ANOTHER MASSACRE OF RUSSIAN JEWS

Hundreds Victims of a Mob; Houses and Stores Pillaged

Police Said to Have Encouraged the Slaughter, and Soldiers Helped, Too—Wild Scene in the Douma When War Minister Pavloff Announced the Government Could Not Suspend Death Sentences—Cries of "Assassin," "Murderer," and Such Like Were Hurlled at Him as He Flurried from the Chamber.

Bialystok, Russia, June 14—A Jewish anarchist threw a bomb among the Corpus Christi procession which was in progress here today and killed or wounded many persons. In consequence the Christians attacked and pillaged the Jews and demolished their shops. Hundreds of persons were killed or wounded. The bomb was thrown from the balcony of a house in Alexandrov street. A Russian clergyman named Federoff, was among those killed by the explosion. Soldiers surrounded the house and fired two volleys into the windows.

Meanwhile the exasperated Christians attacked the Jewish stores in Alexandrov and Sura streets, demolishing the fixtures and windows and throwing the goods into the gutters and beating and murdering the Jews. A crowd of Jews fled to the railroad station, pursued by the mob, which killed many of them there. Three Jews were thrown from a second story window of the railroad station building.

The Jews are fleeing from Bialystok to the neighboring forests and are pursuing them. Detachments of Dragons have been sent out to protect the Jews. Jews arriving on the railroad trains have been dragged out of the cars and many of them have been murdered. Troops have cleared the railway station.

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the disturbance still continued.

Massacre Continues. St. Petersburg, June 15, 2.15 a. m.—The latest despatches from Bialystok, which were received about midnight, report a situation of the utmost gravity. The anti-Jewish outbreak there was still raging; fighting was in progress in the streets, the firing was continuous; the best stores in the city had been sacked, and many were dead or wounded. Figures, however, were not given, and probably exaggerated.

The signal for the outbreak, which apparently was deliberately planned, was given as a counterstroke for the murder of Chief of Police Derkatchoff on June 10, which was attributed to Jewish bandits. It is given as the explosion of a bomb during a religious procession. This was followed by revolver fusillades in several quarters of the city. The police are said not to have attempted to interfere in the early stages of the riot. The Jews, who number three-fourths of the population of the city, offered the best resistance possible, many of them being armed, but were unable to prevent the pillaging of their homes and places of business. Finally the military interfered, but, according to a dispatch received here, without being able to restore order.

Reinforcements have been rushed to Bialystok from Grodno. Several members of parliament tonight received messages from Jewish correspondents at Bialystok declaring that the police apparently had given over the Hebrew population to slaughter and pillage. These correspondents urged that the only hope was in an appeal to the ministry of the interior to interfere in their behalf. A delegation of deputies immediately called at the headquarters of the police department where they were informed that all measures possible had been taken to stop excesses and restore order.

Tumult Reigns in Douma. St. Petersburg, June 14—The lower house of parliament was rocked and swayed this afternoon by successive waves of passion evoked by a series of government communications, including Military Prosecutor Pavloff's rejection of the appeal of the house for a cessation of the executions in the Baltic provinces, and the refusal of the Procurator of the District court that the house expel M. Ulanoff, who has been indicted, although a member of parliament, in order that he may be arrested pending his trial for press offences.

So fierce was the storm that President Mouroussief was compelled to announce that he would be compelled to adjourn the session if the demonstration was continued. The District Procurator's letter informed the house that the trial of M. Ulanoff was set for June 27, but that he was protected by the constitutional privilege of the house and that accordingly to a provision of the statute the right of expulsion was asked for. This was read after a number of speeches assailing the court's action as being the most barbaresc of frontier.

M. Kokoskine's resolution "that the house sees no reason to utilize the right of expulsion and proceeds with the order of the day" was adopted. Procurator Pavloff then ascended the rostrum in the face of the already angered house and read his promised communication regarding the death sentences. He declared that until the military laws were changed the court martial had no option but to impose death sentences for such offences as those committed at Riga and Sevastopol. The right of revision, he explained, rested solely with the government, who can reject appeals or confirm sentences. The minister or war cannot interfere and cannot decide whether the culprits shall be judged by military or civil courts.

Minister Left in a Hurry. Procurator Pavloff, after reading his communication in a hurried agitated voice, immediately left the hall, but not too soon to escape cries of "murderer," "assassin" and "dog" from the Radicals, who had posted themselves in all parts of the hall. At this point President Mouroussief threatened to suspend the session unless order was restored. He resigned Professor Kusmin-Karavief, who had given Pavloff the lie. He cited cases in which he had been with the minister in his former connection with the academy of military law in which the minister of war threw the influence of the court martial against the accused persons. M. Lednitsky, a Polish representative who followed, presented without a word of rebuke from the chair, the charge that Pavloff had deliberately delayed the orders suspending the sentences of the eight workmen executed at Riga, the reprieve arriving an hour after the executions. The speaker declared that the minister of war, instead of answering, tossed away the appeal of the house with a snarl at red tape, laying the responsibility to the court martial. But, said M. Lednitsky, the true culprits were those who brought the pre-condemned victims before the courts martial. The only justification for the use of military procedure was to secure speedy action in times of stress. But the men executed at Riga were arrested in December and condemned in May. Furthermore their trials were illegal as the offences were committed before martial law was proclaimed.

"Murders Not Sentences." M. Lednitsky concluded with saying: "These are murders and not sentences, and you are murderers instead of failurers of the law." Father Akhanastief of Ufa, brought the house to its feet with a reference to the Holy Synod's prohibition of prayers for the repose of the soul of Lieut. Schmidt, who was executed for participation in the naval mutiny at Sevastopol. He said the ministry was marked with the brand of Cain and was ripe for Divine vengeance. A vehement speech by M. Alladin, the leader of the Peasant workmen group was stopped by President Mouroussief when M. Alladin called the ministers traitors and urged the conversion of the ministerial benches into a prisoner's dock. The house adjourned at 8 o'clock after adopting a resolution expressing profound discontent with the answer of the ministry on the subject of the death sentences.

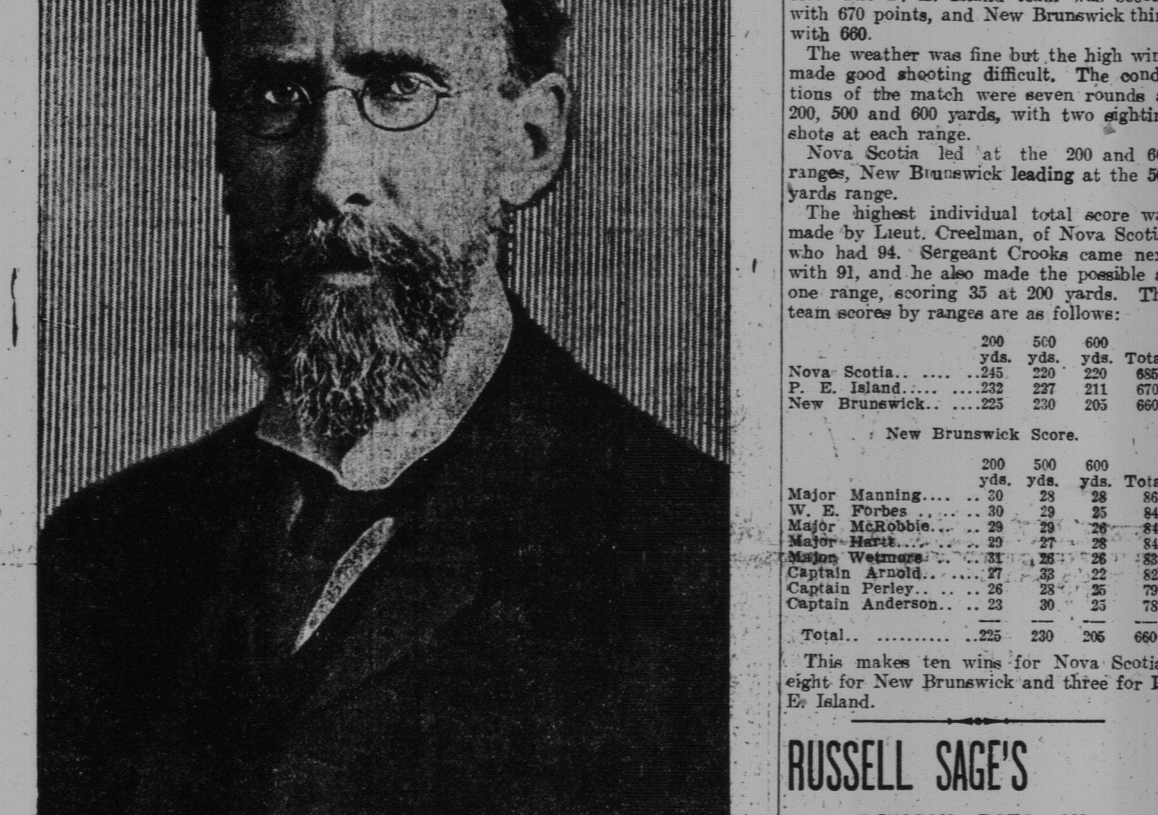

CINQMARS GETS CENSURE AND APPLAUSE IN HOUSE

French Newspaper Man Nominally Punished for Article About Foster

Arraigned Before the Bar of Parliament, He Pleads Justification, and Reads a Long Statement About ex-Finance Minister's Attitude, for Years, Towards French-Canadians—Duncan Ross Defends the Press in Ringing Speech—Laurier Moves That the Culprit Be Punished, Which is Done Amid Great Cheering.

(Special to The Telegraph.) Ottawa, June 14—Anyone who witnessed the ordeal through which Hon. George E. Foster passed since he was summoned the representative of La Presse to the bar of parliament will never want to go through the same experience. Parliament today nominally censured Cinquars but the latter to the constituted courts of the country.

Mr. Foster had preferred to bring his case before a court of which he was himself a member and which was partly made up of his own party and personal friends. Yet the honorable gentleman read the house a lecture as to the course it should pursue under such circumstances.

GEORGE E. FOSTER.

had his innings against the member for North Toronto from the bar first in French then in English. It was no wonder that Mr. Foster wanted to narrow the scope of the inquiry.

The minister of justice asked the member for North Toronto if he ever heard of a case being laughed out of court. But it was Duncan Ross that made the speech of the day. He brought the discussion up to a high level and defended the right of the press, as every one expected he would. He conclusively showed that no such case as that of Cinquars was brought before the British parliament since 1819. This had to be admitted.

The only complaint that Mr. Ross had against the article was that it was Foster's case being laughed out of court. But the speaker moved that the house proceed to the order of the day, but the amendment of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's Cinquars was carried. When Cinquars came forward to hear the resolution read he was greeted with applause which lasted for some time. As soon as it was read he was discharged.

Mr. Foster's Queries. The first question asked Cinquars by Mr. Foster through the speaker was if he wrote the article in La Presse entitled "Blasphemes." He replied in a clear voice first in French and afterwards in English that he was the writer. The next question Mr. Foster put to him was and which he wished the speaker to put to Cinquars was to say "upon what action, conduct or expression of the member for North Toronto did you base the following statements?"

Then followed the part of the article to which Mr. Foster objected. Hon. Mr. Aylesworth moved in amendment that the words "during the present session" be struck out (hear, hear) of the article.

Mr. Foster asked to know why the minister of justice wanted to make the scope of the inquiry wider. Mr. Aylesworth would rather hear from Mr. Foster why he wanted to limit the inquiry into his conduct to the present session of parliament.

Foster Objects. Mr. Foster followed with a somewhat elaborate argument as to why the inquiry should be confined to what he said during the present session of parliament. "The scope," said Mr. Foster, "should be no wider and no narrower than is contained in my question and I object to this house widening it." The writer, in the opinion of Mr. Foster, confined his charge to this session.

Duncan Ross read it. Mr. Foster went on to say that the article dealt with his conduct as a member of the house and the house had only power to punish a member for an offence committed in the house.

Mr. Aylesworth said that Mr. Foster had been a member of the house when he accused the gentleman at the bar last week, the members of the house laughed. Had Mr. Foster never heard of a case being laughed out of court? Instead of availing himself of the ordinary privilege of a British subject and taking his complaint

THREE NEW SYNODS OF PRESBYTERIANS

General Assembly Creates Them in the Northwest Provinces

Lively Discussion Over Safety of Church Funds—Judge Forbes Declares Against So Many Changes in Hymns—Cast Iron Rule Rescinded That Clergymen in Arrears Cannot Share in Benevolent Funds—Next Meeting in Montreal.

(Special to The Telegraph.) London, Ont., June 14—Talk and business stand in inverse relation when measured by time. This is true of assemblies and parliaments. The union debate consumed three full sessions when such business as the appointment of a treasurer went off in one hour. It was however discussed for three or four days in committee. The assembly saw a little of the opposition that kept this committee engaged.

After R. C. Jennings, of Toronto, an applicant for the position, had given the financial statement of the church a handling, a little milder, however, than Sir Richard used to do. Principal Scrimger gave no uncertain sound as to his dissatisfaction with the character and way certain investments had been made, but Hamilton Cassels, a prominent lawyer of Toronto, and J. R. Reid, a financier of Ottawa, were able to show that the learned doctor's facts were not correct and his suspicions groundless.

Funds Voted All Right. The assembly held its breath for a moment or two and came to a unanimous conclusion that the treasurer and advisory board were entirely justified in the course adopted. The discussion hinged upon "call loans" and unauthorized investments.

The Psalms and Hymns were found to be subjects where explosions could occur any time. Dr. Sedgewick and others protested against the hymnal committee getting resolutions passed in assembly which, though small beginnings, after a time proved to be entirely against the will of the church. He referred to the conferences where new versions of the Psalms were being selected or made and said "the first thing I know we shall be confronted with a new book of praise."

Judge Forbes warmly supported him and said that a new book would cost the church $100,000, and create a whirlwind in the congregations.

The report was amended so as to limit the committee along these lines. The profits, however, proved a much more harmonious subject. They totaled $2,500 as the share of the church to be given to the aged and infirm ministers' fund and the widows' and orphans' fund. Thus the maritime synod will receive $825 as its share. The agreement with Oxford press expires this year a higher royalty will come into effect with the next contract.

Dr. McMullen said: "We are making history these days. Three new synods are formed by one assembly and the documents show that the men in the west who drew them up are very capable legislators."

The names of the synods and first moderators are as follows: British Columbia, to meet in Victoria; Rev. J. K. Wright, moderator. The Maritime Synod had only one, namely, Rev. R. G. Fisher, lately a missionary of the Methodist church. He will assist the staff in Trinidad.

The assembly decided to allow the names of certain ministers, now engaged at such work as the Lord's Day Alliance, to be put on the roll of Presbytery. This is a rule intended to prevent a condition that prevails in the United States, where the regular pastors are outvoted by men actually outside the work.

"Cast Iron Rule" Changed. Dr. McMullen succeeded in changing the "cast iron rule" which throws a person out of any benefit of the benevolent funds because of failure to pay dues. Dr. Sedgewick contended that this change would be an injustice and paralyze the management of the funds. The change, however, was made by the assembly.

Another change was proposed, but defeated on division. It was to put the appeals that are continually being made of all kinds and localities under the control of a central authority. Drs. Scrimger and Scott held that it does congruity with a new book of praise.

Judge Forbes warmly supported him and said that a new book would cost the church $100,000, and create a whirlwind in the congregations.

Defeated New Brunswick and P. E. Island Teams at Bedford Range

POOR SHOOTING

Winners' Score Was 685, the Island 670, and This Province 660—Lieut Creelman Made 94, Which Was the Highest—High Winds Handicapped the Marksmen.

(Special to The Telegraph.)

Halifax, June 14—The twenty-first inter-provincial match took place on the Bedford range today and resulted in a win for the Nova Scotia team with a score of 685. The P. E. Island team was second with 670 points, and New Brunswick third with 660.

The weather was fine but the high wind made good shooting difficult. The conditions of the match were seven rounds at 200, 500 and 600 yards, with two evening shots at each range.

Nova Scotia led at the 200 and 600 yards, New Brunswick leading at the 500 yards range.

The highest individual total score was made by Lieut. Creelman, of Nova Scotia, who had 94. Sergeant Crooks came next with 91, and he also made the possible at one range, scoring 35 at 200 yards. The team scores by ranges are as follows:

Table with 3 columns: Team, 200 yds, 500 yds, 600 yds, Total. Nova Scotia: 245, 230, 210, 685. P. E. Island: 225, 227, 218, 670. New Brunswick: 210, 220, 230, 660.

FORMER LOVERS CHARGE EACH OTHER WITH MURDER

Girl Declares That Her Father Was Killed by Man She Was to Marry, and He Swears That She Did It.

New York, June 14—After Gertrude O'Hara had testified in court at Minneola (L. I.), today that Grover Cleveland Poole confessed to her that he murdered her father, James O'Hara, the man whom she had accused went on the witness stand in his own behalf and testified that Miss O'Hara had confessed to him that she murdered her own father.

The extraordinary course of testimony was a big surprise to everybody but the defence. An interesting phase of the curious angle arising from the murder is the fact that the crime is alleged to have been prompted by O'Hara's opposition to his daughter's engagement to marry Poole, against whom she testified today.

O'Hara was murdered last August and his body was found buried in the woods at Port Washington (L. I.). In her testimony today Miss O'Hara, who is 18 years old, said that Poole and her father had often quarrelled over her education and other matters, and that she had left the house on the night of the murder she declared, Poole came to the O'Hara house about midnight and, when she admitted him, told her that he had shot and killed her father, while O'Hara was unable to take care of himself, and had dragged his body into the woods. Poole then warned her to be silent or she would suffer a similar fate.

On the following night Miss O'Hara said, Poole told her that he had buried her father's body in the woods. In his own defence Poole testified that he was asleep in the O'Hara house at midnight when Miss O'Hara came, and that she said that she had shot her father and showed him a revolver. Poole said that he asked where the body was hidden and she replied that he would never find it. Poole said that he was in company with O'Hara on the night of the murder.

Joseph McLay of Basswood Ridge Perished Before Husband's Eyes.

Victim, Who Was Smoking Habits, Tried to Put Out a Fire That Had Spread to a Shed—House, Barn and Contents All Destroyed and No Insurance.

(Special to The Telegraph.) St. Stephen, June 14—Fire broke out this morning in the house of Joseph McLay, on Bass Wood Ridge, six miles from town. Mrs. McLay was burned to death. A visit to the scene of the fire revealed the following particulars:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph McLay, with a brother of Mrs. McLay, occupied a comfortable home, the savings of a long, industrious life. This morning the woman was at work outside a shed attending to the smoking of a ham, and her husband was in the barn, nearby, harnessing a horse. A high wind carried the fire to a shed nearby. The woman went in the shed, probably for a pail of water.

Standing inside the door the smoke overcame the woman, who fell to the floor. Her husband, who attempted to enter the shed, was driven back by the flames, after he was badly burned about the head.

Before neighbors arrived the fire had spread to the house and barn, both of which were destroyed. Two cows, one horse and a pig, as well as the contents of all the buildings were lost.

Many farmers' homes in Charlotte county there was no insurance. This man in a short time has lost his worldly belongings as well as the savings of years. Mr. McLay is nearly insane with grief at his great loss.

Coroner Rose went from town, and after hearing the story from Mr. McLay, ordered the charred bones of the unfortunate woman to be buried, deeming an inquest unnecessary.

NEW BRUNSWICK G. T. P. ROUTE SETTLED SOON

Minister of Railways Announces That Tenders Will Likely Be Called Next Month

Surveyors have nearly completed task of deciding as between central or river location--Says road will be ready as soon as Quebec-Winnipeg section--Worn, but not mutilated silver, to be redeemed at par--Government thinking of making alcohol for industrial purposes free.

Ottawa, June 12--Hon. Mr. Aylesworth introduced the bill in regard to the appeal court of Manitoba. It was read a first time.

Mr. Fielding introduced a bill respecting currency. He said that it was given power to the finance minister and receiver-general to redeem worn silver, bronze and copper coins with new ones. These old coins would be taken at par at the department and new ones given for them. This did not refer to mutilated coins. It was an offence against the law to mutilate coins, and therefore they could not be taken in exchange.

R. L. Borden made a sympathetic reference to the C. P. R. case. He referred to the fact that, while accusations were made against Sir Hector when in public life, he had done nothing to affect his honor.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier agreed with what Mr. Borden said, adding that Sir Hector was one of the most courteous members of the house and, although serious accusations were laid against him when his department was under review, there was nothing brought home to him personally.

Foster's Grievance Again.

Hon. George E. Foster once again referred to the C. P. R. case. He said that the case came up last week in the House and allowed a week to get counsel and prepare his case. He would not do this again, but he had the right to go on discussing it now, Mr. Speaker.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier--I was about to call your attention to the fact that the honorable member is talking to a past debate. Mr. Foster said he would refrain from this. He went on to say that when parliament appoints the judges to see that justice is carried out, members should guard their privileges and dignity. The privileges of a member being invaded, the dignity of parliament is also invaded. Parliament was therefore the body to pass judgment upon it. He said that he brought the case to the attention of the house. The house was called upon to pronounce upon it.

He knew of several cases coming before the house since he came into it. These cases were carried on with all proper decorum. Breaches of the privileges of parliament occurred. He said that he did not know of any case since he came into the house. He called attention to a case in England on Aug. 4, 1901. John Redmond took exception to an article in the Globe of London, in which it referred to the Irish as "rabble rascals and corrupt."

Mr. Oler--We all know that this was going to happen. Mr. Emerson said that the rumormonger was still abroad. But even if it were true that the G. T. R. had bought an American railway it would not be any worse than the C. P. R. that had had American connections. And the member for Toronto did not see any harm in this. Mr. Oler said that the C. P. R. was only interested in Canadian ports. Duncan Ross (Yale and Cariboo) said that the C. P. R. had had six connections with the United States. The company is building a line from their road running down through Moosejaw to Minneapolis beginning at the head of Lake Superior. The direct road of the C. P. R. from St. Paul to Winnipeg and making the shortest possible connection with these two roads at the head of Lake Superior.

Mr. Oler merely added that the C. P. R. was working for Canadian ports. Dr. Dams of St. John, was of the same opinion because he saw the freight ship from St. John by the C. P. R. from the western states.

Mr. Patterson--You can't carry the freight to Canadian ports without a road. The item passed.

Mr. Fielding, in reply, stated that this was done there should be a date for closing as well.

Mr. German thought that what was more important than either was to fix a date for a general election. The present system was very unsatisfactory to business men.

To Consider Free Alcohol.

Mr. Fielding, on the customs tariff bill, said that the government was considering the question of making free alcohol for industrial purposes. The matter would be dealt with in some form at the next session. As to what was to be done depended upon whether alcohol could be secured so that it would not be used for drinking purposes.

Route Not Settled Yet.

On the vote of $10,000,000 for the transcontinental, the minister of railways said there were three parties working on the National Transcontinental route through New Brunswick.

"The commissioners," said Mr. Emerson, "are in a position to ask the government to approve of the portion of the route from Moncton to the Miramichi, or from Moncton to the Nashua, whenever the back route or the river route should be decided upon. Surveys are going on."

DELEGATES TO THE TOURIST BOOM

Mr. Copp, M. P., of Digby, Says Town Would Do Better to Develop Fisheries

Discussion continues in the county here. Mr. Copp declared himself to be in opposition to the steps being taken to boom Digby as a watering place. If the same energy and money that was spent in inducing strangers to visit Digby during the tourist season, was put into developing Digby's fishing resource, he says, the result would be of much more material benefit. Last year said Mr. Copp, the value of the catch was $1,242,000, and it was possible to double this figure. At least the tourist trade was uncertain, and the goods season came almost exclusively from Halifax and St. John markets. There was too much concern given the question of how to increase the tourist business and not enough practical attention given to expanding what was unquestionably Digby's greatest asset--the fisheries. The town, he said, could be made one of the greatest fishing ports in the world. He pointed to the marlin, porcupine, and other fish that could be put up and in other ways the importance of the town as a fish supply center be advanced.

The chief market, said Mr. Copp, is Boston, and he regretted that Montreal was not also one of the main markets. He thought it undoubtful that if there was a better system of transportation.

Mr. Copp, speaking of an improved bay steamship service, drew attention to what is being done along the west shore of Nova Scotia. Meetings have been held in the various towns, and addresses dealing with commercial affairs, given at Westport from Halifax, the object being to work up better trade relations between Halifax and the smaller towns. Mr. Copp was of the opinion that if St. John expects to get the trade of the towns in west and south-west Nova Scotia, it will be essential to provide better facilities for transporting the goods. In addition, Dr. J. W. Daniels and Dr. A. A. Stockton had given the matter consideration, but it was more a question of attention on the part of the local board of trade.

The suspension of Capt. J. H. Pratt, of the fishing curfew, said Mr. Copp had come to him as a great surprise. Mr. Copp had always known Capt. Pratt as one of the best officers in the service.

Mr. Wilson (Ligon) approved of the bill and suggested increasing it to $5. He said that it would be collected from persons coming from the United States. The United States wanted it so that it could be used in Canada if necessary to keep out undesirable.

Mr. Oler pointed out that the tax was prohibitive. The clause merely gave power to the government to levy a tax if it was not collected. He added that the tax would not be collected from emigrants returning to Canada.

Mr. German (Welland) said that he expected to see the working of the $2 tax imposed by the United States. He said that the tax would be collected under regulations and would not apply to any upon which the government was paying a bonus.

ROOSEVELT'S DAUGHTER RANKED PEERESSES

Sat by King Edward's Side During Dinner at American Embassy Last Night

London, June 12--Seldom has the entertainment of the representative of any foreign government attracted the attention of the social, diplomatic and political world that did the dinner and reception given by Ambassador and Mrs. Reid at Dorchester House this evening. For Representative King Edward, who was accompanied by his daughter, the Countess of Rothes, marked his return to the United States and the chief executive of Park Lane, in the vicinity of Dorchester House, drew immense crowds as the carriage of distinguished guests passed through the fashionable thoroughfares to the residence which, since Mrs. Reid took it a year ago, has welcomed the most famous Englishmen and visiting Americans and foreigners.

In many respects, however, the gathering this evening was distinctive, for beside King Edward, who was attended by Lord Granard, Lord in waiting, and Captain Holford, equerry, and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, the company included cabinet ministers, political leaders of both parties, diplomats and persons of prominence in English society.

At the dinner there were present to meet the king, besides Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, Miss Reid, the Duke of Richmond and Gordon, the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch, the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough, the Duke of Roxburghe, Lord and Lady Crewe, Lord Tweedmouth, Countess Grey, wife of the governor-general of Canada, Lady Townley, wife of the secretary of the British embassy at Washington, Lord and Lady Lansdowne, Paul Cambon, the French ambassador and dean of the diplomatic corps, with Admiral Forrester, of the French navy, the Earl and Countess of Powis, the Earl and Countess of Gosford, Lord Carzon of Kellistoun, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Longworth, the Countess of Yarborough, Mrs. Don Cameron, wife of the late secretary of war of the United States, Mr. and Mrs. Olgren Mills, J. Biggley Carter, secretary of the American embassy, and Delaney Jay, private secretary to Ambassador Reid.

Premier Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Sir Edward Grey, foreign secretary, and Richard Burdon Haldane, secretary for war, had been invited, but were unavoidably prevented from attending.

A Bower of Flowers.

Particular care had been taken to make the interior of Dorchester House, but flowers of every variety, cut and potted, were used in profusion in banking the massive columns and railings of the grand staircase. Red and pink roses and scarlet ranunculus, now so much in vogue in interior decoration, predominated, but were placed tastefully amid bowers of ferns and clusters of marguerites, carnations and other favorites of English horticulturists.

Over the main entrance, which overlooks the Stanhope gate entrance of Hyde Park from Park Lane, a marble eagle looked down upon the arriving guests, and an entrance passed between banks of flowers to the head of the staircase, where they were received by Mr. and Mrs. Reid and presented in turn to King Edward and Mr. and Mrs. Longworth.

Dinner was served in the main dining hall, which contains many valuable paintings, and which on the occasion of Alexander and other varieties of omelette.

King Edward took Mrs. Reid, and at the king's desire Mrs. Longworth was seated at the other side of him, thus taking precedence of the duchess.

Sudden Death of John A. Morrell in His Home Wednesday.

Death in sudden manner came to John A. Morrell, a well known resident of Dorchester street, early Wednesday. Mr. Morrell, with his wife and son, Roy, resided at the corner of Dorchester and Sewell streets. For several years he had not been engaged in active work as he was suffering from heart trouble. Only yesterday he returned from Kays, Kings county, and it was thought the time spent there had improved his health.

Wednesday afternoon his son and wife went out, leaving him alone in the house. They returned home about 5 o'clock and his wife was horrified to find his father lying on the kitchen floor. He was gasping feebly and seemed far gone. Dr. W. S. Morrison, who lives near by, was immediately summoned, but when he arrived Mr. Morrell was dead. The deceased was a victim of heart trouble but it was evidently about to go out when stricken, and he was stricken for the street, his hat and walking stick lying close by.

Mr. Morrell was sixty-five years of age and a native of Kays, Kings county. He was well known in St. John and news of his death will come as a shock to many. One son, Roy, and his wife, formerly Miss Scribner, of Kays, survive him.

INTERESTING RUMORS ABOUT CANADIAN NORTHERN

Montreal Hears That Mackenzie and Mann Will Build Road to Moncton Instead of Government.

Montreal, June 12--There were a good many interesting rumors here today following the Canadian Northern railway meeting in Toronto yesterday.

No one believes now that the Grand Trunk Pacific and the Canadian Northern are in any way connected. The route of the trunk cord line between the two big companies is so complete that Mackenzie & Mann will offer the government to immediately build their line from Canada to Moncton, and thus relieve the Grand Trunk Pacific from the obligation.

"And do you believe that the figure thirteen is unlucky?" asked Pat. "Surely I do," replied Jerry. "I've seen it often. There's always thirteen against the judge and the twelve jury."

CONTRACT FOR THE AMUSEMENTS FOR EXHIBITION MADE

Will Give Care to the Amusement Booths on the Grounds This Year--Women's Council Given Good Space--A Bigger and Better Dining Hall Being Arranged.

Tuesday Manager Milligan entered into a contract with F. G. Spencer under which the latter will supply attractions for both the amusement halls in connection with the St. John exhibition. Speaking of the matter, Mr. Milligan said that his intention was to have an exceptionally good vaudeville show in one hall and something of an entirely new nature, but particularly attractive in the other. The expectation was that both attractions would be so far superior to the last exhibition that people would wonder how they were so pleased with the shows at that exhibition.

It is also planned to succeed what was called "Fakirs' Row" with Amusement Booths on the grounds. The management is not objecting to games, such as ring toss, but it will insist that every booth be respectably housed and instead of a row of tents and shacks there will be lines of nice buildings.

Special attention will be given this year to the restaurant. It is not yet known who will cater, but the management propose to make quite a tastefully and liberally, rather than one of serving first class food that those desirous of eating may make.

In former years there was the complaint of insufficient room at the dining room. This year the management will make an addition to the dining room, 32 feet by 40 feet, and this will increase the whole space by from one-third to one-half. Everything about the dining room will be first class.

The department of woman's work, under the supervision of the Women's Council, has been given the space once given over to the art gallery. The department is being very generally remembered in the making up of the prize list. The list will soon be ready for distribution.

THE VOYAGE OF THE "ARCTIC"

The investigators at Ottawa are getting considerable fun out of the "Arctic" inquiry. No one appears to regard the matter as really serious, though some of the committee members affect to do so.

It will be urged in extenuation of some of the proceedings, we may guess, that the Arctic is a deadly dull place at best, and that discipline is difficult of enforcement.

Laurier Moves Censure. The prime minister said he felt it his duty, as leader of the house, to give his views upon this question and in so doing he was sorry to have to take issue with Mr. Ross. He respected the press as much as any man and was not at all surprised that Mr. Ross defended the rights of his case as warmly as he had.

"On the other hand, while I recognize in the fullest possible way the right of the press to criticize and while I recognize that the press should have the most ample liberty in criticizing, advocating, censuring, expressing to which the press is entitled, at the same time I think we must maintain the doctrine that the press, like everybody else, is amenable to the jurisdiction of the house of commons.

"There is nothing more certain than that according to the law of parliament, as it has come down to us from 1539, anything which is publicly said or publicly written derogatory to the honor of the house, as a body or to some of its members is an invasion of the privileges of the house."

In support of his contention Sir Wilfrid quoted one of the standard authorities on parliamentary government. The cases that Sir Wilfrid quoted from for breach of parliamentary privilege extended from 1539 down till 1831. But neither Sir Wilfrid nor any other speaker was able to quote a case in the British parliament similar to the one under discussion since 1839.

"The passage in La Presse newspaper complained of passes the bounds of reasonable criticism and constitutes a breach of the privileges of this house, and that Mr. Speaker be instructed to communicate this resolution to him."

Mr. Horden supported the resolution, and said that some parts of Mr. Cingmars' defence might be called impertinent. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Cingmars appeared at the bar on the motion of Sir Wilfrid. He was again received with applause, which lasted for some time. The resolution was read to Cingmars and the accused was then discharged.

PRESBYTERIAN LEADERS DIVIDE ON UNION QUESTION

Debate Continued All Day Yesterday and Some Stirring Speeches Were Made--First Amendment Voted Down by Large Majority, and a Second One Offered Which Caused Lively Dispute--Will Be Threshed Out Again Today.

London, Ont., June 12--The union debate was continued this morning in the presence of a complete assembly and every remaining seat occupied by visitors. The weather is delightfully cool and every speech was followed with the greatest interest. Principal McLaren of Knox College spoke weighty words and when later President Forrest said that he was the "most consistent" man in the church, it gave the secret away of why his opinions are exceedingly valuable. At the outset he wished to set himself right with the press, which for the past few months has published that "he is a convert" to the scheme of union. This he denied for the reason that the time has not yet come for repentance. He was prepared to support the motion in order to let the delegates go on, but he did not change his views or pronounced finally upon the issue. Like the mover, went over the ground but told a different tale giving valuable insight to the way things went in the joint committee. His speech had three main divisions, namely, the basis upon which he would support the union, the confession of faith holds mainly to the spiritual than organic form of the church. There may be a union of believers where there is no organization and the reverse. Surely if Christ's prayer was for corporate union, he prayed for some things that have been so strangely long in fulfillment. I shall vote, however, for the motion, not because I have much hope of success, but that now is not the time to halt. Our ministers who have hesitated before allowing themselves to be deprived of the counsel of the eldership and the latter will not vote themselves out of existence."

Principal Forrest's Ringing Speech.

President Forrest, of Halifax, enlivened the house during every minute of a half hour address. Some of his sallies were very clever as when he said, "For fifty years we have gone forward in the business of union both by prayer and conduct. Now, when that business is about to be answered some would try to get out of it."

There were lively moments between him and Dr. Sedgewick, who was quoted from the records of the house where the latter said quite complimentary things about the other churches.

Chief Justice Taylor accepted the challenge that no elder had been heard against the question. It will be memorable in this assembly how the massive figure and glowing face of his lordship appeared as he told very decidedly why he was in the opposition. He was not in the opposition, I was told, because I was in the union. A solemn pledge to maintain the issue. I am I today, and are my fellow elders, prepared to give this up for a hantion."

Dr. Duval, of Winnipeg, followed. He has few equals in the country as an entertaining speaker. He is an actor, and in fact he can be scholarly and incisive and seemed to feel it to be his duty to set the chief right. He said, "There are those in Palestine who are waiting for Abraham's seed and of course could not tolerate any view advanced by the Lord himself. But Judaism, however historic it had been, did not obstruct the progress of truth. There is no alternative to organic union most deplorable rivalry."

Dr. Sedgewick Against Union. Dr. Sedgewick spoke in the afternoon. He insisted with a good deal of power that the fact of sending these documents down for examination would be taken by the people as approval of the assembly.

"It is only the beginning of drift. Where are we going to end? Now is the time to stop, for the proposed new creed is profoundly distasteful to me and to many of our people."

Rev. A. A. McDonald, editor of the Toronto Globe, spoke as a layman. He succeeded in adding one or two important thoughts to the discussion. "I only trust the people, God is in this thing and let us stand aside while we behold His marvelous works."

The joint committee was amazed at results. We must not oppose the progress of the Kingdom of Heaven."

T. C. James, of Charlottetown, said that as far as he knew his province was in opposition.

A very valuable speech against the motion was made by the clerk of assembly, Dr. Campbell of Montreal. He said, "I only know one woman who is in favor of union. For myself I fear that it is more feasible than desirable. The Presbyterian church comprises the rallying forces in all that make for a noble and pure Canadian life. Let them unite with us but we must not lower our standard."

Principal Stringer declared that the amendment was twenty years too late in being moved. "We cannot stop now."

Amendment Got Few Votes. It was now getting late and although many wished to speak, a motion was made to take the roll. Principal Patrick therefore made his reply. In handling the amendment, Mr. McKay, its mover, appealed either for the right of reply or an end to personalities. The speaker coolly retorted that any member of the assembly should allow straight forward criticism. He strongly affirmed that it would be breaking faith to accept the amendment because when the movement was begun there was nothing short of dishonesty if they were not to proceed with all freedom to accomplish success.

When the time arrived to vote twenty-two supported the amendment and 179 against, and it was declared lost. Rev. R. G. MacBeth here rose with a second amendment and on a point of order raised by Judge Forbes quite a turmoil ensued over the liberty to permit further speaking. The moderator ruled in favor of Mr. MacBeth, hence tomorrow there is to be further debate.

The General Assembly this morning fell into a sort of a deadlock. It was one of those occasions when great parliaments or conventions become nearly unmanageable. Dr. Falconer is doing exceedingly well, and at the same avoiding the manners of a dictator and to his credit he stuck to his guns though he was declared in error that his decision was not strictly in accordance with the law.

Rev. R. G. MacBeth, of Paris, after the first vote was taken on the amendment to Dr. Patrick's motion and declared lost, proposed a new amendment to refrain from sending an incomplete document like the "Basis" to the people for information until the scope had been widened to admit the Anglican, Baptist and other denominations into negotiations.

President Forrest raised the point of order that the first amendment having no second amendment and defeated by vote the time had come to vote on the original motion. Both Drs. Campbell and Sedgewick amid great excitement held that the amendment was competent. "Blue books" were in many hands and general confusion prevailed, but the moderator was calm and fair attitude and ruled liberally to allow the speaker to proceed.

Dr. Holdman seconded the amendment and among other things said that the Methodist and Presbyterian in the west had a good deal to do in the way of decent treatment of each other, while side by side before proposing to enter a corporate union. The vote was taken and about three to one the amendment was lost. This ended the first part of the report.

To Give Anglicans and Baptists a Chance. The next resolution, moved by Dr. Patrick, was to enlarge the scope of the deliberations to admit Anglicans and Baptists.

Principal McLaren moved in amendment that they be not done at the present stage. He thought that it would not be a benefit to the parties, nor fairly well started. Professor Deane, of the University of Toronto, strongly urged the motion. The whole report being put the house came to an almost unanimous decision to adopt it. Thus the union committee is re-appointed. What has been done is to be left to the people for information and a larger scope is made to open communication with other denominations.

Alex Warden the New Treasurer. The assembly this afternoon appointed Alex. Warden to the vacant trusteeship at a salary of $2,500. He is the son of the well known late Dr. R. H. Warden; is only 27 years old and has been all his business life of eight years in the service of the church and will now stand in financial circles equal to the presidency of a bank or insurance company. Last year more than $500,000 of contributions were made to his hands, and a total of $3,000,000 handled. There was no other candidate mentioned in the assembly.

They have, however, passed a code of rules to govern the appointment, and of the adjustment of the duties Dr. John Somerville, of Owen Sound, was elected joint clerk and arbitrator at a salary of $3,000, which appointment was unanimous. There will now be two men who will share the duties performed so well by the late official, yet both will not equal his work.

There will be another heavy day as some perplexing business, ere the assembly is closed. Regarding the union debate Principal Gordon said that it was the best oratorical effort in his day.

Old Cannon on Queen Square. The site for the old French cannon, which is to be placed on the Queen square, was decided on yesterday, when a delegation from the Historical Society and the city took a walk over the ground. It will be set up opposite the residence of Mrs. John H. Thomson, near the north side of the square and the centre walk. The delegates consisted of Col. Armstrong, president of the Historical Society; Clarence Ward, Dr. P. R. Inches, Mayor Sears, Ald. McGoldrick, Director Wacey and Sgt. Major Sully. The carriage is almost completely filled with the mounting. He will consult with the president of the society and the director of public works as to the laying of the platform.

June 25th, Champlain Day, is fixed for the ceremony of the dedication, when it is likely that an elaborate ceremonial will be gone through with.

"So he praised my singing, did he?" "Yes, he said it was heavenly." "Did he really say that?" "Well, not exactly, but he probably meant it." "He said it was heavenly."

Canon Harrower of New York. By organization, he said, he did not mean that there ought to be an attempt at imitating some other school. Such efforts had been made, but they had failed. The speaker gave her a public school system should not be followed closely and slavishly, but instead the Sunday school should organize and some of the principles of the public school should be adopted. SEWS UP WOUND IN MAN'S HEART

Surgeon in a Philadelphia Hospital Takes Six Stitches in Pulsating Organ.

A Philadelphia despatch to the New York Herald says: For twenty minutes the pulsating heart of William Wyatt, a negro, who had been stabbed in a struggle over a knife, was held in the hands of two physicians in the Pennsylvania Hospital last night, while Dr. Richard Hart sewed six stitches in the organ and then replaced it in the man's body.

Wyatt, who was at first thought fatally injured, was reported to be resting comfortably, and the physicians believe that he will recover.

DR. PERCY WILEED IS EXPELLED

Back Bay Physician Was Accused in Geary Case and Acquitted by Jury

BUT DOCTORS BAR HIM OUT

Members of Massachusetts Medical Society Say He Was Guilty of "Conduct Unbecoming a Physician and Member of the Society."

(Boston Transcript). Dr. Percy D. McLeod, of Huntington Avenue, the physician who was accused in connection with the death of Susan Geary, of Cambridge, last fall, and who was tried and found not guilty, after he had been arrested and bailed out, was expelled today from membership in the Massachusetts Medical Society, when the one hundred and twenty-fifth annual meeting opened at Paul Revere Hall at 9 o'clock.

The action was taken upon the recommendation of the board of trial, which has had the case under consideration for several months, and following the charges preferred by other members of the society against Dr. McLeod. The charges upon which he was unanimously expelled from further membership is "conduct unbecoming a physician and member of the society."

The McLeod case was taken up very quickly and without discussion, the members present all seemingly being in favor of such action without a dissenting voice.

As soon as the matter had been disposed of the committee on amendments and changes in the by-laws reported and an animated discussion followed. The report of the committee recommended that the first by-law be so amended as to strike out the different classes of practitioners most prominent in this state--allopathy, homoeopathy, spiritualism, Thompsonianism and eclectic medicine. Some of the members of the society have felt for years that the society's by-laws were a little too strict in this matter, and today's action is the result.

The practical effect of the change in the by-laws will be to make members and would-be members free to declare any speciality to membership physicians who profess to treat under the doctrines of the homoeopathic school of medicine and that is really what is desired. THE WEIGHT OF THE CROWN

BY F. M. WHITE
Author of "Tregarthen's Wife," "The Robe of Lucifer," "The Crimson Blind," Etc.

CHAPTER XLIII.
In search of the King.
Lechmere had plenty of time before him to think over the problem. It would be entirely useless for him to try and see Anne to any rate for some time to come. There was consolation in the fact, too, that Anne would have to eventually return to the hotel. Lechmere found that Maxzoff had succeeded in getting his own way with the queen, and that she even seemed quite cheerful and resigned.

It was quite late in the evening before Lechmere received his message from Perotri. It must have been an expensive one, for it was long.
"Come over by the night boat," it ran. "Accident took place half way between Valais and Paris, near a station called Amiens. Drive there from the junction at Poitiers and do not let yourself be seen, as Maxzoff is here. Ask for Pierre Loti's hut and there await developments. All things take care not to be seen. And I am on my way Eastward."

The thing was vague and in a way unsatisfactory. There was no news of the king in it, while the message, as if some tragedy had happened that the sender of the telegram was afraid to put into evidence. And the mention of Amiens was distinctly worse. That place was evidently acting as deputy to the countess, who had been recalled to England by some urgent business. The Channel passage, after all, she had not crossed the Channel, perhaps she was satisfied to find that the scheme to wreck the special train was not so successful. At any rate she was back in England and would have to be watched. The only man who could do that was Ronald Hope. Lechmere found him at length at Josie's lodgings talking over matters with her and Ada.

had been divided by a couple of sheets over a clothes-horse, and behind this Lechmere gazed at the patient in front of him. He was not at all surprised to find that Lechmere secured the door as a means of precaution, and passed behind the sheet. As he expected Maxwell to be there, he opened a pair of languid eyes as Lechmere touched him on the shoulder.
"Go away," he said. "Why do you bother me? There is nothing much the matter with me if I were not so terribly sleepy. I can't get my head right. I don't give me all the money I had, too. What's the matter?"

Maxwell's eyes suddenly changed, he identified Lechmere with a smile of pleasure.
"I felt quite sure that you would turn up," he said. "Why are you here? Did I baffle them? But you don't know anything about that or about the king?"
"Indeed I do," Lechmere answered. "I have a friend," he said, "a gentleman who has been very good to me. He was with me in my hut last night. And before he went away he said that very likely a gentleman came from England to see me. And he said that the gentleman's name began by a certain letter. Would that be so good as to suggest what that letter is likely to be?"

CHAPTER XLIV.
Dead.
There lay the body of the King of Asturia, a man of about thirty years of age, with a pale, almost unshaven face, and a thin, nervous build. He was lying on his back, his head resting on a pillow, his eyes closed, and his hands clasped in front of him. The body was wrapped in a white sheet, and the face was covered with a white cloth. The room was dimly lit, and the atmosphere was one of mystery and suspense.

CHAPTER XLV.
Check!
Maxzoff was disposed of at any rate for the present. Lechmere's letter to the Chief of the Police in Paris had been sent. He was now waiting for the life story of the man who called himself Prince Maxzoff, who, in point of fact, was one of the greatest aristocrats of the world. Under another name the French police had long wanted him for an offence, and Lechmere had been in a position to supply the missing details and facts for identification. Besides, the head of the Paris police was an old acquaintance of Lechmere's and valued his opinion highly. Thus it was that no time was lost in trying Maxzoff by side after receipt of Lechmere's letter. Maxzoff was a cunning enough scoundrel, but he had more than his wits in the old queen's messenger. The coast was quite clear now.

on the contrary there was a fine smile on her face that was not to be missed.
"I have been longing for you," she said. "If you had not come to me, positively I must have invited your mamma. I good news of the king?"
Maxzoff looked with some alarm at the royal speaker. "Thomastine, be obliged by those rose before him. Evidently the queen had taken leave of her senses."

"The good news," he stammered. "Margaret, there is no good news. Somebody has been cruelly deceiving you. Must be prepared to hear that which is bad, very bad in the most extreme degree. That the king escaped," the queen cried. "He escaped from the wrecked train and made his way secretly and swiftly to our capital. It was perhaps the only thing you were following that strange matter up. Was it an accident?"

LUMBERMEN ARE NOT FAVORABLE TO A COMMISSION

A. P. Barnhill Speaks on Washington Despatch Regarding the St. John River

IF ANY COMMISSION, SHOULD BE SPECIAL
Secretary Root, of United States, Proposes Joint Commission to Investigate the Conditions -- Former Proposition for Reference to Waterways Commission Was Met With Objection -- The Case in Court.

The position of the St. John river lumbermen relative to a proposed joint commission to investigate the St. John river conditions, was set out by A. P. Barnhill, K. C., in an interview sought by a Telegraph reporter Tuesday night following publication of a Washington despatch in the paper. "Secretary Root proposes that the work of lumbermen and the cutting of boards on the St. John river, on the Maine border, shall cease. At his suggestion and with the cooperation of Senator Hale, who reported the consular and diplomatic appropriation bill, that measure contemplates the appointment of a joint commission to investigate and report upon the conditions and uses of the St. John river, and make recommendations for the regulation of the use thereof by the citizens and subjects of the United States and Great Britain, according to the provisions of a treaty between the two countries."

A. P. Barnhill, K. C., was shown the despatch by a Telegraph reporter, and was asked to speak on the matter as representing the St. John river lumbermen. Mr. Barnhill said: "It had been suggested that the matter might come before the International Waterways Commission but that idea had not been received with favor by the St. John river lumbermen. At the time the suggestion was made I expressed on behalf of the lumbermen, strong disapproval of the matter coming before any commission, as it was a question of rights under the law as it stands at present, and I felt strongly that it ought not to be referred to any commission."

"The idea of a commission," he said, "carries with it more or less of an arbitration and would mean vexatious delay, and it was felt that with such large vested interests the idea of an arbitration should not be entertained."

"If, however, we must have a commission of any kind we felt strongly it ought to be a special commission with local representation. The International Waterways Commission is composed entirely of the Canadian side, of appointed representatives who would not be in touch with the St. John river lumbermen. I felt that if a special commission were appointed it would be to the advantage of the lumbermen, and I was glad to see that a special commission is to be agreed to and in view of that fact I do not care to make any further statement."

FOUR BROTHERS BURNED TO DEATH
Ottawa, June 12.—The town of Killaloe, situated in South Renfrew, ninety-four miles from Ottawa, has been plunged into deep mourning as the result of a tragedy that occurred early Saturday morning, when the four sons of Daniel Dickenson, engineer, were burned to death by a fire which destroyed their home. The dead are: Daniel Alexander Dickenson, aged twelve; Carl Herbert Dickenson, aged eight; William Clemens Dickenson, aged five; James Dickenson, aged three, his mother of the victims, and Irene, her only daughter, aged four, had narrow escapes and were lucky in not being burned to death. The mother jumped with Irene in her arms and while she was getting a ladder for the purpose of rescuing her unfortunate little sons the roof collapsed, burying them in the ruins.

TWO YARMOUTH MEN SERIOUSLY INJURED
Yarmouth, N. S., June 12.—A very serious Yarmouth accident occurred here this morning. Jacob Boyd's gig, team and harness, was overturned on the main road, and telegraphed a gig in which Nelson O. Pearson was sitting and to which was attached a very valuable colt. Pearson, in jumping out, broke his leg and sustained other serious injuries. The gig was demolished, and the colt has not yet been secured. Boyd was dragged by his horse and had several ribs broken. His team was badly smashed.

SPEAKERS FAVOR UNION OF CHURCHES

Rev. Dr. Wilson, Rev. Dr. Fotheringham and Rev. Mr. Hindley Heard

UNION MEETING AT METHODIST DISTRICT
Sessions Yesterday, and Public Meeting on Union Project in the Evening -- Dr. Fotheringham Says He Has Modified His Views.

The ministerial session of the St. John district of the Methodist church opened in the Queen Square church Wednesday in the morning. Rev. C. W. Hamilton presided. Dr. Evans, J. M. H. J. Clarke, J. A. Clarke, M. A., F. H. W. Pickles and Charles Combs were continued in superintendence of the church. The customary questions regarding the characters of clergymen of the district were asked and answered and J. E. Shanklin, B. A., a probationer, was passed.

Rev. Dr. Wilson.
Dr. Wilson referred to the speech of Joseph Howe in 1881, favoring the union of the provinces. From that time, Dr. Wilson said, he has been an ardent advocate of ecclesiastical union as well as political union. There had been some union political that had been successful and some that had not. As a striking illustration he pointed to Germany and Italy, where it had been a great success. As against that there was Austria-Hungary, where it had not been successful.

Rev. Dr. Fotheringham.
Dr. Fotheringham, Presbyterian minister, said he had remarked with respect to speak that he might say things strongly against the union but after listening to everything that had been said he would be bound to confess his views had been greatly modified. He had spoken of his union with reference to the congregation of the church on earth and Christ had been the son of man. He had referred to the movement had taken. The Christian endeavor was an example of the union of the bodies. The backs of union should be the backs of the many things now they were in accord on such as a League Day, the inspiration of the Bible, and the doctrines of original sin. All agree that the difference and spoke of the various methods that could be adopted on church government.

Rev. Mr. Hindley.
The last speaker was Rev. Mr. Hindley, acting pastor of the Congregational church. He was also strongly in favor of union and spoke of the Congregational position as regards it. It must, he thought, be made possible for the same kind of control of church government as now enjoyed by the Congregational church. He insisted the Salvation Army, the Y. M. C. A., the International Sunday School Association, Christian Endeavor as pointing to the growth of non-denominationalism.

FOUND $5,000 IN GARBAGE CART

Montreal Scavengers Gathered Them Up in Business District -- Bills Were in Three Bundles and Chopped Into Six Pieces.
(Montreal, June 12.—Five thousand dollars in bank bills were found by two city scavenger employees in a garbage cart parked in the contents of their dust carts as they tipped them out at the Fulton street receptacle today. The treasure was contained in three packages, covered with yellow paper and carefully sealed. The packages seemed to have been lying in the refuse for a considerable time. The scavengers, who were called in to examine the cart, found the bills in six pieces, which will make the realization of their value difficult without some explanation of the reason for their mutilation.

DIGBY FISHERMAN DROWNED; COMPANION HAD CLOSE CALL
Men Were Being Towed by Gasoline Boat When Their Craft Foundered.
Digby, N. S., June 12.—Another sad drowning accident occurred in the Bay of Fundy at 2 o'clock, this afternoon. Edw. Burwell Outhouse and Osborne Ruggles, who were returning from the Bear Cove fishing ground, off Long Island, were taken by a heavy sea. The boat was towed by Burwell Outhouse and William Cosabon. All went well until within about three and a half miles from the shore, and four and a half miles from Bear Head Light. The boat began to pitch and roll, and immediately sank beneath the waves, leaving both of its occupants struggling in the sea.

STEAMSHIP LINES OBJECT TO NEW IMMIGRATION LAW
Delegation Protests to Minister of Interior About Proposal to Increase Their Responsibility.
Ottawa, June 12.—Representatives of the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk railroads, the Allan, Dominion, Donaldson and other lines, called on the minister of the interior today in connection with the stricter measures the latter has taken in regard to undesirable immigrants. The steamship companies are at present bound to return any of the immigrants who are found to be inadmissible. The delegation, however, in addition to making the railways liable for the expenses of deportations, provides that any immigrants who turn out to be inadmissible may be shipped back home at the expense of the transportation interests.

MORE EVIDENCE ABOUT THE MONCTON LAND PURCHASE
OTTAWA, June 14.—(Special)—In the committee of public accounts this morning, the Hon. Mr. Mackenzie King, member of the N. B. through whom some 19 acres of land acquired by the I. C. R. for extension of the yard at Moncton, N. B., was called in question by Mr. Emmerson that he was a Conservative and for some 12 years had been a member and officer of the I. C. R. For some time before the sale he had been endeavoring to sell land to the government railway because it was favorably situated forming a good head end for the extension of the road and main line terminating at the junction, and negotiations for the sale of the land to Mr. Lodge had been proceeding for some time before the sale was effected.
There were several different properties included in the sale, and the railway would not want any one of the properties unless all could be procured. There had, he said, been a great increase in value of land recently, and that land in the vicinity had been held at $1,000 an acre and had heard of other land being held at $2,000 per acre. That was for land across the street from the land which the government had purchased, of the later quotation, however, he had no personal knowledge.
Mr. Hewson was examined at some length by Mr. Emmerson as to the connection in the Moncton registration office, and the time it required to make a search of the title to the property in question, and expressed the opinion that Mr. Friel's account for that work was not unreasonable.
To Mr. Amis Mr. Hewson said he had not been secretary of the Conservative Association since Sept. 1904, but the $300 he had laid out of this transaction had not changed his politics. He had conducted all arrangements in the purchase, but Mr. Matthew Lodge had advanced the money.
Mr. Lodge had received $18,880 from the government for purchases to cover work on the railway, and the witness' fee of $300, so that Mr. Lodge made a profit on the transaction of $8,400.
Mr. Foster, general manager of the I. C. R., was called, but he did not know anything about the matter except what he learned from the manager of the railway. "Call the minutes," Mr. Foster asked next.
Hon. H. R. Emmerson went into the box and described the visit to Moncton in August, 1904, for the inspection of land, when it was decided to be desirable to get it all for railway purposes. He did not know then that Mr. Lodge was getting options on the land, but Mr. Lodge told him the land was for sale.
Mr. Lodge had never been authorized by him to act as a purchaser of these lands for the government nor led to believe that the government would buy the land.
Mr. Emmerson expressed the view that if the government had gone to different owners and bought land it would have cost a good deal more.
