FAILURE OF THE CROFTER SCHEME.

London, May 6 .- In the House of Commons today Right Hon. THE LATEST CABLE SCHEME. London, May 6 .- Mr. Sydney Buxton, Parliamentary Secretary of the Colonial Office, replied in the House of Commons today to a question of Sir George Baden-Powell, whether the Government had received a request from Canada to call a conference of colonies interested with a view of arranging the details for the laying and maintaining of a submarine Pacific cable between Canada and Australia.

They are willing that he should be again arraigned, but it is understood that the heads of the church and many other eminent persons urge upon the Government the fact that much harm would be done to the public morals by the adoption of such a course, referring to the reprinting of all the pernicious details of the case. In the meantime the police are ordered not to maintain too close a watch upon Wilde's movements, and not to prevent him going to the continent if he wishes to go

The Standard will say tomorrow: "As the best way out of an awkward difficulty, the three protesting powers may be fairly congratulated on the issue of their intervention. They have really done Japan a good turn, however, by preventing her from acquiring an expensive and vulnerable encumbrance."

He expresses the utmost satisfaction with the terms agreed upon.

Miss Leiter, of Washington, has caused general rejoicing among the people on Mr. Curzon's estate, Kedlestone, near Derby. Lord Scarsdale, Mr. Curzon's father, gave 500 tenants luncheon in the halls shortly before Mr. and Mrs. Curzon arrived. Later he went to meet the bridal couple and escorted them to the hall. Mrs. Curzon's beauty and handsome costume was remarked generally by the persons watching along the road for her and her husband. At the hall Mr. and Mrs. Curzon received from the peasantry an illuminated address on a silver salver with inscriptions. Mr. Curzon's speech to the tenants was greeted with repeated cheers. After thanking them for their welcome he said: "The question has been asked why I went to America for a bride. The answer is before you."
(Cheers.) Mr. Curzon placed his hand affectionately on Mrs. Curzon's shoulder and the tenants cheered again. The route from Derby to Kedlestone was decorated with triumphal arches.

ITS DYING HOURS.

Fifty-Fourth Annual Meeting of the Mechanics' Institute.

The City Will be Asked to Run the Reading-Room Until the Free Library Is Open,

The 54th annual meeting of the London Mechanics' Institute was held last night, and the attendance was the largest for very many years. Though the institute is practically out of existence, the building having been sold under the auctioneer's hammer, yet the meeting was necessary, as a few items of important business have yet to be transacted. And in the dying hours of the institute-which met the wants of Londoners for over half a century-the greatest degree of harmony prevailed. and "unanimous" was the word for everything considered. The members decided to petition the City Council to take over the library and keep it open until the free library is ready. There were present: Messrs. Wm. Scarrow (president), W. J. Harvey (secretary), Alex. Harvey (treasurer), Col. Lewis, George Taylor, E. D. Cameron, John Shopland, Benj. W. Greer, R. S. Han-nah, M. S. Dillon, W. J. Saunby, J. I. Anderson, A. O. Jeffrey, Arch. Sharp, J. Trebilcock, Talbot Macbeth, B. C. McCann, John Macpherson, R. K. Cowan, R. M. C. Toothe, John A. Roe, J. Rankin, C. B. Edwards, U. A. Buchner. T. McFarlane and a number of others. President Scarrow welcomed the large membership to the 54th meeting. For more than half a century the institute had catered to the literary wants of the citizens, and he was pleased to see in the closing hours that interest in the institute was reviving. It must be accepted as signifying an increased literary taste in the citizens. Mr. Scarrow referred to what had necessarily to come to pass through the erection of the free library. In his opinion it would be advisable to keep the institute open until the new library was in full swing. Fortunately, the institute was now in a good financial standing, sufficient funds being in the treasury to keep the reading room open for a good while. On these grounds he thought the room should not be Totals4,199 There were 24 different newspapers and 34 magazines on file in the institute. Forty-three new members were received during the year. Mr. Scarrow then called attention to the sale of the institute. The price was certainly a good one, he said, which was gratifying from the fact that the directors offered the building to the city if they would take it over. Certain parties had stated that the building was an elephant on the directors' hands, and that they were anxious to unload it onto the city; but everything had proven a justification of the directors' statements—that if the city had assumed the building they would have had a place which would pay for itself in a few years. Col. Lewis suggested that before electing officers it would be better to consider whether or not the library should be handed to the free library board or the city. For his own part he preferred it going to the city, as the corporation had stayed by the institution in the past. Mr. Talbot Macbeth stated that under an act of the Legislature the board of directors could present a petition to the council asking them to carry over the institute library until the free library should open and appoint a board of management.

Mr. E. R. Cameron and Mr. Talbot Macbeth expressed the opinion that the free library would not be willing to run the institute reading room until the new building was ready. To bring the matter to a vote, Mr. Macbeth moved that the members request the board of management of the institute to petition the council to take over the reading room on condition that it be kept open until the new free library is in full

Mr. Toothe seconded and the resolution carried unanimously. Mr. C. B. Edwards moved that it be recommended that the present librarian, Miss Gray, be retained as assistant to the librarian at the free library.

Carried unanimously. "Any more resolutions?" asked 'Mr. Scarrow. "I am glad to see that everything is so harmonious."

Mr. Macbeth prefaced his nomina-tion of the directors with a neat little speech, in which he stated that he thought the institute should be buried by those who had been on the board for so many years. Some of them were on for 35 seasons, and it would be but a matter of courtesy to let them wind ins neirs intend to contest, while the insurance companies intend to resist up the affairs. He moved that the directors be Wm. Scarrow, Robert payment. Lewis. George Taylor, John Shopland, John A. Roe, A. O. Jeffrey, R. Hannah, W. J. Saunby and B. W. Greer. "Just to infuse a little new blood into the board," Mr. Toothe moved that

Messrs. R. Lewis and W. J. Saunby be replaced by Messrs. R. K. Cowan and J. Macpherson. Both these gentlemen withdrew with thanks, and Mr. Macbeth's nomination was carried. Messrs. J. Hargreaves and John Carnegie were elected auditors. The usual votes of thanks were passed and the meeting adjourned. The directors met subsequently and lected these officers: President-Wm. Scarrow. Treasurer-Alex. Harvey. Secretary—W. J. Harvey. Librarian—Miss Gray.

And Will Be Presented to the Council-

The Regulations. At a largely attended meeting of committees selected from different organizations of the city it was decided that the following petition be presented to the City Council for consideration and

"To the Mayor and Aldermen of the City of London: "Whereas section No. 31 of the Children's Protection Act provides as fol-"1. Municipal councils in cities, towns and incorporated villages shall have power to pass bylaws for the regulation of the time after which children shall not be in the streets at nightfall without proper guardianship, and the age or apparent age of boys and girls, respectively, under which they shall be required to be in their homes at the hour appointed, and such municipal council shall in such case cause a beil or bells to be rung, at or near the time appointed, as a warning, to be called the 'Curfew Bell,' after which the children so required to be in their homes or off the streets, shall not be upon the public streets except under proper control or guardianship or for some unavoidable cause. "2. Any child so found after the time appointed shall be liable to be warned by any constable or peace officer to go home, and if after such warning the child shall be found loitering on streets such child may be taken by such constable to its home. "3. Any parent or guardian may be summoned for permitting his child to habitually break said bylaw after having been warned in writing, and may be fined for the first offence $1, without costs, and for the second offence $2 and for a third, or any subsequent offence $5. "And whereas, it appears to your petitioners, that numerous children of tender years are nightly found loitering upon the corners and other places in the public streets in the city of London at late hours instead of being in their homes under the control of their parents or proper guardians, and that thereby their morals are either corrupted or in great danger of being so, and the tendency towards crime is greatly increased thereby: "And whereas, in the opinion of your petitioners, it would not only be for the good of the said children themselves, but also for the good of the public at large in the city of London and elsewhere that all children either under or apparently under 15 years of age should be prohibited from being in the pubic streets after a reasonable hour, unless from some unavoidable cause or unless they are under proper control of guardianship:

"Now we, the undersigned ratepayers and citizens of the city of London. do therefore pray that your honorable body will be pleased to pass a bylaw in pursuance of said section No. 31 of the Children's Protection Act, making the hour at which children under the age summer frock by the revival of the or apparent age of 15 years shall not be in the streets in summer after 9 o'clock p.m., and in winter after 8 o'clock p.m."

ed to promote the action of the joint committee, the meeting adjourned to convene at the chairman's call.

After several committees were form-

'Women, you know, are supposed to be proverbially curious, and I put that placard on the clock to test the same weakness in men, and I am happy to say that I find them not a whit less curious than the women. knot. "As an emblem of purity it cannot be outdone, though sometimes it is so fearfully trying and unbecoming, one could almost wish some daring young aspirant might ring in a change. "Anything for a change. But until some such daring one appears, white will reign supreme. Even for second marriages, if the bride be not too old, white satin is used, but modified to a degree of becomingness one might wish could be copied by the younger set."

Some time ago a semi-invalid was obliged from an excess of nervousness nearly amounting to prostration, to call in her family physician. He asked a number of more or less irrelevant, until he elicited the fact that she had been doing a great deal of crochet-ing lately. "I thought it a soothing sort of work," she added, "and more quieting to my overwrought state than sitting with my hands folded." To which he replied that, on the contrary, the constant, unconscious forward movement of the head over the work made crocheting or knitting one of the worst of employments for the brain. and already sending forth warning thrills from that peculiar spot in the back of the neck whence the nervous feel the coming on of a headache.

April laughed and threw a kiss; Then afraid it seemed amiss, Quick she dropped a shining tear, And it straightway blossomed here: Seeing this, she then threw more. Crying harder than before-A tear for every kiss she threw: From every tear a blossom grew, Till she, laughing, ran away, And left her flowers all to May.

A bit of quaintness is added to the the face, too, and women are quick to perceive these points of vantage. A fashionable coutouriere is showing a lot of these flimsy bits of adornment in all styles and colors, and all more or less wonderfully fetching. There is a certain quaintness of dress necessary as an adjunct, however. A frock of delicately sprigged dresden-chene silk in old blue is made soft and wonderfully becoming by the soft, mantle-like fichu of creamy silk mull. It is simple in shape—merely a huge square, edged with an enormously full, deep ruffle, cut en bias. Ambertine Woodward Moore, in Harper's Bazar, says "that a musical touch is unquestionably the philosopher's stone in piano-playing." In its highest manifestations it may be attained by a musical temperament alone, but it may be developed to a greater or less degree by any one who is capable of learning to play. It is fatal to delay seeking it until all poetry of sentiment has been banished by that dry technic the fingers gain while the mind wanders to anything in the world but tone. It is never too early to begin to study tone, precisely as the painter studies color. Moreover, the student should always have in mind some beautiful golden tone-model which it is his continual endeavor to attain. He who thinks tone rightly can, with skilled fingers, call it into being.

In order to produce a fine tone on the piano it is necessary to have a hand favorable, an ear delicate enough to detect the finest nuance of tone, and a well-controlled intelligence enriched by poetic fancy. First of all, the pianist's touch is a mental conception; otherwise the best-trained fingers could not find their way to the keyboard. For genuine tone-production all the muscles of fingers, wrists and arms that have to do with piano-playing should be elastic, pliable and well-developed. There should be perfect equality of fingers and entire freedom of action. Careful consideration will soon show that when the attack has once been made, the only shading possible comes through the dampers. The judicious, philosophic use of these is a matter much neglected. It cannot conceal or make good a bad touch, but it is absolutely essential to good playing. Besides physical flexibility and grace, the player should have a delicate perception, sensitiveness, and a soul. No technical equipment, however large, will com-

CHILDREN_MATCHES.

The Combination Causes a Heavy Loss to Farmer Taylor.

Brighton, Ont., May 6.—Saturday fore moon two small children with matches were the cause of Luman Taylor, a farmer, living on Presque Isle Point, losing his barn with all the contents, which consisted of one horse, calf, harness, seed drill, hay rake, cutting machine, fanning mill, and all of his seed grain and a quantity of hay. No insurance. Mr. Taylor was absent from home at the time, visiting his sick brother-in-law.

BARRISTER IN BAD ODOR. Toronto, May 6.-The benchers of the Law Society have taken action in the case of Wm. M. Hall, a barrister, and formerly an alderman, convicted of accepting a bribe by the report of Judge MacDougall in the civic investigation. A CONGREGATION FIGHT FIRE. Gelert, Ont., May 6.-Yesterday afternoon fire was discovered in a building owned by C. E. Martin, of Lindsay, the upper portion of which was occupied by Stewart Herron as a dwelling, below stairs being used as a storehouse by W. Fritchie, Mr. Martin's agent here. The whole congregation came out of church, and quickly forming a pail and ladder brigade, fought vigorously with the flames for three hours. The flames spread across the G. T. R. track to the station and freight sheds and ignited the roof, but finally the station buildings, and, in consequence, the whole village, were saved. The storehouse and dwellings first mentioned, with contents, were totally destroyed. The G. T. R. buildings are badly damaged. Cause of fire unknown.

Rowing and Canoe Club Grant Ruled Out-Will Buy a Street Grader-Borrowing $40,000 - Important Motions, Notices of Motions and Communi-

There was a large and expectant throng in the City Hall last night, when the City Council was holding its regular session. It was so large that it was extremely noisy at times, rendering it difficult for the aldermen to hear one another speaking across the council chamber, and Mayor Little had to call them to order on several occasions. The attraction was the street railway bylaw, but as an attraction it must have been rather a disappointment. The bylaw was dealt with in a formal manner, and in accordance with usual Parliamentary procedure it was considered as read for the first time and copies supplied to each of the alder-

"There may be some concessions to be made by the city," explained Ald, Jones, "and I have no doubt that there will be some concessions to be made by the company." He further explained that the committee would meet again on Wednesday afternoon.

Ald. Pritchard entered a futile objection and wanted the whole bylaw read through and discussed then and there. "Will you have had sufficient time to study the bylaw by next Monday night?" asked the mayor.

It was agreed to hold a special meeting on Monday night next, when the bylaw will be discussed and its second reading proposed. The following is a complete summary of the whole bylaw in its present shape: The first page of the document rehearses in brief the conditions of the original act incorporating the London Street Railway Company, which was passed by the Local Legislature on March 29, 1873. The City Council did not pass the necessary bylaw until the eighth day of March, 1875. Under this agreement the privileges of the company extended for the period of 50 years from that date, or until March 8, 1925. Bylaws passed in 1888 and 1889 granted the company power to extend along Pall Mall, Hamilton road, and into South London. By the old agreement it is provided that the cars shall be drawn by horses or mules only, and in view of the mutual desire on the part of the company and the corporation to construct a surface electric railway on the trolley system, it is agreed that previous bylaws shall be amended, and all the inconsistent portions repealed.

Clause 1 provides for the operation of an electric road for the remainder of the term of 50 years, from March 8, 1875. Clause 2 provides for the immediate commencement of the work of construction after the passage of the bylaw, and the works in full operation on all the streets within eighteen months thereafter. The company, however, ask not to be pledged to build from Cheapside street north to the city limits until the consent of the Proof Line Road Company is obtained, or if the same be duly sought and not obtained.

By clause 3 the tracks and all works must be built under the supervision of the city engineer. Clause 4 provides for a guage of 4 feet 8 1-2 inches (the ordinary wagon track); rails must not obstruct the free use of the street. Clause 5 provides for the laying of single tracks in the center of the street, and the inside rail of each double track shall be within two feet of the center line of street.

Clause 6-Tracks must conform to the grades of the streets. Clause 7-The roadway between the rail and a space of two feet outside of each rail shall be paved or macadamized at the expense of the company. Clause 8-While the work of construction is in progress a free passage must be left for carriages and vehicles. Clause 9-The corporation to have the right to take up any streets traversed by the company for usual corporation

Clause 10-When the city paves the streets the company shall pave its portion as agreed in clause 7. Clause 11-In event of the company failing to carry out the terms of the agreement the city to do the work at the expense of the company, the amount so expended to be recovered in court; and the company failing to pay for the same for the period of two months after the recovery of a judgment, the agreement shall be at an Clause 12-The road must not be open to the public until the city engineer has certified that the road has been constructed in all respects in conformity to the provisions of the bylaw. WHEREIN SIR FRANK SMITH WAS MISREPRESENTED BY HIS OWN FRIENDS AND THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL TREATED MOST OF-FENSIVELY.

Hon. Mr. Laurier, in his speech on the formation of the Bowell Governwas somewhat severe in his criticism of the line of conduct pursued by Sir Frank Smith. It is now contended, and no longer denied, that Sir Frank Smith was not to blame for the officially-inspired paragraphs which appeared simultaneously in the various Government organs on 15th December last. That the statement emanated from a Cabinet source is very clearly made evident from the three illustrations which we herewith give:

The Ottawa Citizen of 15th December

"Only yesterday afternoon did it transpire that previous to calling upon the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell on Thursday night to form a Ministry, his Excellency the Governor-General, when he sent for Sir F. Smith, consulted with him as to the formation of a Government. Sir Frank Smith, while highly appreciating the honor, informed his Excellency that he had no ambition in that direction, and suggested that his Excellency should call upon the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell as the most suitable person to be intrusted with the task of forming a new Ministry."

The Toronto Empire of Dec. 15 said: 'In conversation with the Empire tonight, Sir Frank Smith spoke as fol-'It is true that his Excellency did me the honor of consulting to the formation of the new Ministry, but I told him at once that I was not a candidate for the office of Premier. I suggested that he should send for the acting Premier, Mr. Bowell. We had a long talk, but I do not feel at liberty to report what transpired. I think (continued Sir Frank Smith) that I could not have given his Excellency better advice. I have known Mr. Bowell for a great many years, and although he has been a strong Orangeman, and very earnest and outspoken in his opin-ion, as he has a perfect right to be, yet I have never known him to say an offensive word against Catholics or to do anything which they could regard as offensive."

And the Montreal Gazette of Dec. 15 had the following:

"It has transpired today that pre-vious to the calling of the Hon. Mr. Bowell last night to form a Ministry, his Excellency the Governor-General sent for Sir Frank Smith and consulted with him as to the task of the formation of the new Government. Sir Frank. while highly appreciating the honor, informed his Excellency that he had no ambition in that direction, and suggested that he should call on the Hon. Mackenzie Bowell as the most suitable person to be intrusted with the task. In conversation with the Gazette correspondent tonight, Sir Frank Smith said: 'Yes, it is quite true that his Excellency did me the honor of consulting me as to the forming of the new Mintry, but I told him at once that I was not a candidate for the office of Premier, as it would not suit me. I then suggested that he should send for the acting Premier, Mr. Bowell."

' If Sir Frank Smith had divulged to the newspapers the secrets of the Privy Council, as attributed to him, he would deserve severe censure. We would be loath to believe that a Minister of the Crown, who has taken the oath of office as a privy councilor, and who has sworn to keep secret the counsels of the Queen's representative, would, contrary to the provisions of that oath, knowingly consent to the interviews given in the above paragraphs.

Indeed, we have good reasons for the belief that the announcement attributed to our former fellow-townsman was not written by him, but was the product of another member of the Cabinet. A friend of Sir Frank Smith, who is in frequent association with him, assures us that this is the case, and that it was so shown in the House of Commons, when a challenge for an explanation of the published interview was avoided by the Government leader. The document, as prepared for publication in Cabinet circles, was in fact shown to Sir Frank Smith, who gave his hastened consent to the publication of its contents. We are now told that the full effect of what these paragraphs contain was not realized by him in the hurried way in which the information was imparted to him. What was the motive for this unprecedented course? It is to be found in the fact that a section of the Cabinet insisted on Mr. Bowell becoming Premier, and we do him no injustice when we say that he was himself among the number who favored the arrangement.

Some fears were entertained by him and his friends with regard to his acceptability to the Roman Catholic section of the Conservative party, as he was not only past grand master of the Orange Order, but had personally been known to entertain strong prejudices. We may give an instance of this. At the time when Manitoba was admitted into the Dominion, Mr. Bowell made an attack upon Father Richot, one of the delegates upon behalf of Manitoba, whom he sarcastically described as "the meek and lowly priest who had actively labored to prevent a representative of the Crown from entering the Northwest country." It is not surprising, then, that it should occur to Mr. Bowell and his friends that a certificate from Sir Frank Smith, in which he was described as "one who had never made himself offensive to the Roman Catholic population," should be sent abroad on the eve of his appointment, in order to strengthen him with a section of his party, with whom otherwise he might not stand well. And so Sir Frank Smith's name, and his alleged "call" by the Governor-General were used in a most reprehensible manner, inconsistent with his duty as a Privy Councilor, and in the highest degree offensive to her Majesty's representative.

When the present Secretary of State published a manifesto, to which her Majesty's name was attached, expressing to her Indian children in Haldimand how much she would be obliged if they would vote for Dr. Montague, a use was made of the name of the sovereign not unlike that which has been made, in this case, of his Excellency the Governor-General. Lord Aberdeen has been represented by members of the Cabinet as possessing so little knowledge of Canadian affairs, and as being so ill-qualified to judge of the capacity, fitness and experience of men as to have sent for Sir Frank Smith to form a Government, though his Excellency must have known that with Sir Frank Smith political affairs have always occupied a subordinate place. It is true that his Excellency did not make a remarkably happy choice when he sent for the present Premier, but when one considers the material which the majority in Parliament places at his disposal just now, we do not pretend to say that he could have done better.

Great Crowds Assemble to See Him But Are Baffled_Balfour Arraigned.

London, May 6.-Jabez Spencer Balour, the absconding ex-member of Parliament, who is responsible for the collapse of the Liberator Building Association and other companies, whereby thousands of investors were ruined, morning. When the steamer Tartar upon which Balfour was brought from Buenos Ayres, arrived in the harbor a custom house launch immediately went to her aid. Balfour was was not allowed to do so. Meanwhile the detectives on board the customs launch avoided the docks, which were crowded with excited people, and landed Balfour at Nettley wharf. The landing was quietly made, and Bal-four was put on board a train without being noticed, and started for London

Arriving in London, the train was stopped at Vauxhall station, and Balfour, instead of being taken to the Waterloo station, where an immense crowd was awaiting his arrival, was transferred to a cab and driven to the Drew street police station. The expectant crowds were baffled at every point, and not one of them was gratified in catching a glance of the prisoner. Balfour was immediately put into the prisoner's dock and charges were formally lodged against him. He appeared to be in good health, but was downcast and taciturn.

Balfour, upon being arraigned, was remanded until May 9.

Who Owns the Old Carling Brewery and How It Is Financed for Government Use-Report on Western Militia Corps—Some Odd Episodes in the Commons -Confessions as to the Manitoba School Question deal of skeptical laughter when some of the answers were given to Mr. Mc-Mullen's question regarding the old Carling brewery in London in the Commons this afternoon. The Minister of Militia said it was leased from John Christie; that it is used for military stores and as a residence for Col. Dawson. The Government has not purchased it, or promised to do so, but has leased it for ten years, at a rental of $720 a year. The Government had spent $1,000 in repairing the building, but it does not know that the property until lately belonged to Sir John Carling.

In reply to Mr. Lister, who asked if it is the intention to have the annual drill and militia camps this year, the Minister said that was the present intention. This is not very candid, for not a dollar is provided for this service in the estimates.

In reply to Mr. Lowell, the Customs Comptroller said the collectorship of customs at Niagara has been vacant since March last year, and that an appointment will soon be made. No one has been promised it.

There will be no revision of the Dominion voters' lists this year.

Mr. Campbell was informed that the Government had been made aware that the street piling constructed on Mc-Gregor's creek, Chatham, is giving way. A promise to soon repair it was made.

Mr. McCarthy asked whether the Minister of Works caused to be published the following dispatch in La Presse newspaper:

"Ottawa, April 5 .- You are authorized to deny as being absolutely false the rumor published in the Herald that Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper demanded from his colleagues that remedial legislation should be postponed until after the general elections, if such legislation was rendered necessary by the refusal of Manitoba. In the latter case it will be presented with the shortest possible delay, in order to secure its passage.

—J. A. OUIMET.

Mr. Ouimet replied "Yes." Mr. McCarthy further asked if it was true that the Minister of Public Works said at the nomination in Vercheres that Dominion Ministers were unanimous in the resolve to pass a remedial law, and had further said: "Some have left our ranks, more will leave, but it will not prevent the Government from carrying out its purpose. I ask you to forget party ties and think of your God." Mr. McCarthy asked: "Whether in these statements of the Minister of Public Works the policy of the Government is correctly defined?" Mr. Ouimet evaded a direct reply as to the speech, but explained that he transferred to her and landed. A tug stated the policy of the Government containing 60 press representatives was to be guided by the law and the sought to board the Tartar Prince, but of the Government was correctly defined in that declaration," said Mr. Ouimet.

> Mr. McCarthy next asked: "Whether, if the remedial order which the Governor-General-in-Council had passed with reference to the Manitoba school question is not executed by the Legislature of that Province, this Parliament will be invested with authority or jurisdicton to pass or enact a law or laws to carry out the decision of the Governor-General-in-Council embodied in the re medial order?"

> Sir Hibbert Tupper read from the official report of the case at Ottawa an opinion by Mr. McCarthy, one of the counsel, as to what would follow if Manitoba declined to submit to Ottawa's demand that separate schools be again established in Manitoba. Its effect was that the power of the Dominion to act arose when Manitoba definitely refuses, and that the power is a legislative authority to be exercised like any of the other legislative authorities conferred by section 91 of the B.

> N. A. Act. There was much laughter on both sides when Sir Hibbert Tupper thus answered McCarthy from McCarthy. Subsequently the Minister and Mr. Mc-Carthy had a conference.

> Mr. Smith (Ontario) moved that the Government should engage the services of one or more competent veterinary surgeons to examine and report on the health of Canadian cattle herds, so as to convince the British Government that Canadian animals were free from

Dr. Sproule seconded the motion, and the question dropped after Dr. Mon-tague had stated that an offer of this kind had already been declined by the British authorities.

Mr. McIsaac said that Mr. Mills' greatest trouble was that Nova Scotia was Liberal, and had again and again so voted. It would lo so in Dominion affairs in the near future. That was the trouble with

Mr. Mills and his friends.
Mr. Tisdale defended Mr. Mills, and argued that one wrong should not be remedied by legalizing another.

Mr. Davies said it was remarkable that an aspirant to a Cabinet position should bring himself down so low as to vote for what he declares to be a vicious and immoral practice as a retaliatory measure. Mr. Mills was not in earnest in this matter.

"I am strongly in earnest now," said "Perhaps so," said Mr. Davies:

would disfranchise every Liberal because he opposes his views."
"That is personal." retorted Mr. Mills,
"and I repudited it."

vatives threw out the ballot act in Prince Edward Island, and the legislation there was passed because Dominion civil servants were not allowed to be their own masters. Mr. Curran said the best Liberals be-

Which Is Worthy of the Most Earnes Attention,

A Lady of Lunenburg, N. S., Tells How She Was Relieved from a Distressing Malady After Many Efforts to Find a Cure Had Proved Unavailing.

The Argus, Lunenburg, N. S. Among the residents of our quiet little town none is more highly esteemed among her circle of acquaintances than is Mrs. C. Albert Smith. Our attention was some time ago called to the fact that Mrs. Smith was one of those who could bear witness to the sterling merit of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and feeling interested, knowing what good results had been derived from the use of the medicine in other cases, we were led to investigate the matter with the most gratifying results. Mrs. Smith stated that she had been a sufferer for years from that most distressing of maladies -asthma. This was further aggravated was that she became very weak, and could not walk but a short distance without having to sit down and rest. Many medicines recommended as cures were tried, but none helped her, and what was apparently a last ray of hope was the urgent advice of a friend to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. Mrs. Smith says as she was willing to try anything that held out any inducement of relief she procured a supply of Pink Pills. "The first box was hardly gone," said Mrs. Smith, "when I felt an improvement, and continuing until I had used some six boxes. The council then passed on to consider No. 3 committee's report. The last clause, which recommended the immediate purchase of an aerial truck, and that the council of 1896 make provision in its estimates for a chemical engine, caused a great deal of discus-

Ald. Parnell stated at length that he thought a mistake wa being made in purchasing an aerial truck, and that the money could be expended to better advantage

Ald. Skinner argued for a chemical engine instead of an aerial truck. Ald. Parnell moved in amendment to the motion to adopt the clause that tenders be called for an ordinary fire truck and a chemical engine.

Ald. Garratt took occasion to exclaim tragically that Mr. Parnell was out of order. "Are we sitting here as boys, or what? We are the laughing stock of the whole Dominion!" Ald. Garratt thumped the table very hard once or twice by way of emphasis, and then sat down.

Ald. Powell, in defense of the purchase of the truck, pointed out the very unsafe condition of the present city truck, which was liable to break down at any time while going to a fire. If a chemical engine was purchased a new truck would have to be bought, anyway. Ald. Armstrong moved in further amendment that the recommendation to the council of next year,re the chemical engine, be struck out, as this council had no power over next year's board. Ald. O'Meara expressed his intention in very strong terms to vote against both truck and engine. "The aldermen would never have thought they needed either if they had not had it pumped into them by some speculators on the outside," said he.

Ald. Skinner said that the Fire Underwriters' Association wanted London to have a chemical engine rather than an aerial truck. "And the agent," said he, "demanded a resolution to the effect that the council of next year would purchase a chemical engine if an aerial truck was bought this year. And he took that resolution home with him."

Several aldermen-No. no. Ald. Pritchard stated emphatically that No. 3 committee had not pledged itself with regard to next year's coun-

Ald. Armstrong's amendment carried on a vote of 10 to 8. Ald. Carrothers then moved that the clause as it stood be referred back to the committee. Ald. Powell (the chairman of No. 3) acquiesced in this course. "We understand what we are doing," said he; "but we want the council to have just" as much light as we have.'

The amendment of Ald. Carrothers was carried on the casting vote of the "Send it to committee," said mayor. he. At the same time I think the committee would be very wise to obtain tenders for the articles mentioned by Ald. Parnell."

No. 2 committee's report was embraced in two clauses. The first, which recommended the granting of permission to Messrs. Hall, Hall and Appleton to operate a merry-go-round in Queen's Park at a rental of $10. It was amended to make sure that the gentle-Clause 2 recommended the purchase of a Western street grader for $300, with "Have you allowed for this purchase in the estimates?" asked Ald. Garratt. Wm. Heaman-We have the money, but, of course, the purchase was not specified in the estimates. Ald. Garratt then opposed the purchase because provision had not been made in the estimates.

Ald. Jones favored the clause, but he stated that proper buildings should be obtained to house city machinery. "We are making preparations to build sheds now for that purpose," said Ald. Wm. Heaman.

Ald. O'Meara twitted Ald. Garratt with having said that the machine would effect a saving of $2,000 in a single year.

The clause was adopted. The accounts detailed in No. 1 committee's report amounted to $6,872 71. Clause 7 recommended the borrowing of $40,000 from the Bank of Montreal to meet current expenses.

The eleven clauses of the report (as published on Saturday) passed without alteration or discussion.

Referred to No. 2 committee. Ald. O'Meara moved that the grant of $150 to the London Rowing and Canoe Club for bridge purposes be reconsider-Capt. Thomas spoke in favor of the grant.

The city solicitor pointed out that if the grant was made the city was liable for a quarter's worth (six cigars). for damages and maintenance in connection with the bridge. At first the requisite two-thirds majority necessary before the matter could be reconsidered was not forthcoming. "I hope the aldermen understand the responsibility they assume," said the mayor. "I certainly shall not sign the check unless there is a very strong vote tonight. I think it is a gross outrage on the citizens to incur a liability of which you know nothing." After that the necessary majority was recorded in favor of reconsideration.

Then Ald. Weld moved that a grant of $150 be made without reference to any bridge. Ald. Armstrong seconded. Ald. Jones moved that the clause in

No. 1 committee's report recommending the grant be struck out. Ald. Jones' amendment was lost. The mayor then in reply to a question said that any grant whatever was out of order and illegal. Ald. Pritchard appealed from the ruling, but the mayor was sustained without a dissenting voice being heard. The matter then dropped.

Ald. Brener moved that in future the assessment commissioner be instructed not to place a value upon any property that is by law exempt.

Ald. Weld objected, saying that he thought it better to have the value of all ecclesiastical property appear upon the To this Ald. O'Meara offered vigor-

NOTICES OF MOTION.

By Ald. Pritchard-To have the county judge investigate the matter of the Hobbs Company's exemption, and see whether or not they were living up to the requirements thereof.

Ald. Jones wanted to give notice to abolish the present system of managing the market weigh scales, and to let the office yearly to the highest bidder. However the order of business was passed, and the council by a majority of one refused to turn back. The matter will come up at the next meeting. BYLAWS.

R. Lewis' assessment was fixed at $12.000. This is a reduction of $3.000. The bylaw to borrow $40,000 to meet current expenses passed.

Miss Maggie Jackson, of Barbreck, St. Landry Parish, La., says: "I was lying sick for sometime with female complaints, and all the medicine my friends gave me did me no good. Death was approaching; all my friends had given me up to die. I heard of your wonderful medicine, and I bought two bottles of it, and before I had taken the last, I got entirely well. I am still enjoying good health, and expect to praise your medicine everywhere I go."

Company. Chicago, May o—The general rains with lower cables and a slack demand for cash wheat have apparently started liquidation. Whether speculative sentiment is still sufficiently bullish to prevent a material decline at this time is a question, but that it must come sooner or later seems reasonably certain. About the only bullish factor today is the big decrease in visible, but that is not likely to have much effect because it's so well understood that the in visible, but that is not likely to have much effect because it's so well, understood that 'the grain is going by rail to the seaboard. Much of it will doubtless turn up in next week's statement. The Russian exports last week were again very large, 4,000,000 bu; and Argentine sent out over 1,800,000 bu. The advance in American markets has cut down exports and given our competitors a chance to market their surplus. The effect of this will doubtless be seen on our markets later if crop prospects conseen on our markets later if crop prospects continue to improve. The elevator people have delivered out 4,000,000 bu of wheat, and urge the triple of the substitution of the strain of the shippers to take all they want at the May price. The prospect is not particularly cheerful to the bulls, who struggled so hard to get hold of cash wheat at ic under July, in the firm conviction that it would sell at a premium over July. The that it would sell at a premium over July. The amount on passage increased 960,000, and English visible increased 1,300,000 bu.

Corn and oats were held up firmly in the early part of the day, but slumped off with wheat later. The shipping demand is very good, and this will probably prevent the market selling off materially for the present.

CHICAGO, May 6.—There was a good demand for cattle today, and the receipts being light, gave prices a strong tone. An advance of 10c per 100 lbs was made on most grades. With a good supply of hogs left over the receipts today made up a liberal supply. Prices were weak and 5c lower, the demand being very indifferent. Campbell, Provincial medical examiner; Daniel Spry, grand treasurer. Mr. T. G. Davis represents London council and Mr. R. W. Rennie the South London council. All left for Cobourg to-day.

THE THUNDER STORM. The rain storm which visited London this morning was badly needed, but many nervous people could have got along with just a little less thunder and lightning. The storm began about 6 a.m., gathering in the southwest and traveling in a northeasterly direction. The lightning flashes were the most vivid and the thunder sounded like one long continuous roll, approaching and receding, and diminishing and increasing in volume as it did so. The lightning struck an electric light pole at the corner of Elias and Elizabeth, shattering the upper half into small splinters. The motor at Sterling's boot and shoe factory was struck, but no damage was done to the building. The machinery remained idle during the day while the motor was being repaired. A number of lightning arresters were burnt out at the central telephone office, but no serious damage was done.

THE WEEKLY HIGH COURT. Contrary to the expectations of many of the legal fraternity interested a sitting of the weekly High court was held this morning. Mr. Justice R. M. Meredith presiding. The list of motions was light. In re William Robertson late of the township of Mosa, Duncan Stnart, (Stuart, Stuart & Moss) moved under the Imperial Robertson, who are yet fnfants, Mr. Hume Cronyn (Cronyn & Betts) raised a point of some interest to the bar. For the official guardian he contended that this was a matter which was not provided for in the Act respecting weekly sittings at London and Ottawa, but came within a clause of the Act, excepting such provisions as might, in the Master-in-Chambers or a local judge. street. Judgement was reserved. In Toothe vs. Johnston, Mr. Gibbons made a motion for the payment of certain moneys into court. Order granted. Telfer vs. Stewart was postponed for a week.

Sir Henry Tyler Retires and the New Board is Elected.

The President Voted a Salary of £40,000 a Year.

Good Words for Sir Henry-A Victim of Hard Times-Plans Discussed.

London, May 7.-The meeting of the sharenolders of the Grand Trunk Railway today was a crowded one. Sir Henry Tyler, the retiring president, opened the meeting by saying he would move the adoption of his motion made at the last meeting that the reports and accounts of the board be received, and then his successor in the chair could proceed to business. In the meantime Auditor Winney made a statement on behalf of himself and his fellow auditors. He said that Mr. Barker's report was in substance correct, but he disagreed in certain deductions made therefrom, especially in the matter of amount due by the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway. He suggested that if the capital account were kept in London and the working account kept in Canada and sent here for the purpose of making a balance sheet the officers of the company in Canada would be made to realize that they must render accounts to London. Mr. Joseph Price criticised adversely the methods of keeping the accounts. Mr. Girdlestone announced that the shareholders' committee nominated the following gentlemen as a board of directors to succeed the old board and reorganize the company's affairs: Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, Lord Welby, Sir Wm. Young, Col. F. Firebrace, Sir Henry Mather-Jackson, Mr. Jos. Price, C. Vonchauvin, and Messrs. Mather, Hubbard, Chitton-Brock and Allen. These gentlemen, he said, had been choren for directors from a list of 23 names. He thought all of the creditors of the company would be satisfied with them. He eulogized Sir Charles Rivers Wilson, who, he said, would be a valuable man at the helm and would be ably supported. Lord Welby rose amid great tumult and asked whether the advances to the Chicago and Grand Trunk were fully secured. He considered that the charges of concealment against the board should be withdrawn, and expressed hope that Sir Henry Tyler would remain in the board. This allusion to Sir Henry Tyler created laughter.

Sir Henry Tyler moved that the halfyearly accounts as presented should be adopted, which motion was seconded by a shareholder. Sir Henry then said: "I now take my leave, and hope that my successors will work as hard and faithfully as I have done." Sir Henry Tyler then vacated the chair, which was taken by Mr. Allen, who moved that the other gentlemen named as directors be elected. The motion, including Mr. Alien's name, carried unanimously amid great applause.

Mr. Allen moved a resolution that the board be empowered to issue de-benture bonds should it be necessary. They did not want money now, but merely wanted the power to issue de-That tired feeling, loss of appetite and nervous prostration are driven away by Hood's benture bonds if it should be necessary.

Mr. Girdlestone seconded the motion.

It was carried unanimously. Mr. Girldestone then moved to increase the sum for remuneration of the —Although not mentioned in the summary, the rate of fares in the electric franchise agreement includes transfers.

was really in the salary of Sir Charles Wilson. The remuneration of the other directors was not increased. The motion was carried.Mr. Girdlestone moved that he be reimbursed for the expenditure he had incurred in furthering the reorganization scheme, which money he was really out of pocket. He had devoted much time and money to the movement, and that £1,500 would cover the whole sum he had disbursed. The motion was carried unanimous-and a vote of thanks was passed. Mr. Girdlestone said the board would have a difficult and laborious task. The shareholders could not expect an immediate advance in prices, but the board would always tell the shareholders the worst and give clear and honest accounts. Mr. Clatton-Brock, as a member of the old and new boards, said that he went into the old board with a prejudice against Sir Henry Tyler, but that feeling had been turned into admiration of his energy. Sir Henry, he said, had been ousted by the bad times. He himself would not split upon the old board.

He was turning away, when his attention was arrested by a word from Kingscott's lips. Stella was bending over him and trying to do something for his arm; but the word he uttered made her hand fall suddenly to her side. "Hannington," he said.

Stella half raised herself, glanced round her, and said, almost below her

"Where is Molly?" She thought that Alan would, if he could, have annihilated her on the spot. "In her room, of course," he answered sternly. "You are unnerved, Stella. What is Ralph saying? Attend to Bertie—I will look after Ralph. Do you know me, Ralph? Who did this?

Who has been here? "Hannington." "Hannington! He does not know what he is saying," said Alan, for the benefit of the listeners around him, but his face blanched a little at the sound. "You need not crowd into this room." he said, addressing himself to the servants. "There is no further cause for alarm. We will get Mr. Kingscott to

"Of Bertie, of course. Isn't his revolver anywhere about He shot me, I tell you, whether by accident or not, I can't say. I think I knocked him down in return. Good heavens! my arm!"

pain makes me feel uncommonly sick." Alan was obliged to control his impatience while he gave the brandy; but before Kingscott had swallowed it, a woman servant came flying into the room with news. "Oh, sir, oh mem! Miss Molly's no' in her bed, nor in her room, nor anywhere! She's maybe hiding, or cairryit aff by the robbers."

Stella, who was now attending to Bertie's wants, turned so white a face towards her husband, that even in that moment of anxiety he was struck by its expression.

"Send the woman away," Ralph murmured faintly. "I think I can explain." Mr. Monorieff sternly ordered the girl out of the room, and then Ralph murmured his explanation in his brother-in-law's ear. "I'm afraid that Molly-Molly-has eloped with Hannington." he said. "They were stealing out by the door in the Tower when I came upon them. Molly had a bag; she was in her cloak and hat. Stella sprang up with a cry. "Oh, it can't be!" she exclaimed, hastening to her husband's side. The grey change in his face alarmed her. "Alan, it can't be true." She put her hand on his arm, but he repulsed her, speaking harshly in his grief. "Was this your secret?" he said. "Were you helping my daughter to bring disgrace upon my name?"

"Alan, don't say such a cruel thing. I knew that Mr. Hannington had met her-I was trying to put an end to it-I had no idea that Molly ever thought of leaving us in this way! Oh, cannot we stop her? Cannot we bring her

"Too late," said Alan, grimly. "If I could, I would not now. Molly is no longer a child of mine. I have done with her for ever. And if Bertie has helped her to disgrace herself in this way, I will-"No, Alan, don't say it—don't say anything just now," said Stella, clinging to him, although the sight of his rigid and repellant attitude, his fiery eyes and sternly set face, would usually have been enough to startle her into silence and submission. Kingscott, watching her cynically in spite of the pain that he suffered, thought to himself that he would as coon have thrown his arms around the neck of an infurlated lion. But Stella was carried out of herself and beyond the domination

Alan's hand was fiercely clenched; the words upon his tongue had been harsh and bitter, and even terrible to hear from the father's lips. But the hand relaxed, the words died into silence, as his fair young wife clung to him and gazed pleadingly into his face. A look of anguish took the place of fury; he turned away, placing his hand over his eyes, as if to shut out the vision of wife and son and absent, erring daughter. Stella was obliged to release him, but she felt-afterwards, for she was too much bewildered and distressed to think anything just then-that her interposition had not been without effect. Alan staggered a little in his walk as he went blindly towards the door; but he refused all offered help, straightened himself, and walked out of the room with head held high, but a face like marble and eyes like living coals.

Kingscott sank back with a groan of pain, and called to the old butler to give him more brandy. Stella hastened to Bertie's side, for the lad's eyes were unclosed, and he had raised himself on one arm with a bewildered air. She could not leave him to the servants at that moment, although her heart yearned after her husband in his agony of wounded love and pride.

"What is it? What does it mean?"

murmured Bertie. "Don't talk yet," said Stella, gently. "Do you feel any pain? We must have you taken to your room when you are able to move, and the doctor will be here directly."

"I'm not hurt," said Bertie, in a stronger voice. Only a little dazed, I think. What was my father saying about me? I did not understand—" You had better hold your tongue,' said Kingscott from the couch on which he was lying, in tones rendered harsh, presumably by pain. "You can do no good by talking."

Stella was sorry to see that the lad cowered when these words were spoken, as though they contained a threat. She redoubled her attentions to him, and was rewarded presently by finding that although still sick and faint, he was able to move without difficulty; then, thinking that she could be of no use at present to Kingscott, she went away from the Tower to make inquiries about Molly, and to give any orders that might be needed.

Alan was invisible; the responsibility for every kind of action seemed at once to have fallen on her shoulders. The servants turned to her as if knowing instinctively that her head was sure to be clear, her judgment sound, and her will decided. She had to restore order, as far as possible, to the distracted household, and provide for future contingencies. Notwithstanding Alan's declaration that he would have no more to do with Molly, she sent messengers in one or two directions-the coachman to the railway station with orders to telegraph to the station master at Perth-a groom in another direction with somewhat similar injunctions. She thought that there might be still a chance of finding Molly and bringing her back.

But her hopes grew small when, after considerable search, she found a letter addressed to herself in Molly's room. It was short, but clear enough.

"As you are so determined to prevent my marriage with Jack," wrote Molly, 'we have thought it better to take matters into our own hands. Jack is waiting for me with a carriage in the road We shall not go to Dunkeld or to Perth, so you need not look for us there. We shall be married tomorrow morning, and then I will write again. I have written to my father, and I hope that he will not be angry with us. Indeed, I would not have taken this way if you had not driven me into it by coming between me and Jack. I am sorry for my father's sake, but not for anything else, because I love Jack better than anybody in the world."

THE POWER OF CONSCIENCE.

Lessons Drawn from the Words of Pontius Pilate,

When Jesus Was Brought Before the Sanhedrim-Dr. Talmage's Sunday Afternoon Sermon.

New York, May 6 .- On Sunday afternoon Rev. Dr. Talmage chose for his subject "Conscience," the text selected being Matthew xxvii., 24: "He took water and washed his hands before the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person; see ye to it." At about 7 o'clock in the morning, up the marble stairs of a palace and across the floors of richest mosaic, and under ceilings dyed with all the splendors of color, and between snow banks of white and glistening sculpture, passes a poor, pale, sick young man of 33, already condemned to death, on his way to be condemned again. Jesus of Nazareth is his name.

In a semi-circle around the prisoner are the Sanhedrists, prosecuting this case in the name of religion, for the bitterest prosecutions have been religious prosecutions, and when Satan takes hold of a good man he makes up by intensity for brevity of occupation. If you have never seen an ecclesiastical court trying a man, then you have no idea of the foaming infernalism of these old religious Sanhedrists. Governor Pilate cross-questions the prisoner, and finds right away he is innocent, and wants to let him go. His caution is also increased by a message from Claudia Procula, his wife, who has had a dream about the innocence of this prisoner and about the danger of executing him, and she awakens from this morning dream in time to send the message to her husband, then on the judicial bench. And what with the protest of his wife and the voice of his own conscience, and the entire failure of the Sanhedrists to make out their case, Governor Pilate resolves to discharge the prisoner from custody.

But the intimation of such a thing brings upon the Governor an equinoctial storm of indignation. They will report him to the Emperor at Rome. They will have him recalled. They will send him up home, and he will be hung for treason, for the Emperor at Rome has already a suspicion in regard to Pilate, and that suspicion does not cease until Pilate is banished and commits suicide. Pilate compromises the matter, and proposes that Christ be whipped instead of assassinated. So the prisoner is fastened to a low pillar, and on his bent and bared back come the thongs of leather with pieces of lead and bone intertwisted, so that every stroke shall be more awful. Christ lifts himself from the scourging with flushed cheek and torn and quivering and mangled flesh, presenting a spectacle of suffering in which Rubens, the painter, found the theme for his greatest masterpiece.

But the Sanhedrists are not yet satisfied, and Pilate, after all this merciful hesitation, surrenders to the demoniacal cry of "Crucify him!" Then Pilate sends for a basin, water is poured in it, and Pilate, having washed his hands, practically says: "I wash my hands of this whole homicidal transaction. I wash my hands of this entire responsibility; you will have to bear it." That is the meaning of my text when he says: "He took water and washed his fore the multitude, saying, I am innocent of the blood of this just person; see ye to it." Behold, in this, that ceremony amounts to nothing, if there is not in it correspondencies of heart and life. It is a good thing to wash the hands, but here in the text is a man who proposes to wash away the guilt of a sin which he does not quit and of which he does not make any repentance. Pilate's wash basin was a dead failure. Ceremonies, however beautiful and appropriate, may be no more than this hypocritical ablution. In infancy we may be sprinkled from the baptismal font, and in manhood we may wade into deep immersions, and yet never come to moral purification. We may kneel without prayer, and bow without reverence, and sing without any acceptance. All your creeds, and liturgies, and sacraments, and genufiections, and religious convocations amount to nothing unless your heartlife go into them. When that bronzed slave took from the presence of Pilate that wash basin he carried away none of Pilate's cruelty, or Pilate's wickedness, or Pilate's guilt.

Nothing against creeds; we all have them, either written or implied. Nothing against ceremonies; they are of infinite importance. Nothing against sacraments; they are divinely com-manded. Nothing against a rosary, if there be as many heartfelt prayers as beads counted. Nothing against incense floating up from censer amid Gothic arches, if the prayers be as genuine as the aroma is sweet. Nothing against Epiphany, or Lent, or Ash Wednesday, or Easter, or Good Friday, or Whitsuntide, or Palm Sunday, if these symbols have behind them genu-ine repentance, and holy reminiscence, and Christian consecration. But the ceremony is only the sheath to the sword, it is only the shell to the kernel, it is only the lamp to the flame, it is only the body to the spirit. The outward must be symbolical of the inward. Wash the hands by all means, but, more than all, wash the heart,

Behold, also, as you see Governor Pontius Pilate thrust his hand into this wash basin, the power of conscience. He had an idea there was blood on his hand-the blood of an innocent person, whom he might have acquitted if he only had the courage. Poor Pilate! His conscience was after him, and he knew the stain would never be washed from his hands until the day of his death. Oh, the power of conscience when it is fully aroused! With whip of scorpions over a bed of spikes in pitch of midnight it chases guilt. Are there ghosts? Yes, not of the grave yard, but of one's mind not at rest. From what did Adam and Eve try to hide when they had all the world to themselves? From their own conscience. What made Cain's punishment greater than he could bear? His conscience. What made Ahab cry out to the prophet, "Hast thou found me, O, mine enemy?" What made the great Felix tremble before the little missionary? Conscience. What made Bel-shazzar's teeth chatter with a chill when he saw a finger come out of the black sleeve of the midnight and write on the plastering? Conscience, con-

Why is it that that man in this audience, with all the marks of worldly prosperity upon him, is agitated while I speak, and is now flushed and now pale, and then the breath is uneven, and then beads of perspiration on the forehead, and then the look of unrest comes to a look of horror and despair? I know not, but he knows, and God knows. It may be that he despoiled a fair young life, and turned innocence into a waif, and the smile of hope into the brazen laughter of despair. Or it may be that he has in his possession the property of others, and by some stategem he keeps it according to law, and yet he knows it is not his own, and that if his heart should stop beating this moment he would be in hell for ever. Or it may be that he is respon-sible for a great mystery, the disappearance of someone who was never heard of, and the detectives were baffled, and the tracks were all covered up, and the swift horse or the rail train took him out of reach, and there are only two persons in the universe who know of it—God and himself. God present at the time of the tragedy and present at the retrospection and conscience.

Conscience amounts to nothing unless the heart is converted, and the pocketbook is converted, and the cash drawer is converted, and the ledger is converted, and the pigeon-hole containing the correspondence is converted. A man half converted, or quarter converted, or a thousandth part converted is not converted at all. What will be the great book in the Day of Judgment? Conscience. Conscience recalling misimproved opportunities. Conscience recalling unforgiven sins. Conscience bringing up all the past. The worst thing a man can have is an evil conscience, and the best thing a man can have is what Paul calls a good conscience.

One of the most attractive features will be a fancy drill by the ladies of the company, under the command of Miss Ida Adams.

-The C. P. R. has been put to con siderable inconvenience and loss of late by destruction of and damage to property in the east end yards. Car win-dows have been deliberately smashed, fences have been torn down and articles taken away by unknown persons. Tramps have also made a great hangout in the cars, and become very bold. The company sent Detective Ross, of Toronto, to the city, on Saturday, and already two tramps are serving terms in jail for trespass. Yesterday John Booker, a city youth of about 19 years, was before Squire J. B. Smyth on a charge of trespass, and a fine of $1 and

-John McMahon, a Biddulph farmer, living a few miles north of Lucan, was fined $5 and costs by Squire Lacey yesterday for assaulting a neighbor, John A. Hall. The dispute arose over a land roller which the two men jointly owned. -William and Walter Tuckey, father and son were charged Monday before Squire J. B. Smyth with an aggravated assault on Alf. Quinney, who is in the employ of Mr. R. M. Edwards, a Lobo farmer. It appears that a young man named Graham, who has been in the asylum, stopped to have a chat with Quinney, when William Tuckey, who had been appointed Graham's guardian, objected to the latter having anything to do with Quinney. The latter took Graham's part, whereupon Walt Tuckey "pitched into" Quinney, and was assisted by his father. Quinney got a severe pummeling and had his eyes blackened.

Hence the charge before the magistrate.

The matter, however, was finally set-tled by the defendants paying the costs in the case, the parties agreeing to "make up" and be friends. Both sides were represented by counsel. -A pleasant evening was spent by the members of South London Council, No. 397, R. T. of T., and their friends in the A. O. F. Hall, South London, last night. A short programme was rendered, consisting of an address by Mr. J. J. Barnwell, who acted as chairman. Mr. Barnwell spoke of the good T. R. Brakeman Edward Dibbs, who has work being done by the R. T. of T., and with white spots and stripes, worth 12 1-2c, our price 10c per yard. of the rapid progress the order was making. South London Council having added eight new members during the past month. Recitations by Miss Allie Nixon and Miss Wright: solos by Miss Georgina Mills; instrumental duet, violin and piano. Misses F. and N. Crick; dialogue, Miss Roberts, L. Row, Mr. Widden; and a trio, Miss Musgrove, Mr. Stein, W. Widden, made a pleasant programme. Refreshments were served, and a social time was spent in conversation and games. Much of the evening's success is due to Mr. A. Yeo, the energetic chairman of the managing committee.

MUSIC IN THE PARK. The first open-air concert of the season (as announced in another column of the "Advertiser") will be given tomorrow evening in Victoria Park by the London Musical Society Band. This organization, as is well known, includes some of the best musicians in the city, and the fact that Mr. Fred L. Evans is its leader is sufficient guarantee that a choice programme will be provided and well carried out. If the thousands of citizens who take advantage of the band concerts will "chip in" a little to aid expenses the permanent success of this desirable sort of summer entertainment will be assured.

The high character of Dr. Price's Baking Powder is the fruit of 40 years' growth.

Sousa is Really Coming.

Sousa's Grand Concert Band, the most pronounced musical success of recent years, is soon to be heard here, and its coming will be a most interesting event to all professionals and music lovers. The history of military bands shows no parallel to the favor which this organization has attained within the three years of its existence. Such a result could be achieved only by musical merit of the highest order, intelligently and conscientiously presented to the public. Mr. Sousa long ago demonstrated that he is in every way a masterly band conductor. He made the Marine Band of Washington famous for its excellence, and followed this by organizing, two year ago, for Manager Blakely, what has repeatedly and universally been proclaimed the finest concert band ever heard in America. It will be the general desire, therefore, of all to hear the playing of this peerless organization when it

For a week past there has been a doubt as to the possibility of getting the band here, but Mr. Percy T. Carroll states that it is now a settled fact, the number of subscribers already being very large both from London and outside towns. Mr. J. D. Meekison, of Strathroy, guarantees fully a hundred from that town, and Aylmer promises as large. Excursions will be run from St. Marys and Stratford. St. Thomas, Ingersoll and Woodstock in addition to the places
