NOW IS THE TIME TO ADVERTISE

MAY HAVE BEEN ROBBED

The Jury on Clapperton Inquest Advise Crown to Investigate Case Fully.

Much Evidence Taken at Inquest—Some of the Jurymen Suspicious—An Open Verdict.

Although there were many points in the evidence adduced which left a suspicion in the minds of some of the jurymen that Peter Clapperton may have met with foul play, still there was nothing offered which would justify them in laying suspicion on any person, and they therefore brought in a verdict—that deceased came to his death through causes unknown to the jury—and they also included advice to the Crown Attorney to have the case thoroughly investigated.

The investigation was held before Coroner Dr. J. L. Bray last evening, in the County Clerk's office, Harrison Hall, and lasted for two hours. None of the evidence received seemed to throw any direct light on how deceased came to his death. The only position was, what became of his money. At three o'clock in the afternoon he had $11.75, and when found he had only 26 cents. He may have been robbed, but this is mere supposition. The coroner's personal opinion was that the deceased came to his death by drowning and that he wandered down to the river, stumbled and fell into the water.

James Dodson was the first witness. He saw deceased at 12 o'clock on Friday night, June 23, near the Idlewild Hotel. He did not seem to be drunk. He could walk all right. John Dunlop, of the Idlewild Hotel, also saw deceased at 12 o'clock on Friday night. He had been drinking in the Idlewild in the afternoon of that day.

Ald. John Edmondson, sworn, said he saw deceased on the Friday he was supposed to have been drowned. He purchased some meat at Mr. Edmondson's butcher shop, and with new saw then the deceased had $11.75 in his pocket-book. Deceased was under the influence of liquor when witness saw him. Witness tried to put him to bed in the Aberdeen House but was unsuccessful in the attempt.

John Courtney, proprietor of the Courtney House, was the next witness. He saw the deceased Friday night at 11 o'clock. Deceased had nothing to drink at the Courtney House, and he seemed to have no companions with him. He was not drunk, but under the influence of liquor, and seemed to be jolly with everyone. He had no quarrels that night that witness saw. At half-past eleven o'clock Friday night witness saw deceased walking up and down in front of the Police Station. He was all alone and seemed to be bewildered.

J. E. Brown, who found the body in the river, was next sworn. He testified as to the finding of the body. He did not know deceased very well and had not seen him for six weeks before he found him in the river. He was found four feet from the shore in seven feet of water.

Robert McEllan was next sworn. He was the man who took deceased out of the water.

Kenneth Urquhart, of Dover Township, testified that deceased had drawn his gun recently and had left home at 11 o'clock Friday morning and said he would be home between three and four o'clock. He never came back. Witness said deceased had no enemies and he never knew him to have a quarrel with anyone. He had no idea where the money went to. There was no money left in his house. About three months before this accident deceased was held up by a couple of men—strangers—and robbed of $4.

Joe Hadley knew the deceased. He had often seen deceased sleeping in the Hadley lumber yard and had several times shown him the way out. At these times deceased was under the influence of liquor. He seemed to be an open-hearted man and always friendly. He did not seem to be a man to make enemies.

Edward Lighthart, with whom deceased lived, was next sworn. He thought deceased must have had gun when he left home on the Friday he was drowned. Deceased seldom stayed away all night. He was never a very good man to treat. He always claimed to be a good swimmer.

Joseph Matthews saw deceased leave the Courtney House about 11 o'clock on the Friday night in question. Deceased was singing at the time. He started to walk towards the Courtney House. Deceased was in the hotel about an hour with a crowd of people, but witness did not see him buy a drink all the time he was there. Deceased was generally pretty good at treating.

Andrew Ross, of Dover, brother-in-law of deceased, was the next witness. Drink was deceased's worst enemy. He never knew anything of deceased contrary to his good character. He had known deceased for fifty years.

RANKIN LICENSE CUT OFF AT CLOSING LAST NIGHT

License Commissioner Martin Made Last Appeal Against the Injustice Without Avail—Mr. Pleasance Closes His Bar—"Must Just Do the Best I Can," his Comment—Thanks to Conservative Friends—Sheldon License Transferred to Messrs. McKay and Taylor.

The license of the Hotel Rankin was cut off at eleven o'clock last night on the order of a majority of the West Kent License Commissioners and the well-contested bar of this splendid house was closed this morning. A short meeting of the Board last evening further decreed this course, despite the earnest appeal of Commissioner Martin, and granted a transfer of the W. D. Sheldon shop license to A. C. McKay and G. R. Taylor.

There were present at the meeting Chairman T. A. Smith and Commissioner Thomas C. Martin.

The Chairman said the meeting was called for the purpose of giving Mr. Sheldon a short extension to enable him to transfer and sell out. Mr. Martin pointed out that the Board could not transfer the old or extended license. A new license would have to be granted as a transfer of it could be made.

The Chairman said he favored the transfer, though it was fair to let Mr. Martin know that their colleague, Dr. Mitchell, who was unable to be present, was opposed to it.

Mr. Martin—If these men have to go I want to see them at least get their money out of it.

The Chairman—Then you favor the transfer?

Mr. Martin—Yes. And Mr. Pleasance has applied for a transfer to his wife. I strongly believe in all of justice this should be granted. It will be satisfactory to the people of the County and no more than fair.

The Chairman—I'm immovable on that matter, Mr. Martin.

Mr. Martin—I'd like to see you meet me on the Pleasance case, Mr. Smith. I don't think there's anything wrong with the house of its conduct. If there was, I'd do anything desired to fix it. If it's myself, I had hoped to at least hear the charge and have the British right of defense before I was condemned. However, I suppose it's all over now.

"One thing I wish you'd do for me. Say how much I appreciated all my Conservative friends have done for me without even the asking. I know mistakes may have been made and that they weren't successful. But whatever is said about it, I know it will prove satisfactory to the people of the whole County. It's only right, Mr. Smith."

The Chairman—No, I can't declare it carried.

PRESENTATION

Ald. Marshall Made the Recipient of an Address and Gift From the Office Staff of the Manson Campbell Company.

A pleasant break in the routine of every day business occurred at the office of the Manson Campbell Company yesterday afternoon, when Mr. W. S. Marshall, for the past seventeen years a valued servant of the company, was presented by his associates on the office staff with the following address and a handsome gold mounted silk umbrella and traveling case. Mr. Marshall has severed his connection with the company to become president of the Defiance Iron Works Company, lately organized in this city.

To Mr. W. S. Marshall.
Dear Mr. Marshall:
On the occasion of your departure from the employ of the Manson Campbell Co., the members of the office staff desire to express to you their feeling of regret and at the same time their best wishes for your future success.

Your courtesy and kindness you have, during your long service with the company, won the esteem and good will of those who have had the pleasure to be associated with you. As a slight remembrance of their good feeling towards you, they desire you to accept these gifts, together with their best wishes, that your journey through life may be most happy and prosperous.

Signed on behalf of the staff,
(Sgd.) L. D. RICE,
HONNIE GREENING,
JEAN RIPLEY,
W. A. LEROY.

Chatham, June 30, 1905.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Marshall very feelingly spoke of his long service with the company and of the many pleasant recollections he would have of his fellow workers. While his prospects for the future promised to be bright he should always look to the office of the Manson Campbell Company as the place where he had learned the one who leaves home does upon the spot that he has known so long. Mr. Marshall's remarks were received with hearty applause by his large staff of young ladies and the happy recipients of the address and gifts beamed in some Pickwickian style upon the happy gathering. The young ladies then proceeded to serve ice cream, which brought the pleasant little incident to a fitting conclusion.

The Planet extends congratulations to Ald. Marshall.

The Sheldon license was then granted for transfer purposes and Monday, July 17, set as the day of meeting to make the transfer to Messrs. McKay and Taylor.

The Chairman called attention to an inaccurate report of the proceedings at the Board, which appeared in the Banner-News paper, in which he said language was used which was never used in the room, said the Chairman, and the supercilious editorial additions to Dr. Mitchell and himself as "defeated candidates" were beneath notice.

"Throughout my whole public career," said the Chairman, "I have always insisted on the press having the freedom of the room. All public business should be transacted open and above board to the press. I have always maintained this, but when a course like the Banner's is followed of wilfully distorting the report and putting in false phrases, I fear it may be necessary to call a halt. If they cannot publish the facts, it's best to refrain from publishing the matter at all."

The meeting then adjourned.

As a result the license of the Hotel Rankin lapsed, when the house was closed at eleven o'clock last night and to-day the hotel is unlicensed and the bar closed.

In a brief interview with The Planet Mr. Pleasance said, "Really I have nothing to say. I must just do the best I can. I haven't had a chance to make any plans yet."

"I'm sorry they wouldn't give me any reason. I don't think there's anything wrong with the house of its conduct. If there was, I'd do anything desired to fix it. If it's myself, I had hoped to at least hear the charge and have the British right of defense before I was condemned. However, I suppose it's all over now."

"One thing I wish you'd do for me. Say how much I appreciated all my Conservative friends have done for me without even the asking. I know mistakes may have been made and that they weren't successful. But whatever is said about it, I know it will prove satisfactory to the people of the whole County. It's only right, Mr. Smith."

The Chairman—No, I can't declare it carried.

RANKIN BAR

Opened Shortly Before Noon with a Menu of Temperance Drinks and Cigars

Shortly before noon the Rankin House bar was again opened with the genial Jim Baikie still in charge.

"Our thirst repertoire is somewhat restricted," said Jim laughingly, "but it's a good, healthy, moral one, and we're going to do the best we can to please."

All morning was occupied in removing the liquors and locking them away. Among the beverages now on sale are buttermilk, ginger beer, all sorts of lemonade, mineral waters and cigars, etc.

SENTENCED IN NOVEMBER.

Christian Scientists Give Their Own Bail and Adjournment is Made.

Toronto, July 1.—A few minutes sufficed yesterday afternoon for Mr. Justice A. R. to postpone the sentencing of Mrs. Sarah Goodfellow, Mrs. Isabella Grant, Mrs. Elizabeth See and William Brundrett, Christian Scientists, found guilty of being responsible for the death of the late William Goodfellow. His Lordship stated that Mr. Justice Magee had not yet been furnished with a copy of the evidence in order to certify to it that an argument could be heard by the Court of Appeal. He ordered the convicted persons to appear on 6th November for sentence. Mrs. Grant did not appear, but her counsel, Mr. H. Cassella, K. C., gave an undertaking that she would be present in November. The others gave their own bail in $500 to appear.

GOVERNMENT DEFEATED.

Premier Reid Unable to Form a Commonwealth Cabinet.

Ottawa, July 1.—The Minister of Trade and Commerce received a cable yesterday stating that the Australian Government has been defeated.

The Australian Ministerial party, under the premiership of Hon. George Reid, at the last election, December, 1903, held 26 seats; the opposition party, under Mr. Deakin, 46, and the labor party, of which Mr. Watson is leader, 23. The labor men in the fight over the Australian arbitration bill, defeated the Ministry in April, 1904. The Watson Ministry was wrecked later on, however, by a lack of opposition support, and Premier Reid was again called on to form the present Parliament.

EXTENSION FOR THE CENTRAL

The School Board Decide to Have an Addition Containing New Lavatories

The Teachers' Services Recognized—Other Business Transacted by Trustees.

Moved by Mr. Benson, seconded by Mr. Lenfestey, that the managers of the Central School be empowered to have plans drawn up and estimates given of an addition to the Central School, containing new lavatories.—Carried.

In this way, last night, the School Board dealt with the most important matter before it, the unsanitary condition of the Central School. The motion was the result of much careful discussion and was thought to be the most expeditious manner of solving the problem.

There were present, the chairman, secretary, Trustees Drader, Robertson, Paxton, Benson, McKeough, Lenfestey, McArthur, Inspector R. Park and Principal Plewes, when the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

The report of the Finance committee was received. Under the head of "committees" the secretary read the resignation tendered by Miss Daisy King, of the Central School staff, which was reluctantly accepted. The request of a year's leave of absence to attend a kindergarten training school was received from Miss Walker, and granted. Miss Muriel Hoig being appointed a supply. The Inspector's report was then read.

A notable feature of the report being the fact that the class of Miss Gertrude Holmes had a full attendance during the month.

Mr. Drader presented the request of Miss Hillman for an increase of salary from $550 to $600, speaking of the inability of her efforts.

Mr. McArthur objected, on principle, to raising salaries during the year and thought some of the other teachers were more underpaid than Miss Hillman. The request, however, was granted.

Mr. Robertson, on behalf of the Model School Committee, advised that the fee remain $5, as at present, that $2 per pupil be set aside for library and natural studies, and Miss Margaret McCormick be appointed to the staff.

Mr. Paxton moved that Miss McCull be promoted to Miss King's class, and that Miss Ida Tobey be taken on the staff at $300 per annum, leaving details in the hands of the Inspector.

For the Finance committee, Dr. McKeough presented the estimates for 1905, totalling $22,122.47. Subtracted from this the revenue and there amount it takes to run the Central School—six thousand being the probable figure. The estimates exceeded the expenditure for 1904 by $337.47.

The meeting then discussed the condition of affairs existing in the Central School. Dr. McKeough did not think the unsanitary condition of the school was responsible for the outbreak of diphtheria, although it might have promoted it. He pointed out the advantage of having the opinion of a sanitary engineer on anything that was done, his own opinion being that what was wanted was a separate building for the lavatories.

Mr. McArthur and Mr. Paxton both showed they had given the matter a great deal of thought. Mr. Paxton pointing out the defects of the present system, lack of sunlight, ventilation and a sluggish sewer.

Mr. Benson then made his motion, leaving the matter in the hands of the Central School managers, the motion carrying.

A resolution of condolence was passed to W. C. McArthur in view of the loss of his daughter, and the secretary instructed to write a letter to the family of the late Robert Riddle, an ex-trustee, before the meeting adjourned.

AN EXCELLENT REPORT

The annual statement of the Standard Bank of Canada shows that the bank has had a most successful year. The net profits amounted to $156,995.50, which dividends at the rate of 10 per cent. were distributed. In his report President W. F. Cowan said that the profits for the year have been satisfactory, and after providing for the usual dividend of 10 per cent. ($100,000), retaining bank profits and office salaries and furniture accounts, $17,394.72, the balance, $39,600.87, has been carried forward to profit and loss account, which account now amounts to $62,114.83.

The local branch, under the able management of W. T. Simpson, continues to grow in popularity and every year shows a substantial increase in its earnings.

Anyone wishing good doors and windows should call on John Glassford, who is tearing down the old Bailey House, and will have no use for this old material in his new brick building.

"When I commenced taking your medicine, six months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. C. L. Sunderland, of Chatham, Calvert Co., Md. "At times I could not even walk across the room without pain in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had lung trouble, and that I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better, then you directed me to take both the 'Golden Medical Discovery' and the 'Favorite Prescription,' which I did. Altogether I have taken sixteen bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' twelve of the 'Favorite Prescription,' and five vials of 'Pellets.' I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly well."

The Quarrel

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1905, by Frances Wilson

There were two sides to the question, of course. There always are two sides. He, being a man, saw only the masculine side, while she, being every inch a woman, could see only the feminine aspect of the matter that rose between them like a wall.

According to his reasoning, the great point that heamed softly on the third finger of her left hand—his gift—was the solemn, final expression of his faith, his choice. It was the official seal affixed to his avowed belief that she was the supreme woman.

In his deeper, finer moments he would relive the moment when he had put it there, when the splendor of his own destiny had sobered and steadied him till his whole being had gone out in the wordless prayer, "God grant that I may make her happy."

From that moment she was the fixed star of his life. Indeed, she scarcely seemed to him a separate entity, but rather the finest part of himself. And this was where the trouble began. He was dashing and debonair, and the firmament of his life was strewn with stars of lesser magnitude, mere pin-heads beside her, but in the aggregate by no means without interest and beauty. That they were feminine stars goes without saying, and if there were more when they shone and twinkled for his especial benefit how could he do less than to acknowledge the compliment?

To him it seemed no more than a laughing byplay, the light, graceful variation of the grand love theme of his life. But the fixed star saw it differently—saw it with eyes that deepened and darkened with tragedy which, after a few weeks of smoldering, burst into the flame of anger.

Never, perhaps, had she appeared to him so superb, so obviously queen of the world, as at that moment when she had faced him, white with scorn, and accused him in plain, brutal, everyday English of being a flirt.

At first sheer amazement held him silent. But from the torrent of words that rushed from her lips he was soon in possession of the sum of his offenses—his attentions to Miss Lincoln, his evident enjoyment of the society of Mrs. Colin Stuart, not to mention Betty Pell and Lucia Armitage!

As Van Pelt listened to the cutting words of his fiancée his first amazement gradually congealed into something else. He had paid some attentions to Miss Lincoln, who was a visitor and friend of his sister; and Mrs. Stuart had asked him for a dinner or so, and, as for Betty and Lucia, he never missed a chance to join them. Had they not been comrades since the days when their nurses wheeled their perambulators to the park side by side?

And, though he had frequently encountered Flavia under these circumstances, no hint of his possible displeasure had ever occurred to him. She was the not the only one, so near, so much a part of himself, that there was no more need for explanation than there was to his own soul? To meet her without self-consciousness and without apology.

At first her conscience met his nobly. Then little gnawing doubts crept in. She would have liked him to protest, for, alas, she was but a woman! And sometimes the high, white place of his soul, where he kept her enthroned, made her shiver and long to be petted and scolded. And in place of that made her a goddess, surrounded by the power of reading her mind.

"You have—quite finished?" His cool, drawing voice filled her first pause with an icy suavity, and the steel of his eyes met the fire of hers unflinchingly. Involuntarily she caught her breath. He not only showed no inclination to explain, to exculpate himself, but he had the look of a man who has received a mortal wound, whose deepest feelings have been mercilessly scooped at, jeered at, trampled in the mire.

At the words her heart turned to ice. Truth to tell, her outbursts had nothing more serious than the quick resentment of a warm-hearted, high spirited woman at a fancied neglect from the man she adored. A pair of open arms and eyes that loved back, begging for tolerance and forgiveness—that was what she wanted and expected. But this man with the hard glance and the incisive, cold voice—what had she done?

Despite her terror, the world old battle between pride and love was raging in her heart, and it was pride that won. "Finished?" she queried bitterly, with an infection that conveyed that if she ceased it was by no means because she had reached the end of the list. "We will call it so at least." And with the words she drew off the ring and held it out to him. He received it with a low bow.

Obviously the episode was ended. But at the door he turned back.

"When you have thought the matter over more calmly you may possibly have something to say to me, I give you one week to reconsider."

His mastery of himself, his unyielding resistance to her, thrilled her through and through. Never had she loved him so absolutely, but there was no trace of her feeling in her mocking reply.

"A week's grace! So good of you!" she laughed rather wildly. "And yet, do you know, it is seven days more than I shall need. I shall never!"

But he had gone. A moment later she heard the street door close with an ominous bang. She stood stupidly in the middle of the room trying to realize that there was no future—nothing but a dreary waste that belied the name ahead of her. Then she looked at her left hand, now so bare, so naked, no longer a hand consecrated, but simply a woman's hand shorn of all its sweet significance, its badge of dear dependence gone.

A clock struck the hour in silver tones, fetching her back to the dull present. Oh, yes, Mrs. Colin Stuart's tea. She must go to that whatever happened; she must go to everything and be gay, gay, gay! Otherwise people would say that she cared. He might even think that she did. The thought made her cheeks burn. And gay she was, so gay indeed that more than one of her friends turned long, inquiring looks upon her, looks full of puzzled questioning. Once during the week of respite she met him, but at his cold, impassive greeting the little choking gladness that the sight of him had brought and which for a fleeting second shook her with its expectancy flickered out. He had bowed with cold courtesy—and passed on.

But one thought stood out clearly in the general confusion of her despair. She must get away. Pitiously she realized that she must not run the risk of constant meetings. The Branhams were sailing on Saturday. Why not go with them?

At the thought she started up, her blood whirling through her veins in the old fashion. That would be the for tat. On her last day of respite he should see her name on the list of outgoing passengers. Then perhaps he would regret that he had passed her by with nothing but a perfunctory lifting of the hat. A lively ringing of telephone bells, a scurrying back and forth of passengers, and the thing was accomplished.

It was Friday night. Her trunk had gone to the pier, and in her dimly mantled room she battled with lassitude that follows a whirl of feeling. She was dull, emotionless, exhausted. The quarrel, her flight, life itself, had ceased to matter, and she dropped into a chair. It was then that her eyes fell upon the sampler.

The small mottled square of brown canvas, with its fading letters, had in some way escaped her attention until now and remained pinned against the wall. For an appreciable time she stared at its alphabet and figures, its stiff tree, its astrophically aligned birds, and at last at the inscription that always held a pensive interest for her, "Amy Castle, aged eight years, 1908." More than once she had dreamed of that name, who was Amy Castle? The sampler had been found in a chest of inherited stuff, and no one could recall the owner. The small hands that had wrought those bedimmed figures were now dead, but what had come to them before the last resigned folding? Had Amy, too, loved and suffered and lost? Had her woman's pride smiled out on the world from a face drawn with pain? Tragedy or comedy, it mattered little now. All that remained of her passing was this small, mottled sampler. This was what it all came to in the end—this!

With a swift, eloquent gesture she arose and literally ran along the corridor to the telephone. "Quick, Central, quick!" she was urging a moment later. "It's—it's a matter of life and death!"

But all she could say when she got her number was a broken "Oh, Donald!"

A Good Foot Rule.

Hearing that a large boot and shoe establishment was giving away a present of a foot rule with every pair of boots or shoes it sold, a man told his wife about the bargain and said that as her shoes were nearly done he would give her money to buy a new pair if she gave him the foot rule when she came back as he wanted to sell it and so get back part of the money paid for the shoes. His wife went to the shop and after a great deal of trouble got a pair to please her. As she was leaving the shopman gave her a small box, which he said, contained a foot rule. She went home delighted with her bargain and, seeing her husband at the door, gave him the box. When he opened it he found, to his disgust, instead of the foot rule he wanted, a slip of paper on which was written, "Avoid tight shoes."

Hanging in Chains.

One of the last instances in England of an order being made for hanging in chains is that of a chimney sweep who in 1827 murdered a man on the highway. The culprit was tried by Mr. Justice Best at Lincoln assizes. The poor wretch's body never underwent the proposed indignity. The inhabitants of Brigg took fright and thought that the gibbet standing so near the highway would terrify people and hinder them from coming to market. They petitioned against the judge's order being carried out, and the authorities remitted the hanging. The last person hung in chains was a man named Cook, who suffered for the murder of a Mr. Paas. This occurred at Leicester in 1834, the very year that the custom was put an end to by statute.

The Ignorant Landman.

The captain of an ocean liner was entertaining a little group of passengers with sea stories. He said: "In Bremen one day I saw a farmer looking at the shipping in the harbor. A longshoreman was explaining the shipping to him. Finally I heard the longshoreman say: 'It is low water now, sir.' The farmer took his pipe out of his mouth and pointed it solemnly toward a heavily laden tramp steamer that was passing. 'It's a good thing for that vessel going past that it is low water,' he said. The water's near over the edge of her now!"

MISS GENEVIEVE MAY.

CATARH OF STOMACH CURED BY PE-RU-NA.

Miss Genevieve May, 1817 S. Meridian St., Indianapolis, Ind., Member Second High School Alumni Ass'n, writes:

"Peruna is the finest regulator of a disordered stomach I have ever found. It certainly deserves high praise, for it is skillfully prepared."

"I was in a terrible condition from a neglected case of catarrh of the stomach. My food had long ceased to be of any good and only distressed me after eating. I was nauseated, had heartburn and headaches, and fell down completely. But in two weeks after I took Peruna I was a changed person. A few bottles of the medicine made a great change, and in three months my stomach was cleared of catarrh, and my entire system in a better condition."—Genevieve May.

International Bible Lesson for Tomorrow.

Sennacherib's Invasion—II. Chron. 32, 9-23.

Golden Text—"With us is the Lord our God to help us, and to fight our battles."

On the checkerboard of time two great powers, God and Satan, move mankind—as chess men are moved—they are contending against each other over the destinies of their men, one power seeking to sanctify and bless, the other to demonize and blast.

We submit ourselves to either of these two powers we are moulded as clay in the hands of a potter. Sennacherib and Hezekiah are the representatives of these powers and are moved by the spirit of one or the other. God or Satan. Sennacherib, like the court of Russia or king of the coldest dream of defeat. To him his gods and his country's gods are as good and far better than the God of Israel, and when his servants boast and blaspheme the Lord God of Israel, they do not know He is Almighty and their every word insults Him to His face. Their human helplessness drives Israel's King and prophet to their knees; their eyes are lifted to God, whose honor is at stake and from whom their help alone must come.

Sennacherib's question was a good one—Whereon do ye trust? It is the question for each one of us today. If we are really trusting the Lord and His God all is well, but if in our pride our trust is in ourself or in an arm of flesh, failure and defeat are certain. Japan welcomes the gospel and gives liberty of conscience to all. Russia excludes the gospel and refuses liberty of conscience for all.

The battle is on, said a Jap, between a Christianized paganism and a paganism Christianity, which strides eastward to blight and not to bless the nations. Ontario welcomes the gospel and longs for liberty from strong drink. King Alcohol opposes the gospel and demonizes his subjects, and just as in our lesson to-day, the side that is moved by God, the Spirit, will be the winning side, but the answer of victory comes from God alone in answer to prayer. That night the Lord sent an angel—as at the destruction of the first-born in Egypt—and slew 185,000 of Syria's soldiers. Then King Sennacherib defied, yet deluded, went home to worship his false gods and to be assassinated by his own sons. While the Lord God will offerings of His people and King Hezekiah was exalted before the surrounding nations, all in answer to the prayer of two men. Are we praying as they did?

When Indigestion Grips You

It is not merely "something you ate" at the last meal—it is weakness in the stomach. A pain is Nature's danger signal that something is wrong. Indigestion is the stomach's way of telling you that it can't or won't work.

NOW is the time to take FRUIT-A-TIVES.

These fruit tablets rest the stomach—bring out a copious flow of gastric juice at meal time—and make the stomach and intestines digest everything you eat.

You know that Fruit-a-tives are doing you good—because there is no more pain—no more sour stomach—no belching gas. Fruit-a-tives keep the stomach clean and healthy—and ready to digest any sensible meal you eat while the constipation is entirely cured by their use.

"Fruit-a-tives are most valuable in the home. We have used two boxes and are to-day getting a third, which tells our opinion of their merits. I find them especially good for the children, pleasant to take and very cleansing in their action."

Mrs. F. M. NORRISH, Calgary, Alberta.

THE LOCAL BUDGET

The excursion to the Eau last evening was well attended.

The City Council are billed to hold another special meeting on Tuesday night.

Capt. Max Fraser leaves in a few days for Mexico on a visit to his brother.

The county and legal offices in Harrison Hall are all closed to-day, it being a statutory holiday.

George Boothroyd, of Thamesville, will spend several days in the city visiting relatives and friends.

The promptitude of the committee was shown when, this morning they asked Wilson & Son to prepare plans for the Central School addition.

Mrs. Emma Jones and daughters, Mrs. Williams and Miss Ivy, have returned to Detroit, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Peate, Adelaide St.

It is sixteen years ago to-day since Deputy Sheriff Chas. E. Beeson assumed his present office. His many friends are extending congratulations.

A delegation from the Brantford Council are visiting the city to-day to ascertain the workings of the electric lighting system. Brantford is debating installing a municipal plant or renewing their present contract.

Miss Ida Sullivan, a Maple City colored woman, was a visitor at the Police Court this morning. She wanted to enter an action against a neighbor who is in the habit, she says, of calling her ugly names. She was informed that she will have to wait until Judge Houston comes home before she can lay the information.

STILL BRITISH

The Rankin House is flying its big Union Jack to-day.

"Celebrating Jack" queried a passer-by of the deposed hotel man pointing up to the bunting.

"Well, I'm still British, you know," was the proprietor's smiling response.

CHARGED WITH PERJURY

Roy Willer, a young man from Port Alma, was a sorry looking specimen of humanity when he made his appearance in Police Court this morning. Willer was arrested yesterday and he has been so worried over his arrest that he has not eaten anything since yesterday at breakfast time.

Willer is charged with perjury. At the Division Court in Chatham it is claimed that while under oath he swore that he did not receive $85.00 from J. N. Halliday at Merlin upon a promissory note signed by William Willer. There is also a second charge that he did knowingly negotiate a promissory note purporting to be signed by his father, William Willer, knowing the said note to be a forgery.

Mayor Cowan presided over the Court in the absence of Judge Houston and remanded the young man until the Judge returns. Thomas Southard is acting for Willer.

DO HONOR TO CAPT. TURNER

Officers of the Regiment and Citizens give Expression to Their Esteem

Capt. Turner's Message of Thanks — Will Follow Chatham's Progress and Development.

That the Maple City delights to honor her esteemed and valued sons was evidenced last evening, when Capt. J. S. Turner, who leaves tomorrow to enter his new duties as manager of the Standard Bank at Kingston, was signally recognized by his fellow citizens.

During the evening Capt. Turner was summoned to the parlors of the Hotel Garner, where he was met by his brother officers of the 24th Regiment, Major Massey, in the unavoidable absence of Col. Rankin, presented Capt. Turner with a handsome cut glass carafe set on behalf of the officers. In so doing the eloquent Major bespoke the best wishes of the Regiment and the deep love it sustained in Capt. Turner's departure.

In a few appropriate words Capt. Turner expressed his appreciation, after which a pleasant social evening was spent.

On returning home, Capt. Turner found awaiting him at his home a handsome nine-light silver candelabra and a three-light electric newell, accompanied by the following letter:—

Chatham, Ont., June 30, 1905.
Mr. J. S. Turner, City:

Dear Sir,—Kindly accept this small token of our esteem for your many kindnesses to us during your years in Chatham. We regret very much your departure from the city, but believe you are making a change which will be more advantageous to yourself, and we wish you and your estimable wife a continuation of your successful career.

Capt. Turner, when interviewed, said: "I spent last evening very pleasantly with the officers of the 24th Regiment, recounting good times and telling reminiscent stories, and you can imagine my surprise and pleasure on arriving home to find such handsome gifts awaiting me."

"As time does not permit a personal expression of my appreciation I can only extend my thanks through your valuable paper for the many expressions of kindly feeling towards Mrs. Turner and myself, and I assure you the gifts will ever remind me of the pleasant and profitable years spent in this city."

"I sincerely trust that the prosperity and advancement due to the push and united efforts of the council, business men and manufacturers, which is now so evident, will continue until Chatham has taken a foremost place in the cities of this fair Dominion."

HOPE YOUNG CONFESSES

Alone and Frightened, She Evolved a Ramp Outrage Ruse.

Says the Babe, May Ward, Did Not Really—Her Story Does Not Implicate Any Other Person, and Protests Her Own Innocence of Crime—But Main Defence Will Be Plea of Insanity.

Hallfax, July 1.—Hope Young's confession, made to Detective Power yesterday afternoon, has created a sensation. Her story, while not accepted in detail, so far as it goes does not implicate any person other than herself and indeed she protests to her innocence firmly as regards any intended crime. Most emphatically does she deny having smothered May Ward and explains that the story first told was concocted because of her alarm at the child having died in her arms when she was alone in the house.

"I was alone," said she, "and I had no help and no doctor. I feared what Kinley Melanson would say when he returned and I did not want to tell him. It would mean the corner coming to the house. All the neighbors were down on me and I had nowhere to go if I left Melanson's. I cannot remember how I took the children out to the woods. My mind was in a state of confusion. I left the house between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. I lay down on his bed and went to sleep. I had been sleeping with the children on the lounge in the living room for some nights and had not rested well. My crying awoke me. I took her in my arms and tried to give her hot water from a spoon, but she shook her head and would not swallow."

"She became worse and after a while died in my arms. I left her lying on the bed and all day worked about the house doing washing and other household work. As time passed I became more and more frightened because of the child's death. First May towards evening, I covered her head up to keep flies off her and took her out. I do not know how I got her back."

"On my return, little Emma was crying. She had been locked in the house. I then thought of the tramp story and arranged accordingly. I fixed her up, putting the rags below her chin, so that nose and mouth would not be covered. I have no recollection of going out with her on the return."

Questioned as to when she had placed bread and cake in the playhouse near the woodpile she said, "they were always there." Asked if she told Melanson of her return that evening, she said: "I only told him the children were missing. I did not tell him of May's death and my taking them out."

The Crown aims to prove May Ward's death was due to suffocation. Dr. Macdonald in his evidence stated that to be the case, but defence will claim that it is impossible to prove that in the absence of any of the usual tests with lungs having been made; also that a child of seven would not submit to smothering without making violent resistance, which could not but leave marks showing violence. No such marks exist. The main defence will be the plea of insanity.

Prescott, July 1.—There was found drowned, floating down the north channel yesterday, a man, aged between 35 and 40 years, about 175 pounds, sandy moustache (short clipped), brown hair, black serge suit, tattoo on breast of a lady, on left arm large fish and lady and some flowers; on right arm lady and star; calf of leg, two ladies' faces; on left hand, a star; on right hand, a leaf; above the knees, on both legs, a bow knot. Gaynor and Green Continue in Fight For Liberty.

Montreal, July 1.—Judge Outimet yesterday morning decided that he had jurisdiction to hear the Gaynor-Green application for continuance of habeas corpus in chambers and that the case should go on.

Meanwhile Mr. Casgrain asked for delay, as he was going to appeal to the Privy Council from the judgment of the Supreme Court dissolving his appeal from Judge Davidson's refusal of the writ of prohibition.

Couldn't Make Other Side.

Toronto, July 1.—"I'm afraid I can't make it," Ed, shouted Norman Musselman when he was in the middle of the Humber River attempting to swim across at about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He didn't make it. Two hours afterward his body was taken out of 15 feet of water by Charles Nurse, about 150 yards from where it sank. Norman Musselman was in his 20th year. He spoke to his chum Ed Kennedy, who tried to keep him afloat but failed.

Judge Fitzgerald's Sudden Death.

Port Arthur, July 1.—Judge Fitzgerald died here of heart failure early yesterday morning. He retired early to awaken him to meet the morning train, as his niece, Miss Holden, was coming from the west. When Mrs. Fitzgerald went to his room she found him dead. He was born in Hamilton, and studied law with P. B. Oler. He leaves a widow and two children.

HOG PENS

The Nuisance at the G. T. R. to be Effectually Dealt with—M. H. O. Takes Action.

From time to time a great deal has been said about the G. T. R. hog pens and very little done. The matter is, undoubtedly, a nuisance and no half measures, such as have been indulged in in the past, will ever be effective.

The matter is a public nuisance—the remedy for a public nuisance is to have the person committing it indicted. An indictment is laid by the Crown Attorney acting on behalf of the Government. The matter would come before the Grand Jury at the next session. On their finding the Grand Trunk Railway Company would have to stand trial for maintaining a public nuisance.

Medical Health Officer, Hall visited the locus in quo yesterday and threatened Mr. Fritchard with arrest. This is preposterous. If he was acting under legal advice such advice was of the worst sort. Mr. Fritchard does not maintain this nuisance. He is merely the agent of the company who maintain it. In fact if it were not for his efforts the matter would be much worse.

If the Health Board is earnest in its intentions the only method for them to pursue is to indict the railway company. They would, then, find the company would move the pens and, thus, do away with the unhealthy odor. Don't buzz around in a bottle any longer.

INCOME FROM SUCCESSION TAX.

Toronto, July 1.—Revenue from the succession duties tax shows a big increase for the half year, which ended last night.

The total receipts to June 30, 1905, aggregated $22,822.66, as compared with an income of $21,127.94 for the same period last year. The increase therefore is $1,694.72.

From the month of June just closed, this does not include any of the big estates—such as the Gooderham or Sutherland legacies—which have recently become liable to the tax, but which have not yet been wound up.

Berlin Doubtful.

Berlin, July 1.—It is tentatively stated that notwithstanding the extremely optimistic views of the French newspapers regarding an agreement being arrived at between France and Germany on the Moroccan question, authoritative circles here are not yet satisfied that the affair will be settled immediately.

Paris, July 1.—The Council of Ministers went over the Franco-German negotiations yesterday and a communication was issued saying that they are progressing satisfactorily toward an agreement.

Insurance Rates Drop.

Montreal, July 1.—After the years of steady increase in insurance rates the Canadian Fire Underwriters' Association yesterday morning made its first reduction. It was decided to strike off the general surcharge of 15 cents per hundred dollars insurance imposed after the great Toronto conflagration. This reduction goes into effect in Ontario and Quebec on July 1st.

Police Come Off Wagons.

Chicago, July 1.—Whether the teamsters' strike is officially ended by next Monday or not, the police guards are to be taken off the wagons of strikers affected firms in the business district of the city. The policemen thus released will be returned to their customary stations. Mayor Dunne made this decision yesterday.

Here's a Rara Avis.

Sandwich, July 1.—Leo Page, recently appointed a marriage license issuer, refused to accept the appointment. Page has always been a Liberal, and declares that he will not compromise himself by accepting office from the Conservatives. Wesley McKee has been appointed in Page's stead.

Circus Van Injures Crowd.

Montreal, July 1.—While going down St. Lambert Hill yesterday, one of the heavy parade vans of Sells & Downes circus became unmanageable, and the driver, in an effort to stop it, struck a crowd of people, injuring several. It also struck a street car, but did not cause serious trouble.

Gift of Millions to Education.

New York, July 1.—Ten million dollars as an endowment for higher education in the United States has been given the general education board by John D. Rockefeller. The announcement was made by Dr. Wallace Buttrick at a meeting yesterday.

Shot at His Foreman.

Guelph, July 1.—Robert Anderson, an Englishman working at Crowes foundry, yesterday at noon fired a shot from a revolver at Samuel Terrell, shop foreman. Fortunately he missed his mark. Anderson was arrested.

BY ROYAL WARRANT MILLERS TO H.R.H. THE PRINCE OF WALES

Is "Royal Household" Really the Best Flour?

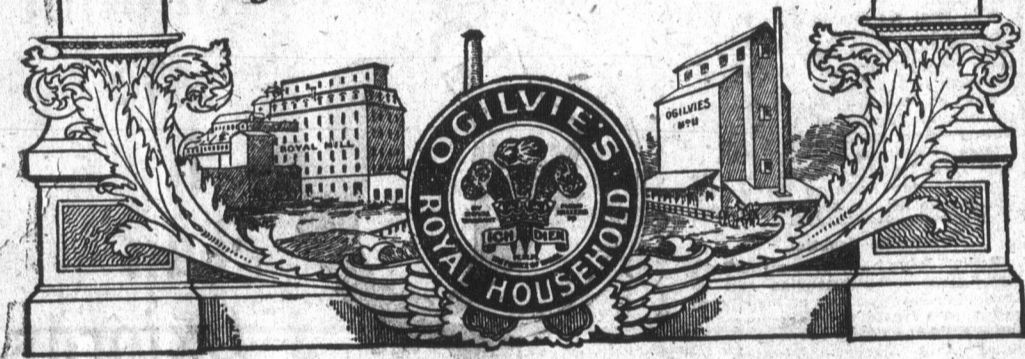

Thousands of women who do their own baking know it is the best, by results—they don't care about the reasons—but those who have not tried it may want to know why it is the best.

Of course any maker of flour—with the same experience—the same facilities for selecting the best wheat—the same tremendous plant equipment for milling, and the same process for Electrical Purification of flour could make just as good flour as ROYAL HOUSEHOLD—if he had the genius for flour making.

But no other flour maker in Canada has all these requisites and facilities, therefore no flour equal to ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is made in this country.

In these talks we shall give you good reasons why ROYAL HOUSEHOLD is the best flour and why it is the cheapest flour for you to use.

HOME RULE FOR NORWAY.

Not a Hundred of 2,000,000 People Who Favor Union.

Norway's secession from its union with Sweden was not an unexpected event in Europe. The union has never been natural or complete, and Norway has never ceased to strain and struggle after home rule. The causes of discontent are stated by a Norwegian correspondent in the Hamburg News as follows:

"We Norwegians are a people of 2,000,000, and out of these 2,000,000 there are not a hundred who approve of the union. Swede and Norwegian cannot live together. The Swede feels that he is an aristocrat. He is punctilious, stiff and ceremonious as a Swede. We Norwegians are democratic and conscious of our freedom and independence. The Swedes can never forget their exalted national glory. They dream about it, treat us as peasants and call us peasants. And peasants indeed we are, and are proud of it, but we are not rascals. When any conflict takes place our eyes are never on the spot here; he is in Sweden. We have, however, no contempt to make of King Oscar personally. He is a peacefully disposed simple and fair minded man. We also have a high opinion of the Swedes as men, but as fellow subjects. What we have all regard to Sweden is a defensive alliance with her in which Denmark may be eventually included. But we are aiming at complete independence both in our domestic and foreign affairs. If the question is raised whether Norway is to be a monarchy or a republic, I would answer we have no objection to a King, and Prince Karl, who has been suggested as a King for Norway, is a peaceful and sincere man, but the fact of it is we do not think it necessary to have any sovereign lord at all."

The tone of the press of Denmark is hostile to Norway's action in dethroning her King. However, time cures all things; and a union of three sister countries, Sweden, Denmark and Norway, in the form of an alliance, may be a solution advantageous to all.

Elderly Women.

An intrepid and enterprising compiler has recently prepared the following interesting list of the famous women living who have passed the scriptural limit of years. It is impossible to suspect an understatement of ages, and so honorable is this association that it is improbable that any of the women who have been included are chagrined at the statement of their years.

The Convict Doctor's Secret.

After ten years' imprisonment in the great penitentiary here, following his charge for poisoning, Dr. Urbine de Freitas, one of the most distinguished of European physicians, has had his sentence of twenty-five years commuted by King Carlos to simple banishment from Portugal.

Throughout his long confinement the doctor is said to have jealously guarded a secret he had discovered—an assured cure for leprosy. Accompanied by his devoted wife, he is now on his way to Benavente, where his arrival is eagerly awaited by all German students of the higher branches of medicine.

When the doctor was first arrested, Lisbon society received a shock. The charge against him was of poisoning the five little brothers and sisters of his wife, who stood between him and a large fortune.

During holy week the King signed the commutation of his sentence, and the doctor is now free to pursue his life work. A man is now living at Coimbra, Portugal, who declared that Dr. de Freitas shortly before his arrest cured him of leprosy—Lisbon Dispatch to London Mail.

Royal Tips.

Some of the European monarchs give very large tips whenever they travel, and others, on the contrary, are quite niggardly. Emperor Nicholas of Russia is the most liberal in this respect. During his brief visit to France three years ago he spent $16,000 on tips to servants and almost as much on presents to officials and others. King Edward of England is not quite so generous, but as he travels a good deal, both within his own realm and abroad, he is obliged to lay aside each year $32,000 as an allowance for tips. Emperor William of Germany is more generous in a foreign country than at home, and during his recent visit to Ceylon, England, he spent not less than $10,000 on tips. Of the remaining rulers some spend reasonable sums and others very little, but probably quite as much as they can afford.

The Age of Imitations.

Imitation cotton from pine wood is, according to The Scientific American, the latest industrial innovation, and it is said to be a very good imitation of cotton too. Whiskey from sawdust, silk from cocoons, butter from cocoons, bread flour from dried bananas and beefsteak from the tenderloin of porpoise—but isn't this twentieth century civilization ringing in some pretty curious specialities?

Bug Burnt Her.

Allice rushed in from the garden, where she had been picking flowers. She was badly stung by a bee, and was holding on to her finger and sobbing pitifully. "Oh, mamma," she cried, "I burned me on a bug!"

Sunshine Furnace

Don't Sift Ashes;

—ruin your clothes, injure your hands, raise a dust, the meanest, dirtiest job a man can do—and no work for a woman. What then? Waste good coal? Increase expense?

No, use a furnace that burns all the coal, that does not shake down some ashes and a lot of coal.

Use a furnace with a grate that drops ashes, but holds the coal—a furnace with such perfect combustion that all the coal is burnt and gives off all the heat that's in it.

That is the Sunshine Furnace made by McClary's—the only furnace that's built to burn all the coal and shake down nothing but ashes.

Built with an ash-pan, no shovelling, no sifting, no dust, no spoiled clothes, no exasperating, expensive waste.

The most modern furnace built, the best burner and best heater—the easiest furnace to manage—the very best.

Write for our furnace booklet, it is worth reading.

'TIS DRUNKEN ANARCHY

"This Is Not Revolution," Says the Official Report.

Seizure of the Kniaz Potemkine, however, Was the Result of a Plot of 20 Sailors Who Were Members of a Revolutionary Organization—Shots in Bombardment of Odessa—Did No Damage—Cause of Firing.

St. Petersburg, July 1.—The official version of the Kniaz Potemkine affair puts an entirely new light on it. It is claimed that the mutiny on the Kniaz Potemkine was the result of a plot concocted by twenty sailors who were members of a revolutionary organization. The complaints of bad food, it is asserted, were mere pretexts. When the complaint was made to the captain of the battleship he caused the bluejackets to be drawn up on the decks, and asked those who were satisfied to step out, and it was seen that they were in the majority. Whereupon the minority, headed by the revolutionists, who were said to have included foreign anarchists, seized the guns and turned them upon their comrades.

A bloody scene followed. Nine officers and many men were killed or jumped overboard, and the mutineers, after placing the remaining officers in irons, took charge of the warship. Commander Golikoff was among those killed. The red flag was hoisted when the Kniaz Potemkine appeared off Odessa.

Assured of Support.
When the body of Omilchuk (the man who was shot by the commander of the warship, according to previous reports), was taken ashore for burial, it was surrounded by crowds of students and revolutionists, many of whom were Jews. Inflammatory speeches were made, and subsequently some of the revolutionists went on board the ship and assured the sailors of the army's sympathy and readiness to co-operate with them.

The sailors then turned their attention to the ships in the harbor, and to the portion of the city along the water front, which was soon on fire in many places.

During the wild excesses of Wednesday night about three hundred rioters were killed by the troops, and several hundred were wounded, a number of them being Jews. Many drunken rioters perished in the flames.

Early Thursday night the Kniaz Potemkine opened fire on Odessa. The firing of two blank shots was followed by two solid shots, but they passed over the town and did no damage. It is reported that the battleship then coaled and provisioned from steamers in the harbor and weighed anchor at day-light.

Three wounded officers were retained on board when the others were sent ashore Thursday. During the night many steamers in the harbor, which escaped the flames, sailed yesterday.

In concluding the narrative compiled from the Governor's report the official body of the information to the Associated Press, said:

"This is not a revolution. It is mere drunken anarchy."

Admiral Skrydloff, who formerly commanded the Black Sea fleet, declared the Kniaz Potemkine had the worst crew and ship in the navy.

Cause of Bombardment.
Advices received by the Associated Press, from Odessa say the firing in the town by the Kniaz Potemkine was caused by the local authorities arresting ten of the crew who escorted the body of Omilchuk to the graveyard. After one projectile had exploded in a public house in the centre of the city demolishing its upper portion, the authorities gave in and surrendered the sailors.

MORE UNDER MARTIAL LAW.
Sebastopol, Nicolaieff and Erivan Are Now Controlled by Troops.

St. Petersburg, July 1.—Martial law has been proclaimed in the Governments at Sebastopol, Nicolaieff and Erivan.

The strike at Voznesensk, Province of Vladimir, continues. The town resembles a military camp. Infantry and cavalry are quartered in the houses and courtyards, and are bivouacking in the streets.

The military council has decided to abolish the Finland military district, and the post of commander-in-chief of the troops in Finland is suppressed. The command hereafter will be incorporated in the St. Petersburg military district.

A mob of Russian army reserve men, during the mobilization in the villages of Smolev and Khmelov yesterday wrecked the vodka shops, which had been ordered to be closed, and stole quantities of liquor.

After Witte.
It is quite possible that M. Witte may suddenly appear in the present crisis with the full leadership of the liberals.

It develops that the real cause of the meeting here of Prince Troubetzkoy, Prince Dolgoroukoff, M. Lyoff and others, was not so much to arrange for another Zemstvo congress, which could easily be done at Moscow, but to secure the benefit of M. Witte's advice.

after a parley with the commander of the troops, agreed to surrender their arms and return to duty upon the promise of better food. Order has been restored and the city is being patrolled by troops and marines.

About four thousand mutinous sailors were surrounded in a small wood near the port of entry, reinforced by machine men. One thousand of the mutineers soon surrendered and gave up their arms.

The mutiny started Wednesday night when the sailors of the first equipage, as the naval units are known in Russia, revolted because the food was bad. They were joined immediately by the ship, ninth, thirteen and fifteen equipages—5,000 blue jackets in all.

The guard at first tried to suppress them, killing one and wounding seven, but the sailors got the upper hand.

They seized the guardhouse, broke open stores, seizing arms and ammunition. Pandemonium followed throughout the night. They wrecked the barracks, attacked the quarters of the officers and fired volleys at random until morning. The city was terrorized when troops with artillery arrived Thursday morning. All entrances to the city were closed and gradually the sailors were driven into the wood, which they have since held.

Much firing mingled with the humming of the machine guns have been heard, but as everyone is forced by the police to keep off the streets and away from the ports some distance below the town, nothing is definitely known except that 1,900 mutineers have surrendered.

STANDS FOR THIRD READING
Alberta Autonomy Bill Through the Critical Stages—French Language Amendments Voted Down.

Ottawa, July 1.—Before the orders of the day were called yesterday in the House, Mr. Foster asked Sir Wilfrid Laurier for some information as to the council appointed on both sides in the commission created to enquire into the halfbreeds' scrip matter. Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he could not give an answer at the moment.

French in New Provinces.
The House then went into committee of the whole on the Alberta bill. Clause 2 was taken up. F. D. Monk moved an amendment, notice of which he had given some days ago, regarding the use of the French language in the new Provinces. Mr. Monk said it was not the object of the amendment to attempt to introduce a dual language in the new Provinces. It was introduced to secure the maintenance of the ancient agreement made when Rupert's Land became part of the Dominion. Mr. Monk then reviewed the language question in the Northwest.

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux replied on behalf of the government and said that official use of the French language in the Northwest Territories was not guaranteed by any treaty, compact or statute, for the only guarantee regarding the use of the French language was the act applied solely to the Red River colony. The act of 1875 made no mention of the French language. Mr. Lemieux condemned the amendment as one calculated to stir up strife.

Plans to Make Capital.
The whole of the purport of Mr. Monk's amendment, according to the Solicitor General, was to make political capital in Quebec against the Government.

After the dinner adjournment the Prime Minister replied to Mr. Monk. He deprecated the motive which he discovered in Mr. Monk's amendment, and declared that the principle it was sought to bring into force was not in the best interests of the new Provinces. French, as he was, and proud as he was of his origin and race, he could not believe that the dual language would be for the best.

Mr. Bourassa moved an amendment to the bill to make French an official language in the two new Provinces.

Spreule Proposes.
Dr. Spreule observed that he was pleased, in this question, to have Sir Wilfrid Laurier again with him as he was in 1896. As only four per cent. in the Territories were French, and they were not increasing in proportion to some other nationalities, it would be more reasonable to make German an official language.

A vote was then taken on Bourassa's sub-amendment, which was lost by 60 to 6. The amendment of Monk was defeated by 89 to 6. The bill was then reported, with amendments, of which the bill into effect on September 1. It stands for a third reading.

TEST CANADIAN MAIL ROUTE.
Boat Will Meet Virginian and Make the Run Into Sydney.

Ottawa, July 1.—Orders have been issued to rush repairs on the cruiser Canada. The boat is wanted to hustle the Virginian's mail into Sydney on July 15.

The Government has decided to test the speed of the Canadian route for mail delivery. With that end in view the mails from the Virginian, which sail from Liverpool July 6th, are to be taken off by the Canada forty miles out from Sydney probably on the morning of July 11th. A two-hour run would land the bags on an intercolonial special which will be waiting to make the run to Montreal.

If repairs on the Canada are not completed the Lady Laurier will be used, as she carries the wireless. There would probably be an hour lost through her slow speed.

Customs Revenue Increases.
Ottawa, July 1.—Canada's customs revenue shows a decrease of $12,216 for the month of June, but for the twelve months which ended yesterday there was a gain of $1,025,961. The following are details for the two periods:

1904-5	$2,709,667
1903-4	$2,721,873
Decrease	$12,216
1904-5	$41,584,873
1903-4	$40,558,912
Increase	$1,025,961

HAUL DOWN RED FLAG

Mutineers on Kniaz Potemkine Tamefully Surrender.

"Yield Or Be Sunk," Was Kruger's Alternative, and They Accepted Without Amnesty, Which They Vainly Demanded, the First Part of the Decisive Signal—New Prisoners on Way to Sebastopol.

Odessa, July 1.—Without firing a gun or the slightest show of resistance, the Kniaz Potemkine has hauled down the red flag and surrendered the battleship to Vice-Admiral Kruger's squadron, which arrived here at noon yesterday. It was an anxious moment for Odessa, as the squadron of five battleships, and seven torpedo boats, with their crews at quarters and their decks cleared for action, steamed within range of the Kniaz Potemkine, the flagship flying signals which read: "Yield or be sunk."

Force Too Overpowering.
The display of force was too overwhelming for the mutineers, and all thought of resistance was abandoned. Admiral Kruger ordered the Ekaterina II. to place a crew on board the Kniaz Potemkine, and the other vessels of the squadron immediately sailed away.

The mutineers will be transferred to the Ekaterina II., which is now lying alongside the Kniaz Potemkine, and will be taken to Sebastopol. Everyone was expecting a naval fight. The city was like an armed camp. Troops barred all the approaches to the harbor and were bivouacking in tents in Cathedral square, and four batteries of artillery, well supplied with ammunition, had been placed in the park, and at Langerson.

Cleared For Action.
The Kniaz Potemkine was seen to be clearing for action, and the squadron to be manoeuvring in battle array, continually signalling, until the battleship lay midway between the shore and the squadron, with her broadsides pointed respectively towards the town and the squadron, as if threatening to shell Odessa should she be attacked by Kruger's ships. In addition to his seeming reluctance to destroy so fine a battleship, Admiral Kruger was apparently animated by a desire, in case he should be compelled to open fire, to fight further seaward.

Later, the squadron was observed to send ten boatloads of marines to board the Kniaz Potemkine, apparently to take possession of the mutinous ship, for it soon became known that she had surrendered unconditionally, after it is said, vainly demanding amnesty.

Strike At Cronstadt.
St. Petersburg, July 1.—A strike of 8,000 imperial sailors, together with workmen on the yards of the national port at Cronstadt, occurred yesterday, and one officer was killed. The sailors soon yielded, but the workmen continue on strike.

GERMANY TAKES DARK VIEW.
Inclined to Belief That Disturbances Are Revolutionary.

Berlin, July 1.—German newspapers, discussing the happenings at Odessa and Libau, take an extremely dark view of the situation in Russia, and while preceding events were classified as a revolutionary movement, these latest incidents, it is said, constitute real revolution.

Gaedeke, the military expert of the Tageblatt and formerly its correspondent with the Russian army at the front, writing yesterday, after stating that St. Petersburg cannot longer rely implicitly on the army, says he never once, after the terrible defeats suffered by the Manchurian army, witnessed among the officers the slightest trace of spontaneous patriotism.

They showed no wounded sense of military honor, and no thirst for vengeance. They felt neither humiliation nor pain, while many showed undisguised satisfaction at the defeats.

Oyama Advances.
Tokio, July 1.—Field Marshal Oyama's right has begun an aggressive movement against Hailungchen.

Russian Warship Floated.
Tokio, July 1.—The Russian battleship Peresviet, which was sunk at Port Arthur, was successfully floated by the Japanese Thursday.

Has Reached Peking.

Solves the Aerial Problem.
Toledo, O., July 1.—The most remarkable flight ever made in an airship was performed yesterday by A. R. Knabegshue, who sailed through the air a distance of three miles, landed on top of a ten-story office building in 25 minutes from the time of starting and then returned to the spot from which he started. He declares his present ship is far superior to others he has navigated; that it is easier managed and that he has solved the problem of aerial navigation.

CATCHING CRIMINALS BY ADVERTISING

An instance of the way in which by means of advertising, the whole country is taken into the service of the police to find the man wanted is given in the annex, some time ago, of a man named Plunk, who had committed a murder in Washington. Plunk was also known as Pink Willson, Nicholson and Bird. He was a burglar and a forger and a deserter from the army. He was a carrier by trade.

Out in Columbia, Missouri, one of the postcars arrived one morning at seven o'clock, and was at once put on the bulletin-board—at practically the same hour when it was being posted all over this country.

Many other experiences of a similar nature have convinced the police of Washington that while a public nuisance is not a crime, it is a nuisance of that sort many want the law to take care of. It also puts on watch all the people around them and all those to whom they can flee, and is the great means of finding them.

OUR SCHOOL

Midst the green banks of Avon-shire, near a bright, smiling stream stands the red, brick school-house where many an hour was spent enjoyably in my youth.

The exterior of the building is beyond anyone's comprehension. Near the east end of the plot is a quadrant bed of mossy grass is built in the favor of school-rooms. Edging the other field is our forest primeval where the murmuring pines and hemlocks, bearded with moss wave to and fro in the spring breeze. The antlers of the stags like Druids of old wail voices sad and prophetic when the filling breeze catches the music of the forest to resound through the air. "So ye who believe in afflictions that hopes and is patient list to the ancient traditions sent by the ancient pines of this forest."

Morning glories, dandelions, jilly of the valley, pansies, tulips, forget-me-nots play an important part in the beauty of the yard and odor of the flowers. The flowers are planted around slender cords of the water in order to fill the room with fragrance. Also many beautiful flowers are very close along with the flowers of the grass. The building is

After the celebration of my eighth anniversary had ended I started to do my homework, but I was hindered at times by my mother's constant allusions to the beginning. On my arrival at the school everything was very, very strange, but I took particular notice to both exterior and interior details. The school was a large building with a high ceiling, and the white pillars of the school's entrance would be my school's main door.

After that day I was rapidly be-

Thursday—List of Prize Winners

The Commemorative exercises of the Separate School were held yesterday afternoon just prior to the children's departure—the school closing yesterday. The program started at 2 p. m., when Rev. Fr. Janusz, the Board and the parents gathered in the lower hall of the school, which was decorated appropriately with bunting and ferns. The children, in regular attire, were in their places to sing the hymn, "God Save the Queen." In turn, Fr. Janusz presented the medals and prizes, having an encouraging and kindly word for each recipient.

All being represented, some of the pupils recited the splendid words from Thomas Hearns' "The Fourth class," who showed remarkable talent. The girls are taught some of the duties of the eternal housewife and had several cozy corners filled with cushions of their own making. They also showed their skill in making a variety of useful articles, the credit being their needle-work.

The Sisters take great pains to teach the members of this little congregation under their care should be familiar with the animal and vegetable kingdom around them. To this end they encourage the collection of specimens by the children. They have on display several large mounts on dis-

The children's parents then visited the display of the work of their young hopefuls in the hall. The exhibition was very diverse in character, illustrated compositions, maps, paintings, needle and reed work.

Prizes were given for the most correct specimen, and the most deserving both in general behaviour and study.

MAUD BALLINGTON BOOTH

The story of One Woman's Work for Humanity

One of the greatest philanthropists of the United States is Mrs. Maud Booth, whose life has been joyfully consecrated to the cause of humanity. In the nineteenth century, Elizabeth Fry, famous as the prison-reformer, and Florence Nightingale, famous as the producer of England while they were suffering the effects of the Crimean war, were the first to give to the prisoners of America a new chance to battle honestly with the world, when the prison gates open outward to let them again into the sunlight.

Mrs. Booth, the daughter of an Episcopalian clergyman, was born at Lymington, England. When she was three years old her father, Rev. Samuel Booth, moved to a large parish in the East End of London, where, through the influence of his father, he became rector of St. Dunstons Church, Charterhouse, a broad-minded, large-hearted woman, often took her children across the street to the mission services.

Maud, a beautiful young girl of fifteen, upon whose mind spiritual truths had made little real impression, suddenly had her heart touched by the serene and noble life of her mother. From that time she began to strive to do what it came to her to do with the highest life and helping her mother to do it.

Mrs. Booth's eldest daughter in the Army and did splendid work with General Bull's cadet daughter in France and Switzerland, and among their many adventures they were twayed on her marriage to General Bull.

When she was twenty-one, on her marriage to General Booth, they were sent to the United States, where they carried on a most successful campaign of opinion with General Booth. In 1850, owing to a difference of opinion with General Booth, they returned to England, where the work directed at long distance from London, Mrs. Booth and her husband resigned from the Army and organized the "Volunteers of Amer-

This latter phase of the crusade of helpfulness, and plans, has fallen on the burden, its round of visits. Its organization and plans, has fallen on the shoulders of Mrs. Booth. Of the 86,000 prisoners in the State institutions of the country, 14,000 are enrolled as "Hope Halls." Where they can get their confinement they are taken to "Hope Halls." Where they can get their bearings as to life, have influence to secure honest labor, and a helping and inspiring environment while struggling toward better things.

EDISON'S REAL

START IN LIFE

Dr. Norvin Green, for many years president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, once said that but for the dullness of himself and his assistants, Thomas A. Edison might never have obtained the confidence and support of the great corporation. Edison had been trying for months to induce the officials to take up some of his inventions, until they began to regard him as a bore.

He went to the main office, one day, and was greeted by Dr. Norman Green and the other officials with a smiling smile. Dr. Green said to Mr. Edison, "We are unable to get any communication with Albany, and a large amount of important business is in peril. I suppose that since you know more about telegraphy than all the rest of us combined, you can tell me how to get it." Edison noticed this eager tone of voice, and he quickly and freely answered him, "I can look it up in half an hour, or less, if I have a few minutes, etc."

Dr. Green and the others laughed at this, and said, "You are a little bit of a humbug."

"Yes, I will," said Doctor Green, "two days."

"That was a very simple thing, and yet Edison was the only one who had such a comprehensive mind to think of it instantly. He did not tell them many years afterward how he accomplished it."

If he could have spoken mightily, he would have said: "White man of the east, you think you belong to a race of kings, but I would tell you that you are not a king. You are no short lived that you are no more than I am to me. I am old, I am born in this land, grows old in a day and dies in an hour. I am old as the mountains and of our age at the setting of the sun is to you. You think you know the past, but I have seen more sights and heard more sounds than your people will ever see. I have seen the first of the world be as old as Methusalem. My ears have heard the birth cries and the death rattle of not of generations, but of species. When I had been living thousands of years I heard the click of the trowels and the groaning of the slaves that lifted the rocks and laid the capstones of the pyramids. When I stretched my head above the clouds so that I could see upon the other side of the world I could see the thrones of the Caesars lift themselves up and totter and fall. I heard the angels chant the song of the Nativity above Bethlehem of Judaea. I have seen Athens rise in her power and the Grecian gods become gods of the past and wane and die. The old mound built to appease the gods of the dead I have seen to push their wigwags at my feet. Backward, still backward, into time I go. Long before the coyote's howl was heard among the hills or the grizzlies bore away the bones of the men who afterward took their name I lived."
