S. U. F. Parade

The C.L.B. Band, having accepted an invitation to attend the annual parade of the Society of United Fishermen at Port de Grave, left for that place by motor boat on Tuesday, Jan. 6th. Excellent weather conditions on that occasion made the event one long to be remembered. During the day the parade attended Divine Service. A very excellent address was delivered by Rev. Butler. The bandmen returned by motor boat toward midnight, having spent a very enjoyable day. As they neared the shore they struck up the familiar airs, which sounded very sweet on the calm night air.

Concert at French's Cove

A very humorous and enjoyable concert was held in the C. of E. Schoolroom at French's Cove on Thursday night, Jan. 8th. Each actor took his part well and much original talent was displayed. At the close of the entertainment several of the items were repeated by request. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. J. Mercer who filled that capacity in his usual inimitable style. The evening's entertainment was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

Steamers Have Stormy Trips

The steamships Sachem, Rosalind, and Sable I., which have arrived in St. John's during the week, report having had very stormy trips. The Sachem was unfortunate in losing her rudder and rudder post while a mountainous sea swept around the ship when six hundred miles at sea. Messages were sent out and picked up by seven steamers of the Furness line. The Manchester Hero, being the nearest, was requested to render assistance. A jury rudder was rigged and the Sachem managed to keep her course in spite of her dangerous predicament. When the Manchester Hero arrived cables were made to connect the ships and by this means the Sachem was steered into St. John's. The ship left Liverpool on Dec. 23rd with a large cargo and 15 passengers. The Rosalind reached St. John's at 10 o'clock Thursday night, Jan. 8th, having experienced a very stormy trip from Halifax and New York.

The Sable I. arrived at 8 o'clock on Thursday night after one of the stormiest trips ever experienced. High seas carried away part of her bridge together with the binnacle and part of the companion-way. The ship brought a part cargo and five passengers.

Miss Maud Brennan returned from a visit to St. John's Saturday night.

P. M. D. Fund

The hope of securing "a link a day for 1924" for the Permanent Marine Disasters Fund, which was expressed by Dr. J. Alex. Robinson, Editor of the "Daily News" at the beginning of the year, has become a realization. Not only has each day brought its link, but there was sufficient contributions forthcoming to attach a "shackle" as well. The P. M. D. Fund is solely for the assistance of the widows and orphans of Newfoundlanders who have lost their lives at sea.
Dr. Robinson always touched an optimistic note when a break in the chain was threatened, with the result that the chain is unbroken and the amount of $7543.12 has been raised in 1924 for that most worthy cause. There are several links in last year's chain from this town and as the chain has started for 1925, there is room for many more contributions. We congratulate Dr. Robinson on his practical interest in the P. M. D. F.

W. M. S.

The monthly meeting of the Bay Roberts Branch W.M.S., was held at the Parsonage, Bay Roberts, on Tuesday night, Jan. 6th. Mrs. (Rev.) Howse, the President, conducted the meeting. Plans were made to have the annual Public Meeting during the latter part of February or early in March.

DIED.

On Monday, Jan. 5th, after a long illness, Thomas Mercer, aged 94 years. Left to mourn are a widow, two daughters, Mrs. R. T. Mercer of this town, and Mrs. Edw. Sparkes, of Lynn, Mass., one son, William, of this town. Also several adopted children. Funeral took place on Wednesday, Jan. 7th, to the C. of E. Cemetery, Rev. E. M. Bishop officiating.

Stall's Books

Rev. T. Albert Moore, D. D., General Secretary of the Dept. of Social Services and Evangelism of the Meth. Church of Canada, who visited Newfoundland in Sept., 1917, in connection with the Social Congress, says:

"Stall's Books on Avided Subjects have been standard works for such a long time that it seems almost unnecessary to say a word in their behalf. I believe they have accomplished great good, and are written with care and deftness, at the same time with sufficient frankness or the modest discussion of these delicate subjects.

Love

Love is the greatest word in any language—because it means more than any other word. It is elemental. It is something felt, though undefined—something known though unseen. Love is always journeying.

Love is Cumulative. The greatest argument ever presented for belief in God is the one written briefly that "God is Love."

Love is Universal. Love a man and he at once becomes your Friend and would likely lay down his life for you; Love a worthy Cause and at once the Cause becomes your life and you would sacrifice your fondest dreams in its favor; Love your Work and the sordid in life disappears and is gone as the dew disappears under the heat of the early Sun.

Love is Unselfish. If there is Love left, somewhere, then Hope is there and no matter what the disaster, the vital germs of Joy and Success remain. If someone still Loves you or you still Love someone, hopelessness for you must die. For the light of Love is the light of Life, because—

Love is Life. Love your Friends, Love your Work, Love your lot in life, Love Nature, Love everything that is, for back of everything that is, is a divine Purpose—itsself reflecting Love.

Love is All!

FORESTRY CONTEST.

This is an attractive game for a limited number of people. It could be used for a large crowd if the questions were printed or even typewritten, so as to save the hostess so much work.

- 1. Which tree a kissing game could play?—Tulip. 2. ... name would sky?—Paw-paw. 3. Which shall we wear to keep us warm?—Fir. 4. And which do ships prefer in a storm?—Bay. 5. Which shows what lovelorn maidens do?—Pine. 6. And in the hand which carry you?—Palm. 7. And which is it that the fruit-men fear?—Locust. 8. And from their pipes men shake which tree?—Ash. 9. Which is it bad boys dislike to see?—Birch. 10. Which is a girl both young and sweet?—Peach. 11. Which like a lan, bright, dapper, neat?—Spruce. 12. And on which do the children play?—Beech. 13. And to which tree shall we now turn for goods to wear and stuff to burn?—Cottonwood. 14. And now divide you one tree more, you've part of a dress and part of a door?—Hemlock.

WORK.

Work! Thank God for the might of it, The ardor, the urge, the delight of it—

Work that springs from the heart's desire, Setting the brain and the soul on fire. Oh, what is so good as the heat of it! And what is so glad as the beat of it! And what is so kind as the stern command, Challenging brain and heart and hand?

Work! Thank God for the pride of it, For the beautiful, conquering tide of it, Sweeping the life in its furious flood, Thrilling the arteries, cleansing the blood, Mastering stupor and dull despair. Moving the dreamer to do and dare. Oh, what is so good as the urge of it

And what is so glad as the surge of it! And what is so strong as the summons deep Rousing the torpid soul from sleep?

Work, the Titan; Work, the friend, Shaping the earth to a glorious end, Draining the swamps and blasting the hills, Doing whatever the Spirit wills—Rending a continent apart, To answer the dream of the Master heart. Thank God for a world where none may shrink! Thank God for the splendor of work!

THE COLOR OF THE SUN.

The lady who was selecting the house furnishings hesitated a moment about the canary-colored vase. It clashed with other shades in the room. "It clashes with nothing. It is the color of the sun," said the saleslady. And does not her answer explain some of the sunny, tactful people we know? They clash with nothing because their temperaments are the color of the sun. You know instinctively that they can get along with the person whom others find difficult to get on with. You know that the wrangling and the looks and words of annoyance will die down when they come upon the scene. You never picture them getting into quarrels and difficulties with those who work and walk beside them in life. You know they clash with nothing because their spirits are the color of the sun. There is no other solvent for difficulties equal to a sunny spirit.

Let us all spend enough time in the sunshine of the great All-creating Spirit that we too may be permeated with the colors of the sun. It is a good thing to absorb as much of the physical sunshine as we can, but if we are denied much of that we can at least breathe in the sunshine of God's presence and thus radiate light upon our little world.

HAVE YOU A CASTLE?

Everybody should have a castle, built so high upon the mountain peaks of the mind that the meaner self cannot climb to its heights, and so fortified that the approaches are guarded by white-winged messengers from above.

Then run occasionally for rest out of the toil and vexations of life, as well as for a calm look upon the entangled problems of the world, that you may find where to lose yourself for the good of others.

If you have not built such a castle, build it at once. Find the highest mountain in your mind—one of those that reach highest into the blue vault of thought—and fortify as you build.

If your place in life lies mostly with those minds that are low and marshy, whence arises the malaria of discontent, lust, suspicion and unlove, build your castle quickly, and so protect your mountain passes that approaches to it will be impossible except to yourself and the angels that minister there.

Then will you be patient in the midst of the strife of the lower souls; you will do good to those who have wronged you, and your pity for all shall lie like a beam of light upon every face into which you shall look.

3 GOOD GAMES.

PARLOR SCANDAL—This is a very amusing game—with a moral. The players sit in a semi-circle round the fire, and begin. The first whispers it in his or her neighbor's ear, with an addition of his—or her—own; and so on round the semi-circle till the end is reached. Then the first "whisperer" says aloud what he had whispered, and the last in the semi-circle repeats aloud what has just reached him. The result is truly amazing, for it is generally a very long, much-embroidered story.

LEGACIES—This is an excellent table game. Each player is supplied with a pencil and paper, and writes the name of any one who may be left a legacy. The paper is then folded and handed on to a neighbor, who writes "what the legacy was," becomes colored and clearly visible as it to the next player, who writes what is done with the legacy; the succeeding one writes—in like fashion—what happened to the legatee, and then what remark he or she made about his or her legacy. The result of the ensuing medley of ideas is very amusing. This is an improvement on the very old-fashioned game of "Consequences," and admits of original treatment by inventive players.

THE FEATHER AND SHEET.—A sheet hung up divides two "sides," one set of players sitting on one side of the sheet, the other on the opposite side, so that the heads of both "sides" of players appear only above the edge of the sheet. Some one flings a good-sized feather into the air, and then the fun begins. Each puffs and blows to send the floating feather behind the row of opponent blowers; and every time the feather falls to earth one is counted against those who let it descend. The fun gets fast and furious till fifteen is scored by one side, when the game is cried. All the players are mostly breathless long before!

INK.

Ink, which we are apt to look upon as a comparatively modern convenience, was known to the ancients. Manuscripts written in ink on papyrus more than four thousand years ago have been discovered. These ancient writing fluids were made from various forms of carbon such as ivory black, lamp-black, or soot mixed with gum to avoid too great fluidity. Cicero, Pliny, and other Romans used the fluid of cuttlefish to write their manuscripts. These early inks were not only of great durability but they appeared in many different colors, such as red, green, vermilion, and purple. Elegant manuscripts were often written in gold and silver ink, one celebrated copy, the Codex Upsal, being done in silver ink on velvet parchment, the initials and certain passages in gold.

It was the habit of one of the emperors of Constantinople to sign his decrees in red ink, and to make his first secretary the guardian of the vase which contained the cinnabar or vermilion used in the ink. Ink powders are merely the constituents of ordinary ink in a dry state. Sympathetic or secret inks are fluids which produce colorless writing upon paper, but when the latter is exposed to heat or to certain chemical action the writing becomes colored and clearly visible. Some kinds of secret ink disappear again in cooling.—Classmate.

NOTICE To Owners and Masters of British Ships

The attention of Owners and Masters of British Ships is called to the 74th Section of the "Merchant Shipping Act, 1894."

- 74.—(1) A Ship belonging to a British Subject shall hoist the proper national colors— (a) on a signal made to her by one of His Majesty's ships, including any vessel under the command of an officer of His Majesty's navy or full pay, and (b) on entering or leaving any foreign port and (c) if of fifty tons gross tonnage or upwards, on entering or leaving any British Port.

(2) If default is made on board any ship in complying with this section the master of the ship shall for each offence be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

At time of war it is necessary for every British Ship to hoist the colours and heave to if signalled by a British Warship; if a vessel hoists no colours and runs away, it is liable to be fired upon.

RULES FOR Making Cod Liver Oil For the Guidance of Manufacturers

- 1st. The manager in charge of factory must see that the livers are fresh; that all brown or poor livers are thrown out; that there is no gall bladder attached to any livers.
 - 2nd. The good livers must then be washed in a tub of clean fresh water.
 - 3rd. The pan in which the livers are boiled must be perfectly clean inside, before any livers are placed in it.
 - 4th. Before you start to boil any livers, you must have sufficient steam.
 - 5th. Turn on the steam, and use as much as you need to have for the quantity of livers you have in your pan. Boil until the white scum floats off (which will take about thirty minutes.) Don't forget to stir the livers, and see that those in the bottom and those around the sides are brought into direct contact with the steam all the time.
 - 6th. Turn the steam off, and allow all to settle, not exceeding five minutes, according to capacity of liver boiler.
 - 7th. Then you dip all the oil you can get, which is the finest white oil. Put this oil in a cooling tank made of galvanized iron, and let the oil remain there till next morning. Don't forget to put a straining cloth over the cooling tank before you put any oil in, so that it will catch any bits of blubber; allow to remain 12 or 14 hours or longer if possible, then dip from cooling tank and strain through double calico bag, inside bag to be one inch smaller all around; then strain into a tin shute under the bags, the cask to be at the end of the shute with a funnel, to lead oil into casks, which funnel to be covered with clean cloth.
 - 8th. When you have dipped the finest oil from the top of the liver boiler pan, take all the blubber from the pan while it is warm. The oil from this blubber is not fit for medicinal purposes.
 - 9th. Then clean your liver pan with warm water and washing powder. Have it bright and clean for the next boiling.
 - 10th. Every bag, cloth, tank, funnel and pan, must be washed only with warm water, soap and water. Soda must not be used.
- The best results for medical oil can only be obtained by the use of tin barrels. Wooden packages generally make the oil dark, and destroy its fine flavor. Keep all oil in barrels in a cool place, and covered from the sun.

REGULATIONS For Salting Scotch Pack Herring

One barrel salt to five and a half barrels herring—Large Fulls
One barrel salt to six barrels herring—Medium Fulls.
One barrel salt to six and a half barrels herring—Matt Fulls.
This amount of salt is for dredging and laying on rows only. It does not take into account that put on the herring before gibbing.
All salt falling off herring in reusing tubs is put on rows as you pack unless very dirty or sealy; in that case, you have to make good the same amount, or otherwise you could not have any fixed rule on salt.

Matt Fulls	10 1/2 inches long	Milt or roe
Medium Fulls	11 1/2 inches long	Milt or roe
Large Fulls	12 1/2 inches long and upwards	Milt or roe
Medium Filling	11 1/2 inches long and upward
Large Filling	12 1/2 inches long and upwards

Filling Fish may be branded as Scotch Cure without the Crown Brand
No drowned, stale, or scaleless herring can be used as Scotch Pack, nor herring in half frozen state.
The root cause of light salting is to come as near as possible to the pleasing of the palate of the consumer; and if we bear in mind that over three-fourths of all Scotch-Pack Herring are consumed as a tonic before the mid-day meal, just as they come out of the barrel, without any fire cooking, we can see the reason at a glance for the right salting. The herring is dressed by the head and the tail being cut off, the main bone taken out. It is then cut into squares of about one inch, and is served with vinegar and other condiments. This gives power to the stomach to digest the following meal and keeps the consumer in the best of health.
People with bad stomachs please note that the art of cooking and eating right is just as essential as the art of curing; and based on the best medical directions, and with the chemical analysis of the constituent parts of herring as a food ever kept before the consumer, we need not be surprised that the people who eat most herring are the most healthy and efficient.

NOW ESTABLISHED

The institution has come to stay, helping every other institution in the country co-operating with it to secure specialized business training and positions for its advanced students. The large number of its successful students placed during the year proves the good service that the college is rendering for all denominations and these should unite in supporting it financially. A list of influential old students promoted was also read including the names of several managers and superintendents of large firms at home and abroad.

The school can now place every graduate in a good paying position and extends these advantages to the whole country.

Recently requests for recommendations for old pupils for positions as stenographers and book-keepers had been received from wealthy corporations in Boston, New York, Montreal and other places; per influential old students and the International Employment Bureau of Business Colleges co-operating with the school in placing business college graduates—a service which is entirely free to students and firms. Therefore it pays students to make a good record for themselves as this record is kept.

There is already a bigger demand for stenographers and book-keepers at good salaries in Newfoundland showing that business is progressing, revenues are increasing and it will pay people to prepare for the great business future ahead in the country.

The Principal expressed his gratitude to Dr. Blackall, Mr. Quinton, Secty. G. W. V. A., Mr. Richards, Secty. of the N.T.A., and the newspapers, for kindly referring to the work of this institution in encouraging terms that should lead to the financial support and patronage needed from Educational authorities, Teachers, Associations and parents throughout the country for the advancement of this valuable work for Newfoundland.

Serious Fire at St. John's

One of the most serious fires which ever threatened to sweep the Southside of St. John's occurred during the time Wednesday night's blizzard was at its height. Shortly after midnight the alarm was sent in to the Fire Hall. At first it could not be distinguished where the fire was but soon, fanned by the high wind, the flames leapt up, and it was discovered that the premises of Mr. T. S. Devine, formerly occupied by the Gorton Pew Company, were ablaze. Owing to the snowstorm the firemen had much difficulty in reaching the scene and for some time only one hose played on the burning buildings. Soon the fire, having completely demolished Devine's premises, reached Prowse's store and not until the home of Robert Guest, containing all their furniture, with two boats, some fishing gear and some poultry had been entirely devoured, was the fire got under control. Hundreds of anxious people were attracted to the scene but soon had to return to their homes. It is learned that Mr. and Mrs. Robert Guest, who, with their nine children rushed from their home scantily clad, carry no insurance on their property. Mr. Devine had about 250 casks of cod oil and some fish, the exact amount of which is not known. About $10,000 insurance was carried. The Prowse building was practically empty at the time of the fire. By the heroic efforts of the firemen, under Inspector General Hutchings and Supt. O'Neil, the flames were prevented from reaching the Imperial Oil Company's yard. If the fire had reached the above premises it is probable that the Southside would have been swept.

ITEMS OF NEWS.

School here, owing to ill-health, is, we are glad to learn, completely recovered, and back to her position again. Mrs. Thomas Wilcox and Miss Myrtle Wilcox left here recently and will visit relatives at Halifax, N.S., and Boston, Mass. Miss Violet Cave, of this town, went to Carboner by Tuesday's noon train and will take charge of the C. of E. Primary School there. Mr. Nath Morgan returned to Pouch Cove by Tuesday morning's train. OBITUARY

There passed away on Saturday morning, Jan. 3rd, after a lingering illness, one of our most respected citizens, in the person of Mr. Andrew J. Wood, aged 62 years. Coming to this town some years ago, Mr. Wood started a tinmith shop. His business grew as the confidence of the public increased. Although not in robust health he continued his work until about two years ago, when a stroke of paralysis rendered him an invalid. During the past summer his daughter, Nurse Elsie, and son, William, visited him. Despite all that medical attention and nursing could do for him he answered the summons last Saturday morning and his soul returned to God. The funeral, which was attended by many mourners and friends, took place on Monday, Jan. 5th. Elder B. E. Manuel, of the Seventh Day Adventist Church, St. John's, conducted the funeral services. The favourite hymns of the deceased, "Shall we gather at the river" and "Face to face," were sung at the church. Elder Manuel preached a very forceful sermon, in which he paid the highest tribute to the late Mr. Wood. After the Church service, the funeral procession wended its way to the S. D. A. Cemetery where all that was mortal of Andrew J. Wood was consigned to Mother Earth to await the Morn of the Resurrection. The beautiful casket, supplied by Undertaker Baggs, was covered with magnificent floral tributes. At the graveside Misses Mary Whiteway and Gladys Russell very tenderly sang "Sleep on beloved, sleep." Left to mourn the loss of a loving husband and kind father are a widow, four daughters, Elsie, who is nursing at Boston, Mass., Adeline, Margaret and Mabel, at home, two sons, William, of Battleford, Sask., and Andrew, residing in this town. To all the bereaved ones we extend sincere sympathy.

Prevention Better than Cure

From the St. John's newspapers of recent date we have read of several serious accidents as a result of sliding in public thoroughfares. Two boys while sliding over Hamilton St., ran into a motor car sustaining such injuries that they were rushed to the Hospital. Another was severely injured and for days was in a critical condition at the Hospital. And still another case is that of a boy sliding down a steep hill, came in contact with a horse and slide with such force that he is suffering from a fractured ankle. What is true of St. John's is also true of the outports and the only reason why more accidents have not occurred here is that there is not so much traffic on our streets. When slides are nearing the end of a long hill it is impossible to check their speed and when turned aside it is probable that they may strike a pole or a fence. The Police Department in St. John's have taken the matter up and are imposing a fine upon those found breaking the law. This is done not to curtail innocent enjoyment by any means but with a view to lessening accidents which occur from time to time.

Wintertime is here. Let us drink deeply of every joy she offers. What is better than an afternoon or evening spent skating over the shining surface of some well-frozen pond? What could give more enjoyment than a tramp over the crisp surface of the glistening snow? These and many more pleasures are offered the lover of God's beautiful out-of-doors in winter. But we should bring discretion to all sports, so that accidents may be prevented. It is the duty of parents to warn their children of danger. In this section there is many a fatality narrowly averted when the harbor ice begins to break up in pans. Boys should remember when planning to go leaping pans, that they may not be strong enough to bear them or of drifting out away from the shore. When parents take the responsibility of presenting these things to their children there will be less accidents and, naturally, less sorrow. Prevention is better than cure any day.

Girl Guide Afternoon Tea

The Afternoon Tea which was served in Cable Hall on Tuesday Jan. 6th, under the auspices of the 1st Bay Roberts Company, Girl Guides, was very successful even beyond the expectations of the Guides themselves, who worked so enthusiastically during the days of preparation. Many small tables, prettily decorated, kept the workers busy in the afternoon and during the early part of the evening. Candy and ice cream was sold and at night dancing was indulged in. The proceeds, we learn, will go toward defraying expenses for the rental of the hall.

WEDDING BELLS.

A very pretty wedding took place on Tuesday, Dec. 30th, at 9:30 a.m. in George St. Methodist Church, St. John's, when Miss Bertha Hull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hull, of Twillingate, recently assistant teacher at Grand Falls Academy, was joined in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to Rev. Robert E. Belbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Belbin, of this town, now Methodist minister at Exploits.

The bride, who was beautifully attired in white satin and bridal veil and carrying a bouquet of white carnations and chrysanthemums, was attended by Miss Fletcher, also assistant teacher at Grand Falls Academy, attired in blue chapeuse, and was given away by Rev. L. Curtis, D.D., Superintendent of Education. The groom was supported by Mr. C. E. Russell, J.P., Minister of Public Works. Rev. R. E. Fairbairn, Pastor of George St. Church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. M. Fenwick, D.D., Superintendent of Methodist Missions. Miss Elsie Tait, Mus. Bach, officiated at the organ. After the singing of "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden" and the signing of the register, the party adjourned to the Sterling Restaurant, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served. The toast to the bride and bridegroom was proposed by Rev. R. E. Fairbairn and that to the bridesmaid by Rev. Dr. Curtis.

The happy couple left on the noon express for Exploits. Both the bride and groom are well and popularly known in this town. For five and a half years Miss Bertha Hull was principal of the Methodist Superior School here, during which time she made many friends. Her work in connection with the various organizations of the church was very acceptable and always well done. Rev. Belbin is one who will bring credit to his native town and we predict for him a very successful career. Their many friends join in wishing them a future of unalloyed happiness.

C. L. B. Attend Divine Service

"H" Company of the C.L.B. of this town, with their band, paraded to Coley's Point to attend Divine Service last Sunday afternoon. A very interesting and instructive address was given by Rev. E. M. Bishop, Brigade Chaplain. During the afternoon a severe rainstorm made the weather anything but pleasant, but the lads wore a smile as they marched along.

Of a charitable and kind disposition she possessed many friends whose hearts are saddened by the news of her passing. The funeral took place on Jan. 3rd, followed by a large concourse of mourners and friends. The remains, which were enclosed in a magnificent casket, supplied by Undertaker Jas. C. Baggs, were brought to St. Matthew's Church where a service was conducted by Rev. E. M. Bishop. The music was rendered by Miss M. B. Mosdell.
