BOSTON.
LINES TO THE AURORA BOREALIS.
BY MARY N. DEARNON.
Ye golden gleams so wondrous bright!
Or tell me whence ye come?
And where your gathered beauties light—
Around your native home?
With what a glorious train you ride!

Like morning beams of dawning prime,
Your waving streamers fly.
O tell me of the radiant spot
Whereon your golden train doth rest
Among the sun-sickled isles that doth
The ocean of the north?
What mysterious line thou frozen coast,
And where thy sheltered hold?
Whence Franklin led his gallant host,
To brave eternal cold.
Did you dives his treacherous way
Amid those pointless seas?
And where the light of day,
Where winter's umbrae freeze?
Say, do you gilding beams descend,
And give that fearless hand,
As they speak of many a treasured friend,
Of home and native land?

Do you light the hidden graves
Of those heroic men;
Locked up within the ice-bound caves,
That know no mortal's ken?

Throughout the long and chilly night
Your glowing beauties shine;
But never shall a ray of light
Reveals its secret reign.
