BUBBLES ON THE POLITICAL POT. The Chances of McKeown and O'Brien Tonight. Both are Confident—McKeown After the Labor Vote—The Joker in the Discard.

There is a great deal of speculation at present as to what way the labor vote will go at the coming by-election. Among the labor men themselves the coming election forms a favorite topic, but the opinions expressed seem to indicate that there will be nothing like a united labor vote. A prominent labor man was heard recently to say that no attempt would be made to persuade the unions to vote one way or the other, and that they could exercise freely their own judgment in their choice of candidates.

There is almost as much interest being taken in the fight between the two contestants for liberal nomination as in the election itself, and indications are that this evening's meeting at the York Theatre is going to be a most exciting one. Both Mr. O'Brien and Mr. McKeown are working hard for the nomination, and so far as can be learned each is confident of success. Mr. O'Brien is depending chiefly on his own nomination. He says: 'Harry was joking, was he? Well, he may find that in the game of politics when the cards are shuffled and the hands passed around, the joker, not being required in the play, is often discarded.'

About the streets Mr. McKeown's change of mind caused much comment. A gentleman closely connected with the leading liberals said yesterday in referring to the subject, 'With no disrespect to Mr. McKeown, I must say that his conduct has been thoroughly characteristic. Do you remember the other time?' 'Other time?' replied a listener, 'do you remember all the other times?'

Even better were the words of another liberal, a staunch friend of Mr. O'Brien's, who is rather annoyed that Mr. McKeown should step in after declaring that he would not accept nomination. He says: 'Harry was joking, was he? Well, he may find that in the game of politics when the cards are shuffled and the hands passed around, the joker, not being required in the play, is often discarded.'

This afternoon Mr. McKeown's friends are openly and confidently proclaiming that Mr. O'Brien will withdraw and that his name will not come before the convention tonight.

Says Richard to Harrison A. 'I'm in this fight for to stay.' 'Say, come now,' says Harry, 'Dye mean that, or—marry—' 'Dye speak in a jocular way?'

A SUFFERER'S RELEASE.

Death of Miss Alice Fawcett After Ten Years' Illness. Miss Alice Fawcett, of Little Allie, as she was affectionately called by numerous friends in the city, died at the Home for Incurables at half past four o'clock this morning, after a most painful illness of almost ten years. Her death has come as a happy release from increasing suffering, and those who knew her intimately, while feeling the sadness of the incident, cannot but feel glad that she is now freed from pain. Miss Fawcett was an adopted daughter of Mrs. Enoch S. Ritchie, of Queen Street, and during Mrs. Ritchie's absence from the city she has been cared for by Mrs. George S. Nixon, Jr. She was twenty years of age, and had been ill for almost ten years. For the past two years she has been an inmate of the Home for Incurables and has won many friends. A few weeks ago she was quite ill, but seemed to rally, and during the next few days, when complications set in, regaining this morning in death. Her funeral will be held from the Home tomorrow afternoon.

MORNING NEWS.

There was some talk of changes in the water system, one improvement being a 24-inch main from Spruce Lake, over the Suspension bridge, to the Strait Shore road. This would cost $25,000. North End parties complained that they had been without water during the cold spell began. No action was taken.

Permits will be issued to responsible parties to cut ice on Spruce Lake for a license of $20.

Mr. Murdoch submitted estimates for sewerage maintenance for the present year. The board will recommend an assessment of $9,000.
