A GOOD DAY'S SPORT.

Some of the local horsemen are arranging for a good day's sport to take place at Moospath Park on Saturday, August 12th, when two or more races will be held. All the horses that will start will be owned by local people and several will be driven by themselves. Money prizes will not be offered but there will be suitable prizes in the way of blankets or harness. The trotters and pacers will be classed by themselves and every man that has a horse with a burst of speed will be invited to enter his "nag." These races promise to be the most interesting held here this year.

There was quite a mix-up this morning on the ferry boats, about half-past ten o'clock, when a team loaded with lumber, the wagon of the Union Ice team and sloop of the A. C. Smith & Co. were entangled. The horses on the last named team had a narrow escape from injury.

CZAR WON'T CONSENT TO JAPAN'S PEACE TERMS.

Won't Cede Sakhalin Nor Pay Indemnity---Witte
Expects Negotiations to End at Once---
Russian Army's Retreat Cut Off.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—A staff correspondent of the Herald on board the steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse sends his paper the following dispatch by wireless telegraph:—"Mr. Witte, the Russian envoy, said Tuesday night: 'I am afraid the negotiation will be ended within a week, as the Japanese conditions will be so intolerable as not to admit of discussion.'"

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Speaking of the Russian imperial telegram appearing in yesterday's official Messenger, in which the czar, replying to an address from Khabarovsk expressed his hearty appreciation of the recommendation to continue the war till the enemy is crushed and, above all, not to think of the cession of territory or the payment of an indemnity, the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Times says: "The personal character of the Russian monarch precludes the faintest suggestion of bluff and the repeated asseveration of the czar's warlike mood directly after the interview with the German emperor at Bjorndoe compels attention. The inspired Russ declares that M. Witte has been instructed by the czar as to what conditions are impossible of accepting. It is easy to see from the czar's telegram to Khabarovsk what these conditions are."

The Russ adds that if the Japanese make any such demands M. Witte will break the negotiation by wireless telegraph. All this tends to reduce the chances of peace. Already the conviction is growing that peace cannot be concluded by the present government because it does not feel sufficiently supported by the nation to accept conditions involving the cession of territory, or the payment of an indemnity. Yet it is well realized that Japan cannot terminate the struggle without one of both.

The department of posts issues an official notification of the closing of all offices in Sakhalin. The island is lost forever. It is also recognized that the possession of Sakhalin places the whole Amur region under Japanese influence, but the present government refuses to admit the logic of events and will probably leave this unpleasant duty to the future Russian parliament.

RUSSIANS CUT OFF.

SEOUL, Aug. 2.—The worst rain in 30 years has occurred and the Tumen river is flooded. The Russians who have been holding semi-permanent works south of the river have been cut off from Vladivostok and are unable to retreat.

M. WITTE HAS ARRIVED.

On board Steamship Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, via wireless telegraph station at Salsneset, Mass., Aug. 2.—At 10 o'clock the Russian envoy, M. Witte, arrived at Portsmouth, N. H., in perfect health.

Speaking of his approaching arrival in America, Mr. Witte said: "I am happy to visit America which country I am most anxious to see. My only regret is that I cannot speak English, as should like thoroughly to appreciate the country whose progress and development are so interesting and instructive."

I shall also be glad to have personal intercourse with President Roosevelt who has reached such a prominent position as a statesman and to present him the greetings of Emperor Nicholas.

"It has been stated that I am to pave the ground for floating a Russian loan in America and discuss the relations between the two countries especially regarding commercial affairs."

TWO GREAT AMERICAN RAILROADS TIED UP BY TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE.

HELENA, Mont., Aug. 2.—Despatches from Montana points indicate that the general strike order issued last night was generally obeyed by the telegraphers on the Northern Pacific and Great Northern. In this city, which is a relay point, sixteen operators, including two wire chiefs and two operators in the yard cut work upon receiving the signal from President Farham.

All operators on the Montana Central except despatchers, about fifty all together went out, and the entire Rocky Mountain division of the Northern Pacific is reported to be tied up by the strike.

BRIEF DESPATCHES.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Steamer Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, from Bremen, Southampton and Cherbourg for New York, in communication by wireless telegraph with Salsneset, Mass., mid-night; vessel 80 miles east Nantucket lightship.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The reported engagement of Miss Gladys Deacon and James H. Hyde was given authoritative denial today by a member of Miss Deacon's family.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 1.—Rear Admiral Bronson's flagship, the new cruiser West Virginia, will sail from port tomorrow for her final acceptance trial.

OUTRAGE ON A GIRL IN THE WEST

EDMONTON, N. W. T., Aug. 1.—A villainous outrage is reported from Strathcona. About 4 a. m. Joseph Tuck, proprietor of the Ontario boarding house, heard frenzied screams and sounds of people running down the back stairs. He rushed out of his room and found his sister-in-law in the yard in a great state of excitement. The woman had been sleeping with his daughter, and implored him to see after the latter. Rushing back upstairs he found his daughter lying in a vacant room unconscious. The girl had been drugged and taken from her own room by parties whose identity has not yet been discovered.

LONGSHORE STRIKE AND FATAL RIOTS.

One Killed and Four Mortally Injured.

Demand for 25 Cents an Hour in Porto Rico Results in Battle Between Police and Strikers.

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, Aug. 2.—One dead, four so seriously injured that they may die and nearly forty more in hospital is the result of a riot last night growing out of the longshoremen's strike for an increase of wages to 25 cents an hour which has been in progress for a month. For more than two hours the greater proportion of San Juan was under the control of a mob numbering about a thousand digging up paving blocks and stones and throwing them at the rioters in the main streets, with the result that nearly the entire city was in total darkness all night.

At 8 o'clock the mob sought refuge in a disreputable district which had been unprotected. A cordon of police was thrown around the place, however, and held the rioters in check for the remainder of the night. From midnight the police, numbering only 100, had the situation under control. Reinforcements were expected today.

WEALTHY NEW YORKER KILLED IN HIS PORCH.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—James H. Cleary, a wealthy real estate dealer in High Bridge was found dead in the vestibule of his home by his wife yesterday afternoon. His friends believe he was the victim of foul play, according to the Tribune.

Mrs. Cleary happened to be going out and found her husband's body lying against the wall of the vestibule. She summoned her friends and after a lengthy consultation the police were called. High Bridge station were informed.

An examination of the body showed that a finger of the left hand on which Cleary had worn a large diamond ring was badly bruised as if attempts had been made to remove the ring. The stone of the ring was missing and the police thought it had been pried from the setting.

Coroner Berry ordered a physician to examine the body, and he reported that Cleary died of a heart trouble.

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 2.—Since his arrival at the Danish court, Emperor William appears to have become convinced that there is no hope of a prince of the House of Bernadotte becoming King of Norway. Of course I prefer a monarchy and therefore shall hereafter support the candidacy of Prince Charles."

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN, Aug. 2.—A coalition ministry, without a prince of the House of Bernadotte becoming King of Norway. ST. JOHN WON BOTH RACES AT SYDNEY.

But Judges Awarded Prize to Sydney Four-Oared Crew---
Coates Won the Singles.

(Special to the Star.)

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 2.—The result of today's single scull and four-oared races was most unsatisfactory. The judges' decisions do not accord with the opinion of those who followed the races closely and saw the finish from a favorable standpoint.

The start in the singles was poor, the report being fully two seconds behind the first pull of the trigger. Coates and Duggan got away with fairly good start, but Coates was fully a length behind in clearing the line. The starting line was between the judge's boat and a flag, but while the race was being run the boat drifted off the line, with result that it made a different finish from the start.

Coates was the first to cross, being about three-quarters of a length in the lead. His time was 9:17.3-5.

Those who were standing on the line state, however, that Duggan was first to finish, and about half a length ahead of his companion.

Coates was away behind some six or seven lengths.

In the four-oared race, in which only the Carletons and the North Stars started, the North Stars could not find their buoy, it having been knocked down by a boat. They then turned number two buoy and finished five lengths behind the Carletons. The judges decided that the North Stars having suffered because of the buoy being misplaced, the race should be run over again. The North Stars protested immediately upon finishing.

The Carleton crew, however, refused to row, claiming that they went over the course round their own buoy and finished first, and that if the North Stars' buoy was out of place, or not there, it was no fault of theirs; the committee should have seen to that. They refusing to row, the judges gave the race to the North Stars.

The decision was unpopular. North Stars were perfectly willing to row over again, but the Carletons absolute refused to do so.

There were three warships lying in the course which was three-quarters of a mile long and it was also strewn with considerable wreckage that had floated off shore during the night.

The water was quite smooth and the weather conditions favorable. It would appear as if the races were very poorly managed.

TWO SERIOUS COLLISIONS REPORTED AT SEA.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Two collisions at sea were reported by the steamship Minneapolis which arrived today from London. The first mishap occurred in a perilous trap made by another liner, a tramp ship and a fishing smack on July 22, in the English Channel. Her commander, Capt. Gales, said that his steamer was wedged so tightly in that her only choice was for either ship to be run down. He chose the fishing smack as the least dangerous and struck this boat a glancing blow which carried away parts of her rigging but no other serious damage. Two days later Capt. Gales believes the Minneapolis ran over a fragment of a submerged wreck. Early on Monday morning, while the passengers were asleep the steamer shivered as from a shock against her hull and one blade of the propeller snapped off. Passengers were awakened and ran on deck in alarm as the steamer came to a stop. After a short delay the Minneapolis proceeded on her way.

HITCH IN SILVER DEPORTATION PLAN

The Canadian Bankers' Association in a circular addressed to all the Canadian banks states that owing to a misunderstanding as to the terms of the arrangement made with the department of finance in connection with the exportation by the banks of American silver, further action in the matter had been postponed.

An official of a local bank stated to The Herald that it might now be some little time before a satisfactory arrangement was completed.

E. S. Clouston of the Bank of Montreal, B. E. Walker of the Bank of Commerce, D. R. Willie of the Dominion Bank, and John Knight of the Bankers' Association, were the committee that conferred with the officials of the finance department—Montreal Herald.

WOMEN GAMBLERS AND THEIR PLAYS.

Well Gwynne One of the Most Noted of Her Sex.

Absence of Many of the Attributes Possessed by Their Brethren Responsible for Victories.

From time to time throughout the world gambling among women has flourished and declined. Just at this time it is flourishing. But it is the mania for growing strong in the women of today it is simply the revival of an old passion, for in every age women have been addicted to that form of vice which caused the loss of money, happiness, substance, health, and in many instances, honor. The pages of history tell, over and over again, the story of great women gamblers. France has furnished the greatest number of these, but England has not been far behind, while America has put forth many whose fame has become international, says the Liverpool Mercury.

There seems to be something in the blood of French women that makes them gamblers of a high order. Mme. de Montespan won so much at basse, her favorite game, that Louis XIV. was delighted, and borrowed some of her winnings. But she lost a great deal at times, and her play grew so furious that in 1683 Louis abolished the game. It is recorded of Madame that she one night while the King looked on at the play, risked a sum equal to $40,000 on a single card, and that the King grumbled when no one could be found to cover the bet. But Madame also lost, one New Year's night, 700,000 crowns at hoc, and on another night almost $200,000 at the same game.

Mme. du Barry was the most famous woman gambler of the time of Louis XV., but with her it was only a pastime. But that other favorite, Mme. de Pompadour, went in with the sole object of winning if she could. To be sure, she was not a gambler, but she recorded that her winnings were enormous, and that in a single night she eased the pockets of the King of 15,000 louis d'or.

Queen Marie Antoinette, according to history, was a gambler who liked to be surrounded by gamblers. Faro was the popular game, but the stakes got to be so great that many a nobleman had his entire estates wiped out in a single night. Scandal rose high and the game was forbidden. Nevertheless, in a short time it was being carried on again, not only in the apartments of the Queen, but at the house of the Princess de Lamballe. At first the Queen and those who desired to play with her went to the apartments of Madame de Guemene, whose house is credited with having been the scene of the highest continued play of any in France. But matters got so bad before the end came that noblemen would no longer play with the Queen, and she admitted to her that she was a gambler. Then the scandal broke in full force, for some were caught cheating, and one was even arrested for picking a pocket.

Possibly the most famous woman gambler of English history was Nell Gwynne, the actress, who was known as a favorite with Charles II. In that reign the manners were much the same as they were at the French court. Nell Gwynne lost $10,000 to her rival, the Duchess of Cleveland, and in one year lost upward of $60,000, which the King paid. There had never been known so much gambling among women as was carried on in that reign. After the Duchess of Mazarin, niece of the Cardinal, had lost $1,000,000 she died in absolute want.

The acknowledged queen of American women gamblers was Lonna Paquita, who was born in Texas fifty years ago, but early went to Mexico to rule over outlaws and cowboys. The little Lonna was scarcely twelve years of age when she fell in with an old time gambler, named Quileator, who taught her every trick known to the gambler's art. She made her first appearance in Paso del Norte. She was only a child, and the rough gamblers laughed at her. But they soon found that they were no match for her, and that even her teacher, Quileator, was a tenderfoot compared with the child. With the passing years Lonna Paquita grew to be a beautiful woman. Her hair was as black as night, she had eyes that confounded those of the gamblers who played with her and a voice as sweet and silvery as a bell. She was as handsome a woman as one could wish to see, but with heart of ice and nerves of iron. Her small white hands could manipulate the cards with a skill that defied the watchfulness of the keenest gambler.

There were many people who thought it was merely luck that followed her, but the luck kept up too long, and the gamblers who knew a few tricks themselves understood that it was "art." Still, no one was ever known to catch her cheating. Before she was twenty Lonna Paquita was in New Mexico leading a gang of the worst characters of the Southwest.

Her death occurred in 1875, and was tragic. Some lawless acts had been committed by a body of "greasers," and search was made for them. Lonna Paquita was found to be their leader, and was caught. She only laughed when she was taken, and proposed that a game of cards should be played to see whether she should go free or kill herself. This was agreed to, and one of the party, a gambler known to the country around, was selected. The woman lost. Those who looked on had scarcely time to understand when Lonna Paquita drew a knife from her belt and plunged it into her heart.

The women of today, although they doubtless gamble as heavily as in other times, incline more to speculation in stocks. The new woman will go on gambling, but appearances show that she cares a great deal more for the money there is in it than she does for the notoriety of being a gambler.

"TAKE ROCKEFELLER'S MONEY?" YES, BY ALL MEANS."

Dr. Stephenson Has No Fear of Tainted Money—Interesting Meeting of School of Missions.

In Centenary church at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the second session of the school of missions opened with a good attendance. Rev. C. W. Hamilton in the chair.

Prof. Riddell had been on the programme for an address on the Northwest, but as several requests had come in from people who were unable to attend the afternoon session, for the address to be postponed till the evening. Prof. Riddell substituted for it a lecture on Bible Study. Bibles were placed in the hands of the audience, who were called on individually to read certain passages. Then Professor Riddell offered explanations.

Dr. Stephenson next gave a very instructive address on Missions. He stated that he first discussed what was to be included in the term missionary literature. To begin with, the term missionary literature, the definition which he liked best was that of a great writer, "The literature of an age is the mirror of its prevalent tendencies." For his own purposes, he divided literature into two kinds, missionary literature and mercenary literature. The first included all the writings that had for their object the furtherance of the kingdom of God, and the second all those which were written to make money.

Dr. Stephenson said he had been asked if he would accept for the mission work money from such men as Rockefeller. His reply was, "Yes, by all means." He could easily convert the money, much more easily perhaps than the giver. It was converted the moment it was turned into proper channels.

Dr. Stephenson then produced in turn a number of the most valuable contributions to the missionary literature of the age. Among the books shown by the doctor was one written by Dr. Hart on Methodism in Canada. Another was entitled "On the Banks of the Bazar," and last a small booklet by Dr. Henderson.

The chairman then called on Rev. E. C. Hennigar, B. D., who spoke on the Opportunity for Missionary Work in Japan. There was now a new give his most ardent devotion to its growth and development.

Dr. Henderson was next called and took up the question of Who Ought to go into Missions? The speaker thought that as Christianity spread hard times be appointed to give his school room of the church was taxed to its utmost capacity.

NEW WHARF PLANS.

Another Committee Appointed to Look Into Them—Ald. Christie Says Work Can't be Done This Year.

At a meeting of the Board of Works yesterday afternoon it was decided to call for tenders for 200 feet of stone pavement to be laid on Water Street. Ald. Macrae moved a storage charge of 5 cents per ton of coal for every five days and fraction thereof be fixed for storage in city warehouses, the wharf storage charge to be 1 cent as before.

The motion carried.

The question of plans for the proposed new wharf at Sand Point was discussed at some length. Ald. Christie did not consider that a new wharf could be built for use this coming season. Other aldermen thought it could, at least they did not favor any delay.

After some discussion Ald. Macrae moved that a committee be appointed to prepare a report on the charges and tolls to be levied at the west side, and to submit this to the Council.

The same committee will report to the Council. The committee consists of Ald. Macrae, Baxter, Bullock, Tilley, Hooper, Pickett, and the director, harbor master and engineer.

The St. John Railway Co. asked permission to place a siding at the foot of the Indian street and one opposite the Victoria Rink.—Referred to the director's recommendation.

The chairman thought the city gardener, Mr. Beattie, should have his pay increased. It was decided to make his pay $170 per day on the director's recommendation.

It was decided to recommend that the city buy a boiler and engine for the hoisting screw from the Union Foundry at $1,065, the machinery to be delivered within a time to be determined by Ald. Baxter, Bullock and the director.

LOCH LOMOND WORK LAGGING.

At today's session of the water and sewerage board the difficulties of the Loch Lomond extension will be presented by the engineers, and a lively discussion is expected to ensue.

The concrete aqueduct on No. 2 section is all behindhand. The engineers are of opinion that the equipment owned by the contractors is not what it should be, and that something must be done all along the line to make progress satisfactory, or some definite action will be taken by the water board.

MURDERER CAPTURED.

Charles Tiedman, Who Shot His Wife in Chester, Mass., Yesterday Caught After Long Chase.

CHESTER, Mass., Aug. 1.—Fleeing from his father-in-law's home, where his wife lay dead with a bullet wound in the head, Charles Tiedman, a brakeman, was overtaken late this afternoon about three miles from the scene of the crime, and nine hours after the shooting, by a posse of determined officers and citizens. He was brought back, locked up in the town jail, and tomorrow probably will be arraigned on a charge of wife murder.

Tiedman fled to the woods in the direction of Hamilton, but so quickly did the news spread about the town that within an hour a body of citizens, headed by Deputy Sheriff Alford, had started in pursuit.

The trail led through the woods and over the hills in the direction of Chester Centre, and when the posse arrived there about 1 o'clock it was learned that Tiedman was about two hours ahead.

Just before reaching Chester Centre, Tiedman was overtaken by another posse of four armed men, one of them the uncle of the murdered woman, but he easily held them at bay with his revolver. He then disappeared into the woods.

At 2 o'clock Sheriff Alford's little army plunged into the woods, determined to find the man. Word was sent to Huntington and Pittsfield, and another body started for the scene in the opposite direction. By 4 o'clock it was felt that the fugitive was nearly surrounded, and an hour later a little party which was cautiously making its way down the Huntington road was suddenly brought to a standstill by the appearance of "Tiedman" from the woods. Those who were armed covered him with their revolvers. Walking up to Dr. O. J. Shephard, the leader of the party, Tiedman handed him his revolver, a .38-calibre weapon, saying, "I guess you've got me."

He was pinned and taken back to Chester. During his nine hour flight Tiedman had covered only three miles. Tiedman will probably be taken to the district court at Westfield.

WON A FIGHT AT LAST.

Sandy Ferguson Has Finally Found a Person He Can Beat—It Is His Wife.

GLOUCESTER, July 31.—The domestic troubles of Sandy Ferguson, the pugilist, continue to engross the attention of the lower section of the city. Prior to his recent fight with Jack Johnson, Sandy has been seen little in Gloucester for the past year, although his wife and two babies reside here.

Last Sunday Sandy came to town and rejoined his family, and there were outward and visible evidences of his prosperity. He took his family "buggy" riding and for the first time in his married life resolved to set up housekeeping for himself.

So he and his wife, who before her marriage was Alice Mason of Duncan street, this town, set out house-hunting. They found a desirable place on Hancock street and four days ago set up their household goods in the tenement.

But his dream of marital bliss was too beautiful to last long. Tonight Mrs. Ferguson came to the police station. One eye was black. She said Sandy whipped her and gave her the black eye. She could stand it no longer, she said, and taking the infant in her arms she had come to the police station, where she asked that a policeman go to the house and secure her other child and her trunk.

Capt. Mehlman detailed a policeman who went with her to the house. They found the door locked, but later Sandy was discovered on the street. He willingly opened the door and the policeman secured by his mother. Sandy said his wife could take her trunk in the morning.

Mrs. Ferguson says she will return to her mother's house on Duncan street.

MONTREAL STRIKERS VIOLENT.

MONTREAL, Aug. 1.—A large body of striking carpenters this afternoon made a hostile demonstration against the city police. The strikers, who were armed with clubs and stones, were met by a large force of police. The strikers threatened to assume serious proportions and the police were forced to use force. A number of arrests were made.

PLEADING FOR MERCY.

Englishman Tortured by Chicago Sluggers and Then Given His Freedom.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Apparent evidence that a foreigner might be in danger of being tortured by Chicago sluggers, led to the case of an Englishman who was taken to the city jail and then given his freedom.

The man, who was identified as William H. Wilder, was formerly an army officer and at the time of the recent demonstration in the city he was a member of the Chicago packing express company. He disappeared July 6, was held a captive for three weeks and was then set at liberty, half starved and so dazed that he has not been able to give a coherent account of his captivity. He was found by a friend wandering aimlessly about near the Union station at Canal and Adams streets, and was taken to his home at Downey's grove. Physicians pronounce his physical and mental condition such that he may not recover. Much of the time he raves wildly and as though still under torture, begs for mercy. Marks all over his body show that he has been bound with heavy cords. Over a hundred dollars he is known to have had on his person is gone.

Wilder is an Englishman who saw service the American army in Cuba and the Philippines and held a commission as a second lieutenant in the regular army. He is a blond, outspoken man of 37, who gloried in his physical ability to take care of himself, and defied pickets or sluggers to intimidate him.

THE D. A. LINER PRINCE

GEORGE WAS NOT ASHORE

BOSTON, Aug. 1.—Statements made by Captain McKinnon and other officers of the Dominion Atlantic Line steamer Prince George indicate that a report that the steamer's striking a bar in Boston harbor in a fog Sunday was incorrect. Captain McKinnon says that the steamer at no time was in danger of touching bottom. The ship was stopped near the entrance to the harbor until the fog lifted enough for the officers to pick up the usual course marks.

YELLOW FEVER STILL SPREADING.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 1.—Following is the yellow fever record up to six o'clock tonight:

New cases, 42.
Total cases to date, 345.
Deaths today, 6.
Total deaths to date, 52.
New foci, 4.
Total foci to date, 50.

The day's record shows a continued improvement so far as the number of new foci is concerned, and with no secondary infection from any of the reported cases, the general situation is regarded as hopeful.

The large number of new cases, the largest yet reported in a single day, shows that the tertiary infection among the panic-stricken people in the original district is appearing, which is to be expected. One of the new cases is in Jackson avenue, in the residence district, and the victim has returned recently to the city from his summer home on the coast.

TOURISTS DEFENDED.

St. John, N. B., Aug. 1.

Dear Sir,—My attention was called to a paragraph appearing in last night's issue of the Star, giving the views of a cab man regarding the generosity of tourists. In fairness to the hotel managers of this city and also in fairness to the visiting strangers we must flatly deny the statement. So far this season I have been very much impressed with the fact that most or nearly all of the strangers who have visited this office are of the very nicest class of tourists and I have not heard of one of them speak of high charges, and each and all are willing to pay our prices for every article and service, without question.

I have spoken to several dealers in souvenirs and they are satisfied with the purchases of strangers, while the hotel people also say they have no complaint and are rather impressed with the open-handedness of our visitors.

Trusting you will find space to publish my line and thanking you in advance, I am,

Yours very truly,
MARGARET OLIVE,
Secretary N. B. Tourist Assoc.

GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR WHEAT HARVEST.

WINNIPEG, Aug. 1.—Within a few days harvesting will be general all over the Canadian Northwest. Already the Alberta farmers are busy sowing the winter wheat, and without exception this new crop has proved a great success. Five years ago there was practically no fall wheat sown, but during the past two years it has proved such a great success that this grain will become almost the sole crop of the newly formed province.

The crop this year will be a record in every way. From all quarters are coming brilliant reports such as have never been received before, and it is the consequence of opinion that the wheat yield for this year will be near 100 millions of bushels.

At the present time everyone is watching the growing grain, for on it hangs the prosperity of "the last west." However, the conditions are such as to warrant the implement dealers going in more machinery and everywhere preparations are going on for the harvest. Thirty thousand men will be engaged in addition to those already employed on farms, but the Canadian Pacific railway will assist in this by running their regular passenger trains for the harvest, and it is expected that a large number of farm hands will come up from the States as soon as the work commences.

CONCERT HEARTILY ENJOYED.

That St. John is not dead from a theatrical standpoint, even in mid-summer, was shown last night by the packed house which greeted the Misses Furlong in their musical evening at the York Theatre. The ladies and gentlemen who took part last night were as follows: Margaret White, pianist; Marie Furlong, vocalist; Elizabeth White, cellist; Helen Furlong, violinist; Elizabeth Furlong, banjoist; G. Fennell Furlong, baritone; and Master Eric Titus, soprano. Nearly every number was accorded hearty applause and the artists were called upon to give a large number of encores.

The programme was divided into two parts with a slight intermission between them. Part second was in a lighter vein than part first and this part it was that met with the greatest approval. The selections from the English opera "The School Girl," rendered by the trio, the violin, "cello and piano were very catchy, while "My Little Canoe," which Miss Marie Furlong sang with suitable gestures was undoubtedly the hit of the evening. The banjo melody of Miss Elizabeth Furlong also met with a splendid reception. The rustic melody which concluded the programme proved a great surprise to the audience and was the cause of much merriment. The audience left delighted with the evening's entertainment.

FORESTERS IN CONVENTION.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 1.—The supreme court, Indiana Order of Foresters, today selected Toronto, Ont., as the next place of meeting four years hence. The salary of the supreme chief ranger was increased to $15,000 per year, and the treasurer's salary to $6,000. Among the officers elected were:

Supreme chief ranger, Dr. Cronhyatoka, Toronto.

Supreme secretary, John A. McMillan, Toronto.

Supreme treasurer, H. Collins, Toronto.

Supreme physician, Dr. Thomas Millman, Toronto.

Supreme councillor, Elliott G. Stevenson, Michigan.

Previous to the business session a reception was tendered Dr. Cronhyatoka and the members of the supreme council at the Hotel Rudolf. Dr. Cronhyatoka, who 35 years ago was chief of a tribe of Mohawk Indians, gave a stirring address to the Foresters, in which he said that the movement he started for sending young Foresters to Canada, of which country he spoke in glowing terms.

The sessions of the Foresters will last until Saturday. Thursday a big reception and ball will be held at the Hotel Rudolf.

A PLEASANT CANOEING TRIP.

A canoeing party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jardine, Mrs. L. C. Brown, and daughter, the Misses L. C. Brown, Miss Jardine, Miss Gandy, Misses Frank Allison, Chester and Dean Gandy and F. K. Brown, have just returned to the city after a very pleasant canoeing trip. The party consisted of about two hundred miles of the river and its tributaries. The party carried their own tents and cooking utensils and had a most enjoyable outing.

They left Rousesay and portaged to Kingston Creek, following the main river up to the Wahsamedo, where they paddled into several of the numerous tributaries. Then the journey was continued and the Cronoeto explored. On the return trip a number of the streams on the southwestern side of the river were visited.

"WHEN WOMEN LOVE."

When the public, through the box office vote that a play is a hit, it puts the pessimist out of business, no matter what is said to the contrary. "When Women Love" is one of the plays that has caught the public by storm. Everywhere the same reports are heard—"a great show"—so it is. Wall street, comedy, sensation, combined with an excellent cast and an unusually strong theme for a plot, make it so. It was built to please the masses and is therefore termed "a box office winner." "When Women Love" will be presented at the Opera House on Aug. 7th, and indications point to a big success.

BURNT OFFERING AND SACRIFICE.

A LITERARY DISTINCTION.

UNCLE SAM'S HOSPITALITY.

(Boston Herald.)
The United States is evidently going to entertain the peace plenipotentiaries from Japan and Russia in a cordial and elegant manner, devoid of ostentation, and yet complete, as a gentleman who entertained another who came from afar to meet him on an important mission. The gunboat Mayflower, which is a converted yacht, bought by the government at the time of the Spanish war, has just been refitted, and the plenipotentiaries will find it as comfortable and finely appointed a craft as they have ever had occasion to use. The ship has just come out of the Brooklyn navy yard, and the pictures of the dining room and other apartments look more like the magnificent rooms of a modern hotel than they do like accommodations on board ship. The yacht originally cost $1,000,000, and since the purchase by the government she has been dressed up by Uncle Sam at a cost of about $600,000.

As a special mark of favor, Com-

LOST—Will the party who took a purse belonging to another person from Charlton's Departmental Store (the young Scotchman) and walked out of the hall, at the door one of his countrymen was waiting with his back to drive the orator to the station.

"Is he done yet, Sandy?" asked the Scot on the box.

"Aye," said he, "he's done long ago, but he will not stop."

SEA GULL SURPRISES CIGARETTE SMOKER.

While a number of people were recently watching the antics of the sea-gulls, which rise continually to the parapet of London Bridge, in search of food which several of the spectators were throwing to them, one gentleman gave a large bar of sprats to the gulls, who eagerly took the fish from his fingers one at a time. Standing close by was another spectator, who held an unlighted cigarette to his lips. Judge of the latter's surprise when one daring bird, finding no sprat awaiting him, suddenly swooped down on the cigarette and deftly removed it from the owner's mouth. The seagull evidently knew that the smoker was using a sweet Caporal cigarette, which, according to the Lancet, is "the purest form in which tobacco can be smoked."

OVER THE LIMIT.

(Boston Herald.)
—Chaplain E. A. Horton, of the Massachusetts Legislature, told a story about a long-winded member of that body. The legislator was delivering a political address in a town not far from Boston, and the village folk gathered in the town hall to hear it.

"He had been speaking quite a while," said Dr. Horton, "when finally an old Scotchman arose and walked out of the hall. At the door one of his countrymen was waiting with his back to drive the orator to the station."

"Is he done yet, Sandy?" asked the Scot on the box.

"Aye," said he, "he's done long ago, but he will not stop."

ST. JOHN STAR.

ST. JOHN, N. B., AUGUST 2, 1905.

WAR AND THE CHURCH.

Is a tablet in memory of soldiers killed in battle a fitting adornment for the walls of a church? Should the house of the Prince of Peace contain anything that tends to glorify war, to make the worshippers there think of warfare as other than a terrible thing, a thing that should be utterly abhorrent to any follower of Him who said "Love your enemies?" These questions which have been vexing the people of Exmouth Street Methodist Church are not new at all; they are as old as Christianity. For twenty centuries Christians have been trying to reconcile the teachings of their religion with their human desires and are not much nearer the solution than when they started.

Certainly the awful cruelty of war is wholly at variance with the teachings of the New Testament; and it should be the duty of every man who rules his life by that book to do everything in his power to hasten the day when war with its murder and torture and devastation shall be no more. And the only way to hasten that day is to spread the realization of war's horrors, to exhibit it, especially to the young, in its naked brutality instead of dressed in gaudy and glittering trappings which blind the eye to the horrid evil things beneath.

If the people whose clamor makes war, knew as much of it as thoughtful warriors do, there would be a speedy end to it. "This plague to mankind," Washington called it. General Sherman, who saw enough of war to know, said "The glory is all moonshine. It is only those who have never heard a shot nor heard the shrieks and groans of the wounded who cry aloud for more blood, more vengeance, more desolation—War is Hell."

And yet—there are worse things than war as there are worse things than death and physical suffering—the people should not be emasculated. So long as some great nations persist in wearing weapons others must not forget their use.

Manslaughter was once an honorable and dignified pastime under certain codified restrictions, and a successful killer of men in tourney and duel was admired and decorated. Today it is just plain manslaughter or murder and the slayer risks public condemnation and the most severe punishment known to the law. Yet to save his own life or that of a friend from unprovoked assault or to save his wife or sister from worse than death, what man—however abhorrent to him the shedding of blood—would not strike if necessary a fatal blow?

That is the sentiment that should exist with regard to war—an evil, a horrible, ghastly thing without a redeeming feature, to be avoided as any other plague but to be faced heroically like any other plague when avoidance is no longer compatible with the life of one's country and its honor. If that were the popular conception of war it would not be long before the battle-flags of every civilized nation would be furled forever.

And there could then be no more fitting decoration for churches than these flags.

ENVY AND ACCUSATION.

The envy of the Star's lagging contemporaries has recently taken the form of reflections on the authenticity of news secured exclusively by this paper.

For instance, there was a report in the Star the other day of a rather excited quarrel, purely vocal, at that day's session of the African Methodist Episcopal conference. None of the other papers had a reporter at the meeting and all missed the incident. So their columns the next day contained assertions that the story was without foundation. As a matter of fact the Star described exactly what one of its own reporters saw and heard and delegates whom other papers credited with denials of the report, tried to prevent its publication in this paper, not because it was incorrect but because they thought the incident not creditable to the conference.

Other instances where items published in the Star have been contradicted in other papers have been further investigated and in nearly every case were verified in detail. The Star's reporters are careful and reliable; but they are human and may occasionally make mistakes. When they do this paper will cheerfully correct the error.

A REBUKE FOR HALIFAX.

Another rebuke for Halifax papers comes from the new member of the commission which is to construct the eastern section of the G. T. P. He says, with reference to the discussion concerning valley and central routes, that "there is entirely too much sectional feeling stirred by the newspapers of both Halifax and St. John. The question should be looked at from the standpoint of which route is for the general good of Canada."

That's a cold touch for Halifax. For of course that little remark about St.

John papers was only intended as a palliative, as the journals which advocate the shortest and easiest route to tide water are certainly working for the general good of Canada.

IMPORTED AND EXPORTED OPINION.

Mr. Chamberlain's opponents are gathering daily misinformation to the effect that the Canadian people are not in favor of a mutual imperial preference. Similarly they are explaining to the Canadian people that the inhabitants of Great Britain will never consent to a tax on their food. One opinion is as good as the other. Meanwhile the British people have recently been paying taxes on wheat without seeming to resent it. They are now paying a tax of about one hundred per cent. on tea, and apparently the leaders of the free food party do not notice it.—Sun.

IN THE SUMMER BLOSSOMS DIM.

He only seems to be yonder—in the summer blossoms dim.
I see his bright face shinin', an' I'm wavin' my hand to him!
Come home from the misty meadows, where the bees in the red blossoms roam;
I am lost in the lonely shadows—
Come home! Come home! Come home!

Once, when my soul was dreaming, I left him there at play,
And the South-Wind whispered, "Follow!"—and the lilies led him away!
And they made him a couch of golden leaves, and daisies white as foam,
And the South-Wind sang him to sleep; and I am calling: "Come home! Come home!"

He only seems to be yonder, with the blossoms and the birds;
But I'm weary for his comin'—the thrill of his whispering.
O, South-Wind, cease to lead him where the breeze-blown blossoms roam!
O, Sunbeams, o'er his pathway flame, and light his footsteps home!
—Frank L. Stanton.

RIVER STEAMERS IN DANGER.

Water is Very Low and Wharf Approaches

Need to be Dredged—Government

Indifferent.

The St. John river is particularly low at present, and some of the larger steamers are experiencing considerable difficulty in negotiating their usual wharves. No attempt is being made by the government authorities to deepen the approaches to these wharves, and there is imminent danger of serious damage to the boats.

It is quite a common occurrence to find a steamer's propeller bumping on the bottom when making some of the mooring places, and if the machinery is not then and there disabled to a certain extent, it is loosened and laid open to a complete breakdown later. On Monday evening one steamer struck bottom more than once in places where there should be enough water to float a man-of-war.

Steamboatmen and river folks are highly indignant at the indifference of the government in this matter. Petition after petition has been sent to the proper officials asking that a dredge be sent along the river to deepen the wharf approaches, which are always quite shallow during the summer, but no response has yet been made to the largely signed request.

A well known steamer captain says that some of the boats may have to stop calling at certain important wharves if it is not remedied. This would be a serious matter, and would only add to the ire of the river public, which is already threatening direful things when next election day arrives.

JAIL DON'T AGREE WITH REILLY.

(Special to the Star.)

KINGSTON, Ont., Aug. 2.—A movement has been started for the release of Frank Reilly, confined in Belleville jail for his connection with the bogus ballot box case. The prevailing opinion among all classes is that Reilly has conducted his offense, and if he much longer remains in confinement, will never leave jail. Mr. Avery, M. P., has sanctioned his release being used, and the county council is also quite unanimous in signing the document. The petition is addressed to W. J. Paul, member of Addington.

LOCAL NEWS.

J. J. Anslow, editor and proprietor of the Hants Journal, is in the city.

Mr. Anslow has been enjoying his first vacation in two years, and has spent it on the North Shore. He did some visiting among old friends and a little business.

Frederickton is to follow the example of St. John in endeavoring to improve its assessment system. There has been complaint in that city for a long time, and the Council has finally taken action. At a meeting last evening the Council authorized the finance committee to select three citizens capable and willing to act as an assessment commissioner.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Royal Kennebec Yacht Club was held in the club room last evening. After the routine business had been transacted two new members, James L. McAvity and J. Jonsson, were elected. The reports showed the club to be in a prosperous condition. The committee appointed to deal with the extension to the old club house at Mill-Hill reported that the work was progressing satisfactorily and the addition will probably be finished by next month.

The quarterly meeting of the St. John Deacons was held yesterday at Walsford, most of the Church of England ministers from the city being in attendance. Service was conducted, after which the regular business was transacted. Several topics of interest were discussed, among which was the question of the new hymn books. The ministers were entertained by the rector, Rev. R. W. Colston.

Word has been received that the four new steel bridges which were built by the Montreal concern last year for the New Brunswick Southern Railway are now on their way to St. John. These bridges will be put in position as soon as they arrive.

Urish Belyea, a former letter carrier, is doing fine parties in a pretty romance culminating in a marriage. A few weeks ago while viewing Niagara Falls, his attention was attracted by a lady who had swooned and fell off the seat where she was sitting, to the rocks below. Mr. Belyea rushed to the rescue and they have gone to Washington on their honeymoon.

The Board of Fire Underwriters' new office at the corner of Church and Salisbury streets, in the building formerly occupied by the Gazette newspaper, is one of the finest of its kind in the city. In the front of the building there are two large plate glass windows and here is situated the secretary's office and in the rear the board room which is splendidly fitted out. The new rooms were occupied to-day.

E. F. Jones, a member of the golf club, was fined $20 yesterday in the police court, for assaulting a lad named Frank Curran, last Thursday afternoon. The trouble began in Mr. Jones ordering Curran off the grounds and as the latter was walking away, Mr. Jones gave him a little unnecessary help.

Neighboring neighbors gave another very pleasant evening at the Opera House last night, to quite a large crowd. It is not by any means a one man show, and individual comparisons would almost be invidious. Last evening a contest was staged, and the winners were proved himself a capable trick pianist.

WOMANLY BEAUTY.

The lectures of Dr. Christian, the Faculty and facial blemish specialist, no doubt will prove of interest to St. John women. The lectures are on scientific lines, the first being on Monday afternoon at the York Theatre at 2.30 o'clock and free to women. In his lecture he will give free to every woman his formula, which he claims will obliterate every kind of facial blemish and recreate, as it were, a new, young face with hair its natural color and a perfect form.

On the 6th day after going into the cupboard and carefully opening the tin-lined box, Mary found the bread moist and white and still fit for the table.

Why? It was made of Golden Eagle Flour.

NEWS OF SPORT.

Great Interest in the Next Game Between Portlands and St. Johns—Lowell Out of New England League.

BASEBALL

SATURDAY'S GAME.
The next game of the series for 1905 will be played on Saturday afternoon at the Portlands grounds on Saturday afternoon next, and it promises to be a very interesting contest. Beyond a doubt the capacity of the Portlands grounds will be taxed to accommodate the large crowd that will be in attendance, for by this time all who did not see last Saturday's game have learned what they missed, and they will be present next Saturday to see the second one. That all those who were present last Saturday will be back goes without saying. The double umpire system will again be used. Pete McAllister will handle the index, while Danny Connelly will care for the bases.

Both teams are confident of winning Saturday's game. If the St. Johns win, it means the championship of the city and the ownership of that $300 purse. This is sufficient incentive to them, and also to the Portlands, who will strive to save their chances for the money. Certainly next Saturday's game should be a "corner."

A DISTINCT NOVELTY.

Lady Baseballists to Play the St. Johns on Monday.

The only real novelty that has visited St. John this year will be the famous and original Stars, Champion Ladies' Baseball Club of the World, who are now en route on their annual tour, travelling in their own $10,000 special Pullman. This remarkable club, which is composed of the very best lady players, will play an interesting, exciting and scientific game of baseball with the St. Johns on the Victoria grounds on Monday next.

Miss Maud Nelson is the foremost player of the Stars, and is the champion lady pitcher of the world, and is supported by a club composed entirely of star lady players.

The Taunton team will play its first game at New Bedford on Thursday next and will continue in the Lowell schedule.

THE TURF.

NASHUA, N. H., Aug. 1.—The trotting on the local track today was postponed on account of rain. It is expected that the events scheduled for today will be run off tomorrow.

FAVORS TWELVE CLUB LEAGUE.
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Stanley Robinson, vice-president of the St. Louis National League club, has lined up with the club owners who have gone on record as favoring consolidation of the American and National leagues, and a return to the twelve club circuit.

His brother, Frank De Haas Robinson, president of the club, is another advocate of the twelve club idea.

"I favor consolidation, because there are not enough first class ball players to make sixteen evenly balanced teams," said Stanley Robinson today.

"A further reason is that with the exception of New York and Chicago there are no cities in the country that will support two major league teams. The game would pay better with only one club in New York, Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston and Chicago, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington and Brooklyn would fill the circuit with the addition of a club in either Buffalo or Louisville. Columbus would play in a major league now, I think, and it is conveniently situated.

"I don't know whether consolidation will come next winter or not, but by the winter of 1906 I think it surely will."

NOTES OF THE GAME.

The Giants established a new record for the season Saturday by registering nine consecutive victories. The number was augmented to ten Monday, when the Reds were beaten for the sixth time running by McGraw's men. Last year the Giants had a record of 18 straight, but McGraw does not anticipate any such showing on the trip west.

"Cleveland has been going a terrific clip," says Connie Mack, "a trifle above their natural pace, it seems to me. I look for them to come back to their field on the present eastern trip. They undoubtedly miss Larry. The Chicago look awful good to me. They seem able to get more men around on a smaller percentage of base hits than any other team in the league, and will, in my opinion, be in the hunt to the finish."

Hickman was not good enough for Detroit, but with Washington he has become a star. In five games with Cleveland he accepted 18 chances at second base without an error.

Edward Griffin, of the Little Rock team, was seriously injured in a train wreck at Oark (Ark.) on Saturday. Five other members of the team were hurt.

Ed Barry, pitcher for the Decatur, Ill. team of the Three I league, has been sold to the Boston American league club for $750.

Barry has won more games in proportion to the number he has pitched than any other pitcher in the league. He came from Freeport, and this is his first season in the league.

THE RING.

Harry Eddies, the Chelsea lightweight, will make his first appearance as a principal in a main bout at the Rhode Island A. C. in Thornton, R. I. Thursday night, when he will face George Ashley in the chief go of 15 rounds.

Eddies has performed very consistently and brilliantly, and since he first appeared as a preliminary boxer at the Douglas A. C. several months ago he has improved steadily, and was considered good enough to be given semi-final bouts at the Chelsea Club.

Since Eddies went under the managerial wing of Steve Mahoney he has shown remarkable ability. He has learned a great deal about the game from Mahoney and Jimmy Briggs, and his fine height and strength, together with his natural ability to box, will make him a tough proposition. Nearly all of his contests have been won by knockouts, but he has demonstrated clearly that he is a scientific lad, with a neat left hand, and he is not afraid to match his hitting powers with those of an opponent.

In George Ashley, the latest Chelsea discovery will go against a seasoned boxer, who has had a great deal of experience, and a youth who has always taken the best of care of himself. Ashley gave promise a couple of years ago of becoming one of the most promising lightweights in the country, but a severe attack of illness set him back. However, he has proven himself to be a worthy antagonist of such well-known boxers as "Blink" McCloskey, Larry Conley and others of that ilk.

Should Eddies win over Ashley, which he feels confident of doing, he will be groomed for some of the bigger games in New England, and will accept several offers which he has received from Philadelphia.

MRS. KID MCCOY NO. 3.
Pugilist "Kid" McCoy is going to marry Lillian Earl Ellis, widow of the late Edward C. Ellis and possessor of a fortune estimated at between $500,000 and $700,000.

"The date has not yet been set for our wedding," said Mrs. Ellis in New York in the presence of the bride. "Kid" McCoy in her apartment in the Hotel Dunlop. "We are very happy, but our plans have not been settled."

This marriage will furnish the climax of a series of romances, a climax such as no novelist would dare to write, because every one would scoff at it as impossible. Many critics have laughed at Bernard Shaw because he dared to marry his pugilist-hero, Cash, to the beautiful and wealthy Lydia Carew, who had $200,000 a year.

Lillian Estelle Earl was the intimate friend of Julia Selby, the first wife of "Kid" McCoy, whose real name is Norman W. Selby. Mrs. Selby at the summer of 1902 visited Mrs. Selby at Cedar Bluff, Kid McCoy's farm on Saratoga lake. Also staying at the farm, which McCoy was running as a sort of athletic sanitarium for overworked and overplayed men, was Edward C. Ellis of Schenectady, son of John Ellis, who founded the local paper at Schenectady, N. Y., and established the family fortune. Young Ellis was coxswain of his class crew (188) at Yale and a substitute quarterback on the football team.

Wearied by too strenuous a life, young Ellis tried to rebuild his health at McCoy's farm. He exercised too much and came down with typhoid fever. Miss Earle became his nurse. Thanks to her incessant care, the young millionaire recovered his health.

Ellis and Miss Earle were married on Aug. 5, 1902, by Rev. Herbert M. Gesser of Saratoga. Ellis suffered of pneumonia in New York last fall.

Meantime "Kid" McCoy had much marital tribulation. His wife, Julia Selby, eloped to Japan with his friend, Ralph Thompson, at the very time of the Ellis-Earle romance. McCoy got a divorce from Julia, was married late in 1903, Miss Indola Arnold, a pretty girl now on the road with the Law Fields company. This marriage was annulled by the Rhode Island courts last winter upon Mrs. Selby's application. The pugilist began a new life when his latest marriage was annulled. He has not touched a drop of alcoholic liquor since last December.

When he returned to New York from California two months ago he began to court Mrs. Ellis. She soon capitulated. The marriage probably will be celebrated in September.

JUBILEE OF ST. MARY'S CANAL CELEBRATED.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., Aug. 2.—With the city crowded with thousands of visitors and with bunting flying in the breezes from all the buildings on both the American and Canadian sides of the St. Mary's River, a salute at sunrise from the government ships in the harbor opened the two-days celebration of the semi-centennial of the opening of St. Mary's ship canal, which connects Lake Superior with the lower lakes. The semi-centennial celebration and the erection later of a monument as a permanent memorial was made possible by the appropriation of $100,000 by the United States and $15,000 by the State of Michigan, and the contribution of a considerable amount by the vessel interests of the great lakes.

People have been arriving in the city by the hundreds since Monday. Celebration was declared legal holidays on both the American and Canadian sides of the river, and business has been suspended wherever possible. Owners of lake vessels arranged their trips so they would pass through the canal during the celebration.

The canal was completed by the State of Michigan in 1855, and was transferred to the United States government in 1870. It is now considered the busiest of the world's artificial waterways. The traffic by way of the St. Mary's canal, American and Canadian, during 1904, was $2,000,000 net tons, 27,000,000 of which was through the American canal. The traffic of the St. Mary's canal 1904 was 12,000,000 net tons. The St. Mary's canal has developed the vast wealth of the Superior region, and has furnished a cheap and convenient outlet for the transportation of grain, flour and other products to the east and to Europe.

A NEW IDEA ABOUT HAYING.

The rain of this week interfered greatly with haying operations in some parts of the country, and will cause a general delay of pretty nearly a week, besides spoiling considerable grass already cut, but unthreshed.

It is an average one in most sections of the province, and the quality somewhat better than usual. Among some students of the world's artificial waterways, there is a tendency to cause a general delay of pretty nearly a week, besides spoiling considerable grass already cut, but unthreshed.

HALIFAX MAN SUICIDES.

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 1.—Alexander Curtis, a hostler, aged about 26 years, committed suicide tonight when on a visit to a friend's house. He had spent the evening there and appeared to be all right. He said good-bye and stepped out at the front door as if going home. A few moments later he was heard a fall. They opened the door and found Curtis on the floor. A smell of carbolic acid showed what he had taken. A physician was sent for, but when he arrived the young man was dead. No cause can be assigned for the act.

UNCLAIMED TREASURES.

(New York Times.)
It is usual to divide up the time devoted to the "missions" or religious revivals given in Catholic parishes, into periods for each class of the faithful—one week for the married men, one for the single men, and the same for the women. In one of the large up-town churches, in which the Jesuit Father O'Donovan led the band of preachers, friend of an instantaneous hit by the manner in which he announced the order of the exercises.

"The first week," said he, "will be for the married men; the second for the unmarried men; the third for the married women, and the last"—then, he paused for a moment as he said—"for the unmarried treasures."

NOT FRIENDS NOW.

(Sporting Times.)
He was a doctor witness in an Irish murder case, and was very anxious that the crown should let him go home as soon as possible. So he got a friend of his to plead in his favor. This was how the friend did it: "It is this way. Attorney-General, my friend, the doctor, has been for three years looking after two old ladies. If you don't let him go home tomorrow, he's afraid the ladies will get well."

And that's why the doctor doesn't speak to his friend.

SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY.

Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY G. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

These men and a few others were veterans like Hornigold himself. They were the best of the lot, but for the most part the assemblage was made up of the sweepings of the town, men who had the willingness to do anything, no matter how infamous it might be, for the only deterrent being lack of courage. Hornigold's single eye swept over them with a fierce gleam of contempt, yet these were they with whom he must work in case of necessity.

One or two others in whom he reposed confidence, men who composed the crew of his own pinnace, he had put off until the evening to Spanish Town to gather what news they could. One of them came in and reported that the squadron of horse which had gone up with the officers to bring back Morgan had come back without him and without the officers. The spy's insignificance prevented him from learning why this was, but he instantly repeated it in Hornigold's breast upon receipt of this news. Knowing Morgan as he did, he was convinced that he had found some means to dispose of the two officers and send away the cavalry. He was not unprepared, therefore, when he saw the tall form of the maroon appearing in the doorway through the smoke. No one else noticed the silent entry, and he stood upon him. Then by an imperceptible move of his head he indicated a desire to speak with him without the room. The one eyed nodded slightly in token that he understood, and the maroon vanished as silently as he had come. Waiting a few moments, Hornigold rose from his seat and began threading his way through the boisterous crowd toward the door. Thrusting aside deploring hands and answering ready queries with an old sailor's ready banter, bidding them on no account to disturb the festivities because of his departure and, in fact, ordering a second draft of rum for all hands, he succeeded in breaking away under cover of the cheers which greeted this announcement.

It was pitch dark outside, and he stopped a moment, hesitating as to what he should do. He had no doubt that the maroon had a message for him from his master. But a second had elapsed when he felt a light touch on his shoulder. His hand went instantly to the seaman's hanger at his side, and he faced about promptly. A ready man was Master Hornigold.

"It's I, bo'n," whispered a familiar voice.

"You, Black Dog? Where's your master?"

"Tender."

"Let me see him."

A tall, slender figure muffled in a heavy riding coat sat in the stern sheath of a small boat in the deepest shadow of one of the silent and deserted piers.

"Captain Morgan?" whispered Hornigold softly, as, followed by the maroon, he descended the landing stairs toward the boat.

"Tis you, Master Hornigold," answered the man, with an accent of relief in his voice, thrusting the pistol back into his belt as he spoke. He, too, was a ready man with his weapons and one not to be caught napping in any emergency.

"Me it is, sir," answered the boat-swain, "and ready to serve my old captain."

"You heard the news?"

"I heard it on the frigate this afternoon."

"Why did you not send me warning?"

"I had no chance. I'd a done it, sir, if I could have fetched away."

"Well, all's one. I've laid these two landlubbers by the heels. Eh, Carib?"

"Where are they, sir?"

"I might make a guess, for I left them bound and the house blazing."

"Tis like old times, eh, Carib?"

"Aye, I've not forgot the old tricks."

"No, sir. And what's to do now?"

"Why, the old game once more."

"What? Do you mean?"

"I do. What was I there left for me? Scuttle me, if I don't take it out of the donal! It's their doing. They've had a rest for nigh twenty years. We'll let it slip out quietly among the islands that Harry Morgan's eldest son and more and the pickings to be had on the Spanish main—wine and women and pieces of eight. Art with me?"

"Aye, of course. But we lack a ship."

"There's one yonder, man," cried Morgan, pointing up the harbor, where the lights of the Mary Rose twinkled in the blackness.

"To be sure the ship is there, but—"

"But what?"

"We've no force. The old men are gone."

"I am here," answered Morgan, "and you and Black Dog. And there are a few others left. Teach is new, but will serve. I heard his bull voice roar out from the tavern. And De Lussan and Velsers and the rest. I've kept sight of ye. Curse it all, I let you live when I might have hanged you."

"You did, captain, you did. You didn't hang anybody, but you didn't spare either."

"Listen," said Morgan quickly. "This is my plan. In the morning when I saw the new governor will send more men. They will find the house burned down. No one saw us come hither. There will be in the ruins the remains of three bodies."

"Three?"

"Yes. My Lady Morgan's."

"Did you kill her?"

"I didn't have to. They'll think that one of them is mine. No line or cord will be raised."

me. Do you arrange that the crew of the Mary Rose be given liberty for the evening yonder at the Blue Anchor. They've not been ashore yet, I take it?"

"No, but they will go tomorrow."

"That's well. Meanwhile gather together the bold fellows who have stomach for a cruise and are willing to put their heads through the halter provided there are pieces of eight on the other side, and then we'll take the frigate tomorrow night and away for the Spanish main. That will give us a start. We'll pick up what we can along the coast first, then scuttle the ship, cross the isthmus, seize another and have the whole south seas before us—Peru, Manila, wherever we will."

"The king has a long arm."

"Yes, and other kings have had long arms, too, I take it, but they have not caught Harry Morgan nor ever shall. Come, man, will you go with me?"

"Never fear," answered Hornigold promptly. "I've been itching for a chance to cut somebody's throat. Where will you lay him until tomorrow night?"

"I have thought of that," said Morgan promptly. "I think the best place will be the cabin of your pinnace. I'll just get aboard, Black Dog here and I, and put to sea. Tomorrow night at this hour we'll come back again, and you will find us here at the wharf."

"A good plan, Master Morgan," cried Hornigold, forgetting the title as the scheme unfolded itself to him.

"What's o'clock, I wonder?"

As he spoke the sound of a bell tapped softly came floating over the quiet water from the Mary Rose.

"Four bells," answered Morgan, leaning "at 10 of the clock, then, I shall be here."

"Leave the rest to me, sir," answered Hornigold.

"I shall. That will be your boat yonder."

"Aye. Just beyond the point."

"Is anybody aboard of her?"

"No one."

"Is there rum and water enough for one day?"

"Plenty. In the locker in the cuddy."

"Aye, aye, sir!" said Hornigold, leaning over the pier and watching the boat.

"He's mine!" whispered Hornigold.

post fade into a black blur on the water as it drew away toward the pinnace.

"He's mine, by heaven, he's mine!" he whispered under his breath as he turned and walked slowly up to the house.

It was late when Hornigold returned to the parlor of the Blue Anchor Inn. Half the company were drunk on the floor under the tables. The rest were singing or shouting or cursing in accordance with their several moods.

By his orders the inn servants at once cleared the room of the vainly protesting revelers. Those whose appearance indicated a degree of respectability which promised payment for their accommodation were put to bed. The common sort were bundled unceremoniously out on the strand before the door and left to sober up as best they might in the soft tropic night. Teach, Raveau and the Brazilian were detained for conference with the vice-swain. To these worthies, therefore, Hornigold unfolded Morgan's plan, which they embraced with alacrity, promising each to do his share. Velsers was too stupidly drunk to be told anything, but they knew they could count upon him without fail.

CHAPTER III.

THE next morning, after waiting a reasonable time for a message from the two soldiers at Spanish Town, Lord Carlingford, the new governor, who had taken up his residence temporarily at Port Royal, summoned his attendants and himself repaired to the seat of government to ascertain why no further report had been received from his officers. Great was his astonishment when he found that the residence of the vice governor had been destroyed by fire during the night. The frightened slaves could tell nothing. Morgan and Carib had taken care that no one had marked their departure. Consequently when the search of the ruins revealed the remains of three bodies so badly charred as to be unrecognizable it was naturally inferred at first that they were those of the buccaneer and the two unfortunate officers. It was known among the people of the place, however, that Lady Morgan had been seriously ill, so ill that she could not have been removed, and there were some who suspected that one of the bodies was hers and that the arch fiend himself had by some means disposed of the officers and escaped.

Therefore a hue and cry was raised for him and a strict search instituted by order of the governor, who, after setting affairs in motion, returned to Port Royal.

It was known among the people of the place, however, that Lady Morgan had been seriously ill, so ill that she could not have been removed, and there were some who suspected that one of the bodies was hers and that the arch fiend himself had by some means disposed of the officers and escaped.

Therefore a hue and cry was raised for him and a strict search instituted by order of the governor, who, after setting affairs in motion, returned to Port Royal.

THE next morning, after waiting a reasonable time for a message from the two soldiers at Spanish Town, Lord Carlingford, the new governor, who had taken up his residence temporarily at Port Royal, summoned his attendants and himself repaired to the seat of government to ascertain why no further report had been received from his officers. Great was his astonishment when he found that the residence of the vice governor had been destroyed by fire during the night. The frightened slaves could tell nothing. Morgan and Carib had taken care that no one had marked their departure. Consequently when the search of the ruins revealed the remains of three bodies so badly charred as to be unrecognizable it was naturally inferred at first that they were those of the buccaneer and the two unfortunate officers. ## GREAT PROGRESS OF MISSION WORK.

Methodist Forward Movement and Missionary Work in the North West Discussed This Morning.

The school of missions opened at 9 this morning in the Century church, with Rev. W. J. Kirby in the chair. After the reading of a quiet half hour an address was given on "The Forward Movement" by Dr. Stephenson. He told of the discouragements with which the forward movement met at its beginning, but showed that they had gradually gained ground and today were doing a great work. They had now 43 missionaries in the field and wanted 12 more. There were now 19 million young people taking part in the movement. One result of this work was the publishing of a missionary library, of which over 100 tons had already been sold. The missionary enterprise was now being co-operation from all sides. For instance an editorial had appeared in the morning's Sun in connection with this work, which was full of truth and showed that its writer was a man of very broad vision.

Professor Riddell, the next speaker, gave an address on the missionary work in the Northwest. In opening he referred to the fact that two of our prominent city ministers—Rev. David Lang and Rev. Canon Richardson—had when they were boys attended service in his little log church away out in Central Manitoba. He said, was begun in the Northwest as early as 1840. A man named James Evans had first opened a field there, working chiefly among the Indians around Lake Winnipeg. Later on other missionaries came to other points in the west and opened missions.

In 1883 this work was transferred from the Methodist conference in England to the Methodist conference in Canada, and a steady progress had been made since.

The speaker pointed out that the work among the Indians had in many cases been very unsatisfactory. One reason for this was that the men sent out had not given their whole time and thought to the great work into which they had been sent out. They allowed themselves to be led away by other things.

Referring to the missions of other churches in the Northwest, Prof. Riddell stated that the devotion of the Roman Catholic missionaries was beyond question. The Church of England, he pointed out, had also done a great work at certain points.

On the whole, the speaker thought, things looked bright for the future of the Methodist mission work among the Indians of the Northwest.

Prof. Riddell then took up the domestic mission work of the Northwest. It was just 36 years ago since George Young landed at Fort Garry to open a mission there among the Indians. He had cut down some trees on the banks of the Assiniboine, floated them down the river and built a small log church in the centre of what is now Winnipeg. The work had progressed from that time until at the present day the territory to which George Young ministered was divided up into 12 conferences. It would not be long before the missionary society would get back from these people infinitely more than they had given to them. This country was going to mean millions to us in the future, because it was the highway between the east and the west.

In closing the speaker referred to a mission that had been opened among the Gellatons in Central Alberta by a Miss Munroe. This lady was meeting with splendid success in her work. He also referred briefly to the work of his own college at Edmonton, which was a very important factor in the Methodist missionary work of the Northwest.

They had these young men of all nationalities and creeds. Their intention was not to make Methodists of these young men, but to send them back to their own churches better qualified to carry on the work of the Master.

At the close of his address, Prof. Riddell, with the aid of the map, answered several questions regarding the country that were asked from the audience. He pointed out that Edmonton was only about 1,000 miles from Hudson Bay. The Creator, he thought, had never placed that great inland sea there to be of no use. It was destined to do a large shipping trade in the products of the west.

When Prof. Riddell took his seat he asked for a few words from Canon Richardson, who was present by a Miss Munroe. This lady was meeting with splendid success in her work. He also referred briefly to the work of his own college at Edmonton, which was a very important factor in the Methodist missionary work of the Northwest.

FARLEY, the Strike-Breaker.

How He Has Organized and Has Ready for Instant Marching Orders an Army of 1,500 Professional Strike-Breakers Eager to Fight Union Labor in Any Part of the Country.

THE recent disagreement between the New York Elevated Railroad and the employees of August Belmont's new Subway Company, has brought to light a very new and curious figure in the industrial world—James Farley, professional strike breaker.

When Mr. Belmont said, "Very well, if a strike comes, we have 1,500 skilled motormen waiting to step on to the cars as fast as the strikers leave them," he let a large cat out of the bag. The 1,500 trolley men are an organized army of professional strike breakers under the command of Farley. With almost military discipline Farley controls these men and they have fought campaigns after campaigns against union labor. Like a general at the head of his army, Farley is obeyed even to the risk of life and death.

James Farley, professional strike breaker, is an interesting factor in the labor situation, and a somewhat flattering eulogy of this man is printed below on this page as given by Mr. Farley's admiring lieutenant and secretary, Richard H. Ward.

But quite apart from the revelation of Mr. Farley and his methods, the interesting fact has developed incidentally that at least seven non-union street car companies throughout the United States have united to maintain an efficient little force of skilled employees who are cheerfully loaned to Farley, the strike breaker, whenever he needs them. These trolley companies are in San Francisco, Baltimore, Waterbury and Bridgeport, Conn.; Jersey City, Newark, and Scranton, Pa. How many other non-union recruits are always awaiting the telegram of Mr. Farley in the States between Connecticut and California has not been developed.

So far Mr. Farley claims to have successfully "broken" forty-eight strikes here and there about the country with his army of 1,500 faithful strike breakers. The working terms of this new figure in the labor world are as follows:

Each man summoned but not working is paid each day.....$2.50
Farley receives for each man, every day.....$3.00
Each man working is paid expenses and each day.....$3.50

All men in the army receive railroad ticket from employing company
Employing company shelters and boards all workmen and waiting men.
At conclusion of San Francisco strike each man received gift from company of $25.

HOW WE HAVE BROKEN 48 STRIKES SO FAR.

BY RICHARD H. WARD, FARLEY'S SECRETARY.

I HAVE been Mr. James Farley's secretary for eight years, ever since he began the business of breaking strikes. His methods are perfectly open and above board, and will bear criticism.

Where does he get his men?
What kind of men are they?
How does Farley pay them?
And how much does he make out of each strike?

People ask me these questions a hundred times a day. They seem to think there is a great mystery about his methods when they really are as clear as day to the man that understands them.

To answer the last question first I will say that while I don't know just how much he is worth, every one who knows him at all knows that he is rich. He owns four fine houses—two at Plattsburgh, N. Y., one at Brooklyn, and one at Cincinnati—and he has property besides that. The company that engages him to break a strike pays him $5 a day for each man he holds in readiness to take the place of one of the strikers, and he gets this whether the man works or not, just for having him ready.

If a strike only lasts a few days, or if it runs on, as it sometimes does, for two or three months, you can see that Mr. Farley's profit is a big one.

Commands an Army of 1,500 Men.
He can bring together at twenty-four hours' notice 1,500 men. He can make the number 1,500 if it is needed, and for every man he has notified he is ready to come to the scene of the strike, remember, he gets $5 a day.

From the time the man gets his notification and packs his grip, for travelling he gets $2.50 a day, his travelling expenses and his board, whether there is a strike or not. If there is a strike and he takes the place of a striker he gets $3.50 a day. Mr. Farley pays this, and the difference between the $2.50 or $3.50, as the case may be, is clear daily profit to Mr. Farley.

The railroad fare of the strike breaker is paid by the company that needs his services. The company houses and boards them, generally in the car barns. All Mr. Farley concerns himself is about their wages. But when I tell you that he got 1,700 men together at San Francisco and broke the back of a strike that lasted for four months, you can get some idea of his profits. Amounts to about $300,000, doesn't it? I never figured it up exactly.

Must Be a Millionaire.
In the eight years he has been in this business he must have broken on an average of at least six strikes a year. Sometimes his men don't have to lift a finger. Just being there is all that is necessary lots of times. It was because Farley's 380 men were here ready to jump on the cars and take the place of motormen and conductors that the Interborough men concluded not to strike. The night this conclusion was reached Mr. Farley sent 200 hundred of his men home.

The very next morning, when it was known that the men had gone, the strikers made new demands, to which Mr. Belmont would not accede. As soon as he got notified Mr. Farley he sent for the men, and before they had reached their destinations some of them were on their way back to New York.

There has been a great deal of curiosity and many misstatements have been made as to what kind of men these strike breakers are. I will end that here and now by telling the plain truth. The men are all employees of other street railway companies, loaned to each other in case of a strike, about as one firm of theatrical managers lends a star or a leading man to Farley giving orders to start a car under military guard.

City, Waterbury, Bridgeport and Scranton. Each company has its list of 200 or more men who are at Mr. Farley's command. The moment they receive a telegram or postal card from him they quit work for their own company. Sometimes they don't go to the scene of the strike at all, simply wait at home for orders.

Mr. Farley gets a few of his men on the ground ready for the immediate emergency. The others are, as it were, at the other end of the telephone wire waiting for orders. But he always has plenty of men on hand. For instance: It takes about 150 men to run the cars of the Interborough Company. Mr. Farley, you know, had 300 men, over twice the number needed, ready on the spot.

The men ran some risks, of course, but Mr. Belmont had provided that on every car there should be three policemen, and if necessary, three soldiers, for the militia would have been called out to protect these men. But the men don't worry about the danger. They all like the adventure and the ready money.

Some of the men know all about running the car at both ends. Those that don't know we teach Mr. Farley and I have been around here for two weeks, expecting this trouble. We took the men that didn't know how to run a car to the barn on Ninety-second street and drilled them as a teacher drills a child in the alphabet. They're all a good grade of laborers, as you could see by looking at the crowd gathered in front of No. 16 Dey street while the trouble was on.

It was a well-behaved crowd, but if you looked closely at them you could see that they had the steady eyes and firm mouths of men of grit, men that would do what they set out to do.

Mr. Farley won't have any but orderly men in his little army. He has some rules that it's understood must never be broken.

One of them is "Mind your own business." Another is, "If a striker insults you walk away." Others are, "If he strikes you don't strike back. There is police protection for you." And one that he always insists on is, "Stay away from saloons." If he sees a man at a bar he sends him home and reports him to the company that employs him.

Except in cases like this, when a man goes back to work, at the other end of the telephone wire waiting for orders. But he always has plenty of men on hand. For instance: It takes about 150 men to run the cars of the Interborough Company. Mr. Farley, you know, had 300 men, over twice the number needed, ready on the spot.

It was a well-behaved crowd, but if you looked closely at them you could see that they had the steady eyes and firm mouths of men of grit, men that would do what they set out to do.

Mr. Farley won't have any but orderly men in his little army. He has some rules that it's understood must never be broken.

One of them is "Mind your own business." Another is, "If a striker insults you walk away." Others are, "If he strikes you don't strike back. There is police protection for you." And one that he always insists on is, "Stay away from saloons." If he sees a man at a bar he sends him home and reports him to the company that employs him.

Except in cases like this, when a man goes back to work, at the other end of the telephone wire waiting for orders. But he always has plenty of men on hand. For instance: It takes about 150 men to run the cars of the Interborough Company. Mr. Farley, you know, had 300 men, over twice the number needed, ready on the spot.

The men ran some risks, of course, but Mr. Belmont had provided that on every car there should be three policemen, and if necessary, three soldiers, for the militia would have been called out to protect these men. But the men don't worry about the danger. They all like the adventure and the ready money.

Some of the men know all about running the car at both ends. Those that don't know we teach Mr. Farley and I have been around here for two weeks, expecting this trouble. We took the men that didn't know how to run a car to the barn on Ninety-second street and drilled them as a teacher drills a child in the alphabet. They're all a good grade of laborers, as you could see by looking at the crowd gathered in front of No. 16 Dey street while the trouble was on.

The Man-Killing Power of Modern Shells.

THE use of solid shot in warfare has been practically given up. The projectile of today is a conical shell of steel, and sometimes laced with powder, so as to explode upon contact with the target, or by a time fuse of a certain number of seconds' duration.

It is wonderfully different from the shell of twenty-five years ago. In those days one could watch the projectile as it sailed through the air in a graceful curve, it length bursting. There was even time to get out of the way under favorable circumstances. But the new style of shell moves at the rate of a little more than half a mile a second.

In striking a metal target, its energy being transformed instantaneously into heat, it becomes red-hot, and a flame is instantly seen to burst forth from the point of impact.

Such a shell, passing near a man, will tear his clothes out under the chin and hit him. It will kill him. He drops dead without a sign of a wound.

DRUNKARD PAINFULLY INJURED

Benjamin Fish got into trouble this morning and is now nursing a sore head behind prison bars. Ben drank a little more than was good for him, and while Sergt. Campbell was scouting about the corner of Union and Charlotte streets, took to doing stunts that are contrary to all laws except those of gravitation. He bumped his head several times against the sidewalk, and as a result was quietly gathered in. At the central police station his head was washed and a severe cut bathed. Ben was then put quietly away in one of the coolers.

IS IT PERJURY?

Witnesses on Oath Flatly Contradict Each Other in Assault Case in Police Court Today.

One drunk was fined $4 with the option of ten days in jail and another was remanded at the police court this morning.

John Davis was charged with assaulting Mrs. Sarah Oram. Both parties live on West street and according to Mrs. Oram, Davis, on Wednesday last was backing a ton of coal into his yard which adjoins her house. He experienced some difficulty in doing this and struck his horse over the head with the butt end of a whip, afterward getting a trace and continuing the beating. Mrs. Oram, who was sitting at her window, called to him. "Oh John do not beat the horse that way. I shall report the matter to Mr. Wetmore." Davis then, according to the witness, reached up and struck her on the wrist with the trace, causing a wound.

Walter J. Whipple, who lives next door to Mrs. Oram, said he saw Mrs. Oram witness the assault on Wednesday last. He also saw a window pane in the door broken.

John Davis denied using whip or trace on his horse saying he had neither, as his whip was broken two weeks ago, since when he had done without one. All he did was to shout at his horse, when Mrs. Oram interfered. He denied striking her at all, and said the injury to her wrist was caused by the broken pane of glass.

Mrs. Oram, he alleged, was under the influence of liquor at the time. Cross-examined by B. R. Armstrong, who appeared for Mrs. Oram, Davis admitted calling her names, but denied that a man named Frederick Jenner was in the yard at the time. Neither did he hear a little boy named Walter Crawford, tell Mrs. Oram that Jenner was present.

In answer to his honor Mrs. Oram said the glass in the door was broken three or four weeks ago.

Davis was fined $8 or twenty days. During the hearing of the case, secretary Wetmore, of the S. P. C. A. and J. King Kelly were present in court.

Frederick Jenner denied positively that he was present on the occasion referred to. He had been there every day previously and since, but on that day was working. Witness also knew that Davis had no whip, having broken it.

John Davis repeated his denial as to the cruelty charge, and also stated that he saw Jenner present at the time of the assault, and that the little boy Crawford told her Jenner was present.
