 5 hours' records, the 400 miles being acomplished in 5 hours, 5 minutes, 53 seconds; while 319 miles, 242 yards, were covered in 4 hours; and 391 miles, 1429 yards, in the 5 hours. miles, 1429 yards, in the 5 hours.

Another interesting addition to the entry list of the 500-mile race is the formal entry of a third Stutz car, which will be driven by Don Herr. The Stutz cars previously entered will be in charge of Gil Anderson and Charles Merz. This late entry is a 4-cylinder car, identical as to specifications with those which have the honor of being the first entries for honor of being the first entries for

COPPER PIPE WORK.

Most people who have tried single-hahded to fit a long and twisty gasolene pipe will have commented, more or less fervidly, upon the cantankerous way in which the unions will slide quietly away from their proper ends and often even wedge themselves under some projection. A simple way of stopping this is to solder round the pipe a ring as a collar, first assuring oneself that the union is in its proper position; otherwise you may—as I have that has probably made a record for its first year on the market. If it were not all that is claimed for it, could the manufacturers have sold over 6000 in their initial year? Would they be distributing at the present time cars in over 40 different countries? You must surely agree there is something remarkable about the R-C-H to make this possible.

When a man reads the R-C-H specifications and equipment and comes in to see us we don't have to sell him a car. All we have to do is to convince him that it is true. Until they see and ride in the R-C-H people can't believe that it's possible to sell at such a price, a car so sturdy, so comfortable, so handsome, so powerful and with such complete equipment. You may be thinking of buying a car at twice its price. Well, take a look at the other car, ride in it, examine its construction, note its equipment. Then come and do the same thing with the R-C-H. That's all we ask.

There are so many vital things in "The Attack" that apply to American life that it is easy to understand the success achieved by Mr. Mason in the play when he offered it to the New York. York public. The story concerns Senator Merital, who is the leader of the Socialistic party. Merital is a widower with two sons and a daughter. He becomes enamored by a friend of his daughters, a beautiful girl in her teens, who is infatuated with him. Merital is a commanding figure in his world, and is considered a man of unblemished reputation. Like a bolt from a clear has won such a distinct triumph this sky comes a newspaper attack on him.

Charley Grapewin In a New Comedy

Popular Comedian Will Present "Between Showers" at Grand Opera House This Week.

Charles Grapewin, one of America's oremost comedians, Mike Donlin, the famous baseball player-enter, and Anna Chance, a comedienne with a record of many New York successes behind her name, come to the Grand this week with a new farce-comedy that is said to be as funny as Mr. Grapewin's "Mr. Pipp." The three stars are presenting F. E. Dumm's farcical comedy, "Between Showers," a story founded on the complications that follow the exchanging of two yellow suitcases by two traveling men who have the same initials but who are carrying a widely different line of goods.

It is an old theme presented in an entirely new way and contains more laughs to the square inch than any other farce-comedy now being presented en tour.

With three such sterling performers as Donlin, Grapewin and Miss Chance the principal roles are in capable hands. Donlin created a furcre two years ago when he deserted the baseball diamond for the stage, and "made good" right off the reel. It was Donlin's baseball record that secured him his first engagement but it was his ability as an actor that has kept his ability as an actor that has kept him behind the footlights.

Grapewin was the originator of the character of Mr. Pipp in the famous play, "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp," which showed up the true conditions of many of the marriages between American girls and foreign noblemen. Miss Chance has appeared in num-berless musical and farce comedies and possesses a winning personality. Mr. Dumm has created a part for Miss Chance that enables her to shine brightly despite the fact that she is forced to contend for the honors with two male stars.

During the week the regular Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman in Jesse Lasky's Latest Musical Play.

At Shea's Theatre this week the bill is headed by Jesse Lasky's latest tabloid musical play, "The Trained Nurses." Mr. Lasky is responsible for many of the best musical produc-tions in vaudeville. Heading the cast of 30 ape Gladys Clark and Henry Bergman, who are favorites with Sheagoers, and will be easily recog-nized as Sammy Sloan, the patient, and Susay Grey, the new nurse. There are pretty singing and dancing girls, and the scene is laid in a training school for nurses. There is plenty of comedy, and the music is tuneful. The book is by William Le Breton, music by Leo Edwards.

The special extra attraction on the bill for the week is Charley Case, the fellow who talks about his fa-ther. Mr. Case has not entertained Sheagoers in the last two seasons, and he will find all his old-time friends waiting to give him a welcome. He is always original and funny. A feature of the week's bill is Del-ro, the master and originator of the piano-accordion, a novel Italian in-strument. Deiro has been heard at Shea's before. It is reported that an old darker once said: "It's an ill wind that blows nowhere," but one would scarce expect a rattlesnake's bite to blow good in any direction. Yet strange as it may seem, the fact that a man in Termay seem, the fact that a man in Texas, subject to epileptic fits, was bitten by a rattlesnake, seems to have led to a surprising discovery in medical science. Because the man not only recovered from the snake bits but from that time was entirely free from plieptic attacks. Dr. Spansier of Philadelphia, who heard of the case, began to experiment with rattlesnake venom in treatment of epilepsy, and has demonstrated that its use will in many cases cure, and hothers decrease the frequency of the others decrease the frequency of the attack. MR. FRED JACOB (Mail and Empire): "The organization is even stronger than when it appeared here a year ago, the beauty of the organization being particularly notable."

DR. J. D. LOGAN (News): "The company this year possesses new strength, which places it quite in the ranks of the Boston Opera Company or the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York. The voices are of finer quality and range than last year, and the orchestra much superior to the instrumentalists which supported the company last year."

MR. W. F. WIGGINS (Star): "The company is even stronger than it was a year ago. It has a number of new and famous singers. In all round effectiveness there is a distinct advance in the excellence of the organization."

MISS DOYLE (Telegram): "Last night's production, besides dis-toming a stronger organization of singers, revealed an orchestra which comises to be a treat indeed to music lovers in the next two weeks."

There are no set pieces, such as the arias, duets, quartets, choruses, etc., which characterize the old school; all is fluent, congruous, and progressive. An important essential to this type of opera is a strongly emotional and dramatic libretto, an essential with which "Thais" is fully endowed. A more suitable story for operatic investiture has seldom been drawn upon. The action is almost continuously dramatic, with strong emotional undercurrents and picturesque situations. Its basic moods of religious fervor and voluptuous enticement are the two to which music gives readlest expression. Massenet chose his libretto well, and set to it music revive it, just as we recently refluent, congruous, and progressive. An

M. Riddez presented a dignified interpretation of the fanatic priest, Athanael, a protean role, demanding versatility in the depicition of widely fluctuating moods. It is a heroic and impressive role, that of a strong man is who succumbs to a power stronger than conscience. M. Riddez projected the troubled, struggling soul in a manner that won sympathy and admiration. His voice is a baritone of wide range, not too pleasing in quality, but possessed of a dramatic fer-

"Thais" is an exponent of the approved modern type of opera which, since Wagner's day, has come to be known as music-drams—the type.

An Old Favorite.

One of the hardy perennials of the theatrical season is "The Chocolate Soldier," which must be now in its fourth or fifth year. Undoubtedly one former classification of "mus al com-edy" almost a misnomer. These who edy almost a misnomer. These who had not seen it before may have found it quite enjoyable, for the comedy is still bright and the music still charming, even if greatly enfeebled; but those who remembered it in its pristine vigor could not overlook the contrast. -J. 20 000 men are also said to have been lost by the allies thru the same causes. This brings the estimated Turkish loss up to 126,000 men, and the estimated loss to the fighting forces of the allies up to 73,000, a total loss of 199,000 men, which may be said to include the thousands who fell victims to wounds, sickness, sudden death on the field, or were listed ag missing.

These figures, of course, like all others that have been compiled, are based only on conjecture, and are believed by many experts to be too conservative. The actual losses of the campaign will not be known probably for years after peace has been restored.

The monetary loss is incalculable.

Aside from the vast amount of money required to carry on the actual operations in the field, there is the destruction of property, the injury to commerce and personal liabilities to

Hundreds of towns and villages have been devastated during the struggle Great cities have been damaged by fire and pestilence. Private property has been ravaged, and the resources of the governments involved have been almost exhausted.

Newspaper reports, upon which the statistician must rely for the most part in estimating the monetary loss in the Balkans, have failed to comment extensively on this side of the problem. It is significant, however, that the indemnity asked by the Balkan groups at the recent conference with the Turks ran into the hundred millons. A guess as to the probable cost of the conflict would make the total

Butchery of Non-Combatants.

Another side of the conflict has been the suffering entailed by the peasants of both the allies and the Turks, the depredations against women of both nations and the butchery of non-combatants, news of which filtered into the press with the return of correspondents from the front. If these reports are true the Balkan trouble has been marked with savagery and rapine more atroctous than that which usually follows in the wake of war. This inevitable scourge fell with particular heaviness upon the inhabitants of the Balkans by reason of the summingling of races, the prevalence of religious intolerance and the long-felt hatred of the Turks and the troopers to have exacted revenge where were possible.

But the conflict between the allies and the Turks was puny beside the possibilities of a general European war which it involved. WhereWe Got Our 60 Minutes Curious Discovery that Our Divisions of Time and Space, and Even Why We Count Eggs by the Dozen, Go Back 20,000 Years to the Earliest Babylonian Astronomers.

By Prof. Clifton Harby Levy. HE curious discovery that we do practically everything by 6's and nd factors of 60 because Babylonian astronomers fixed it so

20,000 years ago has just been made by a commission of mathematicians studying

We count ten times 6 seconds to the minute, ten times 6 minutes to the hour, four times 6 hours to the day, divide the heavens and circles into sixty times 6 degrees, and even count our eggs by the dosen, which is two times 6, because these ancient sages in extraordinary ways figured out that it was the easiest and best way

No doubt you have often stopped and asked yourself: "Why do we count sixty minutes to the hour and not a hundred or any other number?" And no one has been able to tell you why. Even the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "The day has been divided into twenty-four hours from time immemorial."

It is a matter of general knowledge that the ancient Babylonians were great astronomers and accomplished mathematicians, for no one can measure the movements of the planets and estimate the changes in the heavenly bodies without a profound knowledge of mathematics. It is known that the wonderful Ziggurats, or stage-towers, erected on the Babylonian plains were used for astronomical work. for the ruins of these towers are in such a position as to show that they were erected with the study of the heavens in view, just as we put up our modern observatories. We do not know what telescopes the Babylonians possessed, but we do know that the calendar established by the Babylonians was absolutely correct, and though figured out anywhere from six to ten thousand years ago it is correct to-day, although ours is several minutes wrong, and at the end of another thousand years will be a whole day out of the way. It is to be expected, then, that these ancient Babylonians must have divided time and space in order to calculate changes in one or the other, and in doing this they established this use of twenty-four hours of sixty minutes each.

The strongest point in favor of this suggestion, the mathematicians found, lies in the number SIXTY. No one ordinarily attaches any special significance to that number, yet mathematicians have wondered why the Babylonians took this number as the basis of their system. In fact, the Babylonian system is called the "Sexagesimal System" because of its use of the numbers 60, 600, 6,000, 60,000, etc. There must be some scientific reason for this, for so wise a nation of astronomers do not adopt a great system in their calculations without a very good and sufficient reason.

If the number 60 be carefully examined the reason is clear and very simple. Sixty is the most easily handled of all the numbers up to and including 100, because more of the digits and tens go into it evenly than will go into any other number. The numbers 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 10, 12, 15, 20, 30 all go into 60 evenly. The number 100 is divisible only by 2, 4, 5, 10, 20, 25 and 50, making it far more awkward to handle than the number 60.

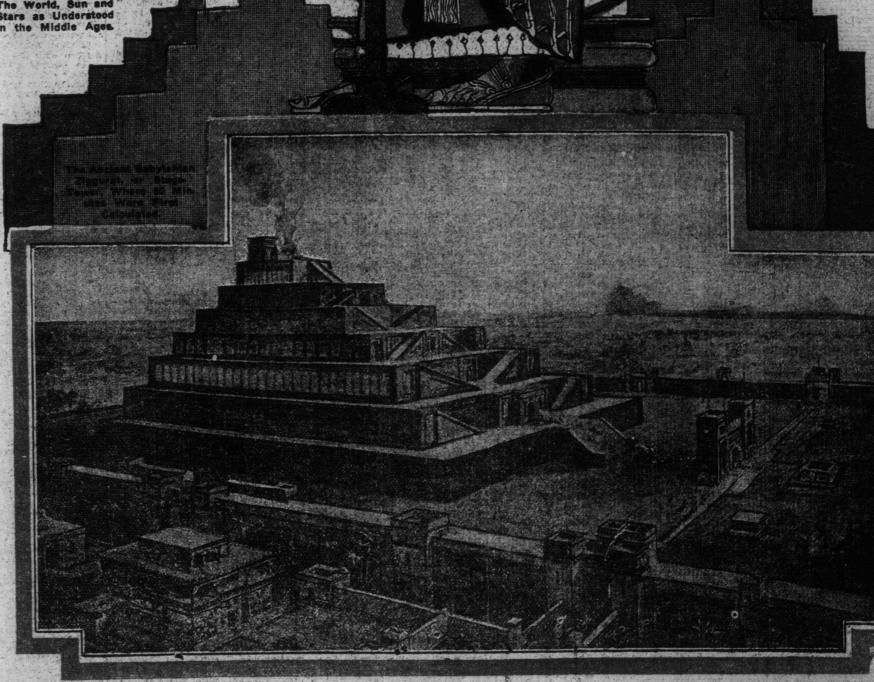

Putting one and one together, it was plain that the Babylonians, who were the first and only people to recognize the value of the number 60 and who were the first real astronomers, must have been the originators of our division of time and space, for the number 60 plays so prominent a part in time and space measurement that no one else could be credited with this

It would have been just as easy to divide the day into twelve hours of 100 minutes and 100 seconds, and it is certain that the Babylonians appreciated to the full all the facility of the use of decimals and the system dependent upon tens, but they feit and knew that 60 was a more convenient basis than any other for their mathematical system, and for this reason they divided the hour into sixty minutes and the minute into sixty seconds.

This explanation of the value of the number 60 also explains the origin of our duodecimal system, counting by dozens and the gross.

Immediately thereafter he tiptoed into the bedroom, assured himself that Staff was fast asleep, and proceeded calmily to rifle that gentleman's pockets, carefully placing what he found in an orderly array upon the bureau. In the end, bringing to light a plump billfold, he concluded his investigations.

The pigskin envelope contained a little less than $400, mostly in gold treasury certificates. Mr. Iff heiped himself generously and replaced the bill fold. Then he returned to the study, found paper and pens and wrote Staff a little note, which he propped against the mirror on the bedroom dresser. Finally, filling one of his pockets with cigarets, he smiled blandly and let himself out of the spartment, and subsequently of the

"Why, certainly," he agreed with-out hesitation or apprehension. Staff moved over to the table, and, while he was intently scrutinizing the ag, Alison continued:

"The hat was in it?" he asked.
She nodded impatiently: "Of, of

So their ride uptown was marked by its atmosphere of distant and dispassionate civility. They spoke infrequently, and then on indifferent topics soon suffered to languish. In due course, however, Staff mastered his resentment and — as evidenced by his wry, secret smile—began to take a philosophic view of the situation, to extract some slight amusement from his insight into Alison's mental processes. Intuitively sensing this, she of me grew even more exasperated with him as with everybody aside from her own impeccable self.

If the selder woman everything she should not have told her.

The man described was—lff.

Discouraged and apprehensive, Staff returned to the lounge and made his report — one received by Alison with frigid disapproval; by Mrs. Ilkington with every symptom of cordial animation; from which it became immediately apparent that Alison had told the elder woman everything she should not have told her.

"I. Arbuthnot," Alison translated: "Gracious!" Mrs. Ilkington squealed." "Gracious!" Mrs. Ilkington squealed."

She nodded impatiently: "Of, of ourse—with the lining half ripped out the necklace missing."

"Til be interested to hear," said Allson, "and to know that the necklace is really safe. On the face of it—as it stands — there's something queer—wrong. . . What are you going to do?"

"Gone!" announced Mrs. Ilkington impressively.

"Gone?" echoed Staff.

Mrs. Ilkington nodded vigorously, compressing her lips to a thin line of disapproval. "Tm positively at my wits' end to account for her."

If and to know that the necklace is really safe. On the face of it—as it stands — there's an explanation, however," Alison put in.

"I wish you'd tell me, then. . . You see, we dined out, went to the back about 1. Of course, my dears, I was fearfully tired, and did not get up till half an hour ago. Imagine my sensation when I enquired for Miss Searle and was informed that she paid her bill and left at 5 o'clock this morning, and with a strange man!"

"She left you a note, of course?"

His enquiry was fruitless enough. The day clerk, he was informed by that personage, had not come on duty until $ o'clock; he knew nothing of the affair beyond what he had been told by the night clerk — that Miss Searle had called for her bill and pald it at 5 o'clock; had given instructions to have her luggage removed from her room and delivered on presentation of her written order; and had then left the hotel in company with a gentleman who registered as "I. Arbuthnot" at 1 o'clock in the morning, paying for his room in advance.

If mingly, to ensure the most impressive effect, the man moved, shifting from one foot to the other, and spoke.

"Well, Nelly ...?"

His voice, modulated to an amused drawl, was much like fit's.

The girl's lips moved noiselessly for an instant before she managed to articulate.

"Why? What's your interest in her?"

"Simple justice," he said — and knew his answer to be evasive and unconvincing.

"I'mean that Miss Searle shall have every chance to prove her innocence," he returned in an even and unyielding voice.

"Why? What's your interest in her?"

"Simple justice," he said — and knew his answer to be evasive and unconvincing."

"Isn't that the real name of that odd creature who called himself Iff and pretended to be a secret service man?" "Gracious!" Mrs. Ilkington squealed. Staff nodded a glum assent.

CRIME TO EUROPEANIZE DRESS OF CHINESE SAYS BERNHARDT

By Madame Sarah Bernhardt.

Do you not think it most lamentable, that decree of the president of the Chinese Republic—which, in one second, Europeanized all China and thereby cast its ancient civilization into oblivion? For my part I consider it arbitrary and quite as savage as the savage customs he abolishes.

Note that the costume of the Chinese men resembles that of some European in form. They wear trousers and a wide blouse, only the beauty of the material and the magnificent embroidery change the whole appear-

That the Chinese should have to cut their pigtails off I do not think matters much. In the first place the pigtail is generally false and fixed on to their own hair. But that they should change their pretty and practical costumes for the hideous modern clothes of men, is sad.

For the last month, I have been traveling in countries where the Chinese are numerous. These poor little Chinese; they all excite my pity as I see them in their derby hats and with thin legs covered by ugly cloth seen everywhere. And the women, formerly so charming with their big baby bows tied behind their back, their tiny little shoes. Oh! these women in modern accountrements.

They are comic and frightful! It is really deplorable!

Meets Chinese Woman.

Yesterday I took tea in the house of a delightful lady. A brilliant assemblage was present and among others, an attache of the Chinese embassy and his wife. The latter was rather pretty, pale and delicate with eyes slanting towards the temples, a little mouth and hair black and lustrous.

She was seated in a big armchair and I could only see her head under a hat of red velvet ornamented with a black ostrich plume. But suddenly a hat of red velvet ornamented with a black ostrich plume. But suddenly she arose to greet me and I had great difficulty preventing myself from bursting with laughter. The poor little thing looked really just like a frog. She spoke French nicely and her husband, who expressed himself very well said among other things: "I am really satisfied with the decree of President Yuan Shi-Kai, because we shall now be able to waik about without being noticed. We no longer carry our nationality in our clothes. We are no longer subjects for curiosity. We are like everybody else. It is very agreeable."

very agreeable."

I looked at this man and asked myself if he really meant what he said.

But yes! He was persuaded he knew what he was talking about.

And he was so ugly, so ugly, in his very correct modern costume.

I hope he will never read these lines because he is a charming man, but really so ugly in European clothes.

There will only be France and Holland that will still keep some pictures costumes but so few so few.

turesque costumes, but so few, so few.

It is also said that all the wonderful art treasures collected by the late Dowager Empress are to be sold in London. That is a crime of lese-art.

Suggests Museum For Treasures.

Why not make a museum in Pekin to contain all those marvels? I know from friends that there are sculptured ivories and gold that are a triumph of Chinese art. And one hears of a gold brocade, embroidered with a hundred thousand different birds flying above a lake sprinkled with nenuphers. It appears that this material cost the empress eight millions Student of Music.

Still another beautiful subject absorbs much of the time and thought of the lady of this sketch. A student and lover of music, she would have its joys and reach the human soul wherever possible. She studied the divine art for three years in Germany, where, it goes without saying, she received the world's best. Much is being done in Canada in the large cetures for the development and cultivation of music, but the wish of Mrs. Hamilton is that the clubs would prepare programs, not above the ordinary, but at the same time of the best, and take them out to the more isolated parts, to where the Slavs, Italians, Germans and Hebrews, all intense lovers of music, are settled, so that those people might all be benefited. Institutions, too, might be frequently visited by those organizations. The Musical Club of Winnipeg was for a time under the leadership of Mrs. Hamilton, she being its first president under its constitution, tho its origin was due to Mrs. Kirkland, its first presiding officer. She is also a member of the Musical Club of Toronto.

WHY READ DICKENS?

The Great Caricaturist

Sometimes an exaggerated cartoon illumines a public problem or a political question more than columns of wordy discussion. Often a caricature—or cartoon in words—is more effective, conveys more from the mind of the writer to the mind of the reader than the most artistic pictorial representation done with the most skilful literary finish. In part, this is why you should read Dickens.

For Dickens was a caricaturist, not because he wanted to make fun resentation done with the most skilful literary finish. In part, this is why you should read Dickens.

For Dickens was a caricaturist, not because he wanted to make fun of his fellowmen, but because he loved him and sympathized with him. If you can think of some friend whose little folbles you like to exaggerate and to use as the foundation for friendly raillery, or if you have some acquaintance who retaliates upon you in kind in this respect, you will be able to understand the attitude of Dickens toward his characters. And his characters, as we learn, from a study of the sources of his stories were real and live and human. To a great extent his writings are biographical, to some extent they are autobiographical. So that in reading Dickens' works, you are living over again with him many of his experiences among his acquaintances whose weaknesses he made the subject of good-natured chaffing and whose good qualities he presented as sources of encouragemnt and founts of inspiration.

Dickens is justly credited with molding public opinion and giving it an impetus in the proper direction with respect to many of the great sins of omession and sins of commission which are generally regarded as everybody's and nobody's business. Never does Christmas come round that his "Christmas Carol" is not remembered, and quoted from, all over the English-speaking world. Read it and imbibe a spirit towards mankind which should remain with you always.

The rollicking humor of the "Pickwick Papers," the lofty self-sacrifice of "The Tale of Two Cities," the simple, tender pathos of "David Copperfield," you should not miss.

Of books other than the Christmas Carol which had as their basic thems the righting of same arrangement and to make fun of the principle of contrast in one the standard promote of the principle of contrast in one the standard promote of the principle of contrast in one the standard promote of the principle of contrast in the proper direction with respect to many of the great sins of the principle of contrast in the

of books other than the Christmas Carol which had as their basic theme the righting of some wrong condition, "Nicholas Nickleby" presents the cruel conditions of the boarding schools, "Our Mutual Friend" attacks the English poor laws, and "Bleak House" shows the terrible sufferings caused by the law's delay in the Court of Chancery.

It is said that Dickens is more widely read than any other novelist, and it is scarce likely that any person who has done any reading worthy of mention can have missed meeting at least some of his works. Still, amid this avalanche of light weight modern fiction, it may be advisable to suggest that, if you are not familiar with at least these books of Dickens which we have mentioned, you may save some time from Chambers, McCutcheon, McGrath and their ilk, and employ it more profitably in reading Dickens.

Employing the principle of contrast in his writings.

In so far as the poet is a painter he uses color-contrast freely. Notice how this is done by Lampman in "The Little Handmaiden":

She bound her head with a band of BLUE, And a garland of lilies sweet; And put on her delicate silken shoes, With roses on both her feet.

She clad her body in spotless WHITE, With a girdle as RED as blood; The glad WHITE raiment her beauty bound.

I am also revising in essay form a set of ten or twelve papers under the title of "The Troubled Ooutlook of the Present Age." These deal with money, women, democracy, Socialism, machingry, religion, and all those things which everybody is talking about. The style will be, I hope, very luminous. I am half-minded to get myself sent next summer thru Hungary, the Balkans, and the Aegean and Asia Minor, and to settle all the troubles of these distressed people by writing them up in a series of say ten papers for publication week by eewk. The style would be of the kind indicated by the inclosed accounts of a trip to Versailles last summer, and I—would supply plenty of illustrations. My route would be via Vienna, Budapest, Belgrade, Sofia, etc., Constantinople, Smyrna, Tthens. Of course, I am taking it for granted that the war will be all over and the sa-Joons open again." loons open again.

Stephen Leacock writes as follows of his present and contemplated literary activities to his publisher:

I am projecting a set of story sketches with common connecting tissue, under the title of Arcadian Adventures with the Idle Rich. I have not written a word yet; but when I do, and when I get a little way into them, I will bring down the manuscripts to New York to you.

I am also revising in essay form a set of ten or twelve papers under the

H. Rider Haggard has written a new "Allan Quatermain" story, entitled "Child of Storm"; it is a tale of Zulu superstition and witchcraft.

What is noted as a new discovery in regard to the Waverley novels, has been made by a professor in Leeds University. The professor calls attention to the fact that, with one striinkg exception, all Scott's heroines are motherless. "Except in 'The Bride of Lammermoor," this professor says, "there is to be found in the Waverley novels no grown-up daughter living with her own mother." Readers will be interested in verifying this statement. The explanation suggested by the Leeds professor is that Scott, like every other author, was apt to repeat himself in matters which seemed to him of small importance."

Origin of Parker's "Vaimond."

Sir Gilbert Parker, writing of one of his earlier novels, "When Valmond Came to Pontiac." tells of his interest in the first Napoleon and of his reading a certain memoir and seeing certain pictures. The effect he describes as follows:

"Thereupon the whole story of a son of Napoleon, ignorant of his own birth, but knowing that a son had been both to Napoleon at St. Helena, flitted thru my imagination, and the story spread out before me all in an hour, like an army with banners.

Dublication of "Les Miserables." Lacroix, very young and full of ardour, learned that the famous novel was finished and decided that it should be the first venture of the publishing house that he had determined to establish. He went to Hauteville House, conquered it by his youthful enthusiasm, declared himself ready to accept any terms. At first these House, conquered it by his youthful enthusiasm, declared himself ready to accept any terms. At first these terms seemed a little hard. Victor Hugo demanded three hundred thousand francs for the book, one hundred and twenty-five thousand francs to be paid in advance, in English gold. Altho not having the first part of this sum Lacroix signed the contract. Intoxicated with joy, he proceeded to Brussels, procured the necessary money from a banker, and returned to Gurnsey. He carried the precious specie in a leather saddle bag that he preserved, as a relic, until his death. Fearful of being robbed on the road, in watched night and day, pistol in hand. Schubert Choir Musical Festival

Many Schools of Music From Simple Ballads to Sublime Works of Great Masters.

The patrons to the Schubert Choir Festival, to be held in Massey Hall on February 24 and 25, are reminded that the sale of seats to subscribers will open at Massey Hall on Monday morning, February 17, and on Thursday, February 20, to the public.

A perusal of the splendid programs reveals the fact that they are two of the most interesting and comprehensive ever given in Toronto, as practically all schools of music are represented, from simple ballads to grand opera arias; from the Madrigal to the sublime works of Mendelssohn, and Schubert, comprising many rare and beautiful novelties from the fifteenth century to the present day. On Monday evening the beautiful opera, "Lorelel," by Mendelssohn, will be the chief work in extended form and a splendid collection of unaccompanied motettes, male choruses and ladies' choruses. On Tuesday the works in extended form with orchestra, will be the dramatic tone poem, "God In the Tempest," and "Die Almacht," by Schubert and a number of new unaccompanied works, Mme. Pasquali, the great operatic prima donna, will sing two arias and a group of songs (all in English) each night in addition to solos in concerted numbers.

Barron Berthald, the great dramatic tenor of Covent Garden, London, will sing six numbers on Tuesday night.

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra will render three new works each evening and by special request will play Tschaikowsky's great "1812 Overture." The ladies' chorus will be heard separately and in ensemble with Mme. Pasquali and the orchestra.

performance of orchestral, chamber and vocal music. The result was that the London Philharmonic Society was formed, and that it has flourished to Excellent Principals, Chorus and Wetzler of Riga Also Mentioned as Likely Successor at this day is proven by its recent centenary celebration. Mr. Myles B. Foster has just published a sort of biographical sketch of the venerable organization, which contains the most important details of the society's life.

organization, which contains the most important details of the society's life. A glance at the work is in itself highly instructive. Many of the most important programs are given illustrating the change in musical taste during the successive decades of the century just closed. The early selections are unique when regarded from a modern standpoint. Symphonies and other orchestral pieces of Haydn, Mozart and Cherubini were prominent and there were works by English and Italian composers whose names are now forgetten. It was for this organization that Beethoven composed his Ninth Symphony, while Spohr, Mendelssohn, Cherubini and Weber also wrote specially for it. The most prominent soloists and conductors are also mentioned, its most important, of course, being Mendelssohn and Wagner. The radically different methods of these two leaders and the general attitude of public and critics toward them, furnishes many interesting pages. Historically the work is invaluable. Among its noteworthy attractions are fac-similes of manuscript scores written for the society as well as letters from Mendelssohn, Wagner, Berlloz, Tschaikowsky and others.

The great success attending the revival of the Gilbert and Sullivan operating will undoubiedly quicken the interesting production of "The Yeoman of the Guard," to be given by the Canadian Academy of Music (formerly The Columbian Conservatory), during the week of April 14. Every possible means is being taken advantage of to make the production noteworthy in the musical history of Toronto. The principals are all eminently fitted for their roles, and the chorus is nevery way an excellent one. The costumes are being specially made from English designs by Messrs. A. and E. McKenna of this city, and the scenery is being prepared by scenic artist Drake. The stage work is being studied under the expert guidance of Mr. Stanley Adams and Mr. A. Pike, the musical part being looked after by Mr. Alfred Bruce, who will have a large orchestra chosen from the best of our local musicians, which will Arrangements have been made whereby Mile Leginska, the accomplished planist will give a recital in this city under the auspices of the Hambourg Conservatory of Music Mile, Leginska, who is famous in Europe and in England, is a great personal friend of the Hambourg family. She was a student in Frankfurt with Mr. Boris Hambourg, and is now known as one of the most brilliant of the Leschetizky pupils. After European triumphs, which mark her as an artist of unusual attainments, Mile Leginska has come to America with credentials of the very highest order. She has appeared with the London Philharmonic under Sir Henry Wood, the Berlin Philharmonic and other organizations of similar importance in Parts, Munich and Hambourg, and has given innumerable recitals in those and other cities. Of her The London Daily Telegraph says: "Every work she brings forward grows and develops under her fingers like a living organism." Hamburg Fremdenblatt: "The dainty artist unmasked herself as a Titan of the piano." Berlin Allgemeine: "Leginska, in spite of her youth, stands high above her task in the runs and trills she shows the splendor of a Carreno, and a wonderful technic." Mile Leginska's recent recital in New York created a furore.

The Biblical drama, "Pilate's Daughter," was given a very fine interpretation on Monday and Tuesday evenings by the young ladies of St. Patrick's parish. The play centres around the crucifixion and death of our Saviour, and the lives of the early Christians, and abounds in fine scenic and spectacular effects. It is written for female characters only, and the production given was very creditable to those in charge.

Mr. Stanjey Adams, tenor, of the Canadian Academy of Music, was soloist last Sunday evening at the Yonge Street Methodist Church. He chose for his contribution "By Galilee's Waters," Farrance.

The dates of the joint recitals to be given by Mme. Kathryn Innes-Taylor, soprano, and Miss Grace Smith, pianist, have been changed to March 5 and 26, instead of the dates previously mentioned.

Msrs. Casavant Freres of St. Hyacinthe are preparing to install a fine three-manual organ in the new West Presbyterian Church. The choir at this church as a full quartet, composed of Mrs. R. Lorne Stewart, goprano; Miss L. Hill, contralto; Mr. D. W. Hogg, tenor; and Mr. J. G. Patterson, bass. Mr. W. J. Holland during the month of March.

At an auction sale in Berlin on Jan 26, it is said that an autograph score of Handel's "Terzetto," dated Naples, 1708. was sold to a private collector for $7125.

Miss Ruth Kemper, of Boston, a very clever nine-year-old violinist, is coming to Toronto to study with Herr Luigi von Kunits, of the Canadian Academy of Music. The young lady's parents will make their home in Toronto during her tuition. Herr von Kunits is getting a large class, several of whom are from American cities.

Recently a well-known singer just before appearing in recital in a city not far from Chicago, when discussing the bouquet problem, remarked that a dozen really fresh eggs would be preferable to roses as a footlight tribute. Her amusement can well be imagined when after a group of songs a market basket filled with fresh eggs, labeled the other two men were staring wide open towards the unexpected figure, which seemed to bring a taste of fresh pure air into the feverish atmosphere of the editor, sharply. He found it somewhat difficult to be severe with this poet, for the man admitted so much so readily, and would not defend himself. Had he only blustered and grown angry and ordered them out, instead of sitting helplessly there rocking to and fro and picking at the back of his hands, it would have made it so much easier. "How do we know," repeated the editor, "that you did not intend to wait until the poems had appeared, and then send us your real address and ask for the money, saying that you had moved since yeu had last written us?"

""Oh" protested Mr. Arem "you with the feverish atmosphere of the place. "Oh," protested Mr. Aram, "you know I never thought of that."

"I don't know anything of the sort," said the editor. "I only know that you have forged and lied and tried to obtain money that doesn't belong to you, and that I mean to make an example of you and frighten other men from doing the same thing. No editor has read every poem that was ever written, and there is no protection for him frem such fellows as you, and the only thing he can do when he does catch one of you is to make an example of him. There was a long and most uncomfortable pause, and it is doubtful if the editor did not feel it as much as did the man opposite him, The editor turned to his friend for a glance of sympathy, or of disapproval even, but that gentleman still sat bending forward with his eyes fixed on the floor, while he tapped with the top of his cane against his teeth.

memories of what Toronto artists, professional and amateur, in practically all musical lines have accomplished and are still obviously capable of accomplishing, it seems to me that the Canadian Club of Toronto has done the unnecessary thing in inviting Mr. Arthur Farwell, supervisor of municipal music for Greater New York, to address them on "Music for the People." The News has it that "it is hoped this address may lead to a demand for classical music, instead of rag-time melodies in To-

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion and likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this; Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Co. Farmer Building. Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) 75 cents. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, alim figure. He will hand you a large case of Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat at the rate of 12 to 16 ounces a day. That is all. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet fathfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will outckly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.

The growing of vegetables must incidentally produce in the grower a large crop of patient optimism, even, also, as to matters not connected entirely with the quality and quantity of his crops. The Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association got together recently, decided to eliminate the middleman and sell directly to the retailer. This, they decided, in meeting assembled, would incidentally also eliminate the said middleman's profit, and enable the ultimate consumer to obtate the graduate the said middleman's profit, and enable the ultimate consumer to obtate the graduate the said middleman's profit. enable the ultimate consumer to obtain his garden stuff at a price decreased by a moiety of that unearned in-crement, the other moiety of which, they argued, would naturally revert to themselves. The weak link in an otherwise sound chain of thought is their decision to consign their produce their decision to consign their produce directly to the retailer. Do you suppose that the gentle green grocer, altho he will be able to buy from the producer at a price decreased by the amount not now to be paid to the middleman, is going to give the benefit of that vanished item in his cost price to the consumer? What is going to happen, friends, is only a little matter of bookkeeping. The profit which, afcretime, went to the middleman will now be cut up between the producer

It may be, of course, a perfectly true and demonstrable fact that, as Mr. Keele of the Canadian Geological Survey says, the clay in Canada is more valuable than the gold, but, I imagine it would require infinite and most patient persuasion to induce any Canadian to exchange for many thousands of tons of the very nicest, freshest, clay, one small compact half-pound loaf of the oldest, shabblest looking real stuff.

It would require, for instance, some

T AFFORDS me much pleasure to present to my patrons a small selection from the style novelties for Spring and Summer, 1913. Many more may be inspected at my es-Summer, 1913. Many more may be inspected at my establishment.

My gaments are characterized by individuality, by which is meant that I study the individual requirement of each customer and design costumes in which the style, materials and color combination are in harmony with the figure of each. Suggestions from patrons are always duly considered and personal wishes as to details of work are carried out whenever practicable. This gives patrons the satisfaction of possessing thoroughly up-to-date garments which express more or tess of their own individuality and taste.

All work is executed on the premises by men tallors under my personal supervision, thus assuring artistic and superior workmanship.

I have successfully solved the difficult problem of producing the very highest grade of work at minimum cost and give my patrons the benefits of my economy. This explains why my prices are so moderate and why you receive better value at my establishment than elsewhere. Your trial order is respectfully solicited, and I invite you to call whether you are ready to place your order or not.

Respectfully yours,

CONCERNING THE EYES In our modern civilization there is an enormous number of people whose livelihood depend upon vision being clear and comfortable. If vision is poor or uncomfortable there can be a direct reduction of the earning capacity; there can be a condition of annoyance, or even of malaise, which will indirectly reduce this capacity; so that those who want to be most efficient in their affairs should be sure that their vision in action is suitable to their work, and if not so, glasses are certainly the not so, glasses are certainly the solution of the difficulty. The four sets of jumbled letters given here represent the names of Four Great Rivers in Canada. Every Canadian should know them. To help you find them we have underlined the first letter in each name. The first is St. Lawrence. Now ruess the rest and send in your solution of all four names carefully written and with your name and address on the same sheet. YOU ARE NOT ASKED TO SPEND A CENT OF YOUR MONEY OR BUY ANYTHING IN ORDER TO ENTER THIS CONTEST.

This competition will be judged by three gentlemen, who are members of well-known Toroneo business houses, and who have absolutely no connection whatever with this firm. The prizes will be awarded to those sending correct solutions whose letters are judged neatest and best written. We have nade general neatness one of the main factors in awarding the prizes, so be neat.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Children will not go around with untidy stockings if you fit them out with C.M.C. Hose Supporters, because the C.M.C. clasp never lets go accidentally.

Stockings will not rip and tear under the stress of play when held by C.M.C. Hose Supporters, because the C.M.C. clasp has no sharp edges to cut the material when put under extra pressure.

Your own satisfaction and economy and the appearance and comfort of the youngsters demand something better than the old style "garters."

Department stores and dry goods stores sell C.M.C. Hose Supporters for girls, boys and women. Ask for C.M.C. Hose Supporters, and as a matter of general satis-faction and economy take no others.
