

NEW ILLICITS TO 'REVENUE' CITY RAILWAY

BUNNELL WILL REPORT COSTLY REPAIRS NEEDED

Valuator Estimates $2,200,000 Will Be Required To Make Car Lines Efficient System—Suggests No Purchase Price to City Council.

BECK TO ATTEND SPECIAL MEETINGS

"It would cost the citizens of London roughly $2,200,000 to 're-vamp' the London Street Railway and place that corporation in a position to adequately meet the demands of its patrons and to eventually yield a substantial surplus."

This is the gist of the Bunnell appraisal. The Advertiser has been informed that it will be submitted to the London Transportation Commission Friday afternoon and to the members of the city council Friday evening for final approval to send the proposition to the people for a mandate Dec. 4.

Mayor Cameron Wilson was positive in his declaration Friday morning, however, that the Bunnell report would not set any suggested purchase price.

"I have seen the report," he said, "and I can state definitely, however, that there is no clause that the road is worth $500,000 or $1,500,000, or any other figure. There is, however, a wealth of valuable material available, and the same will be submitted to the public directly the commission and aldermen have considered it."

Must Scrap Cars.

From another source, however, it is explained that the report deals at considerable length with the requirements of the local transportation lines, and it is roughly estimated that more than $2,000,000 would be required after the road was purchased. Cars would have to be scrapped. It is related, also, that many other improvements of a sweeping nature, before the road could be said to be in a position

URGES CANADA TAKE STAND ON BRITISH POLICY

Writer Thinks Country Should Discover Actual Relations to Britain.

WOULD DICTATE QUAND MILLIONS VIEW SHOW

If Dominions Are Involved Lord Curzon and Churchill in Dispute Over September Manifesto.

Special to The Advertiser.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 9.—Lord Curzon's declaration that the foreign policy of Britain is now the foreign policy of the empire and he feels he speaks for the dominions as well as the British Isles is simply a reiteration of the doctrine laid down by Lloyd George in July, 1921, in a speech wherein he reviewed the proceedings of the last imperial conference. In that speech he said that the dominions had no obtained an adequate and perfectly proper place in control of British foreign policy, while claiming that as a quid pro quo the whole weight of the dominions was now available to back up British foreign policy, he contended that the machinery for its execution must remain in London.

"We have the machinery here," was his dictum to all intents and purposes, "and it must remain."

This constituted a very important pronouncement, but its significance was inadequately realized. Papers here who were on his list in the Manitoba Free Press protested against the assumption that the machinery for foreign affairs must always remain in London, from South Africa, but Mr. Meighen, Mr. Hughes and other representatives of the dominions ventured no public challenge of the doctrine.

Debate Relations.

In all the parliaments of the dominions there were during the course of the year which followed the declaration of the British policy, but none of the opposition groups made any attempt to dispute Mr. George's claim that the controlling machinery must remain in London. It is true that Mr. Ernest Lapointe, before Mr. Meighen set out for the conference, explicitly warned him that the imperial party would not regard itself bound by any commitments which he might make in London, and would claim the right to revise them if it came to pass.

But during last session Mr. King and his colleagues offered no sign that they disavowed the right of Downing street to speak for the whole commonwealth in matters of foreign policy and by their silence they may quite properly be taken to have acquiesced in the doctrine laid down by Lloyd George.

It is difficult to see what grounds they would have for protest against Lord Curzon's statement, for the King is not likely to combat it for the moment. Ever since the armistice we have been calmly allowing the British foreign office to go ahead and make decisions which it regarded as binding upon us.

Control Illusory.

Our governments were given reason to believe that they were in control of their own destinies, and that they had received careful consideration, but in actual practice the British foreign office has been exercising over British foreign policy has been wholly illusory.

It must remain so until we produce a state of affairs in which the machinery to make that control is in full swing, and the elections now being held in the dominions are bound to uphold his doctrine.

Each successive machinery of the commonwealth must be resolved to face in the near future and more sensible arrangements for co-operation arrived at. Those who think the British foreign office is too conservative and simply blind to facts and the sooner their eyes are opened the better.

At present we are involved whether we like it or not, in very serious responsibility for the policies devised by Downing Street, and naturally we cannot but feel that we are threatened with trouble and expenditures.

Must Secure Control.

The obvious course for wise and calm statesmen would be to secure a control over British foreign policy which would direct it in channels unlikely to produce unpleasant consequences for anybody. The people of the United States are discovering that they cannot pursue an ostrich-like attitude towards international problems and declare that they do not matter as long as they do not occur near their own doors, and we by reason of our close ties with a great European power, are even less able to take this path which looks so easy at first, but in the end proves so confusing and troublesome.

The case is now being blown over by our parliament will neglect its duties if it does not force a thorough debate upon the whole question of our foreign relations, next session.

Meanwhile, ministers are awaiting further news from the east with a certain measure of nervousness, for the outbreak of war means awkward trouble at Ottawa.

BRITISH LABOR DERIDES LORD MAYOR PARADE

Audience Cheers Scornful Allusions Made at Political Meeting.

BY JOSEPH T. CLARK.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, Nov. 10.—Last night at Labor meetings, while the lord mayor's banquet was in progress, bitter speeches were made in derision of the pomp and plumery of the lord mayor's show through the streets of London yesterday. Although the sober audiences cheered every scornful allusion to the silly nonsense of the parade, yet nobody who saw the show could deny that the people had turned out to see it, as they have done every year for centuries past. They were on board for hours in advance of the coming parade and saw every bit of it. They liked it, like they like every procession as old as I, every cocked hat and braid ornament of it.

Hints at Revolution.

In nearly every speech he made lately Lloyd George hints darkly at the dangers of revolution, but one may safely say that while the lord mayor's golden coach can ride through the streets of the city, seen by millions, without causing laughter or indignation, the same sentiment or memories having to do with reverence for the past, the fear of revolution may be brushed aside.

The laborer, however, is not so easily lulled. He is not so easily lulled by the support of enough people outside the number of organized labor to make it the power it might be politically. It has a great many candidates in the election who are not workingmen in the ordinary sense, but it has not yet found a leader who appeals to the national imagination. One who can say things that everyone will report, or do things that everyone will be compelled to talk about.

If a leader were found who could rally the laborer, who could give the earners of wages it would be a party that could not be withstood, but the British laborer is not yet ready to follow a leader who belongs to the retinue of the rich. They swarm everywhere, living in hotels or residences, black-coated and white-tied; in restaurants, faultless attire; in the shops, respectable and fastidious; in offices everywhere—wage earners all—but a party that could not be withstood, but the British laborer is not yet ready to follow a leader who belongs to the retinue of the rich. They swarm everywhere, living in hotels or residences, black-coated and white-tied; in restaurants, faultless attire; in the shops, respectable and fastidious; in offices everywhere—wage earners all—but a party that could not be withstood, but the British laborer is not yet ready to follow a leader who belongs to the retinue of the rich.

Had 34 Majority.

In the last parliament the Bonar Law party had a majority of 34 over the opposition, which was the strongest they had in their history, and all others. They think they can do as well this time, or better, and they are not likely to be disappointed. The Lloyd George following in the next House will depend entirely on the direction in which he marched after the election, but he looks with a possessive eye on many members on the list of the other parties. He does not care who elects the candidate if he can gather up the member, this is what is making the other speculative, this, and the ex-Premier's extraordinary supremacy as a campaigner over all others.

Balfour, Chamberlain, Birkenhead and Horne went out with Lloyd George, but they did not stay with him unless the coalition is resumed. They are treading softly through the election and waiting to see what will turn up.

Are in Dispute.

Lord Curzon and Winston Churchill are in dispute about the mantle of the Labor party. Mr. Curzon asserts that the document was drawn by Churchill and sent out by the Labor party, and that as soon as he learned of it he protested strongly against what had been done, and the manner of doing it. If they keep up this argument for another day or two, they may add just that additional information which would make the whole episode explicable.

A Real Political Friendship.

A real political friendship, with family ties towards Germany, Russia and Turkey, as well as France and Italy, Mr. Curzon said, was essential to Great Britain's trade and prosperity.

C. N. R. EARNS $3,101,373.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railway for the week ending November 9 were $3,101,373, an increase of $102,581 over the corresponding week of last year. The gross earnings for January 1 to date were $100,655,436, a decrease of $5,337,424 from the like period of last year.

The Advertiser Secures Lloyd George Memoirs

Exclusive London rights for newspaper publication of the Lloyd George Memoirs have been secured by The London Advertiser.

Never has any manuscript by any writer aroused so much anticipatory interest, and never has any manuscript aroused such keen competition among publishers.

Lloyd George's contract with Sir William Berry, his British publisher, calls for 100,000 words, for which he is to receive the sum of approximately $450,000, or about $4.50 per word. This is a record price per word for literary work contracted for in advance. Many readers will remember the sensation when the then rising Kipling was offered a shilling a word for his writings. Later Kipling and Roosevelt both commanded a standing rate of $1 per word for their writings. Authors of "best sellers," of course, often receive ultimately a higher recompense per word, but are not assured of it in advance.

It is understood that the New York Times paid $200,000 for newspaper rights for the United States and Canada. Canadian rights were purchased by the Montreal Gazette, and the sum which will be contributed by the Montreal Gazette, The London Advertiser, the Toronto Star and other Canadian papers printing the memoirs will, it is understood, represent a substantial portion of the $200,000.

Date of publication has not yet been announced. Some weeks ago the author began work and made good progress, but the flow of his unique reminiscences and revelations was interrupted by the Near East crisis, and later by the political crisis, one result of which has been to relieve him—temporarily—of the premiership so that he will have more freedom for the memoirs.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE.

CRERAR QUILTS AS LEADER OF PROGRESSIVES

Announces Resignation as the Party Head to Followers in House.

MAKES FULL STATEMENT

Recommends No Successor as He Returns to Private Life.

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—Hon. T. A. Crerar announced to his followers in the Canadian parliament today his resignation from the leadership of the National Progressive party.

"I shall continue to fight as a soldier in the ranks," declared Mr. Crerar at the close of a long letter to T. W. Caldwell, M.P., chairman of the caucus, in which he discussed his own position, the political questions of the day, and the future of the Progressive movement.

Mr. Crerar stated that business obligations and his personal position made it impossible for him to continue the leadership, and that had these questions not intervened, his retention of the post would have depended upon a clear understanding and statement of the Progressives' program.

Rigid restriction of the Progressive party to farmers would, Mr. Crerar declared in the letter, render not only a disaster to the country as a whole, but to the very people the movement was created to assist. All people of good will, who believed in "certain definite principles as apply to public policies," should be included.

Mr. Crerar's letter follows, in part: "When I entered the Union government in the autumn of 1917, it was on the understanding with the board of directors of the party, which I have now been associated with almost since its inception in 1906, that when the war was over, and the specific purposes for which the Union government was brought into being were achieved, I would actively resume my duties as president of the party. The growth of the Progressive movement, and the death of a party representing it in parliament, many of its supporters and many of my friends to urge strongly upon me that I should continue actively in public life, and I have naturally resisted I could, and this I continued to do with the approval of my fellow-directors in the party."

"At the first caucus of the newly elected progressive members at the commencement of the last session of Parliament, on the motion of some of our friends from Alberta, the question of electing a leader of the Progressive party in the House was raised, and when it was offered to me by fellow members I accepted it, understanding that it was for the session only."

"After the close of the session, at the caucus held prior to our dispersal from Ottawa in discussing the responsibilities of the Progressive party I intimated very clearly that personally I had no intention of continuing in the leadership, and I have since been receiving my earnest consideration and the reasons that led me to consider it then are even stronger now. Every business interest has passed through serious times, meaning heavier strains on executives and managers."

"Our business has been no exception and my absence through seasonal and political work has imposed a heavy task on my colleagues. I am now, a task which they have loyally and unselfishly performed, but which in fairness to them and to the party, I must now relinquish."

GETS YEAR FOR STEALING AUTO

Albert Blundell, 17, Sentenced for Theft of Truck—Remand Girl.

Ethel Rymall of Hamilton, who married Fred D. Moore of New York in Port Huron, with the result that Moore was convicted in London police court of bigamy and remanded for sentence, appeared this morning on a vagrancy charge, a technicality on which she is being held, and was remanded for a week.

As Moore is an American citizen and the offence for which he was convicted several weeks ago, when he pleaded guilty to a revolver on stealing a watch the boy has in his possession is the property of his sister.

Magistrate Graydon scored the prisoner for making false statements, and told him he deserved a flogging.

Powell Partinichuk, victim of a gun battle several weeks ago, when he engaged in a revolver duel with Motorcycle Officer Gerald Monahan, was unable to answer several charges preferred against him, as he is still a patient in Victoria Hospital. The case was adjourned another week.

When David Robb, 17, pleaded guilty to supplying cigarettes to his brother, Wilfred, 15, he professed ignorance of the law, and added that he himself was a victim of the law. He was sentenced to two months in the reformatory for supplying cigarettes for 25 cents from a stranger and had given them to his brother. He was allowed to go on payment of costs, the court remarking that if a fine was imposed the hardship would partly rest on the mother.

TURK DEMANDS CLEAR AT LAST

Demand Nullification of All 'Capitulations' Arising From Great War.

Special Cable to The Advertiser.

London, Nov. 10.—London was cut off from communication with Constantinople today.

Rumors of serious trouble in the Near East ran unchecked, with the foreign office lacking official advice, powerless to deny their existence at 10 o'clock to consider the situation. What the Turks are driving at in their arrogant assumption of authority over the allies at the Straits has at last been made clear.

The Ankara government demands nullification of all "capitulations" arising from defeat of Turkish arms in the great war. It considers that victory over Greece has wiped out all losses sustained by the sultan's government. We are in autonomous country, feared, the nationalist rep. inorganic and physical chemistry. The cabinet may break its long silence and make a statement to the people of the Democratic triumph. This was indicated in a telegram the United Press received today from John Randolph Bolling, the former president's secretary. It reads:

"Mr. Wilson prefers to reserve anything he may have to say about the election until later."

WOODROW WILSON QUIET ON ELECTION

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—Woodrow Wilson, overjoyed at the sweeping victory of his party in Tuesday's election, may break his long silence and make a statement to the people of the Democratic triumph. This was indicated in a telegram the United Press received today from John Randolph Bolling, the former president's secretary. It reads:

"Mr. Wilson prefers to reserve anything he may have to say about the election until later."

UNITED STATES VOTES ELEVEN MEN INTO CONGRESS TO OPPOSE DRY LAWS

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Eleven avowedly wet candidates for Congress were elected today in the Tuesday elections were defeated in the Tuesday elections in the Middle Western States, analysis of the returns showed.

Ohio defeated the beer and wine proposition by a majority of close to 200,000; the beer and wine proposition in Illinois won by more than 2 to 1, with dry leaders advising their

ARREST CISSIE LOFTUS FOR HAVING MORPHINE

London, England, Nov. 10.—Cissie Loftus, for more than 20 years a well-known actress on the stages of both Great Britain and the United States, was arraigned today in police court and charged with being an unauthorized person in possession of morphine and atrophine. She appeared to be in a critical condition, she pleaded not guilty.

The magistrate admitted the actress to bail and adjourned the case for Friday. Her lawyer said she would spend the time in a nursing home.

200 CHINESE DIE AS VESSEL BURNS

Shanghai, Nov. 10.—Two hundred persons are reported to have perished in a fire on the river boat Ta Shing, which was carrying passengers and produce between Shanghai and Tsungming Island, off the mouth of the Yang Tze River. The steamer was beached at Wansong, near Shanghai.

TORRETTA TO BE ITALIAN AMBASSADOR TO BRITAIN

Rome, Nov. 10.—The Marquis Pietro Della Torretta, former foreign minister, has been appointed ambassador to Great Britain, replacing Signor De Martino, who is transferred to Tokyo, according to the newspapers today.

He also announced Count Rodolfo, present governor of Rhodesia, as ambassador to Germany.

Honor Roll Shows 4 Canadian Girls Died in Service of U. S. in Great War

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Four Canadian heroines of the great war are included in the list of 181 "gold star" girls who gave their lives while serving with various United States war organizations. This roll of honor, which has been in process of compilation for some time, was made public today by the United States Women's Overseas League, and is one of the features of the armistice day commemoration tomorrow.

The remains of most of the "gold star women" rest under French soil, some in far-off Siberia, Armenia, China and Manila, and others in England.

Canadians in the list are as follows: Ella Dalton, Toronto; Kathleen E. Symmes, Quebec City; Marion L. Overend, Peterboro, Ont.; Florence B. Graham, Goderich, Ont.

Only Canadian girls who served and died with the United States organizations are included in the above list, of course.

EXACT LINE-UP OF PARTIES

Washington, Nov. 10.—(Canadian Press).—On the fact of practically complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's elections, the exact line-up of parties in the 68th congress will be known. House—Republicans 225, Democrats 267, Socialist 1, Independent 1, Farmer-Labor 1.

Senate—Republicans 53, Democrats 42, Farmer-Labor 1.

The Republican total in the Senate is predicted on a victory for that party in the senatorial contest. In South Dakota, should that returns show the election of J. F. T. O'Connor, the Democratic candidate, the Republicans would have 52 and the Democrats 43. In the present Senate the Republicans have 60 members and the Democrats 36, a Republican majority of 24.

In the House, the Republicans, on the basis of the unofficial returns, will have a majority of 15 over the combined strength which could be mustered against them by the Democrats and others, and a plurality of 18 over the Democrats as a party unit. In the present House the Republicans have a majority of 165 over all, and the plurality of 155 over the Democrats.

LECTURES ON LIFE OF SHAKESPEARE

Professor Tambling Gives Well-Attended Talk At Public Library.

Professor Tambling of Western University delivered a very illuminating lecture on "The Early Life of William Shakespeare" last night in the lecture room of the Public Library. This lecture was a unit in the course of extension lectures being given by different teachers of Western University, and was well attended.

Professor Tambling spoke in a brief way on the parents of the Bard of Avon. His father was a small merchant and had come of peasant stock, but he was held in certain esteem by the other residents of Stratford and served some time as bailiff of the town.

There are almost certain evidences that Shakespeare attended the Stratford grammar school, as we find indications of this in his knowledge of Ovid and others of the old classic writers. As the bard's birthplace was close to the Welsh border, we find in his writings the brightness of the Celtic happily mingled with Saxon solidity. Shakespeare was more of a naturalist than many of his contemporaries, as he has so readily seen in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "Macbeth," and many others of his works.

The peculiarity of his chirography was due to his having been taught the old Gothic style of writing, which seemed out of place after the Italian method, as used at present, came into use.

Shakespeare must have been an accomplished all-around sportsman, because nobody but such a man as this could have so ably described such scenes as Ferdinand swimming from the wreck in "The Tempest," or Cassius' portrayal of his rescue of Caesar from the Tiber.

As a further indication of the Bard of Avon's having been a sportsman, we find frequent instances in his plays of cock-fights, hunting and bear-baiting.

Shakespeare was married at the age of 18 to a woman eight years his senior, and was the father of three children at the age of 22. At an early stage he went to London to make his fortune, and was helped along by several friends who were living there.

He proved a good business man, and an actor of real ability, and was soon on the road to prosperity. After some years he returned to Stratford and set his erstwhile middle-class family up as people of the higher rank.

DECLARES FUTURE DEPENDS ON GIRLS

Dr. Margaret Patterson Addresses Y. W. C. A. Federated Clubs At Banquet.

Dr. Margaret Patterson of Toronto was the speaker at the third annual banquet of the Y. W. C. A. Federated Clubs held Thursday evening in Smidman & Ingram's dining-room. Dr. Patterson founded her address on the phrase "Follow the Leader."

"I am so pleased to see so many girls following the gleam, as no country will rise above the level of its women," stated Dr. Patterson. "Women are the most important persons in a country, for if they have high ideals and live up to them, the social standard of the country will be a high one. We have a wonderful influence, but with this influence we also have responsibility."

Dr. Patterson then related the Bible story of Lydia, who was a business woman of the first century, pointing out to the girls, that the twentieth century was not the first century to boast of business women. She then went on to tell the girls that in order to lead a successful life we must take care of our bodies, and must regard them as a sacred trust. "The future of our country depends on the girls of today. A consecrated woman is the greatest need of the world today," continued Dr. Patterson, "and in order to keep the heart of man clean and pure, let us set high ideals, let us be dear girls in the sense of the word that does not cheapen us, for if we lose respect for ourselves, we cannot expect others to respect us," concluded the speaker.

Over two hundred girls were present at the banquet, representing the following clubs: Count On Me, Echoes, Lennox, Comrades, Pollyannas, Merry Maids, Nightingales, Optimists, Ich Dien, Sunshine Circle Girls and the Canadian Club. During the banquet copies of the Federation paper "Every Girl" were passed around. This paper is edited by Miss Dorothy Dewar, assisted by Miss Jean Searle, with reporters from each club.

Following a sing-song a toast to the King was proposed by Frank White, M.P.; a toast to the Y. W. C. A. and the Federated Clubs by Mr. E. Reid, which was responded to by Mrs. C. B. King, president of the Y. W. C. A. board, and Miss Ruth Lucas, president of the Federated Clubs.

Sam Amaro acted as chairman and briefly complimented the team for their successful efforts. E. V. Heslop also spoke briefly.

One of the "hits" of the evening was the entertainment furnished by Messrs. Sam Amaro, and J. J. McHale, as "Mister Gallagher" and his friend "Mister Shean." From the reception accorded these two "should-be" professionals, they would be singing yet if there were any more verses to the ever-popular song.

The remainder of the evening was given over to an informal dance. Excellent music was furnished through the kindness of Miss May Lethbridge.

LADY MULHOLLAND is the lady-in-waiting to Princess Mary, who recently married Viscount Lascelles. She is the daughter of Lord Dunleath, and is one of the most popular ladies in the court circles.

Other short addresses were made by Miss Morton, secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; Miss Jean Waugh, president of the Pollyanna Club, and Mrs. Crawford.

Mrs. Mayle Adams acted as chairman, and the guests at the top table included Mrs. George Edwards, Mrs. A. T. Edwards, Mrs. Bruce, Mrs. John Gemmell, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank White, Mrs. Fred White, Mrs. Angus Graham, Mrs. Charles Glass, Mrs. J. H. Cameron, and Mrs. Christian.

Mrs. R. J. King, Sr. Mr. and Mrs. C. B. King, Mrs. Crawford, Mrs. E. C. Edwards, a delegate from Hamilton; Miss A. Hunter, Miss Moore, Mrs. R. M. Graham, Mrs. Hughes and T. D. McCullough.

HOLD RECEPTION FOR CHAMPIONS

Members of St. Martin's Church Entertain Players On Baseball Team.

The St. Martin's baseball team, champions of the C. A. A. League, were guests of honor at an informal reception in St. Martin's Parish Hall Thursday night. The evening was featured by the presentation of gold cuff links to members of the team, brief appreciative talks, and an informal entertainment.

It was but natural after a season of continued strain and uphill fighting to find sociability again claiming first place, and the large gathering of admirers doing its best to demonstrate the feeling of pride over the achievement of the team's first year in the league.

Rev. Fr. D. Forster, in a few brief complimentary remarks, was more than pleased with the team's accomplishment. Lack of practice grounds and distance from Sunshine Park, made the team's triumph greater than many appreciated, he said. Splendid support on the part of the parishioners had helped the team greatly, and both he and the team appreciated it.

Congratulates Team. "This gathering demonstrates what was strongly seen throughout the season," said Father Forster. "Boasters—every one of you was and is a booster. I can safely say that there is not a single knocker in the parish."

"Each and every member of St. Martin's Parish is proud of you," said Father Forster to the members of the team. "They feel a pride in the honor you have brought to St. Martin's Parish, and in your gentlemanly conduct and prowess on the ball field."

Mr. McHale, on behalf of the parishioners, presented each player with gold engraved cuff links, and in a friendly way touched on the position each played, and his value to the team.

"This team of St. Martin boys cannot be too highly commended for their success during the past season," stated Mr. McHale. "You know the boys and you know something of the self-sacrifice they made in order to bring the pennant to St. Martin's. It is to their credit that they stood up under the hardships, and this gathering testifies to the fact that we all appreciate what they have done during the past summer."

Responding briefly to the words of praise, and in appreciation to the handsome individual presents, Barney Clarke and Barry Ashwell, speaking on behalf of the team, would take no credit for the success of the past season. Each attributed the team's success to the splendid management of J. J. McHale, and the support of the parishioners.

"We never would have met with the success we did, were it not for the self-sacrifice of Mr. McHale," said Barry Ashwell.

Sam Amaro acted as chairman and briefly complimented the team for their successful efforts. E. V. Heslop also spoke briefly.

One of the "hits" of the evening was the entertainment furnished by Messrs. Sam Amaro, and J. J. McHale, as "Mister Gallagher" and his friend "Mister Shean." From the reception accorded these two "should-be" professionals, they would be singing yet if there were any more verses to the ever-popular song.

The remainder of the evening was given over to an informal dance. Excellent music was furnished through the kindness of Miss May Lethbridge.

SAYS ADVERTISING INCREASES SALES

Father Brennan Gives Interesting Address To London Members.

"One of the chief aims of manufacturers, in advertising, should be to put into the hands of the consumer an article at as reasonably a cheap price as that article can be sold," Father Brennan told the London Advertising Club at a banquet in the Tecumseh House Thursday night in the course of his illuminating talk on the science of advertising.

The speaker provided a good deal of entertainment at the outset with his oral test of the knowledge of the club members present on the firms who are the originators of some of the most famous advertising slogans used in the country today.

There are two things I would like to say about advertising, Father Brennan began. "They are: I don't believe that a satisfied customer is the best advertising, but I do believe that a dissatisfied customer is the worst advertising."

Increase Sales. "But there is no question that advertising properly conducted results in increased sales. Who pays the cost of advertising, the manufacturer or the consumer? we ask. It stands to reason that successful advertising promotes sales, which causes an increase in the volume of production. Then, because production is higher, the cost is reduced, and the transportation cost is reduced as well as the selling cost. Therefore, ultimately the consumer gets his article cheaper, and the advertising pays for itself."

"When advertising began to become a science, manufacturers thought that all that was necessary was to try and locate a demand. But as the science developed it began to be recognized that a greater thing must be taken into consideration—the consumer's acceptance of that demand."

"The three commonest forms of advertising today are the newspaper, magazine and outdoor advertising. Once you brand a line of goods and send it out to the public it is the object of these three forms of advertising to embed the brand in the public eye and make it stand for something."

Voices Thanks. At the close of Father Brennan's address, George Clark, president of the club, voiced the thanks of the organization for his enlightening and entertaining talk on a subject that all were vitally interested in. Mr. Clark went further to say that the address just delivered proved conclusively that there are persons in London who can deliver as instructive and interesting talks as prominent men whom the club might bring from a distance to address a meeting.

Harold Donahue of Hays Stationery Company, who represented the London Club at the convention of the Direct Mail Advertising Association held in Cincinnati recently, gave a very interesting report of some of the main accomplishments of the convention.

Mr. Donahue explained how various speakers at the three-day convention had championed the use of direct mail advertising to pave the way where the salesmen want to go, and of the personal experiences of the speakers in this regard. He also told of the direct mail advertising employed by some of the most prominent sales and advertising managers in the country who were present at the convention.

The convention had an attendance of 1,700, 50 of whom came from Canada. The delegates from Toronto, Montreal and London traveled to Cincinnati in a chartered car.

LABOR PARTY WILL SELECT CANDIDATES

Special Session To Be Held in Temple On Friday Night.

London Labor will nominate its municipal candidates Friday night, at a special session, at which will attend delegates from the I. L. P., No. 1 branch of the London Labor Party, and all other bodies affiliated with the central political body.

In regular session at the Labor Temple Thursday night, members of the latter organization considered the civic election situation at considerable length and submitted several names to be considered Friday night as possible candidates.

Frank McKay, president was suggested for the mayoralty contest, while John Coburn's name was advanced for the public utilities commission.

Prospective candidates were suggested for every ward as follows: Ward 1—Fred Wanless, Ward 2—J. E. Secker, Ward 3—Alderman John Ashton and D. J. Tallant, Ward 4—Arthur Monck and W. Paige.

Donald Wright, Frank McKay and William Stewart were also suggested as candidates for the board of education.

While the question of placing a candidate in the field for the hospital trust, it was the opinion of the delegates that no opposition should be registered, and no name was recommended to the central body.

It was also decided to call a special session to consider the proposed purchase of the London Street Railway, if it should be the desire of the city council to send the question to the people this year.

None of the names suggested are considered as nominations, however, as all will be voted upon before receiving the final indorsement of the party.

SUMMONS CONGRESS TWO WEEKS EARLIER

Washington, Nov. 9.—Congress was called by President Harding tonight to meet in extraordinary session on Nov. 20, exactly two weeks in advance of the regular session.

The call of the special session has been approved generally by Republicans, who have felt that by getting an earlier start all important bills, including the appropriation measures, would be disposed of by next March 4, when the 67th Congress must adjourn sine die.

ASKS GREATER USE OF GOLDEN RULE

Dr. Grant Addresses Associated Brotherhoods in First Methodist Church.

The speaker of the evening at the meeting of the Associated Brotherhoods of the city held on Thursday night in the First Methodist Church was Dr. Grant of this city. He chose as his subject "A Man's Place in the World." There never was a time, he said, when the world was so much in need of brotherly love, and yet so much in need of a legacy of indifference and selfishness and suspicion, the only antidote for which is the whole-hearted application of the Golden Rule, "Do unto others as you would they would do unto you."

Prosperity is the greatest test that any man or nation can undergo. Rome, Carthage, Greece, all succumbed to the weakening effects of prosperity, and both the French and Russian revolutions were due to the fact that unlimited prosperity among a few led to an arrogance that brought its dire reward. Never was any people so much the heir of all the ages as we, the culture and civilization which we enjoy is the fruit of generations of effort and toil.

"Our ancestors for centuries back have by painful experience and brave energy, conceived the improved state of life in which we are able to live, and we would be ronegards indeed were we to allow the structure so faithfully built to fall into disrepair," asserted the speaker.

Classes of Men. Dr. Grant divided men into three classes. workers, idlers and knockers. The workers he described as the salt of the earth, the very life of progress and the source of energy that will carry us to a better and a happier world. Idlers are those who just sit around and get them to take their full share of life's responsibilities.

The knockers were disposed of in the one word parasites. They are utterly useless, natural pessimists, and a real danger to every uplift movement.

It is a great thing to be an optimist, he said. He believed the world was getting better all the time, as evidence the number of men's clubs that now exist for social betterment, the Kiwanis, Rotary, Noonday and numerous others.

Two Great Problems. "Two great problems face the country today, immigration and education," said Dr. Grant. Immigration has been so mismanaged by the government that there are sections out there which, after ten or fifteen years of settlement, are as foreign in thought and feeling as the immigrants themselves. The greater population of Canada at a not far distant date was going to be west of the Great Lakes, and instead of us giving our care and attention to the way in which we filled up this great land that would some day be the very heart of our nation.

As to education, a test recently undertaken in the States revealed the fact that over 50 per cent of those earning 10,000 a year had received a university education. The future of the world lies with the children who in a few more years will be treading in our steps.

The speaker urged the adults to do everything in their power to fit the children for the life of the future. They would have to live as men and women.

"One other problem remained, he said, that of the delinquent boy. The juvenile court is a psychological mistake; there should be no police court in the ordinary sense of the word in dealing with the delinquent of tender years."

Dr. Grant spoke with persuasion, and was accorded a very hearty applause on resuming his seat.

During the evening Mr. Silverwood spoke briefly on the matter of finances of the brotherhood.

Solos were rendered at intervals by Miss McMillan and Mr. Jackson, both of the First Methodist Choir, the choir quartet also gave a couple of numbers, and there was one or two of the good old familiar songs that everybody enjoyed.

Work of Western University. Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown of the Western University spoke for a few minutes on the work that is being done by the university along the lines of the workers' education, the aim of which is to provide education on all subjects to any one who wishes it, irrespective of age or condition.

The work includes one hour a week of listening to a lecture, and one hour of discussion, the scheme has been of untold benefit in England, where, in fact, he said, it had saved the country from a revolution.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, David Ross; Vice-President, T. H. Yull; Secretary, John Elliott; Vice-Secretary, W. Benson, T. Spettigue and W. Carter; finance committee, J. Leitch, John Gairrin, Mr. Phillips of Sarnia, and Mr. Underwood of St. Thomas.

REPORTS CAR STOLEN. Ray Lawson, London township resident, and prominent London businessman, reported to police Thursday night that his large touring car, a passenger auto had been stolen from where it was parked on one of the city's main streets at 5:20 o'clock Thursday afternoon. The machine has a blue body and black frame and bears license number 34-827 and serial number U 1152, and is a 1922 model.

Police regard the theft as a most daring one, as there are few other cars of the same make, as the stolen one, in the district.

FEW OMIT TO REPORT INCOME

Inspector of Taxation Reports Only 250 To Be Prosecuted For Failure.

The number of persons in this district who will be prosecuted for failure to file their federal income tax returns will not exceed 250 or 275, George Tambling, inspector of taxation for the London district, stated Friday morning. The inspector considers this an excellent showing for Western Ontario, as the population of this section is 1,000,000 and more. Out of this number approximately 100,000 are compelled by law to file income tax returns and probably only 50,000 have taxable incomes.

It is pointed out that the statements made by the inspector Friday means that only one-quarter of one per cent of those who are required to send detailed statements of their incomes to the government office have failed to comply with the law. Prosecution proceedings will not be commenced next week or later, it was stated, as at the present time the lists of violators are being checked over again and all those living in London and the vicinity are being telephoned or approached personally and asked to explain their reasons for failure to file.

Those living at Windsor and other outlying parts of the district have been asked time and time again to send in their returns, and will be given no further chance, but will be summoned to court in a week or two. Mr. Tambling declared that the law provides that persons who fail to file returns within the allotted time shall be liable to a fine of ten dollars a day. In this regard Section 7 (6) of the income tax act of 1917 states, "Every person failing to deliver a return pursuant to the provisions of subsection 1 within the time limit therefor shall be liable to a penalty of five per cent of the tax payable by such person; provided, however, that such penalty shall not in any case exceed $500 and that a person failing to deliver a return pursuant to any other provision of this section within the time limited therefor shall be liable to a penalty of $10 for each day of default; provided, however, that such penalty shall not in any case exceed $50." Mr. Tambling pointed out that the average fine is $30 and that, although several with large taxable incomes who have neglected to file, have been assessed much larger amounts.

Press Comments On Near East

No one in England seems to know whether the situation in the Near East is better or worse. The news that has trickled through since the Turkish cut the cable near Chanak, has been of the disquieting rumors.

Ask Soviet. The Daily News has the report that the Ankara government has asked the Soviet government whether the Russian Bolsheviks "will adhere to the Russo-Turkish military agreement in the event of war." This report said Moscow had replied affirmatively, but the correspondent who filed the dispatch understood that the form of the reply was such that the Soviet government would not take the form of lending troops to Turkey, as the Soviets fear that this would affect Russia's individual interests with other nations.

Some newspapers in London declare the troubled conditions in Constantinople are becoming worse, while others report improvement, but none convey the real picture of the situation. It is understood that military movements concerning the Near East, were discussed again in the British war cabinet yesterday. The cabinet will meet this morning at 10 o'clock to consider British position in the Near East according to the Daily Mail.

Waiting To See. Apparently the crisis at Constantinople is getting neither better nor worse.

Everyone seems to be simply waiting to see what reply the Ankara government will make to the demand of allies that the Turkish Nationalists comply with the Mudros and Mudania conventions. Upon this reply hinges the question of whether the allied commissioners will declare martial law in Constantinople and the area. Paris has a report that Ismet Pasha, Nationalist foreign minister, has been ordered to take "sounder views," and has offered to co-operate with the allies in certain administrative matters in the Constantinople region. But, according to the diplomatic news in the Daily Telegraph, allied commanders are unable to take such offers seriously, as they are no sooner made at Constantinople, than they are repudiated at Ankara. The various powers have not yet agreed on what to do about getting the Near East peace conference at Lausanne started. The Nationalists continue to clamor for getting down to business on scheduled time next Monday, and the French, apparently, want to accommodate them, but the British feel a postponement is highly desirable.

Russia's Reply. The text of Russia's reply to the invitation of the allies for the Lausanne conference merely during the discussion of the straits has been received here. It reiterates the views expressed by Foreign Minister Tchitcherine, in his note of October 20, contending that the exclusion of Russia from the whole conference proves the allies have decided to deprive Turkey of the fruits of her victories. The reply proclaims the Soviet government is in effect a sort of protector of Asiatic nations, and insists that the Moscow government, and the government of the Ukraine, and of Georgia, should be given full participation at Lausanne.

The Russian note demands a quick answer, but it is stated here that the allies most likely will send a reply to Moscow, leaving it up to Russia to attend the conference, or stay away from it, as she wishes.

ALLIED PARLEY IS HELD NEXT WEEK

Poincare, Curzon and Mussolini To Meet in Paris Before Lausanne.

Paris, Nov. 10.—A conference between Premier Poincare and Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, and Premier Mussolini of Italy, probably will be held in Paris the first of next week, it was indicated in official circles here today. France has approved the meeting, providing it does not delay the opening of the Lausanne Near East peace conference beyond November 15, which date now seems probable for the formal start of the meeting.

The conference of the three leaders in Paris, if held, as expected, will probably last three days. The purpose would be to present a solid front to the Turkish Nationalist peace terms.

The French foreign office was still unable this noon to name the definite date for the beginning of the Lausanne meeting, but expected to be able to do so before the day was over.

Woman Leads Battle in Which Man Is Killed.

Special to The Advertiser. New York, Nov. 10.—One man was killed and two desperate criminals were declared broken up when 100 policemen, armed with tear gas, led by a woman in a limousine, staged a running battle with bandits shortly before last midnight in Lower Manhattan.

The thugs were charged with kidnappings and liquor thefts. Scores of shots were exchanged. The chase ended when the woman, who joined the chase "for the fun of it," refused to identify herself to police, they said, chased one fugitive into a Chinese laundry and captured him as he was attempting to buy a disguise.

DISCOVER ANCIENT TUNNEL IN QUEBEC

Quebec, Nov. 10.—A subterranean passage leading from the Huron village church at Indian Lorette to a nearby cliff is reported to have been found within the past few days by an Indian while he was walking along one of the paths in the wall of the cliff and timber.

It is said to be the tunnel of the Huron tribe built long ago under the guidance of the early Jesuit priests as a means of escape in case of a sudden and fierce attack from the raiding Iroquois.

ALLIES HAND NOTE TO ANGORA BODY

Demand Repeal of Measures Relating to Customs and Public Debt.

Constantinople, Nov. 10.—The allied high commissioners have handed a note to the Ankara government representative here, demanding the repeal of all measures relating to the customs, the public debt and the sanitary and other services which conflict with the capitulations and the stipulations of the Mudros armistice agreement of 1918.

Otherwise, says the note, the commissioners will be compelled to refer to their governments for necessary action. Allied generals also arranged a meeting with Rafez Pasha, the Nationalist governor here, to whom they will submit minimum demands with a view to insuring the safety of the troops and efficient control of the police and gendarmerie. The commissioners will also discuss the situation at Chanak consequent upon the Kemalist encroachments upon the neutral zone.

The result of the meeting is not likely to be known for some time, but there are abundant indications that the Kemalist attitude is an intractable mood, an instance of which are new demands for the evacuation of the allied troops and the withdrawal of the warships.

Present Note. Ismet Pasha, the Nationalist foreign minister, in a conversation with General Harrington, the British commander, on Wednesday complained of the constant proposals to put off the peace conference which he said created a difficult situation.

The high commissioners also presented a note to the Kemalist representative protesting against the political murder of the journalist, Ali Kemal Bey, editor of the anti-Nationalist Sabah, who was condemned to death by the Nationalists early this week on the charge of subversion. (Constantinople dispatches on Nov. 7, telling of an allied demand for the release of Ali Kemal within 48 hours, said it was rumored that he already had been executed at Ismid.)

Ismet Pasha, Turkish Nationalist foreign minister, last Wednesday afternoon for Lausanne to attend the peace conference scheduled to begin there next Monday. He was accompanied by Dr. Riza Nur Bey and a suite of military, financial and economic experts.

The foreign minister told the Associated Press he was sincerely anxious for peace, and was confident of achieving it if the allies adopted a realistic attitude.

British troops continue to protect the Yildiz Palace, which the sultan is now occupying. Last night, the sovereign received Sir Horace George M. Rumbold, the British high commissioner, and expressed to him appreciation for the protection afforded by the British.

The ship made a quick trip under favorable weather conditions early this morning. Major General Patrick, chief of the air service, who was expected to be aboard the D-3, did not make the flight.

REBELS RENEW ATTACK ON BARRACKS IN DUBLIN

Dublin, Nov. 10.—Heavy firing erupted in various parts of the city during the night. The irregulars renewed their attack upon Wellington military barracks, and also fired upon the Portobello barracks. The early morning hours were made more hideous by the rattle of machine guns.

Two civilians were found dead on a suburban road, and two soldiers lay wounded this morning in the centre of the city.

WARS ON CRUELTY TO CHICKENS SOLD

Humane Inspector To Watch Poultry Purchased on the Market—Destroys Horse.

One must exercise care from now on and handle poultry in a proper manner on the city market or suffer the consequences, warns George Tustin, inspector for the London Humane Society. An example of what must not be done, he explains, would be putting live chickens in a bag, and carrying them by the legs.

The inspector reports that he was compelled to destroy a stray horse, just off the Hamilton road, Thursday night. The animal was diseased, and in a starving condition, and no owner could be located, he states. More than 50 horses are employed in the task of hauling gravel to the new Western University building job, he says further, and these are being taken from the drivers in certain instances, and horses have been taken off, while certain teams have also been doubled.

KIWANIS MAKES BIG PROGRESS

S. Poulin at Noonday Banquet Tells of St. John's Club.

S. Poulin at the Kiwanis luncheon stated that the forward progress had been wonderful since the advent of Kiwanians in St. John's. The two races in the city were coming closer together, and they were putting down that age old race and religion hatred.

But what the Kiwanians were doing, Mr. Poulin thought, was being undone daily in the press of the various cities. Dispatches he said were gladly published, that kept race differences before the two peoples. These dispatches were not news, and the only thing they really accomplished was the destroying of again what little had been accomplished toward better feeling and co-operation.

"But I contend that we now have the real instrument for the bringing of a better understanding between these two races. The real instrument to create a true spirit of brotherhood between the French-speaking people of Ontario. It will stimulate a better understanding among all good citizens, notwithstanding race or religion, for the building up of a great nation, and this instrument is the Kiwanian Club."

Banish Race Appeals. "What is more essential than the true understanding of everyone of us?" asked Mr. Poulin. "Let us at least get rid of the old racial and religious appeals. Let us be really brotherly—let us be true Canadians. It is only in that way that we as Kiwanians will realize our motto, and be real Kiwanians, and true."

Mr. Poulin cited the Biblical story of the attempted building of the tower of Babel. When the language of the builders became confounded, the success of the project was spoiled. So in the attempt to bring about restored and permanent friendship between the two provinces, racial prejudice would topple the foundations of the project. He said that he was not taken to prevent the further bringing of this question to the fore.

Rising again to address those assembled, Mr. Poulin spoke in French. His short discourse was one of friendship and good fellowship.

Throughout the luncheon, sociability reigned. Arthur Ford, in asking E. G. Orange to introduce Mr. Poulin, touched on the non-political and non-religious aims of the Kiwanian order. The splendid idea of having speakers of inter-change was, he thought, one that would show results far greater than could be seen or anticipated at the present time.

Mr. Orange addressed the members briefly in both French and English before introducing Mr. Poulin.

As a surprise feature, a competition between aspiring musicians among London Kiwanians was furnished, and judging from the applause to the "selection" of each furnished was greatly enjoyed. Mr. Poulin put it only mildly, captured first prize. Murray, first with the mouth organ, and later disguised as "Tony," with a grinding organ, assisted by Sam Amoro as a pianist, secured second prize. Charles Martin, playing a kazoo, completed the "musical competition."

THAT FUNNY FLAVOR!

Chickens were plentiful and exceedingly reasonable, just as they have been every week-end market day for months, ranging in price from 15 cents apiece up. Ducks, too, appeared in satisfactory numbers and quality, $1.15 each, up.

But the flies will insist upon getting into the cream jug. Just when poultry is so plentiful and such good buying, along comes a reason for regarding it with caution. "Have you noticed a peculiar odor about the fowl about poultry?" asked a city woman to whom the Covent Garden market is an off-scanned tale.

Funny how one keeps bumping into a subject once it is mentioned. Saturday morning more marketers on the market place than ever before, and odor and flavor associated with poultry.

One woman claimed it resembled carbolic acid, and that in steaming the chicken one should be careful to remove the entire skin. Another woman claimed the disinfectant went "clean to the bone" of her beautifully stuffed and roasted fowl.

Was it something sprinkled on the birds to keep them free from pests? We heard a good deal of talk, and a woman smelled the chicken she bought from me this morning before she would take it; a warm woman said when asked about the matter, "Some think it is the disinfectant they use to sprinkle nests and perches to keep any and all parasites, just keep things clean as we can. If I was buying instead of selling chicken I'd certainly want to know how it was going to smell and taste, all right. It would be worth finding out if there is any ground for the talk."

"I Had Bilious Attacks and Stomach Weakness"

Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Yorker, Sask., writes: "I suffered from stomach and liver trouble, and used to have bilious attacks so bad that I could do nothing for weeks at a time. My stomach would be so weak that not even a drink of water would stay on it. On my sister's advice, I began to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they have made me feel like a new woman."

G. T. R. WORKER TO HONOR DEAD

Memorial Services To Be Held at Carshops Saturday.

In honor of the carshops employees of the Grand Trunk Railway in this district who gave their lives for the cause of justice in the great war, the workers in London have arranged to hold a memorial service in the carshops library to commence at 12:10 p.m. Saturday, Armistice Day.

A memorial tablet, on which is engraved the names of 32 who made the supreme sacrifice, now holds the honor place in the library, and it is in front of this that a floral tribute will be placed. The tablet, erected by the patriotic committee of the carshops employees and the employees of the Ontario lines of the Grand Trunk Railway, was dedicated last fall by the Rev. Col. Wm. Beattie.

The order of service will be as follows:

Introduction by D. C. Messeroll, manager, building; hymn, "O God, Our Father in Ages Past," prayer led by Rev. T. J. Charlton of St. Matthew's Church; presentation of the wreath; Last Post by Buglers Horner, Vining and Allen; hymn, "For All the Saints"; reading of "Their Labors Rest," address by Rev. D. Mess of St. David's Church; "God Save the King," followed by the Benediction by J. Thornton.

J. Noble, father of one of the boys who died in the World War, and whose name is on the tablet, will make the presentation of the wreath.

Relatives and friends of the fallen heroes are specially invited to attend the memorial service.

SOMBRA.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sombra, Nov. 9.—The Sombra Hunt Club have left in their new hunting house, "The Sombra," to enjoy a few days' shooting on the St. Clair flats. The United States survey party is working on the River St. Clair, preparatory to making a new channel for the river.

Thieving seems to be a fine art in Sombra Township. Samuel Arnold lost some two bushels of corn and a few chickens, and the farmers from different places of parties losing chickens and other fowl. The farmers are now resorting to the shotgun method of stopping the thieving.

One supposed gentleman in this business had his windshield shot off by a car when he told to stop and kept on going. Another farmer, Napolitano, a visitor at his home, the method of stealing seems to be for one may stay in the car, or wagon, with the other goes to the barn or hen house. Generally the farmer goes out to the car, on being aroused while the man in the barn goes away.

HANDY CONTROL SWITCH.

How button and light switch may be placed together on a control device which can be attached to the right side of the steering wheel. This eliminates the necessity of reaching to the dash to dim the lights and makes operation of these parts much easier. All the driver has to do is press the button on his thumb without moving his hand from the wheel.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough Is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself At Home. It's Cheap—But You Can't Beat It.

If you want to take care of that bad, hang-on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Peppermint (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will act so surely and quickly on a mucous membrane of the nose and throat. It kills the inflammation, the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membrane, free from irritation and mucus follows.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus droppings, clogged nostrils and watery eyes, it won't disappoint—ask for Peppermint (double strength). Speak plainly so that the druggist will know exactly what you want—Advt.

COMMISSION TO CONSIDER PLANSAllied Reparations Body To View German Proposals
Carefully Before Decision.

Berlin, Nov. 9.—Final consideration of Germany's reparations proposals and the various stabilization projects recommended by the committee of experts will be undertaken by the allied reparations commission upon its return to Paris.

M. Barthou, president of the commission, has made no request for a concluding formal session with the German government, and has announced the commission's departure on Friday in a brief and courteous note, in which he emphasized that the commission had come to Berlin solely for the purpose of accumulating information bearing on Germany's economic situation and the condition of her national finances, and that the commission would gladly give consideration to such added data or suggestions as Germany desired to place before it.

The indecisive termination of the present proceedings is viewed with disappointment by both German official and unofficial circles, while informal expressions by the French and English members of the commission lead to the inference that they are leaving Berlin convinced that no tangible progress has been achieved. Diplomatic circles incline to the belief that Germany, through lack of energetic initiative and failure to enter the conference with a bold and clearly-defined program, has lost valuable strategic ground, and in a certain measure has suffered a moral defeat in provoking the commission's request for definitely formulated proposals.

Customs Barrier Effective.

Neutral quarters are of the opinion that the commission's mere presence in Berlin afforded the German Government a surer footing than it would obviously possess if conducting negotiations in Paris or London, and it is believed that owing to indecisiveness of unreparedness, Germany has lost the benefits of a rare opportunity.

There is also widespread conviction on all sides that the indecisive outcome of the Berlin conference again leaves the entire range of reparations issues at the mercy of France, and that France's position at the present time assures her predominance in deciding the further course of the reparations policies.

A customs barrier to the extent established by France alone, the premier thought, would be ineffective, resulting only in sending traffic by other routes, while taking of pledges by France alone would be far less potent than if the allies acted together. But the British Government had refused satisfaction on every point, insisting upon a moratorium without guarantees.

German industry had continued to profit from the depreciation of the mark, but finally it was realizing that it was likely to become the victim of its own manipulations.

The question whether the allies will consent to proceed with measures of compulsion against Germany will finally be considered at Brussels, the premier continued. Germany thus far had confined herself to dilatory tactics, while making audacious pretensions. The allies must decide once for all the policy they intend to adopt toward her.

Lord Curzon has promised us the support of the new British government, said M. Poincaré, in conclusion, and we are always ready to press a cordial hand extended to us. We count on the friendship of Great Britain as she may count on the friendship of France.

Special To The Advertiser.

St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—Announcement is made that F. H. Kettle, proprietor of the St. Thomas Motor Sales, has disposed of his large garage building in St. Catharine street to E. Butterworth of the Elgin Motor Company. The newcomer will take possession about Nov. 15, and will use the building in connection with his present business, also located in St. Catharine street. Mr. Kettle retains his automobile agency.

PLANS WERE extensively discussed at the regular monthly meeting of the Talbot Club, Limited, for the holding of a city assembly. It was definitely decided to hold an at home between Christmas and the new year. Routine business was also transacted.

ONLY FIVE building permits were issued during the first eight days of the present month for a total estimated building value of $3,400, according to records in the city engineer's office. One permit went to S. S. Harper for the erection of a frame dwelling in Wilson avenue.

COMPLAINTS HAVE been made by residents in Wellington street that motorists are speeding past the Wellington Street School, and disregarding the "go slow" sign. Chief Armstrong has instructed his men to keep a strict watch for offenders, who will be given the maximum punishment for this offence.

THE REGULAR meeting of the B. Y. P. U. of Centre Street Baptist Church was held on Tuesday, with Miss Grace Lay in the chair. A paper, entitled "Climbing Life's Sacred Stair," was read by Miss Emily Crisp. Letters on B. Y. P. U. work and the service of young people in the church, from the pen of a prominent clergyman, was read by Miss Sarah Lay. The musical part of the program consisted of vocal solos by Miss Letta Freeman and C. Kerr. The devotional group are planning an old-time social for next Monday evening. MEIGHEN ATTACKS
C.N.R. DIRECTORATECharges Appointments Matter of Political Exploitation by Liberal Government.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—That the administration of Hon. Mackenzie King has made the directorate of the Canadian National System a matter of political exploitation by appointing men to the board in recognition of services rendered the Liberal party was the charge made by Right Hon. Arthur Meighen in a vigorous speech delivered in Foresters' Hall tonight on the occasion of the opening of the Conservative women's bazaar.

He said he wished the new manager, Sir Henry Thornton, every success, but he thought it would be years before the latter could possibly sufficiently acquaint himself with Canada and the railways.

Mr. Meighen also scored the government for indecision in the crisis arising from Turkey flouting the stipulations laid down by the allies, and to which Canada was a party, and for what he described as the abandonment of the defense of Canada and increasing the burden of the British taxpayer.

Remains Unscathed.

Referring to the position of the Conservative party, Mr. Meighen said that in the last nine months its records had been analyzed and found to be unblemished. Six years of troubles and times and turmoil remained unscathed, and would remain for all time. The task of leading an administration through six years of war was one almost impossible without some error, but the Conservative party stood now with its whole administration clean and pure, which was something to be proud of.

"Then," said Mr. Meighen, "let us inquire what the government has done in its ten months of power." He thought it was duty to see to the defense of the state. The government had placed this country in the position of a sponger within the empire, leaving the others the burden of defense. The country itself had the sole right to decide what should be the form of its defence and what the obligations should be. The time to decide the lines for future co-operation for defence did not come to the late government. It could not come until the whole obligations of the empire were made known after the dismemberment conference at Washington had taken place. When that was through, Great Britain knew what she had to do, and how far she could go into the matter of defence. Did anybody know what the Canadian government of today had decided, asked Mr. Meighen, it had abandoned the defence of the sea.

At Present in Crisis.

"We are at present in something of a crisis," continued Mr. Meighen. "The foreign secretary said, indeed, that the British Empire faced a definite menace." Could anybody say how the Canadian government had risen to that responsibility? The last information was that questions were being asked of the colonial office. What the questions were had not yet been advised. The crisis arose because of stipulations made by the allies, joined in by Canada and the other dominions. Those stipulations had been flouted and scorned by one of the defeated nations—Turkey—and in the face of that defiance Canada has refused to answer any call to stand by.

"We are told that the government will decide," said Mr. Meighen, "if that is the case then it is the duty of the government to make known to the people of this country all the facts of the present crisis. I am aware that governments in periods of strain cannot make public certain facts. It is just because of that that responsibility must decide, must take responsibility and direct the nation by their leadership."

Mr. Meighen went on to speak of some of the misrepresentations made against the late government at the last elections. They were indicted, for instance, because of their failure to devise adequate means to help those who suffered in the war. He made no claim that the institutions provided were perfect, that all injustices had been wiped away, nor that there were no instances of suffering still unaddressed. He did claim that the institutions set up by the late government were efficient and generous and produced the best practical results of any of the countries at the war.

Mr. Meighen claims that his government placed some of the ablest business men of the country on the board of management of the new national system. It was a heavy burden, but they stuck to the task and were not subject to political influence of any kind.

"Then the new government came in," said Mr. Meighen, "for political purposes they called for the resignation of the board, placing only one man back the deputy minister, the old members being discarded, not because of their failure, but because of their success. I will say nothing against Sir Henry Thornton, except that he has never been connected with anything but what would be a side light to the national system, or in comparison a mere suburban line."

Doubts Success of System.

"He may be a man capable of the task, and I wish him success, but whatever advantages and capacity he may possess, it, of necessity, will be years before he can possibly acquaint himself with Canada, and our railways to be at all on the level with the men whom he has replaced. And more than that, the new board does not possess one man of the seven who ever had the least to do with any railway in this country. Outside of the manager the others have qualified by services to the Liberal party. They are party henchmen, made railway directors. Not one of the six save Mr. Stewart, has any other qualifications."

"If railway terminals were voting booths, and time-tables voters' lists, they would no doubt be eminently fitted as directors of the national system. The gravamen of the charge against the government is that they have made the directorate of that great system a matter of political exploitation. If that policy is to be pursued, we may as well ring the curtain down on the national system for it can never succeed."

CANADA'S DEBT INCREASES $40,000,000 DURING 1922

Ottawa, Nov. 9.—(By Canadian Press).—Canada's total net debt, at October 1 of this year, was $2,269,759,026.02, as against $2,384,030,843.30 at the end of September, a decrease of 14 1/2 millions in the month, and against $2,229,262,902.98 at the end of October, 1921, an increase in this case of $40,000,000. This is with-out consideration of non-active assets.

Homemaking Mixes Suc-

to the speaker Thursday evening at the annual banquet of the Y. W. C. A.
Federation of Girls' Clubs. Dr. Margaret Patterson, police magistrate of Toronto."I think I have managed to make them mix with quite good success," she smilingly replied. "If I were addressing a graduating class of girls in medicine, however, this is the advice I would give them: 'If you are absolutely sure you have found the man with whom you want to spend your life, marry him as you graduate, bring up your family, reading all the time good medical journals and keeping in touch with the progress of medical science.'""When your children have reached the high school age, where they vision, and home duties relegated to others, take a strong post-graduate course to fit yourself for medical work among women, the special field of the woman doctor. Then enter upon active practice.""The ballast and knowledge gained from experience as wife, mother, homemaker should prove invaluable to you in your work, and in understanding the problems of women. By following this course, you will likely give more years to the medical profession than if you began to practice at once.""Quite probably the girls just graduating would not agree with me at all. Did I do this myself? No, I practised my profession in missionary work in Northern India for ten years before I married my husband, who was at that time professor of physics in the University of Allahabad.""Later, we removed to Simla, where he received an appointment, and I held the position of professor of obstetrics in the Women's Medical College in Ludhiana."The reference to India on the part of the doctor-magistrate caused a stirring of the writer's memory.
Dr. Margaret Patterson admitted that she was one and the same first Canadian woman to receive imperial recognition for medical services, the first woman, indeed, to have conferred upon her the Kaiser-in-India medal, a decoration bestowed at the time of King Edward's coronation, in recognition of work she had done in organizing relief in Northern India, from her base at Allahabad, during the first outbreak of bubonic plague, early in her professional career."I am glad to tell something of this service which had won her such distinction, Dr. Patterson, still a very young and vigorous-looking woman, with out a gray thread in her abundant dark hair, brushed the subject aside with a casual, 'Just organizing relief hospitals, relief work and for regeneration.'"She reminded that a similar decoration had been planned on Dr. Margaret McKellar of India, also a Canadian by birth, in recognition of conspicuous medical service, at the time of the Durbar in India, and that since then she had achieved wide recognition in an advisory capacity in India during the war.Women M.D.'s Make Good.

YEARLY REPORT SHOWS
WESTERN IS ADVANCING

Dean Sherwood Fox Gives University Governors Account of Institution's Progress—409 Students Enrolled in Arts—Changes in Professorships.

RECEIVES GIFTS FROM CITIZENS

W. SHERWOOD FOX, dean of the College of Arts, Western University, has submitted his report for the year 1931-32 to the board of governors. The report in part follows:

"In making my report to the board of governors for the academic year 1931-32, it gives me much satisfaction to record a very large increase in the number of students in attendance. There were registered exclusively in the University College of Arts 317 students. In addition, instruction in a limited number of subjects was given to 41 students registered in Ursuline College. Thus a total of 358 students were wholly or partially registered in the University College of Arts. If the 51 students enrolled in Assumption College are included, the entire number of students in Arts in Western University was 409.

"At the convocation exercises on May 26 the degree of bachelor of arts was conferred upon twenty-three students of the College of Arts and seven students of Assumption College. Two students qualified for the degree of master of arts. This was the largest class in arts that ever graduated from the university. If all the members of this year's juniors who are eligible to register again and complete their studies successfully the college of arts will graduate thirty-one students in May, 1933. To this number Assumption and Ursuline Colleges together will add ten or twelve, thus raising the prospective number of bachelors of arts to forty or a few more.

Changes in Personnel.

"This year, like every other year, has brought changes in the personnel of the faculty. Several members resigned to accept positions elsewhere. Major G. M. Brock, lecturer in English and lecturer in the department of mathematics, withdrew to join the staff of Ridley College, St. Catharines. Mr. A. C. Lewis, lecturer in physics, accepted a professorship in physics at the Royal Military College, Kingston. Rev. B. H. Robinson, lecturer in philosophy, resigned because of his removal from the city. Mr. G. F. Cram, instructor in romance languages, returned to academic life in the United States. Miss Mary A. Wetherill, who had been director of physical education, resigned to accept a position as director of physical education at the University of Toronto. To the vacancies caused by these resignations and to positions newly created to meet the demands for more instructors certain appointments were made. Professor H. R. Edwards, associate professor of mathematics, and head of the department. J. D. Dewiler, Ph.D., a graduate of Queen's University, was given the position of assistant professor of biology. J. A. Spenceley, M.A., and O. F. Ellis, B.A., both graduates of Toronto, and post-graduate students in Harvard University, were appointed assistant professors. Dr. J. A. Spenceley, of English, and the other in the department of romance languages. R. Allen, M.A., of Brandon College, Brandon, Manitoba, was awarded an instructorship in physics.

"The following lecturers were appointed: Rev. T. A. Symington and Rev. N. S. McKee in philosophy; Frank Curran, B.A., LL.B., and C. J. Jean, B.A., in English; Margaret McIntosh, B.A., was appointed to the newly-created position of assistant professor of biology; Physical education, for men and general athletics were put in the charge of Mr. Merwin Blake, and physical education for women in charge of Miss Edith Pryce. In biology, physics and chemistry, a larger number of student assistants were engaged than during the previous year.

Staff Advances Made.

"In the course of the year several members of the staff were advanced in rank. Associate Professor E. G. Sturdevant was made professor of chemistry. H. D. Jackson, B.A., was advanced from the rank of instructor in chemistry to that of assistant professor.

"Leave of absence for an additional year was granted to Mr. E. A. Meras, lecturer in the University of Toronto, France, and to Mr. Robert Hannan, who was completing graduate studies in the University of Toronto. In addition to conducting regular classes in the university, many members of the staff have lectured under the auspices of the extension department in London and elsewhere in Western Ontario. Details and figures of these services will appear in the report of the director of the extension department.

"The College of Arts is being greatly helped by the gifts that are made to its library from time to time. During the year The London and complete the university its complete files, beginning about 1850, and extending up to 1916. This will be very useful for students who will be pursuing their studies in the history, and the history of Western Ontario. The Carnegie Institution of Washington and the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace have continued to send us their regular issues. Many of these works are very notable in the field of history. Donations to the library have also been made by a number of individuals interested in the university. In the Stanley library the university has purchased a large number of books that will be of particular value in the study of Canadian history in general and of Canadian history in particular.

Receives Gifts.

"The university continues to receive gifts of funds whereby it can establish scholarships and prizes. Major Hume Cronyn has generously added another $1,000 to his gift of the same amount reported last year for the purpose of endowing a vicinal and vicinal. William Wyatt bequeathed to the university the sum of $5,000 the income of which will be used for the purpose of scholarships bearing the name of the donor. The first scholarship in the field of Canadian history was awarded to a student of the university. The administration of the university of arts has found the old building of incalculable service during the year. It has been available to the university for the purpose of giving instruction to the large number of students who have been attending this year will tax the capacity of the building. The urgency of completing the new plant is very great.

TELLS OPTIMISTIC STORY OF CONDITIONS IN WEST

Hamilton Businessmen Believe Trade and Business Generally Improving.

Hamilton, Nov. 10.—C. H. S. Bamford, sales manager of the J. H. Ashford Hardware Company, Winnipeg, who is east on a business trip, brings an optimistic view concerning the business prospects of the west.

"The west," he said, "is passing through some very trying times, but it has touched bottom, and is now on the up-grade."

He said that while there had been no boom like 1912, a gradual, steady, solid, substantial progress had already started. Business was improving, and with the turn of the year, a revival in trade would be quite noticeable. Stocks in retailers' hands were low, and there must be large purchases in 1933.

The hard times had not been an unmixed evil, for they had forced the western farmer to adopt a more diversified type of farming, and wheat had been shipped out of Canada in a larger volume than had been shipped out in any year since 1914. The money was coming into the farmers' hands and they were beginning to pay off their debts.

3 PUPPY DOGS INVOLVED IN FIGHT FOR FORTUNE

Chicago, Nov. 10.—(By Canadian Press)—Judge Henry Horner of the probate court is busy deciding a case in which three little dogs are fighting for their inheritance. They are the alleged offspring of Trixie, heir-heir to the income from the $37,000 estate of Mrs. Margaret Howard, who died last June.

Under the terms of a will filed last year, Trixie, her sister, Friskie, were named as principal heirs. They were to enjoy the income from the estate during their lives, after which the bulk of the money was to go, without restriction, to the Kansas Children's Home at Little Rock. The court has been called upon to decide whether the will is legal.

Oregon Adopts Law Following Fight by Ku Klux Klan.

Special to The Advertiser.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—A curious by-product of Tuesday's elections in the passage in Oregon by a popular vote of the law requiring all children to attend the public schools between the ages of six and sixteen. The law will not only put out of business all parochial schools, but private schools for young children of every kind. The bill having passed the legislature, was submitted for approval to a popular vote, and became the chief issue in the recent campaign.

Roman Catholics, Anglicans, Lutherans and Hebrews assailed the proposed law bitterly, and received considerable support from people not especially affected by the bill. The bill, however, was endorsed by the Freemasons, the Knights of Pythias and other benevolent orders and carried by an overwhelming majority.

The fight began when the Ku Klux Klan, recently organized in Oregon, endeavored to capture the Republican primaries. Failing in this, the Klan put a candidate for governor in the field, thus bringing the school bill into the political arena. Later on he withdrew in favor of the Democratic candidate for governor when the latter declared himself in favor of the bill. The result was a serious split in the Republican ranks, and one of their candidates for congress, C. N. McCarthur, being defeated.

Many advocates of the bill deny that it is aimed against any particular church, and point to the fact that Nicholas J. Slinnot, a prominent Roman Catholic, was returned to congress at the same election. The law, however, will put an end to the parochial schools which are maintained at their own expense by members of the Roman Catholic, Lutheran, Anglican and Jewish churches, and will materially affect a great many private schools and academies which receive pupils under sixteen years of age.

It is taken for granted that the validity of the law will be challenged in the courts. The United States supreme court at present has under consideration the appeal of a teacher in a Lutheran separate school at Cleveland, Ohio, who was arrested and fined for teaching German to a child under fourteen.

All the Ohio courts upheld the conviction upon the grounds that the legislature had the same right to regulate private schools as it had to regulate public schools. This, of course, is not the same thing as abolishing private schools, but the decision of the supreme court in this case will be awaited with interest.

MEXICAN REBEL KILLED IN BATTLE

Mexico City, Nov. 10.—Gen. Juan Carrasco, for many months the leader of the so-called Black Legion army on the west coast, was killed early yesterday, with seven of his men, in a battle with federal troops at Guamuchito, Durango.

This information was received last night at the war office from Gen. Juan Torres, federal commander in that region. Thus, close upon the execution of Mr. Murguía, another enemy of President Obregon has been removed.

HEIR TO MILLIONS TO WED ARTIST

Special to The Advertiser.

Chicago, Nov. 10.—Angell, 19, niece and heiress to the $35,000,000 estate of "Bet" Em Milligan, Gates, will marry Lester Norris, poet artist and son of the village undertaker of St. Charles, Ill., in the spring.

The engagement was formally announced at a gathering of Miss Angell's friends.

RANEY REPLIES TO CRITICS AT THAMESVILLE

Attorney-General Defends the Enforcement of Temperance Act in Province.

WILL TAX RACE TRACKS

Upholds Backus Deal as Salvation of the Town of Kenora.

Special to The Advertiser.

Thamesville, Nov. 9.—An able and effective reply to criticism of the present provincial administration was made here by Attorney-General Hon. W. E. Raney before a well-attended meeting of East Kent electors Thursday night. He defended strongly the enforcement of the Ontario temperance act. "As long as this government is in power," he declared, "there will be no recognition of friends or foes in the enforcement of this act."

Referring to the Hon. G. Howard Ferguson's recent announcement of a liquor policy that would please everybody, the attorney-general remarked: "I have awaited with interest the announcement of that policy. From his latest utterances it seems to be this: the law is all right, it's the enforcement that is wrong. Mr. Hearst gave a law to satisfy the prohibition people, now Mr. Ferguson wants to give us an enforcement of it to satisfy the other side; that's quite an idea, but when the people of Ontario show that they want an administration of the O. T. A. by Mr. Howard Ferguson, with Mr. Herbert Lennox as attorney-general, I'll be content."

"I have been criticized," said Mr. Raney, "from two sources, by my friends, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, my somewhat better friend, Mr. Herbert Lennox, and by my journalistic supporters, the Evening Argonauts, which when words fail it attacks the Drury movement, turns to hysterical (more laughter), making a quotation to the effect that a statesman should give no attention to compliments, but should pay spot cash for criticism."

The attorney-general remarked: "Some people are wondering if I have any balance left at the bank. Well, my bank balance has not suffered very much yet." (Laughter.)

The government had been referred to by certain critics as a government of amateurs, said Mr. Raney. "Amateurism was not a drawback, he declared. What was required in the government of the province was simply plain common sense and honesty."

Touching on the question of the race track tax, the speaker said: "I want it understood that this government loves horses and likes to see a horse race. We're human, and we've got red blood, but we're not gamblers." (Applause.)

"There's no necessary connection between horse racing and gambling. Why should a questionable business be more tenderly treated than businesses that are not questioned?" he inquired.

TREAT GIRLS' RUFF LANDS IN CLINK

New York, Nov. 10.—The treat-embroiled city of New York today reserves for women—and especially for mothers-in-law—earned him an indefinite sentence to the penitentiary recently in general sessions court.

Witnesses at Biniker's trial testified that on Oct. 10, the day after his marriage to Anna Cassell, he was observed at the Cassell home, after having dragged his new mother-in-law about the house, and showing her how nicely he could hurl a dirt point first at a mark.

A probation officer who investigated the case testified that Biniker had another wife living, but that she had quit him after he broke her jaw. The officer also found another woman who declared Biniker had wooed her with blows and threats. She was so afraid of him that when he took her out she left a note telling her sister where to look in case she did not come home.

BENCH AVENGES SELF FOR INSULT

Montreal, Nov. 10.—"It is men like you who spread stories that the justice is venal—that judges can be bought. You have attempted to soil the reputation of men on the bench for your own profit. I shall give you the maximum sentence imposed by the law, three years in the penitentiary."

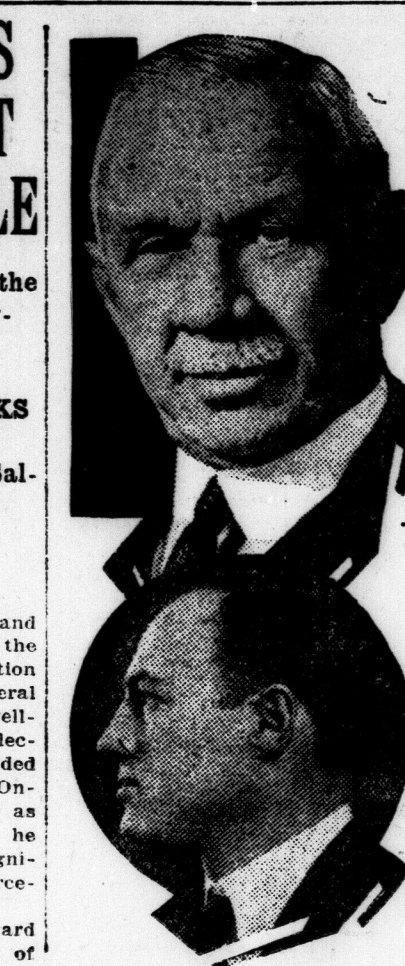

In the above words Judge Gustave Perreault here yesterday afternoon ended the trial of Henri Duperron, found guilty of attempting to obtain $55 from Mrs. Emelie Brassard. She testified that Duperron had told her he could settle a charge against her brother for $55, which was to be split "fifty-fifty" between him and one of the judges of the sessions, whom he named.

HARDING URGES PEOPLE TO SUPPORT RED CROSS

Special to The Advertiser.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 10.—President Harding today issued the proclamation calling upon the American people to support the American Red Cross membership roll call, beginning tomorrow and continuing until Thanksgiving Day.

He also proclaimed Nov. 17 as Red Cross Sunday, inviting the people "to unite with their spiritual leaders in such observance of the day as may promote a renewed consecration to the gospel of service based upon divine injunction and sanctioned by all good conscientious men."

Milo D. Campbell, president of American Milk Producers' Federation. Below: Charles W. Holman, executive secretary.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—If the plan for cutting the cost of milk distribution discussed at the sixth annual meeting of the National Milk Producers' Federation at Springfield, Mass., is carried out, it will be the biggest co-operative undertaking America ever has known.

Too many links in the distribution chain, each demanding its profit, result in the cost of milk to the consumer being more than double the price received by the producer. By middle links, through co-operative marketing by the milk producers themselves, it is believed a sufficient saving can be accomplished to cut present prices to consumer and still give the farmer a better average price for his product than he now receives.

Producers now bringing to the federation number more than 200,000 and their annual milk output is worth between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000.

The producers also plan a battle against high railway rates for carrying milk. In its recent rate division, the Interstate Commerce Commission refused to reduce the charges for milk transportation by auto truck and the possibilities for its further extension.

On the basis of this report, it is expected plans for intensive expansion in milk truck lines will be laid, to cover all the major districts of intensive milk production.

The speaker ruled the amendment out of order, and his decision being appealed it was upheld on division by 54 votes to 5. The full opposition strength in the assembly, however, reading goes to the legislative council for consideration next Tuesday.

Meanwhile the habeas corpus proceedings initiated by the opposition K.C.s, are held over till Saturday morning, so that the judge can go into the question of the constitutionality of the law that day.

Roberts was to have appeared in Montreal yesterday, but as he did not, a bench warrant was issued for his arrest. This was caused by the fact that the legislature by a story published in a Montreal French paper stated that he was in the city, and had been on a hunger strike for 24 hours, and was still refusing to take food.

Mr. H. Roberts is not stirring himself in the way of food. He not only has the regular menu of the meals served in the parliamentary canteen to choose from, but also a la carte list, and here are the last four meals he has taken:

Splendid Meals.

Luncheon, Wednesday—Celery, vegetable soup, fillet of haddock, pineapple fritters, lamb chops, chicken, chasseur, cold assorted meats, mashed potatoes, wax beans, fruit pudding, maple ice cream, French cakes, cheese and tea.

Dinner, Wednesday—Celery, consommé, lamb cutlets, roast chicken, sweet corn, mashed potatoes, custard pudding, apple pie, ice cream, Canadian cheese and tea.

Breakfast, Thursday—Grapefruit, porridge, toast and coffee, eggs on toast, buttered toast and coffee.

Luncheon, Thursday—Celery, soup, lake trout, roast leg of lamb, potatoes, peas, blanching, chicken, chasseur, cold assorted meats, mashed potatoes, wax beans, fruit pudding, maple ice cream, French cakes, cheese and tea.

For a man who is supposed to be on a hunger strike this is not so bad, and every item was chosen very liberally, and ordered: It was not a case of things being sent in to him whether he wanted them or not. In addition he has been supplied with cigars since Saturday, but has not asked for any wine or beer from the restaurant.

WANTS NEWBERRY OUT OF U. S. SENATE

Woodbridge Ferris, Michigan, Promises to Fight For Eviction.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 10.—Woodbridge N. Ferris, Democratic senator-elect from Michigan, plans to "do what one man can to oust Senator Newberry from the Senate," he announced here yesterday. Criticism of what he termed "Newberryism" was Mr. Ferris's chief campaign argument, and his election, he declared, made it his first duty "to straighten out this matter."

"My first official act will be to begin steps for a rehearing of Mr. Newberry's case," he said. Although he will be a new member at Washington, Mr. Ferris does not "intend to keep still, as is the custom of new members," he said.

"The only way they can keep me quiet is to chloroform me. It will be impossible for me to keep still for six weeks." The senator-elect referred to published criticism of his campaign fund, denying that Henry Ford bore a part of his expenses.

QUEBEC PREMIER MOVES FOR DEPARTMENT PROBE

Aroused Over Roberts Sedition Case, Taschereau Creates Royal Commission To Sift Work of Department of Justice in Slaying Mystery.

EDITOR FEASTS BEHIND PRISON BARS

(By Staff Correspondent.)

QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—A sensation was sprung in the Blanche Garneau murder case yesterday when the prime minister announced in the legislative assembly that a royal commission of two or three judges of the superior court would be created forthwith to investigate thoroughly the action taken by the department of justice in their efforts to bring the murderers of the young girl to justice, and sift to the bottom the rumors of scandal and innuendo that have been circulating so widely for the past year in connection with this now famous murder.

The provincial cabinet is meeting this afternoon for the purpose of passing the necessary order-in-council, and Premier Taschereau declares that he will push things along as rapidly as possible so that the commission may commence its setting at an early date.

Rarely has the prime minister shown such heat in debate as in the House yesterday afternoon, when replying to the speech of the leader of Conservative opposition, Arthur Sauve, who had moved an amendment to the motion for third reading of the bill providing for a year's imprisonment of John H. Roberts, because of the article published in the Axe, violating the privileges of legislation by declaring that two of its members were implicated in the crime.

Touches Quick.

Mr. Sauve had evidently got under the skin of the premier by his caustic comments on the assertion frequently made that all rumors that had been received were merely a political manoeuvre.

He said that all he knew about Roberts was what he read in the party organs that did not favor the Conservatives, and from them he found that Roberts was a fervent Liberal who had campaigned for the Liberal party in such company as the Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, the present chief justice of sessions, Hon. J. Desautels, chief justice of the province, Hon. J. Gauthier, chief justice of the county of Montserrat, and the minister of public works, the Hon. A. Gauthier. So it was evident that what he was doing was not dictated by party fanaticism against the government.

Mr. Sauve contended that people were saying that respect for authority was being sacrificed to party loyalty, and that the law was being trampled upon. He was only the strong who were protected because they could protect themselves. They, as legislators, who made laws, should respect those laws and apply them with circumspection and dignity, safeguarding their honor, but not seeking vengeance.

Provides Punishment.

The statutes provided for the punishment of those who infringed with privileges of the House, by declaring that they could be imprisoned during the session, and that, if not then being held, they would be imprisoned for a new law which would create a precedent. In future it could be decided by a court of fifteen members, and the government might, if a nationalist displeased it by his writings, send him to jail for any length of time or even hang him, the legislature would come to regard these laws as legislators but as a great court, supplanting the ordinary courts of law.

Mr. Sauve maintained that in the public interest it would have been better if Roberts had been given the matter could have been pressed out.

He was convinced Roberts could not prove that two members of the legislature were murderers, but he would have satisfied public opinion that the man had been given every opportunity to justify his article, and they would have concurred in the sentence passed on him. As it was, the government was putting through a bill that was without basis, and was arbitrary and autocratic and resembled the acts of governments before.

CONSTRUCT 300 MILES OF ROAD

Season's Work of Highway Department Cost Approximately $10,000,000.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—With the construction period for this year now over the highway department today made public at the parliament buildings a statistical abstract of its season's accomplishments. It revealed the construction of about 300 miles of highways, the accomplishment of much preliminary grading and other work and the expenditure of approximately $10,000,000.

Of this $10,000,000 the Dominion pays a share and the municipalities benefitting pay 20 per cent. of the total. The highway department summarizes its year's work as follows:

Bituminous concrete pavement constructed, 44.9 miles; concrete pavement constructed, 43.25 miles; bituminous macadam constructed, 11.25 miles; waterbound macadam constructed, 107.4 miles; macadam base course constructed, 133 miles; grading finished, 437 miles; concrete culverts erected, 1,300; bridges built, 25; railway crossing subway constructed, 2.

This work, the highways department states, has been accomplished as a result of a season which has been most propitious for furthering the province's good roads scheme. The weather, it is pointed out, has been most favorable; supplies of materials have been more regular; and labor has been most efficient.

The locations of the department's principal work have been in the Niagara Peninsula and up through Western Ontario. As a consequence of its activities in these regions, Hamilton to Brantford and Hamilton to Queenstown roads have been completed, with the result that a paved surface now exists from Hamilton to Niagara Falls.

London and St. Thomas, and Windsor and Niagara Falls have been linked up, while work has also radiated from the cities of Chatham, Windsor, Ottawa, Peterboro and Toronto.

The department in its report expresses its recognition of the advisability of abolishing level crossings and states that it is pursuing this policy as rapidly as practical consideration will permit. The cost, it is pointed out, is so great that reasonable regard must be had for the railway companies in the matter of

Sarnia Residents Recall Terrific Storm On Lakes When 300 Perished

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, Nov. 9.—Sarnia today recalls November 9, 1913, when the most terrible storm in the history of the Great Lakes raged and three hundred sailors lost their lives, while the material loss amounted to $8,000,000. The storm broke on the Sunday night, and the following day anxious relatives at the Canadian lake ports waited for news of husbands, sons and brothers, while the fury on the water continued, bodies and wreckage being washed ashore hourly.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH HOLDS 103RD ANNIVERSARY

Special Services and Concert at Frome Prove Successful.

Special to The Advertiser.

Frome, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Berry of Toronto and Mrs. Gillet of Aylmer are guests of the latter's daughter, Mrs. Ernie Lesson.

Miss Bertha Lesson spent a couple of days this week with her brother Harold at Thorndale.

The best of weather greeted the one hundred and third anniversary of the Congregational Church held on Sunday. Rev. H. E. Thorndale of St. Thomas had charge of the morning service. A. Malcolm of Cowal occupied the pulpit in the evening. Lambeth choir had charge of the music for the morning service and Sheldon Methodist choir in the evening. There was an excellent attendance at both services.

On Monday evening an old-fashioned tea meeting was held. A splendid program was rendered in the auditorium of the church by Miss Anthill of London, reader, Miss Ward, soloist, London, and Misses Stacey, soloists of St. Thomas, and the orchestra of Central Methodist Church, St. Thomas. Rev. Mr. Keyes, Talbotville, acted as chairman. Proceeds of the anniversary were $161.90.

On Tuesday evening a Halloween social was held in the basement of the church. A most enjoyable time was spent by all present.

Miss Mildred McNeer of Byron spent the week-end with her sister, Mrs. S. Heidt.

F. Colbeck of Canboro is the guest of his sister, Mrs. J. Cassden.

Mr. and Mrs. Lampton have moved into James' Mares house.

In the "Lost and Found" Column of the Want Ads daily you will find the appeal of scores who have recourse to this up-to-date method of recovering lost property.

Regina turned turtle and all hands were lost. Nearer still, another freighter drifted keel upmost, and not for several days, until a diver could descend, was she discovered to be the Charles S. Price. The steamer Harmonic, with passengers and crew safe, arrived at Point Edward, November 15, coated in ice, and Captain Foote described his experience as terrible.

Not for days was the loss of life totalled. In all about 30 vessels were lost, and in many cases not a trace of wreckage or bodies was discovered.

DISCUSS PLANS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL

Paris Board of Education Considers Proposal of Being Own Contractor.

Special to The Advertiser.

Paris, Nov. 9.—Preliminary arrangements for the building of the new high school were discussed at the regular meeting of the board of education held in the board rooms.

Dr. W. J. H. Gould, who was one of the deputation which visited the new high school in Brampton, with the view to gathering all information regarding it, reported that the building was very suitable to the needs of the students. It was erected three years ago at a reasonable cost, and contained seven rooms.

D. Briggs proposed that the board buy its own equipment and materials, and have the new building erected in their own way. A saving of $2,000 to $5,000 might thereby be made.

GREENFIELD MAY LEAD PROGRESSIVES

Calgary, Nov. 9.—The Calgary Herald says today:

Does Premier Greenfield propose relinquishing the leadership of the United Farmers of Alberta in a bid for the leadership of the Dominion Progressives in the federal house?

This is a question which was being asked in well-informed circles here this morning. Premier Greenfield is at present on his way to Ottawa to attend the conference on the natural resources in question, but it was pointed out that he would stop over for a conference in Winnipeg, which would coincide with the conference of Progressives, and at which it is thought a new leader will be chosen to succeed Hon. T. A. Crerar.

WILL ORGANIZE YOUNG PEOPLE

Active Campaign Will Be Launched in Woodstock On November 19.

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Nov. 9.—On Sunday, Nov. 19, the first active step will be taken in the movement which has for its aim the organization of all young men and women who are between the ages covered by the "teen boys" and girls' groups, and the recognized groups for adults.

Miss Blanch Newton of the Platts. These Class of Central Methodist Church is one of the prime movers. On Nov. 17 several of the pulpits will be occupied by speakers who will deal with the subject.

During the month of October the average hours of duty for the local Victorian Order Nurses was thirteen and a quarter. During the month 579 visits were made. The total number of babies looked after by the baby clinic was 189.

A message received today announces the election of Thomas Muir of Plainfield, N. J., as assemblyman for the State House of Assembly in Union County, N. J. Mr. Muir is one of three brothers who came to this country from Scotland. Two of the brothers, John and William, still live in Zorra Township, while Thomas decided to settle in New Jersey. Mr. Muir is totally blind, the result of an accident some years ago, and is a newspaper publisher in Plainfield.

10-YEAR-OLD PARIS BOY STARTS HIKE FOR TORONTO

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Nov. 9.—With hopes of seeing the world at an early age, Eric Armatage, a 10-year-old boy of Paris, Ont., left his home early Monday morning and, thanks to the aid of passing motorists, managed to get as far as Hamilton before being picked up.

After falling into the arms of Inspector Burns of the Hamilton Children's Aid, the boy told a story of being ill-treated by his father, and added that with the aid of his mother he left home with the intention of reaching his sister's home in Toronto. An investigation was immediately started by the inspector, and as a result Eric will be returned to his parents in Paris. There was absolutely no truth in the story told by the boy as to ill treatment, and he is being detained until one of his relatives calls for him.

Fuel Controller Admits Kitchener Not Receiving Fair Share of Line Coal

Special to The Advertiser.

Kitchener, Nov. 9.—"We were assured that efforts would be made to secure a large percentage of line coal for Kitchener, and Fuel Controller Ellis admitted that Kitchener had not been getting its fair share of line coal," said John A. Lang, fuel controller for Kitchener, on his return today from Toronto following a conference with the provincial controller with a view to fixing the price of coal locally.

It was pointed out by Mr. Lang that while no change can be made in the price of brokers' coal, which is selling at $18 a ton, at least a difference can be made by the reception and sale of a greater percentage of line coal, which can be sold at $16. The local controller stated that great difficulty is being experienced by coal dealers here as a result of the coal tie-up, which comes from persons receiving permits and not using them. He stated that in order to obviate

WATERLOO BREAKS BUILDING RECORD

EXPECT CRERAR TO HAND IN RESIGNATION TODAY

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—It was learned late tonight from a source closely in touch with Hon. T. A. Crerar, leader of the National Progressive party, that he will tender his resignation as chief of the Agrarian forces in the House of Commons at the opening of the caucus of Progressive members here tomorrow morning.

BY STANLEY

WATERLOO BREAKS BUILDING RECORD

Total For Year Exceeds Over Quarter of a Million.

Special to The Advertiser. Waterloo, Nov. 9.—Waterloo's building inspector and town engineer, William Mook, issued a statement today in connection with building in Waterloo, in which he stated that the town has so far this year exceeded all past records in the amount of construction work done. The total of the year is $238,000. Permits are a present in view of this month. These will increase the grand total to almost $400,000, an amount unprecedented for any entire past year in the history of the town.

Announcement was made in Waterloo today that efforts will be made to revise the annual Waterloo Horse Show, which was formerly held in connection with the Christmas celebration. Local merchants are behind the movement, and are backed by members of the town council and the mayor. The merchants claim the revival of the show will be a positive business boom to the town. It is expected a committee will be appointed by the mayor to go into the matter fully and report to the next council meeting.

Getting in line with Kitchener in preparation for an unprecedented season of winter sport, the Waterloo Park Board has authorized the renovation and remodeling of the hotel house, so that it can be used as a comfort station and restroom for skaters who wish to enjoy the opening of the winter. The lake will be divided off this year so as to provide space for hockey.

The Waterloo County Junior Farmers' Association has chosen its five representatives to the junior judging contests, which will be held in Toronto on Nov. 21. They are L. Turnbull and F. M. Phail of Galt, D. Lerch of Preston, Floyd Becker of Ayr, and F. Snyder of Waterloo.

BOYS WILL ELECT MEMBER TO TORONTO PARLIAMENT

Special to The Advertiser.

Woodstock, Nov. 9.—The boys' work board of Woodstock met this evening and completed arrangements for the holding of an election of a member to represent Woodstock in the boys' parliament which is to be held in Toronto in December. November 22 was set as nomination day and the election will be held on December 9, with the Y. M. C. A. as the polling station. The chief returns officers will be M. M. Hood, president of the local board.

ALLIES AWAIT NEXT MOVE OF TURK LEADERS

British Capital Is Without Definite News From Constantinople.

FRENCH SEND WARSHIP

London, Nov. 9.—London, late tonight, was still without news from Constantinople, but the cable company whose lines have been cut in the Turkish area, held out hopes that communication might be restored tomorrow.

The government also appeared to have had very little wireless communication with Constantinople, and Premier Bonar Law at the lord mayor's banquet in the Guildhall tonight, was unable to throw any further light on the situation. The government knows nothing concerning the whereabouts of the deposed sultan, except that he has not taken refuge, as has been reported on a British warship.

Official circles point out that the situation is an almost exact counterpart of that which arose from the Chanak area, with the important difference, as emphasized by Mr. Bonar Law, tonight, that there is now no question of isolated action by the powers, who are all working in agreement.

Ismet Pasha, the foreign minister of the Turkish National government, is known to be in Constantinople waiting to go to the Near East conference at Lausanne as soon as the date for the conference is settled. Although the British government maintains the opinion that the change of complexion of affairs necessitates a postponement of the date, it is willing that the delay in convening the conference shall be as brief as possible and hopes it will be able to meet by Nov. 20.

DISPATCH FRENCH WARSHIP.
PARIS, Nov. 9.—The French government has decided to send another battleship to Turkish waters.

COMMERCIAL IS PARALYZED.

Smyrna, Nov. 9.—Commerce is completely paralyzed throughout Asia Minor. One by one the banks of Smyrna are closing. The Greek and Armenian have sealed the vaults of most of the banking institutions, because they would not cash the national authorities with lists of their Greek and Armenian accounts. The order for all the banks to furnish lists of these accounts was issued yesterday by the Kemalists authorities. Most of them refused and their vaults were sealed by armed Turkish guards. The National Bank of Turkey voluntarily closed its doors on the announced grounds that there was no longer any business to be done. The Kemalists have drawn up plans for the reconstruction of the city, but no funds are available for building work of any kind.

PRISON INMATES STILL AT LARGE

Two Men Attempting To Steal Car Believed To Be Prisoners.

Special To The Advertiser.

Guelph, Nov. 9.—The five inmates of the provincial reformatory who succeeded in making their getaway on Tuesday evening are still at large, but it would appear that two of them at least did not get very far, which leads to the expectation that all five may be rounded up before many hours are over.

Two of the escaped men were noticed two miles this side of Erin this morning, and it is reported that they nearly succeeded in securing an auto with which to help them on their way. The car belonged to a party of hunters from this city, who went out hunting in the woods and fields in the neighborhood of Hamilton's bush.

While they were doing so two men came out of the bush and made for the standing car, but as soon as they perceived they were detected, they made off down the road again and when last seen were proceeding towards Erin. They answered the description of the men wanted, but as the Guelph hunters were not positive on the subject they did not care to take action without the reformatory authorities, and consequently a hurry-up call was sent immediately dispatched and are now searching the vicinity of Erin for the men who escaped.

Reformatory officials reported this evening that the men had not been captured, although a strong force of guards is scouring the Erin district for the escaped inmates.

CUT REPUBLICAN MAJORITY TO 15

Complete, But Unofficial, Reports Slash Senate Lead in Two.

Chicago, Nov. 9.—A continuation of Republican control in Congress, but with a majority of 165 in the house slashed to 15, and a Senate majority cut in two, was assured tonight by practically complete, but unofficial reports from last Tuesday's elections.

While the Republicans retained only seven above a house majority of 218 and five above a Senate majority of 48, they will have in the next Congress a plurality of 18 over the Democrats in the house, and 11 over the Democrats in the Senate.

Close races and belated returns left exact majorities in doubt since the election, but on the face of tabulated returns tonight the 65th House of Representatives will be composed of 225 Republicans, 267 Democrats, one Socialist, one Farmer-Laborite and one Independent.

PETITIONS FOR VOTE ON RADIAL BYLAW SIGNED

St. Catharines, Nov. 9.—It is announced here today that the petitions which have been in circulation for some weeks to secure a vote on the St. Catharines-Port Credit hydro radial bylaw had now a sufficient number of names of qualified ratepayers, and will be presented to the city council on Monday next.

Unkissed Wife, After Getting Divorce, Declares She Will Never Wed Again

Detroit, Nov. 9.—Mrs. May Coykendall, unkissed wife, who was granted a divorce from her undemonstrative husband, Milton, by Judge Henry A. Mandell, never will remarry, she asserted today.

"When men become too lazy to kiss their wives, it is time to quit," she said emphatically.

FAVORS INDIVIDUAL EFFORT IN WORLD

Sir Joseph Flavell Addresses Newspaper Association At Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—"The world's work is done by the men and women who do their work well day by day. The joy of struggle, of achievement, of meeting and overcoming fearful odds, is the joy of life. The right of a red-blooded man to do the best he can to exercise individual effort to the fullest degree should be unquestioned. Organizations of whatever kind that stifle ambition, that create distrust, and demand gains and advantages they have not honestly earned are a menace to society."

These opinions, and others equally strong, supported by instances of what men had done by quotations from notable figures in the world of thought and letters, and by observations of his own, were expressed in a carefully-worded address given this afternoon by Sir Joseph Flavell before a largely-attended luncheon of the National Newspapers and Periodicals Association at the King Edward Hotel.

Selecting "Individualism as a Factor in Affairs," Sir Joseph engaged the attention of his audience for nearly an hour in outlining what individualism has accomplished in all departments of human activity, what the dangers of collective demands are, in his judgment, and what the problems are that face Canada today, both socially, politically and economically.

START PROBE ON GUELPH RAILWAY

Gregory Commission Opens
Investigation With All Members Present.

Special To The Advertiser.
Guelph, Nov. 9.—The Gregory commission of inquiry into hydro-electric matters opened its probe of the operation of Guelph's street railway system by the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario. All five members of the commission were present.

J. W. Giffels, one of the hydro committee, was the first witness. Commissioner Lloyd Harris and Chief Engineer F. A. Gaby had a brief argument over the manner in which the expenditures on the system had been submitted to the ratepayers of Guelph. Mr. Harris had the idea that only the $49,000 had been sent to the electors.

"That is not correct," said Mr. Gaby. "The first amount sent to the electors was $150,000; the commission had to get approval for any capital expenditures."

"Did you supply data to the city on all the work to be done and submit estimate?" asked Chairman Gregory.

"We did," said the hydro engineer. "That $49,000 was only for repairs. It was not rehabilitation work."

"Well, we can hear Mr. Gaby later on," said Mr. Harris. "I am only trying to get a picture of the Guelph situation, and it seems to me to be a very difficult and complex one."

Guelph has already issued $150,000 debenture bonds, and a second $150,000 are ready to be issued. If there is any deficit in operation the city of Guelph must put it up for the hydro, either by cash or bonds.

Commissioner Allan F. as asked as to the entire liability of Guelph to the Hydro Commission. "Is it now practically $450,000 so far?"

Mr. Giffels said that, including the original purchase price of $150,000, and the two debenture issues of the same amount, the total would reach $450,000.

Mr. Giffels then gave the operating cost of the Guelph railway as $97,587 for the past year.

METHODISTS CONDUCT SUCCESSFUL SERVICES

Special To The Advertiser.
Courtland, Nov. 9.—The harvest home services of the Courtland Methodist Church were a wonderful success on Nov. 5, when people gathered from all the surrounding country to listen to one of our former pastors, Rev. Thomas Vanden of Paisley, Ontario.

In the morning Mr. Vanden took as his subject, "The Parable of the Treasure Hid in the Field"; in the evening, "The Temptation of Our Lord in the Wilderness."

Interested congregations heard intensely inspirational sermons. Rev. Mr. Vanden was very popular during his pastorate ten years ago.

ONTARIO FARMERS REACH WINNIPEG

Progressive Members Appear To Be in Dark On Crerar's Plans.

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—Ontario's delegation of Progressive members of parliament arrived here this morning.

Western members are reaching Winnipeg by every train, and it is thought that there will be a very representative gathering when the third party convention opens tomorrow morning.

Senator J. G. Turf, the only Progressive in the upper chamber, will attend.

Members appear to be in the dark as to Hon. T. A. Crerar's plans. They realize the difficulty of his position in trying to perform at the same time the duties of a national political leader and president of the Co-operative United Grain Growers, Limited, and it probably is true that many of them will not be surprised if they are advised tomorrow that Mr. Crerar has decided to devote all his energies for the next few years to the United Grain Growers.

Should Mr. Crerar resign, the opinion is expressed in many quarters that the Progressive members are more likely to choose a house chairman and a parliamentary committee than they are to select at this time a national political leader.

The men are sure to review the entire political situation, with particular reference to suggestions of fusion with the Liberal government.

Sessions will be held in private, and a review of the situation and announcement of his own position from the first meeting.

Mr. Crerar is expected to be the feature of the first meeting.

Yesterday, have been stored in the sheds, and the situation will be made more difficult when the Harmonic arrives on Friday with 80 carloads of flour. Freight accumulation at the tunnel through the embargo on the Central Vermont and other American lines is increasing.

DELAY DRAFTING OF $32,000 BYLAW

Inability To Hold St. Thomas
Meeting May Automatically Default Expenditure.

Special To The Advertiser.
St. Thomas, Nov. 9.—Preparation of the new bylaw calling for $32,000 for fire equipment was delayed on Thursday afternoon owing to the absence of several aldermen, according to Mayor C. E. Raven.

It is not known whether the inability to hold a meeting Thursday will automatically default the bylaw.

The bylaw calls for the issuance of $32,000 in debentures, $28,000 for required for new fire equipment and the remainder for repairs to the fire hall, according to the figures submitted to the council on Tuesday.

Instructions have been given City Treasurer S. O. Perry to dispose of one of the rotary converters purchased by the city from the dynamo and L. E. Transportation Company, and a portion of the other converter to Don. M. Campbell of Preston, for $1,000. The street railway department is retaining the armature and coils for emergency purposes.

Aldermen McIntyre, Jagoe, Lemon and Mayor C. E. Raven were the only members who reported at the meeting.

The submission of the vocational training school bylaw at the forthcoming municipal elections is out of the question now on account of a bylaw having to be advertised for three successive weeks before polling day, according to information received by the city.

Before the bylaw could be prepared and considered by the city council, the time limit would be up. The same applies to the proposed bylaw for $135,000 to meet the cost of erecting cottages in connection with Myrtle and Balacava street schools.

London R. J. YOUNG AND COMPANY London East

Women of this date should begin to take into account their tendencies and weaknesses. They should set apart a few moments each day for searching and analytical mental contemplation, and not spare themselves. They should resolve with all the splendid will-power and determination which belongs to this sign to overcome every obstacle by true spiritual progress.

When these people are awakened to the spiritual world, they are the salt of the earth, helpful, powerful, tender, and devoted to humanity. The reverse of this is also true. They usually have so much business of their own to carry to success that they are not curious concerning the affairs of their neighbors.

The governing sign of this date is Scorpio, and the birth-plan is Mars. The birth-stone is a topaz.

GRADING OF HOGS MAKES BIG STRIDE

Proves Worth in All Parts of Dominion—Many Sell by System.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.—The hog-grading regulations which were made effective on Monday, Oct. 30, are now operative throughout the Dominion.

Grading equipment, which was previously devised and installed, has given general satisfaction, and additional units are being added where the run of hogs warrant two gradings in steady operation.

Buying has been pretty generally established on the graded basis. The quotations indicate that the agreed premium for select bacon hogs is being paid.

On the Toronto stock yards the percentage of selection bacon hogs is running at 35 to 40 per cent, whereas the average of direct shipments to packing plants, including all outside operators, runs between 30 and 35 per cent. Hog receipts from Essex and Kent counties show less than 1 per cent of select bacon hogs.

Montréal hogs from Eastern Ontario and a few points in Quebec, where breed improvement has been brought about, are running 25 to 30 per cent select. The run graded to running as low as 5 to 10 per cent, and in some cases lower.

Winnipeg receipts show barely 10 per cent select. It may be, however, that the run graded to date came from districts where bacon hogs are not in evidence.

FRANCE MAY ACT ALONE ON REPARATIONS

Premier Poincaré Informs the Senate of Decision of Government.

DEMANDS SATISFACTION

Paris, Nov. 9.—Premier Poincaré told the Senate this evening that the French government had decided to act alone with respect to Germany if the Brussels conference failed to give France satisfaction. He expressed the opinion that no general settlement of the reparations problem was possible unless the question of inter-allied debts was solved at the same time. "France is not imperialistic," he declared. "I can say that she is the least imperialistic of the nations, but she has rights to defend."

"We do not contemplate and personal action before the Brussels conference, but if we do not obtain satisfaction there is nothing in the world that can prevent us from acting alone in the fullness of our rights."

The question of resorting to compulsion against Germany to force her to execute her obligations, said the premier, will be taken up at the Brussels conference.

The premier was replying to Senator Hubert, who asserted that occupation of at least part of the Ruhr district was indispensable to bring the heads of German industry to a reasonable attitude on the execution of the Versailles treaty and the payment of German reparations.

M. Poincaré agreed that energetic action was necessary, but avoided the question of occupying the Ruhr. He recalled that he was ready last August to present a general plan for the payment of reparations and inter-allied debts, but the British cabinet issued a note in which the debt to Great Britain was linked with the debt to the United States.

At the time, continued M. Poincaré, Mr. Lloyd George declared solemnly that it was necessary to secure a moratorium to Germany without charging her default against her.

"I remarked at the time," said M. Poincaré, "that a moratorium was a purely negative measure. I proposed that before granting a moratorium the allies take as pledges 50 per cent in the dye industries and establish customs houses on the Rhine, but I met with opposition, particularly by Belgium."

FEAR IRON TRADE STRIKE WILL BECOME GENERAL

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press Cable, via Reuters.)—Serious industrial unrest is threatened in consequence of the decision of all sections of labor engaged in the iron trade to resist the introduction of the 48-hour week.

When the employers announced a return of the 48-hour week from the 44-hour week, several sections declared a strike three weeks ago. There is now fear that the strike will become general.

ALBERTA LEGISLAURE TO MEET JANUARY 23

Edmonton, Nov. 9.—The Legislature of Alberta, which had been called to meet December 7, has been postponed to January 23, an order-in-council that effect having been signed by Acting Premier Hoadley.

The change has been necessitated by the late date fixed by the Ottawa authorities for the conference on natural resources, which Premier Greenfield and Hon. J. A. Brownlee are attending.

FAVOR PROCEEDING WITH PLAN FOR CHURCH UNION

Regina, Nov. 9.—Members of the Saskatchewan Presbyterian synod, in session here today, approved of a resolution calling upon the general assembly to proceed with action for church union without delay.

WALESH CHEERS LLOYD GEORGE

Former Premier Begins
Triumphal March Through His Own Country.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(By Canadian Press.)—David Lloyd George started his triumphal progress through Wales today, the people leaving their farms and benches to greet the train in which he traveled. At Cardiff the station platform was crowded with fervent admirers, who shouted, cheered and sang. Elsewhere similar scenes took place.

In Wales, before his own people, Mr. Lloyd George dramatically pointed to three striking developments in European affairs during what he called the "three weeks of tranquility" in Great Britain: (1) The franc to a level never before reached; (2) Germany has completely collapsed; (3) The Turks have torn the Mudania treaty into shreds.

These things were the result of the confidence that was going to be restored in Europe by getting rid of a man of excessive energy and vitality. Declaring that there could be peace only if Great Britain maintained the stout heart that had won the war, he added that he stood for a policy of same progress with no setting back of the clock.

At Newport the crowds pressed so close to the former prime minister's private car, in which he was accompanied by his daughter Megan, that the windows were crushed in, and the old theory that a prophet is without honor in his own land, and when Mr. Lloyd George declared, "I don't think they have got rid of the Welshman," there were cries of "No, and they won't."

Between the rocks of revolution," he told the crowd at Newport. At Cardiff he said, "There is nothing in my record of the last six years which makes me ashamed of my service to my country or of the organized the greatest victory for human progress, organized a great victory for peace."

WHEATLEY

Special to The Advertiser.
Wheatley, Nov. 9.—A representative gathering of the businessmen of the village tendered a complimentary banquet to James Hanna on Tuesday evening at the Commercial Hotel under the auspices of the Bowling Club and the board of trade. As manager of the Bank of Montreal, Mr. Hanna has an intimate relationship with the business of the community, and as a bowler he was a successful competitor at most of the games where Wheatley was represented. Several apt and cordial speeches were made after the banquet, and the guests of honor were given a good send-off before taking his departure for Allenford, where he takes up work in a few days. The following are some of the answers given to questions put by the guests: "Parents are not interested in teachers' aims." "No social life." "Better co-operation between teachers and parents." "Community generally divided into cliques." "Lack of sympathy with school ideas." "Members of school boards not qualified to hold office." "Teachers holding aloof from the community." "Lack of interest in the development of a love of good reading in the boys and girls." "No effort of a teacher to inculcate a love of good reading can bear any fruit if the parent doesn't help on the work at home and school." "The community might do a vast amount of good, and perhaps might prevent the unpleasant misunderstandings of aims and objectives which occasionally occur."

MELBOURNE

Misses Mildred and Muriel Richards spent the week-end at their home here.

For a number of weeks Melbourne has been thronged with men working on the hydro lines. Many of our citizens are constantly asking, "When will we have hydro?" The question was answered by hydro being turned on Monday morning. Now the housewives are having electric washers installed, business men are kept busy demonstrating electric goods. It is expected that the streets will be lighted in the near future, which will be a great convenience, not only to those living in the village, but to the entire community.

DR. REEDY TO SERVES WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Efforts Made To Argue Case of Editor Roberts in Courts.

Special to The Advertiser.
Quebec, Nov. 9.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon Mr. L. P. Geoffrin, clerk of the Legislative Assembly, was served by Bailiff Pickard with notice that application for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of John H. Roberts, at present a prisoner of the house, was now before Justice Alphonse Bernier of the court of king's bench. The writ was not served on John H. Roberts before the court, and arguments as to the jurisdiction rights to detain the prisoner will be pleaded in full at length. His lordship will then take the plea on de libere and render judgment next week.

jurisdiction in the instance. His lordship Justice Bernier is not expected to give his decision this afternoon as to whether he will permit the issuance of the writ or not, but is expected to adjourn the case until tomorrow. If the writ is granted, Sergeant-at-Arms Delisle and Chief McCarthy will be ordered to produce John H. Roberts before the court, and arguments as to the jurisdiction rights to detain the prisoner will be pleaded in full at length. His lordship will then take the plea on de libere and render judgment next week.

"I was always organizing something and getting a political school started," she said today, explaining the ease with which she carried out her campaign successfully.

"I learned that the way to carry on a political campaign is to go direct to the voter," Mrs. Huck declared. "I made no promises and have no obligations, but I told the voters what I stood for, and asked them if they believed in those principles to support me."

WOMAN EXPLAINS EASE IN WINNING ELECTION

Special to The Advertiser.
Washington, D. C., Nov. 9.—President Harding, as the result of widespread Democratic victories in the election, was believed today to face almost certain defeat of his plan for rushing appropriation measures and other important legislation through Congress this year, without call of the session into session until December, 1923.

Stimulated and put in a vigorous fighting mood by the gains of Tuesday's voting, Democratic leaders were certain to filibuster against the administration program for the rest of this year, and thus force the president to call an extra session early in March.

Despite this prospect of Democratic revolt, word from administration quarters today was to the effect that President Harding was going to push his intention of calling an extra session of congress to start Nov. 20, in the hopes that the appropriation bill, the ship bill, and other matters, can be put far enough along that final action on them can be secured at the regular December session.

Harding's call for the extra session late today. If the Democrats filibuster they will be but adopting the same tactics as the Democrats in 1918, when the administration was Democratic and the congress was largely in the control of the Republicans. The Republicans then filibustered against President Wilson's program and so delayed matters that calling of a special session was necessary to get enactment of the government supply bill and the ship bill, and on the face of election returns, is that the administration will fall in its efforts to jam through the ship subsidy bill, which President Harding regards as the most important legislative proposal of his administration to date, either at the special session or at the regular session. If the Democrats are able, as it seems they will be, to delay final action on the ship bill until the new congress comes in, defeat of the bill is assured.

Squad Will Be Out Saturday Against 'Burg.

ART night nearly the whole of the O. R. F. I. squad were out, and a full line-up is promised for the tilt here with Wallaceburg Saturday. Considering that no less than four regulars were off on Saturday, the locals are not so far off the promise they seem to justify at the beginning of the season. At full strength on Saturday, they should handily defeat the Wallaceburg eleven.

Two objects will be attained by defeating the Wallaceburg. If it's a decent score, London will be able to show their relative strength with Petrolia and Sarnia. If it's a win at all, it will place Wallaceburg on an even footing in the standing even if it's a low one.

Deserve Credit.
Wallaceburg deserves all sorts of credit for keeping up a rugby team at all, considering that it has nothing on Petrolia and Sarnia in size, and has none of the football traditions of those two places, both of which would feel humiliated if they didn't manage to produce a rugby team each year no matter if they dropped out of every other sport.

London has a tattered and torn rugby tradition, but the fact remains that at the very best, the city has never seen a real hot rugby town, so there's a fellow feeling for Wallaceburg, especially in view of the fact that they're experiencing a revival in London. This, however, will not prevent London from doing its worst to Wallaceburg Saturday.

Will Be Back.
Chantler, who was both absent at Sarnia, should be on this week. The former is rather uncertain though, Chantler, his first pick in rugby, looks a find if he sticks to the game, but he has been an uncertain quantity as regards attendance throughout the season, owing to business reasons.

Alert Club Will Give Dance at Winter Garden.
The Alert Club, comprised of the younger men of this city, has already made a name for itself as a social club. Functions held under its name, whether social or sport, are of a standard that appeals and pleases.

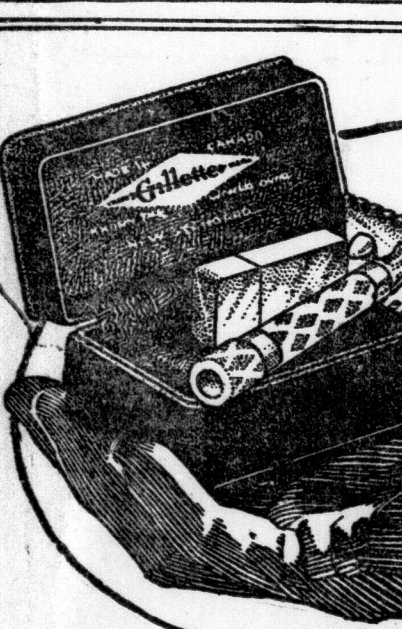

Few clubs in the city maintain a better organization for the promotion of clean sport than the Alert Club. Money, and the club in order to raise funds, has announced an informal dance for Monday night at the Winter Gardens. The committee in charge is already assured of a good attendance.

SPURS WIN 4 TO 2.
London, Nov. 9.—(The Canadian Press cable).—In football games today Tottenham Hotspurs defeated Oxford City at Reccer by 4 to 2, and Cambridge University-Army match was drawn, the score being 2-2.

In rugby games Gloucester defeated Oxford University by 11 to 3 and Kent won from Middlesex in a county championship fixture by 13 to 3. The latter game was played at Blackheath.

Woodstock C. I.
Beat Central

Local Seconds Loss 12-7 In Good Game.

The Woodstock Collegiate Seconds defeated the C. I. Third team yesterday to the tune of 12 to 7, in a closely-contested game of football. The first quarter was uneventful, but things livened up in the next canto. Thompson of Woodstock went through the London line for a touch which was converted, making six points for Woodstock.

London came right back, however, and put a kick over the enemy touch-line, forcing Woodstock to tounge. Shortly after the third quarter opened London repeated this trick, making their tally two points.

In the last stanza Newell went through the Woodstock line for a touch which, however, was not converted. A few minutes after Thompson of Woodstock made another touch which was converted.

England Puts Up Bars Against Siki
Paris, Nov. 10.—Batling Siki, aspirant for the crown that sits upon Jack Dempsey's head, today was standing with reluctant feet where the champions and has been met.

Last night the French boxing Federation snatched away his title of lightweight champion of France, and suspended him from practicing his business in France for a period of nine months. Only a few hours before, the black conqueror of Georges Carpentier had stumbled into another block of hard luck, the British home office forbidding his scheduled fight with Joe Beckett to take place on British soil. The action by the English authorities was taken because Siki is a colored man and Beckett is white, and it was deemed that "all sorts of passions would be aroused" if they met in the ring.

For Siki it may be that the worst is yet to come. The boxing federation has now asked the international federation to deprive the Senegalese fighter of his title of world lightweight champion.

WOODSTOCK H. A. TO LOOK AFTER ALL HOCKEY
WOODSTOCK, Nov. 9.—Great enthusiasm was shown at a public meeting held here this evening for the purpose of discussing hockey for the season, and the result of the meeting was the organization of the Woodstock Hockey Association, which will have control of all hockey, including intermediate and junior O. H. A. and City League.

The new organization is off to a good start by the election of a splendid set of officers, as follows: Honorary president, Dr. Wearing; E. W. Nesbitt, president; M. H. Leggett, first vice-president; J. Barr, second vice-president; James Sutherland, secretary; Charles Whitehead, treasurer; Ed Lee, representatives from the intermediate and junior teams and from the City League clubs will complete the executive.

"STRANGER" LEWIS WINS.
Columbus, Nov. 9.—Ed "Stranger" Lewis, world's heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Cliff Binckley of Columbus, two falls in three in a match here last night. Binckley took the first fall in 47 minutes 46 seconds and the second in 17 minutes 25 seconds and the third in 7 minutes 30 seconds. Lewis carried the headlock in securing both his falls.

M'GILL IS IN FAVOR OF MONTREAL UNIVERSITY
Montreal, Nov. 9.—McGill University representatives will recommend that the application of the University of Montreal for admittance into the intercollegiate athletic union be accepted. Decision to this effect was reached at a meeting of the McGill undergraduate authorities, and the delegates to the meeting of the intercollegiate athletic union, scheduled for Saturday at Kingston, were instructed to support the application of the French-Canadian university.

The original Westminster Abbey is said to have been built in 616 by King Sebert of Essex.

W.O.R.'S AND SCOTS
READY FOR TILT

Springbank Park Scene of First McCutcheon Final.

All soccer roads lead to Springbank Saturday for the first of the home and home series for the McCutcheon Cup between W. O. R. and St. Andrews. The kick-off is at 2:15.

Special cars have been arranged for the occasion, and the largest crowd of the season is expected. The match will be played between two teams, each having a strong record.

Manager Watkins and Secretary Bill Friend report that the Black and White crew are in fine condition, and Scots also say they'll be in good trim.

The W. O. R. line will be picked from the following: Nudis, Ashford, Dennis (vice-captain), Whitworth, Herring, Crost, Short (captain), Taylor, Turner, Ridley, Perkins, Woods, Hawkins and Moulden.

Car leaves, 2:30 p.m. Kick-off at 3:15 p.m.

HONOR ST. MARTIN'S NINE
Each Member of Champs Presented With Cuff Links.

The members of St. Martin's baseball team, winners of the Catholic Athletic Association's group for the city, were entertained last evening by St. Martin's Parish Hall, and the opportunity was taken to present each member with a pair of gold cuff links, engraved with appreciation from St. Martin's Club, for their untiring efforts which resulted in securing the group honors for the parish.

An address was given by Mr. S. Amey, president of the club, followed by Mr. J. F. McEldie, manager of the team, who made the presentation. A delightful musical and social program was enjoyed by a large number of St. Martin's congregation.

Form New Industrial Basketball Circuit At "Y" Meeting Tonight

Practically eight teams are already assured for the Industrial Basketball League, which will be formed at a meeting to be held in the Y tonight at 7:45.

Apparently the idea of breaking away from the old City League appeals to many more players than the old circuit. One outside player to each team will be practically absorbed the younger players of the former City League, and the veterans for O. B. A. or further developments.

Incidentally tonight's meeting may show how many teams are available for London, in case the O. B. A. grants London a district association at the annual meeting Saturday in Toronto.

The other towns mentioned for the London area, St. Thomas, Stratford and Woodstock, appear to favor the decentralization of government in basketball and will fall in line, it is understood.

The Industrial League will bring in a lot of new players and that is its objective. While it displaces the old City League, this circuit may appear in another form as a London group in the proposed London and District Basketball Association.

Physical Director George Sinclair of the "Y" will attend the annual meeting of the O. B. A. and it is possible that Dr. George Smith of Western will also be in attendance.

Belleville Indian Goes To White Sox
Chicago, Nov. 9.—For the first time in the history of major league baseball, a left-handed Indian is scheduled to make his appearance on the baseball diamond. He is Jack Williams, a Canadian, a full blood of the Huron tribe, acquired by the Chicago White Sox.

Williams, who is 19 years old, is a pitcher. Last season the redskin was a member of the twirling staff of the Belleville, Ont., club.

OTTAWA WILL HAVE BUT ONE CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE
Ottawa, Nov. 9.—Ottawa may have only one senior amateur hockey league this winter, following a stormy meeting of the Ottawa and District Hockey Association last night, the representatives of the various groups comprising the governing body decided that a six-city circuit should prevail here. Hitherto there has been two leagues in the city.

WARRANT OFFICERS WIN INDOOR BALL GAME 8-3
Teams made up of officers and warrant officers of M. D. No. 1 headquarters staff played a game of indoor ball last night at the armories, the verdict being in favor of the former with an 8-3 score.

The batteries were: Officers—Major Mortimer and Major Lawless; Warrant Officers—Sergeant W. O.—Sergeant Rutherford and Sergeant Berryhill.

OTTAWA HOCKEY CLUB EXPLAINS NEW RULING

Is Not Aimed At Canadians, But To Clean Up Situation.
Ottawa, Nov. 9.—In connection with their resolution, presented and passed at last Saturday's meeting of the National League, making it necessary for organizations to be reinstated by other organizations, to be reinstated by a majority vote of the N. H. L. before being eligible for that body, officers of the Ottawa Hockey Club issued yesterday the following statement:

"Our resolution, which automatically bars from the N. H. L. a number of players, including one whom the Canadians were to have received in exchange for any unsportsmanlike motives. On the contrary, it was prepared and presented for the protection of clubs in the N. H. L. and the patrons thereof."

"One year ago we learned that a player who was eager to sign had been suspended along with others by the Northern Ontario Hockey League. We reported the circumstances and, on the advice of President Calder, decided not to offer him a contract."

"Last winter the St. Patricks Hockey Club of Toronto had the opportunity of signing up three or four players suspended from the N. H. L. and it was decided to accept these players."

"Recently, however, we learned much to our surprise, that the Canadian Hockey Club was attempting to secure in exchange for Laidlaw one of the best players whom we had agreed not to use. It was on this account that we decided that the N. H. L. had to take a firm stand against the hockey talent. Professional hockey will never consent to the reinstatement of players previously suspended or expelled from other organizations."

GARRISON INDOOR LEAGUE GROWS

General Executive Meets Next Wednesday Night.

The committees of the Garrison Athletic Association have rearranged their meeting nights with the result that the boxing and indoor baseball committees will meet on Monday night at 8 o'clock sharp; the remainder of the committees will meet Tuesday night at the same time. On Wednesday night the general executive will meet, and at this meeting reports from the various committees are expected to be presented by the chairman.

The new form of organization permits the general executive to keep in touch with all sports and should mean closer cooperation between the various bodies. The indoor track events are expected to make a hit this season. While only one or two meets must be staged during the winter, the benefit derived from this form of training will be quickly recognized by the members of the militia units.

Some splendid indoor baseball is assured, as most of the units have concentrated on this sport, and have teams already lined up.

Baseball also should be a big factor on the winter program, as every unit has this sport in mind. Western O. C. O. will probably have two teams represented in this pastime, and this will give a lead to the rest of the Garrison units.

WILL TRANSFER SHIPS.
New York, Nov. 9.—The United American Lines late today announced that two of its ships, the liners Resolute and the Reliance, hand named by the company "dry" ship ruling, would be transferred from United States to Panamanian registry.

At Toronto.

Toronto, Nov. 9.—From the number of replies which have been received by Secretary Dulmage of the O. B. A. A., there is every indication that there will be a large attendance at the special general meeting to be held at the Carleton Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday afternoon next, commencing at 2 o'clock. Delegates are expected to be present from every affiliated league, as there are important matters to be dealt with. Perhaps the most important of these is the proposal to compel every affiliated league to adopt the January first residence rule. Heretofore each league has had a residence rule of its own, and the results have been that teams have been carrying several ineligible players, thus greatly weakening the league. It is expected that there will be some opposition to the change, but it will be at least thoroughly thrashed out. The status of the professional coach on which the A. A. U. of C. has asked for an opinion, and this will resolve a question. Some of the newer affiliated leagues are of the opinion that there will be an election of officers at this meeting, but this does not take place until the annual meeting in April next.

J. NASH HURLS TWO WINS

Pitches Own Team to Victory and Also McLachlans.

Kiwanian Standing.	W.	L.
Nash	2	0
McLachlan	2	0
Leckies	1	1
Greers	0	2

The two leaders in the Kiwanian indoor league kept up their margin last night by defeating the second division teams. Jack Nash's unpolished diamonders polished off Greer's team by a score of 9 to 6. J. Nash then turned around and pitched F. McLachlan's team to a 21 to 10 victory over Harry Leckie's crew.

The battles for the night were: Nashes—J. Nash and A. E. Barbour; Greers—Chastman and G. Chantler; McLachlans—Nash and McLachlan; Leckies—Leckie and Will. Hodgins.

WELTERWEIGHT CHAMP WILL FIGHT AT NEWARK

NEWARK, Nov. 9.—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., who captured the welterweight boxing championship by defeating Jack Britton recently, signed a contract tonight with a local athletic club to defend his title within three weeks in a Newark ring.

Promoters of the match will be permitted to name Walker's opponent, his manager announced.

"The reason is easy," remarked one of Ban Johnson's umpires in discussing the speed king's status.

"While Johnson still is as fast as a pitcher in the American League he is far from being as fast as he once was. The players know this, and no longer fear Johnson's pitching. It is just that slight difference that gives the batsman the added confidence that means so much."

Is Everett Scott, star shortstop of the New York Yankees, overdoing the continuous record stunt for games played? Unless the records of Scott are played 365 consecutive major league games without a miss, that is indeed a most remarkable performance.

Some idea of Scott's unusual record can be gleaned from the fact that a season's play in the majors consists of 154 games. Figures show us that Scott has played almost seven full seasons without missing a ball game.

Late in September of the season just closed Scott had a close call on having his string of consecutive games shattered by the use of a last-inning pinch runner.

The New York Yankees, who have managed to keep his record clean, are now in the city to open the final invasion of the west. Having an off day Scott spent it at his home in Indiana. His train was delayed because of engine trouble on the day of the opening game.

Discovering that he was just 25 miles from Chicago he managed to get a taxi in the small town in which the train was held up, and by a wild ride arrived in time to get in the closing innings of the game.

Scott is a rather slight fellow, and the impression is gaining that the strain of his performance is telling on him and that an occasional rest will greatly help his work. Last season he was just an ordinary shortstop, and in the world series he played away below par.

"I could not reproduce a single one of these coats of the same quality under $45. So that I am perfectly right when I say that I practically make each buyer a gift equal to a ton of coal—even at the present high prices."

"If the clothing manufacturers in America would propagate a strike in their industry each season, as it would appear that the coal operators do, these coats would be selling at $50, as was the price of good overcoats like these two years ago."

"This is Semi-ready Week—for with my sale I also show the later creations of the chief designer, the top notch in British woollens and Semi-ready tailoring."

"My sale of about 25 Semi-ready suits at $15 is another clearing house event for I candidly admit that each one of these garments was tailored a year ago—but not any more. For my policy is to effect a clean clean-up—an absolute good-bye to the leftovers."

"As the winter overcoats there are ulsters and winter Chesterfields, and a few form-fitting models, so much in vogue a year ago. I have Irish friezes that never wear out among the coats at $17.75, and fine British woven overcoats at $19.75 that were worth $45 and $50 when I bought them."

"It's my loss—but really I can't afford to take any more loss by making alterations. I'll just charge the time of the tailors and make each one a sort of a cash-and-carry sale at 183 Dundas street."

Canadian Press Cable. London, Nov. 9.—The remedies which Sir Robert Saunders, the new minister of agriculture, propose to apply to the depressed state of farming in Great Britain, were set forth in a speech at Horlock tonight. He declared that there was no use in considering such heroic measures as subsidies or protective duties on foodstuffs.

"The lines along which I am hoping we may be able to get some help," said the minister, "are an inquiry, with all reasonable dispatch, into the subject of agricultural rating and the removal of any unfairness which may be found to exist; the promotion of co-operation in the transportation and sale of agricultural produce; the expansion of credit facilities to agriculturists; and the promotion of educational research. I think, also, that useful results might be obtained from an inquiry into the causes of the great disparity between the prices received by the farmer for his produce and that paid by the consumer for food."

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS.

In all probability two new managers will be seen in the American League next season. It is said that changes are contemplated at Washington and Boston.

While Clyde Milan did about as well as anyone could with the material at Washington it would occasion no surprise if a change was made.

The showing of the Washington team was a distinct disappointment. The club finished fourth in 1921. Several changes were made that it seemed would certainly strengthen the club, yet it dropped to sixth last season.

When things are breaking badly in baseball new faces always arouse interest. For that reason a change in the Washington management is more than a mere possibility.

Boston finished last in the American League. Duffy, like Milan, did as well as anybody could, yet to finish last is no boast. That is why Jimmy Burke is being picked to replace Duffy.

What American League pitcher has the most speed?

If that question was put to the American League umpires a majority of them would be certain to reply, Walter Johnson.

Such being the case, why is it Johnson no longer strikes out so many men and finds it difficult to win with any degree of consistency?

"The reason is easy," remarked one of Ban Johnson's umpires in discussing the speed king's status.

"While Johnson still is as fast as a pitcher in the American League he is far from being as fast as he once was. The players know this, and no longer fear Johnson's pitching. It is just that slight difference that gives the batsman the added confidence that means so much."

DECLARE WAR ON ALL RATS IN GALT

Expert Rodent Killer Plans To Open Campaign On Garbage Dumps.

Special to The Advertiser.
Galt, Nov. 9.—War was today declared on rats in Galt. E. G. Urry of Ridgeway, the modern "Pied Piper," arrived in the city today, and with the co-operation of the board of health, has undertaken to rid the city of the rodents. On Monday he will launch a frontal attack on the city's garbage dumps.

Miss Aldred of Hamilton, a visitor to the farm of Andrew Harvie, had a couple of ribs broken on Wednesday in a runaway accident on the farm. She was thrown from a wagon when the team ran away, and dragged her short distance.

It is announced that Louis Blake of Welland, who at one time was actively identified with sports throughout the province, will be the principal speaker at the G. A. A. A's complimentary dinner to the Terriers, Ontario's baseball champions, week from tonight.

A solemn memorial street service is planned for Saturday morning next to mark Armistice Day. Mayor Charlton, city ministers, and the S. A. Band will take part.

The five Terriers, who went to New York as the guests of J. J. Stevens, a local manufacturer, have returned well pleased with their visit to the big city.

The news came in from Puslinch Township today that John McMillan, a farmer, in returning from a threshing in the fog on Thanksgiving night, got lost, and wandered eight miles away, being found the next day by search parties.

SPECIAL ORCHESTRA MUSIC.

For lovers of real orchestra music prove the most interesting of any month this year. Not only does the Philadelphia Orchestra under Schubert's moment musical, No. 668, with the most feeling of any record made by them, but Fritz Kreisler, the world famous violinist with Hugo Kreuder, the cellist, play Jerni's Serenade, No. 577, as a duet surpassed by no other Victor instrumental selection. For the piano pupil, Paderewski plays the Chopin "Liszt" selection, "The Maiden's Wish." All or any of these selections upon request will be cheerfully played at the home of the Victrola, Mason & Risch, Limited, 245 Dundas street, where every Victor record, new and old, is always in stock.—Adv.

Now Comes the World's Fastest Shave! 78 Seconds from Lather to Towel

We offer it to you

WE'VE processed a barber's edge—the keenest cutting edge known—on a safety razor blade!

That's the story in few words.

Now we offer you the world's fastest shave—a velvet shave in 78 seconds from lather to towel.

We talk in terms of time, because the only way to get a quick shave is with a super-keen blade.

Old-time ways won't do it. Put your watch before you and prove it to yourself.

Valet Auto-Strop Razor

REG. IN CANADA

Sharpens Itself

We recommend your using our famous strop for the same reason a barber strops his razor. It keeps up the keenness. It works as a part of each razor—there if you care to use it, or, if you choose, you can just insert new blades as you feel the need. Self-stropping is a patented Valet Auto-Strop feature. It helps to give you the world's fastest shave every day.

Pick up a Valet Auto-Strop Razor at your dealer's. Then give it a whirl to-morrow. Shave with your watch before you.

Note the time—78 seconds for a velvet shave!

Miss Smith spent the week-end and Thanksgiving Day at her home near Dutton.

Miss Viola Hogg is visiting her sister, Mrs. Peter McAlpine in Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Garner spent the week-end and Thanksgiving Day at their mother's home, Mrs. Linline, on the 12th concession of Oxford, returning to London on Monday.

Mr. Gordon Dixon of Windsor spent the week-end and Thanksgiving Day at his home.

Gordon Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Sexton and children recently visited Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson's home.

Thanksgiving service was held in Turin Church last Sabbath. The congregation was large and enthusiastic. The service was in keeping with the occasion and was very helpful and inspiring.

RUTHVEN

Special to The Advertiser.
Ruthven, Nov. 9.—Chicken thieves have made their appearance here. On Tuesday night, Arthur Wigle lost several of his best breed. The thieves cut the heads off the chickens before removing them from the coop.

William Tapping met with a serious accident at his home on Monday. He was using an emery wheel to grind a steel pipe when a splinter from the pipe pierced his eye. A doctor was called, and removed the splinter, but not until the eye was cut and badly irritated. It is believed the sight can be saved.

A few of the winter pears were being taken from the trees here on Tuesday. Some of the limbs are so heavily loaded that they touch the ground.

The large crop of tobacco is about all disposed of in this district. Fair prices were received for the whole acreage. The major portion of the crop was up to the standard.

Herbert Smith of Essex was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Pearson on Sunday.

Craven Hillam is seriously ill at his home here with dropsy and heart trouble.

W. E. Dillard of Woodstock, brother of Mrs. J. Pearson, was the guest of his relatives here on Monday.

The committee of the old boys' and girls' reunion will meet shortly to decide on the date for next year's reunion.

The water at the lake has been so low almost all fall that at many places old wrecks which have been under water for years are visible and sand bars are high and dry for miles.

Those taking part in the addresses were W. J. Wray and Mr. Hudson of London, Rev. Mr. Kane of Thamesville, Mr. Vance of Blenheim, and Joseph Monture of the Six Nations Reserve. Suitable music for the occasion was rendered by Mrs. Joblin, and the Misses Peters and Enoch Jacobs of this place, and Miss McRitchie and Miss Mies of Bothwell.

Miss Ellwood of Bothwell gave several recitations in a clever way. Ex-Chief Emerson Snake occupied the chair very acceptably.

A vote of thanks was given to the speakers and others on the program, who had helped so willingly and well at this splendid entertainment.

Terrible Headaches And Dizziness

Miss S. Raphael, 287 Kenilworth Ave. N., Hamilton, Ont., writes: "I used to suffer from terrible headaches and dizziness. Last summer, while I was walking up a side street, I got a dizzy spell and fell in the middle of the road. An old gentleman helped me to get to where I was going and told me to get a vial of Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. Well, I did, and they did wonders for me. I don't know how to thank you, as I don't get headaches or dizzy spells any more."

When your liver gets sluggish and inactive your whole health suffers, and the only way to keep well is to keep the liver active and performing its proper functions by using Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR
Menthol-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is, covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing soothes fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist. The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops, and after two or three applications the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Menthol-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.
A small jar of Menthol-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.—Advt.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR
It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Luster to Hair.
You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.
Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.
This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.—Advt.

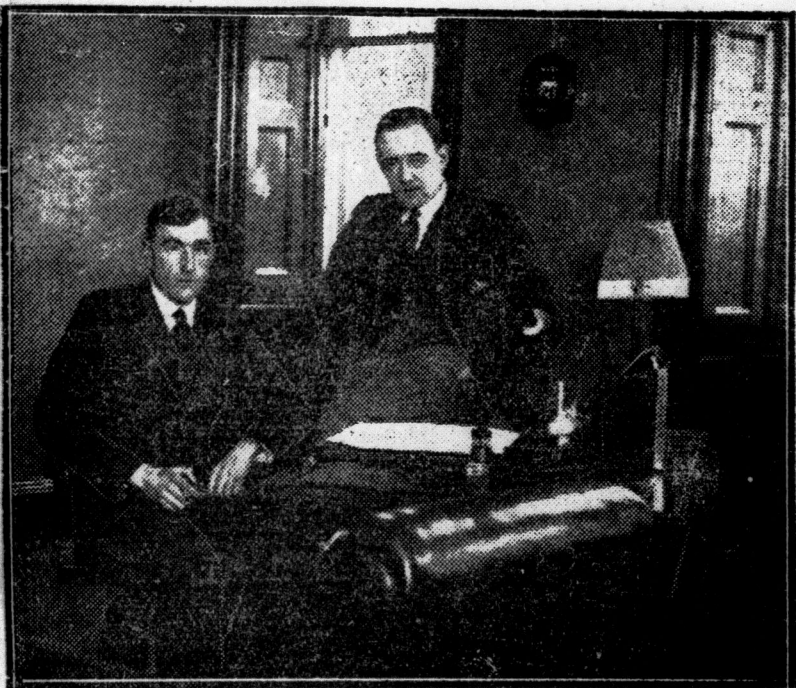

SASKATCHEWAN WOMAN RECOVERS
Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Melaval, Saskatchewan.—"I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised for women's troubles and when a friend recommended it to me I tried it and it has done me so much good in the two years in which I have been taking it that I find I am a different woman since then. I recommend your Vegetable Compound as much as I can and you may use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. Wm. J. Thomas, Melaval, Saskatchewan.
These letters recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound ought to convince women of the great worth of this medicine in the treatment of ailments to which they are often subject.
Mrs. Thomas writes that she is a different woman now. If you are suffering from troubles women often have, or feel all run down, without any ambition or energy for your regular work, take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It is a natural restorative and should help you as it has Mrs. Thomas and many other women.
This medicine has been helping sick women nearly fifty years—surely a long record of service.

The FLAMING JEWEL

by ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

CHAPTER III.
EVE picked up her rifle. She was trembling violently. Then, mastering her emotion, she walked over to the pack, placed Quintana's rifle and mackinaw in it, coolly hoisted it to her shoulder and buckled it there.

Over her shoulder she kept an eye on Quintana who crouched where he had fallen, unstrapping his deadly eyes watching her.

She placed the muzzle of her rifle against his stomach, rested it so, holding it with one hand, and her finger at the trigger.

At her brief order he turned out both breeches pockets. She herself stooped and drew the Spanish clasp-knife from his sheath at his belt, took a pistol from the holster, another out of his hip-pocket. Reaching up and behind her, she dropped these into the pack.

"Maybe," she said slowly, "your ankle is broken. I'll send somebody from Ghost Lake to find you. But whether you're a broken bone or not you'll not get very far. Quintana. . . After I'm gone you'll be able to free yourself. But you can't get away. You'll be followed and caught. . . So if you can walk at all you'd better go in to Ghost Lake and give your self up. . . It's that or starvation. . . You've got a watch. . . Don't stir or touch that trap for half an hour. . . And that's all."

As she moved away toward the Drowned Valley trail she looked back at him. His face was bloodless but his black eyes blazed.

"If ever you come into this forest again," she said, "my father will surely kill you."

To her horror, Quintana slowly grinned at her. Then, still grinning, he placed the forefinger of his left hand between his teeth and bit it.

Whatever he meant by the gesture it seemed unclear, horrible, and the girl hurried on, seized with an overwhelming loathing through which a sort of terror pulsated like evil premonition in a heavy and tortured heart.

Straight into the fire of dawn she sped. A pale primrose light glimmered, undergrowth turned a dusky purple. Already the few small clouds overhead were edged with fiery rose.

Then, of a sudden, a shaft of flame played over the forest. The sun had risen.

Hastening, she searched the soft path for any imprint of her father's foot. And even in the vain search she hoped to find him at home—hurried on burdened with two rifles and a pack, still all nervous and a quiver from her encounter with Quintana.

Surely, she thought, if he had missed Quintana in Drowned Valley he would not linger in that ghastly place; he'd come home, call in his men, take counsel perhaps—

Mist over Star Pond was dissolving to a golden powder in the blinding glory of the sun. The eastern window-panes in Clinch's Dump glittered as though the rooms inside were all on fire.

Down through withered weeds and scrub she hurried, ran across the grass to the kitchen door which swung ajar under its porch.

"Dad!" she called, "Dad."

Only her own frightened voice echoed in the empty house. She climbed the stairs to his room. The bed lay undisturbed as she had made it. He was not in any of the rooms; there were no signs of him.

Slowly she descended to the kitchen. He was not there. The food she had prepared for him had become cold on a chilled range.

"Eve!"
"Let me go!"
"Eve!" He held her rigid a moment, in his powerful grip, compelled her dazed, half crazed eyes to meet his own.
"You must come to your senses," he said. "Listen to what I say, they are bringing in your father."
Her dilated blue eyes never moved from his.

"I found him in Drowned Valley at sunrise," said Stormont, quietly. "The men are only a few rods behind me. They are carrying him out."

Her lips made a word without sound.

"Yes," said Stormont in a low voice.

There was a sound in the woods behind them. Stormont turned. Far away down the trail the men came into sight.

Then the state trooper turned the girl very gently and placed one arm around her shoulders.

Very slowly they descended the hill together. His equipment was shipping in the morning sun, and the sun fell on Eve's drooping head, turning her chestnut hair to fiery gold.

An hour later Trooper Stormont was at the Place of Pines.

There was nothing there except an empty trap and the ashes of the dying fire beyond.

CYNTHIA GREY'S MAIL-BOX

ANCHOR OFFERS CLOTHES.

Dear Miss Grey and Readers—Such lovely fall weather we are having! The country looks grand now. The trees are turning and look grand at a distance. I was wondering lately what the box-ites' opinions, also yours, Miss Grey, of the bathing suits worn now. A few years ago a person would never think of appearing in such an outfit. Do you approve of them? Now I have a good warm coat, size about 34 or 36, would do for country wear. It is good, but a little out of date, though would do very well if sleeves were made little smaller at top, which would be easily done. It is out up in gorges too tight up when it can be worn as it is, as it is a good coat.

An easy way to make up mitts for kiddies' every day wear: Make out of old underwear, cut the shape of the hand or set the thumb in separately. Miss Grey, I'm wondering what is included in a "coat" for the C. H. when it takes $1,000 to buy one? Will try and send a mite next time, think when one has suffered in one way or another, then knows how to pity others who are passing through the same experience.

I also have an overcoat to fit a medium sized man, a good coat, but quite a long tear across the front, which could be darned, and be useful for every day wear for driving in.

ANCHOR.

I think the modern bathing suits are just sensible for swimming, as expert swimmers will tell you it is impossible to swim properly when hindered by heavy skirts. But notice I said for swimming. I do not think they are quite proper to wear on the beach in, but for swimming I think they are splendid. We will be pleased to hear from you on this subject, although just now it makes one shiver to think of bathing suits. Anyone wishing the clothes offered by Anchor may have them from the Mail-Box. In place of asking for money each year for the upkeep of the cot, the hospital committee asks for a lump sum of $1,000, which goes into the building fund, and no further maintenance is necessary.

HONEST I WILL.

Dear Miss Grey—I haven't written to your cozy corner now for some time, but I am coming back asking for help. We are expecting to have a school concert in a short time and I would like to get some good recitations (comic preferred) to read. I would like to get "When Father Rides the Goat" or any others you wish to send me and will be real prompt in returning them. Honest, I will! I think the cook book a splendid idea. Am sure mother wants one when ready. See where someone suggested send amount in money equivalent to one's age, so enclosed find cents for my age! Also enclosed for recitations.

FERN.

Am mailing you a few recitations, which I hope will be suitable, although they are not as good as some we have had in the Mail-Box. I haven't the one you referred to. Thank you for the enclosed hospital mite.

WITH BRIDES

GLOVER—FLOOD.

A very pretty autumn wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Ada Glover, 1082 Model street, London, at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, November 4, when her youngest daughter, Alice Anne, was united in marriage to Mr. John Thomas Glover of London. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Ainsley under a graceful arch of oak leaves and roses.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Herbert Hotham of Delaware, wore a dress of nigger brown and sand crepe-de-armor, and a barpin set with diamonds and pearls, the gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and ferns. Mrs. Flood, groomed in navy canton crepe, was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Hotham, in receiving the guests.

The wedding supper was served in the dining-room, beautifully decorated in pink and white. Amidst showers of confetti and good wishes, the happy couple left on the 7 o'clock train for Hamilton and other points.

The bride traveled in a seal coat, opossum trim and a black plush hat with glycerine ostrich tips. Upon their return they will reside in the city.

Guests were present from Delaware, Dorchester, Thorndale and the city.

PURDY—KIBORN.

A quiet wedding took place on November 3, at the home of the bride in Elm street, when Edith E. Kiborn was united in marriage to Philip Purdy of East Missouri, only the immediate relatives being present.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. H. Shill, was groomed in seal-brown tricot, and wore the groom's gift, a lovely pendant. Rev. Mr. Reid of the Hale Street Methodist Church performed the ceremony.

For going away, Mrs. Purdy wore a seal-brown coat and a hat to match. After a dainty repast, Mr. and Mrs. Purdy left on the afternoon train for Niagara Falls and other points east.

Radio Radiations

RADIO RELIEVES JAIL ENNUI.

THE days aren't so long in the District of Columbia jail since a radio receiving instrument has been installed. No, it's not a gift of the government. The prisoners "chipped in" and got it. Superintendent W. L. Pack is shown at the receiver.

Judge not in haste, because some day you'll find, alas! it doesn't pay.

—Old Mother Nature.

Farmer Brown's Boy no longer allowed his hens outside the henyard excepting when he could keep watch over them, and so the young Fox did not get another chance to catch one of them. He had to be content with watching them, and you may be sure he did this every time they were out.

Then, one never-to-be-forgotten day a great event happened. Farmer Brown's Boy drove into the barnyard with a big crate on the wagon. With great care he and Farmer Brown took the crate out and set it on the ground. Then they went into the barn to watch the horse, but it seemed to him that he could see something inside which moved, and that something seemed to have feathers. He was sure that there was something alive in there when he heard strange sounds coming from that crate, sounds which he had never heard before.

HOLD W. M. ELECTION.

The following officers were elected at the annual meeting of St. Michael's Mothers' Unit held this week: President, Mrs. Irvine; secretary, Mrs. R. Jennings; treasurer, Mrs. Fred Burke; first vice-president, Mrs. W. Pierrie; press reporter, Mrs. Charles Griffin. Mrs. Joseph Leech, president of the Catholic Women's League, gave a short address on the convention of the league held recently in Winnipeg. Plans were made for a tea to be held in St. Michael's Hall Thursday afternoon next.

EXHIBIT HANDIWORK.

At the close of the annual meeting Saturday of the London Girls' Cabinet, a demonstration will be given by Miss May Millar and Miss Helen Clark of handicrafts suitable to teach to girls' groups.

Never had he dreamed that there could be such big birds.

It seemed to him that Farmer Brown's Boy never would come and open that crate. But at last he came out of the barn with a hammer and went to work on the crate. At last he had it open, and reaching in, he lifted out a great bird, while Farmer Brown looked on with a gasp. Could you have seen the eyes of that young Fox as he watched you would have thought that they were going to pop right out of his head. Yes, sir, you would certainly have thought that they were going to pop right out of his head. Never had he dreamed that there could be such big birds. It was hard to doubt his own eyes, but he did doubt them when he got his first glimpse of a hammer. He winked and he blinked, but all the while the bird was looking at him. It was hard to doubt his own eyes, but he did doubt them when he got his first glimpse of a hammer. He winked and he blinked, but all the while the bird was looking at him. It was hard to doubt his own eyes, but he did doubt them when he got his first glimpse of a hammer. He winked and he blinked, but all the while the bird was looking at him.

Farmer Brown's Boy and Farmer Brown went over to the henyard, opened the gate and put those two big birds down inside. Then for the first time the young Fox got a good look at them, and had it been possible his eyes would have popped out even more. Yes, sir, they would. You see, those birds were several

The Coughs And Colds of Children

Only the mother knows how hard it is to keep the children from taking cold, they will get overheated, and cool off too suddenly, get their feet wet, kick off the clothes at night, and do a dozen and one things the mother would have to watch big birds.

A great many mothers are now giving their children

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

It is pleasant and nice for them to take and relieves the cough or cold in a very short time.

Mrs. J. Wilson, Portage La Prairie, Man., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my five children. My little girl, two years old, had a very bad cold last winter, which I thought was croup. I had some 'Dr. Wood's' in the house so gave it to her and she was fine the next day; also my baby, three months old, had a bad cold and I gave it to him. It cuts and brings up the phlegm, and is the best cough medicine I ever used."

Your Corsets and Theirs—

For many years Warner's Rust Proof have been the largest selling corsets in the United States. For many years also they have been worn by discriminating women in all corners of the civilized world. At the outbreak of the War they were sold in 56 different countries or Dominions, and were made only in the United States.

To-day they are also made in Canada, cut from the same carefully designed patterns, and made to the same standards and specifications as the United States models. Corsets which are imported by other nations are offered to women of the Dominion without the costs of duty, ocean freight, etc.

You can, for instance, buy in Canada Warner Models for which your friends in England gladly pay almost double the price—and Warner Corsets are widely sold in England. You can buy comfortable corsets that represent the last word in Style at prices which mean true economy, and

Fashion's Forecast

A $25 Draped Dress For $6.

Subconsciously, unconsciously and consciously we, femininity, follow in the path of the Fashion Dictators. None are too strong, and none are too weak to withstand the call to arms. We wear our skirts short, sleeves short and chemise frocks that consisted of two side seams. Why? Because we wished to be in style. And now even the girls who said they'd never wear their skirts one inch longer than they were, are "letting them down."

The newest frocks for colder weather are, of course, longer (not long) many with long, fitted sleeves, which we all know are a great deal more comfortable in the winter time than the abbreviated ones. The style shown exploits these features and in addition shows the popular flat front with a slight drape of material to one side.

This model will adapt itself to most any material either silk or wool, including the new and lovely Canton flannel, as well as the old standby—serge. If serge were chosen, the new frock would cost about $6, figuring material at $2 per yard.

The pattern No. 1564 cuts in sizes 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3 yards 44-inch material. Price 15c, stamps or coin (coin preferred).

DEFEND ACTS OF ONTARIO'S GOVERNMENT

Doherty and Raney Give Account of Their Stewardships.

SPEAK AT THAMESVILLE

Special To The Advertiser.

Thamesville, Nov. 9.—The local Opera House was crowded to the doors tonight when Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture, and representative of East Kent, and Hon. W. E. Raney, attorney-general, addressed the electors on the stewardship of their departments in the Provincial Legislature. Christopher Gardiner acted as chairman.

Hon. Mr. Raney answered criticisms against his department, chiefly by Hon. Howard Ferguson and Herbert Lennox. He gave a lengthy address, explaining the expenditures of the government on hydro, education, roads and other works. He told of great amounts received from succession dues, race track licenses, and of the percentages from race gambling. He claimed that the government members all loved horses and racing, but they were not gamblers, maintaining that racing and gambling should have no relationship to the heavy taxes from professional race tracks.

The attorney-general also dealt with the timber limit deals, the pulpwood contracts and other government acts.

Doherty Replies to Critics.

Hon. Manning Doherty replied to his critics of his actions on the cattle embargo question. He referred to the difficult times when the government assumed the reins of power, and referred briefly to the timber limit deals of the late government, and wanted the people to beware of the propaganda that would be issued during the next few months, immediately before the coming elections, which would surely be sent out by the opposition. To the charge of extravagant spending of money he declared that not one dollar had been expended by the present government that had not been voted on by the government.

Regarding the criticism of the road policy, he maintained that in the past many millions of dollars have been spent on canals and wharves, through which hardly a rowboat has gone through, and yet, when a few millions is spent on roads, great criticism is given.

Mr. Doherty declared that he had remained silent in the face of most unfair and dishonest criticism regarding his activities on the lifting of the embargo against Canadian cattle. He traced the activities of the various governments during the past 30 years, when the embargo was on, and outlined the campaign, in which Lord Beaverbrook had assisted him, and which finally was successful. He claimed that former federal government members had tried to head off the lifting of the embargo, saying that if it was lifted the U. P. O. would be sure to gain control of the government. At the election, which were occupying the attention of the people of the Dominion, Mr. Doherty referred briefly to the rural credit system, co-operative selling of farm products, the establishment of the experimental farm in Kent County, and the grading of swine.

GRADUATE NURSES RECEIVE DIPLOMAS

1922 Class of St. Thomas Hospital Presented With Gold At Closing Exercises.

Special to Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, Nov. 9.—The closing exercises of the 1922 graduating class of the Amasa Wood Hospital were held this evening in the Engineers' Hall before a large audience of interested citizens. W. R. Coulter, chairman of the board of governors of Amasa Wood Hospital, was the speaker of the evening. He expressed himself as highly proud of the excellent standard of this year's graduating class, and he thought the showing of the graduates refuted the great credit on Miss Wilson, the superintendent, and on Miss Armstrong, the assistant superintendent.

Rev. H. E. Tupper, of the Presbyterian Church, spoke of the opportunities for service and work now opening to the graduates, and he complimented them on the success of their work, and humorously pointed out that their excellent records as a class was probably traceable to the fact that the most of the class were Presbyterians.

On behalf of the Medical Association, Ex-Mayor E. A. Horton wished the graduates every success in their future work. Mr. James Bristow, secretary of the board of governors, presented the class with their graduating diplomas and Mayor Raven presented them with the graduation medals.

The efficiency medals, presented by Mr. Horton, were won by Jessie Matheson and Jessie Grant, and the medals for efficiency in theory by Erle Berdan and Jean Killins.

During the evening Miss Lulu Campbell and Mr. D. C. Wright sang beautiful solos.

Miss Weldon, the superintendent of Amasa Wood Hospital, was unable to attend the exercises on account of the illness of her mother.

The graduates were: Isabel Matheson, Embury; Maud Herendeen; Sarnia; Edna Symons; St. Mary's; Grace Bell; Lindsay; Jessie Grant; Springfield; Jean Killins; Lawrence Station; Erle Berdan; Lyons.

DEWART RESENTS CROWN'S CENSURE

Toronto, Nov. 9.—A brisk flurry started the police court today. While Crown Attorney Eric Armour, K.C., was questioning a witness in an O. T. case, J. W. Dewart, M. L. A., for the defence, commented audibly on his methods.

"It amuses me," said Mr. Armour, turning towards Mr. Dewart, "to hear the two legislators engaged in the passing of the Ontario act making fun of my efforts to enforce it."

Mr. Dewart sprang to his feet. "That remark is entirely uncalled for," he exclaimed. "Mr. Armour knows that, because I'm not in favor of the act. His remark shows his utter unfitness for the position he occupies."

"I'm sorry," said Mr. Armour after a minute or two of silence.

C. N. R. BRAKEMAN KILLED IN REAR-END COLLISION

Winnipeg, Nov. 9.—A brakeman was killed and his body burned beyond recognition in a rear-end collision on the Canadian National Railway near Wainwright, Alberta, Wednesday. Jameson's train was hit when it was stalled by a broken air-hose coupling. The caboose and three freight cars were burned.

SUSPECTS IN HALL-MILLS MURDER RETAIN FREEDOM

New Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 9.—Further delay in arresting the alleged slayers of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills developed today. After a conference of prosecutors and detectives at Somerville today, Special Prosecutor Mott stated that no decision had been reached as to when the grand jury would meet to hear the evidence, but that it would not meet this week and there would be no arrests this week.

ASKS BRANTFORD TO LEND SUPPORT

London Requests Assistance in Correcting Faults of Town Planning Act.

Special to The Advertiser.

Brantford, Nov. 9.—Brantford has been asked by the City of London to join in supporting the town planning and housing association, in getting amendments enacted by the Provincial Legislature to the town planning act. The amendments suggested by the London Town Planning Commission includes clauses to allow the city council to have more jurisdiction on the commissions and suggests that the commission consist of seven members, including the mayor and three aldermen.

It also suggests that the commission be obliged to tender estimates of its proposed expenditures for the year, on or before March 1, in order that the council may consider any changes necessary, and that the town planning rate should not exceed 1-10 mill on the dollar.

City Clerk Leonard is in receipt of an account through the Grand Trunk Railway for $225 for the purchase of the old Colborne street station. It is expected that this will come before the council at the next meeting for payment.

Chief Donnelly has declared war on all motorists who do not obey the by-laws compelling drivers of motor vehicles not to exceed 6 miles per hour while crossing Lorne bridge. The chief maintains that all those who are found crossing the bridge at a greater rate of speed than 6 miles per hour, will be hailed before the magistrate.

The Brantford Pet Stock and Poultry Association are making final preparations for the coming poultry show, which, it is expected, will be held in the local armories in the next month or so. According to officials there will be at least 3,000 entries from all parts of the continent. Many of last year's exhibits came from as far south as Kentucky, and as far east as St. John's, Newfoundland, and also among those shown were many Chinese exhibits. In all there were over 2,100 exhibits.

CHURCHILL ISSUES REPLY TO CURZON

Declares British Cabinet Minister Was Well Aware of Appeal to Dominion.

London, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press cable.)—Winston Churchill has issued a sharp reply to Lord Curzon's remarks yesterday concerning the issue of the appeal to the dominions on September 16 to send contingents in the event of trouble with Turkey, without his knowledge.

"If Lord Curzon had been at his post he would have been consulted," says Mr. Churchill. "It certainly does not lie in the mouth of the minister who was absent from his post at a most critical juncture, on grounds other than ill-health, to throw blame upon his chief and his colleagues for the urgent action which it was thought necessary to take in the public interest."

Mr. Churchill further asserts that Lord Curzon attended and voted to all the decisions at a cabinet meeting where it was actually decided to appeal to the dominions.

Mr. Churchill also has a sharp dig at Curzon for his "sudden and nimble change of attitude" during the recent political crisis, and says he turned in a most surprising manner upon those with whom he had been loyally through all the long months of his ill-health.

ASQUITH SCORES TORY PRINCIPLES

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(Canadian Press cable.)—Speaking at Newcastle today, H. H. Asquith, leader of the Independent Liberals, said the Tories had convictions and principles of their own, but in the pinch and stress of emergency they were always found ready to surrender them. When it came to the final griping of the Tories always gave way and, with good or bad grace, capitulated to Liberalism.

Mr. Asquith declared that if the electors returned a Tory majority next week they might find the representative chamber fettered, hampered and controlled or even circumvented by a non-representative second chamber whose powers they had reason to fear.

The country would be credulous to a degree, said Mr. Asquith, if it did not demand something more specific than Bonar Law's soothing words regarding the parliament act. The premier had not abandoned the idea of drift reform, as the safeguarding of industries act was capable without further legislation of extending in almost every direction the impoverishing policy of protection.

Sound Municipal Finances.

Oshawa is receiving some rather undesirable notoriety in regard to the way in which the municipality has kept its books.

Government auditors went in there and found that the methods were wrong to such an extent that it had been possible for the place to lose some thousands of dollars, although there is no intimation of any crooked work being done.

While the present publicity may not be very complimentary, it has probably a deeper significance owing to the fact that Oshawa is getting in shape to get down to a better system.

The exposure of a defect, if it is accompanied by a corresponding cure, is not a sign of weakness, but rather of strength.

Not many years ago a city in Western Ontario came across a lot of money all in a heap, and they couldn't imagine where it came from. Thereupon the members of the council decided they would cut the tax rate to the core, and they did.

Some time after it was found that this was the sinking fund for a large amount of drainage that had been done some years before.

There have been a number of municipal blunders in Ontario, enough, in fact, to make finger posts for the right direction. Each succeeding year makes it harder for a civic official to put together a good alibi for out-of-date and inefficient methods.

Real Human Subjects.

Speakers at the Women's Institute meetings, just closed in London, talked about subjects that have to do with the life of the people and the manner of their homes.

Fortunately these women have passed on and no longer deal in questions that neither interest, entertain nor offend.

For instance, here we have the charge—for that is what it amounted to—that in many cases parents were so intent on saving money to retire on, or leave to their children after they had ceased to need it, that they neglected some of the more important "right-now" things.

Young people who desired to marry hesitated because they did not want to go in with the "folks at home" and share the same roof.

The young man was not given a sufficient amount, nor could he claim it, to set up house for himself, so they delayed, and in this way the country was losing some of the best future homes.

And praise be, they laid their hands in sanction on the idea of starting the home in a simple way, and even beamed upon the old idea that it was possible to be happy under such conditions, and from there go on adding as they could to their holdings.

As long as the Women's Institutes talk about real human things they will continue to flourish, and well may they.

When a Man's Champion.

SKEET, the colored heavyweight prize fighter, who recently arose out of nowhere to take over the title of champion of Europe, is not to be allowed to have any of his fights in the United Kingdom.

The authorities there claim that when a white man fights a black man there are many things entering into the contest that it is well to avoid.

In the British Empire there are many black men, and the question of the superiority of black or white in the ring is held to be a dangerous thing—too dangerous to be classed as sport.

Apart altogether from the rights or wrongs of prize-fighting, is a man a real champion when he refuses to meet all comers? It has been a practice, resorted to now and then in the past, when a colored opponent with a big fist loomed up, to take refuge in the color line, and the "too white to fight" attitude.

If a man is a real world champion in the fighting business he ought to be able to stand up on his hind legs and meet any man in the world.

If he wins he is still champion. If he loses then he is the ex-champion.

From East and West.

Uncle Sam might have an excellent chance to turn around now and say that everyone is finding fault with him.

Certain it is, he has some very outspoken critics at home, and a spell at politics serves to whet their appetite for hard words and pungent facts.

By way of example, here's a case of east and west. Away on the west coast the Los Angeles Times tackles Uncle Sam for the amount of money spent on winning the war. A glance at some of the charges given below might at the same time lead to the belief that many of the billions of United States war debt never had any bearing on increasing the efficiency of allied forces at the front. Here are some of the charges from the west:

Was it necessary to spend nearly $4,000,000,000 to obtain 72 cannon?

Was it necessary to spend $116,124,000 on nitrate plants which produced no nitrates?

Was it necessary to spend $1,051,511,000 for airplanes that never reached the battle front in France?

Was it necessary to spend over $100,000,000 for docks and terminals at which no ship ever tied up?

Was it necessary to contract for 41,000,000 pairs of shoes for 3,500,000 men?

Was it necessary to buy 945,000 saddles for $6,000,000 cavalry horses? Was it necessary to buy five nose-bags for each four-footed animal owned by the government?

Was it necessary to purchase 26 sets of spurs for each officer entitled to use them?

Was it necessary to buy $21,000,000 worth of ambulance harness for an ambulance service that had been entirely motorized?

These figures will help the public to understand how war profiteers grew rich. The taxpayers of this generation will have to pay them.

Now for the east. The Brooklyn Eagle is quite certain Uncle Sam is playing a very small part in world affairs, and says so like this:

"In the last analysis, Mr. Hughes has done nothing more than voice the common hope that others will do what the United States would like to see done. We would like to see the arduous task kept open, we would like to see the racial and religious minorities in Turkey protected, but we will leave it to Great Britain and the allies to bring this about, and to pay the price, whatever it may be. We will do nothing. We will not attend the proposed peace conference. We will merely sit tight and hope. We will proclaim and wish. This, we submit, is an ignominious position for a great nation to take.

So there you are. If Uncle Sam looks west he gets a blast, and if he stays east he is plainly told of his defects. It may be that he will set his hand to remedying some of them.

Canada's Printers. The printing and publishing business has come in for some notice from the department of statistics at Ottawa.

There are in the Dominion 1,792 establishments with a product worth in 1920, $103,411,491. The capital investment is $76,610,961, and employment is given to 29,336 people.

Collecting the Debts.

Collecting bad debts is a simple matter for a public utilities commission or a hydro board. If there are arrears or bill that cannot be collected the amount is simply added to the taxes against the property and collected in that way.

It is a great advantage to a publicly-owned institution, and a measure of relief that is not granted to any privately-owned concern.

Supposing, for instance, that all the bad debts of the community could be carted over to the city hall, and there placed as a direct levy in the way of taxes against the property, it would mean that bad debts would be eliminated right there and then, and so would much of the property.

WELLS' OUTLINE OF HISTORY.

THE story of priest and king in Egypt is similar to, but by no means parallel, with that of Babylonia. The kings of Sumeria and Assyria were priests who had become kings; they were secularized priests.

The Pharaoh of Egypt does not appear to have followed precisely that line. Already in the very oldest records the Pharaoh has a power and importance exceeding that of any priest. He is, in fact, a god, and more than either priest or king. We do not know how he got to that position.

No monarch of Sumeria or Babylonia could have induced his subjects to have for him what the great pyramid-building Pharaohs of the IVth Dynasty made their people do in those vast erections.

Three Gods in One.

The earlier Pharaohs were not improbably regarded as incarnations of the dominant god, the father god, Horus sits behind the head of the great statue of Chaphren. So late a monarch as Ramesses III. (XIXth Dynasty) is represented upon his sarcophagus (now at Cambridge) bearing the distinctive symbols of the three great gods of the Egyptian system. He carries the two scepters of Osiris, the god of day and resurrection; upon his head are the horns of the cow goddess Hathor, and also the sun ball and feathers of Ammon Ra. He is not merely wearing the symbols of these gods as a devout Babylonian might wear the symbols of Bel-Marduk; he is these three gods in one.

A Dynastic Romance. The mother of Amenophis IV. was not of the race of Pharaohs; it would seem that his father, Amenophis III., made a love match with a subject, a beautiful Syrian named Ti, and Prof. Maspero finds in the possible opposition to and annoyance of this queen by the priests of Ammon in the beginnings of the quarrel. She may, he thinks, have inspired her son with a fanatical hatred of Ammon Ra. But Amenophis IV. may have had a wider view. Like the Babylonian Nabonidus who lived a thousand years later, he may have had in mind the problem of moral unity in his empire.

We have already noted that Amenophis III. ruled from Ethiopia to the Euphrates, and that the store of letters to himself and his son found at Tel-Amarna show a very wide range of interest and influence. At any rate, Amenophis IV. set himself to close all the Egyptian and Syrian temples, to put an end to all sectarian worship throughout his dominions, and to establish everywhere the worship of one god, Aton, the solar disk.

He left his capital, Thebes, which was even more the city of Ammon Ra than later Babylon was the city of Bel-Marduk, and set up his capital at Tel-Amarna; he altered his name from "Amenophis" which consecrated him to Ammon (Amen) to "Akhenaton," the "son of glory"; and he held his own against all the priest-hoods of his empire for eighteen years and died a Pharaoh.

Opinions upon Amenophis IV., or Akhenaton, differ very widely. There are those who regard him as the creature of his mother's hatred of Ammon and the uxorious spouse of a beautiful wife. Certainly he loved his wife very passionately; he showed her great honor—Egypt honored women, and was ruled at different times by several queens—and he was sculptured in one instance with his wife seated upon his knees, and in another in the act of kissing her in a chariot; but men who live under the sway of their womanhood do not sustain great empires in the face of the bitter hostility of the most influential organized bodies in their realm.

Others write of him as a "gloomy fanatic." Matrimonial bliss is rare in the cases of gloomy fanatics. It is much more reasonable to regard him as the Pharaoh who refused to be a god. It is not simply his religious policy and his frank display of natural affection that seem to mark a strong and very original personality. His aesthetic ideas were his own. He refused to let his portrait be conventionalized into the customary smooth beauty of the Pharaoh god, and his face looks out at us across an interval of thirty-four centuries, a man amidst ranks of divine insipidity.

A reign of eighteen years was not long enough for the revolution he contemplated, and his son-in-law who succeeded him went back to Thebes and made his peace with Ammon Ra.

To the very end of the story the divinity of kings haunted the Egyptian mind, and infected the thoughts of others races. When Alexander the Great reached Babylon, the prestige of Bel-Marduk was already far gone in decay, but in Egypt, Ammon Ra was still good enough to make a snob of the conquering Grecian.

An Animated Idol. The priests of Ammon Ra, about the time of the XVIIIth or XIXth dynasty (circa 1400 B.C.), had set up in an oasis of the desert a temple and oracle. Here was the voice of the god which could speak, move its head and accept or reject sacrificial inquiry. This oracle was still flourishing in 332 B.C.

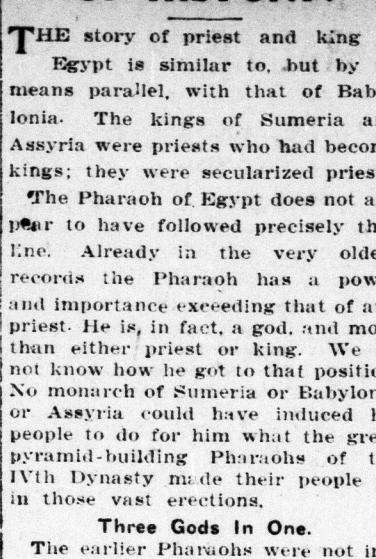

The young master of the world, it is related, made a special journey to visit it; he came into the sanctuary, and the image advanced out of the darkness at the back to meet him. There was an impressive exchange of salutations. Some such formula as this must have been used (says Prof. Maspero): "one, son of my loins, who loves me so that I give thee the royalty of Ra and the royalty of Horus! I give thee valiance. I give thee to hold all countries and all religions under thy feet; I give thee to strike all the peoples united together with thy arm."

So it was that the priests of Egypt conquered their conqueror, and an Aryan monarch first became a god.

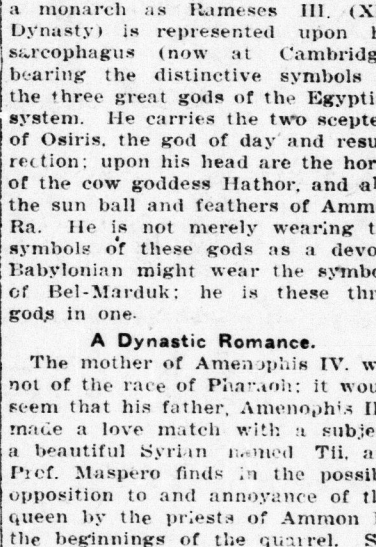

Stamping Out Tradition. The priest and king in the chow dynasty, was sinking into a state of great disorder. Each province clung to its separate nationality and traditions and the Huns spread from province to province.

The King of Ts'in (who lived about eighty years after Alexander the Great) was impressed by the mischief tradition was doing in the land, resolved to destroy the entire Chinese literature, and his son, Shi Hwang-ti, the "first universal emperor," made a strenuous attempt to seek out and

A CASE wherein London leads Toronto, and modesty is the master of zeal. The Last Post Fund is a patriotic consolation for old soldiers who have left life in the same condition with which they entered it—having brought nothing into the world they are helpless to bury themselves when the Reaper calls. Mr. Hair is the father and the apostle of the fund. Though he is an old soldier, the fund is in no sense the offspring of a soldiers' organization. It is a charitable institution. Until this year the work of the fund was primarily a Quebec undertaking, but the wisdom of a government with a heart in its bosom has made it possible to extend its aid to the Canadian provinces. Before long the Last Post Fund should be a feature of the life of every Canadian.

They vanished while he ruled, and he ruled without tradition, and welded China into a unit that endured for two centuries; but when he had passed the hidden books crept out again. China remained united, though not under his descendants, but after a civil war under a fresh dynasty, the Han dynasty (206 B.C.). The first Han monarch did not sustain the campaign of Shi Hwang-ti against the literati, and his successor made his peace with them and restored the texts of the classics.

Nervous Nations

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Copyright 1922.

ONE of the surest signs of nervousness in an individual is a growing irritability.

For little reason, or no reason at all, the nervous individual loses control of his temper. Let his desires be crossed in any way, he flares up in a rage. Also he is inclined to see grievances where no grievances exist. This singular irritability and suspiciousness is equally a sign of nervousness in nations.

When you find a nation, through its various mediums of public utterance, weighing continually against other nations, when you find it forever lamenting that other nations are intriguing against it, and when you find it on a plea of self-defence urging policies calculated to embroil it with other nations, you may rest assured that nation is in a highly nervous state.

So, too, it is a sign of national nervousness when a nation, accounting its rights as sacred, within its borders any widespread occurrence of brutalities and outrages characteristic of the unrestrained lust and violence of savage man.

Nervous individuals, as every medical psychologist is aware, often show a distinct tendency to revert to the cave man's mode of thinking and doing. This is a result of loss of control, permitting the emergence of instincts and impulses inherited from remote forebears, but ordinarily held in check.

And, it is noteworthy, the swing-back may be, not to brutalities, but to primitive standards of judgment. Two placid, reasonable, literary values, aesthetic ideals, etc., I am reminded in this connection of Stewart Paton's comment on futuristic art.

"The ultra-moderns are really primitives. This is brought out if we compare the idols and images of these modern races with the compositions of the futurist school of sculptors or painters."

"That the artist who produces these things is often a savage does not alter this fact: the dark sub-culture abode at once of simplicity and deformities exists in all of us."

These things are, however, not intellectual superiority, but very primitive emotion, and illustrates a reversion to ideas and ideals of the Stone Age."

If, then, futurist art becomes the mode, national as well as individual nervousness stands revealed. It is, indeed, a sign of national nervousness if people flock to futurist exhibitions "merely out of curiosity."

To be constantly seeking new sensations is another characteristic of nervousness. Futurism offers a new sensation, so the nervous rush to it, just as they rush to "something new" in the opera, the ballet, or the play. When they rush so conspicuously to the quest of the new—and particularly the new that is bizarre—may be described as a national trait, then again, an unmistakable sign that the nation is truly in a nervous state.

These hints I comment to all whose business it is to enlighten, educate, preach, or publish—to co-operate in maintaining national nerve control. They cannot too alertly watch for indications that this control is weakening, or too earnestly labor to re-establish it.

For just as nervousness may bring indescribable suffering to individuals, so may it bring dire disaster to nations. A fact which history has stressed for us again and again—not least in the recent downfall of Germany.

The Evening Story

SHINING THROUGH.

(Copyright, 1922, by W. Werner.)

It was a dreary day in November and Sara Hughes felt that she would be a good press agent for gloom. She peered disconsolately from the window and wondered why the glass was so clouded when yesterday had been so freshly polished. For that matter everything in the little living-room had been polished, the floor, the walls, the furniture, the very air itself. She looked out again. The Colby house across the street sparkled from top to bottom. The fine autumn rain only gave a sheen to the white paint; the windows were like jewels with the fire light gleaming through making points of beauty through every one. And yet Mrs. Colby had not washed those windows lately. In fact, she was to Sara's mind, a housekeeper. Careless, with no system. She even left the week's cleaning for a week or two.

Sara failed to understand it. Her husband, Billy Hughes, never asked her to play golf or anything else. Not now. He had, once or twice, when they were first married, but that was three years ago and she never made him see that she had no time for frivolity. So he played alone or not at all.

Even today, their wedding anniversary, he had telephoned from the office that he could not be home for dinner and Sara's eyes filled as she thought that undoubtedly he had not remembered the date at all. And it was so lonely. Life was too. Marriage had not been easy to talk of then, with Billy's whims about her, and reality so far away.

Others, Belle Benedict, for example, made Saturday nights spent in silly playing about with her husband. Sara sniffed. Belle's house looked like every day was a holiday. Then a twinge came—Belle was never left alone, anniversaries or not. Tom Benedict lavished a wealth of foolish love on his wife, and she spent her hours in a cloak of adoration.

Sara's eyes filled again so that she did not see the Colbys and their demonstrative greeting. She was vanishing into the dining-room, love-like and affectionate. Then the Colby lights were dimmed and Sara sought her own dry dinner, taken on a corner of the kitchen table.

She had sipped a cup of flat tea and tried to swallow her loneliness when the telephone rang. For some reason a terror surged through her veins. As often as the little bell tinkled, day by day for some trivial pretext, now she knew there was tragedy at the source. With shaking hands she snatched the receiver and stammered as she asked, "Hello, who's calling?"

"Mrs. William Hughes? Be calm, madam. William Hughes has been identified as a victim of the victims in the Marston street accident of this afternoon."

Sara heard herself saying that she would be in immediately to verify the facts. Her heart would break as if she were giving orders to the grocer. Then she hung up the receiver and went on the stairs to the bedroom where she had her wedding dress. She saw it as a coffin in which was laid her happiness. And not one flower of remembrance to brighten it. Nothing but a collection of old, dusty, faded furniture, polished floors, and shining windows.

Slowly she drew on her coat and pinned on a hat, and then, without a word, she opened the door behind her. Then her courage faltered. Across the way, the Colbys were seated at a table, and she saw them reading aloud and she working at something bright. Sara suddenly felt alone in a world of happy people—alone and desolate within.

Colby's house was a world of happy people—alone and desolate within. Colby's house was a world of happy people—alone and desolate within. Colby's house was a world of happy people—alone and desolate within.

Expert Explains Easiest and Best Ways To Shift Gears

In visualizing the gears in the transmission just remember that the propeller shaft is, by means of the universal joint, connected with the main shaft of the transmission, and that the front end of the transmission mainshaft fits into a hole in the clutch shaft. There are two gears which slide on this mainshaft. These gears, however, rotate positively with the mainshaft since there are usually four keys or splines integral with the mainshaft which mesh with four keys in the hub of each gear. One of these gears is "second" and the other is "low," the latter being considerably larger than the former. By moving the shifting lever either "second" or "low" may be slid into mesh with a mating gear on the so-called countershaft in the transmission.

When the second gear is engaged, for example, the path of the power from engine to rear axle is as follows: It enters in the front end of the transmission via the clutch shaft, where a gear on the end of this shaft transmits the power to a gear on the countershaft which meshes with it. These two gears are always in mesh except on one particular make of car. The power travels along the countershaft gear, which meshes with the "second" gear, and then passes through the "second" gear along the mainshaft and so to the propeller shaft and rear axle. All the gears on the countershaft are fastened securely to it, and they always occupy the same position.

Travels To Mainshaft.

When "low" is engaged the path of the power is similar except in this case the power travels from the countershaft back to the mainshaft through the "low" gear. Reverse is obtained by sliding "low" all the way to the rear, where it engages a gear placed on one side of the countershaft, but meshing with another gear on the countershaft. The power then passes back from the countershaft to the mainshaft through three gears instead of the usual two, and thus the propeller shaft is rotated in the reverse direction.

High gear is obtained by locking the clutch shaft to the transmission mainshaft so that the two rotate as one. The power then passes straight through and does not go through the countershaft. The locking device consists simply of a dog clutch, one member of which is located on the front face of "second gear" and the other on the rear face of the gear on the end of the clutch shaft. High gear is engaged by sliding "second" forward until the two members of the clutch are in contact. In modern cars the dog clutch is not as popular as an internal-external gear clutch. The front face of "second" is formed into an internal gear which slides over an external gear immediately to the rear of the gear on the end of the clutch shaft.

Gears Have Ratio.
For all practical purposes, these gears may be considered to have a one, two, three ratio. If the engine runs 1,000 revolutions per minute at twenty miles per hour on high, it will run 2,000 on second and 3,000 on third, at twenty miles per hour. Therefore, it should be clear that in order to shift silently from high to low gear the engine speed must be increased from 1,000 to 3,000. Fortunately, however, it is not necessary to measure the speed of the engine except by ear, and a little experience and practice will show just how much its speed must be increased or decreased for the purpose of gear shifting.

There are few occasions when necessity will demand a shift from high to low, at a speed of twenty miles per hour, or even at fifteen for that matter. In descending a very steep hill if the brakes should fail to hold the car it is conceivable that an immediate shift from high to low at twenty miles per hour might be required. Yet such a shift is all but an impossibility on most cars unless the engine is speeded up to make moment with clutch out to make the teeth speed of the meshing gears somewhat similar. Having made the shift to low the throttle may be closed.

In ascending a hill it is possible that the car might pull up at a speed of fifteen or twenty miles on high, when a very steep rise around a sharp bend would demand an immediate shift to low.

Increase Speed.
It is a safe rule that when going from high to low the engine speed must be tripled, and going from high to second or second to low must be nearly doubled. The shift from high to second is one very frequently made, and therefore is the one that interests the average driver much.

Few car operators are able to make this shift with perfect silence some also have difficulty in making it so quickly that the car will not show an appreciable loss in speed. The easiest way to shift from high to second, or in fact to make any "down" shift, is not well known. Few motorists know about it.

It is a shift that the writer has used for several years, and has taught to many drivers. It is easily learned and yet never causes difficulty.

On a hill this shift is made with the throttle wide open; and on the level with the throttle partly open. The throttle is held open while the clutch pedal is depressed. As the clutch is disengaged the engine has reached the speed demanded by the gear and the clutch engaged. In practice the whole operation takes but a fraction of a second. The clutch is depressed with fair rapidity, the gear is shifted the instant the engine speed is making 1,500 revolutions, and the clutch let back in as quickly as possible. In practicing this shift, and until confidence is gained, both clutch pedal and gear lever must be manipulated with the greatest deliberation. Push the clutch out ever so slowly and watch the engine speed mount gradually. When it is high enough, move the gear lever over from high to second, and then let the clutch back in. The shift from second to low is similarly made. After a little practice this shift can be made silently and so swiftly that the car will not lose momentum in shifting from second to low on an unexpectedly sharp grade. If this method is used it is never necessary to anticipate your shifts. If you are traveling up a 20 per cent grade on second and suddenly strike a spot that is over 30 per cent it will be time enough to shift when you reach it.

Don't Open Throttle.
In shifting to a lower gear when on the level, or in traffic, it is not necessary to hold the throttle all the way open. One-third or half-way is enough. On the other hand, if you are faced with the necessity of making a quick shift going down hill, it will be better to shift with the throttle wide open, closing the throttle, of course, the instant the gear is engaged. Thus the speeding engine does not add to the rate at which the car is traveling.

Shifting from a lower to a higher gear is correctly done by most motorists, but the occasional hard-shifting car is a problem worth explaining. On low, its speed should drop to 1,000 revolutions before second is engaged, and to 550 before high is entered, assuming that the rate at which the car is traveling is constant. On most cars it is very easy to bring the engine, or rather the clutch-shift, to the right speed. The clutch pedal is depressed, and simultaneously the throttle is closed, and as soon as the engine speed drops the required amount the shift is performed.

If the clutch is very heavy in its parts, it may continue to rotate rapidly for some seconds after the engine speed has dropped. The shift should not be made until the clutch speed has dropped. Experience will show how long this period must be. The time of waiting is likely to be roughly proportional to the square of the speed. If it is necessary to wait a half second to make a silent shift at ten miles per hour, it will be necessary to wait about two seconds to shift silently at twenty miles per hour.

THREE GIRLS with clothes abridge hung until exhausted and then dropped to death from window sills in a lot of a three-story manufacturing building in Thirteenth street, New York. Three more were probably fatally burned and a dozen seriously injured in the mysterious blaze.

Provided With Brakes.
Most clutches are provided with brakes to slow them down more quickly. The clutch brake acts when the clutch is pushed out all the way.

It should now be clear that in order to make a silent shift to a higher gear the waiting period after the clutch is depressed may be anything from a negligible fraction of a second to several seconds, depending on the weight of the clutch parts, the effectiveness of the clutch brake and the speed at which the engine is running immediately prior to depressing the clutch.

Once behind the wheel of a strange car these things can be quickly determined. If the first shift is not silent, try waiting a longer or shorter period, and note the result. After a few shifts the driver should have no difficulty in gauging the length of wait required to perform a noiseless gear change.

If the shift is made too soon after the clutch is depressed the gears will grind because the tooth speeds of the gears being engaged are too much at variance. Likewise, if you wait too long the speed of the clutchshaft will drop so low that the gears will grind and perhaps it will be impossible to engage the higher gear at all. If the clutch brake acts with extreme rapidity the clutchshaft may drop way below the desired speed the instant that the clutch pedal is depressed. In this case, shifts from a lower to a higher gear can only be accomplished when the clutch pedal is not pushed all the way out. The exact amount to depress it can be determined by trial. If you have difficulty in shifting upward, try depressing the pedal somewhat less than its full travel, and see if this will not cure the trouble.

Miss Your Gear.
If in shifting upward you miss your gear because the speed of the clutch shaft has dropped too low, obviously it is not necessary to bring the car to a full stop and start all over again. All that is needed is to raise the speed of the clutchshaft. This can be accomplished in an instant. Bring the lever to neutral, let the clutch in, speed the engine up considerably above the rate required on high, and disengage the clutch before you allow the speed of the engine to fall again. Then shift. The whole operation need not occupy more than a second.

When the car is stopped, if you have trouble in moving the gear lever from neutral to the gear you want, let the clutch in for just an instant, assuming that the engine is running, of course. Remember that if the clutch brake is very quick acting the clutch pedal should not be pushed out all the way.

If you have been coasting with the gear lever in neutral, you should raise the speed of the clutch shaft a little above the speed demanded by the car before engaging high again. This practice prevents the clashing of the gears and minimizes strain on engine and driving mechanism.

If you wish to coast with the engine dead you may do so by disengaging the clutch and leaving the lever in high. When you let the clutch back in to start the engine, do so very gradually so as to minimize the strain on engine and driving mechanism.

Coast in Neutral.

It is also possible to coast with the gear lever in neutral and the engine dead if the car is equipped with a self-starter, so that the engine may be started again before an attempt is made to get back into gear. It is very difficult to engage a gear with a car coasting and the engine dead. Therefore, if you have parked your car on a hill and wish to start the engine by gravity, instead of using the starter, engage high gear the instant the car starts rolling. It should be possible to engage this gear before the car has moved two inches. Allow the car to pick up some momentum before letting the clutch in, and be sure to engage it gently.

The engine may also be started on second or low, or reverse, if the car is pointed up the hill, but in using the lower gears great care must be exercised to engage the clutch promptly but smoothly, so as not to jolt the mechanism unnecessarily. With a little experience, reverse or low may be used to advantage where the grade is so slight that a low car speed may be obtained.

It is always better to use the starter, but there are times when some defect in the electric system may make it desirable to start the engine by gravity. The car may be similarly started on the level if a man or two can be found to push it for a short distance. Or, if the crank is missing and the starter is on strike, engage high gear, jack up a rear wheel, pull out clutch, turn rear wheel, thus priming engine, close choke to normal starting position, set throttle and spark lever, turn on switch and turn rear wheel. When engine starts, put gear shift lever in neutral position, jack down rear wheel and—your off!

If, after following these directions, you have any difficulty in shifting gears, you may conclude that clutch or transmission are not functioning properly, and usually the trouble is caused by one of three things: a clutch brake that is out of order, a clutch which does not fully disengage or which drags, or looseness in the bearings.

PETROLEA

Special To The Advertiser.
Petrolea Nov. 9.—Fire completely burned the barn of Isaac Farrow yesterday. The contents including a team of horses, two cows, some pigs and the season's crops were also destroyed. Mr. Farrow had finished milking but half an hour before, and did not notice the fire till warned by a passer-by. It had gained considerable headway, and it was impossible to save much. By the hard work of the neighbors, the implements and poultry were saved. The total loss is about $3,000, which is partially covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Saunders and family returned from Tampico, Mexico, this week, after spending ten years in different parts of the world as a driller. Mr. Saunders spent ten years in Egypt and the remaining three in Mexico. Mr. Saunders is now superintendent of the Corona Oil Company.

D. Lambert after drilling in Persia and Mesopotamia for the past two years returned to Petrolea yesterday. Mr. Lambert is a driller for the Anglo-Persian Oil Company.

Sam Babcock and family returned from Sumatra, where he has been drilling for the past five years. Mr. Babcock has been employed by the Royal Dutch Oil Company for fifteen years.

MUSSOLINI PLANS SEVERAL CHANGES

Chamber of Deputies Will Reconvene For Short Session.

Rome, Nov. 9.—The Chamber of Deputies will reconvene Nov. 26, but probably will sit for only a fortnight. Premier Mussolini is expected to put through a heavy program, including the transfer of public utilities, telephone, telegraph and railways, to private ownership, all having been operated at a loss. The premier will inform the chamber of the government's action in reducing the police, carabinieri, royal guards, customs officers and detectives from 150,000 to 75,000.

The provisional budget for the first six months of 1923 to permit the carrying on of public business will be voted, it is thought, with little or no discussion.

Signor Mussolini will ask the chamber for full power to put into effect his project of bureaucratic reform, which is regarded as one of the Fascist's boldest schemes. Experts are engaged in investigating the cost at which the various departments have been maintained and the amount of work done, as well as the minimum figure at which such work may be efficiently performed.

PRESTON CONSERVATIVE NOMINEE FOR LANARK

Carleton Place, Ont., Nov. 9.—Hon. Dr. R. F. Preston of Carleton Place was nominated today to contest the riding of Lanark in the Liberal-Conservative interests in the voting on December 4 to elect a successor to the late Hon. J. A. Stewart, minister of railways and canals in the Meighen government. Dr. Preston is an experienced parliamentarian, having sat at different times in the federal and provincial parliaments. He was a minister without portfolio in the Borden cabinet for a time.

CAN SELL COAL AT $16.50, SAYS BRANTFORD DEALER

Special To The Advertiser.

Brantford, Nov. 9.—That coal can be purchased by local dealers that would retail for $15.50 a ton was the statement made by the manager of the Mann Coal Company.

This statement was qualified, however, by an additional one, to the effect that this class of coal cannot be obtained in sufficient quantities to supply the needs of Brantford. In evidence of this the manager said that out of 28 carloads received recently only five tons were of the cheaper variety. This latter sort is not sold at $15.50 per ton, but, according to the coal company, is sold at an average price of $18, this figure being arrived at by combining the cheaper and more expensive varieties. Coal dealers claim that this price gives them just an ordinary profit. B. A. Cassell of the Wood Coal Company, when asked concerning the above statement, said that as far as his company was concerned, he did not care to make any statement for publication, other than that his company would welcome an investigation by the fuel controller.

"We have nothing to fear," said Mr. Cassell, "and would be glad to see all this tangle cleared up by a thorough investigation."

HAMILTON POLICE HOLD MAN FOR U.S. AUTHORITIES

Hamilton, Nov. 9.—At the request of Washington, D. C., authorities police here today arrested Max Mussman, alias Mandel Mussman. He is alleged Mussman is wanted on a serious charge in Danville, Ill., where he jumped his bail and escaped to Canada.
